Boom Goes Boom

A crane and large boom apparently tipped over and fell on top of storage bins Wednesday afternoon at Barrett-Crowfoot East, causing what manager Ed Barret called "light damage" to the buildings. The Hereford Volunteer Fire Department and an ambulance were called concerning a man who apparently had been trapped in either one of the buildings or in the crane. However, firemen and the ambulance driver were told their services were no longer needed when they arrived at the scene. The fire department again was called later in the afternoon to stand by as cutting torches were used in an effort to free the boom. Firemen finally left at 10 p.m. Wednesday and reported today that the crane was still downed.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - House members have muddled the tax relief waters with votes to prohibit income taxes and to spare one car per family from property taxation.

Both the House and Senate were scheduled to work today on their separate versions of a package of constitutional amendments designed to ease the burden of real estate taxes.

House members worked seven hours on their proposal Wednesday, quitting at 7:30 p.m.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said the package before the Senate, along with bills repealing the state sales tax on utilities and increasing inheritance tax exemptions, would save Texans $1 billion over the next three fiscal years.

"This will give some genuine relief to taxpayers, and we can go home," Hobby said Wednesday.

Each version would tax of agricultural land on productivity instead of market value; give taxpayers some leverage against local property tax increases; drop the rarely obeyed constitutional requirement that intangibles - such as cash, stocks and bonds - must be taxed; and provide some kind of homestead exemption from school taxes.

If the voters are to have a chance to make a decision on property tax relief at the Nov. 7 election, both chambers of the Legislature must approve a single package with a two-thirds vote in each house.

House decisions on various changes could make it more difficult to win agreement.

A key House vote Wednesday was the 144-25 roll call against tabling Galveston Rep. Doug McLeod's amendment prohibiting a personal or corporation income tax.

The amendment then was approved on voice vote.

Rep. Ron Waters, D-Houston, tried to cut corporations out of the amendment, leaving only a ban on a personal income tax. "Business taxes ought to be available as an option" for future legislators, he said.

"We are all aware of why Texas is prospering so much. The reason industry is coming to this state is because we don't have a corporation income tax," McLeod replied.

Rep. Froy Salinas, D-Lubbock, on a voice vote approval of his amendment exempting one automobile per family from property taxes after the House refused, 89-47, to table it.

"This is an exemption for the common folks - the people who just have cars," he said.

Opponents said some taxing jurisdictions get as much as 30 percent of their revenue from property taxes on cars and predicted that dropping cars from the tax base would cause a heavier taxation of real estate.

The House also voted to limit property tax exemptions for personal effects and household goods to $30,000 per category. These are now subject to taxation but seldom taxed.

Lions Club Contributes To Center

The Hereford Lions Club Wednesday contributed more than $9,000 to the City of Hereford for purchase of tables and chairs to be used in the new banquet room at the Community Center.

The presentation came during the club's regular weekly luncheon meeting Wednesday when president Gayle Cotten handed over a check for $9,128 to Mayor Bartley Dowell. The mayor expressed appreciation from the city as well "as all citizens of the community."

Dowell said the city expects to have the new addition to the Community Center ready for public use in about two weeks. The big banquet room is carpeted and paneled and has lobby and kitchen facilities. The mayor said it would seat about 400 at banquet tables.

Guest speaker for the Lions' meeting was Max Sherman, president of West Texas State University, who briefly commented on his "exciting first year" at the university and outlined some goals of the school.

"West Texas State touches the lives of almost everyone in this area," declared Sherman, "whether you are an alumnus, have relatives who attend the university, or in some other indirect manner."

He pointed out that WTSU now has some 29,000 graduates. Enrollment the past year was 6,600 and pre-enrollment for the fall is larger than in some time. Sherman said his goals include a strong faculty and a good teacher-student ratio and relationship.

Sherman made some administrative changes after taking over the presidency, and he reported Wednesday that this would result in savings of $60,000 to $120,000 for the year. He said new programs - such as psychology and a master's in nursing - have been added to the curriculum.

"We need to maximize our facilities and, along that line, we now have some cooperative programs going with Texas Tech and Texas A&M," said Sherman. He pointed out that WT has also initiated

Demands Voice in Future Carter Actions

Senate Blasts Korean Withdrawal

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate, concerned about the balance of power in Asia, is demanding a voice in any further administration decisions to withdraw U.S. troops from South Korea.

The Korean amendment was adopted as senators passed the $2.8 billion fiscal 1979 foreign military aid bill, which also makes lifting the U.S. economic boycott against Rhodesia contingent on progress in that Southern African country toward black majority rule. The legislation, approved 73-13 on Wednesday, now goes to the House for action, probably next week.

The amendment on removal of U.S.

troops from Korea was adopted as a fatigued Senate neared the close of two days' debate on the massive aid bill.

Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., first proposed an amendment declaring it the "sense of the Congress" that Carter's withdrawal of U.S. forces from South Korea, was "contrary to the national security interests of the United States and to the interests of peace in Asia."

But this was modified, with Percy's acquiescence, to say that "further withdrawal of ground forces ... may seriously risk upsetting the military balance in that region and requires full advance consultation with the Congress."

In that form it passed by 81-7, another in a recent string of assertions by Congress that the executive branch must consult lawmakers before undertaking major foreign policy moves.

A similar caveat was attached to another amendment on the bill Tuesday, that one dealing with changes in the U.S.-Taiwan mutual defense treaty.

Congressional complaints about a lack of consultation with the White House have been an irritant for more than a year, but Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, said he had noted "great improvement in recent months" in the situation.

He said Carter had written a letter to Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., promising regular consultations on Korean policy, including troop withdrawals.

Percy said he had "come to doubt very

Park Ride Breaks; Trio Killed

EUREKA, Mo. (AP) - A gondola ride carrying four passengers 70 feet above an amusement park slipped off its cable and plunged to the ground when a support arm on a tower broke. Two girls and a man were killed and a third girl was critically injured.

About 60 persons were stranded in the 15 remaining cable cars in operation at the time of the accident Wednesday at Six Flags over Mid-America park. All were rescued without further incident. The last passengers reached safety four hours after the accident.

The steel cable car, a mass of gnarled metal, was whisked away to a storage room nearby.

St. Louis County Fire Marshall James Holdinghaus said safety devices on the cable ride prevented the other cars from falling. Some parts of the ride are as high as 100 feet above the park, which was filled with about 20,000 persons at the time of the accident, officials said.

The ride had operated for eight years without incident, a park spokesman said. More than 15 million people have ridden safely in the Swiss-made ride, he added.

He called the accident a "fluke."

Firemen and police from ten surrounding communities used crane-like snorkel units to rescue the riders. It took a 100-foot aerial boom to reach the last few cable cars that swung gently in the humid 94-degree summer breeze at the attraction located about 25 miles south of St. Louis.

Less than an hour after the final person was snatched from the suspended cable car, high winds and torrential rains pummeled the 503-acre park.

Two girls, Trisha Weeks, 10, and Kristen Johnson, 15, of Riversville, W. Va. and her uncle, Clark F. Johnson, 25, of Barre Vt., were killed after one of the ride's 28 cable cars snapped loose when the support arm gave way about 2 p.m. Only 16 cars were in the air at the time.

Jennine Weeks, 12, a sister of Trisha, was in critical but stable condition today.

Hereford Residents Donate 82 Pints

Eighty-two pints of blood were donated Thursday when the Coffee Memorial Center's Bloodmobile came to Hereford. "It was a good turnout for summertime which is generally slower. The blood bank said that they only had three pints of blood on their shelves before coming to Hereford. They really appreciated it," said Joan Bookout, blood drive chairman for the county.

"Sixteen persons were rejected or we would have had 98 pints," she said.

Breakdown in pints are as follows, Glyn Bilbrey, 3 pints; Mary Landers, 1 pint; Maria Marquez, 4 pints; Norma Rodriguez, 2 pints; William Frank, 4 pints; Harold Milam, 21 pints; Annie Barlow, 1 pint; Martha Wiltshire, deceased, 1 pint; O.L. Bybee, deceased, 2 pints; Larry Bain, 17 pints; Oliver Waller, deceased, 1 pint; Jim Marchman, 2 pints; James Jones, 1 pint; insurance, 10 pints; Hereford pool, 8 pints; Knights of Columbus, 3 pints; and personal credit, 1 pint.

Foursome Survives, Companion Dies in Sea

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) - Two men and two boys tossed into the Atlantic when their 28-foot pleasure boat exploded survived a night floating 300 yards away from where several sharks were tearing at the body of a dead female companion.

As they waited for rescue, bolts of lightning knifed through the sea around them.

"Visibility was down to about zero," Coast Guard Chief Boatswain's Mate John Langhorn said Wednesday, hours after the four survivors were brought to Edisto Beach, S.C., where they refused medical treatment.

An Edisto Beach resident had reported seeing the explosion Tuesday night at 8 p.m. The survivors were rescued about 12 hours later.

The lightning may have saved the survivors from the sharks.

"It surprised me these four stayed together and didn't get attacked by sharks," said Deputy Sheriff James Craven. "Maybe the only thing that saved them was the sharp lightning we had." Lightning struck the water near the survivors several times during the night, Coast Guard officials said.

Craven said the explosion threw everybody but Larry Coyle, 65, of Charleston from the boat. He jumped in when it was apparent the boat would sink said Craven.

The survivors tied themselves together in a circle, with lifejackets and floating cushions from the boat. They saw that the woman had been killed in the explosion and cut her adrift, Craven said.

The crew of a 41-foot search boat found the survivors still tied together and floating about 5-to-8 miles off Edisto Island.

A Coast Guard helicopter pilot spotted the woman's body later. Crewmen stood on the helicopter's rescue platform battling sharks with a boat hook until they were able to retrieve the body of Barbara Ann Woodham, 58, of Charleston.

Charleston County Coroner Ray Shokes said the woman's body was severely mutilated.

Petty Officer 2nd Class David Giza said he was told by one of the survivors that the woman had died when a gas line on the "Miss Anne" exploded and the

PROBABLY MOST folks in our modern society are familiar with Murphy's Law, which states simply that "Anything that can go wrong will go wrong." Writers have, from time to time, come up with extensions or corollaries of Murphy's Law. You may have read editor Paul Sims' commentary on Murphy's Law. He wrote: "Murphy was an optimist."

One of our favorites is, "If everything seems to be going well, you have obviously overlooked something." An Extension of that law adds a solemn warning: "If there is a possibility of several things going wrong and none apparently do, check immediately for income tax evasion, CIA involvement and illegal campaign contributions."

Other "laws" have also been recorded. There is Segal's Law, which was probably translated from the ancient Chinese: "A man with one watch knows what time it is; a man with two watches is never sure." And there is Howe's Law that "every man has a scheme that will not work."

A lot of readers will probably identify with "The Unspeakable Law" which states that "As soon as you mention something, if it's good it goes away; if it's bad it happens; if it happens to be a good idea, someone else takes credit for it."

Of course, Ektor's Observation is a truism that is universally accepted: "The other line moves faster."

Rain Surprises City, Misses Most of County

By PAUL SIMS Managing Editor

Hereford got some rain, other parts of Deaf Smith County didn't, and Hereford shouldn't have.

As much as a third of an inch (.32 inches officially) fell early Wednesday evening in Hereford as a cool front surprised very scattered portions of the Panhandle.

"We weren't supposed to get any rain around here," a National Weather Service spokesman said. "It didn't look like much of a front when it was north of us."

It wasn't much of a front, as far as most portions of Deaf Smith County were concerned.

"It didn't even wet me when I was outside," said Mrs. H.L. Hershey, who lives 13 miles northeast of Hereford. "Not a drop," reported a man at Easter Grain, south of Hereford.

A trace-or less--was reported east of Dawn, south of Dawn and north of Hereford. Hereford lawn groomers got the most benefit from the rain, which followed a couple of dry, hot days. Those conditions--dry and hot--were expected to return today, said the weather service forecaster, who provided the following prediction:

"Clear to partly cloudy through Friday, a little warmer Friday. High today in the low 90's, low tonight in the upper 60's, high Friday in the upper 90's. Winds light and variable today and tonight."

He added a dismal note: "No chance of rain for awhile."

Last weekend's rain, which dumped as much as a half inch on parts of the county, was beneficial to the area corn crop, said John Fuston, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service director.

"Corn looks good. The rain helped, I guarantee it did," Fuston said. "We need some more."

Brothel Owner Owes $7 Million, Says IRS

WASHINGTON (AP) - The International Revenue Service claims a Nevada brothel owner owes more than $7 million in taxes but concedes that he can deduct prostitutes' salaries as a business expense.

Joe Conforte, challenging the assessment in the U.S. Tax Court here, said the IRS should also let him deduct rebates to his drivers plus his brothel's legal fees and linen costs.

In an appeal made public Wednesday, Conforte said the deductions for salaries and wages of prostitutes, rent, utilities and taxes and licenses allowed by the IRS are substantially understated.

Prostitution is legal in Nevada's Storey County, where Conforte owns Mustang Ranch, the state's largest brothel. The IRS makes little distinction about the legality of a business when it assesses taxes or allows deductions.

Conforte is also suing the IRS, charging the assessment was "unreasonable and excessive."

Begin Says Expulsion Not That Critical

JERUSALEM (AP) - Prime Minister Menachem Begin said Egypt's expulsion of a standby Israeli delegation from Cairo is a minor matter and chances for peace are still excellent.

The delegation of military men, which stayed in Egypt after peace talks between the two countries broke down in January, was to return home today by Egyptian airliner.

President Anwar Sadat asked the Israeli delegation to leave "since there was no need for their presence," the Egyptian government television service announced.

Begin in a TV interview said he received a telegram saying the 10-man delegation should be recalled; and agreed to bring it home.

"They don't have a central role. If their hosts don't want them...we'll receive them back here happily," he said.

The delegation accompanied Defense Minister Ezer Weizman to Cairo in January when he began discussions with Egypt's defense minister of Israeli withdrawal from Sinai. The talks were suspended when parallel negotiations on the future of the West Bank and the Gaza Strip collapsed in deadlock in January, but Weizman's team remained in Cairo to await the resumption of negotiations.

PUC's Rate Setting Valid, Claims Court

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The Texas Supreme Court Wednesday upheld the Texas Public Utility Commission's method of setting telephone and electric rates.

It was a victory for the commission and a setback for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., which claimed the state agency's formula did not give it sufficient revenue.

Bell took its case to the courts after the commission granted it rate increases totaling $57.8 million in December 1976, a fraction of the increase sought by the company.

The court did agree with Bell that the commission must consider replacement cost of a utility's equipment and property in determining the total investment on which rates are based.

Rates are supposed to produce a certain rate of return on invested capital.

The high court said that while the Public Utility Regulatory Act says a utility is entitled to a reasonable return on invested capital, the term "invested capital" is never defined.

And elsewhere in the act, the court said, the Legislature says the correct rate base is adjusted value of invested capital - a mix of original cost and replacement cost of equipment at today's prices.

"The only reasonable interpretation which can be placed upon the phrase 'invested capital' is that it means original cost less depreciation....Since the Legislature could just as easily have said 'adjusted value of invested capital'....we must take 'invested capital' to have a different meaning....We therefore hold that 'invested capital' means original cost less depreciation," the court said.

Garbagemen Strike In Different Cities

By The Associated Press

The sword of unemployment hung over the heads of 245 striking Tuscaloosa, Ala., garbagemen who were ordered by the mayor to get back to work today or lose their jobs.

In Detroit, garbage collectors authorized a strike but gave their negotiators until 11 a.m. EDT today to settle a new contract.

And in San Antonio, Texas, where a tough-talking city manager fired 177 striking workers earlier this week, 28 sanitation trucks rolled on their routes Wednesday, each with a police car protecting its flank.

Some 15 Tuscaloosa Sanitation Department supervisory workers manned garbage trucks for limited collections Wednesday as Mayor Ernest Collins gave the workers, who walked out Monday, the ultimatum.

Pickets were set up after Collins and city officials refused to remove a supervisor from his job. Other issues are working conditions and health benefits.

Collins said the workers claimed that timekeeper James Kirby had shoved one of the men and had posted incorrect time sheets on others, resulting in pay losses.

Collins said he asked members of Local 2237 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees for time to investigate the charges, but they walked out anyway.

Lumberman Rockwell Dies at 77

Houston lumberman-philanthropist Henry M. Rockwell, 77, died Saturday and was buried at Houston after funeral services in that city. He was owner of Rockwell Brothers Lumber Co., which has one of its Texas stores in Hereford.

He was director and chairman of the board of the Rockwell Fund Inc. which gave away millions of dollars to many groups and causes. By 1969 the fund was reported to have contributed about $7 million for various purposes.

More recently, $75,000 was given for construction of a nursing home in the Oklahoma hometown of Mr. Rockwell's mother. A children's zoo was another beneficiary, and the Mecom-Rockwell Fountain was erected at a park in Houston, among the numerous gifts.

Born and reared in Houston, Mr. Rockwell assumed control of the family lumber business in the early 1960's after World War II military service in the Pacific area. He received an honorary doctor of humanities degree from his alma mater, Southwestern University.

A nephew, Cecil Rockwell Jr. of Fentress, and several cousins survive.

Paul Harvey News Connally Would Be Some Kind Of President

I am not a politician. I wear no party label. But to the extent that politics is our nation's most popular "spectator sport" I am an interested spectator.

If you had to make a book today on an election that's still 30 months away you would have to bet that Ted Kennedy would take the nomination away from President Carter. Among Republicans—at least one fascinating possibility is that the Ford-Reagan folks might lock horns and deadlock the GOP convention.

John Connally would make some kind of President!

Pragmatically, there are six reasons that he doesn't have a chance. The first two reasons are Ford and Reagan.

Both are running as fast as they presently can for the 1980 nomination.

George Gallup's pollsters find rank-and-file Republicans in all parts of the nation split right down the middle: 46 percent Ford, 45 percent Reagan.

Should it stay that close in convention, a deadlock could open the door for a dark horse.

There are still four more factors, however, which might deny the nomination to Connally.

1--The Texas syndrome. Any professional politician recognizes this handicap. L.B.J. had to enter the White House through the back door.

I think the New England evaluation of Texas and Texans is outdated and warped and distorted—but it is nonetheless politically omnipresent.

2--Though Connally was found innocent of any wrongdoing in the "milk fund" investigation, the shadow remains.

3--Connally's party switch.

4--California conservatives are slow to forgive—and may never forgive Connally for endorsing Ford over Reagan before the last convention.

Such is their residual resentment that they might prefer almost anybody else.

"On the other hand," as they say we pundits say—if these several obstacles could be overcome John Connally would make some kind of a President.

He is the only Republican with a charisma to eclipse Kennedy's.

Connally could capture the white-collar vote and penetrate the blue-collar vote with an imaginative campaign in behalf of "the working class."

The workaday, overtaxed wage earner everywhere is in revolt. A Republican campaigning for "the working class" would spotlight Kennedy's longtime support for the "unproductive."

Connally does not believe in Santa Claus.

Connally has the personal presence of a strong leader without any military predilection to feed the meat grinder.

He is an administrator, a skilled money manager, and he knows the political game of bending without breaking as few do.

I'm not stumping for anybody; never have, never will.

Subsequently we will discuss the merits and demerits of other hopefuls.

In leadership potential our nation is not bankrupt. As just one example, John Connally would make some kind of President!

Grain Futures Show Gain Across Board

CHICAGO (AP) - Grain futures showed moderate gains across the board Wednesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Commercial buying in wheat and corn combined with some speculative buying by locals pushed corn futures up 2 1/2 to 3 cents and wheat prices up 3 to 3 1/2 cents.

Strong cash prices for wheat in the Gulf area indicated that exporters were buying to fulfill near-term contract obligations and that wheat supplies were tightening.

The government reported earlier this week that fewer farmers than anticipated are taking part nationwide in the government's cropland set-aside program.

At the close, soybeans were 3 1/2 to 7 1/2 cents higher, with August contracts quoted at $6.30 1/2, wheat was 1 1/2 to 3 1/2 cents higher, September $3.15; corn was 2 1/2 to 3 cents higher, September $2.30 1/4; and oats were 2 1/2 to 2 1/2 cents higher, September $1.23 1/4.

U.S. Consumers Suffer More Than Others Because of Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) - American consumers are suffering under a higher inflation rate than their counterparts in most other industrial nations, the Commerce Department says in forecasting a continued poor U.S. economic outlook.

In May, while Americans were paying 0.9 percent more for goods than they had just a month earlier, the inflation bite was only 0.2 percent for the average West German shopper.

In the same month, prices in Britain and Japan rose 0.6 percent and in France by 1 percent.

Over an entire year, the United States did slightly better. American prices in May were 7 percent higher than in May 1977. Japanese consumers paid 3.5 percent more over the full year; West German shoppers 2.7 percent; the British 7.7 percent, and the French 9 percent.

U.S. trade negotiators maintain that Japan and Germany are holding down inflation rates in part because of their huge trade surpluses.

Other countries are suffering because of those surpluses, the negotiators say, and the two countries should try to stimulate their economies so imported goods become more attractive to Japanese and German shoppers.

The Commerce Department report released on Friday showed that while inflation in the United States generally was higher than in other industrial nations, pay increases for American workers were smaller.

In May, Americans made 6.6 percent more than they did a year earlier. Japanese wage hikes were 7.8 percent. In West Germany pay increased an average 5.7 percent. The figures for Britain and France were 15.2 percent and 11.9 percent respectively.

Much of America's inflation has been caused by rising food and housing prices. Commerce Secretary Juanita M. Kreps said on Friday that food prices rose 17 percent in the first six months of the year but should not rise as much in the second half.

"However, the expected moderation of food price increases will not solve the serious and persistent problem of inflation in other sectors," she told reporters.

The secretary urged business and labor to cooperate with the government in holding down wages and prices.

Mrs. Kreps was commenting on a report on second-quarter economic growth which showed the nation's output rising at a strong 3.6 percent annual rate.

But the rate was lower than expected and because of this, she said, the administration may be unable to achieve its goal of 4.1 percent overall economic growth for 1978. She said the target now "looks too optimistic."

However, the gain followed a decline of 0.1 percent in the first three months of the year. Mrs. Kreps said the economy should slow down for the rest of the year.

The report showed consumer prices rising at an annual rate of 10.1 percent in the second quarter, the largest three-month increase in more than three years.

The Commerce Department said the nation's gross national product was $2.08 trillion at an annual rate during the April-June period - up from a rate of $1.99 trillion in the first three months.

Two trillion is 2,000 billion. The GNP, which measures the total output of goods and services in the economy, crossed the $1 trillion mark in 1971, so it took just seven years to double total output in dollar terms.

However, much of the increase results more from the effect of inflation than from real production gains. After discounting for inflation, the GNP in the second quarter was $1.38 trillion.

Mrs. Kreps said that when the results of the first two quarters are combined, it shows the economy grew at an annual rate of 3.6 percent and inflation was at a rate of 8.6 percent.

Thus, even if the economy grows at 4 percent during the second half of the year - the top range of the administration's expectations - it would still fall short of 4.1 percent, which the administration recently said was its target for the year.

The economy grew 4.9 percent during 1977. In determining the growth of the economy, the government discounts the effect of inflation. The quarterly growth figures are computed at an annual rate, meaning that would be the growth for the entire year if it continued at the same pace.

Economists in and out of government had been expecting growth during the second quarter in the 9 percent to 0 percent range following the poor first-quarter performance.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said the inflation figures were "not encouraging."

He said President Carter is working on a 1980 budget that "will have very little, if anything, in the way of new initiatives."

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Thursday, July 27, the 208th day of 1978. There are 157 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1953, an armistice was signed at Panmunjom, ending the Korean War after more than three years of fighting.

On this date: In 1789, Congress established the Department of Foreign Affairs, the forerunner of the State Department.

In 1922, the United States formally recognized the countries of Albania, Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia.

In 1941, during World War II, Japanese forces landed in French Indochina.

In 1954, Britain and Egypt agreed on terms ending British control of the Suez Canal.

In 1955, Austria regained sovereignty after 17 years of occupation by foreign troops.

In 1960, the Republican National Convention in Chicago nominated Richard Nixon for president.

Ten years ago: A night curfew in Cleveland was lifted and some National Guardsmen were removed as racial violence simmered down.

Five years ago: The U.S. Senate passed a bill authorizing the use of up to $210 million in federal funds to keep bankrupt railroads running.

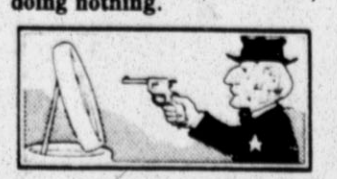

One year ago: Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin rejected the American contention that Israeli settlement in occupied Arab areas violated international law.

Today's birthdays: Former major league baseball manager Leo Durocher is 72 years old. Former World Bank President George Woods is 77.

Housing Boom Muffled Because of Factors

NEW YORK (AP) - With mortgage rates nearing 10 percent and with loans getting harder to obtain, the great housing boom of the past year and a half seems likely to become muffled over the next few months.

This cannot be stated with certainty, because homebuyers, cognizant of the 12 percent appreciation in prices over the past year, have not let the rising cost of money deter them. But there must be a limit.

Debt for cars, appliances, home mortgages and all other goods and services is now approaching $1 trillion. It rose 15 percent last year, when interest charges alone came to 6 percent of take-home pay.

Also, money is getting scarcer. Savings and loan associations, the largest mortgage lenders, are not attracting money as quickly as they would like to. The rate of savings, and thereby loans, is declining.

But buyers need not feel all the news is negative. With a decline in the market there usually comes a slowdown in the rate at which housing prices rise, and that was a huge 12 percent last year.

And while mortgage rates might continue rising over the next couple of months, they too are destined to stabilize and maybe even fall in the final quarter of the year.

By how much? Perhaps by a quarter-point, says Dennis Jacobs, an economist for the U.S. League of Savings Associations. Any greater decline would depend on a lowering of inflation in general.

What the forecast adds up to is a decline in the rate of housing construction and sales. Last year new housing starts came to 1.95 million units. This

Bribery Allegations Rejected

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - The 3rd Court of Civil Appeals Wednesday rejected the allegation of two Bell County residents that trustees of a school district had "bribed" older voters on a bond issue by granting persons 65 or older homestead exemptions prior to the bond election.

The two Bell County residents, who resided in the Academy Independent School District, contested the Jan. 28 election, at which a majority of the voters approved the issuance of bonds for permanent improvements.

They claimed school trustees had induced persons 65 and older to vote for the bonds by granting the homestead exemption the previous November.

The trial court granted a summary judgment for the trustees, and the appeals court affirmed that ruling.

The appeals court said the "motive influencing the trustees" in granting the exemption and calling the bond election "is not a subject of inquiry by the courts in an election contest."

year, Jacobs anticipates a figure of .8 million.

Does it also add up to recession? "We think there is the possibility of a recession in the next 9 to 12 months," said Jacobs, echoing what seems to have become in recent weeks the consensus forecast.

Recession. Recalling again the severe encounter of 1974-1975, Americans shudder when they hear the word. But recessions are expectable, though varying in intensity and duration.

In fact, the past 41 months constitute one of the longest recession-free periods in our modern history. A correction, as they say, is overdue, although most economists foresee it as mild and brief.

Man Reveals Offer To Kill King

NEW YORK (AP) - A St. Louis man claims that he was offered $50,000 by two Missouri businessmen to arrange the murder of civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. more than a year before he was assassinated, the New York Times reported Wednesday.

The man, identified as Russell G. Byers, 44, a former auto parts dealer, told the Times he turned down the offer and later informed the FBI.

The House Select Committee on Assassinations, which is investigating King's death, is looking into the allegation because of "circumstantial connections" leading from Byers to the prison where James Earl Ray was incarcerated at the time, the newspaper said.

"At the prison, it was widely rumored in 1966 and 1967 that a conservative business group was willing to pay a large sum of money to anyone who would murder Dr. King," the Times said.

King was assassinated in Memphis on April 4, 1968. Ray, who is serving a 99-year prison sentence in Tennessee for the murder, initially pleaded guilty but since has sought a new trial.

According to the Times, Byers said the offer was made to him "in late 1966 or early 1967" by John R. Kauffmann and patent attorney John H. Sutherland, who shared ownership in a smaller water company in Imperial, Mo. Widows of both men denied that their husbands would have participated in such a scheme.

The Times said Byers and the businessmen are linked by several factors to the Missouri State Penitentiary in Jefferson City, where Ray had been serving time prior to an escape in April 1967.

Byers' brother-in-law, John Spica, was serving a term for murder at the prison during the time Ray was there, and the Times said it was believed that at one point the men were six cells apart. Byers denies mentioning the offer to Spica, who was paroled in 1973 and Still, when homeowners hear of economic declines or stagnations they worry, understandably and responsibly. After having grown faster than inflation for many years, can market values now plunge, they ask?

The savings and loan people, who have $490 billion invested in housing, think not. Those increases over recent years have been solid, not speculative, they say. They are based on demographics and costs.

Based on the amount of consumer debt and the rise in prices and the high interest rates, that market seems to need a rest during which it can shore up its underpinnings. It may come late this year.

The Times said Byers reportedly told the FBI about the incident five years ago. A spokesman for the FBI, who did not want his name used, was quoted by the newspaper as saying that the information was not filed under King's name in St. Louis and surfaced only recently during a check of other files.

Ray previously has been questioned in prison by members of the House assassinations committee. Two weeks ago, a federal judge signed papers to allow Ray to appear before the committee in Washington.

Vatican Calls Birth 'Illicit'

VATICAN CITY (AP) - A Vatican spokesman, commenting on Britain's first test-tube baby, said Wednesday the Roman Catholic considers artificial human insemination illicit.

The Rev. Pierfranco Pastore, saying he was making in a personal capacity, remarked that such a ban by the Roman Catholic Church was based on the belief that "fecundation must be carried out according to nature and through reciprocal and responsible love between a man and a woman."

There has been no formal Vatican statement so far on the test-tube experiment carried out in Britain. Pastore did not disclose if the Vatican was planning one.

Bulgaria was settled by Slavs in the sixth century. Turkic Bulgars arrived in the seventh century, merged with the Slavs, became Christians by the ninth century and set up powerful empires in the 10th and 12th centuries. The Ottomans prevailed in 1336 and remained for 500 years.

Pope Continues Ban On Artificial Control

VATICAN CITY (AP)—On the 50th anniversary of his encyclical "Humanae Vitae," Pope Paul VI is holding the line on his ban on artificial birth control. Despite widespread flouting of the world's 540 million Roman Catholics, he is again attacking proposals to improve the birth-controlled method.

A Gallup poll shows 41% of Catholics worldwide in the United States and Mexico favor the 50 percent decline in the church's ban on artificial birth control. Earlier this year the Pope acknowledged that his encyclical imposed difficult demands on Roman Catholics and asked for special attention for those who have not been able to obey the ban.

In a message sent Tuesday to Cardinal John Ceryan of St. Louis, Mo., the Pope said a 50th-anniversary symposium on his encyclical and his hopes for a "new era of dialogue" are available to members of the church, but not of artificial birth control.

On Saturday, a state's Administrative Code of San Francisco, Calif., said it had withdrawn a proposed ordinance prohibiting family planning and artificial birth control.

Government officials have reaffirmed that the ban on artificial birth control is a permanent part of the church's teaching.

The Vatican says that the ban on artificial birth control is a permanent part of the church's teaching. It says that the ban is a permanent part of the church's teaching.

The U.S. House of Representatives passed a bill on Tuesday that would allow the use of artificial birth control. The bill would allow the use of artificial birth control.

The bill would allow the use of artificial birth control. It would allow the use of artificial birth control.

The bill would allow the use of artificial birth control. It would allow the use of artificial birth control.

One of Pope Paul's chief reasons was the artificial birth control could lead toward "unnatural suffering" and the general lowering of morality. He also said that "spiral" (a form of artificial birth control) is a "direct" instrument of procreation.

No-Invasion Ruling Upheld by Court

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The Texas Supreme Court Wednesday agreed with a lower court decision denying a $1 million invasion of privacy judgment in favor of a fired Southwestern Bell executive who claimed his telephone was tapped.

It turned down an appeal by James M. Austin, who claimed his home phone was tapped after he was fired Oct. 31, 1974, from his job as Bell's general commercial manager in San Antonio.

Austin claimed Bell tapped his home phone to learn his legal strategy in another suit.

The court did not rule on Austin's claim that Bell's tapping of his home phone was a "reversible error" or a violation of the Eastland Court of Civil Appeals.

Austin and his wife won the $1 million verdict from a San Antonio trial court, but the Eastland court said there was no evidence to substantiate it. Evidence at the trial created serious doubts about Austin's allegation of eavesdropping and wiretapping, the Eastland court said.

In his appeal to the Supreme Court, Austin presented as self-evident the April 1, 1974, affidavit of Ronnie Brookshire, Bell's district manager in Midland.

Brookshire said he was tapped in late 1974 and early 1975 and actually found the device.

This was during the time that he was regularly communicating by telephone with Mr. James M. Austin in San Antonio, he said.

Brookshire said Bell's chief executive, Edwin McKelker, called him in San Antonio and told him that he was wiretapping Mr. Austin's telephone in behalf of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. and in connection with an investigation for the company of Austin.

He said he and Austin tested Austin's phone around Jan. 1, 1975, and found it was tapped.

Brookshire's affidavit said he was told if he testified at the trial of Austin's wiretap suit he would be fired.

Austin and the widow of T.O. Gravit, former chief of Bell's Texas operations, won a $5 million verdict in September 1977 in a slander suit. Gravit, under investigation at the same time as Austin, committed suicide Oct. 17, 1974.

Austin has called himself the "Ralph Nader of the telephone company" and has made numerous allegations that Bell maintained a political slush fund to make contributions to various candidates.

Medical of Plus II issued in 1960. Until then, the church had taught that sex must be solely for procreation.

The rhythm method, or planned and periodic abstinence from sex, is based on the fertility of women for several days after ovulation. Couples who do not wish a child are instructed to avoid sexual intercourse during that period.

Korea Truce Remains Informal after 25 Years

SEOUL, Korea (AP) - A quarter century after the armistice was signed in the bloody, three-year Korean War, officially it is still only a temporary truce with no formal pact binding North and South Korea.

One factor which South Korea and many U.S. military men insist helps maintain the fragile peace is the continuing presence of 40,000 U.S. troops. President Carter says he intends to pull out up to 32,000 troops over four to five years, although Congress has been closely examining his withdrawal plans.

In the past 12 months, there have been no major clashes along the 136-mile demilitarized zone across the strategic peninsula.

Since the armistice was signed, 52 Americans have died. North Korea keeps its daily denunciation of the "puppet clique" of President Park Chung-hee in the South, and calls for the immediate and complete withdrawal of "American imperialist" forces.

When the war broke out on June 25, 1950, the United States was the prime mover among 16 United Nations allies that sent in troops.

There still is a U.N. command, headed by the U.S. Formal armistice commission meetings are held at the truce village of Panmunjom to deal with charges of violations. The U.N. Command has accused North Korea of 42,883 violations since the armistice was signed, and the North has charged the U.N. side with 217,171.

But the South's army, economy and politics are seen as stabilizing forces in the area.

The South has an army of about 520,000 men and the North 440,000. North Korea is regarded as having an edge in air and naval strength, but these gaps currently are filled by American support.

South Korea's gross national product jumped from $3.6 billion in 1966 to $31.4 billion in 1977, averaging a 10 percent annual growth rate.

Recently reelected to an six-year term, Park's political position is firm, although his rule has come under criticism, sometimes at home and often from abroad.

Charges of alleged Korean influence buying in Washington and of violations of human rights in South Korea have put strains on the relationship between Seoul and the United States.

Soviets Suspend Activist Sentence

MOSCOW (AP) - A Soviet court convicted Jewish activist Maria Slepak of "malicious holliganism" Wednesday and gave her a three-year suspended labor camp sentence. The court said she could join her husband in internal exile.

Her husband, Vladimir, 50, was sentenced to five years of internal exile after his trial June 21 on the same charge. He was ordered sent to a remote area of the Soviet Union, believed to be Siberia. For protesting the government's refusal to let him and his wife emigrate.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Hodding Carter welcomed the suspended sentence "from a humanitarian point of view," and said Soviet authorities could help improve relations by not imposing prison terms on other dissidents.

On Tuesday, the U.S. administration imposed a moratorium on most high-level official trips to the Soviet Union because of recent dissident trials.

Meeting with correspondents at her home after the trial, Mrs. Slepak said she was surprised by the verdict. "I didn't expect it. I'd even brought a bag with my things in it" anticipating a sentence of labor camp or exile. "I really can't believe I'm free. I thought they'd take me to prison."

The couple was arrested June 1 after they hung a banner from the balcony of their eighth-floor apartment on Moscow's central Gorky Street demanding they be allowed to emigrate to Israel.

Some of those who waited for the trial to end was Ida Milgrom, mother of imprisoned Jewish activist Anatoly Shcharansky.

Mrs. Slepak's trial came less than two weeks after Shcharansky was convicted of espionage and sentenced to 13 years imprisonment and leading Soviet dissident Alexander Ginzburg received eight years in a labor camp on charges of anti-Soviet activity.

Snake Swiped At Store

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - A pet shop employee told police that someone had slithered away with a six-foot-long boa constrictor valued at $179.

Jan Doster, who works at the Pet Menagerie on the city's northeast side, said Tuesday that the snake was stolen from its tightly secured cage in a mid-day rush on Monday.

The snake, which can go six months without food, had been getting a meal about once every four days while at the pet store, Ms. Doster said.

Its last feeding was on Saturday.

Although the snake is usually docile, Ms. Doster says the person who took it must be braver than the normal customer.

"Only one in 10 is generally willing to touch it. Most won't even go near the cage," she said.

Ruling Could Change Future Of High School Basketball

HOUSTON (AP) — A 6-11, 250-pound, schoolboy star Greg Kite doesn't appear to need help in pursuing a basketball career but U.S. District Judge Fims Cowan has given him a helping hand anyway.

In a move that could eventually change the future of high school basketball in Texas, Cowan Wednesday issued an injunction that prohibits the University Interscholastic League from punishing Kite for attending two summer basketball camps next month.

Kite filed suit against the UIL, claiming the league's ban on varsity athletes participating in summer basketball camps violated his right to improve his skills.

But Cowan's helping hand so far only is extended to Kite.

Cowan was careful to point out that his ruling applied only to Kite and UIL Director Bailey Marshall warned that any other Texas schoolboy who attended a summer camp would be in violation of the UIL rule.

"We hope all the youngsters throughout the state realize this rule was just for this one youngster and anyone else who might go to a summer camp would be in violation of the rule," Marshall said.

UIL punishment for violation of the summer camp rule is loss on one year's eligibility.

Despite Marshall's warning, Kite and his attorney Dean Steffey, saw the ruling as opening the gates for other athletes to attend camps.

"In five years I think you will see a tremendous upgrading of high school basketball in Texas," Steffey said. "I think he (Kite) has opened the door for other high school athletes too. You can't let Greg go and nobody else."

"I'm just happy I'll be able to go to the camps and I that maybe other athletes will now have a chance to go to camps and improve themselves," said Kite, who averaged 19 points and 15 rebounds as a junior last season on Houston Madison's district championship team.

Marshall said the UIL's next move would be to try to formulate some type of rule that would permit summer camps with restrictions and try to get it approved.

It could be sent to member schools by next April," Marshall said. "If they turn it down I don't know what will happen. I guess we'll be back in court a lot."

Marshall said he didn't expect too many similar suits the rest of this summer because most summer basketball camps already are completed. "But if more suits are filed, I guess we'll be back in court," he said.

"Public interest has never been served by denying an individual of his constitutional rights," Cowan said, adding that Kite would suffer severe harm if not allowed to attend the camp.

Marshall said he foresees trouble ahead if summer camps eventually are approved for Texas.

"We know other states have less restrictive rules and they've had trouble with it," Marshall said. "The youngsters are pressured to attend. It won't solve the problems just putting restrictions on the camps."

While the Kite case has been the central topic of the 46th annual Texas High School Coaches Association coaching school under way here, the all-star football and basketball teams continued preparing for their weekend North-South clashes.

South Coach Doug Ethridge of Port Neches-Groves and North Coach Don Beck of Perryton each said their teams were starting to gell as units.

"The offense is starting to pick up and they are really learning to work together well," Ethridge said following Wednesday's workouts.

Ethridge said he has decided that Seguin's Lawrence Sampleton will kick extra points and Milton Collins of Blooming Grove will handle kickoff chores.

Beck said Artis-Cavanaugh of Breckenridge has a twisted ankle and South Garland's Jerry Sanders suffered a case of heat fatigue but both are expected to be ready for Saturday's battle in the Astrodome.

Terry Teagle, a 30-point per game shooter from Broadus, remained hobbled by an ankle injury. South Coach Bob Latham said Teagle's status remained in doubt for Friday night's game at Hofheinz Pavilion.

Billy Kidd, a Keller, Texas coach, snapped the attendance record when he became the 7,082nd registrant, marking the 25th consecutive year the school has established an attendance record.

A total of 7,284 coaches had checked in at the close of registration Wednesday.

Kratzert Defends GHO Golf Title

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Bill Kratzert is trying to beat precedent - and maybe the storm.

Kratzert is the defending champion in the $210,000 Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Hartford Open. He captured the $42,000 first prize last year with a 19-under-par 265. It was the last victory on the Professional Golfers Association tour for Kratzert, who is now in ninth place on the 1978 money-winners list with $134,140.

Kratzert is confident he can repeat his GHO performance this year, but his mind may be on other things besides golf. His wife, Cheryl Ann, is home in Fort Wayne, Ind., expecting their first child "any day now," Kratzert said.

The 26-year-old Kratzert said Wednesday he's "trying to get my game in shape. I hit the ball well today. I think I can repeat," he said after registering a 3-under-par 68 during the Celebrih Pro-Am.

The 1977 GHO victory gave Kratzert the confidence to play more aggressively. "A lot of guys keep from winning by being a little timid. After winning the first one, you have the confidence to go ahead," Kratzert said.

Only one golfer has ever repeated at the GHO. Billy Casper won the tournament in 1963, 1965, 1968 and 1973. No golfer has won the title in consecutive years.

There are nine former GHO champions in the field this year at the 6,354-yard Wethersfield Country Club course. In addition to Kratzert, they include George Archer, Don Bies, Gene Littler, Bob Lunn, Rik Massengale and Dave Stockton.

Massengale said Wednesday that he has "played the worst this year since being on the tour." The 1976 winner has watched his swing and found he is moving his head on the down-swing. But the "cutie has not come around yet."

"The guy who wins this tourney is going to have to make a lot of birdies. That's hard to do on this course," he said.

The competition also includes Andy Bean, the leading money-winner on the PGA circuit this year. Bean has won $245,558 and holds a narrow margin over Jack Nicklaus.

But the GHO has not attracted the top names on the circuit. Nicklaus, Gary Player and Arnold Palmer are not among the entrants. Also absent is the popular Lee Trevino and Andy North, the winner of the U.S. Open.

In addition, six of the top 10 money winners on the 1978 circuit are not here. The only ones playing are Bean, Hubert Green, Kratzert and Gil Morgan.

Green finished in a tie for first in the 1975 GHO, losing to Don Bies on the second playoff hole. He shot a 67 in Wednesday's pro-am, as did Morgan. Morgan, who made a charge at Jack Nicklaus in the final round of the Philadelphia Golf Classic and finished second, shot a 4-under-par 67 Wednesday.

Lil Twisters Slate Game

The Hereford Lil Twisters, a soccer team comprised of players between the ages of 9-12, will play a Clovis, N.M., team at 11 a.m. Aug. 25 at Bronco League Park.

The Lil Twisters defeated the team-Chelsea United-8-0 Saturday-in Clovis.

"We invite any challenges from any other youth team," said Larry Zamora Jr., coach of the Hereford teams.

Players include Bernie Martinez, Ramiro Palacios, Jorge Palacios, Jessie Ortiz, Javier Mendiola, Manuel Mendiola, Tomas Vargas, Javier Romero, Marcus Trevino, Israel Sustayta, Jessie Romero, Alejandro Aldifonso, Raul Travino and Anesina Vargas.

STARTED EARLY

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Bossy of the New York Islanders set a National Hockey League record for rookies with 53 goals in the 1977-78 season. Mike says he was shooting pucks at the age of 3 on a home-made rink his father constructed back of their house near Montreal.

"It wasn't a big rink," he recalled, "but it held the 10 kids in my family and most of the other youngsters in the neighborhood."

Pony Stars Defeated

PECOS—The Hereford Pony League All-Stars dropped their opener in the sub-sectional baseball tournament, 6-0, to host Pecos Wednesday night.

Hereford will meet El Paso, a 14-5 loser Wednesday to Lubbock Dixie, in the second game of the double-elimination tournament at 6 p.m. today. Dixie and Pecos will meet at 8:30 p.m.

The winner of the Hereford-El Paso contest will meet the loser of the second game Friday night.

Rose Extends, Clark Stopped

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

While Pete Rose contemplates what is, Jack Clark must be satisfied with might-have-beens.

Rose extended his National League record consecutive game hitting streak to 39 Wednesday with a fifth-inning double in the Cincinnati Reds' 12-3 loss to the New York Mets. Clark saw his 26-game streak end at the hands of Silvio Martinez and the St. Louis Cardinals, who edged the Western Division leaders 2-1.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Niekro brothers were winners, Joe pitching the Houston Astros over the Montreal Expos 5-0 and Phil topping the Philadelphia Phillies in the Atlanta Braves' 4-2 victory; the Los Angeles Dodgers eased past the Chicago Cubs 8-2 and the San Diego Padres were 6-5 winners over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Clark, meanwhile, twice thought his streak would continue.

"I thought my best shot for a hit was a ball hit in the hole in the fourth," Clark said. Garry Templeton made a fine stop and threw him out on a close play.

Meanwhile, Rose's streak continues and the 37-year-old star is within one game of Ty Cobb's 40-game streak, two away from George Sisler's 41-gamer. In the distance is Joe DiMaggio's modern major league record of 56 games, set in 1941.

Rose tries to equal Cobb and then Sisler Friday night in a double-header against Philadelphia. Phillies left-hander Steve Carlton, of whom Rose is 0-for-11 this season, is expected to pitch the opener of that twinbill.

"I have my work cut out for me but I'm due against Carlton," said Rose.

Astros 5, Expos 0
The younger half of the knuckleballing Niekro act, Houston's Joe, tossed a four-hitter and drove in a pair of runs with a double and a single, while Bob Watson and Enos Cabell homered for the Astros.

Braves 4, Phillies 2
Big brother Phil went out and got the Phillies for the 20th time in 32 lifetime decisions against the NL East leaders.

Niekro, 12-10, pitched an eight-hitter in beating the Phillies for the fourth time this season. He also helped build a run with a fourth-inning single.

Dodgers 8, Cubs 0

Steve Garvey slammed a bases-loaded homer, Davey Lopes had a three-run, inside-the-park home run and Burt Hooton hurled an "eight-hitter as the Dodgers moved into second place in the NL West, 1 1/2 games behind San Francisco and a half-game ahead of Cincinnati.

Chicago starter Dave Roberts walked Reggie Smith and Ron Cey with two out in the third before facing Garvey, who lined a 3-2 pitch into the left field stands.

Padres 6, Pirates 5

Rollie Fingers earned his 21st save in preserving Gaylor Perry's 11th victory of the season and 257th of his career.

Phil Garner's two-run homer and Frank Taveras' two-run double rallied the Pirates before Fingers shut the door in the ninth.

Fernando Gonzalez drove in three runs and Gene Richards tripled for his 18th hit in the last 19 games.

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Robin Brown, youngest son of Cincinnati Bengals General Manager Paul Brown, died Wednesday night at a Little Rock, Ark., hospital. He was 46.

Paul Brown and another son, Mike, assistant Bengals general manager, left the Bengals summer camp for Arkansas upon learning of the death.

Robin Brown was a scout for the Bengals since the team was established 10 years ago. A team spokesman said Robin had cancer.

SAN DIEGO (AP) —

For the second time, a Superior Court jury has rejected former San Diego Chargers tight end Pettis Norman's bid for compensation for alleged negligent treatment by the team physician for the National Football League club.

Following a civil trial before Judge George A. Lazar, the jury Wednesday absolved Chargers physician Dr. E. Paul Woodward of any negligence. The trial was in connection with treatment of a 1974 injury that eventually forced Norman's retirement from pro football.

Norman was seeking $500,000 in damages. During the trial, Robert Baxley, his attorney, maintained that Woodward mis-diagnosed Norman's ailment and that Chargers trainers encouraged Norman to play despite the knee injury.

In an earlier trial, jurors found Woodward blameless but that verdict was overturned after several members of the panel reported racial slurs by one of their number.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) —

The Kansas City Royals' 12-3 victory over the Seattle Mariners Wednesday night was not without its cost.

Both third baseman Geoge Brett and catcher John Wathan were forced to leave the game with injuries, and Manager Whitey Herzog said he was unsure when they would return.

MARATHON MAN

EAST DENNIS, Mass. (AP) — John A. Kelley, 70, is the original Marathon Man. Kelley competed in his 50th Boston Marathon on April 17, 1978. He finished ahead of 531 of the 4,122 starters.

Kelley won the race in 1935 and 1945. He was a member of three U.S. Olympic teams and was second in the Boston race seven times. Kelley's souvenirs from his many marathon appearances include 118 watches.

Doc Medich Has Cure for Texas

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Doc Medich has just the right prescription for the ice-cold Texas Rangers Wednesday night, and Lou Piniella had a pretty good one for New York's feverish Yankee fans, too.

Medich handed the Boston Red Sox only their second shutout of the season, slamming the door with a two-hitter, and Bobby Bonds rilled a two-run homer in the eighth inning for the 2-0 victory that ended the Rangers' eight-game losing streak.

Piniella waited for an even more dramatic moment, the bottom of the ninth inning, before unloading a three-run homer that propelled the Yanks past Cleveland 3-1. That cheered up the fans who had been hollering for Billy Martin and booing his replacement, Bob Lemon.

In the rest of the American League, Kansas City shelled Seattle 12-3, California outlasted Milwaukee 11-9, Toronto trimmed Minnesota 5-1, Baltimore defeated Detroit 9-6 and Oakland beat Chicago 8-4.

Yanks 3, Indians 1
Piniella's homer off Rick Waits was his third of the year and came after Mickey Rivers and Thurman Munson had singled.

The victory was the Yanks' seventh in their last eight games. Lemon's second in a row since he replaced Martin, and his first in Yankee Stadium.

Royals 12, Mariners 3
Kansas City had plenty of power - 14 hits - including Pete LaCock's homer and Fred Patek's two-run triple. But for the first six innings it was Doug Bird's power that had the fans cheering.

He had a no-hitter going. Then suddenly, Manager Whitey Herzog was on the mound and Bird was gone after a pair of walks and Tom Paciorek's two-run double in the seventh. Steve Mingori took over and allowed just one more hit, Paciorek's single in the ninth.

Angels 11, Brewers 9
Milwaukee had a chance to cut into Boston's 5 1/2-game lead in the AL East, but they ran into Joe Rudi. He drove in five runs, four with a grand-slam homer in the first inning. Gorman Thomas had a pair of homers and Robin Yount and Sal Bando had one apiece for the Brewers.

Blue Jays 5, Twins 1
Balor Moore scattered eight Minnesota hits and Toronto struck for five runs in the fourth inning, the final two on Luis Gomez's triple to trim the Twins. Moore, who finished with eight strikeouts, lost his shutout in the eighth when Dan Ford tripled and Craig Kusick hit a sacrifice fly.

Orioles 9, Tigers 6
Jack Billingham, who pitched shutouts his last two times out, had to settle for a less-than-complete effort this time - nine hits allowed in 6 1/2 innings before Bob Sykes took over.

He got offensive support from Jason Thompson and Aurelio Rodriguez, who drove in two runs apiece.

A's 8, White Sox 4
Glenn Burke hit a two-run single in a three-run fourth inning and Dave Revering homered to highlight Oakland's 15-hit attack against Wilbur Wood and two White Sox relievers. Eric Soderholm had a homer for Chicago.

Sports Festival Will Crown 26 Champions

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) - The National Sports Festival is an idea whose time has come, according to officials of the U.S. Olympic Committee, although as late as a month ago, an idea was all it was.

But the following a modest opening ceremony Wednesday night, competition began today in 18 Olympic sports at the Air Force Academy to the north and Pueblo to the south in the inaugural National Sports Festival.

In only four weeks, the games were organized at the new USOC training center here, sites selected and prepared and commitments received from more than 2,100 athletes.

Airline seats are at a premium until next Tuesday; hotel rooms are booked solid for 30 miles around the city. For transportation of the athletes, charter buses, tour buses, school buses and even church buses have been appropriated.

The logistics of it were staggering, and in many cases it shows how hastily the festival was put together.

In basketball, for example, the festival committee failed to ask soon enough to get the National Collegiate Athletic Association to waive restrictions on its athletes participating in summer play. The results is a somewhat unsatisfactory com-

Cowboy Kickers Not Impressive

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys, in the longest practice sessions of summer camp so far, worked on goal line situations and held passing scrimmages Wednesday between the first offensive and defensive units.

The National Football League champions ran a total of 45 plays from scrimmage, with the first 15 being goal line carries by fullbacks Robert Newhouse and Scott Laidlaw and tailbacks Tony Dorsett and Doug Dennison.

Running back Preston Pearson sat out Tuesday's two workouts with strains of his back, groin and hamstring, team officials said.

In passing drills that followed the goal line workout, the Cowboys' veteran defensive unit, working on its 4-0 alignment for passing situations, picked off five aeriels - two each by Cliff Harris and Thomas Henderson and one by Randy Hughes.

During the passing drill, tight end Billy Joe DuPree, already practicing with a fractured left thumb, had to leave the workout when he split the webbing between two fingers on his right hand while catching a pass. Although the injury required nine stitches, DuPree is not expected to miss much action, doctors said.

Free agent kickers Ove Johansson and rookie Jay Sherrill, bidding to replace missing All-Pro kicker Efran Herrera, concluded the afternoon workout with field goal attempts. They did not distinguish themselves, observers said.

Herrera still has not reported to the Cowboys' camp at California Lutheran College. He was due last Thursday evening and is being fined $500 for each day he is absent. Herrera wants to renegotiate his contract, which is in its option year.

Tri-State Rodeo Meeting Set

A meeting for all Tri-State High School Rodeo members has been scheduled Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Community Center, it was announced today by advisor Earl Washington.

Purpose of the meeting, according to Washington, is to discuss the activities for the coming year. Persons interested in joining the Tri-State club are invited to attend the meeting.

Barnes Puts Pro Contract on Line

MIAMI (AP) - Marvin Barnes, the enigmatic forward whose basketball career has been marked by chaos and unfulfilled promise, is putting his $950,000 contract on the line in an attempt at self-discipline.

In a telephone call from Austin, Texas, Barnes told The Associated Press he has asked Boston Celtics' owner John Y. Brown to remove the guarantee from his three-year contract. Barnes' move may be unprecedented in the National Basketball Association, and is even more notable considering he has walked out on three different teams because of contract problems.

"A man knows what he needs, and I need this challenge. I know I can be a great player, and I have no fear of losing my contract. This will make me work harder," he said. Barnes averaged 24 points and 16 rebounds in his rookie season with the defunct St. Louis Spirits, but most of his headlines since have come from off-court activities.

Five years ago he said, "I'd rather work in a factory" when the Spirits balked at renegotiating his contract. He later went AWOL from the Detroit Pistons and Buffalo Braves for similar reasons, and spent three months in jail for violating probation set when he assaulted a Providence College teammate.

Barnes, acquired from the Braves when Brown swapped franchises with Celtics owner Irv Levin, blames his recent problems on complacency about his long-term contract. He blames his past problems on confusing advice from his former agents.

Now, newly married, Barnes is ready "to show the American public the real Marvin Barnes." "If I don't play well and get cut, there won't be any hard feelings. I think this will do it for me. This is what I want. I have confidence that I can play. I am determined to become a great player."

The former Grambling star don't want to work in that factory any more."

Brown, contacted in Boston, said, "Marvin fully understands that the Celtics and Red Auerbach and Satch Sanders will demand his best effort. If he doesn't give it, he will be cut."

Brown said he called Barnes last week and "asked him what it will take to make him settle down and pay the price." and Barnes suggested changing his contract. Barnes will receive a guaranteed $50,000 for each of the three years.

"I not only want to stay out of trouble, which has been hard in the past, but I want to earn my money. This way, my conscience is clear, and I feel this will make me a better player," he said.

"I've had a half-dozen agents confuse me and screw up my basketball life. They have always got their hands in your pockets and are notorious for misleading and misrepresenting players," he said.

Barnes called Brown "a special owner" and said the trade that sent him, Billy Knight and Nate Archibald to the Celtics from the Braves will be the biggest steal in Boston "since the Brink's Robbery."

Black Quarterback Expects Pressure

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) - Doug Williams isn't out to debunk myths or become a role model. But the first black quarterback ever drafted in the National Football League's first round knows extra attention - and pressure - will be inescapable.

Williams ended a well-publicized holdout over the weekend by signing with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. He said Monday that the controversy his holdout aroused is typical of what he expects.

"Really, the criticism is because I'm the finest black quarterback drafted this high. There's been so much emphasis on that. A black playing quarterback in the NFL is something you very seldom see," he said.

The former Grambling star said he doesn't feel he's far behind the Bucs' four other quarterbacks. Williams said he's not in a hurry to prove anything, either for himself or blacks, who historically have not fared well as NFL quarterbacks.

"Why? I can't answer why," he said. "Joe Gilliam didn't fail because of ability - he had personal problems. James Harris led the league a couple years. There haven't been as many black quarterbacks given the chance," he said.

Williams figures that unlike many black quarterbacks in the past who were quickly converted to flanker or defensive back, he will be given the time to develop with the Bucs as a quarterback.

THE HOT DOG VENDOR

There was a man who lived by the side of the road and sold hot dogs.

He sold very good hot dogs.

He put up signs along the highway and advertised in the newspaper telling how good they were.

He stood on the side of the road and cried:

"Buy a hot dog, Mister?"

And people bought.

He increased his meat and bun orders.

He bought a bigger stove to take care of his trade.

He finally got his son home from college to help him out.

But then something happened. His son said, "Father, haven't you been listening to the radio and watching TV?"

There's a big depression.

The foreign situation is terrible.

The domestic situation is worse."

Whereupon the father thought,

"Well, my son's been to college, he listens to the radio and watches TV and he ought to know."

So the father cut down on his meat and bun orders, took down his signs and cancelled his newspaper ads and no longer bothered to stand out on the highway to sell his hot dogs.

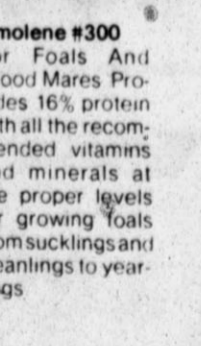

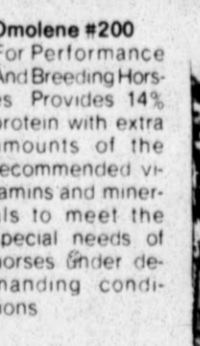

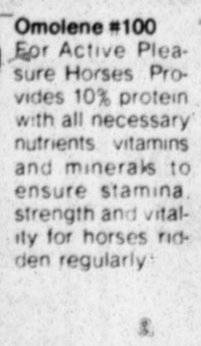

And his hot dog sales fell almost overnight.

"You're right, son" the father said to the boy.

"We certainly are in the middle of a great depression."

Tickets Available For BB/BS Soiree

Tickets are still available for the Big Brothers/Big Sisters Art Soiree Sunday evening at the Country Club where 24 pieces of artwork valued in excess of $100 will be given away to soiree guests in a drawing that evening.

Persons attending will be asked to donate $100 tax deductible to the Big Brother organization. A gift of $100 will admit a couple or an individual.

In addition to the opportunity to win a valuable piece of art, guests will be treated to a gourmet dinner.

Proceeds of the soiree, being staged here for the second time, will go directly to the Big Brother organization, which is concerned with providing adult companionship for children.

JoAn Dwyer, executive director of the Hereford BB/BS program, urges interested persons to contact her, 364-6171. Although the BB/BS office has sent invitations to various individuals, all persons are welcome to give the $100 contribution and attend the soiree.

Donating artist include Danny Gamble, Ruth Biffle, Jon

Teacher-Mother Figure Filled By Mrs. Priest

By DIANNE BANNER
Brand Staff Writer
 Three years ago, Mrs. Robert Priest, 511 Union, was a teacher's aid. This fall she will begin teaching children grades 1-6 at Northwest Elementary School.

Mrs. Priest will be graduating in August from West Texas State University with a degree in Elementary Education. She attended the university part time for a year and went full time two years while her children were in school.

Asked if it were difficult not to become emotionally involved with a student she answered, "You can't help but become involved with the kids when you care about them. And you can't forget about them when you get home."

The many responsibilities of a teacher concern the new instructor. "I wonder if I am going in the right direction and hope that I am handling the children in the right way," she said.

Along with her other students, Mrs. Priest will have two other special children to worry about—her sons.

Tony, age 14, will be a freshman at Stanton Junior High School this fall. Kelly, 12, will be a seventh-grader at Stanton.

Before her marriage to Priest, she was Nancy Bryant of Olton. Her mother, Mrs. Virginia Bryant, resides in Olton.

Asked what her hobbies included, Mrs. Priest quickly responded, "Anything that has to do with my family."

She and her husband, Robert, formerly a coach at Hereford High School, recently returned from a 1,400-mile tour on motorcycles. The entire family ride the motored two-wheelers for enjoyment. She is interested in any water sport "especially waterskiing!"

The small-framed 34-year-old woman likes to macrame and prefers to stay at home during her spare time.

Her husband is constructing the adjunct to the biology department at HHS and teaches both biology and journalism.

The couple recently remodeled and redecored their home.

The 5-4 slim-figured woman said that her husband was "quite a handyman and hopes to someday build the family a new home."

Mrs. Priest submits these two recipes:

PINEAPPLE GINGERBREAD
 1 No. 2 can sliced pineapple slices
 1/4 C. sugar
 1/2 C. salad oil
 1/4 C. molasses
 3/4 C. syrup from pineapple slices
 1 1/2 C. sifted flour
 1 tsp. ground ginger
 1 tsp. cinnamon
 1 tsp. soda
 1/2 tsp. salt
 1 egg, well beaten

Set oven temperature at 350 degrees and grease pan. Drain pineapple slices; save and heat syrup to boiling. Measure sifted flour and sift again with spices, soda and salt; set aside. Combine sugar, oil and molasses in mixing bowl and stir in hot syrup. Blend in dry ingredients and beat until smooth; beat eggs and fold into batter. Pour into 9-inch square pan and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

SQUASH FRITTERS
 4 medium-sized yellow squash
 1 egg
 1 small onion, minced

salt and pepper
 bread crumbs
 Cut squash and boil until tender and mash. Add egg, onion and enough bread crumbs to thicken the batter. Add salt and pepper to taste. Drop by spoonful into hot fat; fry until golden brown. Serve hot; 6-8 servings.

TAIR Conference Slated Aug. 1-2

The 26th annual Texas Association for the Improvement of Reading Conference will be held on the West Texas State University Campus Tuesday and Wednesday, August 1 and 2.

Dr. Alvin Granowsky of the Dallas Independent School District and Ms. Mary Ann Baird of Mississippi State Department of Education will be the featured speakers. Registration for both days is $8 and for one day is $5. Advanced registration can be mailed to Mrs. Carl Pride, 67 Country Club Drive, Canyon, Texas

In addition to the speakers, there will be exhibitors displaying various kinds of reading equipment and materials for classroom use and various sectional meetings featuring different techniques in the teaching of reading.

Dr. Helton Wilbur is the college representative and co-ordinator for the two day conference.

The Texas Panhandle Council of IRA will hold its first meeting of the year on August 2nd during the TAIR Conference.

La Plata Study Club Holds Ice Cream Social

Members of La Plata Study Club gathered in the home of Mrs. Ansel McDowell, 207 N. Texas, Tuesday night for a summertime get-together.

Casual conversation and homemade cake and ice cream was enjoyed by the group. The women told about summertime activities they had taken part in.

After the ice cream social some of the members stayed and played bridge.

Those attending were Mmes. Doug Bartlett, Emit Dettman, Melvin Hoover, Lewis McCushtian, O.G. Neiman, Philip Shook, Don Taylor, Harlan Vanderzee, Melvin Jayroe, Rowland Hairgrove, Raymond White, and Mrs. Gayle Cotton.

Rowland Selected

Phylecia Rowland, representing Deaf Smith County in the 4-H Dress Revue for District I, was one of five girls from the district selected to compete in the State Dress Revue Sept. 14-16.

Miss Rowland modeled the outfit she had made as a 4-H Club project in the senior division of the district revue as she did when she was winner in the county dress revue. Her costume includes pants and a sleeveless top worn over a long-sleeved shirt, with a jaunty cap.

Miss Rowland's award in addition to the ribbon was a gift certificate from an Amarillo fabric store.

Drawing Featured

Dianne Pierson views the color pencil drawing of Jimmie Gibbs, president of the Girls Rodeo Association. Miss Gibbs will be in Hereford to compete in the All Girls Rodeo this year as she has in the past three years. She is fourth in the barrel racing standings. The drawing, by Marian Flahavin, a featured western artist at National Cowgirl Hall of Fame in Hereford, will appear on the cover of the Rodeo program. Some of Mrs. Flahavin's drawings will be displayed and may be purchased at the Hall of Fame Western Heritage Art Show to be held from 10 a.m. - 6 p.m. Aug. 25-27, where over 100 western art pieces created by approximately 40 women will be exhibited and sold.

Ann Landers

Teacher's Dilemma

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I disagree strongly with your answer to "U R Wrong." You say advice from relatives is seldom appreciated. Well, advice from teachers to parents about what is wrong with their children is not appreciated either.

Trying to maintain order in the classroom these days is a job in itself. Many parents who went to school 15 and 20 years ago and never been back to visit a classroom wouldn't believe the change. Also, attitudes are different. The older teachers who have tried to discuss a child's problem are told to mind their own business - or the parents go on the attack and insist the teacher has it in for Junior or Nancy.

The smart teacher learns early that it doesn't pay to make waves. The safest way to avoid a head-on collision is to do your job, MYOB, and stay out of the family and emotional problems of students. -- Seen Too Much.

DEAR SEEN: It is apparent you are far more interested in avoiding controversy than in helping a student. Sticking one's neck out is always dangerous. I know what many school rooms are like today because I have been in them. I also get plenty of mail from dedicated teachers who are struggling with the problem of undisciplined kids whose parents give them no guidance, no parameters and set no examples.

The only chance these kids have is if their teachers have enough courage to "make waves" and at least attempt to help parents understand the child's needs. An enlightened, caring teacher can be a major influence in the life of a student. It's worth the trouble, take my word for it. And in too many cases, it's the only chance a child has.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: So now someone from Berkeley, Cal., wants to nominate that fair city as "The Rudeness Capital of the World." I am from Washington, D.C., and have spent four years in Berkeley, as a student at the University of California. I have not encountered an unusual degree of discourtesy. Quite the contrary.

I have found salespeople, bank clerks, taxi drivers, office workers and just about everyone polite, if not friendly. The occasional impolite one usually softened after a smile, a kind word or a less-than-hostile reaction. Some even apologized.

I believe my father was right when he said, "Kindness begets kindness evermore." Yes, I know he borrows this from Sophocles, but since the old philosopher has been dead for more than 2,300 years I doubt that he would mind. -- I like People

DEAR FRIEND: People who like people are invariably liked by people and this is the basis for your pleasant experiences wherever you've lived.

Most folks can figure on liking "the new town" just as much (or as little) as the town they left. I don't know Berkeley well, but I love Washington, D.C. It is, I believe, the most beautiful city in the United States.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What can I do about a friend who telephones me and then says, "Wait a minute," and leaves me dangling for as long as 10 minutes? (It seems her kids or husband need her immediate attention constantly.) Please put your brain to work on this one. I'm -- Stumped.

DEAR S: The next time "friend" says, "Wait a minute," reply, "Apparently this isn't a convenient time to talk. Ring me back." THEN HANG UP. If you do this two or three times you won't be left hanging any more.

Owners Required To Scoop Up Poop

MIAMI (AP) - Some cities and states, in an effort to combat dog and cat litter, have passed laws requiring owners to scoop up after their animals. Inveranklin Temel has come up with the second generation device - a flush toilet for pets.

"When an idea like this hits you, you just light up like a firecracker," explained Temel, who spent eight years and $110,000 on his project.

He received his first patent on the dog-and-cat toilet in 1974 and the model he has in his house cost him $10,000.

The animal potty is a stall with floor made of stainless steel slats. Underneath the floor are spray nozzles and a tank of water. It is surrounded on two sides by pipes, hoses and a fiberglass shell.

A bottled scent - a "terribly powerful stimulant" - attracts the animal to the toilet. Temel explained it took 18 months to develop the right scent.

eliminates these problems, the specialist explains.

The dealer or manufacturer should provide service, delivery and installation services. Many offer "satisfaction guaranteed."

A style that allows use of existing sheets will of course lower the initial cost.

Today's waterbed has less chance of leakage than when they were first introduced. The industry has also standardized sizes and parts, she adds.

Waterbeds Considered By Older Age Group

COLLEGE STATION--Improved quality and more readily available waterbeds add to the popularity of flotation sleeping, says Glenda Moore, housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Most people currently buying waterbeds are young--21 to 35 years old--but other age groups are taking a serious look at flotation sleeping, she continues.

Furniture manufacturers are offering case goods or foundation frames in numerous designs and styles to match almost any bedroom decor--from early American to ultra-modern.

There are even two basic types of waterbeds on the market, the specialist reports.

One type is the water mattress that sits in a liner in a frame.

A new type is the hybrid waterbed. A hybrid has an insulator pad over the water mattress and is completely covered with conventional type mattress padding.

When shopping for a waterbed, look for specific features and services, she advises.

Select a water mattress and safety line made of high quality polyvinylchloride.

Look for a support frame preferably made of metal.

The unit should include or allow the use of a heater approved by the Underwriters Laboratory (UL). A heater is a must since the cool water pulls heat from the body.

A difference in body and water temperature causes condensation which leads to mold and mildew. A heater

Advertisor Claims Carter Doing Well

WASHINGTON (AP) - They have a new nickname these days for the spacious office Richard M. Nixon used as a hideaway in the Old Executive Office Building next door to the White House.

"Welcome to Television City," said a White House staff member to a visitor there.

It's now home to Gerald Rafshoon, the Atlanta advertising executive brought into the White House this month to help repair President Carter's sagging public image.

So, as Rafshoon gets energized look for signs of new efforts to present Carter as a man in control of the federal government.

There will be a focus on his work to reform the Civil Service, his efforts to cut the federal budget, tackle inflation and get a handle on East-West relations.

His impression does not seem to be shared by the public, but Rafshoon thinks Carter has done a good job and says the president's work in these areas illustrates his successes.

The latest Associated Press-NBC poll, taken in late June, found that 27 percent of those questioned thought Carter was doing an excellent or good job; 70 percent rated his job performance fair or poor, and 3 percent had no opinion.

"It's a bum rap, this perception that he's not competent, not in control," Rafshoon said of Carter. "I've known him 13 years and competence is his long suit."

The subject of polls is clearly a sore one at the White House these days. Carter, whenever asked, says he pays them no heed.

Rafshoon says the fall is the result of high expectations and "the tough decisions" Carter has made an energy, inflation, and the Panama Canal, among others.

There have been a few changes around the White House:

-One recent Friday, when reporters and photographers trooped into the Cabinet Room to cover the opening of a Carter meeting with a group of editors from outside Washington, piles of paper were displayed, near the president, who said they represented forms that small business operators no longer had to fill out following Carter-supported reforms.

-The president held a news conference at 8 p.m. last Thursday, his first prime-time, televised evening news conference since taking office. White House press secretary Jody Powell said the timing - an hour when the largest nationwide television audience would be available - was chosen because it was deemed "worthwhile to let the American public" listen to the exchange of questions and answers.

-There's even a new official portrait of the president. Rafshoon said he looked at one of three possible portraits before a final decision was made. "I didn't like the first one," he said of the picture taken 18 months ago. It showed a big grin on the president's face and the new portrait, described by a White House staff member as "more presidential," shows a more serious expression.

Moderate Sweetener Use Safe, Study Shows

CHICAGO (AP)—The moderate amounts of artificial sweeteners used by human beings do not cause cancer, a major study in Baltimore has concluded.

The Baltimore study involved 519 patients with bladder cancer at 19 Baltimore-area hospitals between 1972 and 1975. It also involved 519 other people, called controls, who were matched for age, sex and other factors but did not have bladder cancer.

Since the government banned cyclamates in 1970 and restricted the use of saccharin in 1972, there has been much controversy, especially among those who use these sweeteners in diabetic diets or to control obesity.

The government actions came after studies of laboratory rats showed the dosages of the sweeteners - far in excess of those used by human beings - caused bladder cancer.

But the Baltimore study, conducted by Dr. Irving Kessler, now of the University of Maryland school of medicine, and J. Page Clark at Johns Hopkins University, showed that the relevance of animal tests to the problem of cancer development in humans is unclear.

"Species and strains within species differ widely in their response to the same environmental agents," Kessler and Clark said.

They conclude in a report published in the July 28 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association that the ingestion of artificial sweeteners, at least at moderate dietary levels, is not associated with an increased risk of bladder cancer.

In their study, Kessler and Clark questioned cancer patients and the matched controls about their consumption of artificial sweeteners in carbonated and non-carbonated soft drinks, iced tea and other liquids, and in salad dressings, candy, ice cream, pastry, gelatin, chewing gum and other foods.

Both patients and controls were questioned also about smoking habits, occupational history, diabetes and other factors that might have been involved.

Those who conducted interviews did not know which subjects were cancer patients and which were not. They found no significant difference in the amounts of food or beverages containing cyclamate or saccharin consumed by the patients or the controls.

Mossler Children Plea Rejected

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - The Texas Supreme Court Wednesday rejected the plea of two adopted children of the late millionaire Candace Mossler to probate what they claimed was her last will and testament.

Daniel Mossler and Christopher Mossler appealed to the Supreme Court after lower courts ruled against them.

Two of Mrs. Mossler's other children Rita Johnson Wilder and Norman Jackson, contested the adopted children's attempt to have the will probated.

Daniel and Christopher Mossler contended that Mrs. Mossler changed her September 1968 will in June 1976 while she was a hospital patient.

Lower courts ruled, however, that the purported changes lacked the signatures of two witnesses, as required by law.

If not wholly in writing, the 1st Court of Civil Appeals at Houston said, the changes must be attested to by two or more witnesses.

The will consisted of nine typed papers, with purported changes in the margin.

The Supreme Court affirmed the lower courts without offering an opinion of its own.

U.S. Trade Deficit Dwindles

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States recorded the smallest trade deficit in more than a year last month as U.S. businesses sold a record $12.1 billion in products to other countries, the Commerce Department said Wednesday.

The June trade deficit of $1.6 billion was encouraging because the growing trade gap had contributed to inflation at home and the decline of the dollar overseas.

Americans bought $13.7 billion in goods from overseas, a 2 percent decline from June, the department said. Oil imports, the biggest cause of the deficit, dropped from $3.32 billion in May to $3.29 billion in June. Steel imports also dropped markedly.

Exports, totaling $12.12 billion, were an increase of 3 percent from May, mainly because of strong sales overseas of U.S. aircraft, automobiles, machinery, coal, meat, cotton and steel.

The June trade deficit of $1.6 billion was smaller than the $2.2 billion deficit in May and the $2.9 billion deficit in April. Deficits have been posted for the last 25 straight months.

The report indicated the U.S. trade picture in June was the best since a $641-million deficit in May 1977.

In the first half of this year, U.S. imports have exceeded exports by $16.4 billion. If that continued all year, the trade deficit would be $32 billion, well ahead of the record $26.5-billion deficit in 1978.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

According to statistics, my children had a 50-50 chance of inheriting Tardy Syndrome.

Their father has it. It's a recessive gene that renders its victims helpless to be on time for anything.

I've told you before how in my husband's lifetime he has never heard the Star-Spangled Banner, has never seen the lights dim at a concert, has never seen a football team with clean uniforms, and has never seen a bride coming DOWN the aisle. (Come to think of it, we met over a Belated Birthday Card display.)

The other morning as I put his 44-minute egg in front of him I said, "What time do you have to be at work?"

He said, "Eight o'clock."

"It's eight o'clock now."

"Terrific," he said, "I've only got time for one more cup of coffee, then I'll have to dash."

I slumped down into a chair. "I don't know how to tell you this, but you have passed Tardy Syndrome down to your son. It's true. The director at Bruce's camp called last week and said he is very disturbed with Bruce."

"Not once since he arrived has he gotten up early enough to salute the flag. He has never been first in line for anything and for him roll call starts with the letter H. I mean, you have to wonder about a child who has never boarded a bus while it is standing still."

"Why don't you talk with the doctor?" asked my husband.

"I have. He said last week that Bruce has all the traits of Tardy Syndrome. He was an eleven-month baby, never showed up on time for birthdays, was 12 before he lost his baby teeth and didn't go through the terrible two's until he was three and a half."

"What did Bruce say to that?"

"He wasn't there. He was late for the appointment."

"What do you want me to do?"

"Set an example and talk to him."

"I'll do it tonight," he said, then added, "I'll call you if I'm going to be on time."

Retired Officer's Bar—Oldest Houston Building

HOUSTON (AP) - Five blocks from the downtown site where construction will soon begin on a 70-story skyscraper sits a small brick building where reporters, pressmen and actors go to drink beer and wine.

The front door hangs crooked, the floor is uneven and plaster has a hard time staying on the walls.

"Somebody told me once this would be a nice bar if I'd fix it up right," said Bill Berry, who owns La Carafe. But Berry, a retired Air Force officer, isn't interested in covering up the cracks, and he doesn't want any simulated wood. His tiny, cozy bar is the oldest building in town, and he cherishes every broken brick.

"I had my eye on this place for a long time and was finally able to buy it in 1964 when it had already been a bar for a couple of years," Berry said.

He paid $2,500 for what was originally part of a trading post complex established by John Kennedy around 1850, 14 years after two New York speculators decided the junction of Buffalo and White Oak Bayous would be a good place to start a settlement.

La Carafe French for jug or pitcher faces Old Market Square, the site of the first courthouse and city hall. In the mid 1960s when the area was considered a good example of urban blight, entrepreneurs tried to breathe new life into heart of Houston by opening speciality shops and cafes.

"The city fathers didn't seem to want it to succeed," Berry said. "There was constant harassment, they didn't allow parking, and we were confronted by ridiculous building code requirements."

The neighborhood went to seed once again, but La Carafe managed to thrive.

There is no indication that the building, which was once a bakery for the Confederate Army as well as a general store, pharmacy and loan office, is Houston's oldest structure. Berry said the Texas Landmarks Commission is supposed to give him a plaque, but he doesn't have one yet.

The walls of the two-story building are covered with vintage photographs and mementos of days gone by. What must be the most unique jukebox in town features Merle Haggard, Bobby Short, The Ink Spots, Billie Holiday, Gilbert Beaud and Portuguese fado singer Amalia Rodrigues.

Sitting in the patio in back with a glimpse of the moonlit tower on the Italian Renaissance Neils Esperson Building, it is hard to believe one is in Space City.

"Europeans somehow manage to find this place," Berry said, "and when they do, they always ask, 'why do you Americans hate your cities? Why do you leave them?'"

Although already disillusioned from one attempt to draw people downtown, Berry thinks plans to turn the nearby Rice Hotel into condominium apartments may signal a new interest in the area.

At a recent conference here on revitalization of the inner city, developer Gerald Hines said efforts had to be made to bring people back downtown. It is Hines' firm that will build the 70-story El Paso Tower.

Berry said people stay away because they think it is a highcrime area, but he added that a recent survey done on downtown for the Chamber of Commerce showed there were few incidents of crime in the Old Market Square neighborhood.

Japanese Productivity Growth Outdistancing U.S.

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) - Sometimes a little says a lot, and lately too, such as these three items currently in the news:
- In 1948, Japan was still clearing away the industrial and psychic debris of World War II, and was just beginning to rebuild its economy.
- To do so, it borrowed heavily from the United States supply of technological know-how, which had played so important a role in the defeat of Japan. It would be the basis for economic recovery.

Technological innovation and its application is one of the foundations of industrial might, making it possible to produce more goods at less cost. The Japanese borrowed and applied well.
Now, 30 years later, a group of American industrial authorities and government policy makers has just returned from a tour of Japanese plants, where they studied advanced manufacturing technology.

The National Center for Productivity and Quality of Working Life, a U.S. agency that helped put the tour together, explained:
"While in absolute terms the United States still holds the productivity lead, other nations have been challenging that position, and the rate of productivity growth, especially in the manufacturing sector, does not measure up well against the competition."

It certainly does not. Since 1967 the productivity growth rate in Japan has increased by 105 percent compared to only 24 percent for the United States.
Even that might not describe the full extent of the American decline. In the years 1962 through 1977, Japanese productivity grew at an annual average of 8.4 percent. U.S. growth averaged 2.7 percent.

How did some of the other competitors do? France rose an average of 5.7 percent a year, the Netherlands and Belgium 6.9, and Germany 5.5.
Much of the U.S. decline, explained George Kuper, executive director of the center, follows a fall in the real volume of investment, as a promotion of GNP, in new technologies, research and development.

-From about $8 billion in 1948, installment credit - the kind you pay back in monthly increments - rose to more than $215 billion by the end of 1977, and not all of it was caused by our inflated prices.
Over that period, says Morgan Guaranty Trust, the debt-to-income ratio climbed from 4 percent to nearly 15 percent. Unavailable before the war, credit flowed freely after it. It became a way of life.

In the first postwar decade, consumers financed about 60 percent of big ticket items, such as appliances, television sets and home improvements. On average, that is, they put 40 percent down.
Between 1958 and 1967, such credit financed more than 80 percent of big ticket items. Still it grew. Over the latest decade, consumers have been financing about 90 percent of such purchases.

-Never before in the 30-year history of the Survey Research Center's consumer sentiment studies have they seen anything like it.
Confidence in the future of business usually correlates with willingness to buy. But for more than a year, the center has measured strong buying but growing pessimism about business expectations.

QUOTE/UNQUOTE
What people are saying...

George Carlin

"They just took another little part out of the First Amendment." — Comedian George Carlin, responding to a U.S. Supreme Court ruling involving one of his recordings. The court held that the Federal Communications Commission can restrict the public broadcast of certain "offensive words."

"From the day the Declaration of Independence was agreed upon until the present, we have indeed been hypocrites about equality." — Patricia Roberts Harris, secretary of housing and urban development, speaking to a NAACP convention about the U.S. government's fight to reduce poverty.

"Finally, it got to the point where I just couldn't live with myself doing dope anymore — I was sure it was going to kill me." — Johnny Winter, a rock singer (Direct News).

"As in a lot of things, the fun is associated with increased hazards." — Nancy Johnston, director of the National Injury Information Clearinghouse, warning that skateboards — becoming increasingly popular — rank high on the list of dangerous commercial products.

"We're here because some white men are still under the impression that they can violate women — especially black women — and get away with it." — Akil Al-Jundi, speaking at a rally in Plains, Ga. (President Carter's hometown), to protest that state's imprisonment of Deshae Woods, a black woman convicted of slaying a white man she claims tried to rape her.

"We can't stand it any longer. It would be almost better if the shelling were continuous. My children get used to that. But when it stops and starts, they go crazy." — Pierre Shufany, a merchant in the Christian district of Beirut, talking about fighting in Lebanon between anti-Moslem rightists and Syrian troops forces.

"The situation is not too pleasant. But it's not impossible. Maybe we'll make a miraculous recovery." — Cedric Tallis, general manager of the New York Yankees, talking about the effort by the defending baseball champions to catch the front-running Boston Red Sox in this season's pennant race.

"What I plan to do is not to participate, of course, in any partisan political activity. But when I think the occasion requires it, where I think it can be helpful, I will continue to make statements about policies I think the United States should follow." — Former President Richard Nixon. Farming Dangerous, Says Tech Prof

LUBBOCK — Farming is the third most dangerous occupation in the nation, surpassed only by the mining-extraction and construction industries.

Many farm accidents can be prevented, though, simply through self-education, according to Dr. Willie L. Ulich, professor of agricultural engineering at Texas Tech University.

Several safety tips to follow, Ulich said, include knowing how to use equipment correctly, making sure people are clear of machinery, avoiding the use of equipment when overtired and knowing how to handle common potentially hazardous situations when they arise.

Ulich said there are a number of reasons for the inherent occupational hazards in farming.

Farmers generally work long hours, longer than people in most other occupations. Accidents happen most frequently when people do not take care when they become tired.

Nearly 50 percent of all farm accidents involve farm machinery, including trucks and automobiles, he said.

Farming also involves many different jobs, from mechanics to chemical application to planting to engineering. A farmer doesn't always have the opportunity for safety training for each job he handles. Lacking knowledge on safe equipment operation or chemical application can lead to many accidents, Ulich said.

A farmer also doesn't have a safety engineer with him as someone in a manufacturing plant might have, Ulich said. There is no one there to warn the farmer when he is not handling the equipment safely or even to tell him how to handle it safely.

There are usually three answers to the question "What happened?" he said. The most frequent answer is "I didn't know," followed by "I didn't see it" and "I wasn't mentally alert."

"By educating themselves on the dangers of everyday chores, farmers can reduce the 'I didn't know' and help avoid the 'I didn't see' by knowing what to look for," Ulich said.

Mental alertness can also come from education, by knowing when to stop, he said.

Misuse of chemicals and equipment is frequent cause of farm accidents. One of the most common abuses on the farm is the misuse of gasoline.

"The explosive power of one gallon of gasoline is equal to about 44 sticks of dynamite," Ulich said, "and yet many farmers use gasoline to clean equipment parts rather than using commercial cleaners."

Commercial cleaners will not burn below 132 degrees Fahrenheit, Ulich said, but gasoline is combustible at minus 42 degrees F. Using commercial cleaners rather than gasoline can help eliminate gasoline-related accidents, he said.

As in medicine, prevention may be the best cure for farming accidents, Ulich said. Knowledge and responsible handling of equipment and materials are a farmer's best insurance against accidents.

Estate Planning Cruise Set for PEP Members

AMARILLO — A law school professor and a management economics specialist will be the instructors for a unique course in personal estate planning which will be offered this winter to members of the Panhandle Economic Program.

Leading the estate planning course during a P.E.P. cruise in the Caribbean will be Dr. Neal Harl and Dr. Ray Sammons. Harl is an attorney and a law school professor at Iowa State University. Sammons, area economist-management with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, will serve as coordinator and instructor while on leave from his post.

The cruise, Feb. 25 - March 3, will provide 24 hours of study interspersed with visits to San Juan, Puerto Rico; Samana, Dominican Republic, and St. Croix, Virgin Islands.

P.E.P. members taking the cruise and course will fly from Amarillo on Sunday, Feb. 25, board ship at Miami and sail that afternoon. The ship returns to Miami the following Sunday morning, March 3, with a return flight to Amarillo that afternoon.

Planning a personal estate to provide adequately for retirement years and for the desired distribution of property after death requires careful individual consideration of many complex factors, Sammons said. The course is designed to help P.E.P. members understand these factors and realize the benefits of effective estate planning, explained Charles Hoover, a member of the P.E.P. committee planning the cruise and course.

Dairy Worker's Death Spurs New Awareness

AUSTIN—The death of a young dairy worker who was killed as he cleaned a calf barn has renewed the Texas Safety Association's efforts to make all farm people aware of dangers in toxic gases that can lead to respiratory injury or death.

Highly poisonous substances lurk in the air within silos, grain storage tanks, manure pits and dusty areas where molds may be present. Some are actually very explosive. Others cause damage to delicate lung tissues. Still others silently steal one's life-giving oxygen and induce unconsciousness, or even death.

Since the storage of manure liquids and slurries has become more common, there have been a number of recent fatalities involving lethal gases in tanks or pits. In most cases, the victims entered underground tanks to perform maintenance, check the contents, or retrieve objects. In one such incident, three workers were overcome while trying to rescue fellow workers.

Most hazardous fumes on farms are created by the decomposition of organic material in an environment deficient in oxygen. Under most controlled conditions, such as in a silo, this process is beneficial. It breaks down a portion of the material being stored and can be quite safe.

Under other circumstances, however, gases produced by this breaking-down process are dangerous to humans in a number of ways. Among these are:

— Ammonia and hydrogen sulfide, which can cause damage to lung tissues and, in great concentrations, can cause respiratory arrest.

— Carbon dioxide, which is produced during the ensiling process, and can either displace or exhaust the oxygen which is needed for breathing.

— Nitrogen, "coude," often called silo gas, has a yellow or orange vapor and appears during the first three weeks following a silo filling. Its effect may be delayed for several hours but may become critical if not properly treated.

— "Farmer's lung," although not a gas, consists of certain airborne molds which can cause severe illness and even death in susceptible persons. Fortunately, the defense for this ailment is the simple inexpensive disposable dust respirator in common use throughout industry.

Dr. Gary S. Nelson, a safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, offers these suggestions for avoiding contact with such toxic substances:

— Always assume that any pit or tank containing organic material may be deficient in oxygen or is filled with toxic gases. Ventilate the area for at least ten minutes with a blower before entering and continue with positive ventilation while working inside.

— Station someone outside the tank or pit as a "safety person" to offer assistance when needed. Tie a lifeline around the body and have enough help on hand to pull you out if you become unconscious.

— If blower ventilation is not positive, (that is, if fresh air is not being forced in) have a personal air supply such as a fireman's airpack or a supplied air respirator. Never rely on a chemical respirator; the atmosphere may be deficient in oxygen.

— Run the blower ten minutes before entering a partially-filled silo.

— Wear a dust mask whenever handling moldy hay or silage.

Hams Styled to Please

Hams are available in many different styles—bone in, skinless, shankless, semi-boneless, boneless and rolled and shaped. But the different styles needn't be confusing for they don't affect the cooking procedure, points out the National Live Stock and Meat Board. Hams are basically either "fully-cooked" or "cook-before-eating". Most of the hams on the market are "fully-cooked," and need only be heated to an internal temperature of 130° to 140° F. Hams of the "cook-before-eating" type need to be baked to an internal temperature of 160° F.

Assistant USDA Secretary Unveils Food Stamp Projects

Assistant Secretary Carol Tucker Foreman today announced publication by the U.S. Department of Agriculture of proposed regulations for 14 pilot projects in which food stamp participants will "work off" their food stamp benefits.

Foreman said that the Department is also publishing a Notice of Intent soliciting applications from political subdivisions to conduct the projects in their local areas. The projects, known as workfare, are mandated by the Food Stamp Act of 1977 and will be administered under the joint authority of USDA and the Department of Labor.

The Food Stamp Act specifies that the projects should be conducted in one urban and one rural area in each of the seven administrative regions of USDA's Food and Nutrition Service. Cities, counties, states or other political subdivisions may apply to USDA to operate the projects.

Under the pilot projects, food stamp recipients who are required to register for employment will also be subject to a requirement to work in the workfare project if their household's monthly food stamp benefits are greater than their household's monthly earned income. Such recipients will be required to perform work, without additional wage compensation, in return for their food stamp benefits. The food stamps themselves, will be considered the compensation for the work.

The number of hours a recipient will be required to work will depend on the size of his or her household's food stamp benefits. Each hour worked will earn the recipient an amount of food stamps equal to the hourly rate for the federal minimum wage.

Failure to comply with the workfare requirements will result in suspension from the food stamp program. Under the proposed rules, each time that a recipient fails to fulfill workfare requirements, the recipient will be removed from the program for one month.

Congress determined last year that the 14 pilot projects should be conducted so that workfare in the food stamp program could be thoroughly studied.

Workfare projects now exist in some areas in "general assistance" or "general relief" programs. Food stamp workfare will operate on similar principles to these projects but will differ in that compensation will be paid in food stamps rather than cash. Also, most food stamp recipients will be working fewer hours (usually less than half-time) because food stamp benefits are generally lower than general assistance benefits.

The proposed regulations appeared in the Federal Register on July 12.

Public comments should be sent to Nancy Snyder, Acting Deputy Administrator for Family Nutrition Programs, Food and Nutrition Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250. These should be received by August 12. Proposals to sponsor the project should be received no later than 30 days following publication of final regulations for the workfare project. The workfare sites selected will be published in the Federal Register subsequently.

Tech Professor Invited To Cattlemen's Meeting

LUBBOCK — Robert A. Long, professor of animal science at Texas Tech University, has been invited to participate in a National Cattlemen's Association (NCA) advisory meeting in Denver.

The meeting is for discussion of the pros and cons of proposed changes in the feeder cattle grading system.

The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) recently sponsored an experiment to determine the relationship between feeder cattle frame size and muscling, feedlot performance and the final slaughter grading.

Using data collected from the feeder cattle, selected for frame size (large, medium and small) muscling (very thickly muscled, slightly thickly muscled, and inferior muscling), the USDA is considering changing the current feeder cattle grading system, from one based on predicting the final slaughter grade to one based on actual cattle frame size and muscling as the animals enter the feedlot. Long has been involved for some time in research with the objective of finding better methods of predicting performance, optimum slaughter time and carcass value among feeder cattle.

Large frame cattle need to be fed a longer period of time than small frame cattle to reach optimum slaughter quality, Long said. The cattle should be separated as they come into the feedlots according to their frame size and muscling, he said. Long's research has been directed toward determining how to group the incoming feeder cattle in order to separate them according to optimum time in the feedlot.

The end result of the NCA advisory meeting, according to Gene Schroeder, chairperson of the NCA Feeder Cattle Grading Subcommittee, will be in the formulation of the NCA position on the proposed feeder cattle grading changes.

NFU Says Carter 'Dismantling' USDA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Farmers Union says the Carter administration has won a "first step in dismantling" the Agriculture Department in a Senate Governmental Affairs Committee vote on governmental reorganization.

Preliminary approval of Carter's plan was provided last Friday when the committee voted in favor of a bill to create a new Department of Education and to shift various USDA child nutrition programs to the new agency.

Food Prices Rise Slower in United States

WASHINGTON (AP) — Food prices American consumers pay have gone up about 77 percent since 1970, not so fast as in many other countries of the world, according to the Agriculture Department.

Based on a 1970 index of 100 percent, U.S. retail food prices in March average 177 percent of the base, says the "Agricultural Outlook" report for July. Only three countries for which food price statistics are available showed lower gains: West Germany 145 percent; the Netherlands 162; and Belgium 176.

The greatest increase in food prices since 1970 was in Argentina where inflation overall has been high for years.

Argentina's food price index this spring was 35,134 percent of what it was in 1970, the report said.

Some other countries' food prices, based on the 1970 index, recently were: Canada 199 percent; Australia 207; France 209; Sweden 211; Japan 215; Denmark 217; South Africa 222; Italy 261; Mexico 295; United Kingdom 307; and Brazil 734.

HEALTH
Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have recently been in the hospital for X rays. They show I have a hiatal hernia. Every time I eat I feel bloated and cannot sleep because of a smothering feeling. I got a wedge for my bed to elevate my head and I take Gaviscon tablets after meals and also a Valium. My doctor did not give me a diet to go by. Also, I have been seriously constipated and seem not to be able to get relief except from an enema.
Will I always feel this bad? I'm 47 and weigh about 120. I'm 5-foot-5. All my weight is in my stomach and waist. I am so uncomfortable and just drag around all day. The doctor did not explain what this is and what I can expect. I need to know for peace of mind, so I can get to feeling better and become a wife and mother again.
DEAR READER — A hiatal hernia literally is a rupture of a portion of the stomach through the normal hole in the diaphragm. The hole gets enlarged and the portion of the stomach slides in and out of the large hole. When a portion of the stomach slides through the hole into the chest cavity it affects the normal closing mechanism so that the contents in the stomach can leak backward into the lower part of the esophagus (food tube). This causes burning and irritation that some people experience with hiatal hernia and esophageal reflux (the term for the leak out of the top of the stomach into the lower esophagus).

Your bloating and swelling may not be related to your hiatal hernia in view of your comment about being constipated. Rather it may indicate the presence of a spastic or irritable colon and gas problem.
Your doctor didn't give you a special diet for a hiatal hernia because it doesn't always matter quite so much what you eat as long as you don't eat very large meals.
A person with such a hernia should plan to eat multiple small meals a day never filling the stomach very much and to not lie down until at least two hours after eating. The whole object is to let the stomach empty as much as possible, so when you lie down there won't be a lot of material in the stomach to leak backwards into the lower esophagus.

Also you don't want to put any pressure on the stomach which would squeeze it and squirt the material in the stomach back into the lower esophagus. That's why girdles, tight belts and any other tight garments are forbidden. It also should be obvious propping up the head of the bed is advisable, although some people do use a wedge.
I'm sending you The Health Letter number 4-8, Hiatal Hernia, Esophageal Reflux to give you more information about what the hernia is and what you can do in your daily life and the types of meals you can use to help you out.
Hiatal hernia is a very frequent problem and other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. I am also sending you The Health Letter number 2-1, Irritable or Spastic Colon and Constipation to give you a program for this problem.

POLLY'S POINTERS
Polly Cramer

Polyester no easy dye
By Polly Cramer
POLLY'S PROBLEM
DEAR POLLY — Could you or any of the readers tell me how to dye 100 percent polyester? I have tried on several occasions and failed. — MRS. K.D.
DEAR MRS. K.D. — It is imperative that one follow directions exactly when trying to dye anything. Other readers have written that they had no success dyeing polyesters. A booklet from probably the best known dye company says their all-purpose concentrated tint and dye is recommended for all washable fabrics except glass or mineral fibers and some polyesters and acrylics. Since some polyesters and acrylics do not absorb dyes as well as others, cut a small swatch of these fabrics from a place where it will not show and dye it to test color result. When dyeing follow any special fabric-care rules covering washing and pressing the article. Read any and all instructions in dye package before proceeding. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I have no method for redoing the worn rubber backing on Mrs. H.K.B.'s rugs but I do get a lot of use out of mine before discarding them. I have a dog and often fold one in half (old backing in the middle) for her to lie on. With the thinner ones I have sewn two of them back to back to make a reversible rug that lasts until so much more backing flakes off after several very comfortable washings when folded over and used as a pad in front of the kitchen sink. They are good to put in the trunk of the car and to lay packages on. One can even be put inside the car in winter and catch a lot of the drippy snow and ice that are on our shoes. — B.R.
DEAR POLLY — Although our living room rug was supposed to be anti-static I was getting shocks while wearing bedroom slippers. My husband cut out a piece of leftover rug to fit on the outside of the sole, glued it on the bottom of the slippers and no more shocks. — BEVERLY
DEAR POLLY — If the reader who is bothered by ants will try ground or whole cloves she will not have to look for anything else to keep them away. This sure cure is not harmful for children either. — E.J.C.
DEAR POLLY — Use an ice cream scoop when you are filling cup cake pans and have a neater and quicker job. — EDNA
