DALLAS (AP) — Three retired Army generals who left the service after clashing with the civilian federal bureaucracy say the U.S. military has become a political captive of the administration in power.

The trio, addressing a conservative caucus in North Dallas late Thursday, said President Carter is ignoring the advice of his top professional military strategists and leading the nation into trouble.

"We are being led down the path of unilateral disarmament and toward our ultimate destruction," said retired Maj. Gen. John Singlaub, who clashed with Carter over plans to withdraw U.S. troops from South Korea.

Singlaub, who was chief of staff for the 8th Army in South Korea, said his reassignment and retirement this year was "designed to get the message to professional military people that the 1st Amendment guarantee of free speech does not apply to them."

Singlaub termed his removal from the Korean assignment "overkill, to say the least."

Singlaub and retired Maj. Gen. Vernon B. Lewis and retired Lt. Gen. Gordon Sumner addressed an enthusiastic meeting of the Third District Conservative Caucus in an unairconditioned high school auditorium.

The organization paid the men's travel expenses to appear. About 1,000 people paid $2 each to hear them speak and enjoy patriotic marching music played over a loudspeaker system.

Following the presentation of colors, the pledge of allegiance and a lengthy prayer opening the meeting, the three generals warned that continuing bureaucratic intervention into military matters will weaken the nation's defense.

Sumner, who left the Army this year in protest of the Carter administration's handling of Latin American policies, particularly Carter's stand on the Panama Canal, said the United States is suffering from "geostrategic vertigo."

"We've lost our balance. We've been going from one bad decision to another one," said Sumner.

The audience, sweating in the heat, cheered and clapped wildly as the three criticized gun control, the Equal Rights Amendment, the U.S. exit from Vietnam, draft dodgers, Communism, Washington bureaucrats, the Panama Canal treaty and the all-volunteer military.

The former general supported increased defense spending, the neutron bomb and development of the B1 bomber.

Singlaub and Sumner said the Carter administration is muzzling the advice of its top military advisers.

"There are those who say we must have blind obedience," said Singlaub, "but we need more open discussion."

Sumner, the only active duty military officer to testify against the Panama Canal treaties, said the Carter administration "is trying to politicize the military in this country, which has been apolitical since the beginning, and this is a dangerous step," said Sumner.

"We're expected to show up at congressional hearings in uniform and give the impression that we were in on the decisions and that we support them and approve of them," he said.

Lewis, who said he retired last year after becoming "fed up with the civilian mismanagement and Washington bureaucracy," said he, Sumner and Singlaub did not challenge the concept of civilian control over the military.

"None of us challenge the role of the president as commander-in-chief," Lewis added. "What has evolved, however, is a military that has become a captive of the administration in power."

"If you just echo what the administration tells you to say - I think that's a form of prostitution and it's wrong."

Postal Pact Sent To Workers for Okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — A postal contract settlement that has prompted wildcat walkouts, a rejection vote by a union advisory panel and a threat of new strikes is being sent to 584,000 postal workers for approval.

The outcome of the ratification vote won't be known for at least several weeks. And, ironically, union leaders must count on members to stay on the job to complete ratification, since it is conducted by mail ballot.

Until the votes are counted, union officials acknowledge the possibility of a mail strike persists.

Efforts by union leaders to sell the proposed accord to their rank and file were dealt a setback Thursday when a committee of local officials from the nation's largest postal union voted 29-15 to reject the pact.

But the committee agreed to let the 280,000 members of the American Postal Workers Union decide whether to push aside calls for a mail strike and approve the contract.

Emmet Andrews, president of the APWU, said he did not think the committee's vote was representative of the attitude of the rank and file, and he appeared confident the pact would be ratified.

An aide to Andrews said union leaders believe there are only isolated pockets of resistance to the contract.

Chief objections to the new contract are that the 19.5 percent pay raise over three years is not high enough and that a number of work rules remain too rigid, particularly concerning mandatory overtime.

Mrs. Marvin Payne scrutinizes the prices and contents of two cans of corn this morning at a local supermarket—and for good reason. The Labor Department announced today that consumer food prices rose 1.3 percent last month, while the overall price index jumped 0.9 percent for the third month in a row.

Same Old Story: Consumer Prices Increase Nearly 1% Last Month

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices rose 0.9 percent for the third month in a row in June, as the average worker continued to lose ground to inflation, the Labor Department said today.

The cost of food, housing and automobiles led the big increases in prices, which have continued steadily since the start of the year.

Consumer prices would rise 11.4 percent if the trend of the past three months continued for a full year, the department said.

The Carter administration predicts price increases will not be as large in the next six months and is banking on a downturn in food costs.

The department said the average worker's purchasing power declined 0.4 percent in June, the second drop in a row. The worker made 0.5 percent more in hourly wages, just over half the increase in prices.

The prices consumers pay for food jumped sharply by 1.3 percent last month, and beef prices continued to spiral by 5.6 percent.

"Beef prices this June were 30.7 percent higher than in October 1977, when the current uptrend began," the Labor Department said.

The cost of poultry, dairy products, cereal, bread, oils and sugar increased in June, but prices of vegetables, pork, eggs and coffee declined from May.

Home-ownership costs rose 1.2 percent in June, as housing prices and mortgage interest rates continued to move up.

Electricity costs, which have risen rapidly since January, climbed a substantial 2.6 percent in June, the department said. A mail rate increase pushed postal costs up 14 percent, the first big increase since early 1976.

Natural gas and fuel oil prices rose moderately, while telephone charges were unchanged, as they have been most of the year.

New-car prices went up 0.9 percent after rising 1.2 percent in May, reflecting higher price tags for imported autos and recent increases by U.S. automakers.

However, airline, taxicab and long-distance bus rates declined in June, and gasoline prices dropped slightly.

Despite the generally bleak report, the WASHINGTON (AP) — A $16.2 billion tax-cut bill is heading for the House floor and a struggle to expand it and make it more to the liking of President Carter, who opposes its reduction of the capital gains tax.

The House Ways and Means Committee, which had held up the legislation for months, approved the bill 25-12 Thursday night in a flurry of last-minute compromises.

The bill would provide about $12.3 billion in income tax relief to individuals, the remainder to corporations.

The measure would cut taxes by $71 for a single person earning $15,000 a year and $160 for a single person earning $25,000. A childless couple would see a cut of $39 at the $10,000-income level, $6 at $15,000 and $160 at $25,000.

A couple with two children would save $62 if earning $10,000, $77 if making $15,000 and $232 if earning $25,000.

One late change given an excellent chance of House approval would — in the great majority of cases — eliminate the capital gains tax on profits from the sale of a home.

With bipartisan backing, the capital gains issue — a measure Carter has denounced as giving breaks to the wealthy while ignoring the needs of others — won out.

Rep. James R. Jones, D-Okla., the issue's principal author, put through a last-minute compromise making a slight concession to Carter's views.

The compromise would — through a complicated formula — try to assure that no taxpayer with substantial capital gains could totally avoid a tax.

The Treasury Department had contended that Jones' original bill would allow persons with capital gains of more than $1 million and with other sheltered incomes to pay no tax on that gain or income.

...And, On The State Tax Front

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — House debate over a constitutional amendment on property tax relief has turned into one of those marathons that sometimes afflict the state Legislature.

Representatives go into their third day of debate today after working seven hours Wednesday and five hours Thursday without reaching a final vote.

Still before the House was the issue that tied it up for hours Thursday — whether to compel future legislatures to reimburse school districts for revenue lost to tax relief.

Senators, meanwhile, whipped out their version of the property tax relief package Thursday in about two hours, quickly agreeing 29-0 on a "compromise" produced by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

The Senate then adjourned for the weekend.

Senators voted, 16-10, for a resolution adjourning the special session at 6 p.m. Tuesday and sent it to the House. Hobby said he and House Speaker Bill Clayton had agreed to try to end the session a week before its Aug. 8 adjournment deadline.

The Senate's version of the constitutional amendment to ease property taxes would:

— Tax all agricultural land according to the income it could produce, not its value on the real estate market. Only farmers and ranchers earning 51 percent of their income from the land now qualify for such a tax break.

— Exempt $5,000 of a home's value from school taxes, with an additional $10,000 exemption for those over 65. Property taxes paid by the elderly would be frozen at their present level.

Boozemakers To Toast Finance Committee Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Little old winemakers of America, rejoice. Amateur brewmeisters, take heart.

Raise a toast to the soberminded gents of the Senate Finance Committee, doing what they can to make your lot an easier one.

In less time than it takes to drain a glass, the committee approved legislation Thursday to loosen government regulation over home winemakers and to make it legal at last to brew beer for home consumption.

Legislation to revise the current home wine and beer law already has passed the House of Representatives, and a vote by the full Senate is the next step.

Not that there ever was much of a threat, of course, for breaking the brew law.

"There has not been a home brew case made since Prohibition," Tracy Cook, a spokeswoman for the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms said Thursday.

proposal would end the requirement that Americans register with the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms before they make wine at home for family use.

That would lighten the burden of government regulation for an estimated 21,000 persons the ATF received forms from last year.

Current law says the head of a household can produce up to 200 gallons of wine a year for family use without

The Abundant Life

BLAMING OTHERS

BY BOB WEAR

ONE OF THE MOST HURTFUL things, and one of the easiest things we do is "blame others" wrongfully. This may be the most commonly used escape route from reality. In some instances, we may be deliberately dishonest, but in most instances, we will probably be sincere. Most of the time, we will actually be unable to see that the blame belongs to us. It is not easy for us to fully realize and honestly admit that we, and we alone, are to blame for what has happened; or perhaps for what is not being done.

THE DISPOSITION TO MISPLACE BLAME may be the greatest cause of imbalance in human associations, because of the twofold harm; harm to the one who shifts the blame and to the one who is blamed unfairly. It also causes much of the heartache that people must endure; friendships are ruined, loved ones are estranged, and the whole structure of society may be weakened. Those who are falsely blamed, sooner or later, become discouraged; and some will go so far as to lose confidence in the system of human interaction. On the other hand, those who are habitually "blaming others" eventually become hopelessly disoriented; because they actually convince themselves that they have made the right decision.

THIS WRONGFUL PRACTICE may apply to something that is not being done, but should be done. We may know the need, we may have the time, ability and the energy; but we assume the attitude that somebody else should do what is needed. So, we go on "blaming others"; unjustly. The habit of "blaming others" is widespread in all units of human association. It is often found in families, in working situations, and even in more casual associations. Something goes wrong. It may be our fault, in part or in whole, but we assign the total blame to somebody else in the group. Thus, a problem that might be solved often becomes unsolvable.

WHAT IS WRONG with saying, "It's my fault, and I'm sorry, or I apologize, or I will correct it"? Of course, this is the wise and right behavior; when it is justified. Nothing worthwhile can be accomplished by "blaming others", when the fault or the mistake is ours. In fact, in many situations, when something goes wrong, there is no good reason to place the blame on anybody. It is better in these instances to use the thought, time and energy making, or helping to make, whatever correction can be made. If nothing can be done, perhaps forgetting is the better way for everybody.

"THEY" PROBABLY GET MORE BLAME than anyone. We don't know who "they" are; but "they" must surely be carrying much of the blame for this, and that which rightfully belongs to us.

"BLAMING OTHERS", in the usual daily activities and associations, offers little or no help for us or them.

Carter Aware Of Death

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter is "aware" of a West Texas civil rights investigation into the death of a Mexican-American, a White House aide says.

The aide, Rich Hernandez, says Carter is watching developments in the case of Larry Lozano, who died Jan. 22 in the Ector County Jail at Odessa where he had been confined for 12 days.

Lozano's death was first termed a suicide, but a coroner's inquest later ruled it accidental.

Some Mexican-American groups have angrily protested both rulings, claiming the Pecos, Texas, man was beaten to death by sheriff's deputies.

Hernandez, a deputy assistant to the president, said Wednesday he mentioned the Lozano case to Carter "as an example of a human rights violation."

"Because of that, he Carter is aware of the case and concerned in a general nature."

Hernandez said, however, that Carter is not personally involved in the Lozano case at this time because it is still a pending matter with the Department of Justice.

"The Justice Department has to decide on the merits of the case, we cannot get involved politically," he said.

"The president is obviously very concerned about human rights here and around the world. The president wants to make sure human rights are upheld everywhere and especially in this country."

A federal grand jury investigating the Lozano death recessed indefinitely in Midland last Friday after hearing 6 witnesses over a five-day period. It has released no findings yet.

Additionally, Ector County District Attorney John Green announced earlier this week he had officially closed the Lozano case, absolving Ector County Sheriff's Department deputies of any wrongdoing in Lozano's death.

Earlier Wednesday, Hernandez was quoted by the Midland Reporter-Telegram as saying Carter was "very interested in this case and in any case where there are possible human rights violations."

"I cannot tell you about what the president and I discussed, because it is not privileged information."

Bell Deletion Won't Affect Its Customers

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. customers will feel little effect from the company's request to delete $174.160 from its $214.3 million rate hike request.

The Texas Public Utility Commission reopened the rate case Thursday after the company said the $174.160 figure has been linked to alleged improper equipment purchases and leases by a former Bell employee.

Commission Alan Erwin has said that the commission would accept the figures, subject to correction later if the U.S. attorney in Dallas turns up different numbers. A final order will be issued "in a matter of days" after the hearing, he added.

The U.S. attorney is investigating the purchases and has said that Bell was a "victim" of fraud, not a participant.

Neither Bell nor federal prosecutors have said which former employee is under criminal investigation. However, the Dallas Times Herald has reported in a copyright story that Ray Acker, former head of the company's corporation data

KARL KING

Karl King, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob King, 335 Ave. L, has been on recruiting duty for the United States Army, traveling through Delf Smith, Randall and Oldom counties for the past several weeks.

King, a 1977 graduate of Hereford High School will return to his present assignment as a 26 L-10 tactical microwave attendant (radio operator) in the 6th Signal Battalion in Fort Gordon, Ga., within 24 days.

The private said that the Army "is good for individuals because it teaches self discipline, but is like any other goal, you have to go after it in order to succeed."

The reason King said he joined the Army was, "it's a great opportunity to travel, meet people, get good pay and education and it's something different. I grew up and lived in Hereford all of my life and I thought it would be a good experience."

Some call it the "airline syndrome" because of the huge cost of airlines and the resulting pressure to keep them filled. But bulk chemical processing plants and consumer goods distributors also suffer.

Store Buys Include Fresh Vegetables

COLLEGE STATION--Eggs, fresh vegetables and store "specials" are among this week's best buys at Texas grocery markets.

Also, fryer chickens, melons and canned meats, according to Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, a consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

This week's price-quality trends are the following:

POULTRY--Eggs are currently one of the least-expensive sources of high quality protein. Fryer chickens have moderate prices in spite of heavy demand. Whole birds are the best value on a price-per-pound basis. Look for economy prices on new-crop turkeys (small to medium sizes.)

FRESH VEGETABLES--Best buys include corn, squash (yellow and zucchini), cabbage, carrots, okra, purplehull and blackeye peas, dry yellow onions and cucumbers.

Also, peppers, potatoes, and in some stores, broccoli and eggplant.

In buying corn, look for husks with bright green color and ears with plump kernels. Keep corn cool.

GROCERY MARKET AISLES--Look for features on canned and frozen grapefruit juice, canned tomatoes and tomato products, tuna fish, applesauce, cling peaches, pears and fruit cocktail. Frozen concentrated orange juice supplies are low.

FRESH FRUITS--Best values include moderate prices on cantaloupe, watermelon and honeydew melons. In buying watermelon, make sure the lower side is yellowish rather than white or pale green. Other values include peaches, plums, cherries, nectarines and grapes--although prices vary, quality is generally good.

PORK--Supplies are light, as usual this time of year. Features include smoked ham, picnics, some bacon, sliced quarter loin, and rib and loin-end roasts.

BEEF--Prices are high. Best values include chuck cuts and liver.

CONSUMER WATCH-WORDS: Canned meats (12-ounce size) serve four economically.

Survey Determines Effect of Adoption

COLLEGE STATION--Quality care and love can come from outside the natural family and adoptive parents can rear emotionally healthy children even when adoption occurs after two years of age, says a family life education specialist.

The focus of a recent study was to determine the effects of late adoption by examining adopted children and those who had been restored to their natural parents, Debby Johnson with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, continues.

Also, the intense desire of couples to adopt is probably the greatest contributing factor to the difference between the children studied.

Often the natural parents whose children were either removed from the home or voluntarily given up, did not want children, did not love them after they arrived, or knew very little about the day-to-day care of a child.

In addition, while money is not the most important factor, adoptive parents must meet the prescribed income standards. Natural parents, on the other hand, are not required to earn a minimum income.

For many of the restored children studied, they were thrust back into a family with a low income, several siblings, and without a father present, she adds.

(3) At age four, the adopted children were better adjusted and faring much better than children who were restored to their natural parents.

The fact that couples who wish to adopt are carefully examined, whereas natural parents are not, may in part explain these findings, the specialist says.

Also, the intense desire of couples to adopt is probably the greatest contributing factor to the difference between the children studied.

BE A FRIEND,
HAVE A FRIEND

JOAN DWYER
DIRECTOR

The struggle for autonomy that we first see in the two-year-old is one that must be won for him. Autonomy is the foundation stone for self-esteem. If a person is ever going to value himself he must first realize he is a separate entity.

Where most of us get hung up is in the area of "disrespect". If a child says no to an obvious "yes" question; we feel he is being stubborn or defiant. But what he is really saying is "I must say no because I am my own person, even though I want that ice cream."

Then he might very well want the ice cream 5 seconds later! It can really be frustrating, but understanding what's going on with him can also be very helpful.

Coffee Fetes Mrs. Holly

A farewell coffee was held Thursday morning honoring Mrs. Duane "Bud" Holly who is moving to Amarillo. Mrs. Billie Wall was hostess.

The party was given by the Victory Sunday School class of Avenue Baptist Church.

Those present were Mmes. Shep Compton, L.J. Carthell, Johnnie Townsend, Jimmie DeBord, Rick DeBord and Mrs. Brick Wall.

Local Church To Celebrate Anniversary

The United Pentecostal Church will be celebrating its 5th Anniversary tonight and Saturday and Sunday with services beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The Rev. T.H. Chapman of Amarillo will be guest speaker.

The Warren McKibben, pastor, invites Hereford residents to attend.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our son Alvin has been going with this dummy for two years. She is 17; he is 19. Alvin lives at home and goes to a junior college. The dummy is still in high school. Two months ago he told his father and me that he wanted to get married. When he showed us the ring (he had already made a down payment) my husband nearly had a stroke. I gave my husband a kick in the ankle and said in a quiet voice, "Look Alvin. It's all right with us. Lots of kids get married young--no education, no money, no future, and it works out fine. Good luck."

Alvin's face lit up. Then I added, "You know, of course, you can't live in THIS house." His smile disappeared and he looked very disappointed.

Two days later, Alvin asked me what he should do about the ring. He said he had thought it over and didn't see how he could handle rent and groceries, and maybe he was too young to settle down. I advised him to take the ring back -- and he did.

If I had agreed to let him and the dummy live with us they would be married now. Please print my letter as a lesson to other parents. -- Relieved

DEAR R: Heres your "lesson" and it's a good one. Kids don't want everything they ask for. I salute you for remaining calm and saying exactly the right thing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: About 23 years ago my sister had a child out of wedlock. She didn't take the abortion route.

Disco Dance Is Slated Tonight

St. Joseph's Catholic Church will be sponsoring a Disco Dance from 9 p.m. - 1 a.m. Friday at Knights of Columbus Hall.

Admission will be $3 per person and $4 per couple. All proceeds will go to benefit the church.

She chose to endure the pain and loneliness of giving life to a child away from home and friends. I was pregnant at the same time surrounded by a loving husband and family.

My sister placed her child for adoption through a fine agency. She later married and had three more beautiful children.

I can understand the curiosity of an adopted child who wants to find out about his background. I can also appreciate the gift of life made to that child and why it would be important to her that her secret be kept.

With so much being said these days about the "right" of the adopted child to locate his natural parents, I hope you, with your powerful voice and equally powerful sense of fairness, may find a way to ease the anguish of my sister and other women like her. They would be mortified if they were suddenly confronted with a child from the past. -- Also Worried

DEAR WORRIED: I have made my position abundantly clear on this issue. To adopted children in search of their "roots," I say, your "real" parents are the people who raised you. The sudden appearance of a child from the past can create serious problems, not only for the adoptive parents but the newly discovered ones. My advice is -- and will continue to be -- forget it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you published a letter from a woman who was unhappy because she couldn't laugh out loud. All she could do was smile.

I have a friend who laughs all the time. At the end of every sentence she giggles. When I expressed my condolences when her mother died, she said, "Thank you for your sympathy" -- then laughed. What's wrong with her, anyway? -- Fond du Lac, Wis.

DEAR FOND: Nervous laughter is often caused by embarrassment. Your friend needs understanding. Her giggling is no laughing matter.

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Friday, July 28, the 209th day of 1978. There are 156 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1914, Austria declared war on Serbia. It was the beginning of World War I.

On this date: In 1821, Peru proclaimed independence from Spain.

In 1896, Miami, which had a population of less than 300, was incorporated.

In 1945, 13 people were killed when a U.S. Army bomber crashed into the Empire State Building in New York City.

In 1960, Vice President Richard Nixon went before the Republican National Convention in Detroit and accepted the GOP nomination for president.

In 1972, the Peking government reported that Chinese Defense Minister Lin Biao tried to kill Chairman Mao Tse-tung and died in a plane crash the previous September while trying to flee China.

In 1973, three U.S. astronauts were shot into space from Cape

Kennedy to link up with the orbiting Skylab space station and spend nearly two months in orbit.

Ten years ago: Fighting was reported in the new Middle East country of South Yemen, with the army pitted against what were called counter-revolutionary elements.

Five years ago: About 600,000 rock music fans jammed a rock festival at Watkins Glen, N.Y., in the biggest such gathering since Woodstock four years earlier.

One year ago: President Carter bowed to congressional pressure and put off his controversial offer to sell a modern airborne radar warning system to Iran.

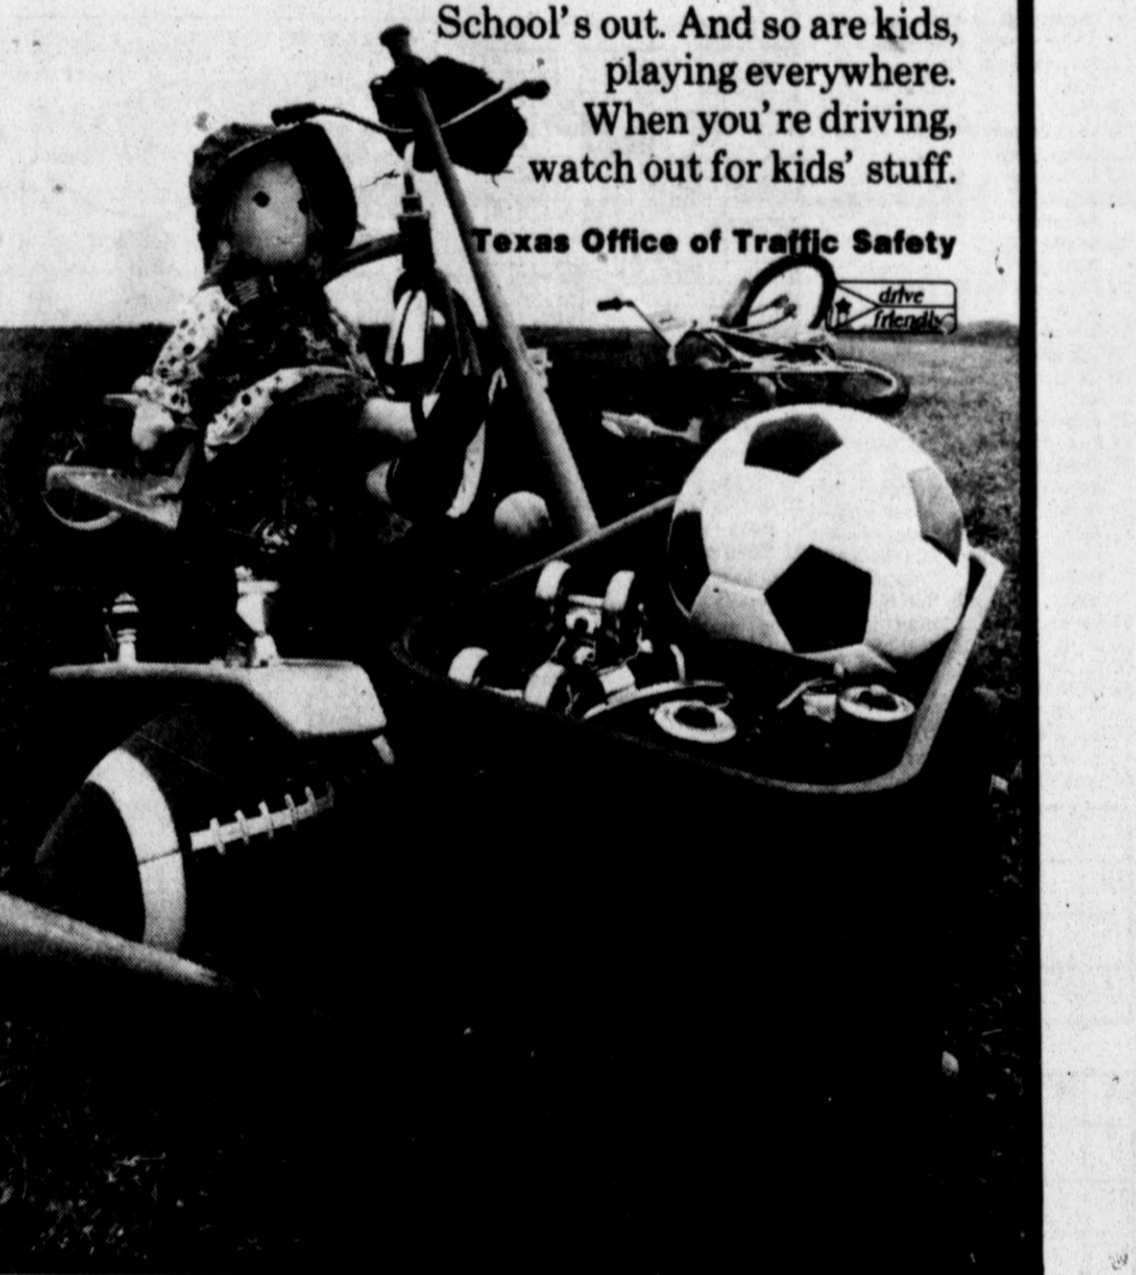

Today's birthdays: Deep sea explorer Jacques Piccard 56. Poet and critic John Ashbery is 51.

Thought for today: The military caste did not originate as a party of patriots, but as a party of bandits. H.L. Mencken, American journalist, 1880-1956.

THROUGH THE EYES OF FAITH WE SEE LIFE MORE CLEARLY

Your eyes are your windows of the world you live in, through which you are able to observe your surroundings, recognize your fellow beings, perform your everyday tasks and follow the pathway of your life. They enable you to concentrate on a single object or person, or scan every detail of the panorama within your field of vision. You can develop your powers of observation so as to enjoy the natural beauty of God's creation whenever you step out of doors, and you can also quickly identify a situation that should be remedied or a person in need of your help. At the Church of your choice you will learn to see all the good things of this world through the eyes of faith.

"The light of the body is the eye."
—Matthew 6:22

The eye of each man sees but what it has the power of seeing.

Close encounters of the wet kind

The Swimming Meet-ers

The start — a swimmer waits for the signal at a Junior Olympic swimming meet.

They can wait for as long as eight hours for a chance to be in the water for 30 seconds.

They train for many hours and many miles before they get to race.

They have to get used to pain because stamina and body-building hurt.

Their sport is not like baseball or tennis where you can grow up to be a pro. There is no money in swimming.

Their parents must spend hours driving them to and from practice and the meets.

They are the competitive swimmers.

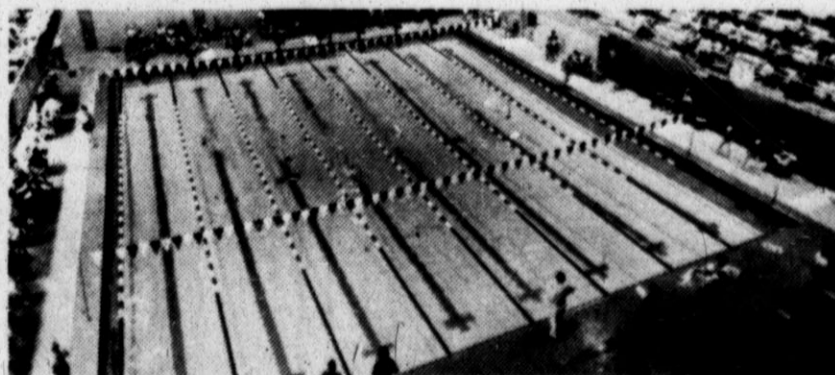

What keeps them swimming is the competition . . . that deep inner desire to succeed . . . the exercise . . . the chance to get a college scholarship . . . the dream of the Olympics someday . . . the friends they meet at the meets . . . and the good, clean FUN . . . those close encounters of the wet kind.

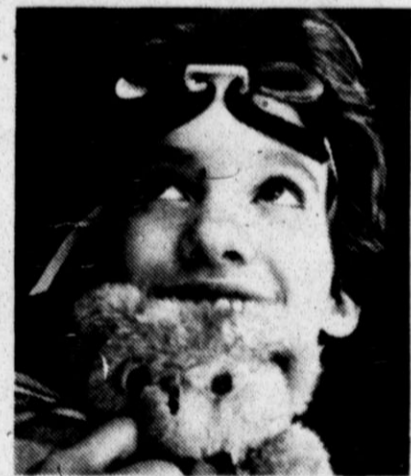

Meet patches — warm-up jackets with swim-meet patches show that you have been around. These are important to younger swimmers.

Friends and rivals chat and wait for their turn to compete against each other.

Indoor pools are often noisy, hot and crowded during meets. The fastest swimmer is usually in lane number four.

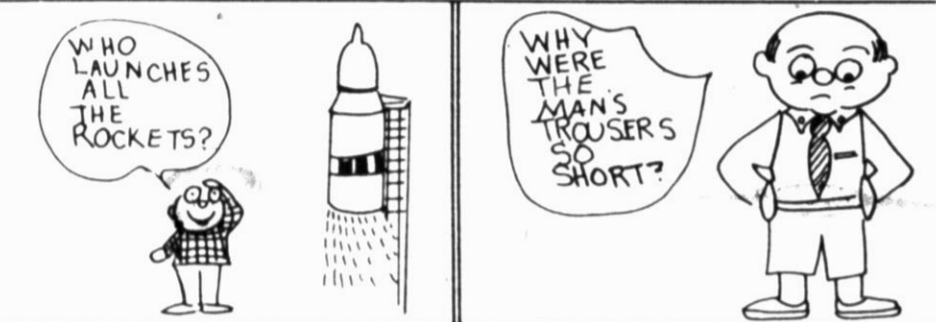

Good-luck charms like teddy bears might help.

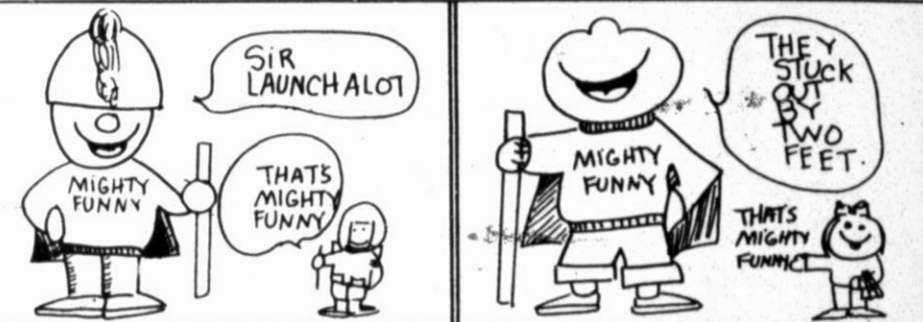

The finish — a swimmer checks his time on an overhead scoreboard.

Mac and Chuck

- You'll need:
- 1 pound ground chuck, browned and drained
  - 1 can (16 oz.) prepared macaroni and cheese
  - 1/2 teaspoon onion salt
  - 1 can fried onion rings
- Makes 6 servings

What to do:

1. Mix meat, macaroni and cheese.
2. Add salt and mix well.
3. Spoon mixture into a greased 1-quart casserole.
4. Sprinkle onion rings over the top.
5. Bake in preheated 325° oven for 20 minutes.

Better Strokes for Folks

A coach gives campers a lesson on the butterfly stroke. Many camps are held on college campuses.

Many kids go to special swimming camps to learn better strokes. Some stay several days. Others might stay as long as a month. They work out in the water. They also exercise on dry land. One summer camp schedule might look like this:

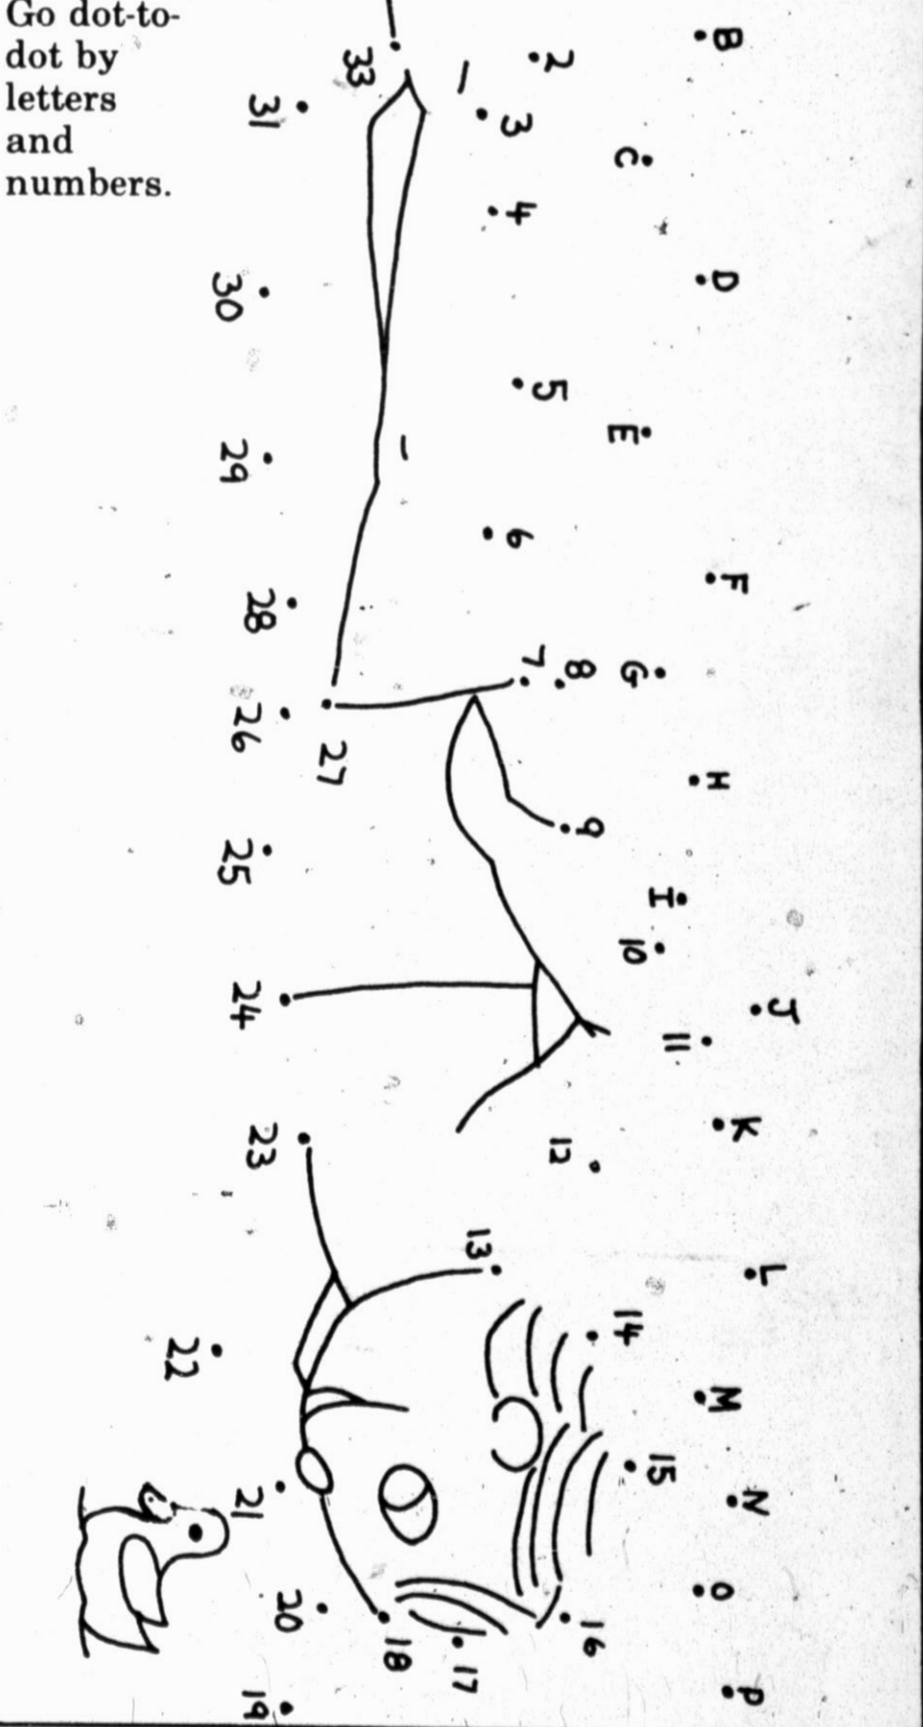

MORNING	AFTERNOON	EVENING
6:00 Get up	12:00 Lunch	6:30 Out of the water
6:30 In the pool	1:00 Free time	7:00 Supper
8:00 Out of the pool	2:30 Rest period	9:30 In the room
8:30 Breakfast	5:00 In the water	10:00 Lights out
9:45 Quiet hour
11:00 Dry-land exercises

Swimmers are always working on building their bodies. They need a lot of rest.

Swimmers must be careful to keep their ears from getting infected. This boy is putting in special drops to prevent infection.

Go dot-to-dot by letters and numbers.

Who is who at a swim meet

The starter uses a buzzer or a gun to start the races — or heats, as they are called.

Coaches help train team members, cheer them on, and help swimmers deal with success or failure after a race.

The clerk makes lane assignments and calls all events.

The official timer keeps records of all events by using electric clocks.

Lane lappers use signs to let swimmers know how many more laps they have to swim.

A lane timer uses a hand-held clock built into a clipboard to back up the official times.

The Paper Box

Look through the rest of your paper. Do you see any bathing-suit ads? Do you see any news about swimming on the sports page?

Next week: Read about the upcoming national Junior Olympic Multisport Championship. Read about the world's tallest building.

Tips from Tracy: "First you have to enjoy swimming. You have to work real hard. Sometimes, when things aren't going too well, you have to think positively."

Tracy Caulkins - - - Number 1 Swimmer

Nashville, Tenn. — Tracy Caulkins, age 15, is our country's No. 1 female swimmer.

She holds 13 American women's records ... more than anyone ever has.

She has three world records.

Tracy swims for 8 to 10 miles a day. "I get up at 5:45 and practice for an hour and a half before school. In the afternoons, I practice from 3:30 to 6:15," Tracy told The Mini Page.

Right now, she's getting ready for the World Games competition in West Berlin in August.

Her biggest competition will be the East German swimmers. These girls lift weights to become strong. They took most of the gold medals for swimming in the 1976 Olympics. Tracy has been lifting weights, too.

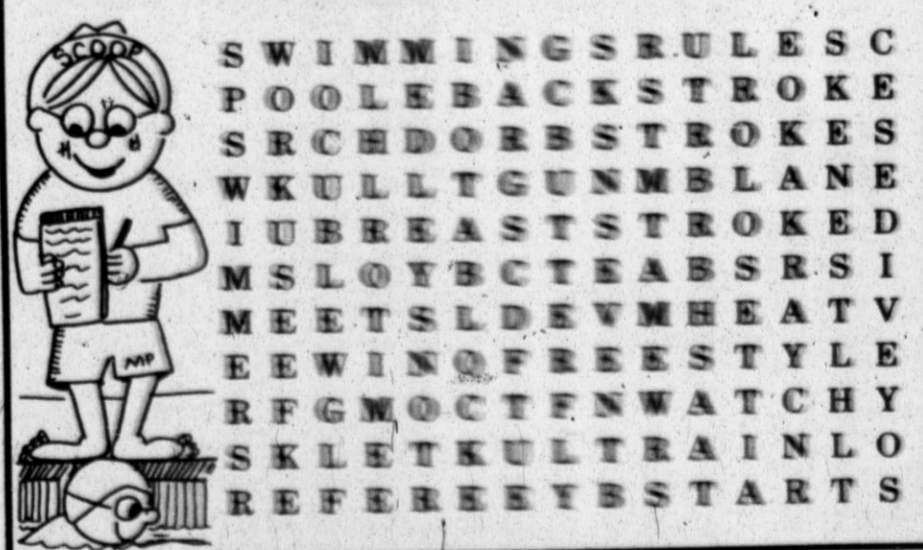

About three weeks before any meet, Tracy slows down her training schedule. She lets her body rest. Just before the race, like most swimmers, she shaves her body. Now she is ready to swim ... and swim faster than anybody else.

Watch out for Tracy Caulkins. She'll probably be on the U.S. Olympic team in 1980.

The Bay City Rollers... From Scotland to the USA

Rollers and hobbies: Eric Faulkner, listening to records; Derek Longmuir, raising fish; "Woody" Wain, swimming and scuba diving; Les McKeown, photography.

Did you like the records "You Made Me Believe in Magic" and "Saturday Night"?

These were two of the big hits of the Bay City Rollers.

This rock group is from Scotland. At one time they used to wear plaid clothes, but they don't anymore.

The Rollers got their name in a funny way.

They shut their eyes, took a pin and stuck it into a map. The pin stuck into Bay City, Michigan.

"We're just four ordinary guys in a band," says drummer and founder Derek Longmuir.

"We are a young band — from 20 to 26 years old. We all have a lot to learn," said another member.
