Extension Work Directors Will Visit Here Tuesday

State President, District Agent and Swine Specialist In Group to Inspect Feeding Demonstrations in County.

O. B. Martin, state director of extension work; John R. Edmonds, district agent, and E. M. Regenworch, swine specialist, all of A. & M. College, will be in Deaf Smith county (name it) of next week on a tour of inspection of hog and pig feeding operations being practiced here under the direction of R. O. Dunkle, county agent.

It is planned to form a motorcade of farmers and interested business people to assemble at the court house at 1:30 that day, and go in a body to see the various demonstrations now being conducted. The more important of these are farmers enrolled in the Pork Production Contest; Lester Gayley, Mrs. Bess Turrentine, Minord Koelzer and Horace Hershey, although there are at least a dozen others feeding hogs under the same plan whose places will be inspected the same day.

Those who wish to go with the group as they make the round should get in touch with Mr. Dunkle at the court house, and those who will have room in their cars to take others should so notify him. It is probable there will be other visitors, especially from Amarillo and neighboring counties where interest has been shown in the feeding demonstrations here.

MANY WANT TO CUT THAT 400-ACRE FIELD

The little "want ad" in the Brand last week (and this) asking to locate someone to combine 400 acres of wheat near Hereford and wheatland-pasture the stubble afterward, has kept the Brand force busy answering questions all week. Although the instructions were very plain, most of the interested people took the trouble to come by and ask particulars.

REPUBLICAN MEETING HAS GOOD ATTENDANCE

The called meeting of the Republicans of Deaf Smith county that assembled in the court room last Saturday afternoon was well attended and much interest was manifested in a county organization.

Harry Seed, county chairman, called the meeting to order, and after the singing of America and invocation by Rev. M. J. Johnson, the minutes of the preceding meeting were read by the secretary, N. C. Vogele, and approved. The chairman then had N. M. Bartley preside over the meeting.

Rev. M. J. Johnson, principal speaker of the occasion, who followed the theme of temperance, home life, and the protection of home and preservation of society through upholding the 18th amendment.

RUTH CONKRIGHT WILL GRADUATE FROM BAYLOR

Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Conkright of Hereford, is one of the 232 candidates due to receive degrees from Baylor University at Waco on Wednesday, June 1. Miss Conkright, who majored in English and minored in education, will receive the Bachelor of Arts degree. She is a member of the choral club.

The baccalaureate address will be delivered to the graduating class Wednesday morning by Kirby Page, native Texan, who is now a resident of New York City, editor of the World Tomorrow, and an internationally recognized authority on religious, social and economic problems.

COMMUNITY BIBLE CLASS ATTENDANCE PASSES 100

The Community Bible class that meets in the Star theatre auditorium each Sunday morning at 9:30, had 105 present last Sunday, with promise of a greater number with each following week.

The class is making diligent efforts to reach men who do not attend Sunday school at the various churches, and conducts its lessons directly from the Bible each Sunday. The membership has now exceeded 150, and as one of its members said this week: "The end is not yet".

The object of the class lessons is to make better the individual, and to make the world a better place in which to live, to better establish the brotherhood of man and the Fatherhood of God, where in all people may live at peace with all mankind.

Band Practice Begins Thursday of Next Week

During the school term the high school band has been used as a band for the entire city, since school is out for the summer the band will continue its work as a municipal organization. Members will please observe the above times for the first meetings in getting ready for summer practice.

RAINS STILL WANTED IN DEAF SMITH COUNTY

Despite press reports to the contrary, Deaf Smith county has received little or no rain for so long that crop conditions are very serious. Wheat, production has dropped to an estimated yield of less than 25 per cent of the 10-year average, and rain from now on would do little good except to fill the grains a little better. Harvest will be early, but the lightest the county has had for many years.

Much wheat land is being plowed up for summer fallowing, or to be planted in late row crops, should rains come. Rainy indications of last week passed away, and fair weather prevails this week.

Twilight League Ball Teams Get Down to Work

The playing in the Twilight League baseball games is tightening down to consistent, fast company, and spectators are assured of getting to see some real performances at every game. The crowds grow steadily and the interest picks up from game to game.

Since last week's paper, the Bible Class ducked the Fireman 11 to 6 Friday, the Firemen squelched the Midgets 4 to 3 Monday, and the Odd Fellows scrambled the Lions yesterday 4 to 3.

Mont Baker got peeved last week because the Brand did not mention his superlative (?) hurling for one inning when he shut out the Midgets before being sent to the (dust) showers. Mont claims the Lions did not back him up properly, the Lions claim Mont threw off on them because his nephew struck him out and made a home run off him. Anyway, Mont blew up, went wild and had to be pulled, much to the joy of the Lions and the sorrow of the Midgets.

J. C. McCracken of the Lions suffered a severely sprained ankle in Wednesday's tilt.

Building Ideas Will Prevail In Lunch Program

The monthly luncheon of the Hereford chamber of commerce will be held next Monday noon in the basement of the First Methodist church at which time the associated building industries of the community, under leadership of D. H. Alexander, vice-president of the chamber of commerce, will direct the program.

This will be in keeping with the recent promotional activities of the building industries associated in Hereford to provide labor for local people by repairing, building or remodeling property.

It is proposed that the luncheon programs be discontinued for the summer months following that of next Monday, and the question will probably be settled at that time.

In keeping with the increased activities of the building industry in Hereford during the past several weeks in promoting the repairing, remodeling, papering, painting or refurbishing equipment for property, and the construction of new buildings, a decidedly improved appearance has been made over Hereford and Deaf Smith county.

The movement was started with the idea that any kind of needed building repair or construction would furnish employment for one of the most varied industries here and would put more people to work that any other thing that could be done in Hereford. People who could afford this work have begun giving the question serious consideration, and laborers in building occupations have been busier the past two weeks than for more than a year. The materials for this work, as secured from the local lumber yards, usually make about one-third of the cost, and the remainder goes to pay for the labor of contractors, carpenters, paper hangers, painters, draymen, plasterers, concrete workers, electricians, plumbers, gardeners, and ordinary day labor.

J. A. FOX PROPERTY LOST BY FIRE FRIDAY

The beautiful two-story house in North Hereford, former home of J. A. Fox and family, and more recently occupied by Dr. R. E. Perkins as a sanitarium, was completely destroyed by fire early Friday morning of last week.

Dr. and Mrs. Perkins were sleeping in an upstairs room and barely escaped with their lives. The fire originated on the lower floor and passage down the stairs was impossible when they were awakened by the fire. They escaped by twisting blankets together and letting themselves down to the ground from the roof of the porch.

All their clothing, household furnishings and sanitarium equipment were lost in the fire. They have located in the Mrs. Chas. Jewell home recently built just south across the street from the high school building.

Farmers Petition Protests Truck Driver Fees

A movement among Deaf Smith county farmers and truck owners this week, in protest against the operation of the state trucking law, was brought to a head by the circulation of petitions, addressed to the state highway department in protest against the payment of a chauffeur license for operating a truck of more than one-ton capacity, and a separate license for each member of the truck owner's family over 18 years of age who drives the truck upon the highways. This license costs $3.00.

A peculiar part of the truck law is that no chauffeur's license is required to drive a truck of less than one ton carrying capacity, no matter whether over or under 18 years of age, yet drivers of all the larger trucks must have the license.

Tuesday evening more than 75 had signed the petition and it will undoubtedly have a great many more before the end of the week.

BAPTISTS CONDUCT BIBLE TRAINING SCHOOL HERE

The Bible training school being conducted by the Baptist church in Hereford this week, under the direction of Miss Pauline Wright of Lubbock, is well attended and much interest is being shown in the work, especially among the young people.

Next Sunday, immediately following the close of the Bible training school, the Baptists of Hereford will begin a two weeks' revival. Rev. V. M. Cloyd, who will do the preaching, will then be conducting his fifth revival.

A cordial invitation has been extended to all the people to worship with them at this time, and several pastors have signified their intention of cooperating to the fullest extent, as all are anxious that the series may be a real occasion of sincere religious effort, and community-wide in its effects.

HEREFORD SHUTS OUT AMARILLO; CANYON HERE FOR GAME NEXT SUNDAY

The baseball team that came down from Amarillo last Sunday afternoon received a warm reception at the hands of the Hereford players. Behind Singleterry's masterful pitching, the visitors were shut out 6 to 0, in a most decisive victory.

Next Sunday Canyon will send over its aggregation of baseball tossers, usually no mean antagonists, for a game on the local diamond. Hereford has a fast group of players in the Twilight League from which to select at random, and no doubt they will give the visitors plenty of opposition.

The game will be played on the diamond across the tracks, southeast of the city.

High School Band Group Home Saturday

The high school band with its chaperones and Ralph Smith, director, is expected home from its ten days outing trip through New Mexico some time next Saturday.

Word coming back from them by letters and brought by tourists and mutual friends who have encountered the boys and girls on their trip to the various towns, report them as having a wonderful time and giving some delightful concerts as they go from place to place. The only troublesome feature of the tour to be reported has been some fault with a truck taken along to haul bedding and camp equipment. This was thought for a while might cut the trip short because of the extra expense occasioned by frequent break-downs, but as the band has "turned the corner" and started back toward home now, it is probable the trip will be completed as scheduled.

WOMEN HOLDING MEETING IN HUGE HALL

With a most pleased expression, Tom Gillins stood at the intersection of Main and Third streets Saturday displaying a 4½ pound bass he had taken from the Tierra Blanca. He had a smaller one weighing 2½ pounds he said he caught first. He surely did, for if he had snagged the big one never have stayed any where near the creek for fear it might have got back in.

FORD COMMUNITY CLUB HOLDS EVENING SESSION

Turner entertained at the first Ford Demonstration club party at the home of Mrs. Cramer Saturday night, May 28. A supper consisting of mulligan stew, lettuce salad, chop suey, hot rolls, pie and coffee was served, after which an enjoyable evening was spent.

Those present were Messrs. and Mrs. Earl Dyer, Everett Wiseman and daughter, H. F. Benson and family, F. Benson and family, Harold Wilson, Hugh Knox, W. E. Hawkins and family, Ed Spencer and daughter, O. F. Turner and family and H. Cramer, Mrs. Parks; Messrs. Herman Larson and Doyal Kelley.

Daniel and Mrs. Joe Thurmond of Hereford community are the proud parents of a fine 8-pound daughter, Patsy Ann, born Sunday, May 29.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Black went to Amarillo Wednesday evening to attend a joint musical recital in piano and voice given by their daughter, Mrs. C. E. Burkmyer and Mrs. Robert Wilson.

Press notices Wednesday of this week carried a story to the effect that Marvin Jones, national representative from this district, had proposed that $137,000,000 remaining from the agricultural relief funds set aside by Congress the first of this year, be further distributed among farmers to enable them to prepare their land and sow it for wheat this fall.

Only one-third of the original amount set aside to be used for farm relief was consumed by applications, the other two-thirds is the remaining part Mr. Jones asks Congress to let the farmers use this fall.

His proposition is to let farmers have a maximum loan of $2,000 each to summer fallow wheat land and plant it for next year's crop. Should such a measure be adopted, it will mean much to Deaf Smith county and other agricultural interests of the Panhandle.

FORMER PRESBYTERIAN PASTOR HERE MONDAY

Rev. Jas. T. Ross, former pastor of the Presbyterian church here, was in Hereford this week visiting his nephew, Albert Ross, and family, and other Hereford friends. Rev. Ross and family are on their way to Woodward, Oklahoma, to assume the pastorate of the Presbyterian, being transferred there from Alamogordo, New Mexico.

Rev. Ross stopped for a while to renew old acquaintanceship with the Brand force, and spoke enthusiastically of the Hereford high school band and the concert it gave at Alamogordo last Friday.

EASTER STAR IN PUBLIC INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS

Ferguson in a vocal solo; Edgar Pickett, piano solo; Marlin Gilliland, reading; Miss Martha Duncan, reading; and an address by Mrs. Madge Holley.

Mrs. Chas. Ferguson was installing officer, and the new officers are Mrs. Nora Lawhon, worthy matron; Mrs. Genevieve Ray, associate matron; W. C. Nix, associate patron; Mrs. Myrtle Witherspoon, secretary; Mrs. Ollie Bradley, treasurer; Mrs. Jewel Woodruff, conductor; Mrs. Alice Morgan, associate conductor; Mrs. Bruce Rose, chaplain; Mrs. Bessie Boggs, marshal; Mrs. Myrtle Reed, organist; Mrs. Mattie Burton, warder; F. M. Kester, sentinel.

Following the program, refreshments of punch and cookies were served to the hundred or more members and visitors.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS HAS ALL-DAY MEETING

Last Sunday after church services the Winners' Class of the Methodist church served a lovely dinner at the home of their teacher, Mrs. J. F. Ward. This get-together occasion was in honor of a recent bride, Mrs. Plick Hargrave, who is a member of the class, and many useful gifts were given her. After dinner the girls packed a box for an orphanage at Blakewell, whom they are supporting at the Methodist orphanage at Waco. This class is doing a wonderful work and the girls and their teacher are to be complimented.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Ward, Roy Ward, Mrs. Laverna Harmon, Misses Marie Seed, Opal McMahon, Adeline White, Ruby Johnson, Margarite Brown, Scharline Brown, Beth Millard, Doris White, Nettie Lee Green, Virginia Lillard, Mrs. Terry Rae Blakely.

Mrs. H. K. Whaley and little daughter, Shirley, left Tuesday evening for Weatherford and Dallas where they will visit with home folks for several weeks.

Mrs. Ella Burch of Amarillo was in Hereford Monday visiting Mrs. W. F. Gabbert and transacting business.

Miss Billie Hill, daughter of O. G. Hill, has been over from Canyon this week visiting Miss Marie Seed.

Building Activities Increase as Result of Efforts of Associated Industries

In keeping with the increased activities of the building industry in Hereford during the past several weeks in promoting the repairing, remodeling, papering, painting or refurbishing equipment for property, and the construction of new buildings, a decidedly improved appearance has been made over Hereford and Deaf Smith county.

The movement was started with the idea that any kind of needed building repair or construction would furnish employment for one of the most varied industries here and would put more people to work that any other thing that could be done in Hereford. People who could afford this work have begun giving the question serious consideration, and laborers in building occupations have been busier the past two weeks than for more than a year. The chamber of commerce program for next Monday will be given over to associated building industries of the city, and it is proposed to present to the assembled business people and citizens just how essential building activities here are to the labor situation.

Some of the recent improvements made, as they have come to the observation of the Brand, follow: Mrs. Vanderburgh has re-roofed, painted and papered her rent property at Miles and Sixth streets. Mrs. Emma Jackson has built a modern five-room home on her farm 14 miles northwest of Hereford. Mrs. W. B. Miller has remodeled and redecorated her business property in the 100 block on South Main.

N. E. Gass has repaired and improved his farm home south of town.

The Consumers' Fuel Association has built large concrete coal bins just south of their properties south of the railroad.

The Packard Milling Company has built a 30x40 addition to their flour mill on the south side, and on the north have erected housing for the big engine they brought from Lubbock to furnish power for the mill this fall and winter.

R. A. Frye, at Dawn, has repaired and remodeled his home to make it thoroughly modern, adding bath, kitchen cabinets, built-in features, etc.

Nineteen Years Ago In Hereford

(From Files of the Brand of May 30, 1913)
The Hereford Electric Light and Power Company was an institution of the city and advertising to wire people's homes for electric lights. As a comparison with modern advertising of electricity's benefits, sales argument was devoted to the heat and odor of kerosene lights, and the dim vision afforded by them.
A. C. Barnhart and Harry L. Rice were recognizing the trend of the times and opened up a garage to supplant their blacksmith shop. Not so willing to accept the change the times were bringing, A. L. Sherk was advertising a "first class livery stable" with guaranteed courteous service.
F. H. Oberthier was building a 150-ton Common Sense silo on his farm.
The Stambaugh Cash Store was holding a contest by which a piano was to be given away.
Earl Wallace Wilson was a graduate from Baylor University that Spring.

fair. One thing is sure—a person would have to hunt far and wide to get a jury that would convict a candidate of bribery because he offered to cut the salary of the office to which he aspired. However, candidates are apparently limited to discussion of their salaries as far as bribery charges are concerned—they can say and promise what they will do to other officials' salaries to their hearts' content, without fear of prosecution.
It is probable that someone will take the lead before long in making some statements as to what Deaf Smith county can be operated for next year. It is not impossible to do that, the County Tax League readily figured out a decided cut in the budget, and the way was opened for others who are so minded to follow the committee's example and state what they think could be done. It is a wide field, and one that a considerable number of citizens would like to see turned up to public gaze.
When it is all said and done, you know, the official salaries of Deaf Smith county, all taken together, are a comparatively small part of the $80,000 we spend to operate with.

I want to say right out loud there is one citizen and business man in Hereford who has taught me a good lesson last week. I needed it and may be some others of you who read this may profit from what he said.
It isn't hard to talk about the depression and what the probable outcome of the present situation will be, in fact, it is almost impossible to keep folks from moaning together in concert everywhere they meet.
I really had fooled myself into thinking I was an optimist, but John McLean showed me I was just a small beginner. In the midst of our hard times conversation, he right-about-faced and told me I was crazy, that the American people are just as loyal and patriotic as they ever were, and would stand together for the best things of all creation just as firmly as they ever did, and all the calamity howling, jeering, scoffing, ridicule and long-faced pessimism would never prevail against them.
That made me feel good. I knew it was true, and so do you folks, but we get so busy chasing around after visionary things that we often lose sight of the highest and best things life has to offer us. When the time comes, you and me and every one of us, are going to say and do the things necessary to keep the world's equilibrium where it belongs, and we know we are going to do it. Let's quit this yawling!

Seen On the Screen at the Star

Today is the last showing of the regular 1-cent feature for this week, with Jackie Cooper and Chic Sale in a comedy that will appeal to everybody. "When a Feller Needs a Friend." In addition a Boy Friends two reel comedy and Pathe News reel will be presented. Two persons will be admitted tonight for one cent more than the regular single admission.
Tomorrow, for one day only, Joan Bennett and Spencer Tracy appear in "She Wanted a Millionaire," which should be plenty entertaining. That same evening is the weekly award of a suite of bedroom furniture to be given free to a patron of the Star or a customer of one of a group of Hereford merchants who participate in the gift each week.
Manager J. C. Parker departs from his usual custom Saturday by playing a picture that will be shown again the next day for his Sunday matinee. The picture is worth it, being none other than the famous "Miracle Man," featuring Chester Morris and Sylvia Sydney. It is the same picture with which Lon Chaney established his career in the movies, and the story has been remade into a talking feature that is said to surpass in impressive power its first edition.
The Sunday afternoon presentation has been named a Business Men's Matinee, to permit the picture to be seen by the business people whose duties Saturday will keep them from attending. Manager Parker says he has an extra surprise to be given free to each business person coming to the show Sunday afternoon.
Monday and Tuesday will bring a gripping airplane story featuring Richard Dix and Mary Astor in "The Lost Squadron," said to be the epic picture of the air.

The weekly one-cent picture for Wednesday and Thursday, June 8 and 9, will bring Jack Holt and Ralph Graves in "A Dangerous Affair."

TO THE DEMOCRATIC VOTERS OF DEAF SMITH COUNTY

I wish to announce my candidacy for re-election to the office of District Attorney for the 69th District, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary election to be held in July.
During the time I have held this office, I have devoted to the work of the office the very best of my ability, with a view to enforcing the law fairly and impartially to all alike. I have endeavored to make no distinction between the wealthy and the poor, the influential and those without it, and if honored with a further tenure in the office I shall continue the same purpose and policy.
Whether my work in this office has been successful or otherwise, will be attested by the records of the District Courts, and by those who have had occasion to know of my work, and I invite a perusal of these records, by anyone who may be interested.
While the work of this office entails much responsibility and work, yet, it has afforded me much pleasure, not the least of which, has been the making of many new acquaintances, in making the rounds of the courts over the district.
I wish to express my gratitude to all these acquaintances and friends, and to express the hope that you will see proper to again honor me with this office.
The work of the court, now in session, keeps me so busy, and the territory is so large, I am sure I shall not be able to see and meet personally, all the voters, but I wish now to solicit your vote, and to express my thanks for any support and influence you may see fit to turn my way.
Very respectfully,
B. N. RICHARDS.

Book Reviews

By MISS LILLIE HOSTETLER

Extract from "Millions Are Always Austrian Money," by Channing Pollock, in Reader's Digest of June, 1932:
"Some months ago in a magazine article that attracted considerable attention I dwelt on that thought, 'A man is right not according to what he has, but according to what he can do without,' as it applied to my own life. I had listed 50 possessions that I valued most and found that 48 of them had not cost me a dime. My home and attic were littered with material things that had cost money and sacrifice and leisure and independence, but none of them appeared on that list. These expensive possessions, I realized, were little more than toys for children. For my adult years, only what I had laid out mentally and spiritually had any real worth.
"Thanks to the tonic of stimulating thinking and good reading, I look upon the world around me with interest, appreciation, zest. Zest that didn't cost me a penny, but that gives me spiritual property I wouldn't sell for millions.
"Once I owned a yacht. It taught me the futility of owning things. Nowadays, among my 60 valued possessions I do not even include my canoe, but only my seat for that stirring challenge of a head wind and scudding clouds and a choppy sea, which can be mine on a tramp fighter or in my neighbor's dory.

"Arnold Bennett wrote of Bond Street and Fifth Avenue and the Rue de la Jais, as 'three streets containing nothing a wise man couldn't do without.' But no wise man can do without some of the words and thoughts that writers like Arnold Bennett leave behind them.
"Once in Vienna shortly after the Armistice, I had 14 million kronen in my pocket. My traveling companion twitted me on being a millionaire.
" 'Yes,' I said, tossing a thousand-kronen note to a beggar, 'but Austrian millions won't buy anything.'
" 'My companion was a distinguished scientist who had lived richly and achieved greatly.
" 'Neither will any other millions,' he said. 'Dollars, yes, by the hundreds. Or by the thousands

If you have tastes beyond eating and wearing. But millions? Millions, my friends, are always 'Austrian money'."

Chute

The way the newspapers over the 69th Judicial District have taken to James W. Witherspoon's announcement for district attorney, he is going to make it one of the most interesting races for the office the people of Deaf Smith, Dallam, Parmer, Oldham, Sherman, Moore and Hartley counties have ever seen. With editorial endorsement stepping right into the open, public-spirited citizens acknowledged their approval, and laymen expressing a liking for an attorney that says he will prosecute only the cases that are possible of conviction and stop stalling and wasting time and money on the ones where a conviction is not possible. Mr. Witherspoon is arousing more comment and attracting more attention than has been drawn to district court procedure for many years.
The Clovis Evening News-Journal, outside of the district and state, but knowing Mr. Witherspoon and his people for years, wholeheartedly expressed its approval of him and his ability. Hereford is almost solidly behind him, but that alone would mean very little, were it not for the endorsements pouring in from reputable, responsible and dependable business men and citizens from all seven counties.
Well, local politicians are getting down to work. Primary election day is only a few months away, and to get over the county and district they have to be getting started or they won't get around in them.
The last interpretation of the cut-rate in salaries takes the slant that an office holder can take a cut in salary and get praised for it, while those without an office but candidates for election are subject to prosecution for bribery should they promise to accept the office for less money than has been paid heretofore.
That can hardly be said to be

WHICH IS BETTER?
To Build Better Business, or Save Them In a Sock?
Don't let your dollars be idle dollars... the rest of us are working hard for a living, why not they? Do the thing that is better for business and better for YOU—put your money to work. Money deposited in a savings bank is not idle, it's busy building roads, public buildings, and homes... It keeps wires humming and lights burning... what's better, it keeps men working. Put your confidence in your bank—that is the logical place for your savings.

EARTHQUAKE S... PROVES U. S. C...

Manhattan Island Safest Area East of Rockies in No Danger.

New York.—Despite the proximity of the recent Cuban earthquake the chances are five million to one against any individual in the United States losing his life through an earthquake, and the chance against an earthquake occurring within any one area of 25 square miles, in a total area of more than 2,500,000 square miles east of the Rocky mountains, in one particular year during the next 50 years, is also about five million to one, according to John Ripley Freeman, president of the Manufacturers' Mutual Fire Insurance company, and past president of both the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and American Society of Civil Engineers. Mr. Freeman presents this information in a 900-page book entitled "Earthquake Damage and Earthquake Insurance" just published by the McGraw-Hill Book company. The volume, it is stated, is based on more than 25 years of study by the author of the causes and effects of earthquakes, particularly from the standpoint of the safe design of engineering structures.

In his preface to the book Mr. Freeman declares that its purpose is "to promote research toward better data for engineers relative to earthquake-resisting construction, which data are now far from satisfactory."

Loss of Life Small. Even including the danger area west of the Rocky mountains, and the 700 or more lives lost during the San Francisco earthquake and fire in 1906, the author finds that only about 930 people in the whole United States have lost their lives directly and indirectly through earthquakes during the century which ended in 1930. During that period, he states, the greatest loss of life, outside of San Francisco, was during the earthquake at Charleston, S. C., in 1886, when 100 lives were lost. Of the total loss of property in the San Francisco earthquake and fire, in 1906, Mr. Freeman finds that only 5 per cent can be attributed to the earthquake proper, and that the balance of the loss was due to the fire which followed.

An estimated loss ratio average of 5 per cent damage of the structural value in an area effected by a severe earthquake would be high," the author declares, adding that "this figure is in excess of the actual quake damage in San Francisco in 1906, and is high also for the actual quake damage in the great Tokyo Japanese catastrophe of 1923, the greater loss in both instances having been caused by the fires which followed the quakes."

"No region within the United States or Canada appears wholly immune from the possibility of earthquake damage," the author avers, "although the liability is exceedingly small in those portions of the United States located east of the Rocky mountains. From all data of earthquake history and geology," he adds, "Manhattan Island with its foundation of exceptionally rigid bed-rock, over which its buildings of greatest value stand, appears to be one of the very safest spots in the United States for probable immunity from destructive earthquake shock."

Total Quake Damage Low. "The total earthquake damage in the United States and Canada, exclusive of fire damage following quakes, during the last century," Mr. Freeman estimates, "does not exceed, roughly, $10,000,000." The author also explains that the motion of an earthquake is not as bad as most people believe it to be and, rarely, if ever, as terrible as many of the world's accounts tend one to believe. In nine cases out of ten, he adds, "happenings during earthquakes that involve loss of life and property are the result of inexcusably bad designs, or of bad building construction, and could be prevented by the use of proper construction methods."

The author reassures his readers concerning the possible earthquake future of the United States. "The zones of greatest earthquake activity," he says, "are limited and well defined. By studies of earthquake bolts, and by history and by studies of topography and great contrasts of elevation between mountain ranges and ocean basins, we are assured that the San Francisco earthquake of 1906, the New Madrid earthquake of 1811, and the Owen valley earthquake of 1872, present examples of earthquake destruction of the greatest violence and broadest range that we have to fear in the United States, and Canada. Nothing worse than these three historic quakes appear to be even remotely possible in the United States or Canada."

Troops Are C-Ed Out to Desert

Tunis.—Following floods, thousands of reptiles, mostly vipers, were washed on to the shore of Cape Bon, Tunisia, and when the sun came out they began to crawl on to dry land.

Troops had to be summoned to deal with them and they were eventually trampled or crushed.

167 MILLION DROP IN FOOD EXPORTS

Greatest Loss in Meats, Says Commerce Chief.

Washington.—Exports of foodstuffs from the United States dropped to a total value of $374,000,000 in 1931, C. H. Kardell of the Commerce department's foodstuff division, announced. The value of foodstuffs exports in 1930 was $541,000,000, a decline of $167,000,000 in a year. The 1931 figures, he said, was on an approximate level with pre-war foodstuff exports, but the decline does not represent loss in quantity so much as decrease in prices.

Trade in cereals and cereal products, meats and fats and oils showed the greatest loss, according to Mr. Kardell, while shipments of fresh, canned and dried fruits, fresh, salted, smoked and cured fish, and feeds and fodders increased considerably.

"The foreign market for fresh fruit," the report stated, "particularly apples, oranges, grapefruit, and lemons continued to show the expansion of past years and in this year of low prices the total value of all fresh fruits exported practically held its own amounting to $56,240,000, compared with $56,908,000 a year ago.

"The total value of grain and grain products exported in 1931 aggregated $106,046,000 and constituted approximately 28 per cent of the total value of all foodstuffs exported compared with 35 per cent in 1930 and 38 per cent in 1929. Wheat and wheat flour combined, comprise about four-fifths of the trade in cereals, with nearly as much wheat exported in 1931 as in 1930. Lower prices, however, resulted in a decline in value of 44.8 per cent. About one-fourth less flour was exported with a decline of 50 per cent in value compared with a year ago.

"Meat products comprised about one-tenth of the value of the food export trade, and show a greater decline compared with a year ago than any other class of foodstuffs. There were approximately 254,000,000 pounds of meats of all kinds exported in 1931, valued at $36,000,000, a decline of 127,000,000 pounds and $30,000,000 compared with 1930. The bulk of the decrease occurred in the bacon trade, which fell off from 94,846,000 pounds in 1930 to 38,428,000 pounds in 1931."

Turk Official Opens Campaign on Vendettas

Istanbul.—The vendetta still flourishes in Turkey, according to Sukru Kaya Bey, minister of the interior.

Sukru's special investigations have disclosed that in the province of Ourfa, on the Syrian frontier, about half of the population of a quarter of a million are obliged by village and tribal custom to keep up vendettas.

Every family has a "debt of blood," and is armed to defend itself. Even if the authorities punish a person for a criminal act against a neighbor, the neighbor's family still will feel themselves bound to inflict a personal revenge.

California Pullet Lays Egg of Record Size

Watsonville, Calif.—Mrs. A. Gill believes her nine-months-old white Leghorn pullet is a possible world champion egg layer. Not that it produces an egg a minute. It did something to make every hard-working hen jealous. It laid an egg 9 inches in circumference the long way and 7 1/4 inches the short way. The egg is white and perfectly formed.

Scientists Hunting Missouri Meteor

Rolla, Mo.—Missouri scientists are conducting an intensive search in southwest Missouri for a huge meteor, reported to have landed in this section with a loud detonation.

It was so large, observers said, that it illuminated the sky and changed night into day as it passed over. It was believed to have come to earth near Vienna, Mo.

The meteor probably was 100 miles from the earth when it first appeared, said Dr. C. E. Bardley, professor of astrology at the Missouri school of mines here. It probably was 20 miles high when it exploded, he believed.

SPRAY NOW TO SAVE GRAPES, SAYS HORTICULTURIST

How to combat the grape-leaf hopper, pest to grape culture in West Texas, is given below by Prof. C. E. Russell, head of the horticulture department in Texas Technological College.

"The growing of grapes in this section is made more difficult by the attacks of an insect called the grape leaf-hopper. This insect is present on the vines each year. The injury is most noticeable in August, and at that time of the year most of the injury is done. The adult insects are present then and are easily seen, but cannot be controlled.

"A few adults have been on the leaves during the past few weeks. These have been laying large numbers of eggs just below the surface on the under side of the leaves. Recent observations in the vineyard at Le Texas Tech College show that these eggs are hatching. The young nymphs are present in large numbers on the under sides of the leaves, particularly those leaves that are older. This pest cannot be completely controlled; however, many of the nymphs can be killed at this time and much of the injury that is noticed later in the season can be prevented. This is the time to spray because the nymphs are easily killed as compared with the young of the adults.

"Two sprays should be put on at this time; the first one immediately, the second in about a week or ten days. The same materials are used for both. To make these sprays it is recommended that one pint of nicotine sulphate be mixed with 100 gallons of water in which two pounds of soap have been dissolved. For those who have only a few vines and need less material, the amount would be one teaspoonful of nicotine sulphane in one gallon of water, in which one cubic inch of soap has been dissolved. Nicotine sulphate is sold under various trade names, any of which is satisfactory, and can be purchased at most drug stores.

"Thoroughness of spraying is very important. The spraying should be done during the middle of a warm day. Care should be taken to direct the spray upward ward so as to hit the insects that are on the under sides of the leaves. The insect must be hit in order to kill it. All of the leaves should be sprayed and particularly those leaves that are older and nearer the ground."

BAXTERS, OF DIMMITT, PLACE HISTORICAL GROUP IN CANYON MUSEUM

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Baxter of Dimmitt have placed the Baxter collection in care of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society in the West Texas State Teachers' Museum at Canyon.

Several thousand arrowheads from Colorado, Texas and New Mexico are a feature of this collection. Mr. Baxter states that flints were America's first money.

The Baxter collection contains objects representative of the times when much of the Panhandle of Texas was covered by the waters of the sea and of various grass from that time to the present. There are petrified oyster shells which were found near Tahoka. There are skeletons, beads and pieces of pottery which were used by the cliff dwellers of the Mesa Verde region in Colorado in pre-historic days. There are bones, all of which were used by the Indians in shaping their garments of buckskin. There is a lamp which was brought to Pennsylvania by one of the early German settlers there and which was carried by the tide of immigration into Texas in 1836. There is an old carpenter's plane, typical of those used 50 years ago. There is a huge bear trap now without meaning to the region in which it was used.

In the Baxter collection of arms there are guns which Mr. Baxter says, "represent the evolution of the fire arm as well as the evolution of a boy." The collections begins with the first guns which attracted Mr. Baxter when he was a small boy and shows various types of arms up to the present time, including those used by the collector during the Spanish-American War. Long horn, 8 feet and 4 inches from tip to tip, rattles from many diamond backs, antelope horns and elk heads, tiny squirrels and quails have found a place in the collection made by Mr. and Mrs. Baxter.

They expect to continue to place their valuable findings in the museum of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society when the building now in prospect is provided so that materials may be properly cared for.

UNKNOWN RELIGION PUZZLE TO SAGES

Excavations in Syria Yield Evidences of Odd Cult of Early Ages.

Paris.—Vestiges of an unknown religion which evidently combined the cult of the death with the idea of fecundity are being accumulated by the researchers of the French mission in northern Syria. It was declared by Prof. F. A. Claude Schaeffer of the University of Strasbourg lecturing before the Societe Ernest Renan in Paris.

Professor Schaeffer described the excavations he has superintended for three seasons at Ras Shamra and Minet el Beida, where he has discovered royal tombs and the remains of a great religious center, dating perhaps from the Nineteenth century before the Christian era.

Find Strange Languages. Further discoveries that are sure to be made in the course of the coming season Professor Schaeffer hopes will do much to clarify the significance of the finds made so far, among which are tablets containing inscriptions in several unidentified languages and comprising perhaps the earliest known efforts at poetry and literature.

"Our conclusions," said Professor Schaeffer, "must wait further verifications, but we already know enough of the settlement that once existed there to be certain that it not only represented a great commercial center but also a religious organization and pilgrimage place of the very first importance."

Religion Mystified. "The precise nature of the religion that was practiced and certainly expounded there we have yet to determine from the very rich remains that we are uncovering each year. At the present moment it seems certain that it had for a basis the association of the cult of the dead and their burial in fertile earth as the source of eternal fecundity."

Professor Schaeffer described the large vaulted tombs at Minet el Beida, and the peculiar deposits of vases exhumed in extraordinary quantities in the area between the tombs. He told of the curious cisterns and tiled conduits installed in this area, which some of his auditors suggested might have been arranged for libations to the dead, to which the Greek custom of pouring libations might perhaps be traced. He then described the finding of frequent representations of the nude goddess Astarte, or the Venus of Syrian antiquity, which he believes have some direct bearing on the nature of the cult which will be revealed by the translations of the works transcribed on the tablets of the Ras Shamra library.

Soft Shades of Color Found to Cure Lunacy

London.—The appointment of Paul Poirer, the dress designer and fashion expert, as color designer to the French lunacy authorities has caused a furore in Harley street, a grim foreboding row of early Victorian houses wherein dwell and practice most of Britain's distinguished medical specialists.

It has raised the oft-disputed point as to the effect of color on sufferers of the varying illness of Twentieth century civilization.

Sir Robert Armstrong-Jones, the famous lunacy expert, working in Great Britain, has placed sad and depressed patients in a red room with stimulating effect and cool and acclimated patients in blue rooms with restful effect.

Another specialist whose reception office is decorated in soft pastel shades, with subdued pink lights and delicate paintings, said jokingly: "I can only know how to cure lunacy like this because I have private means. Half my patients are convalescent after half an hour's waiting in here."

Student to Take Snakes to California College

Berkeley, Calif.—Everywhere that Kenneth went his snakes were sure to go.

That's why an armful of sharp-toothed reptiles will soon follow Kenneth Johnson, University of California student, who has registered here to prepare for a career as zoological park and museum curator.

Johnson has a caged collection of valuable snakes in his Sacramento home. He keeps them in the kitchen where it is warm.

The most beautiful one is a poisonous water moccasin, which is found only in a 400-mile radius near Colima, Mexico. It is black with white spots. A heavyweight specimen is a 5-foot diamond back rattler.

Fire Rages Six Years in Coal Mine in Sweden

Stockholm, Sweden.—Investigation by a Swedish mining engineer disclosed that fire is still raging in the Svegruvan coal mine, Spitzbergen, after six years.

The fire broke out in 1925, after a mine had yielded a large output of coal for fifteen years. The mine was finally closed when all efforts to put it out had failed.

Laplenders, as a Race, Ruled by Superstitions.

The story of a race that inhabits an area three times as large as New York state, that never engages in physical combat of any kind, that believes in trolls and fairies, that subsists on reindeer, meat and fish and that knows not of stealing was told by Capt. Arthur W. North, who headed a three months' "family expedition" to Lapland with his wife, their two children and a young Cornell student. He said:

"There are three classes of Laplanders—the nomad, the fisher and the farmer—all bound together by similar customs, similar superstitions and similar language. Irrespective of whether the territory which they roam is Russian, Norwegian, Finnish or Swedish.

"They are the most superstitious people in the world. Trolls and fairies control their everyday life, they believe, and their religion which is based on the Lutheran, the wildest combination of hot rolling, shouting and screaming or could imagine. When a child is born the family runs about the town, pushing needles and pins in the ground to hold down the trolls or spirits they believe have captured the child. Bits of money and small objects are dropped down wells and into rivers to soothe the wrath of the trolls, and sacrifices of reindeer meat are made to them, which the Laplanders take back and eat themselves when they think the trolls have finished."

Hungarian Dance That Took Europe by Storm

In 1840 Europe was fighting its way to a new emancipation: intellectual freedom and social equality. In England, France and Germany there was a movement for the leveling of classes. Everywhere was unrest. Highly keyed, the masses seized upon a new dance, simple, exhilarating dance that came from Hungary. It was the polka.

The polka spread like an infectious Europe and thence to America. "Polka," Punch called it. "The chief symptoms are extraordinary convulsions," said that caustic wit and with "gesticulations of the limbs, with frequent stamping of the floor and rotary movements of the body, such as acrobatic leaping of the cerebellum"; people danced in the streets and boulevards. "It is a great dancing master of the day," complained that it broke down the set forms of the past. —Vivian Pope, in the New York Times Magazine.

Algeria

The first impression of Algeria comes when sailors and fishermen swarm up to the steamer at the time of landing. They are tall and cutthroat-looking gamely dressed in picturesque, and anything but clean. Although descendants of whites, they are considered as a dark and stupid and managing a business in the towns are marked types—the Moors of mixed Arab and Arabian blood have a more physically and mentally sound than the builders of the Alhambra. The now mostly beggars and peddlers. The Arabs, or Bedouins, are tall and slender, also look like a conquered race. Most of the Moors are kept by Jews, but the Kabyles form the largest part of the population. These men are of the pure mountain race showing traces of Greek and Roman ancestry in their complexions, and even in their laws.

Making Heliograph

Make together one part of gum arabic, one part of water and four parts of glycerine, allowing the mass to stand and set in a shallow pan. All bubbles are removed by skimming the surface with piece of cardboard. The letters or sketch to be duplicated is written on a piece of paper of heavy paper with an aniline ink. When dry it is laid on the pad, with inked side down, and subjected to moderate pressure for a few minutes. It is then removed and the blank sheets are laid carefully over the pad and pressed down. Usually 40 to 60 legible copies can be made before the operation must be repeated.

Yo Ed's Explanation

The fellows who poke fun at the little moccasin pipe which you have dug up after years of digging may be interested in learning the philosopher of considerable discrimination says he don't think he ever heard of a crook who smoked a pipe and doubted that anybody ever planned a murder or hold-up while smoking a pipe. Now, that's something and takes away some of the smack of ridicule which our friends have been using in their efforts to determine whether we are practicing economy in our smoking or just "putting on" with the Jimmie pipe.—Atchison County Mail.

Day of Rest

Joe was putting up his usual argument against going to bed at the usual time, and the day being Sunday it took this somewhat new form.

"Oh, no, mamma, I don't need to go to bed yet, 'cause I slept all this morning, and I slept all through."

PIED PIPER LURES EUROPE'S GHOSTS

Modestly Admits He Has Way With Wraiths

London.—A modern pied piper, who lures ghosts instead of rats, has all the engagements he can handle these days.

He is Robert King of Hempstead, and he travels about Europe ridding haunted houses of their wraiths, casting out devils and other such odd jobs.

King modestly admits that he has a way with ghosts.

"First I diagnose the cause," he said, "and if it is caused by a dead person, I attempt to cleanse the room. Disturbances can be broken up by a stream of concentrated thought that has the same action as a pin on a bubble. This stream is fortified by a religious ritual."

King recently was called to a house. Its occupants sensed a peculiar atmosphere, one of depression and extreme sadness. He was told there also were mysterious knocks, creaks and shadows.

"I stayed in the hall alone," said King. "Soon I sensed a disturbance that was like a current of air. I followed it. It led me to a room at the top of the stairs. There was the center of the psychic disturbance. It was tremendous, a kind of epileptic storm. The room was saturated with violent feeling, rage and murderous hate."

"I was able to visualize the cause. I discovered that a woman had been murdered by her husband. I saw him kill her. She had betrayed him. He had discovered her sin."

"Having discovered the origin of the malevolent feeling, I set about to cleanse it. The spirits left the room. The house became healthy again. There were no more knocks or creaks."

Gold Smuggled Out of Egypt by Camel Convoy

Calcutta.—New drama in the form of gold smuggling by camel convoys has come to the Egyptian deserts and caused the camel corps to redouble its vigilance in its new task of helping to enforce the government's gold ban export.

A considerable quantity of the 7,000,000 gold in Egypt, mostly hoarded by the peasants, has been smuggled out of the country since the government abandoned the gold standard in September.

The burning sands of the Sinai desert have resounded to the crunch of camel convoys pursued by the camel corps. Large hauls have been made, but many big convoys have gotten through to Palestine and thence to Syria, where the gold is sold to French agents.

Most of the gold left in Egypt is in the possession of the peasants in the form of coins, ingots, and ornaments. Many have felt the lure of the high price of gold now being offered in Europe and have sold their belongings to speculators.

The Arabs in Transjordan and the Hedjaz, who were paid in gold by the British government in reward for their services during the World war, are known to be disposing of their hoardings.

Culture of Indians Is Traced to Old World

Berkeley, Calif.—In spite of the extreme variety and dissimilarity of Indian languages in North and South America, there is evidence in their tribal institutions and secret society ceremonies to show that originally their culture was derived from the old world, and that since that time their spiritual and mystic life has been dominated by the ancient civilization of the Mayas in Central America.

These conclusions are reached by Dr. Edwin Leach, lecturer on anthropology at the University of California, in an article entitled "The Religious Organizations of North Central California and Tierra Del Fuego."

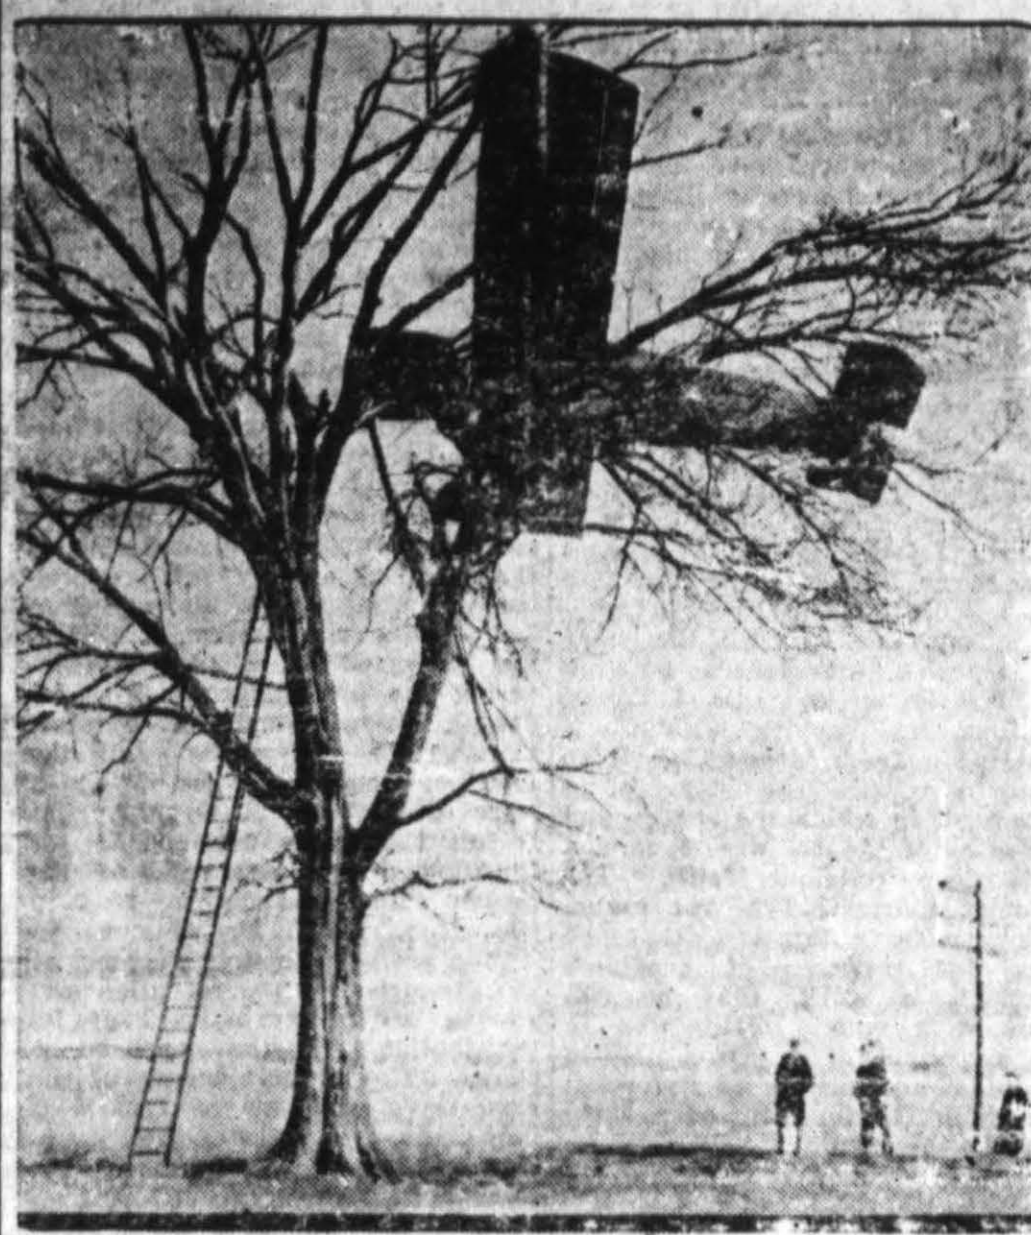

From the work of Professor Kroeber and himself in California, and of other anthropologists in Tierra del Fuego and elsewhere, Doctor Leach has been able to show that the foundation of the ceremonious used by American Indians for initiating boys and girls on their approach to manhood and womanhood, is essentially the same as the foundation of similar ceremonious throughout the world.

Eride Freed From Sleep-Walking Mate

Berlin.—A Berlin bride has obtained a divorce on novel grounds. She had been very happily married a few weeks when one night she awakened terrified to see a white apparition on top of a wardrobe. Switching on the light she was amazed to find that her husband had clambered up there in his sleep.

When the next night he repeated the performance she packed her bags and returned to her mother. It transpired that he was addicted to wandering in his sleep at the time of full moon, and the court ruled that he should have informed his wife of that fact before he married her.

THE KING HAS HIS WAY

Oh, who shall say to the king, "Nay, nay?" Not I! Not I! Who shall refuse the king his way? Not I! Not I! For the king is great and the king is strong, and the king, you know, can do no wrong.

AT LEAST that is the way kings themselves seem to think. Too often they think that might makes right. You and I know better. But kings, poor things, never have had the advantages that we have. Too often they never have learned to do things for themselves, because they never have had to do things for themselves. They simply command that things be done for them. And, so, because they have this power to command, they too often have come to think that they have a right to command anything that they please. They cannot understand that other people have rights.

It is some times this way with King Eagle. He likes fish, but he never has learned to catch them for himself. So because he likes fish and wants fish and is big enough and strong enough, he feels that he has a perfect right to take them from Plunger the Fish Hawk, and that Plunger should gladly give them up at his demand because he is the king. If he were not the king, I suspect he would be called just a plain robber. But no one thinks of calling a king a robber—that is, no one but Plunger.

When fishing is good and Plunger can catch plenty without half trying, he doesn't much mind giving up a few fish to King Eagle. He can scumble a little, but that is all. But when, on this particular morning, he had fished patiently for a long time without catching a single fish, and then when he is almost ready to give up, does catch a fine, big fat fish, he thinks it rather too much to have King Eagle suddenly appear and demand that fish. So Plunger made up his mind that he would not give it up until he absolutely had to do so, in spite of King Eagle's orders to drop it.

Now, Plunger the Fish Hawk is a wonderful flyer, but, wonderful as he is, King Eagle is a still more wonderful yet, and Plunger knows it. In spite of this, he did his best to out-fly King Eagle. But the fish was big and heavy, and so of course Plunger could not fly his best. He dodged this way and that way, jumped high in the air and dropped suddenly, all the time working toward the Green Forest. But all the time King Eagle kept right with him without half trying, actually flapping his great wings in Plunger's very face, and all the time commanding Plunger to drop that fish. Plunger was about ready to give up when Mrs. Plunger arrived to help him. She flew in King Eagle's way and did her very best to interfere, all the time screaming at King Eagle and calling him a robber and thief and everything bad she could think of. She was trying to make King Eagle so angry that he would leave Plunger alone and try to punish her.

But King Eagle is altogether too smart to be fooled in any such way as that. He knew exactly what she was trying to do, and he paid no attention to her except to threaten her with his great claws when she ventured too near. He wanted that big fat fish, and he meant to have it. At first he was simply mildly threatening. He did not want to hurt Plunger. Not that he cared particularly for Plunger. He didn't.

"Stop Fooling and Drop That Fish!" Hissed King Eagle.

His reason for not wanting to hurt Plunger was purely selfish, I suspect. He wanted that particular fish, but he would want more fish in the future, and if he hurt Plunger and disabled him, who would catch those fish for him in the future? So his whole idea was merely to frighten Plunger into dropping that fish.

Plunger knew this, for Plunger is no fool, and so he held on and hoped with all his might that King Eagle would lose patience and give up. And at last King Eagle did lose his patience, but with no intention of giving up. He began to lose his temper. Plunger saw a sudden change in the fierce eyes of King Eagle. They grew more fierce. Plunger's heart failed and he shivered with fear.

With a scream of rage and disappointment Plunger obeyed. He didn't dare do otherwise. The king was no longer to be denied. It was night, not right, that gave him his way.

Genesis 41:46-57

Genesis 41:46. And Joseph was thirty years old when he stood before Pharaoh king of Egypt. And Joseph went out from the presence of Pharaoh, and went throughout all the land of Egypt. 47. And in the seven plentiful years the earth brought forth by handfuls. 48. And he gathered up all the food of the seven years which were in the land of Egypt, and laid up the food in the cities; the food of the field, which was round about every city, laid he up in the same. 49. And Joseph laid up again as the sand of the sea, very much, until he left off numbering; for it was without number. 50. And unto Joseph was born two sons before the years of famine came, whom Asenath, the daughter of Potiphra priest of On, bare unto him. 51. And Joseph called the name of the firstborn Manasseh; For, said he, Goth hath made me forget all my toil, and all my father's house. 52. And the name of the second he called Ephraim: For God hath made me fruitful in the land of my affliction.

53. And in the seven years of plenty, that was in the land of Egypt, came to an end.

54. And the seven years of famine began to come, according as Joseph had said; and there was famine in all lands; but in all the land of Egypt there was bread.

55. And when all the land of Egypt was famished, the people cried to Pharaoh for bread; and Pharaoh said unto all the Egyptians, Go unto Joseph; what he saith to you, do.

56. And the famine was over all the face of the earth; and Joseph opened all the storehouses, and sold unto the Egyptians; and the famine was sore in the land of Egypt.

57. And all countries came into Egypt to Joseph to buy grain, because the famine was sore in all the earth.

Golden Text: Seest thou a man diligent in his business? he shall stand before kings.—Prov. 22:29.

Time: Joseph in Potiphra's house, B. C. 1735. Joseph in prison, B. C. 1725. Joseph exalted, B. C. 1723. The seventh year of plenty 1717, the seventh year of famine B. C. 1710. Place: Zoan, the capital of Egypt, on the eastern part of the Nile Delta.

Introduction.

The proverb which is our Golden Text is wonderfully illustrated in the experience of Joseph: "Seest thou a man diligent in his business? he shall stand before kings." And the principle of reward for faithfulness is as operative today as it was in Joseph's day. It is a law of the kingdom of God, expressed by our Lord in the parable of the Talents: "Well done, good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

Do not fail to read the story of Joseph's experiences between our last lesson and this. However familiar we may be with it, it contains a fresh blessing as it so beautifully tells the story of a pure soul in whom the energy and strength of youth are combined with deep religious faith. The dreamer shows that he can match wisdom with enterprise, that he does not conceive of greatness apart from work, that he can work with equal faithfulness in the dim light of a prison and in the glow and glitter of the royal palace, in the humility of a slave and the honor of a prime minister.

The Dreamer, the Tolerer.

Joseph was not a mere dreamer. He believed in his dream, doubting not that God gave them and that one day they should be fulfilled. But his eyes were not so full of the future that he could not see the demands of the present. He did not think that the promise in the dream freed him from the responsibility of living a true and dutiful life on the way thither. We have known of sons of the rich, sure of a large inheritance, who felt no urge to be men on their own account, and so made shipwreck of character and destroyed the worth of their promised wealth. But in the case of Joseph, the dream, far from making him credulous and passive, or reckless, seemed to challenge and strengthen him for noble living under all conditions.

Joseph a Slave in Egypt.

It was a terrific experience for the 17-year-old boy, who dreamed of authority and enjoyed the best love of his father, to find himself a slave in a foreign land. For many that would have been condemnation worse than death, enslaving their souls as well as their bodies. Not so with Joseph. He did not sulk or shrink, or in any way compromise the honesty and genuineness of his young soul. Made a house-servant of Potiphra, the Egyptian courtier who bought him, he so fulfilled his tasks that he drew the favorable attention of his master. It is said that "his master saw that the Lord was with him, and that the Lord made all that he did to prosper in his hands." He did not work like a slave, grudgingly and in slovenly manner. Reward came in consequence as in Potiphra's choice of Joseph to be his personal servant and finally the overseer of the house, trusted with all its affairs. "The Lord blessed the Egyptian's house for Joseph's sake."

Joseph in Prison.

Even in prison that happened to him which had happened in Potiphra's house, he was so trusted as to become assistant warden of the prison, in charge of all the work or prison superintendence; and all that he did, "Jehovah made it to prosper." By a strange turn, among those committed to the prison after Joseph's promotion were Pharaoh's chief butler and chief baker, who had offended that monarch—and one night each of them had a dream, so vivid and evidently so meaningful that they were greatly disturbed. In the kindness of his heart, Joseph interpreted the two dreams for them, telling the chief baker that in three days he would be hanged, and the chief butler that in three days he would be restored to his important office. In each case this came about. Joseph begged the chief butler to remember him when he went back to his post, but the butler ungratefully forgot his promise, and dropped Joseph from his mind for two long years.

Joseph Interprets Pharaoh's Dream.

Once more a dream played a conspicuous part in Joseph's life, and this time it was a dream of Pharaoh's. In his dream Pharaoh saw seven fat kine coming up out of the Nile, and after them seven lean kine which ate up the seven fat kine. This was followed by another dream quite similar. He saw seven ears full of grain, and seven thin ears sprang up beside them and ate up the seven full ears. These dreams Pharaoh, greatly troubled, told to all his wise men, but none of them had any idea what they portended. So Pharaoh sent for Joseph to interpret his dream. Both dreams, he declared, had the same significance. Both foretold seven years of plenty in Egypt, to be followed by seven years of scarcity and famine. The doubling of the dream was by way of confirmation.

Joseph, Prime Minister in Egypt.

Joseph went about his new duties with energy and thoroughness. He "went throughout all the land of Egypt," and "gathered corn as the sand of the sea." "No grass grew under his feet." He was ubiquitous, personally overseeing everything for seven long years. Wasteful consumption of the abundant crop had to be restrained, storehouses to be built, careful records of the contents to be made, after Egyptian fashion. The people who could not look so far as seven years ahead, and wanted to enjoy, or make money out of, the good harvests, had to be looked after, and an army of officials to be kept in order. Dignity meant work for him." (Maclaren).

And so efficiently did he work that when the famine came Egypt was prepared, not only to feed Egyptians, but the peoples of other lands also. The task of distribution was not easy. It required as much energy and a great deal more wisdom and will power. But Joseph was equal to the requirements. See Genesis 47:13-26. Besides saving the lives of the people, he did two things for Egypt. He extended its influence among the surrounding peoples, and gave to it an economic organization on that worked happily for the welfare of all. So he showed himself to be a true statesman in making "a temporary distress the occasion for permanent benefit."

Joseph Stores Food for Famine.

"And he gathered up all the food of the seven years which were in the land of Egypt." That is, all the grain not needed for the immediate sustenance of the people. "And laid up the food in the granaries." "The Egyptian monuments preserve many pictures of the granaries, of the reception and storing of the grain, and of its registration by the scribes or clerks. The superintendent of the granaries" was one of the most important members of an Egyptian government; far more so than a modern Secretary of Agriculture, because the government kept great stocks in their granaries. This is probably the most conspicuous and forcible lesson in history teaching the importance and value of saving. It was often brought before the American public in connection with conservation efforts during the World War.

Adversity a Blessing in Disguise.

"Hindrances are helps. If one of Joseph's misfortunes had been omitted, his good fortune would never have come. If his brethren had not hated him, if he had not been sold, if he had not been imprisoned, he would never have ruled Egypt. Not one thread in the tapestry could have been withdrawn without spoiling the pattern. We cannot afford to lose one of our sorrows or trials."—Maclaren. Of course it was not adversity alone that led to power, but adversity plus the use Joseph made of it, and the use he made of it was due to the faith of his heart.

The Dignity and Reward of Work.

Joseph did not believe that idleness was the mark of nobility. In his home, although he was best loved and possessed the insignia of rank, he still was taught to work. Hard work, whether manual or mental, or both, which requires self-discipline, patience and industry, is the way up. And many of the world's greatest have had their training in that school. "David rose from the sheep-cote to be the greatest king of his time, Elisha from the plough to be the greatest prophet of his time; Peter from the fishing boat to be the greatest apostle of his time; Livingston from the weaver's loom to be the greatest missionary of his time; Lincoln from the tanner's yard to be the greatest statesman of his time."

PUTTING ON THE JINX

SETS NEW RECORD

A new record for continuous service as a member of congress has been established by Representative Gilbert N. Haugen of Iowa. He has served without interruption for more than 33 years.

Protecting the Birds
"Faw small birds," says a writer in Bird Notes and News, "can keep ahead of a car for any length of time if it is going 40 miles an hour or more." The statement is not made as an interesting example of relative speeds, but as an appeal to motorists to take thought of the birds when driving through wooded country. Such thought, if exercised by all drivers, would nowadays save more birds to the woods than many realize.

Fruit of the East
In size the lychee is about that of a strawberry or small English walnut. The shape more nearly resembles that of the strawberry, however. When fresh the skin has the toughness of a thick-skinned grape. It is eaten like a grape, too—the pulp being removed after the skin is broken. When dried, though, the skin snaps open with the brittleness of our paper-shelled almonds. The dried fruit resembles a raisin.

Shades of the Past
It has been estimated that in the approximately 1,800 generations since 4000 B. C. 2,000,000,000,000 people have lived in the world. It is impossible to state, even as an estimate, the number of human inhabitants of the earth since its creation, or, more accurately, since the beginnings of human life, since this has not yet been definitely dated.—Washington Star.

Viking's Tomb Uncovered
An ancient Viking burial place was found at Valgarde, near Uppsala, Sweden. Among the relics unearthed was a boat, in which lay a warrior dressed for battle, with three shields, two swords, knives and a helmet, all richly ornamented in gilt bronze. In the bow of the ship were the remains of several horses.

Coal Formation
Coal is not a rock. It is a black or brownish black solid combustible mineral substance formed by the partial decomposition of vegetable matter, without free access of air, under the influence of moisture and, in many cases, of increased pressure and temperature.

May Figure in $100,000,000 Fight

A half-hundred Pittsburgh claimants to a portion of the $100,000,000 estate of the spinster sisters, Ella and Rebecca Wendel, bequeathed to charity, believe the half-obliterated inscription on the headstone of the grave of Mrs. Mary Wendel Hickey in Henderson cemetery, near Pittsburgh, will play an important part in establishing their kinship to the New York sisters. Fred Wide, sixty-eight, a farmer near Cheswick, is pictured above pointing to the gravestone. His mother was a grandchild of Mrs. Hickey, who died in 1810. Mrs. Hickey was a great aunt to Ella and Rebecca Wendel, according to scores of Mrs. Hickey's descendants.

ACE HIGH SUPPER CLUB ENTERTAINED BY MR. AND MRS. MENTIRE

A profusion of yellow roses and green foliage, carrying out a yellow and green color motif, furnished the decorative note for the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert McEntire, 506-A Schley, Thursday night of last week, when they entertained the Ace High supper club.

A lovely covered dish buffet supper was served from a table which was resplendent with yellow roses and black dish ware. At the small tables yellow covers were placed over each with green candies in the center of each. Place cards of yellow tulips showed each guest his place.
