CHICAGO (AP) - Traffic accidents may kill more than 400 people and injure 16,000 over the Labor Day weekend, the National Safety Council

During last year's three-day Labor Day weekend, 439 people were killed and 18,000 others were seriously injured in traffic accidents, the council said Thursday.

This year's three-day holiday weekend concludes the council's 101-day "Make It Click" summer campaign promoting seat-belt use. The council has estimated that between 12,000 and 16,000 lives a year could be saved if all drivers and passengers used seat belts.

Council spokeswoman Carole Unterberg said most traffic fatalities occur in the summer, when many people go on vacation.

According to the council's figures on 1985 traffic fatalities, the months of June, July and August each averaged 4,400 deaths. During the other nine months, traffic fatalities averaged 3,610 a month, the council said.

The council has advised motorists to:

- Wear seat belts and encourage passengers to wear

- Place young children in approved child safety seats, and make sure they are strapped in properly.

- Use lights and gradually reduce speed if conditions are

Lottery bill gets nod

AUSTIN (AP) - A proposed constitutional amendment to start a got final apstate- run lottery proval today from the Texas Senate.

Voting 21-8, senators sent the measure to the House. If 100 House members also vote for it, the proposal would be placed before Texas voters in November.

The Senate also gave its final OK to a bill that would start the game should voters endorse it.

Supporters, led by Sen. Hector Uribe, D-Brownsville, said a lottery would generate millions of dollars for Texas without a tax, but opponents complained that th state would be sanctioning gamblin.

Urging passage, Uribe said opinion polls show a large majority of Texans favor establishing a lottery.

Twenty-two other states operate lotteries, and a Texas game would bring in hundreds of millions of dollars in new revenue that would be, in essence, a voluntary tax, Uribe said.

"I don't see anything wrong with the state of Texas and its citizens benefitting from it," Uribe said. "A lottery would raise revenue for the state at a time when we have a budget shortfall.'

While Uribe said a lottery wouldn't solve the state's $3.5 billion budget . deficit, legislative analysts estimate it could raise $99 million next year and $689 million by 1991. Prizes could total $111 million next year and $806 million in six years, the estimates

"The odds are greater of getting struck by lightning than winning the lottery," Sarpalius said.

In addition, he argued that a lottery would be a "regressive" tax because the poor would spend a larger portion of their income on tickets than others.

Uribe said studies repeatedly find that the majority of lottery players are middle class people.

"There are a lot of tall stories about lotteries. The tallest of them is that lotteries prey on the poor," he said. "Lottery is a game of entertainment for the middle class, primarily."

Under the legislation, at least 40 percent of the money raised through sale of lottery tickets each year would go into the state's general treasury.

Another 40 percent, increasing later to 45 percent, of proceeds would go to cash prizes paid to winners. No more than 15 percent could cover the costs of running and advertising the

Combest stops to campaign

Congressman Larry Combest, Lubbock Republican, visited with about 30 interested persons at the courthouse here Thursday as part of a two-day re-election campaign swing around the 19th Congressional District.

Combest said the 15-county anniversary campaign tour was serving as the official kickoff to his reelection efford. Accompanying Combest were his wife, Sharon, who served lemonade to those attending and several campaign workers.

Combest predicted victory in November, saying that "the people of the district will not be fooled by a candidate who exploits hard times but fails to offer any real solutions to our current problems."

Emphasizing the need for a proven, conservative leader for West Texas, Combest said he would "continue to lead the fight for the people of the 19th District and together we will work to return prosperity to West Texas."

A member of the House Ag. Committee, Combest declared that farmers must have the opportunity to make a fair profit. "West Texas producers cannot and shoult not have to compete against government policies that erode their opportunity for a profit." In writing the 1985 farm bill, Combest added, "we worked to expand our export markets and provide some income protection for the farmer."

Combest also mentioned oil and gas, trade, nuclear waste, national defense, and the budget deficit as concerns he shares with 19th district citizens. The group headed for Dimmitt after the campaign stop here at 3:30 p.m. Thursday, and was to close out the tour with stops at Plainview and Lubbock.

Congressman Larry Combest made a campaign stop in Hereford Thursday at the courthouse. The Republican predicts victory in November.

Three freed as truck rams Wall

BERLIN (AP) - A speeding truck of the blue dump truck was driver swerved through East German police gunfire and crashed through the Berlin Wall's Checkpoint Charlie early today with a woman and a baby huddled on the floor of the dump truck, West Berlin police said.

The East German gunfire drew an immediate protest from the Western Allies, France, Britain and the United States, which labeled such shootings "inhuman practices."

The three East Berliners escaped into West Berlin without injury at 12:05 a.m., said police duty officer Guenter Gadaschewski.

He said East German guards fired at least three shots at the speeding vehicle, a 71/2-ton East German dump truck filled with gravel.

Police said the driver made his escape by swerving into the lane of oncoming traffic when an automatic barrier came down in front of the Gadaschewski said the driver of the truck continued speeding away from the wall after crossing into the West, and did not stop until he was more than a half-mile into West Berlin.

The entire escape took between five and 10 seconds, according to police.

The man was 32 years old, the woman 26, and the baby 8 months old, according to police who said they do not know if the man and woman are married. Police did not give their names, as is customary in such

House votes needed to put the referendum on the November 1986 ballot.

Under the House version, the referendum would be in November 1987. If approved in that statewide election, local option elections would follow.

Senate sponsor O.H. "Ike" Harris, R-Dallas, predicted the Senate probably would concur with the changes. Supporters said the bill includes the provisions required by Gov. Mark White - statewide referendum, local option elections and anti-organized crime sections. "If they have that, I would not veto

Contra leader predicts war

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Nicaraguan rebel leader says he foresees a Central American war to oust Nicaragua's Sandinista rulers unless they abandon their "totalitarian" system.

Arturo Cruz, one of three directors of the rebels' United Nicaraguan Opposition, UNO, predicted Thursday that other Central American nations will attack Nicaragua if its government does not "change to become democratic."

The five other Central American nations, however, have shown little willingness to confront the Sandinistas militarily and several have publicly refused even to permit the United States to train Nicaraguan Contra rebels on their territory.

In an interview with The Associated Press, Cruz conceded that a unified Central American military strike against Nicaragua is hampered by traditional rivalries between the U.S.-backed governments of El Salvador and Honduras and the absence of an army in Costa Rica.

But he added that an eventual military confrontation between Central American states and Nicaragua "is my political forecast, that in the final analysis ... that will happen. ...

"Either (the Sandinistas) change to become democratic or they will face a confrontation with the rest of Central America. ... The real struggle going on (in Central America) is between the center and the totalitarian left.'

Cruz, a onetime Sandinista official who is considered a moderate among Contra leaders, first made his prediction in an interview in this month's issue of the "Ripon Forum," a magazine of the Republican Ripon Society.

Sentence could be stiffer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Convicted spy Jerry Whitworth is a man who "believes in nothing," said the federal judge who sentenced Whitworth to 365 years in prison, the harshest espionage sentence since the 1953 execution of Ethel and Julius Rosenberg.

Whitworth, 47, would not be eligible for parole for 60 years, 50 years after John Walker, the spy master who worked out a plea bargain agreement and testified against Whitworth.

In imposing the sentence Thursday, U.S. District Judge John Vukasin called Whitworth "one of the most spectacular spies of the century" and a man who "believes in nothing."

The gaunt, bearded defendant, who had been silent throughout his 11-week trial, spoke only once during his sentencing, saying in a choked voice, "I just want to say I'm very, very sorry."

Vukasin, who sentenced Whitworth to 365 years instead of the seven life terms he could have received, also specified that Whitworth would be ineligible for parole for 60 years, and fined him $410,000. A sentence involving any number of life terms would have made him eligible for parole in 10 years.

Whitworth was convicted July 24 of selling Navy code secrets to John Walker's Soviet-controlled spy ring for nearly a decade. Walker was the star witness against Whitworth, who did not testify.

Walker, confessed leader of the spy ring for 17 years, faced a lesser sentence than Whitworth's. Walker's plea-bargain called for two life terms, with parole possible in 10 years.

"Justice is now going to be turned on her head," said defense

The company, meantime, denied any misconduct and said it would contest the matter.

David Crowther, Lockheed's vice president for corporate communications, confirmed Air Force statements that the company had not agreed to any price adjustments on the C-5 contract.

"When we negotiated that contract in 1982, we gave the Air Force complete information on cost and pricing and on the basis of that, we see no merit to these allegations," he added.

Soviets cast doubt on summit

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Soviet Union is casting new doubt on a 1986 superpower summit after two days of preparatory talks with U.S. officials failed to produce any breakthroughs on regional conflicts around the world.

In a brief statement at the windup Thursday, the chief Soviet delegate, Deputy Foreign Minister Anatoly Adamishin, told reporters, "We have to decide yet whether the summit would take place because it has to be productive."

Apparently reflecting the views of General Secretary Mikhail S. Gorbachev, he went on to say: "It has to have some results, concrete results. We are not interested in an empty summit."

The talks with a U.S. delegation headed by Undersecretary of State Michael H. Armacost ranged over the wars in Angola, Afghanistan and the Persian Gulf, tentative moves by the Soviets to restore diplomatic relations with Israel, and other international jected $3.5 billion deficit - gave the bill the boost it needed.

"Every poll has said the people of this state are willing to vote for alternative sources of revenue (other than taxes) and we're willing to give them the opportunity," he said.

The House looked at about 35 amendmens during six hours of debate, much of it concerning some members' fears that pari-mutuel gambling could become legal without the statewide vote.

Rep. Dan Morales, D-San Antonio, said it is possible that a court could rule that the referendum is illegal, and leave the rest of the bill intact. But House members voted 80-67 against an amendment by Rep. Dan Morales, D-San Antonio, that would have said the racing act would expire Dec. 1, 1987 if no referendum had been held.

Berlanga said he expects a court challenge of the bill.

Abstract since 1982.

The population projections, based on trends that developed between the 1970 and 1980 censuses, lead off a special section of state rankings.

That series of reports also disclosed such details as the most crowded state, those with the most young and old people, highest birth rate, most working women and highest cable television usage, among many other measures of America.

The projections anticipate state populations in 14 years, reflecting the movement to the Sun Belt states that became a major factor in the

Gregory Spencer of the bureau's projections's division said his staff currently is working on updating these figures to include recent trends such as the economic recovery and increasing high-tech development affecting some industrial states, as well as the drop in oil prices affecting energy-producing states.

The new projections are expected to be available next spring, Spencer

But at least some of those factors were considered by the private National Planning Association last April when it projected population growth through the turn of the century. It called for Texas to supplant New York as No. 2, but for Florida to make it only to fourth place, behind New York.

The Census Bureau projections call for Texas to grow to 20.7 million to rank second in the year 2000, and say Florida is likely to increase from 11.4 million to 17.4 million and skip from No. 6 to No. 3.

New York is expected to drop to fourth place with a population of nearly 15 million in the year 2000.

That would be a decline from the Empire State's current 17.7 million - an outlook not shared by Planning Association. It projected that New York will gain about 913,000 people by the year 2000, giving it a total of more than 18 million people.

The Planning Association's report called for significant gains in some older industrial states like New York, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania, places where the Census report calls for declines in the population.

The Census data anticipates that Pennsylvania will be ranked fifth in 2000, a drop from fourth currently, and Illinois will slip from fifth to sixth place. Ohio, Michigan, New Jersey and North Carolina will retain their current seventh through 10th place rankings, the report says.

At the other end of the scale, meanwhile, the report anticipates that Wyoming will nearly double its current half-million population to jump from last place to No. 43. Vermont will drop to 50th in the year 2000, the Bureau projects.

Other findings reported in the new Data Book include:

-Alaska was the fastest growing state from 1980 to 1885, increasing by 29.7 percent. Michigan ranked last, losing 1.9 percent of its people. -New Jersey is the most dense state with 1,013 people per square mile. Alaska averages only one person per square mile. -Utah has the most people under age 18, 37.8 percent of its residents.

The smallest share is in Florida, 22.9 percent. -For residents aged 65 and over Florida ranks first, 17.6 percent, while Alaska has only 3.1 percent of people in that age group. -Alaska has the top birth rate, 24.9 per 1,000 residents, while Connecticut is 50th at 13.1.

-Births to mothers under age 20 are highest in Mississippi, 21.9 percent, compared with only 8.9 percent in Minnesota.

-Infant mortality is highest in South Carolina at 16.1 deaths under age 1 per 1,000 births. It is lowest in Hawaii at 8.8.

-Alaska has the highest rate of women in the work force, 64.5 percent. The lowest is 39.1 percent in West Virginia.

Hostile Herd Sideline Notes

As football season gets closer, many residents of Hereford are beginning to really look forward to the future of Whiteface football.

Word has it that Hereford will be a major force to contend with in their new 4A home. But 4A will not be any cake walk.

Lubbock Estacado is returning 14 starters from a team that made it to the state quarterfinals. In the Associated Press pre-season polls, Estacado is picked as the No. 2 team in the state.

If you ask me, pre-season polls don't mean a thing, they are going to have to prove it between the goal lines, not in the headlines.

Two of Hereford's most experienced running backs are listed as questionable for tonight's scrimmage against Monterey. Marcus Brown is hobbled by a sprained ankle he received during last week's scrimmage, and Mark Artho is nursing an injury to his pelvis. Artho went to see his fourth doctor about the nagging problem on Wednesday. Hopefully Artho will be ready for the season opener against Andrews next Friday at Whiteface Stadium. Having Artho out does not only mean that one of Hereford's best runningbacks will be sidelined, Artho is also responsible for punting, kick off returning, and some of the place kicking. As head coach Don Cumpton said, "We need that boy well in a hurry!"

Also on the injured reserve list is senior tight end Casey Daniel with a pulled hamstring. Daniel suffered his injury during the first morning of workouts and has not yet had a chance to go full speed with the rest of the Herd.

The Band Boosters will be serving stuffed baked potatoes from 5-7 p.m. before the Sept. 5 game against Andrews. Tickets will be $3 for kids under 10, and $4 for the rest of us. All proceeds will be used to purchase new band uniforms. The spuds will be served at the high school cafeteria.

The Whitefaces may be seeing a Eurpean flair during the trek for the 4A state championship. Ulf Schoppan, a German exchange student, has been asked by Coach Cumpton to come out and try to do some soccer style kick-

"We wanted to see if we had one of those kickers who can hit those 30 and 40-yard field goals. He did a pretty good job, but it took him a little while to get use to the oblong ball instead of a round one," Cumpton said.

The CYO will be sponsoring a dance following each of the six home football games. The dances will be held at the Knight of Columbus hall on Country Club Drive.

Speaking of home games, the Herd will be trying to keep their unbeaten streak at home alive. Last season the Herd won all four of their home games in route to posting a 6-4 season record.

The Good Guys youth ministries "Media Productions" will be taping each of the Herd football games this Copies will be available for $15 each and can be obtained by calling Ted Taylor at 364-8303.

Senior quarterback Todd Shire holds a slight lead in race for the starting slot. Juniors Raymond Romo and Chris Bullard are also expected to see alot of playing time.

"If we had to suit up and play tonight, Todd would be our number one man," said Cumpton earlier this week to the Hereford Lions Club. "But Raymond had a real good scrimmage and he will be seeing alot of action."

Cowboys-Oilers battle is Saturday

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Not since the Dallas Cowboys' third season, back in 1962, have they gone winless through the entire preseason, but their 24-year streak is in jeopardy against the Houston Oilers Saturday

The Cowboys have lost four in a row this summer, and the Oilers have won all three of their exhibition games heading into their intra-state Governor's Cup match in Texas Stadium.

Kickoff is 8 p.m. CDT. The Cowboys signed Herschel there are a number of players whose future is on the line.

Teams have to reduce their rosters from 50 players to the final 45 players by Tuesday.

One decision of interest is whether the Cowboys will keep veteran kicker Rafael Septien or go instead with Max Zendejas, a rookie from the University of Arizona whom the Cowboys selected in the fourth round of the 1986 draft.

Septien, who will turn 33 in December, said "It comes down to 'Is Rafael the one who will be good next year, too, or do we have a guy like Herschel Walker who will help in the future?"

Zendejas finished third on the alltime NCAA career field goal list with 77. But, again, he is a rookie.

"It will be a matter of who they trust," says Zendejas, who is expected to handle kickoff chores against Houston. "It comes down to trust, if they trust me."

The Cowboys have been delighted injured his back last season, and Cowboys kicking coach Ben Agajanian said if the coaches suspect Septien's back is suspect and may affect his kicking, "then I'm sure they will go with Max."

Landry has not tipped his hand as to which one will be cut.

"Septien has kicked very, very well," Landry said, before adding "Zendejas has been coming on."

Rookie linebackers Chris Dulihan and Garth Jax are contending for a spot on the team.

FOOT PROBLEMS Dress Your Pickup With BOSTON (AP) - Bill Walton reads

about foot problems encountered by Bill Cartwright and Michael Jordan, two other NBA stars, and laughs ironically

The Boston Celtic star said: "I remember the frustration I went through. I'd have the cast on my foot for six weeks. Then they'd take it off to find out that the bone hadn't healed. Another cast, six more weeks. I wondered for a long time if my foot would ever be strong enough to play professional basketball. I sympathize with what Jordan and Cartwright are going through.

After numerous operations and long absences from the basketball scene, Walton wound up in Boston where he helped the Celtics win the 1986 league championship.

The 1985 baseball season was a good one for two men named Evans, who are not related. Darrell Evans of Detroit led in homers with 40 and Dwight Evans of Boston topped the American League in walks with 114.

Wade Boggs, the 1985 American League batting champion with a .368 average, also led the league in on-base percentage with a mark of .450.

Browns defeat Raiders 25-22 in kicker's contest

By JOHN NADEL

AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The NFL preseason game between the Cleveland Browns and the Los Angeles Raiders turned into a kicking battle between the Bahr brothers.

Younger brother Matt and the Browns came out on top, but not because Chris did anything wrong.

Matt, the Cleveland place-kicker, booted six field goals without a miss Thursday night, including a 34-yarder with five seconds remaining which gave the Browns a 25-22 victory over the Raiders.

Meanwhile, Chris, the Raiders' kicker, connected on all three of his field goal attempts. In all, the two accounted for 29 of the 47 points scored at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

The two spent some time afterwards talking in the Los Angeles dressing room.

When asked about playing against his brother, Matt said with a smile, "We were never playing on the field at the same time."

As far as doing his job, Matt said, "That was the most field goals I've ever kicked in a game. You just don't usually get that many chances. It doesn't matter much, anyway." Matt was referring to the fact that the game was a pre-season affair. The Browns finished with a 4-0 record this summer, giving them a perfect pre-season record for the fourth time in their history. In the only other game Thursday night, the New York Jets beat the Philadelphia Eagles 37-30.

New York ended its preseason on a winning note, as Bobby Humphrey scored on an 88-yard kickoff return, Al Toon caught a 71-yard scoring pass from Ken O'Brien and Pat Leahy booted field goals of 20, 50 and 52 yards.

The Jets, 2-2, fell behind twice in the first period but rallied for a 17-13 halftime lead. New York's last two touchdowns came on fourth-period passes of 14 and 21 yards from Pat Ryan to Johnny Hector. The Jets fell behind in the first period when Ron Jaworski scored on a one-yard quarterback sneak, but they went ahead 7-6 when Humphrey returned the kickoff for a touchdown. Philadelphia took a 13-7 lead on a 53-yard touchdown run by rookie Junior Tautalatasi, but O'Brien's scoring pass to Toon put the Jets ahead for good at 14-13. After two Leahy field goals and the first Ryan-to-Hector scoring pass, the Eagles made it 27-20 in the final period with a six-play, 74-yard drive capped by quarterback Randall Cunningham's 9-yard pass to Tautalatasi. The final Eagle touchdown came on a 26-yard pass from Cuinningham to John Spagnola. Philadelphia closed the scoring on a 44-yard field goal by Paul McFadden with 49 seconds

The Toronto Blue Jays, in last place as late as June 1, could be emerging as the top challenger to Boston's lead in the American League East.

"I think people were counting us out in the early part of the season, saying that Boston would run away with it," Toronto right-hander Jim Clancy said after pitching the Blue Jays to their fifth straight victory, a 9-1 decision over Cleveland Thursday

"I think this is it, that we're going to get on that roll. It's the greatest time of the season to do it. Everybody's at their peak now," said Clancy, whose complete-game nine-hitter gave him eight victories in his last 10 decisions.

The second-place Blue Jays are now 41/2 games behind the Red Sox, who were idle Thursday.

In other AL games, Minnesota beat Milwaukee 6-2; Oakland swept a doubleheader from Baltimore, 5-4 and 8-7; New York edged Seattle 4-2; and California defeated Detroit 4-2. Clancy, 14-7, did not walk a batter and allowed the Indians their only run on Andre Thornton's 17th homer in the sixth inning. Meanwhile, he was backed by a 16-hit attack, including four each by George Bell and Tony Fernandez and three by Rick Leach.

California hiked its West Division lead over Texas to 41/2 games as Don Sutton won his 307th game and Dick Schofield shook off a beaning to knock in the tie-breaking run against Detroit in the sixth inning.

In the second, a pitch from Tigers' rookie Eric King grazed Schofield's face, but after lying motionless for several minutes, he stayed in the game. With the score tied 1-1 in the sixth, Schofield put the Angels ahead to stay with an RBI single.

Baltimore relief ace Don Aase, bidding to become the major-league leader in saves, gave up two-run hits with two outs in the ninth inning in both games as Oakland swept the Orioles.

Carney Lansford's two-run triple into the right-field corner with two outs won the nightcap after Dave Kingman's 30th homer settled the opener.

Yankees 4, Mariners 2

Rickey Henderson was ill before the game, but led off the first inning with a homer for the seventh time this season and New York went on to break a four-game losing streak by beating Seattle.

Dan Pasqua also homered in the first inning after Henderson broke an 0-for-17 slump with his 22nd homer, off Mike Morgan, 9-14. His seventh leadoff homer tied his own AL

Mickey Brantley hit a two-run homer off Rasmussen in the third to account for the Mariners' only runs.

Twins 6, Brewers 2

Gary Gaetti went 4-for-4, with his 27th home run and three singles, and drove in four runs as Minnesota beat Milwaukee.

Bert Blyleven, 14-10, benefitted from the Twins' four-run fourth inning and went on to post his 12th complete game.

The Brewers rallied in the bottom of the fourth with Ben Oglivie's fourth homer and an RBI single by Charlie Moore, but they couldn't score again as Blyleven pitched hitless ball over the last four innings.

Ann Landers Experience is awful

Dear Ann Landers: That jerk in Atlanta who claims women are better off than men after divorce is crazy. Divorced women ar the nation's "new poor."

The husband now gets 50 percent of the assets, thanks to women's lib. They outsmarted themselves when they won the battle for equal rights. They lost more than they gained.

It didn't matter that I put my husband through school and postponed childbearing until I was 31. He now has a Ph.D. and earns three times as much as I do. I paid off his student loans and moved with him all over the country so he could pursue his career. When my grandmother died and left me $11,000 it was considered a joint asset in the decree. He got

I am trying desparately to keep this house. The court said I had to pay my husband 50 percent of what it's worth. I am now trying to take care of myself and two children on $12,500 a year. If I didn't get child support for the kids I would be at the poverty level. I work nine hours a day and leave the kids with a stranger. I have missed out on all the wonderful joys of raising my children. I am so busy trying to keep body and soul together there is no time or energy for "extras."

If my story sounds depressing let me assure you I am one of the lucky ones. Some women have NO child support because their husbands run from one state to another and nobody can catch them. Please don't suggest taking the bums to court. The cases are backed up for two years in our

I hope you print this letter as a rebuttal to that goof who said divorced women with children are having a ball. I am living through the experience and it is just plain awful.-Tough Sledding in Indiana

Dear Sledding: No one who knows anything about the subject would ever say women fare better than men in the divorce court. Here and there one might find an example, but it is rare indeed. The vast majority of divorced women with children have a much more difficult time than their ex-husbands. In addition to the obvious problems of loneliness, chances for remarriage are infinitely smaller for a divorced woman. Whoever said life is unfair must have had this segment of society in mind.

Dear Ann Landers: I read some answers a teenager can give when offered alcohol. They are from the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse. These suggestions have already helped me feel more comfortable. I never used to know what to say.

Please print them for other teens who have trouble standing up to peer pressure.-Doing Better in Ohio

Dear O.: Good for you! Thanks for sharing. Here are the answers:

"No thanks, if I drink I'll lose my privileges."

"No thanks, it's just not for me." "No thanks, I've got to study for a test tomorrow and I need a clear head."

"No thanks, when I drink I usually end up embarrassing myself."

"No thanks, drinking makes me

"No thanks, I'm on a diet. Liquor has a lot of calories. I'd rather eat." "No thanks, I'm in training."

"No thanks, what else do you have?"

"No thanks, I don't drink."

She loves fish, but not the smell

DEAR POLLY - My husband is an avid fisherman and brings home many fish for me to cook. I love the fish - but not the fishy smell lingering on my hands. Any tips for getting rid of this odor? — ANN LOUISE DEAR ANN LOUISE — Mix a little baking soda with dishwashing liquid, then wash your hands in the mixture. This works well for removing strong odors such as those from fish. Or, try rubbing your hands thoroughly with lemon juice. Let the juice sit on the skin for a few minutes before washing it off with soap and water. The lemon does a fairly good job of cutting fishy odors.

I'm sending you a copy of my news-letter "Eliminating Household Odors," which has more tips for removing odors from your hands as well as for getting rid of odors all around the house — in the air, closets, appliances and furnishings. Others who would like this issue should send $1.00 for each copy to POLLY'S POINT-ERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1216, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to include the title. — POLLY DEAR POLLY — To plant those tiny flower seeds indoors or out, break a toothpick into pieces, dip a piece in water, then pick up one or two seeds with the end of the wet toothpick. Put the toothpick with the seeds on it into a hole you've punched in the soil with a pencil, then cover with soil leaving the end of the toothpick piece sticking out. The seeds will sprout and grow around the piece of toothpick while the toothpick marks where the seed is

DEAR POLLY - Short on time to make pie crust? Try patting down a 1/4-inch layer of buttermilk baking mix (for biscuits) in your baking dish, then add any fruit mixture as you would for any pie, but omit the thickening. Sprinkle another layer of biscuit mix on top, then dot with butter and sprinkle with sugar. Bake as usual. The juice of the fruit will bubble through the biscuit mix as it makes a magic crust. ### Police saddle club helps city kids buck their worries

DALLAS (AP) — He's a skinny coat and sticks to the youth's skin. kid, at an age when he could sprout to a man's height should you happen to look away.

The horse is a hand or two taller. It drops its head to meet the brush between the youth's fingers, pushing back at each stroke. "Tobask," says the youth, softly.

Douglas Johnson — called Duckee says everything softly to Tobask. The 3-year-old registered Arabian is unbroken, and when the gelding is ready for riding, Duckee will be the first. On this Friday afternoon, the two have known one another only three days.

"I just mainly talk to him, and rub him," Duckee says, continuing to brush. "When you work, you rub him."

Dust rises from the horse's bay

The dust is thick behind Edgar Ward Place, the sprawling public housing complex south of the Trinity River Bottoms in West Dallas. Both live there - the youth in the projects, the horse in the lot kept by the Lake West Police Athletic League. There are 35 youngsters in the Lake West Saddle Club, ages 6 through 18. All but one come from this neighborhood. The program has been run for two years on donated horses and the marine-sergeant bark of officer Debbie Johnson. No relation to Duckee, she might say. But it wouldn't be entirely true.

Participation is open to anyone who can keep Ms. Johnson's rules. "You have to be willing to work," she says. "You have to conduct yourself like a little gentleman. And grades are important ... One of my rules is, you will get off the school bus with at least one book. No book, you stay off the horse lot."

The inspiration for the club was Sgt. Herb Steele's. Steele, one of those who mans the Lake West substation, explains the origin of the idea by saying he was "kind of a cowboy growing up."

He recalls when he determined to do more than nurse the idea. He'd been called to a shooting in the projects, and was confronted by the young son of a suspect. "I was trying to console the 13-year-old boy," he remembers, "telling him the judge'd get mad at me if I didn't take his daddy down to answer some questions."

Steele asked the boy if he'd ride a horse if given the chance. The answer was yes. "After I told that kid, I was committed," says Steele.

According to Johnson, taking responsibility for a horse and winning its trust gives underprivileged children "the opportunity to get out into the community, to school and say, 'I can.'"

The corral was a housing authority nursery, unused for 20 years. The first of the horses took care of the overgrown Johnson grass, and the kids, Ms. Johnson and Steele say, did

At the outset, Duckee Johnson couldn't have cared less. "We just came and shot birds over here," he says of the old nursery, "with slingshots and BB guns."

In the fall, Duckee will be a sophomore at W.T. White High School. He can't wait to finish there. "I'm looking for a job now. But I need my birth certificate, and I can't find it. So mostly, I'm over here. I didn't used to like horses very well. Now, when I see a horse, that oughta be my horse."

For now, there is Tobask. "I didn't think I'd really get him first," Duckee says.

According to Ms. Johnson, the youth will have to teach the bay gelding "everything. Some manners. To respect physical restraints." The horse is halter broken, but must learn to respond to voice commands, she says.

Duckee takes Tobask into a ring. The youth stands in the center, with the horse on a long lead. Duckee clucks, picking up the pace from a walk to a trot. Tobask holds head and tail high and whinnies. When the horse tangles a leg in the lead, Duckee walks over and picks up the hoof as if Tobask were a puppy. Tobask wants to play, and bucks. But the youth is stern.

Ms. Johnson calls the process "lunging." Eventually, Tobask should respond even when free.

"Miss Debbie says at this rate, it'll be about two weeks," Duckee says of the first ride. "'Cause when I put the saddle on him, he didn't do nothing. He hasn't had the reins, though."

He scratches Tobask, looking for a ticklish spot beneath the horse's belly. "Right?" he whispers. "Gotta do good with the reins, too.'

"He comes to me now. Out of the horses I've had, I think I'm going to enjoy this one best. He don't act like the rest of 'em. When you tell him to do something, he does it.

"I'm good to him. He's good to me. I'm going to keep it that way."

AUSTIN (AP) - Club and restaurant managers and owners on Sixth Street, a glittering, late-hour hangout for the young, say the new higher drinking age will cut down on the street's elbow-to-elbow crowds but could be good for business.

months ago to test the market. However, one club that was a popular hangout for fraternities was sold, and a beer supplier theorized that it was because of the expected impact of the law.

Although all the Sixth Street owners and managers contacted by The Associated Press acknowledge that the under-21 crowd has provided a significant share of their clientele, they said they were optimistic about the future of their businesses.

Robert Clayton, manager of the Boardwalk Beach Club, also predicted a large increase in fake identification cards. "It's inevitable. The frats have very good ones."

"I've got 75 fake IDs tacked on the wall behind me," Shea said in a telephone interview. We're obliged to take them up."

According to several sources, under-age bar hoppers borrow friends' driver's licenses; buy a card called a Texas Identification Card that resembles a driver's license; and even use legal papers supplied by others, such as birth certificates, to get a driver's license with a higher

Connie Kelly, a manager at Toulouse, was asked if the higher drinking age could be devastating to Sixth Street clubs, and she said, "We wouldn't still be in business if we thought it would be devastating."

"The students are a big part of our business but they're really not big spenders. In the long run, it will be better for business, because the older crowd has more to spend, basically," Ms. Kelly said.

The "older crowd" on Sixth Street is late 20s, early 30s.

Clayton said on week nights "under 21 kids" make up 30 percent of the Boardwalk's clientele but older people come on the weekends. "We'll concentrate on happy hours" to help make up any shortage of numbers, he said.

Dan Ross, owner of Prima Donna pizzeria and the next door Santi's Pastas, said Prima Donna could lose up to 25 percent of its business, Santi's no more than 5 percent. "Initially, we anticipate somewhat less business - that's pretty common among all owners, but after the kids are gone, the place could be a lot

"I hoped when we started 31/2 years ago that eventually Sixth Street would be a mature street, a place for all downtown," Ross said.

Shea said at Maggie Mae's, where imported beer is the specialty, only 8 percent of his business comes from 19- and 20-year-olds but "8 percent off the top is a lot."

However, he said, with the thinning of the younger crowd, "we're presuming the older clientele will not be as uncomfortable and will be coming to Sixth Street. There should be more credit cards instead of cash and a higher degree of spending."

Also, he said, "We hope to avoid unrecorded expenses - vandalism, broken chairs and tables, bathrooms."

As soon as the law goes into effect, Shea predicts an "instantaneous effect for us, and all the others, and then there will be a readjustment, and it will be business as usual."

Contraception DR. GOTT and older women

DEAR DR. GOTT - What is the all means, avoid the product at best contraception for a woman over

DEAR READER — As a general rule, women over 40 tend to develop more complications from contraceptive pills than do younger women. Therefore, barrier methods of birth control are less risky and more appropriate for older women. Permanent contraception, such as vasectomy and tubal ligation, are even better options for couples over 40 to consider. I usually suggest vasectomy, rather than tubal ligation, because the procedure is safe, relatively inexpensive and easily performed in the doctor's

DEAR DR. GOTT - I used a home permanent, and when I started to style my hair, it came out in wads. What on earth in happening and what can I do about it?
DEAR READER — Women sometimes develop hair damage from the compounds in home-perm solutions. This can result in hair brittleness or hair loss that is usually temporary. Ask a beautician or cosmetologist to give you advice when you are ready for your next permanent — and, by

DEAR DR. GOTT - I've recently had a colostomy because of a sigme tumor. I had a major infection in the incision and now have a sizable abdominal hernia. My surgeon passes it off lightly. I've always prided myself on my appearance (I'm 62), and the scar and hernia are affecting that. Is there anything I can do?

DEAR READER — Once the infection has cleared up, the abdominal hernia can be repaired. Your surgeon may have been grateful to have been able to remove the sigmoid tumor; the resulting weakness in the abdominal wall may have been an unavoidable consequence of the operation. Nonetheless, the defect can be repaired, either by the original doctor or by a surgeon who is familiar with such a procedure.

Horace Smith and Daniel Wesson patented the revolver in 1854.

The first Red Cross convention was signed in 1864 by 26 countries.

The idea of inflating rubber tires was discovered by a Scottish veterinarian, according to Armstrong Tire Co. It was during the 1880s when the vet sought a means of easing the jolting ride of his wooden dogcart. He made a tube of rubber, fastened the two ends together and blew it up with a football pump.

Morgan leads taxing life

NORTON, Ohio (AP) Michael A. Morgan of Norton and Michael A. Morgan of Olney, Texas, are two different people who live hundreds of miles apart.

But try telling the Internal Revenue Service.

The confusion has delayed a $400 federal income tax refund due the Michael A. Morgan of this Akron suburb while the matter is being. resolved.

Besides their name, the two men share a birthdate --- May 18, 1967 - and their fathers' names are similar. That similarity apparently led to the two men being assigned the same Social Security number years ago.

The mix-up didn't surface until the Ohioan filed a federal income tax return for the first time last March. He received a letter from the IRS several weeks later. "They knew something wasn't right," Morgan said. "They thought I was filing twice." The IRS told Morgan it would need confirmation of his Social Security number before it would issue a check to him. That's when the Ohio man learned of his Texas namesake and that the government combined their incomes.

Since Michael Morgan of Texas was issued the number in 1974 and Michael Morgan of Norton received it in 1978, "the Texas Mike legally owns the number," said Karen Eager of the West Akron office of the Social Security Administration. "The Norton Mike will get a new number." All of the Norton man's earnings will be put on the new Social Security card number, she said. On Tuesday, Norton's Morgan was told he would have to fill out a second application for a new number. Ms. Eager said the administration is speeding up the case and that Morgan should be getting a new card and number within 10 days. Ms. Eager said cases such as this happer occasionally. "It's not a frequent occurrence," she said. "There were a whole bunch of things that did match up."
