

MORE MARINES PUT ON GUARD DUTY AT SHANGHAI

Chinese Cling To Main Lines In Face Of Incessant Jap Attacks; River Blockade Halts Ships

SHANGHAI, Sept. 9 (AP)—Three shells crashed directly in front of the American consulate-general this afternoon, seriously injuring three Chinese civilians and one British Sikh policeman.

The "pom-pom" shells were fired from Chinese guns just north of the International Settlement border, apparently at four low-flying Japanese bombers.

Just previously one hundred additional American marines had been landed from Admiral Harry Yarnell's yacht Isabel after a hurried trip from Tsingtao. They swelled the United States land forces to 1,300 marines.

The marines were moved into place immediately behind the fortifications lining the northern border of the International Settlement, where the American forces guard the most hazardous section of the boundary.

River Blockade
Chinese troops cling tenaciously to their main lines on all fronts in the face of incessant and sustained attacks from the combined Japanese army, air force and navy.

Chinese struck a new blow at the Japanese navy today by blockading the upper reaches of the Yangtze river with a barrier just below Silver Island, some 30 miles east of Nanking.

The barricade of obsolete steamers and Chinese junk boats effectively blocked the Japanese fleet from spreading its activities far up river from Shanghai. It meant that any considerable advance of the Japanese would place their land forces beyond the protecting range of their warships' guns.

The barrier also bottled up the United States fleet of river gunboats on the Yangtze and made more difficult the evacuation of 1,200 war-battered refugees at Hankow, 550 miles up the Yangtze from Shanghai, as well as other Americans in various parts of the valley.

Nearly 500 American officers and sailors are aboard the six-gun boat moored up the river. They have food supplies for six months, however, and Admiral Yarnell felt no concern for their safety.

RAID ON AMOY
AMOI, China, Sept. 9 (AP)—American residents of this South China port of Fukien province were forced to scurry underground today into bombproof dugouts for protection against a shattering two-hour raid of Japanese warplanes and warships.

American lives were gravely endangered and the United States warship Asheville was caught in the bombardment. Several bombs fell only a short distance from the Asheville and forced her officers and crew to hurry below decks for refuge from the hail of shrapnel.

The American colony had previously prepared bombproof shelters against such a Japanese attack on this populous city. At the first warnings of the raid they huddled in, safe against the two-hour raid.

CONSULATE CLOSED
NANKING, Sept. 9 (AP)—United States Ambassador Nelson Johnson today ordered the American consulate at Swatow closed and all Americans evacuated.

His action was taken because of the increasing danger from Japanese bombardment of the important South China port.

C-C Directors To Convene Friday
Directors of the chamber of commerce were reminded Thursday by J. H. Greene, manager of the directors meeting at 7 a. m. in the Sectors ballroom.

The meeting is being advertised as one of the most important of the year since it is planned to formulate a definite program of work for the ensuing year.

Suggestions have been invited from the public on likely activities. These proposed objectives will be considered by the directors on adopting a schedule for the year.

TEXAS DESPERADOES SOUGHT IN SHOOTING
GULFPORT, Miss., Sept. 9 (AP)—Two of three men sought as a result of the shooting and killing of Patrolman J. O. Wolff were believed today to be Goldie Hairston and another Texas desperado.

Both were reported wanted for Texas bank holdups. Hairston escaped from a Texas jail last May. Officers here said they believed Hairston fired the bullets which felled Wolff as Wolff and another officer sought to question him Tuesday about an automobile later found to have been stolen.

The man believed to be Hairston and two other men eluded peace officers and posess after several gun fights.

Waterway Project Condemned And Praised—

New Arguments On Trinity Canalization

WICHITA FALLS, Sept. 9 (AP)—Texas products floating down the Trinity river in boats to the sea, an 80-year-old dream of more than 400 miles of navigable inland waterway, drew both condemnation and praise here today in the heat of periodic arguments before army engineers.

Opposing interests sought to show Lieut. Col. Frank S. Beeson of Galveston, district army engineer, that the Trinity River Canal association's plan to spend $85,000,000 in developing the river was impractical and "excessively expensive."

C. B. Bee, Oklahoma state corporation commission counsel, and H. G. Bentley, traffic manager of the Oklahoma City chamber of commerce, joined D. B. Foy, manager of the Wichita Falls chamber, and representatives of other West Texas cities, to argue against the proposal.

Talk Of Third Term Not New To Capital

Speculation On FD's Plans A Repetition Of Politics

(Editor's Note: There is talk in Washington on the subject of a third term for President Roosevelt. The chief of the Washington Associated Press bureau tells of some phases of this talk.)

By MILO THOMPSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP)—Third term talk is now interesting Washington politicians, commentators and students of government who think it extraordinary this talk should appear during the first year of a president's second term.

Some explain this "because no president heretofore has had so overwhelming a representation of his party in congress, so great a concentration of power in his hands, so many innovations in governmental procedure, and so much popular support on a personal rather than party basis.

They infer it is high time to consider what shall happen to this inheritance of power and prestige. But there are others who assert all this is false reasoning.

A Natural Thing
In the first place, say these people, the third term talk is not appearing prematurely but that it is natural, once a president is inaugurated for a second term, for speculation to begin promptly concerning his future political plans.

History seems to bear them out. Grant was not through with his first term when such talk led to the adoption of a democratic platform plank favoring, not merely a two-term limit, but a one-term limit.

McKinley, who had scarcely begun his second term before his assassination, had already had occasion to still wagging tongues by saying flatly he would not be a candidate for a third term.

Theodore Roosevelt, who finished out the McKinley second term, met the issue immediately after his first election to the presidency, by saying:

"Under no circumstances will I be a candidate for or accept another nomination."

And Coolidge
Calvin Coolidge's "second" term was about half gone before he considered the third term talk sufficiently demanding to put out that "I do not choose to run" statement.

The more practical politicians hereabouts are not amazed at the eagerness of third term talk. They say they expect persons interested in launching candidacies to start the talk early. They add, too, that persons opposed to a president twice elected lose no time moving obstacles into the path of his third election.

At the same time, being practical

Court Hears Damage Suit

Grand Jury At Work, Due To Report By Weekend

First contested civil suit of the current term of 70th district court came to trial Thursday morning as the court called its first docket trial.

Jury was selected in the case of O. H. McAllister versus New Amsterdam Casualty company, suit for damages in accordance with contract. McAllister, Big Spring truck contractor, was asking for damages from the casualty company, which held his policy, in connection with the smashing of one of his trucks by another car last year.

The grand jury, in session since Wednesday morning, continued its deliberations at Thursday noon, indicating that it was well into its heavy docket.

The jurors may continue their investigations Saturday, if it appears that the long list of cases may be cleared reasonably early on that day. However, there is a possibility that the jury may report Friday afternoon and resume its deliberations next week.

"The intangible assets tax is nothing but a property tax and pipelines and utilities are not paying as much as ordinary business corporations."

"It looks as if utilities and pipelines have taken over the government. I am going to find out at the next session if this is so."

"One possible way to make the pipelines pay more would be to levy a nice little income tax on them. Some states have corporation income taxes."

Under terms of the new law, she said, it is necessary for applicants seeking such aid to file applications by Oct. 1. Because this is much earlier than has been customary, she is making a tour of the district advising constituents to make applications as soon as possible.

She plans to be in Stanton Friday morning and in Barstow in the afternoon.

Miss Mann will go to her headquarters in Alpine for the weekend.

MORE DONORS FOR BIG BEND PARK

Stripling said that approximately 30 people here had given their dollars to the move. He said that other contributions could be left with him.

Both the British and French also insisted that the conference in Switzerland tomorrow would achieve definite results—despite refusal of fascist powers to take part.

Even as the fascist powers refused to parley, the French navy ministry ordered another destroyer division to be ready to rush to the Mediterranean. The order told commanders to be ready to sail on a moment's notice to reinforce the fleet already on patrol against submarine "piracy."

The Anglo-German rejection was a blow to British and French hopes for a peaceful solution of the crisis which grew out of the Spanish civil war.

It was a sharp Soviet Russia. Moscow had accused Italy of torpedoing two soviet freighters in the eastern Mediterranean. The charge threatened a diplomatic breach between Russia and Italy.

But, regardless of this, British officials declared:

"We want action and we mean to get it."

Both British and French said the Mediterranean piracy question was removed from the hands of the Spanish civil war non-intervention committee just to get this action.

Germany and Italy, in their notes today, asked that the matter be referred to this non-intervention committee.

Such a solution was described as "completely unacceptable" to France and Britain.

With Italy and Germany absent from the Swiss conference, there was a suggestion the British might scrap a plan of "restricted zones" for submarines in the Mediterranean.

British naval experts had devised a scheme whereby useless vessels found outside these zones would have been subject to attack by neutral warships.

Patrol System
The plan probably will be scuttled, it was said, because Britain would not want to sink Italian submarines found outside zones which Italy herself had not helped define.

As an alternative, a patrol and convoy system has been suggested. Yugoslavia accepted an invitation to attend tomorrow's parley bringing the total of acceptance to nine.

Because of refusal of Italy and Germany to take part in the parley, it was expected the British might be shifted from Nyon, Switzerland, to Geneva.

Although Britain was determined to end the piracy, which she had been a principal victim, her delegates were understood to have been instructed to do nothing at tomorrow's gathering to divide Mediterranean countries into fascist and anti-fascist blocs.

ROME, Sept. 9 (AP)—Fascist Italy turned back an invitation to confer with 11 other powers on ways to stop Mediterranean piracy today by suggesting to England and France that the question be placed in the hands of the European non-intervention committee.

READING AND WRITING

By JOHN SELBY

THE LIFE OF PAUL GAUGUIN, by Robert Burnett, (Oxford, 1936). Paul Gauguin lived through, approximately, the last half of the 19th century. By the time he died in 1903 in the Marquesas Islands, he already was a legend. Unfortunately he was not quite a savory legend in the nostrils of the French bourgeoisie, from which he apparently had sprung.

There are qualifications which must be applied to this legend, Robert Burnett believes. Gauguin was a sailor, later a broker with the knack of successful speculation as well. This eminently respectable business he abandoned for art at a time when technically he was not prepared to be an artist. He was forced for a while to "live off" his wife's Danish family; he left his wife, spent most of his remaining years as an eccentric in Oceania. He was brutal, sensual, even vicious.

This is the legend, but not the truth. Gauguin was not a typical bourgeois in his immediate ancestry. There was wild blood from Peru. He was sailor and did throw away a going brokerage business. He did live for a time with his wife's family, but he was trying to work at selling paintings. He did spend much time in Tahiti and elsewhere, but he worked there, and suffered there, and although he parted from his wife he was not a brute in the hard and fast sense we understand the word.

What one gets from Mr. Burnett's painstaking reconstruction is less a "justification" of Gauguin's course in life than a re-alignment of the evidence for and against him. He was, for example, close to the borderland of genius; he was either a genius, or a step from genius in the direction of imbalance.

He was a sensualist, both in life and painting. His preoccupation with the female form in continuous, yet there was a certain order in his perceptions, on canvas, and in life. Temperamentally he was foreign to Mette, his wife; only two of his children understood him at all, and he really knew only one of them.

And in later life he was continually the victim of neglect, some-times culpably. Mr. Burnett suggests Gauguin was driven from Tahiti, and probably he was.

'Building Together' Is Theme Of Baptist WMU Association Meeting

STANTON, Sept. 9—Baptist women's missionary unions of the association held their annual meeting at the Baptist church here Wednesday afternoon, with Mrs. Paul Maxwell, state young people's leader, as featured speaker. Mrs. Maxwell discussed "Building Together."

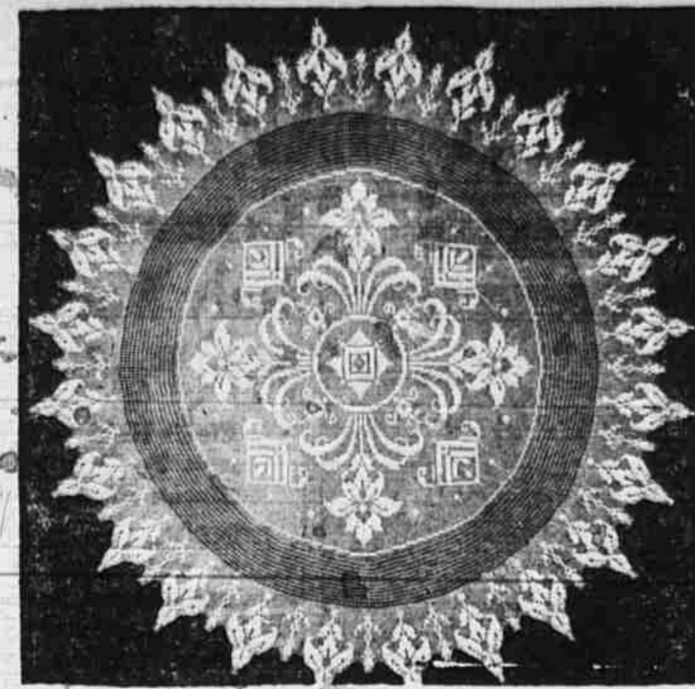

Mrs. Paul Moss of Odessa presided at the meeting. Presidents and committees of the association made reports.

About 75 people were present with some six churches represented in the women's work. Following the meeting, supper was served by the host church in the church annex. The women's meeting preceded opening of the Big Spring association Wednesday evening, when Rev. Winston F. Borum of Midland was scheduled to preach the annual sermon.

A number of representatives remained overnight in Stanton as guests of the Baptist congregation.

Notice! Freshmen Do Not Rush Into The Wrong Sorority

By JOAN BURHAM AP Feature Service Writer

It'll soon be open season for rushing in the colleges. Masses of freshmen will be seized and captured by upper-classmen who hope to get the best of them for their fraternities or sororities.

Unaccustomed to the flattery that is part of rushing, a lot of those freshmen join the wrong groups at the end of the four or five-day rush week and spend their declining four years regretting their error.

"Gushers" Delisted

Eather Jacobs of Chicago, rush captain of the oldest chapter of the oldest sorority in the country (Alpha Xi Kappa Alpha Theta, DePaul university), has some good advice on the subject:

"Clothes may help make the rusher, she says, but so does her conversation. 'While I don't like the silent type of girl,' she remarks, 'gushers are definitely unpopular. A girl who can talk easily and with some sense is very much appreciated. 'Speaking of clothes,' she continues, 'complete outfits make a good impression. Rushing begins in the fall most girls know that fall clothes are in better taste. Those clothes ought to be correct and simple—not elaborate.'"

Three "Rush" Events

Rush dates usually fall into three categories: Calling and teas, informal parties and formal parties. Street dresses or dressy sport clothes (sweater-skirt-ghillies combinations are generally out) are best for the first. Add suitable accessories, gloves and purse.

Long, "informal" dresses are suitable for informals. That means a dressy dress, but not an evening gown. Long sleeves are preferable. Decollete backs and fronts are out. Evening gowns are correct for formals scheduled for the evenings.

Advice To Rushers

Don't be for rushes.

Don't break any local rush rules. That can get both you and the sorority in trouble.

Don't talk about any other sorority—favorably or unfavorably.

Don't break dates—especially those made in writing. It's generally considered proper to split dates—that is, divide your time between two or three houses—if each house knows exactly how long you plan to be its guest.

Don't stay after the party is over. Don't be away from your room during calling hours. If you must be absent unavoidably, leave a note of explanation on your door.

Don't let your chin sag. If you don't get what you want and haven't a close second choice, don't join just for the sake of joining.

Definite Plans Are Made By The Parent-Teacher Council

Three discussions were definitely mapped out Wednesday afternoon by members of the Parent-Teacher Council in the first meeting of the new school term.

During a parliamentary drill conducted by parliamentarian, Mrs. E. M. Connolly, how a meeting should be conducted according to parliamentary procedure was outlined completely. Mrs. R. E. Blount, general radi-chairman, gave an outline of an attentive program to begin the first week in October. Parent-Teacher work is to be discussed over broadcasting station KBBT each Thursday morning at 11 o'clock she announced.

Emily Post Yields To Modernity In Advancing New Etiquette; Even Chaperone Is Ditched

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (UP)—Emily Post, who put etiquette on a paying basis back in 1922, is bending a social knee to the behavior of our times. The famous authority on good manners has rewritten completely her earlier standards to comply with a changing world.

For 15 years Mrs. Post's blue-covered book has been the final appeal on what constitutes gentility and good taste. But a new generation has so kicked over the traces of horse and buggy days gentility that Mrs. Post has been forced to give ground.

This she does, reluctantly but gracefully, in a new edition of "Etiquette, The Blue Book of Social Usage," published today by Fokk and Wagnalls. Mrs. Post has not been content to chop away an outmoded custom here, and relax a hidebound convention there. She has almost thrown the old edition out the window and written a new one.

Old Order Giveth

Many modern historians have pointed out the ruthless way in which Americans have taken short cuts across the back lots of social custom. But nowhere is the process of changing etiquette as boldly apparent as in Mrs. Post's new edition. Mrs. Post almost—but not quite—casts a sigh over some of the conventions which she scraps and there is often a note of anxiety as to where our new freedom may lead us.

Mrs. Post now accepts practices which would have created a national furor had she sponsored them two decades ago. For example: a young woman may dine alone with a young man in his bachelor flat (providing, of course she is positive that neither her reputation nor her self-respect will be damaged thereby).

No Chaperones

The author flatly consigns chaperones to the ash heap, concluding that a girl's best chaperone is the traffic she has received before she makes her debut. She even goes so far as to say that when a college boy hangs his fraternity pin on a co-ed, it may be accepted as a formal engagement of marriage.

And that, as Mrs. Post almost allows herself to admit, is quite a social jump from 1920.

Actually, the theme of Mrs. Post's social dicta now is not rigid formality, but informal comfort. Just about anything that is sensible and practical and inoffensive is (to use a word not in Mrs. Post's vocabulary) okay. And a young modern who cannot afford either a maid or a banquet, can with decorum invite her friends to "supper" instead of dinner, and toss them up hash and scrambled eggs. It'd be "de rigeur," so to speak.

The Woman Can Pay

Here are a few other new standards of etiquette:

It is permissible for a woman to pay the dinner check when she dines with a man, if he is indigent and she has money.

It's proper for a girl to attend unchaperoned, a fraternity house party and stay overnight in the fraternity house if the occasion is a time-honored festival on the campus. (But she should take only one suitcase.)

It is correct to leave a party early in order to go home and listen to a favorite radio program.

Smoking Etiquette

Trends of the times can be seen in a "chaperon" smoking etiquette on motoring matters, and even in a section on short ocean cruises. There's also a discussion of the young man's problem when he's invited to parties where he knows the bride stakes will be high, or where he'll be roped in for theater tickets after dinner. Young man the thing to do in that case, is to decline the invitation.

Mrs. Post still clings to a few positive "don'ts." Her formal dinner is as stiff-shirted as ever. Her big wedding, her coming out party, her little niceties about correspondence, are as pat as formerly. People still may not smoke at dinner, unless the hostess has signified her permission by placing cigarettes on the table. And no lady smokes on the street, even yet.

Card Etiquette Stays

Visiting cards, too, still hang on.

although it is no longer necessary to leave a whole pack of them at a door without even ringing the bell. Calling cards have disappeared, Mrs. Post admits. For example, instead of leaving a card, it is proper nowadays to telephone an acquaintance and say: "I have not seen you for weeks. Won't you come to lunch?" Or you may duck the conventional snail by sending people an invitation to come over to your house for a cocktail. A lot of the best people are doing that, it seems.

Now and then Mrs. Post wrestles with a problem that is almost too much for a book of etiquette. Take for example, this subheading from the new volume: "How can a man with almost no money take a nice girl out?"

Many of those grating, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day on about 3 pounds of waste.
If 15 miles of kidney tubes, and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. This poison may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, lumbago, low pep and energy, getting up shaky, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. their decision. Italy's reply was three-pronged. It said:

1. The fascist government at first was inclined to accept the invitation to the conference, which is designed to find a way to stop "pirate" attacks on the ships of many nations in the Mediterranean.
2. But Soviet accusations that Italian submarines had torpedoed and sunk two Soviet ships introduced at the last moment a new and grave element into the situation.
3. "The fascist government hence has come to the conclusion that the arguments to be considered can be examined adequately by the non-intervention committee in London." This 2-power committee, set up months ago in an attempt to keep foreign men and arms out of Spain, "has had experience also in technical and naval questions which renders it perfectly adapted to facing the problem indicated."

Cooperation Pledge From Other Nations

PARIS, Sept. 9 (AP)—French foreign office officials said tonight they had received assurances that Britain and two other powers are willing to cooperate with France in a Mediterranean warship patrol under orders to "sink submarine attackers."

The foreign office hastily drafted plans for the naval patrol which it expected tomorrow's Mediterranean "piracy conference" to adopt.

No Change In U. S. Govt. Attitude

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP)—State department officials said today this government has not altered its refusal to recognize a blockade of Spanish seaports.

Officials said they had reason to believe that American ships carrying non-contraband cargoes had called at these ports, and would continue to ply Spanish waters.

There should be no interpretation of a change in policy, they said, from the navy's warning to American mariners of "pirate" craft in the Mediterranean sea.

Secretary Hull, kept busy 21 weeks by the Sino-Japanese crisis, disclosed he also has been following closely the Spanish-Mediterranean situation.

Secretary Roper, discussing the influence of war scares on business, said uneasiness so far had affected only speculative trade. He added that the actual condition of business throughout the country is good and predicted there will be "a major upsurge in fall business."

State Saved Ten Million In Three Years By Plugging Loopholes In Gasoline, Cigarette Taxes

AUSTIN, Sept. 9—State Comptroller George H. Sheppard ran a total on his books this week, and found that by plugging up the holes in the motor fuel and cigarette tax laws, the state of Texas had saved approximately $10,000,000 in three years.

There are, everybody agrees, only two ways to raise money to carry on the many functions of government: Enact new tax laws; or the less painful method of enforcing the existing taxes so that the state gets a maximum return.

The second method may sound easy; Comptroller Sheppard found it anything but easy.

Sheppard's employees occupied in enforcing gasoline taxes will testify it's not easy. They will tell you of working nights—something almost unprecedented in state government—because at night is when the gasoline tax racketeer works. And the comptroller wanted, most of all, to get the gasoline tax evader, the man who takes the pennies from the gasoline consumer and drops them in his own pocket.

Three tasks

The No. 1 job was to find the leaker; then discover why; and finally, obtain legislative assistance in plugging them.

The two "leakiest" laws were found to be the cigarette tax and the gasoline tax. Funds from the cigarette tax are divided between the schools and the old age assistance funds of government. Schools likewise get one penny out of every four cents tax you pay for gasoline.

Turning first to the gasoline tax law, Sheppard found that the first essential was to maintain the closest watch over East Texas refineries; to require exact and sworn reports so that the gasoline could be watched from the moment it came out of the crude oil until it reached somebody's tank. The maximum penalty for evasion of the tax was $200, the minimum $25—and obviously, it was a very worthwhile business for the racketeer to make $1,000—by evading taxes, for an investment of $25 to $200, in fines.

Law With Teeth

For sympathetic legislators. Just as anxious as the comptroller to see that the tax laws applied to all alike, Sheppard took his problem. A new law, one with teeth in it, was enacted.

The same story is applicable to the cigarette tax law, to which Sheppard turned his attention as soon as the gasoline tax law had been corrected by the legislature. Although a smaller total amount is involved, the showing is even more impressive—an income more than doubled without any increase in price. While a small part of the increase may be due to increased consumption of cigarettes, most of the increase is due to the halting of tax evasions.

Stamp Counterfeiters

Four years ago, when Sheppard took hold of the comptroller of cigarette tax stamps and the itinerant peddler of untaxed cigarettes were making unbelievable inroads into the state's collections. Even making a substantial allowance for increased consumption, it is estimated that the state was losing $3,000,000 annually to these racketeers.

An examination of the law disclosed many defects. As was true with the gasoline tax law, the enforcement provisions were entirely inadequate. The stamp then in use was readily adaptable to counterfeiting.

The new cigarette tax law and the new gasoline tax-law were enacted by the same session of the legislature, in 1933. A new type of cigarette tax stamp, a serially numbered decalcomania stamp, which could not be duplicated or re-used, was devised. Numerous other leaks of a technical nature likewise were corrected.

School Rolls About Same

High School Registration Up; Ward School Lower

Enrollment in the Big Spring schools is practically on a par with a year ago, an incomplete check showed Thursday.

The senior high school showed a marked increase, while total elementary school attendance was off sharply under the 1936 figure. This, however, might be attributed to the fact that no "unders" have yet been accepted this year.

Total enrollment of the Big Spring school amounted to 728 at the end of the first three days of the current term. At the same time a year ago it amounted to only 661.

In the five white ward schools the aggregate enrollment this year was given at 1,567 as against 1,731 for the same time in 1936.

Thomas E. Pierce, director of elementary education, said that only minor adjustment of district lines, re-established by creation of a Central Ward school, had been found necessary since the school opening. These changes, he said, affected only a few.

GOVT. TO CONTROL MARIJUANA SALES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP)—Marijuana, noxious weed of narcotic properties which sociologists blame for much crime and youthful delinquency, will come under federal control Oct. 1.

The treasury published today regulations for enforcement of the law passed by congress limiting use of marijuana and putting it under control of the federal narcotic bureau. Nominal taxes are imposed on manufacturers, importers, compounders, dealers and doctors.

Agents said the weed's cheapness made it popular among narcotic addicts and that sellers apparently had attempted to build up a clientele by peddling cigarettes and candy containing it to high school children. Physicians said steady use of marijuana leads to insanity.

AMERICAN AIRMAN, HELD IN SPAIN, MAY BE FREED

BURGOS, Spain, Sept. 9 (AP)—Harold Dahl, 28-year-old Champaign, Ill., captive airman who is under sentence of death, told the Associated Press today that Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco has promised his release.

The promise was made to Dahl's bride of less than a year, who is now living at Cannes, France, Dahl was informed.

The insurgent chieftain assured her that Dahl would be released as an exchange prisoner, the young flier learned.

A personal letter from Mrs. Dahl direct to the generalissimo, enclosing her picture, did what official negotiations were not able to accomplish.

Dahl, who bailed out of his blazing Spanish government plane when it was shot down by insurgents July 12, was so worried about his fate that he refused to tell reporters his name until he learned of the plan for his freedom.

Breeding Of Crops Gets Results Just As Breeding Of Cattle

Cauble Has Fine Yield To Prove His Point

What's true of the cow is true of the stalk, I. B. "Doc" Cauble, well known Hereford breeder of this section, discovered a long time ago. As a result, his breeding activities on his farm-ranch in the Elbow community include not only his fine-bred herds, but cotton, maize, begari, sorghum and sudan patches. Doc doesn't have to hunt for good seed every year, he produces them.

In a small plot near his windmill at his home place he has raised with cotton from white to takes his seed for his breeding block. From the breeding block, the choice stalks produce cotton for his planting. His small plot stalks contain as high

CATTLE AND CROPS

I. B. "Doc" Cauble, long famed as a Hereford breeder, is also a breeder of feed and cotton in his own right. His fine grain patches and cotton fields are as much show places as his fine-bred bulls—and Doc will tell you that they are sturdy and prolific because he bred them to be that way. Upper left he is seen in a cane patch while he stands in a cotton patch at right. Below are two of his young bulls.

Yield Is Testimonial

His lush growths of maize, bowled with big, well-formed heads is another proof of his ability to breed plants as well as cattle. The luxuriant patches of close-jointed, broad-leaved begari is a growing testimonial to selective breeding, as are his fine sorghum patches, towering now like sugar cane. Doc accomplished these results by saving the one stalk towers above a patch, he uproots it before it heads.

Of his little "secret" in producing heavy yields, Cauble explains that "I have been trying to do for years what the government has been trying to get us to do lately." In token of this, he can point to a 25-acre patch of peas on which will rise a cotton or grain patch next year. But he will always have a pea patch somewhere on his farm. He does not plant the same crop consecutively in the same place.

Raises Own Feed
Cauble acquired his place in 1902 in partnership with his brother Sam. A year later he took over the south place, where he now lives, and began ranching in earnest. In 1905 he started farming because it fitted in perfectly with his cattle breeding program. Now he raises practically all feed stuff necessary for maintaining his quality herds.

"Although he will bet you that against a hundred dollars, that no farm will produce more per acre than his in feed and cotton, his pride and joy is not entirely his fields, but his herds. He can recite the pedigrees of every animal in his bull pasture, can tell you why Bond Diamond 10th and President Mitchell are two of the greatest animals he has ever owned. And driving over his range land, he can call any cow by name, and run her lineage back to old Anxiety, 4th.

School Lunches New Problem Of Mothers During September

By MARTHA LOGAN

Crisp, cool September days mean back-to-school days to the children and to mother they mean the scheduled days of routine and the problem of the children's lunch.

Whether a lunch is packed and carried to school or whether it is served at home it should be planned just as carefully as any other meal. It should supply at least one-third of the food needs of the day.

One of the easiest ways to simplify the lunch-planning problem is to think of it as consisting of (1) a substantial sandwich or hot dish, (2) a salad or vegetable, (3) fruit, either fresh or cooked, (4) a sweet, as a cookie, unfrosted cake, or a piece of chocolate, and (5) milk.

To be a real success at preparing school lunches, the menu planner should give considerable thought to the problem, she should use her ingenuity and exercise originality. The mother who realizes the importance of these lunches will lay in a supply of new or different items when she is shopping for groceries. An emergency shelf prepared in immediate kitchens from government inspected meats, they are delicately seasoned, cooked according to accurate temperatures, carefully packaged and branded.

Prepared Meats
For a substantial part of the lunch, prepared meats have been a goom to planning. Almost every market carries an assortment of loaves and ready-to-serve items. If these meats are of a well-known brand, these products are prepared in immaculate kitchens from government inspected meats, they are delicately seasoned, cooked according to accurate temperatures, carefully packaged and branded.

Ready-to-serve meats give almost unlimited menu variety, alone or in combination with other foods. They may be served hot or cold. It is a simple matter to determine "meat needs" as these items are all meat, there is no bone and no waste. Ready-to-serve meats are economical too and they save time and labor in preparation. You may feed these products to the children knowing that they are as delicious as the finest pieces of branded beef, pork, or veal.

This assortment of products includes cooked ham, liver loaf, or liver cheese, meat loaf, sandwich meats, tongue, dried beef, pure pork sausage, frankfurts, bologna and dry sausage.

These meats may be sliced to serve cold or wrapped in wax paper and packed in the school lunch. They make excellent sandwiches too.

Suggestions
The best part of the sandwich is the filling. Following are a few suggestions for a substantial sandwich for the child's lunch:

- Several thin slices of meat are easier to eat in a sandwich than a thick slice. The addition of lettuce and mayonnaise makes a de luxe sandwich.
- Mashed liver cheese, mixed with grated raw carrot and a little lemon juice.
- Ground tongue mixed with celery, pickle relish, and mayonnaise.
- Sliced ham spread with grated cheese to which mayonnaise has been added.
- Crumbled dry sausage mixed with chopped celery and mayonnaise on rye bread.
- Chopped ham and hard-cooked eggs on graham bread.
- Eggs scrambled with bits of ham and green pepper if desired.
- Chopped bologna and pickled beets mixed with mayonnaise on whole wheat bread.
- Dried beef and cream cheese and diced cucumber on Boston brown bread.
- Hot sandwiches of pork sausage or frankfurts served with a crisp vegetable salad.

The child's lunch to be interesting and appetizing in appearance should include foods varying in shape, color, flavor and texture. Seasonal meals are always more economical. So it is that questions of how to build a good luncheon for the children and grown-ups too ready-to-serve meats the correct answer. They have variety, and are season, economical, and versatile.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning!
The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest, it just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A more bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25¢

Tenants On A New Basis On This Farm

Southerner Finds Cash Plan Makes Plantation Pay

OSCAR, La., Sept. 9 (UP) — A new twist in attempts to solve the controversial tenancy problem has been worked out by Col. Henry A. Rougon, liaison officer of the U. S. army during the World war, on Austrelitz Plantation near here.

A complete break from traditional practices which have driven the southern planter into a deep economic hole enabled the retired army man to build up a business out of an acreage which a few years ago was far in debt and sinking further each day.

Operating on a strictly cash basis which affords his 32 families approximately $100-a-month income each, Col. Rougon believes he has added much to the search for a solution of the sharecropping problem.

Abolishes Commissary
Abolition of the plantation commissary, abandonment of the day-labor system, institution of diversified planting and adoption of government crop control and soil conservation methods were his principal changes when he took over management of Austrelitz in 1933.

Col. Rougon's father died that year and left the plantation to the retired army officer and four sisters, Bathilde, Ida, Itha and Zoelle Rougon. The estate, he said, was in a sad condition and had not recovered from the disastrous 1927 flood. In addition, he pointed out, the bottom had fallen from under farm prices and his tenants were disorganized. Austrelitz was far in debt.

Col. Rougon decided he must reorganize completely the plantation system to restore Austrelitz, founded in 1832 by a free man of color, and thereby place his tenants on a solid foundation.

He first discontinued day labor because he felt that system was "the bane of plantation life."

"The day-laborer on a farm today works for 75 to 80 cents a day," he said. "Sometimes he may lose two weeks because of the weather with no way of making up his lost time and he tries to support his family on a starvation wage."

Col. Rougon then abolished the commissary, long looked upon in the Southern economic system as a necessity but one which, he felt, was an evil. Finally he adopted government methods of crop control and conservation of soil, and instituted the planting of four crops, cotton, corn, sugar cane and Irish potatoes.

New Division
Probably the biggest departure from tradition, however, was his method of dividing the crop with the tenant. Instead of the old idea of fifty-fifty—and in some cases more to the owner—Col. Rougon now gives three-fourths to the tenant and keeps one-fourth for himself.

The 2,124-acre plantation is divided among his 32 tenant families on the basis of 20 acres for man and wife, and increases according to the size of the family. The tenants plant their own gardens and are encouraged to own one or more cows, which have free grazing privileges.

Col. Rougon pointed out that his employees were not laborers. "Every man is his own boss and works for himself."

"I think I have reached a solution of the problem both satisfactory to myself and to my tenants by doing away with day labor, disposing of the commissary, treating my tenants as equals and dealing with them on a square cash basis," Col. Rougon said.

MARITIME WORKERS CONSIDER STRIKE

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (UP)—Officials of the National Maritime Union called a mass meeting of seamen for tonight to consider a proposed general strike in all Atlantic and Gulf ports.

The union, a C.I.O. affiliate claiming 50,000 members, warned Tuesday that it would call the strike if the national labor relations board did not speed up elections to pick collective bargaining agencies for seamen on 76 American lines.

The N.M.U. acted after the labor board announced the election would be delayed until a motion for further postponement by the American Federation of Labor was considered.

The A. F. of L. asked the postponement pending reorganization of the International Seamen's Union, an N.M.U. rival.

NEED LOCAL UNITS FOR FURTHERING HOUSING WORK WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP)—PWA officials said today more local housing authorities are needed if the government's $526,000,000 program for low-rent dwellings and slum clearance is to be effective. Although 30 states have laws enabling them to participate in government loans and grants, only 50 cities have created housing authorities to manage local developments, housing experts said. Officials predicted the United States housing authority would be organized and an administrator appointed soon after Secretary Ickes and President Roosevelt return to Washington next week. Ickes has "general supervision" of the new agency.

Relic Of '98 Train Robbery Is Added To Museum Collection By JOHN R. HUTTO Through the kindness of L. F. McKay of Big Spring the West Texas museum has been presented a fragment of steel, about two by three and a half inches, which is all that was left of a safe that figured in a train robbery which took place about 23 miles west of Big Spring in 1898. The robbers boarded the west-bound passenger engine at the water tank at Stanton, engineer Jim Homes argued with the robber that he was not permitted to allow people to ride on his engine and when the robber announced that he intended to rob the express car Homes still thought his visitor was joking. But when the robber thrust a pistol into Homes' face and ordered him to uncouple the baggage car from the coaches he knew the intruder meant business. Still the engineer did not intend to surrender his rights without an effort, and he grabbed the barrel of the pistol and prepared for a scuffle. At that instant the robber drew another gun with his other hand and Homes became more cooperative.

Insurgents Drive On Defenders Of Northwest City HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Sept. 9 (AP)—Insurgent planes and guns pounded the remnants of government defenses in northeast Spain today after their troops advanced on Gijon had been stalled and more than 1,000 of their men killed by a sudden counter-offensive. Insurgent artillery bombarded a network of fortifications guarding a mountain crest near the coast. Aerial attacks caused heavy damage in Gijon, last government stronghold on the Biscayan coast. The situation within Gijon was described as "acute." Police fled into the mountains, leaving the city without protection from extremists and plunderers. Dispatches from Madrid meanwhile related that the defenders of that long-besieged Spanish city had struck against the insurgent lines west of Madrid, capturing positions near Valdemorillo, strengthened their grasp on territory recovered in the recent Brunete campaign.

INCREASE IN TEXAS CROP IS FORECAST AUSTIN, Sept. 9 (AP)—The U. S. department of agriculture said today its forecast for a cotton crop of 4,622,000 bales in Texas, based on conditions as of September 1 represented an increase of 308,000 bales, or seven per cent, over the August 1 forecast. The estimated production compared with 2,933,000 bales last year and 2,956,000 in 1935. The department reported condition of the crop, 76 per cent of normal, indicated lint yield of 175 pounds per acre, compared with 121 pounds in 1936 and 133 pounds the previous year. It said favorable conditions of July continued into August, resulting in less than average decline.

Motorized Forces Call For New Army Communication Methods WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP)—Present army communication methods have become obsolete, war department experts said today, because of the speed of motorized forces. They based their conclusion on observations of field maneuvers of the fourth army, described by Maj. Gen. George S. Simonds as "the most realistic ever held in the west." More than 56,000 men from 18 western states participated. Observers of the four weeks of mythical combat came to these general conclusions: Increased mobility of the army as the result of motorization makes it imperative that the commanding officer have "more complete information about the theater of operations and the enemy's movements. Increased mobility also makes it necessary that the commanding officer's communication with all units under his command be so complete that he can instantly transmit orders. The increased mobility has not been balanced by equally effective means for providing information about the enemy's movements. Field radios, telephones and motorcycle messengers have not yet reached an efficiency to furnish a motorized army with the superior communications service it requires. The new "streamline" division (the army's experiment with a division of 12,000 more compactly organized men rather than 20,000) is successful. Performance of the new secret tanks was excellent.

LABOR PROVISIONS MUST BE FOLLOWED BY SUGAR GROWERS WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP)—Farm administration officials warned beet and cane growers today they must comply with child labor provisions of the new sugar act to qualify for benefit payments it provided. Growers to be eligible for payments under that legislation "cannot employ children under 14 years of age in the production, cultivation or harvesting of sugar beets or sugar cane. Children between 14 and 16 years cannot be employed longer than eight hours each day, unless they are members of the immediate family of a person who is the legal owner of at least 40 per cent of the crop at the time the work is performed.

FEDERAL AGENTS SAFER NOW THAN IN 'PRO' DAYS WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP)—The post-repeal hunt for tax-dodging moonshiners is a lot safer for federal agents than the old prohibition warfare against bootleggers. Revenue authorities said today guns of liquor law violators have killed four agents since repeal became effective late in 1933. During prohibition, 143 federal enforcement officers were slain, or an average of more than 10 each year.

REPORT 4,000 JAPS KILLED IN AMBUSH PEIPING, Sept. 9 (AP)—A detachment of 4,000 Japanese troops was reported today to have been wiped out by a deadly Chinese ambush in the rocky hills west of here. The Japanese line was said to have been thrust back five miles by the sudden Chinese onslaught. Japanese commanders were obviously more and more worried over the fate of their operations in this area, where their advance has been held up a full month by dogged Chinese resistance and astute strategy. Heavy reinforcements were flowing through Peiping to Langhsiang, 30 miles to the south, and to the sorely menaced Japanese right flank in the western hills around Mentoukuo, 25 miles to the west. The steady stream of wounded veteran-seamen often are chronic sufferers from sea sickness.

FLIERS KILLED BORDEAUX, France, Sept. 9 (AP)—The bodies of two French army fliers were recovered today from the wreckage of a large fighting plane which crashed in flames last night near the Bordeaux airport. The fliers were apprehended and served penitentiary sentences for the offense.

Nazi Leaders Shout Determination To Fight Communism NURNBERG, Sept. 9 (AP)—Nazi Germany's little propaganda minister, Paul Joseph Goebbels, declared before national socialism's annual congress today that a new Europe is being formed "for which we will fight to the last breath" against communism. Dr. Goebbels brought all his powers of invective into play some of them against Americans and "degraded" democracies a few hours after Germany had decided she could not sit down at a Mediterranean conference table with other powers so long as Soviet Russia, which has accused fascist Italy of sinking her ships, would be there. He warned Europe and the democracies that "Spain is the world's crossroads" and added: "What happens today in Spain may repeat itself tomorrow in any country!" Then he screamed that the establishment of "a communist power" in western Europe "cannot be tolerated."

DIZ DEAN'S RETIREMENT TALK HOLDS MAJOR LEAGUE SPOTLIGHT

Giants Retain 2 1/2 Game Lead In Circuit

Pirates Pull Ahead Of Cards As Great One Loses

By SID FEDER (Associated Press Sports Writer) The St. Louis Cardinals looked very much today as if they were sharpening up a knife for the purpose of cutting off their collective nose to spite their equally collective face.

If they were really serious about suggesting a year's retirement for Dizzy Dean, and were not just talking to throw a scare into baseball's No. 1 blower-offer, it would seem they'd be doing themselves more harm than good by shelving the greatest pitching arm in the game for that length of time, despite his eccentricities.

The Cardinals may have their reasons for talking about packing Dizzy's arm—as well as his ability to talk it out with anyone in a year's time—in most balls for a year's time would include, of course, the fact that such a move would, as Rickey described it, "act as a tonic and build up his baseball morale as well as his arm."

But on the other hand Dizzy has given no evidence that his pitching warrants a year's retirement—and when he's right, he's somewhat better than a greenhand at fogging 'em in.

Says He's Alright His ailments of the moment, he contends, are at worst only temporary. He's still one of the game's big drawing cards, as well as a piece of ivory that could get turned a tidy sum on the open market.

He certainly didn't look ready for a wheelbarrow yesterday as he pitched a five-hitter against the Cubs. Although he lost, 4-0, largely because of the slouting of Gabby Hartnett, a five-hitter isn't exactly getting your ears pinned back.

The victory for the Cubs enabled them to stay within shouting distance of the Giants, who had their hands full before pulling out a 9-7 decision over their best-loved "haters," the Dodgers. A short while later, the Brooklyn management announced the signing of Grimes at a reported substantial salary increase.

The Tigers managed only an even break with the Indians, taking the nightcap, 10-5. On Friday, Greenberg's two homers, after dropping the curtain raiser, 6-1. The Pirates pounded the Reds 7-1 in ten frames and 8-2 in nine.

Four well-pitched games found the Phillies splitting with the Beer and the Athletics doing the same with the Senators. The Phils won 6-3 and lost 1-0. The A's won 2-0 and then went down 1-6. The White Sox socked the Browns, 10-1.

HERD MOVES INTO STEER STADIUM FOR HEAVIER WORK

TEAMS READY FOR BURRO BALL GAME FRIDAY

Donkeys On Way From Dallas, Starts 8 P. M.

SPTS—TEAMS READY... 24... DONKEYS ON—14... Thanks to the New York Giants' 14 to 7 victory over the eastern All-Ireland college eleven, professional football today had regained some of the prestige lost in recent encounters with college outfits.

The Giants made it two in a row over the collegians last night. The game ended just after Mickey Kobrosky of Trinity had passed the collegians' 78 yards to the Giants' two-yard marker. Needing only one yard for a first down or two for a touchdown, the collegians were confronted by a stone wall that held battering Stu Smith to the lips of scrimmage, and 38,000 fans went home, singing the praises of the team put together in three weeks by wily Andy Kerr of Colgate.

After playing the pros off their feet in the first quarter, the collegians struck quick and hard in the second period. Lew Elverson set the stage by a 19-yard punt return. A smooth passing attack, engineered by Kobrosky, took the ball 39 yards to one-yard marker where Vannie Albanese, injured Syracuse ace, plunged over.

The Giants were not long in tying the score. Tuffy Leeman took one of Fran Murray's punts on his 34-yard stride, and with a beautiful exhibition of broken field running stepped 66 yards for a touchdown.

In the third quarter, with a Giant thrust that carried into the final period, Hank Soar carried the ball seven times to gain 40 yards before bucking over from the two-yard stripe.

Hillsboro Opens With Jackets

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF DALLAS, Sept. 9 (AP)—Hillsboro's air-minded Eagles and the Beas' battering Yellow Jackets clash this week in the 18th annual club campaign of the Texas Intercollegiate League opens.

The clash brings together teams that figured strongly in the 1936 championship race. Hillsboro won the title of district 11. Port Arthur not only took the district 14 championship but worked into the semifinals where the Jackets fell before the King Kerrville team in the finals.

The game is scheduled Saturday night at Port Arthur, but unless Hillsboro has recovered a flock of dark horses Port Arthur should win the contest. Hillsboro lost most of its 1936 team. Port Arthur returns with another veteran club.

Three hundred teams wait until next week to open the drive. Five districts go into action Friday night. Denison playing at Greenville in a game almost equal in importance to the Hillsboro-Port Arthur tilt, Denison, a favorite in district 5, gets a rugged test against Greenville, district 6 contender, at Greenville. The former, however, will be favored.

Quannah of district 2 plays Class B Nonona, Bryan of district 11 faces Class B Caldwell, Bryan and Laredo of district 15 warm up against the Laredo All-Stars.

While enrollment in the 1937 campaign does not end until next Wednesday, the present roster of 107 Class A teams is expected to stand. Director Roy B. Henderson states.

There are no changes in the rules this year and the same 16 districts will be followed. However, Henderson says he does feel that by 1938 some of the conference A districts should be rearranged due to the steady influx of teams. The number this year is the highest in the history of the league.

The age limit at the present time is 19 years. It is the second season for this rule which lowered the limit by one year. Any boy 19 years of age on Sept. 1, 1937, will not be eligible. A boy who becomes 19 on September 2 or any day thereafter is eligible.

Bell Says His Crew May Be With Leaders

Team Has Learned Few Tricks Since Loss To Fordham

(Editor's Note: This is another in a series on national college football prospects.)

DALLAS, Sept. 9 (AP)—Col. Matty Bell of the early twenties Centre College Colonnels, is really certain about only two things when mentioning his 1937 Southern Methodist Mustangs.

"We could be Southwest conference pennant contenders—and then we could get the pants licked off us."

Which, Bell admits, is tops in fence straddling but the only way to figure a team with only six seniors on the squad and only one or two of them likely to be starters.

"Spirit? Hustle? I've never seen a bunch of youngsters so ready for football season. Oh, I guess you could say they'll be better than last year's team. They've learned a lot since they pushed Fordham all over the field and got beat, 7-0."

Bell's major worries, and they've got the national counting sheep at night, concern his tackles and left halfback. He figures one tackle slot will be well filled by shifting Charlie Sprague, last year's stormy center, but is leery about the other.

For the left halfback post, Bell will try Henry Guynes, a senior he classifies as "the stiffest of all my backs." Guynes, never a regular, will take over kicking duties handled by last year's Bob Kinley, one of the best of all Southwest punters.

Aerial trickery again will play the chief role in the Mustang offensive. Sturdy Jack Morrison, son of Ray Morrison, originator of the S.M.U. "aerial circus," all be the chief gunner of Mustang sky raids.

Two towering pass receivers, Kansas Bill Dewell and Keith Ranspot, the former the club's sophomore sensation last year, ease Bell's worries as to who will gather in the heavens.

Chasing his signals and doing the heavy work of fullback will be Bob Bellville, a 185-pound "holdout" off last year's squad. Bellville, although a sophomore in '36, saw every game from the sidelines because Bell felt he would learn more by watching than occasionally breaking into a senior backfield.

Anyway, now he has three full years of eligibility.

New Star Shines In Net Meeting

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 9 (AP)—For today, at least, there is a new star twinkling in the American tennis firmament—chubby honey-colored Dorothy "Dodo" Bundy of Santa Monica, Calif.

Dorothy's light may be extinguished when she encounters Anita Lizana, the slick little senorita from Chile, in the semi-finals of the national championships tomorrow, but her upset victory over Champion Alice Marble yesterday may gain her No. 1 ranking.

In the men's division Gottfried Von Cramm and Bobby Riggs got ahead ally before they pulled through to the semi-finals. The German star finally defeated Bryant Grant, Jr., of Atlanta, Bobby Riggs won from Charlie Hare of England.

'Belt' Coaches Meet Friday

Program Dedicated To Five New Mentors

BRECKENRIDGE, Sept. 9 (SpI)—Football and school officials of the Oil Belt will gather here Friday night, Sept. 10, for the Lions club annual gridiron banquet, this year to be dedicated to the five new coaches in the district.

To dedicate the banquet in that manner means the new coaches will be put on the gridiron in a program staged each year so the new members of the district and new coaches may get to know each other before the first football game.

The five new coaches are Pat Murphy of Big Spring, Larry Pridy of Sweetwater, J. T. Petty of Cisco, E. B. Grady, Jr., Eastland and J. T. Mobley of Stephenville.

Invited speakers are a George White, sports editor of the Dallas News, and Jimmie Stewart of S. M. U., football to be the main topic of the evening.

Invitations to press members and to school officials have been mailed over the district, and these guests with one guest for each Lion club member, will constitute the crowd.

Largest Squad Of Season Out Wednesday

Total Of 29 Hopefuls Turn Out To Take Three Hour Drill

Chock Smith and Alton Bostick, end and halfback, respectively, joined Coach Pat Murphy's high school grid squad Wednesday afternoon for a three hour drill on the high school grounds, bringing the total who are reporting to 29, the largest number that has been on this season.

Smith watched Homer Adams, squadman on last year's team, perform in his place at wing, as Murphy and his assistant, Carnes Brandon, snapped the team through several plays in an attempt to iron out the rough spots in preparation for the game with Wink eight days away.

Running with Smith and Bostick there all season with the senior (the untold) candidates, who more than they have to date.

In the forward wall the mentor have worked Olie Deal and Clyde Smith in, at tackles flanking Joe Lusk, former Moore athlete, and Ross Callahan at the guard posts.

Dopey Anderson is playing the wing opposite Adams while Co-Captain Doug Rayborn is handling the center post.

Murphy has been drilling the squad in spinner variations and a few pass plays, adding the eleven through slow motions to teach the other squad members their individual duties.

The herd will probably move into Steer stadium within two or three days where they will turn to the heavier work of scrimmaging and tackling.

Settlement Of Just Debts

Apparently some people think that the Federal government is joking when it makes loans with the condition that they shall be repaid. At least that seems to be the belief of some grain belt farmers who are said to be objecting to repaying seed loans of several years standing.

The Farm Credit Administration is trying to collect these loans from wheat and corn growers who are selling this year's crops at very good prices, and the growers are said to be objecting to turning over part of their money—the first real money of any consequence they have received in some years—to what they call a heartless and banker-minded agency.

The Farm Holiday Association is urging farmers to refuse to pay the loans, their idea of a holiday evidently being unlimited, notwithstanding the written promise to pay by those persons who received the loans when they could get money nowhere else.

This association asks the FCA to forego collection of the debts on the ground that most of the farmers are too poor to pay the government and have enough left on which to live, and intimates that if payment is forced the farmers will be obliged to return to the relief rolls.

What is happening is exactly what was forecast by disinterested observers when the liberal loan business was begun. Not all farmers are failing or refusing to pay their debts to the government. Many of them are paying, at a personal sacrifice. They are men who believe a debt to the government is just as much a debt as one to a store or other private enterprise. But there are moochers, and these are the folks who are objecting to making repayments. And their action makes difficult every plan for relief, public or private.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — There's a sign in a pet shop near 48th street and a keen student of human nature must have written it. It says:

"If anyone tells you you can't buy a friend, he doesn't know what he is talking about. You can buy any dog in this window for $25."

Louis Bromfield is a successful novelist, a Pulitzer prize winner, yet his greatest ambition is to write a successful play. Of half a dozen previous attempts, none has been anything to cause Eugene O'Neill concern. Perhaps he is one of those novelists who can't write plays. Darned few playwrights could write an acceptable novel.

The most beautiful women in New York are not on Broadway. They are in the model agencies. Anyway, we think so.

Doris Duke Cromwell likes to give parties for entertainers who seldom get to attend parties in the role of guests. Recently she engaged an orchestra and a dancer and they were amazed to realize that the party was really for them. Her limousines brought them to her New Jersey estate and while they dined and enjoyed themselves she danced, played the piano and banged the trap drums.

Emil Ludwig has had 13 biographies published in this country. They include several kings, an adventurer, and a river. His last book was a biography of the Nile.

Dennis King is expert at steeplechase riding. He detests new hats.

Miriam Hopkins is five feet tall and weighs 100 pounds. She studied art at the Chicago Art Institute.

Fast One On Louie

Irving Berlin thinks there is no such thing as a new melody. He says most composers depend almost entirely on tricks.

Like the proverbial clown wishing to play Hamlet, Claudette Colbert is a mischievous comedienne with a yen for emotional parts. She is also an excellent athlete and weighs 103 pounds.

Bill Robinson pulled a fast one on Joe Louis, who is crazy about baseball. "How could this happen, Joe?" the tap dancer queried. "Two baseball teams play a nine inning game, and the score is four to two, yet not a man reaches first base?"

"How?" puzzled Joe, scratching his head.

"Two bloomer girl teams play," yelled Robinson gleefully—and ducked.

ON THE RECORD

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

(Miss Thompson's column is published as an informational and news feature. Her views are personal and are not to be construed as necessarily reflecting the editorial opinion of The Herald.—Editor's Note.)

SHADOW BOXING

As one surveys the world these days, one is forced to the conclusion that our attempts to solve our various economic and political problems are shadow-boxing. All of those attempts presume certain conditions, which are hardly taken into account by the public opinion of America.

THOMPSON

The very persons who, on the one hand, are fighting an extension of governmental control, are, on the other, champions of American isolation from the world. Senator Vandenberg is an excellent example. They seem completely to lose track of the fact that a free economic system presumes, and depends upon, a large society, a world market and peace. They are aware that if we participate in another world war, we must, the moment we enter it, put aside all thoughts of economic freedom; organize the total production apparatus of the country; interfere radically with consumption and prices; subject economic to political and military control; set up a draft system, not only for man-power, but for labor and capital. Such plans are already prepared, and they will be unavoidable under modern conditions of warfare. Every informed person realizes that this is so.

But what they seem utterly blind to, is that given another world war, in which we do not participate, the effects on our domestic economy will eventually be the same; and that given a continuation and extension of the present state of international anarchy, the effects will also be the same. For in either case, we shall be forced to limit our commerce to the American hemisphere and even, perhaps, to the United States itself. And a closed economy means a planned economy.

The greatest nonsense is talked about the importance of our foreign trade. It is said that it constitutes only 10 per cent of the total commerce of the United States. The implication is that we could forfeit it, with no great loss. The facts are that certain basic commodities, employing millions of people, work primarily for export, and that these commodities are concentrated in regions, whose collapse of the world market would mean the ruin of whole sections. Cotton is the outstanding example. A further radical shrinkage of the world market for cotton will mean subsidies and more subsidies; production control; radical changes in the economy of the South, which are bound to bring it into sudden collision with other sections—with the Middle West, in agriculture, or the North, in industry; changes which are unthinkable under either chaos or an immense amount of government control and interference.

Industries, also employing millions of people, depend upon export markets. One needs only mention oil, copper, automobiles, business office appliances, sewing machines, electrical and agricultural machinery. And important subsidiary industries. Furthermore, these industries depend upon essential imports, such as rubber, tin, manganese ore, antimony, platinum, mica, mercury, and many, many other things, which are not produced here, and come from all corners of the earth. Rubber, for instance, comes largely from the Dutch East Indies, and British Malaya.

And the American standard of living demands imported coffee, tea, cocoa, sugar silk and a large variety of wools.

It is possible for us to do without these things, or, possibly, to develop inside America substitutes for many or most of them. The Germans have done so. But it is not possible under any system of capitalistic economics such as we have at present. It is possible only inside a mobilized economy, where such things as economic return, competitive prices, the free market are simply ruled out. It is possible to find substitutes for rubber, provided that profitability is not considered. It is possible to organize the wealth and resources of this country; to adjust production to these resources and to domestic consumption. But it is not possible to do so without also ordering and organizing all the work, labor and capital of the nation under authoritarian leadership.

Such a prospect can be contemplated with equanimity by advanced New Dealers, by Socialists, and by all other sorts of collectivists, including Fascists. It cannot be contemplated with equanimity by those who still profess to be believers in private enterprise and democratic government. They seem strangely undisturbed by the spectacle of the world.

Philip Witte DOUBLE WEDDING

CHAPTER XIII
 (Adaptation and arrangement—copyright by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corp., 1937).

Margit interrupted angrily. "There's no sense in trying to kid me about this. Maybe we're thinking of different people. The Charlie Jones I know could no more hire a private train than he could hire the Brooklyn bridge."

Mrs. Bly sat down in her chair again. She seemed to be in extraordinary good humor. "Well—his wife had a little money of her own. Squandered it. And once in a while Charlie made a pretty nice chuck of mazzuna from the sale of one of his pictures. He always blew it in as soon as he got it. Charlie Jones! Well I never!"

Margit did not share Mrs. Bly's good humor. "You don't seem to realize," she said frostily, "that the person whom you obviously know is probably leaving New York for the Adirondacks. I got everything in the world I could to stop her. Once again her lip trembled. 'I even called my lawyers. They said that I could probably hire things to stop—arm Mr. Jones, but they advised me that if I did such a thing, Mr. Jones would make a very scandal in the newspapers. Besides, the law was determined to go. Absolutely determined! Everything I've built up so carefully all these years has come crashing down around my head."

A new expression came in Mrs. Bly's face and worldly eyes. "Just what was your own reaction to Mr. Jones?" she asked quietly.

"I despise him," Margit said. "Curious," said Mrs. Bly. "What's curious about that?" "I've been my own personal experience, and also my general observation—that when a girl insists that a man looks handsome in an animal sort of way—when, I may add, a girl over-insists that she despises a man—in addition to that that you're in a state of hysterical tears—well—why don't you tell the truth? You found Mr. Jones fascinating and you're jealous of Irene. Right or wrong?"

"I shouldn't have said anything about it at all," Margit replied hotly. "You've been very kind to me, Mrs. Bly. For some reason I don't understand, my mother had a great deal of confidence in you. I have always appreciated your help, but I'm afraid that in ethical matters you and I are at the opposite ends of the earth. Your assumptions are silly and naive. I have found Mr. Jones despicable to a degree." Her voice rose very close to a hysterical pitch. "Irene's whole future is in a dreadful danger at this moment and you sit and tell me how far you laughed your false teeth!"

Margit's rage or despair or whatever it was no longer excited Mrs. Bly's sympathy. Instead, quite suddenly, she began to whoop with laughter. She slapped her knees. Tears rolled down her cheeks. "Irene running off with Charlie Jones," she shouted. "It's immense! Where's Waldo?"

"Drunk," said Margit.

Mrs. Bly's laughter reached a single, gigantic, belting crescendo. Her face turned red and white. Her false teeth sprang across her lip in a truly magnificent parabola. Mrs. Bly stared at the place where they had fallen. A great silent throbbing voice. "That's more than thirty feet or I'm a dog's elbow!" she exclaimed.

Margit put her head down on her modern desk and began to cry unreasonably.

The telephone rang.

She answered it.

"This is Keough," said Keough's voice.

"Yes," said Margit tensely.

"We're just about to leave the parking yard. Miss Irene is sitting in the front seat of the car. She is wearing her pale blue hat and her blue cloak. It lingered near an oak tree pretending to be looking for a re-sellable bottle and overheard her say that this was the first time that she had ever been happy in her life."

"Go ahead," Margit murmured, choking a sob.

"I'm telephoning from a booth in the cigar store across from the parking yard. I see that Mr. Jones is just putting away that going on his trailer preparatory to locking the rear door. My own car is ready for the journey. I shall probably next report when we stop at supper time."

Margit looked despairingly at Mrs. Bly. Mrs. Bly was still gazing with wonderment at her false teeth. It was the best laugh she had ever had in her life.

Keough's voice said: "They're ready to start. Goodbye, Miss Agnew."

Felice came into the room. Margit looked at her blankly.

"Mr. Beaver has just asked me to have lunch with him," said Felice. "Will it be all right?"

Now, even the reliable Felice is stepping out of character. Can Margit ever resemble her shattered world? Catch up with Irene and Charlie on their jaunt, in tomorrow's episode.

Hollywood

Sights and Sounds

By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD.—In Savannah, Tenn., there is a business firm whose letterhead proclaims the town as one-time headquarters of General Grant and "birthplace of Elizabeth Patterson."

If Savannah has seen "High, Wide and Handsome," I wouldn't be surprised if next time it comes up in a picture, the letterhead says Elizabeth Patterson tops billing over General Grant. She played Gannoy, and she's an actress, which quite often is not the case.

Elizabeth Patterson learned the hard way. . . . Dramatic school, stock, three years in Ben Greet's Shakespeare outdoors, more stock with Stuart Walker in Cincinnati, Broadway, and then Hollywood. . . . So I was surprised to hear her say that Hollywood and movies are developing actresses. . . . She cited Jean Arthur, Myrna Loy, Betty Davis—and I had to agree with her. . . .

Break For Bellamy
Ralph Bellamy ought to go places in pictures now, if it never rains but it pours. . . . That oil well of his came in—the one into which he'd sunk his savings—and now that he can take it easy they say he has a good picture coming up. . . . Ralph's been out here six of seven years, and what with one thing and another he's never had the chance at the acting he can do. . . .

The trailer on "Broadway Melody of 1938" did better by Bob Taylor (than the picture does. . . . One more like this role and Bob's beauty will belong to the ages. . . . William Garzan has a beef, which he calls his first at Universal. . . . He read the script on "A Young Man's Fancy" and picked out his role.

MR. AND MRS.

WELL, THERE'S ONE THING I DON'T WANT AND THAT'S STRING BEANS. NOR I. THEY'RE ALWAYS ON THE MENU AND I'M SICK OF THEM.

LET'S SEE WHAT OTHER VEGETABLES THEY'VE GOT—CAULIFLOWER, TURNIPS, ONIONS, RED CABBAGE—YES, AND THEY'VE GOT CORN FRITTERS, WHICH I LOVE BUT CAN'T EAT.

THERE'S NOTHING HERE THAT I OUGHT TO EAT OF COURSE THERE'S ALWAYS STRING BEANS.

WHAT VEGETABLE, PLEASE? WELL BOTH TAKE STRING BEANS.

PA'S SON-IN-LAW

I DON'T CARE WHAT YOU SAY—CEDRIC SAYS HE IS A VERY HIGHLY BRED DOG! THE DEAR BOY IS GOING TO TRAIN HIM FOR ME—TEACH HIM A LOT OF TRICKS!

HE'S CEDRIC IS HE?

PHOOEY!

AW—I SUPPOSE YOU THINK I SHOULD BE WASTING MY TIME?

UH—NO-O, NO, I WOULDN'T SAY THAT IF IT HAD ANY INTELLIGENCE AT ALL AND YOU SPEND ENOUGH TIME WITH HIM—
