Zaire Massacre Scares Europeans

Angolan Movements Fighting Russians

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—The massacre of whites in Zaire has churned up old fears in white-ruled southern Africa, the century-old dread that racial war will finally rid the continent of European domination.

"The Shaba invasion in Zaire is proof positive that little sand is left in the hourglass in this part of the world," South-West Africa's white leader Martinus T. Steyn told a farm group there.

"The tiger of violence is loose in Africa."

Dire warnings like Steyn's and the headlines in the region's newspapers this past week—"Zaire Horror Orgy Revealed," "Hundreds Face Massacre," "Drunk Boys On Rampage"—have sent shudders of apprehension through many of South Africa's 4.4 million whites.

For some here it strengthened their resolve against easing white control over the 18 million blacks in South Africa and against turning South-West Africa, also called Namibia, over to guerrilla-backed black militants. In Rhodesia, the Zaire bloodbath may bolster the conviction of many whites that Prime Minister Ian Smith's "internal" settlement, with safeguards for whites, is the correct path to black majority rule.

"It will strengthen the determination of Rhodesians of all races to see that the forces of law and order are maintained in a state of disciplined efficiency," said the pro-government Rhodesia Herald newspaper. "Without that presence, any government, new or old, will be easy prey

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Two outgunned African movements are fighting a lonely struggle against Soviet arms and Cuban troops in an attempt to topple the Marxist government of Angola.

U.S. officials have discussed the possibility of sending aid to the two guerrilla forces but President Carter has not yet decided whether to ask Congress to repeal a prohibition against any such action, White House spokesman Jody Powell said Wednesday in Washington.

Together the two guerrilla groups claim the political-tribal support of roughly half the six million people of one of black Africa's potentially richest nations.

They are the loosely allied National Union for the Total Independence of Angola, known by its Portuguese initials as UNITA, the stronger of the two movements; and the National Front for the Liberation of Angola.

They oppose President Agostinho Neto's Popular Movement or the Liberation of Angola which took power in a three-way civil war in 1975 with massive Soviet military support spearheaded by Cuban troops. The war broke out after Angola gained independence from Portugal.

Once the jewel of Portugal's African empire, "revolutionary" Angola today is in economic shambles despite vast wealth in oil, diamonds, iron and other minerals and a once booming coffee crop. There have been recurring but unconfirmed reports that Neto is in poor health with either a heart condition or cancer. He is 55.

UNITA is led by Jonas Savimbi, 44, who enjoys the strong support of his fellow Ovimbundu tribesmen in south-central Angola. The estimated two million Ovimbundu are the largest ethnic group in the tribally torn country, comprising about 33 percent of the population.

The National Front, UNITA's ally of convenience, is the oldest liberation movement in Angola, founded by Holden Roberto in 1954 and then called the Angolan People's Union. It was initially formed to advance the interests of the estimated two million Bakongo people in northern Angola, which remains Roberto's political stronghold.

The Bakongo overlap into neighboring Zaire and the Congo Republic and are descendants of the largest tribal kingdom in pre-colonial Africa.

Neto's Popular Movement draws most of its support from the estimated 1.5 million Mbundu people of north-central Angola stretching from Luanda, the capital, eastward.

The Popular Movement clings to power thanks to the estimated 19,000 Cuban troops and some 6,000 Cuban, East European and Soviet advisers helping his Marxist regime.

Western intelligence sources recently described Neto as "desperate" but unwilling to seek a political solution to what is essentially a tribal war now in its third year.

Western analysis say UNITA has destabilized much of the southern third of the country. There also have been recent reports of heavy fighting in northern Angola.

At one point in the civil war in 1975, U.S. arms supplied by the Central Intelligence Agency were reaching UNITA and the National Front via Zaire, which provided bases for Roberto's movement. Savimbi insists on operating

Fun Breakfast Highlights

Margaret Formby, Chamber of Commerce Women's Division president, received the coveted Bull Chip Award at this morning's Fun Breakfast. The presentation was made by Speedy Nieman, chamber president. Mrs. Formby, who received the award because of her service to the community, helped to form the Animal Action Committee of the women's division last year. Below, Doug Manning, left, and Lynton Allred, right, present a $400 check to Bub Sparks during the breakfast. Sparks had his name drawn from the hopper after two unlucky persons, Irene McKinster and Doyle Vines, missed out on the money because they were not in attendance. (Brand photos)

Council Estimates 400-500 Deaths

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Safety Council estimates 400 to 500 people will die in traffic over the Memorial Day weekend but that the toll could be cut by 75 to 100 if all travelers used safety belts.

Even fewer lives would be lost, the council said Wednesday, if the 55 mph speed limit was observed.

The holiday period covered by the estimate runs from 6 p.m. local time Friday until midnight Monday.

Last year, 432 people were killed during the three-day Memorial Day period. The record for a three-day observance of the holiday was 597 deaths in 1969. A toll of 629 was recorded in 1968, but that was on a four-day weekend.

Approximately 200 persons in the high school cafeteria watched Sparks win a giant-size check for $400 after two other drawees failed to produce a winner. Irene McKinster and Doyle Vines were not present at the breakfast and both lost out on the money.

Mrs. Formby, wife of KPAN Radio owner Clint Formby, is president of the chamber women's division and, because of an obvious dedication to that position, has been one of the busiest Hereford citizens this year. She is partly responsible for the formation of the chamber's Animal Action Committee, having served as its first chairman last year.

The Bull Chip Award—a plaque with a painted bull chip—is presented at each Fun Breakfast to a citizen who is active in community affairs or has brought recognition to Hereford and Deaf Smith County.

Winning $75 and $25 in drawings this morning were Andrew Kershen and Lynn Arnold, respectively.

Other highlights of the breakfast included a bubble-gum blowing contest and a burlesque routine, in which chamber president Speedy Nieman dazzled the crowd with his impromptu erotic dancing.

Hereford Residents Donate 95 Pints

In another record-breaking response to the monthly blood drive here, 102 local residents reported to the Community Center yesterday to give blood. Seven individuals were rejected, but the blood mobile from Coffee Memorial Blood Center returned to Amarillo laden with 95 pints of Hereford's blood.

Joan Bookout, local drive chairman, reported this morning that Hereford had again surpassed records set in the past two months. She expressed "deep gratitude" to those individuals who were responsible for the city's overwhelming support of the blood bank.

Hereford Man Surrenders Police Arrest Two During Tense Ordeals

By The Associated Press

Police in San Marcos and in the Dallas suburb of Irving spent a tense Wednesday talking two armed men into surrendering during similar situations in which the men barricaded themselves behind locked doors for several hours.

Bob Collins, assistant U.S. Attorney for New Mexico, said Norbert Lynn Young, 27, of Hereford, will be returned to Albuquerque to face theft charges involving 72 stolen postal orders. Young held an Irving SWAT team at bay for eight hours after locking himself in a motel room and threatening to kill his ex-wife and two-year-old son.

The New Mexico jail escapee surrendered about 8:30 a.m. after a telephone conversation with his attorney, Charles Fairweather of Amarillo, who had flown to Irving to negotiate with his client.

Irving police said they don't plan to file any charges.

Young escaped from Taos County Jail Dec. 17. He had been arrested Nov. 27 following a high-speed chase by officers who wanted to question him about the Nov. 4 burglary of a post office at McAlister, N.M.

Fairweather said Young, with his ex-wife's consent, took his son from their Amarillo home about six weeks ago "but she didn't expect a five-to-six week deal" and told Young she wanted the boy back.

"He Young said he was afraid to leave his son, but I told him 'He's going to need you all his life, not just now, so let's don't check it in just now,'" said the attorney.

It was the same song, second verse, in San Marcos about seven hours later.

John Koch, 25, kept 15 law enforcement officers at bay for nearly six hours before giving up about 8:50 p.m.

Authorities found eight rifles and three pistols in Koch's house. He was charged with two counts of aggravated assault with a deadly weapon. Bond was denied on one of the charges that involved shooting at police officers.

Koch had to be bound hand and foot when he began screaming and shouting during his arraignment.

Police said Koch apparently became angry at a woman who filed a weapons charge against him and went to her house about 3 p.m. where he fired several shotgun blasts into her pickup and wounded a neighbor's dog.

During a telephone interview with the Austin American-Statesman, Koch denied waving a weapon in the woman's face and said his neighbors were "just jealous" because he is a millionaire. Neighbors identified Koch as the son of a cosmetics heir.

Hays County deputy Kerry Young said Koch left his house four times, firing each time at state troopers, game wardens, sheriff's deputies and Texas Rangers who surrounded the residence. On one occasion, he said, officers returned fire.

He came out a side door and fired 15 rounds from a semi-automatic rifle at two highway patrolmen, said the deputy.

After extensive telephone negotiations with authorities, Koch gave up without further incident.

School Ends For Students

Today is the last day of school for Hereford students, but teachers are to report Saturday for in-service.

Classes were to be dismissed at 2:30 p.m. today following final examinations for high school and junior high students.

Teachers will report for in-service work at 8 a.m., according to a spokesman for the school district.

Students needing to attend summer school won't have much of a vacation, with the first day of classes for senior high students (including freshmen) to be Tuesday, May 30. Registration will be on the same day.

Registration for the migrant summer-school program for elementary students will be June 2, with the first day of classes set for June 5.

High school summer students will pay $30 for the first trimester, $30 for the second and $15 for the third. Out-of-district students will be charged $75 for each trimester.

The three trimesters are scheduled as follows for May 30 - June 14, June 15 - 30 and July 5 - 20.

Courses to be offered include English, World History, American History, Government, Free Enterprise and Health Education.

Fun Breakfast Antics This Morning

Under the direction and prodding of emcee Doug Manning (back to camera in left photo), a group of men formed a chorus line to give a preview of the coming Hereford C of C Follies during the Fun Breakfast held this morning at the high school cafeteria. Manning urges C of C president Speedy Nieman to get more movement while the "chorus line" looks on. Other men "volunteering" were Tommy Bowling, Rick Wood, Bub Sparks, Bartley Dowell, Don Lane, Earl Bookhart and Rocky Lee. A bubblegum-blowing contest was also held and, in the photo at right, Norma Walden was one of the first to produce a bubble. Brand editor Paul Sims was caught in the act of puckering for an attempt, and later pulled the gum from his mustache. Today's breakfast was co-sponsored by Allred Oil Co. The next chamber Fun Breakfast is scheduled for July 27.

Failure to Pay Up Results In Over $1,000 Lawnmower Bill

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - A lawyer who balked at paying a $24.32 repair bill on his lawn mower now must pay $1,074.32 to an Amarillo repairman, the Supreme Court ruled Wednesday.

Here is the story as set out in court records: Lawyer Robert Barfield testified that J. Darrell Brogdon, owner of Profit's Lawn Mower Service, agreed to tune his lawn mower for $14. Brogdon testified that the agreed price was $14.50 plus the cost of parts, and a large poster in the shop showed that was the standard price. In addition, Brogdon said, he wrote "$14.50 plus parts" on the repair order in Barfield's presence.

Bell Could Pass Legal Costs To Customers After Appeal

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Southwestern Bell Telephone wants to pass on to customers the cost of its appeal of a 1976 public utility commission rate order, the company's chief accountant says.

George W. Swenson testified, however, the company is not including in its business costs the $777,000 paid outside lawyers in the Ashley-Gravitt case. Bell is requesting rate changes that would increase its revenue by $214 million per year. The Texas Public Utility Commission's staff has recommended an increase of $98 million.

Lighter Side

NEW YORK (AP) - Mayor Edward Koch's cook is in hot water, and it has nothing to do with the garlic she puts in his pea soup.

TULSA, Okla. (AP) - You can bet the government and the holiday rush if you take the advice of two radio station workers who are advising listeners to mail Christmas cards early - before the end of May.

Rozanne Gold, 24, has been threatened with dismissal because Koch saw her chatting with a reporter about the meringue cookies he likes. "She's paid to cook, not to give interviews," said Koch's press aide, Maureen Connelly, who delivered the threat. "A person is entitled to privacy in his own home."

Reporter Larry White and disc jockey John Lee Hooker of station KELI in Tulsa began a campaign Tuesday to get their listeners to mail their 1978 Christmas cards before a postal rate increase takes effect next month.

The increase will boost the cost of mailing a first-class letter by two cents, to 15 cents. "This will do three things," White said. "People will save money, it will show the post office how many people protest the increase and it just might get the Christmas cards to people on time."

The Ashley-Gravitt case involved a $1.5 million slander judgment for former Bell executive James H. Ashley of San Antonio and the widow of T.O. Gravitt, a top Bell official in Dallas. The Eastland Court of Civil Appeals reversed the judgment, and that decision is being appealed to the Texas Supreme Court.

White said the station has received numerous phone calls of support from people who say they will mail their holiday greetings this week. The idea is apparently catching on elsewhere.

Swenson said Bell viewed legal fees paid in appeals from rate decisions as recurring expenses because the company has appeals going on much of the time.

In Duluth, Minn., Harold Bach, executive vice president of Inter City Oil Co., has suggested that his company mail its Christmas greeting cards before the rate increase takes effect.

John Bell, utility commission general counsel, asked Swenson if it were fair to charge telephone users $41,788 in U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission judgment against the company for alleged sex and race discrimination. "I think it's a legitimate part of our cost of service," Swenson replied.

The club has tried several times to delete the word "young" from the name, but the 270 or so members, many of whom will never see 50 again, keep rejecting the proposals.

The first person to show that sponges were animals was John Ellis, who in 1765 observed the water currents the sponge produced as well as the contractions on its body surface.

"When some of our members first joined, they were young," explained one member. The club was founded in 1900, and its oldest member, is Philip Weiss, 93.

Nelson Guilty in Death of Children

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) - A jury told only about 90 minutes to find Simon Peter Nelson guilty of murdering his six children but split over whether to condemn him to the electric chair.

The Circuit Court jury returned to the courtroom Tuesday after deliberating three hours, deadlocked over whether the 46-year-old Nelson should be third man to be sentenced to the electric chair under a new state law.

Nelson, convicted Monday, showed no emotion when the judge declared a hung jury at the sentencing hearing. Judge John Ghent set a presentencing hearing for Friday, at which time he will announce a sentencing date. Under the state's 1977 capital punishment law, a judge may impose only a prison sentence if a jury does not decide unanimously to impose the death penalty. Public Defender Craig Peterson said Nelson was relieved. "He expected the death penalty but he did not want it," Peterson said. During four days of testimony, the defense tried to show Nelson was temporarily insane when he took a rubber tire mallet and a hunting knife and went from bedroom to bedroom killing his children, who ranged in age from 3 to 12. Only two men have been sentenced to death under the new law. Both are awaiting execution. Peterson said he chose to exercise the option of a jury sentencing because of the likelihood that at least one of the 12 would believe Nelson's crime did not merit the death penalty. Before the jury deadlocked over the death penalty, Peterson said Nelson's punishment for the rest of his life would be knowing he had killed his young children.

ZERO-PLUS

A new service that allows you to dial all Long Distance calls yourself.

Now you can dial all Long Distance calls from Hereford yourself. Of course, you're accustomed to dialing your own station-to-station calls the fast and convenient One-Plus way. But now, you can dial your own collect, person-to-person, credit card and bill-to-third number Long Distance calls with Zero-Plus dialing. Zero-Plus can be used at home or office or from coin telephones. Zero-Plus is fast, easy and convenient.

Zero-Plus Dialing . . . How it works:

Just dial "0" (zero), plus the Area Code if it's different from 806, plus the distant number. For example, suppose you want to call person-to-person to 621-8997 in St. Louis. You will find St. Louis in the Call Guide section of your directory with Area Code 314. So when you hear the dial tone, dial:

"0" (zero) + 314 + 621-8997

When the operator asks, "How may I help you?", explain the type call you've dialed and give the necessary information. (Regular operator-handled rates apply for all Zero-Plus calls.) To make a call within the 806 area, just dial "0" (zero) plus the distant number. You don't need to dial the Area Code.

Canadiens Need Win To Cop Title

BOSTON (AP) - "It's like a tug of war," said Montreal left wing Steve Shutt. "It's getting near the end, now, and everyone's got to dig down a little deeper."
Shutt's Canadiens need only to dig for one more victory over the Boston Bruins. A triumph in Game 6 of the best-of-seven series tonight would bring Montreal its 20th National Hockey League championship. A Boston victory would send the series back to Montreal for a decisive seventh game Saturday night.

But no one is predicting what form the game will take. "All the games have been different," explained Montreal defenseman Larry Robinson, who scored the first goal in Tuesday night's 4-1 Montreal triumph. "The first game was fairly wide open, the second saw more hitting, in the third there was a lot of body contact, and more in the fourth. But in the fifth, nothing really got started until the third period." "That was when the final three fights broke out with 21 seconds remaining, resulting in the last 30 of the 106 penalty minutes assessed by referee Dave Newell."

much protest from the Bruins, who received 62 minutes of punishment. "But there's been enough said about it," said Boston right wing Bobby Schmautz. "There's nothing you can do. The people that paid $18 didn't come to see 'Newell stand there and call penalties, but they beat us 4-1 and now we have to win.'"

In some spare room at Boston Garden, the Stanley Cup will be removed from its protective packaging and made ready for presentation to the Canadiens. It will return to Montreal Friday, either to await the seventh game or to be the central figure in a championship parade.

Boxing Champ Indicted in Murder

"You might never get the chance again," he said Wednesday. "This is my first real chance at it, since last year we went out in four straight. It would be so nice for guys like Jean Ratelle, guys who have been around for a while. And for the rookies, it's a nice way to start off. We'll get it if we deserve it."

There will be no need for inspirational charges from Coach Don Cherry, no rah-rah speeches from captain Wayne Cashman, no worry about the calls referee Andy Van Hellemond might make during the game.

"It's either go out and play and win or get out the golf clubs," said Cashman, who added, "If we win this game, it all comes down to a one-game series for the Stanley Cup."

The advantage for the Bruins is that the game will be played at Boston Garden, where they have contained the powerful Montreal attack and have won all seven playoff games that have been held this season. The Canadiens' advantage is momentum; they have won consecutive titles and want to become the first NHL team since the 1962-64 Toronto Maple Leafs to win three in a row.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) - North American Boxing Federation featherweight boxing champion Mike "Cyclone" Ayala has been indicted on charges of attempted murder in connection with the December 1977 shooting of another boxer. Ayala, 19, a former national Golden Gloves champion, is free on $10,000 bond in connection with the shooting of Gilbert "Machete" Galvan, 26, of San Antonio.

A Bexar County grand jury returned the indictment Wednesday.

Ayala and Galvan, a light-weight boxer, had trained together and boxed on the same card in 1977.

Galvan was shot in the head and back on Christmas night, but survived his wounds. Police said the shooting followed an argument between the two boxers.

Ayala has won the North American Federation featherweight title since being charged in the shooting. He scored a first-round TKO over Ronnie McGarvey of Baltimore, Md. here on March 18 after the Texas Boxing Commission refused to bar him from fighting. No trial date has been set, but Ayala is scheduled to defend his title here June 6 against Eliseo Cosme of Mexico City.

Stiles Resigns At Tech

LUBBOCK (AP) - Texas Tech assistant football coach Jess Stiles resigned Tuesday, effective June 1, Athletic Director JT King announced.

Stiles, who has been at Tech since 1969, will become a sales representative of a sporting goods manufacturer.

"Jess Stiles has been a very important part of the Texas Tech program and we're going to miss him," King said.

Stiles joined the Texas Tech staff in February 1969 as an assistant coach to King. He led the Red Raiders' junior varsity teams to some of their most successful seasons, including unbeaten season in four of his last five years as JV coach. He became a full-time varsity assistant in January 1975.

Staubach Denies Lifestyle Myths

NEW YORK (AP) - "He Runs, Passes, and Walks on Water."

Roger Staubach, quarterback of the Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys, acknowledged that he shivered when he saw that headline on the cover of a sports magazine.

"I don't know why they should try to make me out as being some sort of a kook just because I don't fit a certain mold," he added in an informal yet introspective dialogue this week after receiving a trophy as Pro Quarterback of the Year.

"I see no point in categorizing us on the basis of our life styles. We quarterbacks are all different yet we have much in common. Competitive instincts, for instance, and dedication - you don't get to be a quarterback in the National Football League without working hard."

To Staubach, there are no such animals as strict Mr. Cleans or inveterate hell-raisers although he is realistic enough to admit that football heroes, as other sports stars, are more than mere competitors. Because of wide television exposure and outlandish salaries, they also are show business personages thrust into the public domain.

Joe Namath, for instance, becomes Broadway Joe, the swinger who walks barefoot on llama rugs and makes the Hollywood scene with a sexy doll on each arm, while Oakland's Ken Stabler is the "good ol' boy" who spends idle hours swigging and swinging in the seamy neighborhood honky-tonks.

"I don't resent that at all,"

Staubach said. "I think quite a bit of what we read and hear of these off-the-field activities are greatly exaggerated. They make good stories."

Staubach said: "I just don't believe you can be a full person until you've given yourself over to Christ. I know that I have reasoning power, and that reason just naturally tells you that there is something higher than all this. ...so I try to live the kind of life that will get me there."

The former Heisman Trophy winner from the U.S. Naval Academy said he felt that his comments were treated with cynicism and ridicule and he was given the image of being a fanatic.

"I was compared with Charlie Hagers of the 'Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman' show," Staubach said. "I am not ashamed of my religion. I am not ashamed to expound on it. But I don't wear it on my sleeve. I can't put up a false front. I don't consider myself something special."

Staubach added that, while he understands there is no way that the modern athlete can cloak his private life, he feels that life styles and paychecks should not overshadow performances.

"In a way, we all are in show business," he conceded. "We are human beings. We all have tremendous egos. We like to be patted on the back and we enjoy public attention."

"But we have to be realistic. They cheer us only until we throw that intercepted pass and blow the ball game."

Oakland Falls from Top Of AL's West

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN, AP Sports Writer
Another funny thing happened to the Oakland A's Wednesday night....they fell out of first place in the American League West.

Maybe Bobby Winkles knew something when he quit as manager of the amazing first-place A's Tuesday, because they continued a slide that has seen them lose 12 of 17 games, the latest a 7-1 decision to the Milwaukee Brewers. Coupled with California's 4-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox, it pushed the Angels into first place, five percentage points ahead of the A's, who had been on top since April 25. The Cleveland game at New York was rained out. Chris Knapp hurled a four-hitter and Don Baylor and Bobby Grich homered to lead the Angels over the White Sox on the field and over the A's in the standings.

The A's lost for the 12th time in their last 17 games when Milwaukee's Mike Caldwell pitched a six-hitter and Robin Yount drove in three runs for the Brewers.

Caldwell gave up a double to Mitchell Page in the first inning and didn't allow another hit until the sixth. He lost his shutout bid when Page homered in the ninth.

"We have to juggle and hope we're lucky," said Jack McKeon, who took over when Winkles quit. "We've seen two pretty good pitchers the last two nights Caldwell and Jerry Augustine. Left-handers are going to give us trouble." "There isn't any pressure on us," said Page. "We're not supposed to be a first-place club. We just hope we finish higher than we did last year."

Royals 6, Mariners 5
The Royals pulled it out with two runs in the ninth on Tom Poquette's bases-loaded grounder and Hal McKae's sacrifice fly. Kansas City erased a 4-0 deficit in the fifth on Amos Otis' two-run homer and Clint Hurdle's two-run double, but the Mariners took a 5-4 lead in the bottom of the fifth on Juan Bernhardt's homer.

Rangers 3, Twins 2
Al Oliver, who singled home the first run in the opening inning, singled home pinch runner Bobby Thompson in the 11th as Texas ended Minnesota relief ace Mike Marshall's string of successes. In his previous five appearances since joining the Twins last week, Marshall had earned a win and four saves.

Pinch hitter Craig Kusick tied the game for the Twins in the bottom of the ninth with a two-out home run off Paul Lindblad.

Red Sox 8, Blue Jays 2

Gold Sox Top Arkansas 6-4

By The Associated Press
Tight pitching highlighted three of the four Texas League games Wednesday night, including a 2-0 shutout by Jackson's Larry Prewitt over Midland.

Prewitt evened his record at 2-2 and moved his club into second place in the eastern division, allowing the Cubs only four hits. His teammates jumped on loser Ron Davison, 3-3, in the first inning when Kelvin Chapman singled. Chapman swiped second and scored on Mookie Wilson's double.

Midland got an insurance run in the eighth when Bobby Bryant's grounder scored Bud Cardwell from third.

In San Antonio, Mike Tennant was busy taming the Shreveport Captains, 4-1, fanned nine and walked none en route to a seven-hit, 3-1 victory. Reliever Randy Brandt took the loss.

Felix Rodriguez drove in the Captains' only run in the fourth with a single. Then, Tennant went back to work and stuck out the next 12 batters. San Antonio's five hits and three runs all came in the sixth inning.

El Paso's Dave Steck, 5-4,

Fisk hit two-run homers and Mike Torrez tossed a seven-hitter for his sixth victory as the Red Sox moved into first place in the AL East, one game ahead of Detroit and New York. Dwight Evans also drove in two runs with an eight-inning single.

Tigers 3-0, Orioles 2-1
Andres Mora's first home run since being recalled from the minor leagues May 15 and Jim Palmer's six-hit pitching highlighted Baltimore's victory in the nightcap. The Tigers, who had lost 11 straight games in Baltimore since July 31, 1976, won the opener on a ninth-inning single by Aurelio Rodriguez.

claimed a 5-1 victory over Tulsa with some help from Steve Whitehead, who hit a two-run blast in the second inning. The victory snapped El Paso's four-game losing streak.

Bob Clark ended any rally hopes the Drillers might have entertained with his own two-run homer in the sixth.

Don Kainer, a 3-3, took the loss and Tulsa dropped to third place in the east.

An eighth-inning, six-run blitz by Amarillo clinched a close 6-4 decision over Arkansas.

Jim Beswick's bases-loaded triple sparked the fireworks after Arkansas starter John Fulgham surrendered four consecutive walks and had allowed one run. Before the eighth, Fulgham has not walked a man. He was relieved in the eighth by John Littlefield, 3-4, who took the loss.

The Travelers scored on two errors, a balk by Sox pitcher Gary Pickert, 2-6, and a single by Fred Tisdale.

Ann Landers Therapy Lifesavers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Thanks for your advice to "Still Reeling." It helped me feel better.

Please emphasize again that it is not always the sick person who winds up at the doctor's office. I was married for years to a man who was emotionally unstable. He refused to seek help because he thought I was nuts and he was perfect. I did finally go to a mental health clinic because I was determined to keep our marriage together and I knew I couldn't do it alone.

Therapy was a lifesaver. I learned to cope with the conceited jackass and not let his craziness get to me.

Up until the day he died he was a complete egotist -- never able to admit there was a thing wrong with him. He referred to me often as his "screw wife" and took special delight in pointing out to family and friend that I was going to a shrink. This, he felt, was proof that I was off my rocker and he was a real martyr to live with a crazy woman.

He finally died of a stroke (in the middle of an argument with his brother) and I am -- Well And Happy.

DEAR WELL AND HAPPY: When, oh, when will people get over the idea that anyone who seeks professional help is crazy! Nothing could be further from the truth. The real crazies are the ones who won't admit there's a problem. (Of course, everyone knows it but them.)

I hope the courageous and candid conduct of the former First Lady Betty Ford, will serve as an example. Her admission that she had grown dependent on both drugs and booze has made it easier for others to come forward and get the help they need. Good luck, Betty, dear. We are all pulling for you.

DEAR ANN: This letter is for "Paging Sherlock Holmes." I married a man I had known only a short while. It was truly "love at first sight." Ten days after we were married he beat me up -- supposedly because he was in pain from his war injuries.

Three weeks later he beat me up again. That was the last time I saw him. I did some digging around and learned he was never in the service nor was he a disabled veteran.

The worst nearly floored me. The man has at least three other wives. To complicate matters, one lawyer tells me I am legally married to the rat and I must get a divorce. Another lawyer says our marriage is null and void. So where do I go from here? -- "Mrs. Sherlock Holmes."

DEAR MRS. HOLMES: Go to another lawyer who specializes in divorce. (Check the local Bar Association). Until your legal status is established you can do nothing. I urge you to get this mess straightened out at once. If "the rat" is still your husband you may be in more trouble than you know. If he isn't you should know that, too.

'Pioneer of Year' To Be Recognized

KPAN Radio will again pay tribute to a "Pioneer of the Year" Saturday during the Mid-Plains Pioneer Day reunion in the Bull Barn.

Recognition of the "Pioneer of the Year" will be made during the noon luncheon, when awards will also be given to the oldest man and woman present and to the man and woman traveling the farthest distance. The Pioneer Association will provide the meat, bread and beverage for Saturday's luncheon but guests are invited to bring side dishes and dessert.

Pioneer Day activities will commence at 9:30 Saturday morning with registration of guests, again under the direction of Pioneer Study Club. Each person attending will receive a ribbon in citation of the length of residency in Deaf Smith County.

The annual business meeting of the Pioneer Association is scheduled to come to order at 10:30 a.m. Saturday with Marlin Gilliland, chairman of the nominating committee, expected to recommend a slate of officer candidates. Current officers of the Association are B.E. Roberson, president, Bill Brady, vice president, and Mary Fraser, secretary.

In conjunction with Pioneer Day, several class reunions are being held and the following facilities will open their doors Saturday to visitors: the County Historical Museum, the E.B. Black house and King's Manor Methodist Home.

Marigolds Add Color During Hot Weather

COLLEGE STATION - Are you looking for something to plant in a sunny pot that will provide fast color from summer to fall with little care? Then try marigolds, suggests Everett Janne with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

By selecting the right type of seed, you can have tall, medium or petite plants with various size flowers from creamy white to yellow to deep orange. Some marigolds are even multi-colored.

"Marigolds are excellent for massing, as borders, or as container plants," says Janne, a landscape horticulturist. "A few rows placed in the cut flower garden will yield cut flowers galore."

To get a head start you can plant seed indoors before danger of frost is past or you can sow them directly in the garden about the same time you sow Bermudagrass. Nothing is gained by planting marigolds outdoors before the soil warms up, advises the horticulturist.

"Marigolds develop rapidly. The flower bud on the center stalk opens first, followed by buds on the side shoots. The younger side shoots reach above the older flowers, so there is always a mass of new flowers opening as a canopy over the plants," explains Janne.

Since marigolds are naturally bushy and free flowering, they never need pinching. They are easily transplanted from flats, requiring only a good watering to get them established.

"About the only care marigolds need is a well-drained soil, frequent irrigation, and a light application of fertilizer about every four weeks," says Janne. "The major pest problem is spider mite damage. Spider mites seem to thrive on marigolds. An occasional hosing with a fine stream of water will aid in keeping them under control. If the population builds up, use a good miticide or a systemic insecticide."

Pageant Film To Be Shown This Evening

A 35-minute color film of the 1978 Miss Hereford and Miss Teen Pageant will be shown at 7:30 p.m. today in the Community Center for all interested persons, free of charge.

The Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the showing, according to Bob Duckworth, executive vice president of the C of C. The film is to be shown in the lounge area of the Community Center.

Everyone is invited to attend. "It will be a good chance for the people who missed the pageant to see the festivities and a chance for those who were at the pageant to review the excitement and color of the event," said Wynelle Robinson, co-director of the pageant.

The film complete with live sound, will highlight pageant preliminaries and actual competition on stage. Climax of the film presentation will be the moment when Stephanie Stringer was crowned Miss Hereford 1978 and Tammie Stringer proclaimed as Miss Teen Hereford.

Removing Barriers Makes Home Safer

COLLEGE STATION - Build safety into the home by eliminating structural barriers, says Pat Seaman, housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Concentrate on ways to minimize danger of falls from one level to another, she advises.

To reduce this danger, eliminate outside steps wherever possible--or plan alternate entrances without steps.

For example, choose a level lot or place the house so its entrance is level.

A sloping walk--with only a one-inch rise per foot of length--also might replace outside steps entirely, the specialist suggests.

Indoors, provide handrails for safety beside steps. Risers should measure seven inches or less in height.

Split-level home plans may prove impractical for some families. One or two steps in unexpected places invite trouble, Ms. Seaman warns.

As a precautionary measure, install firmly-anchored grab-bars above the bathtub, in the shower and beside the toilet. Also avoid crowding bathroom fixtures into a small area.

Wide doorways are another "must"--with a recommended width of at least 32 inches and preferably 36 inches.

Also, select for wide halls, ample closets, shelves no higher than 72 inches, and light switches located conveniently at both the top and bottom of stairs.

Wide closet openings--with either sliding or double-fold doors--eliminate the hazard of grouping for articles. In such closets, clothing is easily seen or reached, the specialist adds.

Anderson Named ARC Volunteer Of Month

Winnie Anderson has been named Red Cross Volunteer for the month of May. She is serving as chairman of the nursing program and is a member of the Board of Directors. Nursing chairman is responsible for health and nursing classes, public health projects and disaster nursing.

Mrs. Anderson completed her Registered Nurses training in Wichita Falls in 1945. After moving to Hereford in 1946, she worked in surgery at Deaf Smith County Hospital. The entire Anderson family was involved with helping during the tornado which struck in April 1977. Winnie was nursing chairman at the time of the tornado and worked several weeks conducting home and hospital visits helping injured victims.

Some of the projects being conducted in the nursing program are the blood pressure clinic, disaster planning and nursing enrollment. Mrs. Anderson comments that she has had "fantastic interest" in nursing enrollment. She hopes the public will become more aware of the help Red Cross can offer and of the need for Red Cross nurses. She will soon receive her Red Cross Nurses' Badge and a certificate of appreciation.

Breakfast Bars Recalled

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Food and Drug Administration announced the recall Wednesday of 14 million Carnation Breakfast Bars and Slender Diet Meal Bars that may contain "varying lengths of wire."

The breakfast bars and Slender Diet Meal Bars in assorted flavors were distributed throughout the United States, England, Germany, Bermuda and overseas U.S. military installations, the agency said. The FDA listed the recall as "Class III," which it defines as "a situation in which the use of or exposure to a violative product is not likely to cause adverse health consequences."

Los Angeles, Calif., is conducting the recall of the diet bars made for it by R.A. Johnston Co. of Milwaukee, Wis.

The agency identified the recalled products as: Carnation Slender Diet Meal Bars for Weight Control in chocolate, vanilla and cinnamon flavors with the code numbers KB821 through KB828 and KC801 through KC804; and Carnation Breakfast Bars in chocolate-crunch, chocolate chip, peanut butter and granola flavors coded KC806 through KC810 and KC813 and KC814.

The FDA said the firm reported that 9.8 million diet meal bars and 4.3 million breakfast bars were manufactured.

The Roman emperors Nero and Augustus used lotteries with slaves, houses and ships as prizes, although the chances were given out free of charge.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

In church the other Sunday, I watched a phenomenon take place that has been going on since the beginning of time but has probably set Motherhood back a hundred years.

I call it the nine-year-old mother syndrome. It occurs when there are several children in the family and the mother relinquishes the responsibility for the younger children to an older child.

Actually, it's a thankless job. No pay. No respect. No training. No future. And no Mother's Day cards.

Includes taking little brother (or sister) to the bathroom when they don't want to go. Washing their faces when they don't want them washed. Wiping their noses when they don't want them wiped. Restraining them from following their "real" mother when they don't want to be restrained.

With no guidelines or experiences of their own to follow, these Midget Mothers discipline their younger brothers and sisters as they think they see their mother do it.

The incident in church was quite revealing. First, the child grabbed the hymnal and began to lick the pages. Midget Mother slammed the book shut on her fingers.

The child ran down the aisle toward the altar.

Midget Mother added two inches to her right arm by dragging her all the way back to her seat.

The child stood on the seat and hummed the Mouseketeer theme.

Midget Mother clapped a hand over her mouth so she could not breathe.

The child emptied her mother's purse on the seat and began to sift through credit cards and letters.

Midget Mother pinched her until a white, then red welt appeared. To alleviate the screaming, she then hoisted the child on her hip and took her to the vestibule.

Upon her return, the child slapped and blew bubbles two inches from Midget Mother's face. Pushed to the brink of her patience, Midget Mother socked her down on her lap and locked her arms about her like a straitjacket.

At this point, the mother put down her prayer book, gave a piercing look at Midget Mother and pulled the small child on her own lap lovingly.

I wondered if Midget Mother would ever have children of her own. Or get married for that matter. Or even date! Or shake hands. Or go to the park? Or have a puppy?

Lifestyle Changes Can Outdate Will

COLLEGE STATION - Many changes in lifestyle can cause a will to become outdated, cautions Dr. Carolyn McKinney, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

These changes in lifestyle might include:

- moving from one state to another.
- marriage, remarriage or divorce.
- birth or adoption of a child.
- death of a major beneficiary.
- retirement.
- changing ones' mind about a beneficiary or an executor, trustee or guardian.
- major change in investments to require reappointment of their distribution. --or, substantial increase in estimated estate value necessitating consideration of different tax-saving strategies.

Should any of the preceding factors apply, it would be wise to consult an attorney about the need for a will up-date, Dr. McKinney suggests.

'Mr. Yuk' New Warning

JACKSON, Tenn. (AP) - Five-year-old Harold Mays walked to the front of his kindergarten class, stared briefly at a wall poster and then turned on his 20 classmates with his tongue stuck out and the most awful expression he could create on his face.

Teacher Joyce Barefoot nodded her approval and Harold's classmates shrieked in appreciation. Harold was trying to duplicate the "no-no" frown of "Mr. Yuk," seen on the poster.

"Mr. Yuk," is a new symbol designed to warn children of poisonous substances.

Joyce Coleman of the Mid-South Poison Center in Memphis said "Mr. Yuk" is the result of research in Pittsburgh which indicated the old skull-and-crossbones symbol might lure children who associate it with pirates and adventure.

Let us clean, glaze and store your fur.

During the summer months your fur probably hangs in the closet. Hangs there gathering dust, attracting moths and even wilting under the heat. It deserves better care than that!

Let us store your beautiful stole or wrap this summer in our humidity-controlled vault. This method of cold storage is insured and guaranteed to extend the life of furs and other fine clothing.

Before storing your fur, we'll clean and glaze it, using a very special drycleaning fluid from Dupont called VALCLENE. It's the one drycleaning fluid you can trust with just about any fashionable fabric or material...including suedes, leathers, fur trims, synthetics, knits, pigment prints and many vinyls.

Our boxed storage is also great for keepsake wedding gowns and any other fine clothing.

Lest we forget ... Wallace

Washington (NEA) - It is customary, in eulogies or valedictory remarks, to pretty up the record. It is customary, but it is not always wise. Now that George C. Wallace has apparently decided to withdraw from the political arena, the temptation is strong to forgive and forget.

ham church bombing. Wallace deplored the incident but hinted Negro militants were somehow responsible. In that same month, when the school board of Macon County voted to integrate the high school in Tuskegee, Ala. in compliance with a federal court order, Wallace sent state troopers with orders to close the school instead.

Economic Advisors Set Aside Cotton Dust Rule

WASHINGTON (AP) - Despite a court deadline only a week away, President Carter's economic advisers have returned to the back burner a long-delayed rule aimed at protecting 800,000 cotton workers from disease linked to cotton dust.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration was prepared to publish new cotton dust standards May 31, in accordance with its promise to the U.S. District Court in Washington. That deadline was the latest in a long series of target dates negotiated in a lawsuit filed by union workers demanding government action.

Last week, however, the White House Council on Wage and Price Stability claimed that the latest OSHA plan would cost industry $625 million in start-up expenses and about $200 million per year after that. The council went on to suggest that revisions were possible to reduce the inflationary impact "without sacrificing the health benefits."

White House economists followed up Tuesday on that report by ordering OSHA to delay publication of the rule until it can be thoroughly examined by the Regulatory Analysis Review Group, an interagency panel recently created by the president to keep rein on the economic costs of regulation.

Those participating in the decision to delay the issue once more included Charles L. Schultze, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, and Robert S. Strauss, recently named to head the president's anti-inflation effort.

Schultze, in a preliminary memo to the review group on May 2, said "It is important to ensure that any new regulations do not impose unnecessary or uneconomic costs on American industry."

Medical studies have shown that a significant number of workers exposed to cotton dust eventually contract byssinosis, a lung disease that can lead to disability and even death.

The Council on Wage and Price Stability said the new OSHA rules, requiring new equipment and other steps, could prevent 284 byssinosis cases a year, thus costing, in effect, $440,000 per case.

The council questioned whether simpler steps, such as greater emphasis on masks for workers and periodic checkups for byssinosis, wouldn't be just as effective as much lesser cost.

Both OSHA's head, Dr. Eula Bingham, and her immediate boss, Labor Secretary Ray Marshall, declined to comment on the White House order for a delay while the regulation is reviewed further. One official, who asked not to be identified, commented "The lid is on. The thing is sitting over there at the review group and there's nothing we can do about it."

Arguments over cotton dust standards date back many years, including the Nixon administration's onetime refusal to touch the issue because it was so controversial. Court pressure brought by labor unions eventually led to public hearings and finally formulation of the proposed standard by OSHA.

Desire for Greater Benefits Helps Fuel American Inflation

NEW YORK (AP) - Inflation isn't just too much money chasing too few goods. It may also be generated by the changing pressures, evolving attitudes and varying values of society.

Such as the demand for a cleaner environment, the quest for better health, the desire for more comfortable retirement, the incidence of crime, the toleration of waste, the growth of government.

These added billion, unless offset by productivity gains, add inevitably to prices, although many American legislators included, sometimes fail to see the association.

Edward Dennison, a Brookings Institution economist, estimates the cost of environmental and worker health and safety regulations, combined with a rising crime rate, reached $36 billion last year.

There is no mystery about the benefits, since they are so obvious: more concern for and sometimes better care of worker health, and markedly cleaner air and water.

But economists are often mystified that the association between costs and prices isn't more readily understood. Costs are prices, they say, or at least the former are passed on as the latter.

Well, many costs anyway. Expenditures that lead to greater productivity are partially absorbed before they reach the consumer. Unfortunately, that is not often true of environmental costs.

Nor of certain other regulatory costs, particularly those that add to paperwork burdens. The Commission on Federal Paperwork reports that 5 million small businesses spend $15 to $20 billion a year on paperwork.

The average of $3,000 per business doesn't tell the full story either, because the cost of time borrowed from duties that otherwise would add to the financial health of the business can hardly be calculated.

What can be calculated is that small businesses that do not pass on the costs as higher prices cannot survive - and that businesses which seek to absorb the higher costs might not survive either.

Today In History

The spicebush is a North American deciduous shrub of the laurel family which grows from four to 20 feet high. Its twigs are smooth and aromatic and it produces bright yellow flowers.

Bribe Messages Decoded

WASHINGTON (AP) - U.S. intelligence officials intercepted and decoded South Korean diplomatic messages suggesting that 10 present members of Congress had accepted cash from Seoul's ambassador, a published report said Wednesday.

Death Penalty Conviction Upheld

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The death penalty murder conviction of Ronald Curtis Chambers of Dallas was upheld Wednesday by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Chambers was convicted in the April 11, 1975, death of Mike McMahan, a college student whose body was discovered along the Trinity River bed.

Trial testimony indicated McMahan and his date, Deia Sutton, were leaving a Dallas nightclub when four men forced their way into McMahan's car. The pair was driven to the Trinity River, south of downtown Dallas, and forced down the levee.

The information, gathered in electronic spying in the early 1970s by the National Security Agency, has been turned over to Leon Jaworski, special counsel of the House ethics committee, the Cleveland Plain Dealer said in a copyright story quoting intelligence sources.

The intercepted material is the primary reason behind Jaworski's attempt to get the South Korean government to return the former ambassador to Washington to testify about the alleged payoffs on Capitol Hill, the newspaper said.

The article did not say if the NSA had supplied Jaworski with the information or whether he obtained the decoded material by other means.

The NSA has routinely intercepted military and diplomatic radio transmissions of both friendly and unfriendly nations since World War II. Each branch of the U.S. armed services has radio intercept bases throughout the world that monitor coded transmissions for the agency.

The Cleveland newspaper said Jaworski told it he has not even told members of the ethics committee where he got the information that 10 members of Congress took cash payments from the South Koreans.

Capitol Hill sources said earlier this week that evidence of the alleged payoffs was circumstantial.

Five shots were fired, hitting both McMahan and the woman. The four assailants started to leave the area when they heard McMahan shout to his companion. The men returned, beat McMahan with a shotgun and choked the woman.

McMahan died of a shot in the head, but the woman climbed up the levee to the nearby LeBaron Hotel and notified police. She later testified at Chambers' trial.

The court rejected Chambers' contention that the last juror chosen at the trial should have been excused. The juror said her husband did business with Miss Sutton's family.

The appeals court also said the death penalty was warranted because Chambers would constitute a "continuing threat to society."

Judge Truman Roberts, in a dissenting opinion, said failure to excuse the last juror was a "reversible error," and Chambers should be retried.

The Seoul government so far has declined to return the former ambassador, Kim Dong Jo.
