Moreman Avenue Will Be Paved

County Has Busy Special Session

County Commissioners stayed busy during a special session Tuesday.

Other than reaching an agreement with the City of Hereford on paving Moreman Avenue, the Commission was concerned with the county hospital, upcoming move back to the courthouse and several other matters.

After a lengthy discussion with Bill Lampey and Harry Castle on cost of casing a Pioneer Natural Gas Company transmission line across the Ford Road, the commission voted to pay not more than $499.56 for the county's part.

The company has asked the county to pay $667.50, but accepted the lower figure. (Continued on Page 2)

Assault To Murder Filed After Knifing

Condition of Celletino Cortez, 24, of Hereford, who sustained knife stab wounds and lacerations about the body early Sunday morning, was reported as "fair" at Deaf Smith County Hospital Tuesday.

Charged with assault with intent to murder and being held in Deaf Smith County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bond is Juan C. Rodriguez, 20, of Hereford.

Rodriguez was arrested at 7:45 a. m. Sunday at Third and McKinley Streets. Making the arrest was Hereford police patrolman Don Metcalf.

Police reported that Cortez, suffered stab wounds and lacerations about the shoulder and abdomen in an alleged altercation with Rodriguez at about 4:30 a. m. Sunday in the 100 block of Ave. E.

Witnesses to the reported incident, police said, were Julian Cortez and Katherine Cortez, brother and sister-in-law of Celletino Cortez.

Police received report of the alleged altercation shortly after Cortez was admitted to the hospital. He was admitted to the hospital at about 5 a. m. Sunday.

Rodriguez was turned over to county authorities at 11:15 a. m. Monday, and his bond was set at $5,000 Tuesday in the office of Justice of the Peace C. B. Miles.

The case will be put before the next session of 69th District Grand Jury.

Ten Days, $150 On DWI Charge

Willie Salazar Rodriguez, 17, 213 Lake St. in Hereford, Tuesday was fined $150 plus court costs and sentenced to 10 days in Deaf Smith County Jail after pleading guilty to charge of driving while intoxicated, first offense, in County Court.

Rodriguez was arrested at 1:22 p. m. Sunday at the intersection of Park Avenue and First Street. The arrest was made by Hereford police patrolman Don Metcalf.

Presiding in court was County Judge H. E. Henslee.

Ponies Win First Series Game, 5-3

Gaylon Otts' two-run homer and Lynn Warren's tight pitching were the margins as the Hereford Pony League All-Stars took the first game of a series from Littlefield here Tuesday night.

Second game of the series is scheduled for Thursday at 8 p. m. here. Third game, if necessary, will be played here Friday night to determine the Area 4 champion.

Otts powered one over the left-center field fence in the last of the fifth to break a 3-3 deadlock and give Hereford a 5-3 victory.

It was a scoreless ballgame until the last of the fourth inning, when Hereford scored three runs. But Littlefield tied it up in the top of the fifth, setting the stage for the game-winning homer.

Littlefield threatened at the start, as lead-off hitter Junior Hodge used two errors to move to third, but couldn't score.

Ronnie Duncan used a single, a wild pitch and a passed ball to get to third in the last of the first for Hereford, but also was stranded.

Harvest Festival Plans Get Into Final Stages

Plans are in final stages for the second annual Harvest Festival, Hereford's biggest celebration of the year, which will be held July 28, 29 and 30.

Although the Festival's formal opening is Thursday next week, events being held in connection with the three-day affair will begin Monday.

Features of the Festival, which have been in planning stages for the past two months, will include a rodeo each night of the celebration, a Farm and Home Show representing various businesses and organizations, a week-long carnival, a real Western-style barbecue, a Festival queen contest, a street parade, a livestock appreciation dinner and a luncheon featuring fresh vegetables grown in this county.

The Lions Club Carnival midway will open Monday at about 7:30 p. m. in the Bull Barn parking area. At the same time, the Livestock Appreciation dinner will be held in the ballroom of the Jim Hill Hotel.

At 8 p. m. Tuesday in the high school auditorium, 16 Hereford girls will compete in a contest which will name the Harvest

The Rev. Don R. Davidson, executive director of Methodist Homes for Older Adults of the Northwest Texas Conference, acted as moderator. Now a resident of Abilene, the Reverend Davidson is a former pastor of the First Methodist Church in Hereford.

About 65 persons attended the two-hour meeting, which was termed a success by the proposed home's backers.

Questions ranged from location of the home to its room size and recreational facilities.

"This special committee that's going to build a home in the conference needs the backing of everyone in Hereford," the Rev. Davidson said.

The questions started flying after Mrs. Henry Benson had given the welcome and Mrs. Petersen had briefly sketched the background leading up to the decision to locate the home here if certain requirements could be met.

Davidson explained that the home needs would be projected to at least 1980, but that it was expected it would last for a hundred years or more.

"The home initially will be built for 75 members, with service facilities for 150," Davidson pointed out. "And the home probably won't ever have more than 150 members. . . . If we need room for more, we'll just move back a short distance on the site and build another unit." He explained the 67 counties in the northern part of the Conference include about 1,000,000 people, about ten per cent of them over 65 years of age.

"We need to have this home in a small community, where everyone will help and the residents can learn how the home operates and assist with it," he said.

Davidson posed a question about how long it would take to build the home.

"If, on Sept. 15, Hereford makes an offer of $100,000, it would be at least a year before construction would start," he estimated.

Floor plans, approval from the Federal Housing Authority, city approvals, and other such matter take time, Davidson said he wanted to be able to present

County Moving To Renovated Courthouse

All Deaf Smith County offices will be closed Thursday through Saturday, July 21-23, County Judge Homer Henslee announced Tuesday.

The close will mark an exodus to the sparkling county courthouse, which has been in a process of renovation for the past year.

Because of the large number of volumes, the county library closed Tuesday afternoon and will not open in its new quarters until further notice.

Judge Henslee said no county business would be transacted until at least Monday. County employees expect to spend all week end getting settled in their offices at the courthouse.

During the renovation, the county had its offices in a building on Miles Avenue, just south of City Hall.

Members of the Sheriff's department will be on duty during the move, although their whereabouts will be uncertain.

City And County In Compromise

A wrangle that has lasted more than ten months and involved three local governmental groups neared an end Tuesday morning as the Deaf Smith County Commission and the City of Hereford agreed to pave Moreman Avenue.

Wheat Acreage Vote Thursday

Deaf Smith County wheat growers will go to the polls Thursday to vote again on the issue of marketing quotas and 75 per cent parity support, or no penalties and 50 per cent of parity support of the 1960 crop.

The referendum will be held from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m., according to Faust Collier, manager of the county Agricultural and Conservation Office in Hereford.

Polling places include: Community A, Commissioner's Precinct 1, county Ball Barn; Community B, Precinct 2, county ASC office; Community C, Precinct 3, Walcott School; and Community D, Precinct 4, Simms Community House and Palo Duro Church.

Collier pointed out that the vote has nothing to do with allotments, since they are mandatory under the present law and present stocks of wheat.

Growers wanting to disregard allotments and take 50 per cent price support should vote "No." Those who would like 75 per cent price support and excess acreage penalized should vote "Yes."

At least two-thirds of the total votes cast must be favorable if the 1961 wheat marketing quota program is to remain in effect. Marketing penalties will apply to the excess wheat of growers who do not comply with their farm allotments, and price support will be available at not less than 75 per cent of parity, the exact level to be announced later.

More than one-third of the voters oppose the quotas, there will be no quotas or penalties for the 1961 wheat crop, and (Continued on page 5)

Parents Visit City On Paving Moreman Ave.

A swarm of action-bent parents, all women except one, descended upon the City Commission meeting Monday night. They were seeking information and possible action on getting Moreman Avenue paved.

After discussion that flew back and forth for almost an hour, the delegation left with a better understanding of the problem.

As the meeting opened, the Commission passed a resolution to meet with the County Commission, joined by the school board, to discuss the matter on July 25. However, the meeting between county and city officials actually took place Tuesday and the paving program was worked out.

Various City Commissioners explained their stand on the proposed paving program. They outlined their policy of not participating for more than 10 per cent of the cost of street improvements and not at all on new developments.

Commissioner Don Little told the delegation that the city had earlier proposed to furnish engineering and pay 10 per cent of paving cost on the street, which adjoins the city limits.

In other action, the Commission again turned down a request from an individual to buy the city dumpground property east of Hereford. They explained they had turned down two other requests since they felt the area could be used again in the future as a dumping area.

Commissioners also said the land was located in the airport's (Continued on page 5)

Hereford-Dimmitt Opening LL Foés

Little League All-Stars from Hereford get their first taste of post-season play Thursday night in Plainview against the Dimmitt All-Stars.

From now on every game is crucial as Hereford tries to defend its area, district and regional crowns.

First pitch Thursday is scheduled for 8 p. m. in one of the two Little League Parks in Plainview. The fields are located on West Eighth Street, behind Wayland College.

Winner of the Hereford-Dimmitt tilt will meet Canyon at 8 p. m. Friday in Plainview for the Area 2 championship.

Dimmitt is expected to be a tough opponent, with players from Hart, Nazareth and Dimmitt on the squad. Both Dimmitt and Canyon are in their first year of Little League play.

Earlier Thursday, teams from Childress and Memphis will play. At 8 p. m. two teams from Plainview will clash. Winners of those two games will play for another area crown Friday night.

Also during the week, area winners will be determined in games at Littlefield, Borger and Pampa.

All area champions will return to Plainview on July 28 and 29. All games in the district play-off will be played at 8 p. m. according to Al Gardner of Plainview, district Little League commissioner.

Coaching the Hereford All-Stars will be Roy Harman and Duane Baize, who directed the 1959 squad to the state level before they were defeated.

Around Town

Now that paving for Moreman Avenue is assured, maybe folks can turn their interest to such things as getting that home for the aged in Hereford. We understand the finance committee already is getting some pretty good donations and pledges.

Baseball is going to be another hot topic during the next ten days, and we hope longer. The Pony League All-Stars took the first game Tuesday in a series with Littlefield, 5-3. Second game will be here at 8 p. m. Thursday. We don't want to see a third game but if it is necessary, it will be played here Friday night.

Pony League president Glen Nelson still needs some help. With 50-70 boys expected here next week for the district tourney, he only has room now for 20 boys. Anyone who would like to keep one or more boys is asked to call Mrs. Calvin Edwards, EM 4-1017, or Glen at Nelson Auto Supply, EM 4-2505.

 got on by error, Frank Cain was hit by the pitcher and Lynn Warren doubled in Callaway.
 Cain scored and Warren went to third on an error. Warren came in sliding on a wild pitch. Littlefield knotted the score in the last of the fifth, marking up three runs on three big hits and three errors.
 Eddie Wheeler doubled to start things off. Terry Hughes got a broken-bat single and Ray McKinney was safe at first as the play erased Hughes at second. McKinney was safe at second on an error that scored Wheeler. Hodge walked, took second on an error and third on another bobble. George Jones doubled in Hodge and went to third on a passed ball.
 Charles Robinson's towering fly to left field was picked out of the air with Wayne Edwards making a perfect peg to the plate, where catcher Billy Hill caught Jones for a double play.
 But the tie didn't last long, as Hereford scored twice in the bottom of the fifth. Jim Gutierrez got on as the pitcher Ray McKinney bobbed a tap near the mound. With one out, Otto picked out a 1-1 pitch and sent it screaming high over the fence for two runs.

 At that point, McKinney was relieved by Donny Stevenson, who struck out the next two batters and cut off the rally.
 Littlefield went down in order in the sixth, while Hereford got runners on first and third, but couldn't increase their lead.
 Littlefield got a runner to third in the top of the seventh, but Frank Cain's teapling drive ended the game.
 Warren struck out six and walked just two while allowing five hits and three runs. Three of Littlefield's hits were doubles.
 McKinney took the loss. He worked 4-1/3 innings, giving up five runs on four hits, walking two and striking out eight. He was charged with one hit batter and two wild pitches.
 Donny Stevenson finished the game, allowing no runs, no hits while striking out four and walking none.
 Hereford was charged with seven errors, while Littlefield had four.

B & P W Meets Monday Night

The Business and Professional Women's Club met Monday, July 18 in the Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas Company.
 Madlynne Brumley presided over the business session at which reports were given on projects and promotions. The two main reports were given on the promotion of the home for the aged and on decorating for the Harvest Festival.
 Rosalee Saul, chairman of the career advancement committee, presented a program on attitudes, mental health and adult education as related to business and professional women.
 Della Stagner gave excerpts from Dr. Schlinder's book, "How To Live 365 Days a Year," which concerns mental health. Wanda Johnson gave interesting illustrations from the Bible, and Mozelle Neill read a paper prepared by Dolly Cramer on the need for further education by adults, and especially those in the business world.

 The line must be cased since the Ford Road right-of-way was expanded to 100 feet before it is paved. Paving is due to start within a week.
 Members of the Deaf Smith County Hospital Board met with the commission to discuss a sizeable deficit in operating revenue. Hospital manager T. E. Siegler told the court the hospital had a net loss of about $9,000 during June.
 Occupancy was down and collections dropped from an average of 80-95 per cent to a low of 64 per cent.
 He said that occupancy was 46 per cent, with a break-even point of about 55 per cent with 90 per cent collection.
 "We thought $10,000 would be enough cushion for a bad year. It wasn't enough for a bad month," member Wayne Thomas commented wryly.
 Siegler said the hospital was about $2,000 short right now.
 Commissioners approved the transfer of $5,000 to the hospital from various precinct road and bridge funds.
 Siegler said room charges for obstetrical cases had been raised $2 per day, rates in some other rooms were increased and a cut in overhead expenses made after studies revealed charges were running less than actual expenses.
 Sheriff Charles Skelton again asked the court for permission to hire two night dispatchers, who would also act as jailers at the new county jail.
 Since there won't be living quarters at the new jail, he said a 24-hour system would have to be worked out. Skelton had brought the matter to the court last year and again last month. Commissioners finally decided to table the matter until their regular meeting Monday.
 Skelton said he would not transfer his prisoners from the old jail to the new one until the matter is settled.
 In other action, the Commission authorized the County Judge to transfer the reserve in the Lateral Road Fund to the county road and bridge accounts.
 They also set rent for the A.O. Thompson Abstract Co. office in the courthouse at $75 per month.

 the estimated $16,000 project to the intersection will be assessed to the property owners. This assessment will be $3.50 per front foot. Total cost of the project will be about $6.86 per front foot.
 Earlier, trustees of the Hereford Rural High School District had agreed to "do their part" in paving around their property if the rest of the street was paved.
 Contention on the street came since it was located outside the city limits of Hereford.
 The project is expected to be pushed, since school opening is only six weeks off.
 Mayor Woodrow Wilson and City Attorney Earnest Langley, who represented the City at the meeting, said it would take three or four weeks to engineer the project, make notice of assessments and call for bids. They estimated it would take not more than a week to actually pave the road.
 Since the road adjoins the city limits, Langley told the Commissioners Court it was permissible for the city to pave the street and make assessments.
 Wilson explained the city customarily did not pay more than 10 per cent on any paving project. He also said that sub-division developers were required to pay all paving costs, less engineering, at the time the plat

 All this column this issue seems to be related, Kitchens has been appointed tournament director for the current Pony League area meet here and the District play-offs here next week.
 Fans at Thursday night's Pony League game really got a kick out of Cuby's "hard-sell" commercials on behalf of the concession stand. Others in the press box were quite surprised when Clint Formby didn't offer him an announcing job on the spot.
 Jimmie Allred and his station operators are really glowing about the face-lifting being given Phillips 66 retail outlets. They've changed their old colors for a sparkling white and even installed new signs. Leaving through a Brand for 1935 this morning we found an ad about Phillips 66 "polymerized" complete with parrot. How many of remember that trademark?
 All you folks who used to live at Westway are invited to the annual Westway reunion at the Westway community house. The big affair will start at noon Sunday, July 24, with dinner scheduled for 1 p. m.
 If you somehow have missed out, we just happen to have a few more Harvest Festival barbecue tickets we'd sell you. In fact, most any Rotarian or Kiwanian would do that. With Flip Breedlove of Clarendon coming back to supervise again, there's no question that the meal will be wonderful.

Rotary District Governor Pays Official Visit Here

A challenge was presented to the members of the Hereford Rotary Club Monday, by Bruce Pender of Slaton, Governor of District 573 of Rotary International.
 Rotary believes in "Service above self" and service can be obtained in four areas. They include vocational service, club service, community service and international service.
 In the field of vocational service, a Rotarian should maintain high ethical standards and should apply the Golden Rule to business, Pender said.
 "Behind every Rotary emblem, one should find nothing but the best," he said.
 In service to the club, a Rotarian should do a good job on every committee assignment and should be present at every club meeting.
 Fellowship is the backbone of the Rotary Club and every member should extend himself to create the highest type of fellowship, he explained.
 "If you see a man without a smile, give him one of yours," Pender said.
 Community service is obtained through work, and this may well be one of the weaker phases of Rotary, Pender pointed out. Each member should work toward the betterment of the community.
 Through international service, Rotary endeavors to promote understanding, good will and peace throughout the world. The world is too small for anything but brotherhood and too dangerous for anything but peace, Pender said.
 The theme of Rotary International for the coming year is "You Are Rotary." Rotary will shine in the same degree that each member rises and shines, Pender said.

"Get with it, rise higher and shine brighter so that Edd McLaughlin, of Falls, president of Rotary International, can point to District 573 as setting the pace for Rotary world-wide," Pender said.

Thespian Group Has Installation

Jonna Lee Blocker was presented a plaque designating her as the "best thespian" during the 1959 - 60 school year at an installation meeting held in the community room of the First National Bank of Hereford Saturday night.
 The meeting was held by Hereford Thespian Troupe 896. New officers elected for the coming school year included Suzanne Langley, president, Shirley Thompson, vice president, Judy Bradley, secretary, and Jimmy Reinauer, treasurer.
 Miss Bradley received an award as the "best understudy" of the past school year.
 Gold Star awards went to 34 members of the troupe. A total of 24 understudies were initiated into full membership. The Gold Star awards were based on points acquired through taking part in plays presented by the thespian society during the past school year.
 The meeting started at 7:30 p. m. Saturday.

Artist Gauguin was a sailor between South America and Greenland before going to Tahiti where he painted his "Women of Tahiti" and other masterpieces.

SEEKING PAVEMENT for Moreman Avenue, about 15 persons appeared before the Hereford City Commission Monday night to plead their case. Scouts...

120 Scouts, Explorers and leaders from the Llano Estacado Council.
Attending the Jamboree from Hereford will be:
David and Jim Grubbs, 13 and 15 year old sons of Dr. and Mrs. Roy James Grubbs Jr.; Tyler Thompson, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Thompson; Bruce Miller Jr., 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Miller; Paul Christman, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Christman; Jimmy Cooper, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Cooper;
Mike Harvey, 12; son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Harvey; Steve Conaway, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Paul Conaway; Dan Taylor, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Taylor; and Randy Carver, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Carver.
Dr. Grubbs and Orpha Click of Hereford will serve as assistant to Scoutmaster Bob Bayle of Amarillo for Troop 52.
Other Scouts will be in Troop 51, with Joe Nisbett of Dalhart as Scoutmaster and Charles Smith and Art Knorrp of Amarillo as assistants.
The Jamboree will officially start July 22 and continue through July 28. Because of the large number attending, however, arrivals and departures will be scheduled over a three-day period both weeks.

To supplement the many stories and reports on Jamboree activities nationally, Jim Grubbs and Dan Taylor have been accredited as special correspondents for the Hereford Brand. During their stay, they will send reports and pictures about Hereford Scouts and their adventures.
One of the most rewarding experiences will come as they live with and share with Scouts from other nations who will attend the Jamboree.
In keeping with the Scouting spirit of reverence, great religious convocations are planned for all major faiths. The closing day will feature the inspiring candle-lighting ceremony of rededication to the Scout Law.

approach zone and federal restrictions were strict on what could be erected.
James A. McAndrews made the offer, explaining he needed more room for his livestock feeding operations because expansion of U. S. Highway 60 would take 135 feet of his frontage.
The Commission agreed to look into the possibility of a lease arrangement but took no action.
City manager Dudley Bayne made a report on estimated cost for a stand-by gas engine for the McKinley Street booster plant. The auxiliary service had been approved earlier.
The City also agreed to renew a mutual aid agreement with the American Red Cross for a time of disaster.

Acreage...

price support will be available at 50 per cent of parity, as directed by law. Allotments will remain in effect as a condition of price support eligibility.
Collier said that all local growers who will produce more than 15 acres of wheat as grain in 1961, and their wives, will be eligible to cast ballots in the referendum.
Growers who will have smaller wheat acreages in 1961 and those who are taking part in the feed wheat program are not eligible to vote, since the wheat from such areas would not be subject to marketing penalties under a quota program.
Official notices of farm allotments for the 1961 wheat crop were mailed to 1231 wheat farmers in the county recently. This county received a 4082 acre allotment reduction on next year's crop.
To release men for operation of their farms, this year women in the county have agreed to serve as referendum judges.

to the conference in May, 1961, the finished plans and get final approval.
After this, bids could be let and it is hoped the construction would begin in September, 1961, and completed by September, 1962.
He said that with the limited number of members, all the aged indigents in the county couldn't be cared for in the home. Entrance requirements, he pointed out again, would be determined by many other things than religion.
Davidson was in Hereford Monday and Tuesday talking with prospective donors and members. Before he left, he told the Brand he was encouraged by the prospects for locating the home here and for raising the necessary goodwill gift from the county.
Henry Sears, finance chairman of the Hereford Area Foundation, said a fund drive would start immediately for the $100,000 goodwill gift. He said that firm pledges would be acceptable. The donations and pledges must be completed and ready to present to the special Methodist corporation by Sept. 15, 1960.

The Hereford Business and Professional Women's Club started the project last fall when they called together a group which later became the Hereford Area Foundation.
After making independent plans for a golden age home, the group heard that the Methodist Church was interested in building such a home in this area.
The Rev. Davidson talked with the Foundation, which voted to make a firm bid for the home. At the annual conference meeting in May, the special corporation was established. It voted recently to locate the first of four proposed homes in Hereford, if a suitable site and goodwill gift are made.

Letter To The Editor

Hereford Texas,
July 18, 1960

Dear Editor:
At the conclusion of the Little League baseball season each year I have toyed with the thought of writing about some changes that I feel should be made in our set-up. And, having played baseball from childhood to adulthood, playing my last two seasons as player-manager, I feel I am qualified to some degree to discuss these things. I hope my suggestions will be helpful to Hereford Little League.

No one has to be an expert to observe that our organization is out of balance and completely lop-sided. It has been since the outset, and shows no sign of improving, but is getting worse. A number of changes need to be made before the situation will remedy itself. And, unless it does improve interest can be expected to wane until a mere handful of spectators will take the time to attend.

Looking at it from my standpoint of observation I believe that the following suggested changes would solve the problem.

FIRST. We need a change of policy in selecting our managers. To have a balanced league we must have four managers of near equal ability; managers who know how to spot baseball potential in a boy and who possess the ability to get a maximum performance out of him. Such managers must be men who know the three essentials a baseball player must possess and spot it in him before placing him on a team. This includes hitting, fielding and team spirit. A boy lacking in any of these will never be a top notch performer on any team.

The responsibility of such manager selections rests entirely on our Little League Officials. One mistake that has been made from the outset has been that too many appointments have been made through sentiment rather than good judgment; Some have become managers largely because they had a son on the team. Others on the basis of their interest in boys. Some of these are completely land Air Force Base, where he is now attending an instructors school. His future duties will be in that field.

Young Gene Story, son of the Wesley Storys of Woodward, Okla. underwent eye surgery morning in Amarillo. The family came Saturday afternoon to the Ernest Frank home before the operation.

Doris June Horton and Myrna Zaring have been sporting the three-day measles this week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Horton and Mike left Tuesday afternoon for Lockney, where they spent the night with the Troy Lemleys before attending the funeral Wednesday at Snyder of John's brother, Curtis Horton. On Wednesday, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Brown, Jimmy and Billy Don, went to the service held in Bell Chapel at Snyder.

Mrs. Ernest Frank and Mrs. Bill Leslie attended the gift show Sunday held at the Herring Hotel in Amarillo.

Mr. and Mrs. Danny Knapp and H. C. West Jr. of Albuquerque, N. M., arrived Saturday for a week end visit in the Loyd Heaton home. Mrs. West and new son, Michael, returned home with them on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Fred J. Bastian of Bridgeport, sister-in-law of Mrs. John Skaggs, and her sister, Mrs. Oran Thacker of Amarillo, spent Wednesday and Thursday in the Skaggs home.

lacking in baseball know-how, so it is not surprising that our league is in a lop-sided condition today. A new policy needs to be adopted in securing or re-appointing managers. I feel that if a team is not winning or improving by mid-season that a change in managers should be made. Many times games are lost by managers rather than by the players. This might turn the tide.

SECOND. I believe player trades should be encouraged. Many times relations exist between managers and players, or where a boy seems to be misfit on a team that a trade would be a good thing. If traded he may find his place on another team and become a good player. This was true concerning my son who, after spending two years as a bench-warmer, was acquired in a trade by the Yankees. He was used as a pitcher, catcher and outfielder. He came through with a .320 batting average, a 1000 per cent pitching record of four wins and no losses to tie for second place in the League with teammate Danny Lester, and second only to teammate Steve Hodges who had a 6-0 won-lost record. I feel that many other boys would benefit accordingly were more such changes made.

THIRD. I believe some changes need to be made in the manner of All-Star selections. It is apparent that in some instances prejudices and sentiments have more bearing on these selections than the actual records themselves. I was amazed to see that several boys were placed on the All-Star team with anemic batting averages ranging from .200 to .289 while other boys were by-passed with batting averages above .300. The team consists of nine players with averages above .300 and seven with averages below .300. Almost fifty per cent of the team has a below .300 average.

I have always felt that hitting is essential in All-Star competition and I feel that the best hitters possibly should be placed on the team unless some position needs filling where only a boy with a low batting average is available, or in cases where a boy is a whiz with a glove and may be needed for defense.

To assist our managers in making their selections for the All-Star team we preserve records that reveal the calibre of play of all Little League players during the season. These records reveal who played the brand of ball that merited All-Star appointment so that choice can be made on judgment rather er than sentiment. If the records show that a boy was not a star during the baseball season then he should not be placed on the team unless there is a shortage of All-Star talent.

I feel that the responsibility of correcting this practice lies on both the officials and managers of Little League. I feel that it is a debt that we owe to our boys who participate in this great sport.

I would like to suggest to our Little League supporters that we reward Mr. Hartman and Mr. Baize each with a $100 dollar check for their untiring efforts in training and supervising the All-Star team. This is a job that takes both time and effort which neither can give without sacrificing other things.

Yours sincerely,

'Deaf' Smith Says

TO: The Spirit of General Sam Houston

FROM: The Spirit of Erastus Deaf Smith

SUBJECT: Report on the activities of my Chamber of Commerce.

Sam, it's hard to give a report at this time of the year without talking about the second annual Harvest Festival. So much is being written about it and said about it these days, though, that you probably already know of all of the activities that are scheduled for that week. About the only thing new that I have to report is that the American Legion Auxiliary is planning to have a Harvest Dinner on Thursday noon at the Legion Hut.

Another little change in the original plans is to have the parade start at 11:30 instead of 11:00. Sam, I'd like to talk with you today about Industrial Development. It is a subject that I have learned a lot about from spiriting around the state. It is a very difficult subject, and one that is very much misunderstood by people everywhere.

It is perhaps difficult for the membership of the Chamber of Commerce, who are supporting its activities, to understand that those who are working at industrial development cannot always tell everything they know; that when the Chamber of Commerce is working with a prospect, there are many reasons why the negotiations must be kept confidential. Industrial development is possibly the most competitive activity in which the Chamber of Commerce engages. Every community in the United States is looking for additional payrolls, and any rumor of a definite prospect that we might be working on would be fair game for any other community to pick up and work on. For example, within the past year, one of the best prospects that we have worked on we heard through a salesman who discussed the activities of a community in another state to attract a certain industry. We immediately contacted that industry, and found that nothing definite had been decided, and have been in continuous negotiations with them since that time. We appreciate the tip that came from that other town by accident, but I'm sure they wouldn't appreciate our knowing it.

In addition to this problem of the competition between communities, there is also the desire on the part of industries to keep their intentions from their competitors.

This is so important in many cases that those who make contracts with the local Chamber of Commerce often conceal the name of the company they represent, so that such information won't be available to the general public. Industries also take the very practical viewpoint that by making their intentions known they run the risk of inflating real estate values. Many Chamber managers have reported incidents of working with anonymous persons for several years without ever discovering the name of the company until the public announcement was made by the company itself, after all land purchases and other details had been worked out.

Sam, this report is just to tell you that because you don't hear of the Chamber of Commerce industrial activity doesn't mean that they are not actively working. Jimmie Gillentine and his Industrial Development Committee here in Deaf Smith County are doing everything within their power to attract new industry. Every rumor and hint of the possibility of bringing new payrolls to this area is pursued to some conclusion. In another report I want to tell you some of the things industrial prospects look for in a town. Possibly we'll even be able to give you a first hand report from one of those prospects in the near future as to why he chose Hereford. That's my report for this week, Sam.

BLACK NEWS

Farmers Starting Attack On Weeds

By MRS. DELTON LEWELLEN

The Black News has not been reported for the last few weeks because our correspondent was out of town. She reports that the rain has not improved phone service appreciably either. Community residents are, however, thankful for the nice rains, but it's also nice to be able to get back in the fields to get after the weeds.

The Delton Lewellens stayed in Amarillo for a couple of weeks last month. Lewellen has been building swimming pools for some people in Amarillo who are going to enjoy the privacy of swimming in their own back yard. Mrs. Lewellen, Donna and Pam will return to Amarillo this week to be with Delton. They will be staying with Mrs. Lewellen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Shapley.

The Lewellen family all enjoyed a trip to Colorado last week. They had cabins at South Fork for four enjoyable days. Those who went were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lewellen and Tommy, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lewellen and family, Mr. and Mrs. Delton Lewellen and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Kelley and daughters of Plainview and Gary Goetz.

Dick Rockey and Fern Barnett enjoyed a fishing trip to Burleson Lake down by Silverton. They reported the fish were pretty scarce, though.

Little David Whitaker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Whitaker is reportedly doing fine after he had his tonsils removed in Deaf Smith County Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Price attended the funeral of Mr. Paul Flemming at Ector, Tex. Mr. Flemming was a brother-in-law to Ralph. The sympathy of the community goes to Mr. and Mrs. Price.

AGAINST GRAIN

NORFOLK, Va. — It went against the grain with a policeman when he saw a woman driver backing her car against the traffic on a one-way street — to avoid driving around the block to enter a driveway. Judge Vernon D. Hitchings Jr., imposing a fine, explained that the one-way arrows were to show the flow of traffic, not the direction in which cars were to be headed.

People are still mulling about politics, but a few are calming down enough these days to complain about the quality of the coffee - and that's always a good sign. The Republicans will probably shift the scene back, however, when their big shindig starts in Chicago. Right now, this Huntley-Brinkley ticket seems to be the only one that doing any good.

Mrs. Lyle Woodford was telling me that the town is about to be taken over by wasps. She says lots and lots of people are complaining about wasps and don't know how to eradicate them. I went into great detail about how you wrap a bunch of rags around a stick, soak the torch in gasoline and, after nightfall, light a match and burn them out. Mrs. Woodford was simply aghast:

"It sounds to me like a good way to burn up the house!" she declared. "I'd rather have a few wasps than no house at all."

I guess she is probably right. Like a lot of other old fashioned remedies, my system is obsolete; nowadays they probably have some sort of gas-impregnated "bomb" that will wipe them out in nothing flat. I finally suggested that she contact Lefty Thomas, the county agent, and pay no attention to me. I was joking all of the time. I really was.

Meanwhile, I thought Hereford had just about every type of club, organization and merger possible. We've got a half dozen PTA's, a defunct DAR, a bridge club for grandmothers, a bridge club for men only, a country club association - and even a REA - but that's not enough. Mayor Woody Wilson got a letter this week wanting to know if we have an active Archery club. The letter comes from Hereford, England, and was signed by R. Elton, 8 Court Crescent. Mr. Elton says they have such a club in our maternal city and he would like to arrange a "postal shoot" between the two clubs. Rules, he says, would have to be agreed upon by the two organizations.

If we have any ambitious young archers in the area, this should be a deal. If they beat us, we can write back and challenge them with "Buntline Colts. Just to save face, we should at least write and ask Mr. Elton if they have a Six-shooter club in Hereford, England. We might use the two systems and come up with something unique. How about it, Sheriff Charles Skelton, David Beavers; some of you other pistol fanatics? We could bill it "Wyatt Earp Vs. Robin Hood" and draw a fairly good crowd.

People who've left-handed wives are having the last laugh, according to the Wall Street Journal which points out that their grocery bills should be sharply under those of right-handers. The experts in laying out the stores, recognize the fact that more people are right-handed and consequently place the impulse items on the right side, all of which subjects the south paw housewife to fewer temptations.

Cliff Arnold surprised a lot of people by turning up in the furniture business this week. He started work Monday at H and H, and figures he is going to like the business.

Jack Bradley is a bonafide, voting member of the Texas GOP delegation, and says that he is anxious to know who folks in this area would like to see nominated for vice president on the Republican ticket. He and Julia plan to go to Chicago by train, leaving Friday afternoon, as Jack says he will be happy to have any suggestions. He is figuring, of course, that Nixon will get the No. 1 spot probably on the first ballot. He says that Texas has 30 delegates, including two from the Panhandle. Jack isn't sure but figures that Texas will vote by the unit rule.

Hereford boys have been diligently searching for a replacement and have apparently settled on "bottled locusts." The very best containers are those plastic pill bottles with the large mouth. It sounds to me as if they have picked out another winner. I guess most boys are natural born swappers.

Everywhere I go people are truly happy that the Moreman Avenue paving situation has been settled between the county and city, at least. The school district will no doubt make it unanimous. To me, it seems like an equitable situation all around - and there isn't a more needed stretch of pavement anywhere in the area.

The Rev. Don Davidson, former Methodist pastor, has been an area visitor for several days in interest of the proposed home for older citizens. The Rev. Don is still the same fine old boy we recall of days past. He figures the Hereford group will meet commitments on the home, and that it is nearing the point of reality. He tells me that the Methodists have been in the business some 200 years with homes back East, and that they have a huge store of experience on which to draw. As pointed out before, the home will be non-denominational in accepting occupants. This is going to be one of the finest developments yet seen in the Hereford area. Weslaco, Tex. is the other big development in this state, although they have maintained a few small units in Dallas and other larger cities.

Redistricting May Raise More Blood Pressures

By VERN SANFORD

AUSTIN. — Although budget balancing is the most discussed of the problems facing the next Legislature, many lawmakers expect redistricting wrangles may raise more blood pressures.

Legislature is required by the Constitution to re-define legislative districts after each federal census. It used to put off this troublesome task, but a 1948 law provides that if it fails to act in the first session after a census, a Legislature Redistricting Board shall take over.

This insures, as it did in 1951, that the legislature will redistrict — somehow, some way.

Battle will be between big city delegations who will demand more representation in line with their swelling populations and rural members who will try to hold on to as much as they can.

In their election campaigns, many representatives promised their constituents they'd be in there pitching for the home area. Members from growth arreas said they'd go after extra representatives, state senators and congressmen.

A rural legislator told his people, "At least twelve rural districts will disappear in the next redistricting. I certainly do not want this district included in that twelve."

Incumbents cited their experience as an asset. Personal feeling often enters into redistricting, and lawmakers are notably reluctant to "squeeze out" a popular and respected senior colleague by erasing his district.

Beginning August 1, premium rates on certain types of homeowner's insurance policies will be cut 10 per cent.

State Insurance Board announced the new lower rates would apply to the "home-owners package" policies which account for about 80 per cent of the home-coverage sold in Texas.

Reductions were made possible because insurance companies have had a relatively low loss ratio on the package policies, first introduced about three years ago.

Board of Insurance also is considering a further lowering of credit insurance rates.

Many loan companies require borrowers to take out insurance payable to the loan company in case something happens to the borrower before he repays.

Two years ago the Board cut in half the rates that could be charged for credit insurance. It was charged that loan companies were making excessive profits on loans through the insurance.

Board says that even now rates seem high, with losses running 27 per cent of premiums paid in. If losses run less than 50 per cent of the premiums paid in, if losses run less than 50 per cent of the premiums, rates are considered too high.

Stiffened federal road inspections pose no problem to Texas, says State Highway Engineer DeWitt C. Greer.

New federal standards are no tougher than those Texas has insisted on all along. Scandals stemming from misuse of federal road building money in other states has caused (Continued on Page 2)

Motorists Are Driving Themselves To Death

Motorists literally are driving themselves to death.

"Too often they're ignoring traffic signs and signals, which are designed for their protection," Jack C. Trimble, head of the National Safety Council's Signs of Life program, asserted recently.

Trimble emphasized that the sole purpose of traffic signs, signals, pavement markings and other devices is to state the law, to warn of hazards and to give assistance and protection to all street and highway users.

He cited these facts:

1. One out of 10 drivers in a fatal traffic accident fails to keep to the right of the center line.

2. One out of 7 ignores stop or warning signs, passes improperly or does not have right-of-way.

3. Three out of 10 drivers in fatal traffic accidents exceed speed limits or safe speeds.

Trimble said these and other facts on auto accidents, including those involving cars and trains, are contained in the annual report on the Signs of Life program by the Council's railroad-highway traffic safety committee.

"Drivers," he asserted, "continue to get killed or hurt because too often they disobey, don't see, ignore or don't understand traffic signs, signals and pavement markings."

He said the Signs of Life program has been especially valuable in preventing highway-rail crossing accidents.

"Steady education by the program, better crossing protection and improved enforcement of traffic laws — that and cooperation from drivers, of course — have combined to pull down the number of motor vehicle-train crashes," he said.

What are the causes of highway-rail accidents?

Coming up to the crossing too fast to stop, being too familiar with a railroad crossing, speeding at night, starting up too soon after a train has passed, ignoring warning signs and signals, and driving after drinking.

Trimble urged motorists to learn the six basic traffic signs to prevent traffic accidents of all kinds:

1. Round . . . yellow with black "X" or "RR" means highway-railroad intersection ahead.

2. Crossbuck . . . the traditional symbol at highway-rail intersections, is white with black lettering.

3. Octagon . . . red with white lettering. Means "come to a full stop and be sure the way is clear before proceeding. Replaces older yellow sign with black lettering.

4. Triangle . . . yellow with black letters reading "Yield Right of Way." Means what it says — slow down at intersections. Stop if necessary.

5. Diamond . . . yellow with black lettering or symbol. Warns of dangerous or unusual conditions ahead — curve, side road, intersection, hill or school zone.

6. Rectangle . . . white with black or other colored lettering. States the law, such as speed limits, parking regulations, and turning and passing movements.

Pasture, Feedlot Implants Tested

College Station — Because the desirability of steers previously implanted with stilbestrol has been questioned, the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, in cooperation with the USDA, conducted an experiment with implanted steers at the Blacklands Experiment Station, Temple.

For this experiment, 96 yearling steers were used. Some were implanted at the beginning of the 148-day pasture period, some were implanted at the start of the 104-day drylot feeding period, some were implanted at the start of both the pasture and drylot periods, and some were not implanted at all.

For the pasture period, the steers were divided into two groups of 48 each. One group was implanted with 36 mg of stilbestrol, the other was not. At the end of the pasture period the implanted group showed an average of 46 pounds per steer more gain than the group that received no implants.

The pasture groups were subdivided for the feedlot tests. Of the 48 steers that had received no implants for the pasture period, 24 were implanted with 36 mg for the feedlot trials. Twenty-four of the steers that had been implanted for the pasture period were reimplanted for the feedlot tests. The group that received two implants outgained the group that received no implants by an average of 34 pounds per animal.

These results indicate that it may be profitable to use the implants for both pasture and feedlot if both periods are considered as a single production operation. To minimize residues in meat, however, the maximum dosage of diethylstilbestrol implanted should be 36 mg. Implanted steers should not be slaughtered for at least 100 days after implantation.

REP. WALTER ROGERS WRITES:

Migration Trend Is Obvious

To the people of the 18th District:

The national figures for the 1960 census will tell a story that most of us have known for some time. In what may well be the greatest and most significant American migration in recent history, millions of people are forsaking the farm and crossroads to stream toward the great urban centers of our nation.

And at least by the time children of these restless, mobile Americans reach high school, a map of the United States will be covered with huge well-like markings to denote the most complex and awesome cities the world has ever known. Many of these city dwellers will work and play in "towns" which range across hundreds of miles without interruption.

The trend has been obvious in many ways. The most casual glance at wedding announcements in Panhandle newspapers will reveal that many young couples choose to abandon their home towns in favor of larger cities. An hour in the bus and railroad stations of a large metropolis will uncover a portion of the millions who set out for the big city each year with their high hopes — and often their every possession — carried with them.

Just a short ride along the outskirts of even a moderately large community will uncover row upon row of mass produced, FHA financed homes — the hallmark of sprawling suburbia.

These are the hard facts of an important feature in American life since World War II. In some ways, the massive "urge to move" is perhaps inspiring insofar as it demonstrates that we have not lost the pioneering spirit which made America great. Our people still have the courage to venture into new environments, and test new ways. Many of them, I am sure, are hopeful of benefiting their countrymen as well as themselves. We are not, as our enemies would have us believe, such an entirely contented and declining nation at all. Nevertheless, the uncomfortable feeling remains that much of this surging movement toward our urban complexes is inspired by rather grandiose propaganda. To say that our smaller communities offer no opportunities is, in most cases, sheer fiction. To complain that the more rural areas of our country are "dull" displays an unhealthy grasping for "something to do" and a strange inability to find it. And to paint universally rosy pictures of life in the metropolis is particularly deceptive, for the individual tragedies that can sometimes occur are as old as O. Henry's writings.

Old men whittling in front of the country store are as much a part of America as the high pressure brokers on Wall Street. We should be as proud of the Problems Of Aging Important To All Americans

(Editor's Note: Governor Price Daniel has set in motion in every county in Texas an intensive study of the problems of aging in preparation for a state conference he will call to meet in Austin in September, 1960. The Hereford Area Foundation is currently attempting to locate a home for the aged in this city. The following article by Col. C. R. Tips, a member of the Governor's Advisory Committee on Aging, is based on a talk he made recently to the Retired Teachers Association in Dallas, and gives detailed information about the statewide and national program.)

By COL. CHARLES R. TIPS

The intensive preparations for the White House Conference on Aging authorized by Congress in 1958 and called by President Eisenhower for January, 1961, now underway in every county in Texas and indeed in all 50 of the states, shows the growing recognition by the American people of the importance of the problems of aging.

Governor Price Daniel has shown his great personal concern for the welfare of the senior citizens by initiating an active campaign in their behalf in Texas. He appointed a State Advisory Committee of about 100 members under the able leadership of Senator Crawford C. Martin of Hillsboro as Chairman and with Mrs. Francis Allen as Executive Secretary. Senator Martin asked the county judges in every county in Texas to select committees in their counties to study the problems of aging and to report their findings to him in Austin. In inaugurating this program, Governor Daniels said: "We intend for this study to develop more information than we have ever had before on our senior citizens, their needs, and their role in all aspects of economy and life of our State."

Thousands of people all over Texas are working on these local county committees and making preparations for a state-wide conference on aging which will be called by the Governor to meet in Austin early in September. Representatives from every county in Texas are expected to attend this meeting which will consider plans for the Texas program on aging and make recommendations to the White House Conference. Sub-committees have been appointed by State Chairman Senator Crawford C. Martin to study various aspects of the problem. One of the earliest state-wide subcommittee meetings was a meeting in Dallas early in May called by J. Watt Hornburg, chairman of the Subcommittee on Housing for the Aging of the Federal Housing Administration in Washington, was the principal speaker.

The problems being studied by the various sub-committees and by the county committees are grouped under five headings:

1. Income and employment
2. Welfare
3. Health
4. Education and Recreation
5. Housing

No one has all of the answers to these problems. Certainly, the writer does not claim to be an expert on the problems of aging. However, as a retired Colonel of Infantry, U. S. Army Reserve, and a member of the U. S. Retired Officers Association, of the Texas Society on Aging, and of the American Association of Retired Persons, I have for years studied the problems of aging. I have visited homes for the aged of various religious denominations and fraternal organizations and retirement hotels from one end of the United States to the other and in some foreign countries.

I attended the 12th Annual Conference on the Problems of Aging conducted by the University of Michigan in 1959 and the following conference conducted by the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare in preparation for the White House Conference on aging and have listened to talks by experts from all parts of the United States and have compared their ideas with my own experience in this field. As President of the Ambassador Hotel Company in Dallas, which caters to retired persons and has more than 100 guests, I have lived with the problem for the past five years. With this background of experience I am venturing to offer some ideas for solutions.

It is estimated that there are more than 15,000,000 people in the United States who have passed their 65th birthday, with over 725,000 of these senior citizens living in Texas. With the advances in modern medical science which are prolonging life the number of these senior citizens is increasing each year and they constitute an increasing percentage of the total population.

Many of our population were formulated during the depression years when we were trying to make jobs. In some cases these ideas were enacted into legislation including some of the provisions of the Social Security laws which discourage employment after reaching 65. Today, when the fate of the world may well depend on a production race with Russia and the other Communist countries, we will need to use our total manpower and these elderly ideas about compulsory retirement need immediate reconsideration.

One of our guests at the Ambassador Hotel retired when he was in his late 60's. He had been a skilled carpenter and cabinet maker and he decided he did not like being retired. When he was 70 he went to a furniture store and got a job repairing furniture. Now, at 88, he is still going strong, working every day and really enjoying life. His employers say it would be hard to replace him. Another of our guests who retired some years ago as an expert upholsterer works part time at the hotel repairing our furniture and is doing splendid work.

My two chief assistants in the operation of the Ambassador Hotel both proudly admit to being past 72 years of age. One of them is Resident Director in charge of room service and was for years a house mother in various college dormitories including the University of Illinois and Texas Women's University at Denton. The other was house mother of a fraternity at Southern Methodist University where she had charge of feeding 60 or more growing young men.

When she was approaching retirement age at S. M. U. she resigned and came to live at the Ambassador and I persuaded her to take charge of our food service. She is doing a marvelous job and the guests at the Ambassador all claim that she is serving the best regular meals that you can get anywhere at any price. My experience with these people and many others has convinced me that compulsory retirement on the basis of age is ridiculous. There are people, of course, who need to retire. Retirement should be on the basis of physical and mental condition and not on the basis of age.

In the United States today there are no old paupers. Many older people, of course, have saved their money and invested it so that they have an adequate income for their old age. Many have children who are able and willing to take care of them. Millions of our citizens have built up Social Security "benefits" which give them a regular income. Other millions have pensions and other retirement pay. There are those who have no other income and for them Old Age Assistance is provided in every state with matching funds from the Federal Government. There is considerable complaint that these benefits in some states, including Texas, are not high enough to provide a decent standard of living and to take care of emergencies like a long illness. This raises the question of where money for increased benefits is to come from. Most people complain that taxes are already too high.

There is an active welfare program in every community in Texas supervised by the State Department of Public Welfare. The State Health and Hospitals have a State-wide program to promote the public health of all citizens and to take care of indigent citizens who are mentally and physically sick. Every large community has a public health department and there are many charity hospitals to take care of those who cannot afford regular hospital treatment. Parkland Hospital in Dallas is an outstanding example of a charity hospital where leading physicians and surgeons donate their services to those who are in need.

Many retired people, as well as younger citizens, carry various forms of voluntary health insurance. A number of the residents at the Ambassador Hotel have policies with Blue Cross, Blue Shield or other companies and a number of them have taken advantage of the new group insurance plan of the American Association of Retired Persons. These voluntary plans help take care of the extraordinary expenses caused by sickness and accidents. It is our experience, however, that some of the lowest paid employees and others who are eligible for charity treatment at Parkland Hospital, Dallas, refuse to carry insurance.

The people hardest hit are the middle income people, who have relatively low incomes and have not been able to accumulate any surplus to take care of emergencies. It is primarily for the benefit of these people that various bills have been introduced in Congress providing for government insurance or assistance for people who are sick. There has been strong opposition to some of these bills because people believe they may be the opening wedge for socialized medicine.

Many educational institutions are offering courses for senior citizens at low cost or at reduced rates, and many retired people are taking advantage of this opportunity to continue their studies and build their spheres of interest. Many churches and some other organizations have been active in providing recreational facilities for senior citizens. (Continued on Page 2) the Bureau of Public Roads to tighten its inspection requirements. Greer said the new federal approach will necessitate no change in Texas procedures.

 Texans who have been rioting cross-country during their summer vacations will not find this hard to believe. So noticeably superior are Texas roads to those of surrounding states that returning Texans usually give a sigh of relief when they cross the state line.
 Candidates for Speaker of the House continue a month-long battle of "claimsmanship."
 Rep. Wade Spilman added five to his list of House members pledged to support him and said this gave him a "rather conclusive" lead. Rep. James Turman of Gober claims a definite majority of 7.
 Votes of 76 of the 150 House members are needed to elect.
 Spilman also has invited the House General Investigating Committee to look into charges that members were being subjected to improper pressure on how to vote.
 Texas Commission on Higher Education will ask the next Legislature for an appropriation of $3,082,188 for the 1961-63 biennium.
 Bulk of the increase asked for meeting expected enrollment increases in the 18 state-supported colleges and universities.
 In a discussion with members of the State Finance Advisory Committee, the Commission considered recommending an increase in state college tuition charges - now $100 for a nine-month term. Dr. Ralph Green suggested raising this by $50. It would bring the state an extra $5,000,000 a year in new revenue, he said.
 Texas Board of Corrections also wants more money - $2,654,816 increase over their present allocation for the next two years.
 "If the amount is granted, Texas prisoners will cost the state $1.89 per day per man," said State Prison Director O. B. Ellis. "This is just a little more than half the national average."
 Ellis and Corrections Board members regard prison needs as critical. Board Chairman H. H. Coffield of Rockdale reported that "the prison population trends indicate it will keep on multiplying."
 Atty. Gen. Will Wilson has been named by the National Association of Attorneys General as the recipient of that association's award for outstanding service in 1960. He was cited as being the most outstanding Attorney General in the nation when he received the Wynman Award at the Annual Meeting of the National Association of Attorneys General recently in San Francisco.
 Award is given to the Attorney General who "has done the most to advance the objectives of the association to help make the United States a better place in which to live for all." Wilson won the honor on the basis of his contribution in strengthening state antitrust programs and in the field of interstate compacts, as well as through his service on the habeas corpus committee of the association. He also was chairman of the association's Antitrust Committee during 1960.

 There are a number of Golden Age Clubs in Dallas and other cities over the nation. Some large day centers have been established and have been outstandingly successful. Examples of these are Little House in the San Francisco area and Hospitality House operated by the Farmer Foundation in Dallas. These centers are particularly important in offering opportunities for companionship and for healthful recreational activities and social life for retired people.
 A nation-wide survey shows that loneliness is the greatest complaint among older people, particularly those who are still living in their own homes or who are living with their families. A great deal more needs to be done in this regard.
 There is probably more interest in the question of housing for the elderly than in any other phase of this problem. Unfortunately, there are probably more misconceptions in kindly old general practitioner as we are of the most eminent heart specialist. And the man who rides a tall, bumpy tractor has fully as much stake in the American experiment as does the man who rides for directors meeting to directors meeting in a low, smooth limousine.

 We have, I think, committed a fundamental error in emphasizing a certain brand of success all out of proportion to its true worth. We have too often dwelt upon the slick, the super-sophisticated, the "gee-whizz" type of endeavor. We have sometimes been willing to exchange quick, easy fame and success for slow, difficult, but profound satisfaction. This attitude has not been without effect.
 We are now beginning to pay the price, and the amazing rush of so many of our people to urban areas is perhaps not the only toll. The source of many of our worries, such as conformity or trend toward bureaucracy, can also be traced to a shift in values. We would do well to remember that American strength lies to a great extent in its diversity and depth. The 1960 census, in revealing a partial loss of this vibrant quality, might well remind us of our duty to keep faith with all facets of our life.

MATH PAYS OFF
 MEMPHIS, Tenn. - Napoleon B. Williams Jr., 18, likes leaving through advanced math textbooks just as some folks enjoy reading novels.
 Now, the Negro high school senior's love for mathematics has brought him a $2,500 - a year scholarship to Harvard.
 Williams won the scholarship by scoring a phenomenal 800 out of a possible 800 points on advanced mathematics in his College Board entrance examination.
 "It means he already has the equivalent of a college education in mathematics," says William F. Kirsch, Memphis attorney and member of the Harvard admissions committee which recommended Williams for the scholarship.

Joseph Pulitzer, who established the Pulitzer Prizes, told his reporters on "The New York World" that, "It is difficult to see the truth when you are prejudiced, but try always to see the truth about friend or foe."
 In other words, to take care of 100 persons, would require an investment of around $1,000,000 for a new and modern home of this type. Therefore, when a church or fraternal organization decides to build a home to take care of their aged members, it is a major financial undertaking. In these homes it is necessary to provide infirmaries and nursing care for an increasing proportion of the occupants and in the nature of things, an increasing proportion of the occupants will be partially or wholly bedridden and will require continuous nursing care. This, of course, adds very greatly to the cost of operation. When this occurs, the home takes on more and more the nature and character of a nursing home.

There are hundreds of nursing homes in Texas and in all other states which are built and operated as such. State Licensing Laws for nursing homes, and the Nursing Home Association are continuously raising the standard of these nursing homes and generally speaking, they are doing a splendid job. It is the very strong opinion of the writer that people who are acutely sick would be in a good hospital and that people who need continuous nursing care should be in a nursing home.

this field than in any other and some of these have led to hasty action which has proved to the end to be very expensive. Some impractical people with no experience in this field read the figures that there are 15,000,000 retired people in the United States and that the number is increasing each year and they immediately jump to the conclusion that there is a tremendous housing shortage and a great need for additional housing for the elderly. This does not necessarily follow at all. People who reach 65 and retire do not suddenly find themselves out in the street. A great many of them have paid for their homes over a period of years and own them free and clear of encumbrance. They love these homes and would not move under any condition. There are other retired persons who live with relatives or with close friends or in boarding houses in the neighborhood where they have been raised. These categories account for considerably more than 90% of all retired persons. It is only when there is change in these living conditions, when a husband or a wife dies, or when conditions arise that keep either the older people or the people they are living with from being entirely happy with the situation that there is need for a change in housing arrangements.

It is my opinion after more than five years of intensive study of the problem, that there is no actual housing shortage for older people except in the lowest income groups. This situation is the same as it is for the population as a whole. Experience over the last 10 years has shown that there is need in the United States for something more than 1,000,000 new homes every year for replacements and to take care of new family formations. Some proportion of these new homes should be available for senior citizens where they are desired. Rules of the Federal Housing Administration were changed to make these older people eligible for insured FHA loans. However, the experience of the Federal Housing Administration shows that there is very little demand for such homes. This has certainly been the case in the Dallas office of the Federal Housing Administration. According to my observation, the only considerable demand for individual houses for retired people has been in a few centers in states like Florida and Arizona where the climate is ordinarily warm and which have been exploited extensively as tourist centers where people can get away from the cold weather in the North during the winter season.

Some of the churches have provided outstanding housing facilities in their homes for the aged for a few of their own members. Some fraternal organizations and other charitable groups have done the same thing. In many of these, the persons who move into the home decide to the church or the institution all of the property they have, and the church then agrees to take care of them as long as they live.

As far as I have been able to determine, the cost of operation of these homes is in excess of $100.00 per month per person and in many cases the cost is somewhere from $150.00 per month to $250.00 per month per person. In cases where a considerable number of the occupants are not able to pay their proportionate part of the operating cost and are therefore on a charity basis, there is the necessity of periodic fund raising drives to raise money to make up the annual operating deficit. In many homes of this type that I have seen, the cost of construction averages about $10,000 per person who will live in the home.

Some of these hotels have been successful from a financial point of view. Some of them have not. All of them have found that there is no great unmet demand for such facilities which gives them automatically a waiting list of patrons.
 Those of us who are looking for solutions of the problem of retirement will do well to study the wisdom of the ages. In addition to the Bible, I have found some of the philosophy handed down from ancient times in India to be particularly helpful.
 I will close this discussion by quoting from some of the ancient Hindu writings. "In retirement you have time to discover who you are, and what life is about."
 "Retirement looks beyond the stars, not to the village streets."
 "It is the time for working out a philosophy and then working that philosophy into oneself, the time for transcending the senses to find and dwell at one with the timeless reality that underlies the dream of life in this natural world."
 "If vision and self-understanding carry rewards equal to or surpassing those of the body and senses, then old age has its own opportunities and we can come to happiness at the time when rivers of our lives run gently."

This is becoming more necessary all the time on account of the shortage of trained nurses and the difficulty in getting good nurses to go to private homes. The cost of round the clock nursing in a private home is almost prohibitive except for people in the higher income brackets.

A serious problem is presented by the fact that the cost of operation of the nursing homes which give adequate care is high enough that people in the lower income brackets, particularly those who have nothing but old age assistance or an equivalent income from Social Security, are not able to pay the charges. Higher benefits or subsidy from local, state or national governments or charity are necessary to take care of these people.

Of course, the same thing applies in providing new housing for any of our citizens. The Federal Government by subsidizing low rent apartments for a few people. Some of this public housing is being made available for retired persons. An outstanding example of this is a new high rise apartment building built for retired people by the Public Housing Administration in San Antonio. The cost of this new construction is about $10,000 per unit, or family that is taken care of. The rental charge, based on income, averages a little over $20.00 per month while the interest charge alone to the Federal Government at present rates is around $40.00 per month per unit. The cost of providing new public housing for any considerable proportion of our low income population on this basis, would be astronomical.

An alternative provided by private enterprise is the reconditioning of older houses. As neighborhoods change, there is often a tremendous depreciation in values. The cost per person in housing of this kind is only a fraction of the cost in the new public housing. Many of these older homes are large. In many cases, additional ground floor rooms can be added at comparatively little expense. These larger homes make good boarding houses where the owners can make a living or supplement their income and remain at home and take care of a number of people. The boarding house is an ancient and honorable American institution, older in fact than our nation. Such boarding houses with from 1 to 8 or 10 guests are now actually taking care of a large proportion of our retired citizens in the lower income brackets. Some states have recognized this fact and with the cooperation of churches and other interested groups have improved conditions and standards and in this way provided adequate and satisfactory housing for thousands of retired older people in these boarding houses.

An extension of this same idea is seen in the conversion of some older hotels for occupancy by retired people. Of course, hotel living for older and retired people is nothing new. Nearly all of the large hotels over the nation have some retired people living in them as permanent guests. The Menger Hotel in San Antonio is an outstanding example of a hotel in which many retired people have lived for years. This takes care of the needs of many wealthy retired people. There is certainly no shortage of facilities for people who can afford to pay $150.00 per month or more.

In Miami Beach and West Palm Beach in Florida and in other resort cities of a number of the older hotels have been converted into retirement hotels. The Ambassador Hotel in Dallas has followed this general plan and has been operated for the past five years on the American plan as a hotel for retired people.

Some of these hotels have been successful from a financial point of view. Some of them have not. All of them have found that there is no great unmet demand for such facilities which gives them automatically a waiting list of patrons.
 Those of us who are looking for solutions of the problem of retirement will do well to study the wisdom of the ages. In addition to the Bible, I have found some of the philosophy handed down from ancient times in India to be particularly helpful.

Move To Renovated Courthouse Beginning

By ARGENT DRAPER
Looks like moving has begun at the courthouse. I saw Otto Massie, Dave Alexander and Homer Henslee all telling Reuben Roundtree how to take the chairs out of the jury box in the court room. I thought that Reuben had enough advice so I went back to the office and went to work.

For eleven months we've been wondering how much we can get in our 10' x 16' office. It has had the test of this week — three people, two desks, three tables, five chairs, 8' cupboard, three sets of files, 50 dresses on our new dress rack, and a number of boxes. Loretta Fowler, Viola Rettman and I almost need an intercom system.

At long last, we have a dress rack of our own. The good merchants from whom we borrow had all the racks full. Wilbur Davis gave us a good and fast job on making the rack. There will be approximately 50 dresses in the 4 - H Dress Revue. The Dress Revue will be Friday, July 22, at 3 p. m. in the high school auditorium. The 4 - H girls and leaders will appreciate a good attendance. An added feature will be the modeling by the women who have taught the workshops. The 4 - H leaders will please be sure we have all the names of those who taught. They will be seated in a special section.

More bottles for sending water samples to be tested are leaving the office. "Don't Guess, Water Test."

Mrs. Henry Turner has a wonderful idea on hat making. She knows Mrs. Ray McDaniel who is an expert. Mrs. McDaniel teaches courses at Tech, all over West Texas and New Mexico. She will come to Hereford if there are enough persons interested — minimum, 10; maximum, 25. So, if you are interested, call Mrs. Turner or call the office.

Congratulations to Dyalitha Benson. She has been invited to talk to the State Convention of the Texas Home Demonstration Association. This meeting will be at Brownsville September 14, 15 and 16. She will talk on "Family Finance" to the 800 to 1,000 delegates. Dyalitha is chairman of the Family Economics Sub-committee in Deaf Smith County.

Mrs. Billy Hooten of Dawn was in town bright and early Monday morning. The Hootens are new residents in the community and Billy is going to be one of the club leaders. She and Helen Caraway are going to get the 4-H Club re-organized.

A letter from Janice Lady. I think I detected a slight note of home sickness. Janice and Jim would appreciate hearing from their friends. Send the letters to 2/Lt. James P. Lady, 154 Hughes St., Fort Huachuca, Ariz.

That was followed by a period of drinking before he landed in Texas. Demara took the alias of Ben W. Jones and hoodwinked the Texas Department of Corrections.

Demara rose rapidly from a guard to a spot as assistant warden at Huntsville. Escaping just as his past was catching up, he became a teacher in two different schools.

Demara is still somewhere in the United States, most likely doing an outstanding job at something for which he had no training.

His courage and initiative would have made him a success in almost any field, but none challenged him enough. Most impostors deceive people once or twice. Demara has done it more than a score of times.

You will have the choice of fried chicken or ham. On the buffet

OFF THE Shelf

By H. A. TUCK
The Great Impostor by Robert Crichton is such an incredible story it should be called fiction instead of fact. But the amazing career of Ferdinand Waldo Demara Jr. is fully documented. Born in Lawrence, Mass., he never recovered from his boyhood shock of being poor after his father went broke. Demara made his first big splash when he threatened a classmate with a pistol.

At 15 the huge youngster ran away to enter a Trappist monastery. The life of silence and diet wasn't for him. Demara then entered another order; became Brother John Berchmans.

That didn't work either and he transferred himself to an order and became a teacher in a boys' home.

Still unable to settle down, Demara joined the Army... which was a mistake for both parties. After becoming one of the Army's best goldbrickers, he perpetrated his first masquerade.

Through a sly trick, he acquired the papers of a buddy from New Orleans and became Anthony Ingolia. As the latter, he again sought to join a Catholic order. This was the Trappist monastery in Kentucky. Then came one in Iowa.

In each place, he acquired stationery and seals that made his fake papers appear real. Next was the Navy, which he joined after Pearl Harbor. Not content with his status, he first became a college graduate with a Ph. D., then a candidate for a commission. But he skipped again and went back to the monastery in Kentucky... for a short stay, naturally.

As Dr. French, a practicing psychologist, he had no trouble joining still another order. This time he was sent to college, where he made A's in two years of high school.

And there was another order in Milwaukee before he joined the staff of Gannon College in Pennsylvania. In a brilliant maneuver before the state legislature, he succeeded in getting the college promoted to a four-year status, but didn't get the post he sought.

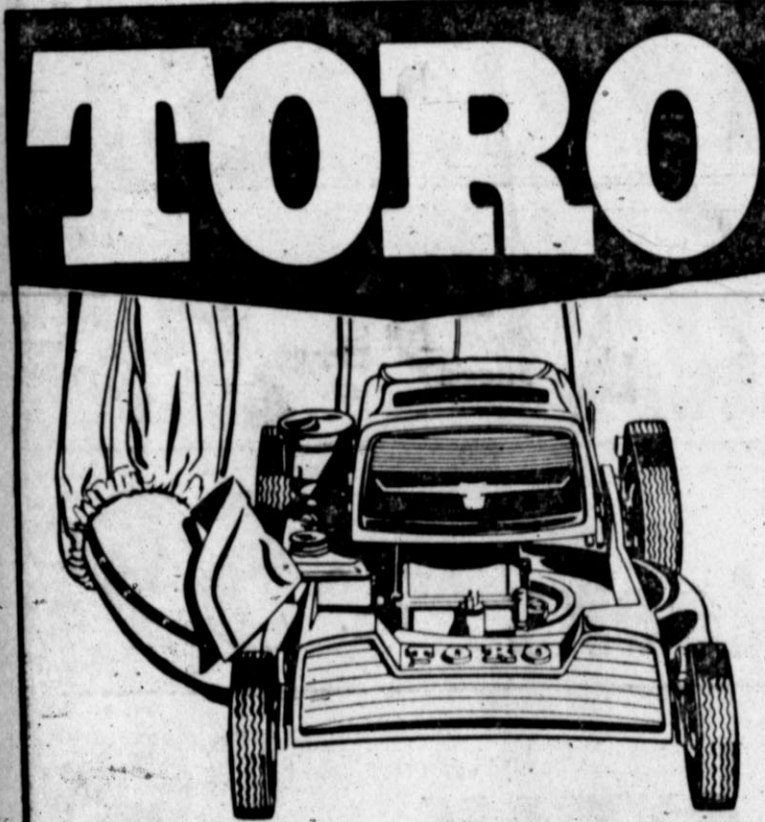

And there was the Catholic school in the Northwest where he headed the department of psychology.

It was there he was arrested on a charge of desertion in wartime. Conducting his own defense, he got off with an extremely light sentence for a charge which carried the death sentence.

For a short time after his release he became Dr. Cecil Royce Hamann and then joined another Catholic college.

But the most fantastic of them all came when he was commissioned as a Surgeon Lieutenant in the Royal Canadian Navy. During that period, he fell in love for the first time, but refused to marry the girl under a false name.

As the only doctor on board, he sailed for Korea on a destroyer. With only a scanty knowledge of medicine, Demara treated wounds and operated as Dr. Joseph C. Cyr... and he didn't lose a patient. But he was unmasked and dismissed from the service.

Hereford Pony Stars Split Contests With Denver City

In their first action as a team, the Hereford Pony League All-Stars split a doubleheader with the Denver City All-Stars Saturday night. Denver City won the first exhibition game, 12-5, but Hereford took the nightcap 7-1.

On Friday night, Denver City lost a game with Tahoka 5-4 in the last of the seventh inning. Saturday night, young Larry Rawls baffled the Hereford players with his fast ball. Rawls, who is 5-10 and just barely 13, struck out 17 in the seven inning game, allowing five runs on just three hits. In the second game, Lynn Warren used his southpaw delivery to handcuff Denver City. He gave up just one run on a two-hit performance and struck out 12.

Denver City opened the first game like a runaway horse. They got four big runs and were never headed. Mike Martin singled and Jimmy Mobley doubled to start things off. Jerry Edwards walked and Kim Freeman doubled.

Denver City got two more runs in the third as Mobley got on by error and Jerry Edwards homered over the left field fence.

Wayne Edwards finally marked up a run for Hereford in the third on a walk and an error. Hereford closed the gap slightly in the fifth, scoring two unearned runs. Ronnie Duncan walked and Wayne Edwards got on by a catcher's error. They came in on an error.

Two more runs counted for Denver City in the sixth. Jack Lowe walked and Jerry Dossey was safe on a fielder's choice that didn't get Lowe. An error let them score.

A catcher's error allowed Billy Hill to get on. He scored on an error.

Denver City added four more runs in the seventh, despite a nifty double play. Mobley singled, Jerry Edwards walked and Rawls got on by fielder's choice. Kenneth Rankin walked and Lowe walked.

Gaylan Otts grabbed Dossey's fly into center field and caught Lowe trying to come home from third. Otts also pulled a similar play in the third when he grabbed Kenneth Rankin's smash against the center field fence and doubled off Rawls at first. In the bottom of the seventh, Otts homered.

S. D. Baize was charged with the loss. He gave up six runs on five hits in three innings. He struck out three and walked two. Mike Ranspot pitched the next two innings, setting Denver City down in order with four strike outs. Frank Cain worked in the sixth and seventh. Otts pitched to one man in the seventh.

It was a different story in the second game as Hereford erased an early deficit and went on to win behind Warren's hurling.

In the last of the first, Mike Martin drew a walk, stole two bases and came in on a ground ball to first base. But that was the only run that Denver City could muster.

After being shut out in the first two innings, Hereford went ahead 2-1 in the third. Lynn Warren struck out but got to first as the pitch got away from the catcher. He stole two bases and romped home on Duncan's triple. Duncan stole home to put Hereford in front. Baize tallied in the third on a single, two stolen bases and an error.

And Hereford added three runs in the sixth. With two out, Otts doubled and Baize singled. Otts scored on a passed ball. Frank Cain got on by error and Hill doubled in two runs.

Chuck Callaway homered in the seventh in a pinch-hitter role to end Hereford's victory march.

Pat Hubbard started for Denver City, but the tall left hander was pulled in the fifth when Martin took over.

DESTRUCTION?

Maybe not! For since time began, all human progress has been marked by symbols... the golden calf, the dragon, an olive bough. The greatest was the XP symbol used by the Greeks to denote followers of Christ. Later the Christian Cross was used by Constantine when he said, "By this sign, thou shalt conquer." Now, a new symbol appears over the world... a scientific object of the atomic age. It signals the awesome need for understanding and world cooperation if we are to avoid total destruction and reap atomic benefits. May Christians influence world leaders to accept it, and may it be dedicated to peace and good will. Let's keep our symbols, but remember the Cross. Then we can say with Constantine, "By this sign, we shall conquer."

Barbecue Advice

BOSTON (AP) — A word of advice to all backyard barbecue cooks and chefs: "Don't barbecue yourself along with the steak."

The words are those of Miles Woodworth, flammable liquids expert of the National Fire Protection Assn., who adds: "Play it safe. Never add any kind of flammable liquid to an already burning fire."

He says the worst backyard cooking accidents are likely to happen when someone freshens an already started fire with kerosene, paint thinners, alcohol or one of the liquids sold to get a fire going.

"The moment one of these liquids hits a live coal," explains Woodworth, "there's a whoosh of flame which can envelop the arms and face of anyone nearby in a searing fire."

"Any starting liquids you use before a fire is lighted, use sparingly — and never use gasoline. Keep any containers holding these liquids far removed from the fire."

"Keep youngsters at a safe distance too," he advises, "especially little girls in party dresses."

MARITAL DISCRIMINATION — BOSTON (AP) — In Massachusetts, it is cheaper to marry a fellow Bay-Stater than anyone else.

A new law doubles the wedding license fee for the out-of-staters. The traditional $2 will still apply if both bride and groom are from Massachusetts. But if either or both are from outside the Commonwealth, it will be $4.

The town of Pella, Iowa (pop. 5,000) is settled almost entirely by descendants of immigrants from Holland. Dutch is spoken as often as English in the shops.
