A Recognized Fact---That Hereford's the "Banner Town" of the Plains

THE CAMPAIGN IS OPENED

Editor Vanderburgh Expresses His Views On the Saloon Question.

A FULL AND FREE DISCUSSION OF

This Important Issue Is Earnestly Desired--Send In Your Communications, With Your Name Signed Thereto, and the Reporter Will Publish Them.

THINK BEFORE YOU VOTE.

Deaf Smith County Citizens Are Asked to Condemn a Man for Obeying the Laws.

The people of Hereford and Deaf Smith county should weigh the local option question well in their minds before casting their vote at the coming election to decide that much discussed question. Let us look into the liquor business, as a present conducted in Hereford.

The present proprietor, a public-spirited, law-abiding citizen, was an officer of the law for many years and bears many scars of wounds made while an officer of the famous Texas Rangers in the enforcement of the laws and the bringing of offenders to justice. He came to Hereford and cast his lot with the town and its people, and has spared no expense to help make Hereford what it is today, the "banner town" of the plains. He has invested his hard-earned money in a business which is legalized by the laws of the state and country, and has made his name noted as a liquor dealer who lives up to every letter of the law. On account of his policy to sell no liquor to an intoxicated person, drunkenness is almost unknown to the citizens of Hereford, and what little intoxication there has been, was confined to people who bought their liquor from outside dealers and upon whom local option would have no possible effect.

They should also bear in mind that minors (those under 21 years of age) can under no circumstances obtain liquor at Hereford's only liquor store; that games of chance are strictly prohibited, thus making the house anything but a place of amusement; and that the money paid into the county treasury as license, materially increases the local government's finances.

Were the liquor business in Hereford conducted on anything but a law-abiding basis, the editor of this paper would join the local option side of the question. But, inasmuch, as conscientious, law-abiding liquor dealers are few and far between, he believes that when a town has one such, his law-abiding qualities should be applauded instead of condemned—and a local option law would be a condemnation.

Again, I say, consider the matter well before you cast your vote.

F. L. VANDERBURGH.

Mr. Vanderburgh Answered.

The above article, from F. L. Vanderburgh, opens the campaign in defense of the saloon. While we regret to see Mr. Vanderburgh espouse what we consider the wrong side of this question, we are ready and glad to publish both sides of the question, making this condition, however, that contributors sign their productions. When no name is signed the writer may be charged with editorial.

The writer of the article referred to calls upon us to look at the liquor business as it exists in Hereford. In the first place, taking for granted that the proprietor of the Hereford saloon is tracking the law to the letter, does Mr. Vanderburgh suppose that this town, which has had such rapid growth for the past three years, will not assume greater proportions in the way of furnishing something to satisfy the enlarged appetite for liquor that is being cultivated here? Is it not a fact that others are contemplating entering the saloon business? And has Mr. Vanderburgh or any one, any assurance that other saloons that might be opened would be conducted by law abiding men? Is it any news to the public that it is a rarity to find anybody but law-breakers in the saloon business? The new thing in the matter is for a saloon advocate to make this acknowledgment.

In the second place, the people of Hereford are making no attempt to convict the saloon man here of any violation of the law, nor has the writer ever heard of such a charge, but they have simply asked for the privilege of condemning the LIQUOR TRAFFIC, however it may be run and to say by their votes that they will not be a party to the crime of enticing their fellowman to squander his money, to barter away his prospects, his happiness, his very soul and blight the hopes, the all, of a dependent and disappointed wife and neglected children. This is the issue instead of the legality of the acts of the man that chances to run a shop in Hereford.

The very fact that the saloon here is run legally has given the business a respectability that causes people to drink and acquire the drink habit that would not enter a low dive. Does Mr. Vanderburgh know of such a person?

The next point I will notice is the fact that the saloon man has invested "his hard earned money" in the business here and therefore should not be disturbed. There are other lines of investment that are profitable and no doubt the man who can run an unworthy business in a worthy way, if such a paradox is allowable, would surely receive his share of patronage in a business, the worthiness of which is unquestioned. On this same point of investment, have the mothers and wives of the town any investment in their boys or their husbands? Are these to be considered in making up our minds as to where considerations are justly due? And are the mothers and wives better pleased and entirely satisfied if the whiskey they smell on the breath of their son or husband as he comes home full, is sold by a man that sells it according to law? Is legally sold whiskey more conducive of happiness in the home? On the other hand whoever enters the saloon business in Texas does so upon notice of a statute guaranteeing to citizens of any county or any smaller political division, the right to say whether the business shall be continued in their midst. Then to offer such an argument is puerile.

Next, as to the revenue question. I will have some figures to present at an early date, but will say just here, that recently in answer to this question in a Northern city, the women of the town proposed to the Anti's that they would raise hogs and donate to make up the deficiency if they would only vote out whiskey, preferring to sacrifice their hogs rather than their boys for the running expenses of the city government.

We emphasize it, "Think before you vote."

B. T. Hinton of Hereford, stopped over night with us on his way to Floyd a few weeks ago.

Several neighbors were in Plainview last week trading. They claim to have inducements offered them.

Rain, rain, rain. Lots of surface water. Late crops are in fine condition and lots of feed will be made.

A. J. Herr and W. C. Holder have lumber on the ground for the new school house which will be put up at once.

A. J. Lipscomb of the firms of Stambaugh & Lipscomb and Bound & Lipscomb, was up here and was prospecting a few days ago.

We learn that Sanders & Williams are to establish a goose ranch near the big lake west of Hereford, put up wind mills to insure plenty of water at all times, grow two or three rows of trees round the lake, build boats and make it a beautiful park and pleasure resort for Hereford and the surrounding country.

Prospectors from all parts of the country are looking for homes. Some are buying homes and others patented lands. We are glad to see men getting homes so cheap in this country. We really believe this is their last opportunity to get cheap land and a home in this fertile and healthful country. Come and locate with us and enjoy the many opportunities this country affords the home seeker.

TO THE LADIES OF HEREFORD:

W. H. Clary worked hard this week—especially on Monday. He had to unload a great big car of nails—nothing else—for the Stringer & Hume Co.

Mrs. Lee Johnson is convalescent from her illness of last week.

Cumberland Presbyterian Church.

The people of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, of Hereford, are moving to the front in earnest in the matter of building a church house in this place. They propose to build a nice, modern building; one that will be an ornament to the town and an honor to the cause of Christ. The house is to be 40 feet square, with a tower at one corner, in which will be two doors of entrance into the vestibule. The pulpit and choir-stand will be in the opposite corner. The seats will be circular, upon a dropped floor. The windows will be of stained glass, two of which will be 8x11 feet.

The people of Hereford show their charitable and enterprising spirit by the way they contribute to such enterprises. The pastor of the C. P. church raised a handsome subscription on the streets here last Friday in a few hours. Another such a day's work would enable them to put up a building that would be, not only an ornament to the town, but would make everyone who had invested in it proud of the fact.

Dissolution Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the livery firm of Hinton & May is this day dissolved by mutual consent, B. T. Hinton retiring. Andrew May will continue the business—assuming all indebtedness and collecting all outstanding accounts.

McKINLEY.

At 2:15 last Saturday morning the news was flashed over the wires that President McKinley was dead, making the third President in thirty years to die at the hand of the assassin. The nation now is bowed in grief, the people of a commonwealth in sorrow. The loss of the man McKinley is stroke to our American citizenship, a great man fallen, but when McKinley, the President, falls the victim to high-handed and heartless Anarchy, the question of the man is only incidental, and partyism gives way to Americanism and a whole nation mourns, and the impulse of an entire people springs as one to avenge the death of their chief and to exterminate from the land the last sprig of Anarchy and make it a death penalty for the merest seed of such damnable doctrine to be sown within the borders of this freedom loving land.

Many theories have been advanced for dealing with Anarchists but no consensus of opinion has been reached. It is hoped that our next congress will reach a solution of the problem of dealing with this class, with unpronounceable names, whose doctrines result in the deeds of the assassin. In the past century, of the twenty heads of nations that have been murdered, nine have been the heads of Republican governments. Let us pass laws that will investigate the slightest appearance of an Anarchist league and banish from our country its promoters or punish them as traitors to a free country.

The Superintendent of the Arkansas Pass Railroad gave out orders on Tuesday that at 11:30 o'clock on Thursday morning, all trains wherever they might be, must stop for five minutes as a tribute to the nation's lamented Chief. Bells on all trains were to be tolled at intervals of thirty seconds during this period.

PRESIDENT Roosevelt announces that he will continue the policy followed by McKinley.

THE Synod of the Presbyterian church in session at Hillsboro indorsed the Dallas Medical College as the medical branch of the Trinity University soon to be removed to Waxahachie. A building committee was appointed, for the erection of a new home of the institution. Waxahachie's bid for the University was $80,000. This might be a suggestion to Hereford as to the benefits that are considered to come from the location of a good institution in their midst.

ON Tuesday Czolgosz the murderer of McKinley was indicted by grand jury for the crime of murder in the first degree. When brought before the court the prisoner refused to answer any questions of the prosecuting attorney, feigning insanity. Having no council the court appointed attorneys for the defense and the prisoner was removed to jail to be brought again before the court on Wednesday.

That insanity game is a chestnut and will not prevent the elongation of Czolgosz' spinal column.

The Hereford Broom factory last week shipped 100 doz brooms to a wholesale firm of Wichita Falls. The brooms of this factory, on account of quality of straw and workmanship, are in considerable demand. Broom corn is a prolific growth in these sections and promises to be a profitable crop here. Broom corn is $110. in St. Louis and one fourth ton per acre is not a large crop for this country.

Prisoner Escapes.

On last Tuesday afternoon while Sheriff Inmon was away in the north part of the county Fred H. Mendenhall held in custody here on a charge of illegal voting broke (quit) jail and wended his way leisury westward out of town unobserved by any of the officers or others that suspected his flight. Deputy Jack Harwell was informed of his escape and soon the officials along the line of the telegraph were warned to be on the lookout. As a result Mendenhall was hauled out of a box car at Portales N. M. by Deputy Henderson of that place and is being held in Roswell for the requisition papers from Governor Sayers.

The Ball Game

Last Saturday the Hereford Base ball nine went to Canyon fort he express purpose of crossing bats with the Canyon nine for the fourth time. Twice before our boys had gained the victory-suffering defeat once and naturally were confident of adding another victory to the list. The game was called at 3 p. m. and a glance at the following score will show how interesting it was.

The score stood 29 and 34 in favor of Hereford. The Canyon boys are convinced that Hereford boys can knock a few fouls. The boys returned home that night, speaking very highly of the kindness and courteous treatment of our sister city.

Now that the campaign against the liquor traffic is on in this county, the REPORTER offers its pages to the advocates of both sides for the discussion of the merits of the question, subject, however, to this condition: that all articles have signed to them the name of the writer. Let us have a full discussion, that we may cast an intelligent vote on the question before us.

WHEN we see small boys with cigarettes or a quid of tobacco in their mouths, we wonder if it is generally known that it is a violation of a criminal statute to give or sell to a boy under sixteen years of age, tobacco, in any form. We would regret to see one of our citizens compelled to "dig up" $25 for furnishing a boy with the filthy weed.

BEFORE the Spanish-American war the average appropriation for the war department was $23,000,000. This year it is $116,000,000. This is only the financial side of the question. MEMORIAL SERVICES.

At 10 o'clock a. m. on Thursday all business houses in Hereford were closed on account of the services in memory of ex-President McKinley.

The citizens of the town assembled at the church, and Judge Ferguson, who was master of ceremonies, announced the program, which was carried out as follows:

Invocation—Rev. Woods.
Song, America—Choir.

Following this were short talks by Dr. B. M. Johnson, R. F. Holloway and Judge Gough, alternating with singing by the choir.

After these the sermon was preached by Rev. C. A. Clark, which was quite impressive.

The services closed with singing "Nearer, My God, to Thee," the favorite hymn of the late lamented President.

Music was in charge of Dr. R. H. Gough and was quite impressive.

The services were concluded by prayer, led by Rev. Mr. Wood.

Williams & Son Sell Out.

The latter part of last week arrangements were completed whereby Stambaugh & Lipscomb acquired the grain business and property of Williams & Son. They have consolidated the business with their own large interest here and will doubtless do a larger business than ever before and certainly are better prepared to serve the public. The Williams wagon yard, in conjunction with their own will give them abundant facilities for carrying on the yard business that comes to them. The yards are spacious, well watered, and dry and they are at your service. There is no need of saying aught of Stambaugh & Lipscomb—both gentlemen are identified with too many interests in Hereford and are too well known for the REPORTER to say words of commendation. Their business is bound to increase and it will be handled in a satisfactory manner. Both members of the old firm will return to Plainview for the winter. During the time they have been in business here, they have made many friends who will sincerely regret to have them leave us.

A New Building.

Jowell & Holloway will in the near future erect a commodious office building on the lot between Dr. Johnsons and Witherspoon & Gough's. This office is rendered imperative by this firms rapidly increasing business and will be fitted out and managed to suit the conveniences of their patrons.

Some Facts From Assessor's Rolls

The taxable value of property in Deaf Smith county for this year is $1,262,807, an increase of $180,000 over last year.

Taxes are levied on 902,025 acres of land in the county.

There are 29254 head of cattle and 1581 head of horses in the county.

The citizens of the county pay taxes on 187 head of hogs in the county.

It is somewhat strange that the people do not raise more hogs, as they have been found to be very profitable by those who have tried it; especially where they have free access to green wheat, alfalfa or other pasturage.

Burns & Cardwell.

George E. Burns and E. F. Cardwell are the members of the new grocery firm of Burns & Cardwell. They are erecting a commodious building on the lot just north of McGlothlin & Black's furniture house, and just as soon as completed will supply with a large and complete line of staple and fancy groceries. Their line will be new, fresh and complete, and by careful attention and courteous treatment hope to merit a portion of your patronage.

DIMMITT SQUIBS

Happenings in the Busy Castro County Seat Briefly Told

EDITED BY AN UNKNOWN

Messrs. Vaughn, Gibson, Gollison, and Dixon of this county, all shipped fat cows to the Kansas City market the first of this week.

The death of our late President William McKinley has cast a gloom over our little community and we will abide by the Governor's proclamation and show our respect to the dead, thereby.

The young people of this community are going to give a Basket supper at the School house Friday night, Oct. 4th, the proceeds to be used toward school house improvements. If any one desires a good supper at a moderate cost, they know where to find it.

The big Methodist revival after a week of grand success, closed last Sunday night. We do not mean they had a great many conversions, but we see it has caused our people to remember the Golden Rule, more than ever before, thus bringing us all closer to Divine Power.

The cold winds that have been blowing from towards the North Pole for the past week reminds our good people of what is coming later and we all appreciate this warning as everybody is very busy putting up their crops, etc and will take advantage as soon as possible to lay in their winter supplies.

J. B. Hardy has been adding a new room to the American laundry and incidentally getting his hand crushed. Last Monday the wind caught the door, and the door caught three fingers on his right hand and the loss of three nails is assured. This little mishap has incapacitated him from work nearly all of the week.

On last Friday Johnson county voted on prohibition and after a hard struggle the saloon died. Why is it that the saloon men tell us that prohibition will not prohibit and yet they make such a hard fight in the face of the fact that they could avoid an enormous state licence by helping to vote prohibition and then proceed on a free basis? eh.

Fine Bulls for Sale

at Hereford, Oct. 3, 1901

Come and See Them

R. L. Faulkner of Jamesport, Mo., and W. S. Davis of Princeton, Mo., will hold a combination sale of registered Herefords and Shorthorn Bulls, cows and heifers at Hereford, on Oct. 3 1901.

The offering will consist of about 80 head in all and represent some of the grandest specimen of both breeds.

The cattle are all young, which insures the buyers their future usefulness, while their boeeding is such as to render them especially desirable. Established breeders will find females that will prove a profitable infusion of new blood into their herds, or stock bulls qualified to head any herd.

While the ranchman and stockfarmers will find good strong stock bulls for grade or common cows, prospective buyers could do no better than attend this sale. It costs very little to come. You don't have to buy anything when you get here, but you may pick up something that will pay you for your trip.
