

A Pretty Reminder

Jill Sublett strikes a pretty spring pose to help remind Hereford citizens that "Clean-Up, Fix-Up, Paint-Up" starts Saturday and continues through April 22. The Women's Division of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the beautification time, with Lavon Nieman as project chairman. Citizens are being urged to clean up their yards, alleys and vacant lots, and business firms are asked to participate in helping make the community look neater. Jill is the 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Sublett.

'Randy White Day' Proclaimed

'Y' Banquet Tonight Draws City Interest

Hereford & Vicinity YMCA directors are hoping for a packed house tonight at the Bull Barn when Dallas Cowboy star Randy White will help kickoff the Partner of Youth Campaign, youth in "Y" programs will give demonstrations, and Khiva Shrine clowns will be on hand to help promote the event.

The banquet starts at 7 p.m. and tickets are only $4 for adults and $1 for children 11 and under. Members of the Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions club are also participating in the affair.

White, co-MVP of the Super Bowl, will be the featured speaker. He was scheduled to conduct an autograph party for the kids from 3 to 5 p.m. today at the "Y" office at Sugarland Mall.

In conjunction with the event, Hereford Mayor Bartley Dowell has issued a proclamation designating Friday as "Randy White and YMCA Partner of Youth Day" in the city. The mayor's proclamation reads:

"Be it resolved that Friday, April 7, 1978 be and it is hereby proclaimed as Randy White Day and YMCA Partner of Youth Campaign Day in Hereford, Texas; and

"Be it further resolved that all citizens of Hereford and the vicinity are encouraged to participate in and attend the Partner of Youth Banquet April 7, 1978, at 7 p.m. at the Hereford Bull Barn."

The banquet itself is a promotion for the Y's annual Partner of Youth campaign. The purpose is to solicit funds to help support the YMCA's youth programs.

The drive will actually start Sunday and is scheduled to run for two weeks. Campaign workers will be divided into two divisions. The Trailblazers, headed by Bud Eades and Bill Johnson, will call on business firms for contributions, while the General Teams—headed by George Belford, will contact individuals.

Rick Wood, new executive director for the Y, said he believed the banquet tonight "will be an enjoyable evening for everyone."

Tom Burdett, president of the Y board, announced that director Mary Parker will be on the program to give a short history of the local Y program, and director Roger Owen will explain the Partner of Youth campaign.

White, a 6-4, 245-pound defensive star for the Cowboys, was nicknamed "The Manster" by teammate Charlie Waters. The name comes from "part man and part monster."

White was awarded both the Outland and Lombardi Trophies as a senior griddy at Maryland. He and Harvey Martin were named Most Valuable Players in the recent Super Bowl. White is 25 years old and single.

Corn Squeezin's Could Fuel Cars

DIMMITT — Hill folk from the Ozark country have long known "corn squeezins" are potent stuff.

But agriculture leaders from this city in the heart of the High Plains corn growing area are casting an eye to the future and hoping to cash in on the 100-proof potential of corn as a high-octane additive for gasoline.

Carl King of Dimmitt, president of the Texas Corn Growers Association, was among representatives of three interested groups who met with state officials Thursday in Austin on how to land a $15 million federal research project to develop alcohol from agricultural products.

Four such projects have been authorized by the U.S. Department of Agriculture under a research program designed to expand markets for agricultural commodities and increase the nation's supply of industrial hydrocarbons.

Milton Holloway, director of the Texas Energy Advisory Council, met with three interested groups that want to participate in the project on Thursday and reported, "We will put in a pre-proposal by April 15."

The three groups currently most interested in the pilot project are Amstar Inc., the Rio Grande Valley Sugar Growers and Dimmitt Agri-Industries.

The groups represent grain sorghum, wheat, corn and sugar farmers.

Amstar Inc. operates a corn wet-milling plant in Dimmitt with facilities leased from Dimmitt Agri-Industries, and the operation provides an important market for corn in the Dimmitt area.

During Thursday's meeting, Texas House Speaker Bill Clayton stated, "In 1935, 90 percent of U.S. industrial alcohol was produced from natural carbohydrates. Now, 90 percent of alcohol comes from ethylene. It's been done, and now the largest potential market for alcohol is as an additive to gasoline."

An advisory council report indicated that two types of alcohol, methanol and ethanol, could be produced by either fermenting crops or by thermal conversion.

"Ethanol, when mixed 10 percent by volume with gasoline, does not appear to decrease gas mileage, but actually raises the gasoline octane rating three to five points while not harming the operation of catalytic converters," the study said.

By-products of the alcohol production process would include carbon dioxide and grain residue.

In order to qualify for the federal project, the pilot plant must put out more in total energy and products than it uses in fossil fuels. In addition, applications for the project must specify how the products would be marketed.

Spencer Baen, director for the Center for Energy and Mineral Resources at Texas A&M University explained, "It has to be energy efficient."

Clayton pointed out that two of the projects unofficially had been awarded to Nebraska and Louisiana, and a Texas proposal could be from the state, industry or a joint state-industry application.

According to King, a pilot plant at Dimmitt would have practical applications.

"We already have a wet milling plant here and it could be converted to the production of alcohol much more feasibly than a new one could be built. We feel this project could be a major breakthrough, for corn as energy is the key concern of the day," he commented.

Area farmers have pinned hopes on the potential of projects such as conversion of grain to alcohol to help reduce crop surpluses that have driven commodity prices downward.

Farm Program Meeting Set

A meeting on the proposed government farm program will be held Monday at 1:30 p.m. at the Bull Barn, according to John Fuston, Deaf Smith County ASCS executive director.

"During the meeting, I will try to explain the farm program that is available to local farmers as we have it now," said Fuston.

Details of recently proposed provisions will be covered at the meeting, and Fuston pointed out that all local farmers are encouraged to attend.

Boat Safety Check Tomorrow

The Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce Health and Safety committee, in conjunction with Jack's Marine of Hereford and the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary of Amarillo, will sponsor a free boat safety inspection clinic tomorrow from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the local marine dealership on East Highway 60.

"We want to make sure that local boaters are properly equipped for a spring and summer of safe boating and water skiing," said Danny Boyer, chairman of the Health and Safety committee.

During the inspection, USCG Auxiliary members will go over boats, making sure that they are equipped with required safety devices.

Auxiliary members will inform boat owners of any safety violations which would result in the issuing of a citation, were the craft boarded for routine inspection by a Coast Guard unit.

No report on violations will be made to any law enforcement agency, however, and Boyer explained that the primary aim of the inspection is to point up any safety deficiencies which boating enthusiasts need to correct before launching their summer of marine recreation.

Local boat owners are reminded to have their electrical equipment hooked up to the boat's battery when they bring their craft to the inspection site, in order to allow auxiliary members to thoroughly check the lighting system.

Boat owners whose craft pass inspection will be issued a safety decal for display on their boat. When this decal is prominently displayed, the boat will not be stopped by USCG units making routine safety inspections of boats on area lakes.

Another boating safety activity is also planned by the Health and Safety committee, in the form of a two-hour class to be held at the Community Center Friday, April 21 from 7:30 - 9:30 p.m.

Horse-Race Issue Clear For Primary Straw Vote

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Local election officials had the word today they could start printing the May 6 Democratic primary ballots.

The go-ahead came late Thursday after the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals refused to issue opponents of a referendum on horse racing a restraining order to further delay preparation of the ballots.

However, State Democratic Chairman Calvin Guest warned there might still be more court action.

"It should happen, though it is not likely, you might have to line out or paste over the proposition four ballots," Guest said.

Douglas A. McCrary, Calvert, president of the Texas Horseracing Association, said he hoped Thursday's court action would "take this question out of the courtroom and put it on the ballot, where it belongs."

"We are perfectly willing to trust the judgment of informed voters on this issue," McCrary said, "but obviously, the self-appointed guardians of morality who took this matter to court are afraid to even let the people express their opinions in a non-binding referendum."

A similar straw poll is slated for the Republican primary ballot.

The 3rd Court of Civil Appeals issued the denial of an injunction without comment but said an opinion would be written later.

The decision in effect, upheld the decision last week of District Court Judge Jim Dear that his court did not have the right to interfere with an election process that was underway.

Already, cleared for the Democratic ballot, after a court test before District Judge Herman Jones, was a referendum that will ask voters what they think about an increase in interest rates for loans under $5,000.

Austin attorney Buck Wood, representing the opponents, argued Thursday that the SDEC approved the referendum on March 13 only because it had been presented a petition with more than the required 76,000 signatures of qualified voters. Wood claimed he show in court, if given a chance, that the petition was signed by less than 76,000 qualified voters.

Wood said that the state Democratic committee has "spent time and money to put something on the ballot that is a legal issue" — members of the party have a right not to have an inflammatory illegal referendum on the ballot.

"The plaintiffs in this cannot show they will be harmed no matter the result of the referendum," said Shannon Ratliff, attorney for the Texas Thoroughbred Breeders Association.

"This is not like a wet day election. The referendum simply allows people to say what they think about an issue."

Shannon argued that "the court may not be injunction interfere with an election process already begun."

Bob Slagle, attorney for the SDEC, said he did not think the court would think the SDEC was "so irresponsible to put something idiotic on the ballot."

Slagle said the law does not require the SDEC to verify the qualifications of signatures presented in petitions.

"The party's position is that we are battered by both sides," Slagle said. "I think we would be sued if we decertified the petition just as we are now being sued because we certified it."

"The matter is a moot subject," he said. "I think we should be allowed to print our ballots and get on our way."

Suspect in Girl Scout Slayings Arrested

McALESTER, Okla. (AP) — A stoic Gene Leroy Hart, charged in the grisly slayings of three Girl Scouts at a northeastern Oklahoma summer camp last June, was under close guard at the state prison here today 10 months after he eluded the largest manhunt in Oklahoma history.

Hart, a full-blooded Cherokee with a woodsman's knowledge of eastern Oklahoma's rugged hills, was captured by state crime bureau agents who quietly surrounded an isolated residence in the hilly brush country of the Cookson Hills.

Eight heavily armed agents kicked down the door of the remote cabin at 4:15 p.m. Thursday.

The arrest came after what Dick Wilkerson, deputy director of the Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation, called a long "compilation of intelligence information."

Wilkerson said the OSBI had learned that there was "someone living with an old man who lived by himself in a rural area and who cut wood and received some type of check."

The check was eventually determined to be a Social Security check, Wilkerson said. The OSBI official said it was believed Hart had been living at the house since November 1977.

Charges of harboring a fugitive were being prepared against the owner of the house, identified as Sam Pigeon Jr.

Hart's capture closed a chapter in one of the most brutal crimes in recent state history. The 34-year-old former Pryor High School football star was charged with three counts of first degree murder June 23, 1977, 10 days after counselors at Camp Scott near Locust Grove, Okla., found the bodies of the three young Scouts in crumpled sleeping bags.

Before Hart was charged a force which grew to more than 400 citizens, National Guard and law enforcement searchers combed the northeastern Oklahoma woodlands in search of a slayer.

But the rattlesnake and tick-infested woodlands revealed little to help law officers solve the sex slayings of Doris Denise Milner, 10, and Lori Lee Farmer, 8, both of Tulsa, and Michelle Guse, 9, of Broken Arrow.

The victims were found about 150 yards from their tent early on the first morning of the summer encampment.

Investigators found two blood-drenched mattresses and a bloody footprint in their empty platform tent. They said two of the girls were apparently bludgeoned to death while they slept.

One of the girls appeared to have been strangled outside the tent. She was found lying faceup, with her hands taped behind her.

Hart is a convicted rapist who had been a fugitive since his September 1973, escape from the Mayes County jail in Pryor, Okla. He saved his way through jail bars to freedom while awaiting transfer to the state prison to begin serving a rape sentence.

Authorities linked him to the Girl Scout slayings after finding two tattered photographs in the cave-filled forests around the camp. The pictures were taken at a 1968 wedding in southwestern Oklahoma. Authorities believe Hart printed the photos in a prison darkroom after acting as a photographer's assistant at the ceremony.

Wilkerson said Hart offered little resistance when agents rushed into the shack. He said the suspect was not armed, and scuffled briefly when agents began to handcuff him.

When Hart entered the prison's main gate Thursday night, his head was bowed and his arms were interlaced with the arms of two OSBI agents who held tight grips on him.

Hart wore the cutoff blue jeans and sleeveless T-shirt authorities said he was wearing when arrested. The 5-foot-10 suspect was heavier than numerous OSBI drawings of him had estimated: something over 200 pounds.

Carter Worried Over Unemployment Figures

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter administration is still worried about unemployment figures showing high jobless rates among black youths. After averaging 7.4 percent last year, the unemployment rate among all Americans declined to 6.1 percent in February. But the figure among black teen-agers was 38 percent. The administration is counting on its public jobs programs to help employ black youngsters.

Butz Portrait Gets No Formal Nameplate

WASHINGTON (AP) - There is no brass nameplate or other marker to identify the man on the $5,000 oil portrait that now hangs on a wall in the corridor of the Agriculture Department building. It is a portrait of Earl L. Butz, former secretary of agriculture who resigned Oct. 4, 1976, after protests over a racial job.

Boarding Home Termed 'Prison' for Elderly Common Market Meet Overshadowed by Doubt NEWARK, N.J. (AP) - A county-sanctioned boarding home in a rundown section of Trenton was a prison for residents forced into slavery and sexual abuse and held captive through intimidation and violence, federal authorities say.

Jean Douglas, 40, of Willingboro, proprietor of the boarding home that kept elderly and disabled persons and former psychiatric patients, was indicted by a federal grand jury Thursday on charges she held seven residents in involuntary servitude.

Israel Initiates Partial Withdrawal

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) - Israel will begin a two-stage partial withdrawal of its troops from southern Lebanon on Tuesday, affecting troops along the eastern half of the front, a U.N. spokesman said.

The first stage of the pullout will affect an area east of Marjayoun, a Christian-held town three miles north of the Israeli border town of Metuliah, the spokesman said. The Israelis also will withdraw from the Khardali bridge over the Litani River, he said.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) - The two-day Common Market summit opening today is being overshadowed by unhappiness with U.S. policy on the falling dollar and deliveries of nuclear fuel to Europe.

The Europeans want more action from the U.S. government to bolster the price of the dollar on world exchanges.

The nine Common Market countries, saddled with about 6.5 million unemployed workers, are worried because a cheap dollar makes American goods more attractive and takes business away from Europeans, who depend much more heavily on exports than the United States does.

Captive Audience

Morris Sheets of Lubbock, center, was guest speaker for the regular weekly luncheon meeting of Hereford Kiwanis Club Thursday. R.L. Blakely, right, club president, recognized Roger Owen, left, as Kiwanian of the Month for March. Sheets, Democratic candidate for U.S. Representative of the 19th District, was introduced by Jonny Cloud.

Suspect

His hair resembled an overgrown crewcut, while most likenesses distributed by investigators had him with shoulder length hair.

"We did not know when we went to that house today that Gene Leroy Hart would be there," said Wilkerson, alluding to the dozens of false leads and dead-end rumors which authorities had pursued toward the fugitive's capture.

District Attorney Sid Wise, who met with OSBI legal experts late Thursday night, had said during the manhunt Hart could hide almost indefinitely in the hills of eastern Oklahoma, where he has scores of relatives who were reluctant to talk to law officers.

The capture ultimately came about 40 miles from where Hart has been suspected of using his woodsmanship to avoid tracking dogs and hovering helicopter. The Cookson Hills have an infamous history as hideouts for badmen ranging from Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd of the 1930s to Belle Star and the Dalton Gang of territorial days.

Was the capture of Hart merely luck? Lawmen were quick to disagree.

"You don't luck into anything in the Cookson Hills," Wilkerson said. "You make your own luck by going out and kicking the brush."

Hart had been the nemesis of Mays County Sheriff Pete Weaver, who spent a portion of nearly every day since last June 13 tracking down leads and rechecking clues.

"It's a helluva relief," Weaver sighed as Hart disappeared into the security of a Death Row cell at the state prison. "It has been a tremendous burden."

Wise said Hart is scheduled for arraignment today.

Parliamentary Worry Faces Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill said Thursday he will work to bypass a parliamentary problem that could bottle up a controversial aid package for grain and cotton farmers even though he opposes the legislation.

"This would be an easy one to bottle up," the Massachusetts Democrat told reporters.

The measure, forged earlier this week by House and Senate conferees despite strong veto threats from the White House, violates the House budget-making laws because it would affect spending next fiscal year even though the House Budget Committee has not yet decided how much can be spent in that period.

Thus, it can be killed on the House floor by a parliamentary maneuver unless it first gets the approval of the Rules Committee and the House to waive the budget act or unless it is brought up under special procedures that require a two-thirds vote for approval. O'Neill, who has considerable formal and informal influence over the Rules Committee, said, "I am going to insist on its clearance for floor action."

He said that he hoped an ultimate House vote would defeat the Republican-engineered measure, which has the backing of hundreds of farmers who have been lobbying here since mid-January for relief.

The Senate is expected to act this week on the conferees' proposal. House action will come sometime after next Tuesday. Preliminary estimates indicate that food prices, which already are expected to rise by 6 to 8 percent this year because of inflation, likely would rise another 2 to 3 percent if the bill is passed. The legislation also could add $2.3 to $3.4 billion to the federal budget.

O'Neill said his constituents in Boston, where "there is very little grass ... and no farms," seem to be on the farmers' side, but "they don't realize what this will do" to the price of bread, hamburger and other foods.

"The consumer would get bludgeoned" by this bill, O'Neill said, adding that he hoped that urban House members would defeat it. If the bill passes, "I hope the President would have the moral courage to take care of it (veto it)," he added.

Meanwhile, supporters and opponents of the measure held breakfast strategy meetings and then fanned out to lobby House members to vote for the bill.

The bill would raise basic grain and cotton price supports. It also would allow growers of those crops to secure even higher federally guaranteed prices this year if they agree to idle one acre for every two planted. This provision is intended to raise farm prices next year by limiting supplies.

allies unspecified other weapons in place of the neutron bomb, which has also won the support of the American military as an equalizer to the Soviets' 3-to-1 numerical tank advantage in central Europe.

In a speech Thursday night in Los Angeles, former President Gerald Ford said the controversy around the neutron weapon "arouses profound concern among us all."

"As Americans we must stand with our president on policies that strengthen or enhance our security," Ford told a Republican dinner, "but we must and we will resist those policies that weaken or cripple our security."

N-Bomb Decision is Postponed

WASHINGTON (AP) - U.S. officials are telling North Atlantic Treaty allies that President Carter is postponing - but not canceling - production of the neutron bomb, sources here say.

Today's expected announcement of the decision at the NATO council meeting in Brussels could cause some embarrassment among allies who had expected that neutron weapons would become part of the alliance's European arsenal.

Those nations saw Lance missiles and artillery shells armed with neutron weapons - designed to inflict battlefield casualties while limiting blast damage - as potent deterrents to potential Soviet aggression.

The officials here, who declined to be identified, said Carter is holding off permanent cancellation of the weapon to see if the Soviets will make concessions in curbing their own advanced arms systems.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance will discuss the issue when he visits Moscow in two weeks, primarily to try to step up negotiations on limiting long-range bombers and intercontinental ballistic missiles.

In a related area, the Soviets have indicated a willingness to negotiate restraints on developing systems for disabling the two nations' earth-orbiting reconnaissance satellites.

The United States is promising its

The Panamanian government already has complained to the United Nations about the amendment.

Parents Get Child Back

DALLAS (AP) - Nineteen-month-old Tony Olivo will be returned to his parents, who were once declared "medically negligent" but have now completed special training to deal with Tony's rare disease.

The Dallas toddler will be given back to his parents by order of County Juvenile Judge Pat McClung, who told medical and child welfare authorities Thursday to return him today or Saturday.

Tony suffers from a rare disease and was removed from his parents' home Feb. 16 when authorities contended his parents had been "medically negligent" in his care. He has spent most of his life in hospitals, where he has undergone treatment for a blood disorder.

Tony had been scheduled for a bone marrow transplant in Boston last November, but doctors there postponed the operation indefinitely, saying it would be too dangerous at this time in the youngster's life.

Family attorney Charles Robertson said Tony's parents, Deborah Oliva and Gilbert Valdez, had worked hard and cooperated fully in obtaining medical training during the past three weeks. "They possess the requisite knowledge to take care of Tony," Robertson said.

On Kiwanis Club Sheats Is Speaker At Kiwanis

Morris Sheets, Congressional candidate for U.S. Representative, was guest speaker at the Hereford Kiwanis Club meeting Thursday in the Fellowship Hall of the Presbyterian Church.

Sheats, minister of Trinity Church of Lubbock, told Kiwanians why he was seeking the 19th District post, his position on a number of issues, and then fielded questions from the audience.

"I believe this to be God's direction in my life," said Sheats. But he added, "Now don't go misquote me. I didn't have a vision with the message in neon lights. I simply mean that I believe in what I am doing."

Concerning a rumor that he would continue to head the church in Lubbock if elected, Sheats emphasized that "there is no way I could try to do both jobs ... I would be a fulltime Congressman."

R.L. Blakely, club president, recognized Roger Owen as "Kiwanian of the Month" for March during the weekly luncheon meeting. Plans were also announced for the annual Kiwanis track meet for elementary students.

Blakely also noted that the club's annual Mop & Broom Sale has been scheduled for April 21-22. Chairman of the project is Bill Bankston.

Bullock Blasts Hill in Statement

By The Associated Press
Comptroller Bob Bullock, described as Gov. Dolph Briscoe's "imported hit man," says Texas voters have a choice between a proven governor and a "son of a bitch" - referring to Attorney General John Hill.

"You have a choice between a man with six years experience and a proven record and a son of a bitch," Bullock told a group of reporters Thursday in San Antonio after he addressed a gathering of businessmen.

Bullock aide George Kuempel verified Thursday night that the state comptroller was referring to Hill, Briscoe's chief opponent in the May 6 Democratic primary, when the comment was made.

Former Gov. Preston Smith and two lesser-known politicians also seek the Democratic nomination.

Hill, who campaigned Thursday in Houston, could not immediately be reached for comment on Bullock's remark.

Kuempel said that Jack Roberts, Bullock's administrative assistant who was present when the remark was made, told him that Bullock made the statement to "three or four" reporters. "Roberts said Mr. Bullock burst out laughing and the reporters burst out laughing too," said Kuempel. "Roberts said that he had taken it as a joke."

Bullock, introduced to the San Antonio meeting of businessmen as Briscoe's "imported hit man," declared that if Hill is elected governor, Texas would have to find $2.1 billion in new revenue.

And, Bullock predicted the only way that could be done is by imposing a personal and or corporate income tax in Texas.

Bullock said Hill was "the most promising man I ever knew," in the sense that Hill has promised tax cuts and spending increases that "would darn near bankrupt Texas."

Hill's supporters, however, charged that Briscoe's "no new taxes" record and campaign is a farce, because while no new state taxes have been approved, local communities have been forced to meet increasing costs from their own pockets by jacking up property taxes.

San Antonio City Councilman Glen Hartman and former Bexar County Judge Blair Reeves leveled the charge at a news conference.

The Hill-Bullock jousting had flared up earlier Thursday when Bullock formally asked Hill not to contest a suit challenging the constitutionality of the 10-cent state ad valorem tax.

"This is unquestionably the most inequitable and unpopular tax on the books and General Hill would be doing the taxpayers a monumental favor by joining me in playing dead on this issue," said Bullock.

Bullock said the ad valorem tax as now administered is wrong and that "to argue any other way would be a travesty of justice."

Hill would serve as the state's attorney in any defense against the suit.

Hill told a news conference in Houston that the suit, by Rep. Wayne Peveto, D-Orange, attacking the property tax, was another symptom of Briscoe's neglect of property tax abuses.

He said the 1977 Legislature had a chance to act on property tax reform "and Governor Briscoe never got in the game."

"Now, our property tax system is under another court attack. We already are being attacked in federal court because of inequities in the property tax," Hill said.

Hill also joined those who say they are disappointed with the probated sentences assessed three former Houston police officers in the death of Mexican-American prisoner Joe Campos Torres.

Hill said he thinks it is "in order" for the U.S. attorney's office to call upon U.S. District Judge Ross Sterling to reconsider the sentence.

The Abundant Life

A SMOOTHER WAY

BY BOB WEAR

THE WAY OF LIFE for all of us will be rough enough at best. This is just the way it is, but some folk make it much rougher than it would otherwise be; much rougher than it has to be. It is strange, but true, some people actually seem to deliberately try to make the way rough for themselves, and others. They quarrel, when there is no reason to quarrel; they discourage, when they should encourage; they disapprove, when, in all honesty, they could approve; they make promises they know they cannot keep; they are unthankful, when they have good reason to be thankful; they find fault just for the sake of finding fault; they say and do many things that make the way rougher than it should be.

LET US ASK OURSELVES, are we making the way of life rougher for ourselves and other people? Perhaps all of us do some of this, but there is no

'Holocaust' Mirrors Horrors

LOS ANGELES (AP) - There is a moment in "Holocaust" when a Jewish doctor facing deportation from Germany to Poland seeks help from an old family friend and patient, a minor Nazi official.

But the official's wife scolds him. "You can't endanger your career," and the doctor is sent away.

It drives home a point that makes the systematic murder of the Jews all the more terrifying. In the 9 1/2-hour "Holocaust" on NBC, the Nazis are pictured not so much as monsters as petty bureaucrats worried about careers and promotions.

Killing the Jews as expeditiously as possible simply becomes a career-advancement opportunity. Although the film also shows the Nazi party attracted bullies and people anxious to make the Jews scapegoats for their problems.

"Holocaust" air on NBC on four consecutive nights beginning at 8 p.m. EST Sunday with a three-hour episode. It follows the lives of two families - one Jewish, one Nazi - whose paths continually cross.

"Everyone at the network is nervous because of what happened to 'King,'" said James Woods, who stars as Karl Weiss, the doctor's son. He was referring to the three-part series on Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. that finished last in the ratings. "But 'King' was a recapitulation of events we'd already seen. This is a fictional story with a historic background. 'Missiles of October' worked because we never, really knew what was going on at the White House during the Cuban missile crisis.

justification for such perverse conduct. It is a great loss for everybody. We can and we should make "a smoother way," make it as smooth as we can. It is a very undesirable turn of mind that influences us to say and do things, knowingly, for the purpose of making the way rougher for somebody. This is a very unwholesome view of life, and a hurtful concept in our relationship with our fellowmen; and it hurts us, too.

THERE ARE MANY TIMES, when we can help make "a smoother way" for somebody; or make it smoother than it would be without our help. We can learn to handle ourselves so that quarreling is kept to a minimum, or eliminated altogether. We can talk and act positively, and encourage others and ourselves; we can find something to approve, because, in most situations, there is more to approve than there is to disapprove. We can be careful about the promises we make, and make only those we now we can keep. There are always many things for which to be thankful, and the thankfulness must be expressed. It is seldom absolutely necessary to find fault, and we can usually find something worthy of praise or commendation.

WE CAN MAKE "a smoother way," if we will really try. In fact, it is almost unbelievable to see how much a thoughtful and encouraging word or action can do to help make the way smoother for those whose lives we touch daily. A beautiful aspect of this type of behavior is in the mutuality of it, because our way will be smoother, too. This is not a trivial consideration, but is actually that which can tilt life toward the most favorable condition. If this isn't done, all else will be something less than its best and some of it will be completely meaningless.

WE MUST WORK to make "a smoother way."

Mrs. Colwell Hostess To Area Club

State-Line (Special) Rosalie Colwell, 209 Juniper St., was hostess to members of the Rosedale Community Club in her home Thursday evening, March 30.

Maxine Brown of Garcia Community served as co-hostess with her sister. Games of progressive "42", canasta and skip-bo were in play during the evening.

President Leonard Mitchell was in charge of a brief business meeting. Marine Mitchell gave a treasurer's report. The group decided to hold their last meeting for the spring on May 4 at the Community Center in Rosedale with no special hostesses and have a pot-luck supper. Musicians Urged To Join Jamboree

Plans are well under way for the "Country-Western Jamboree" scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Odd Fellow Temple at 205 E. 6th in Hereford.

The first musical Jamborees were staged in 1973 sponsored by the Hereford Rebekah Lodge. The shows at that time were known as the "Little Grand Ole Opry" and stemmed from a dream of the late Woodie McDermitt and member of the Rebekah Lodge.

The shows were instigated to give young and amateur musicians an opportunity to perform before an audience with other musicians.

The show is being staged as a memorial to Woodie McDermitt, a long time musician and

Simms Club Women Tour Black House

Members of Simms Study-Craft Club were in Hereford Wednesday for a guided tour of the E.B. Black house, lunch at K-Bob's and a tote painting demonstration in the home of Mrs. Jim Cavin, 316 Elm St.

plus special home remedies dating back to pioneer days.

Persons interested in obtaining a copy of the cookbook may contact Elsie Lloyd, Route 4, Hereford (578-4560) or Mrs. Blankenship, Route 4, Hereford (538-6327).

Following adjournment, members and their guests assembled in the Cavin home for a tote painting demonstration presented by the hostess. Coffee and cake were served.

WHAT'S YOUR PLAN?

Have you ever had a person really unload on you? Probably most of his woes involved other people. When he's through dumping all his rotten experiences and telling you how mistreated he has been by his father, stepmother or whom-ever, don't fall into the trap of sympathizing.

What your friend needs is not to dwell on all these negatives.

Ask him, "What's your plan?" He'll probably retort, "What plan? What are you talking about?" Once he begins discussing his future and what he's going to do, his thoughts will be constructive, rather than destructive.

Knowing what your plan is and how you're going to accomplish it can keep a person actively, pleasantly busy for a lifetime.

Ann Landers Obscene Customer

DEAR ANN: I'm a 52-year-old divorcee—much too old for this sort of thing. I accepted a job as bookkeeper for the husband of a dear friend who has had some bad financial reverses. I'm working at a fraction of my former salary because I want to help him get on his feet.

Our most important customer is an eight-handed idiot. He comes in at least five times a week, follows me around like a puppy dog and makes obscene remarks and passes left and right. The louse is getting bolder and bolder and I have been trying to make a joke of it -- but it's not funny any more. (Never was, actually).

If he wasn't such an important customer, I'd break his face. How can I get him to leave me alone and still be pleasant so we don't lose his business?—Tired Of Running

DEAR ANN: If the future of your friend's business depends on the eight-handed idiot, you'd better lock the doors now.

The man didn't give the firm his account because of you and he probably will not take it away if you chill him -- which you ought to do immediately. The longer it goes on the worse it will get.

DEAR ANN: Thank you for taking the side of the switchboard operator. Since I handle a nine-line board alone I know what her problems are.

I wonder if the average person realizes what it's like to be on a long-distance call when three or four other calls come in at the same minute. The board lights up like the fourth of July and the operator doesn't now which one to grab first.

One wrong move disconnects the party and then you get an awful of some pretty ugly language from the world's highest-paid executives.

When office employees complain about operators listening in on personal calls, you can be sure of two things -- one: the complainer is wasting a lot of her boss's time on her own personal calls, and two: the complainer's private life has some rather unsavory aspects. Sign me -- Many-Fingered Minnie

DEAR ANN: Thanks to you, and to the hundreds of other switchboard operators who wrote, One gal from Monterey, California, referred to me as "The Patron Saint of the PBX." Many operators emphasize that first-rate office employees don't worry about personal calls because they make so few -- and the calls they do make are brief and dirt-free.

DEAR ANN: My husband and I have been invited to a wedding. The daughter of a long-time friend is being married. We will be out of town on the day of the wedding.

My husband insists that we are not obligated to send a gift since we will not attend the ceremony. I believe the mannerly thing to do is to send a gift regardless. Please settle this. After arguing for three days and getting nowhere, we have agreed to accept your decision. -- Sickovit

DEAR ANN: The invitation was sent because they wanted your presence, not your presents.

A wedding gift is a token of friendship—not payment for what you eat and drink. I SAY SEND A GIFT.

Weight Chart Helps One Stay on Diet

COLLEGE STATION -- As a daily reminder to stay on that diet, make a weight chart, suggests Frances Reasonover, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Use graph paper to make the daily weight chart, she explains. Along the left-hand column, write present weight two spaces below the top to give a maximum upward fluctuation of two pounds.

Then, write down one pound weight differences on each line below present weight.

Next, across the bottom of the chart, put today's date under the first line, followed by tomorrow's date, until the chart is filled with day of the month.

Put a circle on the point that intersects present weight and today's date.

Weigh daily at the same time and record the weight on the chart in the same way each day, the specialist continues.

Connect the circles daily. This will give a weight loss--or gain--chart.

The preferred time to weigh is in the morning before getting dressed for breakfast.

Hang the chart in a prominent place near the scale--such as on the bathroom door--as a daily reminder to weigh.

Leave it up until it's filled. To help make the chart a success, practice improved eating habits, Miss Reasonover advises.

If prone to eating too fast, practice improved eating habits, Miss Reasonover advises.

If prone to eating too fast, practice eating slowly and enjoying the food. Chew and savor each bite.

After finishing one-third to one-half of the portion, stop and take a break before finishing the rest.

It takes 20 minutes for the "satisfied" signal to reach the brain from the stomach. The longer it takes to eat, the less food it will take to feel full, she says.

To help slow down eating, lay down the fork between bites. Cut another bite only after the previous bite is completely chewed and swallowed.

FAITH EXPOSES THE UGLY FACE OF GREED

The compulsion to acquire more and more material wealth becomes a chronic disease with many of us, which seems to worsen with the passage of time, and the flames of greed are fed by its own successes. Friendships can be destroyed and even close relatives have turned against each other over this worst form of selfishness; while additional earthly punishments take the form of impaired health and higher taxes. Faith in God is sorely needed to help us regain our perspective and to see the true values of life. Regular attendance at the Church of your choice will teach you that the only real wealth is the love of God, which will provide you with all the material things you will ever need.

There is no Wealth but Life.

Entrepreneurs Hard To Teach

NEW YORK (AP) - They're difficult to teach, those enterprising people who create and manage businesses, assuming worries and often great risks in exchange for self-expression and profit.

They don't read very much, said William McCrea, himself an entrepreneur. They don't write much either. They're impatient. They demand hard facts, and they're wary of those who provide them.

Bill McCrea teaches entrepreneurs, and he teaches others how to teach them too, which is a lot more than most business schools have been able to accomplish. In fact, many colleges don't even make the attempt.

While still a student at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, McCrea helped found Tech Films Corp.

The young men understood their technology, but little else. To survive, they sought management information. They didn't find it in schools; they got it from other businessmen. A matter of credibility.

Tech Films was a success, although it long since has become part of other companies, a common fate of successful high technology companies run by people perhaps more eager to innovate than to manage.

Born on an Ohio farm, he returned to that state and headed The Ohio Entrepreneurship Office, designed by businessmen and funded by the state. It taught Ohio colleges how to teach aspiring business people.

McCrea now spends 70 percent of his time running The Entrepreneurship Institute. The other 30 percent as head of Phoenix International Corp., which helps small American companies build businesses abroad.

The institute, which McCrea founded in Columbus two years ago as a nonprofit corporation, now has corporate and individual members throughout the United States and in 20 other countries.

Based in Columbus, its whole focus is in identifying business development resources in communities throughout the world.

"In large measure," he said this week, "we've instituted a modern version of the ancient guild system, whereby established business people share their knowledge and experience."

Here to develop a June 10-11 seminar for the Northeast, McCrea was going through his usual routine, setting up a committee of educators, bankers, investors, entrepreneurs, attorneys, accountants, inventors.

No idle dreamers are wanted. The two-day course, which cost $295 here but less in other cities, deals with reality, and attendees are made to develop planning programs for their businesses.

And survival skills. McCrea observes that entrepreneurs sometimes ask desperate questions, such as "How do you meet the Friday payroll when there's nothing in the till on Thursday afternoon?"

The Rev. and Mrs. Richard Clymer and sons John, Tommy and Daniel, who are moving to Crownpoint, N.M. next week to serve as a pastor and missionary on the adjoining Indian Reservation and the Crownpoint Baptist Church, will be honored with a farewell reception, Sunday evening at 8 p.m. following church services.

All residents of this area are urged to attend this social activity and show their appreciation to the Clymer family for serving the Rosedale congregation for the past four years.

Louis Sorensen and Jim Box of Portales, N.M., returned Saturday after spending the past three weeks in southern New Mexico on a mining expedition. Mrs. Kate Sorensen was a guest in the home of a friend Mrs. Ruth Ridley while her husband was gone.

Sunday afternoon guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C.L. Hutchins and Mrs. Mollie Reese included Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Monroe of Amarillo, Mrs. Emma Cassidy of Farwell and Roy Ford. Mrs. Reese was ill over the weekend, now showing improvement.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Caton and her sister Vivian Linahan of Clovis, N.M. visited Monday in Farwell in the home of Bill Linahan and helped him observe his 83rd birthday.

A political rally will be held at the Walcott School 7:30 p.m. April 22nd sponsored by members of Messenger Home Demonstration Club. A pie and cake auction will be held. Members of the extension club will serve cookies and coffee, free to all residents attending.

All residents are urged to attend this social activity and get acquainted with the candidates and friends. Mrs. S.N. Thweatt is president of the Extension Club and gives a cordial welcome.

A former Farwell graduate Joe West, has set the date for his marriage to Shelia Marie Baldwin.

Carter Tinkering With Inflation Remedies

WASHINGTON (AP) - Whenever he turns on the problem of inflation, President Carter has himself concerned. He has ruled out the most drastic of remedies, and steps that might help economically will hurt politically.

So the administration is tinkering, with limited options. The roots of this dilemma trace back to the campaign when, in simplest terms, Democrat Carter said jobs were his top economic priority and suggested that a mild case of inflation would be an acceptable price to pay for putting people back to work.

The trouble is that the case isn't mild any more. Carter's administration officials acknowledged that the inflation rate this year is likely to be 7 percent, one point above their original estimate. Some independent economists say it could go higher.

The public-and in this election year that means the voters-are increasingly concerned about the rising cost of living. An Associated Press - NBC News poll showed that 49 percent believe that inflation now is a bigger national problem than unemployment. Thirty-nine percent said jobs were the more important.

That is a reversal of the priorities reflected in a similar poll three months ago. Carter came to office with an economic game plan that included some of the elements of his current program. Among them: close monitoring of inflationary trends, an effort to reform government regulations that add to consumer costs, and strict antitrust and consumer protection measures.

He also came with a promise to balance the budget by the end of his four-year term, but that commitment has been amended into a goal to be sought some time in the future.

For some time, Carter said he would stand by authority to impose wage and price controls even though he said he would not invoke them. He said he would like to have them for leverage.

But before the inauguration, in a gesture to a jittery business community, Carter said he would not ask for that power even on a standby basis.

No recent president has been able to figure out what to do about inflation on more than a short-term basis. The wage and price controls imposed by Richard M. Nixon kept the lid on while they lasted, but the spiral began anew as they were phased out.

John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson had sought wage and price restraint under voluntary guidelines, without compulsion, but with White House pressure. But at Johnson's jawboning couldn't hold the line when the economy boomed.

Gerald R. Ford used to veto his effort to curb inflation, on grounds that excessive government spending was driving up the cost of living.

Carter's major offering so far has been a voluntary program, unveiled a year ago, that he said would clearly identify wage and price targets without imposing guidelines, and certainly without compulsion.

Daniel D. Emmett, the composer of "Dixie," first performed the tune along with Bryant's Ministers at Mechanics Hall in New York City on April 4, 1859.

Zero-Plus Dialing Due In May

Zero-Plus Dialing--a faster method of making operator-assisted long distance calls--comes to Hereford May 20 according to Gary Terry, manager for Southwestern Bell.

Terry emphasized that One-Plus dialing is still the cheapest method of calling long distance but the Zero-Plus allows much faster telephone service on other long distance calls.

Terry said that Zero-Plus also offers customers more accurate, machine-recorded billing. The service is used when making person-to-person, collect or credit card calls, calls billed to a third number or calls from pay phones and hotels/motels.

"Zero-Plus Dialing works much like One-Plus," Terry added.

"The customer dials zero, then the area code unless it's the same as his and then the distant telephone number."

"When the customer finishes dialing the call, an operator will enter to obtain information needed to complete the call. The operator leaves the line as soon as the call is completed."

Southwestern Bell has invested several million dollars to bring the service here and to establish a centralized system for handling the calls throughout West Texas, Terry added.

The basin that created Japan's 300-mile-long Inland Sea is believed to have been formed by geological faults that split a single land mass into what are now the islands of Honshu, Kyushu and Shikoku, reports National Geographic.

MTM Alumni Begin Shows Saturday

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Saturday night, two alumni of the Mary Tyler Moore works - Ted Knight, her ex-anchorman, and David Groh, ex-husband of "Rhoda" - will start their own comedies on CBS.

Knight now runs a six-lady escort service in New York. Groh's "Another Day" concerns the effect on his two-child family when the mother Joan Hackett decided to rejoin the job market.

"The Ted Knight Show" is decidedly the better effort, if only because it features the same sharp timing and gently exaggerated brand of humor that made the MTM show such fun to watch.

It also has welcome echoes of the bumbling character Knight once played as he now essays Roger Dennis, whose escort-service motto is: "Wherever you go, we want to go with you."

Saturday's opener revolves around a strike by his lovely employees. They seek extra battle pay for hostessing time annual, all-male "Wolves Convention," full of noise, strong drink and worse.

Last year, as one hostess recalls with a shudder, "They made us get up on the roof and bay at the moon."

Pshaw, Knight says: "I once had to jump out of a cake at a lady Teamsters' convention ... wearing nothing but whipped cream and a hard hat." He rejects their plea for some bucks.

A strike ensues, the chief Wolf, called "The Leader of the Pack," warns of dire consequences if Knight doesn't provide the hostesses, and Knight is forced to audition apprentice escorts.

One, a gum-chewing cookie, informs that "if some slob makes a pass at me, I'm gonna hit him in the chops." If the guy's rich, though, "I'm gonna pick him clean as a whistle," she adds.

And so it goes, with a negotiator for the strikers (Cissy Colpitts) at one point claiming she needs the extra money because her dog "has mono."

Alas, the plot by Barry Rubinstein thins at this point and the humor suffers a mild case of the feebles.

But the cast is first-rate, with deft support work by Miss Colpitts, by another escort played by Janice Kent, and by Iris Adrian, cast as Knight's peppery old secretary.

In short, the potential for a hit is there, despite the script flaws.

In "Another Day," Groh plays an advertising executive beset with much suspicion as his wife (Miss Hackett), who recently has begun work at an insurance company, comes home drunk after a "baby shower."

Prior to this, you get a look at the rest of the tribe and their woes. Hope Sumner plays Groh's widowed mother, Lisa Lindgren his teen-age daughter and Al Eisenmann II his 12-year-old son.

They do their best, but the plot is labored, likewise the dialogue.

In the finale, the show erupts in a long barrage of shouts between Groh and Miss Hackett. When a comedy has to shout, you know it's in trouble.

Orbison Ready To Continue

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Singer Roy Orbison, who has suffered his share of tragedy, considers himself lucky that he underwent open heart surgery in January.

"I am very, very lucky," Orbison, 41, said in an interview. "Without immediate attention, I could have had a massive coronary. I'd have gone on tour in Australia in February and it could have happened there."

Orbison, best known for hits like "Pretty Woman," "Only the Lonely" and "I'm Crying," was hospitalized 10 days in January after the four-hour arterial bypass operation.

"I just went to the doctor and she said I'm 'halfway there,'" Orbison said. "I feel fantastic other than being a little sore. It's going to be full speed ahead. I'll be able to go as strong as I was."

He plans to resume road dates on weekends only in May. Then he hopes to do a 30-day cross-country tour in June, a Canadian tour in September, a British tour in October and an Australian tour in December or January.

Warriors in Position To Clinch Playoffs

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

"This is what we've been waiting for," said Golden State Warrior star Rick Barry. "to be in a position to win two games and be in the playoffs."

The Warriors maneuvered themselves into that position when they defeated the Portland Trail Blazers 115-96 Thursday night. The victory, coupled with Cleveland's 117-105 defeat of Milwaukee, moved the Warriors into a tie with the Bucks for the final playoff berth in the National Basketball Association's Western Conference. Golden State plays a home-and-home series with Seattle this weekend while Milwaukee hosts San Antonio tonight and visits Boston Saturday.

Barry had 20 points but the Warriors hero Thursday was Phil Smith, who scored 22 points and handed out eight assists, including four in a 10-0 Golden State tear in the third period.

The Blazers still are without center Bill Walton and forwards Bob Gross and Lloyd Neal. Johnny Davis scored 21 points for Portland.

In other NBA games, New York outlasted Detroit 129-125 in overtime, San Antonio topped Kansas City 123-116, Denver beat Phoenix 111-105 and Washington defeated Boston 112-103 in a game at Providence, R.I.

Texas' Moret Wants 'To Go'

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - The sometimes turbulent World Champion New York Yankees arrive today and can take comfort that their opening day opponent, the Texas Rangers, have their morale problems, too.

Moody lefthander Roger Moret, who had a spat recently with several other members of the Ranger pitching staff, reiterated Thursday he wanted to be traded or released.

Why? Moret wasn't specific but said "I'm no troublemaker. It's a long season and I didn't come here to fight. I came here to play baseball."

Moret, a fireballing 28-year-old Puerto Rican, was sweet-talked by club official Eddie Robinson Thursday. It paid no dividends.

"I'll be gone in 24 hours," said Moret.

Majority owner Brad Corbett said "I'll give Roger a big kiss. Everything will be OK."

But it wasn't.

"I want to go," said Moret. Moret was scheduled to be a spot starter and long reliever for the Rangers. He said he had no quarrel with Ranger Manager Billy Hunter.

"I don't have any complaints with the way I've been used," said Moret.

Hunter said he thought everything had been smoothed over with Moret "for now."

"Roger said nobody likes him," said Hunter. "I told him, 'Roger, I like you.'"

Robinson said "I told Roger he had done real well. When you have 25 guys on a team, not everyone can get along."

Moret had a 3-3 record last year and has a buzzing fastball that's tough on lefthanded hitters—like the Yankees.

The Yankees work today but the Rangers were given the day off.

Ron Guidry of the Yankees will face Jon Matlack of the Rangers before what is expected to be a sellout crowd of 41,065 fans and a national television audience Saturday.

Matlack came to the Rangers from the New York Mets and has sparkled during spring training.

"Matlack has been super," said Hunter.

If Moret leaves, it would leave the Rangers in a big hole. Lefty Paul Lindblad was recently put on the disabled list for 21 days.

But Hunter was typically unflappable.

"I believe we will survive," he said.

SEATTLE (AP) - The Seattle Mariners have signed catcher Bill Plummer to a AAA contract with their San Jose club of the Pacific Coast League, a team spokesman said.

Plummer, 31, who hit .137 with Cincinnati last season in 51 games and is best-known for being Johnny Bench's longtime backup, was released by the Reds in spring training this year. He had played with Cincinnati since 1970.

Chicago Super Fan Ready for Season

By HOWARD ULMAN
AP Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) - The baseball wars are under way and Bob Rosenberg, Chicago's fan for all seasons, is ready.

He's a season-ticket holder, but not your ordinary kind.

Rosenberg, 37, says he's held season tickets to the White Sox since 1961, the Bears since 1956 and the Black Hawks since 1959. And he's seen every Bulls home game as official scorer and statistician since they began playing in 1966.

When the White Sox open their season against Boston this afternoon he and his wife can be found in Box 40, Tier 10, Seats 14 and 15 at Comiskey Park, the same spots they occupied last season.

"I'm looking forward to it," he said of the new campaign. "I cut out all the spring training box scores from the paper. I paste them in a book. I've been doing that for years."

The balding, bespectacled delicatessen worker probably will get into more White Sox home games than most of the players. He expects to spend about 70 days during the next six months at Comiskey Park, an average of nearly three days a week.

Does he ever get tired of all that baseball that he could be watching on television from the comfort of his suburban Skokie home, a half hour from the ballpark?

"No, not when they're winning. When they're losing, yes," he says.

Rosenberg says his two tickets cost him $10 for each of the 78 home dates, a total of $780. But he says he may make that back by selling old programs, ticket stubs and other items to fellow collectors.

"I got a lot of old stuff that doesn't go very cheap, like old Bear programs from the early '30s," he says. "I bought them for 25 cents or half a dollar. They would go for $10 or $15 alone. And if you put it up at an auction you might get $100."

The Chicago native says "I really couldn't tell you" how his obsession with sports began. He says he was about 12 years old when he first went to games and 20 when he became statistician for the Chicago Packers of the National Basketball Association.

"Some friends have asked me, 'Don't I get tired of it?' and you do, especially when the weather is bad and you have to drive to the Bulls game or Hawks game in the snow," he says.

But he adds that his wife of four years doesn't mind that she married a sports nut.

"She goes to all the ball games and keeps score, too," says Rosenberg. "There are times I don't feel like going to a ball game and she wants to go."

They often take pictures of players which they give to the subjects, sometimes in exchange for a bat. Rosenberg collects those also.

And how will the White Sox do this season?

"I always pick them for first every year. I think they improved defensively and that's what really hurt them last year," he says.

Despite that rose-colored, debatable prognosis, Rosenberg appears right on target when he assesses his checkered career as a fan:

"There's nobody who goes to as many events as I do."

Dickey, Jones In Special 100

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) -

Saturday heroes Curtis Dickey of Texas A&M and Johnny "Lam" Jones of Texas are among nine sprinters invited to run in a special 100-meter dash Saturday at the Texas Relays.

Jones, an Olympic gold medal winner, was an all-Southwest Conference flanker for the Texas football team last year, and Dickey rushed for nearly 1,000 yards as a halfback in the A&M Wishbone-T offense.

Both are sophomores. Jones won the 100 meters last year with an amazing hand-clocked time of 9.85 seconds, but has not run in a meet this year following a muscle pull in Texas' Jan. 2 Cotton Bowl loss to Notre Dame.

Dickey won the NCAA indoor 60-meter race earlier this season.

The presence of Jones, who ran on the United States' winning 400-meter relay team in the 1976 Olympics, was credited last year with attracting a record relay crowd of 18,000-20,000 for the Friday night-Saturday meet.

Nevertheless, to bolster attendance the meet has been switched for the first time to Saturday-Sunday.

In addition to the 100-meter race, which climaxes Saturday's events, there are world-class performers in the discus and pole vault.

Ken Stadel is ranked fifth in the world in the discus with a throw of 222 feet 9 inches.

Larry Jesse, former vaulter for Texas-El Paso, has jumped 18-3 while 1976 Olympian Terry Porter has gone 18-2.

Sam Walker, the former star at Southern Methodist and a member of the Olympic weight-lifting team, has the best mark of 66-9/16 in the shot put.

Another 1976 Olympian, Len Hilton, is entered in a special mile race Sunday.

Texas-El Paso, the NCAA indoor team champion, is rated the best of the 46 schools in the relays.

Three men have coached in four Super Bowls, Tom Landry of Dallas, Don Shula of Miami and Baltimore, and Bud Grant of Minnesota.

Only two third basemen have won American League batting titles, George Kell of Detroit in 1948 and George Brett of Kansas City in 1976.

Program Rejects Hayes After Arrest

By DEBORAH WOOD
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) - A national youth athletic program has severed its association with Bob Hayes following his arrest on drug charges.

The Olympic gold-medalist and former Dallas Cowboys wide receiver, once known as "the world's fastest human," was arrested with business associate Bob Adler in a north Dallas suburb Thursday on drug-related offenses.

Hayes, 35, a vice president of Dycos International, Inc., was charged with delivering cocaine and quantities to undercover officers. Adler, co-owner of the firm, was charged with delivery of cocaine.

Mitch Head, a spokesman for Hershey Foods Corporation in Pennsylvania, called Hayes' arrest unfortunate.

"Due to this incident, however, we do not feel that it is appropriate that he continue his association with our national track and field youth program," he said.

Hayes was released on $30,000 bond and Adler on $15,000 bond. Officers said the arrests followed three months of undercover investigations.

As he left the jail Thursday, Hayes called the incident "a mistake."

"I never dealt with it. I've never dealt in cocaine. I don't know what they found in my apartment," he added.

With his voice quivering, Hayes said, "I'll have a statement to make in the future, not today, but soon."

Hayes won two gold medals at the 1964 Tokyo Olympics and his 400-meter relay record still stands.

The fleet Hayes spent 10 years as a wide receiver for the National Football League's Dallas Cowboys. With 76 touchdowns, he is the leading scorer in Cowboy history. He also remains the team's top all-time receiver with 358 catches for 7,177 yards and punt returner, with 1,147 yards on 102 returns.

Hayes has been involved in the youth program as a coach and consultant.

He was scheduled to travel to several major cities to meet and coach youngsters involved in the Hershey program, which he said gave youngsters a chance to participate in track and field events in an atmosphere of goodwill and sportsmanship.

A recent press release from the National Track and Field Hall of Fame said Hayes expected the nation's youth to produce a successor to his title as "the world's fastest human."

The 1936 National Football League championship game between the Green Bay Packers and Boston Redskins was played in the Polo Grounds in New York.

When the Chicago Bears swamped the Washington Redskins, 73-0, in the 1940 NFL title game, 10 Chicago players scored touchdowns.

Cavaliers 117, Bucks 105

Cleveland remained tied with New York for the fourth best record in the Eastern Conference by winning for the seventh time in eight games. Jim Chones scored 27 points and Campy Russell had 16 of his 20 points in the second half for the Cavs.

Knicks 129, Pistons 125, OT

The Knicks tied a club record with 40 assists. Butch Beard handing out nine and Jim MacMillian eight. Detroit rallied from a 14-point fourth-period deficit to tie the game on Eric Money's jump shot with 24 seconds remaining. Lonnie Shelton scored six points in overtime for the Knicks, who were led in scoring by Bob McAdoo with 26 points. Money finished with a career-high 39 points.

Spurs 123, Kings 116

San Antonio scored 41 points in the final period to blow past Kansas City. It was the Spurs 52nd victory and 31st triumph at home, both club records.

Nuggets 111, Suns 105

Denver tied Phoenix for the second best record in the Western Conference with its victory, keyed by David Thompson's 28 points and Dan Issel's 27. The Suns, who trailed all the way, were led by Walter Davis' 29 points and Paul Westphal's 28.

Bullets 112, Celtics 103

Elvin Hayes scored 16 of his 21 points in the second half for the Bullets, who allowed Boston to cut a 20-point deficit to four late in the game. Boston's Ernie DiGregorio scored 24 points, 22 in the second half.

Everything 'In Place' For Cincinnati's Morgan

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

A home run, two doubles and five RBI. How's that for openers?

"Everything just fell in place," said Joe Morgan after his hitting spree led the Cincinnati Reds to a wild 11-9 victory over the Houston Astros on the opening day of the National League baseball season Thursday.

The high-powered performance by the Cincinnati second baseman highlighted the traditional NL opener at Riverfront Stadium that also included a triple play by the Astros, three rain delays and an early knockout of Reds pitching ace Tom Seaver.

"I did a lot of things correct today," Morgan understated after stamming a first-inning solo homer off J.R. Richard, a two-run double in a five-run fifth and a two-run double in the seventh.

Morgan's big day came on the heels of a dismal spring training performance during which the two-time Most Valuable Player could only manage three hits in 35 appearances. He said he regained his eye shortly before game time in the batting cage.

"I took 10 swings and I knew it was there," Morgan noted.

The triple play during the rain-plagued game came in the seventh inning, long after Seaver and Richard had been knocked from the box. The Astros pulled off the play when Dan Dreisner struck out as Morgan and George Foster were both cut down attempting to execute a double steal.

"I never realized it was a triple play," said Houston shortstop Roger Metzger. "This is my third triple play in the majors, but this was my strangest."

In the only other action in the major leagues Thursday night, the Minnesota Twins edged the Seattle Mariners 5-4 in an American League game. Rain postponed two American League openers - Baltimore at Milwaukee and Toronto at Detroit.

Morgan ignited a Cincinnati comeback after Houston staggered Seaver for five runs in four innings. Trailing 5-2 in the fifth, the Reds tagged Richard for five straight hits, three of them doubles, and took a 7-5 lead. They added two runs each in the sixth and seventh, with Morgan belting the hit that drove in the eventual winning runs.

Dale Murray turned in a fine relief performance for Cincinnati, pitching three strong shutout innings before tiring in the ninth. The rain delays totaled one hour and 42 minutes and by the third one, the sellout crowd of 52,378 was noticeably thinned.

Right-hander Roger Erickson, making his first big league appearance, limited Seattle to five singles in 6 1/3 innings and Roy Smalley and Willie Norwood each drove in two runs to lead Minnesota over the Mariners.

The 21-year-old Erickson, a non-roster player in the Twins' camp this spring, was relieved by Tom Johnson in the seventh inning. Johnson wild-pitched home a run in Seattle's two-run rally, then gave up a home run to Ruppert Jones in the ninth before nailing down the game.

The Twins, who lost 3-2 to the Mariners in the major league opener Wednesday night, took a 1-0 lead in the first inning on Smalley's home run. They added three more runs in the second on Norwood's two-run double and Smalley's RBI single. Rod Carew's RBI single in the ninth provided the Twins with their fifth and eventual winning run.

"Even though it was my first game, I wasn't too tight," said Erickson. "I didn't feel at all nervous. I didn't throw as well as I should have - I was getting behind too many batters. I usually try to get a strike on the first pitch and go from there. I wasn't used to the mound. It dropped off a little more than the one I'm used to. Maybe that's why my control wasn't as good as it should have been."

Johnson had similar feelings about his night's work, even though he performed well when he had to.

"I didn't feel very sharp tonight," he said. "It took me a while to find out what pitches were going to work against them. It took me too long."

He looked all right to Minnesota Manager Gene Mauch, though.

"I put Johnson in at a critical situation," he said, "and knew that I had to stay with him. I need Tom Johnson this year."

In the final day of exhibition play Thursday, the Kansas City Royals took a 4-1 victory over their Fort Meyers Class A farm club behind a strong seven-inning pitching performance by Jim Colborn and the New York Yankees defeated the University of Alabama 6-0 as Catfish Hunter and Sparky Lyle combined for a no-hitter.

Captive Audience

HHS head football coach Don Cumpton makes a point to a group of grid hopefuls Thursday afternoon. The new Herd mentor is looking for 120 prospects for the team next season, and will get a good look at a majority of the candidates when spring training begins here May 1. Meanwhile, these and other gridders are going through conditioning drills in anticipation of the spring workouts. (Brand photo by Bob Nigh).

Herd Linksters Try To Lengthen Lead

Despite predictions of soggy conditions by the weatherman, HHS athletes again face a busy slate of activity this weekend. The Hereford boys' golf team traveled to Plainview this morning with the spotlight on them as they tried to expand on their lead in the District 4-4A race.

Coach Terry Russell's linksters owned a 21-shot lead over second-place Monterey heading into today's round, the fifth of six loop encounters. Senior Kelly Kitchens had a three-shot buge in the individual race as well.

The Whitefaces led the district with a 1251 total after four rounds, while the Plainsmen trailed with a 1273. The Coronado Mustangs were not out of the race for a team berth in the Region 1 tournament, trailing Monterey by just eight shots heading into today's action. Defending loop champion Plainview was fourth at 1296, while Lubbock High was far back at 1406.

Hereford's single fem linkster, Barbara Scott, was also on the road today as she sought to repeat her loop title in a round at Lubbock. Miss Scott trailed Plainview's Ann Horne by one shot after two district rounds, 175-176.

The boys will finish the district rounds at Hereford April 21 with a date at the Amarillo Relays next week, while the loop fems close out their competition at Plainview next week.

On the home front Saturday the Whiteface baseballers will face defending loop champ Monterey in a double-header beginning at 1 p.m. at Whiteface Field. The Herd stands 0-2 in the district after dropping 3-1 and 3-0 decisions to undefeated Plainview Tuesday. The Plainsmen are 2-0 after slapping Coronado 3-0 and 6-0.

In other district action Saturday Plainview (2-0) has a date with Lubbock High. The twinbill is the first loop action for the Westerners.

On the track scene the Whiteface boys will be on the road Saturday at San Angelo, while the HHS fems will be at a meet in Borger. Stanton and La Plata's girls will join the high school girls at Borger, while the 7th and 8th grade boys from the local junior highs faced each other beginning at 4 p.m. today in a dual meet, and the Stanton and La Plata freshman boys are set to run at Pampa Saturday.

'Royal Kangaroo' To Meet Destroyer

"Lord" Jonathan Boyd, the Royal Kangaroo, will try to continue his winning ways this Saturday night, as Lions Club wrestling brings the Super Destroyer against the Australian's vicious attack in the main event, at the Bull Barn. Boyd is a squat 245-pounder who has regularly demolished foes since his debut here. The Super Destroyer is a powerful 250-pounder from Los Angeles, and has not been unmasked in nearly nine years. Like Boyd, he believes in winning by any means.

Mexico has sent some of her fastest men to wrestle in the semi-main. Hermes, an outstanding light heavyweight, joins El Vikingo against Bobby Pico and Carlos Mata. Pico is the only American in the match.

Vikingo and Mata clashed here before in one of the most exciting single matches ever seen at the Bull Barn. The youthful Pico has given considerable trouble to many super heavyweights, while Hermes derives his name from Mercury. The Greek god of speed.

Don Fargo, the Bronx Bomber who sports an American Nazi Party swastika on his tattooed shoulder, will clash with Rip Hawk. The 230-pound Hawk, a former wrestling coach, brings a wealth of experience against the muscular Fargo, who also tips the beam at 230. Fargo has had experience as a street brawler while riding with a motorcycle gang.

In last week's matches, Boyd beat Scott Casey in the main event after a rugged exchange of falls. Romero beat German's Hans Schroeder on a disqualification when Oliver Humperdinck, the manager, interfered in the match. Roger "Nature Boy" Kirby lugged out over towering newcomer Randy Morse in the second event of the evening, while former collegiate great Dennis Stamp had to settle for a draw with Hawk.

Morse is a 6-6 265-pound native of Denver who plays tackle for the University of Southern Colorado at Pueblo. Under modern collegiate rules, a man may be a professional in one sport and an amateur in another.

Wrestling action at the Bull Barn will start at 8:30 p.m. Saturday.

Birdie String Propels Schlee Into Masters Lead

By TOM BRETTINGEN
Associated Press Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) - The string of four birdies that gave John Schlee a one-stroke lead in the opening round of the Masters Tournament started with a rope.

Schlee will need more than a rope to hold back the challengers that are within four strokes of him. The second round gets underway today at the sunsoaked windblown Augusta National Golf Club.

Schlee, a 38-year-old Texan who left the tour for a country club job last year, fired a 68 Thursday.

At 69 was Joe Inman, who, feeling weak because he forgot to bring his seeds and nuts, bogeyed the 17th hole to fall out of a tie for first. At 70 were Lee Trevino, who is experimenting with a hook for this tournament, and Bill Kratzert. Tom Kite, who tied for third here last year, was at 71 along with Jerry McGee and Steve Melnyk.

Many of the most dangerous shot-makers in the 80-man field were at even par. Jack Nicklaus, Tom Weiskopf, Gary Player, Hubert Green and Jerry Pate were among the 12 players at 72. And at 1 over par were defending champion Tom Watson, four-time Masters champion Arnold Palmer and Hale Irwin.

The lead belonged to Schlee, though, and it started on the dangerous 12th hole. Many players consider the par-3, 155-yard hole over water the most difficult on the course. Thirty-five scores of bogey or worse were recorded at the hole Thursday, including an 8 by Danny Edwards. Eight players birdied it, including Schlee.

And he had to use a rope. "The card says 155 but I've hit the wrong club so many times that I decided to find out how far the doggone thing was for sure," said Schlee, a self-proclaimed disciple of Ben Hogan. "So last year before the Masters I took a gallery rope and stretched it from the ball washer to the right-middle of the green.

"It is 155 yards, which is what they tell you, but doing it myself made me feel a lot more confident."

That confidence plus a strong 7-iron put him 12 feet from the hole. He sank that putt. Then he scored a birdie by 2-putting the par-5 13th and sank a 12-footer on 14 and a six-footer on 15.

Schlee has had his erratic career interrupted three times by injuries.

He was the tour's Rookie of the Year in 1966, then missed the top 60 money-winning list until 1971. He won the Hawaiian Open in 1973, but was forced off the tour by a back operation in 1975 and a knee operation in 1976.

He tied for eighth at the Masters last year, but hurt his thumb and left the tour last summer to become golf director at a club in Brownsville, Texas. An adjustment in his swing, suggested by fellow pro Mike Morley, cured his thumb and he played in a few tournaments to tune up for Augusta.

Inman, a slim 160-pounder, has rapid metabolism and a voracious appetite. He usually carries nuts and seeds in his bag.

"I was starving," he said after discovering he had forgotten to replenish the energy supply in his golf bag.

Trevino, who knocked in birdie putts of 3 and 4 on the 16th and 17th holes, said he'll be hitting hooks in addition to his normal fades to the greens this week.

"I'll use the middle of the green as my target," he said. "If the pin is to the left, I'll draw the ball. If it's to the right, I'll cut it. I know it's better to be consistent, but hitting fades every time hasn't worked here before so I might as well try this."

Kratzert was only one shot off the lead after 36 holes here last year before going out of contention with a third-round 78.

Nicklaus and Watson, who battled until the 72nd hole last year before Watson could claim the victory, were disgruntled with their putting in the opening round.

"The conditions were rather difficult," said Nicklaus, a reference to the swirling winds and difficult pin placements.

Watson felt the same way. "It was a miserable day on the greens for me," he said. "I hit enough good shots to be a couple under par."

Weiskopf, a four-time runner-up at the Masters, preferred to talk about his playing partner, Severiano Ballesteros.

"The first time I saw him hit a ball was on the first tee, and he hit the nicest, firmest 300-yard drive into the wind that I've ever seen," Weiskopf said of the 20-year-old Spaniard who's dominated golf in Europe for two years.

"He plays with reckless abandon. He rips it. I want to tell you. He tries to cut all the corners and goes for every pin. He's got a lot to learn, but he's going to be a phenomenal player," Ballesteros shot 74, along with PGA champ Lanny Wadkins.

At 72 were Lynn Lot, Leonard

Thompson, Wally Armstrong, Gene Littler, Don January, Dave Hill and Mac McLendon.

Lee Elder was in the group at 73. Lou Graham and Ben Crenshaw were at 75, former Masters champion Ray Floyd at 76, and Johnny Miller at 77.

NEW YORK (AP) - Martha Cooksey of Orange, Calif., winner of last month's International Women's Marathon Championship at Atlanta, has become the first entrant and assigned No. 1 for the New York Mini Marathon, to be held June 3.

The Mini Marathon, a distance of 10,000 meters or 6.2 miles, is expected to be the biggest women's running event in the world. A field of more than 2,000 is expected, according to Fred Lebow, president of the New York Road Runners Club.

In 1972, the first year of the race, only 78 runners competed. Cooksey, 23, a former student at Cal State-Fullerton, beat a world class field at Atlanta, winning in 2 hours, 46 minutes, 16 seconds.

The race is sponsored by L'eggs Product, a division of Hanes Corp.
