Farmer Says 'More Radical' Movement Possible

Associated Press Writer

HEREFORD (AP) - Gerald McCathern, the Panhandle grain farmer who mobilized Texas growers to join the strike move a year ago, says farmers will take to the streets again this fall in a new - and tougher - round of demonstrations.

"It could develop into a more radical type movement than what it was," McCathern said. "A dog backed up in a corner being kicked will take it just so long. Then he's going to bite

He said farmers in Texas and elsewhere have been holding meetings this summer planning how to "educate the public" to their complaint that they are losing money because of low crop prices which they blame on government policies.

He said the first demonstration is a Labor Day march across the Macinaw Bridge in Michigan. But McCathern said the brunt of farmers' protest activities must wait until after the fall harvest

McCathern says he does not advocate violence. But he compares the plight of farmers to that of factory workers in the 1800s who did resort to violence to reform working conditions.

"What they did has helped every worker today," said McCathern. "Just like those men who fired the first shot at Concord, they were ready to put it all on the line for what they felt was a fair cause.

"I hope and pray it'll never develop to that extent in this movement," he said. "We are reasonable people. We should have enough common sense to solve our problems.

"But if the lawmakers refuse to take on that responsibility, I think the American farmer will do whatever it takes. I have never taken part in violence or dirty fighting. But I don't know what I'd do. Farmers are gentle, kind people. But when they get to that point of desperation - well, they may give up peacefully, and they may not."

But last spring, after the "tractorcades," the "blockades," and no-planting threats ended, farmers did give up peacefully. They returned to their fields and planted their crops without the price guarantees they had demanded.

By that time threats to refuse to plant any acreage and let the nation go hungry were eased, and farmers in the American Agriculture Movement vowed instead to plant only 50 percent of

However, in fact, most farmers planted 80 percent of their land, leaving 20 percent idle to gain eligibility for the existing government farm program.

But not McCathern. He waved a leathery hand across a vacant patch of his 520-acre farm and said he laid out half his land because he did not want to go back on his word.

McCathern says several of his neighbors in the Hereford area, where the AAM's state headquarters is located, left 50 percent of their acres idle to protest low prices.

"The hard-core members involved laid it out like they said they would." He says he feels no bitterness toward the farmers who planted more.

"I do feel a disappointment. If we all could cut production we could have a rise in price. But if we did - soembody would go hungry," McCathern said.

McCathern, 52, a college-educated farmer who gave up his job as a petroleum engineer to return to the family farm after his father was injured, has given up his official title as Texas coordiantor in the AAM. There are now five AAM district chairmen who take turns serving as state leader.

A new concept in cable television--the utilization of a satellite hovering 22,000 miles above the equator to transmit signals--will provide two new stations and expand a third to Hereford Cablevision subscribers, an owner of the company announced Friday.

Fun Breakfast Set for Sept. 18

The Fun Breakfast, a bi-monthly event sponsored by Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce, will be held again on the regularly scheduled date of Sept. 28, it was announced this week by committee chairman Doug Manning. The breakfast was postponed in July due to work being done in the high school cafeteria and was reset for Aug. 31. However, arrangements could not be completed on conducting the breakfast in the new Community Center banquet room at that time, and the next breakfast will be on the regular date of Sept. 28.

Manning said plans are being made for a big "fall kickoff" event in September. Site of the breakfast will be announced soon, he added. Clayton: Farmers Losing Out major industries, he added.

AUSTIN (AP) - Speaker Bill Clayton said Saturday the American economy especially the farm economy - carnot afford a "Sunbelt vs. Frostbelt"battle.

Clayton, a successful West Texas farmer, said America is losing 400 million acres of farmland each year, " and every month the lights go out in another 2,000 to 3,000 family farms."

"The reason," Clayton said, "is economic. In the past five years, farm machinery costs have gone up, fertilizer and chemical costs have almost tripled, energy costs for irrigation have skyrocketed and freight prices are continually on the increase.

He added in his most recent newsletter:

"Although the cost of farm products has risen slowly, it has not equalled the nation's inflation rate. The farmer's share of food price hikes seems to get smaller and smaller while his costs of production get larger and larger.

"How long can the farmer take a loss year after year and stay in the farming business?

"What all Americans need to realize is that we're one. We're compact. We're all a unit. If you tear one of us apart, it herts us all, not just one of us. There can be no Sunbelt vs. Frostbelt, Farmer vs. Consumer, Federal Government vs. State Government, North vs. South, if we hope to solve our economic and social problems.

"The time for debate is over. The American people are tired of talk. It's time for the governments and private industries to settle their differences. Our future depends solely on our ability to work with one another."

Carter Upset Over Reports of Swap

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter, miffed by reporters he is swapping breeder reactor research money for a crucial vote on his energy program, is opening a massive offensive designed to win Senate votes for the natural gas pricing issue.

"We did not change our position." Carter said Friday night. He was responding to statements by Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, who said Carter agreed to support about $1.5 billion in breeder reactor programs - some of them in Idaho - over three years in return for McClure's signature on the natural gas measure.

I think McClure was trying to make it look as though he had won a great victory and changed our position, possibly for home-state influence." Carter said. interrupting his vacation in Grand Teton National Park.

The White House has its eye on about 20 senators who are undecided on the bill. They will be the target of an intensive lobbying campaign over the upcoming week-long Senate recess, said sources, who asked not to be named.

"The president expects that this matter of critical national importance the natural gas bill will not be obscured by other issues," presidential adviser Stuart Eizenstat said of McClure's claims.

Judge Delays Ruling In Newspaper Suit

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) - A judge has delayed a ruling in the dispute between a newspaper and the city over whether municipal officials can hold collective bargaining sessions with firefighters in private.

District Judge Jack King took the matter under advisement Friday after hearing arguments from both sides and said he would come to a decision in "the next few days."

The Enterprise Co., publisher of the Beaumont Enterprise and Journal, filed suit earlier this month against the city for holding the closed-door negotiations after its reporter was barred from attending.

The publisher's suit says the private meetings violate the Texas Open Meeting Act and the Fire and Police Employees Relations Act.

The newspaper's lawyer. Chilton O'Brien, said the publisher did not seek any special privileges for its reporters but only wanted to be extended the same rights as any citizen.

But City Attorney Ken Wall said if the court accepted the newspaper's argument that it wants to be treated as an individual citizen, there would be no grounds for filing a lawsuit unless damages could be shown.

Wall said an individual does not have the right to bring suit against the city in behalf of the public interest in general. He said an individual taxpayer could bring suit only in an attempt to show a particular government action would hurt him monetarily, which he argues is not the case in this lawsuit

Killer Typhoon Hits

Phillipines, Claims 14

MANILA, Philippines (AP) - Tropical Storm Elaine whipped into a typhoon Saturday and moved toward the South China Sea, trailing a path of destruction that left at least 14 persons dead and 30 Philippine towns under water, authorities

The storm spewed rain over the country's rice bowl in the central plains on the main island of Luzon, resulting in floods that affected 200,000 persons, according to Philippine Red Cross

Relief and rescue officials said the floods smashed several flood control dikes and dams, tore down bridges, washed out crops and houses, cut off communication lines, destroyed highways and isolated scores of villages.

Weather officials said light rains in some areas kept the floodwaters rising

Hardest hit was the Pangasinan province where at least 20 towns were reported under water. Zambales and Tarlac provinces reported at least 10 towns submerged by floods, according to the Philippine Red Cross.

Spokesman for relief agencies said Philippine Air Force helicopters and amphibious trucks have started distributing rice, canned goods and medicines to the flood victims.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Syrian peacekeepers and Christian militiamen fought hill-to-hill gun duels Saturday. shattering a short-lived truce in northern Lebanon. Witnesses reported four killed and eight wounded on both sides.

Reliable travelers reported Syrian tanks and artillery pounded Christian mortar and rocket positions on hills across the key roads in the Batroun region.

Christians also were directing mortar fire at Syrian armor in several parts of Batroun, 35 miles north of Beirut.

One Christian spokesman said 35 persons were killed or wounded in 18 hours of clashes in Batroun before the cease-fire was proclaimed at midnight. It broke down at daybreak.

Christians claimed helicopter-borne Syrian commandos seized control of many strategic roads and hills in the 50-square-mile Batroun province in a surprise offensive Friday on the edge of the Christian hinterland in the north.

The trouble erupted Thursday, when gunmen ambushed two cars on a road between Batroun and the neighboring province of Zaghartha, killing nine Christian students, aged 13 to 16.

The Phalange Party, which fielded the largest Christian militia band during the 1975-76 civil war, accused rival militia troops' of former Christian President Suleiman Franjieh of staging the ambush. Franjieh has backed the recent Syrian crackdown on Phalangists.

Postal Service Talking Strike mandate of the national Laborers' International Union

WASHINGTON (AP) - The head of the nation's largest postal union says he has "every intention" of calling a nationwide strike this week if the U.S. Postal Service refuses to return to the bargaining table.

Emmet Andrews, American Postal Workers Union president, made the statement Friday after his 229,000member union joined two others in rejecting a tentative agreement with the Postal Service.

In a recorded telephone message to his members, Andrews talked explicitly about a strike. "Every effort and influence will be exerted during the next five days to get the postal service back to the bargaining table. Should negotiations not be reopened, I have every intention of following the convention and calling a national strike at the end of the five-day period," he said.

That period would expire Wednesday.

But at news conferences Andrews and the other union presidents have avoided talk of an illegal strike even though votes by their members are pushing in that direction.

The presidents have said they want to renegotiate the rejected pact. But Postmaster General William F. Bolger has vowed not to reopen talks, saying, "We have concluded our negotiations."

The postal service tried unsuccessfully on Friday to have a U.S. District Court bar a mail strike after the new rejections by the APWUand the Mail Handlers Division of the were added to that on Wednesday of the National Association of Letter Carriers.

HEREFORD AND AREA FIRE RISK THIS WEEK: MODERATE

Hereford city Fire Marshall Jay Spain reminds all Hereford and area residents of the fire danger of over-grown weeds. "These tall weeds in vacant lots and alleys should be cut now. We've had three grass fires this week and the danger will become greater as we get closer to fall. Increasing winds and dried out weeds after frost in about 45 or 50 days will be our greatest hazards. Spain estimates the risk of fire this week to be moderate and advises all Hereford citizens to take care of fire hazards before they become fires.

Farmland Taxation

One of the important parts of the tax relief constitutional amendment contains a provision allowing farm and ranch land to be taxed on its productive value instead of market value.

This sounds simple enough, but it is a very complex problem.

At the West Texas Press Association meeting in Kerrville last week, Governor Dolph Briscoe was the luncheon speaker and at the close of the speech, asked for questions from the audience.

The Herald publisher asked the governor to spell out some details as to how this is to be accomplished, pointing out that as a landowner of considerable substance, he doubtless had studied

Governor Briscoe admitted that he did not have the answers but said that Comptroller Bob Bullock had made a study and the governor promised to send

It is not at all clear to us and we doubt if it will be clear to the lawmakers, the tax assessors, or the

Factors to be taken into consideration include "category" of land which includes soil type, soil capability, general topography, weather factors, lo-cation factors and other pertinent information from recognized agricultural sources and other competent

"Average net to land" means the average net income that could have been earned over the five year period immediately preceding the valuation by a person using ordinary prudence in the management of the land and the farm crops or livestock produced or supported thereon.

The valuation of open space land under this method shall never be more than its market value, according to the wording in this act.

It appears to us that this act leaves a lot to the judgement of the tax assessor and in fact presents the ordinary county or school district tax assessor a difficult if not impossible job. It also presents the landowner a very difficult job if he differs with the appraisal put on his land under these definitions.

The attempt to give rural landowners tax relief stems from the many unfair appraisals which base land values on speculative values or values for housing development rather than for farming or ranching.

We agree that steps need to be taken to give this kind of relief.

As it is now written, however, we would urge rural landowners to take a good look at this proposal. They might wind up with something far different from what they had been led to believe.

SAUK CENTRE, Minn. (NEA) - Guerrilla warfare has come to Gopher Prairie.

Gopher Prairie was the fictitious name used by author Sinclair Lewis to disguise the identity of Sauk Centre (his home town) in his novel, "Main Street," one of the great classics of American literature.

The book chronicled the placed life of a typical small Midwestern community in the early 1900s. But today much of that tranquility has been replaced by sabotage, violence, threats and highly emotional confrontations.

In a vain effort to maintain order, hundreds of State Patrol officers have been dispatched this year to this west-central Minnesota community as well as

I HAVE BEEN VINDICATED

OK, all you neighbors who have put on petition drives to get me to clean up my yard.

OK, all you friends who have made fun for years at my expense.

OK, you local smart alecks who counted the different varieties of weeds in my backyard and told the world how many there were...56 varieties,

All of you stand against the wall, I have an answer at last.

Up to now, all I could do is laugh with you. I would joke about how the grub worms left my yard alone because there was nothing there for a self-respecting grub to eat. Or about the fact that the trees in my yard looked like they had Christmas ornaments year 'round thanks to the bagworms.

No longer do I have to joke. The morning paper reports a group of scientists have discovered weeds to be a source of oil and oil by-products such as rubber and plastic.

They predict the development of these could reduce our need for oil by 7 percent or about two million barrels a day.

They also predict the day will come when weeds will be grown commercially and be as profitable as the present crops. (That isn't much profit but maybe it will get better). They have found 34 varieties of weeds capable of producing hydrocarbons necessary for manufacturing rubber and plastics now made with petrochemicals. Now, world stand up and realize I have been way ahead of my time. I have always said weeds were as pretty as some flowers. I have never understood how some things got designated weeds while other things are called flowers. Why is bindweed a weed and a morning glory a flower? They are second cousins.

All this time you thought I was just a lazy yard man, while in truth I have been running a research station on the future of weeds. When they become valuable remember I was the only one with 56 varieties in my backyard. When you remember and wish to do me honor, a simple statue in the park will do. By the way, be sure to keep the weeds cut around the statue!

The East of the Big-Time Spenders

WASHINGTON - "When adjusted for inflation, Medicare beneficiaries spent more out-ofpocket for health care last year than they did in 1964, the year Medicare was passed. The Medicare nightmare is that after all these years and all the billions of dollars spent, the elderly are back at square one with respect to their health security.

That quote is from a letter Senator Kennedy sent to The Wall Street Journal. His diagnosis of the problems the government caused by pouring billions of dollars into ill-con-ceived and poorly administered national health care programs is quite good, except for one omission: He should have noted that reckless federal spending has generated the very inflation that is now the number one problem for the elderly and the With such an admirable grasp of the futility of trying to cure social ills by massive infusions of printing-press money, you would think that a larger, more costly federal health care program would be the last thing on the Senator's mind. Unfortunately, a larger, more costly federal health care program appears to be the first - and perhaps the only - thing on the Senator's mind.

The need for a new nation health care plan is hardly self-evident. Roughly 90 percent of us already have health insurance of one kind or another. Any gaps in the current system can be filled at a reasonable cost, which is what President Carter seems to be

The President's approach is the proper one, because the two factors most responsible for the upward spiral of medical costs would both be aggravated by a universal government-run pro-sudden outpouring of federal money into the system when Medicare and Medcaid came along. The supply of funds available to spend on health care increased much faster than the supply of hospitals, medical personnel, etc. And money, like water, seeks its own level. That problem is admittedly teminitial mistake.

The other problem is one which our own continuing studies of the health care industry unfailingly turn up: There is not enough individual incentive to control costs. Insurance now pays 90 percent of the hospital bills and 66 percent of the doctors' bills. Under those circumstances.

medical personnel don't have much cause to worry about what they're charging the patient, because they know the patient has insurance. The patient doesn't have sufficient incentive to be cost-conscious either, for the same reason. And the insurance companies can simply pass their costs along to the insured (which often means the insured's employer).

One proposed solution to lax cost-control is the Health Maintenance Organization, (H-MO) which makes more money when its patients stay well then it does when they get sick. Thus, the emphasis is on preventive care for the well and effective treatment at the lowest possible cost for the ill.

Another solution is peer review, in which panels of physicians rule on the costeffectiveness of the treatment selected by other physicians. Still another helpful idea is to find a way to protect physicians from frivolous or malicious malpractice suits, so they will not need to order more tests than are medically necessary. All of these ideas -- and many more -- can be used in concert to ing the quality of care. The National Chamber will soon begin a community-oriented program to acquaint citizens and businesses with the most effective of the cost-control and health-improvement techniques, based on a study done under the auspices of the National Chamber Foundation. The research was conducted by InterStudy, an independent health policy analysis and research firm.

Take all of the unpleasant things you've ever known about banks. And forget them. Forget that you've ever felt uncomfortable asking for a loan. Forget that you've ever had to wait in a long line to make a transaction. Forget that banks are cold buildings that lock your money up in a safe. Forget all of that!

Now . . . think about what you'd like your bank to be. And think about how you'd like to feel when you visit it.

Think about how you'd like to be treated by the people who work for your bank. The way you'd like to be treated as a person and not just another customer.

Think about the trust you put into your bank. How much you depend on it when you need assistance. And why it's so important to have faith in the people who run it.

Think about all of the reasons why you don't want to feel uneasy when you visit your bank. And why you should feel at home.

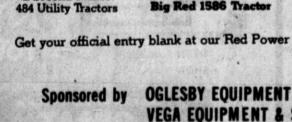

We've thought about them. That's why we're the way we are. When you visit our bank, we do whatever we have to do to make it the best of all possible banks for you.

Walls said when the injuries do start happening. they will probably center around ankles.

Of course, all physical sessions will provide the usual muscle pulls, scratches, and cuts. These are quickly administered to and players usually return promptly to practice.

"Most of our serious hurts come around the foot or ankles," said the apparently knowledgeable head trainer.

it's only natural that many grid injuries occur around the foot area. This vicinity is the only unprotected area a player is forced to perform with, other than fingers and hands.

Walls said the medical staff will do everything possible with such injuries, in order to allow them to properly heal fast.

He said knee injuries, at least to the Hereford team, have been rare. "We just haven't had as many knee problems fortunately, but when we do, we get expert help from our team physician, Dr. Gerald Payne.

OPTIMISTIC ATTITUDE

Walls is a rare kind of school trainer because he is an optimist.

'We haven't had too many bad injuris pop up just yet," said Walls who happens to be a certified Emergency Medical Technician (EMT). "They probably won't either!"

Walls credits his optimistic approach to this team's overall attitude.

"Usually, the player's attitude has a lot to do with the number of injuries. Whenever you have a team with good attitudes, this somehow cuts down a lot on the injuries." Footballers, as everyone

PLAYERS CARED FOR

Of course, bad or nagging injuries can happen anytime, especially during the long course of fierce football competition.

And if they do, being an EMT no doubt will help, but Walls also has a lot of faith in the team doctor.

If a player gets hurt seriously, there are no chances taken at any time, according to Walls. "Most of these kids are not going to make football their profession. They've got other things to do with their lives, so we try and take care of them the best we can.'

Walls mentioned Dr. Payne is on the field during the football games. "He's down there to help us make sure that no chances are made about the care and health of any player.'

If a player is hurt and Walls or his staff assistants have any questions about the condition of him, they rely on Dr. Payne for the final decision.

"If a player is injured, Dr. Payne's the one to make the decision about whether or not he should play again. Not me or anyone else. Not when it comes down to the player's safety."

Walls credited Dr. Payne for being easily available. "He's always been there when we need him. In really critical situations, it's nice to have him around."

Walls said all family physicians in Hereford have been helpful in health care and in supervising player injuries in the past.

Helping Walls provide medical care for players this year are student trainers Jim Banner and Doyle Bock.

They believe they have as good of facilities as can be found in district 4-AAAA.

Walls said that with the completionof the new training room at the high school, girl athletes will be better provided for, along with basketball players.

In the past, both groups have had to travel out to the field house training room for treatments and Walls enthusiastically announced it's arrival.

He said both training rooms will be equipped nearly the same to provide quality service for all Hereford athletes.

League Umpires Return After Walkout

Rangers Whip

By JOHN NELSON AP Sports Writer

Major League basebail's 52 umpires return to work today after a one-day walkout, and they apparently will await the outcome of an Aug. 30 hearing before determining the course of their labor dispute.

The umpires in each league struck Friday - for the second time in major league history but an injunction was signed Friday evening in federal court in Philadelphia, ordering the umpires back to work.

The injunction came too late to avert the one-day work stoppage, which began with a day game in Toronto between the Blue Jays and Minnesota Twins and spread to night games in 12 other major league

Andujar's Relief Time Give Astros 7-5 Win

Astros reliever Joaquin Andujar had to wait until the ninth inning to get his gift Friday night - a chance to pitch the Astros to a 7-5 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"I'm just like a little kid when he gets a gift when I get to pitch," said Andujar, who sprinted from the bullpen to the mound to put down a Pirate rally and earn his first save.

Andujar's ninth-inning heroics also ended Pittsburgh's 10-game winning streak, longest in the National League this

"I don't care if I start or relieve, as long as I get to play," the excitable Dominican native said. "I pitch the same - 100 percent - whether I start or relieve."

The Astros built a 7-4 lead highlighted by Jimmy Sexton's solo homer in the fourth inning and Enos Cabell's two-run triple in the fifth.

Joe Sambito relieved Astro starter Joe Niekro in the seventh and appeared headed for his 10th save of the season after striking out five batters in a row. Then he blew up and Andujar, who started earlier in the season, got his chance.

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston a called third strike with one out and the bases loaded. Parker disputed the call.

"I definitely thought it was low inside," said Parker, who hit over .400 during Pittsburgh's 10-game string. "Being a free-swinger, I would have been going for it if I thought it was good."

Andujar saw it differently. "He (Parker) was just mad because he was expecting a

"You can't be tough any more. If you throw a few hard words at one of those big contract kids, the front office cautions you to go easy. They're afraid the kid will take his money and go

MCGRAW'S ERROR

NEW YORK (AP) — The late, great John McGraw didn't let many star ball players get away once he had them under contract - but one who escaped was Hall of Fame pitcher Waite Hoyt.

McGraw signed Hoyt at the ge of 16 out of Erasmus Hall High School in Brooklyn. He put the young righthander in one inning of one game for the New York Giants and saw Waite fan two men. McGraw then sent Hoyt to the minors and was careless enough to let his option lapse. Hoyt eventually went to the Boston Red Sox and from there to the New York Yankees where he haunted McGraw in World Series play.

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston Oiler rookie quarterback Gifford Nielsen, a devout Mormon, does not smoke or drink or chew but he's learned one habit since coming to the Oilers - look for Kenny Burrough.

Burrough, one of the most feared deep threats in pro football, found himself in one-on-one coverage several times last week against the Dallas Cowboys. Nielsen failed to pick up the mismatch.

"I've got a lot to learn," the second round draft choice said, shaking his head. "You've got to notices when Ken gets single coverage because you can usually hit his long. Dan Pastorini would have hit him every time."

Experience is the most important thing in pro football. My job right now is to back up Dan and to be ready when I'm needed. And to be ready, I can't just sit around and wait."

Nielsen threw only six passes against the Cowboys while rookie running back Earl Campbell rushed 151 yards in his biggest performance of the preseason.

Nielsen does not fit the stereotyped mold of the swashbuckling professional football player. He searched his conscience long and hard before deciding to play football on Sunday.

"But I didn't think the NFL would change their games just for me," Nielsen said. "I have always looked up to pro athletes and I hope by playing, perhaps some youngsters still look up to

Dry, TCU Have New Get-Tough Attitude

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) -In a game last year, a player limped to the sidelines during a rout of the Texas Christians and was met by Coach F.A. Dry who just pointed back to the field.

Later in the game, the player again limped toward the bench only to be confronted by Dry, who said, "We've only got one person left to put in for you and that's me and I'm not going out there. It's up to you."

That's the new get-tough attitude at TCU where the past five autumns have been an embarrassment to a school which once captured the national title.

The much-respected Dry, who sprang tremendous ambushes from his former lair at the University of Tulsa, is busy sending his youngsters through five-hour workouts daily to knock out any negativism.

optimism, said, "I think we have a chance to win one we might not figure to win." A victory, any victory, is not something to be taken lightly at TCU where there have been only seven triumphs in the last five seasons. The losses over those years have numbered 48. 'I'l tell you this," said five-year senior Mark Krug. "If he (dry) can't do it (win), nobody can."

"We are destroying the non-competitive attitude around here and that's one reason we will be considerably better this year," Dry told the Southwest Conference press tour Thurs-day. "We will have more talent and experience."

"We're not up to the top four teams yet and it would be foolish for me to blow smoke." said Dry. "We can run faster and we are stronger. And we've decided to get into the competitive business."

Dry said the TCU administration had rallied behind the Horned Frog football program with $20,000 worth of weight equipment and also had put new dorms on the drawing board.

Ann Landers Kosher Animals

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I picked up a paperback at the airport recently called "The Jewish Connection," by M. Hirsh Goldberg. In that book there's a very funny bit that was attributed to your column. I never miss your part of the paper and don't recall seeing it. The story is so incredible I'd like to hear directly from you if it's on the level.

According to the way Hirsh Goldberg tells it, you received a letter about an English setter named Leviticus who kept kosher. The dog had lived in a Jewish household the first four months of his life. Not only did the dog refuse to eat meat that wasn't kosher but his master had to put a Yiddish newspaper under the bowl. He tried both the Chicago Sun-Times and the Wall Street Journal but Leviticus couldn't be fooled. He wouldn't eat the meat. That letter was signed, "Right Side

Scribbles & Scratches

By Kerrie Steiert Women's Editor

I run late most of the time. When everyone else is wrapping Christmas packages, I'm still figuring what to do with the Roman candles left over from the Fourth of July. And about the time that the Easter bunny is hopping around distributing his little bundles of cholesterol, I'm hopping around picking up pine needles and bits of Christmas wrapping from the shag carpet.

Likewise, I'm belated about observing Halloween, birthdays, barmitzvahs and anniversaries. And it was that last category that slipped up on me and raced past before I had the opportunity to pay the proper tribute to our own anniversary.

Ronna Howell

I have the goodly fortune of being married to a considerate, dedicated man who is extremely kind in his written references to his wife, particularly on our wedding anniversaries. It is rare to find a person who is not afraid to express the emotions that count most in life-such as love, devotion or just plain tenderness. And he does it often, this man of letters who uses words as delicately and deliberately as an artist employs his palette.

But he tells of only one side of a marriage that could not have survived were it not for his tireless vigils over our home and me. And the thanks are never heard as often as they are merited by my Jim, who willingly lifted the burden of my handicaps by taking me as his wife and making me feel whole again. Jim writes of bravery on occasion, not realizing how much of that quality he possesses. But it requires immeasurable courage and determination for a man to establish a career while cooking the meals, washing the clothes, cleaning the house, raising a garden that thrives beneath his care and watching over me. to admit that they did "woman's work," but I hope that Jim realizes that only the strongest and gentlest of men could carry the load that he has chosen to bear for my sake and the sake of our life

I think that few people realize how many responsibilities Jim fulfills, because he does not complain about the days of work that don't end at 5 o'clock, but carry on until long past sunset.

He does not give himself away to many people, does not reveal the deep feelings he has for the beauty of life itself, except in his descriptive columns, which offer a glimpse of his tender passion for nature, his family and of course,

As I've written this column (the one that I've balked from so many times, because I feared that I could not capture the spirit of this man I love on mere paper) it has been punctuated with tears. Tears of gratitude that he gave his heart and his being to me, knowing that our life together would not be easy, but would be possible because we rely on three abiding things that God asks of all people: faith, hope and charity.

"But the greatest of these is charity," a trait that is boundless in the man I wed.

"IS ANYONE OUT THERE LEARNING?" Hereford Children Need You to Care

This past week CBS television aired a 3-part special about education in our public schools. The example school system was Denver, Colo. considered to be an average American city. Statistics were quoted of a 15 percent illiteracy rate for 17-year-olds nationally; it is obvious that there are problems in education today. According to the Louis Harris Poll taken a few years ago, 21 million Americans age 16 and over cannot read a want ad.

James Gentry, president of the Hereford School Board of Trustees, was asked about problems in the local schools and their possible solutions. Gentry stated, "Education is a subject dear to my heart; not only because I have four children but because if our educational system is in trouble our whole nation is in trouble. Whatever can be done must be Gentry said, "Children, starting first grade in Hereford and continuing through our school system for the full 12 years, test much higher than the national averages. Major problems in the H.I.S.D. is the large turn over of students and the large number of migrant children who may not be in the system a full year. So many different children appear in the system from year to year.

"A new policy for this school year will see all students receiving fairly extensive testing within one week of their enrollment. If the student's first language is Spanish, the tests are administered in that language. The test may also be administered orally. These tests are to determine the child's basic skills and to place the student at the proper grade level.

"If the child is behind in reading or some other subject, special help and special education classes are available. All students in the system at the end of last year have already received this testing.

Absenteeism is not too great a problem in the grade schools. Principals make every effort to locate the child or the child's parents. Our principals have real concern if a child is sick," he added.

"Discipline problems and absenteeism increase in the junior high and high school. Every effort is made to discourage dropping out of school. Under Texas law the only absences that may be excused are school trips and illness; a student may be penalized in the form of grades if he is truant or faces the possibility of expulsion.

"Students with severe discipline problems may be assigned to special classes for certain periods of time so that their disruptive behavior will not effect the teaching of other students," he said.

When questioned about social promotion, Gentry stated, 'Parents do have in-puts regarding retention of a child at a grade level. It is not good to have a 15-year-old in 3rd grade; we have special education classes to help the students catch up. Regarding the balance of solid subjects and elective subjects, both Texas and Hereford appear to have stricter requirements than the example, Denver, Colo.

Between grades 7 - 12, 6 years each of math, English, science and social studies is required for graduation. The possibility of competency testing has been discussed by the School Board. Education is a cooperative venture; the child should have some training in national pride, culture and relationship with others. This education should originate in the home," he said.

When asked about the volunteers' role in schools, the School Board president stated, "Volunteerism is a two-way street; capable of helping students that need helping and is a vehicle through which the community can learn about the schools. The volunteer can become aware of some of the school's problems and hopefully be part of the solution."

Education is a partnership venture to give the child the tools to meet life situations and to prevent dropping out and becoming a burden on society.

Visitors are always welcome and enjoyed by Manorites. It is a pleasure to have friends and relatives stop by for lunch and a visit. This past week we have indeed been blessed by a number who came by.
From Shamrock came Mr.

two of his daughters, Mrs. Belle Harris and Joe Thomas, spend a night and day with him. Residents here feel that these women are a part of our family, having spent some time with us during the time of their mother's illness.

Clyde and Vena Hudson and Mrs. Alma Cross were pleased to have two cousins and a brother and his wife to be with them this week. From La Plata Cosmetology School students and instructors have been giving their service about twice a month to Manor residents. We surely appreciate this service. Many of us usually never have well manicured nails were it not for your help. Our Tuesday evening Vesper services were conducted by the Rev. Dick Richards, pastor of the First United Methodist Church in Bovina. He brought with him Brenda Wilson as song director. She also sang "An Evening Prayer" as a special. Rev. Richards stressed the importance of Bible reading in order to prepare us for daily service for Christ.

The evening social hours are always high points each week, especially when something of special interest has been planned for the enjoyment of Manorites. On Thursday evening, approximately 16 members of the Night Circle of the W.M.U. of the First Baptist Church brought several freezers of ice cream with a variety of flavors and different kinds of cakes for the enjoyment of all. Three of the women Mrs. Oglesby, Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Boyer, brought their husbands. Mrs. Sam Morgan is president of this group and helped supervise the party. After partaking of the refreshments Mr. and Mrs. Boyer with Mr. and Mrs. Oglesby entertained by singing several numbers closing with a favorite of all,

'How Great Thou Art." Next the group divided into groups for dominoes, "42" and 84" and some lively games followed.

Thank you ladies of the Night Circle for the giving of your time for our enjoyment.

We are pleased to have three new residents move into our cottages this week. Mrs. Hardy Benson and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Thomas. Mr. and Mrs. Tomas have come to us from Amarillo. Candlelight Ceremony Unites Couple at Frio

On the date of her parents' 20th wedding anniversary, Miss Melody Elizabeth Kendrick became the bride of Richard B. Sims Jr. Friday evening during a ceremony in Frio Baptist Church. The nuptial service was read by the Rev. Vergel Maness, pastor of Freewell Baptist Church at New Castle, Dela., and uncle of the bride.

The sanctuary was illuminated by two seven-branched candelabra atop pedestals dressed with greenery.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby G. Kendrick, 404 Ave. C. The Kendricks were wed 20 years ago in the same church where their daughter was married Friday.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard B. Sims Sr., Route 5.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in floor-length candlelight chiffon over angel skin and trimmed with Cluny lace. Bands of ruffled lace trimmed the fitted bodice and outlined the V-neckline. Three tiers of matching lace formed a cuff on her sheer, tapering sleeves of folds from a contoured waistline to a hemline edged in Cluny lace. The skirt swept to back fullness, forming a Chapel train. Her double-tiered fingertip veil of bridal illusion was bordered with Cluny lace and gathered to a tiara of pearls. The veil was made for the bride by her mother.

She carried white woodfiber roses and lavender daisies with sprigs of babybreath and satin ribbons tied in love knots atop a white Bible.

Of sentimental significance in her trousseau was a heart-shaped locket, given to her as a child by her uncle.

Miss Krol began her own business in 1976, setting up of-fice next to the dentists she had worked for since 1965. She was quickly challenged. Someone filed a complaint against her with the state Board of Dental Examiners, charging that the 35-year-old woman's separate office meant in effect she was not under the general supervision of the dentists for whom she provided services. The supervision is required by law. Working with her attorney, however, Miss Krol reached an agreement with the board. The agreement, among other things, requires her to place the names of the dentists she serves on the exterior door of her office

USDA Donates Ground Beef

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The operators of several Mr. Beef bulk meat markets in Houston have been fined for violating a 1976 court order against deceptive trade practices, Attorney General John Hill said

Friday. The order was issued by visiting retired Judge Eugene C. Williams in 131st District Court, San Antonio, against Bob Grueggemeyer and Maurice Wolfe. They were ordered to pay $1,000 in civil penalties. The attorney general charged that Brueggemeyer and Wolfe used "bait and switch tactics" and violated the federal truth in lending act. He said the two had agreed in 1976 not to engage in such deceptive trade practices in their San Antonio operations.

Eggs, Melons Good Values

COLLEGE STATION - Best values at Texas grocery markets this week include eggs, melons, fryer chickens and several fresh vegetable items, according to Mrs. Gwendolyne Clyatt.

Also, there are a number of 'specials" at dairy and frozen food counters and along grocery market aisles, she says.

Mrs. Clyatt is a consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

This week's price-quality trends are the following:

POULTRY--Eggs are a good value, with small and medium sizes the most plentiful. Fryer chickens, also a good value, when bought whole will save 8-10 cents more per pound.

Turkey prices, however, are moderate to relatively high due to limited supplies and more demand.

FRESH FRUITS - Honeydew melons, cantaloupes and watermelons are economical choices. Varying price levels appear on peaches, nectarines, plums, prunes, grapes, bananas and pears--so select according to budget limits.

FRESH VEGETABLES--Economical items include corn. carrots, cabbage, cucumbers, okra, dry yellow onions, yellow and zucchini squash and potatoes.

DAIRY -- Features include milk (buttermilk and homogenized milk), yogurt and a variety of cheeses.

FROZEN FOOD - Items "on special" are fried chicken, orange juice and a variety of

GROCERY MARKET AISLES

-- Features are tuna fish, canned applesauce, tomatoes, peaches, cooking oil and peanut butter. BEEF--Prices are steady in general. Most markets offer best values on chuck roasts and steaks, round and sirloin steaks ground beef. PORK -- Prices also stable. More economical items include Boston butt roasts, end and loin and beef liver, along with chops, quarter-loin cut into chops, semi-boneless hams. bacon and liver.

CONSUMER WATCH-WORDS: Eggs offer complete, high-quality protein, so they serve as economical "standins" for meat, fish or cheese. But from refrigerated cases and put them away as quickly as

Avoid Insect Bites

COLLEGE STATION -Avoid insect bite or sting reactions by avoiding the bite or sting in the first place, advises a health education specialist.

To avoid or at least lessen the chances of getting stung, follow these suggestions;

(1) When wasps or bees are nearby, do not make sudden movements. Move away from the area slowly. (2) Wear shoes and socks when outdoors to avoid stepping on bees or yellowjackets -which love ground clover -while barefoot. (3) Insects are often drawn to scents -- so, avoid scented soaps, hair spray, perfumes and

(4) Bright colors and floral prints also attract insects, so void these. (5) Certain foods can attract insects. When eating outdoors, cover food until ready to eat and clean up the area

Blamed On 'Angel Dust'

Deaths

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) -Bexar County medical authorities say they now believe five unsolved deaths in the past several weeks were caused by the white, powdery drug PCP, commonly known as "Angel Dust."

"Even the tiniest amount can kill a person," said Dr. Ruben Santos, Bexar County medical Originally the five victims were suspected to have died from scorpion bites, a car accident, a drug overdose, an unspecified suicide and an overdose of tranquilizers. But Santos said Thursday the evidence had been inconclusive.

"We simply were not satisfied with the earlier autopsy reports on the causes of death in these individuals," Santos said. "We began experimenting to get new results to prove our theories."

He said a new $80,000 machine that detects microscopic particles of foreign matter in dead tissue has enabled researchers to rule out the previously suspected causes of death and establish the link to Angel Dust.

"This machine allows us to divide the molecules two to three times and then store the data so that we can use a pure sample of PCP for testing,' Santos said. He said the machine found traces of Angel Dust in each of the five bodies.

'Our machines in the past were not advanced enough to look for this drug - they simply were not delicate enough,

Couple Exchanges Vows During Home Wedding

Janice Gayle Cavin, formerly of Hereford, and Larry Ward, both of El Paso, exchanged marriage vows Friday evening at the hearth of her parents' home, 316 Elm.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Cavin.

The Rev. Jesse Hodge, pastor of Wesley United Methodist Church, read the simple ceremony in front of the mantle which was flanked by a pair of candle trees. On top of the fireplace was a mixed bouquet of Sonja roses.

Nancy Hernandez attended the bride as maid of honor. Steve Kelly was best man.

Heather Ward served as flower girl at her father's wedding ceremony.

Mrs. Jesse Hodge accompanied Linda Kelly on the piano while she vocalized contemporary love songs.

The bride was attired in an ivory floor-length gown of viole and lace designed with a Queen Anne neckline and bishop sleeves. Her three-tiered skirt had a natural waistline.

She wore a cream-colored picture hat adorned with ivory silk roses.

The nosegay bouquet she carried was of white daisies and Sonia roses.

Her attendant was gowned in an apricot, slipper-length dress made of viole, fashioned after the bride's.

She carried a single longstemmed Sonja rose.

A reception followed with Julie Cavin, sister of the bride, and Susan Martin serving cake and punch from a table covered with lace over linen. The two-tiered wedding cake was decorated with confectionate Sonja roses and was topped with

Foreign Med Graduates 'Popping Up' All Over

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) Members of the State Board of Medical Examiners said Friday they need to take a harder-look at foreign medical graduates before licensing them to practice in Texas.

"So many are popping up. Unless we look at them, we don't know what they are doing." said Dr. Clifford Burross of Wichita Falls.

The proliferation of private medical schools in Mexico particularly concerned board members who spoke out.

Burross mentioned Monterey and schools that are opening in Matamoros and Revnosa. There also is a medical school in Ciudad Juarez.

"The problem is so great that I wonder if we shouldn't meet with the Texas medical schools and some people in the Legislature who are really interested in education and not just getting a license for one of their constituents. . . We are concerned about qualifications, not individuals," Burross said.

"Apparently some of these schools don't require anything but tuition as a qualification to get into medical school," said Dr. James R. Winn.

The Unitrol Heidbrink Gas Machine, which was purchased by the local Medical Auxiliary with proceeds of Project Christmas Card 1977, was delivered to the hospital here this week. The device has numerous safety, features, including a pin index system, pressure regulators, flow meters, a fail-safe valve, a pipeline inlet valve and a carbon dioxide absorber. The anesthesia machine uses no flammable or explosive agents.

Hereford's physicians recommended that the Medical Auxiliary use the proceeds of Project Christmas Card for the purchase of the highly-accurate anesthesia machine. Project Christmas Card was initiated in 1956 by the wives of local doctors and dentists. The Medical Auxiliary has collected more than $65,000 through the annual project and all of that sum has been spent in improving Hereford's medical care facilities.

Oracle Embarassment To Spanish Catholic Church

By FENTON WHEELER Associated Press Writer

SEVILLE, Spain (AP) - Few people believe Clemente Dominguez Gomez, 32, a Spanish insurance clerk until two years ago, will be the next pope of the Roman Catholic Church.

But Dominguez does, and so do hundreds of his followers who have poured in thousands of dollars to help him build a cathedral in southern Spain for the papal moment.

Although unrecognized by the Spanish Catholic Church, the self-proclaimed oracle has made such a success of marketing his visions that his religious order is disposed to intervene in what has become a growing embarrassment to both.

Only the local priests and laymen on the host plains of Andalucia complain, but they, too, seem overwhelmed at times by Dominguez' success and the 600-yard-long building that looks more like a garage than a cathedral, rising up over the wheat fields and olive trees where four little girls claim they saw a vision of the Virgin Mary years ago.

The cost of the cathedral. which is backed by believers from all over the world, is estimated in the millions. The year-old project is to be two-thirds the length of the Gen. Francisco Franco's mausoleum.

In sermons, Dominguez tells his followers about conversations with God advising him he will take over after Pope Paul VI as Pope Gregory XVII.

A regular church goer, Dominguez failed in attempts to enter a seminary, friends say, about mysticism and reports of visions, not infrequent in deeply religious and rural Andalucia. Local priests say, however, only about a dozen of El Palmar's 1,200 families attend Dominguez' Masses.

"Clemente's concepts are totally false," said the Rev. Felix Arana, who split from Dominguez' self-created order at the small town of El Palmar de Trova 20 miles from Seville when Dominguez began appointing Bishops and monks by the dozen.

At last count, he had named 30 bishops, 27 monks and one priest, a 7-year old deaf mute. All were appointed without approval of the Catholic Church and the Vatican.

Dominguez, Arana charges, "is using a spiritual situation to deceive the faithful," a reference to the vision reported by the four girls and one that Arana says has been fully authenticated. The Vatican has yet to investigate their story.

His eyes stitched shut after he was blinded in a car accident, Dominguez began reporting visions about four years ago. They told him to set up a Catholic order in El Palmar. A and often questioned priests duchess who believed in him donated the land. Other contributions came by mail and

Although the Spanish Catholic Church disowns Dominguez and says he is outside Canon Law, it apparently has no real lever against him.

SAFE CANNING PRACTICES HELP PREVENT FOOD POISONING

Home canned fruits and vegetables bring a little of summer's sunshine to dreary winter days. But that sunshine can be clouded if food poisoning occurs.

Many homemakers are busy canning produce from home gardens to help cut costs of food in the coming winter months. These tips will help you keep those home canned products Without proper containers, there is little chance your products will keep without spoiling. Always use top quality jars. Check for nicks, cracks or chips in the top of the jar. If these defects are present, you will not be able to get a good

Use properly fittings rings, rubbers and lids. The rubbers should be new and pliable. Don't test them by stretching, as that may cause them to lose their shape, therefore affecting

Jar lids should be free of dents. If you use lids with a self-sealing ring attached, be sure they are new and in good

Jar rings should be free of rust spots, dents and pried up

Jar rings for glass and metal lids are not interchangeable. When sealing the jar, be sure to screw the ring down tight against the lid.

Before using, wash all lids, except those with a self-seal band, jars and rings in hot soapy water. Rinse well.

Heat the jars, rings and lids in hot water before filling. In order to prevent contamination of the clean jars, keep them in the hot water until you are ready to fill

After the jars are filled, wipe the top edge with a clean cloth to remove all food, grease, etc. If this isn't done, the seal may not stay. Low-acid foods, such as peas and corn, must be processed in temperatures higher than boil-ing in order to prevent spoilage. This means a pressure cooker or pressure saucepan is a must if you're canning these types of vegetables. Follow the instructions carefully on your pressure cooker. Have it tested once a year to be certain the pressure gauge is High acid foods can be processed in boiling water. In order for the bacteria to be killed, follow time specifiations for cooking exactly. Be certain to keep at least one inch of boiling water over jar tops during the entire processing potential clout at the polls. Now Democratic National Chairman John White has declared war on what he calls "the radical right," despite qualms at the White House over an offensive against such a potent political block.

These safety precautions can help cut chances of food poisoning occuring in your home canned foods. You will be happier knowing that the home-canned foods you serve your family are safe.

He's telling potential Democratic donors that if they don't chip in with money now, "these reactionary conservatives" may take significant headway at the polls this fall.

"We're getting great response," White said. "The first week's returns set a record for one of our mailings."

One problem for Democratic organizers and money men has been the lack of a rallying point.

back into the ground. It was adopted to give operators an incentive to dispose of the brine without polluting waterways. K.P. Murphy, a Kilgore well servicer, insists elimination of the rule "would be economic suicide for Kilgore."

The proposal to rescind the 'bonus allowable rule' is the most constroversial of four recommendations that resulted from a three-week reivew of the East Texas field.

Three hearing examiners also recommended that the commis-

-Maintain the field allowable at 86 percent of market demand. -Keep the field intact rather than splitting it into two fields. -Deny an application to reduce the water-oil ratio from 15-1 to 10-1. This means that up to 15 barrels of water can be produced per barrel of oil without penalty. The staff also recommended more flexibility in transferring allowables from some wells.

Letters and petitions to the commission, most of them from Gregg County, have focused criticism on the "bonus" recommendation.

"With inflation and tax increases, our community as well as the entire state of Texas need all the help we can get. Please!" said manager Jess Turner of the Gladewater Chamber of Commerce.

Eliminating the rule would cut East Texas oil production by nearly 6,000 barrels a day. Gregg County commissioners say lower production would jeopardize tax bases for cities and school districts.

The examiners feel they are prohibited by law from discussing their recommendations, but it is significant that the commission called the Some operators also have raised questions about a rule that permits the brokering of allowables.

What happens is that an operator with a well producing a great amount of water might inject enough to get the "bonus" oil but find it too expensive to produce. A broker then sells the "bonus" allowable to an operator who has a better well and can produce the oil more easily.

This makes the "bonus" allowable to an operator who has a better well and can produce the oil more easily.

This makes the "bonus" or credit worth more than oil to some operators.

The commission is virtually certain to weigh such alleged abuses of the rule against the economic impacton cities in the four-county area.

The one and two-barrel wells "have proven to be the backbone of our industry," said Murphy. There was no indication when the commission might make its hearing on the bonus rule. The proposals to increase the field allowable and split the field were made by oil companies.

A probable reason for this is that even though the 15-1 water-oil ratio was set in 1975, water production is still increasing and oil production is decreasing. The staff report said the proved benefits of injection are sufficient incentive for such injection without 'bonus allow-The report said the rule results in the production of excessive amounts of water interest owners in the field." Also, it said, "Excessive water production wastes reservoir energy."

What has the staff concerned, says a source with years of experience with the East Texas field, is that the rule has become an incentive to produce water not oil. "The staff thinks it is an anti-conservation rule," the source said. Higher prices for "new oil" have made it more profitable to operate a high-water well. The onus allowable is based on the price of "old oil," but figures indicate that more than 60 percent of the "bonus oil."

I feel like I had a part in helping the task force have some impact, and the group did bring about some changes. Red Tape WASHINGTON (AP) - Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, acting under the authority of a new law; has cut red tape so that the Farmers Home Administration can make emergency loans to farmers more quickly than in the past.

Bergland announced that he has abolished what he called a time-consuming system which had been in effect for several years requiring county governments and state governors to request disaster loan service and then go through a process of designating counties for aid.

Under the new system, the FmHA will be able to make emergency loans to farmers as soon as their losses from natural disasters can be confirmed by county offices of the agency.

Cattle Numbers Continue Decline

Cattlemen across the nation are continuing to reduce their herds, but some signs point toward a buildup by next year.

Dr. Edward Uvacek, Jr., livestock marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, notes that recently reported lower cattle imbers mean producers are still in the liquidation phase of the cattle cycle.

Total cattle and calf inventories on July 1 were 7 percent below a year ago while beef cows were down 9 percent. The specialist says beef cow replacement heifers were also down sharply, but nine states reported an increase in such heifers and one had no change from last year.

"This, in itself, might be signaling a somewhat different attitude among cattlemen and may point toward a buildup by next year," contends Uvacek. "Thus it appears cattle production is ending the old

With the bugs making new inroads in crop production each year and the cost of controlling them getting higher and higher, you have to wonder where it all ends, or if it is just a vicious

Seems like there is some new creepy crawler, wiggle worm or plant plunderer that arrives on the scene every summer, just when it looks like the bug situation is under control.

Either we need some more bugs to eat these bugs, or a lot more crops that just don't taste that good to these critters.

There is a disturbing trend among elected representatives these days.

Some seem to have adopted the attitude that they owe nothing to their constituency back home, once they get to Washington, and that their own opinion is all-powerful, thoughts of the home folks not withstanding.

Several times in recent months, I have heard reports of representatives stating they would vote their own way on an important issue, because they felt the people back home weren't smart enough to know what they wanted anyway.

Some of these egotistical maniacs need to remeber that they work for us, not vice-versa.

TURN

From time to very rare time in this business we get one of those jewels known as a "fan letter," and it's like getting a Christmas bonus

I've been gratified by the appreciative attitude and the responsiveness this community here has shown on many occasions. It is rewarding to know that the people who work the land have confidence in and respect for the work you do in cultivating words to be of service to them, and we'll do our best to continue to merit this confidence.

And a special thanks for that 'fan mail.'

The Hereford chapter of Women Involved in Farm Economics (WIFE) did the community no small service recently when they sponsored a program on the controversial Trilateral Commission with J.C. Lewis as the speaker.

This was an excellent, thought-provoking program on an issue of prime importance to rural America, and the presentation here has provided ample food for thought. The program has been the topic of widespread discussion here since Lewis'

I think the program was in keeping with the standards this organizatin of women has set for service not only to the farm community, but rural areas in general.

As for the local chapter, members continue to show that what they lack in experience and years of organization, they make up for in enthusiasm, dedication and desire to inform the public.

Increased Interest in Dairying Prompts Improvements at Tech

LUBBOCK - Increasing interest in high Plains dairies is a major reason for improvements and growth in the dairy facilities is the liquid manure science program at Texas Tech flushing system. Cleaning the University, according to Mark old barns meant taking a hose to Hellman, DVM, program direc- them manually. In the new

Before the move to New Deal the rolling herd average was more than 17,000 pounds of milk per cow for the last measuring period of 305 days, compared with the national average of 12,000 pounds.

Main feature at the new facilities, Hellman said, is modernization. At the old milking parlor on campus one person could only milk 20 cows per hour.

The new facilities, built in a double four herringbone pattern, allow one person to milk out 40 cows per hour. The double four herringbone involves milking four cows on each side of a pit, with the cows milking machines, operating at side-by-side. The old method put the cows head to tail and involved much more walking and time for the milker.

This increase in labor efficiency also makes possible growth in herd size. Hellman plans to increase the herd, now fertilizer. "This flushing system opens up possibilities of research for us to discover means of dealing with the waste materials, which have always been a problem in dairies," Hellman explained.

Another new addition is a two-vacuum milking system.

If a cow is excited or nervous when first hooked up to the milking machine, her milk will not flow easily. With the old 15 inches of vacuum, this could be a problem, since the machine would not automatically shut off or reduce pressure if the milk was not flowing. Too much vacuum can cause mastitis, or inflammation of the udder. The new system begins at only 10 inches of vacuum. If the cow is not milking properly, the machine will not normally cause damage. Once the cow's milk begins to flow easily, the machine will automatically kick upto 15 inches of vacuum. Once the cow is milked, the machine again drops to 10 inches of vacuum. A light flashes for each cow to indicate when the milk is gressional agriculture committees won't get to work on it until next year, but four major farm organizations have prepar-ed legislation designed to boost farmers' prices by forcing buyers to deal with them as a

The measure is an attempt to deal with farmers' status as the 'odd man out" in the urbanized U.S. free-enterprise system.

Others in the marketplace, for example, are large enough to get the price they want or have a product that's not so perishable that they can't hold out for a better return.

Farmers generally have to take a price rather than set it. Government support prices do establish minimums for major grains, cotton, tobacco, peanuts, sugar and dairy products.

When there's little or no competition among buyers for a farmer's products, the "take it or leave it" rule becomes even harsher, says a background

The Capper-Volstead Act exempts farmers from most provisions of the antitrust laws and allows them to form cooperatives and associations to market their products.

That law is currently being scrutinized by the Justice Department and other federal agencies questioning whether the broad exemption is fair to consumers.

Nonetheless, the bargaining proposal builds on it.

Capper-Volstead does not force buyers to negotiate with an association. The proposed new law would require them to sit down and bargain in good faith over prices to be paid the farmers and other terms of sale or contract farming.

drafted and endorsed the measure, introduced in the House Aug. 15 by several representatives. Those groups had said in February they were working on the idea as an alternative to the "full parity" demands of protesting farmers who spent weeks demonstrating and lobby-ing in Washington last winter.

Some types of farmers notably producers of perishable fruits and vegetables in California - have already formed associations and gotten buyers that normally like to sign preplanting of pre-harvest contracts with individuals to deal with them as a group, using a model minimum contract for a particular crop or year.

Under the proposal, the agriculture secretary would certify associations that were comprised of and controlled by producers, have binding contracts with members to sell their products or negotiate the terms of sale and are large enough to effectively represent the growers of a crop.

Minimum Water Profit Is Etter Field Day Topic

to grow a profitable crop with a minimum of water is what goes on at the North Plains Research Field at Etter. Farmers and anyone interested in water conservation are invited to tour this research facility on Tuesday, September 5 at 1:30 p.m. The invitation comes from Dr. G.B. Thompson, Director of Research at the Texas A&M center at Amarillo.

Dr. John Shipley and Cecil Regier who operate the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station research Field, say the crops look good and there are several experiments underway that will help make farming more profitable for North Plains farmers.

The main crops under study are corn, sorghum and soybeans. "Producing the most crop for the least water is our objective," Shipley said.

Over 100 commercial corn and grain sorghum hybrids are being evaluated with ample irrigation, In addition, Dr. Jess Collier, corn breeder from their entire acreage at the best time, and could use information about utilizing water to better advantage. Shipley planted several hybrids from early medium, medium late and ful season maturities on May 23 He wanted the hybrids to come into boot and heading as staggered intervals throughout the summer. One irrigation was applied at boot and another at sorghum heading. Information from this type of experiment will enable one well to furnish water at the optimum times for a large acreage. Letters Needed On Brush Herbicides

"It appears that in order to keep 2,4,5-T and its derivatives for use on grasslands in the control of brush, a large number of letters must be filed with the Environmental Protection Agency. Ranchers are the ones who stand to lose when 2,4,5-T and its mixtures are banned."

That's how Garlyn O. Hoffman, range brush and weed control specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service sums up the future for widely-used herbicides popular among Texas ranchers.

Until Oct. 21, landowners and others may write to the EPA on their views on the herbicide.

Landowners may outline the benefits they have received from the herbicide in letters.

"If 2,4, 5-T is banned, this will also remove Tordon 225 and the Banvel 2plus 2 mixture. The rancher would be left with no economical herbicide to control woody plants on grasslands," maintains Hoffman.

Items suggested for inclusion in a letter to EPA include number of years 2,4,5-T has been used and the change in forage production and plant

TSCRA President John B. Armstrong, acting on a request from USDA to assist it in complying with a Presidential order to "improve regulations," wrote, "It is important that while we are reviewing the rule-making process, we do not make it more complicated, unduly burdensome or further establish a dangerous framework whereby prejudicial or biased information may be spring weights, comparison of herbicide spraying with mechpresented through subsidizing agency-desired testmony from anical brush control, change in > Armstrong, representing 14, 000 cattle producers in Texas and surrounding states, said in no uncertain terms that "we are adamantly against misuse of public tax monies to pay for testimony from specific individuals or groups favorable to USDA positions." This was a direct reference to the allegations made against the ousted USDA official.

the alleged public."

TSCRA also suggested that adequate notice of future public hearings also be made through the local news media, in addition to the Federal Register. and that the hearings be held regionally through the country. In this way, the grass roots public, urban or rural, could give USDA a perspective from the point of view of those truly affected. "We have seen in the recent past where regulations have been proposed without sufficient impact study and the cost of such proposals were impractical," Armstrong said. Beef grading changes and certain brucellosis health regulations were mentioned specifi-Armstrong also warned against the duplication of new regulations by authorities and agencies. In reviewing existing regulations, he suggested mandatory review of all regulations every five years and n some cases every year or two.

The President's mandate for resolutions written in plain English, understandable to those who must comply was wholeheartedly supported by TSCRA. Simplification and trimming of excessive red tape was also advocated.

USDA said after it has reviewed and considered comments by TSCRA and other groups, it will announce how it will revise its method of proposing regulations.

High Plains Prospects Only Fair

Dove Season Opens Friday

By JIM STEIERT Outdoors Editor

The first half of a split dove season will get underway in the North Zone of Texas Friday, and prospects for local hunters will depend on the weather across the widespread range of the speedy mourning dove.

This year's season will feature shooting hours beginning 30 minutes before sunrise and running until sunset, unlike seasons in past years when shooting began after noon.

The daily bag limit for the North Texas area will be 10 birds, with 20 in possession. No person will be allowed to possess more than one daily bag limit of freshly killed doves while in the field.

Reports from Texas Parks & Wildlife Department officials in Lubbock indicate that doves and dove hunters will find good opening day prospects in many locations where dry conditions have been to the liking of the dove population.

Tank shooting is expected to be good in the western area near the Snyder-Big Spring vicinity, although heavy rains following an extremely dry spring and early summer have reduced the number of doves in the Abilene area. Hunting is expected to be poor there until cooler weather pushes birds into the area from farther north.

Dove hunting prospects in the sprawling High Plains counties are listed as only fair, according to Amarillo District Supervisor Calvin Tow, and on the South Plains, P&WD personnel report spotty prospects. Reports from that area range from fair to poor.

Traditional regions of high dove concentrations in the eastern Texas Panhandle near Canadian and Wheeler are currently reporting good dove populations.

Western Panhandle counties including Bailey, Cochran and Yoakum have received rainfall and grain and sunflower fields along with weed patches are expected to provide cover and feed for doves.

In the area "off the Caprock," the eastern counties of Dickens and Quanah are reporting good dove populations at this time.

As the season progresses, dove populations should build in the "below the Cap" area as northern birds work their way southward.

Briscoe and Motley counties frequently become outstanding dove hunting areas.

Prospects for dove hunting in the immediate Hereford area are scattered, with doves mostly "where you find them."

Road surveys near the Hart area in neighboring Castro County last week showed good numbers of birds trading between feeding fields and roosting areas.

Hunters should find their best success shooting along flyways between feeding fields, at watering areas, or near roosting sites, but are warned that excessive shooting in roosting areas may drive the birds away.

The first half of this year's split season will end October 21. and the second half of the season will run from Jan. 6-14. 1979. The split season will allow hunters another opportunity to bag doves during quail season, when hunters often flush doves while walking up other game.

Hunters are remined that 1 they should renew their Texas hunting licenses prior to going afield for doves, and should get permission to hunt from landowners.

Shotguns must be plugged to three shell capacity in accordance with migratory gamebird hunting regulations, and hunting doves with rifles is prohibited.

Any freshly killed doves given to another person, except at the residence of the donor or the recipient, must have a tag attached, signed by the hunter who took the birds, stating his address, total number of birds of each species taken, and the date the birds were taken.

Hoped-For Results

Area dove hunting enthusiasts will be hoping for a 10-dove limit such as this when the 1978-79 mourning dove season gets underway in the Panhandle Friday. A crisply working shotgun and plenty of shells will be in order as hunters take on the fleet little gamebird. Nationally, hunters average nearly four shots per dove bagged, and still, doves rank among the top gamebird in the nation with huge numbers bagged annually. The speedsters are a favorite early season target for wingshooters seeking to sharpen up their skills for other gamebirds they hunt later in the fall and

Supports ESA Amendment

The nation's largest citizens conservation organization has announced that it will support an amendment to the 1973 Endangered Species Act.

The National Wildlife Federation, which has strongly opposed any change in the law, advised key members of the House of Representatives that it now endorses the idea of a Cabinet-level review committee to settle "irresolvable conflicts" that arise when federal projects threaten the "critical habitat" of endangered plants and

"However," Kimball conceded, "past successes notwithstanding, the Congress now seems likely to amend the Act." The NWF-proposed amendment, Kimball said, would "balance the overriding human needs to be met by development projects with the equal importance to mankind of preserving genetic diversity in those very rare cases where an irresolvable conflict between them occurs."

"I guess Buffalo Lake is one of the few places you can be on the water and under the shade of a tree at the same time.'

Those were the comments of a fellow at the emergency meeting on Buffalo Lake Thursday night in Umbarger, and maybe they sum up the basic reasons why Panhandle residents are so up-in-arms about losing the newfound water at

I think people hereabouts are about fed-up with the Feds anyhow, and giving the word to drain off a pond of water they'd been waiting 20 years for may be the proverbial straw that broke the camel's

At any rate, I'm impressed with the quickness, the sincerity and the magnitude of people's response on this issue.

The overriding sentiment seems to be, "get those gates closed as quick s we can so we don't lose any more of that water."

Our phone was ringing constantly Tuesday, almost from the moment it was learned that the Interior Department had decided to drain the lake.

A lot of local folks wanted to know what they could do about this tragedy, and a lot of others started looking for names and numbers to call to get the ball rolling to save Buffalo.

It hasn't even been a week yet, and already there is a Buffalo Lake Survival Committee, a fund to finance the legal work of getting the draining stopped, and a plan to file for an injunction within the next couple of days if some other action doesn't bring a halt to this.

All of this from people who believe they have every right any other area of the nation has to a place of beauty, where a person can go to relax for a few hours, even if it is practically in the back yard.

We've already had outstanding effort from a number of Hereford folks interested in saving this downstream resource. Telephone, telegram and letter writing campaigns have already been launched, mostly on personal initiatives, and now people are putting their money where their mouth is in the fight for Buffalo.

If you want to help save the lake, you can make a donation to the Buffalo Lake Survival Committee in care of Lloyd Kurtz at the First National Bank of Canyon. The address is Box 119, Canyon, Texas,

Here in Hereford, Jim Cherry at The Barber Shop is accepting donations on behalf of the Buffalo Survival Committee, and I'm sure he'd be glad to see you come by 122 West Fourth to drop off your donations.

If you are interested in doing more than making a monetary donation, some letters and phone calls to the right places can't hurt.

Suggested contacts include State Representative Bill Clayton, in addition to our congressional representatives.

Also, some frate letters to the regional director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service are in order, and we understand that much of the problem at Buffalo Lake may arise from the attitude of one official within the Interior Department in New Mexico.

Letters should be addressed to the Regional Director, U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service, P.O. Box 1306, Albuquerque, N.M. 87103.

I think folks are more than ready to strike back at the bureaucracy, and this looks like an

The Hereford Brand-Sunday, August 27, 1978--Page 7C outstanding opportunity.

In the meantime, we want to hear from any groups or individuals who have something going on the Buffalo project. Buffalo Lake is well worth saving, and we want to help in any way we can.

But act quick ly. Twenty years worth of water is

Names Board Makes Mountain of 'Mole Hill'

Scratch Ankle, Alabama. Cut and Shoot, Texas. Peculiar, Missouri.

Not everyday names for a hometown, but in the United States, such names are not all that unusual. As the U.S. was settled most geographical nam-es were chosen informally and on the spur of the moment, reports the current issue of National Wildlife magazine. Behind of each of the three million geographical names in the U.S. lies a little part of the nation's history.

European explorers, upon their arrival in the New World, adopted (or adapted) a wide assortment of Indian names. Thus, the Indian word "Mesconsing" (meaning "the long river"), became "Ouisconsing"

Hunter Thrice Trained

AUSTIN - Justin "Todd" Johnson of Amarillo is perhaps the most thoroughly trained student in the Texas Voluntary Hunter Safety Training Program, according to his instructor, G.R. Maxwell of the Amarillo Rifle and Pistol Club.

He was under age for certification the first time he took the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department course and was awarded a certificate of attendance for his efforts. He took the course the second time just because he wanted to and completed the course for the third time in conjunction with the Rifle and Pistol Club summer course in Junior Marskmanship.

Todd reached the minimum age for certification -- 12 -- on) May 17 and will receive his at hunter safety certificate from the Parks and Wildlife Depart-and Joliet. Years later, it became "Wisconsin."

The National Wildlife Federation publication notes that while the early British colonists named most of their coastal settlements after their hometowns (Roxbury, Plymouth, Dorchester), this trend ended after the Revolutionary War, as communities were named for war heroes. Today, there are over 250 American towns named "Washington," reports the magazine.

Some of the nation's most imaginative names are a result of the 19th century frontier days. Cut and Shoot, Texas, was named after a community shootout over the shape of a new church steeple, explains National Wildlife, and Scratch Ankle, Alabama, was named because of the town's large population of biting flies. Settlers also favored animal names, especially birds. The eagle surpasses all other species for French explorers Marquette as a place name source, followed closely by the swan, the goose and duck.

With the rapid christening of towns, rivers, mountains, and the like, problems were bound to arise -- duplication, confusion, misspellings. To deal with these, the U.S. Board of Geographical Names was formed in 1884. The Board soon established one ironclad rule: Whenever there is a conflict, the local name and spelling win out.

Today, the Board is still hard at work. Each year it reviews some 10,000 new names and suggested changes. In recent years for example the Board has allowed the residents of "Mole Hill," West Virginia to change their town's name to "Moun-

Currently, the Board is involved in the controversy over a suggested name change for Alaska's Mount McKinley. Many would like to rename the mountain "Dinali," its original, centuries-old Indian name.

"We have the paperwork contention that the EIS was improperly filed. Hoffman reported that the some legal authority stopped it, he would not change his mind about draining the lake. At that point, we informed him that we would pursue the matter and he would be hearing back from us," said Hoffman.

With the lake committee in position to strike a blow against bureaucracy and red tape, donations continue to pour in from across the Panhandle for the lake survival committee's war chest."

An account has been estabished at the First National Bank in Canyon, and donations may be mailed to Box 119, Canyon, 79015. In Hereford, donations may be left with Jim Cherry at The Barber Shop.

Over $600 was raised for the committee at its initial meeting Thursday night.

"Anything people want to do as far as contacting officials, raising funds and the like couldn't hurt. We just ask that fund raisers keep an accurate account of all donors, their addresses and the amount of their donations. We need all the support we can get to continue moving forward with this thing," Hoffman concluded.

Texas Boating Fatalities Rise

AUSTIN - U.S. Coast Guard statistics for 1977 show that fatalities resulting from boating accidents in Texas were up 70 percent in 1977, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. This compares to an increase of only four percent nationwide.

A total of 50 fatalities was reported in Texas during 1976, but in 1977, the total increased in the United States, some 6.5 percent occurred in Texas.

Department water safety officials believe this increase reflects the general carelessness and lack of knowledge of the general boating public in Texas. Too many Texans purchase boats without learning the rudiments of boating safety, the department says. For more information about boating safety, write the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, TX 78744 or call the toll free number 1-800-252-9327 for a Boating Safety Packet.

National Campers Plan Buffalo Lake Project

Members of District I of the National Campers and Hikers Association, which includes some 46 Panhandle counties, are planning a cleanup project at Buffalo Lake National Wildlife Refuge.

District Chairman Joel Goucher of Amarillo reported that campers and hikers will gather at Buffalo September 15-17. District camper clubs will establish camps and launch a project of assisting Buffalo Lake personnel with general cleanup work, including litter disposal and removal of debris washed up in the lake area in the wake of May 26 floods.

'We just want to help out around the lake in any way we can during the long weekend project," Goucher explained.

TEXAS PARKS AND WILDLIFE DEPT.

FALL HUNTING PREPARATIONS

LUBBOCK — Purchasing that new Texas hunting license is only the first step in prepration for the fall hunting seasons as hunting equipment such as firearms, boots, knives, tents, stoves and other essential gear should be examined and possibly repaired prior to opening day.

A few shooters stored their gun in a case or cabinet after that last quail hunt and most of these firearms have not been oiled, cleaned or fired since that

Now is the time to get that worn firing pin repaired, the crack in the stock glued or evena new recoil pad installed.

Most shooters have a few shells left from last season and a quick check will indicate which shell loads should be purchased while the sporting goods dealers are having their pre-season

Many hunters consider the dove as a good target to sharpen the old shooting eye for quail, but a few turns with a hand trap or a couple of rounds at the local skeet course would be well worth the time and effort prior to the Sept. 1 dove opening.

A close examination of essential hunting equipment such as hunting boots, coats, shell belt, game bag, and gun-carrying case might indicate a new purchase is in order. Replacements for these items will be easier to find now and save you valuable hunting time later this fall.

If you use off-road vehicles or other means of transportation, a check of the battery, lights, tires, and lubrication systems is essential. If the vehicle is only driven during hunting season such as a jeep, but it will be operated on a public road, make sure the vehicle inspection sticker is current.

A successful hunt is impossible without close contact with the landowner. A call or personal contact at this time will insure a place to hunt and game population figures will help you set up areas to hunt or skip over due to lack of game.

P&WD AREA DOVE HUNT

PADUCAH - The annual dove season has been set for the Matador Wildlife Management area and the dates are Sept. 1-4, 8-10, 15-17, 22-24, 1978 and Jan. 6-7, 13-14, 20-21, 1979.

There will be no restrictions on the number of hunters during the dove hunt on the management area located 11 miles north of Paducah on FM 3256 and the daily bag limit of dove will be 10 birds.

Hunting on the Matador WMA is by permit only and the $5 daily permits will be issued at the check station. The fee will be paid when the hunters report on the area prior to the hunt each day.

Shooting hours will be one-half hour before sunrise to sunset daily. According to reports from the WMA manager Charlie Boyd, dove hunting should be good this year. Hunters, whether successful or not, must check out at the station when the hunt is ended. Last year, dove hunters averaged seven birds per day which is considered excellent. Additional information is available by calling the Matador WMA at 806/492-3405 or write Matador WMA, Box 46, Rt. 1, Paducah, Tx. 79248.
