For Hereford schools Taxes same, budget up

By JERI CURTIS
Managing Editor

Taxes didn't go up, the budget passed, and patrons applauded the adoption of curriculum guidelines.

The Hereford district is ready for school.

"Four months ago I didn't think I could get fired-up about this school year," Superintendent Harrell Holder commented at the end of the meeting. "But, I'm fired-up."

The school year will operate on an estimated $15,862,204 to come from 15,280,806 in revenues and from the $3,520,000 in the current fund balance. If all money is expended next year, the fund balance will be at $2,338,602.

Holder said the budget increase was at about 8 percent higher than last year's expenditures of $14,659,237, but that there also is a 4 percent increase in revenue due to revaluation of property. The net 4 percent increase is mostly in payroll costs.

Upon Holder's recommendation, the board accepted the budget and voted to keep the tax rate at .69 per $100 valuation. Holder warned that likely next summer a rate increase would be needed.

Holder said the outlook for education in the special session doesn't look bad for 1986-87, but developing the 87-88 budget would be more difficult if education cuts are made next year.

Curriculum directives which were reviewed in a July 29 meeting were approved, with changes reported by assistant superintendent Marc Williamson. Some of the amendments were only clerical and others allowed for parental review of major tests and instruction above grade level for a student with permission from Williamson.

The directives were adopted with Jo Garcia casting the assenting vote.

"My vote is the voice of many administrators, teachers and students who did not want changes in curriculum," Garcia stated. Later in the meeting, board president John Fuston commended Garcia for voting how she felt she should. All other members— Bud Patterson, Shirley Wilson, Kathy Moore, Steve Coneway, and Fuston— approved. Bill Townsend was absent.

Following the motion, the patrons applauded.

Assistant superintendent Larry Wartes told the board that the district had recieved a verbal report of "good shape" from an Environmental Protection Agency inspector who checked for asbestos in all buildings. Wartes said he would give a full report when he had that in writing.

After an executive session, the board voted to accept a salary schedule which included a $1,500 a year raise for four elementary principals -- John Birdwell, John Poindexter, Phil Shook and Gary Billingsley. Other elementary principals had received raises this year.

In other business:
—Corky Lockmiller, director of special ed, presented procedure for placement of students with dyslexia.

—Aurora Dominguez, Classroom Teachers Association president, said the organization would have a workshop for teachers to prepare for appraisals.

—Wartes reported that three old busses need to be sold and that the district had purchased three used pickups from Energas.

—The board purchased 20 computers, two printers and memory

Commuting thousands of miles worth it for Kit Sanders' job

(Editor's Note: Today is the 25th anniversary of the Berlin Wall which splits that German city into Communist and free sections. Though foreign to most of us, the city is part of the job for Kit Sanders of Hereford.)

By CINDY SMITH
Staff Writer

There are several people living in Hereford that commute thousands of miles a day to go to work.

Thousands?

Yes, thousands. Kit Sanders, former Hereford High School and West Texas State University graduate, who commutes to Berlin to go to work.

Sanders, a fighter bomber in the Navy for 10 years, said "after being deployed 11 months of the year, I got a little bit tired trying to raise a family and all."

After finding a job that let him be with his family more, he worked for Pan-Am as a 707 pilot flying out of

New York and commuted from Virginia. "In 1970 I was laid off in the airline furlough. I guess I had a winning ticket," said Sanders.

In 1974 he was recalled and was furloughed again in 1976 and moved back to his hometown.

"My mother and father live here and I'm related to half of Hereford.

"I didn't know if the airline would ever get well or not, so I decided to stay here and I got recalled in February of this year," Sanders said.

Sanders is now back at work for Berlin flying a 727. "It's a new airplane and a different base," smiled Sanders. "The reason I chose Berlin over Miami or New York is because I could still live here in Hereford."

Sanders and his wife said they gave a lot of thought to moving back to Virginia. They were there in May. "We looked at the housing, the traffic, looked at all the hassles you have to go through living in a big city. It also costs a couple of days traveling time and we just didn't want to go through with it," said Sanders.

He gets to work by flying from Amarillo to Dallas and then he has several choices for commuting the rest of the way. "I can fly on Pan-Am, Braniff, TWA, or the Flying Tiger, a cargo carrier," said Sanders. He said the there is a reciprocal agreement between carriers. Sanders has always flown Pan-Am except for one trip which he made two weeks ago.

"We have three flights a day out of New York to Frankfurt and I have two flights to Paris, three flights to London, and one to Zurich. So I can fly any of those six or eight trips and use those gateways to enter Berlin," he explained.

Sanders is at home about two weeks out of the month. An average day in the life of this pilot begins with wake-up at 8:30 a.m., pickup at 10 a.m. to be taken to the airport in a bus, the aircraft takes off about noon and the pilot begins his four and a half hour flight. "We arrive Tel Aviv about 6 p.m. We clear customs and get to the hotel about 7 p.m. and when you shower and clean up it's already 8 p.m.," said Sanders. "We usually go down to the square and have something to eat and then back to the hotel room because wake-up is then at 3:30 a.m. and pickup at 4:30 a.m. And then we're airborne again by 6 a.m. going to Paris to arrive at 10:30 a.m. and then we go back to the hotel and do it all over again."

Sanders said they have three major gateways out of Europe; Berlin, Frankfurt, and Paris. The majority of his flying time is spent going from Paris to Geneva, Switzerland, and Istanbul, Turkey, and returning. Another trip he takes is non-stop to Tel Aviv, layover, and returning.

SANDERS

"Frankfurt services Moscow, and Leningrad, which are both layovers. We don't fly those daily only about four times a week," he said.

"He was able to take a few pictures of Moscow which really surprised us," said his wife Judy. Sanders explained that he has an apartment in Berlin because he has to be able to live there if he stays over a great length of time.

According to Sanders, West Berlin is a city of about two million people located 120 miles inside East Germany. West Berlin covers about 185 square miles of land compared to East Berlin which covers 154 square miles.

Berlin is situated at the Spree and Havel Rivers and started out as a trading center in 1244 A.D. Sanders is presently learning the German language and his wife said he has a new word every time he comes home.

"We're in Berlin at the request of the U.S. State Department," Sanders said. "Only the French, English, Americans, and Soviets can service Berlin by a four party agreement."

He said that Berlin is almost totally isolated, it is a 130 miles by highway with no speed limit but in East Berlin they have very stringent speed limits.

"The Soviets can close that border at anytime they feel like it and in 1948 they did close it," he recalled. "The Berlin airlift defeated the blockade. They hauled everything by air; coal, food stuffs, building materials, they actually built a power plant by hauling all the materials by air." As a result of that, Sanders explained that Pan-Am, Air France and British Airways are the only three airlines by choice that service Tegel Airport in the French sector of West Berlin which is the international airport.

"People are nice in East Berlin, it's a very cosmopolitan city," said Sanders. "It has one of the biggest zoos in the world, a geological garden in the heart of the city, and about 5,000 restaurants. Congress Central, a conference hall built in 1977, is also located there."

Sanders said that as a tourists one can go into East Berlin, that they do take tourists up to the wall. He also said that about half of the city is water used for bathing, boating, and swimming.

The pilot also said that the chartered flights can take a fellow just about anywhere they want to go. "The Germans are usually the ones we take every place but the Turkish citizens, they usually go to West Germany or West Berlin. Both have a very high population of Turkish nationals.

"These folks used to come up and work a few years because they had labor shortages and the Germans would hire them. These people come in and spend a lot of money over there," he said.

For the pilot who has a ticket to almost every place Sanders said his favorite place to visit is Rome, a place he doesn't get to visit much.

Of the cities he has access to, his favorite place to stay is Dubrovnic, on the Dalmatian Coast in the southwest part of Yugoslavia. "It's gorgeous. I like the people over there. It's very, very off the beaten path, very few tourists go down there, and it's sparsely populated. They just built a new modern hotel but no one's ever there," revealed Sanders. He said Dubrovnic is very neat and clean life America with a population of about 100,000.

Traveling so much a pilot is forced to eat out a lot and one can't help but wonder if they can read the menu they're handed. "Usually I order from the French menu because I can't speak Yugoslavian. Most these places have an English, French, German and a language of their printed on the menus and if you can't order off that you're in bad shape," he chuckled.

Things to buy that are reasonably priced in Berlin include lace, wood carvings, pottery, some porcelain, and crystal. Sanders said for the price these items seem to have exceptional quality.

Sanders thought American's shouldn't have cancelled their traveling plans this year. He felt their paranoia about air travel was uncalled for.

"A lot happened this year for air travel," he admitted. "Reagan sent the bombers into Libya and in my opinion, the press was the biggest terrorists we have for putting fear in people's minds of air travel.

"The Europeans are laughing at us because we're afraid to fly. Even our pastor isn't afraid to fly- he just returned from Tel Aviv. But traveling is starting to pick up again. We're filling up pretty fast," said Sanders.

KIT SANDERS Local Pilot

"I think people did themselves a disservice by not following through with their travel plans to Europe. But right now there's not that many tourists wherever you go," he said.

Thinking of the American and the way some of them were treated after the attack was announced Sanders said "most of the waiters and cab drivers in Paris are almost civil to Americans." But, he also added, that as time goes by this will change.

At the present, Sanders is helping his four kids to get off to college. And once everything is rolling he and his wife have plans to travel together. "We're hoping to spend October in Berlin or Yugoslavia and later on the kids can travel some with us," he grinned.

State

Button drive to help deficit

AUSTIN (AP) - Former Gov. Bill Clements says some Democratic state lawmakers are using "political hoopla" in efforts to get him to produce a reported secret plan for the state deficit.

At a news conference Tuesday, the senators and representatives announced they were selling big yellow lapel buttons for $5 each. The buttons read: "Where's The Secret Plan, Bill?"

The news conference was called by Sen. Chet Edwards of Duncanville and Rep. Paul Colbert of Houston. They called on the Republican gubernatorial candidate to produce a so-called "secret plan" to solve the deficit.

Edwards said that Clements at one time said he had a "secret plan" that he would produce if Gov. Mark White called a special session.

"That's why we are here to invite Bill Clements to Austin. We would welcome his specific ideas on how to solve the state's multi-billion dollar deficit," Edwards said.

"Bill, if you have a secret plan, show us," Edwards said. "If you have any plan, call us. But if you have no plan, Bill, tell us now."

"I don't plan to buy a button," Clements fired back, when asked about the buttons during a press conference Tuesday in Dallas to announce a Hispanic campaign committee.

Labels proposed for light beer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Americans shopping for light beer, wine and whiskey would get a clearer idea of what they are buying under new labeling and advertising rules proposed by the government.

The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms published a series of proposed regulations Tuesday setting new rules for what can be called light or lite, requiring those products to list their calories, protein, carbohydrates and fat content, and changing the advertising rules for those beverages.

Regulations for light alcoholic beverages have been under discussion since 1980, and bureau spokesman Jack Killorin said the agency wants to hear from the public on the subject.

The agency set a Nov. 10 deadline for public comment.

Reagan will not quit for hostages

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan, making clear his frustration, says there have been times when he thought the release of American hostages in Lebanon was imminent, only to find their liberation "would disappear into the sand."

He vowed not to quit trying until the men are freed.

During his Chicago news conference Tuesday night, the president described his frustration over the inability to win the captives' freedom.

"Many times we have felt we were on the track and that we were almost going to be able to set a day when they would be free and then it would disappear into the sand and then we would have to start on another path," Reagan said.

The missing Americans - all held for more than a year - are Terry Anderson of The Associated Press; David Jacobsen, director of the American University Hospital; and Thomas Sutherland, dean of agriculture at the university.

Also missing is William Buckley, a U.S. Embassy political officer. One Lebanese group, Islamic Jihad, claimed last October it had killed him, but no body has been found.

A senior U.S. official, recalling Reagan had made similar remarks in July, said behind the seesawing hopes were the rivalry of Islamic factions, competition between Syria and Iran, and turmoil in Lebanon.

Robertson would campaign as lawyer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Rev. Pat Robertson says he thinks Americans have an antipathy to the involvement of the clergy in politics and he would campaign for president as a lawyer, economist and "Christian businessman."

At a dinner with reporters Tuesday, Robertson said that for any candidate "to stand up and say, quote, I am God's candidate, is inappropriate."

The television evangelist parried several questions about his views of the mixture of religion and politics and also made a straight political claim of victory in the recent election of precinct delegates in Michigan.

Speaking to a group of reporters, Robertson held up a pamphlet distributed in Michigan by supporters of Vice President George Bush that was headlined, "Help Keep Religion Out of Politics," and said such material "does create something of a negative."

Robertson has said he is waiting for God to tell him whether to run for president. Asked about people who say they are running because they were told by God to enter politics, Robertson said, "I don't think we should invest any candidate with the mantle of God."

He said, "There is an antipathy of the American people to the involvement of clergy in politics, especially for clergy to tell people how to vote.

"How will I address that?"

Robertson said he would point out that he has a law degree, is "a passable economist" and is the son of a former senator from Virginia, A. Willis Robertson.

"Yes, I have a degree in theology," he said, but added that he also operates a multi-million-dollar cable television network, the Christian Broadcasting Network.

"That isn't your typical parish priest," he said, describing himself as "a Christian businessman."

Robertson said he thought the American people were "extremely open to accept sincerely held religious beliefs."

A recent Gallup poll said that of Republicans who describe themselves as born-again or evangelical Christians, only 20 percent support Robertson while 43 percent said they backed Bush. The vice president had the support of 57 percent of the non-evangelicals, while Robertson was the choice of only 3 percent.

International

5-day work week to be tried out

PEKING (AP) - China's communist government will experiment with five-day work weeks during the current 1986-1990 economic plan, the official China Daily said today.

It said a 40-hour week will replace the national work schedule of six eight-hour days in certain sectors, but gave no date for the beginning of the program.

The newspaper quoted Bi Dachuan, vice president of the National Research Center for Science and Technology, as saying industrial enterprises and public service industries would be the first to try the shortened work week.

It reported Bi said the reduced work week would enhance people's lives, promote spare-time education and tourism, but also could lead to increased government costs, and that the plan would be undertaken with great care.

Federal farm help is symbolic

WASHINGTON (AP) - Twice in the past three weeks, President Reagan has taken trips designed to demonstrate his concern for farmers, a group largely missing out on economic recovery and viewed as pivotal in this fall's elections.

The trips have been heavy with symbolism: awarding ribbons to junior livestock award winners in Illinois on Tuesday while talking in glowing terms of the bright future ahead for agriculture, and watching bales of donated hay unloaded for farmers in parched South Carolina last month.

Along with the gestures have come kind words, praising farmers' contributions to the U.S. economy and promising "unshakable" government support to ease them through the hardest times since the Depression.

But the concrete steps announced to help farmers during the period have been less clear in their real impact on financially ailing producers.

The most dramatic move, Reagan's approval on Aug. 1 of subsidized wheat sales to the Soviet Union, demonstrated if nothing else the depth of the president's concern about potential farm-state political problems.

It was extraordinary because

Reagan had long resisted any gesture that could appear to be aiding an adversary he has long condemned. In Chicago on Tuesday, the president defended the move by saying, "We didn't do it for the Soviet Union. We did it for our farmers."

While it has provoked loud protests from grain-exporting U.S. allies, subsidizing the 4 million tons of grain will have little effect on American surpluses, however. That amount represents less than half the estimated production of Kansas this year. The subsidies needed to sell it have been estimated at $52 million.

The driving force behind the Soviet sale was Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., who sees a danger that the GOP could lose its slim 53-47 margin in the Senate this fall. Several of the most endangered Republicans up for re-election this year are from grain-belt states.

Reagan also has tried to appear generous to farmers in the drought-plagued Southeast. After a campaign foray into South Carolina on July 24, Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng announced the administration would set up a hot line to give farmers in the region information about available help.

Following criticism that the administration wasn't doing enough to help, another drought aid package was announced. But congressional Democrats complained that the biggest item in the package wasn't drought aid at all, and would go mostly to non-drought states.

Tuesday's announcement at the state fair in Springfield, Ill., was an attempt to demonstrate concern about a third problem facing farmers: the lack of storage space to house a bumper grain crop. The coming corn harvest was estimated Tuesday at 8.32 billion bushels, the second largest on record.

Reagan said farmers would be offered regular price-support loans for their crops to prevent them from selling at distress prices at harvest time. The White House, in an apparent effort to highlight the offer, said the gesture was being done "for the first time ever." But department officials said similar loans have been made in the past during times of bumper harvests and tight storage.

Volunteer firefighters resign in protest

STAMFORD, Texas (AP) - Ten Stamford volunteer firefighters, with uniforms and boots in hand, announced their resignation after City Council members stood firm on their decision to fire the town's paid firefighters.

The council called Tuesday night's meeting to discuss dissolving the paid fire department and firing of its four employees due to the city's budget crunch.

During the meeting, the volunteers told the mayor and City Council that 14 of the 15 members of the department decided months ago they would resign if the council decided to make the fire department entirely volunteer.

But as of Tuesday night, the council said the four paid employees would be out of a job as of Jan. 1. Frank Cox, a paid firefighter, said he learned Tuesday he would soon be without work. So the 10 resigned.

Left unanswered was who would protect the town of about 4,500 residents located 40 miles north of Abilene in the event of a fire after Jan. 1.

"We are going to have a volunteer fire department," said Stamford Mayor Robert Prichard at the beginning of Tuesday's meeting.

Prichard said the meeting was not a hearing but was called to spell out facts concerning the fire department in Stamford.

The mayor said a declining local economy has caused drops in collections of property, sales, and hotel taxes. The city's interest earnings on investments have decreased, he said.

The net fiscal loss for 1986 is $76,000, he said.

The city must either raise taxes or user fees, or reduce expenditures to make up for the loss of revenue, Prichard said.

City Manager Rick Holden said the citizens of Stamford would not tolerate a further increase in taxes. Holden said that he had already reduced budgets in all departments by more than $100,000 and that the only increase projected for next year would be in the police department.

City Councilman Joe Smith Upham said a recent study of towns around Stamford showed that homeowners could expect only a small increase in their insurance premiums as a result of dissolving the paid fire department.

THE ROOT OF IT

CINCINNATI (AP) - Root beer, first introduced in the late 1800s as a temperance drink, was developed by Charles Hires from an herb tea originally brewed on family farms. The soft drink today uses more than 12 different wild roots, herbs and spices, including wintergreen, juniper hops and ginger, according to Hires Root Beer.

money for other state operations. The two funds are the backbone of the state's higher education and public education systems. The principal, which is income from state lands, cannot be spent. But interest income is put into funds that are spent.

The university fund money, now totaling about $2.4 billion, is divided between the University of Texas and Texas A&M systems. The school fund, now greater than $5 billion, is divided among all local school districts statewide.

In a speech to a statewide school finance symposium, White said creation of Permanent School Fund was "a historic and farsighted commitment of this state to provide a solid and unshakable foundation for public schools."

Raiding that fund for a quick-fix of cash "would badly hurt the schoolchildren of Texas," the governor said.

TEAMWORK

TEAMWORK noun a joint action by a group of people in which each person subordinates his individual interests and opinions for the unity of the group.

When the word "teamwork" is mentioned, the most obvious thought is that of football or another sport. While it is true that a football team must have unity, teamwork also applies to business.

If you have a financial need, you need a good bank on your team. You need a financial institution that understands your situation and that can help you complete your project.

Manager 'dumb'

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last night I treated some friends to dinner in a fine restaurant. The food was delicious but the portions were too generous.

At the conclusion of the meal I asked our waitress for a doggy bag for the leftovers. There were some lobster tails, two half portions of newburg and an order of spaghetti. A bus boy brought the leftovers in a bag wrapped in tin foil.

The next afternoon I opened the bag, thinking we would have a nice lunch. What I found was a few tired shrimp and some wilted lettuce. I called the restaurant and told the manager about it. He replied, "The busboy must have given you someone else's bag by mistake. So sorry." So you think he treated us right?—A.A. IN N.Y.

DEAR A.A.: A really smart restaurant manager would have invited you back for lunch on the house. That man was just plain dumb.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In the Hartford Courant recently you ran a letter from a woman whose husband stopped physically abusing her. They went to an organization called Spouse Abuse and were both so grateful.

There was one statement in her letter that stood out like a neon sign. It was this: "I was so furious, if I had had a gun I would have shot him."

With all the advice you dispense in your column, the most important should be to stop letting ordinary citizens own handguns.

The National Rifle Association has one of the most powerful lobbies in Washington. Why isn't a national poll taken of the citizenry to find out if the majority of people want the man on the street to be able to buy a gun with no questions asked?

A headline story in the Courant today was about a father who shot his three children, ages 9, 4 and 3, and then killed himself. Gun slayings are so frequent it isn't even front-page news anymore.

If "Saved in Florida", by her own admission, had had a gun she and her husband would never have made it to the organization called Spouse Abuse. Please have the courage to address this problem.—M.L.K. IN NEWINGTON, CONN.

DEAR M.L.K.: You must be a new reader. I have been battling the National Rifle Association for at least 20 years and I shall continue to urge people to tell Congress we want a national handgun law.

You want a poll to determine how the American people feel about handguns? We have had several. Every poll I've seen in the last several years indicates that the majority of Americans (especially the law enforcement officers) are in favor of banning the "Saturday night specials." I am not suggesting that we take rifles away from duck shooters. I'm talking about banning those palm-size guns used in holdups.

Join Sarah Brady's crusade against the National Rifle Association. Sarah is the wife of Jim Brady, the president's press secretary, who was seriously wounded when an attempt was made on President Reagan's life. That gun was sold over the counter, no questions asked. If you want to help this courageous woman, write to HANDGUN CONTROL, 1400 K. Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20005 and ask what you can do.

POLLY'S POINTERS Milk lasts months in high-tech boxes

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY — The store where I shop recently started selling milk in boxes on non-refrigerated shelves. How is this possible? How long can the milk be stored this way? — L.C.U.

DEAR L.C.U. — The packaging is known as aseptic packaging and it's been available in Europe for many years. The specially constructed and treated boxes are filled with milk that has been sterilized so it is bacteria-free before being poured into the sterilized containers. The container is sealed airtight. Since no bacteria is allowed to remain in the milk or in the packaging, the milk does not spoil for a long time.

Aseptically packaged milk may be stored as long as six months at room temperature. Once the package is opened, however, the milk should be refrigerated and used as quickly as regular milk. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — What does a lady do when she gets a corsage? I'm talking about a real, live flower corsage. It's a shame to only wear it once, then either press it or throw it away. Here is what I do: I put the corsage in a plastic bag, blow air into the bag, then twist the top of the bag and tie it with a twist-tie. Then I put it in the refrigerator. It will keep at least two weeks or more and can be worn many times, if you always return it to the plastic bag and refrigerator after wearing. — M.S.C.

DEAR POLLY — Soak your light-colored non-stick cooking utensils in a solution of liquid dishwashing detergent and hot water, to which a little bleach has been added. This solution will brighten your kitchen sink as well as make your utensils look brand new. — B.M.C.

DEAR POLLY — A notchless belt will hold tight instead of slipping if you glue a strip of Velcro at one end of the belt and the matching strip at the point of fastening. — BOBBIE

DEAR POLLY — The pinup lamp over my stove needed a new shade. I couldn't get the type that is washable, so I came up with this idea. I got a 6 1/4-inch fancy woven basket. I inserted the clip from the top of the old shade inside this basket so it would fasten on the lamp. Now all I need to do to clean the shade is to dip it in sudsy water, rinse, and the shade is always fresh.

— ETHEL

DEAR ETHEL — If the hardware can be adequately attached, baskets (which come in a wide variety of shapes and sizes) can be used as attractive shades for many lamps. Just be sure the basket is not so close to the bulb that it could get hot enough to be a fire hazard. Your helpful Pointer earns you the Pointer of the Week award, a copy of my book "Polly's Pointers: 1081 Helpful Hints for Making Everything Last Longer." Others who would like this book can order it for $6.50. Make check payable to POLLY'S POINTERS, Box 1216, Dept. 55, Cincinnati, OH 45201. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — An afghan I made as a wedding gift was difficult to wrap. I found that a pretty corrugated cardboard storage box, lined with tissue and tied with ribbon, made a lovely, reusable gift wrap. — MRS. R.B.

'Ryan Express' is not derailed

Astros score 3-0 shutout over Dodgers

By The Associated Press

In recent years, each time Houston pitcher Nolan Ryan has gone on the injury list or slipped into a slump, the whispers have started.

Is he finished? Is the famed triple-digit fast ball about to experience flame-out? Is the Ryan Express about to derail?

And each time, the 39-year-old flame-thrower has answered the questioners with a resounding "no" and another dose of heat.

Ryan pushed aside Father Time once again Tuesday night with 5 1-3 innings of no-hit baseball and a two-hitter over six innings en route to a 3-0 shutout victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"They said it was 96 miles per hour but I'm not sure," Ryan said of his famous out-pitch.

He had relief help from Charlie Kerfeld, who blanked the Dodgers over the final three innings.

The victory gave the Astros two in a row over the Dodgers in a key National League Western Division series, but Ryan stole the show.

It was Ryan's first start after coming off the disabled list for the second time this season, and his response to the challenge surprised even Ryan.

"I was as surprised as anyone that my control was as good as it was," said Ryan, 8-7, who walked two batters. "It was definitely a mental uplift because of the duress I've been under."

Ryan complained when he was placed on the 15-day disabled list. He didn't think his ailing right elbow was hurting badly enough to warrant being sidelined.

"I guess you'd have to say it didn't set me back," Ryan said. "I was concerned that it would upset my timing and delivery."

Ryan eased those fears by retiring the first 10 batters he faced. He walked two in the fourth and yielded two hits in the sixth to Steve Sax and Bill Matlock.

"I don't ever doubt anything that he does," Sax said. "He's one of the best ever. It's like he never left. He was in top form."

Ryan has been on the disabled list twice this season with a sprained ligament in his right elbow.

He struggled at the start of the season before going on the disabled list for the first time.

Ryan came off the disabled list the first time on June 24 and compiled a 4-1 record before his second sidelining.

The sixth inning hits by Sax and Matlock kept Astros Manager Hal Lanier from facing the possibility of lifting Ryan with a no-hitter intact. Lanier said it wouldn't have mattered.

It was predetermined that Ryan would throw no more than 100 pitches, said Lanier, who allowed Ryan to throw 99 before replacing him.

"He was coming out regardless, I need him in September," Lanier said. "I would not have left him in. One game or a no-hitter is not that important."

Dodger Manager Tommy Lasorda said he was amazed that a pitcher of Ryan's age (39) could still throw with such velocity.

"Go ask him what his secret is and come back and tell me," Lasorda said. "He's amazing."

Jose Cruz, continuing his emergence from a slump, gave Ryan all the runs he needed with a two-run triple in the second inning, scoring Glenn Davis and Kevin Bass.

Bass' single extended his hitting string to 19 games, longest in the National League this season and four games short of the Astros record set by Denis Menke, now the Astros' hitting coach.

A double by Billy Doran and a single to left field by Billy Hatcher gave the Astros their insurance run in the fifth inning.

Sax was Los Angeles' only base runner to reach third base.

Rick Honeycutt, 8-7, retired eight in a row after yielding the two-run triple to Cruz.

Elsewhere in the National League, it was Philadelphia 3, New York 1; San Francisco 2, Cincinnati 1; San Diego 4, Atlanta 3; Montreal 10, St. Louis 3, and Chicago 3, Pittsburgh 1.

Philadelphia's Kevin Gross got himself into some trouble, but found a unique way of escaping — retiring New York's clutch-hitting Keith Hernandez three times to end an inning.

Hernandez, 3-for-5 against Gross this season, went 0-for-4 and left six runners stranded.

"I just gave him good stuff," Gross said. "I think I outguessed him."

San Francisco third baseman Bob Brenly felt empathy for Cincinnati's rookie shortstop Kurt Stillwell, who booted Dan Gladden's bases-loaded grounder to allow the winning run to score in the sixth inning.

Brenly, who made two errors in the second to give the Reds their lone run, said balls can take bad hops when they hit the cutouts of the artificial turf.

"I'm sure that's what happened to Stillwell," Brenly said. "The ball looked like it was bouncing true, then the last hop came up."

Vida Blue, 9-6, got the victory for the Giants, allowing four hits over the first five innings.

Padres 4, Braves 3

Bruce Bochy's two-run double in the seventh inning broke open what had been a tight pitching duel between San Diego's LaMarr Hoyt and Atlanta's Zane Smith. Hoyt, 6-8, who had lost four straight decisions, allowed five hits in six innings. Rich Gossage got his 20th save.

Expos 10, Cardinals 3

Montreal's Bob Sebra is hoping the first complete game of his major league career will convince Manager Buck Rodgers to keep him in the starting rotation.

"It was certainly my biggest highlight so far," said Sebra, who allowed eight hits and got two himself to even his record at 2-2. "I just hope this will give Buck some more confidence in the future."

Cubs 3, Pirates 1

Another $750 went to a Chicago high school when Leon Durham hit his 12th homer of the year to lead the Cubs past Pittsburgh, and that didn't escape the watchful eye of teammate Lee Smith.

"I've been screaming at him about not hitting home runs, not wanting to buy any books for kids in the city," Smith said after notching his 22nd save with two innings of shutout relief.

Durham's homer, his 100th as a Cub, broke a 1-1 tie in the fifth inning. He added a run-scoring single in the sixth.

McWilliams aims to avoid last-minute Tech losses

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Victory has been eluding the Texas Tech football squad for years but now they've got a new coach who's experienced, has a good track record and is, well, cautiously optimistic about finally grabbing the golden ring.

David McWilliams, a 15-year coaching veteran at Texas, thinks his Red Raiders may even have a chance at the Cotton Bowl. Just maybe.

"Barring injuries and coaches, if I don't mess them up, if I don't get them confused," the Raiders may yet go to the Cotton Bowl, which Tech hasn't played since 1939. "I don't know. You say things and people think you're nutty. I want to face reality."

Former Raiders Coach Jerry Moore faced reality when he was fired before the season was over last December after accumulating a 16-32-2 record during his five years at Tech. The Raiders, who finished the season 4-7 overall and 1-7 in the Southwest Conference, dedicated their last game to their coach. They lost to Houston 17-16.

McWilliams, whose eight years as defense coordinator at Texas produced two All-America defensive players and six consensus All-SWC choices, is zeroing in on that one- and two-point, fourth-quarter losing theme.

The Raiders lost four SWC games last season by a total of six points. Most of the slips into defeat happened in the last 1½ minutes. McWilliams set up a period during spring training to look into that problem.

"We called it a turnover period. Kind of a fourth-quarter drill," to discover if there was a recurring problem, he said.

They looked at films, talked it over and came up with a few ideas.

"It wasn't the same thing every time. Maybe the only recurring thing is that it always seemed to be later in the game," he said. "It's concentration. You have to play every play in every game."

The game plan now is to be prepared for any fourth-quarter surprise plays and avoid demoralizing, last-minute losses, he said.

"We're not going to 'what-if' ourselves to death," he said. "But we can make sure that as a staff we don't leave any stone unturned."

"At least if you have a plan and are prepared, you've got something your team can sink their teeth into. It gives them encouragement in that they see we were ready and were prepared and we gave them a chance."

The Raiders' first chance to show changes under their new coach will come Sept. 6, when Kansas State travels to Lubbock for a season opener.

McWilliams kept five of Moore's old staff whom he'd known for decades. Those Texas colleagues were John Mize, with whom McWilliams worked for the last eight years; Jack Kiser, a volunteer coach last year; and Spike Dykes, assistant defensive coordinator. He also signed on Steve Brickey, an offensive coordinator at Indiana State.

"We've worked with each other. We've worked against each other. I've seen them recruiting. That made it an easier transition," he said.

Perez says retirement not announced

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds have designated a special day to honor Tony Perez on his retirement — a decision the 44-year-old veteran says he hasn't made.

Perez said a newspaper report Tuesday that he has decided to quit was premature.

However, the Reds' front office was anticipating a retirement announcement from Perez before the end of the season, and his statements in a Cincinnati Post story earlier Tuesday set in motion plans for a tribute for Perez on Oct. 4, when the Reds play San Diego at home.

"I didn't announce anything. It was a complete surprise to me," Perez said.

Brewers hammer Rangers

By The Associated Press
Milwaukee and Texas went into Tuesday night's game looking for a cure for the same malady — an over-worked bullpen.

The visiting Brewers found that cure, needing to employ only starter Tim Leary, 9-11, and reliever Dan Plesac as they hammered out a 7-2 victory over the Rangers.

Texas manager Bobby Valentine, meanwhile, again had to showcase most of his bullpen after starter Charlie Hough, 9-7, failed to get through the second inning.

Five relievers followed Hough, who has been unsuccessful in six straight bids for his 10th victory.

"It was good for us for Leary to have a game like that," said Brewers manager George Bamberger, "because I needed to give the bullpen a rest. I only wanted to use one reliever, and Plesac pitched great."

The left-handed Plesac took over after the Rangers had scored two in the seventh to cut the deficit to 7-2. Plesac retired eight men in a row.

Hough came undone during Milwaukee's 5-run second, which began with right fielder Ruben Sierra let a fly ball sail over his head for a three-base error.

Four singles and two walks later, Hough was gone and left-hander Mike Mason began the parade from the bullpen.

Mason gave up the other Brewer runs on solo homers by rookie outfielder Glenn Braggs in the third and sixth.

Ranger relievers Jeff Russell, Dale Mohorovic, Mitch Williams and Greg Harris did the mop-up duty. In the past nine games, only one Ranger starter has gone beyond five innings. Valentine also used six pitchers in Sunday's 8-7 loss to Toronto.

"We're going to win a lot of games," said Tom Paciorek, who had two hits and an RBI for the Rangers, "once we get the starting pitching back the way it was earlier in the season."

Braggs, called up from the minors after the mid-July All-Star break, has three home runs since his promotion, all against Texas.

"I don't know what it is about Texas," said Braggs. "I just can't seem to hit home runs against anyone else."

Tigers 7, White Sox 3
It will be one more try — at least — for Steve Carlton, who cares too much for the sport he has often held at arm's length.

"I love the game, it's a simple as that," said Carlton, now of the Chicago White Sox, after suffering a three-inning, six-run beating from the Detroit Tigers, who won Tuesday's game 7-3.

"The two times I was out, I learned I missed the beauty of this game," he said. "You don't realize how much I miss it. It would be difficult to walk away from the game."

Carlton was signed Tuesday afternoon, and a few hours later — wearing No. 37 — he was on the mound at Tiger Stadium, after a one-week retirement.

It wasn't pretty. Mike Heath and Chet Lemon homered, Detroit had seven hits and Carlton left after three innings trailing 6-0.

He took the loss in his American League debut.

"I would like to continue to pitch to a high degree and continue winning," Carlton said. "I'll stay in as long as I can pitch. There's a lot of ways to get guys out."

Carlton has now pitched for three teams in six weeks. He said he will play for all 26 teams if it comes to that, as long as he feels he can still pitch.

Detroit gained a game and a half on the Boston Red Sox, who lost a doubleheader to the Kansas City Royals, 5-1 and 6-5. New York beat Cleveland 6-4, Toronto blanked Baltimore 3-0, Oakland beat Seattle 3-2 in 10 innings, and California beat Minnesota 5-4 in 12 innings.

Royals 5, Red Sox 1

Royals 6, Red Sox 5
Kansas City's Frank White's three-run double and Darryl Motley's two-run double won the opener, then Jorge Orta hit a two-run homer in a three-run sixth inning that won the nightcap and completed a sweep of Boston.

Kansas City has put together a three-game winning streak for the first time since mid-June.

Yankees 6, Indians 4

Solo homers by Rickey Henderson, Don Mattingly and Mike Easler powered the Yankees to within 3½ games of first with a win over Cleveland. Henderson led off the Yankees' first inning with his 21st homer of the season, the sixth time he has started a game with a home run. One out later, Mattingly homered, also his 21st.

Blue Jays 3, Orioles 0
Jesse Barfield hit his AL-leading 29th homer and drove in all three of Toronto's runs. Jim Clancy, 13-6, pitched a four-hitter and did not walk a Baltimore batter.

The Orioles lost for the sixth time in seven games.

Angels 5, Twins 4

California's Doug DeCinces singled over a five-man infield with the bases loaded in the 12th inning to lift the Angels over Minnesota. An outfielder moved in as an extra infielder, but DeCinces lined a single into short center field.

Reliever Ron Davis, 2-6, loaded the bases before Roy Lee Jackson gave up the winning single.

Wally Joyner, who had one of the 12th-inning singles, also had three errors — two in the ninth, when the Twins tied the score. He was not initially charged with one of them, but requested it be switched from Dick Schofield to him after the game.

California gained a game on the Rangers and now lead the AL West by three games.

A's 3, Mariners 2
Mike Davis, who was almost taken out of the game after he hurt his ankle in the eighth inning, led off the bottom of the 10th with a game-winning homer.

Davis hurt himself running out a grounder to first. "When I went out there, I thought he was gone," said Oakland Manager Tony LaRussa. But Davis stayed in and eventually made a winner of Jay Howell, 2-4.

Moyers visits fool's paradise

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Moyers visited a fool's paradise and returned with a puzzling and sometimes amusing portrait of what has happened to Atlantic City since it welcomed casino gambling.

"Big Gamble in Atlantic City," a CBS News special airing tonight at 10 p.m. EDT, isn't a traditional documentary. It makes no attempt to cover the whole story of the resort city's experience with gambling, but concentrates on the shattered illusions of old residents who expected to wallow in wealth.

"I think these voices were fresh. They had a credibility and poignance that comes from not being professional television experts," said executive producer Jon Katz, who deliberately avoided putting politicians and academic experts on camera with Moyers.

It's an approach Katz hopes CBS will buy as a continuing series of programs that listen to ordinary people affected by issues of national concern.

"Big Gamble in Atlantic City" is a cautionary tale, especially for the states that are now debating legalized gambling.

Moyers describes Atlantic City as a product of "cowboy capitalism," a town where many were greedy but few were lucky.

The city in some ways turned out to be just another sucker watching the casinos rake in the money. It is incredible, but true, that $3 billion in capital investment and $15 billion in wagering last year alone has only accelerated the decline of old Atlantic City.

Some residents hang on in shabby, empty stores and on ravaged residential blocks, untouched by the wealth squandered at the gaming tables and unseen, for the most part, by the visitors whose every need — food, a bed, souvenirs, entertainment — is available inside the casinos.

A CBS News poll highlighted during the hour found that 46 percent of those polled in Atlantic City think it's a better place because of casino gambling, compared to 28 percent who thought it was worse. However, majorities believe that housing and crime have gotten worse and that the schools are no better than before.

"The community where people lived and worked and worshiped — that community died after the casinos came to town," Moyers says.

So why would a majority still vote for legalized gambling? Jobs are the largest consideration, and because 54 percent of Atlantic City's people think there was no better solution.

But for other communities considering gambling, 51 percent would urge them to vote against it while only 20 percent recommend a "yes" vote.

In short, it seems Atlantic City can't quite make up its mind about gambling, and viewers are likely to share their mixed feelings.

In an interview, Moyers said he took time for these small stories so that viewers could make up their own minds. If you change your mind as you go along, he said, that's good.

Adults eliminating sodium, salt in diets

COLLEGE STATION — Four out of 10 adults are trying to cut down on salt or sodium in their diets, and probably more would join them if they knew how.

"Americans generally consume more than the recommended amount of 1,100 to 3,300 milligrams of sodium per day," says Mary K. Sweeten, a nutritionist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

Sodium has been associated with high blood pressure and an increased risk of heart attack, stroke and kidney disease. For that reason, the newly revised Dietary Guidelines for Americans recommend avoiding too much sodium in the diet.

"Since sodium comes in a number of forms and is used as an ingredient in many foods, simply putting the salt shaker away is often not enough," says the nutritionist.

She offers the following guidelines for selecting low-sodium foods:

—Unprocessed grains are naturally low in sodium. Ready-to-eat cereals vary widely in sodium content, so read the labels.

—Fresh, frozen and canned fruits and fruit juices are low in sodium. Most canned vegetables, vegetable juices and frozen vegetables in sauce are higher in sodium than fresh or frozen ones cooked without added salt.

—Milk or yogurt is lower in sodium than most natural cheeses, which vary widely in their sodium content. Process cheese, cheese foods and cheese spreads contain more sodium than natural cheeses. The sodium content in cottage cheese falls somewhere between natural and process cheeses.

—Most fresh meats, poultry, and fish are low in sodium. Canned poultry and fish are higher. Most cured and processed meats such as hot dogs, sausage and luncheon meats are even higher in sodium because it is used to preserve them.

—Most convenience foods are high in sodium. Frozen dinners and entrees, canned soups, dehydrated soup, sauce and salad dressing mixes contain a lot of sodium. Condiments including soy sauce, catsup, mustard, tartar sauce, chili sauces, pickles and olives are also high in sodium.

"Many low-ore reduced-sodium products are now in the supermarkets as alternatives to foods processed with salt and other sodium-containing ingredients," remarks Sweeten.

"But you may find some of these low-salt products unpalatable unless you season them with herbs, spices, lemon juice or other flavorings," she adds.

Be careful to avoid seasonings, such as garlic salt or flavor enhancers, which are high in sodium content, she cautions. Instead, make your own no-salt herb or spice mixtures, or buy a commercially prepared no-salt seasoning.

The nutritionist maintains that cutting back on sodium does not require eliminating certain foods from the diet.

"Most people can moderate their sodium intake by choosing lower sodium foods more often and by balancing high-sodium foods with low-sodium ones," Sweeten says.

DR. GOTT Patients have a right to know

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — When a doctor prescribes medications, is he required to explain the purpose, make-up and side effects of the drug, if the patient requests this information?

DEAR READER — When prescribing a drug, a good doctor usually makes the effort to explain to the patient the reasons for using the medicine, the expected results and the complications or possible side effects. I believe that this is a moral obligation. Evidently, it is becoming a legal obligation, too: Some patients are successfully suing their doctors for not providing adequate information about prescription drugs.

Although a close-mouthed physician might take a legal risk in not volunteering information about the medicine he or she prescribes, I am unaware of any strict professional standard that requires this form of informed consent. To me, it just seems to reflect an appropriate standard of practice in this day and age. Depending on the danger of the medicine itself, some good doctors either forget to discuss it with their patients or believe that such a discussion is unnecessary. Nonetheless, I think that most physicians and surgeons will try to educate patients about procedures and medicines — out of courtesy and the desire to make them informed participants in the decision. I encourage this type of discussion.

If the doctor does not seem inclined to initiate dialogue, you — the patient — may quite properly ask questions. "Why are you giving me this?" and "What are its side effects?" are two good questions that may be beneficial to both doctor and patient.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have spurs on both heels. Without large doses of aspirin, I can barely stand the pain. Prescription anti-inflammatory drugs, such as Indocin and Motrin don't help. Is there anything I can take to dissolve the calcium?

DEAR READER — Nothing you take will dissolve the calcium in your spurs. I suggest that you see a podiatrist, since a foot specialist might be able to help you to overcome your pain without having to take medicine. For instance, heel cups often can reduce the painful pressure on spurs.

Several Boy Scout troops participate in activities

Hereford's Boy Scouts and Scouters (adult volunteers) have been a busy group as usual, this summer.

In addition to the constant activities at Camp Don Herrington, several units have made trips to New Mexico and Colorado.

Troop 52, lead by Michael Foster, has just returned from an eight day back packing venture to Wolf Creek pass, Colo. (This troop also went to Camp Don for a week as well as a weekend trek 37 miles north west of Hereford on FM1058 to a camping spot on a private ranch. /

Boy Scout Troop 51, lead by Al Simnacher recently returned from its annual wilderness trek to the Winsor Creek area of the Pecos Wilderness in New Mexico. The group of 40 included family members. The troop also made a weekend camping trip to a private ranch north of Vega and spent a week at Camp Don.

Twenty-two youth and ten adult leaders from Troop 50 spent a week in Tres Ritos, N.M. The campers were lead by Scoutmaster Gary Billingsley.

Locally, at Camp Tumbleweed 65 Cub Scouts attended day Camp.

Eighteen Webelos were at Camp Don Herrington for the Webelos Camp Program.

Hereford Boy Scouting is a United Way member agency.

Shintoism

Shinto, the ancestral religion of Japan, developed out of nature and ancestor worship some time before the 6th century. The term "Shinto" is the Chinese equivalent of "the way of the gods." The name came into use to distinguish it from Buddhism, which was being imported from China.

Concert planned Friday

The public is invited to hear the Continental Singers and Orchestra in concert at 7 p.m. Friday at the Church of the Nazarene.

The worldwide contemporary Christian musical group will be performing their new program entitled, "All Over The World-Let Them See Jesus."

Featuring 25 vocalists and 10-piece orchestra, the Continentals' program is an energetic look at the command of Christ to "go into all the world and make disciples." It contains songs by some of today's foremost Christian composers and arrangers.

The continentals, now in their 19th year of operations, are well known for utilizing a variety of musical styles to convey their theme.

For those interested in touring with the Continentals as vocalists, instrumentalists, or technicians, auditions will be held after the concert.

Wagner reunion held

The family of Jacob and Elizabeth Wagner, who came to this area in 1909, gathered for a reunion Aug. 9 at Nazareth.

Meta Stork is the only surviving child of the couple. Other children were Jacob Wagner Jr., Flo Backus, Blanche Birkenfeld, Roy Wagner and Loretta Kleman.

The day began with Mass in the Holy Family Church. Relatives assisted in all parts of the Mass and the choir consisted entirely of relatives. Darryl Birkenfeld gave a reading of the life of Jacob and Elizabeth Wagner and their children.

A meal and fellowship was held following the Mass.

This was the first reunion held since 1940 and 450 relatives in attendance. They represented Houston, Austin, Dallas, Fort Worth, New Mexico, Colorado, Oklahoma and Ohio.

Pope Paul VI toured the Holy Land in 1964 and became the first pope to visit the region where Christ was born.

Oil prices rise as bullish trend continues

NEW YORK (AP) - Oil futures prices rose again, bolstered by technical factors, a bullish attitude in the market and indications that some OPEC nations are working to make the cartel's recent production cut agreement hold, analysts said. Also affecting Tuesday's activity were reports that Iraq had bombed Iranian oil installations on Sirri Island, 350 miles south of Iran's Kharg Island oil terminal in the Persian Gulf, they said. Since supplies of some Iranian oil would be removed from the market by the attack, some traders could have viewed it as a factor indicating higher future prices. More important, however, was the psychological impact of the attack on the market, said Peter Beutel, an analyst with Elder Futures Inc. On the New York Mercantile Exchange, contracts for September delivery of West Texas Intermediate, the benchmark U.S. crude, closed at $15.35 per 42-gallon barrel, up 44 cents from Monday's $14.91 last price. September contracts for refined products were sharply higher. Unleaded gasoline closed at 43.40 cents a gallon, up from 41.46 cents Monday, while heating oil closed at 42.25 cents a gallon, up from 40.94 cents. Some analysts said Tuesday's trading was dominated by technical factors. They noted that prices had stayed well above $14 during recent spells of selling, apparently leading many traders to believe that the near-term direction was upward on Tuesday. As a result, much buying took place, only to ease in the afternoon, as traders sold contracts to profit from having bought them earlier at lower prices, analysts said. William Byers, an analyst at Bear, Stearns & Co. also said there was a lot of short-covering in both contracts for September and later months. In a short sale, a trader sells borrowed oil, hoping to buy it back later at a lower price. He also cited other factors behind the market's behavior. "No matter what you think about the viability of the OPEC meeting, the news continues to be positive," he said. "Yesterday we saw Kuwait and Saudi Arabia taking steps to come into line with the accord, and seeing this, some people, who were skeptical a while ago, began coming in line now." Last week, all 13 members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries Iraq agreed to cut their production by a total 3 million barrels, using the cartel's 1984 quotas as a guide. Many industry observers have questioned whether the agreement will hold, given the OPEC's long record of failures in that respect. On Monday, however, the Petroleum Intelligence Weekly, a respected industry newsletter, reported that Saudi Arabia was indicating that it would not extend existing discounts for large purchases from September 1, when the OPEC agreement takes effect. Quoting industry officials, PIW said that if this approach did not work, the kingdom would consider imposing a flat percentage reduction on the volumes of contracts. Saudi Arabia is estimated to be producing about 6 million barrels a day now, and faces a new quota of 4.4 million barrels daily. The newsletter also said Kuwait plans to cancel about 100,000 barrels daily of previously planned sales, while Qatar was planning a new pricing formula that would also discourage sales. Kuwait, which had been producing an estimated 1.7 million barrels daily, now has a 900,000-barrel quota, while Qatar, which had been producing about 450,000 barrels daily, is limited to 280,000 barrels under the new agreement. In another report, industry sources in Tokyo were quoted Tuesday as saying that Abu Dhabi had ordered at least some of the companies operating its oil fields to cut production by 40 percent in September from the levels maintained in August. The cut would amount to as much as 500,000 barrels a day from Abu Dhabi's current daily production of 1.1 million-to-1.2 million barrels, according to the report. The move represents the first indication that the United Arab Emirates will attempt to abide by the OPEC accord. Abu Dhabi accounts for the largest share of output by the United Arab Emirates, which are currently estimated to total 1.5 million-1.6 million barrels a day, and which are allotted 950,000 barrels daily under the new quota system. So far, Dubai, the other major oil producing state in the federation, has not indicated whether it will cut its production.

Residents petitioning

CLEBURNE, Texas (AP) - The now silent Santa Fe steam whistle may sound off again if residents are successful in restoring what was once the city's most popular timepiece. The whistle blew four times a day for more than 50 years, helping to keep Cleburne residents in step. The last blast was heard at 3:30 p.m. May 2, the day before railroad workers went on strike, said Santa Fe shop superintendent Louie F. Sanchez. Railroad officials decided to retire the whistle after the strike ended a few days later, he said. But some residents disagree with the railroad's decision, and about 1,000 signatures have been collected in an effort to persuade the company to start tooting the whistle again. "It's a tradition," said Bobbie Baze, who started the petition. "Everybody grew up hearing it in Cleburne." Sanchez says sentiment won't bring back the whistle, which blew at 7 a.m., 11 a.m., 11:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.
