Cindy Ford Named Valedictorian

In climax of her twelve years as a student in the local school system, Cindy Anne Ford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ford, was acclaimed as valedictorian of Hereford High School's 1978 graduating class.

The announcement, always surrounded by an air of suspense, came at the conclusion of the annual HHS Awards Assembly this morning. Dr. Harrell Holder, Superintendent of Hereford Independent School District, presented the valedictorian and salutatorian titles.

The latter honor was awarded to Vivian Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Quenton Martin.

The top scholars finished their senior year with grade point averages of 5.6055 for Miss Ford and 5.5740 for Miss Martin.

Ranked in order beneath the salutatorian were the following students, who achieved at least a 5.0 grade average (straight A's) on a 6.0 scale: 1. Brunetta Lee Kindsfater, 2. David Granadoz, 3. Stephen Fortenberry, 4. Gregory Brockman, 5. Nickie Stipe Shelburne, 6. Oscar Rodriguez, 7. David Arney, 8. Rhenalea King, 9. David Walterscheid, 10. Jimmy Bodkin, 11. Robyn Kay Immon, 12. Dana Hutchins, 13. Kent Ellis, 14. Patricia Hendon, 15. Mona McNaney, 16. Jason Clark, 17. Ira Robinson, 18. Mark Priest and 19. William Bayne.

Recognition of the top 21 students capped a lengthy awards ceremony this morning, including presentations of scholarships and special awards. Special honors presented included the following:

The John Phillip Sousa Award, presented to Mark Priest; National School Orchestra Award, presented to Jim Fish; DAR Good Citizen Award, presented to Kyla Poteet; Girls State award, presented to Staci Payne, delegate, and Rebecca Rudd, alternate; Boys State award, presented to Tom Hazelrigg, delegate and James Trowbridge and George Aleman, alternates.

New City Hall Plans Progress

Current City Hall and Site of New Building

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Preliminary plans for a $600,000 single-story City Hall will be submitted to an architect sometime next week, with construction likely to begin this year. The Brand has learned.

The Hereford City Commission, in March 1977, approved construction of a new City Hall to replace the 52-year-old building now in use. The decision came following a public hearing on the matter.

City Hall, when construction is completed next year, will have a Spanish-style exterior, approximately 15,000 square feet, a police station nearly four times as large as the present one and plenty of parking space. It will be located at the corner of 3rd and Lee, with its two entrances facing Lee and 2nd.

The present City Hall will be razed and turned into a parking lot.

"We need this," City Manager Dudley Bayne said Tuesday. "We've been in this building for 50 years and a lot of repair work needs to be done on it. And the police department has been cramped for years.

"We can't even remodel this building or put on a false front without putting in elevators and public restrooms and wheelchair ramps, according to the federal government."

The new building will have public restrooms and ramps to comply with Department of Health, Education and Welfare guidelines, Bayne said.

The city manager has worked for several months on preliminary plans for the structure. Those plans will be submitted to an architect next week, bids will be let for construction in the fall and work will begin shortly thereafter, according to Bayne.

The building will be paid for out of revenue-sharing money allocated by the federal government. "We'll have all the money for it before it's been completed," Bayne said. "And, hopefully it will be completed before next summer."

Three of Hereford's four present city commissioners favor construction of a new City Hall. Commissioner John Matthews, a teacher, vehemently opposes the idea.

"Our priorities should be in the area of recreational facilities for our youth and auditorium facilities for our people. Our priorities are in the wrong place when we're dumping money down the tube for this kind of stuff," said Matthews, who was not on the commission last year when approval was given to the building.

"My feeling is that any time such an expenditure is made, it should be in the form of a bond election so people could say whether they wanted it or not. A half million dollars is a lot of money."

Commissioner Ed Coplen said a new City Hall is necessary "because Hereford

City Hall, housed inside a 52-year-old building, will be moved and all the buildings, with the exception of the fire station, on the block between Lee and Miles and 3rd and 4th Streets will be leveled, according to City Manager Dudley

Bayne, who next week will submit plans for the new City Hall to an architect. Construction of the new one-story, $800,000 City Hall, which will be located where the buildings in the right photo currently are, should begin around

September, said Bayne, who added that the new facility is necessary in order to comply with federal regulations and to provide more space for city employees, including police who now work in cramped quarters. (Brand photos)

CONGRATULATIONS to Cindy Ford and Vivian Martin on being named this morning as valedictorian and salutatorian, respectively, of the 1978 graduating class at Hereford High School. A long list of students received honors at the Awards Assembly this morning.

The close of school is just around the corner, with baccalaureate services scheduled Sunday night and commencement exercises Tuesday. The Brand will have a special salute to graduates in the Sunday paper.

MOST PEOPLE are familiar with Murphy's Law, an old engineering axiom, which says simply, "If anything can go wrong, it will."

There is a new list of supplements to Murphy's Law that are listed, understandably, under the heading: Murphy's Law. Some of these are:

Any wire or tube cut to length will be too short.

Components that must not and cannot be assembled improperly, will be.

Any error that can creep in, will. It will be in the direction that will do the most damage.

All constants are variable. The most logical way to assemble components will be the wrong way.

The probability of a dimension being omitted from a set of instructions is directly proportional to its importance.

It is impossible to make anything foolproof because fools are so ingenious, and there's an extra related rule that says: "Any device that can be put together by a 5-year-old, should be."

Hill Primary Victory Certified

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Attorney General John Hill, badly needing a unified party behind his race for governor, and the State Democratic Executive Committee staged something of a love feast Tuesday.

The committee canvassed returns of the May 6 primary and certified that Hill took 51.4 percent of the vote in defeating Gov. Dolph Briscoe, whom many SDEC members supported.

Calvin Guest, Briscoe's friend and handpicked party chairman, was the first to sound the unity theme.

"This party will stand behind every nominee and for one purpose and one purpose alone, and that is to defeat every Republican they put before our people," Guest said.

"Every Republican" includes the man Hill faces in the general election, Bill Clements, who says he already is attracting Briscoe supporters to his campaign for governor.

Guest introduced Hill as the "next governor of Texas," and the SDEC gave the nominee a standing ovation.

Hill replied that "Calvin and I through thick and thin have retained a personal respect for one another and a friendship that I savor."

Hill, now the titular head of the party, told the SDEC "it doesn't matter" that many of them "were unable to support me. We want you to be on our side 100 percent."

Designation of a new party chairman is near the top of Hill's agenda, and he asked for suggestions from the committee. He later told reporters he might have a name ready to announce in a week or so.

The gubernatorial nominee also told how he wants the party, often wracked by division and power plays, to operate for the next four years.

"We are going to have majority rule. We are going to practice fair play...proportionate representation...

and affirmative action," he said.

"I want to be a governor where I can walk on any convention floor at any time. I don't want to be afraid of the Democratic Party, and I don't want the Democratic Party to be afraid of me," Hill said.

He left no doubt he ranks unity as an essential item for victory in a state where

Past School Board Members Honored as Banquet Guests

Tess Norris of San Marcos, president of the Texas Association of School Boards, was guest speaker Tuesday night for the annual School Board Banquet, sponsored by trustees and the administrative staff of Hereford Independent School District.

The banquet is held each year in honor of all past school board members. Approximately 70 persons attended the banquet Tuesday night at the high school cafeteria.

School board president James Gentry served as master of ceremonies and introduced the honored guests. Dr. Harrell Holder, superintendent, introduced special entertainment, which included an ensemble from the HHS orchestra and several selections by the Girls' Choir under the direction of Bill Devers.

In a brief address, Mrs. Norris declared that public education, "despite all its difficulties, is still the most glorious institution in our nation."

She pointed out that our system of public education, in addition to providing basic skills, is teaching young people how to earn a living. And while all this has been going on, added Mrs. Norris, the

Warning: Living Hazardous to Health

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Warning: Living can be hazardous to your health.

Or so it seems. If you believe everything you read and hear, it is hard to imagine how anyone survives.

Consider just a few of the dangers lurking in a typical day.

Wake up with a cup of coffee. But too much caffeine is bad for you. It causes birth defects in animals, says the Center for Science in the Public Interest. And who can afford coffee anyway?

Take a vitamin. Careful. More than 4,000 cases of vitamin poisoning are reported every year, according to the National Clearinghouse or Poison Control Centers of the Food and Drug Administration.

Bacon and eggs for breakfast? Do not take safety for granted. The government wants to sharply reduce the amount of sodium nitrite used to cure bacon because nitrite can combine with other substances to form cancer-causing agents.

"Bacon," says Michael Jacobson, of the Center for Science in the Public Interest, "is nothing but little strips of fat laced with nitrosamines. The fat promotes heart disease, America's No. 1 health problem. The nitrosamines promote cancer, the No. 2 health problem."

Just eggs, then. Wait. Egg yolks contain cholesterol and high levels of cholesterol are bad for your heart.

A quick cigarette before showering? Remember the cancer warnings!

OK, there is nothing wrong with cleanliness, is there? Only sometimes.

The FDA wants warning labels on bubble baths because, it says, some who use them get rashes and itching.

Be careful stepping into the tub. Twenty-one million Americans are injured in home accidents every year, says the Consumer Product Safety Commission. And if the water is too hot, you may waste energy.

Back in the bedroom to dress. Stop before you spray. Aerosol products containing chlorofluorocarbons may be damaging the earth's atmosphere and the government has taken steps to ban them.

Perhaps you are female. On the pill. Read the required warning label that tells you excess doses of estrogen can cause cancer.

Off to work. Careful of that automobile. Does it pollute? Is your seat belt fastened? Drive carefully. The National Safety Council says 72.3 percent of all fatal accidents happen within 25 miles of home.

Safe at the office. Safe? Nearly 1 million Americans may be exposed to cancer-causing substances where they work, according to the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health. An additional 20 million workers face possible dangers from everything from asbestos to noise and other pollutants. Between 1,500 and 2,000 chemicals are known or suspected as cancer-causing agents.

Nervous? Try chewing gum, but not with sugar which can cause cavities.

Lunch time. Skip the three martinis. President Carter does not approve. Anyway, lots of alcohol, over a long time, can damage the liver, brain and heart, says the National Center on Drug Abuse.

Fast-food, then. Wait a minute. Just this week, it was suggested that certain methods of cooking hamburger may - just MAY, mind you - be dangerous. Four Canadian doctors say some people may be allergic to one ingredient in McDonald's sauce, although McDonald's says there is no evidence the ingredient is "either dangerous or harmful."

Perhaps a salad. Perhaps. Residues of a pesticide, DBCP, sometimes found on carrots, radishes, cabbage and cucumbers are "an unreasonable risk," claims the Environmental Protection Agency.

That is one way to reduce. Another, the liquid protein diet, may be

Partial SS Rollback Studied by Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) - A proposed partial rollback of Social Security tax increases next year is coming under new scrutiny in Congress, while trustees of the retirement system advise letting the increases stand for the time being.

The House Ways and Means Committee, which voted in principle last Thursday to cut Social Security payroll taxes below the increased levels set by law for 1979, was meeting today on actual legislation to make the change.

The proposed cuts would be felt by everyone covered by the system, but especially those in the top income brackets, who could save as much as $123 in 1979.

However, the principle of rescinding part of the payroll tax increase and using general treasury funds to take up the slack was approved by only a 19-18 vote in the committee.

A senior committee member who had opposed the rollback, Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., said he was not certain the committee would nail down its rollback decision in actual legislative form.

Pointing to the close vote and to indications that some members who voted for the rollback have lingering doubts, Rostenkowski said, "They have had time to think it over now."

A Rostenkowski aide denied a published report that Rostenkowski was expected to lead a major effort to overturn the committee's earlier decision. "He's not leading a charge," the aide said, "but he's hoping the committee will take another look at its decision."

Tuesday were mulling how to block announcement of the Democratic vote until results can be double-checked.

"We are going to court to obtain a temporary restraining order to allow us time to go county by county, box by box, and attempt to determine the truth," said Al Pujol of Houston, immediate past president of the Texas Horse Racing Association.

William T. Hall, an attorney retained by the racing association, said Tuesday he had not decided what legal avenue to pursue to stop announcement of the results.

The State Republican Executive Committee Tuesday tabulated figures twice before certifying that GOP voters turned down horse race betting, 74,281 to 69,638.

The Texas Election Bureau had reported the issue passed GOP voters.

"There were 30,000 votes out when they the Texas Election Bureau made those announcements," said Ray Barnhart, state GOP chairman.

The Democrats did not issue results Tuesday because party headquarters only had enough time to satisfy legal requirements of certifying winners in races for state offices.

Police Arrest Pair For Stealing Chaplin

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) - The body of Charlie Chaplin, stolen from his village grave the night of March 2, has been recovered and police have arrested the two alleged thieves, a Pole and Bulgarian, authorities said today.

The two men were arrested Tuesday after allegedly calling police demanding a ransom for the return of the comedian's remains, said Examining Magistrate Jean-Daniel Tenthoray.

He said the body was found near Villeneuve, a small town at the eastern tip of Lake Geneva about 10 miles east of Corsier-sur-Vevey, where Chaplin spent the last 25 years of his life and where he was buried last Dec. 27.

Tenthoray said the body was recovered early Wednesday morning. He said more than 50 police investigators took part in the final phase of the search. He did not say immediately whether other suspects were being sought.

Chaplin's oak coffin weighed 325 pounds, and detectives said it would have taken at least three strong men to drag it some 50 feet from its gravesite in the cemetery overlooking Lake Geneva before loading it into a small van.

Police Report

Builder Lee Umsted reported Tuesday to Hereford police that between 60 and 70 2 by 4's were stolen from a construction site at 406 Hickory.

Police recovered the lumber and released two juveniles, who said they had taken it by mistake, thinking it was scrap wood.

Police arrested three illegal aliens Tuesday.

Hill To Tell Carter That Policies Unfair

WASHINGTON (AP) - John Hill, the Democratic nominee for governor of Texas, planned to tell President Carter today his state is not getting a fair shake from federal policies.

Hill, state attorney general, had a 2:50 p.m. appointment for a 30-minute chat with Carter at the White House.

A long two days of visits, ending Thursday, with congressmen, Democratic Party chairman John White, energy secretary James Schlesinger and director Peter Bensinger of the Drug Enforcement Administration were scheduled for Hill.

Hill told reporters in Austin on Tuesday he had planned to visit only with congressmen and members of the administration, but someone arranged a White House chat as well.

"I'm not sure who arranged the meeting but I'm very pleased with it," Hill said.

He said he wanted to "improve our dialogue with the administration" on energy, farm policy and federal revenue sharing formulas that favor "Snowbelt" urban areas over the South.

"The great majority of our people do not feel Texas is receiving fair treatment today in certain key areas as far as Washington policy making is concerned," Hill said.

High to take a post with the Round Rock school district near Austin, we've heard some of his friends recall tales about the principal. Hughes is fond of pulling practical jokes, and maybe some of the faculty members will feel safe in telling stories about their boss man at the school picnic Thursday.

One of his friends came by yesterday to tell me about the time he went pheasant hunting with Hughes. The long walks up and down the fields was fruitless, so the story goes, and Hughes suggested they have a little target practice to see who was the better shot.

"I'll tell you what... let's just pitch up our hats and let the other guy take a shot," bravely suggested Hughes. His friend was hatless but agreed to toss one of his shoes. Hughes offered to throw his hat first. Up went the hat, but the shotgun blast failed to find its mark.

Out story teller pulled off a shoe and let it fly. Hughes put the shotgun in his shoulder, drawing a bead on the airborne shoe, then eyeballed it all the way to the ground without pulling the trigger. He then took a few steps toward the helpless shoe and blasted it in half!

Don't get the wrong idea, though. Hughes paid for his enjoyment of the practical joke... he bought his friend a new pair of shoes.

Station Has Anniversary

By SUSAN LINNEE
Associated Press Writer
HOUSTON (AP) - When KUHT-TV was literally kicked on the air 25 years ago, many thought "educational television" would be an extended classroom - a revolutionary way to teach, perhaps, but one doomed to financial insecurity.

As the nation's first non-commercial television station celebrates its silver anniversary, public television - although still plagued by funding problems - has moved far beyond the confines of the classroom.

"Educational programming still plays a large part in our schedule, but since the late 1960s, the station has been heavily dedicated to the whole community," said station manager James Bauer.

The University of Houston, together with the Houston school district, applied for and received the first license to broadcast over one of 242 channels set aside by the Federal Communications Commission for non-commercial television.

W.W. Kemmerer, then president of the university, had seen televised sessions of Senate hearings on organized crime during a 1951 visit to Washington when the potential of television as an educational medium hit him "like a bolt of lightning."

KUHT-TV broadcast its first test pattern May 25, 1953. On June 8, after 90 minutes of power difficulties, an exasperated engineer kicked the transmitter, and FCC Commissioner Freida Henock appeared on the air to dedicate the station.

"Back then student volunteers did everything. They stood in line to get into the studio," said Al Haubold, an engineer who was there when Commissioner Henock, a short woman, kicked off her shoes and stood on a box to show up better. "Now many of those students are managing television stations around the country," he said.

Haubold and Bauer agree the advent of videotape marked a turning point at the station and in educational television.

"We went strictly professional when we got tape in 1958," Haubold said. "We needed fewer technicians and production people. And since February, we've been off the telephone long lines. Now all our feeds come via satellite."

The Public Broadcasting System began satellite distribution of programs at the beginning of the year to the more than 270 stations it serves.

The Southeast is the first segment hooked into the system that is expected to be fully operative by January 1979.

Bauer said academic people grew disenchanted with education television when they realized videotapes of their classes could be used over and over again.

"Educational television was an administrative concept, and there was great academic

Miss Langley Feted At Afternoon Tea

Miss Camille Langley, bride-elect of William Jay Sproule, was honored recently during a tea and bridal shower in the home of Mrs. C.E. Leasure Jr., 222 Northwest Drive.

Miss Langley and Sproule plan to exchange wedding vows June 9 in Highway Park Methodist Church in Dallas. After their marriage, the couple will be living in Omat, Wash., where he will be working as a professional golfer.

During the recent courtesy, Miss Langley, received guests with her mother, Mrs. Earnest Langley, her grandmother, Mrs. H.E. Ritcher of Abernathy, and the hostess.

Special out-of-town guests included the bride-elect's sisters, Miss Carolyn Langley and Barbara Dorff, both of Dallas; her great-aunt, Mrs. Chris Benn of Abernathy; and Debra Fuller with children, Amy and Brett, of Dalhart.

Quinton Renfro, son of Mr.

and Mrs. Bob Renfro, performed selections at the piano during the courtesy. The honoree's chosen colors of blue and white enhanced the Leasure home.

Blue votive candles and white daisies were arranged in a large crystal vase on the serving table, appointed with crystal and silver. Crystal bells tied with blue ribbon completed the motif. The table was laid with sheer white organza over blue. White daisy corsages were presented to the bride-elect and her family.

Officers Installed During Salad Supper

During a salad supper Monday night in the SWPS Reddy Room, members of El Llano Study Club ended their spring meetings with the installation of officers.

Placed in office were Mrs. Labry Ballard, president; Mrs. R.W. Eades, vice president; Mrs. Fain Cesar, secretary; Mrs. Lloyd Kirkeby, treasurer; Mrs. Wayne Amstutz, reporter; Mrs. Tom Hamlett, parliamentarian; and Mrs. Ben Childers, historian.

Mrs. Hamlett was the installing officer, painting a picture depicting the officers on pieces of glass which were combined to form a dimensional picture. She compared the officers' work plus the frame of all members to making a complete picture.

In other business, Mrs. F.J. Hoelscher was introduced as a guest. Members discussed summer activities and agreed to act as hostesses at the E.B. Black house when needed.

Spring flowers, candles and greenery were provided at the supper by the hostesses, Mrs. R.C. Hoelscher and Mrs. Ed Coplen.

Others present were Meses. Pete Caviness, Jim Bookout, John Jacobsen, Travis McPherson and Raymond White.

Aging, Poor Nutrition Related

HEALTH IN THE SECOND 50 YEARS

Ponce de Leon may have been the most famous seeker of eternal youth but he was far from the only one. Nearly everyone hopes to age gracefully. May is Senior Citizens Month a time when to prepare for changing nutritional needs. There is evidence that poor nutrition and neglected health care in the early and middle years of life make people in later years more susceptible to degeneration and chronic illnesses. Although the same nutrients are needed by all age groups, the amount and kind of food a person needs changes with age.

The elderly need fewer calories due to decreased metabolism rates and lower activity levels.

Other aging changes that often interfere with nutrition are loneliness, loss of appetite and income and difficulties chewing food.

All contribute to the majority of senior citizens found to be deficient in calcium, riboflavin, iron and vitamins A and C in the 10-State Nutrition Survey conducted by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

To get the most nutrients for the least calories at an affordable price, nutritionists suggest using the Four Food Group system for balancing the diet.

The system categorizes foods according to the common nutrients of each group -- milk, meat, vegetables and fruits, and breads and cereals.

All adults need at least two servings from the milk group, two from the meat group, four from the vegetable-fruit group

Ann Landers School Bus Unsafe

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your columns recently have included many letters praising school bus drivers. I'd like to say a few words about buses.

Considering the changes in the design of cars (especially safety features) over the past 15 years, I can't help but wonder why the school bus my children ride appears to be identical to the ones I rode in.

The law requires that my car have seat belts, yet the kids are jammed in overcrowded buses with no seat belts to keep them from crashing into that terrible steel bar across the seat in front. You know the one I mean--it's right there, waiting to take out their teeth if there should be a sudden stop.

I realize money is a problem but if the great minds can lick polio and get to the moon, surely someone can design a safer vehicle to protect out most valued possessions--our children.

ren.--A Parent in Clatskanie Oregon.

DEAR PARENT: I have no answers for you but I will be happy to print one from someone who does. Especially would I welcome a letter from my friends in Detroit.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My son is a high school junior, age 17. He seems to be conducting a romantic interlude with his 43-year-old English teacher. He has already spent over $100 on candy and flowers and his now looking at a $30 tennis racket for her.

The real problem is that he has told everyone he knows that he wants to marry the woman as soon as he can get a job that will pay him enough. This boy is not qualified to do anything. I don't know what in the world he is thinking about.

This has got to be the teacher's fault. She is divorced and I am sure very experienced at this sort of thing. I'd like your advice on how to deal with the matter.--No Name No City No State.

DEAR N.N.N.: Your best bet is to say nothing and do nothing. Unless the teacher is a complete idiot she will not marry your son. Too bad he's spending so much money on the woman but some kids have to get their lumps firsthand and no one can tell them anything. If you've been on your son's back about this--get off. There are times when silence speaks more eloquently than words. Ending this relationship must be HIS idea--or hers.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is it possible for twins to have different fathers? If so, how can it be proved? Are they actually twins if they are sired by different fathers? If not, what are they?

Please print this letter and settle a terrific argument. I am counting on you. Thanks a heap.--Long Time Followers In The Corning Daily Observer

DEAR CORN: Yes, it is possible for twins to have different fathers. It can be proved by a blood test.

Even if the babies were sired by different fathers they are still twins--fraternal, not identical, however. The fact that they were carried by the mother at the same time qualifies them for twinning.

Shrimp Adds Much to Meal

COLLEGE STATION -- Shrimp, served in dozens of appetite-tempting ways, add distinction to any menu, suggests one seafood consumer education specialist.

They also provide excellent high-quality protein and other nutrients, Annette Reddell says. Ms. Reddell is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Shrimp are usually sold according to size and are referred to as jumbo, large, medium and small. They are available in either cooked or raw, peeled or unpeeled and fresh or frozen, the specialist adds.

Shrimp are ideal for appetizers, entrees or salads, she continues.

Try Creole Shrimp Salad topped with Remoulade Sauce, Ms. Reddell suggests.

It's shrimp combined with the heartiness of a Creole rice ring and a sweet-sour sauce.

Prepare this recipe in advance, leaving free time for other last minute preparations. Make the Creole rice ring the day before, pack it into a mold and chill.

The sauce is a make-ahead and chill item, too.

Just before serving time, unmold the ring and heap with shrimp. Serve the sauce with the ring or let guests help themselves.

Heated rolls, served with butter and honey, relishes and a choice of beverages complete the menu, Ms. Reddell adds.

CREOLE SHRIMP SALAD
1/4 pound fresh, cooked, peeled and cleaned shrimp
4 cups cold, cooked rice
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup peeled, seeded, chopped tomato
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento

3 tablespoons salad oil
2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar

1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard

Astros Coming Along; Get Fourth Straight Win

HOUSTON (AP) - After his team wallowed in mediocrity the first six weeks of the season, Houston manager Bill Virdon believes the Astros are starting to play better baseball.

Terry Puhl extended his hitting streak to eight games with a triple and a home run as the Astros recorded their fourth straight victory with a 6-1 decision over the Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday night.

"I keep saying we've got a good baseball," said Virdon. "We may not have the best, but you can't get down when things don't go right for you over a short period of time."

The Astros jumped on losing pitcher Steve Carlton, 4-4, for three runs in the first inning off Puhl's triple, run-scoring singles by Enos Cabell and Bob Watson and Art Howe's sacrifice fly.

The Phillies came back with a run in the fourth off Houston starter Mark Lemongello, 3-4, on a walk to Richie Hebner, a passed ball by Astro catcher Joe Ferguson and Tim McCarver's two-out single to right.

Lemongello pitched out of numerous jams early in the game as Philadelphia put 12 runners on base the first six innings, but managed to score only one run.

After Garry Maddox and McCarver opened the sixth with back-to-back singles, Bud Harrelson sacrificed the runners into scoring position. Floyd Bannister, making his first appearance in 11 days, came in to relieve Lemongello and retired pinchhitter Bob Boone on a liner to third and Bake McBride on an inning-ending fly ball.

A walk to Houston, a triple by Jose Cruz and Roger Metzger's run-scoring single in the sixth added two more Houston runs off Phillie reliever Ron Reed.

Puhl ended the scoring in the eighth with his second home run of the season, a solo blast over the right field wall.

"So far, this season has been either a penthouse or a warehouse for us," said McCarver. "We seem to score either 10 or 12 runs or one or none."

Philadelphia first base coach Tony Taylor was ejected for the first time in his 20-year major league career after disputing a call by first base umpire Bill Williams in the eighth inning. Taylor's ejection marked the sixth time a Phillie player or coach has been ejected in the last five games.

"It's getting to a point where we've become too conscious of the umpires," said Philadelphia manager Danny Ozark. "We seem to be getting runners in scoring position and not coming up with the key hits. We really haven't been hitting the ball well."

The Phillies, who lost to the Astros for the third time in four games this season, lead second place Montreal by one game in the National League East.

Brewers Edge Rangers

By GREG THOMPSON
AP Sports Writer

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Lary Sorensen's complete-game victory Tuesday night over Texas couldn't have come at a better time, says Milwaukee Manager George Bamberger.

"Every time you lose a game like we did Monday night and come back and win a game like this, it gives new life to the ballclub," Bamberger said after the 22-year-old Sorensen shut the Rangers down on seven hits in a 4-3 Milwaukee victory.

Texas had battered the Brewers for 13 hits and eight runs in Monday night's 8-6 win over Milwaukee.

"He (Sorensen) was great," said Bamberger. "He showed a lot of heart out there. The kid has kept us in every game he's pitched. He's only been playing professional ball since the middle of 1976."

Sorensen went the distance, allowing six singles and John Lowenstein's RBI double in a two-run Texas fifth inning. Jim Sundberg tapped him for a sacrifice fly for the other Texas run in the fifth.

The Rangers nicked him for a run on four consecutive singles in the third inning, with three of them bounding off the gloves of

Seaver Finally Finishes; Reds Race By Expos, 5-1

By JOHN NELSON

To Tom Seaver, it looked like the same old story: Three batters, three singles, "and I started thinking that maybe the roof was falling again."

The building in which Seaver fashioned his second victory of the season is still remaining, however.

After giving up a run in the first inning on three consecutive singles, the Cincinnati Reds "ace" held the Montreal Expos scoreless on seven hits, one walk and 13 strikeouts for his first complete game in nine starts and a 5-1 victory Tuesday night.

"It's a step in the right direction," said Seaver, who's now 2-4. "I've had a history of having trouble in the first inning. No matter how long I warm up, I have trouble."

Joe Morgan drove in four of Cincinnati's runs with a three-run homer in the fifth and an RBI double in the first. Ken Griffey drove in Seaver, who had walked to lead off the fifth, with the other Reds' run. Pete Rose had three hits - two of them doubles - and scored twice.

In other National League contests, Houston beat Philadelphia 6-1, San Francisco nipped Chicago 4-3, San Diego downed St. Louis 7-5 and Los Angeles edged Pittsburgh 3-2. Atlanta at New York was rained out.

Astros 6, Phils 1
Terry Puhl scored one run after tripling in the Astros' three-run first inning and hit a solo homer in the eighth, giving Houston its fourth straight victory.

Steve Carlton, 4-4, absorbed the loss, only his ninth in 31 career decisions against Houston, and Mark Lemongello, 3-4, got the win after working 51-3 innings.

Giants 4, Cubs 3
Larry Herndon drove home the winning run in the eighth inning with a bloop double, and Bob Knepper, 5-1, scattered six hits as Western Division-leading San Francisco won its sixth straight.

Cubs outfielder Dave Kingman had tied the game in the top of the eighth with a booming home run, his fifth in three games.

Padres 7, Cards 5
Gene Tenace drove in three runs with a triple and a bases-loaded walk off reliever Mark Littell to pace San Diego. The padres scored four runs in the first, highlighted by Tenace's two-run triple off the left field fence. Left-hander Bob Owchinko, 3-2, got the win while John Urrea, 2-5, took the loss.

Dodgers 3, Pirates 2
Don Sutton, 3-4, got his first victory in three weeks, and Los Angeles scored all its runs in the first inning to beat Pittsburgh.

One of the Dodgers' runs scored on a bases-loaded balk by Pirates starter John Candalaria, 2-6. The others came home on Steve Garvey's ground out and Dusty Baker's single.

Sutton gave up five hits before getting relief help from Terry Forster in the ninth.

Lawyer Says NFL Used 'Deceitful' Tactics

By SCOTT PAPPILLON
AP Sports Writer

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - The National Football League used "deliberate, deceitful" tactics last year to fool the NFL Players Association into thinking its new collective bargaining agreement was better than the old Rozelle Rule, attorney Edward Glennon charged Tuesday.

"Defraud was committed by the NFL on Judge Earl Larson," said Glennon. "Judge Larson did not have before him all the facts. It was a deliberate, deceitful force of action by the NFL."

Glennon, representing the NFLPA, spoke before the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals and asked that the agreement be sent back to U.S. District Judge Larson for further investigation.

By not informing the court of its interpretation of Article XV, Glennon said, the owners and league tricked the NFLPA into accepting an agreement "worse than the Rozelle Rule. And that's the deceit," Glennon added.

Article XV gives NFL teams the "Right of First Refusal," which means a club can bind a player who plays out his option and receives another offer by matching the offer, or paying that player 110 percent of his previous salary, whichever is higher.

This, says the NFLPA, creates a perpetual option-reserve clause and is no better than the old Rozelle Rule, which was struck down in 1975 when the court ruled it unreasonably restricted player movement.

"Article XV constitutes a perpetual option clause more onerous than the Rozelle Rule," argued Gerald Tockman, representing a small group of players who were opposed to the agreement from the beginning.

"It appears the union misunderstood what they signed when they negotiated the agreement," Tockman said.

The Rozelle Rule gave NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle the power to determine compensation to teams who lost free agents to other teams.

NFLPA Executive Director Ed Garvey, in a statement released earlier this month, said the owners were "bargaining in bad faith" by making very few offers to free agents.

Of the 126 players who became free agents Feb. 1, only six signed with new teams, prompting Garvey to hint that the owners were in collusion to protect their own investments by not touching those of other owners.

LA Closes In On 1980 Olympics

ATHENS, Greece (AP) - Los Angeles' big day in the Olympic chase may be at hand.

A delegation led by Mayor Tom Bradley presented its bid for the 1984 Olympic Games, believing it now had a formula for success.

After a dispute with the International Olympic Committee lasting for weeks, Bradley met IOC president Lord Killanin Tuesday night and claimed later there had been "a major breakthrough."

"There are no essential differences between us," the mayor said. "There were misunderstandings which required clarification."

"The city, the Southern California Olympic Committee and the IOC all want the 1984 Games to go on in Los Angeles."

But nobody would say how the breakthrough had been made, and Los Angeles still had to get past 80 IOC members, many of them old men, steeped in tradition, who have their own ideas about the way the Games should be run. They are due to vote on Los Angeles' bid Thursday.

At the formal opening of the IOC's 80th session, in an ancient Greek theater directly beneath the Acropolis, Killanin went out of his way to make it clear that the issue was still open.

"Whatever happens, Los Angeles would have started favorites in view of the fact that they have made two very good bids in the past, only to be beaten by Moscow and Montreal," Killanin said.

"But I should make it clear that while there is only one applicant it does not necessarily mean it will get the Games."

Killanin also reminded the audience that Montreal, the host city of 1976, was ready to stage the Games if Los Angeles' bid failed.

It looked as though Bradley would have to satisfy the IOC and then his city council at home. IOC source says the Games are likely to be granted to Los Angeles, but on condition the city signs the IOC's draft contract within 21 days.

Cubbie's Bleacher Bums Drawback to 'Real' Game

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

The tragedy of modern baseball has been the construction of modern ballparks. Architects who obviously never spent a hot summer's day in the sun, sitting in the cheap seats, visiting with the outfielders, have done away with bleachers. That is a crime of enormous proportions committed against baseball's common folk. For it is in the bleachers where the real fans live. And it is in the bleachers that baseball becomes a religion, a day-to-day way of life.

In Chicago's Wrigley Field, the bleachers survive and so do the fans, thanks to the innovative Organic Theater Company, which conceived and produced "Bleacher Bums," an off-Broadway show that studies the citizens in the deep center field seats.

"The bleachers are the most democratic place on the face of the earth," said Stuart Gordon, a founder of the company and director of the current production. "Everybody is equal in the bleachers."

Gordon and his group learned that first-hand. To research their play, they spent last summer on location, watching about 25 Cubs' games with the fans, who gained baseball-wide notice in 1969 when their team made an exciting season-long run for the National League pennant.

Those original bleacher bums were identifying yellow hard hats which now hang on the walls in their section of the park as monuments to their heritage. "They are museum pieces," said Richard Fire, who plays a slick better whose only interest in the game is how much money he can make betting against the Cubs with the loyalists.

Fire, thus, is the heavy in this nine-inning comedy. At one point, he laughs at Dennis Franz, whose raspy voice is straight out of every bleacher ever built. "You never learn," sneers Fire after taking some more of Franz' money. "Nobody can teach me nothin'," replies Franz, sounding properly indignant. "I been here 30 years. You got to be here a long time to teach me."

The bleacher bums delight in their ability to upset the opposition. The aim is to make an outfielder "climb the vines" that decorate Wrigley's outfield walls. The target in the show is Mike Anderson, an innocent player whose misfortune it was to be playing right field for the St. Louis Cardinals much of the time when Gordon's troupe showed up at the ball park with tape recorders, pads and pencils, trying to capture the flavor of the bleachers.

"Mike Anderson," jeers Jack Wallace, one of the Cubs' loyalists. "With a name like that, he ought to be on Father Knows Best."

"Hey Anderson," yells cheerleader Keith Szarabjka at the invisible outfielder. "Dr. Bloom is looking for you. You know Dr. Bloom, your denists. He says you've got root canals like East St. Louis."

Finally, the pressure becomes too intense and the bums recoil in humor as their target starts up the vines. "Look what he did to the foliage down there," notes Carolyn Purdy-Gordon, who plays Franz' wife and infuriates her husband by making balancing bets each time he starts wagering with the other bums.

Anderson gets his revenge with a grand slam homer that beats Chicago in the ninth inning. It is the routine ending for the bums, who are accustomed to seeing the Cubs lose.

"Every character in our play is real," said Gordon. "They're all right there, in the bleachers at Wrigley Field."

That would include Michael Saad's blind fan who follows the game on radio and serves as the bleachers' play-by-play man, and the buxom blonde, played by Roberta Custer, who uses the bleachers for her daily sun bath. Saad, who studied at the Lighthouse for the Blind to perfect some of his actions, delivers the post-game speech that says it all for Cubs fans, who haven't seen their team in the World Series since 1945.

"They're gonna win tomorrow," said Saad. "They're gonna take this series and the next one and the one after that. And they're gonna go on to the pennant. Then in the World Series, they're gonna play the White Sox. And it's gonna go seven games. And the seventh game is gonna go 27 innings. And the Cubs are gonna bring Ernie Banks back and he'll hit a home run to win it for us."

Wouldn't the real bleacher bums love that ending?

Rangers Swap Trio For Bobby Bonds

By GREG THOMPSON
AP Sports Writer

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) - The horse tradin' Texas Rangers have swapped off a large chunk of their future for Bobby Bonds - a soon-to-be free agent they are counting on as the key to this year's World Series.

The Rangers traded 23-year-old outfielder Claudell Washington, already a four-year major league veteran who is tagged as a "can't miss" star, minor leaguer Rusty Torres and a player to be named later to the Chicago White Sox on Tuesday night for the much-traveled Bonds.

"We're getting a 32-year-old superstar and we're giving up a 23-year-old budding star," Rangers owner Brad Corbett said Tuesday night.

"I felt it was in the best interest this year for Texas to get Bobby Bonds, who is a legitimate superstar. Claudell will be a great player."

Bonds, the only major leaguer ever to compile 30 home runs and 30 stolen bases in four different seasons, was traded to Chicago in the offseason from California.

He is playing out his option and will become a free agent - most likely a very expensive free agent - at the end of the season.

"I think that we will try as hard as we can to sign Bonds," said Corbett, who has shelled out nearly $6 million for free agents Doyle Alexander, Bert Campaneris, Rickie Zisk and Don Medich.

"I can't say tonight that we're confident we'll sign him but we are confident he'll help Texas win a championship this season," added Corbett.

In Chicago, Bonds appeared to be in a state of shock. "I was happy here. My rent's paid through July. I wouldn't want to speculate that I was traded because I haven't signed a contract."

"If we had gotten off to a good start we would have considered talking to Bobby later about a contract. We're getting a young outfielder who is signed through 1979. I gambled on Bonds but now I'm hedging my bet," said White Sox owner Bill Veeck.

Washington has been hampered by an offseason ankle injury this season and has been crowded out of the outfield by the likes of Juan Beniquez, Al Oliver and Zisk. He has appeared in only 12 games and is hitting .167 with two RBI.

But Washington hit .308 in 1975 as a regular for the Oakland A's and batted .284 said Tuesday night.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) - Baseball Coach Joe Platt of Shelby State Junior College of Memphis has been hired as assistant to University of Alabama-Birmingham Coach Harry "The Hat" Walker.

Walker was named last week to coach the Blazers' first-ever team. The school begins intercollegiate competition next season as a member of the Sunbelt Conference.

Platt's teams at Shelby State have an overall record of 179-73 in six seasons, including 33-11 this year.

Walker, a former major league manager, is under contract as a coach for the National League's St. Louis Cardinals until October.

Place-kicker Efran Herrera of the Dallas Cowboys was born in Guadalajara, Mexico.

Jockey Steve Cauthen rode 433 winners at New York tracks alone in 1977, more than double the 211 for runner-up Angel Cordero.

Clyde's Return A Success; Oakland Waylaid, 3-2

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Tuesday's crowd of 3,737 in Cleveland was almost 32,000 less than the one that witnessed his heralded-major league debut in Texas five years ago, but they saw another bonny performance by David Clyde.

Clyde was only 18 years old, the nation's No.1 draft choice and less than a month out of Houston's Westchester High School when he took the mound for the Texas Rangers against the Minnesota Twins on June 27, 1973.

The ballyhooed bonus baby walked the first two batters he faced but fanned the next three, went five innings, allowed one hit - a two-run homer - and emerged a 4-3 winner in a game that has been voted the big moment in Rangers' history.

That was the best of times. After that, things deteriorated to the worst of times and Clyde spent the last three years in the minors, undergoing shoulder surgery two years ago to relieve an entrapped nerve. The Rangers finally gave up and traded him and his 7-18 major league record to Cleveland this spring, where he became the personal reclamation project of Manager Jeff Torborg and pitching coach Harvey Haddix.

On Tuesday, Clyde made his first 1978 start after three solid relief appearances and 7-18 became 8-18 when the left-hander fired a four-hitter and struck out seven as the Indians turned back the Oakland A's 3-2.

In other American League action, the Boston Red Sox nipped the Kansas City Royals 3-2, the New York Yankees whipped the Chicago White Sox 8-3, the Detroit Tigers outlasted the Seattle Mariners 4-2 in 16 innings, the Toronto Blue Jays shaded the California Angels 5-4, the Milwaukee-Brewers edged the Texas Rangers 4-3 and the Minnesota Twins pounded the Baltimore Orioles 8-1.

Red Sox 3, Royals 2
Dwight Evans belted a tie-breaking home run in the seventh inning and unbeaten Bill Lee scattered nine hits for his sixth victory. Loser Paul Splittorff nursed a 2-0 lead into the fifth but the Red Sox tied it on a walk, a single by Evans, Bob Bailey's sacrifice fly, a sacrifice bunt and a single by Rick Burleson. The Royals got two men on in the ninth but Lee retired the next three hitters.

Yankees 8, White Sox 3
Seldom-used Ken Holtzman, with perfect 11-out relief from Rich Gossage and backed by a 14-hit attack, gained his first victory since May 1, 1977. The veteran left-hander, making only his third appearance of the season and first since April 19, gave up eight hits and three runs in 5 1-3 innings. Chris Chambliss drove in three runs for the winners. Bobby Bonds homered for the losers and was traded to Texas after the game.

Tigers 4, Mariners 2
Lance Parrish blasted a two-out, two-run homer in the bottom of the 16th inning, off Shane Rawley to end a 4½-hour marathon. Steve Foucault and John Hiller combined to pitch 9 2-3 innings of shutout relief for the Tigers, who sent the game into extra innings with a run in the bottom of the ninth on Jason Thompson's double, a wild pitch and sacrifice fly by Steve Kemp.

Blue Jays 5, Angels 2
Dave McKay tripled home the tying run in the eighth inning, and scored on Otto Velez' pinch double. The rally started when Tommy Hutton drew a one-out walk off loser Don Asse. Velez' blow came off Dave LaRoche.

Brewers 4, Rangers 3
Sal Bando drove in a pair of runs with a grounder and a double and scored the winner on Sixto Lezcano's eighth-inning sacrifice fly as Lary Sorensen outdueled Doyle Alexander.

Monterey Rolls Sandies, 16-11

AMARILLO - In a game which was supposed to feature strong pitching by both teams, the Monterey Plainsmen rolled past the Amarillo High Sandies 16-11 Tuesday afternoon here as the area 4A bi-district baseball series got underway at the AHS field.

Monterey featured unbeaten Ron Reeves (11-0) for the contest, while the Sandies countered with Kim Sargent (8-1). Before the loosely-played game was over a total of 26 hits, 17 bases on balls, and 11 errors had been marked in the scorebook.

Reeves managed to complete five innings before he was jerked for Ricky Pinkerton by MHS boss Bobby Moegle. The sturdy right-hander surrendered five hits and walked seven in that stretch while striking out 12.

Sargent wasn't as fortunate. The Plainsmen, losers to the Sandies in this series last year, ripped the AHS starter for nine runs and seven hits in 1½ innings. Charlie Guyer relieved for three frames before Pat Hrcir finished up the game.

Monterey make it a laughter early with four runs in the first and nine more in the second. Every MHS starter had at least one hit off the Sandie pitching trio with DH Eric Voyles going 4-5 to lead the attack.

The Sandies managed to make it close with seven runs in the final two innings off to Pinkerton, but it wasn't enough to keep an 11-game winning streak alive.

The two teams will play the second game of the best two-of-three series at Lowery Field in Lubbock Friday afternoon. The third game, if necessary, will immediately follow.

IYC Qualifying Round Here June 6

The Independent Insurance Agents of Texas will sponsor a qualifying tournament for the state final of the Insurance Youth Classic Golf Championship in Hereford June 6.

The announcement was made by Dave Perdue, Director of Governmental Affairs, Independent Insurance Agents of Texas, Austin, Texas, chairman for the 10th annual Insurance Youth Classic.

The qualifying round will be held at the John Pitman Municipal Course. It is a prelude to the state final. A total of 150 teen-age golfers, representing 43 states, ultimately will qualify for the national tourney August 12-15 to be played at the Silver Lake Country Club in Orland Park, Ill.

IYC Ten, the nation's biggest teen-age tournament, offers qualifiers a unique bonus in that 60 golfers who survive the 36-hole championship "cut" will play the final 36 holes with professionals from the PGA Tour.

The independent insurance agents organize more than 800 local and state tournaments to qualify young golfers for the championship.

Among the pros in last year's national event were former Masters champion Charles Coody, Al Geiberger, Grier Jones, Lee Elder, Ron Funseth and Larry Ziegler, pro winner in the 1977 IYC.

The IYC and its qualifying rounds are conducted in strict compliance with the rules of the United States Golf Association and the National Collegiate Athletic Association. Golfers 14-17 years of age are eligible to compete.

The national championship is also sponsored by a group of leading insurance companies. The deadline for entering the local qualifying round is June 2. Golfers may sign up with Lynn Carter at the Lone Star Agency, Inc. in Hereford. A fee of $2 must accompany each entry.

Trap Shoot Friday

The Hereford Gun Club will hold a regularly-scheduled trap shoot under the lights Friday at 7 p.m.

The shoot will be conducted at the club's trap range, just east of the Hereford Municipal Airport.

Night shoots are held on a regular basis by the club on the first and third Fridays of each month, with daylight shoots held on the second and fourth Sundays of each month at 2 p.m.

The next regularly-scheduled Sunday shoot was scheduled for May 28, but has been cancelled, according to club president Nancee McClendon, due to the Memorial Day holiday.

Fees for Friday night's shoot will be $1.50 per 25 target round for members and $2 per round for non-members and guests.

Club memberships are open to interested individuals at a fee of $10 for the first year.

Hill Rules Reform Schools Must Be Certified

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)—State reform schools must be inspected and certified by the State Department of Human Resources, Attorney General John Hill ruled Monday.

The Texas Youth Council had opposed inspection by the agency that used to be called the State Welfare Department, prompting the request for Hill's legal opinion.

Ron Jackson, executive director of the youth council, said the agency would ask the 1979 Legislature to remove the council's training schools from the human resource department's jurisdiction.

He said the youth council opposed regulation by the human resources department because it believed child correctional institutions were

"the area of our expertise, not the department of human resources."

Without a certificate from the department, the reform schools could not legally operate.

Jackson said the council tried to get a bill passed last session requiring certification of the schools by the American Correctional Association. The measure was passed by the Senate but died in the House Social Services Committee.

"The American Correctional Association had not finished with its standards. That held it up in the social services committee. If they had received proof the standards were completed, I think they would have listened to us," Jackson said.

The department already certifies the equivalent of licensing - the youth council's homes for dependent and neglected children.

Margaret May, the department's director of agency and institutional licensing, said existing basic standards for child care institutions could be applied to the training schools.

"But we probably will need to make some additions, recognizing the need for greater supervision and some kind of isolation," she said.

Hill said the department does not have authority to inspect and certify local juvenile detention facilities that operate under control of juvenile courts.

The attorney general's opinion was issued to Dallas District Attorney Henry Wade and commissioner Jerome Chapman of the department of human resources.

Hill told Wade that a home for dependent, neglected and delinquent boys operated by Dallas County does fall under the authority of the human resources department.

Hill said it was clearly the Legislature's intent for the human resources department to inspect and certify the institutions run by the youth council.

"No separate, conflicting inspection and certification system is provided for TYC schools; nor do we find any other statute which might operate to exempt them from certification," Hill said. "...In 1977, the Legislature considered and rejected an amendment to the Child Care Licensing Act which would have exempted TYC correctional facilities from its provisions."

Krueger Lauds Demo Unity

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)—Bob Krueger said Monday he has two things going for him in his Democratic campaign for John Tower's seat in the U.S. Senate. One is Democratic Party unity-the lack of which helped Tower win in 1966 and 1972, he told a news conference.

Krueger demurred on a possible bonus factor, conservative Republican Henry Grover's campaign as an independent against Tower, also a conservative Republican.

To appear on the general election ballot, Grover must have the signatures of 70,000 qualified voters who did not vote in the primaries.

Krueger was asked if he was encouraging his friends to sign Grover's petitions.

"I haven't," he grinned, "but that doesn't mean I might not."

Grover could be expected to drain some conservative votes from Tower, who angered some Republicans by supporting Gerald Ford over Ronald Reagan for the GOP presidential nomination in 1976.

Grover who a strong second to Gov. Dolph Briscoe as the GOP gubernatorial nominee in the 1972 general election.

Krueger said President Carter called him last Monday and "indicated he would be glad to help in any way he could."

Despite Carter's present low rating in public opinion polls, "it always helps to have the President of the United States behind you," Krueger said.

He also has behind him the man he defeated in the May 6 Democratic primary, Joe Christie. He said Christie voters had been offering their support.

"There will not be the kinds of divisions in the Democratic Party that John Tower has tried on in the past," he said. Krueger spent a little over $1 million to defeat Christie and predicted it would take about $2 million to run a winning campaign against Tower.

He said Tower is "most pointedly vulnerable on his opposition to the rights and hopes of minorities." He said Tower voted against civil rights legislation in the mid-1960s and the recent amendments to the voting rights act.

Tower also is vulnerable, he said, on the issues of taxation and Social Security.

"He didn't care enough about the interests of older Americans" to vote for last year's amendments to the Social Security Act, Krueger said, and "has not favored the interests of middle income Americans" on

Labor Department Defends Regulations

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Labor Department, anticipating a barrage of industry protests, today defending its sweeping plan to regulate all potential cancer-causing chemicals found at American job sites.

The department opened an expected two months of public hearings on the controversial rule by conceding it has been too slow and haphazard in trying to protect an estimated 1 million workers potentially exposed to carcinogens on the job.

"In the past we have reacted with rule-making initiatives as new reports of scientific study are made public," the lead-off witness, a spokesman for the Labor Department's Occupational Safety and Health Administration, said in prepared testimony.

"The process has been slow, it has been interrupted and it has been inconsistent," added Grover C. Wrenn, director of OSHA's health standards program, which developed the proposal.

So far, OSHA has issued regulations limiting worker exposure to less than two dozen of the 1,500 to 2,000 chemicals identified as known or suspected cancer-causing agents.

Among the chemicals already regulated are asbestos, vinyl chloride, arsenic, benzene and the pesticide DBCP.

The proposal establishes for the first time a systematic procedure for quickly identifying, classifying and regulating suspected cancer-causing agents that pose a threat to workers' health.

The hearing has attracted 162 witnesses and 300 written statements, the most interest displayed in an OSHA proposal in the agency's seven-year history.

The hearing is to continue through July 21, with witnesses in favor of the proposal scheduled to testify for about four weeks, and opponents after that. A final regulation is not expected to take effect until next fall at the earliest.

Petroleum, chemical and other industries have objected to the proposed regulation as overly simplistic, inflexible, unnecessarily costly and too difficult to meet. Opponents also argue it is based on possibly unreliable scientific data.

Illness limits sex drive

DEAR DR. LAMB - I sent for your Health Letter about the prostate gland and it gave us much information about what my husband is going through as a result of prostate surgery. We would like some information about sex life after this operation. My husband is having trouble since he had prostate surgery nine months ago. He was pretty sick and lost a lot of blood and had to have a transfusion. It was a couple of months before he felt better, but he is having trouble with sex. The doctor put him on a pill called Metadren Lingnets but it has not helped at all.

DEAR READER - I'm always a little surprised that people expect to be sexually vigorous when they are sick. Illness of any severity is often a damper to sex. So is starvation, as occurred in prisoner of war camps. After all, the sexual functions are like other parts of the body and do not function perfectly all the time. You should expect sexual function to lag once in awhile.

When your husband has fully recovered his health he may also recover his sexual vigor. Most men do recover normal sexual vigor after prostate surgery. Some don't and this is often because they have other illnesses or because they are in the age group that sex was ready to decline for them anyway - independent of the surgery. It does make a difference whether you are 19 or 59.

Then you should know that after prostate surgery the valve mechanism at the outlet of the bladder is usually changed. As a result the normal orgasm is expelled backward into the bladder.

Laredo Officers May Have Violated Customs Laws

LAREDO, Texas (AP)-An investigation of the Laredo Police Department may result in criminal charges against some of its officers according to a highly placed department source. The source said the internal investigation is focusing on suspected "customs violations" by officers along the border. An assistant U.S. attorney here said previous investigations of the department have shown that officers frequently take cigarettes or liquor from persons legally crossing the border.

"Some of the Laredo police have taken this up as a way of life here," Emilio Davila said, adding that the violations seem to be restricted to a small segment of the force. A 1976 investigation by U.S. Customs special agents turned up indications of more serious violations.

"These allegations involve the possible smuggling of commercial quantities of cigarettes and liquor into the United States, extracting cash payments from Mexican citizens attempting to export various commodities and the illegal export of firearms to Mexican territory for resale," the report said.

A customs source said no conclusive evidence on the allegations was collected. The findings of the investigation were included in a letter from Jesus Martinez, special agent in charge, to then-Police Chief William Weeks. Weeks had asked the special agents to look into the case of a policeman who reportedly had taken cigarettes from a Mexican woman at a border duty free store.

According to Martinez' letter, the woman claimed that officer Ray B. Pena was "taking cartons of cigarettes away from her on a daily basis." When approached by a customs officer about the allegation, Pena reportedly said, "everybody knows we do it and nobody does anything about it. Why do you want to be the only one to do this to me."

The letter also states that Pena threatened the customs man. "Down here you may be the boss, but out there pointing toward town you are mine. I'm going to get you," he reportedly said.

When contacted recently about the incidents, Pena refused to comment. An employee at the store where Pena allegedly took the cigarettes said he had heard the officer tell customers, "I'm going to take mine."

Despite the result of the investigation, no charges were filed against Pena. In January of this year, Pena was again investigated and was suspended for 30 days after he admitted concealing a carton of cigarettes purchased on the Mexican side.

Again no charges were filed. Davila said it was his indication not pursue the case. He said the potential penalty 10 years and a $5,000 fine; was too harsh. "When he came on he saw some senior officers doing basically the same thing. A

HEALTH

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am 69 years old, weigh 170 pounds and am 5-feet-11. I walk an hour each morning at the rate of four miles an hour. Then I pick up my wife and we walk approximately 40 minutes and cover two miles. How many calories do I use walking at four miles per hour for one hour and how many at three miles per hour?

DEAR READER - Your question indicates you have the mistaken idea that the speed of walking makes a difference. It doesn't. The two most important variables are your body weight and the distance walked. At your weight you will use about 60 calories more per mile than you would have used just sitting. So if you walk four miles in one hour that would be 240 extra calories and three miles an hour for one hour would be 180 calories. Your wife will probably use less because she probably weighs less. Figure your calories on a per mile basis, not on speed.

Cop Firing Maintained

HOUSTON (AP) - The dismissal of a Houston police officer, accused of beating a fellow officer with brass knuckles, was upheld Monday by the City Civil Service Commission. By a vote of 2-1 the commission backed Police Chief Harry Caldwell in removing jailer Roscoe Edwards, 29, from the force. Caldwell took the action after a March 18 fight between Edwards and robbery Detective Edwin Beale following an argument in the Central Police Station. Beale suffered a head wound that required several stitches to close.

Voting in favor of dismissal were commissioners David Beck and Will Cain. Commissioner Al Henry, who dissented, said he agreed disciplinary action was needed, but that dismissal from the force was too severe. The commission ruling may be appealed to the state district court.

Edwards said he carried the brass knuckles to protect himself from irate citizens who might be visiting the jail inmates. He told the commission jailers are not allowed to carry pistols while on duty and he felt he needed something to protect himself.

A Harris County grand jury has indicted Edwards on a felony charge of assaulting a police officer and a misdemeanor charge of possessing a prohibited weapon.

Can't kill grease smell

DEAR POLLY - I really need help. When we moved last summer I left a can of grease in the refrigerator. When I opened the door the grease had tipped over and run all over and out the bottom. After the grease was scrubbed away the odor remained and it remains even after I have tried putting newspaper inside as well as charcoal, soda and coffee grounds. What can I do? - GLADYS

DEAR POLLY - You might try putting a newly opened package of kitty litter in your refrigerator and closing it up for a few days. If that does not work a saucer or two of vanilla might turn the trick. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - If one gets grease spots on polyester, wool or most other materials talcum powder can be applied very thickly and left on for some time. Brush it off and the spot is usually gone. If necessary the same treatment can be repeated. - MABEL

DEAR POLLY - My Pet Peeve is with the designers of reclining chairs. I am five feet tall and the head rest hits my head instead of it being at the curve of my neck. They surely are uncomfortable for me and I am sure for other short people, too.

When I wrap anything with plastic wrap it is always hard to find the ends. So I tape a strip of paper across the end and can find it at a glance.

When I use the last of anything that I need to buy at the store I write that item in red on my grocery list. If I am in a hurry when I do my shopping I can see at a glance just what things I must buy and the rest can be done at my leisure. - ANN

DEAR POLLY - I used to have great trouble removing price stickers from all sorts of items until I started using shortening or butter put on such stickers and left overnight. A piece of paper towel then wipes them off clean as a whistle and leaves no trace of the gum. - BERTHA

DEAR POLLY - Grease the rim of a pot to keep anything cooking in it from bubbling over. Cream your forehead before giving yourself a shampoo to avoid getting soap in your eyes.

Remove spilled wax from a rug by putting a brown paper bag over the spot and then ironing the bag. Change the bag often as it absorbs the wax. I rub a pecan nut meat on scratches made on wood furniture. - ANN F.

Doctor Tells Theories on Cold Water Deaths

WASHINGTON (AP) - The parents wrote that they found their infant son lying face down in a well. He had turned blue and his eyes resembled fish eyes. But persistent resuscitation efforts saved him. Their letter is one of hundreds received by Dr. Martin Nemiroff since he published his theories on cold water drownings. Not long ago, victims of drowning in cold water, blue and seemingly without pulse, would have been given up for dead.

But Nemiroff found last year, in a study financed by a Commerce Department grant, that people who had been submerged in waters below 70 degrees Fahrenheit for more than four minutes could survive, and without brain damage.

Nemiroff, who specializes in lung disease, studied more than 60 drownings in Michigan in a two-year period and noted the high survival rate of those in cold water. Of 15 persons who were submerged in cold water for as long as 38 minutes, 11 are now leading normal lives. The key to survival, Nemiroff decided, was the water temperature - under 70 degrees - and quick action by rescuers. The cold water activates what Nemiroff calls the "mammalian diving reflex," the instinct which keeps babies from drowning during birth.

Most prominent in children under 3, but found in persons up to 40, the reflex slows the heartbeat and redistributes the body's oxygen supply from the skin and muscles to the heart and brain. Brain damage is averted through this renewed supply of oxygen to the brain.

Cold-water drowning victims need especially aggressive resuscitation, including chest massage and mouth-to-mouth breathing, Nemiroff says. It should start under water if possible. "Sometimes it takes more than two to three hours before the pulse begins again," he says. "At the hospital, you have to be careful the patient gets enough oxygen and that resuscitation continues."

As in any drowning, the body should be warmed slowly. Nemiroff advocates the use of a respirator, to blow warm air inside the body, rather than the common practice of bathing the body in warm water or oil. With the onset of the summer drowning season, the Red Cross and the Coast Guard are trying to increase public awareness of how the body can survive cold water submersion. "What's important is the knowledge that people can be revived without brain damage," says Orin Myers, director of the Red Cross national water safety program. The Red Cross is asking its chapters across the country to report cold water drownings to Nemiroff to "broaden the scope of the research." Myers says the sampling of the study is too small, at this point, for wholesale indoctrination in water safety programs. In St. Louis, use of Nemiroff's theories in boating safety programs led to a 25 percent reduction in boating fatalities, according to Coast Guard Lt. Cmdr. D.S. Smith. Of the 8,000 drowning deaths occurring in the United States each year, Nemiroff estimates that more than 1,000 take place in waters below 70 degrees and many could be avoided.

Hospital Fund Dying

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Social Security trust funds that pay benefits to retired and disabled workers are in good shape for several decades, but the fund that pays hospital insurance under Medicare will go broke by 1990, the system's trustees told Congress Tuesday. They said in an annual report that the higher payroll taxes Congress approved last December have "restored the financial soundness of the old-age, survivors and disability insurance program through the remainder of this century and into the early years of the next one."

The trustees advised Congress to exercise caution in any move to curtail the Social Security payroll tax increases recently approved.

Some members of Congress favor using general tax funds to pick up additional hospital insurance costs under Medicare. General tax revenues already are used to pay the bulk of the cost of Medicare's optional medical insurance fund that pays doctors' bills and out-patient hospital costs for retirees who pay a monthly premium.

The report was made by the trustees, Health Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A.

Califano Jr., Labor Secretary Ray Marshall and Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal. It said the trust funds for old-age, survivors and disability insurance "are now projected to have sufficient income to meet benefit and administrative costs until nearly 2030."

However, the trust funds are still facing an annual deficit under long-range projections. They will actually begin to pay out more than they take in around 2011 or 2012, according to the current projections.

Figured on a 75-year basis, the projected deficit is 1.4 percent of payroll. Prior to the new financing law that raised payroll taxes, the deficit was 8.2 percent of payroll.

That meant that the system would be $8.20 short of meeting all of its expenses on every $100 that it took in. Now the shortfall is $1.40 per $100.

The trustees noted that an advisory council was recently appointed to study the system's long-range financial status. It will report its findings in October 1979.

They recommended, in view of the limited time available for planning, that Congress take no action now to alter the financing arrangements.

The system is expected to pay $93.9 billion in benefits to 34.8 million persons this year.

Air Force Orders Production Of Satellite-Tracking System

The report said that the hospital fund is expected to lose $400 million in 1985 and then decline rapidly until it is exhausted in about 1990.

That prediction is a rosier estimate than last year when the trustees said the hospital fund would go broke by 1987. That figure was revised in 1978 after the refinancing bill passed.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Air Force has ordered production of an advanced "night-watch" system that uses sophisticated telescopes and television cameras to detect and track satellites orbiting thousands of miles out in space against a background of stars.

The new system will be designed to overcome limitations of a nearly 20-year-old space surveillance network consisting mostly of radar sensors.

Dr. William Perry, the Pentagon's research chief, has told Congress the present network has limited capability to detect objects "above 3,000 nautical miles altitude and has gaps in the coverage below this altitude."

The five stations in the new system will be spaced to provide worldwide coverage. A $33 million contract awarded by the Air Force to TRW Inc., calls for starting operation of the new system in the early 1980s.

The planned network incorporates a digital computer, along with electronic and communications devices.

As the Air Force explains the process, a television camera, mounted in the telescope, will feed "sky pictures" into a computer to produce a display for technicians manning the system.

Carter Inflation Expert Adds Dentists to Hit List

WASHINGTON (AP) - It may be time for the dentists to brace themselves. They could be next on President Carter's hit list.

Since his friends, at least in the public opinion polls, appear to be diminishing in number, Carter seems to have gone on the prowl for some enemies.

Nothing personal and, for that matter, not much new - his lectures to lawyers and doctors about their professions and the fees they charge are simply an extension of his familiar complaint about the special interests he blames for assorted woes.

The president made a point of saying that his complaints were with professional associations, not individual lawyers or physicians.

But so far, he has not prodded the dentists, although inflation-monitor Barry Bosworth mentioned them along with the legal and medical professions as a target for administration efforts to hold down fees.

One administration aide who, understandably, preferred to remain anonymous, said Carter has found reason for sparing the dentists; his photogenic teeth. Without them, the trademark smile would be a disaster.

"Look at it this way," this fellow said. "Everything he is, he owes to modern American dentistry."

Well, maybe not everything. Teeth aside, Carter seems to be missing some likely targets for lecture in the new phase of his presidency, advertised by his spokesman as being somewhat firmer than has been the case.

While he chewed out lawyers and doctors, more people talk about the prices they've had to pay the plumber.

Ask around and you'll find a dozen stories about the guy who came in to unclog the drain, spent 10 minutes at it and left a bill for $40.

But then, a slap at the plumbers would not be without drawbacks. Carter is still trying to get George Meany to agree with him on something, and the venerable leader of the AFL-CIO used to be a plumber. The AFL-CIO chief said he wants to cooperate on inflation control, but that he is not going to ask unions to voluntarily hold down wage demands when they negotiate contracts.

Perhaps other targets for presidential rebukes would be television repairmen or automobile mechanics. People are always griping about them.

Or politicians. They aren't very popular, as Carter demonstrated when he got his campaign start as a critic of the political establishment in general and the Washington establishment in particular.

Now Carter and his people are the Washington establishment, or at least the most visible part of it.

Cave-Dwelling Tribe Discovered in Volcano

MANILA, Philippines (AP) - A tribe of primitive cave-dwellers subsisting on a rough form of agriculture has been discovered living in the center of an extinct volcano on the island of Palawan, 430 miles southwest of Manila, the government says.

The announcement from the presidential palace called the 30-family tribe "Taotobato," or stone people, and said they were living in caves clustered at different levels along the wall of the crater.

They wear loinclothes made of hammered bark and live on casava, sweet potatoes and other roots which they grow in the fertile valley more than 1,000 feet below the mile-wide rim of the crater. Their water comes from a big river which flows through the valley from a huge cave. President Ferdinand E. Marcos, his wife and daughter, and government officials visited the area on the southern part of the 275-mile-long island Monday by helicopter. Manuel Elizade, presidential assistant for national minorities, Dr. Jesus Peralta, curator of the national museum, and some photographers remained at the scene to conduct more studies, the government said.

The announcement did not say what the tribe's population was, what type of tools it used and how it was discovered. But a government spokesman said it could not be established if the Taotobatos had never been in contact with other people.

In 1971, another tribe of cave dwellers called the Tasadays was discovered in a rain forest in the center of Mindanao Island, in the southern Philippines. There were 25 persons in that tribe, and they made their loinclothes from the leaves of orchids. They did not practice agriculture and lived on wild tubers and the pith of palm. The only tools they had were made of stone.

The Taotobatos were described as sturdy, about five feet tall, with well-proportioned bodies. They apparently grow some kind of tobacco, the palace said, wear multi-colored necklaces that appear to be made of beads and build fires by striking stones together and using dried moss as tinder.

The settlement, surrounded by deep ravines, is accessible only by helicopter. It is located south of a network of about 200 caves where government anthropologists have found pottery, jewelry, primitive tools and other artifacts believed to be thousands of years old.

Dr. Robert Fox, an American archeological consultant to the Philippine government, found a fossilized skull in one of the caves in 1962. Tests on the skull proved it to be 24,000 years old, the palace said.

Health Officials Inspected Boarding Farm Before Fire

ATHENS, Tex. (AP) - State health officials had inspected an East Texas boarding farm only days before a fire swept a dormitory and killed four former mental patients.

Jerry Bryant of the facilities standards division said an inspection was made last week but no final report had been drawn up.

He said the owner, Virgil Putnam, had wanted to make the home a personal care home. "I can't say right now what we will do," Bryant said. "We will contact Mr. Putnam and give him results of our inspection."

Another state official, Bert Hall, said experts on the Life Safety Code were to check for safety this week at the facility, located on a farm at nearby Carroll Springs, a community of about 100 persons.

The fire, its origin still unknown, swept one of four buildings used as dormitories Saturday night and killed Lois Brown, Martha Stone, Irene Davis, all in their 50s, and Victor Louput.

Putnam said Monday there were still about 20 people still at the home. The occupants, most of whom have been released from state mental institutions, are placed at the "halfway house" by relatives.

Hall said inspections were being made at Putnam's facility to determine if it met a newly established code of standards designed to improve such facilities. Hall is enforcement coordinator of those standards, which went into effect Feb. 28.

Hall said during his inspection last week, he found some of the frame buildings in "poor" condition, with only one in good shape and it was the one which burned.

Putnam said he thought the blaze may have been started by someone smoking in bed.

Putnam owns similar facilities in Athens, Eustace and South Dallas.

Putnam said many of the residents had expressed no desire to leave after the fire.

"I can't make them move," Putnam said. "One lady said she would stay in a tent and eat crackers. I just can't forsake them after eight years."

Hall said complaints about poor living conditions had been made against Putnam's facility for about two years.

SCHOOL 'DADDY' HOUSTON, Texas (AP)—The kids often make a slip and call him "Daddy."

John Drury Jr. is one of only a few male kindergarten teachers in the Houston Independent School District.

"I like Mr. Drury because my Thermos bottle was too tight yesterday and he opened it for me," one child said. Another said, "He wears glasses and he's real pretty."

Drury, 29, said he "fell into" the child development field while working toward his bachelor's degree in psychology at the University of Houston. He took a part-time job at a day school to help pay his way, and that convinced him that teaching kids was "the thing I was really meant to do."
