Bergland Urges Food-Stamp Overhaul

No one is rich enough to do without a neighbor.--Danish proverb

WE'RE ON THE homestretch for the primary elections and, with a record absentee vote count, it appears we may have a large turnout of voters in Deaf Smith County. Voters here have to make a decision in several contested races, with some very good candidates from which to choose.

Many state figures have made brief appearances in Hereford-more than we can ever recall. Texans have heard a lot of promises—almost everything but rain and some of the candidates have jokingly took credit for the recent moisture.

The races drawing the most interest here seem to be those for governor, U.S., senator, U.S. representative for the 19th District, attorney general and ag commissioner. On the local scene, the voters are talking about the races for district judge, district attorney, county judge, and justice of the peace.

We hope there will be a large number of voters. We urge each citizen to study the candidates and the issues, then go to the polls Saturday and make your choices known. Only YOU can cast YOUR vote!

while ON THE subject of the elections we heard that one of the female candidates was asked how the campaign

"It's a little like being pregnant," she replied. "It started with a feeling of excitement and the anticipation of things to come. Then there was a period of doubt, wondering if I did the right thing and, finally, the feeling that it would be a great relief just to get it over with!"

Sheats, Hance Trade Digs

By PAUL SIMS Managing Editor

Kent Hance predicted exactly what Morris Sheats would say, then got a head start defending himself, as both Democratic candidates for the 19th U.S. Congressional District seat campaigned Wednesday in Hereford.

Hance was in town first, followed 30 minutes later by Rev. Sheats. The two candidates are making last ditch efforts this week in the 17-county 19th District to win the Democratic nomination in Saturday's primary.

Hance, state senator from Lubbock, met with approximately 15 supporters at Hereford State Bank and said that Sheats would criticize him for being a lawyer, a professional politician and one who has accepted contributions from political-action groups.

"About the first of those remarks, I would say that most of the people that drew up the United States Constitution were attorneys. Most of the young people who want to go into politics went to law school. I've never apologized for my profession." Hance said

"I don't know what he means about me being a professional politician. But, if he thinks I'm a pro, then maybe I should feel good about that. After all, the Dallas Cowboys are pros.

"And I'm proud that after researching my background and my qualifications, the political action committees are supporting me."

Sheats, as predicted, gave his approximately 20 followers gathered on the sidewalk south of the Deaf Smith County Courthouse those three reasons why they should not vote for Hance

March of Dimes Sets Drive

The March of Dimes door-to-door drive, which was postponed earlier this year due to had weather, will be held here. Sunday afternoon in the fight against birth defects.

Local residents who are interested in participating in "the Mother's March" are asked to report to the Community Center at 3 p.m. Sunday. After mustering their forces, the volunteers will canvass the city for donations to the March of Dimes, a non-profit national organization concerned with prevention and treatment of birth defects.

Lynne Carlile, local drive chairman, announced this week that the poster child for Deaf Smith County's campaign is Cliff Coker, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Coker. Directing the county's March of Dimes program is John Aikin.

Last year, local residents gave more than $8,000 to the March of Dimes with the majority of that sum contributed during the Mother's March. In addition to the residential collection, canisters will be placed throughout the city for Proceeds of the March of Dimes drive will be spent in distribution of educational materials, stressing the ways of preventing birth defects. Also, a Scholarship fund has been established for a Hereford student planning to enter the field of health care. The March of Dimes additionally provides funds for instructional films and seminars.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department has officially proposed new rules to overhaul the $5.5 billion annual food stamp program later this year.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland announced the proposals Wednesday and called for public comment through June 16. He also said the revised food stamp program is expected to be in operation "late this year" but set no firm date.

Previously, Bergland and other officials hoped that the food stamp revisions could be put into effect on July 1. But that timetable was ruled out

Farmer Package Vote Today

WASHINGTON (AP) - A compromise aid package for wheat and cotton farmers is before the House for final congressional action.

The Senate on Tuesday accepted with a quick voice vote the measure drafted last week by House-Senate conferees. President Carter is expected to sign it even though he is said to dislike a portion that raises the cotton support price.

The measure would give the president new authority, in years when he asks farmers to idle some cropland as a price-boosting measure, to raise the federally guaranteed rate of return of wheat, feedgrains, upland cotton and rice.

Those returns, called target prices, are guaranteed through a cash payment of the difference between the target and a lower average post-harvest market price. Current law allows them to be changed only once a year, based on changes in average production costs in the most-efficient region for a given crops

Carter has said he would raise only the wheat target, from $3 to $3.40 a bushel, because growers of other crops involved in this season's acreage-idling programs are being compensated in other ways for their cooperation.

That would mean up to $600 million more in target-price payments to wheat growers this season, if the average price is $3 this fall, the Congressional Budget Office said.

The measure also would raise from 44 to 48 cents a pound the rate at which the Agriculture Department lends cotton farmers money with the harvested crop as collateral until it can be sold in the market at a higher price and the loan repaid.

That would add $100 million to the total cotton loans this season, CBO said.

The complicated and farmer-opposed formula for setting cotton supports, a trade-off between European and domestic prices, would be revised to give the U.S. prices more weight.

USDA studies show that, not counting land costs, it takes between 55 and 66 cents a pound to produce cotton, the main competitor of which is synthetic fiber selling around 57 or 58 cents a count selling around 57 or 58 cents a pound.

Other sections of the bill would allow California cooperatives that sell raisins under a federal marketing order to use members' funds for brand-name advertising and would raise from $144.5 billion to $25 billion the USDA's borrowing authority for farm-income programs.

because of the time required for federal rulemaking and to coordinate the changes with state and local welfare agencies.

"We expect the changes to be of particular benefit to the elderly and working poor," Bergland said in his announcement. "More elderly and low-income working families will now be able to participate and improve their nutrition."

The plan calls for tighter eligibility requirements for those on the higher end of the poverty scale and for easier access to the program for poorer people and the elderly.

"The changes would assure that those with the highest incomes - and therefore not significantly in need of food stamps - would no longer qualify, while we do a better job of reaching those who truly are in need," Bergland said.

All persons on state welfare rolls qualify automatically for federal food stamps. Others whose incomes fall within government poverty standards and meet other qualifications also can get stamps.

The proposals carry most of the reforms ordered by Congress in the Food and Agriculture Act of 1977.

About 17 million persons shared in food stamp benefits in February, the most recent month tabulated by USDA. On the average, a qualified family pays about $4 of its own money and gets $10 worth of stamps to spend at grocery stores.

The current program allows a family of four having an adjusted monthly income of $250 to $270 to get $174 in food stamps by paying $71 for them, a bonus of $103, for example.

Under the new program, which will have different and simpler procedure's for computing household incomes, a family

Inflation Experiences

Rise in April

WASHINGTON (AP) Wholesale prices jumped 1.3 percent in April, the biggest increase in 3½ years, as the inflation outlook failed to improve, the government reported today.

Wholesale prices of consumer foods rose 1.9 percent, continuing a four-month surge that has hit shoppers' pocketbooks.

Those are goods paid by retailers and others just before they reach the consumer. The higher prices usually show up at retail stores shortly afterward.

The April increase of 1.3 percent was the biggest since a 1.9 percent rise in November 1974, also at a time of rising food prices. Wholesale prices of finished goods has risen 0.6 percent in January.

Six Local Races To Be Contested

Local Primaries Attract Much Interest

By The HEREFORD BRAND And The Associated Press

Apathy, that common bugaboo of state and local elections, so far isn't evident in Deaf Smith County. What is evident two days before the Democratic and Republican primaries is a seemingly renewed interest in local politics generated by six contested races.

Add to those a spirited gubernatorial and to those a spirited gubernatorial race, which has divided Deaf Smith County as much as it has the rest of the state, and it looks as if Secretary of State Stephen Oaks' prediction of a low voter turnout in Texas may not hold true in the local primaries.

The offices of 222nd District Court judge, district attorney, county judge, justice of the peace and commissioner, Precincts 2 and 4, all are up for grabs in the Democratic primary in Deaf Smith County.

Candidates in local contested races received a total of $15,358.75 in contributions through April 26, the deadline for reporting money received and spent. Expenditures through April 26 totaled $21,157.10.

With filing fees included as money spent for the Democratic primary, candidates' contributions and expenditures as of the reporting deadline are as follows:

District judge--Rex Easterwood, contributions $3,795, expenditures $3,194. 06; David Wes Gulley, contributions $3,079.64, expenditures $4,289.80.

District attorney--Andy Shuval, contributions $3,872.86, expenditures $3,486. 61; Roland Saul, contributions $2,790.00, expenditures $2,498.25.

County judge--Ed Coplen, contributions $510.00, expenditures $282.03; Glen Nelson, contributions, $48.00, expenditures $501.30; Scat Russell, no contributions, expenditures $665.36; Bruce Miller, contributions $435.00, expenditures $418.07.

Justice of the peace--O.K. Neal, contributions $510.00, expenditures $70.24; Fred Sims, contributions, expenditures $403.00; Jennie Phillips, no contributions, expenditures $432.90; Paul Abalos, no contributions, expenditures $447.80; Millard Murray, no contributions, expenditures $510.61; Virginia

Dickson, contributions $27.25, expenditures $360.68; Paul Hamilton, contributions $71.00, expenditures $330.08.

Commissioner, Precinct 2-Austin Rose, no contributions, expenditures $652.85; O.T. McPherson, no contributions, expenditures $368.05.

Commissioner, Precient 4--James Voyles, no contributions, expenditures $331.87; George Cassetty, contributions $220.00, expenditures $729.89; Stan Fry, no contributions, expenditures $548.65.

In the most heated state campaign, Gov. Dolph Briscoe and Attorney General John Hill continued today to take swipes at each other over taxes in their campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Hill told an audience in Abilene that it would cost Texans another $1 billion in local property taxes if Briscoe is elected.

Meanwhile, Briscoe, in McAllen said

Meanwhile, Briscoe, in McAllen said he would win the Democratic nomination "by a landslide" if only a third of Texas' voters show up at the polls.

Briscoe said Hill is hoping for a small turnout because "this would be the only way Hill could even come close."

Hill charged that local property taxes have increased $1 billion in the five years Briscoe has been in office.

He has done nothing to help property tax payers. That means he will do nothing about property taxes for the next five years if he is re-elected, and that means property taxes will go up another $1 billion," said the attorney general.

Briscoe said Hill's campaign managers say they are confident Hill would win if the turnout on Saturday was only a million votes.

"It is no wonder that John Hill wants a small turnout of voters next Saturday," said Briscoe, "If even a third of the voters go to the polls, he will have no chance to win. And if a majority of the registered voters should cast ballots, there is no doubt that he would lose in a landslide."

Over on the GOP side, William Clements predicted in San Antonio that he would take the Republican gubepnatorial nomination over Ray Hutchison.

Clements said he would be a fulltime governor, working as many as 14 hours a

The Democratic candidates for U.S. Senate also had new slants to their campaigns.

Rep. Bob Krueger was in Washington Wednesday.

In a statement entered in the Congressional record, Krueger asked for a $5 billion cut in the 1979 federal budget. He proposed an amendment that would limit spending increases for 1979 to the rate of inflation in all but three budget areas - agriculture, defense and energy.

Joe Christie's workers distributed small paper leaflets that carried a photograph of Christie as he would appear on a TV screen.

"Please hang this ad on your television set for 30 seconds each hour in the evening, preferably during prime time between 7 and 10 p.m.," read the leaflet. The handbill added that "this card may be the only Joe Christie ad you'll see on your TV this spring."

Democratic attorney general candidate
Mark White said he would be a "fighting" attorney general, especially on issues pertaining to energy.

16-Year-Old Girl Charged in Kidnapping

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Authorities have begun extradition proceedings in the case of a 16-year-old Manitowoc, Wisc., girl charged with kidnapping her 15-year-old friend's infant daughter. The child was unharmed, authorities said.

The teen-age girl, not identified because she is a juvenile, was arrested here Wednesday and was held Wednesday night in lieu of $10,000 bond set by U.S. Magistrate Bill Brister.

The girl allegedly asked to see Christine Bashaw's 10-month-old daughter, Rhonda Lackershire, last Thursday so she could show the baby to her husband, said James A. Abbott, special agent in charge of the Dallas FBI office.

She then allegedly took the baby and left Wisconsin, hitchiking to this West Texas city, Abbott said. She and the baby were discovered at a Lubbock residence.

The infant, who was healthy and unharmed, was being kept in the children's ward of the Texas Tech Health Sciences Center pending her mother's

Mondale in Thailand For Tour's 2nd Stop

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) - Vice Presicent Walter F. Mondale arrived today in Thailand, his second stop in Southeast Asia, for talks on defense, the plight of 100,000 Indochinese refugees and the drug traffic.

Coming from the Phillippines. Mondale got a warm welcome from the Thais, who generally hold the United States in high regard. He is the highest-ranking American to visit the region since the Vietnam War.

In Manila, the vice president said President Carter is determined that the United States will "Continue to play a strong role in the Pacific." But some Thai Foreign Ministry officials expressed doubts privately about how specific Mondale would be about U.S. military aid to Southeast Asia in times of emergency

"It would be a good thing to learn from Mondale the definite U.S. policy with regard to the region." one diplomat said.

Thailand has been in a difficult position since the end of the Indochinese wars. It has been accused of being a front for the U.S.

Thailand was a major rear base for American forces in Indochina, and pro-American feelings are still strong.

The English-language newspaper The Nation said editorially this week that the United States is still bound by the Manila Pact of 1954 to help defend Thailand against aggression. It said although American troops are no longer needed. the country wants American weapons at "concessional terms" and a clear statement from Mondale of American aims and policy toward the Association of Southeast Asian Nations

House Committee Supports Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) - A majority of the House Ways and Means Committee is tentatively supporting a proposed $9 billion income tax cut its backers see as the best bet for salvaging part of President Carter's imperiled tax plan.

The package that has emerged among committee Democrats is well below Carter's $24 billion net tax cut proposal. But unlike the Carter approach, it also would include at least a $4 billion rollback in Social Security payroll taxes.

A knowledgeable committee source said Wednesday that the panel's chairman, Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., who has been pushing the compromise plan. believes he has the 19 votes needed for passage. But the source emphasized it's "a very loose package" and "there isn't total unanimity" among the Democrats. There has been no preliminary vote on

We knew . . we couldn't get the whole Carter package through. We knew that it can't all be done, so we decided to drop back and regroup." said the source, who asked not to be named.

Ullman was expected to approach Republican members of the committee on the proposal, but Rep. Barber B. Conable, R-N.Y., said he had not heard of the plan. He said generally the plan does not provide a large enough tax cut.

Tower Questions Carter Illegal-Alien Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, has questioned the Carter Administration's proposed answer to the illegal alien problem, calling it premature and ill-considered in testimony Wednesday before a Senate committee.

Tower's testimony before the Senate Judiciary Committee was aimed at the administration's Illegal Alien Reform Act, premature and ill-considered.

"If memory serves me, enactment of such legislation would constitute the first time in the history of the nation that the unalienable rights of any segment of our citizenry had been entrusted, for protection, solely to the whimsical nature of our federal bureaucracy," Tower

Calling the committee's attention to the adverse economic impact that illegals pose to many Texas border communities, Tower noted: "In the past, Congress has hurriedly created programs without benefit of-precise or completely reliable information on the number of people to be impacted by proposals.'

Specifically, Tower, the highest-ranking Republican office holder in Texas since Reconstruction, criticized the administration's data on the number of

Inflation -

If the four months of wholesale price increases continued at the same rate all year, they would total about 15 percent for 1978

Government economists are counting on volatile food prices to ease up later in the year and for the inflation rate to be about " percent for 1978, up from an earlier estimate of about 6 percent.

Even with the big increases so far this year, wholesale prices have gone up only 7 percent since April of last year.

The government said 30 percent of the entire April increase was caused by higher jewelry prices, reflecting a sharp increase in the price of gold.

The wholesale food prices rose 1.1 percent in January. 2.9 percent in February and 0.8 percent in March before gaining 1.9 percent in April. Because of a downturn in prices last summer, finished consumer food prices were 8.5 percent higher in April than they were in April

Prices for processed poultry and pork turned up in April after declining in March, the Labor Department said. Fresh

Prices rose more than in March for iewelry, automobiles, floor coverings and household furniture and appliances. Prices also rose sharply in April for shoes, tires, health products, gasoline and home heating oil

"The Labor Department's producer price index for finished goods stood at 191.4, indicating that it cost $191.40 to buy what $100 would buy at wholesale in 1967. A year ago, the index was at 178.8.

Before today's wholesale figures were released, the Agriculture Department already had had news for consumers: the food price outlook is not good.

Prices that farmers received for their products rose 4 percent last month. It was the seventh straight month that farm prices had risen, the department says.

Consumers can expect the higher prices to be passed along to them, but

"Families owning luxury cars would be made ineligible for food stamps, and some of the higher costs may have shown up at the supermarket already.

Shortages of beef and storm-damage to vegetable crops have forced farm prices up 19.5 percent since last September. In the first three months of this year, retail food prices have risen about 5 percent.

As part of his anti-inflation program. President Carter has considered vetoing bills that would keep out imports of sugar and beef. If more imported food were allowed into the country, retail food prices would go down.

Administration officials say food. particularly meat, is largely responsible for the surge in price increases this year. In its report for March, the Labor Department said wholesale prices rose 0.6 percent after posting gains of 1.1 percent in February and 0.6 percent in Retail food prices rose by even greater margins - 1.1 percent in January, 2.9 percent in February and 0.8 percent in March. Non-food items were going up at an average rate of 0.5 percent, or about 6 percent a year.

Saturday's Primary Elections To Have Something for Everyone

By TOM DeCOLA Associated Press Writer

Primary races for seats in the Texas delegation to Congress have something for just about everybody, from the minister who says God wants him on The Hill, to the San Antonian whose name was left off several ballots, to scrambles " for the offices of legendary figures who are not seeking re-election.

Most observers predict light turnouts in the state elections May 6, despite the spicy attractions of a horse race betting referendum and a hot Democratic battle for occupancy of the governor's mansion.

Some colorful and powerful Texas representatives will be replaced. George Mahon, W.R. Poage, Omar Burleson and Olin "Tiger" Teague are retiring. Bob Krueger is running for the Senate: and Barbara Jordan, an eloquent spokeswoman for her black race, her gender and her Houston constituency, is quitting for personal reasons. Democrats are providing most of the competition in Mahon's 19th District, the Rev. Morris Sheats is taking on State Sen. Kent Hance for the Democratic nod. Sheats says God is changing his charismatic ministry from that of a local shepherd to that of a national leader. Sheats said his decision was "simply God's next step for my life." Republican candidates are Jim Reese. George Bush and Joe Hickox. The GOP is given a fighting chance in this district.

Observers predict a runoff in the fight to replace Poage in the 11th District.

Front-running Democrats are Lyndon and Olson Jr., Marvin Leath and Lane Denton. Steve Alexander is still in there pitching. The winner gets to take one Republican Jack Burgess and his Ronald Reagan-backed campaign.

Burleson's retirement as 17th District representative provoked eight candidacies, but three Democrats and one Republican wear the favorite's colors. The Democrats are A.L. Rhodes, Fike Godfrey and Charles Stenholm. The GOP front-runner is Bill Fisher.

The 6th District has been war hero Teague's personal property since 1947. The favored Democrat is Phil Gramm. and Wes Mowery is getting the bulk of the Republican betting.

Miss Jordan's replacement will most likely come from the Democrats, where three candidates appear to be leading the field of seven. They are State Reps. Anthony Hail and Mickey Leland, and Houston city councilman Judson Krueger is giving up a chunk of territory bigger than 19 states. Nelson Wolff leads the back of Democratic hopefuls but it was in this 21st District that a problem came up. Steve Clark's name was left off the Kerr County ballots. and that fact wasn't discovered until after some absentee ballots had been cast. An election official says the mix-up could result in a rare, three-man runoff. Other Democrat candidates are Woodrow Glasscock, Paul Dahlgren and Joe Sullivan.

The winner from among these will probably end up taking on the GOP's Tom Leoffler.

Personal problems of longtime Rep. John Young of Corpus Christi have attracted more opponents than he has had in the past 14 years. His Democratic opposition comes from Joe Wyatt and Jason Luby, while Republican Joy Yates waits in the wings. Young was accused by one of his former female Washington staff members of hiring her for sexual favors. Since then, his wife has committed suicide. No action was taken against White regarding the staffer's 1976 allegations. The casts of characters for the 22nd District seat hasn't changed. Once again, it's Bob Gammage and Ron Paul in the forefronts of their representive Democratic and Republican parties. Gammage will have to win over three newcomers in the primary, and he's expected to do so. Paul is unopposed.

The two squad off in the 1976 general election, and Gammage defeated Paul just seven months after Paul whipped Gammage in a special runoff election to fill an unexpired term

And in East Texas' 2nd District, all the indications are there for an old fashioned shootout between the namesake of a TV western series and a lanky, filibustering graduate of the Naval Academy. It just won't take place in the primary.

Democrat Charles Wilson is the incumbent. The Republican challenger is James H. "Matt" Dillion - and he says you can pronounce that last name "Dillion," pardners.

Will Whole Cities Be Held Hostage?

There's a highly significant debate in progress and I'm not sure what we of the news media should do about it.

If we parrot warnings about the ease with which terrorists now can kidnap for ransom-perhaps hold entire cities hostage with homemade atomic bombs--if we throw light on each sinister implication we encourage imitation.

If we don't, we may allow crackpots and conspirators to sneak up on us in the dark. What should we do?

Recently a student testified before the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee that he had designed an atomic bomb. -

Dimitri Rotow convinced the senators and scientific experts that he had, in fact, designed a workable nuclear weapon.

Refining Company Files Suit

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) -The Commonwealth Oil Refining Co. Inc. has filed suit in U.S. District Court here seeking the return of more than $70 million paid to the Puerto Rican government for import fees on crude oil.

Corco, which filed March 2 for reorganization under federal bankruptcy laws, is headquartered in San Antonio but maintains all its manufacturing capacity in Puerto Rico.

Corco asked the federal court Tuesday to declare unconstitutional the Puerto Rican government's $2 per barrel import fee on crude oil and to disallow all government claims for payment of the fee.

Corco also requested that the court order Puerto Rico to refund $26.4 million in fees paid by the company from Dec. 22, 1975, to Aug. 31, 1976.

In its complaint, Corco also seeks the return of $22.3 million, which it says was paid in April 1977 by the Puerto Rico Water Resources Authority to the commonwealth government.

Corco said the Water Resources Authority, the government-owned electric utility, had held the money as a setoff against import fees allegedly owed by Corco."

Corco contends in the suit that the government's actions not only are unconstitutional. but also violate the Federal Bankruptev Act.

According to the suit, the Water Resources Authority presently owes the company approximately $12 million for fuel oil and it believes the utility is withholding another $13.6 million in import fees for the account of the commonwealth

In its petition for reorganization under bankruptcy laws earlier this year, Corco listed liabilities in excess of $500 million.

In a related matter Tuesday, U.S. District Judge Adrian Spears, citing "the best interest of the administration of justice," removed Bankruptcy Judge Bert Thompson from the Corco case.

The Puerto Rican government had sought Thompson's removal from the case, contending he was prejudiced against Puerto Spears also denied a government motion that the case, filed in bankruptcy court in San Antonio, be transferred to Puerto Rico.

Spears reassigned the case to Bankruptcy Judge Joseph C. Elliott and ordered Elliott to hold a hearing on the Puerto Rican government's request for a change of venue in the proceedings.

Four Freedoms

He is not even a nuclear engineer; he is a Harvard student in economics!

The implication is obvious: that a knowledgeable nut with a suitcase-size bomb could hold a whole city hostage.

Dr. Hans Bethe of Cornell says it's not that simple. He, a nuclear scientist, insists that there is a big difference between "designing" and "building" an atomic bomb. He has no fear of nuclear

New Orleans Reeling From Flood Waters

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - This Wednesday's downpour. sea-level city is a sodden city today, still reeling from a 9-inch deluge that flooded streets, washed away cars, shorted out telephone service - and killed three persons.

Police said two persons drowned and one man was electrocuted in a flood-related accident.

The National Weather Service said it couldn't tell exactly how much rain fell because their gauge flooded out. It recorded 8.67 inches before it broke. Forecasters said the total probably exceeded nine inches.

The flooding was the city's worst in 50 years, except for devastating hurricanes such as

Defensive Backs Top Weak' NFL Selections

NEW YORK (AP) - Maybe Gil Brandt and Tom Landry were right, after all.

The Montreal Expos have never been to the World Series. but Ross Grimsley has - and he'd like to go back.

Grimsley, who spent three years with Cincinnati and four with Baltimore before signing with the Expos as a free agent last winter, raised his record to 5-0 Wednesday night by scattering 11 hits as Montreal clobbered the Houston Astros

The victory, in chilly 40-degree weather in Montreal, boosted the Expos into first place in the National League East with a 12-8 record.

"Getting into first place that's the biggest thing this year," said Grimsley, a 28-year-old left-hander who was voted the National League's Pitcher of the Month for April. "Our goal is to get into the World Series. I was in it once (with Cincinnati in 1972) and it was fun. I want to get back and do it again."

"If you can point to one thing that decided the game, it was that they controlled the boards," said Nelson.

The Bucks rarely got a second shot at the basket, especially in the first half when Denver built up a 10-point lead. And, in the closing minutes, it was the Nuggets, who don't like to run as much as the Bucks, who cleared the boards quickly and started two key fast breaks to clinch the triumph.

The Bucks staged a last-gasp rally, getting a three-point play from Brian Winters, a free throw from Quinn Buckner and another basket from Winters to pull within 113-110 with 32 seconds on the clock.

But a free throw by Bobby Wilkerson and two by Jones kept the Bucks at bay.

NEW YORK (AP) - A dispute between New York Yankees owner George Steinbrenner and NBC broadcaster Tony Kubek resulted in Kubek's being barred from interviewing Yankees players before a network game last month.

That's the sum and substance of a situation that began during spring training. The fact that Steinbrenner and Kubek have a personal dispute may be of. passing interest to some, but when it affects network coverage of baseball it becomes much more than that.

So what happened?

Kubek, an ex-Yankee, is regarded as a straight shooter, a guy who says what he thinks but has never been known as a controversial figure. During spring training a writer for the Fort Lauderdale News asked Kubek how he feels about the state of baseball, the role of the owners, etc. Kubek said what he thought, and among the things he thought were that Steinbrenner manipulates people, rules by fear and is not particularly cherished by some of his players.

"I said he's got an expensive toy and he won't let anyone enjoy it," said Kubek. "I said the turmoil on the Yankees is not over, it's going to

Kubek, Owner Locked in Feud

Steinbrenner, not surprisingly, took exception to Kubek's remarks. He made copies of the article and sent them around to various - owners with the postscript: "How's this for the mouth that bites the hand that feeds it?"

The scene switches to Arlington, Texas, where the Yankees are preparing to face the Rangers in NBC's opening "Game of the Week" telecast. Kubek showed up a day early to tape some interviews but was prevented from doing so. Network and baseball sources say a Yankee employee was told by Steinbrenner to inform each player not to grant Kubek an interview. And if a player did give Kubek an interview, the employee would be fired.

Kubek did not get his interview.

Steinbrenner denies he told any player not to talk to Kubek. All parties now insist the whole matter is over and done with and should be left alone. Except Kubek. DALLAS (AP) - Lee Trevino needs some help - from the weatherman - if he is to be a factor in the $200,000 Byron Nelson Golf Classic.

"What is all this? What's happening here? What's going on?" asked Trevino, shivering under a couple of layers of

"I'm a hot weather player. Can't get too hot for me. But, man, this stuff, it kills me-Weather like this, I've got two chances, slim and none, and Slim is out of town."

A massive cold front, which dumped May snow in the Texas Panhandle, has moved into the Dallas area, producing heavy rains and some of the coldest temperatures on record for this time of the year. Readings in the lower 40s have been recorded for the last two days.

Tour players got in their practice rounds - not all of them, only those few who braved the weather - heavily bundled in rain gear, sweaters and even ear muffs.

"If the wind was blowing, they'd have to cancel the tournament," said Dave Stockton. "It'd just be too cold to play. Nobody could handle it."

As it was, the rains had the 6.983-yard, par-71 Preston Trail Golf Club course in marginal condition - too wet to mow, with pools and puddles dotting the course, casual water standing in bunkers - for the start of the 72-hole test today.

"I can't believe this weather for this time of the year," said Trevino, who has played well in his last four starts, including a second place finish in the Tournament of Champions.

"I was just starting to play good, because we were getting the hot weather, and then this comes along," he said. "Maybe it'll change. I'm just getting ready. Give me some hot weather and I might be about ready to put some action on these guys."

Warmer weather was forecast, which could enable Trevino to join Tom Watson and South African Gary Player as the top contenders for the $40,000 first prize. A victory by either Player, who had a them over the absent Jack Nicklaus and Hubert Green into the season's money-winning

My name is O.K. NEAL and I am a candidate for the Democratic Nomination for the office of JUSTICE OF THE PEACE for Deaf Smith County.

I have been a police officer for approximately eight years, the last four years here in Hereford. During this time, I have attended over 600 classroom hours of instruction on Law, Law Enforcement, and Psychology. In addition, I have completed four semesters of college toward a major in Law and a minor in Psychology.

I am an Emergency Medical Technician and one of only eight people in the Hereford area to hold a National Registration instead of only being licensed through the State. I feel this would be beneficial in the JP's duties as Coroner.

am one of only three Spanish speaking officers on the Hereford Police Dept. and one of only two Spanish speaking candidates for this office.

During these past eight years, I have had many opportunities to work with people in less than ideal circumstances. The person feeling he should not have received a ticket, the member of a minority group that feels he has been

I have personally been involved with each of these situations not once, but many times during the past

I also realize that the office hours of a public servant are 24 hours a day, seven days a week. I promise to be available during these times, as I have been working the same "shift" for eight years. I have no outside business interests that might interfere.

I would be honored to represent Deaf Smith County as Justice of the Peace. I promise, if elected, to hold this office with honor and dignity, and to do the best job I possibly can. Rhodesia Fighters Offered Branch

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) -Rhodesia's olive branch to black nationalist guerrillas was offered to fighters in the field, not leaders Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe, informed sources said today.

"Our main task is to get the message through to the fighters in the bush that the battle for majority rule has been won," the informants, who asked not to be identified, said.

"This will obviously take time to filter through. The fighters will also have to be convinced that they are not being drawn into a trap."

The guerrillas have been battling the government of Prime Minister Ian Smith for six years, and their leaders have denounced the pact for majority rule he signed with three black moderates in March.

Nkomo and Mugabe were invited to participate in those talks on condition they renounce violence, but refused and said a black-ruled Zimbabwe, or Rhodesia, would come about on ZAPU was outlawed in 1962. ZANU broke away from ZAPU and was banned by Rhodesia's white government in 1964. There are some 6,000 rebels inside Rhodesia and 30,000 in bases in Mozambique, Botswana and Zambia.

Newspaper Publishers Association's annual convention, Sevareid lambasted newspapers for applying double standards in their criticism of broadcast

"Television has been accused of all sorts of crimes," he said following a speech. "People say television is causing illiteracy in America. I've heard it from people like Alistair Cooke, who should know better.

"Everyone didn't walk around speaking perfect Shakespearian English before radio and television came along. Before radio and television, there were tens of millions of people in the hinterlands who had never heard decent English in their lives."

Sevareid, who retired in late 1976 after more than 35 years with CBS in both radio and television, said television "picks up the 'going lingo.' It doesn't start things; it reflects things. People claim that television establishes cultural levels. I don't believe that."

During a seminar for the publishers Tuesday, a newspaper executive said polls which show many readers distrust what they read in the press may be inaccurate because of the way the questions are worded.

The news industry should examine such polls to see if the respondents were asked how they felt about "newspapers" or "the press" in general,

"One thing in our favor is a growing dissatisfaction with the cost efficiency of television." Kauffman said. "The old unit of sale, the 60-second commercial, has been cut in half, but the cost of the 30-second commercial has now risen to the same level. Even the 10-second spot is now up to 65 to 70 percent of the 30-second unit.

"With all this subtraction, advertisers get more clutter, they get less non-competitive 'cushioning,' they get less value - and they get mad."

Turkey Embargo Lifted

WASHINGTON (AP) - In a victory for President Carter, the House International Relations Committee voted Wednesday to lift Congress' 3-year-old embargo of U.S. military aid to Turkey.

The committee approved Carter's request to lift the ban by an 18-17 vote.

Rep.Lee H. Hamilton, D-Ind., a leader of the effort to end the embargo, said the vote will also be close in the full House and that he could not predict whether it will pass.

The U.S. embargo against all U.S. military aid and commercial U.S. arms sales to Turkey went into effect Feb. 5.

It has been partially lifted since to allow the president to approve up to $175 million a year in commercial U.S. arms sales to allow Turkey to carry out its North Atlantic Alliance

Oaks Ups Prediction For Democratic Primary

There could be 1.8 million primary alone this Saturday based on absentee voting statewide.

Secretary of State Steve Oaks raised his estimate of the turnout Tuesday by 50 percent.

Oaks had predicted a 1.2 million turnout, but said he now thinks the primary will draw 1.8 million voters - more than cast ballots in 1976.

"From five working days ago until now, we've had a dramatic tournament in absentee voting," Oaks explained.

Oaks said the GOP primary turnout should be between 110,000 and 150,000.

222 ND DISTRICT COURT

HOUSTON (AP) - One of these days soon a majority of the members of Congress may be news media personalities whose names and faces are familiar to the hometown voters.

At least that is the conclusion reached by a Texas A&M University political science professor after a recent research project.

James Dyer, in an interview, said the "longer the election ballots become and the more people break away from the straight party lines, the more likely they will vote for someone whose name looks familiar.

"And in most cases that name has been a media personality, particularly persons on television whose voices are heard and face are seen each night in thousands of homes.

"The newspaper reporters and radio broadcasters don't come across nearly as personnal to their audience. People don't feel they know them as well,"

"But the television newscasters or the ones who report the weather are seen night after ight in the homes of the voters. They are familiar names and familiar faces and ones that the voters learn to trust and would be glad to vote for in an election, especially when there are many candidates," the professor said.

Dyer's research project embraced the congressional elections of 1974 and 1976. He found 17 members of Congress who had worked in some media prior to election.

He said, "In our research we counted people who were editors or such before the election. We discounted those who were owners of newspapers, television or radio stations. This gave us a truer picture.

"Granted, 17 persons does not sound like many when you consider we look at more than 400 persons who occupied the two houses of Congress during a four year period. But we were looking for some kind of trend and these figures gave us the desire to explore the possibilities further and that we will Judy Jordan, anchorperson

"Voters," he said, "are the most appealing personality, and particularly as more and more people run for office the more strange becomes thes voters' behavior.

Steve Smith, the anchorman on Houston's KHOU-TV, said despite the study, "I can say no, absolutely no, about any political ambitions. Such a thing has never entered my mind. Being an anchorman doesn't qualify anybody for Congress:

"I will say this," Smith added, "we do need more nonprofessional politicians in Congress. We need more persons who teach school, or dig ditches, or are homemakers. But me run for office? Forget it. I'm a newsman.

in running for any office at all. I don't think I'll ever change that stand. The exposure certainly does help, and it has been proven to help a number of people who have run for office."

Dyer said the key to the 'whole thing is the political parties. If they get stronger, or as strong as they once were, we won't see many personalities in Congress. The parties once handled their own screening process, wanting to bring their own people up through the

Research Team Links Medications, Cataracts

WASHINGTON (AP) - A scientific research team's conclusion that heavy, prolonged use of a popular aspirin substitute may trigger cataracts in some humans was challenged today by a drug manufacturer and a laboratory chief of the National Eye Institute.

The report is contained in this week's issue of Science, the journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

It said experiments on laboratory mice indicated that "long-term administration of high doses of acetaminophen may contribute to cataract formation," a clouding of the lens or lens capsule of the eye that causes partial or total blindness.

Acetaminophen is an overthe-counter pain reliever and fever reducer sold under such brand names as Tylenol and Datril. The members of Tylenol, the top-selling aspirin substitute, estimate their product accounts for 21 percent of all non-prescription

The report in Science said that although the laboratory mice were given very high doses of acetaminophen, "our ophthalmologic findings may be

I knew it was only a matter of time before men started to get testy about women in pants. One of them a carpenter from Illinois, has gotten downright militant about it and submitted 77 signatures on a petition to "get our girls, wives, and ladies back into dresses again."

Despite the fact he wants women in dresses for all the wrong reasons. I have to admit I'm bored to death with pants. At first I saw them as a lifesaver. They'd keep my legs from growing together. They'd give me freedom. They'd be a friend to my allergies: washing and ironing. They'd be a firm statement for my equality and once and for all they'd liberate me from the contents of those little chicken eggs that hatched panty hose that fit me like a respirator.

That was seven years ago. The other night while I was watching MASH, Klinger began to look good to me. He was wearing a wrap-around dress in a floral pink with a V-neck and a soft collar with a pair of pumps and a matching bag and

I looked at myself. I was wearing a pair of faded jeans with paint swatches on the knee, a T-shirt that read, "INSANITY IS CONTAGIOUS. YOU CAN CATCH IT FROM YOUR CHILDREN." My legs were bare and my tennis shoes raggy.

Dressing up for me anymore was wearing a clean T-shirt. And I wasn't the only one. From toddles to teenagers, to matrons to elderly women, all they ever wore were pants. When I thought about it, I hadn't seen my mother's legs since the Eisenhower administration.

It occurred to me maybe we had gone too far. Suppose restaurants discriminated against us as they once did when we wore slacks? Maybe we couldn't be seated until we went home and put pants on.

If we kept going in pursuit of fashion freedom, would we one day end up like Diane Keaton (whom I love!) but who, at the Academy Awards, looked like she couldn't decide what to wear, so she wore her entire closet.

I made a monumental decision yesterday. I went out and bought a dress....a floral wrap-around with a V-neck and soft Limit that launching pad?

IN WASHINGTON

First things first. What tie are you wearing to the dinner party tonight?

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Obscured in the seemingly endless controversy surrounding former U.S. Attorney David W. Marston is the questionable but seldom challenged practice of parlaying a relatively brief stint as prosecutor into a political career.

Marston, a Republican whose pending cases involved probes of two Democratic congressmen, was removed by President Carter in January from his post as chief federal prosecutor in Philadelphia. Marston then announced he would seek the GOP nomination for Pennsylvania's governorship.

The dispute has focused a great deal of attention on the hoary practice of allowing the political patromage system to intrude upon — and often dominate — the process of selecting the government's criminal prosecutors.

But there has been virtually no scrutiny of the tradition of using the publicity naturally generated by the prosecutor's job to gain high political office. This year's Pennsylvania gubernatorial race vividly illustrates the problem.

In addition to Marston, those competing in the Republican primary include Richard W. Thornburgh, a former U.S. Attorney in Pittsburgh later promoted to assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's criminal division, and longtime Philadelphia District Attorney Arlen Spector.

Among the candidates in the Democratic primary is Peter F. Flaherty, who committed himself to four years of Washington service when Carter named him deputy attorney general, then quit after one year to run for the governorship.

That phenomenon is hardly limited to the Keystone State. Many of the biggest names in national politics have used federal, state or local prosecutorial jobs to further.

The late Thomas E. Dewey, a New York Republican, earned wide acclaim as a local prosecutor, then went on to serve as New York's governor for 12 years and was twice selected as the GOP's presidential nominee.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale, a Democrat, achieved statewide prominence by prosecuting a charity fraud case while Minnesota's attorney general, then was appointed to fill a vacant Senate seat.

Illinois Gov. James. R. Thompson, a leading candidate for the Republican party's 1980 presidential nomination, first attracted wide public attention during his successful prosecution of corrupt Chicago Democrats while serving as U.S. Attorney in that city.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., has suggested that one means of "insulating our process of justice from political partisanship" would be to require all prospective nominees for U.S. Attorney to sign a pledge not to seek elective office for at least two years after leaving that post.

Most states, cities and counties elect their prosecuting attorneys, and it is implicitly understood that the office is therefore quasi-political. Because self-advancement is an explainable if not forgivable part of the job, Bentsen's proposal would not affect those posts.

The power granted to a prosecutor—elected or appointed, federal, state or local—is truly awesome. The simple act of filing criminal charges against an individual can destroy that person's reputation.

There is little evidence that prosecutors have abused simple act of filing criminal charges against an individual can destroy that person's reputation.

There is little evidence that prosecutors have abused that power to advance their political careers. Indeed, the public disclosure that an innocent individual had been wrongly accused undoubtedly would transform a prosecutor's political dream into a nightmare.

But the fact remains: Initiating and conducting criminal prosecutions is a very serious business that ought to be conducted in a highly professional manner.

Bentsen's proposal merits consideration because the criminal justice system can be improved by insuring that prosecutors in the future view their jobs as more than

Ag Exports Continuing To Foot Bill for U.S. Imports

COLLEGE STATION -- If the large volume of agricultural products being shipped overseas should suddenly come to a halt, both Texas' and the nation's economy would suffer

Dr. Carl Anderson, marketing economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, notes that overseas sales of agricultural products generate employment and income as well as boost capital investment.

"Texas is one of the leading states in farm exports, ranking fourth last year with an estimated export sales volume of $1.76 billion," points out Anderson. "This represented 27 percent of all cash receipts from farm and ranch marketings in the state. Texas led the nation in shipments of cotton, cottonseed and animal fats, was second in rice, hides and skins, and third in peanuts, nuts and meats other than poultry."

The economist emphasizes contributes significantly to the U.S. trade deficit plunged from farm exports will be down to that the total volume of agricultural exports in 1977 contributed roughly $3.5 billion to the Texas economy.

Farm exports from Texas in 1976 totaled $1.55 billion.

On a national scale, Anderson says that overseas sales of farm products totaled $24 billion during 1977. Exports accounted for production from some 100 million acres of cropland, or about 30 percent of the total acreage harvested. Western Europe and Japan absorbed 52 percent of all U.S. farm export

"It is estimated that U.S. farm exports support well over a million fulltime civilian jobs, and the added business stemming from agricultural exports is about equal to the value of the products shipped abroad," adds Anderson.

And an active farm export policy must continue, he contends.

"Without a high volume of farm exports, American farmers would reduce production either by private action in response to low prices or under public policy designed to control produc-

During the past year exports accounted for the disappearance of about two-thirds of the rice crop, more than half of the wheat harvest, about a third of the cotton and soybeans, and more than a fourth of the sorghum and corn crops.

"Yes, farm exports are vital to both the American farmer and this nation," argues Anderson. "They help the farmer make a living while at the same time boosting the economy and footing the bill for much of the oil brought into this

Farm Imports Rise While Exports Drop

WASHINGTON (AP) - Imports of foreign agricultural products in the first five months of the fiscal year that began last Oct. 1 totaled $5.4 billion, up six percent from $5.1 billion in the same period a year earlier, says the Agriculture Department.

The import value of coffee and vegetable oils were down from a year earlier but those were more than offset by increases for cocoa, cattle, beef and veal, fruits, vegetables, sugar and tobacco, the department said Tuesday. Exports of U.S. farm products, meanwhile, totaled $10.1 billion in the first five months of this fiscal year, down three percent from $10.4 billion in Oct.-Feb. of last year, the department's Economics, Statistics and Cooperatives Service said in a report.

Most of the decline in export value was attributed to lower prices for grains, soybeans and cotton from a year ago.

Nation's Farming Lagging

WASHINGTON (AP) - Cool, weather continued to hamper planting of corn and other spring crops as April ended, according to the Agriculture Department.

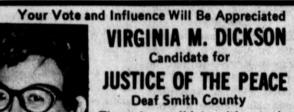

"Plowing plodded along far behind last year in the north-central states, behind normal by 30 percentage points but in some states as much as 50 points," the department said Tuesday in a weekly weather

The report, which covered the week of April 24 to April 30, said that soil moisture was "adequate to surplus" with the exception of parts of Florida, Oklahoma and Texas.

Only 10 percent of the nation's corn was planted by April 30, less than one-third of last year's pace on the same date and only half of the long-time average for April 30. he report said.

However, about 29 percent of the cotton was planted in the southern states, ahead of last year and the long-time average. Winter wheat was rated in "fair to mostly good" condition.

Postal Employees Talking Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) - AIthough both sides say they do not want an illegal nationwide mail strike this summer, the Postal Service and its largest union are preparing contingency plans for that eventuality. One Postal Service plan, a copy of which was obtained by The Associated Press, calls for National Guard troops, regular military personnel and college ROTC students to perform essential services while some Saturday mail would be suspended.

The plan proposes that "nonstriking personnel and supervisors...be used to the maximum extent possible, along with employees from associate Meanwhile, the American

Postal Workers Union, largest of four unions now negotiating with the Postal Service for a new labor agreement, has named a group to draw up plans for a possible strike when the current contract expires July 20. "I don't think there will be a strike, but if there is we will be ready for it," said Ben Zemsky.

director of organization for the 299,000-member union and chairman of its preparedness As a Brooklyn local leader, . Zemsky helped lead a series of wildcat strikes in 1970 that partially produced the present collective bargaining agree-

"I had my share of injunctions and that sort of thing, but they couldn't make us work then and they can't now if we don't get a decent contract,' he said in an interview.

Both union and management officials have played down the chance of a strike, which would be prohibited by federal law, as was the 1970 walkout. Strikers could be given a year in prison and fined up to $1,000.

CDP Offers Clemency

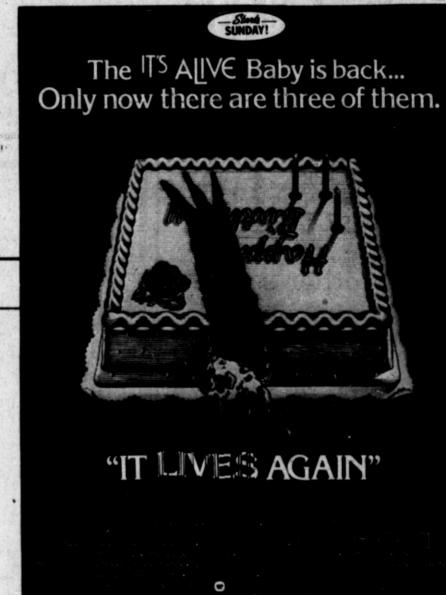

ROME (AP) - The ruling Christian Democrat Party, in an indirect appeal to the Red Brigades, promised "generosity and clemency" for prisoners Wednesday if the terrorist gang releases the kidnapped Aldo

Despite the new flexibility, the party reiterated its refusal to negotiate with the kidnappers for the former premier's freedom. The party statement came at the end of a meeting convened after Red Brigade leaders on trial in the northern city of Turin blasted Italian prison conditions.

The party indicated that clemency or reforms should follow Moro's release and not precede it. Moro, 61-year-old president of the ruling party, has been held for 49 days since being abducted from a Rome street in an ambush that killed his five bodyguards.

In three days they almost won the War.
