County awards contract on Walker building

Approves budget amendments

BY BOB NIGH

Managing Editor Carl McCaslin Lumber Company was tentatively awarded the contract to renovate the old Walker building for use as county office space Monday when the Deaf Smith County Commissioners' Court met in regular session at the courthouse.

Acting with only three members present with Pct. 2 Commissioner Austin Rose and Pct. 3 Commissioner Bruce Coleman out of town, the court accepted McCaslin's bid of $63,251.66 for the work. The bid was the only one received by the court after two tries at advertising

Since the work is to be paid for by Revenue Sharing funds, the court tentatively approved the bid with the stipulation that all Revenue Sharing guidelines are followed as to a performance bond and completion time. Criminial District Attorney Roland Saul will check to make sure those guidelines are followed as per the court's instructions.

Both Commissioners Bill Bradly and James Voyles seemed pleased with the bid from the local firm for the work. "I personaly felt that it would cost more than that," Voyles said.

Bradly, who did much of the work in getting the specifications for the job drawn up, agreed.

The work actually covers only about half of the building located just across the street east of the courthouse. The offices being renovated by the county will house the Department of Public Safety office and the drivers' license division as well.

Additional space in the building will be taken up by the Department of Human Resources, which will do its own renovation work at a later date according to Brad-

Congress considering flat-tax proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) - A dozen bills to radically change the federal income tax system are facing Congress amid growing evidence they would mean tax cuts for the rich and higher taxes for millions at lower and middle incomes.

Officials from the Treasury Department and the Congressional Budget Office were to testify today as the Senate Finance Committee begins hearings on the "flat-tax" plans that would end most deductions and simplify

Earlier this year, tax experts from both agencies said that such revamping of the system would shift a greater share of the tax burden onto those less able to pay.

The Herd lost a heart-breaker at Lubbock Friday night, but the Whitefaces can't be counted out yet. With two (See BULL, Page 2)

Further evidence of such a shift was presented Monday by Joseph A. Pechman, a tax authority with the Brookings Institution. A flat tax would simplify tax laws, improve compliance and help ensure that two people in the same circumstances pay the same tax, he told reporters.

However, he added, such a tax "would reduce average tax liabilities for all income classes over $50,000 and increase average tax liabilities below $50,000. At the very top of the income scale, the flat tax would reduce average tax liabilities by 30 percent to 40 percent."

A similar conclusion was reached earlier this year by Joseph J. Minarik, an analyst with CBO, who said a typical flat-tax plan would raise taxes by $243 a year on a $25,000-a-year family, and cut taxes for a $250,000 family by $27,700.

In addition, John E. Chapoton, the ranking tax authority in the Treasury Department, said such a tax would "conflict with the longstanding principle that the amount of a person's federal income tax should be based on the person's ability to pay."

Nevertheless, the concept of a flat tax is popular among lawmakers and, according to polls, among the public as well. President Reagan has expression Reagan has Satellite

Center helped

The Hereford Satellite Workshop center was presented with a $3,000 gift Monday by the now-defunct Hereford Migrant Ministry as the result of the sale of some property owned by the council near the San Jose area.

The ministry, which has been disbanded sold the property for $3,058.03 and donated the entire amount to the Satellite Center. The property formerly housed the Satellite Center before it was moved to its current location on Park Ave.

The Hereford Migrant Ministry was a joint effort of five local churches, including First Methodist, Wesley Methodist, Presbyterian First Christian, and St. Thomas Episcopal. Jim Arney president of the ministry, made the presentation of the donation to the Satellite Center board treasurer Gene Brock.

Brocks said he hoped the money would "become the seed of a building fund" for the workshop center.

Almanac says frigid winter in east, mild in west

By ELIZABETH NOYES Associated Press Writer DUBLIN, N.H. (AP) - The Old Farmer's Almanac, the 191-year-old yellow and black weather bible ready to hang in pantry or privy, predicts a frigid winter for the East and a mild one for the West.

The 1983 edition of the nation's oldest continuously published periodical, issued today, says it makes forecasts based on both "the latest scientific technology" and a secret formula locked in a black box in the almanac's offices.

But Abe Weatherwise — a pseudonym for publisher Rob Trowbridge and editor Jud Hale - cautions that the April 4 eruption of the Mexican volcano El Chichon could throw off this year's forecasts because the almanac went to press before the volcano's effects could be assessed.

Weatherwise predicted severe cold waves rolling across the East in January, February and March after a mild and sunny December.

The West may face a serious drought as a result of a warm and dry November, then rain and relief in December and a cold snap at the end of the year, he said. The Middle Atlantic region should expect a wet spring and possible flooding.

The publishers claim an accuracy rate of 80 percent, and the U.S. government took them at their word at least once. During World War II, all copies of the magazine were confiscated after German spies were captured off the East Coast consulting its forecasts.

The Old Farmer's Almanac's most recent success was predicting last winter's bitter cold wave. The forecast was for a major snowstorm and cold wave in the East and South during the Christmas-New Year's holidays. The forecast was a bit narrow, though: The cold wave spread into the Midwest and lasted through January.

The almanac is not to be confused with a younger publication called simply the Farmers' Almanac, which is only 166 years old. That almanac, published in Lewiston, Maine, is given away by businesses as an advertising pro-

The younger almanac's winter forecast - prepared by Caleb Weatherbee, a pseudonym for an unidentified weather buff from New Hampshire - also predicts a colder-than-normal winter, with above-average snowfall virtually everywhere but the Pacific Northwest. But the Farmers' Almanac, which also claims 80 percent accuracy, did not predict last winter's killer cold wave.

The Old Farmer's Almanac, on sale for $1.50, offers anecdotes and stories along with its year-long forecasts for 16 regions of the country, tide and planting tables, and breeding charts.

This year's almanac offers these tidbits:

-An old-fashioned cure for insomnia: Smell your socks

-A list of printers' errors in various editions of the Bible, including a 1632 publication in which the Seventh Commandment admonished: "Thou shalt commit

-Instruction on hulling corn, "for the three, possibly four people in the world who would be interested."

LONDON (AP) - One of the military leaders of the Palestine Liberation Organization, identified as Brig. Saad Sayel, has been killed in an ambush in eastern Lebanon, the British Broadcasting Corp. reported Tuesday.

The BBC said the leader, also was known as Abu Walid, was shot late Monday after inspecting Palestinian forces near Baalbek and died soon after being taken to a hospital in Syria.

It said the ambush reportedly involved up to 30 men firing automatic rifles and rocket-propelled grenades. The attackers were not further identified and there was no independent confirmation of the report.

The BBC said the PLO had put the blame on what it called Zionist murderers and their criminal agents.

Texas Instruments lays 26,000 off

DALLAS (AP) - Texas Instruments Inc., one of the world's largest makers of semiconductors, is laying off another 2,600 workers this fall, bring the number of employees furloughed in the last two years to nearly 10,000.

Company Vice President Norman Neureiter said the layoffs would be spread among many of the diversified electronics concern's 50 plants worldwide.

Texas Instruments, which employees 80,000 people in 19 countries, had already laid off 7,000 workers since May 1981.

Neureiter said he did not know in what specific categories of workers or cities the layoffs would occur, but 600 of the layoffs will be in the Dallas area where Texas Instruments is based, the Dallas Morning News reported.

"It's pretty generally across the company," he said. "It's a series of actions affecting a number of (plants) in a number of countries."

The recession, falling prices and inroads by foreign competitors have dampened sales of semiconductors for Texas Instruments and other U.S. companies for more than a year.

Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan has said a flat tax would be fairest of all systems.

Under the flat-tax concept. most deductions would be repealed and - after a total tax exemption for the poor most people would pay the same share of their income to the government, regardless of how much they earned. One variation that has drawn a lot of attention is not a flat tax at all but would wipe out most deductions and tax most people at a 14-percent rate but impose a "surcharge" on those at upper income levels. No one seriously expects Congress to rewrite the tax system within the next several months. In fact, some authorities, such as Rep. Barber Conable of New York, teams going into the playoffs this year, Cumpton's crew still has hopes of being a championship team.

The Whitefaces drew a tremendous following of home folks at Lubbock, and we look for a packed stadium this Friday when the Herd takes on Amarillo Caprock in a Homecoming clash.

Success is a quality that is difficult to define, because there are no hard and fast rules which will guarantee success. Yet, successful people in any line of work keep on being successful regardless of the situation in which they find themselves. Successful football coaches, for instance, have a habit of producing winning teams even if they move from one place to another and take over teams with losing traditions. Coach Don Cumpton turned losers into winners at

Sanford-Fritch and Muleshoe before returning to Hereford as the head mentor. After several lean years at HHS, the players responded to Cumpton's coaching, and went to the state semifinals last season. There are more players on all the local teams, indicating that Cumpton provides the kind of atmosphere that young men enjoy. Other area coaches who come to mind include Greg Sherwood of Plainview, Gene Mayfield, now of Levelland, and Don Beck, the former Perryton coach who moved to Guymon, Okla. What appears to be the common denominator, of course is their ability to motivate young men and get them to perform to the best of their ability. The truth of the matter is that these kind of coaches are successful even if their teams are not in the playoffs.

Pitt climbs to 2nd

The Pitt Panthers, bounced from the top spot earlier this seasson despite an unbeaten record, have climbed from third place to second in The Associated Press college football poll, seven points behind top-ranked Washington.

Penn State made the most dramatic move, jumping from eighth to third in Monday's poll after a 27-24 victory Saturday over Nebraska. That dropped the Cornhuskers from second to eighth in the poll.

Three teams - Boston College, Minnesota and Auburn made the Top Twenty for the first time this season, while Ohio State, Illinois and Michigan dropped out.

Washington, following its 37-21 victory over Oregon, received 25 of 59 first-place votes and 1,114 of a possible 1,180 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters. Pitt, a 20-3 winner over Illinois, received 19 first-place ballots and 1,107 points.

Last week, with 55 voters responding, Washington led Nebraska 1,045 points to 1,011, with Pitt at 989.

Seven first-place votes went to Penn State, which scored with four seconds left to beat Nebraska. The Nittany Lions received 1,032 points.

Florida rose from fifth to fourth with one first-place vote and 973 points after defeating Mississippi State 27-17. The Gators swapped places with Alabama, which edged Vanderbilt 24-21 and slipped from fourth to fifth with four first-place votes and 968 points.

Georgia beat South Carolina 34-18 and climbed from seventh to sixth with one first-place vote and 864 points, while Southern Methodist, a 16-13 winner over Texas Christian, dropped from sixth to seventh with 803 points.

Nebraska was eighth with 702 points, followed by UCLA - the Bruins received the remaining first-place ballot with 662 points and Arkansas, with 607. UCLA, No.12 last week, moved into the Top Ten with a 31-27 victory over Michigan, while Arkansas edged Mississippi 14-12 and slipped from ninth to 10th.

UCLA's surge pushed Notre Dame out of the Top Ten despite a 28-14 triumph over Purdue. Behind the Irish in the Second Ten are North Carolina, Arizona State, West Virginia, Texas, Southern California, Miami, Boston College, Minnesota and Auburn.

Last week, it was North Carolina, UCLA, Ohio State, Arizona State, West Virginia, Miami, Texas, Southern Cal, Illinois and Michigan.

Boston College raised its record to 2-0-1 by defeating Navy 31-0, Minnesota (3-0) trounced Washington State 41-11 and Auburn (3-0) defeated Tennessee 24-14.

Meanwhile, Michigan dropped out of the Top Twenty by blowing a 21-0 lead and losing to UCLA. Ohio State, No.3 a week ago, disappeared by losing to Stanford 23-20.

It was Minnesota's first appearance in the rankings since the middle of the 1977 season, while Boston College had not appeared since early in 1976.

Owners must open books

Judge favors NFLPA

WASHINGTON (AP) - A labor law judge today ruled in favor of the National Football Players League Association in its effort to force the NFL to open its books to union negotiators seeking a new contract. Administrative Law Judge Julius Cohn held that the NFL Management Council, the league's bargaining agent, had violated the National Labor Relations Act by refusing to furnish the players' union with individual player contracts and the non-monetary provisions of TV and network radio contracts.

The ruling, released today, stems from three days of hearings that Cohn held in June, approximately three weeks before the players' association contract with the NFL expired.

In ruling that the league has violated the law, Cohn thus upheld the player association's unfair labor practice charge and has recommended to the full five-

NFL strike may wipe out this weekend's games

By DAVE GOLDBERG AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - The National Football League players strike moved into its second week today with only the technicality of a formal announcement keeping next weekend's 14 games alive.

Negotiators for the NFL Management Council and the Players Association announced Monday that they will meet in Washington Thursday, virtually guaranteeing that the entire league schedule will be called off for the second straight week.

In a television appearance Sunday, NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle said that unless agreement is reached by Thursday, there could be no

Jim Miller, a Management Council spokesman, said Monday he assumes the games will be called off. Given the distance between the two sides, it appears unlikely that even aroundthe-clock talks starting now could save next weekend's games

A second Sunday without NFL games would extract additional financial costs. Unofficial estimates put the price tag on the first week of the strike at nearly $70 million.

By striking Sunday, NFL players lost somewhere between $8 million and $9 million in salary. The Management Council estimated that the 28 teams lost $29 million in gate receipts and television money, though the television revenue is a point of dispute - the networks are paying their regular fees for the first two weeks of the strike, but owners are counting it as a loss because they say they will have to pay it back next Other losers Sunday were the 14 cities where games weren't played, an estimated $2 million each in hotel and restaurant revenue; and concessionaires, who put their losses at $2 million.

The basic bargaining issue is based on a simple question: Shall players continue to negotiate individual contracts with individual teams or shall there be a wage. scale, with players paid according to their seniority in the league?

Electricity is vital to our food supply. A full 16.5% of the energy consumed in the United States is used in the production, processing and distribution of food. Additional electricity is used by businesses like farm equipment dealers and feed suppliers who depend on agricultural sales. Managing electricity wisely helps the farmer, the utility company and each of us, since the cost of electricity directly affects the price we pay for food at the supermarket.

Sam Thomas, Agricultural Development Manager, Amarillo.

Air leaks in your home can increase your yearly electric bill by 20 to 40%. Air can enter your home through cracks around doors, windows or any other place where two materials or parts of the house meet. To find air leaks around your home, wait for a windy day, then turn off your furnace or air conditioner. Hold a small piece of tissue or a candle next to cracks around windows and doors. If the tissue or candle flame flutters, leaks are reducing your home's energy efficiency. Weatherstripping and caulking can help plug these leaks and save you money, too.

Helen Hernandez, Order Clerk, Carlsbad.

Caring properly for portable appliances improves their safety and efficiency. Always plug an appliance cord directly into a wall outlet, rather than into lightweight extension cords. Unplug the appliance immediately after use. When disconnecting an appliance, pull the cord plug from the outlet first, then remove from the appliance. Always grasp the plug itself; do not pull on the cord. When cleaning portable appliances, first check the instruction book to see if the appliance is immersible. Then wash it with hot sudsy water and rinse and dry thoroughly. And always read the instruction book before using an appliance for the first time.

Is Rose losing aggressiveness?

An AP Sports Analysis By JOHN NELSON

His words created the same effect as a pickax striking pavement. Pete Rose, "Charlie Hustle," the man for whom baseball had become a lifelong love affair, might be losing some of his aggressiveness.

He had gone from hitting .325 in 1981 to a paltry .273 so far this season. If he finished the season at that mark, it would be his worst batting average since 1964 when he hit .269 in his second season with the Cincinnati Reds.

"I guess when you've got a .310 lifetime average, this has to be considered an off year," Rose says. "It's taken me a long time to adjust to hitting second ... my whole philosophy has always been to be aggressive, but I've taken so many pitches this year, I think I've lost some of my aggressiveness."

Rose's entire career has been a succession of changes. While with the Reds, he moved from second base to the outfield to make room for Joe Morgan. He played all the outfield positions, finally moving from left field to third base to make room for George Foster. When he went to the Phillies, he played first base because Mike Schmidt was at third.

All that time, he was a leadoff hitter, the tablesetter, the run scorer. In order to do his job, he had to get on base. So, he got hits, and he did his job better than any man since Ty Cobb. With 3,864 lifetime hits, he trails only Cobb's major league record of 4,191.

Rose, 41 years old, first was moved into the No. 2 spot in the batting order late last season behind Lonnie Smith, who since was traded to the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I was hitting .337 when they switched me," Rose recalled, "then I went down to .325 while I was hitting behind Lonnie Smith.'

When Rose found out he would be hitting No. 2 again this season, this time behind rookie Bob Dernier, he wasn't sure what goals to set for himself.

"I set my normal goal to hit .300, but I didn't set a goal to get 200 hits, which I usually do," Rose said. "I didn't know what goal to set. My role had changed, and I'd become a move-'em-along kind of guy. "We were winning a lot, and I'm not the kind of guy who goes 0-for-4 or 0-for-5 and tears his locker apart. I don't worry about myself when we're winning," Rose said.

"But it's taken me a long time to adjust to hitting second. The average person doesn't know how much of a difference it is, especially when you're hitting behind a guy like Dernier who was hitting .300 early in the season.

While Rose ranks in the top 10 in almost every offensive category except homers and RBI, he set a record this season of which he wasn't particularly proud. On Sept. 1 against Atlanta, rose grounded out in the fifth inning, making the 8,594th out of his career, one more than Hank

Angels can clinch AL West crown tonight

By BEN WALKER AP Sports Writer

The California Angels know the sweet taste of success. And tonight, they might sip champagne.

"It's not over yet, but it's just about a situation where we know what's going to happen," said California's Don Baylor after his run-scoring single in the seventh inning Monday night sparked a 3-2 victory over second-place Kansas City that reduced the Angels' magic number to just two in the American League

Ann Landers Half the blame is hers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a teenager who was angered by the letter from "Hendersonville Heartache." Her mom caught her and her boyfriend in the act one night and said they could no longer go steady - that each would have to date others.

I happen to be a born-again Christian and am very much opposed to sex before marriage. But that is not my main complaint. The line that really got to me was when the girl said, "My boyfried went too

Her boyfriend did not go too far on his own. She permitted it. No boy can go THAT far by himself. When are girls going to accept responsibility for what happens to them? "Hendersonville," without coming right out and saying so, is blaming her boyfriend when, in fact, she is 50 percent of the package. And if she gets pregnant, she may find the percentage is a lot

LOS ANGELES (AP) -Alfred Bloomingdale was a to stay in shape because fat is "Jekyll and Hyde" who was alternately childlike and sadistic, beating women with his belt, riding them bareback and drooling, according to the former mistress suing his estate for $10 million.

"I'm not kidding when I say that (Bloomingdale's) eyes got glazed, real - something you see in a hospital, or ... in a movie," Vicki Morgan said in a 321-page court deposition made public Monday. The statement was given Aug. 13. one week before Bloomingdale died of cancer at the age of 66. Miss Morgan, 30, who says she was Bloomingdale's mistress for 12 years, is suing Bloomingdale's estate and his wife, Betsy, for $10 million. She says she was promised life support by the heir to the Bloomingdale's department store fortune who was a close friend and adviser to President Reagan.

"Alfred was two people," Miss Morgan said in the deposition. "He was Jekyll and Hyde and in that personality of his, which is the sexual part, Alfred was strange. I don't mean a fantasy. I mean a sickness. I truly mean a sickness."

Pets suffer 'city neurosis' says trainer

She's a 1-year-old Norwich terrier named Sweets and she suffers from "a clear-cut case of city neurosis," says Warren Eckstein, the combination animal trainer-pet social worker who is trying to cure her.

"Not every dog or cat can be Rin Tin Tin or Morris," he says. "But if the problem is sociological or psychological, no animal cannot be trained."

Sweets' walk around the block is followed by kisses and hugs. Then, briefcase in hand, the tall, bearded Eckstein hurries off to complete his visits to New York's biting birds, dogs and cats.

Eckstein has been known to bite back.

He is not a veterinarian, and there is no licensing requirement for his work. Eckstein gives his credentials succinctly: "I have worked with 22,000 pets in 14 years."

Today, he and his wife Fay get $1,500 to $6,000 for treatments that last from two months to three years. The 14 trainers who work for them command less.

bigger than that.

I am not sitting in judgment of anyone, I just wanted to express an opinion. - A Reader In Van Nuys

DEAR V.N.: Glad to see a teenager pick up on that point. Thanks for writing. I couldn't have said it better myself.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: If you need a working title for this letter, you might call it "NO DATE FOR THE FAT."

I would like to give some very good advice to all the fat men who read your column. When you want to take a girl out, don't ask a thin one. Pick on somebody your own size.

I am 25, unmarried and I weigh 180 pounds. (Everyone tells me I have a very pretty face.) I have never been invited out for a date in my en-

There is this 250-pound guy who works in our office and has asked out every slim girl in the entire building. He has been turned down so many times he looks like a fluted pie crust. Although I see him several times a day, he has never asked me for a date. I guess I'm too fat for his taste.

The slender gals work hard repulsive to them. The guys who get rejected end up with bruised egos. Please tell those dummies that a lot of pleasingly plump ladies would just love a chance to be nice to some tub of lard. -Like To Eat In Laramie.

DEAR LARAMIE: It is not engraved on the Rosetta stone that thin women do not like fat men - nor that fat men do not like fat women. Many fat women get asked out, and an equal number of thin dames are sitting at home on tiny posteriors.

You've got another kind of problem, honey and I hope you figure out what it is.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: As a sober, recovering alcoholic who owes his life to A.A., I want to commend you for your advice to people who get nervous and upset when they have to talk before a group. You suggested a book, "Speak Up With Confidence," by Jack Valenti.

In that same newspaper the identical question was addressed to another columnist. He suggested an anti-anxiety pill similar to Valium. That advice made me angry. Lord knows we don't need yet another pill to help us cope. We are a nation of junkies overdrugged and tranquilized out of our minds. Please, Ann, say something on this subject. - Read You In The L.A. Herald Examiner.

DEAR L.A.: Thanks. I can't add a thing. you said it

Amy Griffin receives Letter of Commendation

Amy Griffin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A.T. Griffin of Hereford, has received a Letter of Commendation from the National Merit Scholarship Program according to HHS principal John Walch.

Miss Griffin received the recognition for placing in the top five percent of students who participated in the 28th nation-wide competition.

Over one million students took the test in 1981 as the initial step in the qualifying process for several National Merit Scholarships awarded in the program.

A former HHS student, Randy Wilde, was named a National Merit Scholarship semi-finalist recently. Wilde is currently a student at Lubbock High School, Walch

Teens develop skills while leading

BY PENNY REINART County Extension Agent

Teenagers in today's 4-H program are finding some exciting ways to be a part of the nation's largest youth development organization.

As teen leaders, 4-H'ers are making a contribution in helping younger boys and girls grow to be responsible, creative, worthwhile adult

The added benefit is that the teen leader develops skills in planning, decisionmaking and communication that can be carried over into the larger community of neighborhood, city and na-development.

The potential teen leader may be an older, more experienced, more mature 4-H member. But teenagers who have never been a 4-H member before are finding that they too can become a part of this exciting youth organization as a teen leader. Such teens are seeking additional opportunities and incentives for self-

Feud headed for Supreme Court

PECOS, Texas (AP) -Texas and New Mexico officials say they hope a recommendation to the U.S. Supreme Court that could come this week will settle a longstanding feud between the states over nearly four trillion gallons of Pecos River

Texas sued New Mexico in 1974, claiming its western neighbor has shortchanged Texas by 1.2 million acre-feet of water over the last 20 years, said Jean Breitenstein, a 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals justice appointed special master in the case. New Mexico controls the source of the river and claims it has apportioned Texas the water fairly.

But officials in this West Texas city say they have received so little water from the river that farmers who use it for irrigation are being forced into bankruptcy while the New Mexico valley is green and thriving.

Breitenstein, who heard arguments in the case six weeks ago, told the Pecos Enterprise this week that he may issue his recommendation as early as this week.

An agreement between the states, called the 1947 Pecos River Compact, established a commission for mediating disputes and set a formula for measuring the river's water flow — a formula the states interpret differently.

The three-member commission, composed of a representatives from Texas, New Mexico and the federal government, has deadlocked on the formula's interpretation. The federal offical cannot vote in case of dispute.

Breitenstein said his recommendation will propose new guidelines for a formula if he believes the high court has jurisdiction in the case.

Should the Supreme Court decides it can select a method for measuring water flow, it will determine how much water, if any, New Mexico owes Texas, Breitenstein

Pecos officials say say they aren't sure if a court ruling in their favor will ever actually bring more water to the parched Texas side of the valley. But they say they're confident of winning the dispute.

Lloyd Goodrich, vice president of the Red Bluff water power district board of directors, said New Mexico probably doesn't have enough water to quickly meet any court demands.

"Even if we won the whole shooting match, we would go on like we have been for a long time unless there was a flood in New Mexico and they said, 'Here comes the water, catch it," Goodrich said.

Texas Assistant Attorney General Lambeth Townsend said the state believes New Mexico owes Texas 1.2 million acre-feet of water. An acre-foot is the amount of water needed to cover one acre of land a foot deep.

DEAR POLLY - Our "new" house has plastic adhesive paper on all the kitchen and bathroom shelves. We'd like to remove it, but it's proving to be pretty sticky stuff. Is there an easier way than peeling it off in tiny bits? — J.C.

Heat removes paper

Polly Fisher

DEAR J.C. - Heat can be used to soften the glue. Put a thin terry cloth towel over the surface of the paper you want to remove, then iron over it with a hot iron. While the surface is still very warm, peel off the paper. This usually is very effective, and while the entire piece may not peel off at once, you should be able to remove it in larger chunks than before. - POLLY

POLLY'S POINTERS

DEAR POLLY - To relieve the itch from poison ivy, I rub on milk of magnesia. Believe me, it really works. For delicious french fries that taste better than those from fast food places, soak the cut potatoes in ice water for 15 minutes, dry thoroughly, fry for five minutes, remove and let cool, then fry again until golden. — LOUISE

DEAR POLLY — When I have leftover breakfast cereal like cream of wheat or oatmeal, I add it to cake batter (packaged mix or from scratch) using a little less milk or water. This makes the cake very moist. - MRS. E.L.
