Voters, weary of hearing campaign speeches and solicitations for votes, and politicians, weary of giving speeches and soliciting, all can breathe a sigh of relief Saturday, primary election day throughout the state.

Polls everywhere will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. In Deaf Smith County, Democrats will vote at 11 precinct polling places, and Republicans will cast ballots at La Plata Junior High School.

A large local turnout is being expected by county party chairmen and County Clerk B.F. Cain, who based his prediction on the large number of absentee voters.

There were 293 absentee ballots cast, mostly for the Democratic primary, which is the highest total in at least 16 years, according to Cain.

The great amount of pre-primary voter interest may have been generated by the six contested local races, which include those for 222nd District Court judge and district attorney.

David Wesley Gulley, appointed to the district judgeship last year by Gov. Dolph Briscoe, and Rex Easterwood are seeking the judge post.

District attorney candidates are incumbent Andy Shuval and Roland Saul. Running for county judge are L.B. "Scat" Russell, Ed Coplen, Bruce Miller and Glen Nelson.

The local race with the most candidates is for justice of the peace, where seven—Paul Abalos, O.K. Neal, Jennie Phillips, Millard Murray, Fred Sims, Paul Hamilton and Virginia Dickson—are seeking nomination.

County commissioner Precinct 2 candidates are incumbent Austin Rose and O.T. McPherson, and trying for the Precinct 4 post are incumbent James Voyles, George Cassety and Stan Fry.

Voting places in the Democratic primary are listed on each individual's

Precinct Conventions Set Saturday

Deaf Smith County Democratic and Republican chairmen say some of the most important business Saturday will take place aside from the primary elections.

Both parties will hold precinct conventions as the first step in selecting party officials and determining party policy for the next two years.

Any one voting in the Democratic or Republican primary Saturday is eligible to take part in the precinct conventions. Democratic conventions will be at 7 p.m. at each of the 11 precinct polling places, and Republicans will meet at 4 p.m. at La Plata Junior High School, the site of their primary voting box.

"All those who vote in the Democratic primary on May 6, including those on voter registration purged lists are eligible to fully participate in the precinct convention where they voted," said State Democratic chairman Calvin Gueat.

"The convention process provides every Democrat an opportunity for input into the party and the political system. The decisions made at the precinct convention will have influence at the state level as well as the national."

County Democratic chairman Robert Strain said that a new law, which requires his party's precinct conventions to be held after the polls close, may restrict attendance.

"We'll probably have less precincts having conventions than we ever have. Some of those rural areas won't have one

Construction Permits Pass $2 Million

New construction in Hereford passed the $2 million mark for the first four months of the year with 24 building permits issued in March for a total of $450,300.

The year's total now stands at a healthy $2,007,800. March's total was down 25 percent from February, when 25 permits were issued for a $596,000 total.

Last year's building costs total for the first four months was $2.03 million.

The largest single permit issued in March was to Lester Moffitt Builders of Amarillo for a new single-family residence costing $63,000. The same company was issued another permit, also for a residence, for $47,500.

March permits included: Leonida Cantu, move-in residence, $600; Alma Scott, add on to residence, $1,200; High Plains Laboratory, move-in storage, $2,600; David Ruland, residence, $40,000; CMMB Builders, two residences, $40,000 each; Sonic Drive-In, add on to store, $2,200; James C. Clark, residence, $20,000.

Nelda McCullar, move-in mobile home, $2,500; Carmal Cervantez, move-in mobile home, $5,000; Deaf Smith County, storage, $800; Frank Vera, carport, $150; Casimiro Moreno, garage, $2,500;

Vehicle Tune-Up

Todd Collier, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Collier of Hereford, checks out the condition of the spokes on his bicycle as he prepares to ride in the American Cancer Society's Annual Bike-A-Thon Saturday. Todd will be just one of many local riders aiming at various prizes this year, including a trip for five to Six Flags Over Texas. Bike-A-Thon organizers are again stressing safety for this year's event. [Brand photo by Bob Nigh].

Dean Jones, organizer of the 1978 American Cancer Society Bike-A-Thon, hopes to continue a trend of safety for that annual event this year. Mrs. Jones has received the full cooperation of the Hereford Police Department and Deaf Smith County Sheriff's office, who have agreed to do their part in making the event a safe success.

The Annual Bike-A-Thon, a major part of the local ACS Crusade effort each year, will be held in Hereford tomorrow morning beginning at 9 a.m. at the Sugarland Mall parking lot.

"The police have been more than cooperative with us in this," Mrs. Jones, a member of the local ACS board of directors said. "They will be helping us at various intersections throughout the course of the Bike-A-Thon, and I have also gotten a favorable response from the sheriff's office."

"Tragedy in the form of injury to one of the riders in the Bike-A-Thon is always in the back of my mind each year," she continued. "And, so I have made these contacts to assure each rider's personal safety."

Another concern of Mrs. Jones this year is the possibility of inclement weather. Forecasts are calling for cool temperatures with the chance of rainfall for Saturday. "If it is raining we will push the Bike-A-Thon back one week," Mrs. Jones said. "I would also urge all riders to bring a jacket with them if we do go ahead and have it."

Mrs. Jones said that she would contact local radio station KPAN and let them know one way or another if the Bike-A-Thon will proceed as scheduled. "Riders can listen in after 8 a.m. tomorrow morning to find out for sure if they are in doubt," she said.

Bike-A-Thon entrants will be aiming at a trip for five to Six Flags Over Texas as the first grand prize, and a 10-speed bicycle as the second grand prize. In

Unemployment Falls Sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) - The unemployment rate dropped to 6 percent for the first time in 3½ years last month as more Americans were able to find work, the government said today.

The proportion of the working-age population holding jobs rose to 58.4 percent, the highest in history, the Labor Department said.

In an encouraging jobs report, the department said total employment rose by 535,000 in April to 93.8 million. About one-quarter of this increase, however, reflected the return of striking coal miners to work.

The 6 percent unemployment rate was the lowest since a 5.9 percent rate in October 1974. Since then, unemployment jumped to 9.1 percent in May 1975 before gradually descending to 7.1 percent last April and 6.1 percent in February of this year. The jobless rate was 6.2 percent in March.

The Labor Department also reported: The unemployment rate for adult men dropped from 4.5 to 4.2 percent, while it remained the same for adult women at 5.8 percent.

Black unemployment dropped from 12.4 percent to 11.8 percent, the same rate as in February.

Unemployment among black teenagers, a big concern of the Carter administration, improved substantially, falling from 39 to 35.3 percent.

The average length of unemployment declined from 6.2 to 5.8 weeks in April.

The labor force, which is the total number of persons with jobs and looking for them, rose by 370,000 to 99.8 million.

as more adult women sought employment.

The average work week rose from 36.1 to 36.2 hours.

The improvement in the jobs picture came as the economy recovered from the effects of a severe winter and the coal strike.

Industries increased their output, retail stores were selling more, indicating that more jobs were becoming available.

The percentage of adults holding jobs has continued to climb as women and teen-agers have gone into the job market. The proportion of these people holding jobs was 58.2 percent in March before rising to 58.4 percent last month.

Following are the unemployment rates made available by the Labor Department for a select group of states. Like the national unemployment figures, they are adjusted to take into account seasonal fluctuations:

-California had a 7.3 percent rate in April, down from 7.8 percent in March.

-Illinois, 5.9 percent, down from 6.3 percent in March.

-New Jersey, 7.4 percent, up from 6.3 percent in March, and the same as February's 7.4 percent level.

-New York, 7.7 percent in April, the same as the 7.7 percent rate in March.

-Ohio, 5.7 percent, up from 5.2 percent in March.

-Pennsylvania, 7.3 percent, up from 7 percent in March.

-Texas, 4.4 percent, down from 4.8 percent in March.

Ex-Stanton Principal Dies; Services Pending

Wylie C. Quattlebaum, who worked for 19 years in Hereford Independent School District, died Thursday night in Elk City, Okla. at the age of 74.

Services are pending in Elk City, where Mr. Quattlebaum was residing at the time of his death.

Born June 3, 1903, he graduated from high school at Leedey, Okla. and received his bachelor's degree from Southwestern State University at Weatherford, Okla. Mr. Quattlebaum earned his master's degree from the University of Okla. at Norman, Okla.

He came to Hereford in 1949. During his 19-year tenure with the local school system, he was principal of Stanton Junior High for 11 years. Before retiring in June of 1968, he was involved in local chapters of professional teaching organizations.

After leaving the local school district, Mr. Quattlebaum was full-time manager of Ceta Glen Christian Camp near Canyon for approximately five years.

He is survived by the widow, Ethel, and three children, Neil, Charles and Wyla Jean.

Neal Expenditures Listed Incorrectly

In Thursday's front-page article concerning Saturday's Democratic primary election, it was reported that expenditures in O.K. Neal's campaign for justice of the peace have been $70,24.

The figure should have read $705.24. The Brand regrets the error.

It also should be noted that contributions listed on the politicians' reporting sheets include, in accordance with state law, contributions made personally by the candidates. Some of the figures mentioned in the article appear larger because of personal contributions.

Hill-Briscoe Race Climaxes with Primary

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Texas voters choose Saturday between two multi-millionaire Democratic candidates for governor, each trying to out-promise the other there will be no new taxes the next four years.

The race is so close a final decision may not come until a June 3 runoff.

Polls open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. Gov. Dolph Briscoe, 55, South Texas banker-rancher, wants another 4-year term with the argument that he has kept Texas economically healthy, without new taxes, during the past six years of inflation.

State Attorney General John Hill, 54, former Houston claims lawyer, calls Briscoe a do-nothing governor and says Texas is growing fast enough for substantial expenditures, particularly in education, without new taxes.

Briscoe says Hill's "wild spending spree" would bring on Texas' first personal income tax.

Hill carries around a rubber stamp with "VETO" in 4-inch letters which he says he would use if an income tax ever hit his desk.

Former Gov. Preston Smith, 66, whom Briscoe beat in 1972, may get enough votes to force the runoff.

Hill stumped West Texas Thursday saying in a news conference at several cities that Briscoe "has mortgaged the governor's office to pay for his unsuccessful last-minute television and newspaper advertising blitz, but it has failed to make up for five years of do-nothing leadership in the governor's office."

Briscoe, speaking in Houston, said "Mr. Hill would like for the people of Texas to believe that the money for these promises will somehow materialize out of thin air. The truth is that these gigantic new government spending programs he is proposing cannot be absorbed without levying new taxes... Mr. Hill is a captive of the spending lobby."

In Austin, former Gov. Smith told listeners that "this campaign is ending on the saddest, most distressing, disgusting and disgraceful note. It's obviously nothing more than a death struggle between money interests as to who will hold the reins on the Texas governor."

The nominee picked by the expected 1.8 million Democratic primary voters will meet the Republican selected in a 150,000-vote GOP primary.

Italian Terrorists Shoot More Legs

ROME (AP) — Terrorists peppered the legs of two more Italian industrial executives with bullets Thursday night while investigators quizzed aides of Aldo Moro to try to learn if the political leader's family is communicating secretly with his kidnapers.

Umberto Degli Innocenti, 51, an engineer for a Milan communications equipment firm, was shot on the steps of his home. Alfredo Lamberti, 41, a labor relations officer for a Genoa steel firm, was attacked as he walked near the Genoa railway station.

They were the third and fourth men shot in the legs within nine days. The Red Brigades, the urban guerrilla groups that kidnapped Moro in a bloody street ambush March 10, announced it was responsible for all four attacks. The technique, called "kneecapping," originated in the guerrilla war in Northern Ireland.

Meanwhile, assistant national attorney Guido Guasco called in three of Moro's aides for questioning because of a series of handwritten letters from the missing president of the Christian Democratic Party to other political leaders went to his family last weekend before they were sent on to the addresses.

The Moro family has repeatedly denied it is negotiating with the Red brigades and has attacked the Christian Democratic leadership because it refuses to negotiate. But government investigators said they want to find out how the family is getting messages directly from the kidnapers.

White House Considers Sales Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House is seriously considering a congressional compromise on Middle East jet sales that would provide even more warplanes to Israel in coming year, White House sources say.

The sources, who asked not to be named, said no decision has been reached but that consideration is being given to issuing a letter of intent to sell Israel an unspecified number of additional planes, perhaps in the period between 1984 and 1987.

The sources told Associated Press Radio, however, that the administration will not on any account reduce the number of planes in the deal for Saudi Arabia despite the urgings of some members of Congress.

The $4.8 billion jet deal now before Congress would send 60 F-15 fighters to Saudi Arabia, 50 F-5E jets to Egypt and 15 F-15s and 75 F-16s to Israel.

A source on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee confirmed, meanwhile, that the search for a compromise is continuing and that the situation remains fluid. That source also asked to remain anonymous.

Congress has 30 days from last Friday to reject the proposed sales if it wishes. To block the deal both houses must adopt resolutions of disapproval by May 28.

Some Not Getting Legal Help Says Carter

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Carter, in a ringing denunciation of the legal profession, declared Thursday that the vast majority of Americans don't get adequate legal representation while those with means get all the help they need.

In an address to the Los Angeles Bar Association, Carter also found fault with a legal system he characterized as being too lenient with "big-shot crooks" — a reference to white-collar crime.

"We have the heaviest concentration of lawyers on earth — one for every 500 Americans," the president said in questioning the quality of legal assistance available to people.

But, he added, "90 percent of our lawyers serve 10 percent of our people. We are over-lawyered and under-represented."

Carter said the United States needs more women and minority judges, fewer and shorter lawsuits and more legal aid for poor and middle-income persons.

He also called on lawyers to slow down their fee increases as part of his voluntary anti-inflation program and called for "free and open competition" in setting fees and advertising them.

Students, Teachers Poisoned by Food

VICTORIA, Texas (AP) — State health department inspectors are expected at Juan Linn Elementary School here today where nearly 200 students and staff came down with apparent food poisoning Thursday.

Nearly half the school's 450 students jammed emergency facilities at two hospitals for treatment of various stages of nausea about two hours after they ate a turkey and dressing lunch at the school's cafeteria. Thursday night, 20 remained hospitalized but were reported in stable condition.

Ignacio Diaz, principal of Juan Linn Elementary where the outbreak occurred, said parents had responded with mixed reactions and he said he expected some to keep their children at home today.

"It's to be expected in a situation like this," he said.

Dr. Patti Dodson, city health director, arranged for Health Department lab studies to determine the exact cause of the outbreak, but food poisoning was considered the prime suspect.

Diaz said any of the food could be considered suspect, because procedures for buying and preparing the food are the same as they've always been.

"It was just the usual fare," he said. "They don't know what food caused it. They're taking samples, but it could have been anything."

He said special precautions were being taken in the preparation of today's lunch.

Sweden Minister Lauds Associates

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Foreign Minister Karin Soder is generally regarded as the most successful member of Sweden's non-Socialist government, but she would never admit it herself.

"If my work is seen as positive, it depends on my able fellow-workers at the Foreign Ministry," she explained to The Associated Press.

Mrs. Soder, 49, has visited 18 countries since she became the world's only woman Foreign Minister late in 1976. A hard-working mother of three, she is an exotic figure in international politics. But she tries not to pay any attention to the fact that she is a woman, saying, "I try to do my job."

Is she satisfied with her performance so far? "No," she said firmly, adding with a smile, "and I hope the day I OK myself, someone will tell me to quit politics. Not being satisfied is the best driving force."

Mrs. Soder is the vice chairwoman of the Center Party, which formed a coalition government with the Conservatives and the Liberals after the fall of the Social Democrats in the September 1976 general election. It was the first Social Democratic defeat at the polls in 44 years.

Prime Minister and Center Party leader Thorbjorn Falldin caused some surprise when he presented his cabinet list Oct. 8, 1976. Newspapers had speculated Karin Soder would be named Minister of Education or Minister of Social Welfare. Foreign policy had not been her field.

But Mrs. Soder got off to a flying start, speaking at the annual opening session of the United Nations' General Assembly five days after becoming Foreign Minister.

Summing up her experience so far, the former school teacher said, "It is more stimulating than I had thought it would be."

When not traveling or working at the Foreign Ministry, Mrs. Soder shares the household with her husband, Gunnar, in their white villa in a Stockholm suburb. He serves as an Undersecretary of State in the Industrial Ministry.

Tennessee Law Difficult To Enforce

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — On January 1 Tennessee became the only state which requires parents to have children 4 years old or younger wear restraint devices while riding in a car.

Law enforcement officials say it will not be an easy statute to enforce. But members of Gov. Ray Blanton's administration point out the law has some loopholes through which many Tennessee motorists may drive.

Providing fines of $2 to $10, the Child Passenger Protection Act was signed by Blanton in April 1977 and requires use of federally approved equipment. Supporters of the act say conventional seat belts in cars do not fit small children properly. The restraints resemble portable seats, have child-size seat belts and are usually anchored with the adult-size seat belts.

"This law, like any law, will require a lot of voluntary compliance," Jim Henderson, state safety department information officer, told a reporter. "There is no way we can enforce any law without a lot of voluntary cooperation."

Henderson said the Tennessee Highway Patrol would establish roadblocks later in the year to see whether motorists are complying.

He said state troopers would be required to note on accident reports whether a child restraint device was in use when a wreck involved youngsters.

Nevertheless, parents would not be required to use child restraint devices, which cost up to $30, if the child is held in the arms of an older person.

The Abundant Life

BY BOB WEAR

SOME PEOPLE SEEM to be irritated most of the time. The degree of this feeling may fluctuate, but the irritation is there. It is as if they want to be in this frame of mind, and deliberately look for something about which they can become upset.

THEY SEEM TO INSIST upon being annoyed; and refuse to be any other way. They make themselves miserable; and, in their association with other people, they are always a pest; and undesirable to have around. This is unfortunate.

IRRITATION CAN BE REDUCED, and the means of doing so is within each person; because the control center is the mind. We accomplish this by the process of "conditioning". We have power to choose how we respond, and we have great capacity for wise self-rule. Let us develop this capacity.

We must condition or prepare ourselves, so as not to be irritated. We can know, in general, what to expect before it happens. We can also decide and resolve not to be irritated by what we disapprove or dislike.

WE CAN KNOW WHAT to expect in any given situation, and can use this knowledge to firm our ourselves. We can establish defenses against irritation. The making of a well-thought-out resolution not to be irritated will help.

WE CAN PUT THE BEST possible construction on what is said and done. We can give others the benefit of the doubt, in what they say and do. We can modify our expectations. We can make allowances and honestly try to understand why things are said and done. We can also make ourselves less sensitive. These are some things we can do to reduce irritations.

A CONTINUING DISPLEASURE WITH SELF makes us fully vulnerable to being constantly irritated. When we are not pleased with ourselves, we are much more likely to be displeased with everybody and everything. Obviously, the greater our success in self-improvement; the "less irritation" we feel because of what is going on around us.

THE ILL-HUMORED MAN IS, almost of course, a selfish man; unhappy in himself, and disagreeable to others. His chief pleasure seems to be, to be displeased, if not with himself, yet with all about him." — Anon.

IN OUR COMPLEX SOCIETY, there are many happenings and situations which have in them the possibility of causing irritation. Some are minor, and some are major; but a combination of minor ones will equal a major one. Therefore, it is wise to condition ourselves against the minor irritations as well as the major ones.

IRRITATION CAUSES WIDESPREAD LOSS. Our peace; peace of mind; judgment; personal effectiveness; health; an emotional stability are all impaired, when we become irritated. We also find that a satisfactory interaction with other people is impossible.

THERE MUST BE LESS IRRITATION. We can develop wholesome tolerance; increase our patience; eliminate some prejudices; and lessen the intensity of all such feelings; and move up to a higher level of maturity.

LESS IRRITATION makes a stronger, happier manner of living.

Welty Nets Ad Award In Contest

The Hereford Brand recently picked up another award when it was announced that Dan Welty, Brand advertising manager, was selected winner in a nation-wide advertising contest.

Eight winners were announced in the Advertising Dynamics A.D. in Action Sweepstakes Contest in 1978. Welty was in distinguished company with winners from Ohio, Wisconsin, Missouri, New York, Pennsylvania, Washington and Alabama.

The contest included entry of advertising layouts of Hereford advertisers which used artwork from the clip-service book Advertising Dynamics.

Welty received a Sharp calculator as a prize from the contest.

The first comic strip in a newspaper was "Yellow Kid," which first appeared in the Sunday color supplement of the New York Journal in 1897.

THE HEREFORD BRAND Published Tuesday through Friday afternoons and Sunday mornings at 130 W. 4th St., Hereford, Texas, 79045, by the Hereford Brand, Inc. Established 1901 as a weekly; changed to semi-weekly in 1948, to five times a week in 1976.

Entered as second class matter at the Post Office in Hereford, Texas under the act of March 3, 1879. Second class postage paid at Hereford, Deaf Smith County, Texas.

In addition, 40 McDonald's Restaurant gift certificates will be given away to riders in random drawings at the three rest stops along the Bike-A-Thon route, and special plaques will go to three other riders.

The annual event is open to riders of all ages, with each entrant responsible for securing sponsors, who in turn pledge to contribute so much money per mile ridden to the ACS crusade. Prizes are awarded on a money earned basis.

The trip to Six Flags includes tickets for five persons to the amusement park, two nights lodging at a motel, and $80 gas allowance.

Registration for the ride will begin promptly at 8:30 a.m. Saturday at the Sugarland Mall parking lot. "We will begin the Bike-A-Thon promptly at 9 a.m., so I urge all riders to be there early to register," Mrs. Jones said.

The route of the Bike-A-Thon is as follows:

Starting at Sugarland Mall parking lot, travel south on Ave. A and on through the downtown area on Main St. to 3rd. East on 3rd to Ave. K and then north on K to 15th.

From there the riders will head west on 15th across Highway 385 and down a zig-zag course to La Plata Junior High for the first rest stop.

They will then zig-zag through the northwest residential section to the parking lot of the Park Plaza Shopping Center for rest stop number two.

The final leg of the Bike-A-Thon route will take the riders from the parking lot up Park Ave. to South Kingwood, where they will travel south to Holly Sugar Road, west to a farm-to-market road where they will go back north to Park Avenue and again east to the Park Plaza parking lot.

"We will have free cokes at all the rest stops compliments of the Coca Cola Company," Mrs. Jones said.

The Annual Bike-A-Thon is part of a total Crusade goal of $13,500 established by the local ACS unit this year. A goal of $5,000 was set for the Bike-A-Thon as part of the Special Events campaign of the Crusade. An additional function, the plans for which will be finalized later, will be held later in the summer.

Oaks said only a remarkable near-deadline upsurge in absentee voting would give reason for reassessment of low-participation calculations.

According to Oaks' prediction, the Democratic primary turnout will be in the 1 million to 1.2 million range. About 1.5 million voted in 1974. Oaks' office previously had indicated as many as 2 million (still an spectacular turnout) would vote Saturday.

None can predict accurately the Republican primary turnout. Oaks is sticking with a 100,000 to 150,000 projection, but some Republicans think the primary may attract fewer than 100,000.

Only 69,000 voted in 1974 when there were no spotlight contests on the GOP ballot.

Voting in both parties shot upward in 1976, of course, due to the first Texas presidential preference primary.

There are now about 5.5 million registered voters, according to Oaks' staff estimate. Deadline for registering to vote in the May 6 primary was April 6.

Absentee voting continued through Tuesday of this week. It was reported about average in Dallas, but below average in many other counties.

Bases Closing?

The Carter administration has proposed closing Goodfellow Air Force Base in San Angelo and trimming personnel at Fort Bliss near El Paso by 608 military and 41 civilian jobs.

The plan will be under study by the Pentagon for about 10 months, and could be blocked by Congress.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe has

State Races

chairman. The long and expensive gubernatorial campaigns have overshadowed a Democratic U.S. Senate race between U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger, 42, champion of the oil and gas industry, and Joe Christie, 44, El Paso, former chairman of the State Board of Insurance.

The winner has a tough battle in November in challenging Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, a 17-year incumbent with conservative friends in both parties.

Texas voters also will be picking party nominees for 24 Congressmen, including registration card. Precincts and voting sites are as follows:

Precinct 1, driver's license examiner room; 2, commissioners' courtroom; 3, Zinser residence west of Westway; 4, Simms Community House; 5, Hereford Community Center; 6, Ford School; 7, Dawn Community Building; 8, Walcott School; 9, Bippus Community House; 10, Wildorado Church; 11, Northwest School.

Republicans, who will not vote on local candidates, list their most important races as those for governor and U.S. congressman from the 19th District.

this time because the conventions will be so late," Strain said. "Hopefully, though, voters will participate."

Republican chairman Wes Fisher noted that the precinct convention also may pass resolutions on issues of importance which are then forwarded on to the county convention, scheduled for May 13, and on to the 1978 state convention.

At the Republican and Democratic county conventions, delegates will be named to the Republican state convention in Dallas Sept. 8-9 and the Democratic state convention Sept. 15-16 in Fort Worth.

At the two state conventions, delegates will select members of their state

Employment

Committee opens hearings on legislation setting a target date of 1983 for achieving full employment.

The Senate Human Resources Committee voted on Wednesday to set a goal of 4 percent unemployment by that year, "with effective control over inflation."

The Humphrey-Hawkins "full employment" bill, already approved by the House, would require the president to submit an annual economic report to Congress spelling out proposals for reaching the 4 percent rate. That rate is considered full employment by some economists, although some others argue that full employment can be attained with a higher jobless rate.

The House Education and Labor Committee meanwhile agreed to continue the fight against joblessness with money for public service jobs for the hard-core unemployed.

It voted on Wednesday to spend $11.4 billion over three years to finance 725,000 jobs made available by local governments.

While the administration is still worried about unemployment, especially among blacks, it is shifting its attention to inflation, which has shown signs of worsening.

Qualifiers, Inflation Considered Big Problems for Mortgage Bankers

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - Mortgage bankers say their toughest task today is finding customers - people who can qualify for the usually hefty high-interest, long-term loans needed to buy new homes.

And, inflation is their biggest worry, according to John C. Weebles, president of the Texas Mortgage Bankers Association. "The rapid increase in the cost of homes and the rapid increase in the cost of money is leaving fewer and fewer families who can qualify for loans," Weebles said in an interview Thursday.

"And as long as inflation is with us, the days of lower interest rate loans, those 5 and 6 percent loans of the last generation, are gone," he said. Weebles is presiding over about 700 members of the Texas Mortgage Bankers Association who are holding their convention here this week.

For homebuyers, the bright side is this:

"Our feelings are that there will be sufficient funds for financing," he said.

But the bad news is:

"We're not proud of the price." That price, said Weebles, is likely to remain in the 9 1/2 percent to 9 3/4 percent annual interest rate for some time.

Weebles said as long as there is inflation, mortgage lenders, including savings and loan associations which finance most homes, will try to protect themselves by charging high interest rates.

"If the lender is looking at double-digit inflation down the road, he's got to do something to cover himself," said Weebles, of San Antonio.

"Everyone feels there is enough money available to meet the needs of the current housing boom. And Texas is fortunate in that its usury laws are not unnecessarily harsh," he added.

Conventional home mortgage loan rates in Texas are limited to 10 percent annually, but government mortgage programs, such as FHA and VA, are not. And, mortgage interest rates on loans larger than $500,000 are greater, Weebles explained.

What does Weebles recommend to the young couple trying to buy its first home in Texas?

"Sweet equity," he replied. "Buy a home today. Pay as much down as possible and borrow as much money as you can for as long as you can. Sweat it out for two or three years. Then, your income will increase and it won't be quite as tight."

A home is one of the best investments around, he added.

Weebles believes that if home prices continue to rise, bankers will have to consider loans for longer repayment periods that the current maximum 30 years. "Forty years" is possible," he said.

Mark J. Riedy of Washington,

D.C., executive vice president of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America, said interest rates may rise as much as one-half to three-fourths of a percent this year.

"And that's contingent on the rate of inflation being controlled," Riedy added. "Inflation is the real problem. Inflation in home prices and inflation in the cost of money."

"We're approaching 10 percent loans right now, and if we hit that it could knock the demand right out of the housing boom. The 10 percent figure is a real psychological barrier."

"But what we have today is that anybody who can get a downpayment will buy a home, and he will pay any interest rate to get a home," said Riedy, who also holds a doctorate in economics.

To meet the minimum down payment requirements and the monthly payments, Riedy said more spouses are having to go to work. In some cases, he said, parents are refinancing their homes and helping their children make downpayments.

Riedy warned, however, that some 40-year loans reach a point of negative amortization, which means the monthly payments won't pay even the interest.

Still, some negative amortization financing plans are being studied. Riedy noted experimental plans where a homebuyer makes smaller payments in the early years of a loan, then increases his payments later as his income rises.

Such programs, for savings and loans, still need Congressional approval which Riedy said he hopes will come later this year.

COUNTRY TWO-STORY INCLUDES TYPICAL SHED PORCH

© By W. D. Farmer

The wide foyer with open rail stair exemplifies old fashioned country two-story idea. The living room and dining room are separated to the right, and bypassed from day-to-day traffic flow. Both are large, however, and are endowed with extra wall space for furniture placement.

Directly behind the foyer is the desirable "country" kitchen with large kitchen eating area, access to basement, utility space and exceptional food preparation area and food storage cabinets. Built-in appliances are indicated.

The family room is accessible to the foyer, double side-entry garage, rear yard and half bath as well as the kitchen. It includes fireplace, front and rear view and abundant wall space.

There are four large bedrooms up, all including good closet space. The master bedroom has private bath with dressing room and the remaining full bath services the three remaining bedrooms. Linen storage closet is central.

The plan is also available with conventional front, including stoop shown and cantilevered second floor.

The exterior style shown is country, enhanced by combination brick and horizontal rustic siding, multi-lite shuttered windows and full width shed porch.

The plan is Number 958 B. It includes a total of 1,969 square feet of heated area. For further information write W. D. Farmer, P.O. Box 49463, Atlanta, Ga. 30329.

Villainous Actor Has New Role on Disney

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Anthony Zerbe, one of the most versatile villains in movies and television, says he can usually spot the heavy just by looking at the character names in a script.

"On television you so often play a gratuitous heavy," he said. "Your only function is to make the hero a hero. I won't play those any more. It seemed my characters were always named Eric or Alex. Once I played a heavy named Ralph Sneed."

"You can usually tell by the names. There's never Charlie or Bobby."

In his latest characterization, the creators threw him a curve. He plays a disreputable tosspot named Amory Timmons, who is up to no good in "Child of Glass." The Disney movie for television airs on NBC at 7 p.m. EDT Sunday.

Zerbe, 42, has lent his dark presence to many films. In "Farewell, My Lovely," he was a slick gangster out to deceive Robert Mitchum. He rolled Paul Newman in a drunken brawl in "Judge Roy Bean." He attacked Charlton Heston in "The Omega Man." He was sent to kill John Wayne in "Rooster Cogburn," but saved Wayne's life instead and lost his own.

To demonstrate his versatility, he was an orchestra conductor who had a brief affair with Shirley Maclaine in "Turning Point."

He won an Emmy for his portrayal of Lt. Trench David Janssen's antagonist in "Harry O." It was his only serious, and although he says he hated to see the show die, he doesn't want to commit himself to another series.

"Child of Glass" is another neatly wrapped package from Walt Disney Productions. It has all the ingredients: Ghosts, cemeteries, a crystal ball, buried treasure and a riddle that is unraveled by two prococious youngsters.

It successfully weaves mystery and comedy, and is fine entertainment for youngsters - and anyone else who can be persuaded to watch.

It also stars Nina Foch, Biff McGuire and Barbara Barrie, with Steve Shaw and Katy Kurtzman as the youngsters and Olivia Barash as the young ghost.

Zerbe plays another villainous role in the upcoming "Dog Soldiers," with Nick Nolte, Tuesday Weld and Michael Moriarty. He will play a more comical heavy in the NBC movie "The Kiss Meets the Phantom," which stars the decorated rock group.

Zerbe lives in Santa Barbara with his wife, actress Arnette Jens, and his children, Janet, 14, and Jared, 12.

Why doesn't bulletin-worthy news ever occur during the commercials?

Driving Can Be Woman's Work Claims Motoring Director

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Sure, it's fine for her to zip around in the station wagon from the shopping center to the community playhouse (where everyone is pretending that Mr. Arnold who retired last year is bringing new dimensions to the role of Puck).

But when it comes to Yosemite or even Philadelphia, she slides over and he takes the wheel.

And secretly she's relieved.

"For heaven's sake, ladies," says Jeremy Barrett, 37, six feet tall, solidly and blondly built and holder of a fine English sense of humor, "pull your shoulders up and tell your husbands it's your turn."

The only reason you're scared to death to drive more than 30 feet from the house, says the director of the British School of Motoring, is fear of making a fool of yourself.

Tosh. With enough practice, you, too, can subdue a pulse that stampedes at the thought of steering through Ft. Worth.

"First," he says, "you must dress for driving. Do a good make-up job and wear something comfortable but smart. Nothing constricting."

"Then, plan where you want to go (in the big city). Look at the map, make up a slip of paper with your route so you're not panicking all the time, and keep it beside you."

You can even ask a friend to come along for support—not distraction—ask a quiet friend.

"And," he adds, "console yourself with the fact that there are whole bunches out there who don't know where they're going, either."

That, of course, is the trouble. You're all out there in "tin boxes" going in all directions and with one good mistake, you're off in a direction from which there's no return.

You're not concentrating, that's the other trouble. And you know whose fault that may be? Whoever taught driver's ed in your high school who was really hired to teach other, important things... because what does it take to teach driver's ed, anyway? That's what Barrett says.

So he probably wasn't an expert driving instructor who taught you to pay attention, to look 200 yards ahead, to pull the hand brake on when you're trapped in traffic so you can release the gas pedal and ward off tension. Not only that, he probably didn't teach you to recognize that a spurt of exhaust from the bus ahead means it's going to pull out.

And chances are he probably kept you sitting behind a desk, for say, 30 hours, and behind the wheel on the road for only six.

That's not the way the British do it. For one thing, no one learns to drive in high school. It isn't taught there. You have to go to a school like the British School of Motoring with 160 branches which take on 4,000 new pupils each week.

In addition to teaching you to concentrate, to plan and look, he says, they'll teach you to understand that "90 percent of driving is other people. It doesn't matter how brilliant you are. If you're surrounded by a bunch who aren't looking you've got problems."

Even if they are looking, you've probably got some, anyway. By the time you've been driving long enough to become frightened of driving outside the womb, you've developed bad driving habits. All of us have.

"Now," he says, "if you're a responsible, thinking person who spends money on golf and tennis lessons, why not take a few lessons each season at a professional driving school for polish?"

The Car Safety Center, or Taggart, or the U.S. Auto Club, for instance. It should cost about $20 an hour. "If you pay less," he cautions, "worry about that school because you're dealing with someone who's cutting corners."

Could be they'll teach you the DSSM check-off list Barrett sweetly drills into his students so they get off on the right foot when they get into the car:

D—for doors. "Make sure they're shut but not locked," he says. "If you have an accident and flip over and oil is leaking, if the doors are locked, how can anyone open them from the outside?"

S—for seating. "Your spine should be in a comfortable 'S.' The base of it should be against the back of the seat, thighs supported by the cushion, knees slightly bent. Now adjust your seat by placing your foot on the floor beyond the gas pedal. You're in a position now to reach the brakes comfortably."

He hopes you're sitting in a bucket seat, by the way, because it can be positioned exactly where you want it without inconveniencing your husband who's all legs.

S—for steering. "Your arms should be bent at the elbow when your hands are side by side on the steering wheel at 12 noon."

S—for seat belt means always wear one, preferably the "lap and diagonal" sort, like a Pancho Villa bandolero.

Finally, there's M for mirrors.

"Hold the rear view mirror on the edges, not with your hand covering it, and align the rim as best as possible with the rim of the rear window. It should fill the back window as much as possible."

"The side view mirror is there to give you a sense of location. Make sure you can see a part of your car behind you to get a relation of other things to it."

All set? All right, keep your distance, relax, concentrate, plan ahead, and don't forget to roll the window down before looking out when you're backing out of the garage.

Inflation Hits 3-Year High Mark

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rapidly rising food costs and sharply higher prices for jewelry pushed wholesale prices up 1.3 percent in April for the biggest inflationary surge at the wholesale level in more than three years, the government said Thursday.

The price report confirmed fears that inflation is stuck at a very high level since wholesale prices have increased 3.6 percent since the beginning of the year.

Higher wholesale prices are bad news for consumers since they eventually result in higher retail prices. Consumer prices already have been increasing substantially this year, rising 0.8 percent in March alone.

The Carter administration earlier this week revised upward its outlook for inflation this year because of larger-than-expected increases in food prices. It said consumer prices may increase as much as 7 percent, up from its earlier forecast of 6.1 percent.

Wholesale food prices rose another 1.9 percent in April raising to 6.7 percent the total increase for the year. There were sharply higher prices for processed poultry and pork, fresh fruits and vegetables and dairy products.

Prices also increased for automobiles, rugs, furniture, and household appliances.

But the big surprise was an unusually large jump in prices of jewelry, which analysts said was due to the rising price of gold and which they said probably would not be repeated.

"Our perception is that this report reflects neither an acceleration nor a deceleration on inflation... It's a set of numbers that says we've got a lot of work to do," said Peter Gould, a spokesman for the Council of Economic Advisors.

He said the increase in food prices was about what had been expected and he said the administration still believes the rate of increase will decline later in the year.

It continued for a 12-month period, the 1.3 percent increase in wholesale prices, which are prices of goods ready to be sold to consumers, would result in an increase in wholesale prices for the year of nearly 16 percent. But a decline in the increase of food prices later in the year should hold the overall increase to a much lower number.

The Labor Department said its wholesale price index in April was 191.4 percent of the 1967 average of 100, meaning that goods priced at $100 in 1967 had risen in cost to $191.40 last month.

The Labor Department said about one-third of the increase in wholesale prices in April could be attributed to the higher cost of jewelry.

Black Sheep, Have You Any Hair?

WOOSTER, Ohio (AP)—To the layman a herd of experimental sheep at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center look like ordinary white or black sheep.

But they have hair instead of wool.

The exotic newcomers, natives of the West Indies, are being used in a search to intensify lamb meat production.

Dr. Charles Parker, animal scientist at the center, has 15 Barbados and 15 St. Croix sheep, 11 ewes and four rams of each breed. In the distance the snow-white St. Croix look like normal sheep that have been shorn of wool. The Barbados have short brown hair and black underlines and look somewhat like deer at first glance.

Parker is interested in a number of traits which these hair sheep are said to have. He said they were reported to have early sexual maturity, high lambing rates, short breeding intervals, natural resistance to internal parasites and greater heat tolerance than standard breeds.

Parker will work with the test animals to verify to what extent the traits exist. He has crossed both the Barbados and St. Croix with some Rambouillet to see if any of these traits can be incorporated into available standard breeds.

The offspring from the cross-breeds are an interesting mixture of lambs with hair and lambs with brown and black wool in varying patterns.

A State Income Tax. A Hangman's Noose For Texas.

If you think taxes are choking you now, consider the possibility of a State income tax. It would be a noose around your neck. Around the neck of every Texan. And around the future of Texas.

A vote for John Hill is a vote for:

- bigger government.
- more government spending.
- more inflation.

AND FOR A STATE INCOME TAX.

A vote for Dolph Briscoe is a vote for:

- fiscal responsibility
- less—not more—government.
- continued economic growth.

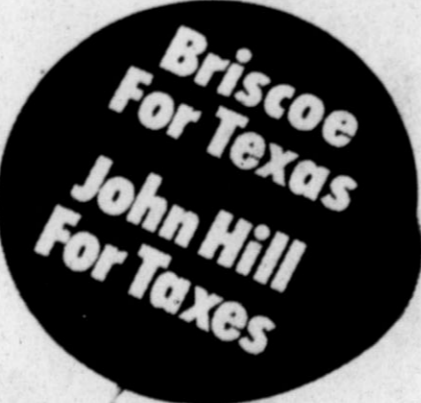

AND FOR NO NEW TAXES.

- We don't need New York-style government in Texas.
 - We don't need Washington-style bureaucracy in Texas.
 - And we don't need a big spending liberal activist as Governor of Texas
- LET'S KEEP DOLPH BRISCOE AS OUR GOVERNOR.

"We are already footing the bill for run-away government in Washington. As Texans we should not have to foot the bill for run-away government in Austin.

"I don't think Texas should spend itself into a state income tax. That is exactly what will happen if Mr. Hill fulfills only some of his political promises."

She Weaves Abstracts As Form of Art

NEW YORK—(NEA)—You know what would really make the skies heavenly? Pam Am mused in 1974. Tapestries in the planes. Big handwoven ones on the bulkheads in the 747s and smaller pieces in the smaller planes. Suns and moons and, say, why don't we use the China clipper ship silhouette?

They got some artists to whip up some designs and then they got Michelle Lester, 35, a weaver who works in a lofty 80 by 35-foot room full of looms over on West 17th Street.

"It changed my life," she said recently, sitting on a couch in one corner while three weavers silently wove and classical music soothed their backs in the background.

"We were doing personal commissions and selling to personal collectors until then. But in the last five years, craft shops have grown into an industry and now loom companies are sprouting up overnight so we can get better looms. And there are hand-weavers who are willing to do large scale things such as tapestries."

And not just the pillows and rugs Ms. Lester was selling — and does — to Bloomingdale's, et al.

Still, it was something when Pan Am asked her to do 260 tapestries for the fleet. No rush, of course, they said. Take your time. So for four years, she kept five weavers weaving and at the end, she got $24,000.

(The weavers, who earn an average of $150 a week, she says, get paid by the square foot. Because some are faster than others, to pay them by the hour isn't much reward for the fast ones.)

She's done a lot of commissions for corporations since then. Recently she put her eye to purple mountains in the distance for American Smelting and Refining, which wanted a tapestry of one of their copper mines in Peru.

"Usually I start out with a landscape theme and get more involved in abstractions, like strata formation — the linear patterns in the rocks — and the colors. And the one I did for American Smelting was one of the most successful. I kept my abstractions in there and they still recognized it as the feeling of Peru and the copper mine."

Two weavers worked eight weeks on that and the mining people paid $75 per square foot. "That's the base price and from there we go up and down," she said.

How it was done, once everyone decided on colors and she custom dyed the yarn, is just the way it was done in the 15th century. "We're still using the same methods because if we abandoned them, we'd lose some of the potential to create intricate designs."

It's not like weaving a herring-bone suit, in case you were wondering. But in either case you have to know about warp and weft and butterflies and shuttles.

Pretend you have a harp. The strings, which should be vertical or you've got a lemon and not a harp, are the warp. "Warp is the foundation and it's cotton and linen," she says. If you were making a herring-bone suit on that harp, you'd push a shuttle from side to side through the strings once the pattern was set.

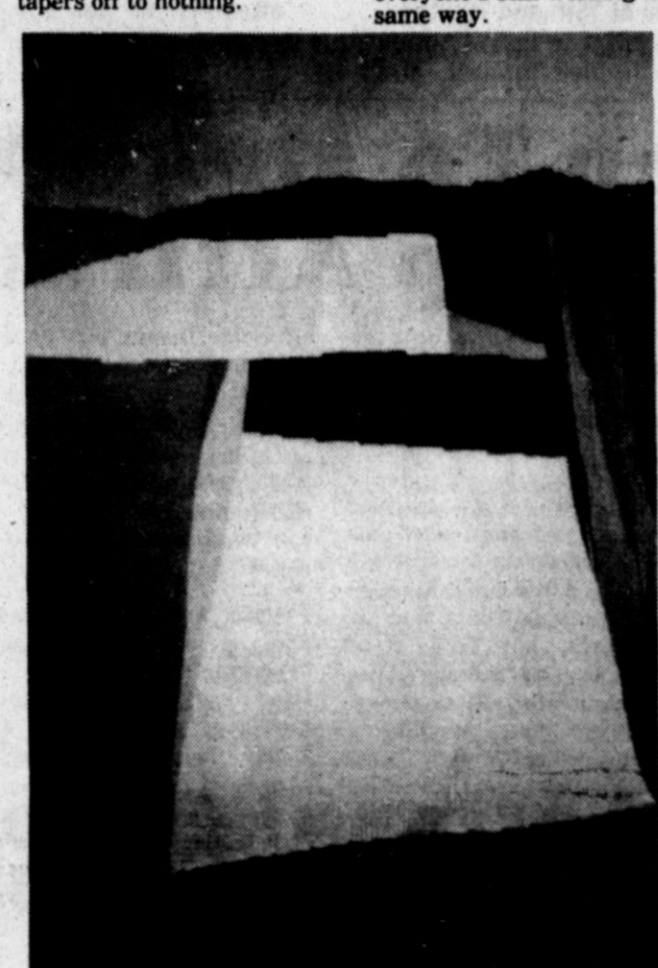

And you'd see the pattern, nice and clear, up and down. Maybe in a nice blue and gray. But Ms. Lester says her tapestry weaving is weft-face. She keeps her warp hidden — which is certainly her privilege.

So all you see are the horizontal threads made of silk and wool because, she likes the way they look and feel.

Her weavers work the warp and weft on all sorts of looms — from 60 inches to 17 feet long, aluminum and wood. And they use their feet, too, on the treadle which separates one set of warp strings from another. Half up, half down. That's so they can weave "over one and under one" which is how her tapestries go. With a herring-bone suit, you have to be good in math because it might be over one, under two and how do you get the sha-zam thing in the corner?

The butterflies come in because her weavers flit those around instead of a shuttle. They made them by bunching the end of the yarn they're working with together, kind of like a butterfly. "On a tapestry, you create independent areas of color, you don't go from side to side," she says. Maybe the yellow stratum only runs craggly for five inches, then tapers off to nothing.

THE SUMMER CANYON tapestry, four and a half by six and a half feet, by Michelle Lester, has been sold to Citicorp.

Sometimes, to make sure the purple doesn't usurp pink territory, for instance, the weavers draw grid lines on the warp with magic markers and the warp becomes a coloring book. Sometimes they just follow slides and diagrams.

However they do it, they keep going for seven or eight hours a day. Except at lunch when everyone gets up and stretches. Literally. "We do half an hour of exercise then because if you've been sitting at a loom all morning, it hits you in the back." (And in the patience, if you're not devoted to weaving which, she says, can be repetitive and monotonous.)

So they bend this way and that and flex their fingers which have to be naturally flexible because a weaver has to control her tools. She's got to maintain a consistency of touch so the moon doesn't suddenly sag off to the left behind the clipper ship.

Her weavers say they love it. Their conferees from the 15th century probably did, too, and if they could all get together, they'd have lots to talk about, seeing as how everyone's still working the same way.

Michelle Lester

Executives Hear Complaints from All

NEW YORK (AP) - In the spring of the year, corporate executives often are placed on the hot seat for a day, after which they quickly regain their composure with comforting thoughts about a summer of yachting.

The hot seat is one of the rites of spring, annual meeting day, during which shareholders may for a few brief minutes express their views as owners, before retreating to another year in oblivion.

But the spring of this year is bringing more substantial complaints, from more substantial sources, and many of the complaints are directed very personally at top executives rather than at their management.

The scene is not always the annual meeting alone, but close enough to it so that the criticism is bound to use up a good deal of the day — and most likely many days to follow.

Henry Ford II of Ford Motor, John Riccardo of Chrysler and Frank Milliken of Kennecott can attest to the unseasonable warm weather, but almost every other executive is also feeling heat from Washington.

Barry Bosworth, President Carter's director of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, suggested to executives that they hold their salary increases to 5 percent this year — while inflation heads toward 7.

Such a statement, directed as it was, generates its own heat. Accustomed to performance bonuses as well as salaries and benefits, executives are bristling at the mere suggestion of giving up anything.

Worse still is the insinuation they are the cause of inflation — they who are forced to operate within budget limitations — when Washington is stained by $60 billion of red ink during relatively good times.

But while executives in general are hot under the collar, those sitting directly under the scorching spotlight, such as the Ford Motor chief, are badly upset.

Accused in a lawsuit of accepting kickbacks and with conspiracy to divert corporate funds, Ford issued a combined statement of denial and expression of his personal anger at the effrontery of the suit.

The issue, nevertheless, is bound to be a focus of shareholder interest at the annual meeting May 11, and is likely to detract from more positive statements the chairman was prepared to deliver.

Riccardo, Chrysler chairman, already has taken his blasts from angry shareholders at the annual meeting May 2, but his work is laid out for the rest of the year. His job: restore profitability.

Milliken, Kennecott chairman, has received his criticism primarily from Roland Berner, who called him at different times "incompetent" and "inept." Berner, chairman of Curtiss-Wright, is leading a stockholder attempt to take over the big copper producer.

Mondale Promises New Asia Warplanes

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) - Vice President Walter F. Mondale promised new warplanes and reaffirmed an American commitment to defend Southeast Asia in talks with Thailand's leader Thursday.

Mondale also said the United States would accept tens of thousands more Indochina refugees.

"Our own peace depends on the Pacific area," Mondale declared in a champagne toast at a state dinner.

Prime Minister Kriangsak Chomanan, in his toast, praised the U.S. decision to take in more refugees, saying it reflects President Carter's "concern for human rights and high standard of morality."

After a two-hour meeting with the vice president, Kriangsak said Mondale told him Washington would honor the 1954 Manila Pact and its protocols, which pledge the United States to defend Southeast Asia against "armed Communist aggression."

Thailand served as a major rear base for American forces in the Indochina War, and since the communist victories three years ago Thai officials have been concerned that the U.S. commitment to this country might be fading.

The Bangkok government is troubled by Communist insurgents in the countryside and by an often-bloody border dispute with Communist Cambodia.

An official in the Mondale party said the Thais were promised 18 more F-5E jet fighter-bombers for $70-$90 million, the financing to be worked out later. The Thais also would like U.S. military credits expanded.

Mondale's press secretary, Albert Eisele, said Mondale told Kriangsak the United States would open its doors to 25,000 more Indochinese refugees a year for an indefinite period. Most of them will come from among Vietnamese, Cambodians and Laotians who have fled to Thailand.

Carter administration officials say the White House will submit legislation to Congress to authorize such a long-term increase in the number of refugee offices here said the program could begin soon.

Man Volunteers Year To Help Elderly

MOUNTAIN LAKE, Minn. (AP) - Senior citizens in Mountain Lake will be seeing a lot of Gordon Krause this year, and that could mean they'll be getting out and doing more in their neighborhood.

Krause, a 29-year-old Mountain Lake resident, has volunteered a year of his time to help senior citizens in any way he can.

"My philosophy is that churches and Christians should be doing a lot of social work things that government is doing," Krause said.

"The churches have abdicated their responsibilities to others... Church members have to take more of that responsibility back," he added.

Krause, whose goal is to supplement programs that are currently available through Cottonwood County, is beginning his effort with a taxi service.

While providing senior citizens with transportation, Krause has often found other ways in which he can help his riders. In conversation, they sometimes mention they need certain repairs done around their homes or seek his advice on any number of topics.

"I hope to be sensitive enough to do odd jobs and help them solve minor problems," Krause said. "I've shoveled a lot of sidewalks."

Krause, who majored in psychology in college, said he had decided to risk his savings and live without salary for a year because he wanted a job helping people without leaving his home town.

During the seven years since he left college, Krause has worked as a volunteer teacher's and community aide.

Smith Hot in May

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers just don't give you any rest.

First it was Ricky Monday with the hottest bat in the National League in April.

Now it's Reggie Smith getting away to a blazing start in May.

The Dodgers' illustrious switch-hitter has taken up where Monday left off, knocking in three runs Thursday for the second straight day as Los Angeles beat the Chicago Cubs 4-1.

"Reggie is the pivotal man on our club," said Dodger Manager Tom Lasorda. "He leads by execution. When he gets big hits, everything falls into place."

They certainly fell in for Smith at Chicago's wind-lashed Wrigley Field Thursday.

In the first inning, his two-run homer fell into the left field seats as he batted from the right side of the plate. Then he turned to the left side and smashed a sacrifice fly. He also had a double in the ninth.

His home run, incidentally, was hit through the teeth of a 22 mph wind.

"I wasn't worried about it going foul," he said, "but I really hit it well and I was afraid it might be a heartbreaker by hanging up in the wind."

Smith also drove in three runs in Wednesday's 9-5 victory on a triple, a double and a pair of singles that helped the Dodgers break a three-game losing streak.

In other National League action, the New York Mets defeated the Atlanta Braves 8-2. A game between San Francisco and St. Louis was rained out. In the American League, the Boston Red Sox whipped the Minnesota Twins 8-1 while rain postponed the Texas-Baltimore game.

Smith's first-inning homer, following a single by Bill Russell, was all the support Rick Rhoden needed in winning his fourth decision without a defeat.

"I'm throwing as well as I can," said Rhoden, who shook his head negatively when asked if this was his best start.

"I was 5-0 last year and 9-0 in 1976," said Rhoden. "In the past when I didn't have good stuff I'd try to overpower the hitters. Now I can go to my breaking stuff."

Mets 8, Braves 2

Bobby Valentine drilled a two-run homer and drew a bases-loaded walk and Jerry Koosman pitched a seven-hitter as New York beat Atlanta. Valentine's homer came off Phil Niekro to cap a three-run sixth.

"The homer was on an inside knuckler," said Valentine. "It was just floating around waiting to be hit. I'm a zone swinger on knuckleballs. I swing in a zone and hope the ball floats into it."

Red Sox 8, Twins 1

Jim Rice clouted a pair of triples and knocked in three runs to help Dennis Eckersley notch his first victory in a Boston uniform as the Red Sox beat Minnesota. Eckersley, 1-1 in his sixth start of the year, scattered four hits.

Hereford Driver Fourth

AMARILLO — Hereford's Jim Culpepper resides in fourth place in the late-model standings after last Saturday's auto-racing action at Southwest Speedway.

Odessa's John Foster won the main event to take over the lead with a 300-265 point lead over the previous leader, Amarillo's Neal DeBord.

Amarillo's Barry Weaver is third with 170 points, only 20 points ahead of Culpepper, 1977 late-model runner-up. Wayne McCullar, former Hereford resident who now lives in Lubbock, finished fourth in Saturday's feature race to vault to fifth place with 90 points.

James Davis of Hereford shares sixth place in the late-model standings with four-time champion Don Burt of Amarillo with 80 points.

Amarillo's Cameron Moore owns the modified-stock lead by a 187-120 point margin over Tommy Latham of Amarillo and Borger's James Dennis has a 67-58 point lead over second-place Mike Held, also of Borger, in the street-stock standings.

Auto races will resume at 8 p.m. Saturday at the asphalt track at N.E. 24th and Folsom Road. Admission will be $3 with children 11 and under admitted free when accompanied by an adult.

The odds, according to Golf Digest, against making a hole-in-one on a par three hole are 10,738-to-1 for an average golfer, 927-to-1 for a touring male pro player, and 1,162-to-1 for a female pro player.

Team Mothers To Pick Up Candy

Team mothers for all teams in the Deaf Smith Kids, Inc. organization are reminded to pick up their team's candy for the annual candy sale from 1-3 p.m. Saturday at the West Central Elementary School gym.

Opal Walterscheid and Harold Wheeler are co-chairing the sale, which will raise funds to help pay for the new Kids, Inc. baseball complex at 15th and Whittier. The candy sale was originally slated to begin Monday and coincide with the opening of the local ball season, but wet grounds have forced postponement of the season opener one week.

Kids, Inc. officials and volunteer workers will again be working at the complex site this weekend as they attempt to complete finishing up work on the four diamonds there. Play will begin locally May 15.

Jersey Joe Walcott was 37 when he won the world heavyweight title by knocking out Ezzard Charles on July 18, 1951.

Back at the turn of the century, the legendary fight manager, Bill Brady, handled two heavyweight champions, James J. Corbett and Jim Jeffries.

'Faces Wind Up Season

The Hereford Whitefaces end the 1978 baseball season here Saturday with a District 4-4A twinbill against the Lubbock High Westerners beginning at 1 p.m. at Whiteface Field.

The Herd stands 1-13 in loop play and 7-18 overall under new coach David Ashby this season. They dropped 19-7 and 11-5 decisions in their last outing April 25.

The Ponies are the only district team to fall to the 'Faces, dropping a 6-5 decision the first time the two teams met in loop play.

The Westerners, meanwhile, will be trying to bounce back from 4-3 and 2-1 losses to the Mustangs in Lubbock Thursday.

The Monterey Plainsmen were also in action Thursday, drubbing the Plainview Bulldogs 6-1 and 9-1 to go undefeated in loop play for the second straight year. The Plainsmen, now 26-4, will meet District 3-4A champ Amarillo [17-4] in the bi-district round.

Ken Cosper, son of Kids, Inc. Immediate past president Chuck Cosper, was doing his part last weekend when the organization held another work day at the new ballparks site at 15th and Whittier. Cosper kept busy applying paint to light fixtures as earth-moving machines leveled infields, and other volunteers hung wire on backstops as well as doing finish-up work at the site. Volunteers will again be at work Saturday as the organization attempts to get the diamonds ready for the opening of play May 15 [Brand photo by Bob Nigh].

Cauthen To Make Derby Debut Atop Affirmed

By DICK JOYCE
AP Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Trainer Laz Barrera describes jockey Steve Cauthen as being almost as old as the Kentucky Derby. That 3-year-old classic turns 104 on Saturday while Cauthen only recently turned 18.

"Cauthen's 100 years old," says Barrera of Cauthen, who does indeed have poise and experience beyond his tender years. Cauthen, who has been riding in New York this week, makes his Derby debut on Affirmed, the 7-5 early second choice for the 1 1/4-mile event, which has attracted a field of 11 3-year-olds.

Cauthen, the top jockey in winners and purse earnings last year, is no newcomer to the Churchill Downs track, having got his start here several years ago. However, he became Affirmed's regular rider last year only after veterans Angel Cordero and Laffit Pincay could not devote full time to riding Affirmed, owned by Harbor View Farm.

The first leg of racing's Triple Crown, worth $239,400 if all go with a first prize of $186,900 boils down to a four-horse race with Calumet Farm's Alydar the early line favorite at even money, and Top of the Marc Stable's Sensitive Prince the third pick at 6-1 followed by Hickory Tree Stable's Believe It at 8-1.

Affirmed and Alydar, each unbeaten in four starts this year, meet for the first time this year. As a 2-year-old, Affirmed beat Alydar in four of their six meetings, but because of sentiment and impressive victories in the Blue Grass, Flamingo and the Florida Derby, Alydar is expected to go off as the favorite with Jorge Velasquez in the saddle.

In the draw for post position Thursday, John Veitch, trainer of Alydar, got his wish by landing an outside post position, No. 10. Affirmed, winner of the Hollywood and Santa Anita derbies, will go from post No. 2.

Alydar would seem to have drawn the more favorable spot because he is in a good shape to avoid a traffic jam at the start. And, if the track is sloppy or muddy, the inside footing will grow heavier by the time the Derby gets underway. Post time is 5:38 p.m. EDT.

Rain has fallen sporadically since Wednesday night with more showers expected today. Clearing is expected by Saturday.

The rest of the field is headed by Derby Creek Road at 20-1. The others all are listed at 30-1. They are Raymond Earl, Esops, Fobles, Special Honor, Hoist, the Silver, Chief of Dixieland, and Dr. Valeri.

National Records May Fall at State Meet

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas girls appear to have a chance to set two national records at the state track meet Friday and Saturday.

Team track championships will be determined in Class 2A and 3A Friday night and in B, A and 4A on Saturday.

Girls also will compete for state championships in golf and tennis.

Easter Gabriel of Houston Sterling leaped 40-4 1/2 in the triple jump in a 4A regional meet, which is 5 inches farther than the national record, set last year by Jackie Mays of Stamford. Mays is returning to the meet with the best jump of 38-8 3/4 in the 2A regionals.

In the 80-yard hurdles, Kathy Bergoog of Alief Hastings has run 10.3. The national record of 10.2 is held by four girls, including Karen Holmes of Fort Worth Wyatt.

All running events except the 80-hurdles and 100-yard dash have been converted from yards to meters, which will deny Canyon's Merry Johnson an opportunity to break her national 400 record of 54.2.

A featured performer in tennis will be Pam Hill of Beaumont South Park, who will be trying for her fourth consecutive title in 3A singles.

Conroe returns to defend its 4A golf championship but trailed Stafford Dulles by 61 strokes in regional.

In his playing days with the New York Giants, Dallas Coach Tom Landry was a defensive back and a member of the famed "Umbrella Defense."

On Feb. 18, 1956, Black Hills defeated Yankton, 80-79, in seven overtime periods, an NCAA basketball record.

Bob Nigh Let's Talk Sports

In an experience filled with the thrill of meeting, working with, and playing alongside members of the top women's professional softball team in the nation, Hereford's Suzanne Duvall and Yolanda Cantu suffered but one disappointment...They didn't make the team.

The two young Hereford players participated in a three-day tryout held by the Meriden, Connecticut Falcons last week. The two-time professional champions hosted some 18 young hopefuls last weekend, and the extent of the tryout was in itself a learning experience for the local duo.

"I was simply amazed at the organization of the tryout," Linda Pagett, local coach who accompanied the two Hereford girls to the tryout said. "Our girls didn't make the team, but they were very encouraged," Mrs. Pagett continued.

One of the main reasons Misses Duvall and Cantu didn't make the squad, which is coached by Joan Joyce and part-owned by professional golfer Jane Bialock, was youth and inexperience.

"There was one girl who had played on another pro team two years ago and several who had a couple of years of semi-pro experience, so the competition was tough," Mrs. Pagett said.

Besides the usual examinations at the plate and outfield, the players went through a daily routine of tough calisthenics before they even touched a ball or bat.

"They led the girls through a whole series of exercises for about an hour-and-a-half each day," Mrs. Pagett revealed, "and they also included reaction builders such as pepper games in addition to their fielding and hitting."

Four of the hopefuls didn't make it through the first hour of the intensive drills. "Suzanne and Yolanda both performed well though," Mrs. Pagett said. "They really learned a lot, and will benefit greatly from the experience."

"One thing that also amazed me was that the Falcons weren't just a bunch of jocks," she continued. "Most of them held a master's degree, and were coaches at various colleges. Two of them were even working on their doctorates."

Miss Duvall plans to return to Meriden next summer to attend one of the team's camps. A commitment to a class at West Texas State University this summer will prevent her from attending the camp this year.

"Mrs. Joyce really encouraged both girls to work hard and come back for another tryout if that was really what they wanted to do," Mrs. Pagett said. "The only thing they lacked was age and experience."

Both girls expressed thanks to those local citizens who made it possible for them to make the trip to Meriden. "We would like to especially thank Martha Shire, who did a lot to get us there," they said.

With the pro shot behind them the two girls plan to play in a women's softball league here in Hereford this summer. But, no matter where they play, they can be satisfied that their introduction to "the bigs" was an enjoyable experience.

NCAA Investigator's Credibility Discounted In House Report

By TOM SEPPY
AP Sports Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - J. Brant Clark, the former NCAA investigator who told Congress that the collegiate sports association routinely used bribes to obtain information about its members, has been described as a "misleading and deceptive" witness.

Rep. Norman F. Lent,

R-N.Y., a member of the House investigations subcommittee, released a confidential memo and a 42-page staff report on Clark's 3-month-old testimony which, he said, is "devastating to the credibility of Clark."

"As I read the report, I must conclude that J. Brant Clark was a misleading and deceptive witness who cavalierly utilized such terms as 'bribery' and investigators. Mr. Clark's 'flesh peddling' to besmirch the reputations of innocent individuals who, as yet, have not had an opportunity to present their testimony before the subcommittee," Lent said.

In Shawnee Mission, Kan., NCAA executive director Walter Byers issued a statement in which he said: "We welcome the report of the staff media interviews as a subcommittee staff employee prior to his testimony contain substantial false statements and information as did his testimony as a subcommittee witness. We do not consider the matter to be closed."

In its six-week investigation, during which they conducted 30 interviews, the three staff members concentrated on three specific examples used by Clark to substantiate his charge that NCAA investigators use bribery to obtain information.

In one example, Clark said an NCAA investigator called off his inquiry of the University of Mississippi after an Ole Miss athlete provided him with "the services of a young lady."

The staff report said James Delany of the NCAA did date a female friend of Ole Miss player James Jordan. But, the report said, corroborative evidence indicates Delany never told Mississippi Coach Ken Cooper he would not turn in evidence on Ole Miss because the football player had something on him, as charged by Clark.

"Delany, by accepting a date with Jordan's female friend, was not offering any consideration to the student athlete in exchange for cooperation or information," the report said. "In short, there was no quid pro quo flowing from the investigator to the student athlete. If anything, the situation, put in its worst light, can be viewed as a student athlete attempting to ingratiate himself with the NCAA investigator rather than vice versa."

The report also dismissed Clark's charges of bribery in a case involving Major Jones, an Eastern Basketball Association player, and flesh peddling involving Wayne Rollins, a former Clemson player.

The 29-year-old Clark was the leadoff witness Feb. 27 in the House investigation of the National Collegiate Athletic Association. The next public hearings are expected May 18-19. Clark resigned last December and was hired as a counsel to the House subcommittee. He resigned that post April 24, the day the staff report was submitted.

Rose Predicts He'll Get His Hits Tonight

CINCINNATI (AP) - Pete Rose, on the verge of being the 13th major leaguer to get 3,000 career hits, predicts tonight is the night.

The Cincinnati Reds third baseman has 2,998 hits going into tonight's game with the Montreal Expos.

"Friday night," Rose predicted. "I don't want to upstage the Kentucky Derby" on Saturday, he joked.

Rose, who will lead off the Reds against Steve Rogers, 2-3, had two worries: First, he doesn't want to make an error that might cost the Reds the game if he gets the two hits, and, second, he does not want the final hit to be one of dispute over the ruling of the official scorer.

On Thursday, Rose spent the day making a broadcast commercial with the man who was there when Rose started his career in the Reds farm system at Geneva, N.Y., in 1960 - Tony Perez.

Perez, traded before last season by Cincinnati to the Expos, was asked what he remembered about Rose his first year in the minors.

"Nothing good," Perez smiled. "He was not that good a hitter. He hit .277. He was terrible playing second base. I don't know why they didn't kill him on double plays. Every time he pivoted they hit him."

"All he did was hustle and work hard. He went out before every game to field ground balls at second base. He told me he was a catcher in school but he worked and became a good second baseman," said Perez, still a close friend to Rose.

Rose was moved up to Tampa in 1961 leaving Perez behind. "They wanted me to work on my English," said the Cuban native. "I no can communicate with the other players and they wanted me to get better so I stay behind."

Three years later, Perez recalled, "I been hearing about Pete all along, about how he lead the league at Tampa in triples and how he hit .330 at Macon. Then I see, he is in the big leagues."

Perez joined Rose with the Reds the following year but was not yet a close friend of Rose.

"He ran with Tommy Helms (former Reds infielder). We never see him. They were crazy," Perez said.

In 1966, Rose, Perez, Lee May and Helms began running together, on the field.

"The big thing is the families. Pituka (Perez' wife) got to know Carolyn (Rose) and then the kids came along and they played together. You get close. You become friends."

"First thing I do when I pick up the paper in the morning is look at the box score, see what Pete did, what the others did" among his former Reds teammates.

ACCIDENTAL DRAW
CINCINNATI (AP) - General Manager Paul Brown of the Cincinnati Bengals is credited with having invented the draw play in pro football during his great years as coach of the Cleveland Browns. But the master tactician blushing admits the draw happened by accident.

"Actually," said Brown, "it was born in a game when quarterback Otto Graham was getting such a hard pass rush that he handed the ball off to fullback Marion Motley in desperation. Marion ran right between the rushers for a big gain. We decided we had something good and we put it in our play book as a regular formation."

Wrestling Features Tag Team Match

A returning tag team match highlights Lions Club wrestling action Saturday night at the Bull Barn. Lord Jonathan Boyd, the Royal Kangaroo, teams once again with Roger Kirby to face off against Mexican stylist Ricky Romero and popular young Scott Casey. Boyd and Kirby come in at a combined weight of 485 pounds, while Romero and Casey together tip the beam at 232.

Kirby set a world leg press record of 2800 pounds, and frequently does ten or more repetitions with 1800. Boyd works out in his home, and is an avid swimmer. Romero, known both for his sleeper hold and his speed, runs five miles without a stop, and trains with light weights at home. He explains that heavier weights would cause him to slow up. Casey is a power lifter, and does hundreds of Oriental-type squats for stamina. He was counted out of the ring in the third stanza of last week's match while the other legal man battled Romero inside. Romero and Casey have lodged a protest and want another chance.

Tough German Hans Schroeder takes on former collegiate great Dennis Stamp in the semi-main. Schroeder weighs over 280, and is managed by self-styled "Sir Oliver" Humperdinck, a red-haired balloon of a man who is surprisingly quick and nimble. Schroeder is an ex-soldier, ex-merchant mariner, and ex-boxer.

Stamp, forty-five pounds lighter, is a well-conditioned former All-American in football and wrestling at Minnesota's Concordia College. He was also a state champion, and held the brass knucks title as a professional.

Last week, young Berry Orton surprised Schroeder with his agility and staying power, but fell in the last fall before the superior size and strength of the German. Schroeder was disqualified in the second fall of the match when manager Humperdinck interfered as Orton made a cyclonic comeback.

Newcomers Mr. Pogo and Terry Garvin had a grueling and jarring battle for eight and a half minutes before Garvin surrendered to Pogo's stomach claw. Garvin, a native of Montreal and 228 pounds, was outgunned by the burly Japanese ex-sumo wrestler. Pogo, a master of martial arts, used the Atemi-Waza or striking techniques of Judo to raise several large hematomas on Garvin's body as he softened him up for the kill.

Pogo is one of the cruelest and most unrelenting wrestlers to hit Bull Barn action in some time. His opponent next week will be Rip Hawk, the durable 230-pound ex-wrestling coach from North Carolina.

Action at the Bull Barn starts at 8:30 p.m. Saturday.

Sonics, Nuggets Open NBA Series

DENVER (AP) - The Seattle SuperSonics, who started the National Basketball Association season by losing 17 of their first 22 games, meet the Denver Nuggets tonight in the opening game of a best-of-seven series for the Western Conference championship.

The winner of the series will meet the winner of the Washington-Philadelphia series for the NBA championship.

For two of the Sonics, center Marvin Webster and forward Paul Silas, tonight's game will be a homecoming of sorts. Both played for the Nuggets last year before being sent to Seattle in the trade which brought guard Bobby Wilkerson to Denver.

"I didn't really want to go there, because I wanted it to be all over with Denver," said Webster Wednesday night after learning the Nuggets had beaten Milwaukee in the seventh and deciding game of their quarter-final series.

Seattle defeated defending NBA champion Portland, to make it into the series.

"The game is going to build up around myself and Paul returning to Denver," said Webster. "But you can't, as professionals, go out there and take revenge. That can hurt the team, and I'm not going to do anything like that."

Seattle won three of four games against Denver during the regular season, and Webster said he sees that as the key to the playoffs.

"I really think we'll beat them 4-1 or something like that. I'm not underestimating them, but I just have that much confidence," he said.

Washington-Philadelphia
The injury jinx has struck the Washington Bullets again, jeopardizing their chances against the Philadelphia 76ers in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Center Wes Unseld and guard Kevin Grevey are considered doubtful performers tonight when the two clubs resume their best-of-seven Eastern Conference championship series at the Capital Centre in Landover, Md., tied at one victory each. Injuries slowed the Bullets throughout the regular season.

Dent's 65 Leads Nelson

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
DALLAS (AP) - Jim Dent is tired of driving for show and making no dough. And Arnold Palmer, playing perhaps his best golf in over a year, quickly adds an amen. Dent, a non-winner and one of the longest drivers on the PGA Tour, showed Thursday what can happen when he adds a putting touch to his prodigious 290-yard drives. He made six birdie putts ranging from 10 to 100 feet and, coupled with a bogey, it gave him a 5-under-par 65 over the 6,993-year, par-70 Preston Trail Golf Club course to take a one-shot lead in the Bryon

Nelson Classic. Palmer, lashing his irons to the flag all day, was one shot behind with a 66 that he called "about as high as I could shoot...my best playing round in over a year." Dent, who lost his exempt playing status and must struggle to qualify each week, said: "I stopped working on my driver and started working on my putting. Do you think Gary Player just made all two-footers in that winning string? No matter how good you play you have to be able to chip and putt." The 36-year-old Dent, whose best finish this year was a tie for 24th, had to withdraw last week at New Orleans when his mother died. "I felt I would accomplish something just by playing," he said. "It (death in the family) is something we all have to face and something you have to get over just as soon as you can." Dent birdied four holes in a row and it all began with a 100-foot snake for a birdie three on the 393-yard, par-4 No. 12. Dent played his round in the wind and cold of the morning and wore two sweaters and rain pants to keep warm. "It must not have been too bad or he wouldn't have shot 65," said Palmer, who toured the course under a bright afternoon sun.

Palmer, who hasn't won a tour event since 1973, said, "I 3-putted and missed numerous short putts. I putted well but not good. I played as well as I have in quite sometime." Followed by a huge crowd, Palmer saw a share of the lead get away on the final hole when he rimmed a 5-footer. "I hit all the greens," said Palmer whose longest putt was a 20-footer for a birdie on the 470-yard, par-5 10th. Tour sophomore Barry Jaecel, Orville Moody, and Steve Melnyk each shot 3-under-par 67 to stay close. Jaecel played behind Palmer and spent as much time watching one of golf's legends as he did his own fine play. Player, who won three consecutive tournaments before he tied for fifth at New Orleans, struggled to a 75. The most Dent has ever won was $48,486. He was 64th on the tour last year with $48,411. First place in this tournament is worth $40,000.

'Horns Sweep To Quad Track Win

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The University of Texas swept a quadrangular track and field meet here Thursday night without the expected showdown between the conference's two star sprinters. Texas A&M trailed by only one point with a total of 72, but competed without sprint star Curtis Dickey who was expected to square off against Texas' Olympic gold-medalist Johnny Lam Jones in the 100-meter dash. Texas Christian and Rice weren't even in the running. TCU ended up with 16 and Rice was shut out. Jones, springing back from a season of injuries, raced to an easy win in the 100 with a 10.9, his best effort of the year. Jones anchored Texas' 400-meter relay team to a first-place finish in 40.31, but he jumped the gun in the 200 and did not run. Teammate Bob Clary won that event in 20.96. The Aggies' top performer was distance runner Manfred Kohrs, the meet's only double winner. He took the 1,500 in 3:51.13 and won the 5,000 in 14:43.79. Mike Mosley took the long jump with a leap of 23-3/4 but was upset in the 110-meter hurdles by TCU's Jeff Matthews with 14.23. Mosley took the second place honors with the same time. Ranger captured the state junior college championship, held in conjunction with the SWC meet.

Car Registration Underway at Indy

By STEVE HERMAN
AP Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Less than two weeks after seven key officials of the U.S. Auto Club were killed in an airplane crash, registration of drivers and technical inspection of cars for Saturday's start of Indy 500 practice were proceeding smoothly. A record 92 entries were received by the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. As of Thursday, the paperwork for about 15 cars had been cleared through USAC and the vehicle lodged in their Gasoline Alley garages. About 75 individuals, including drivers and crew members, also had been registered. Other cars, like the Wildcat racer purchased for Janet Guthrie from George Bignotti, still remained in other garages in Indianapolis.

As a steady rain greeted the arrivals at the track, USAC continued with perhaps its two most critical staff positions filled. The racing organization, which earlier appointed Jack Beckley as technical chairman, named Bob Cassidy as registrar-coordinator Thursday. Cassidy succeeded Stan Worley, one of the April 23 crash victims, although he won't start his job with USAC until May 16. Registration for the May 28 Indy 500 will have been completed by then, so his first race will be at Mosport on June 11. Cassidy, 50, was with the Firestone Racing Division for 18 years before Firestone dropped its racing program in 1974. On Wednesday, USAC named Beckley to succeed Frank DelRoy. None of the other five vacant staff positions have been filled. The car owned and driven by Larry Cannon was the only one that had completed all phases of technical inspection as of Thursday. Cannon, a veteran of three Indy races, was waiting at the office when the 1978 entry blanks were mailed out and returned the first entry. Guthrie took possession of her new car at Bignotti's garage Thursday and said everything was in good order except for having no place to store the racer. Guthrie, who finished 29th in her first Indy start last year, was without a ride until Texaco stepped in with $100,000 and bought the car from Bignotti. As he does with every car he sells, Bignotti refitted the car's interior specifically for Guthrie.

LAE Club Ends Year With Installation

Leta Kaul was the installing officer Tuesday in the home of Emily Suggs for the final spring meeting of La Afflatus Studio Club.

Mrs. Kaul installed Alberta Higgins as president for the 1978-79 club year. Other officers included Aileen Montgomery, vice president; Lucile Hughes, secretary-treasurer; Pet Ott, reporter; Irene Markham, Council member; and Della Stagner, parliamentarian.

After the installation, Mrs. Higgins appointed committee chairmen for the coming year. They included Miss Stagner, yearbook chairman; Mrs. Montgomery, social chairman; Mrs. Ott, courtesy chairman; and Mrs. Suggs, finance chairman.

In other business, the club voted to support the Meals-On-Wheels program locally as their pet project during the coming year.

For the luncheon, the hostess had fashioned pipe cleaners and shells into place markets on quartette tables.

In attendance, other than those mentioned, were Madeline Bell, Eva Gilliland, Tresa Hale, Lydia Hopson, Allyne Johnson, Ora Morgan, Jennie Terrell, Opal Elliston and Mary LeLand Whiteside.

Singers Schedule Concert

In their final appearance before fall, Hereford Chamber Singers will be presenting a special religious music concert, beginning at 7 p.m. Sunday in Temple Baptist Church.

The public is invited to attend, free of charge.

Highlights of the performance will include the trio of Bob Stice, Joyce Allred and Jan Walser, as well as solos by Stice and Bobby Boyd. Bill Devers, who founded the choir, will direct.

Little Miss Entry Closes Today

Today is the final opportunity for girls aged 3-years-old through ninth grade to enter the Little Miss Hereford Pageant, which will be presented at 7 p.m. May 20 on the stage of Hereford High School auditorium.

Girls planning to enter must have paid a $3 fee and submitted their completed entry forms to the Chamber of Commerce office before 5 p.m. today.

Sponsored by the Chamber's Women Division, the junior pageant will offer $25 savings bonds to the first place winners of four contest divisions. The four categories, according to age, are Cutest Miss, ages 3-5; Miss Petite, ages 6-9; Little Princess, ages 10-12; and Miss Junior High, seventh, eighth and ninth grade girls.

Winners will be selected by three-out-of-town judges, whose decisions will be final. Talent will not be included in competition.

Special entertainment will be presented by Quinton Renfro and Craig McCuistian. Acting as mistress of ceremonies will be Susie McGee.

It is mandatory that all entrants attend rehearsals May 18, beginning at 2:45 p.m. for Cutest Miss entrants, and at 3:45 for all other contestants.

Further information concerning the pageant is available from pageant director Nanah Braly, 364-0831, or Betty Ann Boyd, 364-6766.

Mrs. Smith To Attend Training

Rose Ann Smith, supervisor of the South Plains Health Providers Organization, was honored Wednesday afternoon at a surprise going-away party given by staff members of the Migrant Health Center, located in the San Jose Community.

Mrs. Smith, supervisor of the Dimmitt and Hereford area, will be studying at the University of Texas in Arlington where she will be participating in the Family Nurse Practitioner Program for four months and then work for eight months with a doctor preceptor.

After completing the special training program, the registered nurse will be qualified to assume some of the responsibilities of a physician, enabling the doctor to handle more serious situations.

John Hill Opposes State Income Tax

When he announced for Governor, Attorney General John Hill said that he would oppose — and would veto — a state income tax or any other new tax bill. He has repeated that pledge many times since. Anyone who says that Hill would support a state income tax is just trying to mislead the public.

As Attorney General, John Hill cleaned up political corruption in Duval County, sued the phone company to stop an increase in rates and worked for a national energy policy that would be fair to Texas.

As Governor, John Hill will use the state's budget surplus to reduce property taxes and to help pay more of the cost of our public schools. There will be no state income tax and no other new taxes if Hill is elected Governor.

Ann Landers Student Interest Needed

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My son's homeroom teacher seats the students according to the grades they receive on various tests. I wonder what psychological effect this seating might have on the students who are constantly placed in the back of the room?

It seems to me that if the teacher really wanted to help the kids who are not "stars" she would seat them up front where they can be observed and made to feel involved.

I spoke to the teacher about her seating arrangement. I also spoke to the principal. They both listened politely but nothing has changed. Now may I have your opinion? -- Concerned

DEAR CONCERNED: Seating children up front, if they are hard of hearing or have poor eyesight, makes a great deal of sense. Some teachers find it convenient to seat students according to alphabetical order, and this, too, is understandable. But special seating based on academic ability should not be tolerated.

To segregate the low-grade scorers is to create a ghetto in the classroom as well as an elite. Both are bad.

Usually an ignorant, insensitive teacher can be overridden by an enlightened principal. When both are ignorant and insensitive you have a real problem. Try the superintendent of schools.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You recently printed "A Sunday Message" which began: "To make it possible for everyone to attend church, we are going to make special arrangements. Cots will be placed in the sanctuary for those who say, 'Sunday is the only day I can sleep late.' We will provide steel helmets for those who say, 'The roof will cave in if I ever show up in church.' Scoreboards will be placed in the pew racks for those who enjoy listing the hypocrites present..."

You asked if anyone in your reading audience could identify the source of that "Message" since it came to you "author unknown." I am happy to give you the information requested.

The "Message" first appeared in the North End Prince of Peace Lutheran Church in Portland, Oregon, in 1975. In December of 1976, I printed it in the Riverside County Bar Association's Bar Bulletin, which I edited for 20 years. (I wrote a column in the Bulletin called "Gusts By Gus.") A legal secretary here gave the "Message" to me before she retired. I told her if it was ever published I would give full credit to that Lutheran Church in Portland.

Thank you for helping me keep my word, Ann. -- W.B. Gustavson, Riverside, Calif.

DEAR GUS: Thank you for letting me know. A dozen others wrote crediting that Portland church. Your letter reached me first!

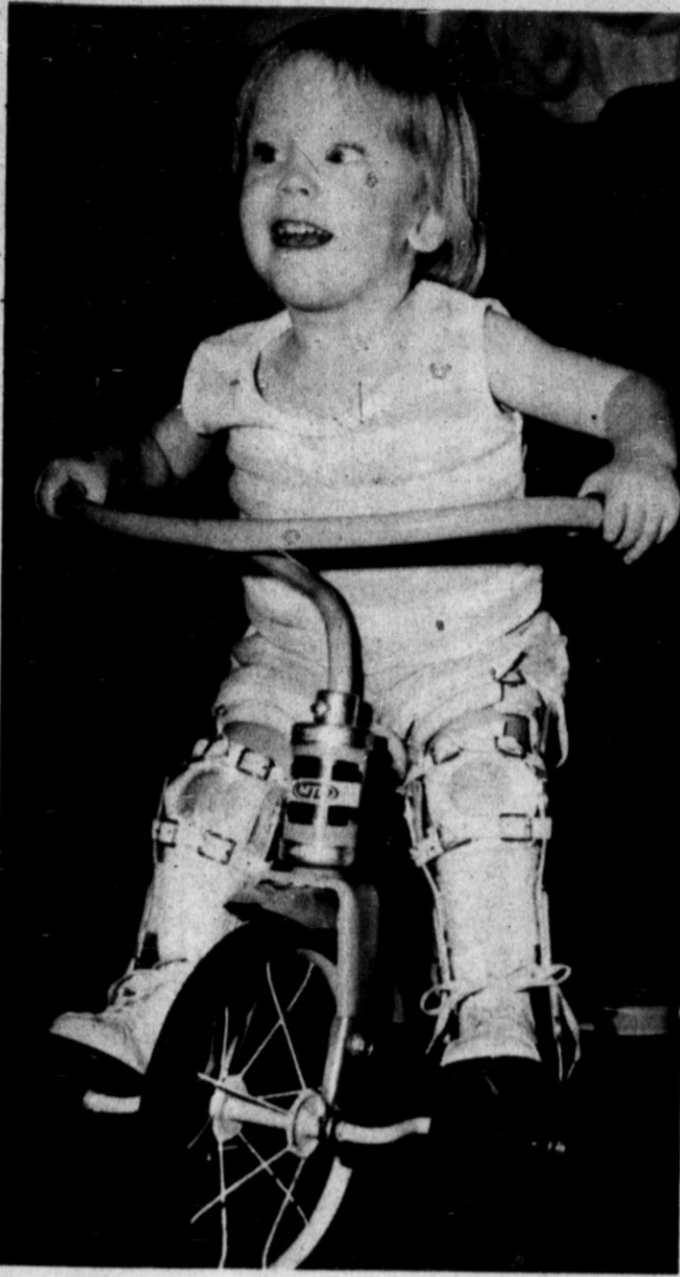

DEAR ANN: I am 11 years old and have always been big for my age. I am the tallest person in my class -- including the boys. When I go to the movies and put down money for a child's ticket I always get hassled. I hate the embarrassment even though I usually win. What can I do to stop this? -- No Liar

DEAR N.L.: Carry a copy of your birth certificate with you and show it to the cashier. And remember to stand tall, honey. One day your age will catch up with your height and you'll be much more comfortable.

Breakfasts Being Served At Schools

Students at Hereford High, Stanton and La Plata Junior High Schools are reminded that they are eligible for breakfast now being served each weekday morning in their respective school cafeterias.

Breakfast is being offered to the secondary school students on a trial basis before beginning the program on a permanent schedule in September. The United States Department of Agriculture is requiring all Texas school districts to serve breakfast during the 1978-79 school year in order for them to continue in the national lunch program.

Students will pay either 15 cents or 25 cents or receive the breakfast free, depending on their individual family income.

Aggie Mothers Agree To Extra Scholarship

Members of the Aggie Mothers Club decided at a special called meeting Tuesday evening to present a second scholarship in addition to the one the club had earlier voted to present to a graduating high school senior.

Mrs. David Beavers, Mrs. Beryl Fish and Mrs. Walter Hardin, scholarship committee, presented to the members meeting in the home of Mrs. Hilrey Aven their need for assistance in the matter, due to difficulty in narrowing the decision down to only one recipient. This committee, along with Bob Sims, Lynn Pittard and Hilrey Aven, scholarship committee for the Tierra Blanca Aggie Club, had recently interviewed seven Hereford High School seniors: James Lyles, Charles Berryman, Cindy Ford, David Walterscheid, Lee Kindsfather, Leroy Bodkin and Jason Clark.

"BAD" HABITS!

It's really frustrating for adults, especially parents, for kids to be running around with a thumb in their mouth, chewing on a straw, twirling their hair, or wetting the bed. (One thing we often forget is that 3 or 4 years from now, the child couldn't possibly still be doing that!)

The child who exhibits one of these "bad" habits needs help and understanding. His habit is a symptom. And we can't accomplish anything by attacking the symptom.

One suggestion to help understand what's going on with a child is to ask him.

At a pleasant time, maybe at bedtime, you might ask, "What did you like about today?" After he answers be sure to tell him what you liked.

Then ask, "What did you not like?" Be sure to listen! Then tell what you did not like. (Don't mention things about the child, or this session will turn into criticism!)

Be sure to not pry. A child will tell you what he feels comfortable in revealing. Prodding will only close the communication door.

Play this game occasionally and be patient with "bad" habits. Soon you'll realize they've gone away!

Miss Basinger Feted In Bill Allen Home

Miss Kathy Jean Basinger of Odessa, bride-elect of Dennis Eugene Evans, was honored Saturday afternoon with a miscellaneous bridal shower in the home of Mrs. Bill Allen, 203 Sunset Drive.

Miss Basinger and Evans, who are both students at Texas Tech University, will exchange nuptial vows May 20 in Asbury United Methodist Church at Odessa.

The honoree received guests with her mother, Mrs. Dennis Basinger of Odessa, her fiance's mother, Mrs. Roy Evans, his grandmothers, Mrs. Hack Stephens and Mrs. Ethel Riley, and his great-grandmother, Mrs. Norma Harrison of Littlefield.

Punch and coffee were served by Miss Denise Evans and Miss Dinah Short, sister and niece, respectively, of the future bridegroom. Guests served themselves buffet-style to fruit salad, apple streusel cake and sausage balls.

Blue and yellow daisies mingled with the leaves of a living green houseplant, serving as the centerpiece on the serving table, which was draped with ecru lace over blue. Daisy corsages depicting Miss Basinger's colors of blue and yellow were given to members of the receiving line.

Among the out-of-town guests present were Mrs. Jack Thomas of Odessa.

In addition to Mrs. Allen, hostesses at the recent shower included Mmes. Don Walsler, Lee Donaway, Alton Hollingsworth, Bob Hicks, Don Tatum, Cleatis Hayes, Mel Charest, Jack Dudding, Jay Spain, Joe Frank Clark, Gerald G. Payne, J.L. Rowland, Harlan Vander-Zee and Ann Hennington.

Milk Drinks Suggested For June Dairy Month

MORNING, NOON OR NIGHT: TOAST THEM WITH A MILK DRINK

Milk drinks are so versatile they can be used morning, noon or night. Is there a better way to toast June Dairy Month than with one of these delightful refreshers? Hardly. And anyone would be hard put to find a beverage more nutritious because these contain calcium and phosphorus, protein, vitamin A, riboflavin and thiamin.

The morning drink would please natural food buffs with its buttermilk, orange juice and honey. Try it on a muggy morning for a real pick up.

Lime Luncheon Freeze is really cool, a very pleasant pick-up for a hot busy lunch. Made in a blender or mixer, or even hand-mixed, this frosty fill-up is great served in glasses which have had their rims dipped in lemon juice, then sugar.

Rather than having dessert with dinner, why not take a Dessert Mocha Shake into the living room and sip it slowly and casually? Cold milk, chocolate ice cream, chocolate milk mix and coffee, are all happily mixed together, then topped with a fluff of cinnamon spiked whipped cream.

ORANGE BREAKFAST BRACER

1 cup cold buttermilk
3 tablespoons frozen orange juice concentrate

1 teaspoon honey
Orange slice
Combine buttermilk, orange juice concentrate and honey. Blend well in a blender or with a mixer. Garnish with orange slice. Yield: about 1 1/4 cups.

LIME LUNCHEON FREEZE

2 cups cold milk
1 pint lime sherbert

1/4 cup (one 6 oz. can) cold pineapple juice
Lemon juice
Sugar
Fresh mint

Combine milk, sherbert and juice. Blend well in blender or with a mixer. Serve in lemon-frosted glasses. Dip rim of glasses in lemon juice, then in sugar; chill. Garnish with fresh mint. Yield: about 4 cups.

DESSERT MOCHA SHAKE

2 cups cold milk
1 pint chocolate ice cream

1/4 cup chocolate-flavored quick milk mix
2 teaspoons instant coffee
Cinnamon Whipped Cream*
Cinnamon stick
Combine milk, ice cream, chocolate mix and coffee. Blend well in blender or with a mixer. Garnish with Cinnamon Whipped Cream and cinnamon stick. Yield: 4 cups. *Cinnamon Whipped Cream: Whip together 1/2 cup whipping cream, 1 tablespoon sugar and 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon in a chilled bowl with chilled beaters, until stiff peaks form, scraping bowl occasionally.

Heart Board To Set Goals For Programs

A volunteer leadership conference will be held by the Deaf Smith County Division of the American Heart Association when they will convene at 7 p.m. tonight in the First National Bank Community Room.

Board members and committee chairmen are reminded to attend the conference in conjunction with the regularly scheduled monthly board meeting.

The committee chairmen and directors will set goals for next year CPR (Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation) classes, nutrition programs, hypertension screenings, children's programs and general heart health.

The local division invites all organizations in Hereford to contact Rosie Wall at 364-4374 to arrange for programs to be given in the upcoming year.

Programs of varying lengths will be offered in the areas mentioned above.

Sacramento, Calif., was founded in 1839 by John Augustus Sutter, owner of the mill 35 miles to the northeast where discovery of gold in 1845 began the California Rush.

Aerobic Dance Classes Forming

The Hereford and Vicinity YMCA will hold a women's Aerobic Dance Fitness Class beginning May 9th at 7:30 p.m.

Maya Bratten will lead the class having studied with Lisa Janes from San Angelo, one of the first to teach Aerobic Dance in West Texas.

An introductory clinic was held Saturday April 29, at the YMCA office in Sugarland Mall. More than twenty attended the clinic and out of this, two classes will begin.

The class is being offered on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7:30 p.m. - 8:30 p.m. All participants will be able to use the fitness center until 9 p.m.

A morning class will be held Tuesday and Thursday mornings beginning at 9 a.m. until 10 a.m.

The class will run for ten weeks and cost members $15 and non-members $30.

Women can call the YMCA at 364-6990 to reserve a spot as class size will be limited.

Texans can't pay their bills or feed their families on political promises...

We need an Attorney General who means business...one who will go to court to overturn Wyoming and Montana from imposing a 30% excise tax on coal we have already signed long term contracts for...who will create a special division of the Attorney General's office to fight consumer rip-offs in energy and utilities. We need an Attorney General who means business...who will keep his promises.

You can tell what Mark White will do as Attorney General by looking at what he has done as Secretary of State.

A dollar earned is a dollar saved

As State Treasurer, Warren G. Harding has increased earnings from the investment of state funds. These earnings represent savings to Texans by reducing the need for tax increases.

- $1.8 billion in state funds invested in interest bearing accounts in over 1,300 Texas banks
- 90.4 percent of available funds invested at the end of March—the highest monthly average in Texas history
- 24 percent increase in earnings from October through March compared to same period in previous year
- $126 million estimated interest earnings for Texas this year—highest in history of state.

You Can Be Heard In Washington.

On May 6th, Texans can have more than just a vote in the U.S. Senate. You can have a voice.

Bob Krueger is a national leader who can speak for the people of Texas in the U.S. Senate. His voice is heard and respected in Washington.

Krueger on:

Agriculture:

"I co-sponsored the Flexible Parity Act, voted for the 1978 Emergency Agriculture Act, and have introduced strict beef import legislation."

Inflation:

"The only real way to halt inflation is to hold government spending to a constant level, work vigorously toward a balanced budget, and allow the real growth in our economy to take place in the private sector."

Taxes:

"I will introduce legislation which would insure that every American, regardless of tax shelter, will pay some income taxes. My 'Fair share tax plan' would help relieve the tax burden on middle income families and small businesses."

Energy:

"While Texas consumers have been hit with higher utility bills, we have been subsidizing the rest of the country with cheap energy. We must have an energy program that doesn't discriminate against the consumers and producers of Texas."

Right To Work:

"I strongly favor the Right to Work law and will fight to keep it."

Braille's Among Her Ways Of Preventing Loneliness

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) - The apartment is small, just a room, but it is meticulously tidy and as cheering as a sunburst.

A garden of foliage brightens the window ledge and the distant view of Tampa Bay. A piano occupies the wall opposite the bed. A stuffed animal decorates the bedspread. On a folding table, a goose-neck lamp hovers intently over a Braille typewriter.

"My music is my love, my Braille is my love," Wilhelmine Andreason said. "And I love my flowers. Aren't the violets lovely?"

Several pictures adorn the piano. Tucked into the lace work gold frame of one of them, the one closest to the front, is a purple flower, a violet.

The picture shows a slim young man wearing a Sam Browne belt and lieutenant's insignia. Next to him, seated, a young woman smiles adoringly. She has dark, wavy hair and dark, liquid eyes. She is wearing a plain black dress and a single strand of pearls.

"When he came into our lace shop, in Brussels, we had nothing. I was hungry and frightened. The Germans had taken our home and everything in it. That brass coffee pot and the teapot, on the table, they did not find. Those were buried in the yard.

"He took me to dinner. We went to the best place in Brussels, and every time my mother went with us. I was only 18, you see.

"Later, when he asked me to marry him, he brought a bouquet of violets. That night we went alone."

The eyes, 59 years later, are as youthful as the day the picture was made. They vary from rich brown to hazel depending upon the light streaming through the window over the greenery. The hair, silver now, is wavy still.

"He was an engineer. He brought me to his home, in New York, and then we lived in 32 states before we settled down in Philadelphia. Oh, yes, I saw this beautiful country.

"I rode the bus every day in Philadelphia and passed a center for blind people, sort of a clubhouse. I often thought how said it must be not to be able to see the beauty I saw.

"The beauty of this country is not just its geography. The real beauty is being able to do what you want to do. Here, in America, the horizon of hope is so vast.

"My husband made me realize that. He gave me so much and asked for so little. He was everything to me. I love the memory of him.

"When he became ill and had to go to an institution I took a cottage across the street. For three years I took care of him every day. When he died, six years ago. I thought my life was over.

"It is not. I am not lonely. I am not bored.

"Two years ago I went to the Community Center for the Blind and asked if I could learn Braille. It is difficult to learn. I did my homework every night, and I learned it.

"Now, every day, I get up at 7 and do my household chores. From 10 to 11:30 I play the piano. Music is magic. If I am morose or grumpy, by 11:30 I am singing, playing and singing.

"Then I have my lunch and at 4:30 my shower. After that I get dressed. I dress myself up just as if I were going someplace, and go out and do my errands.

"The rest of the day and into the night I transcribe Braille.

"I do a lot of reading to decide what to transcribe. The people I transcribe for are mostly elderly. I try to select readings that I think would be inspirational for them.

"Don't you think people like to read something inspirational?"

Packaging Industry Grows Beyond Pleasing Potential

By Hugh A. Mulligan
AP Special Correspondent

RIDGEFIELD, CONN. (AP) - In these parlous times, with the dollar's rise and fall more unpredictable than the barometer's, I wish no slackening off of any segment of our economy, but the packaging industry does seem to have progressed beyond its potential to please the public.

The new birthday shirt, unveiled today after 20 minutes travail, came skewered with 22 pins, a record in my experience. Six of the old shirts, done up by a hotel laundry, produced a pile of tissue paper, cardboard, collar tabs, polyethylene wrapping and decorative debris that now stands knee high to this typewriter.

"It was the Uneeda biscuit in the air-tight package made the cracker barrel obsolete, obsolete," sang "The Music Man" to his fellow drummers in that parlor car arriving at Mason City.

Now the parlor car is all but obsolete, but the biscuit comes packaged tighter than ever on the passenger planes that have replaced it. Have you ever managed to zip open the little red ribbon securing the cellophane cracker packet without winding up with a handful of crumbs?

Sometimes I can get all the way from New York to Omaha before I work the knife and fork and pepper and salt out of their plastic casing. By this time the pepper is well distributed over the ice cream and I am ready to pour the salad dressing into the coffee, as I have on a number of occasions, which isn't as jarring to the digestion as mistaking the freshening up towelette for a tea bag.

The ground-bound folk catering the airline food seem to take secret delight in making helpless, raving idiots out of the unseen patrons who hours later and miles higher will be battling, all thumbs, to unpack their diabolical handiwork.

Bruce Jenner I'm not, but it's still a humbling experience to ring the call button and have the stewardess unscrew the top on a vodka shot bottle that some food handler has tightened with a lug wrench.

I still have a screw driver in the basement that I cannot extricate from its plastic shell. I bought it to pry loose the plastic-enclosed dry cell batteries that I bought for the flashlight that I can't open the back of somehow. There is also a new padlock down there locked forever, I think, in its germ-free, glassy, glossy factory packaging.

I can't count how many soapless showers I have taken in the houses of friends and relations because the hot water ran out before I got the pine-scented special-guest soap out of its blastic box, its scented outer wrapper and hygienic inner casing into a naked state like mine.

Dante's "Inferno" surely has set aside in its lower depths a bargain basement of torture devoted to stapling together the fingers and perhaps the toes of dry cleaners who staple identification tags to the tender pockets of our trousers or leave large safety pins in the even more tender area where the two legs meet.

I'd drink to that if I could get the top off this tonic bottle.

New King Movie May Be Triumph

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - Five years ago Columbia Pictures released a modest street-gang movie, "The Lords of Flatbush." While the film made little dent on the market, its talent has: Martin Scorsese, Sylvester Stallone, Henry Winkler, Susan Blakely.

Now it's Perry King's turn. Not that he has been ignored; he is one of Hollywood's busiest actors. But he hasn't yet made the impact of his fellow workers from "Lords."

"A Different Story" could make the change. The title tells it: A couple of gays, male and female, share a house as a matter of convenience, meanwhile pursuing their own sexual persuasions. The two fall in love, get married and have a baby - but do they live happily ever after: That's the crux of the film.

The Avco Embassy release could have been aimed at the exploitation market. Fortunately, Henry Olek's script avoids cheap shots, and the work of first-time director Paul Aron is tasteful and touching. The acting of Meg Foster and Perry King is totally convincing.

King, 29, has a blond handsomeness that may have been a drawback in a film world that favors offbeat looks. His striking appearance may have overshadowed his acting skill, developed at Yale, Julliard and in repertory.

If "A Different Story" does make it for King, it will be a triumph of perseverance. Alan Belkin, producer for Petersen Co., a TV commercial house, planned to star King and Susan Sarandon in the film two years ago.

Belkin had lined up financing from a Lebanese businessman, King recalled, then the Lebanese civil war broke out and it fell through.

Belkin then enlisted hundreds of investors to supply small amounts, adding up to the film's $1 million cost. By then, Miss Sarandon was not available, so Meg Foster was cast as the woman.

"A Different Story" seems certain to evoke attacks from the gay community, since the two characters turn to hetero-sexual love.

"I suppose the picture will be criticized by the radical gays who will argue that it should be radically pro-gay," said King, who is married and has a 7-year-old daughter. "But 'A Different Story' is not about homosexuality; it's about a couple of people who try to find a life together."

King has appeared in "The Wild Party," "Lipstick," Andy Warhol's "Bad," "The Choirboys," as well as the TV ministries "Captains and Kings" and "Aspen."

Decisive Choice Of Fellow Lawyers Across Texas

Incumbent Justice T. C. Chadick is the overwhelming choice of fellow lawyers throughout Texas; has been endorsed by the Houston Chronicle, Waco Tribune Herald, San Antonio Light, Fort Worth Star-Telegram, Dallas Morning News, Dallas Times Herald and many other newspapers throughout the state; by the Dean of the Texas Senate, A. M. Aikin; by Baylor University President Abner McCall; by 10 former Supreme Court Justices; and literally hundreds of informed people throughout the State.

In Texas, we've learned the bitter lesson of voting for a well known name, rather than a well respected and qualified candidate for this highest court position. Let's don't make the same mistake twice.

DON'T JUST LEARN FAITH; LIVE BY IT!

 When Sunday morning rolls around,
 A lot of folks you know
 Will find themselves religion-bound,
 And off to Church they go.
 They rue the error of their ways,
 And pray that all might hear;
 And when it comes to hymns of praise,
 They sing them loud and clear.
 But when the services are done,
 The lessons they ignore;
 Till next the Sabbath has begun,
 They leave them at the door.
 The only way you'll ever earn
 The happiness you seek
 Is living by the faith you learn,
 All seven days a week!

Example is more forcible than precept. People watch me six days a week to see what I mean on the seventh!

Zoo Officials Hoping Ramar Wants To Be Dad

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - When Ramar swings, Philadelphia Zoo officials hope it won't be from a tree, but with a female gorilla. Ramar is a 350-pound male gorilla, brought here from North Carolina to make baby gorillas. He's in quarantine now, and zoo officials say it will be perhaps a fortnight before he'll get a chance to see if he can hit it off with the ladies. Three female gorillas are in waiting, but, also, zoo officials have no guarantee he's their type. Take the male gorilla Johnny we've had here for at least four years. He shows little, if any, interest in mating. Junior zoo keeper Patti Kuntzmann said

Friday. "Ramar may be the same way." Gorillas, an endangered species, are highly social animals who tend to follow examples. Should Ramar mate, zoo officials hope Johnny would pay his behavior. Ramar, who likes Johnny is 9 years old, is on breeding loan from the North Carolina Zoo in Asheboro, where he was given a going-away party April 15. "Ramar is reaching maturity and has not had the opportunity to socialize with others of his kind," said Andrew Lueker, the North Carolina zoo's acting director. "We owe it to him to provide that opportunity before he grows too old to adjust." Ramar, a native of Angelo in West Africa, once was a nightclub star. An animal trainer started him out at the age of 1 when he weighed only 22 pounds, playing nightspots from Miami to Las Vegas, pedaling a tricycle and knocking off handstands atop a 10-foot pole. He was sold to the North Carolina zoo in 1974 - at 200 pounds he was too big for tricycles. If baby gorillas are born, the North Carolina Zoo will get the first one, and every odd-numbered one thereafter. Philadelphia will keep the even-number offspring. Ramar spent a good bit of Friday snoozing. The day before a knot of school children had kept him up, oohing and aahing everytime he moved. Some of the idolators wore T-shirts proclaiming: "I'm Ape Over Ramar." About 100 yards away sat Massa, at age 47 the world's oldest captive gorilla. A bachelor, he too once was encouraged to mate, but in a matchup that never could have worked out. "He original was thought to be a female," explained zoo spokesman, "so he was introduced to Bambo, a male. They found so hard they had to be separated."

VISITORS WELCOME

Club To Fall

SOUTHGATE, Ky. (AP) - The ownership doesn't want crowds these days at the Beverly Hills Supper Club. The headlines aren't very well known. What's playing, beginning today, is the demolition of the once posh nightclub, gutted the night of May 28, 1977, by a fire which killed 165 persons. Where nationally known performers once played to sellout crowds, demolition experts will spend the next six weeks pulling down the charred and twisted remains of the club. No reporters or photographers are being permitted on the hill where the club is located and the signs which beckoned diners lie face down on the ground. A lower court judge had delayed demolition while investigators for those filing suit searched the rubble for information. Attorney said club owners, the Richard Schillings, were anxious to demolish the remains to cut security and maintenance costs. It will be easier to tear down the building than to shred the memory it leaves behind. The Beverly Hills Club had been called the "Showcase of the Midwest" and, to the end, its lavish decor attracted patrons from neighboring states. To dine at the club was to be surrounded by mirrored walls, tiger-striped fabrics and lush paintings. A spiral staircase led to the second floor, while chandeliers on the ceiling competed for attention with artwork on the walls. All that remained standing Thursday were the multi-colored tilt front wall and the windowed corners of one side of the building. Cranes and bulldozers made their way up the hill on a small winding road edged with a white chain, the same way it was the night of the fire. A permit for the demolition is posted on the overhang in front of the club. The official state flower of Vermont is the red clover. The Department of Defense currently authorizes bonuses up to $2,500 for servicemen in certain critical skills reenlisting for four years. Three U.S. presidents were of Dutch ancestry - Martin Van Buren, Theodore Roosevelt and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Port Charlotte Culture Center Result of Man's Boredom

PORT CHARLOTTE, Fla. (AP) - When Floyd Pfeiffer retired from the Army, ending a rewarding career of adventure and travel, it didn't take him long to decide what to do next. He bought a boat, a fishing rod, a set of golf clubs and a comfortable home on Florida's sunny Gulf coast. After all, he had earned his leisure. No more responsibilities for him. "After three months I was bored silly," he said. It occurred to him that others might be equally dismayed that their so-called golden years were turning to dross.

there is another place like it in all the land it is a well-kept secret. The center is remarkable not just for itself - a $3 million facility, self-supporting, built and staffed entirely by retired people without a dime of federal or local tax money - but also for the spirit it has generated in the entire county. Old people come to Port Charlotte for their retirement in droves. When they get here, though, they don't "retire." As an example, the center's adult education program is so popular registration is by appointment to avoid long lines. Robb Moss, the county coordinator for community education, finally picked up and moved his office to the center. "Our enrollment is 5,000 students," Moss said. "That's only about 1,000 fewer than the entire public school system, kindergarten through twelfth grade. "Every retired person is not only a potential student but a potential teacher. Name a course you want to take and I can almost guarantee an expert in the field to teach it. I've only missed twice. We offer 500 courses. That's right, 500." Advanced math. Cello playing. Lip reading. German grammar. Belly dancing. Seaman'ship. World affairs. Belly dancing? Moss shrugged. "It's one of our most popular courses." The spirit of activity, of usefulness, that the center fosters spreads like a contagion and the community benefits.

It also crossed his mind, bothered him, that the accumulated wisdom and experience and energy of that vast crops of men and women, America's retirees, is often noted but rarely marshaled. The old warhorse decided to do something about it. The result is the Port Charlotte Cultural Center. "We're not lonely and we're not bored," Pfeiffer said. "We are busy. There's more productive activity going on here than any place like it. But, then, there isn't any place like it." The center is a nine-acre cluster of classrooms, studios, theater, library, recreation halls, a bustling complex very like a small college campus except that the predominant hair color is gray. And Pfeiffer might be right.

Steel Discounts Cut

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)-A 15 percent discount on wide-flange structural steels for orders received after May 15 or for orders that can't be rolled by the end of June will be discontinued, Armo Inc. has announced. Armo produces wide-flange structural steels which are used on construction and big oil rigs, at its Houston works, and sells them mainly in the Gulf Coast area. Beginning in January 1977, the company offered a 15 percent discount from list prices, an average discount of around $40 a ton, to help meet competition from imported steels, particularly Japan. The discount was dropped in April 1977, but resumed last August.

Armo's decision likely to ease competitive pressure somewhat for other domestic steelmakers, who have indicated in the past that they've been forced to meet Armo's discounts in the Gulf Coast area where commercially advisable. Armo officials said Wednesday the discount was successful in helping the company win business from imports, but has been unprofitable. Mainly because of stronger demand for structural steels, the company said it has called back the 1,400 workers laid off at Houston when the discount program began and increased the work force by 100 employees to total of 4,000 employees.

The company said it's too early to tell whether the federal government's trigger pricing system will provide relief for domestic producers of structural steels. Trigger pricing sets minimum prices for imported steel. Through the second quarter, foreign producers will be permitted to bring structural steels into the Gulf Coast market at prices $35 to $50 a ton below domestic list prices, depending on the size, Armo said. The trigger price may change in the third quarter, the company added. The base price for domestic producers is $314.50 a ton, with extra charges added for particular sizes.

State Senate Races Provide Excitement

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

Four senators' fights for survival and free-for-alls for two vacant Senate seats provide most of the excitement in Saturday's legislative primary elections.

The most distinctive feature of the primaries is the lack of action in more than half the House districts and nine of the 15 Senate districts where lawmakers' jobs are on the line.

Eighty-nine of 150 House members are unopposed in the primary, and sixty-two of them also have no opponents in the November general election either.

On the Senate side, there is no contest in either May or November for seven seats. Two seats involve races only in the general election, and there are only six primary election contests.

Both chambers are expected to have conservative majorities, as they did last session, when the 1979 Legislature convenes Jan. 9.

Saturday's contests include two one-on-one primaries against prominent senators from Tarrant County - Bill Meier, D-Eules, chairman of the powerful Sunset Advisory Committee, and Betty Andujar, R-Fort Worth, the Senate's only woman.

Meier says his record shows the kind of attention to detail that has kept the numerous major bills he has sponsored from being overturned by the courts. He has sponsored several anticrime bills.

His opponent, lawyer James W. Lane of Fort Worth, accuses Meier of consistently voting for bills that boost his personal finances and of representing clients before state agencies that might be intimidated by his presence.

Mrs. Andujar's GOP primary opponent is Rolly Millifrons, 40, a convenience store operator who takes the somewhat novel approach that the Senate should be all-male. Millifrons was a Democrat until 1976, and now says he's running because he fears the GOP will lose its Senate seat in November if Mrs. Andujar is the candidate.

There is a spirited Democratic primary race for Mrs. Andujar's seat as well, matching freshmen Reps. Roy English, Arlington, and Mike Millsap, Fort Worth. English sponsored the bill that made the Dallas-Fort Worth Turnpike toll-free.

Sen. Frank Lombardino, D-San Antonio, also is in a rough-and-tumble race for political survival. Rep. Bob Vale of San Antonio and trial lawyer Phil Hardberger both are after his job.

Opponents say Lombardino ran a bill collection service while still on the San Antonio police force, dunning debtors in his uniform, and call him a special interest errand boy.

He also has had to do a lot of explaining back home about the bill he passed in 1975 - only to have it repealed in 1977 - giving firemen and policemen unlimited cash reimbursement for unused sick leave upon their retirement.

Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, chairman of the Senate Human Resources Committee, is opposed by Millard C. Heath of Galena Park, a black lawyer.

Decisions by Sen. Kent Hance, D-Lubbock, and Senate Dean A. M. Aikin, D-Paris, not to seek re-election opened up free-for-alls for their seats.

Former Reps. Ed Howard of Texarkana and George Preston of Paris are the best-known candidates for Aikin's seat. Others in the race are Joe M. Joiner of Sherman and Charles L. McFarridge of Mount Pleasant.

Running for the seat Hance vacated to campaign for congressman are Rep. E.L. Short of Tahoka, former Reps. Jesse George and Delwin Jones of Lubbock, Texas Tech Regent Don Workman of Lubbock and Morris Turner of Lubbock. The Republican candidate is Rep. Joe Robbins, Lubbock.

House races center primarily in big cities and districts where incumbents did not seek re-election.

Interest is particularly heavy in Fort Worth, where federal courts forced creation of new districts designed to give greater weight to minorities and Republicans.

One candidate is Art Brender, law partner of former Rep. Don Gladden who drafted the redistricting plan adopted by the courts.

The new districts forced a primary race between two incumbents, Reps. Chris Miller, an ardent feminist, and Gib Lewis, chairman of the House Intergovernmental Affairs Committee. Observers say the election will be close, and the winner will be home free in November.

Other Tarrant County representatives with hard races for new terms include Democrats Leonard Briscoe, Charles Eysans, Doyle Willis and Tom Schieffer.

Speaker Bill Clayton and virtually all of his key committee chairmen and floor lieutenants escaped opposition in either the primary or the general election.

And Clayton still claims he'll come out of the primaries with 115 votes for speaker - a claim disputed by challenger Buddy Temple, D-Diboll.

Among House chairmen without opposition for new terms are Bill Prenal, D-Bryan, appropriations chairman; John Wilson, D-LaGrange, health and welfare; Tom Uher, D-Bay City, state affairs; Jerry Donaldson, D-Gatesville, financial institutions; Bennie Bock II, D-New Braunfels, liquor regulation; Tim Von Dohlen, D-Goliad, constitutional amendments; Joe Hanna, D-Breckenridge, energy resources; Lynn Nabers, D-Brownwood, criminal jurisprudence; Jim Nugent, D-Kerrville, transportation; Tom Massey, D-San Angelo, education; Tom Craddick, R-Midland, natural resources; Pete Laney, house administration; Craig Washington, D-Houston, social services; and Ben Reyes, D-Houston, rules.

Today In History

by The Associated Press

Today is Friday, May 5, the 125th day of 1978. There are 240 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1961, astronaut Alan Shepard was rocketed 115 miles into space from Cape Canaveral, becoming the first American in space.

On this date: In 1570, Turkey declared war on Venice for refusing to surrender the island of Cyprus.

In 1821, Napoleon Bonaparte died in exile on the island of St. Helena.

In 1824, British troops occupied Rangoon, Burma.

In 1936, war ended in Ethiopia as the capital, Addis Ababa, fell to Italian troops.

In 1955, West Germany became a sovereign state as the terms of the Paris agreements of 1954 went into effect.

In 1960, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev angrily announced that an American spy plane had been shot down over Russia.

Ten years ago: There was fighting inside Saigon, and 120 towns and military installations in South Vietnam came under attack in an apparent Communist effort to duplicate the successful Tet offensive, but the assaults lacked punch.

Five years ago: Three British soldiers were killed in mine explosions in Belfast, Northern Ireland, and the outlawed Irish Republican Army claimed responsibility.

One year ago: President Carter flew to London to take part in a seven-nation economic conference with Western and Japanese leaders.

Today's birthday: Food expert James Beard is 73 years old.

Thought for today: Every man has a right to his opinion, but no man has a right to be wrong in his facts. - Bernard Baruch, American businessman and statesman, 1870-1965.

Elderly People Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) - One of every nine Americans is now a senior citizen who typically can expect to live another 16 years, has a family income of about $6,300 a year and is more likely an illiterate than a college graduate.

According to the Senate

Committee on Aging, the U.S. population aged 65 or older increased by 18 percent between 1970 and 1977. By contrast, the total U.S. population grew by only 5 percent.

In its annual report on the status of elderly Americans, the committee hailed Social Security as the economic backbone of older citizens reducing reliance on the payroll tax to finance the system.

The panel concluded that Social Security keeps 10 million persons, including 7 million who are 65 or older, out of poverty

AVENUE K AT FORREST

As our new Governor, John Hill will get the job done.

John Hill will cut utility bills. Where Dolph Briscoe has failed, John Hill will remove the sales tax from utilities and save ratepayers millions of dollars yearly.

Reduce property taxes. Instead of pushing more of the tax load on property owners, like Dolph Briscoe has for six years, John Hill will shift the burden back to the state where it belongs. The budget surplus is there; he'll use it to relieve our taxpayers.

Cut state spending. The budget has doubled under Dolph Briscoe and he's failed to manage it well. His own office of Migrant Affairs is a model of mismanagement and waste. John Hill will trim the fat and put the savings to work on worthwhile programs ... like better education for our children.

Stand up for Texas in Washington. John Hill won't dance around on the energy issue. We can count on him to take on the bureaucrats and win. He knows how to work up a convincing case that gets results in Washington. He's done it as Attorney General. He'll do it as Governor.

Wouldn't you rather have John Hill on your side as the new Governor of Texas?

JOHN HILL
GOVERNOR

Hold the line on taxes. There's been no need to raise taxes and there won't be when John Hill's Governor. He'll veto any tax increase that comes to his desk.

State-Line News

MRS. C. L. HUTCHINS

Nixon Couldn't Keep His Gifts

Snow, fog and rain with temperatures falling to 27 degrees chilled the residents of the state-line early Tuesday morning. Light rain fell most of the day mixed with snow flurries. Measurable amounts of 1.40 on the Jordan Miller farm, 1.1 inch on the Herschel Hughes farm and 1.50 on the C.L. Hutchins ranch were recorded. Damage to fruit trees and early gardens is not yet known. Some farmers think the cold temperatures could have also damaged the winter wheat crop as it was beginning to head-out. However the moisture was wonderful for the grassland and barley-wheat crops.

Mrs. Richard Ruzenas was a surgical patient last week in St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo. She has been ill for several weeks.

Clyde Vernon Clovis, N.M., was guest for the day Tuesday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Hughes.

A group of state-line women met in the home of Sandra Rucker for two days last week while Mrs. Rucker taught them how to make attractive macrame purses. Purses were made in various colors of oatmeal, brown and white by each woman. Attending were Kathryn Harrington, Lucy Harrison, Marilee Osborn, Jerry Campbell, Wilma Jean Hughes and the hostess.

A group of local residents representing Rosedale Baptist Church attended the Plains Association of Baptist Churches meeting held in the Texico Baptist Church last week in Texico, N.M.

Ophelia Humphrey of First Baptist Church in Amarillo was the guest speaker with a musical program following by the youths.

W.M.U. members from Rosedale Baptist Church attending were Ruth Riley, Kate Sorensen, Inez Short, Linda Riley, Opal Potts and Marilee Osborn and eight young people.

Scott Kirby of Clovis, N.M., a student from ENMU in Portales, N.M., was guest speaker Sunday morning and evening at Rosedale Baptist Church. Kirby, a former Bellview youth, was accompanied by his two daughters and his mother Mrs. Jackie Kirby. The Kirby families were dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jordan Miller following morning church services.

Later in the afternoon, Kirby, his daughters and his mother were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Schell and daughter Jamie and Carol for the evening meal preceding church services.

The Rev. Francis Hoagland, pastor of Broadview Church of the Nazarene is confined to his home this week with an inner-ear infection and sinus.

Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Herman Rierison of Stinnett, former residents of Walcott, announce the birth of their first child, a daughter, on Sunday April 23. The baby was born in Borger General Hospital at Borger and weighed 7 lbs. and 19 inches in length. She has been named Stephanie Kallene and is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rierison and great-granddaughter of Mrs. Sinah Shaw of Clovis, N.M.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brown were at the bedside of her father Sterling Pulliam in Clovis last week after he suffered a stroke. Pulliam is showing good improvement, however he has suffered a series of strokes in the past year. He is the brother of Glen Pulliam of Bellview and a former resident of this area.

Sympathy is extended to members of a pioneer family who homesteaded in the Hollene Community. Memorial services were held April 26, in the Steed-Todd Memorial Chapel for Mrs. Dezzie Garrett, 96, who died April 24 in Clovis Memorial Hospital after a lengthy illness.

The Rev. Leonard Ginnings, a retired minister of Broadview Church of Christ, officiated, with burial in the Mission Gardens of Memories in Clovis.

Mrs. Garrett had previously made her home with her daughter Mrs. Jessie Sorrows and granddaughter Mrs. Owidia D. Davidson in Clovis for many years.

Other survivors included two daughters, Mrs. Elva Rose of Las Cruces, N.M. and Mrs. Naomi Thomas; and one son Henry (Nooty) Garrett of Long Beach, Calif.

Mrs. Garrett was preceded in death by her husband Luther Garrett and two sons Dave and Wesley.

Pallbearers were Francis Decker, A.G. Campbell, Wayne Burford, Don Wickard and Ray Lofton.

Honorary pallbearers were Dr. V. Scott Johnson, Dr. W.D. Dabbs, Johnnie Foster, Ralph Lofton, Richard Rowley Sr., Thurman Nation and Victor Stout.

Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs Rucker and his sister Mrs. Lola Nelson of Friona, recently returned from a week vacation to Fort Worth and Dallas, visiting with relatives.

Mrs. Jordan (Bernice) Miller returned Monday from San Jose, Calif., where she attended the National Iris Flower Convention held in the Hyatt House Convention Center. Approximately 800 people attended the convention held April 25-29. The group enjoyed lectures and information talks and also chartered busses and visited large commercial iris gardens in the area.

Mrs. Miller introduced three varieties of iris - the new red, Fires Gihenna, Samaritan Woman, a yellow with red markings, and the Ruth of Moab, which is listed in the national iris flower catalogue this spring.

Mrs. Miller wishes to invite her friends to visit her gardens - "Gardens of the Enchantment Rainbow" at her home located on the state-line which will be open to the public May 8-24.

Margaret Mote made a business trip to Santa Fe, N.M. Monday in interest of the Grady School Migrant Program, of which she is a director.

Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hughes of Big Spring, District Superintendent of the Texas Central United Methodist Churches, spent Friday and Saturday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs Rucker.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Riley took their son Eddie to the 22nd Annual Hereford Oasis Shrine Club Children's Clinic April 22 held at Hereford Medical and Surgical Clinic.

Four-year-old Eddie received a good health report.

Attending funeral Mass for Steven Mark Schauff, 27, who died recently from injuries sustained in a traffic accident at Clovis, were Tommy Dale Lofton, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hutchins and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Hutchins.

Memorial services were held in the Clovis Sacred Heart Church with burial in Clovis for the youth. Sympathy is extended to his family.

Roy Ford returned Friday after spending the past week in Truth or Consequences, N.M. taking mineral baths and fishing.

Sinah Shaw of Clovis, a pioneer of the Bellview community, was admitted to Clovis hospital Friday suffering from pneumonia. Mrs. Charlie Hultman visited with her friend on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hutchins made a business trip to Bronco, where they visited a nursery and purchased 40 Mondale pine trees. Jimmy Lambert assisted the Hutchins Saturday in planting the trees on their farm.

Rudy Krivanek, a former state-line resident now a resident of House, N.M. community, was bitten by a spider last Thursday, while working under his house. He became ill Friday when he was on a business trip to Muleshoe and was later admitted to a Clovis hospital where he received medication until Monday noon. He is the brother of Mrs. Jerry (Ola) Fury.

Relatives visiting last week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Decker included her cousin and husband Vera and Dallas Miller of Louistown, Ill. who had spent the winter months in Saragota, Fla.

The Miller's were enroute back to their Illinois home. The Decker's daughter and family Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Glover and daughters Nicole and Amber Dawn of Clovis were dinner guests Friday in her parents' home and visited with the Millers.

Roy Ford recently enjoyed his two grandchildren, Linda and Randy Ford of Pampa, who visited a couple of days with their grandfather. They are the teenage children of Mr. and Mrs. Edsel Ford of Pampa.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Fryar of Clovis have been staying at their farm this week in their motor home and Fryar has been plowing wheat land.

Local ranchers and farmers selling cattle this past week at the Livestock Auction in Clovis included Lloyd Grau, Travis WASHINGTON (AP) - Imagine Richard Nixon's heartbreak when he departed the White House and had to leave behind his portrait done in chips of banana tree bark.

And that stone carved figure of an Eskimo with bow and spear - the bow broken in two places.

And the medallion of George Washington that you can peek through and see an honest-to-goodness lock of hair from the head of the actual father of our country.

These items all have two things in common: they were foreign gifts to the president of the United States and he didn't get to keep them, even had he wanted to.

The recipient of these gifts was Richard Nixon, but he is singled out only because the General Services Administration recently went to a lot of trouble cataloging the foreign gifts he received as president. Such gifts flow to all presidents from fellow heads of state and vice versa.

By law, the president can't keep any gift worth more than $50. So the presents are packed away in crates awaiting the day when a library is built to commemorate the president or a museum puts them on display. As an aside, it must be said that the inventory of gifts to Nixon was ordered to see if he or his family made off with any goodies. The official answer, it turned out, was no.

That listing, however, was illuminating in a number of ways: the kinds of presents the president gets, how many of them and from whom.

One thing is certain: many of the gifts truly are fit for a king. And many truly are fit for a king with terrible taste.

In his 5 1/2 years in the White House, Nixon and his family received 969 foreign official gifts valued at more than $50. They are stored in government warehouses in the Washington area and in Laguna Niguel, Calif.

The donors range from Sultan Ibn Abdal-Aziz of Saudi Arabia - who presented Nixon with two automatic rifles, one trimmed in silver, the other in gold - to Senor Alcide Miguel Suarez Zegarra of Peru, whose gift was a gold medal and certificate of honor.

The most loot comes, strangely enough, from the Soviet Union and the Peoples Republic of China.

The Soviets are big on giving things to drink out of, for instance, a blue, white and gold enamel tea service for 12; a wine service set of parcel gilt vermeil with 12 short stemmed wine goblets; a 48-piece tea service; a 33-piece demitasse service companion.

The gifts are worth an estimated $12 million, and includes a life pass to Mrs. Nixon on Egyptian railways, stamps, jewelry for the Nixon women, art objects, pamphlets, miniature elephants.

And there is also, for Nixon, a box of "President of Burma" cigars. Included is a White House Gift Unit notation: "Destroyed."

Stovall, George Pettigrew and W.T. Grimes.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stovall of Clovis, former Bellview residents, enjoyed visiting in the community Wednesday and were dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sorensen. Games of "42" were enjoyed during the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lofton spent the weekend at their trailer house at Ute Lake. They reported fishing as very poor because the water temperature is still cool. Saturday a most beautiful day at the Ute Lake and many pleasure boats were out boating and sightseeing.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hutchins made a business trip to Bronco, where they visited a nursery and purchased 40 Mondale pine trees. Jimmy Lambert assisted the Hutchins Saturday in planting the trees on their farm.

Rudy Krivanek, a former state-line resident now a resident of House, N.M. community, was bitten by a spider last Thursday, while working under his house. He became ill Friday when he was on a business trip to Muleshoe and was later admitted to a Clovis hospital where he received medication until Monday noon. Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Fryar of Clovis have been staying at their farm this week in their motor home and Fryar has been plowing wheat land.

Heads To Be Forgotten

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) - Lincoln Borglum fears that an artwork he is rather proud of my outlive the government of the United States.

"You have these heads up there and there's no record of who the people are or why it was carved...Unless we assume the government will be around for 100,000 years," Borglum said of the four faces carved on Mount Rushmore, S.D.

It was Borglum's father Gutzon who designed and supervised the massive sculpture. But the younger Borglum, now 66, took over the project when his father died shortly before the 14-year effort ended.

Although Borglum finished the awesome work on the mountain, he still views it as an unfinished dream. He talked about it in his home-studio in this Rio Grande Valley city.

"Fifty thousand years from now they won't know what the hell it is. We don't know why the Sphinx was built or what the Pyramids were for," the artist said.

Mere written records would not be sufficient, he added. Borglum wants to see records that would be almost as permanent as the faces of George Washington, Tomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and Teddy Roosevelt - granite likenesses that erode at the microscopic rate of less than an inch per 100,000 years.

"It would be a room cut out of the mountain. On the walls would be an inscription with the history of the United States and who those people are that are carved up there," he said.

Work on the proposed hall of records - designed by the elder Borglum - had begun but was cut off by officials in Washington. Gutzon Borglum saw the room as a way to prevent misinterpretation of his work thousands of years from now.

He foresaw future scientists and thinkers mistakenly theorizing that the four faces were gods or that they marked a tomb.

Lincoln Borglum believes it will take a grassroots movement from the people to spark the completion of the proposed hall of records. He sees the hall as the only viable addition to his father's masterpiece.

But there have been other suggestions. Some would like to see other presidential faces in the granite.

"FDR is always the top choice and Kennedy is second. But it's a moot question. There's no room for another head," he said.

Borglum keeps busy today and his works are featured in several Texas cities. A Christ statue he created is displayed in Beeville. Rockport has a St. Francis statue done by Borglum and the Gladys Porter Zoo in Brownsville has a Borglum sculpture of the zoo's namesake clutching a baby gorilla.

And periodically he gets calls from people with mountains. There have been contacts from South America, Mexico and New York. But none, he said, went beyond the talking stage.

Mountain carving would be a good bit different today from the way his father did it. It would be quicker and two expensive.

"There are new techniques. We probably could do Mount Rushmore in three or four years now," he said.

Stock Market Pinned With Another Loss

NEW YORK (AP) - News of the sharpest rise in wholesale prices in more than three years pinned the stock market with another broad loss Thursday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off 11.35 on Wednesday, fell another 8.49 to 820.34.

Declines outnumbered advances by close to a 4-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Trading remained heavy. Early Thursday the government reported that wholesale prices of finished goods-the next-to-last link in the distribution chain before merchandise is priced for retail sale-jumped 1.3 percent in April.

It marked the biggest monthly increase in that measure of inflationary pressures in more than three years.

Analysts also said the market's declines of the past two days seemed to have convinced many traders that the spring rally that set trading-volume records last month had run its course.

American Telephone & Telegraph, the most active NYSE issue, dropped 1/2 to 62 1/4.

200,000-share block traded at 61 1/4.

Other actively traded blue chips included General Motors, off 1/4 at 64 7/8; Eastman Kodak, down 1/4 at 51 1/8; and Exxon, 5/8 lower at 47.

The Big Board's composite index of all its listed common stocks lost .43 to 53.29. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .42 at 137.65.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
 The County of Deaf Smith, Texas will hold a public hearing at 7:00 p.m., May 8, 1978 at the County Courtroom, Courthouse in regard to the possible submission of an application to the Department of Housing and Urban Development for a Community Development Block Grant to partially finance improvements to the Community. The purpose of this meeting is to provide citizens with adequate information concerning the amount of funds available for the proposed community development in housing activities including land acquisition, rehabilitation, public facilities citizens centers, street and drain improvements, sewer mains, parks, playgrounds, code enforcements, clearance and demolition and other activities. This meeting is to provide citizens an adequate opportunity to participate in the development of the application. The plan shall be discussed as it pertains to this application. The total amount of funds for a HUD single purpose block grant is $5,000.00. Since these funds are on a competitive basis there will be more pre-applications submitted to HUD than can be funded. Another public hearing on the same subject and for the same purpose will be held at 7:00 p.m., May 9, 1978 at the County Courthouse, Hereford, Texas. Sam Morgan County Judge Deaf Smith County 219-2c

NOTICIA: Audiencia Publico
 El condado de Deaf Smith, Texas tendia una audiencia publica el dia - de Mayo de 1978 a las 7:00 de la noche en el Juzgado del Condado ubicado en la casa de Corte. Para tratar de la posibilidad de aplicar al Departamento de Vivenda y desarrollo urbano para un subsidio (grant) que parcialment financara mejaras a la comunidad. El proposito de esta junta es la de proveer a los ciudadanos adecuada informacion concerniente a la cantidad de fondos existentes para el proposito desarrollo en actividades de viviendas incluyendo adquisiciones terrenales, rehabilitacion, facilidades publicas, centros para la ciudadania, mejoramientos de calles y drenajes, parques, areas de juegos, enforzamiento de codigos, limpia y demolicion y otras actividades. Esta junta es para proveer a los ciudadanos una oportunidad adecuada para participar en el desarrollo de la aplicacion. Se discutira el plan segun se relaciona con esta aplicacion. El monto total de fondos para un subsidio de proposito unico es de $5,000.00. Debido a que estos fondos son de competencia, habra mas aplicaciones preliminares que se sumiteran al HUD de los que seran aceptados. Otra audiencia publico con el mismo objeto y para el mismo proposito se llevara a cabo a las 7:00 de la noche el dia 9 de Mayo de 1978 en el local arriba indicado. Sam Morgan Juez Del Condado 219-2c

David McKendree Key (1824-1900) of Tennessee, postmaster general in President Hayes' cabinet from 1877 to 1880, was the first former Confederate officer to serve in the federal cabinet. Key was a lieutenant colonel in the Confederate army.

POLLY'S POINTERS
 Polly Cramer

Mildew forms in closet

By Polly Cramer POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY— Please tell me of something that will fight dampness in a clothes closet that is near the wall of a brick house. Mildew is beginning to form on shoes and clothing. —NEIL
DEAR NEIL— Remove the mildew from the shoes and clothing and then keep a low-watt light bulb burning in the closet all the time. Be sure it is not near clothing or anything that might become too hot. If you have a ceiling light in the closet, that is usually out of the way of anything that could cause a fire hazard. —POLLY

DEAR POLLY— You will have no more annoyance with a slipping rolling pin cover if you sew elastic thread around each end of the cover. This works perfectly. —AMELIA
DEAR POLLY— Recently while we were on a vacation with another couple the husband had a rough edge on one of his fingernails. He used the striking surface of a match book for filing off the rough edge. I thought that an excellent idea for an emergency. —EDNA
DEAR POLLY— A small block of camphor placed in a drawer or suitcase will remove impossible odors within a few days. I have even conquered the odor of smoke from pillows and clothing by putting them in a closed suitcase with camphor for a week or two. —LOUISE
DEAR POLLY— I find the plastic or metal tubes that my husband's cigars come in make excellent holders for my crochet needles. I leave the liners in to keep the needles from getting scratched.
 My son-in-law makes onion rings in his restaurant and he puts the onions in the freezer for 10 to 15 minutes before cutting. When the juice is frozen it does not make one cry. —JANE
DEAR POLLY— I have a new use for a broken car antenna. I stick one in my angel wing plant, close to the stem. As the plant grows I can pull up another length of the antenna. Saves looking around for a nice thin, straight stick. —MARGUERITE
DEAR POLLY— I saw a question in the column that was never answered. To both my husband and I it is an irritant. The question was "Does anyone else feel as I do about the horrible music on TV shows." I think it was a compliment to call it horrible and loud as Peggy did because I think it spoils any show. I call it weird and ear splitting and it drowns out whatever the actors are saying. I have often wondered where I could complain about this. If you could pass the word to the right people you would make a lot of people happy. —BERNICE

HEALTH
 Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB— I am a 15-year-old girl and I'm hoping you will give me some information on losing weight. I'm 5-foot-8 and weigh 155 pounds. To me I'm very overweight although I am big structured. I was always told that it was mostly baby fat but I don't understand what baby fat is. I want to know if it will go away or if I'll have to diet. I'm a very weak-willed person when it comes to diet. I don't trust these dieting magazines and would like to have some information from you about dieting. I don't smoke, drink or use drugs.
DEAR READER— Good for you. Other than your nutrition you are establishing a good life style that will help you stay healthy. Baby fat is fat. That gentle rationalization of parents and friends does not alter the fact that fat is fat and it will not go away until your body uses more calories than you expend. You should get rid of the fat while you are young to avoid getting wrinkles or stretch marks that can occur even in young people who get too obese.

No one needs fat rolls

You may not be as fat as you think. You are tall but the only way to be sure you are not overweight is by checking the fat deposits under your skin. If you have a roll around the middle you are too fat. Women normally have a little more fat than men but you don't need any rolls or fat thighs. I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-7 Weight Losing Diet. It will provide the basis for a balanced 1200 calorie diet. If you can stick to that, or even add a few things as long as you are losing weight slowly, you will gradually reverse your problem. The nice part about it is it will teach you to eat properly so you can continue to stay at the optimal weight rather than lose and just regain it all again. You should avoid all those fat diets you read in magazines or appearing as books. The ideal way to diet is to learn proper nutrition and maintain adequate-physical activity. That way you learn a life style that is conducive to staying healthy. You can choose a number of physical activities that you enjoy. I am a great booster of walking; if you would walk regularly every day it will help you lose weight. You are at an age when you could learn and develop enough proficiency to enjoy a lifetime sport. Tennis is a good one and since you like exercise it might be a real aid to you. Swimming is good too.

DEAR DR. LAMB— In your opinion could a severe blow to a woman's breast cause a cyst to develop?
DEAR READER— No. A common mistaken idea is that injury or a blow to the breast can cause breast disease — including cancer.

In a world gone soft, there's still one tough guy!

Americans Say President Not Doing Much

NEW YORK (AP) - Americans think President Carter is an honest, hard-working man, but they don't think he has gotten much done as president. That's the finding of the latest Associated Press-NBC News poll, taken this week.

More over, Carter's job rating has plummeted once again, with Americans' judgment of his performance at levels touched only by Richard Nixon among recent occupants of the Oval Office. Only 29 percent of those questioned said Carter has done a good or excellent job in office, compared with 69 percent who rated his work as fair or poor. Two percent were undecided in the telephone interviews conducted Monday and Tuesday. That is down four points since the last AP-NBC News poll in March. A question similar to the AP-NBC News wording has been asked in recent years by pollster Louis Harris. The current AP-NBC News rating on Carter is lower than the lowest point found by Harris on either Lyndon Johnson or Gerald Ford. Only Nixon's 71-26 negative rating in March 1974 is lower than Carter's current rating. Asked about specific areas, the public's rating of Carter dropped in foreign affairs, energy and the economy.

The poll was taken before the government released its latest finding of a major jump in wholesale prices and before Carter began his fence-mending tour to Western states. And these declines came despite Carter's first major foreign policy victory - Senate approval of the Panama Canal treaties - and despite settlement of the coal strike and announcement of his anti-inflation program. About 80 percent of the 1,600 adults interviewed agreed with statements that Carter is honest and that he is hard-working. Only about 14 percent disagreed with either statement.

But 63 percent disagreed with the statement: "As president, Jimmy Carter has shown that he can get things done." Thirty-one percent agreed with the statement and 6 percent were undecided. Fighting inflation was one major area where the poll found public sentiment that Carter has not done enough. While about two-thirds of the people say that a president has the power to deal with inflation, only about a quarter of those interviewed said Carter is doing enough to fight inflation and 68 percent said he was not doing enough. Eight percent were undecided.

Bureaucrats Getting Paid For Not Doing Anything

WASHINGTON (AP) - Those nasty rumors are true. Our taxes do pay civil servants big salaries - as much as $50,000 a year - to do little or nothing, say administration officials who claim some high-salaried workers haven't been seen in the office in years. The reason? It's easier to leave incompetents on the payroll but pushed out of sight than it is to fire them. "We found $50,000 welfare cases. We were paying them to stay away. One person on a very high salary hadn't been seen there for years," William Drayton, assistant administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, told the Senate Government Operations Committee on Thursday. Drayton was one of several administration officials to complain about the complicated procedure for firing civil servants. President Carter is proposing a simpler method in his planned shake-up of the system. Drayton said administration officials began looking at bureaucratic waste when Carter took office - seeking out sandbagging workers for dismissal. But he said department and agency managers discovered they were spending about 30 percent of their time on dismissal preparations only to find it wasted because of minor procedural errors. In one case, Drayton said, he found a $40,000-a-year bureaucrat performing at the level of a $10,000 worker. "I told him to look for another job. He said he wouldn't. He knows we won't do anything about it because we can't spend the time." Barbara Blum, EPA deputy administrator, joined in the complaining, primarily about civil service hiring practices that give veterans lifetime preference. She said a test score bonus given veterans is thwarting her attempts to hire women and minorities. As the system works now, agencies needing a worker are given three names by the commission. Usually, the candidates all are white men because not as qualified, we have to go back to the Civil Service Commission with each veteran to explain why they are not qualified and then we have to go to the next veteran on the list,"

she told the committee. She said the procedure can take a year or longer and, by then, the minority candidate has been hired by a private employer. Carter wants to cut veterans' lifetime preference to 10 years, except for disabled former soldiers. Jerkey, or jerked beef, is a corruption of the Chilean word "charqui," meat cut into strips and dried in the sun. On the average, American hunters shoot from six to 12 million waterfowl each year and more than two million deer. In giving us two ears and one mouth, was providence hinting we should listen twice as much as we talk?

Reading Meeting Participants Concerned about Pressure

HOUSTON (AP) - Growing pressure from parents and state legislatures to do something about children who cannot read is foremost in the minds of teachers, school administrators and educational publishers gathered here this week at the 23rd annual International Reading Association convention. And while many of the 11,000 registered participants agree that increasing numbers of youngsters are leaving school unable to perform minimal skills necessary to survive in the late 20th century, there is less agreement how to stem the tide of functional illiterates. Suggestions range from offering monetary incentives to teachers who work in schools where reading is a serious problem to using newspapers to teach reading and comprehension skills. Ruth Ann Plate, a reading supervisor from Lorain, Ohio, showed how teachers are using the Lorain Journal to teach reading and comprehension skills to students who have reached junior high school without being able to read. "There was great concern that we were testing comprehension skills but doing very little to teach them," said Mrs. Plate, who set up the program after the newspaper agreed to donate 800 copies a week to the schools. A U.S. Office of Education study carried out in 1975 revealed one out of every five adult Americans is incapable of understanding written instructions necessary in carrying out daily activities. These 23 million persons are called functional illiterates - they can read words but they often don't understand what they mean. Minimal competency and accountability are terms used frequently during meetings and in informal conversation with participants. Many school boards and state legislatures now require proof that students leaving school know how to read a want-ad and write a check. And they hold teachers responsible for students' failure to pass competency tests. Clare Lynch O'Brien, an educational consultant to the children's television program "Big Blue Marble," said teachers are concerned about the effect of television on learning. "They say television gives children poor role models and discourages them from reading - and they're often right," she said. "There's something very wrong when you think that by the time a child leaves high school he has spent 15,000 hours watching television and only 12,000 hours in the classroom." Carnetta Blakey, a former reading teacher now with the North Carolina Department of education, said pressure to improve reading and comprehension skills has been filtering down from the top "and elementary school teachers are now feeling it." "A convention like this shows teachers a variety of methods they might use to help students, but we've got to recognize that this is a community problem - parents, teachers, everyone has to make a commitment," she said.

Death Penalty To Be Sought

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - The death penalty will be sought as punishment for a man and wife charged with capital murder in the shooting deaths of two young women here, the district attorney's office says. Murphy John Averitt, 31, and his wife, Sue, 26, were arrested in Indianapolis by FBI agents Wednesday on federal warrants charging them with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution. Also arrested was Susan R. Walker, 32, wanted in San Antonio on charges of theft by worthless check. The Averitts were charged earlier by proxy with two counts each of capital murder in the March 20 slayings of Mrs. Mary Ann Venus, 25, and Mrs. Andrea Millican. The two sisters were the wives of servicemen stationed overseas. The bodies of the two women were found just outside the San Antonio city limits in Bexar County. "We will seek the death penalty for the Averitt couple," Assistant District Attorney Charles Conaway said Thursday. Application has been made with Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe to obtain an extradition warrant for the trio's return to Texas, he said. No, Gwendolyn, "apple-jack" isn't what you get when you sell apples.

Twins Double The Love

Double the joy— This proud mother of twins gets a double hug from her sons.

What's it like being a mother of twins? The Mini Page asked some mothers.

"It's hearing two little voices in the middle of the night and they are both saying, 'Mommy.'"

"It's wishing more stores gave discounts for buying two of the same size, different colors."

"It's wishing at least one close relative was a baby doctor."

"It's beaming with pride when the first stranger asks 'Are they twins?' Later, it's trying to be polite when the millionth stranger asks the same question."

"It's trying to travel to Grandma's for a weekend when you have one car and two playpens, two high chairs, toys and everyone's clothes to pack."

"It's when you can tell them apart and none else can. You secretly admit to your self that sometimes you can't either."

"It's trying to convince relatives that it's not strange that 'this one' likes olives and 'that one' doesn't."

"It's daydreaming about how 'easy' it would be with only one baby and then you realize you couldn't give up either one."

"It's happily receiving sloppy, wet kisses on both cheeks at the same time."

"It's finding out that the amount of love you share is more than doubled."

Mothers Day, May 14, has a special meaning for all mothers and their children.

It has a double meaning for mothers of twins.

Double the trouble— Twins can be wonderful, but mothers need help from dad, family and friends to cope with the double care that twins demand.

Mother's Day Meal

Here are two simple dishes you get ready ahead of time for Mom's special dinner. Add a canned or frozen vegetable, rice, some bread and then have ice cream for dessert. Clean up the kitchen, please.

Mother's Day Casserole

You'll need:

- 1 fryer chicken cut up
- salt and pepper
- 1 can mushroom soup
- 1 can chicken gumbo soup

What to do:

1. Salt and pepper chicken lightly.
2. Place it in a flat type casserole.
3. Mix mushroom and gumbo soup and pour over chicken.
4. Bake at 375° for one hour, until chicken is tender. Serves 4.

Frozen Fruit Salad

You'll need:

- 1 cup mayonnaise
- 1 package (8 oz.) cream cheese, softened
- 2 tablespoons powdered sugar
- 1 cup pineapple tidbits, drained
- 1 cup fruit cocktail, drained
- ½ cup chopped maraschino cherries
- 1 cup miniature marshmallows
- 1 cup whipped topping

What to do:

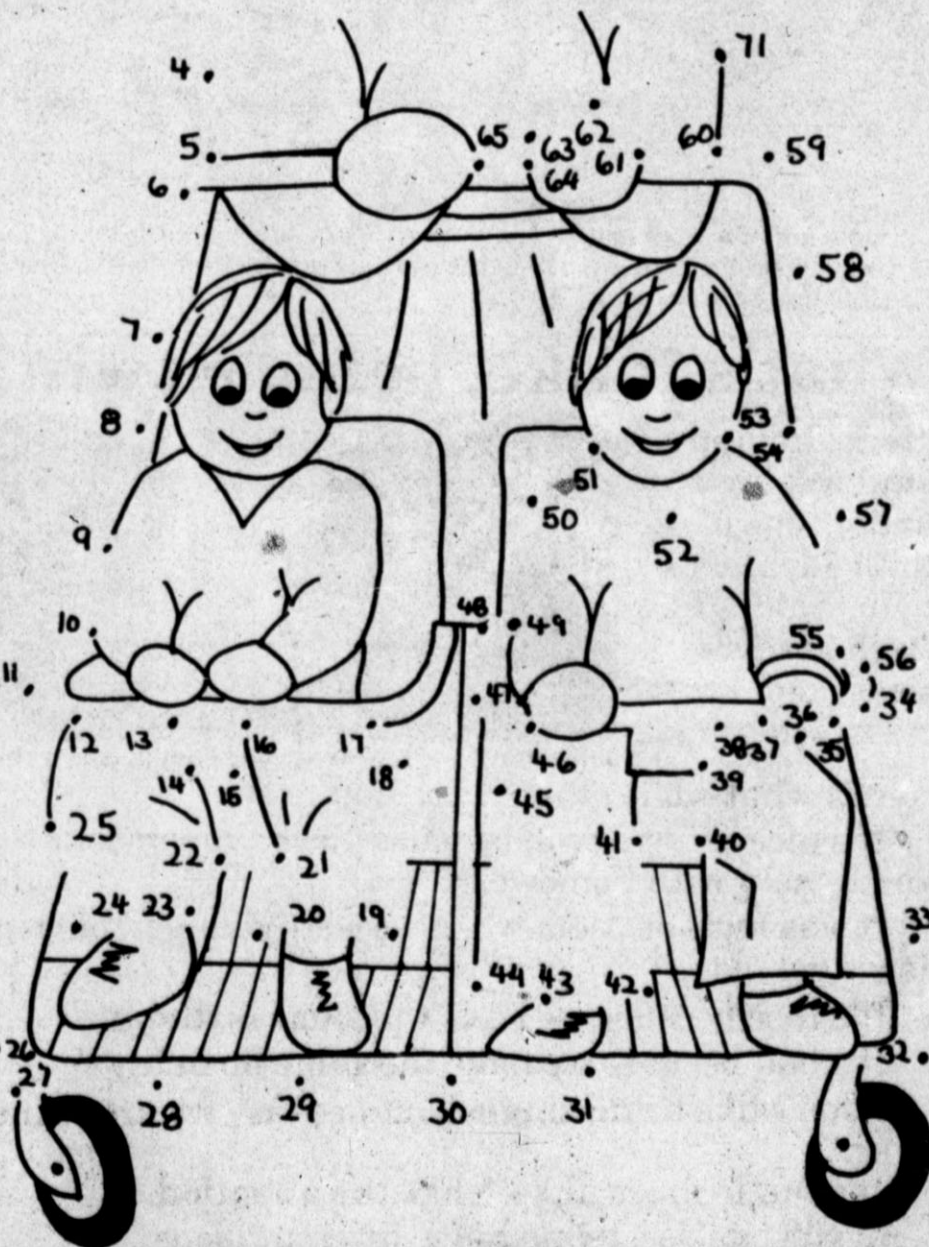

1. Mix mayonnaise and cream cheese.
 2. Add powdered sugar, fruits and marshmallows. Mix. Fold in whipped topping.
 3. Spoon into a pan and cover. Freeze.
 4. Cut in squares and serve on a lettuce leaf.
- Makes 10 to 12 servings.

Special Clubs Help Mothers Bring Up the Twins

A meeting of a Mothers of Twins Club. Kids don't usually come, but they were brought in for a Mini Page picture. See the clothes on the table in the back. The members run a clothing exchange.

"Too often twins are thought of as a 'unit' or 'the same,'" one mother told The Mini Page. "Adults often compare twins. This is unfair. We must help them develop their own personalities," she added.

To give help to mothers bringing up twins, there are Mothers of Twins Clubs all over the country.

These clubs bring together doctors, teachers and parents to share ideas and offer a helping hand.

What's it like, being a twin?

"I like having a built in play-mate," one of these identical twins said. These sixth graders sometimes switch classes in school.

They can't fool their soccer coach. She's their mom.

Here's what some other twins had to say:

"It's nice being a twin because you have someone to depend on and to help with homework."

"It was hard on Mom when we were younger, but it gets easier as we get older."

"It's nice because we have the same birthday."

"It's bad because we have the same birthday."

"I don't like being singled out because we are twins and look alike."

"It's fun to dress alike. I like the attention."

As you can see, twins have different ideas.

Twin facts

Worldwide, twins occur about once in every 80 births.

Russia has the highest number of twin births.

Japan has the lowest.

Almost half the twins come as a surprise to both doctors and parents.

Girl twins, especially identicals, are usually more dependent than either boy/girl twins or boy twins.

"Aren't they cute?" these twins might be saying. Some say they get very tired of hearing that about themselves.
