AUSTIN, Texas (AP)—A stubborn minority of House members dug in its heels Tuesday and again blocked early hearings on tax relief constitutional amendments.

Rep. Wayne Peveto said, meanwhile, that much of Gov. Dolph Briscoe's tax relief program would fail unless Peveto's property tax reform bill is included in the special session.

Peveto, D-Orange, has added a 5 percent annual limit on increases in property tax revenue. He said even the real estate lobby now supports the bill after helping to kill it last year.

An 82-50 roll call fell eight votes short of the two-thirds needed to suspend House rules and let hearings begin on tax relief constitutional amendments. Hearings cannot start till Monday unless rules are suspended.

"We are going to be trying to find out what the guys' feeling is and their reasoning for not giving these folks a chance to testify," said Speaker Bill Clayton after the vote.

Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas, leader of the resistance, said it would "be a terrible mistake" to deny both legislators and the public more time to study the proposals.

A key item grants a homestead exemption against school taxes of $10,000 plus $10,000 more for persons over 65 with the state making up the lost revenue.

Peveto said Clayton, several House conservatives, real estate lobbyists and farm lobbyists all had joined him in asking Briscoe to add reform of property tax administration to the special session's call.

His bill would lodge responsibility for tax appraisals of property at the county level, as in California, rather than in the 3,000 present taxing entities. The bill also would establish state oversight to assure that similar property would be appraised the same way throughout the state.

Representatives passed the bill last session but it died in the Senate, and Briscoe is known to fear it would remove local control over taxes.

Briscoe's package of constitutional amendments includes higher homestead exemptions, limits on property tax increases and agricultural use appraisal for rural land.

"We are going to have a hard time passing any of these constitutional amendments on the property tax because how are you going to administer them without reform of the system?"

"We don't want to freeze in the inequities," Peveto said. "This thing could turn sour if he doesn't submit property tax reform. That is an opinion, not a threat."

It takes 100 votes in the House and 21 in the Senate - two-thirds of each chamber - to submit a constitutional amendment to the people.

If Briscoe doesn't add property tax reform to the call, Peveto said, "The votes are on the floor to keep anything from happening in the way of constitutional amendments. And it's going to be a job even then."

Clayton told reporters he was convinced Briscoe would call still another special session if legislators adjourn after 30 days - the constitutional limit - without enacting "substantial tax relief."

Senators, organized as a committee of the whole, heard from the Legislative Budget Board on the impact of tax relief proposals made by Briscoe.

Jim Oliver, a board assistant director, said if all the proposals are approved, biennial state expenditures could rise only 13 to 17 percent next session - less than half the usual increase.

If all the anticipated $3 billion in new growth revenue remains available, the 1979 Legislature could boost expenditures 26 percent, he said.

Oliver also compared Texas with California, whose Proposition 13 vote prompted Briscoe to call the special session.

He said California was fifth in the nation in the percentage of per capita income taken by state and local taxes while Texas ranked 45th.

Oliver said California and Texas are almost equal in the number of state employees per 10,000 people - 505.7 for California and 505 for Texas.

"Where's all the money going in California? The level of salaries is the answer in part," Oliver said. He said the average California state employee makes 45.1 percent or $423 more than his or her Texas counterpart.

Board May Take Bids for Health Insurance

HISD Expects Higher Premiums

The rising cost of health insurance and what to do about it are problems the Hereford Independent School District must face the next few months. Superintendent Dr. Harrell Holder told the board of education Tuesday night

Holder said the district might be facing up to a 37 percent increase in premiums with the Boone-Chapman group insurance policy it purchased for employees last year.

The district now pays $18.12, the total cost of each employee's premium. Dependent coverage is extra and paid for by employees who desire it.

Holder recommended that the school district receive bids from insurance companies. He also suggested that teachers select a committee to "provide input - the committee's responsibility is to look at the specifications. I think they'd want to look at a high option."

Holder added that he would want the committee "to make an attempt to get as many bids as they can - we've got employees that think we stacked the deck last year."

The school district's contract with Boone Chapman expires on Nov. 1. The board tabled further discussion on the insurance policy until its next meeting, postponed Tuesday from Aug. 8 until Aug. 15, which is also the date for the first public budget hearing.

The board agreed to maintain the district's role in financing the Deaf Smith County Juvenile Probation Office's budget. The school district presently pays for one-third of the budget, with the City of Hereford and Deaf Smith County providing funding the remaining two-thirds.

The district's contribution to the budget this fiscal year was $6,607. The 1978-79 projected estimate is $12,347.61. The increase includes a pay raise for both the juvenile officer and an assistant.

The board appointed president James Gentry as the district's delegate to the Texas Association of School Boards annual convention Sept. 23-24 in San Antonio.

Board member Mack Tubb, an attorney, was appointed by Gentry to draw up resolutions to present at the delegate assembly during the convention. The board resolved to allow Gentry to approach delegates concerning the distasteful quality of some literature books approved by the state and sent to school districts for adoption, federal regulations governing schools' sale of so-called "junk foods," and a move to support legislative efforts on part of school volunteer programs in each regional service center to pay an employee to coordinate the programs in each district.

Hears Cut Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Carter administration, faced with the possibility Congress will pass a tax bill little resembling the one the president recommended, is pressing its case before the House Budget Committee.

Charles L. Schultze, chairman of the president's Council of Economic Advisers, was armed with arguments for the committee today that the economy requires a tax cut.

But he maintains that the tax cut needed is not the kind Republicans are pushing - and that Democratic leaders fear may pick up support among their colleagues as well.

Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, scheduled to testify after Schultze, told a Senate panel Tuesday that the administration has not changed its position on a tax measure.

But the secretary hinted he may be willing to look at some version beyond that proposed by the administration, such as some minimum relief in the capital gains tax, perhaps protecting homeowners faced with high tax bills from selling residences whose value had been inflated.

Alice M. Rivlin, director of the Congressional Budget Office, testified before the House committee Tuesday that economic growth is expected to continue relatively slow through 1979.

CBO is forbidden by law to make recommendations, but the prospect of only modest growth is the major argument the administration has used for a tax cut.

Mrs. Rivlin also told the committee her office knows of no solid evidence that a one-third cut in income tax rates proposed by Rep. Jack F. Kemp, R-N.Y., and Sen. William V. Roth Jr., R-Del., would quickly pay for itself.

The Kemp-Roth proposal would space the reduction over three years, and its (See COMMITTEE, Page 2)

Corn Crop Could Be Third Largest

WASHINGTON (AP)—Despite late planting and acreage curbs ordered by the Carter administration, the government says that this year's corn crop could be the largest on record.

The Agriculture Department said Tuesday in its first estimate of this year's crop that the corn harvest this fall could be 6.15 billion bushels, only 4 percent less than the record 1977 harvest of 6.37 billion bushels.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland told reporters after the report was issued that "another good crop" seems to be in the works and that his department's estimate based on July 1 surveys is "slightly higher than some trade sources had thought" it would be.

Reacting to rising grain stockpiles, the administration told farmers they would have to take some of their cropland from production this year in order to qualify for federal price supports.

Bergland said that wet weather which delayed planting this spring was a major factor in the cutback. But he added that the acreage control programs are working despite the prospective decline of only 4 percent in the 1978 corn crop.

"The least productive land has been taken out of production," he said. "That's what we wanted."

Bergland also said that the corn crop's indicated size will have little bearing on consumer food prices through 1979.

Corn yields are expected to average 90.1 bushels an acre this fall, compared with 91 bushels in 1977, the report said.

The department also estimated total 1978 wheat production for the first time at 1.8 billion bushels, down 11 percent from last year's harvest of about 2.03 billion bushels. The average yield was put at 31.9 bushels an acre against 30.6 last year.

Based on July 1 indications, the wheat crop will include about 1.28 billion (See CROPS, Page 2)

Gulley Upholds Curtis Charge

Another chapter in the political turmoil in Potter County was written Tuesday when District Atty. Tom Curtis was found guilty of contempt of court and was sentenced to three days in the Potter County jail.

The guilty verdict was delivered yesterday by District Judge Wesley Gulley of Hereford, who had been called to preside in the 47th District Court.

Curtis had been ruled in contempt of the same court on March 9 in a pre-trial hearing by District Judge Bryan Poff of Amarillo. Curtis had reportedly told Poff he was "acting like a biased judge in trying to help this defendant beat a darn good case." The defendant was former Potter County Commissioner Bob Hicks.

Curtis was to begin serving his jail sentence today at 2 p.m., but his attorneys were filing a writ of habeas corpus, possibly in federal court in Austin. If Curtis' lawyers cannot file the writ by the 2 p.m. time, the district clerk will issue papers ordering the arrest and jailing of the district attorney.

SSA Officials Say Ripoffs Rare

BALTIMORE (AP)—Social Security Administration officials, smarting from criticism of the security of their files on 170 million Americans, say computer crime and ripoffs by employees have been a rarity.

The agency, which has 85,000 workers, found only 14 cases last year and 19 this year in which its employees made false claims or engaged in other frauds with Social Security computers, Don I. Wortman, the acting commissioner, said Tuesday. None involved large sums, he added.

The SSA already has installed some of the safeguards in its massive computer system that the General Accounting Office said it lacked, and the agency is gearing up to add more safety features later this year, Wortman said.

The agency paid out $103 billion in benefits last year to 33 million people who were retired on Social Security, disabled, on Medicare or welfare, or to their survivors.

Wortman said that despite the enormity of that sum, most of the monthly benefit checks that flow out of his agency are for small amounts - $254 for the average retired worker or $284 for a poor couple receiving Supplemental Security Income benefits.

An insider who wanted to cheat the agency on a large scale would be involved in "too many small transactions" to escape notice, Wortman insisted in an interview. Any benefit check over $10,000 is automatically "kicked out" of the computer and reviewed, he said.

The GAO auditors did not themselves uncover any fraud by agency employees, but they cited past incidents involving its workers.

—One sold Social Security cards to illegal aliens.

—Another reaped $20,000 by redirecting Social Security payments to himself when someone died.

—Two employees fabricated 14 accounts and collected $55,000 before they were discovered.

—One worker sold information to a company "in the business of locating missing persons."

Phillips Blaze Under Control

BORGER (AP)—Firefighters brought a blaze at the Phillips Petroleum Corp. refinery near here under control shortly before 1 a.m. Wednesday.

An explosion about 10 p.m. Tuesday touched off the fire, which sent a pillar of flame 200 feet high and lit the Panhandle sky for miles around.

The fire smoldering in a natural gas liquids unit would be allowed to burn itself out, said Phillips official Jim Ormsby. Daybreak was the earliest prediction of when it would be extinguished.

"All employees are accounted for," said Jerry Livingston of the Phillips' human resources department. "We did have one employee that was taken to North Plains Hospital. We understand that at this time the employee had a prior heart condition."

The cause of the blaze was not immediately known.

"That will be taken up later," Livingston said. The unit processes an ethane gas.

The refinery is located at Phillips, a community just outside Borger.

An orange cast was visible in the sky as far away as Amarillo, a distance of about 50 miles.

Energy Official Says Nuclear Power Dying

MIDLAND (AP) — A high-level Department of Energy official says the nation's nuclear power industry may die for lack of an acceptable plan for storing its deadly radioactive waste materials.

There has been a striking change in the energy outlook in this country," said John O'Leary. "Unless things change, we are not going to have a nuclear power industry."

O'Leary, DOE deputy secretary, addressed his remarks to about 60 persons Tuesday who gathered in Midland for the first of three public information sessions on the routing of nuclear wastes through Texas.

O'Leary defended a proposed nuclear waste storage facility near Carlsbad, N.M., as "essential to the development of nuclear power in this country."

Texas Attorney General John Hill requested the meetings, planned for Amarillo today and El Paso Thursday.

Hill said he wants the DOE to explain plans for hauling the radioactive waste through Texas on its way to the proposed Waste Isolation Pilot Plant in New Mexico.

The proposed plant, which would store low, intermediate and high-level nuclear wastes, would be located in underground salt mines about 25 miles southeast of Carlsbad.

Officials didn't elaborate on the exact route the wastes would take through Texas on its way from the Savannah River Plant in South Carolina other than to say it would enter New Mexico by rail from Amarillo in the Panhandle.

The route surprised some who expected the more direct Texas and Pacific Railroad haul from Dallas-Fort Worth into Midland-Odessa.

Boy Found Buried; Mother Charged

LAWTON Okla. (AP) — A District Court here issued a child bearing arrest warrant Tuesday against Brenda Carr, 26, the missing mother of a 6-year-old boy whose body was found buried in a shallow grave last month.

The decomposed body of Melvin Kirk Ward was found last Wednesday in a shallow grave under an old refrigerator next to a burned out farm house, 15 miles south of Decatur, Texas.

Earlier, a woman identifying herself as Ms. Carr told authorities the child was locked in a closet at her Lawton home and allowed to starve to death.

Preliminary autopsy reports show the youth died between one and six weeks ago from starvation and strangulation or suffocation, authorities said.

Larry Paul Gough, 36, who reportedly lived with the woman during a brief stay here has been arrested in the death and remains in a Lawton jail as a murder suspect.

Wise County, Texas, authorities had previously charged the pair with "intentionally and knowingly" causing the death of the child by "depriving him of necessary food and nutrition."

Police have been in touch with Ms. Carr's attorney and they say she may turn herself in.

Aldo Mecrano, manager of a mobile home park where the family lived while staying here, said they suddenly "left overnight" in mid-June owing two-weeks rent.

Texas AGs Can't Sue State Agencies

AUSTIN (Texas AP) — Texas attorneys general have no authority to sue state agencies to nullify decisions they consider illegal, the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals ruled today.

In two separate decisions, the court dealt a blow to Attorney General John Hill's contention that he had a right to defend the public against state actions he thought improper.

Hill sought in the courts to block state water agency orders governing protection of the Edwards Aquifer and approving a South Texas Nuclear Project contract to buy water from the Lower Colorado River Authority.

In one case, Hill contended the Edwards Aquifer was ill-protected by an order of the Texas Water Quality Board. In other, he contended the LCRA did not own water the Texas Water Rights Commission said it could sell to the nuclear project for some $50 million.

Both water agencies since have been absorbed by the new Texas Department of Water Resources.

Trial judges in Austin refused to accept Hill's suits, saying he could not sue agencies the Texas Constitution binds him to defend.

Hill took his case to the appeals court, which upheld the district judges.

Explosion Kills Many In Tarragona, Spain

TARRAGONA, Spain (AP) — "It was like a giant flame thrower," said a French woman who survived the holocaust when a runaway tank truck loaded with propylene gas exploded in a campsite on Spain's northeast coast and killed between 119 and 125 persons, police reported.

More than 200 other campers were hospitalized with burns. Many were reported in critical condition.

Most of the 500 to 600 vacationers registered at the camp on the Costa Brava 50 miles south of Barcelona were from other West European countries. Many of the bodies were burned beyond recognition, and identification was slow.

The campsite "resembles hell or what we think hell is like," said one police officer working amid the charred remains of automobiles, trailers, campers and tents.

The permanent campsite is one of a score along the popular Costa Brava. The lunch-hour explosion blackened more than 160 acres and was heard two miles away.

Earlier reports put the death toll at near 200. Officials blamed the higher estimate on "great confusion."

Vicente Mirabet, the head of a burn treatment unit at a Valencia hospital, said 40 victims had been admitted there and most were in critical condition.

Police Report

Hereford police are still investigating the early Sunday morning assault of Morris Angel Ayala, 205 Kibbe, who was found severely beaten and lying in a ditch on the east side of the Bluewater Garden Apartments.

Ayala, who was taken to an Amarillo hospital for emergency treatment, told police he had given four Mexican-American males a ride in his car. He said the four assaulted him prior to leaving.

Police also are investigating a family disturbance at the Bluewater Garden Apartments Tuesday night in which a Mexican-American woman allegedly was cut on the left thumb and forearm by her husband.

Good Guy Image Fading

BOSTON (AP)—It is a long, hot summer for U.S. Sen. Edward W. Brooke, who always looked so cool on Washington's society pages.

Six months ago, this 58-year-old Massachusetts Republican, the only black to sit in the U.S. Senate since Reconstruction, was among the most popular politicians in the state.

Now a half-dozen Democrats want to challenge him for his seat, and he travels the state campaigning hard - shaking hands, hugging and kissing, bussing the cheeks of hundreds of middle-aged women.

But unlike other candidates, lately he grants no interview and answers few questions from reporters.

State officials are investigating whether Brooke committed perjury in his divorce case. The Senate Ethics Committee is inquiring whether he made false statements in a financial disclosure report.

The essence of his problem is this:

Two months ago prompted by newspaper reports that began with leaks from a daughter, Brooke admitted "misstatements" on sworn documents in his divorce case. A judge granted his wife the right to reopen the case, and asked the county prosecutor to determine if Brooke had committed perjury.

Meanwhile, fellow senators began asking whether Brooke had violated the Senate ethics code that Brooke had fought for.

On Monday, the Middlesex County prosecutor declined to answer the question of whether to prosecute for perjury, pleading lack of jurisdiction, and tossed the question to his counterpart in Suffolk County. The divorce case was handled in suburban Middlesex County, but Brooke's deposition was given in Boston, or Suffolk County.

So, while there is no formal accusation against Brooke, the damaging question could linger, unanswered, until election day. Brooke meanwhile, has tried and failed to lay the controversy to rest, and has succeeded in pointing out painful ironies in his life.

Last spring, as he bared his finances to the press, Brooke confessed it had been 16 years since he had last lived with his wife, Remigia, "his husband and wife." That would have been 1962 when to the outside world everything seemed to be going Brooke's way.

It was the year he was first elected attorney general of Massachusetts - the only Republican to win statewide office in 1962.

And it was the year that he, with his wife and their teen-age daughters, Remi and Edwina, moved from the largely black Roxbury section of Boston to the affluent suburb of Newton.

He was the "Negro holding the highest elective office in the nation" at the time, a national figure. He was a spokesman, sometimes a target, for others of his race.

But Brooke never became a "black politician." Though a product of segregation, he was a moderate, even when militancy was loudest.

Light-skinned and green-eyed, with a fondness for opera, he moved easily in Boston's white society.

Brooke was the son of a Washington, D.C., lawyer, raised in a tree-lined, middle-class black section of that city. He went to segregated schools right through graduation from Howard University in 1941.

Called into the Army on Pearl Harbor day, he entered an all-black combat unit as an ROTC-trained second lieutenant.

Then, in Italy working with the resistance movement, he met Remigia, the white woman who would become his wife and who to this day calls him Carlo, his wartime code name. They married in Boston in 1947 while Brooke was attending Boston University Law School.

After several unsuccessful tries for elective office, Brooke made a reputation as a corruption-fighter, first as the appointed chairman of the Boston Finance Commission, then as the state attorney general.

But his private finances were getting him into trouble even then.

In 1964, two years before he was elected to the Senate, federal tax officials claimed he failed to pay income taxes on some $12,000 in legal fees earned from 1959 to 1961. Blaming a bookkeeper, he declared: "I live modestly and money has never been my God."

And living modestly is a claim he would have trouble making today.

His assets before his divorce settlement were estimated at more than $1 million - nearly all acquired during his 12 years in the Senate, and including a home in Newton, a home on the island resort of Martha's Vineyard, a home and property on the Caribbean island of St. Martin, and an apartment in Watergate in Washington.

Records from Brooke's senatorial campaign show a fondness for fine restaurants. The fund also spent $8,000 on antiques for a Beacon Hill apartment that doubles as campaign office and in-town stopover spot.

But Brooke's wealth has not separated him from the black community, which knows he supports low-income housing and abortions for the poor. On such issues, he has made his greatest impact in the Senate.

So when his divorce and tangled finances grabbed attention during this election year, Boston's black community rallied to his defense.

Some 31 black civic and political leaders called a news conference to defend him, and to point out his record: the first Republican to call for the resignation of President Richard Nixon; his opposition to Nixon's nomination of G. Harrold Carswell to the Supreme Court; his advocacy of the "Brooke Amendment," which now limits the rent public housing tenants can pay to 25 percent of their income.

And Brooke responds by telling audiences over and over that he is not going to quit. To a largely black crowd recently, he declared:

"I could get out of politics. I could have a normal life and not have everybody looking into my private life."

"But I can't. There are too many people, black and white, young and old who depend on the work I do."

Recession Not Likely, Claims Budget Office

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. economy faces continuing trouble despite a drop in unemployment, but probably will not slide into recession, the director of the Congressional Budget Office said Tuesday.

Alice M. Rivlin, the director, told the House Budget Committee the outlook for inflation has worsened from earlier projections, and slower economic growth seems to be in the cards through 1979.

"This is a difficult call, but given our policy assumptions, CBO does not believe that current economic trends point to a recession," Mrs. Rivlin said in prepared testimony.

The policy assumptions include a tax cut of about $15 billion, with some stimulus for business investment, and a Federal Reserve policy that would not permit much more increase in short-term interest rates nor squeeze down credit too sharply.

The CBO analysis is generally in line with other economic assessments, but is more optimistic than some. Two leading economists in a report for the Brookings Institution last month estimated there was at least a 50 percent chance of a recession. And Barry Bosworth, director of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, said in a mid-June speech that the United States is headed for a recession if progress is not made against inflation in the next six months.

The CBO is forbidden by law to make recommendations, but is directed instead to report to Congress on the likely effects of different policies.

Mrs. Rivlin said the tax cut contemplated by the administration "more than offsets the effects of rising payroll taxes and fiscal drag on disposable personal income and should help sustain consumer spending."

She noted that proponents of a much larger tax cut are pressing for a congressional vote. This is the Republican-backed proposal for a reduction of about one-third over three years in personal income tax rates.

"Conventional economic analysis indicates that, as a result of such a policy, the budget deficit would rise sharply," she said.

She noted that backers of the bill argue that "large tax cuts increase incentives to work, save and invest to such an extent that the cuts would pay for themselves...and, therefore, would not be inflationary," she added, however, that "CBO does not know of any empirical evidence for this view."

Mrs. Rivlin said her office's specialists expect economic activity to grow at a rate of 3.5 to 4.5 percent during 1978 but think the economic growth will slow by about one-half of 1 percentage point during 1979.

By the end of that year, unemployment, which was 5.7 percent last June, would range between 5.2 and 6 percent.

Hill Upholds Rider To Kill Offices

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Attorney General John Hill upheld Tuesday a general appropriation bill rider that cuts off state funds for virtually all county school administrations in Texas on Jan. 1.

His opinion was a severe setback for predominantly rural forces trying to preserve county school superintendents' offices against lawmakers who want to eliminate them.

County school superintendents provide administrative services for common school districts, rural high school districts and independent districts with fewer than 150 pupils, which do not have their own administrators.

Hill's opinion went to Grayson County Attorney Stephen Davidchik of Sherman.

The current appropriation bill allows use of state funds for county administration only until the current terms of incumbent county superintendents expire.

"Most terms will expire on Dec. 31, 1978," Hill observed.

Hill acknowledged the appropriation bill provisions "effectively cut off state funding for county school administration in virtually all counties for the period from Jan. 1 to Aug. 31, 1979."

Davidchik had contended the special provision was an unconstitutional attempt to pass substantive legislation through an appropriation bill rider.

But Hill disagreed, saying "the rider limiting funding for county school administration does not attempt to repeal general law."

Life insurance benefit payments in the United States totaled nearly $10 billion in 1977, up from $9.6 billion a year earlier, according to the American Council of Life Insurance.

school district's self-evaluation program and accreditation process, reported to the board that schools will develop a five-year plan next year which will be sent to the Division of School Accreditation Planning and Approvals Division of the Texas Education Agency for approval.

The district in the last school year completed a self study phase of the accreditation planning process.

The next step is to develop the five-year plan," Manchee told the board.

The board granted two leaves of absence and accepted resignations from Tammy Benge at Bluebonnet Elementary, Bobby Kunkel and Kathy McManis at La Plata Junior High, Rhonnie Stewart at Northwest Elementary, Harold Wilson at Stanton Junior High and Richard Stewart at the high school.

The board hired the following teachers: Kathleen Giluson at Aikman Elementary, Susan Perez, Oveta White and Dorothy McReynolds, (one-half time) at Bluebonnet, Alice Lockmiller at Northwest, Kathryn Carter, Frances Kirklind, Salvador Sosa and John Taylor at La Plata, Leigh Carter, Elizabeth DeKoster, Paula Parks, Martha Roberts and Donald Evers at Stanton.

Alex Glass, former La Plata principal who resigned five years ago to move to Oklahoma, was hired by the board Tuesday as high school assistant principal.

The board approved the retirement of Elaine Rowan from Tierra Blanca Elementary.

Fred Fox, tax assessor-collector for the district, told the board that an increase in property valuations next fiscal year will result in an approximately $5 million increase in the total tax roll. Fox also reported that approximately 92 percent of this year's taxes have been collected.

Holder, in giving the cafeteria report, told the board that he probably would recommend a 10-cent increase in the price of school lunches due to inflation and higher wages.

In recent weeks, the administration has been trying to build a big enough majority of Democrats in the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee to bring out a bare bones $15 billion tax reduction bill. Committee sponsors say the economy would be so stimulated that the treasury would quickly recoup lost revenue.

Mrs. Rivlin and Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, disagreed.

She said evidence available to the CBO tends to confirm the impression that the Kemp-Roth bill would feed inflation by greatly increasing the federal deficit.

Bolling said his committee has heard witnesses favoring the proposal, but he remains unconvinced that it would produce "a veritable bonanza of jobs and increased economic output."

President Carter originally proposed a net $25 billion tax cut, coupled with tax code revisions to close what he termed loopholes. As the proposal encountered rough going in Congress, he scaled down the cut and agreed not to press, at least a period which can bring dry spells and yield-withering hot weather.

A revised estimate for corn and wheat will be issued Aug. 10, along with the department's first estimates of the season for soybeans, cotton and some other 1978 crops.

Durum wheat will account for about 119.4 million bushels, up from 79.9 million last year. Spring wheat other than durum was indicated at about 405.6 million bushels against 419.1 million last year, however.

The corn crop still has the critical months of July and August to go through.

Luck Party Draws Crowd

More than 100 people gathered at the Country Club last night to say "Good Luck" to Miss Hereford Stephanie Stringer as she prepares to compete in the Miss Texas-Universe Pageant Aug. 21 at El Paso.

Miss Stringer and her family were special guests of the Chamber of Commerce Women's Division, who chose the good luck party as their quarterly general membership meeting. The Women's Division will be sponsoring Miss Stringer in the state pageant, which is to be televised live by CBS.

After Helen Lee delivered the invocation, Women's Division president Margaret Formby called the meeting to order and asked for committee reports.

Carolyn Canon, chairman of the Community Christmas Tree project, announced that her task force had met with the City Commission, which volunteered to pay for the electricity used.

The living tree is to be purchased and planted by the Women's Division on the grounds of the County Courthouse. The tree will be illuminated and decorated by the Women's Division at Christmastime. Mrs. Canon said that it is feasible that the Chamber Women will select a project to raise funds for the Christmas Tree program.

The local blood drive, also a project sanctioned by the Women's Division, was discussed. This report was presented by Pat Clark in the absence of chairman Joan Bookout. Since the beginning of this year, there have been 468 donors, averaging 78 pints of blood given locally each month. This is compared to the blood drive unit's expectations of receiving only 40 pints per month, Mrs. Clark reported.

Representing the Public Affairs Committee, Joan Coupe outlined Women's Emphasis

Days, to be held here Oct. 3-5. The series of programs, geared to the special interests of women, will be launched by the Women's Division general membership meeting on Oct. 3. During that meeting, modeling and charm will be the program topic and new officers for the 1979 term will be elected.

The Women's Division then adjourned and turned their attention to the guest of honor, Stephanie Stringer, and her mother Marie, her sister, Carol, and her brother, Hank, were introduced.

The wardrobe to be worn by Miss Hereford in actual pageant competition next month was modeled by Miss Stringer. Narrating the style show, which also featured four other local models, was Susie McGee. Miss Hereford 1977, Dee Anne Caison, the reigning Miss Teen Tammy Stringer, and local pageant runners-up Kathy Wilson and Judy Hill, were the additional models, who were attired in seasonal fashions.

As a bonus to guests, Miss Caison, who will act as official hostess at the Miss Texas-Universe Pageant, performed at the organ. Also entertaining the crowd were singer Cal Garrett and pianist Susie McGee.

Susan Shaw provided piano music as a background for the girls as they modeled clothing from local merchants.

Mrs. Formby presented an engraved good luck charm to Miss Stringer on behalf of the Women's Division.

Tuesday evening's style show and dinner were organized by the local pageant steering committee, headed by Mary Herring, who will accompany Miss Stringer to the state pageant.

Local merchants represented at the style show included The Soda Shop, Stairway to Fashion, Little's, La Boutique, The Vogue, Anthony's, Gattis, Gaston's, Etc., J.C. Penney's, Merle Norman and The Pants Cage.

Door prizes were provided by Soft Water Service, Cowan Jewelers, Cal Garrett and Susie McGee and the Chamber of Commerce. Recipients of these prizes were Beverly Lambert, Georgia Sparks, Patti Hendon and Katherine Kester.

Poultry Economical Buy Now

COLLEGE STATION--Budget buys center on vegetables and poultry at Texas grocery markets this week, according to Gwendolyn Clyatt.

Also check for economy buys on cheeses--now in exceptionally large supply, she says.

Mrs. Clyatt is a consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

FRESH VEGETABLES--Look for best buys on zucchini and yellow squash, carrots, dry yellow onions and cucumbers.

Also, corn, blackeye and purple hull peas, okra and potatoes.

POULTRY--Eggs still offer a good bargain for high-quality protein, valuable minerals and essential vitamins. Be sure to buy from refrigerated cases and keep eggs cool.

Look for some features of fryers and parts.

Turkeys and turkey roasts have reasonable prices.

FRESH FRUIT--Attractive prices appear on honeydew melons, cantaloupe and watermelons.

Varying price levels show on plums, grapes, nectarines, bananas and oranges.

Fruits with prices on the high side are Granny Smith apples (green in color) from New Zealand and peaches.

Peaches are more plentiful, but with the current high demand, prices are still high.

BEEF--Prices are steadily rising. Features are scattered, so check for advertised specials and in-store specials.

As cattle prices rise, however, cattlemen are more inclined to rebuild their herds, which eventually, will bring a larger supply of beef to market.

CONSUMER WATCHWORDS--Get acquainted with salad greens other than head lettuce, which has been offered at high prices lately. Then put salads back into the menu.

Vines Can Help Cool Landscape

COLLEGE STATION -- Summer weather brings on the search for ways to improve landscapes, making them cool and inviting. One way of accomplishing this is through the imaginative use of vines.

Dr. William C. Welch, landscape horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says that vines offer an interesting variation in plant form. All woody or herbaceous plants that require some support for their development may be classed as a vine.

Vines may be used in several ways--on walls, arbors or other designed structures. Interesting effects may be achieved by placing a well selected vine on a wall and allowing it to spill over the other side.

"The value of vines in the landscape may be practical or esthetic," notes Welch. "The practical value is in the shade and privacy they provide. Muscadine and grapes give an added bonus in the form of fruit."

Temperature is the deciding factor in determining the kind of vine that can be grown successfully in a given area, explains the Texas A&M University System specialist. A vine that freezes down during winter in one area may be evergreen in another area. "To be successful, vines must be well adapted to the environment in which they are to be grown."

Effectiveness is achieved in their use as part of an overall landscape plan. Properly used, they can add a new dimension to any landscape, contends Welch.

Salads Suggested For Summer Menu

During the summer months no one wants to spend long hours in the kitchen over a stove preparing hot meals. The ideal solution is salads which can appear in a variety of ways to please the palate.

Ingredients from the four food groups (milk, meat, vegetables and fruits, and breads and cereals) can be combined to make a main course salad. If fruit is used, the dish can double as salad or dessert. Fresh vegetable and fruit combinations can also accompany the main course.

To make salads nourishing and appealing to heat-dulled appetites, Dairy Council, Inc. suggests these pointers:

--serve cold salads icy cold; --prepare ingredients ahead of time and allow them to chill thoroughly before combining; --chill the plates the salad will be served on;

--tear, don't cut, lettuce and other salad greens;

--increase the number of salad combinations by offering a variety of salad dressings;

--create salad dressing using yogurt or dairy sour cream combined with salad herbs, grated orange or lemon peel, chopped nuts, spices or grated vegetables.

MOLDED MACARONI CHEESE SALAD

2 cups elbow macaroni
1 cup French dressing
2 cups creamed cottage cheese
1/4 cup diced pimiento
1/4 cup diced green pepper
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
Lettuce or other greens
Cook macaroni as directed.

Drain, cool. Add French dressing and mix well. Marinate a few minutes. Add remaining ingredients except greens. Mix thoroughly and press lightly into 9" ring. Chill thoroughly. Turn out on greens. Garnish as desired. Serves 6-8

PINEAPPLE CHEESE DESSERT SALAD

3-oz. package lemon gelatin
1 cup hot water
1 cup sour cream
8-oz. cream cheese
1 cup crushed pineapple
Lettuce

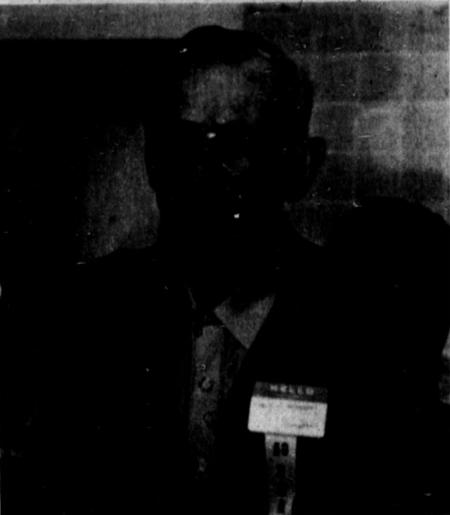

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Chill until syrupy. Beat in sour cream and mashed cream cheese until smooth. Fold in pineapple. Pour into a 6-cup mold. Chill. Serve on lettuce. Garnish as desired. Serves 8

FRESH FRUIT MEDLEY

1 cup orange sections
1 cup grapefruit sections
1 honeydew melon, scooped into balls
1/4 watermelon, cut into triangular pieces
1 cantaloupe, peeled, cut into bite-size wedges
1 cup strawberries
4 bananas
Whipped cream or sour cream
Lettuce

Prepare all fruit except bananas and strawberries and chill for several hours. Just before serving, hull strawberries and slice bananas. Mix fruits together in serving bowl. Garnish with a few salad greens. Serve topped with whipped cream or sour cream. Serves 6-8.

The months of July and August are honey-gathering time for beekeepers.

H.D. CULPEPPER ...shown during recent Pioneer Day festivities

Reception to Honor Longtime Resident

Friends of longtime resident, H.D. Culpepper, are invited to a reception from 3-5 p.m. Sunday in honor of his 95th birthday.

The party will be held in his home, 602 E. Third St.

Culpepper, who came here in 1925 from Silverton with his parents, has received birthday greetings from the President, the Vice President and the Governor of Texas.

A retired farmer, Culpepper served for 12 years as a County Commissioner. He is a member of Central Church of Christ and the Independent Order of Odd Fellows.

Culpepper was married to the former Hattie McDaniel for 60 years before her death. They were the parents of three children, O.H. Culpepper of Hereford, Verna Featherston and Zelma Kuykendall.

Members of Culpepper's family will be visiting him here this week during a family reunion, slated in conjunction with his birthday.

Animal Orphans
These animals are available for "adoption" at the City Animal Shelter

FEMALES

- A fat Boston terrier
- A large, brown Airdale-type
- A solid black puppy
- A part-German Shepherd puppy

Pet owners are urged by the Animal Action Committee to check the City Pound immediately if their dog is lost. After three days of impoundment, dogs are either destroyed or available for adoption.

The Animal Action Committee has in private custody a small, young, champagne-colored male dog to give away. It is a cross between a terrier and pekinese. Very cute with large brown eyes. Call 364-3589 if interested.

For details about any of the above animals, contact 364-5298, 364-3589 or 364-2323 for the animal control officer.

Classes To Begin

Mrs. Hutson Hostess At Fellowship

The monthly meeting of Ladies Fellowship of First Bible Baptist Church was held Monday evening in the home of Mrs. B.D. Hutson, 121 Ave. I.

The meeting opened with the recitation of memorized Bible verses.

Mrs. Hutson presented the first of a two-part study on "Bathsheba, the Strange Woman--the Virtuous Woman." There followed an open discussion of how to apply Bible truths to daily living.

A brief business meeting was held and refreshments served.

Two guests were welcomed, Mrs. C.D. Nobles and Miss Bess Edwards.

Ann Landers
Re-Establish Friendship

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been married ten years to a man I love and trusted. My husband's sister was my maid of honor at my wedding. She has been a dear friend all these years. Something happened recently and I don't know what to do.

Last week I found someone else's lipstick on my husband's shirt. I confronted him with the evidence in a quiet, calm manner after the children went to sleep. He broke down and confessed that he had been having an affair with a woman at the office for five months. I asked how he managed it since he is home every night. He said he had been seeing her during the afternoon at his sister's apartment. (She had a key made for him since she works from 8:00 till 5:00).

My husband says he is glad I found out because the guilt had been killing him and now he is through playing around--for good. But what about my sister-in-law? Am I wrong to feel she was no friend to me? What should I do?--Torn

DEAR ANN LANDERS: She was certainly no friend. By all means have a talk with her and see if you can reestablish your friendship on an honest basis. If you are unable to do so, it is understandable. If you can--you are a super lady.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 16, blue-eyed, blonde and just happen to measure 40-26-36. I have plenty of boyfriends but the girls at school are very unfriendly. This really bothers me.

A asked a very nice girl in my English class to tell why the girls don't like me. She said, "It's the way you walk."

When I went to summer camp a few years ago we practiced walking with books on our heads. Now I'm in the habit of walking with my head high and shoulders pulled straight back. I won a posture award at camp that summer and am very proud of it. This nice girl who I'm sure was trying to help me said I walk as if I am trying to advertise myself. She suggested I carry some books in front of me--especially when I wear a sweater or something tight.

What do you think of her advice?--Too Much Of A Good Thing Maybe

DEAR TOO MUCH: Some girls may not like the way you walk, but I doubt that this is your major problem. People (both girls and boys) respond to the way you treat them--not the way you walk. If you make a genuine effort to show girls that you want them as friends, they will warm up to you.

Now that you have already won the posture award maybe you don't need to pull your shoulders back QUITE so much--dear.

DEAR ANN: I have been married for 33 years and I'm 58 years old. I have been hit in the face, struck on the head, choked, bruised on every part of my body. Three weeks ago, my husband knocked me over backwards and I struck my head on a table. Then he shook me until I was almost senseless. He finally was going to get a gun and kill us both. I ran outside and came back in the house expecting a gun blast in my face, but do you know what he said?--"Why did you make me do this?"

Why do I stay? Because I have no place to go. Please help me.--Frightened And Shaking

DEAR F AND S: You don't need a place to go. You need the courage to see a lawyer and get a legal separation or a divorce. The man sounds crazy and dangerous. Get moving.

Miss Phillips Feted In Bill Davis Home

Miss Elizabeth Phillips, bride-elect of Steve Landers, was honored recently in the home of Mrs. Bill Davis Jr. with a "kitchen gadget" shower. Cohostesses were Mrs. Earl Stagner and Mrs. Don T. Martin.

Miss Phillips and Landers plan to be wed August 18 in First Christian Church.

The honoree received guests with her mother, Mrs. Wayne Phillips, and her fiance's mother, Mrs. Jerry Landers.

Miss Lynnette Cawthon registered approximately 30 guests, each of whom brought a favorite recipe for the future bride.

Jane Landers, sister-in-law of the prospective bridegroom served refreshments from a table laid with a blue cloth. Yellow and white daisies were combined in a centerpiece. Silver appointments completed the motif.

Ray Hershey Family Planning Reunion

Decendants of the late Ray Hershey, who lived here from 1910 until his death in 1956, will be holding a family reunion here Saturday in the Bull Barn.

Friends of the Hershey family are invited to attend the reunion, which will begin at 10 a.m., followed by a covered dish luncheon on noon.

Ray Hershey and Ella Pell, who were married on Christmas Eve 1899 in Piqua, Ohio, had six children. Among those children who will be present at the impending reunion will be Mrs.

Arch Conklin of Fort Smith, Ark., Mrs. Jim Ricketts of Roswell, N.M., Mrs. Travis Cleggs of Portales, N.M. and Horace and Howard Hershey, both of this area.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hershey were leaders in the Progressive Community, northeast of Hereford, where they farmed until 1942. Hershey was one of the individuals here who approached the Commissioner's Court urging them to hire a Home Demonstration Agent for Deaf Smith County.

Bradley Still Trying To Salvage Olympics

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Mayor Tom Bradley appears to have made the city's latest attempt to salvage the 1984 Summer Olympic Games a take-it-or-leave-it offer to the International Olympic Committee.

Through his news secretary, Tom Sullivan, the mayor said Tuesday the city should withdraw its bid for the Games if the IOC rejects the city's proposal that an Olympic contract be signed with a private Olympic organizing committee. Bradley has been one of the city's leading forces in trying to land the Games.

His suggestion Tuesday comes with less than three weeks remaining on a deadline given the city by the IOC to either sign a contract agreeing to take financial liability for the Games or lose them.

City officials have been unwilling to accept the IOC rule on financial responsibility by and city awarded the Games.

The private organizing committee named by Bradley to represent the city in negotiations with the IOC presented an alternative to the IOC three weeks ago in which the private organizers and the U.S. Olympic Committee would accept liability for the Games.

"If the IOC does not accept the offer of the private Olympic committee, then as far as the city is concerned, it's over," Sullivan said on behalf of the mayor. "We will not pursue the Olympics Games any further."

Attorney John Argue, head of the organizing committee, agreed.

"That would be our recommendation," he said. But he added that he remained optimistic that the IOC would accept the committee's proposal.

The IOC nine-man executive board apparently is being polled on whether it would alter its rule and enter a contract with the private organizers instead of with the city.

Wilkens Signs With Seattle

SEATTLE SuperSonics Coach Lenny Wilkens has signed a five-year contract in which he is to remain coach and player personnel director for three years, then assume an "executive position" for the final two.

"I think the big thing in my contract is the money," Wilkens said Tuesday. "They were willing to give me the other things I wanted...I think when someone does something of value, they should be compensated."

Financial terms of the pact were not disclosed.

Wilkins brought the Sonics from a 5-17 record when he took over as coach last November to the National Basketball Association championship series in which Seattle lost to the Washington Bullets in seven games.

The club said the contract would not bar Wilkens from coaching during the last two years of the contract. He is to continue to be responsible for player acquisitions, scouting and drafting, but not contract negotiations.

"I'm happy to be part of this organization," said Wilkens. "If we can manage to stay healthy next year we should have another fine season."

Club owner Sam Schulman said Wilkens' coaching story last year was like a Cinderella story that I'm sure will be told for many years to come."

Wilkins has coached for six seasons, including four during which he also played as a guard. His lifetime coaching record is 243-249.

New York Ranger star Walt Tkaczuk was born in Germany.

SHEIK CHIC APPEARS to be the new look adopted by Pittsburgh Pirate John Milner. Actually, Milner was just trying to keep warm during a brisk evening game by wrapping towels around a spare catcher's mask. Though the fashion could give an exotic accent to the nation's ballparks, it would certainly reduce the players' peripheral vision.

Garvey Pops Stitches For Star MVP Crown

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Steve Garvey stuck out his stitched up chin and pointed at the bandage as though it were a beige badge of courage.

Garvey had taken 20 stitches in the jaw by a pickoff throw last Saturday in Houston, but the Los Angeles Dodger first baseman insisted on playing in the 49th All-Star Game Tuesday.

He was named Most Valuable Player after tying the game for the National League at 3-3 with a two-out, bases-loaded single in the third inning and sparking a rally with a leadoff triple in the eighth that gave the NL a 7-3 victory.

When Garvey socked the triple off losing pitcher Rich Gossage of the New York Yankees, Garvey also ripped one of his stitches.

"When I got to third base, I could feel an ache in my chin," Garvey said after the game. "I think I popped a stitch. But I'll give a stitch for a triple any time."

It was the second MVP award for Garvey in five All-Star appearances. His first honor came in 1974 when he was write-in candidate and played in the game while recuperating from the mumps.

Garvey, meeting reporters with his wife, Cyndy, tried to explain the NL's recent dominance over its rival league in All-Star competition.

"Spirit and camaraderie," Garvey said, echoing the love-and-kisses philosophy of Dodger and All-Star Manager Tommy Lasorda. "The bench exploded when we got the lead. We get tired of beating our heads together during the season, so it's kind of nice for us to all play on the same side."

Bruce Sutter, the Chicago Cubs' bullpen ace, got the win after tossing two innings of hitless ball. Sutter was removed with two outs in the ninth inning and Atlanta Braves knuckleballer Phil Niekro retired the last AL batter, Darrel Porter of Kansas City.

Morley, whose only tour victory came here last year, has not played well since a strong start this season in which he tied for third in the Hawaiian Open.

Manager Lasorda said he pulled Sutter because "I knew 'Knucks' Niekro had never pitched in an All-Star game. He's been a credit to baseball and I wanted to make sure he got in the game."

Actually, Niekro is listed in the record books as having pitched in an All-Star game previously.

Vida Blue, who was hit for the AL's three runs, blamed his troubles on not keeping his pitches down.

Tway Says He's Not Trans-Miss Favorite

DALLAS (AP)—In two days of qualifying, 19-year-old Bob Tway of Marietta, Ga., was the only player of 400 amateurs from across the nation who turned in a sub-par round on Brook Hollow Golf Club, but Tway still doesn't consider himself the favorite.

When the 75th Trans-Miss Golf Championship got underway today with 32 twosomes in match play, he was looking over his shoulder - at Lindy Miller.

"No doubt. He's who I'd pick," said Tway, who as a freshman was No. 5 on the Oklahoma State golf team.

Miller, the Cowboys' No. 1 player, was low amateur in the 1978 Masters and the 1977 U.S. Open. He graduated this spring, and the only reason he hasn't turned pro is because he wants one more shot at winning the U.S. Amateur.

Miller was gunning to be the medalist in this tournament, but lost those honors to the surprising Tway, who shot a four-under par 67 Monday at Brook Hollow and an even-par 71 Tuesday at Las Colinas Country Club in nearby Irving, Texas.

His 138 was the only sub-par finish, and was four shots better than Gary Pinns of Winston-Salem, N.C., who shot even par both days, 71-71-142.

Miller, from nearby Fort Worth, had a 70-73-143, tied with Vince Vines of Odessa, Texas.

Doug Clarke, Stanford University star, shot a 148. His first-day 72 at Brook Hollow was one of the best rounds fired three during the qualifying rounds. Clarke seeks a second Trans-Miss title, having won it in 1976 at Pebble Beach, Calif.

A pair of former Walker Cup players, John Grace of Fort Worth and John Farquhar, also qualified.

Brook Hollow - with its narrow fairways, high rough and small, well-trapped greens - claimed many casualties. When Tway had his 67, dozens shot in the 80s and 90s, and one player had 100.

Kenny Huff of Dallas fired a 67 Monday at the more wide-open Los Colinas, but was chewed up Tuesday at Brook Hollow and failed to make the cut at 151. He was 45, nine-over-par at the turn, lost five more shots to par the next two holes and finished with 67-85-152.

The qualifying rounds trimmed the field to 64 players, who will be further cut in half each day - except for double cut Friday, when two rounds are played - until the two finalists battle over 36 holes Sunday for the championship.

Lunn, McNickle Square for Quad

COAL VALLEY, Ill. (AP) - Bob Lunn and Artie McNickle, hit three days out of four in last week's Greater Milwaukee Open, are back at square one for the $150,000 Ed McMahon Quad Cities Open golf tournament that starts Thursday.

Each shot a 67 Saturday as Lunn shared the lead and McNickle was tied for second in the GMO. But Lunn had a 77 and McNickle a 76 - to finish in an eight-way tie for 20th.

They join former Quad Cities champions Mike Morley, John Lister, Roger Maltbie and Dave Stockton in the "other" professional golf title chase as most of the game's frontliners pursue the British Open championship.

Lee Elder, winner at Milwaukee in an eight-hole sudden-death playoff with Lee Trevino, is taking the week off. Trevino was a late arrival at St. Andrew's for the British Open.

Jay Haas, 24th on this year's money list in just his second year on the PGA tour, was stuck on 70 in four rounds at the GMO and appeared ready to challenge for the lead this week.

Haas, nephew of PGA veteran Bob Goalby, already has notched a victory this year, taking command of the San Diego Open after shooting an 8-under-par 64 in the second round.

Morley, whose only tour victory came here last year, has not played well since a strong start this season in which he tied for third in the Hawaiian Open.

Fritz: lowered expectations

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Vice President Walter F. Mondale, who has spent a lifetime following trails blazed by the late Hubert H. Humphrey, may now be inheriting some of the problems which plagued his mentor at a comparable career point.

For the first time since he was tapped as Jimmy Carter's running mate, Mondale is drawing scattered criticism - most of it sub rosa - from the liberals who have been his most avid supporters in the past.

The sniping is barely audible when measured against the fire Humphrey drew as Lyndon Johnson's vice president during the Vietnam era, but it could intensify if liberal, disenchantment with the Carter administration continues to deepen.

One clue to Mondale's decline from liberal favor came at the recent annual convention of Americans for Democratic Action, the self-anointed keepers of the New Deal flame. Like the dog that didn't bark, of Sherlock Holmes fame, it was an easy signal to miss.

A year ago, when ADA met in Washington for the first time since Carter's inauguration, criticism of Carter was pervasive but restrained. ADA national leaders trooped over to the White House during a break in the convention for a long private session with Mondale, hoping that their former vice chairman could yet guide the new president along paths they perceived as righteous.

This year things were different. The ADA convention passed a resolution warning Carter that if he doesn't fulfill some of his liberal campaign promises pronto they will look for another candidate in 1980. And the national leadership didn't even bother requesting a meeting with Mondale, although the subject was discussed.

"We decided it wasn't worth the time," said ADA vice chairman Joseph L. Rauh Jr. "People get homogenized in the vice presidency, and it's happened to Fritz."

ADA is not alone in lowering its expectations of what Mondale can achieve as vice president. Some of the National League Triumphs Again

SAN DIEGO (AP) - National League supremacy in the annual All Star baseball game has reached such a high point that relief pitcher Bruce Sutter could comment, "We were three runs behind and that made the game even."

He and the rest of the NL squad, including Steve Garvey, the Most Valuable Player in Tuesday night's 7-3 victory, felt confident the big guns would start booming.

Garvey drove in two of the National's three runs in the third, knotting the count 3-3, and the Los Angeles Dodgers' first baseman tripled in the eighth to ignite a four-run outburst.

The right-hander with the blacksmith arms won his second MVP award, the first coming in 1974 when he won his starting job thanks to write-in votes. No other player has twice won the honor that was started in 1970.

So the National League now has won seven straight, 15 out of 16 and 20 of the past 22 in the mid-summer classic.

"I thought it was gone," said Garvey of his eight-inning triple that banged against the right field fence about five feet from the top.

That was the beginning of the end for hard-throwing Rich Gossage of the New York Yankees, the reliever who took the loss.

Garvey scored the go-ahead run on a wild pitch and the NL hit safely three more times before the inning was over.

Said winning Manager Tommy Lasorda, "We never had a doubt when we were three runs behind. Everyone felt we were going to win. And I didn't want to be the manager who lost to the American League."

The AL jumped into a two-run lead in the first inning before a crowd of 51,549 in San Diego Stadium. Rod Carew, the majors' leading batter, blasted a leadoff triple off Vida Blue. He did it again in the third, scoring each time and becoming the only player in the 49-game history of the classic to have two triples in a single game.

And Blue failed to become the only hurler to win in each league as it was 3-3 when he left.

San Francisco's southpaw was followed in order by Steve Rogers of Montreal, Rollie Fingers of San Diego, Bruce Sutter of the Cubs - who wound up the winner - and Phil Niekro, who pitched to the final batter.

"I just hoped that Fingers and Sutter would pitch against those guys the way they pitch against the Dodgers," said Lasorda.

Fingers gave up just one hit in two innings and Sutter none in 1-2-3.

Billy Martin of the Yankees, the losing All Star manager for the second straight year, had no explanation for the NL domination.

"If I did, they wouldn't have won this one," Garvey played with a bandage covering a chin cut suffered last Saturday that required 20 stitches. He said, "I think one of the stitches popped when I hit that triple, but if I could do it again, I'd just as soon pop another one."

The MVP recalled that in 1974 he had played after just recovering from the mumps and still collected two hits. He has hit safely in five consecutive All Star games, two short of Mickey Mantle's record of seven.

Gossage was naturally downcast and said, "I feel like I let a whole lot of people down. I just started muscling the ball and I tried to throw it too hard."

Garvey, Dave Winfield, Bob Boone and Davey Lopes all hit safely in the eighth-inning uprising.

Baltimore's veteran Jim Palmer started for the AL and shut out the Nationals through two innings before running into trouble in the third when his fast balls were too high.

Larry Bowa singled to short right-center, but Palmer retired the next two batters. Then Joe Morgan and George Foster walked to load the bases. Greg Luzinski also drew a pass to force in a run. Then Garvey singled to score two more and knot the count.

That's the way it remained until the eighth.

Third baseman George Brett explained, "We had all faced Vida Blue before and we knew exactly what to expect. They saw Gossage before and they knew exactly what he was going to throw."

Burke Looking To Make Comeback

BALTIMORE (AP)-Now that he's safely past the third day of practice, everything should be downhill for wide receiver Tandy Burke of the Baltimore Colts.

"I just passed my anniversary," Burke said wryly after Tuesday morning's workout at Goucher College. At that session a year ago, a shoulder separation abruptly ended Burke's rookie season before it began.

Now, the former Kentucky star is back to make another bid at cracking Baltimore's wide receiver line-up, where Roger Carr and Marshall Johnson are also coming off operations.

"Let's face it," said Dick Bielski, the coach of Baltimore's receivers, "there are not a lot of players in the National Football League who are perfect physical specimens. A lot depends on how well they comeback after being hurt."

As far as Bielski can determine, the speedy Burke has recuperated well from his shoulder injury, plus an off-season operation to repair torn knee cartilage.

"We haven't had any contact work yet," Bielski said, "but you can tell Randy's not Blue had pitched for Oakland in the AL and Gossage for Pittsburgh in the NL.

But the Cubs' Sutter was something else. The AL batters hadn't seen his split-finger fastball.

"It's my best pitch and with the score tied 3-3, I didn't want to come to the locker room and say they beat me with my second-best pitch."

"They hadn't faced me before and I had an advantage because the pitch looks like a fastball coming in and all of a sudden it drops."

Garvey was asked if his triple came off a fat pitch and answered, "When a ball comes at you 90 miles an hour, you don't now if it's fat or thin."

"Against Palmer, I figured he was wild and couldn't get his fastball down and probably would throw a breaking pitch. He threw a fastball first and then I got the breaking pitch."

Garvey singled home the two runs off that pitch.

"The way Gossage was throwing, I was trying to hit up the middle."

Asked about the domination, the MVP answered, "I think its spirit and camaraderie. There is a spirit of togetherness. We get tired of breaking our heads against each other all season and this is one time to get together."

The next get-together comes at Seattle in 1979.

Bean Enchants Dour St. Andrews

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)-The legend of Andy Bean has found its way across the Atlantic and the normally dour Scots of St. Andrews are thoroughly enchanted.

"Is it true, mon, that you wrestle alligators?" one native in a plaid cap asked the hulking, 25-year-old Yank from Haines City Fla. Bean smiled broadly.

"That's been exaggerated," he replied. "Maybe little ones - 6 to 10 feet long. Naw, seriously, once I grabbed one by the tail and I think I woke him up. He scampered into the water more scared than I was."

"Do you actually bite the cover off golf balls?" Another queried.

"I used to," the 210-pound, 6-foot-4 relative newcomer to the golf tour answered. "I did it instead of throwing clubs when I got mad. But I'm trying to cure myself of that. Some people still come up and ask for a demonstration. I tell them okay if they can pay the price."

Bean, leading money winner on the American tour with $240,058 and three victories in the last five weeks, has turned out to be the most captivating personality in the 107th British Open golf championship, starting today over the Old Course at St. Andrews.

It is not easy to intrigue the golf-hardened populace in this old gray township beside the North Sea which has walked in the footsteps of Walter Hagen, Bob Jones, Sam Snead, Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus.

But Andy has come, seen and conquered in his first visit to the home of the Royal and Ancient Club and the cradle of golf.

He has done it with his awesomely long drives off the tee, his inherent southern charm, corn pone-and-grits earthiness and fascination among the village tykes who follow him around as if he were the Pied Piper of Hamelin.

He stands around for hours, giving autographs. He is so soft-hearted that he has found it almost impossible to withstand the pleas of the open-faced kids in their tartan socks and sweaters.

"They ask him for a souvenir and, before you know it, he has emptied his bag of golf balls," said a companion. "I saw him give away at least two dozen at one time and, when he had no more, he gave away his gloves."

In America, players on the tour refer to Bean as L'il Abner. The Scots haven't yet tacked a label on him as they did in the case of the "Wee Ice Man," Ben Hogan, who won at Carnoustie in 1953.

"He's a monstrous mon," one spectator commented admiringly after watching Bean unleash a three-wood drive to within 10 yards of the swilken, burn guarding the 370-yard first hole.

"He is indeed," agreed a companion, "a mon mountain Bean."

They both laughed at the reference to a famous American wrestler of another era.

Girl Stars Tourney Bound

Hereford's major and minor league Bronco Girl All Stars will be competing in a softball tournament here Friday and Saturday with teams from Pampa, Panhandle, Canyon, Dimmitt and Bovina.

The All Star tourney gets underway with two minor league contests at 7 and 9 p.m. Friday. These games will be played at the Ave. H. park.

The major teams are scheduled for action at 10 a.m., and 5, 7 and 9 p.m. Saturday. Team trophies will be presented to the championship teams.

The public is invited and urged to attend the games.

The minor league National All Stars defeated the American All Stars Tuesday night 14-9.

Road Hole May Spell Victory at St. Andrews

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)-"Watch out for the Road Hole," warned Arnold Palmer as 155 golfers set out today in the British Open.

"It's a hell of a hole. That's where the tournament is going to be won and lost. I ought to know all about it. It cost me the title in 1960."

The Old Course at St. Andrews is the most famous of all golf courses, and the 461-yard Road Hole, the 17th, is one of the world's most notorious. For 200 years it has been ruining the cards of complacent golfers as they came in sight of the clubhouse.

If you hit through the green, by as much as a yard, your ball rolls down a hill and into the road.

That was what happened to Palmer in 1960. He had to chip back from the road for a bogey five. Kel Nagle of Australia edged one stroke ahead and won the title from Palmer by that one stroke.

St. Andrews, where the game has been played for more than four centuries, is the mecca of work golfers. When they get here they are puzzled by the undulating fairways, hidden bunkers and huge two-hole greens contain a hole at one end on the outward nine, and another at the other end as players return home.

Palmer joined forces with Hubert Green and Hale Irwin, who both said they would chip on the green if their ball landed at the wrong end.

There are certain occasions where you would have to chip," Palmer said. "This is probably the only course in the world where you can get a blind putt."

"Nobody would build a course like this today. But it's a fine course to play and it takes a lot of thought. The hidden bunkers and the undulations are the main problems."

The bookies made Tom Watson and Jack Nicklaus, the stars of last year's dramatic British Open at Turnberry, joint-favorites at 6-1. Watson edged Nicklaus by one hole in the 72-hole tournament after an exciting nip-and-tuck battle between the two men on the last day.

Lee Trevino and South Africa's Gary Player were 14-1, and Green and Spain's Severiano Ballesteros 16-1.

Watson went into the defense of his title after four practice rounds on the 6,933-yard par 36-36-72. It is his first visit to St. Andrews.

"I'm beginning to like the golf course," he said. "At first I was indifferent to it because I didn't know where to hit the ball. Now I'm learning about the fairways.

"This is typical of the natural Scottish golf courses. You have a tremendous number of bounces to contend with. The greens are the most severe and the most undulating I have ever seen."

"This is typical of the natural Scottish golf courses. You have a tremendous number of bounces to contend with. The greens are the most severe and the most undulating I have ever seen."

Watson won the title in 1975 and 1977. Nicklaus won it in 1966 and 1970 and has been runner-up six times.

Campbell Still Must Earn Berth

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) - Heisman Trophy winner Earl Campbell, the nation's leading collegiate rusher last season and No. 1 pro draft pick of the Houston Oilers, still has to prove himself to Oiler offensive coordinator Ken Shipp.

"People do tackle better in the pros," Shipp said, contemplating the former Texas All-American's prospects against 240-pound pro linebackers. "So Earl will have to show me what he can do. I'm not really worried about anything with Earl though."

"The little time I've been around him, I've been impressed with how he handles himself."

Campbell has been the center of attention at the Oilers training camp at Angelo State University since rookies started working out Monday in preparation for the Oiler's pre-season opener Aug. 5 in the Astro-dome against the Denver Broncos.

Campbell, who led the nation in rushing with 1,744 yards last season, starts camp as the No. 2 fullback behind Tim Wilson.

"Life's too short to coach bad characters and Earl definitely isn't one of those," Shipp said. "He has the ability to burst and get the long run. We also think he'll be the kind of runner who can give us four yards at a time."

Prior to the arrival of the veterans July 31, Rob Carpenter, a rookie sensation at fullback last season, has been listed as the No. 1 halfback ahead of Ronnie Coleman and newcomer Anthony Davis.

"We're not going to depend on one man, no matter how well he does," Shipp said. "That was Buffalo's downfall when they had O.J. Simpson. When defenses stopped O.J. they stopped Buffalo."

Shipp said the Oilers would not have a blueprint offense "that will let everybody know what we're doing next."

The offense also has unanswered questions at quarterback and tight end, Shipp said.

"We have no experience behind Dan Pastorini at quarterback," Shipp said. "That's just one position where we don't have experience. Another is tight end."

Structural chest pain

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB - About six weeks ago I began to have intermittent pain in my chest in the center above my breasts. I would feel a dull ache at different times during the day and in between there was no pain at all.

My doctor took X rays and an electrocardiogram and examined my breasts and found everything was normal. He told me that the condition is probably structural and to forget about it, it would go away.

I now get a very sharp pain whenever I move my left arm suddenly, bend to pick up something or bend to scrub the bathroom or scour pots in the sink.

I'm in my early 40s and joined a gymnastics class six months ago. Now there are many exercises I am unable to do because of this pain. Could the exercises have caused an injury in my chest and if so, what could it be?

DEAR READER - If you have specific pain associated with certain exercises that you can identify it probably is structural, meaning that it involves something in relationship to the bones, muscles or tendons. You should ask your doctor to send you to a specialist in physical medicine which muscles are involved.

It's possible that treating some tight muscles that you may not be aware of could resolve your problem. Sharp pains are seldom caused by the heart so I suspect this, coupled with the fact that you're a female in your early 40s, pretty well rules out the probability that your difficulties are associated with the heart. Nevertheless, if the pain is not relieved it may interfere with your continuing a good physical program that would be good for your health.

To give you an idea of the difference in your pain and heart pain, I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-10, Heart Attack. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Because I have had tumors of the breast and had a hysterectomy for cancer of the uterus I have been advised not to take hormones. I do take Librium daily but am told that I have to live with my hot flashes. I am doing this very uncomfortably.

The Librium will relieve my upset nerves. Hopefully in time the flashes will become less frequent. I have heard vitamin E will aid these flashes. Is there any help? I also started having high blood pressure after my hysterectomy. It was low before that. I take a pill for these. These flashes are a real pest.

DEAR READER - You have two reasons for not taking female hormones. One is having had cancer of the uterus, assuming that your statement is correct. The other problem is the tumors of the breast. Women with lumps in their breasts should not take female hormones if their use can be avoided. This is particularly true if lumps develop while a woman is taking female hormones.

I'm afraid you may not get any value at all out of Vitamin E, although it has been publicized by some unreliable sources as a means for controlling hot flashes. It certainly is not a substitute for female hormones. It is not harmful and if you want to try it I see no reason why you shouldn't. Just don't expect too much.

Agency Proposal Gets Opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) - Three organizations under surveillance or infiltrated by the CIA and FBI during the 1960s and early 1970s said Tuesday that congressional proposals for a new intelligence agency charter will not prevent future abuses.

The American Friends Service Committee, the Women Strike for Peace group and a Chicago organization fighting the intelligence agencies in a lawsuit testified before the Senate Intelligence Committee.

Louis W. Schneider, executive secretary of the American Friends, or Quakers, said in prepared testimony that his organization had obtained 10,000 pages of files kept on the American Friends by various government agencies, including the CIA, FBI, State Department, the IRS and the armed services.

The files show a pattern of constant FBI surveillance of the committee, which won a Nobel Peace Prize in 1947.

In addition, Schneider said, the CIA opened official mail between committee employees and persons in foreign countries, including the Soviet Union. The committee actively opposed the Vietnam War.

While legislation under consideration by the committee seeks to limit CIA authority, Schneider said there is a danger that intelligence officials or future White House occupants might find ways to justify illegal surveillance.

For example, he said, the proposed CIA charter would allow a person attempting to influence policy in foreign countries to be targeted as a source of information by the CIA.

Schneider said many American Friends Service Committee workers in countries like South Africa would fit that description and thus could be targeted.

Ethel Taylor, who heads the Strike for Peace group which urges international disarmament, said her FBI files show she personally had been under surveillance since 1956.

"It is obvious from my FBI files that agents, women of course, sat on our small committee meetings as we planned actions against the Vietnam War, actions which we gave the fullest publicity possible," she said.

Ms. Taylor said the organization also was under surveillance by CIA agents on grounds that peace groups, especially during the Vietnam War, obtained support from foreign sources, a suspicion which proved groundless.

She said the CIA should have known there was no foreign money because "we could afford only part-time staff, if any, and our equipment was mostly secondhand."

Both the service committee and the disarmament group obtained information on their surveillance through the Freedom of Information Act.

Ms. Taylor said the proposal before the committee is written in such general terms that federal officials inclined toward abuses could claim that any organization was a threat to national security.

Also testifying was Chicago attorney Richard M. Gutman, representing 18 organizations which contend they were under surveillance during the 1968 Democratic National Convention and later.

Gutman said CIA files obtained in lawsuits show the agency kept close track of all groups protesting at the convention. He said all CIA covert operations in the United States and abroad should be prohibited.

The theater's orchestra comes from the Greek and literally means the "dancing place." It was that portion of the ancient theater reserved for the dancing of the chorus, and also for the instrumentalists.
