EMMIGRATION WESTWARD

THERE is a tide of emigration from Eastern Texas and from other states to West Texas. The drouth, which has not been confined to any particular portion of the state, but has been felt by other states, has caused a spirit of unrest, and has assisted in setting up the tide of emigration westward. It is a noticeable fact that those seeking homes in this part of the country are not the idle, shiftless class, but are the intelligent, thrifty class, that are selling their possessions in the more thickly settled portions of the country and are seeking where they may place their money in a more profitable investment, and locate their families where the opportunities for their children will be more promising. This class is not confined to the farmer or stock raiser, but to all classes—the doctor, the lawyer, the banker, the merchant. No part of the West is attracting greater attention than the plains. It is becoming known that the early geography makers were mistaken when they marked the plains of Texas a desert, or the conditions have wonderfully changed. No longer than June, 1901, Henry Sayles of Abilene, in an address before the Farmers' Congress of Texas spoke of the "treeless plains, with their shifting sandhills, which denote the desert of Texas." However true this may be of the part of plains visited by Mr. Sayles, it is by no means true of the forty counties of the plains in the Panhandle. On the other hand, the rich soil, fine grasses, abundance of pure water, splendid, healthful climate, its adaptability to the production of all kinds of feed stuffs, fruits of all kinds known to the temperate zone, its abundance of vegetables of fine quality, the rapidity of the growth of shade and ornamental trees, our altitude of almost 4000 feet, the absence of malaria swamps, where Mr. Groves and Mr. Cheatham and other chill tonic men are strangers, where ticks and Texas fever are no terror to cattle men, where the finest breeds from other sections may be landed without danger to life. All these and many other things make the plains a region to be sought. And it is being sought. Now, we must look for our part of the thrifty class. Railroads are traversing the country and we need not long expect to be the market or shipping point for distant counties. So we must develop what we have about us: Amarillo, Childress, Dalhart and other points are pointing to their railroad facilities. Let us make Hereford the educational center of the plains. These other towns will want a place to educate their boys, away from railroad shops and saloons and dives, usually found together.

We have shallow, pure water, a rich, cheap land, as inducements to those that would settle among us to educate their children. We have the finest stream on the plains, and large, deep lakes for the school boy from abroad who would wear away a lonesome hour or satisfy that passion for the gun and rod in search for the fin and feathery tribes.

We have made good beginnings in our move for a college enterprise and the further effort for an experimental station. But should we meet temporary defeat, let us not be baffled. Such defeat would not take from us the natural advantages mentioned above. It is an old adage, "No glory in a voyage on a tranquil sea." This applies in the launching of every enterprise. When the time comes to act, let us not be pennywise and let an opportunity slip from us that will take years to regain.

The character of the people and institutions in the early history of a community, determine the future of that community. In the abolition of the saloon a prime move was made. Let us with equal determination move forward as opportunity is offered. Our college committee will be heard from in the near future.

It is reported that a large number of Kansas cattle is being shipped to the plains of Texas for winter pasturage on account of short crops in Kansas. Thousands of cattle are waiting for inspection below the quarantine line, ready to cross over, on account of the scarcity of feed in the lower counties. Come ahead, if you can find room. The whole country ought to be the plains of Texas, anyway; then we would be all right.

THANKSGIVING DAY

President Roosevelt Has Issued His Proclamation

A PROCLAMATION: The season is nigh, when, according to the time-hallowed custom of our people, the president appoints a day as an especial occasion for prayer and thanksgiving to God. This thanksgiving finds the people still bowed with sorrow for the death of a great and good president. We mourn President McKinley because we so loved and honored him; and the manner of his death should awaken in the breasts of our people keen anxiety for our country and, at the same time, a resolute purpose not to be driven by any calamity from the path of a strong, orderly, popular liberty which, as a nation, we have thus far safely trod. Yet, in spite of this great disaster, it is nevertheless true that no people on earth have such an abundant cause for thanksgiving as we have. The past year, in particular, has been one of peace and plenty. We have prospered in things material, and have been able to work for our own uplifting in things intellectual and spiritual. Let us remember that, as much has been given us, much will be expected from us, and that true homage comes from the heart as well as from the lips and shows itself in deeds. We can best prove our thankfulness to Almighty God by the way in which, on this earth and at this time, each of us does his duty to his fellow men.

Now therefore, I, Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States, do hereby designate as a day for general thanksgiving,

Thursday, the 28th of this present November, and do recommend that throughout the land the people cease from their wonted occupations and at their several homes and places of worship, reverently thank the Giver of all good for the countless blessings of our natural life. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the city of Washington, this the 2nd day of November, in the year of our Lord, 1901, and of the independence of the United States, 126.

(Signed:)

THEODORE ROOSEVELT,

By the President, JOHN HAY,

Dalhart, for the first time in its short life, is as dry as a chip. We do not believe there has been a drop of whisky or beer sold in the town in two weeks, and yet there is no sign of the town's final dissolution. On the contrary the town has never before been in so prosperous a condition as at present. There are more new houses under contract than ever before at a given time, one contractor alone having 20 buildings under contract, and word has been sent out over the country for more carpenters. Those who said they would sell out and leave town if the saloons were closed, are buying more lots, and the future looks bright and roseate. The restaurants are feeding more people than usual and the merchants are doing a good business. This is the way prohibition kills a town. If the people of Dalhart will keep whisky out of Dalhart for a period of one year they will have a living demonstration that the prosperity of a town is in nowise dependent upon this traffic.—Dalhart Ex.

The Commission for codifying the Federal statutes will probably report to the next session of Congress a law covering all attacks on the President. It was found on examination that in parts of the country an attack on the President which did not prove fatal could not be punished, and to remedy this peculiar condition this law was drafted. The law concerns only attacks made on the Chief Executive as such, for any attack made upon personal grounds would come under state jurisdiction. The law provides that any threat against the President, whether verbal or made in writing, shall be regarded as a felony and punishable by a fine of $5000, and any attack upon his person, whether successful or otherwise, shall meet with capital punishment. The bill further provides that accessories before the fact shall be held to an equal responsibility with the direct assailant.

There Are Women.

These are women who are comely,
 These are women who are homely—
 But be careful how the latter thing you say—

There are women who are healthy,
 There are women who are wealthy,
 There are women who will always have their way.

There are women who are truthful,
 These are women who are youthful,
 (Was there ever any woman that was old?)

There are women who are sainted,
 There are women who are painted,
 There are women who are worth their weight in gold.

There are women who are tender,
 There are women who are slender,
 There are women who are very large and
 fat and red;

There are women who are married,
 There are women who have tarried,
 There are women who are speechless—but they're dead. —Ex.

Addison Clark.

Dr. Addison Clark, the founder of Add Ran college, has accepted the pastorate of the Christian church at Amarillo, and will conduct services here the first Sunday in December. Dr. Clark is a man whose reputation is not confined by state lines, but he is known all over the United States as a profound theologian, an eminent educator, a deep thinker, and an eloquent divine. We certainly congratulate the church at this place in being so fortunate as to obtain such a man. He is broad minded, a progressive man, and one in touch with this century. It is no trouble for men who say something to fill their churches. The day of prosy platitudes and theological dullness lies entombed in the cobwebs of the century that has fled, and preachers, to get hearers, must teach something, must stand for a doctrine as broad as divine charity, as deep as the love of God, and as sound as eternal truth. Do not understand us as holding to the faith with Addison Clark, but we always agree with a man who has made visible tracks on the sands of time, when those tracks have been made while working for the education of the young, the elevation of the home, and the lifting heavenward, by hard licks, of the whole human family.—Western Advocate.

We also congratulate Amarillo and hope that soon they will be able to return the compliment, when we secure Randolph Clark, Addison Clark's brother, who, with him, has stood at the very front as an educator for more than a quarter of a century.

Attend our Literary society.

Very few fights at school now.

Leslie Moreman was absent this week.

Getting cold weather, but fine for study.

Lish and Tom Carter were absent this week.

Miss Rena Whitney has been absent part of this week.

A new scholar—Leonard Rickets. Welcome, friend.

Would it not be a good idea for a portion of our school to read more?

Rose Bratton has been sick this week; will be glad when she returns.

We think the scholars should be more interested in the Literary society.

Claude Norton and Leslie Moreman made a flying trip to Amarillo the first of the week. They report the town still growing.

It was reported last week that the addition to the school was com-

Notice to Shippers of Weekly Stock Train.

AMARILLO, TEXAS, August 29, 1901.
 We have arranged to start a Weekly Stock Train for Kansas City, beginning on next Sunday night, September 1, 1901. It is expected that this train will leave:

Carlsbad	12:30 a.m.	Monday
Roswell	4:00 "	"
Portales	8:30 "	"
Bovina	10:30 "	"
Hereford	12:30 p.m.	"
Canyon City	2:00 "	"
Amarillo	4:00 "	"
Washburn	4:30 "	"
Panhandle	5:35 "	"
Miami	7:35 "	"
Canadian	8:35 "	"
Higgins	9:50 "	"
Gage	10:45 "	"
Woodward	11:35 "	"

Where it will connect with a train on the Atchison line that it is hoped will put cattle into Kansas City for Wednesday's market but it must be understood that we do not guarantee to make this market, as we are liable to be delayed in gathering shipments all along the road, as this train contemplates and may have to unload for feed and rest, in order to comply with the law. We have selected Wednesday's market for the reason that we are assured that the market on the following day, Thursday, is equally good, and our patrons are therefore protected as far as we can protect them against loss or account of possible delays above suggest. We will still continue to handle tied and shipments, with proper notice, on any day of the week as built shipper. This weekly stock train is simply intended to take care of shipments that would otherwise have to be handled by way of freight trains and necessarily suffer considerable delay.

 Traffic Manager.

menced. It was a mistake, but it will be commenced soon.

Considerable consternation was felt among the female circles this week and the market was unsteady over Claude Norton's absence.

We are sorry to announce that Mr. Tom Carter stopped school, for his presence will certainly be missed among the ladies of the school room.

Bounds & Lipscomb are fixed up in their new location, the Meeks building. 37-1f

J. F. Smith is still in town awaiting a buyer for his 1500 yearlings that he is holding about 12 miles south of here.

The Hop Joints Are Gone.

The entire time of the County court for the past week has been devoted to the trying of the cases against the Hop Ale dealers of this place and quite a number of Hico's citizens have been over to Hamilton the greater part of the week. We understand that the first two cases tried resulted in conviction and a fine of $75 and 20 days in jail were imposed. The rest seeing the jig was up began to work for a compromise and finally an agreement was reached wherein each Hop Ale dealer and their clerks signed an agreement to close their joints and never as long as the town was Pro. sell any more hop or to work for a man that was in that kind of business or to rent their houses to anyone for that purpose. Consequently the hop joints are all closed and everything quiet along the Potomac.—Hico Vindicator.

It will be seen from the above that the law really can be enforced in reference to hop joints and prohibition.—Stephenville Empire.

New Method of Branding.

F. E. Granger, of Aberdeen, S. D., has applied for a patent on a new thing in the way of a branding instrument that should bring him in a handsome thing when it is placed on the market. It affixes the brand to animals by means of a chemical which burns off the hair and leaves the stamp permanently imprinted on the hide. The chemical is placed in a cylinder arranged like a syringe. On the face of the can or syringe is a stencil containing the letters or marks desired. The liquid is loaded into the cylinder, and by working the piston, which is fitted with a brush, as much of the liquid as may be desired is forced through the stencil on the points of the brush onto the hide, where it burns in the characters.—Live Stock Inspector.

ORDER OF COMMISSIONERS

Court Prohibiting the Sale of Intoxicating Liquors in Deaf Smith County.

Be it remembered—That on the 19th day of October A. D. 1901, there was begun and holden a special term of the Hon. Commissioners court of Deaf Smith county, Texas, for the purpose of opening the polls and counting the votes cast at an election held October 5th A. D. 1901, for the purpose of determining whether or not the sale of intoxicating liquors shall be prohibited in Deaf Smith county, Texas at which the Hon. W. B. Boyd, County Judge, was presiding and R. N. Mounts, Commissioner of Precinct No. 2, and Ira Aten, Commissioner of Precinct No. 3 were present and County clerk F. B. Fuller, and Sheriff J. T. Inmon were in attendance when the following proceedings were had, to-wit:

The court proceeded to open the polls and canvass the returns of the said special Election, which said canvass shows the result of the ballot to be 105 votes for prohibition and 86 votes against prohibition. It appearing that of the total vote cast in Deaf Smith County at said election there is a majority of 19 votes for prohibition.

We the Commissioners Court of Deaf Smith County therefore declare the result of ballot in the aforesaid election to be 105 votes for, and 86 votes against prohibition.

It is therefore ordered by this court that the sale of intoxicating liquors, except for the purposes and under the regulations provided by law, under title 69 of the revised statutes, be and the same is prohibited in Deaf Smith county, Texas, until such time as the qualified voters there-in, may at a legal election held for that purpose by a majority vote decide otherwise.

The foregoing minutes read and approved in open court; It is ordered that this court do now stand adjourned.

Approved, Oct. 19th, 1901.

W. B. Boyd, County Judge.

Attest, F. B. Fuller, Co. clerk.

STATE OF TEXAS

COUNTY OF DEAF SMITH, I, F. B. Fuller, Clerk of the county court in and for Deaf Smith county, Texas, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of the original order as recorded in Commissioners Court Minutes, Vol. I, page 598.

Given under my hand and seal of office, this 19th day of October, A. D. 1901.
