For when the One Great Scorer comes to write against your name, he marks — not that you won or lost — but how you played the game. — Grantland Rice, American sports writer.

A 28-year-old Hereford man on his solo cross-country flight in a private airplane was apparently killed instantly when the plane crashed about 5 p.m. Sunday in cotton field 6 miles south of Brownfield.

Pronounced dead at the scene was Troys Dean Riddle, of 224 Juniper. Riddle was employed with his father at Riddle Welding Co. in Hereford.

Services were to be at 2 p.m. today in St. Anthony's Catholic Church with the Rev. Frank Ethridge, associate pastor, officiating. Burial will be in West Park Cemetery under direction of Gilliland-Watson Funeral Home.

According to police reports, an eye-witness said the plane piloted by Riddle was flying about 200 feet above the ground when it made a right bank and left half-circle before plunging into the field.

Brownfield Justice of Peace Pete Cromer pronounced Riddle dead at the scene. Riddle was piloting a Piper airplane registered to Hereford Aviation. Authorities said the Federal Aviation Agency was investigating the accident.

Riddle was born Jan. 21, 1950 in Hereford. He married Loraine Reinart Oct. 15, 1977.

In addition to the widow, survivors include his parents, Troys Riddle of Hereford and Betty Randell of Midland; two brothers, David Riddle of Midland and Tim Riddle of Hereford; three sisters, Danna Sue Enabnit of Lubbock, Holly Randell of Midland and Jene Riddle of Hereford; and grandparents Frank Carl of Hereford and Iva Riddle, also of Hereford.

The family requests that memorials go to the Kidney Foundation.

One-Truck Rollover

Texas Department of Public Safety troopers and two units of the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department were called to the scene of a one-truck rollover Monday afternoon approximately four miles south of Hereford on Farm-to-Market Road 1055. A refrigeration truck carrying bags of ice traveling north on the road hit a ditch and overturned. The driver, Leroy Fogerty of Plainview, was treated at Deaf Smith General Hospital for minor injuries and released. [Brand photos by Paul Sims]

Insurance Board Seeks Auto Rate Hikes

AUSTIN (AP) — Insurance rates for private passenger cars should rise an average of 3.2 percent — well under the current pace of inflation, the State Insurance Board's staff has recommended.

The staff findings will be presented to the board Wednesday at the annual auto insurance hearing.

Until five years ago, the board routinely approved rates recommended by its staff, but since then has used private actuaries and its own judgement to minimize rate increases.

Rates have not been changed since October, 1976, when a 7.1 percent increase came on the heels of a 15.5 percent jump the previous January.

The board staff said rates for both private passenger and commercial vehicles combined should rise an average of 3.2 percent statewide.

The insurance industry, meanwhile, said Monday it would ask the board to raise private passenger rates 8.9 percent and all coverages combined by 10.7 percent.

Actual premium changes would vary widely under both the staff and the industry proposals.

The typical driver with a new Ford, Chevrolet or Plymouth would have a $17 increase in Jefferson, Potter and Randall Counties but a $15 decrease in Kaufman County.

Board actuaries say such a motorist drives to work but doesn't use his or her car in business, has no under 25 driver in the household and carries minimal liability of $10,000 per injured person, $20,000 per accident and $5,000 property damage. The policy also includes $50 deductible comprehensive, $200 deductible collision and no-fault Personal Injury Protection (PIP) coverage.

Young drivers, those with bad traffic records, and drivers who use their cars in business would have greater increases.

Actuaries for the board said all private passenger coverages that pay for medical treatment should drop in price except uninsured motorist protection, which would rise 8 percent.

Basic liability would drop an average of 2.8 percent.

David Irons, spokesman for the Texas Automobile Insurance Service Office (TAISO), defended the companies' rate increase request as "well in line with what's happening in our inflated economy."

He said the companies would have sought more had not accident experience "in recent years been relatively good."

City Asked To Finance Cafeteria

Senior Citizens Request Money

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Nine representatives of the Hereford Senior Citizens Association Monday night asked the city commission for money to remodel the gymnasium at the former Central School for use as a kitchen and cafeteria.

Mayor Bartley Dowell and Commissioners Emory Brownlow and Ed Copen—the only members of the commission on hand for the regular semi-monthly meeting—told the representatives that they could not approve a donation until a cost estimate was determined.

The three city officials all said they were in favor of the project, which tentatively will provide approximately 100 lunches a day for the Meals on Wheels program in Deaf Smith County.

Debs Knox, president of the senior citizens organization, told the commission that a federal grant would be available through the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission in October for construction of the dining facilities.

Knox said the facility will provide meals for both Meals on Wheels and senior citizens, who will eat in the area once used as a gymnasium by the Hereford Independent School District.

"We're going to start getting cost estimates, bids, for carpentry, plumbing and electrical work," Knox said. "We can get a grant for part of this and the county donated $3,000, including $770 for a bus. We have $2,230 left, designated for the cafeteria."

Knox and Helen Watts, former president of the senior citizens, said they estimated the total cost would be $20,000. They agreed to obtain cost estimates and report back to the commission next month.

The commission authorized bids for an automatic sprinkler system, sidewalk and grass for the one-half block of land adjacent to the former Central School, which was deeded to the city by the school district for use as a playground.

Commissioners voted to grant a request from Dahlia DeLaCruz, a candidate for Fiestas Patrias queen, to use the parking lot and street in Veteran's Park for a dance from 9 a.m. to 1 a.m. July 29. The dance will be a fund-raising event to help in the construction of a new San Jose Catholic Church.

The commission had first voted to allow Miss DeLaCruz to use Fourth Street in front of the Deaf Smith County Library for the dance. Brownlow voted against the motion which was approved by Dowell and Copen, then suggested Veteran's Park as the site.

"You've got public restrooms in the park, and you'll keep the people downtown off your backs," Brownlow said.

Miss DeLaCruz agreed to using the park, and the commission took a second vote.

Boating Accident

Kills Hereford Boy

EMBARGER — Richard Dean Bacon, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Joseph Rodriguez of Hereford, was killed early Sunday morning after he was cut by a boat propeller in Buffalo Lake south of here.

Randall County Sheriff's deputies, who investigated the accident, said the youth was on a camping trip with his father, three brothers and three sisters at the lake when he decided to go swimming while the rest of his family slept.

The youth apparently had been swimming in shallow water about half a mile south of the dam, 50 to 75 yards from the east shoreline, between 1-1:30 a.m. Sunday.

A boat driven by Gary Don Bvars, 23, of Canyon, was traveling south at approximately 30 miles per hour when it hit the child. Deputies said Bvars found the child in the water, put him in the boat and drove to shore.

The child was placed in the family car to be taken to Palo Duro Hospital in Canyon, but a flat tire at the lake forced the family to transfer him to a pickup, owned by campers at the lake from Amarillo.

According to the sheriff's office, the youth arrived at the hospital at 1:50 a.m. and was pronounced dead shortly thereafter. The report added that the boat propeller cut the child in the abdomen area.

Heavy rains in late May rejuvenated Buffalo Lake, which had been useless as a recreational area since it went dry a few years ago. Recreational enthusiasts reportedly have taken advantage of the new water in great numbers since the lake reopened.

The youth would have been a 6th grader at Aikman Elementary School. He was born Jan. 20, 1967, in San Bernardino, Calif., and had lived in Hereford since 1974.

He was a member of Greenwood Baptist Church.

Services for the child were at 10 a.m. today in Gilliland-Watson Rose Chapel, with the Rev. Gary Bandy, pastor of Greenwood Baptist Church, officiating. Burial followed in West Park Cemetery.

Survivors include his parents, three brothers, Joe Charles Rodriguez, Raymond William Rodriguez and Paul Eugene Rodriguez, of Hereford; three sisters, Tristie Ann Rodriguez, Jennie Rebecca Rodriguez and Mary Hilda Rodriguez, of Hereford; and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Tito Cardova, of Hereford.

McClendon Quits

Probation Post

Deaf Smith County Judge Sam Morgan's tune is so familiar, he needs a juvenile probation officer.

Bud McClendon, juvenile probation officer since June 1, resigned Monday, effective at 5 p.m. Friday, to accept a position with Triple-A Flying Service in Dimmitt.

McClendon was chosen for the JPO position in May following an extensive search for an officer by the juvenile probation board. He replaced Phil Sciumbato, who became an officer with the Potter-Randall County Metro-Intelligence Unit.

"We're again taking applications," Morgan said. The job pays $13,214.

Bartley Dowell quit as a city commissioner last year to become mayor, and Monday night showed that a mayor doesn't lose any powers when he makes such a transition.

Dowell seconded a motion and cast a deciding vote during Monday night's regular meeting of the commission. His vote carried the motion because only two commissioners were present, and they cast opposite votes.

"I still have a vote every time," said Dowell, who added that the mayor's duties are more than just being a figurehead for the city.

He signs proclamations, he attends functions on behalf of the city, he greets dignitaries and, most important of all, he acts as a commissioner.

The Branding Iron

Mayor's Duties More Than Just Figurehead

"The mayor's job takes more time than a commissioner. I must attend what ever anyone has that they want a representative of the city to attend. I sign proclamations. Proclamations are important to people. I feel more or less obligated to represent the city at functions," said Dowell, who, like a commissioner, also handles complaints.

"I have people ask me why we can't fix a chughole or a street. I don't mind the complaints. Most of them are good-natured. I get complaints because I think people know that is what goes with being a mayor."

Dowell, an accountant with Brown, Graham and Co., won the position in last year's city election after serving two terms on the commission and a stint as lieutenant governor of Kiwanis Club's District 33.

He first ran for the commission in 1968, when he beat two opponents. "I was just interested in politics so I ran," Dowell said.

He ran unopposed for his second term. "I got off the commission because I was talked into serving as lieutenant governor of the Kiwanis Club. The guys here thought we needed a lieutenant governor from Hereford. It took a lot of time—I had to serve on the district board and attend board meetings. Most of them were in Dallas. I just couldn't do both—be on the commission and be lieutenant governor."

Dowell is past president of the Hereford Noon Kiwanis Club. He will serve on its board beginning in September.

He also is on the administrative board (See BRANDING, Page 2)

Chevy Engines Could Cost GM Millions

CHICAGO (AP) - General Motors Corp. may be forced to pay up to $13.3 million in cash rebates to nearly 67,000 owners of Oldsmobiles with Chevrolet engines under a court settlement reached between the company and several state attorneys general.

"It's undoubtedly the largest consumer protection settlement in the history of the country," Illinois Attorney General William J. Scott said Monday after U.S. District Court Judge Frank J. McGarr approved the nationwide settlement which makes 66,782 persons in 46 states eligible for a $200 rebate and a transferrable warranty on the engine.

The warranty, which provides a 36-month extension to the original warranty customers received when purchasing their automobiles, is also worth about $200, Scott said.

The settlement, which McGarr called "fair and reasonable" culminates a year-long legal battle to force General Motors to compensate customers who signed purchase orders for Oldsmobiles with Chevrolet engines by April 10, 1977. The buyers had no reason to believe they would not have Oldsmobile engines.

The engine switch was discovered in Illinois last year when a mechanic, who tried to change the fan belt and oil filter on a 1977 Oldsmobile, found he did not have the proper parts to perform the work.

A lawsuit was filed in Illinois on March 18, 1977 and eventually a number of suits filed nationwide were consolidated into the Illinois case.

Midland Grand Jury Probes Inmates Death

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) - A federal grand jury investigating the death of Ector County Jail inmate Larry Lozano began its second day of wading through more than 90 witnesses subpoenaed in the probe today.

The panel convened Monday at the request of Texas Attorney John Hill, who asked for an investigation into possible civil rights violations.

Lozano, 27, was arrested Jan. 10 and died 12 days later while in the county jail in Odessa. Ector County Sheriff Elton Faught claimed Lozano became enraged and apparently committed suicide by banging his head against an inch-thick glass window in the door of his cell.

The second floor of the courthouse in this West Texas city where the grand jury is expected to meet for at least a week has been placed off limits to the media.

After Monday's session, Connie Lozano, the dead man's mother, said she testified concerning visits she had with her son while he was in jail.

Also testifying was Ector County Justice of the Peace Virgil Lumpee, who ordered the initial autopsy in the Jan. 22 death. Lumpee conducted the initial inquest into Lozano's death last April. A ruling of accidental death brought harsh replies from Mexican-American leaders around the state.

Lumpee declined to comment on his testimony.

School Program May Require Mouthwashing

WASHINGTON (AP) - A school program that would require students to use fluoride mouthwash once a week could cut tooth decay by about one third, say government scientists.

The National Institute of Dental Research said Monday that three years of testing with more than 70,000 children showed that weekly use of a fluoride mouthwash can be a good substitute for a community-wide fluoridated water system.

Dr. James P. Carlos, associate director of the institute, said about half the population lives in communities without fluoridated water and "we estimate there are at least 20 million children in non-fluoridated communities who could be helped."

Carlos said dental decay now affects more than 90 percent of children, even though the nation spent more than $10 billion in 1977 on dental services.

The three-year project which focused on elementary school children in 17 communities that do not have fluoridated water, showed it costs only about 50 cents per student to supply mouthwash, cups and paper towels for the 32-week school year.

Dr. Ann J. Miller, program coordinator for the institute, said the costs varied to as high as $8.17 per student when paid workers, instead of unpaid volunteers, were used to supervise the weekly rinse exercise.

21 Deaths Attributed To Heat in Metroplex

DALLAS (AP) - At least 21 are known dead and countless others have been treated or hospitalized in what one health official said could be the most deadly heat wave ever to hit the Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex.

Officials at Dallas' Parkland Hospital said two more persons, a 68-year-old woman and a 77-year-old man, died in Monday's 102-degree heat, raising the city's total to 14 since July 7.

Nearby Fort Worth has recorded seven during the same period. However, no such deaths were reported Monday.

At least 16 persons have been admitted to Dallas and Fort Worth hospital. Four were listed in critical condition Monday night.

Other cities around the stricken area reported isolated cases of heat exhaustion, but no fatalities.

It was a different story in Dallas Monday as heat victims continued to check in at hospital emergency rooms, some still suffering from the city's record-high of 107 Saturday. Monday was the 16th straight day that Dallas-Fort Worth thermometers went past the 100-degree mark.

National Weather Service figures Monday showed 26 of 39 Texas cities and towns that were checked with temperatures of 100 or above. Wichita Falls and Childress tied for the day's high at 107.

"We've been watching very closely and keeping in touch with the hospitals, and we're thinking it's going to be the worst we've ever seen if things continue the way they're going," said Dallas County Health Director Dr. Allen Fain.

Tony Badger, an investigator with the Dallas County Medical Examiner's Office said, "The heat seems to be hitting mostly the older folks. I've never seen anything like it before."

Police Report

Three Hereford men were arrested Monday night and charged with felony possession of marijuana after police raided a residence at 405 E. 5th.

Scott Frost, 23, of 405 E. 5th, Arnie Lee Morrison, 18, of 339 George, and Tommy Barrett, 23, of 342 Ave. B, were arrested Monday night after Hereford police officers and Metro-Intelligence officer Phil Sciombato raided Frost's residence and found between nine and 10 ounces of suspected marijuana.

Police, who reportedly were acting on a tip, said the suspected drug was found scattered throughout the house.

Justice of the Peace Glen Nelson set bond at $2,500 on each of the three men. They reportedly were released today from Deaf Smith County Jail after posting bond.

Paul Harvey News Tax Revolt, Real or Imaginary?

Another campaign promise bites the dust.

President Carter said he would balance the budget by 1981. Now his budget director, James T. McIntyre Jr., says there will be at least $20 billion worth of red ink in the fiscal 1981 budget.

The AMA says, "Hey, why not enact a constitutional amendment prohibiting any administration from spending more than it takes in?"

Several states have thus disciplined themselves; perhaps the United States could.

Howard Jarvis, five-star general of the California property tax revolt, says he'll next take on the federal income tax.

Meanwhile, both parties in Congress are talking up tax cuts and the President is threatening to veto appropriations which exceed his requests.

Will this be a serious and sustained effort to curb the size and cost of government or will all the steam blow off in the whistle?

Government-federal, state and local--now takes nearly 40 percent of the national income. One in five workers in the United States is paid with tax dollars.

Every survey shows voter resentment--in California and elsewhere--against domestic welfare and foreign aid.

But despite the historic Proposition 13 mandate President Carter talks of sending more of your money to Africa. And California's Gov. Brown is still urging additional "cost of living increases" for California's welfare recipients.

Californians opposed to escalating welfare are convinced that the only hope of ever sidetracking the gravy train is to purposely wean welfare recipients by allowing welfare income to lag behind earned income--so that there would again be an incentive for the idle to accept jobs.

While thus discouraging idleness, Congressman William Steiger (R-Wis.) is trying to stimulate investment--create more jobs--by reducing the capital gains tax.

These are two significant and constructive ways in which our elected officials could respond if they really wanted to.

Some sources have been citing surveys indicating that Americans want reduced taxes but no reduction in government services. This question-and-answer suggests that we cannot have one without the other.

To insist that any tax cut must result in curtailment of fire and police services is an unworthy and dishonest political device.

Firemen and policemen are not our "extravagance." It is the vast multiplicity of non-essential functions of government which are not worth going bankrupt for.

Mr. Jarvis says, "There are 25,000 things that federal government ought to get out of tomorrow!"

And tax activists in 40 states are busily engineering tax-cut campaigns.

Even the California Democrat who most vigorously opposed Jarvis, Sen. Alan Cranston, now has climbed aboard the tax-cut bandwagon.

He says, "The people have spoken." Well--we'll see.

Funeral services for Mrs. LaVaughn June Nelson, 49, of Hereford were conducted at 4:40 a.m. today in Sanders Chapel of Sanders Funeral Home in Lubbock. Local arrangements were under the direction of Smith & Co. Funeral Home.

Interment was in Resthaven Cemetery at Lubbock.

Mrs. Nelson died Saturday. She was born at Lamesa and had been a Hereford resident since 1962.

Surviving are her husband, Bill; a son, John of Roswell, N.M.; and her father, W.O. Bearden of Lubbock.

Hospital Awarded Cost Certificate

Deaf Smith General Hospital has been awarded a certificate indicating its participation in the state and national attack on rising health care costs.

Upon issuing the certificate, O. Ray Hurst, president of Texas Hospital Association (THA), said, "we are pleased to recognize another THA member hospital for its dedication to help hold down the rising cost of health care. Although hospital costs in Texas are 20 percent below the national average, hospitals across the State are joining in the voluntary effort to help reach a national industry goal of two percent per year reduction in the rate of increase for two years."

Participating in the Texas voluntary effort with hospitals are physicians, nurses, pharmacists and other health-care groups. More than 20 health, business and state government groups, including the Governor's Office have organized to deal with rising health-care costs.

Hereford Man Hurt in Rollover

Joe Monroe, 18, whose address is listed as Route 4 in Hereford, was treated at Deaf Smith General Hospital Monday

STATE CAPITAL

Highlights AND Sidelights

by Lyndell Wilkins

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Texas legislators headed back to their desks at Austin this week for a special session on tax relief.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, who called the session for high noon July 10, said he anticipates it will result in "hundreds of millions of dollars" in effective tax reductions.

The meeting followed weeks of speculation in the wake of California's adoption of controversial Proposition 13 slashing that state's property taxes 57 percent.

Briscoe emphasized his particular fondness for a provision of the California initiative proposal requiring two-thirds legislative approval of any state tax bills.

House Speaker Bill Clayton, meanwhile, preferred a limit on state and local government taxation and controls on the growth of the state's budget, with allowances for inflation and population growth.

Briscoe got no sympathy from Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby from the two-thirds requirement or another plan to dedicate $1.9 billion in state sales tax revenue to local school districts which slash their property taxes sharply.

Hobby expressed doubt the Senate would ever go for the two-thirds majority restriction, since the House hasn't passed a tax bill in 20 years by that margin.

Among proposals suggested for legislators' consideration:

—Repeal of the four percent state sales tax on home utility bills ($122 million a year).

—Raising the inheritance tax exemption. ($15 million a year).

—Repeal of the state property tax for college building purposes.

—Allowing taxation of farm and ranch lands on the basis of productivity rather than market values.

—Further homestead exemptions for the elderly.

Up the Water Bills?

A proposed federal regulation may cause increases of up to 70 percent in Texas water bills, a governor's task force on water conservation and development was told.

The proposal calls for removal of organic complexes from municipal water supplies.

Organic complexes are created when chlorine is mixed with raw water containing organic material.

The Texas Department of Water Resources said whether the complexes (trihalomethanes) cause cancer is under debate.

Dallas estimated a 70 percent jump in water bills if activated carbon filters must Peveto's bill includes something Briscoe wanted, a 5 percent annual limit on local property tax increases, unless governing bodies can muster a two thirds majority for a tax hike.

It centralizes property appraisals in each county and provides machinery for the state to be sure property is appraised equally across the state.

The House, with nothing set for floor action, adjourned until Wednesday.

Briscoe's proposals, and some thought up by representatives, got their first hearing Monday in the House Constitutional Amendments Committee.

House to Study Peveto Bill

Rep. Wayne Peveto, D-Orange, smilingly told reporters that while he had received no word from Briscoe, his tax uniformity bill "with a new look" was definitely in the governor's thoughts.

"I do know it is still a subject of conversation in the governor's office," Peveto said. "Asked if he meant positive or negative conversation," he said, "Positive."

Special sessions can consider only subjects submitted by the governor. One opponent can immediately kill a bill outside the call by raising a point of order against it in committee or on the floor.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - It's full steam ahead on the Peveto "Property Tax Reform Bill of 1978," even though Gov. Dolph Briscoe hasn't submitted it to the special legislative session.

Only a handful - probably not more than five or six - representatives voiced objection Monday to suspending rules so the House Ways and Means Committee can open hearings on the bill Wednesday.

The contrast was marked between the action and the successful efforts by a House minority last week to stymie hurry-up action on constitutional amendments sought by Briscoe.

Bridal Party Fetes Elizabeth Phillips

Miss Elizabeth Phillips, bride-elect of Steve Landers, was feted at a bridal shower Saturday morning in the home of Mrs. Ansel McDowell, 207 North Texas.

The couple will repeat vows August 18 in First Christian Church.

Greeting guest were Mrs. McDowell, the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Wayne Phillips and Mrs. Jerry Landers, mother of the future bridegroom.

A Madeira cutwork cloth overlaid the table which was accented with crystal and silver appointments. The bride-elects chosen colors of light blue and light yellow were displayed in the centerpiece, a floral arrangement of white daisies and blue babybreath. Jane and Tonya Landers served refreshments.

Lynette Cawthon invited guest to sign the registry. Mrs. Russell Hunter, grandmother of the honoree, was special guest.

Out of town guests were Mrs. Lynn Smith and Debbie Smith, both of Amarillo, and Mrs. Cecil Morrison of Dumas.

In addition to Mrs. McDowell hostesses included: Mmes. Harold N. Close, Charles Hill, Milton Higgins, Donald Henslee, W.E. Dameron, Ben Childers, Carl McCaslin, James E. Miss Sue Hamlett Honored At Shower

Miss Sue Hamlett, bride-elect of Rob Lomas, was honored Saturday morning at a pre-nuptial party in the home of Mary Nell Rudder, 151 Kingwood.

The couple will be wed Aug. 12 in First United Methodist Church.

Receiving guests were Mrs. Rudder, the honoree's mother, Mrs. Tom Hamlett, and her fiances mother, Mrs. Dennis W. Lomas.

Mrs. Jeanne Caison served guests from a table laid with an ivory cutwork cloth. Silver and crystal appointments were used. A silver compote held an arrangement of an apricot daisies, ivory rosebuds and baby breath.

Refreshments included miniature cinnamon rolls, sausage balls, fresh fruit, coffee and almond tea.

Special guest were Mrs. Taft McGee, grandmother of the future bridegroom and Miss Sharon Wilson of Amarillo, who will attend Miss Hamlett as a bridesmaid in the wedding. Hostesses assisting Mrs. Rudder included: Virginia Bayne, Elizabeth Cesar, Jeanne Caison, Margaret Carnahan, Bev DeBoer, Sherry Hoover, Sherrie Kerr, Leona Kimble, Bobbie Kitchens, Helen Langley, Louise Leasure, Marge Martin, Irma Murphey, Lavon Nieman, Betty Pickens, Georgia Sparks, Meredith Wilcox and Claudia Wilson.

Ancient System

The first known system for delivering water to cities was built by the Phoenicians. The Greeks copied the system of digging tunnels to bring water to their cities, and the Romans developed it with aqueducts 50 to 100 feet high that brought water to Rome from more than 60 miles away.

Ann Landers

Embezzler Caught

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is for "Friend," who has been stealing from his company because they "owe it to him."

My husband worked for a large grocery warehouse for 16 years. He also brought home cases of canned goods, crates of stuff, everything he could get out of the place. In addition to what he carted out of there for our own use, he had a very lucrative cigarette business on the side. Of course, the cigarettes he was selling to friends and relatives "at a discount" were stolen.

I, like "Friend's" wife, hated what he was doing and I warned him repeatedly. It did no good. I knew it would happen eventually -- and it did. My husband was caught with a lousy 69-cent can of motor oil. He was arrested, lost his job, and can't collect unemployment compensation. He still isn't working and that was eight months ago. So, "Friend," is this how you want to end up? If you don't stop stealing now, I can promise you -- you will.

Another Wife Of A Man Who Knew It All
DEAR WIFE: If your letter doesn't put an end to a lot of stealing in this country, I'll eat this newspaper. Thank you for performing a valuable service.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: How much validity do you attach to the newspaper and -magazine polls? I am especially interested in the polls which list "the most admired."

Will you please tell me if you think they are on the up-and-up? Also, who gets asked? Neither my husband nor I nor any of our friends or relatives have been polled for anything. -- Too Much Mystery

DEAR MYSTERY: The newspaper polls of "the most admired" should be called "the list of those whose names are most recognizable." I agree, some of the results don't make much sense. For example: In a recent poll, Richard Nixon and Pope Paul tied for seventh place.

In my opinion, the responses from teenagers are more honest than the answers from adults. The wording of a question can, however, produce strange results. For example, God came in second to Billy Graham as the one who has done most for religion.

Another hitch: A well-known magazine poll of "the most admired" gives the impression that the winners are selected by the readers. (Readers are asked to write in and vote for their favorite from a prepared list.) Actually, in small print it says a committee will review the results and make the final selection. You can be sure the committee selects the winners.

In 1973 the major factor in the demise of a magazine called "The Literary Digest" was its presidential poll. (Ten million ballots were sent out.) The magazine predicted that Alf Landon would defeat Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The popularity of political figures (especially presidents) varies widely from month to month, and the polls reflect this. Nearly all politicians use polls -- praising them when the result is favorable, damning them when the news is bad.

No poll I know of has a perfect record. Even Gallup and The Chicago Sun-Times polls -- two of the oldest and best -- missed the boat on Harry Truman's historic upset victory in 1948.

4-H Firsthand

Hello. My name is Missy Merritt and I'm a member of the Argen Draper 4-H club. This year, I completed a home environment project and I'd like to tell you some things I've learned.

The home fills many human needs. It is a place to eat and sleep... a place to work and play... a place to be alone, with family and with friends. These needs are met in a different way for every individual and every family. Even in houses or apartments with the same floor plans, the interior of each home is different. Some are casual, others formal... one is modern, another traditional... one home is colorful, one somber... one is luxurious, another practical... some are simple, others elaborate. Some homes are planned for the pleasure and comfort of the family... others to impress friends and visitors.

A well-designed home will be both functional and beautiful... it will meet personal and family needs and provide an attractive appearance. Before you furnish a new home or add to your present one, make a few basic decisions. Determine what home furnishings you need... how purchases will be used... how long major items will be serviceable. Decide what you want in terms of color, design and overall appearance. Consider also how much you can spend. You've all heard the saying "there is no place more delightful than home." I have applied these same principles that I have mentioned to you for redecorating my own bedroom.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

Following a lecture recently, a woman who had been staring at me intently for the last hour shook my hand and said, "You're a weird little devil, aren't you?"

Before I could open my mouth in rebuttal, she was gone. I wanted to tell her that compared to some of the people who sent me letters, on a scale of seriousness, I was right up there just above Solzhentzsyn.

For example, there's Wendy Ward Ehlers, New York, who is "into lint." She wants a bag full of mine for her exhibition in New York.

It seems Wendy was doing four loads of laundry a day for a family of seven and amassed such a collection of lint she began experimenting with it artistically and transformed it into an object of art.

Pleased with her results, she began creating other objects of art by using cereal, shirts scorched by a new iron, teabags, and paper towels soaked in coffee. She enclosed a picture of herself in front of the capitol in Washington holding a sign saying, "Support the Wendy Ward Ehlers lint museum. Wash an extra load."

I never did that in my life.

And what about the woman in a Texas town that was so small she confessed it eventually got to her? One day she emptied the refrigerator, took out all the shelves, crawled into it and put an ice cube in her mouth. She had her daughter snap her picture. They entered it in a radio contest in Ft. Worth and won a diamond ring.

I never did that.

Nor am I an idea man like promoter John P. Hoffman, who sits around and comes up with such likely business ventures as sponsoring a non-violent fox hunt, in which horseback riders without guns and hounds chase a fox equipped with a beeper device.

I never did that.

Nope. I never brought home chicken in a doggy bag like that woman in Victor, Mont., and put the handbag on a shelf in the closet and forget about it until the room died.

And I certainly never took my sourdough starter in my handbag on an airplane like a correspondent of mine. When she got to 30,000 feet, she not only smelled like a brewery, her handbag looked like a Japanese horror film.

No, never did any of those things.

But I understand the people who do.

Rangers Blank Birds, KC Rallies By Yanks

AP Sports Writer

It's just like old times with the New York Yankees - feuding, fussing and fighting.

And guess who's in the eye of the storm once more. Why, it's none other than Billy Martin and Reggie Jackson.

Martin, the stormy Yankee manager, virtually was breathing fire at Jackson after the outfielder with the brittle ego dismissed a hitting sign during Monday night's 9-7, 11-inning loss to the Kansas City Royals.

"The bunt was on, on the first pitch," Martin said. "It was then taken off via verbal instructions by the third base coach. The manager's orders were just disregarded. He bunted in defiance of a verbal order to hit."

Jackson was then instructed by a coach that his services were no longer needed in the game and that he was suspended indefinitely without pay.

"He doesn't want me around here; he should be happy now," said Jackson of Martin. "Billy hasn't spoken to me for a year and a half, so why should he talk to me now? Why should I talk to him."

The other American League games Monday night were far less heated. The Texas Rangers whipped the Baltimore Orioles 2-0 in 11 innings; the Boston Red Sox stopped the Minnesota Twins 3-2 in 10 innings; the Cleveland Indians turned back the Seattle Mariners 5-2; the Detroit Tigers edged the California Angels 4-3 in 10

In 1932, the National Football League offenses were so ineffective there were eight scoreless ties.

In the first National Football League championship game in 1933 between the Chicago Bears and New York Giants, the winning share for the Bear players was only $210.34.

innings; the Oakland A's trimmed the Toronto Blue Jays 5-3 and the Milwaukee Brewers beat the Chicago White Sox 6-1.

Rangers 2, Orioles 0

A sacrifice fly by Bobby Bonds snapped a scoreless tie in the 11th inning and Juan Beniquez followed with a home run, leading Texas over Baltimore

Red Sox 3, Twins 2

Carlton Fisk delivered a two-out, 10th-inning single to lead Boston past Minnesota. Trailing 2-1 into the bottom of the 10th, the Red Sox came back to tie it on Jim Rice's two-out single off reliever Mike Marshall, 4-7.

Indians 5, Mariners 2

Andre Thornton drove in three runs with a two-run homer in the eighth, his 19th of the year, and a bases-loaded walk in the third to lead Cleveland over Seattle.

Tigers 4, Angels 3

John Wockenfuss singled home Rusty Staub from third base with a two-out single in the 10th inning, pacing Detroit over California, dropping the Angels percentage points behind Kansas City for the AL West lead. Jack Morris, 2-4, who relieved Steve Baker in the fifth inning, was the winner.

A's 5, Blue Jays 3

Rookie left-hander John Johnson pitched a five-hitter as Oakland beat Toronto. Johnson, 7-5, withstood a Toronto rally in the sixth when he gave up a two-run triple to Dave McKay.

The A's scored all their runs off loser Jerry Garvin, 2-10.

Brewers 6, White Sox 1

Dick Davis singled home the go-ahead run in a two-run Milwaukee sixth inning and Ben Oglivie's sacrifice fly capped a four-run seventh, leading the Brewers past Chicago.

Texas Hurler Saves Heart-Attack Victim

BALTIMORE (AP) - Baseball pitchers strive to record saves, but only when George "Doc" Medich is involved are human lives at stake.

The Texas hurler, a first year resident at Allegheny General Hospital in Pittsburgh, saved the life of an apparent heart attack victim in the stands of Memorial Stadium Monday night about an hour before the Rangers were to play the Baltimore Orioles.

Germain Languth, 61, of Pasadena, Md., had no detectable heartbeat or pulse by the time Medich responded to a public address announcement for a doctor and rushed from right field to a box behind third base.

But after Medich directed the emergency treatment, Languth was admitted to nearby Union Memorial Hospital with stabilized vital signs. Although he was listed in serious condition in the coronary care unit, Languth was described as "alert, and well aware of what's happening around him."

Medich, who said he has been involved in 25 such cases since starting his medical training, gave mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and external heart massage, and then attached tubes and lines for the administering of medication and electrical shock.

The 29-year-old Medich conducted a rare interview in the Texas clubhouse during the game to describe his part in the drama, and again was besieged by newsmen as he ate a postgame snack.

In response to a question, Medich conceded his actions probably saved Languth's life but added modestly: "I was trained, and I was in the right spot at the right time."

"Yes, I guess I saved him," Medich said. "Anytime somebody's lying there without a heartbeat and pulse... without aid, there's a good chance he would have died."

Medich, involved in a similar incident in the stands of Philadelphia's Veterans Stadium in 1976, when the victim died after receiving emergency aid, said fellow pitcher Dock Ellis had mentioned while they were running in the outfield that someone had suffered a heart attack in the stands.

"I didn't do anything at the time," Medich said, "but when I heard the announcement for help, it was obvious that they hadn't gotten a doctor yet."

A paramedic team, the stadium nurse and city police were eventually involved in the rescue, and life-saving procedures were already underway when Medich arrived.

"But things were kind of disorganized when I got there," Medich said, "and I kind of took over. I started giving orders, and people started following them."

"There was no spontaneous movement and no palpable pulse," Medich said. "He was not getting enough oxygen."

"You can't afford to make mistakes, you can't afford delays," Medich said of the treatment. "You have little control of the situation because you're not sure of the extent of the attack. You just hope you're lucky."

Medich wasn't scheduled to pitch Monday, and he wasn't certain he could have after such an incident.

"It's tough to concentrate on baseball after something like that," he said. "I don't know if I could have pitched. It would have to happen for me to answer that."

Giants, Reds Win Again

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

Rob Andrews hesitated for a moment when the ball soared off his bat. In 1,227 previous trips to the plate, the utility San Francisco infielder had never been in such a situation.

Up it went, a rising drive which headed for the left field seats at Busch Memorial Stadium in St. Louis.

Still, there was hesitation. Andrews watched his ninth-inning drive and thought it might drop at the base of the wall for a double.

It didn't. The game was tied 7-7 when Cardinals reliever Buddy Schultz launched a slider towards catcher Ted Simmons, but when the ball came to rest, the Giants had an 8-7 lead and Andrews had the first home run of his career.

"I was stunned. I thought, 'What's going on here?' Then I saw the umpire motioning me around. When you haven't hit a home run in 1,200 and some at-bats, you don't get much chance to practice trotting around the bases.

"I kept telling the guys that they hit the home runs when they didn't count. I said I was going to save mine for a time when it won a game," said Andrews.

It did just that, though Willie McCovey - a teammate with 503 home runs trots to his credit - delivered an insurance run in the Giants' 9-7 triumph Monday night.

In the other National League games, the Cincinnati Reds topped the Montreal Expos 8-6, the Los Angeles Dodgers edged the Chicago Cubs 4-3, the Pittsburgh Pirates trimmed the San Diego Padres 8-7 in 10 innings, the Houston Astros nipped the Philadelphia Phillies

2-1 in 11 innings and the Atlanta Braves beat New York 3-0 in the opener before dropping the nightcap to the Mets 7-4.

Reds 8, Expos 6
George Foster slugged two homers and drove in five runs - raising his season's RBI total to 71 - while Pete Rose extended his hitting streak to 30 games as Cincinnati rallied from a 5-0 deficit and beat Montreal.

Dodgers 4, Cubs 3
Right fielder Reggie Smith clouted two homers and threw out Larry Cox at home for the final out of the game to help Los Angeles edge Chicago.

Smith's eighth-inning homer, his 15th of the year, snapped a tie and pinned the defeat on Paul Reuschel.

Pirates 8, Padres 7
Manny Sanguillen's 10th-inning single scored pinch-runner Ken Macha from third base; capping Pittsburgh's two-run rally and carrying the Pirates past the Padres.

Astros 2, Phillies 1
Houston's Jose Cruz hit the first pitch by Rawly Eastwick over the right field fence in the 11th inning, backing the five-hit pitching of Joe Niekro and powering the Astros past Philadelphia.

Braves 3-4, Mets 0-7
Dale Murphy's 14th homer of the year helped Larry McWilliams win in his first major league appearance as Atlanta blanked New York in the opener. McWilliams combined with Gene Garber to surrender just six hits - five of them doubles.

Sutton Told to Keep Mouth Shut On Ball-Defacing Charge

CHICAGO (AP) - Don Sutton is not the kind of man who has to be told when to speak. But that is precisely the pitcher's predicament, despite a ruling that he will not be suspended for throwing a defaced ball.

National League President Chub Feeney announced the decision Monday. The Los Angeles Dodgers' veteran righthander was ejected from a game in St. Louis Friday night for pitching a defaced ball and had waited quietly through the weekend to find out if he would be suspended.

He had said he planned to sue umpire Doug Harvey, who tossed him out of the Cardinals' game, and the National League trying to deprive him of his right to make a living.

On Monday, during the Dodgers' 4-3 victory over the Cubs, Sutton received a telephone call in the Los Angeles clubhouse from his attorney, E. Gregory Hookstraten, who told him of the decision.

"His advice was to tell me, 'As difficult as I know it is for you, keep your mouth shut,'" said Sutton as he tried goodnaturedly to fend off reporters after the game. The hurler did not say if he still planned to file a civil suit.

He said Hookstraten told him: "I met with Mr. Feeney. You're not suspended. Keep your mouth shut and I'll talk to you later."

The decision, Sutton said, "doesn't surprise me at all." While Sutton, who has been accused many times in his 13-year career of doctoring baseballs, shed little light on his plans, Dodger Manager Tom Lasorda's tongue was not tied by legal considerations.

"I'm very enthused," Lasorda said. "It makes me feel good to know they're not penalizing Sutton. We just cannot lose a pitcher the caliber of Don Sutton."

Lasorda planned to use Sutton, 9-8, in tonight's opener of a three-game series in Pittsburgh against the Pirates.

Feeney's statement said that the umpires took the correct action in ejecting Sutton but that "no further disciplinary action appears appropriate at this time."

He said Sutton is being warned again that disciplinary action may be taken if "repeated violations of this nature are detected."

Harvey said that during the St. Louis game he found that three balls which Sutton had pitched were defaced. After the third incident, in the seventh inning, he ejected Sutton.

Harvey said he wasn't accusing Sutton of defacing the ball, only of using a defaced ball in violation of a baseball rule.

And then there's the AL

West. The division title may be won by a team that finishes around .500, with heroes who have yet to bubble to the surface.

So, at mid-season, the spotlight is on Boston. The Red Sox not only have nationally recognized stars aplenty; they have a quiet clubhouse to boot.

But Which Player? Boston Claims MVP Nominee

BOSTON (AP) - And the winner is... Jack Brohammer? No, the Red Sox utility infielder won't be voted the American League's most valuable player. But he's one of the few current Boston regulars who won't get some serious consideration.

The Red Sox show no signs of letting up in the AL East where they are making a mockery of the division race. Barring a total collapse, Boston will be in the playoffs and quite possibly the World Series.

It may be hard for the baseball establishment to dip down in the standings and select an AL MVP from another club. The question is: who on the Red Sox is most valuable? Brohammer. No. He's been filling in for injured third baseman Butch Hobson.

But what about slugger Jim Rice? The AL's second-leading hitter Fred Lynn? Catcher Carlton Fisk? And future hall of famer Carl Yastrzemski?

Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins was the 1977 winner and Carew is on his way to a seventh AL batting title. The slim Panamanian is steadily streaming toward 3,000 career hits, but he's likely to be overlooked this time.

Last season, Carew narrowly missed hitting .400 and was in the national spotlight. This season, he's sharing center stage with Twins owner Cal Griffith, with whom Carew is waging a contract war.

Carew also benefited last season from the messy situation in the World Series champion New York Yankees' clubhouse, which reverberated with divorce court bickering rather than the cliches of a winning club.

The Yankees have all-stars, but MVPs are supposed to talk about love of the game rather than the all-mighty dollar or the personality of the manager.

New York left-hander Ron Guidry is valuable - the team would be close to rock-bottom without him. But Guidry's allure, which counts for something, has been suffocated by the Yankees' back-biting.

And then there's the AL West. The division title may be won by a team that finishes around .500, with heroes who have yet to bubble to the surface.

So, at mid-season, the spotlight is on Boston. The Red Sox not only have nationally recognized stars aplenty; they have a quiet clubhouse to boot.

Lemons Is Coach of Year

DALLAS (AP) - Abe Lemons of the University of Texas is the runaway selection as senior college coach of the winter by the Texas Sports Writers Association.

Lemons' Longhorns won the NIT basketball tournament after finishing as co-champions in the Southwest Conference. Lemons received 66 first-place votes and 435 points in the preferential balloting.

Guy Lewis, basketball coach at the University of Houston, was second with 281 points. His Cougars upset Arkansas and Texas in the Southwest Conference post-season tournament.

Don Hood of Abilene Christian was third with 249 points. His Wildcats tied for the NAIA indoor track championship.

Other nominees were track coaches Ted Banks of Texas at El Paso and Tom Tellez of Houston and basketball coach Jim Gudger of East Texas State.

Casanova To Quit

CINCINNATI (AP) - Tommy Casanova, twice an all-pro safety, has decided to call it quits with the Cincinnati Bengals of the National Football League.

The 28-year-old medical student was unavailable for comment, but the Bengals said he informed them of his retirement Monday.

Casanova was drafted by Cincinnati out of Louisiana State in the second round in 1972.

Coach Bill Johnson said he had no comment other than to say, "There will be an announcement made concerning that," Johnson said.

"We were pretty sure it was going to happen," said Al Heim, the team's public relations director. "He's in his last year of medical school and that was his major consideration. That's what his life's work is going to be."

Casanova said last month that he continued to have problems with a knee injury.

"I've done some weight work and some running. I don't know if I can tolerate playing on it a whole season," Casanova said at that time. He is attending the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine.

Redbirds Win, 5-0

Chris Hill hurled a two-hit shutout and drove in two runs to spark the Hereford Redbirds to a 5-0 victory over Amarillo Tascosa Sunday in district American Legion baseball action.

Hill struck out five and walked five in the pitching the shutout, while Ron Plummer, Jeff Hazelrigg and Kenneth Waters turned in outstanding defensive plays. Richard Waters helped the bat attack as he drove home two runs. Hereford rapped six hits off loser Rex Gill.

Coach Joe Don Cummings termed the win "our best game of the season."

The win left Hereford with a 7-6 record on the season, while Tascosa is now 12-2. Hereford plays River Road Wednesday in Amarillo to close out the season. If the Redbirds win, Hereford will tie with Canyon for second place in the South Zone. Amarillo High has clinched the zone title.

Allen Fined

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Coach George Allen of the Los Angeles Rams has been fined $3,000 by National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle for "acrimonious and destructive statements" concerning the Washington Redskins, the Los Angeles Times said in Tuesday's editions.

Allen spent seven years as Washington's coach and general manager before becoming the Rams' coach for a second time this year. He also was cautioned by Rozelle, the Times said it learned, for public statements that "verge on tempering" with Redskins' quarterback Billy Kilmer.

Amarillo Loses

By The Associated Press

Dave Bialas and Jim Rieggeman accounted for six of the runs and R.J. Harrison picked up the pitching victory as Arkansas took a 10-4 Texas League baseball victory over San Antonio Monday night.

In other Texas League action, Shreveport swept a doubleheader from Amarillo, 11-2 and 10-3, Tulsa blasted Midland, 11-3, and El Paso rolled to an easy, 15-7 victory over Jackson.

Bialas had a two-run homer, his fourth of the season and had a total of three RBIs as did Rieggeman. Harrison, now 3-4, picked up the victory. Dave Stewart, now 10-9, took the loss.

John Dean's 13th homer of the year helped Shreveport take the 11-2 victory in the opening game with Amarillo. He also singled home a run. Tony Pena also had a two-run homer. Randy Tate picked up the pitching victory for the Captains, his first after four losses. Larry Monroe, the loser, was charged with his third loss without a pitching victory.

In the second game, Pena had a three-run homer, a double and a single. Jim Brady added another homer for Shreveport in the nightcap. Dennis Davis, now 5-6, was the winning pitcher. Gary Lucas, now 5-7, was charged with the loss.

Doug Duncan drove in four runs with a homer and a double as the Tulsa Drillers unleashed a 12-hit attack in their 11-3 victory over Midland. The Drillers had six extra base hits, including three triples. Dave Crutcher, who allowed the Midland Cubs only six hits, picked up the victory in his first appearance in the Texas League.

your way to summer cooking fun!

At the Pioneer Natural Gas Summer Cooking School, our consumer information specialists are going stir-crazy over stir-frying. It's an easy, fun way to create new and exciting summer dishes.

Stir-frying is the ancient oriental method of cooking vegetables and meats in a skillet or wok over high intensity heat to retain their fresh flavor and appetizing appearance.

Join us for a free stir-fry demonstration. You'll receive taste-tempting recipes, see foods prepared the stir-fry way, and sample the marvelous results.

After you see what fun it is, you'll go stir-crazy, too!

Administration Asks Organized Labor To Battle Inflation

NEW YORK (AP) The Carter Administration is trying to enlist organized labor into the fight against inflation, but the number of recruits so far is nil.

The White House has asked that wage settlements be held to one-half percent less than the previously negotiated increase. But last winter the administration agreed to a 39 percent pay increase over three years for miners to end a lengthy coal strike.

Since then, several building trades unions in the West have won large settlements, one with a 25 percent increase in the first year. Retail clerks in Philadelphia settled with a 10 percent raise this year, Western pulp and paper workers have demanded a 14 percent boost, as did federal postal workers. Railroad workers have been negotiating a raise of 31 percent over three years.

Barry Bosworth, who as director of Council on Wage and Price Stability is a leader of Carter's battle against inflation, admitted last week to the House Budget Committee that the Administration has failed to get labor's cooperation.

And the worst may be yet to come. The powerful Teamsters, United Auto Workers and United Steelworkers unions will negotiate next year. The government plans to try to influence bargaining in these industries to prevent large wage increases. But Bosworth is worried that those industries believe they easily can raise prices to cover higher labor costs. In that situation, firms may resist wage demands less strenuously than would companies that must keep prices down.

The problem the White House faces is that workers don't want to be the first to give up something in the name of the war on inflation. Union leaders say they're under pressure from the rank and file to keep wages at least even with the Consumer Price Index, which has been climbing at an annual rate of about 10 percent so far this year. Unions also claim that business has not shown much restraint on price hikes.

The federal Bureau of Labor Statistics says that during the first three months of 1978 the average wage increase in major bargaining units, those with at least 1,000 employees, was 9.9 percent for the first year of the contracts. Over the life of multi-year contracts, the average annual increase was 7.3 percent. Multi-year contracts typically provide the largest increase in the first year.

Statistics for the second three months of the year will be released July 27 and are expected to be about the same. Union officials contend that they can't hold back on wage demands without proof that employers will hold back on price increases.

But businessmen point to shrinking profit margins and rising labor costs as justifications for raising prices.

Robbers Kill Employees At Oklahoma Steakhouse

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - Six workers closing a steakhouse for the night were murdered by robbers who forced them at gunpoint into a walk-in freezer, then shot each of them through the head, authorities said Monday. Four of the victims were teen-agers.

Police said more than $1,000 was missing from the restaurant's safe.

Investigators said they believe more than one person was involved, but that there were no suspects and few clues in the slayings, which they called the worst mass murder in local memory.

The bodies were found late Sunday night by restaurant manager Mike Click, 25, who returned to the Siroin Stockade restaurant in the Southern Hills Shopping Center to determine why the employees had failed to telephone with the nightly cash total.

Police Sgt. Tom Munday said Click found the bodies piled in a heap where they had fallen after apparently being executed one-by-one.

Munday said earlier reports that the manager had returned to give a female employee a ride home were erroneous.

The restaurant is near Interstate 240, an Oklahoma City by pass route. Munday said the assailants may have selected that particular restaurant because of its accessibility to the expressway.

Five male workers dead at the scene were identified by police as David Lindsay, 17; David Salzman, 16; Anthony Teu, 17; Isaac E. Freeman, 56, a janitor, and Louis Zacharias, 40, assistant manager.

The sixth person, Terri M. Horst, 16, was taken to Oklahoma Children's Memorial Hospital suffering from gunshot wounds to the head and chest.

She never regained consciousness and died at about 12:15 a.m., Munday said.

Police cordoned off the parking lot surrounding the restaurant. A dozen officers walked shoulder-to-shoulder to search the parking lot, but they found only a handful of coats which they believe the robbers may have dropped after leaving through a rear door.

Munday said each victim had been shot in the head with a small caliber weapon and that as many as 20 shots may have been fired.

The interior lights were dimmed when officers arrived, he said.

"It looks as though it was a last minute robbery - as they were closing," Munday said.

Economic Program To Sponsor Cruise

People in the Golden Spread will have an opportunity this winter to combine education with pleasure, learning to set up a personal estate plan and at the same time cruising in the Caribbean on a trip sponsored by the Panhandle Economic Program.

A number of local residents are planning to participate in the cruise.

In the 26-country area comprising the Panhandle Economic Program, effective estate planning could result in an estimated $20-million saving on federal estate taxes and state inheritance taxes, the P.E.P. Executive Committee noted a decade ago. The P.E.P. is an area-wide effort to improve the agricultural, industrial and family consumer economic picture. It was organized in the mid-sixties and continues to work to keep the area abreast of economic changes and to plan and encourage more effective use of recourses. Charles Hoover said.

The estate planning cruise, February 25 - March 3, will provide 24 hours of study in four-hour blocks, interspersed with visits to San Juan, Puerto Rico; Samana, Dominican Republic, and St. Croix, Virgin Islands. Participants will fly from Amarillo Sunday, Feb. 25, board ship at Miami and sail that afternoon. The cruise ship returns to Miami the following Sunday morning, March 3, with a return flight to Amarillo that afternoon.

Estate Planning to provide adequately for retirement years and for the desired distribution of property after death requires careful individual consideration of many complex factors. Dr. Ray Sammons, area economist-management with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said.

Sammons and Dr. Neal Harl, an attorney and law school professor, will be the instructors for the course.

The cruise is open to everyone on a first come first serve basis. Additional information is available by writing to Estate Planning Cruise, 144 West Second, Hereford, Texas 79045.

Americans Ignoring 55 MPH Limit

WASHINGTON (AP)-American drivers are ignoring the 55 mph speed limit more and more, a major reason the death toll on U.S. highways rose for a second straight year in 1977, the government says.

The Department of transportation reported that 47,671 persons died in traffic accidents last year, an increase of 4.7 percent over the 45,523 who died in 1976.

Officials said the main reason for the rise in deaths is that more than half of America's drivers are ignoring the national 55 mph speed limit, although more cars on the road, more miles driven and more smaller vehicles also are factors.

The General Accounting Office reported earlier this year that a nationwide survey of driving habits found more than half of the cars were violating the speed limit.

A transportation Department survey found that average speeds on the nation's interstate highways have been creeping up, with the average speed on rural interstates now 58 mph and the average on urban interstates 55 mph.

An Associated Press-NBC News poll found that Americans don't think they violate the speed limit as often as they do.

Thirty-two percent of those interviewed on June 27 and 28 said they always observe the speed limit.

His Bride Didn't Give Up Even Though No Chance Given

CHICAGO (AP) — Peter Saraceno concentrated on one step, then the next, as he walked haltingly down the aisle at Our Lady of Pompeii Church. Linda Frascchalla, his bride, who brought him back to life from a 3½-month coma, walked beside him, her arm linked in his. His hands shaking slightly, Peter flashed a wide smile Sunday when he reached the end of the aisle and was helped into a waiting limousine. "Chicago is my kind of town," he said when friends and neighbors gathered in the old Italian neighborhood broke into rousing applause. Peter and Linda, both in their 20s, had planned to be married after he left the Marines in 1976. Then came the car crash. Doctors at a Westlake Hospital had pronounced Peter dead on arrival, until one groped for a pulse one last time and finally felt something. "Three or four times they told us he had just a few hours left," said his mother, Louise Saraceno. "But I didn't believe it and neither did Linda. Every night Linda was at his side, talking to him just as if it was any other night, as if they were on a date, as if nothing had happened."

On holidays at the hospital, Linda would decorate Peter's room. She told about her New Year's celebration. "At midnight, I put a hat on him and I blew horns and told him the New Year was here. The nurses thought I was crazy, but I figured Peter could hear me," Linda said.

She refused to give up, even though doctors told her to forget about Peter, to go out and have some fun because he never would be the same, never would walk again or talk again. But finally he opened his eyes, and though he could not talk or even move a finger, "his eyes followed Linda around the room," a relative said.

Linda quit her job and took special training to care for Peter. When he was allowed to go home, she moved in with his widowed mother to give him round-the-clock attention.

With her savings, Linda had an outdoor swimming pool installed so he could exercise his legs and work at physical therapy.

Today, though his speech is still garbled, he can talk, he can shake hands, and, with the help of an aluminum walker, he can walk.

Peter had worked hard on his speech and last year spoke to Linda's father. "Mr. Frascchalla," he said, "I'd like permission to marry your daughter."

"Peter," Jim Frascchalla answered, "when you can walk down that aisle, she's all yours."

After one year of practice, Peter and Linda finally made it.

"It was supposed to be a small wedding, just family and close friends," said the Rev. Angelo Calandra, who celebrated the wedding Mass. "But there were more than 300 people and more outside."

"Any other girl would have forgotten me, left me long ago, but Linda never gave up...I've been reincarnated through her," Peter said. "These last two years have taught me a lot about life. But...Linda. She taught me about love."

Bitter Growth

Celery is "blanched" during the last stage of its growth. This is done by placing soil about the plant to prevent sunlight from reaching any part of the plant except the leaves. If allowed to grow naturally, the stalks would have a greenish color and a bitter taste.

The first English colony in America was the first of two established by Sir Walter Raleigh on Roanoke Island, North Carolina, 1585 and 1587. The first group returned to England; the second, "Lost Colony," disappeared without a trace.

Return From Camp

Hereford High School drill team officers recently attended the annual Camp of Champs, held each year at Eastern New Mexico University in Portales, N.M. The four coeds came back to Hereford with 19 superior ribbons, an excellent ribbon, a plaque for "excellent home routine" and a second-place

His Worries About Inflation Caused Invention of Gold System

CHICAGO (AP) — Like most Americans, Josiah Bailey, a certified public accountant, worries about inflation. So he began a new billing system April 1. He now charges his clients 0.2723 Troy ounces of gold for a hour's work.

Of course, the Morehead City, N.C., businessman still collects his fees in dollars. The difference is that they're dollars pegged to the price of gold.

Since early April, gold prices have fluctuated between $167.30 and $186.60 an ounce. Accordingly, Bailey's hourly rate slumped to $45.56 on April 24, then gradually increased to a peak $50.81 in mid-June.

But despite the fluctuations, Bailey is perfectly satisfied with his system. "When the price went down to $170 an ounce, I even sent a letter to my clients suggesting they take advantage of the decline," he chuckled.

Bailey says that's "my way of coping with inflation. I think that gold will retain its purchasing power better than paper currencies."

Bailey is among the first to take advantage of a federal law that last October restored the legality of receiving gold as payment for goods or services. Specifically, it makes contracts denominated in gold, or metals analyst for ACLI International Commodities Inc. Nevertheless, economists identify a growing preference for gold among individuals both in this country and abroad. They explain the phenomenon in a nutshell — an inflation rate that has eaten away a sizable chunk of what paper money can buy.

But in a larger sense, the 6-year-old businessman explains what some experts describe as a subtle shift in public sentiment that puts more emphasis on the monetary role of gold.

The dominant trend, begun when the United States and other nations suspended the gold standard at the outbreak of World War I, has been a lessening of the historical tie between gold and money.

Indeed, the U.S. Treasury's long-term policy is to diminish or completely abandon the use of gold as a money standard.

Inherent restraints imposed by gold on government spending "are too severe. They imply a discipline at a time when the old notions of balanced budgets, of paying when you buy, have gone out the window," explained Martin McAuley, foreign exchange administrator at Continental Bank in Chicago v. "The idea of monetizing gold is not politically palatable. It would not only disrupt the economy, but the work habits and standard of living of the man on the street," he said.

Specialists also cite a potential threat to the dollar's premier status in the international monetary structure. "If a direct link were revived between gold and world currencies, it could result in a transfer of economic power from the United States to the principal gold-producing nations, namely South Africa and the Soviet Union," said Howard Levine, a

Youth Arrested In Dallas Protest

DALLAS (AP) — Three youths were arrested but no one was injured when a peaceful protest gathering in Reverchon Park here degenerated into a rock-and-bottle throwing episode.

About 200 persons gathered Sunday night to protest a decision by the U.S. Justice Department not to prosecute a former police officer who killed a 12-year old Mexican-American youth in 1973.

The protesters gathered in 100-degree-plus heat to listen to speeches by Mexican-American leaders before joining in a memorial march to the spot where Santos Rodriguez was shot in the head during a Russian-roulette style interrogation. A wreath was placed at the site.

After the march the group returned to the park where police said protesters milled about before restless youths began tossing bottles at passing cars and then at police who attempted to stop them.

Former Dallas police officer Darrell Cain was convicted in state court of murder with malice in the Rodriguez shooting and is serving a five-year sentence.

Saturday, about 1,000 persons gathered in Plainview to march in what they termed their last peaceful protest against brutality suffered by Mexican-Americans at the hands of police.

The group referred to five separate incidents in Texas in the past five years, but the protest was apparently sparked by the June 25 death near here of Tim Rosales, who was shot to death by a Hale County reserve deputy. A grand jury investigated the incidents and cleared the deputy of wrongdoing.

In the "Tet offensive," Jan. 30, 1968, the Vietcong and North Vietnamese captured 30 provincial capitals in South Vietnam. The city of Hue was held by the Vietcong for 25 days, with bitter street fighting. Saigon was heavily attacked and the U.S. embassy occupied for six hours. Record casualties were suffered on both sides.
