Candidate's Wife Campaigns

Bitsy Hill, right, wife of gubernatorial candidate John Hill, visited in Hereford this morning as part of a West Texas campaign in behalf of her husband. Mrs. Hill held a brief press conference and visited with citizens and supporters at the Hereford State Bank community room. Mrs. Hill said she started helping with the campaign last November and has been "on a fulltime schedule" for several months. She was to attend a luncheon in Dimmitt today and then step for receptions in Plainview and Matador. [Brand photo]

000 LEST ANYONE should get the wrong idea from criticisms in this column, we don't hate the President of the United States and we're not calling for his impeachment ... vet. He's our president and, besides that. I voted for him. We've complained about his actions from time to time, primarily because we don't believe he's following through on his campaign promises. There's not much sense lingering on the Panama Canal give-away, but in case you missed the speech by Rep. Jim Collins on the House floor- and recorded in the Congressional Record-it's too clever not to pass on. Even before the treaty was approved. Rep. Collins called on President Carter to hold a referendum in Texas to allow citizens of the Lone Star State to decide whether the Texas Annexation Treaty of 1845 should be renegotiated.

Collins cited extensive research he conducted into the events surrounding the 1845 Texas Treaty and concluded that as President Carter has negotiated the 1903 Panama Canal Treaty-the Texas Treaty ranks at the forefront as the next

"Historial record clearly illustrates the suspicious and questionable manner in which Texas was taken over through U.S. imperialism," the Congressman said. He pointed to the similarities between the Texas and Panama Canal treaties, noting that in both cases the U.S. took advantage of a new, small nation that had split from a bigger nation. He pointed to the fact that there was worldwide expressions of outrage when the U.S. took over Texas.

We read Congressman Collins' speech as mostly a "tongue-in-cheek" blast at the President. What was really interesting to us, however, were quotes from newspapers and Congressmen about the annexation of Texas at the time. We don't recall studying those opposing views in Texas history. Following are some of the quotes from 1844 and 1845 entered into the

American Agriculture Dissenters 'Excommunicated' by Leaders

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - The top echelons of the American Agriculture movement stripped itself of dissenters Tuesday as one official was removed from his position and two others were threatened with removal.

The Monday session of some 2,000 delegates and supporters of the organization-promoted farm strike at the state fairgrounds dwindled to a motel gathering of about 150 Tuesday as the meeting continued for an unscheduled

The leaders approved a plan to remove dissenters from American Agriculture top committees, and immediately voted to remove Utah delegate Randy Marble from the organization's Senate legislative lobbying committee. Marble, who was not present, was accused by fellow members of failing to represent the farm strike adequately in Washington.

They also threatened to remove K.B. Brown of Illinois and Benny Fartesi of Arkansas from top committees, but decided instead to appoint an additional delegate to each of the committees on which they serve

The plan to deal with dissenters provides basically that the conference may remove any committee delegates with whom it is displeased without giving any reason.

"I say that anybody that doesn't represent the goal of American Agriculture - that they should be excommunicated just like the Catholics." said delegate Don Adams of Lake City, Fla. "We've got to get centralized."

Briscoe, Hill Trade Slashes

By The Associated Press

Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe said today that Attorney General John Hill "may turn out to be the last of the big promisers in Texas politics for a long time to come."

The governor said he is able to make that prediction because "I expect the voters on May 6 to make it clear they are tired of being used as pawns in political power games."

"It's time to lower the taxes paid by Texans. Instead of that, John Hill favors lowering the boom," Briscoe continued. While Briscoe was predicting victory, Hill claimed that the governor is using governmental forces to harass Texas teachers. Briscoe also said Hill is using inflation as a crutch for his spending

With less than two weeks to go before voters must decide the issues and select their favorites, the race for the Democratic Party's gubernatorial nomination continues to dominate the campaign scene.

Hill said Tuesday that he was confident Briscoe was behind efforts of a House subcommittee to subpoena tapes made by Briscoe and Hill in talking with the Texas State Teachers Association's political Breakfast will be served on a trial basis beginning next Monday to high school and junior high students, according to Larry Wartes, asistant superintendent of the Hereford Independent School

The breakfast program will be permanently instituted in all Hereford public schools beginning in the fall in order to assure the school district's continuation in the national school lunch program.

"In the national school lunch program, it's mandated that we go into the breakfast program by September, 1978," Wartes said. "We want to run about a month on a trial basis in junior high and high school.

The trial run will give school officials an idea of the amount of student interest in the breakfast program. In the elementary-school breakfast program, which has been in effect for 11 years, there are approximately 900 students who

We have about 3,200 students who eat lunch in all our schools, including the secondary schools," Wartes said. "About half of those elementary kids who eat lunch will eat breakfast.

A survey conducted by Wartes and HISD food service director Trudie Gray showed that there are approximately 100 students at La Plata Junior High who would eat breakfast if it were offered, 60 at the high school and 54 at Stanton Junior High Breakfast might become an attractive thing to the high school kids. This should be something they will enjoy.

Breakfast, which will consist of meat or a meat substitute, bread or cereal, fruit or juice and one-half pint of milk, will be served from 7:50-8:10 a.m. in the junior highs and 8:10 5:30 a.m. in the high

White Schedules Campaign Visit

Mark White, candidate for state attorney general and former secretary of state, will land at the Hereford Municipal Airport at 11:50 a.m. Thursday then will meet with supporters over lunch at the Caison Steak House.

The announcement of White's campaign visit was announced by Tom Burdett, Deaf Smith County campaign coordinator for the candidate.

White, a Democrat from Dallas, resigned as secretary of state last year after announcing his candidacy for attorney general. He has been endorsed by most members of the Dallas County Bar Association and the Hereford Bar Association, Burdett said. White, an attorney, will be at the Caison Steak House from 12-12:30 p.m. Thursday

WIFE To Have Political Rally

The Hereford Chapter of Women Involved in Farm Economics (WIFE) and Sugarland Mall merchants will host a political rally at the mall Saturday from 2-4 p.m. All local candidates have announced plans to attend the rally, according to Susan Hicks, WIFE president. "We invited state candidates to attend as well but they declined our invitation.'

Mrs. Hicks reported. The public service project being conducted by the two groups will give local voters an opportunity to become better acquainted with the candidates and their stands on various local issues.

Coffee and donuts will be served during Saturday's rally.

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Soviet embassy official says President Carter acted too hastily in rejecting President Leonid Brezhnev's offer for a joint U.S.-Soviet ban on the neutron bomb.

"If I had been the president, I would have thought about it a little longer." Vladillen M. Vasev, deputy ambassador with the Russian embassy, said at an embassy reception here late Tuesday.

At a news conference earlier Tuesday. Carter had described Brezhnev's offer as being "of no significance."

Vasez said Carter's statement was "too quick, much too quick. Neither side needs that kind of weapon in our arsenal."

Brezhnev, denouncing neutron weapons as "especially inhuman," had suggested mutual cancellation of the weapon in a televised address throughout the Soviet Union

"We too will not begin production of neutron weapons so long as the United States does not do so," he said.

At his news conference Carter said, "The Soviets have no use for a neutron weapon, so the offer by Brezhnev to refrain from building the neutron weapon has no significance in the European theater, and he knows this.

"This statement by Breznev concerning the neutron weapon has no significance at all." he said.

Carter had said last month he would defer U.S. production of neutron weapons if the Soviets would show restraint in their own arms development.

The president made it clear that Brezhnev's offer isn't the sort of restraint he had in mind

Administration officials have said on past occasions that what the president is looking for from the Soviets would be something like a cutback of their large tank forces or a scrapping of their new SS-20 missiles, which could hit targets in

The neutron bomb is a nuclear weapon designed to inflict battlefield casualties with radiation while limiting blast damage. Its proponents say the weapon would offset the Warsaw Pact's nearly 3-to-1 numerical advantage over NATO

Opponents of the weapon contend it would make the use of nuclear arms in a European conflict more likely.

On another matter, Carter said congressional failure to enact his $25 billion tax cut would cost each American family $600 and cost the nation one million jobs. He rejected the idea, advanced by members of his own party in Congress, that such a large tax cut would spur further inflation. The Treasury Department actually has estimated Carter's proposal in the range of $24

Following Carter's news conference, Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said he has not changed his view that the tax cut should be smaller than Carter seeks.

"I'm flexible, but at this time a smaller cut looks more reasonable," Ullman said. "The final decision will be made in the fall when the economic indicators will be more exact.'

Carter also delivered an emotional defense of his tax revision proposals against the accusation that they would (See CARTER, Page 2)

Explosion Witnesses Won't Talk

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - State Rep. Joe Hubenak says his legislative committee may have to go behind closed doors to obtain testimony from persons concerning reasons that might shed some light on recent grain elevator explosions.

Hubenak said several witnesses have expressed fear of financial reprisals because of pending lawsuits stemming from the recent blasts, especially from insurance companies who might refuse The committee faces an Oct. 1 deadline and is scheduled to hold six hearings similar to the one conducted here Tuesday before it reports its findings to the Legislature. "Witnesses have come up off the cuff to give information," said Hubenak, "but they are afraid to do it on the record."

The Rosenburg lawmaker indicated the committee may have to seek special permission to conduct closed-door (See ELEVATORS, Page 2)

Rural-Development Program Lacks Solution Process

WASHINGTON (AP) - The federal government's infant rural-development establishment needs a process for developing solutions to problems rather than producing an abstract "rural policy," the official who heads it has told his congressional overseers. Assistant Agriculture Secretary Alex Mercure told the Senate rural-development subcommittee on Tuesday that a problem-solving framework is hard to develop among the layers of federal, state and local governments, but that it still is more realistic than a countryside version of the administration's "urban policy."

Coordination is his chief role under the law, Mercure said, and "I have rarely found it possible to coordinate in the

"Given the diversity of rural America, I have doubts that any overall policy could be sufficiently detailed yet flexible enough to provide specific guidance to all those concerned with rural development," Mercure said.

"Second, I am convinced that to provide effective guidance, policies must be formulated by those who will be involved in their execution."

Also, "a broad 'rural policy' would generate a level of expectation impossible to meet, given the economic and political realities we face." Mercure added.

Above all, he said, "I don't think for one moment that we will ever 'solve' all the problems of rural America for all time. Each problem we solve will be replaced by another problem, even if our solution doesn't generate a new one....

"To me, change is inevitable, so we must develop a process for formulating policies which takes this fact as a given. The One and Ultimate policy approach...is simply too ponderous to be sufficiently responsive to the dynamics of change.'

Mercure said that two conditions he has been working on for a year must be met before the approach can work: the Farmers Home Administration must be restructured and retrained to handle federal-state-private negotiations on problems, and state and local governments must be helped toward positions where they can fully participate in the decisions.

Coordinating the various programs scattered among federal agencies so far has been difficult and "will continue to be challenging." Mercure said, but

President Carter's involvement and backing "is improving our effectiveness."

At the same time, he said, "it is not much easier to change the direction of an established line agency Farmers Home than it is to get independent agencies to work together."

Despite a two-page list of remaining hurdles, Mercure said he was excited and optimistic. "It has been a busy year, sometimes frustrating, some exciting, sometimes satisfying, always

College-Grant Checks Show Many Cheating

WASHINGTON (AP) . More than one-fourth of the first students applying for federal grants to cover college costs this year are being rejected by a computer programmed to catch cheating.

.The new computer check for inconsistencies or omissions has resulted in turning back more than 200,000 of the first 800,000 applicants for so-called basic educational opportunity grants, according to Ico Kornfeld, who is HEW's student aid director

Kornfeld called the figures "amaz-

The rejected students are given a chance to submit corrected applications, he said in an interview, but these will be submitted to extra scrutiny.

By a "conservative" estimate. Kornfeld said, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has been paying out $100 million to $150 million annually to students who were ineligible for the grants or who got too much

The bulk of the money goes to students who underestimated their families' income, he says.

Now, if the information on the application about a family's income doesn't square with the amount of income taxes paid, the computer kicks it out. It then rejects any application containing information that appears hard to

The comments came Tuesday a day before the Pentagon was to announce what it wants to do with some military installations scattered around the country, in at least in 20 states.

The objective is to save about $300 million a year by closing some bases. cutting back manpower at others and consolidating training camps and other activities.

As an overall goal, the idea of increasing military efficiency and cutting back on waste isn't very controversial. But when the goals turn to action - as in closing a base in a congressman's district the problems begin.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., was one of the first to speak out. Seven of the targeted bases reportedly were in California

Cranston said that would mean a net reduction of 11,720 personnel in California, 2.333 of them civilians. He said he expects "the federal government to make every effort to ensure the continued employment of the civilian personnel affected. I expect to see the government live up to its full responsibility in this case.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) Legislators spout off about child abuse but won't vote the funds to do something about it, a county commissioner has told lawmakers.

Call Says Moro Freed Near Rome

ROME (AP) - A Rome newspaper received a telephone call today saying Aldo Moro's kidnappers had freed him on the outskirts of Rome after 41 days of captivity. Police rushed to the spot and found no one, but continued to search.

The anonymous caller, a woman, told [] Messaggero: "We have set Moro free along the 21st kilometer of Via Pontina near a farmhouse. Search for him there."

Police sped to the area in squad cars and helicopters. There was no indication the caller had mentioned the name of the Red Brigades urban terrorists, who seized the former Italian premier March 16 in a Rome street ambush.

Hundreds of hoax telephone calls, claiming Moro has been killed, have been received since then by news agencies and newspapers. Il Messaggero has received calls telling its reporters where to find Red Brigades' written messages later judged genuine, but there was no immediate evaluation of the authenticity of the latest call.

It came after gunmen shot a leading Christian Democratic politician in the legs this morning, and another anonymous caller to Il Messaggero said the attack was launched by the Red. Brigades.

They asked voluntary release of the tapes "so that everyone concerned can take whatever commitments were made. if any, into consideration before they are called on to select their candidate for governor.

Nugent, D-Kerrville, produced two

Both testified about the one "in-service" day a year allowed teachers for meetings of TSTA and other professional organizations.

Bynum said if every teacher and administrator took the day, it would cost about $14 million a year. Local districts have the right to disallow the paid day off for such meetings.

"Not all teachers belong to the same associations," Davis said.

This means, he said, "that every time we let a group of teachers go, we are faced with the expense of additional inservice at home or hiring substitutes."

Davis also said, under questioning from Nugent, that it costs districts money to deduct dues for TSTA and other groups from teachers' paychecks.

History Expert Says Crockett Executed

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (Ap) - Any Texan worth his ringtail lizard-skin cowboy boots and Willie Nelson albums knows better than to smear the legend of Davy Crockett.

So what's this?

A past president of the Texas State Historical Association, no less, saying that Crockett might have surrendered and was executed at the Alamo?

And adding that the legendary Tennessean might have had a dismal career in Congress, failed financially and was motivated to go to the Alamo for less than courageous liberty-loving

But Dan Kilgore - author of a new book entitled "How Did Davy Die?" said he's got evidence to back up them . fightin' words.

'Crockett's heroism seemed to expand in direct proportion to the distance news had to travel about him," said Kilgore, a Corpus Christi accountant and history buff.

Legend and the history books have it that Crockett, a famous bear hunter, frontiersman and congressman, came to Texas to fight for Texas independence and died a heroic death at the Alamo.

The first published account to suggest that Crockett might have been captured instead of dying in battle came in 1975 in the translation of the diary of one of Mexican Gen. Santa Anna's staff members during the Alamo siege.

The diary of Lt. Jose Enrique de la Pena included a paragraph that indicated Crockett surrendered or was captured and then executed when the Alamo was seized on March 6, 1836.

That notation aroused righteous indignation in the Texas press and

And there's more bad news, folks. Kilgore said in his book that there is a preponderance of evidence to substantiate the de la Pena notation.

Kilgore said six other Mexican soldiers support de la Pena's story that Crockett was one of several Texans paraded before an unmerciful Santa Anna, who ordered the Texans quickly shot.

Among those is Ramon Martinez Caro, Santa Anna's personal secretary.

"Statements from these seven Mexican soldiers were mutualy corroborative and were recorded independently under widely differing circumstances," Kilgore emphasized.

"Their accounts have come to light over a long period of time, several having surfaced only recently. Any one of them, standing alone, could be subject to question, but considered as a whole, the statements provide stronger documentation than can be claimed for any other incident during the battle."

Kilgore goes on to contend that Corckett's death at the Alamo "came as a tragic finale to a life that was essentially a failure in achievement of worldly goods.'

"He died a poor man with an undistinguished record as a congressman," added Kilgore. "Throughout Crockett's rise to prominence as a national figure, political enemies defeated him at every turn, although both major parties used him as a symbol at various times and employed the national press to establish that

Kilgore said Crockett actually came to Texas because of the shame he suffered when he was defeated in his 1835 re-election bid to Congress.

The chief factor in Crockett's defeat was his "passionate opposition" to Andrew Jackson, Kilgore said. He pointed out that James Shackford, a Crockett biographer, believed that hatred may well have had a bearing on Crockett's decision to go to the Alamo.

Crockett found himself on the opposite side of the political fence with, Sam Houston, commander-in-chief of the dominant Texas forces and Jackson political ally, Kilgore said. Houston, however, was said to be unable to exercise control over the command at the Alamo.

"Shackford believed that Crockett" joined the Alamo defenders to demonstrate further opposition to the Jackson forces that had defeated him in Tennessee and not with any idea of dying for the liberty of Texas," added

LONGVIEW, Wash. (AP) -Twenty-eight years ago, Moulton B. "Molt" Taylor thought his flying car would revolutionize transportation.

President Uses Canal Tactics For Passage of Tax Program

WASHINGTON (AP) - Presi- 35 percent approval. dent Carter and his advisers believe they succeeded in mobilizing public opinion in the drive for the Panama Canal treaties, and now they're trying the same game plan in efforts to overhaul the tax code and the surprise that they plan concerted drives to solicit and nurture public approval of Carter's ambitious and controversy-laden proposals to overhaul the income tax system and reorganize the federal civil service.

Although Carter, his Cabinet and senior assistants spent much of their secluded weekend in the Maryland mountains talking about what's wrong with the administration, the prolonged battle for Senate ratification of the canal treaties was cited as a bright spot. And as a model for future efforts.

It was no coincidence that within minutes after Powell met with reporters. Carter gave his blessing to a privately sponsored citizens committee that will solicit support for his tax revision package.

The optimism of Carter and Powell avowedly reflects their opinion that a mobilization of public opinion brought about a dramatic shift in voter attitudes toward the canal treaties. But was that the case?

Back last August, an NBC News poll indicated 55 percent opposition to the signing, while 27 percent approved. In the months that followed, the poll figures fluctuated widely.

A Gallup poll on the amended treaties in February showed support from 57 percent of those questioned. A Louis Harris Survey on the same issue in March showed support by a 44 percent to 39 percent margin.

But on the simple question of vielding the canal to Panama. without mention of amendments to guarantee American rights. the AP-NBC News poll continued to show majority opposition.

Thus, in March, after the Senate had ratified the first of the two treaties, the survey showed 55 percent opposition.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) -Doyle "Texas Dolly" Brunson, the defending World Champion of Poker, was once told that cancer would kill him in three months. That was 14 years ago.

more times 'n most folks have hairs on their head," said the bald 300-pound former athlete, who hails from Sweetwater, Texas and holds a masters in administrative education.

He said beating cancer made him looser with his bets, since the value of money paled beside the value of life. Indeed, he once bet $180,000 on the outcome of a golf game. He lost, but won the money back that night playing

"After my operation I became a real good player," he said. "I'd been moderately successful before, but I found I could play looser and freer when the bucks didn't mean so much."

Brunson walked away with the $220,000 winner-take-all pot at the 1976 championship, and took home $340,000 in 1977 by beating 34 pros.

He and other top players - including Bones Berland, Amarillo Slim and Sailor Roberts are looking ahead to this year's event, which begins April 25 at Binion's Horseshoe Casino. But the real action, the World Championship hold 'em game in which each player requires a $10,000 stake to get into the game, is set for May 16-18.

Jack Binion, president of the Horseshoe, says he expects about 300 or 400 players to attend the entire event, with only about 40 contenders in the World Championship. He said the big game will be televised by CBS to air as a "Sports Spectacular."

There is also a separate Women's Poker Championship set May 13 which requires a $200 stake, although women are welcome in the World Championship. Binion notes one reason few women get into the big game is the high stakes and another is that traditionally poker hasn't been a woman's

Little Miss Pageant To Offer $25 Bonds

Each of the four winners in the May 20th Little Miss Hereford Pageant will be awarded a $25 savings bond, it was announced yesterday following a meeting of the contest steering committee, Chamber of Commerce Women's Division.

The junior pageant is open to girls aged 3-years-old through ninth grade, who will be judged by three out-of-town residents.

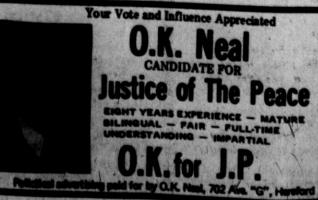

It was revealed by the steering committee that more than 100 entry forms had been given out by the Chamber office to interested mothers, but not all of these have been returned. Deadline for entry is May 5.

It was decided that Susie McGee will serve as mistress of ceremonies at the Little Miss Pageant, to be held on the stage of Hereford High School auditorium. Providing special entertainment will be two Hereford boys, Quinton Renfro and Craig McCuistian.

Directing the production will be Nanah Braly.

Contest categories will include Cutest Miss, open to ages 3-5; Miss Petite for ages 6-9; Little Princess for girls ages 10-12; and Miss Junior High for seventh, eighth and ninth grade girls. There will be no talent competition and winners will not advance to further contests. Entrants will be allowed to wear long or short dresses.

Telephone manufacturers recently received a boost from a Federal Communications Commission decision to eliminate the need for a phone company coupling for extension phone installation.

The decision permits direct retail sales of phones.

For the consumer, this means that the phone that is in their home does not have to be bought or rented from the phone company, the specialist adds.

However, until more consumers are aware of this new option. the majority will probably continue to buy or rent from the phone company, she says.

Bride-Elect Should Choose Flatware with Future Spouse

COLLEGE STATION - Both partners should make the choice of flatware when marriage plans are in the making, says a family resource management special-

Following several steps will mean a satisfying choice for both, according to Linda McCormack.

She suggests, first, identify individual needs by considering Examine possible alternatives

Consider money available to spend for flatware and other tableware perhaps already chosen. Then make a choice using the guidelines below on type and pattern.

GUIDELINES

No matter what type of flatware a couple chooses, the pattern will probably "catch their eye" first.

Pattern is simply a matter of personal taste.

Once a pattern seems like a possible choice, ask these questions:

· Does it feel comfortable to Pick up several pieces to get the feel of the weight, size, and balance of each piece. Some pieces are so narrow, they cut into the finger.

· Are the edges smooth and even? Is the design free of imperfections?

· What serving pieces are available? Different manufacturers include different serving pieces. Be sure the serving pieces fit • Is the pattern open stock?

This means that the patterns will be available indefinitely. since the manufacturers retain the original dies from all their patterns and then make old patterns available periodically. * For dishwasher cleaning, is the pattern suitable? The base of pieces should be broad enough to keep from falling through the cutlery basket and interfering with dishwasher operations. . Does the effect of the total place setting enhance the dinnerware and glassware it will appear with? WHAT TO LOOK FOR IN

DIFFERENT TYPES

Once a pattern answers "yes" to all the above question, it needs a careful study to ensure quality, that will last a lifetime. Different factors mean quality for different types, which include stainless steel, sterling, silverplate, gold electroplate and bronzeware.

Below are some quality factors for each.

STAINLESS STEEL

Look for stainless steel called 18-8. It contains 18 percent Chromium, eight per- lifetime with normal use. cent nickel--a good grade of stainless.

· Balance of the knives is important.

A solid-handled knife may be so heavy that it cannot be balanced on a plate. Consider the hollow-handled type if you prefer a large handle. * Be sure it does not tarnish when used with foods that contain sulphur, such as eggs and mayonnaise. * Remember, choices include a bright polished finish, a dull satin finish or a combination of STERLING

Recycle Clothing quality and lowest prices during For Spring, Summer newspaper ads for ideas or ways

COLLEGE STATION--Recycle clothing for an economical new spring and summer wardrobe, suggests Marlene Odle-Kemp clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

But, before deciding to recycle a garment, consider these steps: -First decide what is wrong with the garment. If it's too small, too short or the wrong style, consider recycling it. If it is the wrong color and not worth recycling for yourself, consider giving it to someone -- Next, decide if it's worth recycling. Examine the fabricsee if it's worn or in good condition and still fashionable -Also, look at current styles fashion magazines and to recycle. -Then, decide what to do to make the garment wearable. -- Consider time, sewing skills and money involved to recycle. Can the changes be made within the garment or will extra fabric, notions or trim have to be purchased? Will another garnent have to be bought or made to wear with the recycled gar-

After considering these points, decide how to recycle that garment into something new, the specialist adds.

Wichita, Kan., named after the Wichita Indians, was found-ed in 1870, and became the shipping point for cattle herds driven up from the Chisholm Trail.

. The word "Sterling" stamped on the back of a piece is assurance that it meets the government standard for solid silver. • Sterling II is a name given to flatware that has sterling handles, but stailness fork tines, spoon bowls, and knife blades. Since it is a combination of two metals, each must be cared for differently. Ask about care. · Look for H.H. (hollow handle) knives.

* Real sterling will last a lifetime, and will never need replacing. * Temporary discoloration caused by eggs, mayonnaise and salt can be removed with silver polish.

SILVERPLATE

• The quality depends on how the base metal (inside) is finished before it is plated (coated), the amount of silver in the plating and how well the

The amount of silver used in plating varies from "A-1 plate" -- which is standard measure--to "Quad-plate" which is the best quality and will last a · Better quality silver plate has extra silver at the points of greatest wear--the bottom of the spoon bowls and fork tines and perhaps the tips of the handles. GOLD ELECTROPLATE * The more gold that is added the better the grade.

It is dishwasher safe, and does not require polishing and will not tarnish.

It is an alloy made chiefly of copper and tin, a brown. vellowish-red-yellow in color. • It may be treated with a tarnish retardant finish, otherwise it will tarnish. * The handles may be made of rosewood or bone, which require special care, and usually cannot be put in the dishwasher.

Price Daniel for AG

Price Daniel Jr., who restored public confidence in Texas government probably more than any one else following the Sharpstown bank scandal, deserves to be the next state attorney general.

Daniel, speaker of the Texas House of Representatives when he introduced legislation to prevent future situations similar to the Sharpstown scandal, said then--and now reiterates-that the best government is an open and accessible one.

Daniel's program included the ethics and public financial disclosure acts, the campaign finance disclosure act, the open meetings act, the open records act and the lobby registration and control

We believe, based on Daniel's House record and legal experience acquired during 11 years of law practice and as an associate professor of law at three colleges, the young candidate from Liberty County deserves serious consideration during the May 6 Democratic primary.

Daniel has won many state and national accolades for his political expertise and good sense. Being the son of an excellent former attorney general, governor and U.S. senator has provided Daniel with good ideas, including ways to curb bureaucracy in Texas state government, tackle inequities in the property-tax system and reduce utility bills.

We hope that Deaf Smith County voters help to give Daniel the opportunity to continue an excellent public-service career by nominating him for the state's most important attorneyship.

While each government knows the other is doing this, intelligence officials are extremely close-mouthed on what kind of methods they use in sensitive situations, and what kind of results they achieve.

These officials contend that public disclosure of methods and results is likely to tell the Russians much about the effectiveness of U.S. intelligence. This could lead to Soviet countermeasures, the specialists sav.

Defense officials did say that no radio distress message was received from the Korean plane and no radio call was sent to it from U.S. sources. They did not eleborate.

There are indications that Norwegian radar detected that the South Korean airliner had entered the Soviet air space, yed to U.S. officials.

Sources at the U.S.-Canadian North American Air Defense Command headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colo., said the Korean plane was about 1,000 miles outside the range of

For the 25 years he has been barbering in his little shop in this rural middle Tennesee town, his landlady, Glera Armstrong, charged him just $30 rent a month, including a living space in the rear. But Mrs. Armstrong died last November, and on Saturday her relatives sold the building which houses

Borren said he bid $15,500, but it was not enough. High bidder Hal Larimer, a Woodbury funeral director, who paid $20,500, said he had no immediate plans for the building but considered Borren a friend and said they will reach some agreement.

But Marshall testified that he and Attorney General Griffin Bell have an understanding about the assistance that the Labor Department will provide to the government's organized crime "strike forces."

Several federal prosecutors who testified Monday about the extent of labor racketeering around the country said there was a severe shortage of special labor Department investigators assigned to the effort.

Sen. Sam Nunn. D-Ga.. acting subcommittee chairman, today charged that the government's labor-management racketeering investigations seem "to be in a state of suspended animation."

"Based on yesterday's record, the Labor Department's commitment to the strike forces - for whatever reason - has obviously been totally inadequate." Nunn asserted.

Marshall announced last week he is creating a new Office of Special Investigations, and giving the office chief responsibility for overseeing the department's racketeering investigators.

In his testimony, Marshall was more cautious in estimating the influence of racketeers than Justice Department prosecutors were Monday.

"I've not seen the evidence that is compelling to me that the problem is more pervasive than was 20 years ago," he said.

Several prosecutors told the subcommitte Monday that racketeering is on the upswing 20 years after a Senate committee first exposed the situation to public view in widely publicized hearings.

Justice Department lawyer Thomas Puccio told the panel Monday that ". . . many of the individuals whose names first surfaced during those hearings in the late 1950s are today principal figures in illegal labor activities now under investigation. . .

Willig and long-time friend Matous, 23, a professional guide now living in Boulder, Colo., were paid by ABC-TV, which sponsored the climb for its "Wide World of Sports."

Portions of the climb were telecast live - including Willig's dramatic fall - on Saturday and Sunday. The network also extended its Sunday show to television the two climbers reaching the top.

That raised questions about ABC's involvement, such as whether the network controlled the schedule so the climbers would reach the top during live coverage.

Matous's brother, Ron, noted that the climbers risked a night climb - they went about 200 feet between 7 p.m. and 1 a.m. Saturday night - because they "thought they were behind schedule.

The nighttime climb was possible because there was a full moon and the climbers wore helmet lamps.

Larry Kamm, who directed the "Wide World of Sports" segments, said before the climb on Friday that the network "in no way, absolutely no way, would . . . interfere with their climb. This is a sporting event, a happening. We just record it."

business and home. And the prices are staying. "I don't want to ever raise the price of my haircuts," the balding Borren said.

Borren said his ornate leather-and-wood barber chair is probably older than he is. Other than an electric trimmer for fine work along the neck, Borren sticks to oldtime tonsorial tools - the straight razor, comb and scissors - because they are cheaper, he said.

He taught himself the barber's trade years before actually going into business. He got his start one day when his brother needed a haircut. After that, Borren's the barbershop and a flower home was busy with people coming for haircuts.

For years, he said, he ha worked six days a week, 10 hours a day, taking only one holiday a year - Christmas.

Five other barbers work in Woodbury, but competition has not been a problem, he said. "There's enough for everybody...I've got enough to do. I reckon I cut about 20 heads a day," he said.

And he added one last comment: "I want to cut hair until I'm 100."

The dramatic story of Pete Gray is resurrected in William B. Mead's lively book on "the zany, true story of baseball in the Early Forties." the World War II years, entitled "Even the Browns."

Nearly a full chapter is devoted to the gritty, determined Gray, and it brought back memories of the handicapped athlete's struggle in the minors before he graduated to the remarkable, pennant-winning St. Louis Browns.

Gray, whose real name was Peter J. Wyshner, was born in Nanticoke, Pa., a grim, scruffy coal-mining town near Wilkes-Barre. Pete's father was a miner of Lutherian descent who changed the family name to 'Gray.'

We are indebted to author Mead for these early details of the ball player's life:

When he was six years old, Pete Gray hopped a farmer's provision wagon, fell off and caught his right arm in the spokes. The arm was mangled and had to be amputated above the elbow.

Gray was intent on playing professional baseball. Although right-handed, he learned to bat from the left side. While his right sleeve dangled empty and useless, his left arm grew in strength.

He had a superb batting eye. Lean and quick, he mixed line drives with well-executed bunts, mostly down the third base line. He dragged others past the

Earl Gets His Chance

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - Earl Campbell was sitting in a training room at the University of Texas nursing an injured knee in 1976 when word came down that Tony Dorsett had won the Heisman Trophy.

"I told myself 'I'm going to win it," Campbell recalled later. True to his word, Campbell led the nation in rushing and came within one game of taking Texas to the national championship last year to follow in Dorsett's footsteps and earn the coveted collegiate honor. Campbell apparently will continue to parallel Dorsett's career by becoming an instant millionaire when the Houston Oilers make him the No. 1 pick in next Tuesday's National Football League draft.

Dorsett, who also toils on Texas soil as a member of the Dallas Cowboys, last season became only the eighth rookie in NFL history to rush over 1,000 yards. Now it's Campbell's turn to prove himself in the pros and he says he's already benefitted from Dorsett's experiences. "He's told me that it's not a very easy transition," Campbell said Tuesday as he visited Houston for the first time since the Oilers made a deal with Tampa Bay for the No. 1 pick. "He said the pace is faster, but I think I can make it."

Campbell stiff-arms all discussion of his contract. "I've hired someone to talk about that for me," Campbell said, referring to agent Mike Trope.

Oiler strong safety Currier now wears the No. 20 Campbell has used throughout his career but Campbell said Tuesday Currier can keep the number. "That's not what slips you through the hole anyway,' Campbell said. Campbell made his first trip

James McDowell, who along with Weaver is a co-captain of the team, has also been on a hot streak of late, finishing second in the Amarillo Relays behind scores of 74-77 and carding a three-over 74 in the final district round last week. By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

When the wind is blowing right and the pitchers are throwing right, Arlington Stadium in Texas can be a

"It's nice being back and pitching in this park," the right-hander said Tuesday night after his four-hitter led the Texas Rangers to a 4-1 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

The victory was Jenkins' first for Texas since the Rangers reacquired him from the Boston Red Sox this year.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Oakland A's swept 14 innings; the New York Yankees beat the Baltimore Orioles 4-3; the Boston Red Sox edged the Milwaukee Brewers 4-3; the Cleveland Indians turned back the Toronto Blue Jays 6-5; the Detroit Tigers stopped the Chicago White Sox 8-4 in 10 innings and the California Angels blanked the Seattle Mariners 3-0.

The A's won the marathon second game on Miguel Dilone's run-scoring single in the 14th inning. The game ended five minutes before the AL's 1 a.m. local curfew time.

CINCINNATI (AP) - The war of words in warming up between rival managers Tom Lasorda of Los Angeles and Sparky Anderson of Cincinnati.

Lasorda threw a pregame party for reporters Tuesday night, complete with chilled wine and cheese.

The shindig, which drew more than 20 members of the media and created a World Series-like atmosphere, was an obvious needle aimed at Anderson's recent edict banning reporters from the Cincinnati clubhouse 35 minutes before game time.

"The guys are more than welcome here if they don't have a place to go," said Lasorda, who poured wine and handed cheese to the guests.

The Dodgers manager staged the party after being informed last week that Anderson decided to clear the clubhouse before games saying he was "sick and tired" of the lack of privacy when he wanted his players preparing for the game.

After the crowd assembled in his office and moved to the players lounge, Lasorda said he was holding the get-together to honor members of the Dodgers press crew. After handing out personalized Dodgers jackets to the Los Angeles area writers, he turned to the group and said, grinning widely: "Nice of you other guys to attend. I'm the first two days." The rivalry began last year when Lasorda guided the Dodgers to the National League penant in his first year, dethroning the Reds.

Prior to the party, Anderson sent his own message to Lasorda.

Master Bedroom is Large for One of Four Up.

COUNTRY TWO-STORY INCLUDES TYPICAL SHED PORCH

@ By W. D. Farmer

The wide foyer with open rail stair exemplifies old fashioned country two-story idea. The living room and dining room are separated to the right, and bypassed from day-to-day traffic flow. Both are large, however, and are endowed with extra wall space for furniture place-ment.

Directly behind the foyer the desirable "country" kitchen with large kitchen eating area, access to base-ment, utility space and ex-ceptional food preparation area and food storage cabinets. Built-in appliances are indicated.

The family room is accessible to the foyer, double side entry garage, rear yard and half bath as well as the kitchen. It includes fireplace, front and rear view and abun-dant wall space.

There are four large bed-rooms up, all including good closet space. The master bedroom has private bath with dressing room and the re-maining full bath services the three remaining bed-rooms. Linen storage closet

The plan is also available with conventional front, including stoop shown and cantilevered second floor.

The exterior style shown is country, enhanced by combi-nation brick and horizontal rustic siding, multi-lite shuttered windows and full width shed porch.

The plan is Number 958 B. It includes a total of 1,969 square feet of heated area. For further information write W. D. Farmer, P.O. Box

RNC Charges Carter Failing

day's debate question is a believe Carter has made beauty: Does the United States have a government as good as its people?

It is raised by the Republican National Committee, which says the answer is no, and counts that as a promise President Carter has not kept.

score on Carter's campaign promises and his performance in office. Predictably, the Republicans do not think he is doing very well at keeping his commitments.

The 240-page second edition of the Republican effort to keep book on Carter concludes that he has broken about 20 percent of his campaign commitments. kept about 20 percent and that action is still pending on the issues covered by the rest. The GOP scorekeepers said they set out to produce an objective assessment of Carter's delivery on campaign commitments. He made a lot - 665. according to a White House list issued at the start of the administration. Even if he had not made any more, he would have had to keep a campaign promise every 2.2 days, seven days a week, in order to get through the list in a four-year term.

The Republicans are keeping book on 636, of which they say 111 have been kept and 113 broken. That is handy political shorthand for them, and while the volume is sure to be widely unread, the conclusions probably will turn up in the campaign speechmaking in the congressional election season just ahead.

Not that an assortment of numbers and percentages purporting to show that Carter has not kept his commitments will be all that persuasive in a congressional or, for that matter, a presidential cam-

But there is evidence in the public opinion polls that some people are starting to doubt Carter can handle all the problems he said he would. In a CBS News-New York

Sixty percent said they did not think Carter had made progress toward handling energy problems effectively; 58 percent saw no progress on significantly This judgment turns up in a reducing unemployment; 53 newly published Republican box percent saw none toward making the income tax system more fair. Judgements like that contribute to the declining poll ratings of the way Carter is handling his job. And that is a political problem.

Carter described himself from the beginning of the campaign as a man who could bring competence to government, and who would set clear, attainable national goals.

"As a planner and a businessman, and a chief executive, I know from experience that uncertainty is. . a devastating affliction in private life and in government," he wrote in his campaign autobiography. The problem persists.

WACO, Texas (AP) - Texas, a bald eagle who made national headlines when he hatched April 12, has died, the Centex Zoo has reported. Zoo curator Tim Jones said the eaglet died Sunday night after coughing up a small amount of food. Two veterinarians attended the baby bird but he did not respond to antibiotics. Veterinarian and eagle specialist Dr. Ken Riddle said an autopsy revealed that Texas could have died from latent internal injuries suffered when he fell from his nest a few days after hatching.

AUSTIN - In spite of complaints of soaring property taxes. Texans pay much less in state and local taxes than most Americans.

"Money" magazine drew that conclusion, based on a sample of individual federal income tax returns which included itemized deductions for state and local taxes paid in 1975

Comptroller Bob Bullock's office reviewed the "Money" study in detail in the latest financial report prepared for the comptrol-

That's $463 below the national average of $1,069 and third lowest in the nation.

Texans with adjusted gross incomes between $15,000 and $20,000 ranked 49th in the nation. They reported paying an average of $782. compared to the national average of $1.446

Bullock's report also showed state revenues for December totalling $525.3 million, bringing the 1978 fiscal-year-to-date total to $2.36 hillion. That is 12 percent above collections for the first four months of the previous fiscal year.

State expenditures for December totaled $664.6 million, raising the total for the current fiscal year to $2.6

More Jobs in Texas

The state's unemployment rate for February dropped a tenth of one percent to 5.4 percent. Texas Employment Commission reported.

The commission said Texas labor force in February was 5.8 million, a decrease of 62,200 from January.

Texas insured unemployment rate was 1.3 percent for both January and February, compared with the national rate of 47 percent.

Rates Reviewed

Public Utility Commission members last week held a preliminary hearing on electric rates outlook for Texans. The conference was called mainly to decide who would participate in a nine-day hearing scheduled during June.

The hearings will be the first by PUC to review electric rate structures in general rather than rates of a particular company.

One suggestion came from Senate candidate Joe Christic, establish a single rate for electricity use and eliminate bonus" rates reserved for hig industry.

Commissioner Al Erwin said rising electricity rates are serious problems for retired people and the poor, and an alternative must be sought.

Crop Declines

Texas wheat production this year may drop 37 percent below that of last year, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown predicted last week.

The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service forecasts 73.5 million bushels for the summer harvest, based on surveys from sample field plots in growing areas.

Brown said reduced production should not cause higher bread prices.

Courts Speak

Striking down a Hansford County districting, the State Supreme Court held county commissioners' precincts cannot be "checker-boarded" or divided.

The court of Criminal Appeals concluded a Dallas woman must be tried for welfare fraud, though the legislature changed the law which applied to her case.

A sales tax on motion picture leases by theaters in effect from October 1975 until June 1977 was upheld by the State Supreme Court.

The Third Court of Civil Appeals declined to strike the name of William A. Messer III, a Belton city judge. from the May 6 Democratic primary ballot as a candidate for state representative. Rep. John Bigham of Temple had challenged Messer's eligibil-

The Supreme Court upheld the will of a Dallas widow who left $7,000 to a cat and bulk of her quartermillion-dollar estate to a hospital for crippled children.

Competition On

Gov. Dolph Briscoe announced plans for the new Governor's Industrial Expansion Awards competition. Nominations are being accepted by the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, the Lower Rio Grande Valley Chamber of Commerce, the South Texas Chamber of Commerce and the West Texas Chamber of Commerce through June 30.

A single winner will be picked from each region to be honored by Briscoe with an award presentation. Local chambers will select the best industry from their communities and make nominations to regional chambers.

Short Snorts

Residential construction has slowed down during early 1978, according to The University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

During an Austin press conference. Railroad Commissioner John Poerner said federal legislation allowing for eventual deregulation of natural gas would spur increased exploration in Texas. "Reduction of our reliance upon imports is commendable, but it must be coupled with incentives to produce at home," he said.

Texas Youth Council has authority to use community assistance funds to reimburse recipients of the money for expenses of having outside audits performed, according to a new attorney general's opinion.

The attorney general also held a coin game known as "The Treasure Chest" is a gambling device, possession of which is prohibited by the Texas penal code.

The State Banking Department has received an application for a state bank in El Paso.

Texas Research League says a suit challenging the statewide 10 cent property tax for college construction. if successful might save Texas taxpavers $300 million over the next decade.

The State Board of Education recently suggested the legislature consider repealing laws requiring pupils to take specific courses.

W.K. Harvey Jr. succeeds Jess M. Irwin Jr. as head of the Texas Rehabilitation Commission, which operates with a $74 million a year budget and has 23,000 employees.

AUSTIN - State Insurance Board Chairman Hugh Yantis has taken a stand against an increase in homeowners insurance rates. The board is expected to vote on the matter in June. Board statisticians recommended a 13.1 percent hike which would cost homeowners about $43 million in additional premiums. There has since July 1976. The chairman indicated he may vote for selective increases in some categories but not for a general statewide adjustment.

been no adjustment in rates

At the same time, Yantis announced he is seeking to discourage "deposit term" life insurance policy sales.

And he directed a staff attorney to come up with proposed penalties for insurance firms and agents who sell policies to old people which they do not need or cannot afford.

Yantis said deposit term life insurance cannot be banned, but purchasers can be warned of what they are getting into. Deposits are forfeited if policyholders drop the 10 year policies or fail to make payments. The board chairman said companies and their agents should be made accountable for selling unneeded insurance to the elderly whose judgment as to their requirements may be faulty due to

Penalties for victimizing the elderly could run as high as loss of license, the chairman indicated

Allowable Set

The Railroad Commission ordered continuation of the legal producing rate for most Texas oil fields at 100 percent of market demand for

The finding means Texas wells, with few exceptions, will have wide open producing allowables for the 15th month in a row. Actually, all-out production has been authorized n'e a r l y every month for six years.
