

Texans Divided over Pact Ratification

From Grin to Grimace

The most enjoyable part of the mile run, as shown by the expression of Stanton eighth-grader Tammy Northcutt (left in left photo) is the start—before anyone has a chance to get tired. By the time the grueling race is over, the nonchalant expression is replaced by a painful one and runners who don't reel over in pain often are seen grasping their hurting midsections. Miss Northcutt was among the entries in Thursday's junior high track meet portion of the Super Sports Weekend, sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce. Track competition also is scheduled for today and Saturday. More information is included on page 5. [Brand photos by Paul Sims]

WASHINGTON (AP) - Depending the senator you choose to agree with, passage of the Panama canal treaties either assures continued stability in the canal zone or invites disastrous disruption.

Texans of either persuasion have their man in Washington: Democrat Lloyd Bentsen agrees with the amended version of the controversial treaties while Republican John Tower vociferously opposes them.

The Bentsens scored a narrow victory Thursday with the ratification of one of the treaties. The Towers said they had lost a battle but not the war.

As a standing-room-only crowd watched, the Senate dramatically ratified the controversial treaty by a 68-32 margin, one vote more than needed.

The treaty spells out the rights of the United States to defend and use the canal once it is turned over to Panama. The second treaty - which makes the canal Panamanian property - will be considered later.

Bentsen noted that the attachment of two amendments to the treaties had assured his "yea" vote.

Bentsen said the two amendments make it possible for the U.S. "to intervene unilaterally, militarily forever, to protect the neutrality of the canal and that our ships will be allowed to go to the head of the line in case of an emergency. Those two amendments have been attached to the treaties and without them, I would not have voted for it. With them, I'll vote for it."

"It's an ambiguous and weak document," countered Tower. "It'll be extremely difficult, if not impossible, for the United States to act should the neutrality pact be violated in the future. This agreement fails to recognize that the most serious threat to the canal's security could well be instability within the country of Panama itself."

"Far stronger assurances of U.S. intervention rights are necessary. There is no guarantee that the U.S. will be able to maintain any military presence in

Carter Says Intervention Not Included

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

President Carter is assuring the government of Panama that amendments attached to the Panama Canal treaties in the Senate do not give the United States the right to intervene at will in Panama's internal affairs.

But Gen. Omar Torrijos, Panama's head of state, is withholding judgement on the additions which many senators said were crucial in persuading them to support the first of the two canal treaties to come before the Senate.

In a letter delivered before the Senate's 68-32 vote approving the pact Thursday, Torrijos told Carter he must make sure that the additions do not permit the United States to use a "coverup of neutrality" to occupy Panamanian territory after the year 2000 or to intervene in the country's internal affairs.

After the vote, Carter told a television audience that the treaty does not include "a right of intervention of Panamanian affairs."

The president said approval of the pact guaranteeing the neutrality of the canal beyond the year 2000 will assure that it remains "neutral and secure, open and accessible."

Torrijos made known he will decide whether to accept the neutrality treaty before the Senate votes next month on the pact providing for gradual Panamanian takeover during the next 22 years.

Escobar Bethancourt, a chief Panamanian treaty negotiator, predicted the altered pact will be found acceptable "because it does not substantially alter the treaty."

He warned that Panama will reject any treaty permitting U.S. troops to remain after the year 2000, or which is found to be "an affront to the dignity of Panama."

19th District Candidate Rips Anti-GOP Survey

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

George Bush Jr., fighting Jim Reese for the Republican nomination in the 19th U.S. Congressional District race, Thursday threw a punch at a survey which showed that 60 percent of voting West Texans identify themselves with conservatives, yet only 25 percent with the Republican party.

"I'm upset by those statistics," said Bush, a Midland businessman admittedly running as an underdog against the former Odessa mayor. "I just can't help believe that the Republican party needs a new look and a new energy level."

"I am providing that new look in this primary. We have found a lot of younger people who have been uncommitted that are now committing themselves to the George Bush campaign and consequently the Republican primary."

Bush, campaigning in Hereford, said he hopes voters consider "what kind of influence Tip O'Neill (House speaker) will have on a freshman democrat or who will be able to consistently say no when the Congress is not acting in the best interest of West Texas."

The 34-year-old recently-married Bush criticized two pieces of farm legislation, one a Senate proposal and the other an amendment which passed in the House

Thursday.

The proposal, a bill introduced by Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., would result in government payments to farmers setting aside more land than required under the existing 1978 program.

"We've got a loan program already in existence. I am against the Talmadge bill."

The amendment, an attachment to the Humphrey Hawkins bill which passed Thursday in the House, sets a goal of 100 percent parity prices in the marketplace by 1983.

"To pass any goal without any means to do so is cosmetic at best. It's a devious attempt to get people from the farm belt to support public works legislation promoted by the Carter administration."

"The Humphrey Hawkins bill is inflationary. It relies on the principal that the government can provide better jobs than the private sector. We need to stop draining the private sector of capital and instead encourage private investment which would, in turn, create meaningful jobs."

Bush said he fully supports the Dole bill which passed the Senate Agriculture Committee this week.

"If the Dole bill works, the marketplace will be back in control

Carter Lauds Strong Defense, Warns Russians of Restraint

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) - President Carter today coupled a call for a strong defense program with a warning to the Soviet Union and Cuba that military restraint is a two-way street.

In his first major defense policy address since taking office, Carter said the United States stands ready to cooperate with the Soviets on social, scientific and economic programs. Then he added a caution.

"But if they fail to demonstrate restraint in missile programs and other force levels and in the projection of Soviet or proxy forces into other lands and continents, then popular support in the United States for such cooperation will erode."

Carter made no direct mention of Soviet and Cuban forces in Africa, but his meaning was clear.

The president's statement, in a campus appearance at Wake Forest University, was the latest in a series suggesting a link between restraint by the Soviet Union, in particular, and progress toward goals sought by Moscow.

About 2,000 persons turned out to hear Carter, although the campus chapel where he spoke was not completely filled. The audience applauded frequently during the address.

As Carter began to speak, an unidentified man in the crowd shouted out that he had a First Amendment right to be heard and that he had a paper to present to the president. Carter cut the incident short by directing a staff aid to go to the man and collect what he had to offer.

Reporters were unable to hear all that the man said to the president.

Boat Check Set Saturday

Local boating enthusiasts will have the opportunity to take advantage of a free safety check of their craft prior to the rapidly-approaching boating, fishing and water skiing season when the Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce Health and Safety Committee, Jack's Marine, and the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary conduct their boating safety clinic here Saturday.

The clinic will be held at Jack's Marine on East Highway 60 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

According to Danny Boyer, chairman of the health and safety committee, the free inspection carries no obligation.

Miss Hereford, Teen To Be Crowned Saturday

By KERRIE STEIERT
Women's Editor

Tomorrow night on the stage of the Hereford High School auditorium, Miss Hereford and Miss Teen Hereford 1978 will be crowned.

That moment will climax months of preparation by the Chamber of Commerce Women's Division, who are staging the local pageant for the eighth consecutive year. When the curtain rises at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening, 15 Hereford coeds, who are competing for the two titles, will entertain the crowd with their version of "Everything is Beautiful."

Added attractions will include a vocal performance by "The Trio," composed of Bob Stice, Joyce Allred and Jan Walsler, plus the introduction of the evening's mistress of ceremonies, Miss Texas USA Barbara Horan.

Getting down to the brass tacks of competition, the nine entrants in the Miss Hereford division and the six Miss Teen competitors will appear in swimsuit and evening gown apparel for the panel of three judges, as well as answer questions on stage. Judging the contest for both titles will be Bob Davis of Amarillo, Steven L. Bailey of Lubbock and Carolyn T. Rice of Dallas.

Hoping to receive the Miss Hereford banner will be Stephanie Stringer, sponsored by Stairway to Fashion and the daughter of Marie M. Stringer; Tawana Moton, sponsored by A Touch of Class Hair Salon and the daughter of Mamie Moton; Kathy Wilson, sponsored by Melrose's Nursery and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Wilson; Cindy Heard, sponsored by Lloyd Newton Trucking and daughter of Coye G. ## Sorority Suspended For Beating Pledges

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - The University of Texas has suspended Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority until Dec. 20, following an investigation prompted by published reports that pledges had been beaten.

David McClintock, assistant dean of students, did not mention beatings in his statement about the investigation.

He said, however, that school policies against hazing had been violated.

McClintock said pledge meetings had been conducted off-campus on Feb. 19 and 26 and March 5.

"Activities at the meetings have included requiring pledges to ingest unpleasant food, to recite sorority history and other information excessively and under duress and to do physical exercises for failure to perform expected tasks.

During the pledge period, the pledges have also been required to perform personal errands and tasks for members. These activities are violations of hazing policies," he said.

Suspension limits the right to raise money, participate in intramural athletics, use campus facilities and sponsor public performances.

Dorsett, who sparked the World Champion Cowboys to their second Super Bowl crown last year, was riding in a car that was stopped on the city's east side about 2:30 a.m.

Police described it as a "routine traffic investigation."

"We were in an unmarked police unit when this car passed us going about 10 miles per hour over the speed limit," said Lt. Michael Hibbs. "The driver was weaving in traffic and at one time crossed over into the other lane so we decided to stop and see if he was intoxicated."

Police said another man was driving. Dorsett and a young woman were in the back seat.

During the questioning, Hibbs said Dorsett "kept getting in the way."

"He Dorsett started using profanity so we placed him under arrest for disorderly conduct," said Hibbs.

The former Heisman Trophy winner was taken to city jail where he posted a $55 bond and was released.

Briscoe To Be Guest At USS Texas Ceremony

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) - Gov. Dolph Briscoe and his wife Janey, who christened the USS Texas at Newport News, Va., were to be guests of honor today at ceremonies aboard the nuclear powered cruiser.

The vessel sailed into the Port of Galveston Thursday on its first visit to the state for which it was named.

The cruiser, commissioned in September 1977, has been on checkout maneuvers in the Caribbean for the past 32 days.

Thirty-six Texans are among the 495-member crew of the ship, the fifth to carry the name USS Texas.

Galveston City Council members greeted the arrival along with other dignitaries and were taken on a tour of the ship.

Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, recently promoted to the reserve enlisted rank of chief boatswain's mate, will be on board Saturday afternoon.

During the weekend the public is invited to tour the ship, take a look at its firepower capability and visit with the crewmen.

Capt. Peter Fleider, commander of the ship, said the trip from the Virgin Islands to Texas was uneventful.

Doctor Denies Killing Fetus After Abortion

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) - Dr. William Waddill has denied on the witness stand that he choked or strangled a fetus which survived an abortion attempt and maintained he will be vindicated.

Defense counsel Charles Weedman asked the 42-year-old physician Thursday, "Did you strangle the baby?"

"No, I didn't," Waddill replied. "Did you choke the baby?"

"No, I didn't." "Did you kill this product of conception?"

"Insofar as I performed a therapeutic abortion," Waddill answered. As the doctor took the witness stand prior to the noon recess, Weedman pointed to a woman in the courtroom and asked if it was Waddill's wife. Waddill said it was.

"And doctor, isn't it true that you and your wife have just become the parents of a new baby girl?" the attorney asked. Waddill said it was true.

Waddill, a physician for 14 years, is charged with fatally choking a fetus which the prosecution contends survived a saline abortion attempt March 2, 1977.

The ultimate prize will be awarded to the newly-named Miss Hereford, who will earn a $500 scholarship and the opportunity to represent this city at the Miss Texas USA Pageant in El Paso this summer. Should the winner be unable to complete her term, the first runner-up who will receive a $300 scholarship, would assume the title. The second runner-up will be awarded a scholarship valued at $100.

Although Miss Teen Hereford does not advance to further competition, she wins a $150 scholarship and performs several duties throughout the county. Her first runner-up is due to receive a $100 scholarship while the second runner-up will take a $50 school grant.

Making her final walk down the runway as Miss Hereford 1977 tomorrow night will be Miss Dee Anne Caison, who was the first Hereford coed to compete in both the Miss Texas-Miss America Pageant and Miss Texas USA Pageant. Also relinquishing her crown will be the reigning Miss Teen Kyla Poteet, who is among those young women vying for the Miss Hereford title.

The impending pageant will revolve around the theme "Free to Be Me" and will be under the direction of Wynne Robinson, Hazel Coddington and Sharon Hodges. Having an overview of the entire project is Mary Herring, chairman of the pageant steering committee.

Admission to the pageant will cost $3 per person and a sell-out crowd is expected. Free program books will be distributed.

Oil Execs Optimistic

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Several oil and gas executives told the Railroad Commission Thursday they are optimistic about 1978 despite an "avalanche" of federal regulations.

Some warned, however, that the current oversupply of crude oil is temporary and predicted possible shortages by the mid-1980s.

The executives forecast that petroleum demand should increase 3 percent to 4 percent this year over 1977, with increases in oil production ranging up to 6.7 percent because of crude pouring in from Alaska.

"All in all, we see a good year for oil consumers," said executive vice president Robert Chitwood of Cities Service Oil Co. "Barring some unforeseen international crisis, ample products will be available to meet the demand completely."

Before the presentations, the commission routinely set the statewide oil allowable for April at 100 percent. Texas oil wells have been operating wide-open or nearly so for six years.

"There is some optimism," said J.C. Burton, supply manager of Standard Oil Co. "Alaskan production is rapidly building, the North Sea impact is being felt, and potential large reserves in Mexico are being removed."

President Avery Rush Jr. of Diamond Shamrock Oil and Gas Co. said, "Things are looking better." He noted that domestic crude output had increased 77,000 barrels per day in 1977 - the first such increase in five years.

Nevertheless, he said, "Our situation is perilous, our nation is in grave danger" - partly because of the lack of an energy policy "that reflects the national interest."

"I am afraid that the increase in production and the leveling of imports, coupled with foreign oversupply of crude oil, could lull certain wishful thinkers in the United States into a false sense of security as to the availability of supply over the long run," said executive vice president C.S. Nicandros of Continental Oil Co.

"Lest anyone get the impression we have turned the corner on imports with this temporary blip from the North Slope, he should recognize that in 1978 the U.S. will be producing almost 10 percent less oil than in 1970, while importing 250 percent more," Nicandros said.

The "avalanche" of federal regulations cost the average American family of four $1,200 in 1976," said vice president L.W. Calahan of Texaco Inc. "Legislation breeds legislation and the problems caused by regulations breed more regulations. Inevitably, regulatory solutions seen for today too often become tomorrow's problems."

Thomas Jenkins, president of Occidental Oil and Gas Co. and the Permian Corp., accused the new federal Department of Energy DOE of "trying for total control over our business."

President Harold Berg of Getty Oil Co. described the DOE as a "bureaucratic baby" costing nearly $23 billion over the next two years, and he added, "this baby appears to be declaring war on the oil industry."

Energy problems, he said, "could be easily solved if the government would simply get out of the way and permit our industry to function in its historically efficient manner without being hamstrung by many ill-advised and ambiguous regulations."

"It seems," said Burton, "that the federal government does not trust industry to operate in the public interest - industry does not trust government to regulate wisely - and the poor consumer, the guy we're all trying to please, doesn't trust any of us."

Agriculture Day Set March 20th

WASHINGTON (AP) - Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland has endorsed March 20 as "Agriculture Day" to recognize farmers for producing the nation's food and fiber.

Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan has recorded a three-minute program for broadcast on the day.

A computerized billboard display at New York's Times Square will proclaim that "Today is Agriculture Day in America."

But promoters say President Carter has not responded to this year's Agriculture Day summons. Last year Carter invited five farmers to the White House on Agriculture Day.

Another famous name also is missing from Agriculture Day publicity releases: Earl L. Butz, who was secretary of agriculture nearly five years during the Nixon and Ford administrations.

But Butz' predecessor, Clifford M. Hardin - who was named as Nixon's first secretary of agriculture - is included among the publicity highlights circulated by Agriculture Day promoters.

Hardin left the Nixon cabinet and joined Ralston Purina Co., St. Louis, as a vice president. Butz succeeded him in December 1971 and resigned in the fall of 1976 in the wake of reports that he earlier told a joke with racial overtones.

Ernest T. Marshall of the Agriculture Day national office in Kansas City said in a telephone interview Wednesday that "Butz is an honorary member and is very deeply aware of the program" and has supported it in the past.

Scout-O-Rama Set Saturday

The theme for Saturday's Scout-O-Rama will be "Scouting in the Panhandle, Past, Present and Future," with seven Cub Scout packs and five Boy Scout troops participating.

The Scout-O-Rama will be from 1-4:30 p.m. in the Little Bull Barn. The public is invited, with tickets to be sold at the door for $1.00 per person.

Booths will include backpacking, pioneering, first aid, hobbies, Indian village, physical fitness and Pinewood Derby, according to Jeff Morris, district executive of Boy Scouts.

Door-to-Door Campaign To Fight Kidney Disease

Volunteer marchers for the Kidney Foundation of the Texas Panhandle will be canvassing the city Sunday, collecting contributions for the fight against kidney diseases. Hereford residents are asked to give generously so that the Kidney Foundation can continue its work toward the eradication of this major health problem, which is listed as the nation's No. 4 killer. The County Library will be headquarters for Sunday's campaign and individuals interested in helping collect donations are asked to assemble at the Library from 1:30-2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Residents wishing to make contributions may take their money to the Library from 1-5 p.m. on Kidney Sunday.

This is the first time that the Panhandle's Kidney Foundation has made a concentrated effort to collect contributions from Hereford citizens. Initial plans for the local campaign are being directed by the Amarillo office of the Foundation. A local kidney patient, Allen Brockman, has been appointed by the Foundation to supervise the Hereford drive.

Proceeds of Sunday's fundraising drive will be used by the Kidney Foundation for programs of research, public and professional education, patient and community service and organ donation. Since its organization, the Kidney Foundation has dedicated itself to the prevention, treatment and cure of kidney disease and genitourinary-related diseases, afflicting thousands of Hereford residents. These ailments can cause chronic illness, work loss and financial problems.

In addition to Kidney Sunday on March 19, Hereford residents are asked to support the Kidney Foundation by attending the first Kidney Ball from 9 p.m. - 1 p.m. Saturday, April 1 at the Knights of Columbus Hall. Tickets will cost $15 per couple with all proceeds going directly to the Foundation.

Making a benefit appearance at the dance will be "The Sound Express" featuring Tex Rhodes. Free refreshments will be provided by St. Anthony's Women's Organization. Further information concerning the local campaign or the Kidney Foundation is available from Brockman, 364-4345.

Election Held, Mrs. Stipe Feted

Officers of Alpha Alpha Preceptor Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, were elected during a recent meeting at Hereford State Bank, where vice president Margaret Godwin called the group to order. Chosen to serve during the coming year were Geneva Summers, president; Katie Kendall, vice president; Sharon Cramer, recording secretary; Earlene Schneider, treasurer; and Mrs. Godwin, corresponding secretary. City Council representatives will include Mrs. Summers, Eleanor Cramer, Mary Anna Laing, Mrs. Kendall, Sharon Cramer and alternate Vida Grady. In other business, members discussed plans for sorority spring rituals, which will take place April 18 at the Community Center. Hostesses will be members of Alpha Alpha and Kappa Iota Chapters. Members were reminded that the city's four sorority chapters will assemble April 27 at K-Bob's Steak House for their annual Founder's Day dinner. During the dinner, each chapter will recognize its "Girl of the Year."

A brochure was received concerning the state BSP convention, slated at El Paso in June.

Members of Alpha Alpha Preceptor Chapter honored Francis Stipe Tuesday evening with a going-away party in an Amarillo dinner theatre. Mrs. Stipe and her husband Max will be moving to Dalhart where he will be employed by that City as fire marshal. During the dinner, the chapter members presented Mrs. Stipe with a crystal serving tray, engraved with the BSP sorority insignia. A special guest was a former chapter member, Aileen Williams, who now resides in Amarillo. The Hereford women were entertained by the comedy play, "Marriage Go Round."

In attendance for the party were the honoree, Melba Aldridge, Sharon Carmer, Mary Jean Gore, Margaret Godwin, Katie Kendall, Mary Anna Laing, Earlene Schneider, and Geneva Summers.

Mrs. Parsons Hostess To HD Chapter

Members of Progressive Home Demonstration Club agreed to bring pies to the YMCA supper, scheduled April 7 at the County Bull Barn, during a regular business meeting Tuesday morning in the home of Mrs. T.J. Parsons.

Mrs. Gerald Townsend conducted the opening exercise. During the recreation period, Mrs. Parsons conducted a spelling bee with the names of flowers, won by Mrs. Taft McGee, and Mrs. Townsend lead a nutshell game.

A program on home security was presented by County Extension Agent Joyce Shipp, who revealed that the average age of home burglars is 16. She stressed the importance of forming neighborhood co-ops, having open communication with the police and employing Operation Identification to mark one's valuables. Mrs. Shipp stated that dead bolt locks are the most effective form of securing a house.

Other members present Tuesday were Mmes. A.B. Jacobs, E.C. Hammett, P.L. Carmichael, Horace Hershey, Tom Melugin and Johnny Townsend.

The club's next meeting is scheduled to convene at 9:30 a.m. March 28 in the Melugin home.

Houseplants Discussed By Newcomers

Care of plants was discussed by Liz Warren, owner of The Yellow Daisy, Tuesday during a luncheon meeting of Hereford Newcomers Club at the Community Center.

A number of guests were present, including Mary Hamilton, Terry Parker, Billie Ham, Marsha Ankeney, Joyce Haggard and Pam Esqueda. Kay Lucas and Kay Fambraugh were hostesses.

Other members present were Joyce Geiger, LaNell Kendrick, Margaret McClelland, Leona Carruth, Lois Kerschen, Jan Rose, Dee Pratt, Carolyn Canon, Shirley Hazlett, Gracie Conner, Brenda Campbell, Star Christie and Linda Kirkpatrick.

Rummage Sale Set Tomorrow

A wide selection of merchandise will be offered by Deaf Smith General Hospital Auxiliary tomorrow during their annual rummage sale at the Community Center.

Sale hours will be from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. and the public is encouraged to attend.

Olivia Denning, auxiliary president, explained that proceeds of Saturday's sale will be used for the benefit of the local hospital.

Training Completed

Pinning ceremonies for vocational nursing graduates were conducted Wednesday evening in the Deaf Smith County Heritage Room. The fourteen students who have qualified to take State Board examination scheduled for April 18 are from

Cooking School Slated Monday

KPAN Radio invites area residents to attend the annual Homemaker '78 Homemakers Cooking School Monday night in Hereford High School auditorium. The program will begin at 7 p.m. Admission will be free.

Home economist Alvena Rotramel will present ideas for food preparation and current household hints. New recipes will be demonstrated on stage with an overhead mirror system which provides a clear view for the entire audience. Food prepared during the program will be given away at the conclusion of the demonstration.

Recipes used during the two and a half hour demonstration will be selected from the new Homemaker '78 Cookbook to be given free to each member of the audience.

Miss Rotramel is an experienced demonstrator who travels more than 40,000 miles a year through Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, New Mexico and Arizona giving demonstrations for Homemakers School, Inc., which is headquartered in Middleton, Wis.

She is a graduate of Texas Women's University at Denton and received her master's degree in home economics from Sam Houston State University at Huntsville. She previously conducted microwave oven cooking schools for General Electric-Homemakers Schools on the East Coast and taught secondary vocational home economics.

Guest Night Spent at Theatre

"Lady's Night in a Turkish Bath" was the humorous play attended Tuesday night by members and guests of La Madre Mia Study Club, who met in the Joyce Allred home before travelling to an Amarillo dinner theatre.

Several members attended with their husbands, including Lynton Allred, Waldo Baxter, Herschel Black, Dickie Geries, Dean Herring, Don Lane, Bobby Owen, W.E. Sparks, Don Taylor and Wayne Sims.

Other members present were Kylene Gentry, Gladys Merritt, Lucy Rogers, Carrell Ann Simons, Mysedia Smith, Marlene Watson, Mary Beth White and Beverly Bryant. La Madre Mia's next meeting is scheduled March 23 in the Sparks home.

A 35-century-old Egyptian scroll that measures 66 feet long and is written in hieratic script contains 800 medical recipes and is considered to be the country's greatest medical document.

Faith sees Spring as the renewal of life.

The signs of Spring will show how God has planned
His sweetest gift of all throughout the land;
For when the sun with warming rays of light
Divides the earth with equal day and night;
This moment in the cycle of the year,
The secret of Creation will appear.
It's more than just the melting of the snow
That causes tiny sprigs of green to grow;
For faith will prove that while these things are real,
They have a deeper message to reveal.
You'll learn through Church what
Spring should mean to you:
That life itself is always born anew.

"For lo! the winter is past, the rain is over and gone; the flowers appear on the earth; the time of the singing of birds is come, and the voice of the turtle is heard in our land."

Hereford shortstop Greg Hennington puts the tag on Canyon's Eddie Clement in the second inning of the two teams' clash at Whiteface Field Thursday. HHS catcher Mike Culp gunned down Clement, who had led off the inning for the Eagles by reaching first after a strikeout and an error of Culp. Hennington led the Whitefaces at the plate in the contest, going two-for-four with four RBIs in the Herd's 11-6 win. (Brand photo by Bob Nigh).

Hereford Faces Pampa In Baseball Semis

Host Hereford, Pampa, and Levelland fought to opening-round victories in the baseball tournament of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Super Sports Weekend Thursday.

Hereford met Pampa at 4 p.m. today in one semi-final contest in the tourney, while Levelland met Borger, which had drawn an opening round bye at 1:15 p.m. in the other semi-final.

Canyon and Dumas tangled at 10:15 a.m. in the loser's bracket.

The Whitefaces got a pair of hits each from Greg Hennington, Chris Hill, and Mike Culp enroute to an 11-6 win over winless Canyon. Hennington gathered four RBIs along the way.

Ernie Suarez picked up the win for Hereford to go 1-0 on the year. The win raised the Herd's season mark to 3-2, while the Eagles fell to 0-8. Canyon committed six errors in the game, helping the 'Faces to an 11-2 advantage after five innings.

Junior Kevin Bunch relieved Suarez in the fifth, and the Eagles managed to plate four runners in the seventh before finally dying. The Eagles collected one of their three hits in the game in the final frame, while three bases on balls and two errors aided the rally.

In the tourney opener Pampa rode the seven-hit pitching of Layne Clark to a 6-2 win over Dumas in eight innings. The final score left both teams with identical 6-2 records.

The Harvesters pushed across four runs in the top of the eighth inning behind five straight base hits, including a two-run triple by Bobby Taylor.

Levelland tallied two runs in each of the second, third, and fifth innings in creeping past Tascosa 6-4 in the tourney nightcap. Rob Ralston (2-1) picked up the victory for the Lobos, while Kevin Thompson (0-1) was tagged with the loss.

The Rebels, now 4-3 on the year, will meet the Dumas-Canyon winner in the consolation finals at 10:15 a.m. Saturday.

Record Time

Sandy Brownlow finishes the 880 relay for La Plata in a winning time of 1:56.4 Thursday afternoon, which was a meet record. Canyon finished second in the race, while Stanton, anchored by Lori Albracht (1) claimed third in a time of 1:58.3. (Brand Photo by Bob Nigh).

La Plata 7th Boys, Stanton 8th Girls Run Off With Track Titles

La Plata's 7th grade boys and Stanton's 8th grade girls won team titles in the Annual Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational Track Meet's junior high division here Thursday. Lubbock Estacado captured the 8th grade boys' title, while Dimmitt took home the 7th grade girls' trophy.

La Plata got wins in the 120-LH and 330-IH from Alfred Ball and in the Shot, Discus, Long Jump, and 220 from Raymond Martinez in romping to the 7th boys' title with 128 points to runner-up Plainview's 84.

Stanton's 8th grade girls won the 80-H (Pickens), the Mile Relay, and triple jump (high) in winning their title. The Dogies also grabbed four runner-up finishes enroute to the win.

The high school girls version of the track meet began at 9:30 a.m. this morning, while the boys will run beginning at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Herd JV Wins Golf Tourney

Hereford's Maroon junior varsity golf team shot a combined 327 enroute to the team title in the JV division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational Golf Tournament at the Pitman course here Thursday.

Keith Pagett's 80 led the Maroons to the title by a slim one-shot margin over the Plainview Red team, which was topped by Chris Holland, who grabbed medalist honors with a 77.

Amarillo High wound up third in the team race with a 340, followed by Monterey and Pampa, who tied for fourth at 357. The varsity division of the tournament began a two-day, 36-hole run today.

Jack, Six Others Tied for TPC Lead

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) - For many years, Jack Nicklaus geared his game around the Masters, carefully nursing his talents to a peak for the annual spring classic in Augusta, Ga.

But, with the advent of the Tournament Players Golf Championship, he's made a slight alteration.

"It's the most significant event we have on the regular tour," Nicklaus said. "Since it has come into being, I like to get better a little quicker."

There seems to be no doubt he's right on schedule.

Nicklaus, who has finished second, first and second in his last three appearances, chipped close on the final hole for a birdie that put him in a massive jam of seven men tied for the first-round lead in the $342,000 event.

It is an event billed as the annual championship of the touring players and ambitiously hopes for a ranking equal to that enjoyed by the game's Big Four tournaments.

"It wasn't that easy out there," Nicklaus said of his trek through wind and rain over the 7,174-yard Sawgrass course that yielded only 11 sub-par scores to the strongest field of the year and left some of the game's great players muttering in frustration.

He shared the top spot with Ben Crenshaw, Gibby Gilbert, John Schroder, Victor Regalado, Gary Groh and Bobby Wadkins, the younger brother of PGA champion Lanny Wadkins.

A stroke back at 71 were Lou Graham, Larry Nelson, Joe Inman and Artie Nickle.

Tom Weiskopf, who held off Nicklaus' charge and won the Doral Open last week, and defending title-holder Mark Hayes had 73s in the gusty winds and occasional drizzling rain. Arnold Palmer and Gary Player shot 74s.

Wizards Win Title

The Basketball Wizards ended the YMCA High School Basketball League Wednesday night with a 46-41 victory over the Avengers. The winners jumped out to a 10-4 lead after one period, and led 23-15 at the half. Roten Sanders led the victory with 15 points, while Greg Hennington pitched in 11.

Chris Hill's 16 points topped the losers, while James McDowell added 12 to the total.

Members of the winning team included Sanders and Hennington as well as Tommy Clarke, Daniel Olson, Warren Cornelius, Scott Holbert, and Richard Olson. The losers included Hill, McDowell, Randy Marrs, Gerald Vaughn, Greg Brockman and Mark Moten.

Cal State-Fullerton, Hogs Pull Off Playoff Surprises

BY JIM McELROY
AP Sports Writer

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — "We believe! We believe! We believe!"

Cal State-Fullerton's small, but wild band of followers stood chanting throughout the game and by the time the final buzzer sounded they weren't the only ones who believed in the Titans.

The never-say-die Cinderella team of the Far West regional basketball tournament showed their victory over nationally ranked New Mexico in last weekend's first round wasn't a fluke.

The unranked and unheralded Titans improved their record to 23-8 by disposing of their second giant in less than a week with a rousing 75-72 come-from-behind victory over 11th rated San Francisco. The triumph was climaxed by Keith Anderson's 20-foot bomb with four seconds to go and Kevin Heenan's free throw with only one second showing on the clock.

"This team has tremendous courage. We're 15 down and we come back. I can't look inside them but they must have great hearts," said Fullerton Coach Bob Dye of his Titans.

Only Arkansas stands in the way of Fullerton's making the final four in its first-ever appearance in the NCAA playoffs. The fifth ranked Razorbacks earned their 30th victory in 33 outings and a spot opposite Fullerton in Saturday's regional finals 2:15 p.m. MST with an upset of their own, 74-70 over No. 2 UCLA earlier Thursday night.

The Titans again will be cast in the underdog role but Dye said that doesn't matter to him.

"I'd rather we win. That's the role I like. I really haven't thought about underdog, overdog, fat dog, hot dog.... We'll show up to play Arkansas. I think Arkansas has an excellent basketball team and we're not too bad either," said Dye.

San Francisco, 23-6, behind its seven-foot, 270-pound man-mountain center Bill Cartwright, appeared on the verge of blowing open the contest in the first half. Cartwright scored 19 points in the opening 20 minutes as the Dons built their lead to as much as 15 points and held a 44-32 advantage at the intermission break.

But the Titans, with their small band of loyalists making more noise than the rest of the 17,750 fans who jammed into the 17,121-seat University of New Mexico Arena, never gave up.

They came out in the second half and began chipping away at the Dons' lead. They had cut the margin to 52-41 when they erupted for a 10-point outburst that pulled them to within one and made it anyone's game.

The contest was tied six times and the lead changed hands three times before Anderson's bucket snapped a 72-72 tie and put the Titans on top for good. Heenan's charity toss came seconds later after a technical was called on San Francisco for calling a timeout when it already had used up its allotted number of breaks.

The Titans had called time out with 13 seconds to go, and Anderson said it was decided either he or Heenan would take the game's last shot.

"The clock was running out and coach told me to go ahead and take it," he said of his long bomb. Anderson said he knew it was in all the way.

And Dye said he wasn't worried, either.

"When Keith hit that shot it was no surprise to me whatsoever," said Dye. "If he takes the last shot I feel pretty good about it. He's one tough hombre."

Forward Greg Bunch, who has led the Titans in rebounding and scoring in each of his four years at Fullerton, paced his club with 24 points and 12 boards, while Heenan added 15 points and Anderson 12.

But Dye also had special words of praise for reserves Mike Niles and Greg Palm. Niles got seven points in the second half to help the Titans surge to victory. Palm, with some help from his teammates, held Cartwright, who had game-highs of 15 boards and 27 points, to only eight second half points.

In the first game of the regionally televised semifinal doubleheader, a pair of 6-foot-4 jumping jack sharpshooters, Marvin Delph and Sidney Moncrief, led Arkansas to victory.

The two combined for 32 first half points as the Hogs built their bulge to as much as 16 points in the first half before settling for a 42-29 halftime lead.

UCLA 25-3 almost pulled off what Fullerton did in the second game with a big second half comeback. The Bruins used a fullcourt press to disrupt the Razorbacks offense and get back into the contest.

A two-handed dunk by reserve center Kiki Vandeweghe capped the UCLA comeback and gave the Bruins a 60-58. But the Hogs rallied for six straight points to get back on top to stay at 64-60.

Delph finished 11 of 14 from the floor and had 23 points, while Moncrief had 13 of 18 and had 21. Ron Brewer added 18 with 12 coming in the second half.

Guard Roy Hamilton and forward David Greenwood paced UCLA with 19 and 17 points, respectively.

"I thought the first half we played as well as we have all season," said Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton. And in the second half he said his players, "showed a lot of poise. A lot of teams would have folded when UCLA came back and took the lead but we didn't."

Messersmith Suffers Shoulder Separation

By GARY MYERS
AP Sports Writer

It's hard to label an athlete "hard-luck" when he is making $333,333 a year, but Andy Messersmith surely falls into that category.

The 32-year-old Messersmith was coming along fine in his comeback bid with the New York Yankees after recovering from surgery to his pitching elbow. But it all ended in one fleeting moment Thursday.

Messersmith tripped while covering first base in the third inning of the Yankees exhibition game with the Chicago White Sox and suffered a separation of his right shoulder. Preliminary reports don't indicate whether surgery is necessary, but it's feared the right-hander - obtained over the winter for $100,000 from the Atlanta Braves - is out for the year.

In the game, the Yankees pushed across an unearned run in the 10th inning to defeat the White Sox 3-2. Lou Piniella homered for the Yankees.

In other exhibition action, Gary Thomasson didn't waste much time in impressing his Oakland teammates.

No sooner had the outfielder learned of his shift from the San Francisco Giants to the Oakland A's in the Yida Blue trade, than he went out and hit two home runs - in the same inning - to lead his new team to a 19-0 whitewashing of the San Diego Padres.

Larry Bowa and Garry Maddox drove in two runs apiece as the Phillies exploded for seven runs in the fourth inning and defeated the Cincinnati Reds 14-4 in a game called after seven innings because of rain.

Rookie shortstop Gary Soderholm -racked a three-run homer in the eighth inning to give the Minnesota Twins a 6-3 decision over the Montreal Expos. Gary Carter homered for the Expos.

A run-scoring triple by Vic Harris highlighted a six-run eighth inning that powered the San Francisco Giants to an 8-2 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Willie Wilson and U.L. Washington drove in two runs each to lead the Kansas City Royals to a 8-6 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Mick Kelleher and Mike Sember each knocked in two runs in a six-run eighth inning that carried the Chicago Cubs to an 8-7 win over the Cleveland Indians.

John Stearns and Ed Kranepool hammered home runs and three New York pitchers limited Toronto to five hits, leading the Mets to a 6-2 victory over the Blue Jays. Phil Niekro, Craig Skok and Tommy Boggs limited Baltimore to four singles and the Atlanta Braves downed the Orioles 4-2.

Jim Dwyer singled in a run and stole home as the St. Louis Cardinals came from behind with a four-run eighth inning to beat the Detroit Tigers 6-3.

Jim Rice's two-run homer and George Scott's solo shot paced the Boston Red Sox to a 6-4 victory over the Houston Astros. Don Aase and Ken Brett combined on a six-hitter as the California Angels blanked the Seattle Mariners 4-0 for their seventh win in nine spring games.

CINCINNATI (AP) - The Cincinnati Stingers have signed Dave Debol, an All-American center from the University of Michigan, to a three-year World Hockey Association contract.

The Stingers said the 21-year-old Debol is expected to be in the lineup today for the Stingers' game with the New England Whalers.

Cincinnati obtained the rights for the highly touted All-American in December when the Stingers traded All-Star center Dennis Sobchuk to the Edmonton Oilers for Debol and cash.

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Two new coaches will join the University of Pittsburgh football team for the start of spring ball Sunday. Coach Jackie Sherrill says.

Stockpiling an Issue

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) - Some teams, mainly the winners, like the term "developmental squads." The losers generally call it "stockpiling." It is one of the thornier issues confronting the National Football League.

And in today's final sessions of the winter meetings, 28 club owners tried to thrash out a solution to a problem which has, in the past few seasons, been dealt with in an under-the-table manner.

The developmental squad, in theory, is players on the teams' injured reserve lists, out for the season and not on the 45-man (43 active plus two inactive) rosters, but nevertheless able to work out and develop their talents for future seasons.

It is, as a matter of fact, just a bit more than theory. More than a couple of clubs have put it into practice, stockpiling players.

Here's how it works: Let's say a team has a couple of good rookie linemen, good enough to make the team but not good enough to start. The team doesn't want to lose them so, if it is so inclined, the team "invents" injuries, places the two rookies on the injured reserve list and replaces them on the roster with a couple of free agents. For the rest of the year these two rookies practice with the team and on their own and come back next year as better players. This, of course, is all conjecture.

But in the past few years an inordinate number of players have been placed on the injured reserve lists, some with questionable injuries.

The winners with a wealth of talent, don't want to lose it. The losers, looking for quality players, would like nothing more than a shot at some of the talent on the winners.

To put it even more simply, it is obvious that the 45th player on the Dallas Cowboys' roster is a heck of a lot better than the 45th on Tampa Bay's roster. And if, with an additional dozen injured reserve players, it'd be a good bet the 57th Cowboy would be better than the 57th Buccaneer. With development squads, the winners get to develop the talent.

Paint on a leather jacket
 By Polly Cramer

POLLY'S PROBLEM
 DEAR POLLY — Could you tell me how to get lacquer spray paint off a leather jacket. The jacket is dark brown and the paint is light blue. — MAREN M.
 DEAR KAREN M. — Saturate the spots with turpentine, leave it on for a while, wipe off with more turpentine and then with a damp soapy cloth IF your jacket will take kindly to this. There are many different finishes on leather jackets and this might remove some finishes — particularly a shiny one. Do test on an inside fold or other inconspicuous spot. It might even discolor if the leather has been dyed. The safest thing is to take the coat to a dry cleaner who specializes in leather and suede. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — One of my Pet Peeves is with those stores that mark down their prices or give discounts and even prizes for Sunday shoppers only. — J.P.C.

DEAR POLLY — The idea for squeezing out the remaining toothpaste or ointment left in a tube with a rolling pin is OK but a mite clumsy. A large pencil or a wooden stick not over three-quarters of an inch in diameter is much handier. Try it. — WILLIAM

DEAR POLLY — I never throw away an old powder puff as they can come in very handy, particularly when you wear a new bra for the first time. Sometimes it hurts and the hooks and eyes feel like they are sticking in your back and make you generally uncomfortable. When this happens slide a powder puff under the bra and it will feel much better.

I always bury banana peels around my rose bushes; they enrich the soil so I have more beautiful roses. — NELL
 DEAR POLLY — Before cutting buttonholes, I first mark each place with clear nail polish and let it dry. I cut through this and have straight, non-fraying edges that really hold the stitches.

Also, lemons will stay fresh for quite a time if they are put in an water-filled air-tight jar.
 You can avoid losing stitches off the knitting needle if you stick a cork on the end of the needle before putting work aside. — NORA

DEAR POLLY — I use a paper clip on potato chip or noodle bags after they are opened so the contents stay fresh. Fold the open end over once or twice and then clip. Towels that are too worn and thin for use in the bathroom make good hand towels for the kitchen. Cut in half and hem. Such towels keep good kitchen towels from become stained.

I also use old worn towels between two pieces of a flannel print to make bibs for infants. Bias tape is sewn on around the edges by hand. — HELEN

Unique Hotel Stands in North Sea

Ekofisk Center, North Sea (AP) — Europe's newest hotel cost one million dollars a room and was put up in two days and nights on stilts in the middle of the North Sea.

It has a spectacular view of the platforms of a huge oil field, lit like diamond clusters at night with the rolling flames from flare stacks throwing blood-red images across the sea.

It's called the Ekofisk Hotel. But don't try for a reservation in the exclusive establishment 180 miles — a 99-minute helicopter ride — off the Norwegian coast. It was designed and is operated only for workers and invited guests to the heart of an oil and gas development from six fields in the Norwegian zone.

The 100-million-dollar cost for the 106-room hotel would be outrageous for the most luxurious shore-side resort. But everything comes high in the midst of a treacherous sea. Current estimates for full development of Ekofisk run to 5 billion dollars and oilmen expect to see a further one billion poured in as inflation takes its toll.

A massive barge crane hoisted 900-ton, five- and six-story sections into place in two days and nights. Installation of generators, water purifiers and other complex machinery below the living quarters will take until early spring.

The hotel will bring a new lifestyle — and women — to Ekofisk and alleviate the serious accommodation problems which Phillips Petroleum, the operator of the Ekofisk group, faces daily. It has had to hire three of the great submersible drilling rigs just for sleeping space, and on a typical night had only two spare beds in the entire field.

"We run a helicopter ballet here twice a day," said a radio-room operator, "shuttling 1,200 men in two hours between the platforms where they work and where they sleep."

The giant hotel modules were carefully equipped by the Norwegian builders ashore. The two-bed rooms were fully carpeted and equipped with private bathrooms and consoles for taped music or four radio channels.

The 106 rooms flank a central unit boasting a two-story cinema, with balcony, billiards, card and reading lounges, a gym with sauna, a six-bed hospital with emergency operating facilities, and administration and training areas.

The hotel is topped with a helicopter deck over waiting rooms and a hotel check-in counter on a floor which also has a small chapel. Three elevators serve the seven-floor structure.

Work schedules at the center call for eight 12-hour days, followed by eight days off ashore, with a long break every four tours. This system meets with enthusiastic approval from the multinational staff because it gives long periods ashore to spend with families or in sight-seeing.

Shorter Scrub Time Set By Hospital Test
 NEW HYDE PARK, N.Y. (AP) — Just how clean is clean?
 Research done in a hospital here on surgical scrub techniques proved there was no significant difference between the conventional 10-minute scrub and a scrub of only five minutes to degerm hands.

The study was conducted in the interest of time saving and cost efficiency by the departments of Laboratories and Surgery at Long Island Jewish-Hillside Medical Center.
 Two hundred surgeons, scrub nurses and operating room technicians scrubbed by standard techniques, using sterile, individually packaged, disposable scrub brushes impregnated with antiseptic solution. They scoured hands and arms 10 minutes as hospital procedure requires.
 A second group of 200 followed the same routine but scrubbed only five minutes.
 Skin cultures were then taken from the hands of all those in each group so that the remaining microorganisms could be counted.

Old Art of Brass Rubbing Becoming Popular

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Barbara Sanford has made it possible to enjoy the art of making brass rubbings without kneeling for hours in a cold, dank church.

In fact, her students don't even have to go to Europe to practice their craft.
 She owns 32 brass replicas, called facsimiles, of the more popular English and Belgian brasses. She is currently teaching others the European art form of capturing the designs, which are on engraved brass tomb coverings.

She became interested in the art when she and her husband lived in Belgium for five years, where her husband was on assignment for his employer.
 "Many American women living overseas are interested in brass rubbing, more so than European women," she said.

 She and another woman gave brass-rubbing lessons in Belgium and Mrs. Sanford thinks the lessons will be popular here, too.
 "It really doesn't take special artistic talent, but it does take a strong arm to make a good brass rubbing," she said.

 "It's the same principle as taking an impression from a coin which you might have done as a child. Getting the detail around the face and hands is very important."
 Mrs. Sanford, who has sold her finished rubbings to gift and furniture stores, said the idea of using incised brass to replace stone effigies seemed to have come originally from Holland and Flanders in the 13th century and caught on quickly in England.

 The brass plates lent themselves to more intricate and detailed engraving than had previously been done in stone.
 "In most cases, only the nobility had their likenesses made before their deaths, but there are some commoners and even one convict in brass," she noted.
 England has preserved most of its memorial brasses. Brasses in Holland, Germany and France did not fare as well, particularly during the Napoleonic era when many were melted down for wartime use.
 Remaining brasses have lost much detail over the years from brass rubbers who must bear down hard to get vivid imprints, according to Mrs. Sanford.
 For that reason, an English firm has received permission to cast facsimiles to preserve the originals and yet keep brass rubbing a popular hobby.

ART FORM—Barbara Sanford with examples, left and bottom, of the art of brass rubbing, using pencil, charcoal, etc., to transfer to paper the impression from designs cast in bronze. Mrs. Sanford, of Middletown, Ohio, has acquired 32 of the more popular English and Belgian brasses and is teaching others the European art form of capturing the designs on paper.

Bring back to reality

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband has a severe problem. He is 80 and has always been a very hard worker and still is on his feet, taking care of the garden, mowing the yard and we have a big yard. He is not fat at all and only weighs 155 pounds. He eats well.

His problem is he's so forgetful. He forgets where he puts his tools and gets furious when I don't agree with him that people come and steal them.

What should I do to help him get over this? I'm at my wits end some times. He wants me to agree with him and I just can't when I know it's not true.

DEAR READER — I wish there were a good answer to that problem. He is having personality changes that come with age and changes in the circulation to his brain. We see that all the time when wonderful people suddenly develop entirely different behavior.

You are doing the right thing. It doesn't help when a person is already having trouble separating fact from fantasy to re-enforce the fantasy. One of the recommended approaches to elderly people is to always bring them back to reality. When they think Aunt Minnie is visiting and she has been dead for 50 years you must tell them firmly no it is not Aunt Minnie. By constantly helping them to know reality they are able to relate better to things as they really are.

And there are no good medicines that really do much good either. I'm sorry to say. I hope that as we learn more about aging and the chemical reactions involved in memory and personality patterns that a great deal more can be done one day than we are now able to do. It is also good that your husband keeps active. That will help him too, even if he does forget where he put his tools.

I am sending you The Health Letter 1-7, Perpetual Youth, Aging. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1554, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 17-year-old boy. My hair is receding at the temples. Baldness does not run in our family. Is this because I am lacking something in my diet?

DEAR READER — If every case of baldness were caused by a dietary def-

Jim Croce Heirs To Receive Settlement

DALLAS (AP) — The heirs of singer Jim Croce will receive $675,000 in damages in an out-of-court settlement with Roberts Airways and Mustang Aviation of Dallas, according to Tom Davis, lawyer for the Croce heirs.

Croce and four members of his musical group were killed in a plane crash in Natchitoches, La., in September 1973.

The heirs of Kenneth Cortese, also killed in the crash, should receive $300,000, a Dallas jury found.

Damages in the Croce settlement were not announced until completion of the civil trial in federal court here.

Ann Landers Praising Bus Driver

DEAR ANN: Loved your column on the school bus driver. Here's a message I hope you'll print. It says it all.

WHAT IS A SCHOOL BUS DRIVER?

A school bus driver is a person who smiles in the morning and smiles in the evening and eats Roloids in between.

A school bus driver gets there when nobody else can; finds houses which don't exist and children with no names.

He dries tears, dispels fears and finds lost notebooks. A school bus driver has eyes in the back of his head and hears every word, even in sign language.

He is immune to noise. A school bus driver's favorite words (besides "Good Morning" and "good night") are, "Sit down."

A school bus driver's worst apprehension involves five-year-olds with motion sickness—especially in the winter when the windows are closed and the heater is on.

Sometimes a school bus driver gets tired—but he seldom gets mad; and always, most faithfully, he gets there. From the Wyoming Educator

DEAR WYOMING: Thanks. It does indeed say it all.

DEAR ANN: "Chilly in Philly" burned me up with that blanket indictment of Yankees, especially Pennsylvanians. I grew up with and fervently believed the Southern myth of the "damnyankee"—until, thank God, a sensible, sincere, courteous and hardworking Pittsburgh man taught me differently.

And may I remind "Belle from Richmond," who considers herself well versed in history, that Virginia General Lee took up his sword against the Union in deep sorrow—and laid it down at Appomattox with a vow to devote the rest of his life to rebuilding the nation he loved, a truly UNITED States, forged in bitter war. It surely must sadden the ghost of that gallant American to see that a fellow Virginian hopes for a "next time".

RECONSTRUCTED Rebel DEAR RECON: Thank you from all of us—both north and south of the Mason-Dixon line. You said it beautifully.

DEAR ANN: We are very friendly with a couple who live nearby, and we go out together often. We always use our car although theirs is just as comfortable. It's always "What time will you pick us up?"

My husband is tired of getting stuck for gas and oil, parking fees, etc., while they get portal-to-portal transportation. How can we turn this around without appearing cheap?

Free Livery DEAR LIV: Next time say, "How about picking us up for a change?" The time after say, "It's our turn to drive." In this way you will get on an alternating basis. Far better to speak up than remain silent and build an ulcer.

CONFIDENTIAL To Sorry Now: Too bad you were so impatient. You should have stayed with him until he got his strength back. He said he was "tired"—not dead. Ask for another chance.

OSCAR

Have you ever entered a "grouch" contest? My daughter and I do so every morning beginning at 6:30 a.m. Since neither of us are morning people, conversation (if you use your imagination) is a series of grunts.

We did try getting up 30 minutes earlier. The only consequence was that we eliminated "hurry" from the series.

I earnestly attempted Zig Ziegler's advice, but even if I could get my hands to make contact, my lips just cannot manage the word "f-a-n-t-a-s-t-i-c". Besides, when I did swing my feet over the side of the bed, I promptly fell on my

And then there's my spouse, who, as he touches the floor, chirps loudly, "GOOD MORNING!". The other two of us, glaring at him thru squinted eyes, reply "Ugh!". He retorts, "Ya'll ought to enter a grouch contest." "We do!" we snarl.

Industries Boom Despite Coal Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) - Despite restraints from the coal strike and severe winter weather, the nation's industries managed a respectable 0.5 percent increase in production in February, partially reversing a big January slowdown, the government reported Thursday.

The Federal Reserve Board said the weather and the coal strike probably kept the increase in production about 0.2 percent lower than otherwise would have been. Production had declined by 0.8 percent in January, one of the biggest declines since the 1974-75 recession.

The pace of production by the nation's mines, factories and utilities is an important indication of the relative health of the economy. If production increases, it means more jobs for American workers.

Automakers accounted for a substantial portion of the February gain as auto assemblies increased by 3.8 percent to an annual rate of 8.2 million units. While that is below the auto industry's projections for the year, it followed a substantial decrease in January.

Auto assemblies in January had fallen to a 7.9 million level, down from 8.9 million in December.

Also increasing in February were production of consumer durable goods, such as appliances and furniture, which advanced 2.7 percent, and business equipment, ahead 0.9 percent during the month. Output of construction supplies also increased.

Partially offsetting those gains was a 1.8 percent decrease in production of energy materials, largely due to the strike-induced cutback in coal-generated electric power.

The Federal Reserve Board said its industrial production index in February stood at 139.3 percent of the 1967 average of 100, a gain of 4.5 percent from the same month a year earlier.

Production of business equipment, which to some extent reflects business investment plans, was 6 percent above the pre-recession peak in the third quarter of 1974, the board said.

The increase in industrial production, occurring despite the dampening effects of the weather and coal strike, was a welcome development for the economy, especially since it followed on the heels of a number of adverse economic reports in recent weeks.

It apparently confirms the assessment of most economists that the coal strike will have had only a relatively minor adverse impact on the economy if it ends soon.

based on fact.

Lawyers for Martinez, MGM and NBC met Wednesday with U.S. District Judge Robert O'Connor Jr. in Laredo to disclose that a settlement had been reached. They said some documents remain to be signed before the settlement can be implemented.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Future showings of a television movie based on the 1966 University of Texas tower sniper incident will make clear it is not entirely factual, the lawyer for Texas Ranger Ramiro Martinez says.

Donato Ramos of Laredo disclosed that term of a settlement with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and the National Broadcasting Co., according to the Austin American-Statesman.

Martinez, one of three men who ambushed sniper Charles Whitman on Aug. 1, 1966, also will receive a cash payment, Ramos said.

Amount of the cash payment and details of the settlement cannot be revealed, Ramos said. Martinez' $1,025,000 suit against MGM and NBC complained of the film, "The Deadly Tower."

"Any future showings will have a legend at the beginning explaining that it is not a documentary, that certain parts are not based on true fact. The initial movie said the show was based on fact," Ramos said.

He said there also would be changes made if the film is ever shown again.

Ramos said Martinez' major objections to the television movie were:

-He was portrayed as having been passed over for promotion on the Austin police force because he was a Mexican-American.

-His wife was portrayed as a Mexican-American although she is of German and Polish descent.

-The film showed a heated argument between Martinez and his wife which "was not terribly memorable."

Now, the "urban" problem has spawned new bureaucratic euphemisms and raised more serious questions about the policy itself.

A development bank, described as the "centerpiece" of the urban policy, has undergone a remarkable renaming.

Designed to reduce capital costs for business to locate in distressed areas, the bank was once known to all as an "urban development bank."

No more. The Commerce Department renamed its proposed bank a "national development bank," reflecting the president's desire that the new policy deal with all cities and rural areas in distress.

Last month, the Treasury Department decided to back Commerce's version of the bank and duly sent the White House a document referring to the bank on the cover sheet as a "national development bank."

But it was a late conversion apparently, because page three of the Treasury paper still used the un stylish term "urban development."

The Department of Housing

Today is Friday, March 17, the 76th day of 1978. There are 289 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1776, British troops evacuated Boston by ship during the Revolutionary War. They had been under American siege since the Battle of Bunker Hill seven months earlier.

On this date: In 1836, the Republic of Texas adopted a constitution.

In 1926, Brazil and Spain blocked Germany's admission to the League of Nations.

In 1938, during the Spanish Civil War, the Loyalist-held city of Barcelona was bombed.

In 1966, a U.S. midjet submarine located a hydrogen bomb which had fallen from an American bomber into the Mediterranean off Spain.

In 1970, charges were made against 22 American army officers and enlisted men in connection with the killing of civilians at My Lai in South Vietnam.

In 1972, the Nixon administration announced a gradual withdrawal of a substantial number of U.S. Air Force planes from Taiwan over the next two years.

Ten years ago: The United States and six other nations agreed to halt supplying gold to private buyers, thus establishing a two-price system for the metal.

Five years ago: An army captain in Cambodia stole a plane and bombed the presidential compound in Phnom Penh, missing President Lon Nol but killing 20 others.

One year ago: Angolan troops invading Zaire took the important copper mining center of Kolwezi.

Today's birthdays: Civil Rights leader Bayard Rustin is 68 years old. Actress Mercedes McCambridge is 60.

Thought for today: The only way to compel men to speak good of us is to do it - Voltaire, French writer, 1694-1778.

Urban Policy Not So Urban

WASHINGTON (AP) - In this city, programs running for cover take on aliases.

So when President Carter unveils his urban policy on March 27, it probably will sound like a not-so-urban policy.

After a year's work, key officials now view the word "urban" with nearly the same horror that they viewed "welfare" in their welfare reform package.

That policy was dubbed a "Program for Better Jobs and Income," a name which White House press secretary Jody Powell proudly noted had the advantages of not using the word "welfare" and not being terribly memorable.

Now, the "urban" problem has spawned new bureaucratic euphemisms and raised more serious questions about the policy itself.

A development bank, described as the "centerpiece" of the urban policy, has undergone a remarkable renaming.

Designed to reduce capital costs for business to locate in distressed areas, the bank was once known to all as an "urban development bank."

No more. The Commerce Department renamed its proposed bank a "national development bank," reflecting the president's desire that the new policy deal with all cities and rural areas in distress.

Last month, the Treasury Department decided to back Commerce's version of the bank and duly sent the White House a document referring to the bank on the cover sheet as a "national development bank."

But it was a late conversion apparently, because page three of the Treasury paper still used the un stylish term "urban development."

The Department of Housing

and Urban Development offered a milder concession. HUD's bank is now called a "community development bank," retaining at least the hint of a city.

In January at the White House, where word apparently gets around quicker, Cabinet secretary Jack Watson's office produced proposals on the state role in urban policy. They were labeled "A National Communities Conservation Policy."

The name game began with a warning from Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. in a Jan. 11 memo.

He noted the urban policy concentrated on - surprise - an urban strategy but "ignores the complex interdependence of urban, suburban, exurban and rural areas, and small cities and towns."

"This concentration also files in the face of political reality," Califano warned. "The votes in the Congress necessary to enact and fund programs that will help urban Americans can be guaranteed only if those programs help other needy Americans as well."

Califano's view was seconded by Management and Budget Director James McIntyre, once legal counsel to 450 mostly small towns in the Georgia Municipal Association.

Carter's endorsement of these views has resulted in some decidedly convoluted logic in the subsequent wrangling over specific programs.

The bank, for instance, is designed to help areas which lost jobs and taxes as business fled to the cheaper and roomier suburbs. All the agencies agreed this problem is concentrated in Northeastern and North Central cities.

Treasury argued that if bank activities "are applied generally throughout the country, they will simply assist growing areas and accelerate the decline of depressed areas" but then proposed including distressed small towns and rural areas.

Another bank goal is to reduce structural unemployment - primarily the joblessness of black teen-agers and other low-income minorities whose skills fit no available job.

But Treasury opposed putting the bank in HUD because its existing programs emphasize "economic revitalization, neighborhood conservation and the special problems of low- and moderate-income persons and minorities and may deflect attention from purely economic development matters."

The bank's structure remains unsettled. But then so does the alias for the urban policy. As one White House aide said this week, "We don't have a name yet, but that's not a major worry. We'll get one."

Quito, the capital of Ecuador, lies just a few miles south of the equator, at an elevation of 9,500 feet above sea level.

Lots of them . . . naughty and nice

The "wee folk" of Ireland

This Irish girl is sitting in the middle of a rath. A rath is a little field circled by ditches, thorn bushes and often rocks. At one time they might have been pens for sheep. There are raths all over Ireland. Some people believe they are the homes of fairies. They believe it is bad luck to disturb them in any way.

The Irish love folktales about make believe "wee folk" or fairies.

Some of them feel strongly about their fairy customs.

Once a short time ago, workmen at Shannon Airport said they were going to strike.

The reason: one of the runways they were building was to go right through a "rath" or fairy fort.

Some Irish believe it is bad luck to disturb a rath in any way.

The path of the runway was changed. The workmen were happy.

Siog Fairies

A rath is said to be the home of the siog (she-OG) fairies.

These fairies make pretty music.

If you hear them, your cares will go away.

If you make siogs angry, they might go out and snatch a baby.

It is said that they replace it with a 1,000 to 2,000 year old fairy.

Leprechauns

Leprechauns are Ireland's best known fairies.

Leprechauns are the shoe-makers for all the fairies.

If you creep up very quietly, you might catch one.

You must never take your eyes off of him.

You should try to talk him into showing you his pot of gold.

Nobody has managed to do this yet, but there is always the first time.

Super Sport: Billy Knight

In three seasons with the Indiana Pacers, Billy Knight has made the All-pro team twice.

This year, the 6 foot, 6 inch forward is starring for the Buffalo Braves.

Billy was an All-American at the University of Pittsburgh before turning pro. His kid brother, Terry, plays for Pittsburgh now.

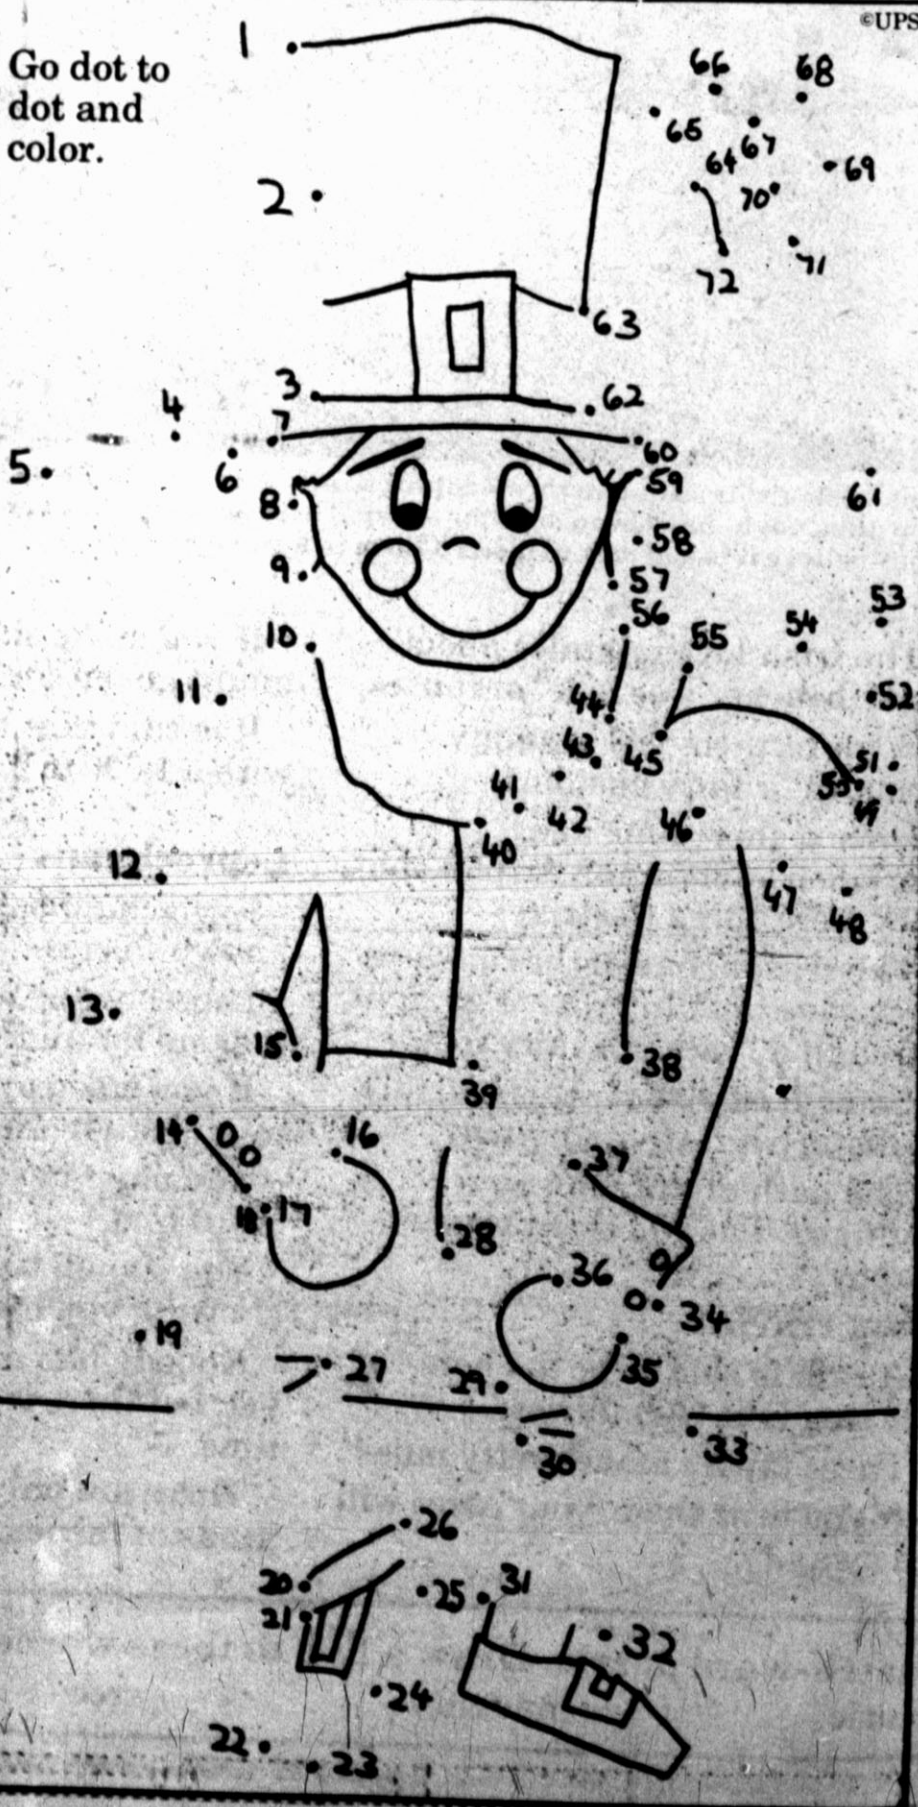

Billy is a friendly, clean cut bachelor. He doesn't smoke or drink.

Off the court, he enjoys tennis, listening to music and going to the movies.

Billy grew up in Pittsburgh. He is the fourth oldest in a family of 11 kids.

STUDIO SEE, the on-the-scene show for kids

Would you like to meet Bernadine, a tarantula from Baltimore? Would you like to see kids playing jazz in New Orleans?
Bernadine and the jazz kids have been on one STUDIO SEE show. This show will be repeated in April.

STUDIO SEE is a fast moving weekly show that travels around the country. Kids usually tell their own stories.

"You have to stay sharp for a kid audience," producer Jane Adair told The Mini Page.

There are four members of a STUDIO SEE camera team.

The field producer makes the contacts and sets up the story.

The director is in charge of getting the action on tape.

The camera person carries a smaller camera than most TV camera crews use.

The sound person records the kids' stories as they tell it.

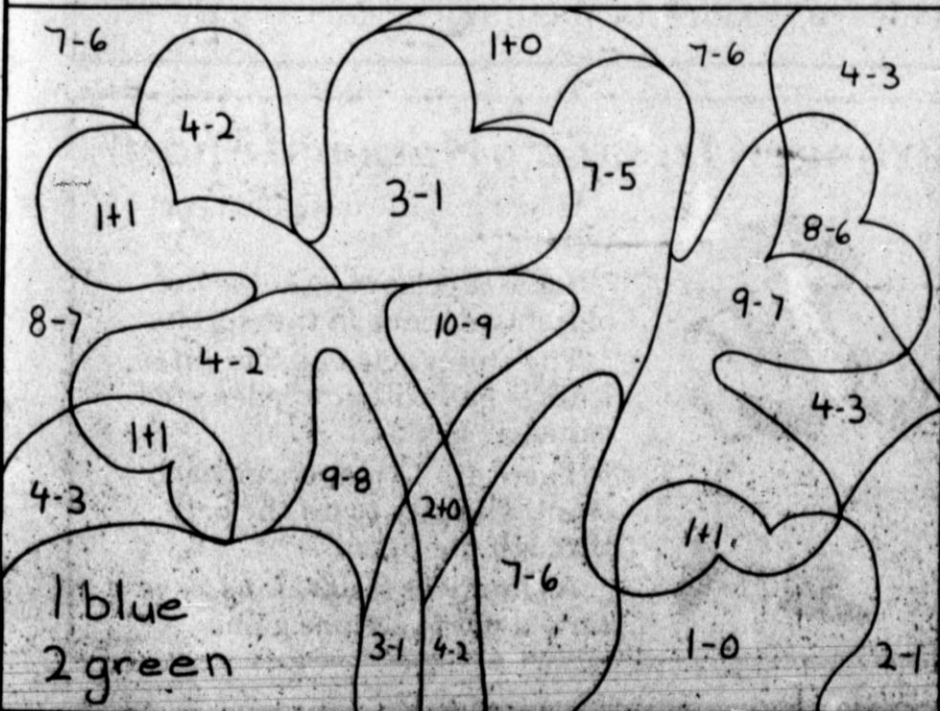

Jane Adair was on a local TV talk show in South Carolina before she started STUDIO SEE.

STUDIO SEE can be seen on PBS. It is produced by The South Carolina Educational TV Network. Check your local listings for time and station.

A Wee Bit About Ireland and St. Patrick's Day!

A donkey gets a hug from a young colleen (what many Irish girls are called). Donkeys are still used in some parts of the country. They pull carts and carry baskets.

The boy has on a hand-knit sweater. Ireland is famous for things made of wool. Many women knit sweaters at home for sale in Irish stores.

A Great Day for the Irish

Saint Patrick's Day is March 17. That is the date he died hundreds of years ago.

Saint Patrick is the special saint of Ireland.

The story is that he first came to Ireland as a slave.

It was his job to look after pigs and sheep on a lonely mountain side.

He did not like the work so he ran away to France.

He returned to Ireland to bring the Christian religion.

Some people say he made the shamrock popular.

The Irish will hold parades in New York, Boston and other U.S. cities. The country of Ireland celebrates St. Patrick's week with parades and concerts and happy celebrations.

Shamrocks

The story that shamrocks will only grow in Ireland is not true.

Each year at this time, the Irish fly out tons of these plants to their friends and relatives in many parts of the world.

Hurling... Ireland's National Sport

Hurling is the national sport of Ireland.

Some experts say that is the oldest ball game in the world...

The object is to catch or hit a leather ball with a wooden stick called a "hurley."

There are 15 players on each team. They try to hit the ball through their goal.

As many as 80,000 fans have turned out to see one game.
