Summit Hints of Progress

In Looks, Thoughts

Contestants Differ

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) - At Miss America, the contestants are sometimes created unequal - and not just by God's design.

Behind the smiles and songs that Americans see each year on television can be loads of cash for clothes and training designed to bring the crown home to Alabama or Texas or some other state where the pageant is popular, typically in the South or West.

By contrast, some young women those from Northeastern states for instance - are supported by little more than their enthusiasm.

Take Miss Vermont, Lisa Volkert, for instance. "I am so pleased I'm in this pageant to begin with," she says. Now listen to Sandi Miller, Miss Texas: "Why should they send someone who isn't trained? It's a job like everything else." Here they are, two potential Miss Americas who will compete in the pageant Saturday night.

Lisa Volkert from Middlebury, Vt., seems more like a regular woman than do many Miss America contestants. She doesn't expect to win and isn't sure she wants to. "The idea of winning really scars me," she said. "I don't know if I could change from being a simple girl to a girl on the go all the time.'

Miss Volkert, 20, said she has had "no preparation whatsoever" for the contest. She will tell jokes during her talent performance Friday night. One of her favorites:

"What are thongs? That's what Frank Thinatra things.'

"I know I wouldn't have even won a local pageant in Texas," said Miss Volkert, a brown-haired, hazel-eyed senior at Castleton State College majoring in theater arts.

"No one from New England has ever won," she noted. "No one from Vermont has ever been in the top 10."

Miss Vermont - who is 5-foot-11, with a 34-27-37 figure - expects to go home with the minimum $2,000 in scholarships and $1,000 in clothing money given to each contestant.

So far, as Miss Vermont, she has been in four parades, been promised use of a car that she has not yet seen and has earned $50 announcing the winners in a golf tournament. "And I wasn't even paid for two of the parades," she said. Miss Vermont also says things that most Miss America contestants don't. For example, she says that homosexuals 'are people as well as we are an those she knows are "wonderful

She doesn't object to people living together before marriage and she "perhaps" might find herself doing it someday.

Contestants who give all-American answers on social issues are "guarding their real opinions to win this pageant," she said. When it was suggested her candor might hurt her chances, Miss Volkert paused.

"Maybe I should've kept my mouth shut from the very beginning," she said, "but then I'd be just like them."

There's a lot riding on Sandi Miller to win the Miss America Pageant because, partner. Texas plays for keeps.

Like a Dallas Cowboy primed for the Super Bowl, the 5-foot-10, 130-pound Miss Miller has been molded into a contender by six weeks of rigorous physical and mental training.

"It's a very professional program. It's a business," says Miss Miller, 20, from Mesquite. "If you're going to be Miss Texas, you've got to do it.'

Miss Miller has a $13,000 wardrobe, funded by a highpowered state pageant organization which told her not to worry about price tags. She has different advisers for her clothes, hair, makeup, interviews with judges and piano playing.

Since she was crowned Miss Texas, a state pageant official has been at her every public appearance to critique her performance. She even listens to motivational tapes while she sleeps.

"You can't afford to think negative when you're up here," she said. "You (See MISS, Page 2)

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) - A veiled hint of progress is slipping through the secrecy at the Middle East summit. The meeting's official spokesman dropped the hint Thursday as President Carter, Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat wasted no time getting to the thorniest issues in the Arab-Israeli

White House press secretary Jody Powell, who has gone to great lengths to avoid pronouncements that would disclose anything substantial about the talks, seemed to slip as he argued that secrecy has been helpful to the summit participants.

"We have found this atmosphere to be helpful and conducive to the sort of discussions we wanted to have," Powell said. "And the gentlemen are pleased with this arrangement."

There was no word from the Egyptians, Israelis or Americans about whether Carter was making progress. Nor was Powell willing to characterize the mood of the discussions. But Powell's impromptu comment strongly suggested the U.S. president was not displeased with developments so far in the summit, which began late Tuesday.

Carter accelerated the pace of his summitry Thursday evening, meeting with Prime Minister Begin and President Sadat for the second time in less than four hours.

In addition, Vice President Walter F. Mondale was flown up from Washington for the second straight day. He joined Secretary of Defense Harold Brown and Zbigniew Brzezinski, Carter's national security adviser, for midafternoon talks with Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan and Defense Minister Ezer

Weizman. Brown's presence revived speculation about possible defense links between the United States and Israel as part of a

Mideast settlement. United Way, Agencies Discuss Fund Campaign

Approximately 35 representatives of various local agencies met with Deaf Smith County United Way officials to discuss this year's UW fund drive Thursday night in the Pioneer Natural Gas Co. Flame Room.

Representatives of the agencies-YMCA, Big Brothers-Big Sisters, Camp Fire Girls, Boy Scouts of America, Salvation Army, Red Cross, Council on Alcoholism, Family Services Center. Kid's Inc., Hereford Senior Citizens, High Plains Epilepsy Association and Meals on Wheels--and UW officials agreed to meet again in the near future to plan the campaign.

Discussion Thursday night mostly centered around a policy adopted by UW directors which creates a singular campaign by UW agencies. The policy, in effect, stipulates that if agencies conduct their own fund drives, money raised in those campaigns must be placed into the UW general fund. Several agency representatives Thursday expressed concern over the policy since it discourages separate fund drives, which they said have been necessary in the past since the United Way often failed to meet its goal.

UW representatives present included president Paul Sims, vice president Mal Manchee and Lupe Cerda, secretary Howard Birdwell, budget and admissions committee chairman Jake Webb, budget and admissions member Tom Hamlett and Adeline Loerwald, and directors Raymond White. Bob Gentry and Lynton

Agency officials will submit their allocation request to the budget and admissions committee Sept. 19-20. YMCA board president Tom Burdett recommended that another meeting between UW directors and agencies be held following that meeting "so we can take a look at the whole picture--we need to know first where the agencies stand as far as needs."

Sims, who presided Thursday, said he would call that meeting.

But Powell dismissed the possibility of sending American troops to the Mideast as "one of the great non-existent stories of all time." He described as "hogwash" reports the administration might establish an American air base in territories won by Israel in the 1967 war. Powell said "no specific occurrence" prompted Brown's trip here from Washington. He said Brown was summoned because of his "general role and expertise in the area."

Mondale and Vance, after the meeting with Dayan and Weizman, conferred for an hour with Egypt's foreign minister, Muhammad Ibrahim Kamil.

Utility's Request Trimmed

PUC Staff Asks For SPS Increase

A Public Utilities Commission staff report Thursday in Austin recommended that Southwestern Public Service Co. be granted a rural rate increase of $15.6 million, about 70 percent of what the electric company had requested.

SPS officials in Amarillo said the recommendation was not enough. SPS had requested $21.9 million, which would increase residential rates by 11.3 percent and an approximately 10 percent overall

Carter Still Seeks Support For Gas Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter, facing a Senate showdown on compromise natural gas legislation, is courting some of the same special interest groups he has made the target of stinging denunciations in the past.

The administration's effort, matched only by its drawn-out fight for the Panama Canal treaties, has become a battle to scrape together all available support while, if possible, neutralizing two opponents.

So Carter, who last month attacked "economic interest lobbies" in a speech before Missouri farmers, is now going to business groups for help in swaying senators holding out for total deregulation of natural gas prices.

White House staff members, saying no deals have been made, contend it is logical for the president to seek support from the producers and major consumers of natural gas. But in last month's speech linking the fight for energy legislation to his anti-inflation efforts. Carter said:

"The fight against inflation becomes nearly impossible when the pressures of special economic interest lobbies are successful. These lobbies care absolutely nothing about the national interest as long as they get theirs."

Over the past two weeks. Energy Secretary James Schlesinger, Robert Strauss. Carter's chief anti-inflation assistant, and Federal Reserve Chairman William Miller have closeted themselves with bankers, steel executives, textile (See COMPROMISE, Page 2)

The staff recommendation will be submitted to the PUC for consideration. Hereford City Manager Dudley Bayne said that the PUC probably will rule in favor of the staff report and that the new rates will still be too high.

"The PUC usually will go along with the staff report," Bayne said. "The staff, I believe, was way out of line, but we were expecting about what we got from that outfit. We are hoping for a fair rule for the consumer, rather than the utility. but the PUC is not consumer-oriented.'

Although the ruling, which is expected in about three weeks, affects only rural. rates, it could set a standard as to what municipal electric costs will be. In the past, PUC has used its rulings in rural rate cases as standards for cities.

The Hereford City Commission, when it meets on Sept. 18, will discuss whether to hold a hearing to determine whether the rural rates should apply to the city. Municipalities, according to the same act which created the PUC, have the right to set their own rates, which are appealable to the PUC by utilities.

Should Hereford set a rate lower than what the PUC decides in its ruling in the rural case. SPS could appeal to the utilities commission.

Show Cars Begin Arriving in Town

Old cars began arriving in town today for the second Hereford Rotary Club Antique and Special Interest Car Show Saturday and Sunday in the Bull Barn and Little Bull Barn.

The show, which will feature approximately 70 cars from Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico, will be from 12 noon to 10 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. Tickets will be available at the door for $2 for adults and 50 cents for children.

This year's special attraction will be a 1929 Packard Super Eight 645, owned by Orie Jones of Farwell. The car, one of a kind, has 59,000 original miles and has been restored to pristine condition, according to show chairman Ken Rogers.

An antique tractor and truck also should attract much attention, Rogers

Proceeds obtained from the show will be used for charitable projects by the Rotary Club.

Overall Wholesale Prices Drop in August

WASHINGTON (AP) - An across-theboard easing of price pressures occurred in the economy in August as wholesale prices declined 0.1 percent, the first drop in this key measure of inflation in two years, the government reported today.

It was the most encouraging development yet in the government's fight to control inflation. Prices of consumer foods fell 1.5 percent, the biggest decline in two years.

Wholesale prices had increased 0.5 percent in July and were up 7.7 percent for the 12-month period ending in August. The August decline was the first since August of 1976, when prices fell 0.2

If continued for a year, the August decline of 0.1 percent would result in a 12-month drop in wholesale prices of 1.2

percent. However, not even the most optimistic economists expect that to

The decline in consumer food prices was the major factor in the break in the upward price spiral in August, but there also was a slowdown in price increases for goods other than foods, which rose only 0.4 percent, just half of the July increase.

The Labor Department said its producer price index for finished goods, as the wholesale price report is now called, stood in August at 195.3 of the 1967 average of 100, meaning that goods priced at $100 then had increased to $195.30 last month. Government economists were pleasantly surprised by the decline, which was not expected. It seemed likely it would result in a strengthening of the U.S. dollar on world money markets and take some of the pressure off President Carter to resort to tough new measures to battle inflation.

However, inflation for the year has been much more worse than originally forecast, now rising near 10 percent at an annual rate at the consumer level, and the administration is at work on new wage and price guidelines for business and labor in an effort to help bring it under control.

The price trends at the wholesale level are expected to eventually show up at the consumer level, so the August drop in wholesale prices was welcome news to consumers as well.

The Labor Department said the 1.5 percent decline in finished consumer food prices, the first since August of 1976 when they fell 1.8 percent, was led by sharply lower prices for processed poultry, fresh and dried fruits and vegetables and eggs, all of which had increased a month earlier. The price of coffee, beef and veal also declined.

The finished goods price index measures price changes at the wholesale level just before goods reach the final user, such as the consumer. There were also declines in food prices at the intermediate processing level, down 3.4 percent, and the crude level before processing has begun, down 1.8 percent. pointing to an easing of price pressures all along the line;

The Labor Department said prices of goods other than food rose 0.7 percent at the intermediate level, but fell 0.4 percent at the crude level, down sharply (See PRICES, Page 2)

Davis Indicted Twice By Tarrant Jury

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) -Millionaire industrialist Cullen Davis was named in a pair of indictments Thursday by a Tarrant County grand jury in connection with an alleged plot to have a judge killed, but defense attorneys weren't surprised. "I don't think I'll be shocked if he's not no-billed," said Steve Sumner before the grand jury charged his client with solicitation of murder, two counts of attempted capital murder, conspiracy to commit capital murder and possession of a prohibited weapon.

"We're not holding our breath," the Dallas attorney said. Davis has been in Tarrant County Jail since Aug. 20, with bond denied after a week-long hearing featuring sensational testimony.

The grand jury listened to an abbreviated version of that testimony. Allegations were presented that Davis tried to hire someone to kill Judge Joe Eidson, who was presiding over his bitterly-contested divorce case. Since Davis' arrest, Eidson has disqualified himself from the divorce proceedings.

The charges against Davis stem from tape recorded discussions allegedly between Davis and police informant David McCrory.

Transcripts presented at the bond hearing included an exchange in which McCrory says:

"I got the judge dead for you." Davis replies: "Good."

Police Deny Man Being Sought for Murders

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - A police spokesman has denied a newspaper's report that an 18-year-old Oklahoma City man is being sought for questioning in connection with the discovery of two guns linked to two mass inurders.

The Daily Oklahoman, in today's editions, quotes police sources as saying investigators are attempting to locate

Ernest Lindsay. The newspaper also quoted sources as saying Lindsay has disappeared.

Oklahoma City police spokesman Tom Mundy denied Lindsay is being

"We've talked to many persons. Maybe one of the investigators is looking for him," Mundy said.

As of late Thursday, Mundy said Lindsay hadn't been named in an warrants or rediograms.

The newspaper story said northeast Oklahoma City neighbors of Lindsay had been questioned about his whereabouts late Tuesday and Wednesday.

Dick Wilkerson, assistant director of the Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation, said, "I won't comment on anybody" in particular. "We are wanting to talk to several people and there will probably be more tomorrow."

The newspaper story said until his "disappearance" Sunday, Lindsay had been living less than a mile from where the guns were found.

Man Claims Prison

Retaliated with Solitary

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - David Ruiz, a robber whose lawsuit could force expensive changes in the Texas prison system, claimed Thursday that prison officials retaliated against him by putting him in solitary confinement.

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice will open hearings on Ruiz' civil rights suit in Houston on Oct. 2. The U.S. Department of Justice investigated the allegations, then joined the suit on Ruiz'

Ruiz said in an interview that a specific instance of retaliation for his lawsuit was on May 25, when he was placed in solitary, ostensibly for disobeying an order. "My father passed away while I was in solitary, and they would not permit me to attend his funeral. My brother, who also was in TDC Texas Department of Corrections got to go. He is not considered a writ writer. I am considered a writ writer," said Ruiz, 36.

A "writ writer" is an inmate who complains to the courts about alleged wrongs within the prison system.

Ruiz was in Austin to contest his ex-wife's petition to terminate his parental rights to their 10-year-old daughter, whom he had not seen since she was a year old. He was represented by TDC lawyers. He began serving a 25-year sentence for armed robbery in March 1968 - nine months after his release from prison on another conviction.

Postmen Not Excited Equity Funding

Union Official Says

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - An official of the nation's largest postal workers union says most Southern postal workers disapprove of the proposed contract, but they aren't angry enough to strike.

Coffey, a member of the union's executive board, heads the 11-state Southern Region with about 55,000 union members who work as clerks, maintenance workers and special delivery

Postal service officials and representatives of the Postal Workers Union and two other unions have been meeting in Washington with a special mediator. A proposed contract agreement reached July 21 was rejected last month, raising the threat of a nationwide postal strike.

"Throughout the south, most everyone disapproves of the contract," Coffey said in an interview. "But not for the same reason as in other areas. The problem in other areas is the pay package...In the South, the pay package is not of as much concern as other things--working supervisors, mandatory overtime, not being able to get off on holidays."

months. The agency said prices for natural gas and leaf tobacco fell at the crude level after increasing in July, and that crude petroleum prices rose substantially less than in either of the two preceding months. It said much of the increase in non-food prices at the intermediate level was caused by hikes in steel products, which advanced substantially for the third time this year. The administration has been forced several times to revise its inflation forecast for the year to reflect the deterioration in prices. It is now projecting an 8 percent increase in consumer prices for all of 1978, which would be the worst inflation rate since 1974 when prices rose 12.2 percent.

Even an 8 percent rate means price increases must slow later in the year from the current inflation rate of near 10 percent. The actual increase in prices to the consumer in the first seven months of the year was 5.4 percent.

Because inflation has worsened, the administration is planning to put new teeth in its anti-inflation program. It is expected to drop its flexible wage-price guidelines for more rigid targets for unions and business to follow. The immediate aim of the program will be to slow wage increases, which are averaging about 8 percent a year. While wage gains are not blamed for causing inflation, they are regarded by the administration as a major stumbling block to slowing it down.

Because productivity is expected to remain stagnant this year, an 8 percent increase in wages virtually assures at least an 8 percent boost in prices.

Labor leaders say they want progress on prices before they pledge to reduce wage demands.

The worker is caught in the middle in the current situation, hit by rising prices that for the most part quickly offset wage gains. But if workers lower wage demands ahead of prices, they run the risk that prices will continue to rise rapidly, threatening an even faster loss a student manual." of purchasing power.

manufacturers and other industrial leaders.

Their chore: To detail the administration's argument on the impact the legislation would have on the dollar and on natural gas supplies. In some cases, they have tried to enlist active supporters: in others, simply to persuade the bill's opponents to keep their opposition to themselves.

The legislation, which Carter has called crucial to the success of his energy plan, may be voted on by the Senate late next week. The bill would remove all price controls on newly discovered natural gas

While there are no signs Carter's advisers have used any hard-sell tactics. the White House visitors have returned to their corporate suites well aware of the administration's preference and the clout it could wield.

Two signs of success:

-Major oil companies have kept a relatively low profile in the debate over the compromise legislation, although they are not enamored of it. The reason? One industry observer suggests executives need no reminding of Schlesinger's power to allow $2 billion in oil price increases that so far have been kept to a minimum. -While General Motors Corp. opposes the legislation, the company does "not intend to lobby against it," said spokesman John Hartnett. That position was announced Aug. 24, the same day GM chairman Thomas Murphy attended a White House briefing.

American Climbers Reach K2 Summit

ISLABABAD. Pakistan (AP) . American mountain climbers have conquered the 28.250-foot K2 mountain peak in Pakistan's Karakorum Range, official Pakistani sources said Thursday.

The sources said two members of the American K2 Expedition, which is led by Jim Whittaker of Seattle, achieved the goal Wednesday and became the first

Americans to set foot on the peak - the second highest in the world.

The team tried to climb K2 in 1975 by another route, but gave up the effort due to severe weather and other difficulties. The two climbers who stood atop K2 were identified as Jim Wickwire and Lou Richart. Wickwire was a member of the 1975 team.

The two reached the summit at 5:30 p.m. local time Wednesday 8:30 a.m. EDT Wednesday after traveling from their camp on the northeast ridge to the famous Abruzzi Ridge.

NEW YORK (AP) - More than five years after it first made headlines, the bizarre story of Raymond L. Dirks and Equity Funding Corp. of America continues to unfold.

Issues Persist

For those who came in late, Dirks is the Wall Street security analyst who is credited with bringing to light, in the early spring of 1973, the fact that Equity Funding executives had invented massive amounts of phony insurance and fake assets in order to show rising sales and profits.

But the computer fraud staged at the Los Angeles headquarters of the financialservices company was only half of the picture. The other half involves what Dirks did with the information he gathered.

A few days ago David J. Markun, an administrative law judge of the Securities and Exchange Commission, ruled that Dirks, now head of the research department at the firm of John Muir & Co., should be suspended from the securities business for 60 days for violating "inside information" rules. The judge said Dirks was guilty of "selectively disclosing" to some money managers information about the brewing storm at Equity Funding which was not available to the public. The judge also censured the firms which employed the money managers.

Dirks, in reply, held a press conference Tuesday. "The SEC's administrative hearing has proved that whistle blowing he declared, and said he would appeal the judge's ruling.

For such an iconoclast-against -the establishment drama, the 43-year-old Dirks is well cast. At the same time the Equity Funding scandal was breaking. he arranged to meet a reporter for an interview at the plush, decorous lobby bar of a midtown hotel, and then showed up wearing a rumpled, sagging sweater. Hotel employees provided him with a jacket before they would seat him.

In "The Great Wall Street Scandal," a book about Equity Funding he wrote with Leonard Gross in 1974, Dirks described himself as "stubby and indifferent about my appearance ... Some say I am the closest thing on Wall Street to a hippie broker. I suppose that is true.'

But in his ruling on Dirks' case, SEC judge David Jr. Markun sharply questioned the image of "the public-spirited hero he seeks to portray himself

In the Equity Funding fund case itself, some issues have been settled, but others persist. Stanley Goldblum, the company's former chairman, is serving an eight-year prison term. After a full-scale reorganization, the company resurfaced as Orion Capital Corp. Its shares were recently quoted at around $10 in the over-the-counter market.

The Abundant Life

SITUATION ETHICS

BY BOB WEAR

THE ADVOCATES OF THIS VIEWPOINT ALLEGE that "there are no rules which can be applied apart from the complex wrong. nature of the particular situation." They mean that the "objective curcumstances" must be encountered and considered before anybody can know what to do about anything so far as personal conduct is concerned.

THE WORD, "ETHICS" MEANS "the science of moral values and duties; the study of ideal human character, actions, and ends. Moral principles. BY "situation ethics" causes quality, or practice." This definition strongly supports the reality of a code by which to direct one's life.

A CODE TO LIVE BY seems to be the idea that the advocates of "situation ethics" are trying to destroy. They want us to think that we cannot know beforehand how to behave in any situation; that we must wait until we are in a situation before we know how to act. These careless thinkers would have us believe that we live in a world of relativities.

A WORLD OF RELATIVI-TIES IS NOT the world of reality. It is a fictitious world, without fixed guidelines, without absolutes, without specifics, and without order and meaning. Everything essential to human well-being is either destroyed or so badly altered that it no longer serves its intended purpose. THE RESPONSIBLE HU-MAN BEING, in order to function as such, must have a code for living. This means that there must be fixed standards made up of absolutes and specifics. It also means that some things are always right.

and some things are always

IT IS TRUE THAT AN EFFECTIVE LIFE must have an element of flexibility, but the total life pattern cannot be flexible. If it were, there would be no convictions, no real character, no true identity. If we are to change with every changing situation, we cannot know from one day to the next what we are or who we are.

THE BEHAVIOR REQUIRED people to be considered unstable or worse. Many persons would consider their conduct hypocritical, and others would think them undepend-

LIFE CAN BE BETTER THAN the dreary, confused, frustrated and meaningless way of "situation ethics". It can be strong, meaningful, orderly and victorious; but this is not the life that is one way in one situation and some other way in another situation. It has been said that people who do not stand for something will fall for anything.

OUR ENTIRE SOCIAL ORD-ER WILL COLLAPSE, if the faulty concept of "situation ethics" becomes the controlling influence in moral and ethical conduct. It is completely out of harmony with the Christian pattern for life, and is, from every standpoint, against the best interests of humankind.

Deny Helping Soviets absolutely. We don't have any

DALLAS (AP) - Officials of Dresser Industries denied Wednesday that a controversial $145 million drill bit plant they have agreed to build in Russia would give away technology that would help the Communist nation militarily.

"Our drill bits could be said to help them militarily only in the same sense that buttons would help them militarily since they hold up the soldiers' pants," said Ed R. Luter, a company senior vice president for finance.

Russia already is the world's largest producer of drill bits, and the new plant near Kuibyshev, Russia - adjacent to an existing rock plant - would increase the country's production by only 10 percent, added J.J. Murphy, senior vice president for operations. After several years of negotiations, during which Russian officials also sought voluntary manslaughter in the bids from other drill bit companies throughout the world, Dresser was selected earlier this year to build the

President Carter was told by some of his advisers, however, to veto the sale to demonstrate U.S. opposition to Soviet disregard of human rights - as in the recent trial of two Russian dissidents in Moscow

"We believe that would be a mistake. If you are talking about holding back from a country things they can get from a dozen other countries, it cannot possibly be very effective."

Chicago DEAR UPPERS: I am trying to come up with a plausible solution - and it's not easy. I do know there are pocket toothbrushes around that fold and take up very little space. Pilgrims

In colonial days, breakfast was equal to other meals of the day in the amount of food served. It was not uncommon for the early English settlers to sit down to a hearty meal of cornmeal mush and milk, meats and wild game and various types of seafood. A large breakfast was necessary to prepare their bodies for the manual labor they performed

As pilgrims from other foreign countries made their way to America, they brought with them their own eating customs. Scotch broth, oatcakes, scones, pancakes and many types of fresh and dried fruit made their appearance on the breakfast scene. Settlers moving West continues the heavy breakfast pattern. With the advent of the twentieth century, machinery took over much of the manual labor. The decline in hard physical labor meant that the huge breakfasts our forefathers consumed were no longer

Dairy Council, Inc.nutritionists are encouraging people to eat breakfast during Better Breakfast Month (September 1-30). Failure to eat a balanced breakfast from the four food groups (milk, meat, vegetablesfruits and breads-cereals) means one will have to compensate for missing breakfast by eating more food the rest of the day. Many of these foods will be 'extra' foods providing lots of calories but few nutrients. Our forefathers learned to eat breakfast to prepare them for the day ahead. Their tradition should be followed.

Davis Indicted Twice By Tarrant Jury

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) -Millionaire industrialist Cullen Davis was named in a pair of indictments Thursday by a Tarrant County grand jury in connection with an alleged plot to have a judge killed, but defense attorneys weren't surprised. "I don't think I'll be shocked if he's not no-billed," said Steve Sumner before the grand jury charged his client with solicitation of murder, two counts of attempted capital murder, conspiracy to commit capital murder and possession of a prohibited weapon.

"We're not holding our breath," the Dallas attorney said.

Davis has been in Tarrant County Jail since Aug. 20, with bond denied after a week-long hearing featuring sensational testimony.

The grand jury listened to an abbreviated version of that testimony. Allegations were presented that Davis tried to hire someone to kill Judge Joe Eidson, who was presiding over his bitterly-contested divorce case. Since Davis' arrest, Eidson has disqualified himself from the divorce proceedings.

The charges against Davis stem from tape recorded discussions allegedly between Davis and police informant David McCrory.

Transcripts presented at the bond hearing included an exchange in which McCrory says:

"I got the judge dead for you." Davis replies: "Good."

Police Deny Man Being Sought for Murders

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - A police spokesman has denied a newspaper's report that an 18-year-old Oklahoma City man is being sought for questioning in connection with the discovery of two guns linked to two mass murders.

The Daily Oklahoman, in today's editions, quotes police sources as saying investigators are attempting to locate

Ernest Lindsay. The newspaper also quoted sources as saying Lindsay has disappeared.

Oklahoma City police spokesman Tom Mundy denied Lindsay is being

"We've talked to many persons. Maybe one of the investigators is looking for him," Mundy said.

As of late Thursday, Mundy said Lindsay hadn't been named in an warrants or rediograms.

The newspaper story said northeast Oklahoma City neighbors of Lindsay had been questioned about his whereabouts late Tuesday and Wednesday.

Dick Wilkerson, assistant director of the Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation, said, "I won't comment on anybody" in particular. "We are wanting to talk to several people and there will probably be more tomorrow."

The newspaper story said until his "disappearance" Sunday, Lindsay had been living less than a mile from where the guns were found.

Man Claims Prison

Retaliated with Solitary

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - David Ruiz, a robber whose lawsuit could force expensive changes in the Texas prison system, claimed Thursday that prison officials retaliated against him by putting him in solitary confinement.

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice will open hearings on Ruiz' civil rights suit in Houston on Oct. 2. The U.S. Department of Justice investigated the allegations, then joined the suit on Ruiz' side. Ruiz said in an interview that a specific instance of retaliation for his lawsuit was on May 25, when he was placed in solitary, ostensibly for disobeying an

Postmen Not Excited

Union Official Says

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - An official of the nation's largest postal workers union says most Southern postal workers disapprove of the proposed contract, but they aren't angry enough to strike.

"The mood for a strike is not there," Thomas Coffey, Southern Region coordinator for the 285,000-member American Postal Workers Union, said Thursday. "I'd say generally you wouldn't get 10 percent of our people to strike."

Coffey, a member of the union's executive board, heads the 11-state Southern Region with about 55,000 union members who work as clerks, maintenance workers and special delivery carriers.

Postal service officials and representatives of the Postal Workers Union and two other unions have been meeting in Washington with a special mediator. A proposed contract agreement reached July 21 was rejected last month, raising the threat of a nationwide postal strike.

"Throughout the south, most everyone disapproves of the contract," Coffey said in an interview. "But not for the same reason as in other areas. The problem in other areas is the pay package...In the South, the pay package is not of as much concern as other things--working supervisors, mandatory overtime, not being able to get off on holidays."

from a 2.3 percent increase in July and the first decline at that level in 11 months.

Prices -

The agency said prices for natural gas and leaf tobacco fell at the crude level after increasing in July, and that crude petroleum prices rose substantially less than in either of the two preceding months.

It said much of the increase in non-food prices at the intermediate level was caused by hikes in steel products, which advanced substantially for the third time

this year. The administration has been forced several times to revise its inflation forecast for the year to reflect the deterioration in prices. It is now projecting an 8 percent increase in consumer prices for all of 1978, which would be the worst inflation rate since 1974 when prices rose 12.2 percent.

Even an 8 percent rate means price increases must slow later in the year from the current inflation rate of near 10 percent. The actual increase in prices to the consumer in the first seven months of the year was 5.4 percent.

Because inflation has worsened, the administration is planning to put new teeth in its anti-inflation program. It is expected to drop its flexible wage-price guidelines for more rigid targets for unions and business to follow.

The immediate aim of the program will be to slow wage increases, which are averaging about 8 percent a year. While wage gains are not blamed for causing inflation, they are regarded by the and realized I was supposed to administration as a major stumbling block to slowing it down.

Because productivity is expected to remain stagnant this year, an 8 percent increase in wages virtually assures at least an 8 percent boost in prices.

Labor leaders say they want progress on prices before they pledge to reduce wage demands.

The worker is caught in the middle in the current situation, hit by rising prices that for the most part quickly offset wage gains. But if workers lower wage demands ahead of prices, they run the risk that prices will continue to rise rapidly, threatening an even faster loss of purchasing power.

Their chore: To detail the administration's argument on the impact the legislation would have on the dollar and on natural gas supplies. In some cases, they have tried to enlist active supporters; in others, simply to persuade the bill's opponents to keep their opposition to themselves.

The legislation, which Carter has called crucial to the success of his energy plan, may be voted on by the Senate late next week. The bill would remove all price controls on newly discovered natural gas by 1985.

While there are no signs Carter's advisers have used any hard-sell tactics. the White House visitors have returned to their corporate suites well aware of the administration's preference and the clout it could wield.

Two signs of success:

-Major oil companies have kept a relatively low profile in the debate over the compromise legislation, although they are not enamored of it. The reason? One industry observer suggests executives need no reminding of Schlesinger's power to allow $2 billion in oil price

-While General Motors Corp. opposes the legislation, the company does "not intend to lobby against it," said spokesman John Hartnett. That position was announced Aug. 24, the same day

GM chairman Thomas Murphy attended a White House briefing.

American Climbers Reach K2 Summit

ISLABABAD. Pakistan (AP) . American mountain climbers have conquered the 28.250-foot K2 mountain peak in Pakistan's Karakorum Range, official Pakistani sources said Thursday.

The sources said two members of the American K2 Expedition, which is led by Jim Whittaker of Scattle, achieved the goal Wednesday and became the first

Americans to set foot on the peak - the second highest in the world.

The team tried to climb K2 in 1975 by another route, but gave up the effort due to severe weather and other difficulties. The two climbers who stood atop K2 were identified as Jim Wickwire and Lou Richart. Wickwire was a member of the 1975 team.

The two reached the summit at 5:30 p.m. local time Wednesday 8:30 a.m. EDT Wednesday after traveling from their camp on the northeast ridge to the famous Abruzzi Ridge.

It was not known if other members of the 13-person team also reached the summit. Two team members are women.

Issues Persist

NEW YORK (AP) - More than five years after it first made headlines, the bizarre story of Raymond L. Dirks and Equity Funding Corp. of America continues to unfold.

For those who came in late, Dirks is the Wall Street security analyst who is credited with bringing to light, in the early spring of 1973, the fact that Equity Funding executives had invented massive amounts of phony insurance and fake assets in order to show rising sales and profits.

But the computer fraud staged at the Los Angeles headquarters of the financialservices company was only half of the picture. The other half involves what Dirks did with the information he gathered.

A few days ago David J. Markun, an administrative law judge of the Securities and Exchange Commission, ruled. that Dirks, now head of the research department at the firm of John Muir & Co., should be suspended from the securities business for 60 days for violating "inside information" rules.

The judge said Dirks was guilty of "selectively disclosing" to some money managers information about the brewing storm at Equity Funding which was not available to the public. The judge also censured the firms which employed the money managers.

Dirks, in reply, held a press conference Tuesday. "The SEC's administrative hearing has proved that whistle blowing in the public's interest is to be punished rather than praised,' he declared, and said he would appeal the judge's ruling.

For such an iconoclast-against -the establishment drama, the 43-year-old Dirks is well cast. At the same time the Equity Funding scandal was breaking. he arranged to meet a reporter for an interview at the plush, decorous lobby bar of a midtown hotel, and then showed up wearing a rumpled, sagging sweater. Hotel employees provided him with a jacket before they would seat him.

In "The Great Wall Street Scandal," a book about Equity Funding he wrote with Leonard Gross in 1974, Dirks described himself as "stubby and indifferent about my appearance ... Some say I am the closest thing on Wall Street to a hippie broker. I suppose that is

But in his ruling on Dirks' case, SEC judge David Jr. Markun sharply questioned the image of "the public-spirited hero he seeks to portray himself

In the Equity Funding fund case itself, some issues have been settled, but others persist. Stanley Goldblum, the company's former chairman, is serving an eight-year prison term. After a full-scale reorganization, the company resurfaced as Orion Capital Corp. Its shares were recently quoted at around $10 in the over-the-counter market.

Lee, a computer research specialist for the Navajo education office, twisted an ankle on landing, but he began exercising, reviewing his technique mentally and practicing falls almost at once.

"Several blind and otherwise handicapped people have made increases that so far have been kept to a parachute jumps," Lee said.

A 4.000-foot parachute jump no blind person has ever done it a second time. My do it again soon.' Lee said his next three or four jumps would be with a static line opening the parachute. "But to jump out and pull your own rip cord is a goal I have.'

Friends, and Lee's brother and three sisters, reacted with "awe, I guess." Lee said. "They wouldn't feel they could do something like that.

"I don't know if it's any more difficult than other things I've done. I like challenges," said Lee, who lost his sight when he was 3. A can of flammable liquid exploded as he stood next to his mother, who was lighting a fire in their hogan.

Among other challenges, Lee includes bull riding in an area at his brother's reservation cattle operation.

'I've ridden yearlings and was fairly successful although I almost got kicked once," Lee said. "I attempted riding a larger one but it tore the chute up before I could get on."

Lee also is a cross-country skier, and veteran of a seven-mile hike to the Havasupai reservation at the bottom of the Grand Canyon.

"I'd like to try water skiing next," he said.

SITUATION ETHICS

BY BOB WEAR

THE TERM, "SITUATION ETHICS" has been firmly established in the present-day dialogue concerning moral ethical thought and behavior.

THE ADVOCATES OF THIS VIEWPOINT ALLEGE that "there are no rules which can be applied apart from the complex nature of the particular situation." They mean that the "objective curcumstances" must be encountered and considered before anybody can know what to do about anything so far as personal conduct is concerned.

THE WORD, "ETHICS" MEANS "the science of moral values and duties; the study of ideal human character, actions, and ends. Moral principles, quality, or practice." This definition strongly supports the reality of a code by which to direct one's life.

A CODE TO LIVE BY seems to be the idea that the advocates of "situation ethics" are trying to destroy. They want us to think that we cannot know beforehand how to behave in any situation; that we must wait until we are in a situation before we know how to act. These careless thinkers would have us believe that we live in a world of serves its intended purpose.

MAN BEING, in order to function as such, must have a code for living. This means that there must be fixed standards made up of absolutes and specifics. It also means that some things are always right, and some things are always

IT IS TRUE THAT AN EFFECTIVE LIFE must have an element of flexibility, but the total life pattern cannot be flexible. If it were, there would be no convictions, no real character, no true identity. If we are to change with every changing situation, we cannot know from one day to the next what we are or who we are.

THE BEHAVIOR REQUIRED RY "situation ethics" causes people to be considered unstable or worse. Many persons would consider their conduct hypocritical, and others would think them undependable.

LIFE CAN BE BETTER THAN the dreary, confused, frustrated and meaningless way of "situation ethics". It can be strong, meaningful, orderly and victorious; but this is not the life that is one way in one situation and some other way in another situation. It has been said that people who do not stand for something will fall for anything.

OUR ENTIRE SOCIAL ORD-ER WILL COLLAPSE, if the faulty concept of "situation ethics" becomes the controlling influence in moral and ethical conduct. It is completely out of harmony with the Christian pattern for life, and is, from every standpoint, against the THE RESPONSIBLE HU- best interests of humankind.

DALLAS (AP) - Officials of Dresser Industries denied Wednesday that a controversial $145 million drill bit plant they have agreed to build in Russia would give away technology that would help the Communist nation militarily. "Our drill bits could be said to help them militarily only in the same sense that buttons would help them militarily since they hold up the soldiers' pants," said Ed R. Luter, a company senior vice president for finance. Russia already is the world's largest producer of drill bits, and the new plant near Kuibyshev, Russia - adjacent to an existing rock plant - would increase the country's production by only 10 percent, added J.J. Murphy, senior vice president for operations. After several years of negotiations, during which Russian officials also sought bids from other drill bit companies throughout the world, Dresser was selected earlier this year to build the plant. President Carter was told by some of his advisers, however. to veto the sale to demonstrate U.S. opposition to Soviet disregard of human rights - as in the recent trial of two Russian dissidents in Moscow.

"We believe that would be a mistake. If you are talking about holding back from a country things they can get from a dozen other countries, it cannot possibly be very effective."

Luter said. "The whole thing is political.

At least this is the conclusion of a Texas-based research organization, Teleometrics International, whose study of some 16,000 executive profiles was recently noted in The Wall Street Journal.

High achievers among executives are interested in more than profits, the study indicated. They are also concerned about and take a positive attitude toward the people who work for them.

Low achievers, on the other hand, are likely to have little interest in or communication with their subordinates. They are preoccupied with their own security and tend to be left behind in the climb to the top rungs of the corporate ladder. Better than money

It verges on heresy to admit it in this era of ERA and job equality, but there does appear to be a difference between the working man and the working woman.

It's more basic than salary differential or individual capabilities, according to the findings of a Minnesota firm reported in the Journal of Applied Psychology. Analyzing more than 50,000 job applications received during a 30-year period, the Minnesota Gas Co. found a significant difference in job priorities.

Type of work was the most important factor among women in rating a particular job good or bad. Men, on the other hand, placed job security at the top of the list.

VIEWPOINT

Men and women were agreed, however, in giving priority of place to aspects of psychological compensation. Pay ranked relatively low in both cases — in fifth place for men and sixth for women overall. And the interest, at least among men, declined with age, dropping to eighth place for the over-40 category.

Money, it appears, doesn't buy happiness on the job, although it might not be easy to sell that to union leaderships.

One-woman staff

When it comes to working women, there's no outdoing the one still in the home.

The paycheck of a typical housewife, by one statistically oriented organization's reckoning, should put her in the higher-income brackets if her various duties were compensated at going wage rates.

Adding up theoretical compensation for the homemaker's roles as nursemaid, dietician, food purchaser, cook, dishwasher, housekeeper, laundress, seamstress, gardener, chauffeur and maintenance man, the American Council of Life Insurance figures she should be drawing $17,351.88

Dodgers Act Okay; Beat Astros, 3-2

HOUSTON (AP) - Los Angeles leftfielder Dusty Baker has his thinking straight again, Burt Hooton won a game without his best pitches and there were no fights in the dressing room following the Dodgers' 3-2 victory over Houston Thursday night. Any disharmony that might have existed concerning the Dodgers recently was not visible. There certainly was nothing to compare with the publicized fight between Steve Garvey and Don Sutton.

The scene was as harmonious as a well trained symphony after the Dodgers won their ninth Dodger Manager Tommy Lasorda sung the praises of Hooton, who became the second pitcher in the National League to win 17 games despite having several rough innings.

sixth inning and held on for a 7-6 victory over the Rangers, giving them a split of their four-game series with Texas. A much bigger four-game series starts tonight at Anaheim Stadium, as the Angels entertain Kansas City. The first-place Royals lead California by 21/2 games in the American League West.

Two-run homers by Don Baylor and Ron Fairly highlighted the Angels' big sixth inning. Baylor's shot made it 6-5 and Fairly's blast capped the

"I think that shows some of the character we have on this ballclub," said the 40-year-old Fairly of the Angels' comefrom-behind victory. "I think this was a very pivotal game for us. There's a big difference between being 21/2 and 31/2 out entering a big series.

"We're going into the Kansas City series on a winning note. I think everyone in our clubhouse knows what we have to do."

Fairly said he's glad the Angels and Royals are meeting at this stage of the season.

"If we play well we're right there with them with things winding down," he said. "If we play lousy then we really don't belong in a pennant race

Dyar Miller, who relieved an ineffective Frank Tanana in the fourth inning, picked up his fifth victory of the season against one loss with the help of Dave 1 aRoche's 21st save.

Lyman Bostock then hit a two-run single and Hunter called upon Cleveland to replace Medich. Baylor promptly blasted his 30th homer of the season, making it 6-5.

Joe Rudi followed with a single and Fairly cracked his ninth homer to make a loser of Cleveland, who suffered his eighth loss in 11 decisions.

'It took some of the pressure off the weekend," said Baylor of the Angels' victory. "If we had lost we would have had to sweep the Royals to stay close.'

The Rangers took their 6-0 lead with the help of a homer by Mike Hargrove leading off the game and a three-run shot by Juan Beniquez.

Cowboys, Giants To Meet Sunday

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) · Playing the Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys Sunday at Giants Stadium promises to be no picnic for the New York Giants, and Coach John McVay is well aware of the task ahead

The Giants opened the expanded 16-game schedule with a 19-13 victory over Tampa Bay. It's the second year in a row they began the season on an up note, and the second year it's been followed up by the Cowboys in week No. 2. Cowboys in week No. 2.

The Giants surprised the Washington Redskins, 20-17, in the 1977 inaugural before the Cowboys brought them back down to earth with a 41-21 beating Dallas was awesome in its Monday night opener - a 38-0 Baltimore Colts.

"They looked extremely impressive." McVay said. "I tried to eat dinner and watch the game. It was tough to eat and keep up with the pace they were moving.

The Cowboys racked up 583 yards on offense, with former Heisman Award winner Tony Dorsett accounting for 147 on the ground in 15 carries and 107 on three receptions. The Cowboys offense was so masterful that punter Danny Orelans.

"We didn't get to see them punt," McVay said. "But we have some old films when they had to punt once."

The Giants will open with Joe Pisarcik at quarterback. The second-year player replaced Jerry Golsteyn when the latter went down with a back injury in the second quarter. Pisarcik was in the game for all but 23 of Giants 238 yards of offense. He connected with Johnny Perkins on a 67-yard scoring toss.

"Pisarcik is the man," McVay said. "He did a good job when he was put in the game and I'm pleased with what he did. I've said repeatedly that I feel strongly about both guys.' Dallas Coach Tom Landry was extremely pleased with the play of Dorsett and wide receiver blitz of the Bert Jones-less Tony Hill - both second-year

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) - Grier Jones is playing less and enjoying it more, while Lanny Wadkins is just trying to make the best of what he considers a bad year.

Jones held a one-stroke advantage over Wadkins and five others after shooting a five-under-par 65 Thursday in the opening round of the $175,000 Southern Open golf. tournament over the 6,791-yard Green Island Country Club cour-

"I haven't played a lot this year, but when I have, I've played well," said the 32-yearold Jones, a tour veteran who has earned almost $72,000 this year including a second-place finish in the Jackie Gleason-Inverrary tournament.

Jones, who has played in only 18 tournaments this year, said he cut back his schedule to be with his children.

"I took most of the summer off to be with my kids. They're getting older and I might never get to know them if I didn't. I really enjoyed myself, and while I was there, I helped coach a baseball team of 10-year-olds," said Jones.

The winner of three PGA events during his career, Jones opened quickly Thursday on a perfect sunny day, carving out three birdies on the first four holes and finishing his round with six birdies and one bogey.

Fifty-seven of the field of 150 matched or bettered par with six players at 66, including Wadkins, the 1977 PGA and World Series of Golf champion, and Barney Thompson, Rocky Thompson, Rex Caldwell, Phil Hancock, Gary Ostrega and Ron Streck.

Defending champion Jerry Pate was at 67, along with veteran Miller Barber, while Charles Coody and Hubert Green headed a group of 15 at 68. Second-leading money winner Andy Bean had a par 70, but current PGA champion John Mahaffey and 1976 Southern Open winner Mac McLendon had their problems.

FAITH LAYS THE FOUNDATION FOR GOOD CITIZENSHIP

he citizens of any free society may be native born or naturalized, but in either case good citizenship means obedience to the laws of the land, an interest in government at all levels which includes a willingness to participate in the election process, a generous community spirit, an active concern for the welfare of others and above all, a dedication to the never-ending task of maintaining the freedom with which we are blessed. Faith imparts the elements necessary to develop this kind of character, and the rules of conduct set forth in the Bible are the very requisites for good citizenship in any land. Keep these principles in practice by your regular attendance at the Church of your choice

Whatever makes men good Christians, makes them good citizens.

-Daniel Webster

"Now therefore ye are no more strangers and foreigners, but fellow citizens with the saints, and of the household of God." -Ephesians 2:19

Nixon Sets Gulf Talk

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP) Former President Richard M. Nixon will make a Veterans Day speech Nov. 11 in the Mississippi congressional district where he got his best percentage in his 1972 landslide. American Legion officials Harvey Pucheu, commander of the Joe Graham Post 119 in Gulfport, said Wednesday he had received word that Nixon "is willing and anxious to come to the Coast."

There was no immediate confirmation from Nixon.

The speech, scheduled for the Mississippi Coast Coliseum betwen Biloxi and Gulfport, would be one of the ex-president's few public appearances since he resigned in disgrace in 1974.

In 1972 Nixon got 80 percent of Mississippi's popular vote his best percentage in any state. In the 5th Congressional District, which includes Biloxi-Gulfport, he got 87 percent - his best total in any district in the country.

Abraham Lincoln was the only president ever to undergo enemy gunfire. Lin-coln faced confederates' bullets at Fort Stevens, where restored ramparts stand today only a few miles from the White House.

Hotline Aids Abused Children...Abusers

Associated Press Writer

"Hello. This is a recorded message. If you think you are being sexually abused, please stay on the line....You may feel scared now, but help is available...You don't have to give your name."

That is the beginning of the 21/2-minute message you will hear if you call the sex-abuse hotline operated by Child and Family Services of Knoxville, Tenn., under a grant from the federal government.

Nine hundred calls a month come to the hotline. The average age of the callers is 15; most are girls. They seek help with a problem that people are reluctant to even recognize: the sexual abuse of children within a family situation. Incest.

One in 10 of the callers stays on the line after the recording ends and talks to a counselor. The others listen to the information and hang up. Officials say some youngsters they do not know how many dial the recording several times, trying to work up the courage to tell their troubles.

Charles Gentry, head of Child and Family Services, a private, non-profit, voluntary agency, said he believes sexual abuse of children is increasing. "With more single-parent households we're going through a transition in our whole culture as far as family structure and I think it does lend itself to sex abuse of children...Many people who are feeling inadequate as adults turn to children for affection and may eventually turn to the child for sexual pleasure." Other authorities say the increase in divorce and remarriage, creating parents who are not biologically related to their children, has helped make the problem worse.

Douglas Besharov, director of the National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect, which provided $43,000 to finance the Knoxville hotline in a year-long experiment, said an estimated 60,000 to 100,000 children are sexually abused by family members or friends every year.

According to 1974 statistics compiled by the National Clearinghouse on Child Neglect and Abuse of the American Humane Association, about 12 percent of all validated cases of child abuse involve sex.

The Knoxville program, which started in February, is believed to be the only one of its kind in the country, combining a taped message with follow-up counseling for the youngsters and their families.

Kee McFarlane, a program director with the National Center on Child Abuse, said the impersonality of the initial recorded message encourages children to call about sexual abuse. "There is a fear of reporting, a fear of asking questions," Ms. McFarlane said. "Knowing for sure that they can get a tape recording that they can hang up on" makes it easier for the voungsters, she said.

'The anonymous call permits the person to relax a bit," said Gentry. The hotline is aimed primarily at children, rather than at social workers, counselors or other adults. It is designed to help them with a problem which they often are too scared to admit.

Youngsters who stay on the line after the recorded message talk to one of two professional counselors. They may give their names if they wish but do not have to. Information on callers who identify themselves is relayed to the protective services division of the Tennessee Department of Human Services for investigation. "Ordinarily, about 10 percent of the people who call stay on the line," Gentry said. "On the average we report eight to 10 cases a month that we feel are fairly certain, valid, sex-abuse

The taped message also is designed to reassure and inform: "Sex abuse may be any kind of physical contact that makes you uncomfortable and uneasy. In other words, if you have a feeling something is wrong you may be right.

"Sex abuse is any kind of fondling or sexual play between an adult and a child or between an adult and a teen-ager or between a child and someone slightly older...lt can include exposing private parts of the body. Sometimes it means taking pictures of nude or partly nude children or teen-agers....

Most of the callers to the Knoxville hotline are children, but some are adults. "Occasionally, we get a call from an abuser," Gentry said. "I remember one of the situations was a fellow who had attempted sex with a 5-year-old....He started feeling very guilty about it and then he called us and did report himself."

One caller, a girl, was only 7 years old. "It was an attempted intercourse situation by the father," Gentry said.

Federal officials hope to use the experience gained in Knoxville, a city of 180,000, to help other communities set up similar programs. Authorities also are trying to train school counselors and other professionals to recognize the problem.

,Too often, said Gentry, adults do not want to hear a child's problem; they block out what they do not want to believe. "It's very easy for a counselor to say to a kid, 'Oh, that didn't really happen."

The Knoxville hotline has brought more callers than expected. As a result, Gentry's agency has a "tremendous waiting list" - 50 cases - for follow-up counseling. If the youngsters are not helped soon, he said, it may be too late."Many of those 50 cases will not be treatable by the time we get to them," he said. "They will start to build defenses against counseling services." No studies have been done so far to determine what has happened to the youngsters who called the hotline and reported a problem. Gentry is encouraged, however, by the initial re-

College Advisor Guilty

HOUSTON (AP) - A former financial adviser for the University of Houston has pleaded guilty in federal court to one charge of mail fraud in a case involving the investment of university funds. Samuel Harwell, 34, pleaded guilty Wednesday night before U.S. District Court Judge Carl Bue. The judge set sentencing

The government dropped hree other counts against Harwell, who had agreed to testify against any others involved in the case.

Harwell, once the financial analyst for the university, and his half-brother, Patrick D. Sullivan, 48, of Compton, Calif., were indicted last May by a federal grand jury on four counts each of conspiracy and mail and wire fraud.

The indictments accused Harwell of depositing $5 million in university funds in the Japan-California Bank of Los Angeles and then giving the bank a letter authorizing Sullivan to use the funds as collateral for loans.

Harwell was fired by the university Nov. 25.

Sullivan is to go on trial in Houston Tuesday.

increased ability to retaliate on the assumption that the United States would have both more numerous and more accurate warheads than it does now and also would have developed the cruise missile, which resembles a small, unmanned airplane.

The study, which assumes both sides will soon be under the now-tentative SALT II strategic arms limitation treaty. does not allow for possible American development of the improved MX mobile missile, which the treaty would allow.

"The public is entitled to know that some of the alarmists' comments are incorrect," said Paul Warnke, director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, which made the study.

Warnke, while not identifying the "alarmists," was clearly referring to groups such as the Committee on the Present In frequent studies and reports, that group has maintained the administration's arms control policies, particularly the SALT II treaty, would leave the United States dangerously vulnerable to a Soviet first strike by the 1980s. The study did confirm two

Diabetics May Get New Help

DUARTE, Calif. (AP) - The world's 100 million diabetics may benefit from the reported manufacturer of human insulin through bacteria changed by the controversial process of recombinant DNA. The accomplishment was announced Wednesday by scientists at the City of Hope National Medical Center here, and researchers say the genetic breakthrough could reduce insulin costs. Under the process, which could fulfill a hope held since the early days of recombinant DNA research, artificial genes producing the insulin hormone are injected into bacteria that become insulin factories. "This would be the first really useful product that has resulted from the research," said Dr. Arthur Riggs of the City of Researchers at the City of Hope collaborated with scientists from Genentech Inc., a private San Francisco laboratory based in San Francisco, that funded the project. A spokesman for the lab said Genentech has applied for patents on the insulin-producing process. Riggs said that for many diabetics, whose lives depend on daily injections of the hormone, the tiny factories hold the promise of better and probably cheaper insulin. But, Riggs emphasized, more research must be conducted before the biological carbon copy of human insulin will be available for public use:

All this casts in a new light the old percent that one should borrow only when absolutely necessary, and only as much as absolutely necessary. Borrowing still means taking on risk, but now there are inflation risks in pursuing a save-and-don'tborrow policy as well.

Of course, unrestrained debt is still a potential source of big financial trouble, either for an individual or an entire economy. If an economy ever experiences deflation - falling prices for goods and services - as the United States did in the Depression, debtors are among the first to feel the squeeze.

Interest rates are supposed to control borrowing by rising to whatever level is necessary to discourage those who really shouldn't be borrowing from seeking loans. But current interest rates, high as they may appear, haven't shown much sign of exerting that kind of influence. Instead, inflationary expectations seem to be running so high that 9 percent or 10 percent money looks, to some people at no net gain in purchasing least, like a bargain.

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) -Gov. Meldrim Thomson says National Guard troops will man fire stations in New Hampshire's largest city as long as firefighters participate in a "sickout." Thomson called in 35 National
