Blackout Affects City, County

About 3,300 Southwestern Public Service Co. customers were without electricity for 45 minutes early today after a fuse blew at a Deaf Smith Rural Electric Co-Op substation east of Hereford.

Also affected in the blackout, which occurred at 2:54 a.m., were approximately 2,000 REC meters.

Inside the city limits, everything north of Park Ave. lost power after the blown fuse apparently tripped the SPS breaker which operates the Centre Street substation.

REC was unable to restore power for approximately two hours. Customers affected live east and south of Hereford and north from the city to Oldham County.

"The reason we didn't get electricity back on at the same time SPS did was because at that point we didn't know if it was their system or ours," REC manager James Hull said. "We disconnected our system at three substations until we isolated the trouble."

"We still don't know what caused the fuse to blow."

Hundreds of Hereford residents were late for work this morning, while schools admitted students who were tardy because of the blackout.

"We didn't have all that many kids come in late. I'd say we had about 50. Most of them did a pretty good job getting here," Hereford High Principal Jerry Don George said.

"I don't know how they all got here on time. I don't know how I got here on time."

Curtailments Blamed On Weatherman

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Blame the weatherman - at least in part - for natural gas curtailments during Texas' ice storm last week, states a railroad commission report.

The commission's gas utilities division said Monday a cold front that swept the state within 24 hours, mechanical failures and "understated temperature forecasting" caused the curtailments.

Only more accurate and timely forecasting and enlarged gas storage facilities can head off other curtailments, the report said.

The preliminary report on the Jan. 1-4 crisis was submitted to the commission by division director Joseph Piotrowski.

Commissioner Mack Wallace asked Piotrowski for a full study in order to avoid future curtailments. He said the study should analyze how consumers' energy costs are affected by curtailments.

The staff found that five of the state's largest transmission systems - Pioneer Natural Gas Co. of Amarillo; Lone Star Gas Co. of Dallas; Lo-Vaca Gathering Co., serving South and Central Texas; Arklia Gas Transmission Co., serving East and Southeast Texas; and United Gas Pipeline Co. - imposed "substantive

Chamber Tickets Still on Sale At C-C, Banks

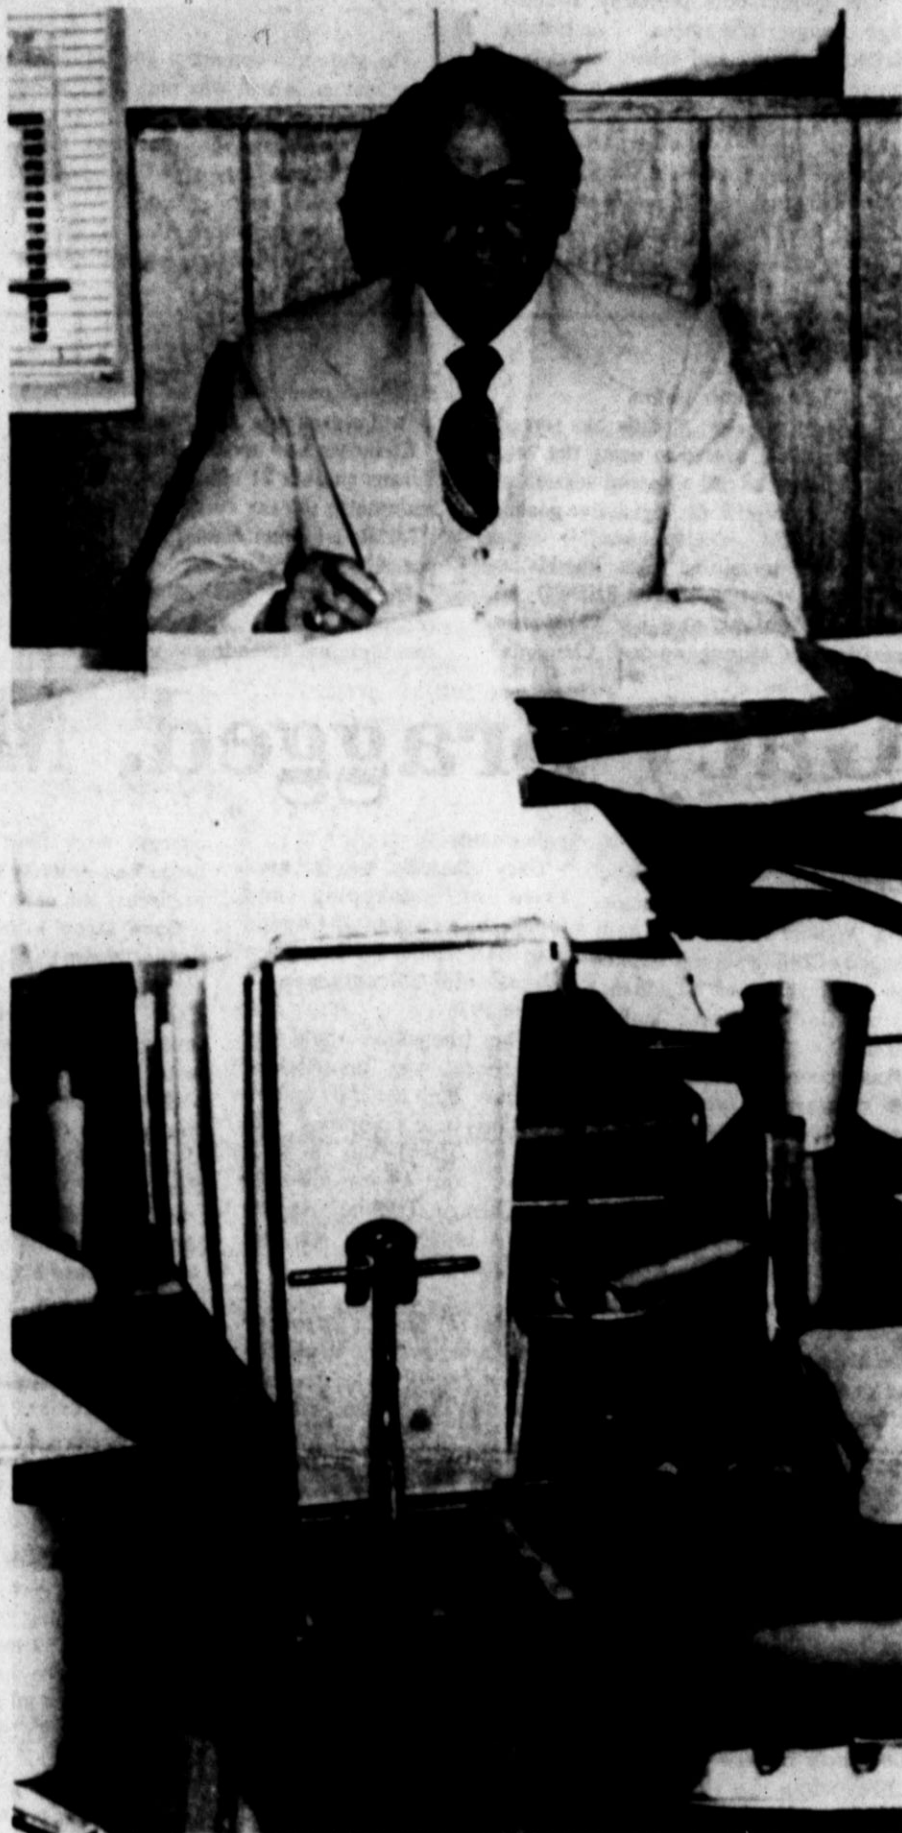

Tickets for the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Banquet Thursday night in the Bull Barn remained on sale today at the chamber office and both banks.

Ticket price is $10, with limited seating space available for the affair.

The citizen of the year will be named by Lions club presidents at the banquet, and chamber officers and directors will be introduced.

Jerry Clower, of Yazoo, Miss., will be the featured speaker at the banquet. Clower is one of the most sought-after banquet speakers in the country, having been named "country comic of the year" the last four years.

Clower is co-host of "Nashville on the Road", a nationally-syndicated television show, has written a bestseller, "Ain't God Good!" and has released several record albums.

First Meeting for Judge

County Increases Rates For Use of Equipment

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Like everything else, the prices for doing custom work with county equipment and manpower have gone up - thanks to an action Monday by Deaf Smith County commissioners.

But the commission raised its rates not because of inflation, but to put the county in a non-competitive position with private companies, which recently all raised their fees.

The county has done custom work for years, but according to Commissioner Bruce Coleman, the service never has been advertised.

"It's wrong to use tax money to undercut private business," Coleman said. "We're just not running a custom business."

Equipment rental rates were raised as

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House Small Business Committee has filed a brief with the U.S. Court of Appeals in St. Louis, Mo., stating that it has documents showing "significant, deliberate and repeated violations of this nation's civil and criminal laws by Iowa Beef Processors, Inc."

A copyrighted story in Tuesday's editions of the Des Moines Register said the committee stated that "these violations have resulted in the loss of millions of dollars to the customers and competitors of IBP."

The committee told the court it is planning to make the documents public during congressional hearings in February.

Iowa Beef has asked the Court of Appeals to prevent the committee, headed by Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa, from disclosing the papers.

The committee obtained the documents in a series of legal actions involving federal courts in Iowa and Texas.

The papers were taken from IBP by a former company vice president, Hughes Bagley.

The committee said in its brief that "the Bagley documents could expose past and present high corporate officials of IBP to felony criminal charges for violations of the anti-trust laws."

A lawyer for Iowa Beef, James T. Malysiak of Chicago, said the company would respond to the committee's charges on possible violations of the law in another brief, which will be filed by the firm with the court this morning.

Malysiak said the company will have no comment on the committee's charges until after the brief is filed with the court.

Iowa Beef, the nation's largest beef packing company, was the subject of an inquiry by the Agriculture Department's Packers and Stockyards Administration.

But Smith has said he is not satisfied with the USDA investigation, and that his Small Business Committee will continue to probe the business practices of large meat packing companies.

Smith says large packers' methods of buying live cattle and selling meat affect smaller packing companies and cattle producers, as well as consumers.

The committee's papers to the Court of Appeals also say, "Additionally, the Bagley documents reveal that after lawyers for IBP analyzed the anti-trust laws of the United States, IBP officials willfully and intentionally continued to violate the federal anti-trust statutes."

"In addition to the apparent violations of the anti-trust statutes, the Bagley documents also show apparent violations of the conspiracy laws of the United

Iowa Beef has charged before the St. Louis court that the committee "seized" the documents in a series of actions the company calls "lawlessness."

The committee last fall subpoenaed Des Moines lawyer Lex Hawkins, ordering him to produce documents Bagley gave him.

Hawkins had obtained the documents in connection with a civil suit involving IBP. They had been "sealed" under a protective order issued by a federal district court.

The committee's effort to obtain the Bagley documents from Hawkins was rejected by a federal judge in Texas, where the civil suit is being litigated.

The Small Business Committee then subpoenaed Bagley, who lives in Sioux City. That subpoena was upheld by U.S. District Judge Edward McManus in Cedar Rapids.

McManus ruled Nov. 22 that the committee had the right to the Bagley documents.

Some 3,000 pages of documents from Bagley are in the committee's offices.

Iowa Beef has offered to give the documents to the Small Business Committee if the committee will agree not to make the papers public.

Clayton Expected To Lead House When Legislators Convene Today

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The 66th Legislature, holding a constitutional mandate for property tax relief and wondering how a Republican governor will deal with Democratic lawmakers, convened at noon today.

Early items of business included election of a House speaker, with Bill Clayton of Springdale expected to win an unprecedented third consecutive term, and appointment of Senate committees.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, presiding officer of the Senate, had one juicy plum to hand out - chairmanship of the Senate Finance Committee, which writes that chamber's version of the two-year state budget.

Sen. A.M. Aikin, D-Paris, longtime chairman of the powerful committee, chose not to seek re-election.

Clayton must delay his appointments until the House decides Republican Kae Patrick's contest of the re-election of Rep. Don Cartwright, D-San Antonio. Cartwright has several years' seniority, which is considered in making House committee assignments.

The speaker said he hoped the House could make its decision on Patrick's challenge early enough for him to announce appointments before lawmakers recess for the weekend.

Committee assignments are important because most of the Legislature's work of screening and rewriting bills takes place in the committees.

Clayton swears he has made no committee decisions and "only moved my little magnetic board out to the house Sunday evening."

He said he had not decided whether to return the chairmen of the major committees or shuffle the deck.

"If I change one of them, I am going to change them all," he said.

One chairman who asked for a new assignment was Rep. Tom Massey, D-San Angelo, who has run the House Public Education Committee since 1975.

That committee will deal with the tough issue of school finance, particularly whether to include intangible wealth such as cash, stocks and bonds when measuring a school district's need for state aid.

Clayton hopes for a House vote on permanent operating rules Wednesday, the same day Gov. Dolph Briscoe makes his farewell speech. Briscoe is expected to recommend that lawmakers cut taxes another $1 billion.

Among Clayton's proposed rule changes is creation of two new committees - one to handle all "sunset" legislation and another to give separate consideration to the "human services" issues that went last session to the House Health and Welfare Committee.

Clayton could have trouble on rules from the Sam Houston Caucus, a loosely organized group of representatives who claimed during last year's "tax relief session" that he was abusing his power.

The caucus' proposals include election of committee chairmen and vice chairmen by committee members themselves.

Clayton said he's not giving up any powers voluntarily, including the appointment of committee chairmen.

One major task facing the session is passage of bills implementing the "Tax Relief Amendment" to the Texas Constitution, which voters approved in November.

Legislators must decide how to tax agricultural land on its productivity instead of its market value. The amendment says they must do it but doesn't say how. Another decision legislators will face is whether to give the elderly and disabled more than the $5,000 school tax exemption all homeowners will receive from the amendment.

The amendment also allows legislators to exempt up to two personal cars per family from property taxes.

Gov.-elect Bill Clements, who will take office Jan. 16, has threatened a special session if the Legislature does not implement the "Tax Relief Amendment" satisfactorily to him.

Clements, the first Republican governor in 100 years, has only 26 members of his party among the 180 lawmakers. The GOP total would rise if Gerald Geistweidt of Mason defeats independent candidate Scott Stehling of Kerrville in a run-off for the House seat given up by Jim Nugent last week.

Nugent was appointed by Briscoe to the

Politicians To Tackle Several 'People Issues'

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Hairy "Banditos" will mingle with fundamentalist preachers and pin-striped savings and loan lobbyists in the crowd of Texans trying to sway legislators in the next five months.

True, the 66th Legislature will spend much time in the stratosphere of multi-billion dollar budget, school finance and tax relief questions.

But there will be plenty of issues that are grounded in the flesh-and-blood quality of consumer life, crime, driving a car or motorcycle, renting an apartment, child care, buying an insurance policy, borrowing money or even smoking a cigarette.

Look also for some readily understandable fights over the structure of government, presidential primaries and amendments to the U.S. Constitution.

Motorcyclists already are writing letters to editors opposing the push for restoration of the law requiring them to wear crash helmets.

Since the 1977 Legislature repealed the law for persons 18 and older, the number of motorcyclists killed in traffic accidents has risen sharply, the Department of Public Safety says.

"There's undoubtedly a correlation," said DPS spokesman Jim Robinson.

Banditos and other cyclists flocked to the Capitol in 1977 to urge repeal of the helmet law, and a rerun is expected now that Rep. Henry Allee, D-Houston, has a bill to mandate helmets again.

Another repeat performance from last session is likely on the issue of child care licensing.

Fundamentalist ministers - led by evangelist Lester Roloff - are expected to push again for a bill dropping the requirement that child care institutions operated in the name of religion be licensed by the Texas Department of

The Branding Iron

Penultimate Word-er Becomes Noted Author

By MARC HERRING
Staff Writer

An admitted penoholic, collector of children's books and giver of warm fuzzies, Doug Manning is not your run-of-the-mill preacher.

Pastor of the First Baptist Church in Hereford, Manning spends his time writing as well as doing his church responsibilities. A weekly contributor to the Hereford Brand with his Penultimate Word, Manning has been writing for 15 years.

"I started writing while living in Tulsa, and at the time it was very difficult," Manning said. "But the continuous practice, I write every sermon in long hand as well as all of my correspondence, it has become much easier now."

He recently finished his first book and has sold out the first edition of 10,000 copies. The book, a publication for funeral directors to give to ministers, deals with the problems of grief due to a death of a member's family.

A second book, soon to be released deals with the problems that a family has and will be available to individuals as a gift edition.

Having been in Hereford since the summer of 1973, Manning is happy to be back in a small town.

"I lived in Hereford 10 years and the confines of the city with the anonymity that goes with being in a setting like that is hard to live in for a person that was raised in small towns," Manning said.

Born and raised in Frederick, Oklahoma, Manning has spent most of his time in smaller towns.

"It was a joy to come back to a small town such as Hereford where you can be involved with the whole town and its progress," Manning said.

Besides his writing and the normal duties that go with being a pastor of a church, Manning spends a lot of his time going to college campuses to speak to the students. He has been to 30 of the 50 states as well as Canada.

Along with traveling to the campus setting, he urges individuals to help with the needs that students and people of the community might have.

Programs started in the local church are the Good Neighbor idea where if someone needs a helping hand they just have to call the church to have their 'neighbor' help them in any way they can. Other programs Manning has helped to start at the church include a free counseling center for those who want it.

Death To Be Sought For Murder Suspect

CHICAGO (AP) - The electric chair will be sought for John Wayne Gacy, indicted on charges of murdering seven young men and boys whose bodies were buried at his suburban Chicago home or thrown into a nearby river, authorities say.

Bernard Carey, Cook County states attorney, said Monday he would ask for Gacy's execution. He said there was "more than one reason" why prosecutors could ask for the death penalty, but he refused to elaborate.

Gacy was indicted Monday by a Cook County grand jury for the seven murders. Investigators have found the remains of 26 young men and boys beneath Gacy's home in Des Plaines, a northwest Chicago suburb. The remains of another body were found beneath his garage.

Gacy reportedly has confessed to the killings - the nation's largest mass murder in this century - telling police he had sex with 32 boys and young men, then killed them.

Police believe five bodies were thrown into the Des Plaines River. The bodies of two young men have been recovered from the river and linked to Gacy, authorities said.

Eight of the remains found at the Gacy home have been identified, in addition to the two bodies recovered from the river.

Refinery Workers

Delay Strike Threat

DENVER (AP) - The nation's 60,000 oil refinery workers continued to delay their threatened nationwide strike, as union officials awaited Carter Administration reaction to a possible 73-cent-per-hour raise.

The contract dispute is the first major union showdown over President Carter's voluntary wage-price guidelines, which allow for a 7 percent increase in wages and benefits over the life of a contract.

A.F. Grospron, president of the Oil,

Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union, confirmed Monday that he had been in touch with officials of Carter's anti-inflation program. He said he sought "an interpretation of how the wage guidelines would be applied to contract settlements within the oil industry."

Some of the officials, who Grospron did not identify, were to meet with Grospron today in Denver, the union president said.

White House spokesman Mark Henderson said he did not know of any such meeting.

The union leader said Monday the possibility of a nationwide walkout remained "very real." But he said there would be no immediate strike despite the expiration of contracts Sunday night. Most workers were on the job Monday, although oil workers stayed out at Gulf and ARCO refineries in Port Arthur, Texas.

The strike was delayed by an offer from Amoco calling for a 73-cent-per hour raise in the first year and a wage reopener clause the second year.

National Front Head

Raps Iran's Regime

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Karim Sanjaby, leader of the opposition National Front, assailed Iran's new civilian government today as a plot by "opportunistic characters" and said he is ready to lead a replacement government if approved by the country's Moslem leaders.

Sanjaby told reporters at a news conference he hopes the Iranian army "will understand the peoples' movement and act in accordance with it." But he denied he was urging the army disobe the civilian government of Shahpour Bakhtiar, formed Friday with Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi retained as constitutional monarch.

"The shah, who claims to have heard the voice of the revolution, has now resorted to a new plot," Sanjaby said.

"With a superficial change of cabinet, by using some opportunist characters and the most condemned tactics of propaganda, the Iranian regime and its supporters are attempting in vain to divert the struggle of the Iranian people in achieving its objectives."

Sanjaby said he was asked at the time the Bakhtiar government was formed to participate in a Regency Council that would take over the shah's powers when the monarch begins his long-anticipated lengthy leave of absence abroad. But Sanjaby said he had refused to join such a body "under the present situation."

Instead, he said he proposed a temporary government, under what he called a "National Council," that would rule the country with the blessing of Ayatollah Khomeini, the shah's exiled chief religious opponent.

Ex-Con To Testify In Rebuttal Phase

HOUSTON (AP) - Prosecutors vowed today to expose before a jury a jailed defense witness who testified he was offered $20,000 to kill millionaire defendant Cullen Davis.

Chief Prosecutor Tolly Wilson confirmed Monday night that ex-convict Larry Gene Lucas had been arrested and was held under $100,000 bond on a charge of aggravated perjury.

Wilson said the witness on which that charge was based will testify on rebuttal today that Lucas was lying when he told Det. 11 of the offer by FBI informant David McCrory.

McCrory, 40, is the state's key witness in Davis' murder conspiracy trial.

"Are you saying he'll blow Lucas out of the water?" a reporter asked Wilson before he produced his surprise witness.

"Yep," he replied. "I say it will go to the jury and they (defense lawyers) will be unable to prevent it," Wilson said. "It's perfectly legitimate rebuttal testimony. We have evidence that Lucas didn't talk to McCrory at all, at least not about that... It didn't happen the way he said it happened."

Lucas, a convicted burglar, testified last month that he was approached by McCrory in a Fort Worth bar and offered $10,000 to kill the Fort Worth industrialist. When he refused, Lucas said, McCrory upgraded the proposal to $20,000.

Weather

West Texas-Partly cloudy today, becoming mostly cloudy tonight and Wednesday with a chance of freezing drizzle or snow beginning Panhandle late tonight and spreading over most of West Texas Wednesday. A little warmer most sections, today turning colder Panhandle Wednesday. Highs mid 30s north to upper 50s south, mid 60s Big Bend. Lows upper teens north to mid 30s south. Highs Wednesday lower 30s north to mid 50s south, near 60 Big Bend.

Blackout

It was a stroke of luck," George said.

A Hereford police officer saw a flash of light east of the city at the same time the north part of Hereford fell into total darkness.

"We knew what direction it was," SPS manager Jake Webb said. "That's why it didn't take a long time to repair it."

Webb said that when the breaker was thrown, "it all just lit up."

Southwest Public Service received numerous complaints before power was restored. "It's amazing how many stay up that late," Webb said. "I bet I had five calls before I could get my clothes on."

Hull said that REC also received several complaints.

"We might not have known about it otherwise," Hull said. "We ask people to call in when their electricity goes off."

Gas

curtailments of gas.

The largest and most severe curtailments were by Lo-Vaca and Lone Star, the report stated.

"The curtailments primarily affected large usage customers - including electrical utilities and school districts - who either have agreed to an immediate interruptible status in return for low rates, or who have alternative fuel capability," the study said.

Approximately 1,000 residential customers in Jasper, Rusk, Weimer, Plugerville and NASA-Clear Lake had service curtailed for 10 hours because of mechanical problems, the study said.

The mechanical failures were at gas wells, gas processing plants and regulator substations.

The state's interconnect gas transmission system, which was set up to avoid curtailments, was not implemented, except for Lo-Vaca, the study said, "due to the rapid and widespread coverage of the subfreezing weather front."

The study concluded that a supply problem could be expected when there is a "sharply increased demand on the one hand and subfreezing - and in many cases, below zero - temperatures in producing and transmission areas throughout the state at one time."

It also said another curtailment is possible "whenever the wind chill factor is below 10 degrees Fahrenheit throughout the North, West, East and Central Texas areas at one time."

Piotrowski said nine engineers, four auditors and three statisticians were sent into the field within 24 hours of the first curtailment on Jan. 1.

Legislature

Texas Railroad Commission.

The governor-elect already has served notice he is not averse to using the veto and his power to call a special session in order to accomplish his legislative goals.

Clements appointed Tom Rhodes, a retired executive of his SEDCO oil drilling company and his campaign treasurer, on Monday to draft Clements' budget recommendations. Clements says he will present his budget about Feb. 1.

Clements has spoken often of giving Texans another $1 billion in tax relief in addition to the tax cuts provided by the "Tax Relief Amendment" and the 1978 special session.

He also will push the somewhat reluctant House and Senate for a constitutional amendment giving Texans the right to initiate laws by petition and pass them by referendum elections.

Despite losing the governor's race to Clements, Democrats are trying to start the session on the upbeat. Activities planned for Tuesday included a $25 per person Democratic "victory celebration" to crow about the offices the party did win.

Gacy Bragged, Man Says

CHICAGO (AP) - A 19-year-old Chicago man says he told police that contractor John Wayne Gacy Jr. had bragged of killing people, but he said authorities took no action, saying Gacy was a "solid citizen."

Police investigated the suburban contractor several times between 1975 and 1978, it was reported Sunday, but no felony charges were filed by authorities until bodies were found in Gacy's home.

The burly contractor also was placed under 24-hour surveillance for two weeks in 1976 after a 9-year-old Chicago boy was reported missing. Nothing came of the stakeout.

charges were filed because a judge has ordered officials not to discuss the case.

Gacy allegedly was accused twice of kidnapping and rape - by a 19-year-old Chicago man in December 1977, and by a 27-year-old Chicago man in March 1978.

"They (the police) would only say there was insufficient evidence: Both the cops and an assistant state's attorney said that he (Gacy) was a solid citizen," the 19-year-old told the Chicago Tribune. At the youth's request, he was not identified.

Assistant State's Attorney Jerry Latherow, who made the decision not to prosecute, said he couldn't explain why no five bodies in a river - including Piest's, which has not been recovered from the river.

Ten victims have been identified, including two teenagers whose disappearance police reportedly discussed with Gacy.

John Butkovich, 18, was last seen Aug. 1, 1975, when he went to Gacy's home to demand money Gacy owed him. His body was found beneath Gacy's garage.

Gregory Godzik, 17, another former employee, disappeared Dec. 12, 1976. Godzik's skeleton was found in a crawl space of Gacy's home.

Monday's meeting was the first of the year for the commission and the first-ever for County Judge Glen Nelson, who was elected last year to replace the retiring Sam Morgan.

In other business, commissioners agreed to send a list of bridges in the county to the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, contracted an Amarillo law firm to handle delinquent tax accounts, purchased a pickup, discussed a drinking violation of the Bull Barn contract, authorized bidding for a county depository and selected members to the salary grievance committee.

Selecting the committee, which is comprised of county officials and three 1978 grand jury members, is a routine thing, done once a year, County Clerk B.F. Cain said, adding that it is required according to state law.

Cain said another law requires that commissioners tell the state once a year whether county employees are paid on a fee or salary basis. Commissioners resolved to notify State Comptroller Bob Bullock that employees are on salary.

The state highway department notified the county that priority bridges in the state would be repaired or replaced with 80 percent federal funds and 20 percent state or local money.

Commissioners listed their precincts' bridges to Nelson and agreed to place a priority on repairs later.

Stagner-Orsborn Buick-Pontiac-GMC submitted the lowest of three bids for a new pickup. Stagner's pickup, a 1979 GMC costing $4,350 with trade-in, was purchased by the commission.

Commissioner Austin Rose said that a dance in the county-owned Bull Barn was held on Sunday - a violation of a city ordinance - and asked his fellow commissioners to add a clause to the facility's contract to prevent future Sunday dances.

The commission also discussed drinking in the Bull Barn - another violation of the law and one that apparently was broken by a group from Claude recently.

Rose said that the Claude group left "a case of beer and a bottle of whisky" on every table after it left the Bull Barn.

"Anybody that doesn't satisfy the contract, should forfeit their right to use the Bull Barn," Rose said. The commission voted to add that clause, too, to the contract.

The commission will open bids for a depository for county funds at its next meeting Jan. 22.

Other "people issues" likely to occupy the lawmakers after they convene Tuesday include legislation that would:

-Repeat the 1961 "blue law" that forbids sale of more than 40 categories of merchandise on consecutive Saturdays and Sundays.

-Create a state fund, fed by added court costs in certain criminal and traffic cases, to compensate victims of violent crimes for their out-of-pocket losses.

-Get tough with drunken drivers. One proposal would suspend their licenses for 90 days and require imprisonment of those with two convictions in five years.

-Establish greater tenant rights to clean, liveable apartments, including a right to make repairs at the landlord's expense if he fails to respond to complaints.

-Change rape laws, as in Oregon, to make it a crime for a man to force sexual relations on his wife.

-Expand the state's no-smoking law to include such places as stores and nursing homes.

-Require motorists to have liability insurance and force insurance companies to disclose their guidelines for denying coverage to certain drivers.

Names In The News

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) - Is Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. planning another $1 billion tax cut for California? "Tune in next week," he says.

In a televised interview, the Democratic governor hinted there may be new tax cuts in store when he makes his inaugural address Monday night.

Brown trimmed $1 billion from the state income tax last summer and promised further cuts if elected to a second, four-year term.

"We're not asking for more taxes. In fact, we may be even looking to see how we can eliminate a few," Brown said on Wednesday.

Asked if that meant he would cut taxes again, Brown replied, "We might just do that... Tune in next week."

Senate President Pro Tem James Mills said Thursday that Brown put a tentative $1 billion price tag on the tax cuts in a briefing of Democratic lawmakers.

NEW YORK (AP) - Sen. Jacob Javits says it would take more than one punch to knock him out of the political ring.

While the 74-year-old New York Republican says he hasn't made up his mind about a re-election bid, Javits says he wouldn't give up if he failed to win the Republican nomination in the primary.

"If I run, I'll run under some emblem other than the Republican emblem if someone else gets the nomination," Javits told the New York Daily News.

Human Resources.

They eked out a tiny margin in the House last session but the bill died in the Senate.

This time, they claim support from Gov.-elect Bill Clements, but Clements contends he made no promise other than to hear them out and consider their case.

Savings and loan associations, claiming Texas' 10 percent ceiling on interest lags behind national trends on real estate loans, will seek an increase to 12 percent.

Mortgage rates nationally are expected to reach 11 percent, they say, arguing that they will be hard-pressed to compete for lendable funds if the Texas rate does not rise also.

Some businessmen will attempt revision of the 1973 Texas Consumer Protection Act, which provides triple damages for victims of deceptive trade practices.

"The business community is very anxious to do something about the treble damages part of the act," said House Speaker Bill Clayton.

Gene Fondren, chief lobbyist for Texas auto dealers, said the law should be changed to penalize only businessmen who deliberately deceive customers. In addition, he said, only those who actually suffer economic harm should receive damages.

Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, said he expects an "assault" on the consumer protection law and, "I'll be working to minimize the damage."

Another attempt likely will be made to rescind the Legislature's ratification of the U.S. Equal Rights Amendment.

"If it is re-introduced, we will do everything we can to see it a rescission resolution is passed," said Richard Harvey of Tyler, chairman of the Texas Conservative Union.

He said his organization also would fight ratification of a U.S. constitutional amendment giving Washington, D.C., representation in Congress.

Another major fight likely will be over a presidential primary, something ardently sought by Republicans but to which conservative Democrats have been lukewarm.

A pre-filed House bill would establish a primary and use its results to prorate national political convention delegates among presidential candidates.

Conservatives - backed by Clements - plan to work hard for submission of a constitutional amendment giving Texans the right to initiate new laws and pass

Free Enterprise Week

Distributive Education students of Hereford High School met with Mayor Bartley Dowell for a proclamation declaring the week of January 8-12 as Free Enterprise Week. Stephanie Paetzold, a 2-year DE student will be traveling to Amarillo February 3 to compete in Free Enterprise contest. She is sponsored by Phillips 66. Miss Paetzold will present programs for local service clubs and present exhibits on Free Enterprise. Standing are left James Warden, Kenny Shore, Alonso Cabazuela, Stephanie Paetzold, Geni Welty, Ronnie Province, Martha Limas, Tony Melugin, Mary Lee Simon, Socorro Valdez and Serbie Quintana. (Brand photo by Denise Smith)

Tickets Available for Heart Ball

Tickets are on sale now for the third annual Heart Ball, which is a non-profit, fund-raising benefit for the American Heart Association. The formal dinner/dance will be held at the Country Club on the evening of Jan. 20.

Tickets may be bought at a price of $50 per couple at either local bank, from any local Heart Association member or from a member of Kappa Iota Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority. All gifts to the Heart Association, including the Heart Ball's ticket fees, are tax-deductible. Approximately half of the ticket price will go for the evening's meal and entertainment. The remainder will go as a direct donation to the Heart Association.

Providing dance music during the party will be Tiffany Brass from Amarillo. A gourmet meal will be prepared by the Country Club chefs.

The Heart Ball officially kicks off the local heart fund drive in Deaf Smith County. Dean Stallings, chairman of this year's drive, reminds local residents that February will be Heart Month here. The annual door-to-door drive will be Feb. 18.

Group Finalizes Open House Plans

Plans to introduce the new gift shop in the hospital lobby during an Open House on Sunday, Jan. 14, were discussed by members of Deaf Smith General Hospital Auxiliary Monday afternoon. The group convened over lunch at K-Bob's Steak House.

Duties during the Open House, which will be held from 2-5 p.m., were assigned among the Auxiliary volunteers. Also, special invitations were mailed to local physicians, pharmacists and their families.

Three guests were welcomed, including Doris Johnson, Joyce Aycock and Margie Mehlerberg. Olivia Denning, Auxiliary president, conducted the monthly meeting.

Other members in attendance were Mary Johnson, Marilyn Larsen, Jane White, Grace Covington, Irene Reinart, Dorothy Betzen, Lupe Cerda and Olivia Brown.

Synthetic Suede Good For Easy Care, Wear

COLLEGE STATION — Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Easy-care "knowhow" makes synthetic suede one of today's "main attractions" in fashion, says Nancy Brown, a clothing specialist.

Synthetic suede combines the plushness of suede with the easy-care properties of synthetic blends.

Suede look-alikes will machine wash and dry — and they boast resistance to wrinkling, shrinkage, spotting and fraying. But be careful, she warns. Miss Brown is with the Texas

To remove excess moisture, roll the garment in a towel. Lay it flat or hang it to dry.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

One thing about Americans. They turn every adversity into an asset.

Take the energy crisis. Please. When we were told to cut back on the use of big appliances for small baking and heating jobs, there were no less than 500 small appliances that flooded the market.

There's a deep fat fryer for two shrimp. A grill for one hamburger. A Teflon top for one egg. There's a mini-oven for baking two biscuits at a time. An excuse-the-expression two-holer to bake two doughnuts.

There are crocks to accommodate an entire meal, a skillet for cooking one-dish meals, and Woks if you're feeling Oriental.

There are popcorn poppers, waffle grills and miniature percolators for one cup of coffee. There are hot beverage makers, beer pots, chili pots and electric units to keep your pots hot after you've unplugged them.

There are electric socks, blankets, handwarmers and here's a must...a unit that will heat your golf balls to insure you a more satisfying "hit" in cold weather. Where you plug in the unit is your challenge.

There are electric clocks that will not only awaken you by radio, but will project the time on the ceiling of any darkened room in large digital numerals.

There's an electric gun that looks like a six-shooter that fires out hors d'oeuvres, cookies and canapes. There are electric salad spinners to rid your greens of moisture, an electric knife, and an electric sharpener to sharpen your electric knife.

When you cut down on your energy by bringing in a pizza, there's an electric heating element to heat up your pizza if it has turned cold.

Do you have to spend time away from your appliances? No. There's a new unit for you that plugs into the cigarette lighter of your car, camper, van, or boat. You can make stews in it, bake cookies, toast sandwiches, or heat soups.

And don't forget the electric plant turner to assure your favorite blossoms that they will always be turned toward the light.

Americans have rallied so well to the challenge of having to cut back that I am reluctant to tell them about my new discovery of an appliance that cooks several meals at a time, heats up the kitchen, keeps food warm, cooks it, bakes it, has a see-through glass, cleans itself, heats golf balls and tells time.

I call it...an oven.

Merry Mixers Elect Officers

Merry Mixers Square Dance Club members convened Friday night at the Community Center for the election of officers to a six-month term, beginning Feb. 1.

Chosen to serve as club officers were Johnny and Betsy Kuper, president; Rocky and Helen Lee, vice president; Trow and Marjie Mims, secretary; Carlyle and Dorothy Sargeant, treasurer; James and Sandy Burrus, social chairman; and Lester and Frances Rape, Panhandle Square Dance Association representatives.

Following the business session, seven squares danced to the calling of Sid Perkins of Amarillo.

Square dance lessons, sponsored by the Merry Mixers, began Monday evening at the Community Center. These classes will be held each Monday from 8-10 p.m. with Freddie McKee of Amarillo as instructor. Fee for the instruction will be $25 per couple. Enrollment in the classes will remain open until Jan. 22.

The Merry Mixers' next scheduled dance will be Friday, Jan. 19 at the Community Center, beginning at 8 p.m. The caller will be announced at a later date.

Eating Out Need Not Add Inches to Waist

COLLEGE STATION — Avoid a waistline disaster when eating out by planning in advance, a foods and nutrition specialist, Marilyn Haggard, advises.

Remember, extra calories do count and they do show — on you, she points out.

Miss Haggard is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

So, keep the following suggestions in mind:

*When eating lunch out regularly, plan smaller morning and evening meals.

*When eating a late evening meal out, eat a light snack such as a piece of fruit, a small cube of cheese or a couple of crackers earlier in the evening to curb appetite.

*Read menus carefully selecting entrees that are broiled, baked or grilled.

Avoid items which are prepared with breading, sauces and gravies.

Remove breading from fried meats and discard.

*Select plain vegetables. Cut baked potatoes in half and eat only one portion.

Limit butter or margarine to one pat and season to taste. Decline sour cream, cheese and bacon bits.

*Green salads are an excellent slimming choice. Ask for dressing on the side.

Use only enough to lightly moisten and flavor the salad. Better yet, request vinegar or lemon juice for the salad.

*Limit intake of extra bread servings by asking that the server not leave bread baskets on the table.

*Instead of cocktails try a fruit or vegetable juice.

*Ask that plates be removed immediately after finishing and do not return to buffet lines for seconds.

*When eating at fast food establishments, select the smaller burger or fish dinner. Remove batter from fried chicken to save calories.

Thin crusted pizza is lower in calories than thicker crusted pizza.

Citrus Fruits Make Economical Choices

COLLEGE STATION — Except for late-breaking changes due to weather, the best buys at Texas grocery markets this week are citrus fruits, chicken, dry peas and several vegetables. Gwendolyn Clyatt reports.

Of course, widespread crop damage by the New Year freeze may drastically change some supplies and prices as farmers begin to assess their losses, she adds.

Mrs. Clyatt is a consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

FRESH FRUITS — So far, grapefruit is now at top quality and lowest prices. For greatest nutrition, eat the pulp, too.

POULTRY — Whole fryer chickens are a best buy at meat counters. Egg prices may drop a few cents, but eggs are still an economical buy at current prices.

FRESH VEGETABLES — Best values include turnips, hard-shell squash, cabbage, carrots, broccoli, rutabagas and potatoes.

GROCERY MARKET AISLES — Dry split peas offer nutrition at budget prices.

BEEF — Best buys are ground beef and beef liver — figured on a cost-per-serving basis.

DAIRY — Features include several cheeses, low-fat milk, half-and-half, sour cream and whipping cream.

PORK — Prices remain on the high side. Usually the best values are Boston butt roasts, shoulder steaks and quarter loins cut into chops.

Students of Hereford High School Graduating class of 1977-78 presented a check for $1,487.00 to the Hereford Division Opportunity Plan. The money was left from money raised by the students. The Opportunity Plan is a Non-profit Cooperative operating out of Canyon. The purpose of the organization is to aid students interested in attending college. Left are Wilma Braddy, counselor at Hereford High School; Milton Morris, executive vice president of the Opportunity Plan; and Patti Hendon, 1977-78 class president.

Mrs. Worley Honored With EH Nomination

Verlene Worley, president of Dawn Extension Homemakers Club was selected as that chapter's nominee for "EH Woman of the Year" Friday morning during a business meeting in Dawn Community Center.

The "Woman of the Year" award will be presented in February by The Hereford Brand.

In other business Friday, Dawn members fixed their 1979 budget and completed their new yearbooks. Also, club projects for the coming year were selected.

The chapter nominated several of its members to attend the THDA District Meeting in Wellington during the month of April. The final list of delegates from Deaf Smith County will be chosen by the local Extension Homemakers Council.

Claudette Mitchell, assistant county extension agent, presented a program concerning "Being an Informed Patient."

Club members in attendance included Mmes. Bill Alexander, Jim Fowler, J.D. Fowler, Leroy Johnson, Jim McCabe, H.V. McCabe, Richard Paschel, Dale Wofford, John Wilson and Mrs. Worley.

The club's next regular meeting will be Jan. 19 in the Dawn Community Center.

4-H Firsthand

4-H'ERS TACKLE CONSERVATION CONCERNS.

Soil erosion is one of the toughest problems facing ecology-conscious Americans today. But young 4-H conservationists are gearing up to work toward a solution.

Letting land heal itself by lying dormant rehabilitates the soil but removes it from its valuable role as cropland. The answer seems to lie in modern soil conservation techniques, but reclamation takes money and a lot of knowledge.

Young people from 9 to 19 years of age in the national 4-H conservation of natural resources program, supported by John Deere, are learning-by-doing to acquire that know-how. Their projects and activities, supervised by the Extension Service, also address such concerns as forest conservation, maintenance of fish and wildlife, population, air and water pollution, and waste disposal. The program encourages 4-H members to appreciate social and economic values of natural resources, to learn effective conservation methods, and to explore career opportunities related to conservation.

Each year, Deere provides

$1,000 scholarships for six national winners in the program. In addition, 50 state winners receive expense-paid trips to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago each year. Four 4-H'ers per county can earn medals of honor. The company also offers a $50 cash award to one county in each state reporting the most outstanding 4-H conservation program. Ten clubs per state and four clubs per county are eligible for certificates.

Awards are arranged by the National 4-H Council and winners are chosen by the Extension Service.

Recent winners in the program have included an Illinois 4-H'er who single-handedly planted more than 3,000 trees in his county conservation district with the help of a mechanical tree planter. Another youth conducted research on a little-known mountain sucker fish that has good potential as a forage species for trout.

Young people can learn more about the 4-H conservation of natural resources program by contacting the county Extension office.

Craft Club To Offer Quilting Workshop

Betty Sturquell will conduct a three-hour quilting workshop in the Simms Community Building northwest of Hereford, Wednesday. All interested persons are invited to attend as guests of Simms Study-Craft Club.

Club members will provide the covered dish fare.

Workshop hostesses will be Rita Bronniman and Sondra Blankenship.

There are more than 2,000 different species of catfish.

Persons interested in attending the workshop, which will begin at 10 a.m., are asked to pre-register with Elsie Lloyd, 578-4560. The workshop fee of $5 will include the cost of instruction and the kit for making a cathedral window quilt. Each person attending will leave with a finished product.

The instruction will be presented in two parts, with a luncheon to be served at noon.

Ann Landers

Underwear Misleading

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was very much amused by the letter from the woman whose mother had taught all her daughters to always wear clean, good-looking underwear (no pins, rips or worn-out bloomers, girls) in case a sudden illness or an accident might land them in a hospital. How dreadful if the gossipy nurses should latch on to such scandalous information as THAT!

It so happens my husband is very finicky about his shorts. He discards them if they have the tiniest rip. In fact, he refuses to wear anything that has been mended. He says when he was young and poor he had his fill of darned socks and patched shirts.

I have no quarrel with this. If he wants to be ultra-fastidious it's OK with me. But — I don't share his notions. In fact, I go to the other extreme. I'm Scotch by birth and have always been thrifty. It so happens my hip size is about the same as his and I don't mind wearing his prematurely discarded shorts. I might add, he has a great sense of humor and thinks it's hilarious.

When I read that letter it occurred to me that if I should ever get hit by a bus and land in the hospital, the nurses would think for sure I was a transvestite! Right? — Straight But Frugal.

DEAR S. BUT F.: Not necessarily, dear. They would probably think you were pregnant. It is not uncommon for P.G. gals to wear their husband's shorts. Now — which would you prefer?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I felt both angry and sad when I read that letter about the seven-year-old boy who drowned because a bunch of heartless onlookers made no attempt to help the child. In fact, one witness said the water was so filthy he wouldn't think of jumping in.

First — every child should be taught to swim as soon as he learns to walk — or earlier. Second, it is appalling that in that group of gawkers not one person knew anything about life-saving techniques. If just one person had tossed the youth something "floatable" . . . an empty plastic garbage can, a log, an inner tube, a styrofoam cooler, the boy's life might have been saved. It doesn't take much to keep a seven-year-old afloat.

Every day on my way to work I walk across a bridge that goes over the Chicago River. I've often thought, "What would I do if one morning I should hear someone in the river screaming for help?" I'm sure my instincts would overcome any fears I might have and I would jump in. But when I read that column I suddenly realized I wouldn't know how to jump from such a

Texas Arbor Day Slated Jan. 19

COLLEGE STATION — Texas Arbor Day, the day traditionally set aside to plant trees, will be observed this year on Jan. 19.

"What better way to aid in preserving our environment than by planting a tree adapted to our area of this great state," emphasizes Everett Janne, landscape horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Arbor Day was once a special event in the lives of many Texas citizens. In many communities, the trees that are so admired today are the direct result of the labor and attention given so readily by children and interested adults of by-gone generations, notes Janne.

"In recent years, much has been written about the value of trees for purposes other than to provide lumber and shade. Research reports indicate that tree barriers can reduce noise levels as much as 50 percent. They also serve as giant air cleaners filtering out the dust as well as using the carbon dioxide in the air to produce the lumber and shade we need," says Janne.

"Too often we take the majestic beauty of our trees for granted; we forget the benefits they give us. As a gift to future generations, we should initiate programs in our community to plant trees in our home yards, parks, public grounds and many of the so-called waste lands, contends the landscape horticulturist.

When planting a tree, give some thought in selecting varieties and species to the area, advises Janne. Too frequently people are impatient and want immediate results, so weak, fast growing varieties are used. All too often the silver maple, cottonwood, Siberian elm and other rapidly growing trees grow, mature and die out in one or two generations. For permanent plantings select oak, pecan, magnolia, bald cypress, Deodar cedar and similar species.

"Remember, Texas Arbor Day occurs during the prime tree planting season. The cold, usually moist soil at this time allows tree roots to become established before top growth occurs. Trees are usually in prime condition for transplanting at this time and the chances for success are greatest," says Janne.

GOOD FIGHTER

CRANSTON, R.I. (AP) — When Jason Pisano's parents want to buy him a gift they tend to stay away from the ordinary.

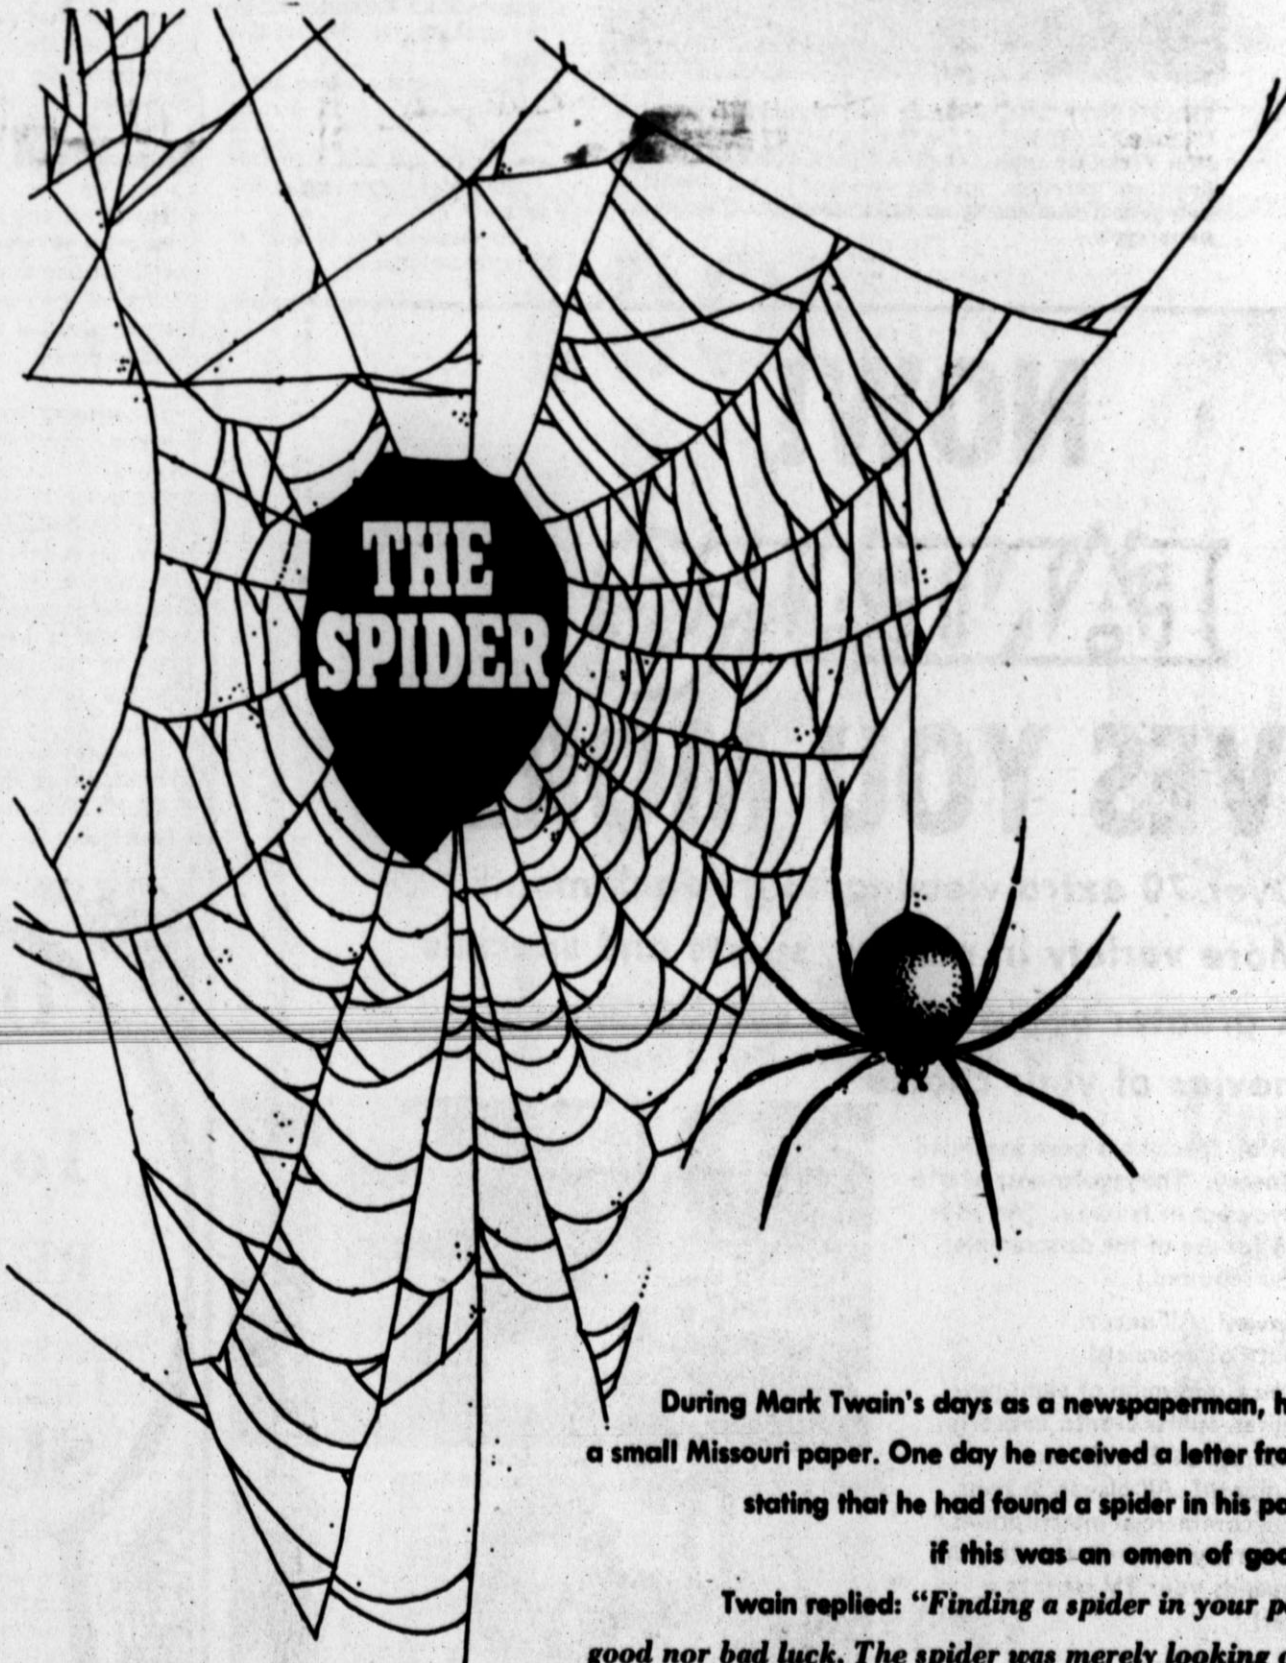

For Jason, a 6-year-old cerebral palsy victim, a real cool present would be a sweat suit, a Muhammed Ali T-shirt, a pair of boxing gloves and the like.

Jason is an avid boxing fan whose bedroom looks like a gymnasium. On one side of the room hangs his green satin boxing robe with his "ring name," Jumpin' Joe Jason, written on the back. On the opposite side, his boxing gloves hang on the wall, just above punching bags, weights and an exercise mat.

He has acquired the knack of boxing with his feet. He is learning how to swim, and he plays baseball by holding the bat with his knees.

CONFIDENTIAL to What Do You Think of His Hobby?: I'm happy I don't HAVE to think about it. But it does have significance. What he does when he has nothing to do tells a great deal about a person.

During Mark Twain's days as a newspaperman, he was editor of a small Missouri paper. One day he received a letter from a subscriber, stating that he had found a spider in his paper, and asked if this was an omen of good or bad luck. Twain replied: "Finding a spider in your paper is neither good nor bad luck. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant was not advertising so that he could go to that store, spin his web across the door, and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward."

Governors Quote Carter to Same

WASHINGTON (AP) - When dealing with the White House, the nation's governors seldom miss an opportunity to remind President Carter that he used to be one of them. They don't want him forgetting the headaches of the statehouse as he sets about trimming the federal budget.

So they quoted Governor Carter to President Carter in asking for an increased state role in the management of federal aid that now is routed directly to municipal governments, and for an assortment of federal moves to ease the impact of the budget squeeze.

The National Governor's Association already has declared its support for Carter's effort to balance the federal budget by 1981.

But there are a few items the governors would like in return - including more power in the implementation of domestic programs and a streamlined system of federal aid that would give them greater leeway in allocating the dollars that flow from Washington.

They made their budget case in letters to Carter and to James T. McIntyre Jr., director of the Office of Management and Budget.

"As you know from your own experience as governor, the public looks to state government for leadership and performance in the provision of transportation, health care, education, social services, environmental protection and other services," they told the president.

While they didn't say so, the states, in turn, look to Washington for some of the money to do those things.

"Yet the federal government has increasingly bypassed the states," they complained, and doled out the money to 38,000 local governments, school districts, even private organizations.

Aside from welfare programs, they said, more than half of all federal aid is now routed around the states.

"If the states are to support and effectively assist their federal partner in reducing the federal deficit, we must, as a matter of policy, establish a presumption against bypassing the states in new programs and for strengthening the state role in existing programs," the governors said.

But Carter, former governor or not, is on record on the opposite side of that issue. His 1976 campaign statement on the matter was blunt: "I would favor an approach which would give funds directly to local cities and communities rather than the states." He said municipal governments don't have the tax resources the states do.

Then too, there's a tendency in Congress to cut the states out of the pattern, so as to make the transaction more directly between the people who vote the money and the people who spend it.

The governors also maintain that federal budget cuts should be coupled with consolidation of itemized federal grant programs into broad categories of aid. For example, they suggest that 15 health programs now receiving about $2 billion a year could be lumped together into one grant program.

High Court to Consider Anti-Trust Violations

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court agreed Monday to decide whether consumers ever may sue when forced to pay higher prices because of alleged antitrust law violations.

Facing an issue carrying enormous impact for consumers and business alike, the court will review a ruling that only private consumers - and not commercial entities - have a right to sue in such cases.

American consumers spent an estimated $1.2 trillion for personal, non-business needs last year.

Minnesota, where Kathleen Reiter sued five hearing aid manufacturers in 1975. Essentially, her lawsuit charged that the manufacturers illegally placed anti-competitive restraints on distribution and sale of hearing aids.

Those illegal restraints hiked the prices consumers were forced to pay, said the suit.

The justices were urged by Justice Department lawyers and officials from 41 states to strike down the lower court's ruling.

The test case came from which was filed on behalf of all hearing-aid buyers.

In other action today, the high court:

-Agreed, in a case that could affect the educational opportunities of handicapped persons nationwide, to decide whether a North Carolina college illegally refused to admit a partially deaf woman seeking to become a registered nurse.

-Agreed to hear an appeal by Columbus, Ohio, school officials to scuttle lower court orders to implement a massive desegregation plan that would involve busing 37,000 of the city's 89,000 public school pupils. In a separate case, it agreed to decide the validity of a desegregation plan under which half the public school pupils in Dayton, Ohio, are being bused.

-Left intact, in a case involving the New Orleans Superdome, lower court rulings that non-smokers have no constitutional right to be free from inhaling tobacco smoke.

-Agreed to decide whether Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., is shielded from an $8 million libel suit filed by a research scientist whose federally financed project was awarded Proxmire's "Golden Fleece" award as an example of wasteful spending.

-In a case from Tucson, Ariz., said in effect that a railroad worker whose religious beliefs forbid him to pay union dues cannot be fired. In another case from Nashville, Tenn., the court agreed to decide whether hospitals may ban employees from soliciting union support in all areas open to patients and visitors.

-By a 6-2 vote, left intact a decision barring Boston from using tax funds to try to influence the public's vote on a ballot referendum last November on preventing higher residential property taxes.

CBS Posts Second No. 1

NEW YORK (AP) - CBS avoided the Christmas week re-runs offered by the competition, and won the network's ratings race for the week ending Dec. 31 despite a strong showing at the top by ABC.

For CBS, it was the second No. 1 finish in three weeks, and just the fourth time since the season's start that ABC was lower than first. NBC, meanwhile, was No. 3 for the 10th week in a row.

two. And "ABC News Closeup" on human rights was tied for 57th with "David Cassidy: Undercover" on NBC, and followed by "Hardy Boys Mysteries" on ABC, NBC's "Weekend," and ABC's "Fast Lane Blues."

CBS' rating for the week was 19.9, followed by ABC at 17.1 and NBC at 14.2. The networks say that means in an average prime time minute during the week, 19.9 percent of the homes in the country with TV were tuned to CBS.

Here are the week's Top 10 programs:

"Laverne and Shirley," with a rating of 30.3 representing 22.6 million homes, "Three's Company," 30.2 or 22.5 million, "Happy Days," 27.6 or 20.6 million, "Mork and Mindy," 27.4 or 20.4 million, and "Love Boat," 26.4 or 19.7 million, all ABC; "60 minutes," 24.6 or 18.3 million, and "One Day at a Time," 23.7 or 17.7 million, both CBS; "What's Happening," 23.3 or 17.4 million, ABC, and "M-A-S-H" and "Les Misérables," both 23.2 or 17.5 million, both CBS.

The next 10 shows: "Taxi" and "Fantasy Island," both ABC; "Barnaby Rudge," "Alice" and "All in the Family," all CBS; "Barney Miller," "Eight is Enough" and "Charlie's Angels," all ABC, and "The Incredible Hulk," CBS, and "Quincy, M.E.," NBC, tie.

The week was hardly typical. ABC listed the five most-watched prime-time programs, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. showed, but all were repeats of previous episodes. Of CBS' four top-rated programs, three were new installments.

"Laverne and Shirley" was No. 1 for the second week in a row, with a rating of 30.3. Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the country with television, 30.3 percent saw at least part of the program.

CBS' top show for the week was "60 Minutes," sixth in the ratings, followed by a new episode of the network's hit comedy, "One Day at a Time." A new version of the Victor Hugo classic, "Les Misérables," on CBS, was a strong finisher - tied for ninth with a rerun of the same network's "M-A-S-H."

For NBC, it was one of the worst weeks of the season. The network's top-rated program, "Quincy, M.E.," was tied for 19th.

CBS avoided the bottom of the ratings, while ABC had three in the last five and NBC

CEMENT INDUSTRY
ATLANTA (AP) - Three cement-industry executives were elected to the board of directors of the Portland Cement Association at its fall meeting here.

They were Edward H. Bovich, president of Independent Cement Corp., Kenne, N.H., Robert L. Forde, president of Rochester Portland Cement Corp., Rochester, N.Y., and Brian Whitfield, president and chief executive officer of Citadel Cement Corp., Atlanta.

The association is a research, market development, and educational organization which represents the U.S. and Canadian cement industry.

NO SMOKING
JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) - The new Johannesburg Stock Exchange allows no smoking on the trading floor.

Those against smoking asked the advice of the South African National Council on Smoking and Health and then organized a petition for a vote among brokers.

The decision was 67 to 37 in favor of no smoking.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE WANTS HOMESTEAD EXEMPTIONS PUT OFF

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - An advisory committee recommends that the 1979 Legislature put off for two years additional homestead exemptions for the elderly and disabled.

The proposed school tax exemptions were part of the tax relief amendment adopted overwhelmingly by voters in November.

The amendment provided a mandatory $5,000 market value exemption for school tax purposes to every residential homestead. It also authorized the Legislature to exempt up to $10,000 of the market value of the homestead of an elderly or disabled person.

The 18-member advisory committee also voted 10-3 that the Legislature not permit the Ultimate resolutions of the recommendations "will have significant and long-lasting implications for the economy, tax structure and public services of this state," said vice chairman Lynn Anderson.

taxing of timberland on the basis of productive capacity.

The amendment directs the Legislature to provide for taxation of farm and ranch land on such a basis but left the controversial timber issue up to legislators.

Other written recommendations included:

-Exempting intangible personal property from local ad valorem taxation, except for intangible assets of certain transportation companies; capital of stock of banks; and reserves of savings and loan associations, insurance companies, loan companies and credit unions.

-Exempting from property taxation all personal motor vehicles not used to produce income.

-Reimbursement of up to 100 percent to school districts losing revenue from the homestead

Police Chaplain Offers Solace

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - For the sick, the downtrodden, the troubled and the grieving, he can be the way, the truth and the light. Packing badge and Bible, he comforts and consoles in the needy's darkest hours.

He talks people off bridges and ledges, offers words of hope to those who have lost someone dear; he is, to many on the brink of death, a savior.

Herb McCoy is a police chaplain.

He visits police and their families in hospitals, he counsels officers and relatives who are trying to cope with personal setbacks, he delivers 15 to 20 speeches a month, teaches courses and conducts funerals.

Demand for McCoy's services is high. On call 24 hours a day, he cherishes his customarily brief encounters with his wife and teen-age daughter.

About four and a half years ago, after working voluntarily on a part-time basis, McCoy was offered the job and pay by Joe Casey, metropolitan Nashville's police chief.

"The Lord opened the door for me to take the job," McCoy said in an interview. "I'm called out every day of the week and I'm on call 24 hours a day."

Trying to talk the discouraged and depressed out of suicide and comforting parents whose children have been killed in accidents are all part of a day's work.

His strength, he said, is drawn from God and from his family.

"My family deserves more credit than I do - with a wife and daughter at home I never see," he said. "They give me support and strength and I appreciate that. And I appreciate the support of the men and women of the department."

exemptions and special treatment of agricultural land.

The Lighter Side

NEW YORK (AP) - She won't be included among distinguished alumnae, but 18-year-old Bambi Woods' brief career on the Pratt Institute campus won't soon be forgotten.

Miss Woods - who's billed as a former Dallas Cowboys cheerleader, although the NFL team denies the association - starred in a hard-core pornographic movie filmed in part on the Brooklyn campus last summer.

About 13 minutes of the 90-minute film featured the institute's library, gymnasium, and sauna, a school official said Sunday after viewing "Debbie Does Dallas" at a Times Square theater.

"Naturally we are terribly embarrassed about the whole thing," said Pratt vice president Joseph Azzinaro. The producers told officials they were shooting an educational movie, he said.

"We didn't know what type of education they were talking about, however," Azzinaro said.

Alena Jech and Adolf Befurt, who forged their own surnames to create a new monicker for the child.

The couple decided against using Jech-Befurt as the boy's surname when Adrian was born last year, but the State Health Department rejected Jech and used Befurt on his birth certificate.

Officials told Befurt, 42, a car repair manager on the island of Kaai, and Jech, 38, that under Hawaii law, they could either use Befurt, Jech-Befurt or Befurt-Jech, but not Jech.

So the couple took the matter to federal court, where they insisted they have a constitutional right to name their child as they see fit. Jech and Befurt could pay a $5 fee and place legal ads to formally change the child's name. But Befurt told U.S. District Judge Samuel King: "We didn't want a substitute action, a second choice."

King suggested the new name might be better than a hyphenated handle, and asked officials what would happen to offspring of a Jech-Befurt and Smith-Young marriage.

The judge took the matter under advisement.

ATLANTA (AP) - Instead of stretching out his 450-pound frame and watching the National Football League play-offs on Sunday, Willie B. just stared at the empty space where his color television used to be.

The $400 television was stolen Saturday - three days after it was installed in the Atlanta Zoo's primate house.

Football was one of the first things the 20-year-old African lowland gorilla had watched "and he was very interested in it," said zoo spokeswoman Pat Dann.

She said Willie knew the television was gone when he saw the empty space where it had been. "I was absolutely amazed by the expression on his face," Ms. Dann said. "I just felt absolutely sick."

Ms. Dann said a $400 reward had been offered for information leading to the arrest of the thieves.

Nigh Pledges 'People's Administrations'

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - Gov. George Nigh pleaded to run a "people's administration" Monday as he was sworn in for his full four-year term in sub-freezing weather at the state capitol.

Nigh, who already had been serving as governor for five days due to the early resignation of David Boren, was sworn in as Oklahoma's 22nd governor on the south Capitol steps in 20-degree weather by Supreme Court Justice Ralph Hodges.

"This was a people's campaign," Nigh said in his inaugural address, "and this is going to be a people's administration."

Sanders Leads Herd With 18 Points

Fem Cagers Take Two From Dunbar

By MARC HERRING
Brand Sports Editor

Monday proved to be a good night for the girls basketball teams last night as both the junior varsity and varsity Whitefaces beat the Dunbar Panthers.

In the junior varsity game, Hereford led all the way to post a 48-40 win for coach Gail Barnes. Using the scoring of Keile Robinson and Deanette Vigil, the Herd raced to an 11 point lead at halftime. The second half was much closer as Dunbar came back to only trail 33-29 at the end of the third stanza, and closed to within two, 40-38, before the 'Faces put the game out of reach with eight unanswered points.

Robinson finished the night with 16 points while Vigil ended the game with 13.

The varsity game was much closer the first half, as at the end of the first quarter it was tied 8-8, and at the half Hereford was down by six, 25-19. During the first half the locals used the press and a running game but could not get anything to fall in the basket as time after time the ball refused to go in.

It was a completely different story the third period has the Whitefaces poured in 18 points while holding the visitors to a mere eight. Leading the Hereford barrage was Darlene Sanders who put in 13 of those points.

Abandoning their press and concentrating on the running aspect of the game proved to be the difference according to Coach Roy Shipp as the ball started falling for the girls in the decisive third quarter.

Fourth period action was even with both teams scoring at a steady pace. Ending the game with a three point lead the girls captured their fourth win of the season, a 48-45 victory over the Panthers. This is the second win that they have against Dunbar, the first being in the Hereford tourney earlier in the season.

End of the game stats had Sanders leading all scorers with 18 points while Dunbar's high point girl was Lisa Caviel with 11. Each team shot 50 percent from the charity stripe, but Hereford had more opportunities at the line than did Dunbar.

Next action for the teams will be Jan. 12 when they travel to Pampa to take on the Harvesters for the third time this season. The other two games, played at Hereford and at Pampa, were victories for the Harvesters.

Stanton Girls Win One Against Pampa

The girls of Stanton's basketball program entertained the Pampa team Monday night, winning one and losing one.

In the eighth grade the girls lost a heart-breaker, 25-21 in overtime. Leading the Dogies in scoring were Violetta Valdez, Barbara Brown, and Angie White each with five points.

Action in the ninth grade was more to the liking of coach Joe Don Cummings as the Dogie freshmen won 46-27 with three players in double figures. Leading the team was Gail Bartels with 11 while Joyce High and Laurie Albracht contributed 10 points each.

The seventh grade did not have a game because Pampa does not have a team that plays other than intramurals.

Next action for the teams will be Jan. 15 when they go to Levelland.

Mavs Take Two From Dumas

The La Plata girls basketball teams could not contend with the overall talent of the host Dumas junior high girls as all three Hereford teams lost Monday night.

In the seventh grade game, Dumas dominated the entire game to win 44-15. Leading the Mavericks was Kristi Lytal with six points. Eighth grade action was controlled by the Dumas team also as they subdued the Maverick team 54-23, with Sherri Ellis scoring 10 points for La Plata.

Freshman action saw more fouls called than points scored as Dumas won 67-30. The score at halftime had the Mavericks down by nine but the Dumas team totally controlled the second half. There were 68 fouls called in the game which had Amy Schumacher leading the local team by scoring 11 points.

The boys of La Plata were more successful though as they won two of three in their matchup with Dumas.

The seventh grade, behind the 18 points of Steve George won its contest, 36-23, at La Plata. The Hereford eighth grade lost 36-24 despite the 10 points of Robbie Christie.

Texas Tech Leads SWC Basketball

By JAMES R. KING
Associated Press Writer

Eleventh-ranked Texas A&M waltzed to an easy win over Baylor in the Aggies' Southwest Conference basketball opener in College Station, but they may not be looking forward to their next meeting with the Baptists.

In Monday night's game Texas A&M took advantage of a hometown crowd and the absence of Baylor's star guard Vinnie Johnson, who was in New York attending the funeral for his mother.

But their next meeting will be in Waco, and by that time Johnson should be warmed up and maybe bent on revenge for what the Aggies did to his team when he was not around to help.

"We just don't have any penetration without Vinnie," admitted Coach Jim Haller, whose Bears are 1-1 in SWC play and 7-5 overall. "I don't know what difference he would have made in the game, but most teams won't spread their defenses when Johnson is in there."

In other Southwest Conference games Monday night Texas Tech beat Texas Christian, 99-75; Rice held off Southern Methodist, 78-76; and Texas easily beat Houston, 75-57.

Texas Tech's win staked the Red Raiders to an early 2-0 lead in the SWC race with wins over defending NIT champion Texas and Texas Christian.

Preseason favorites Texas, Texas A&M and 10th-ranked Arkansas were close behind in the early going, but Tech's victory over TCU Monday night made believers out of the Horned Frogs.

"Tech has got to be one of the favorites to win the conference," said TCU Coach Tim Somerville, whose club shares an 0-2 SWC mark with Houston. "They are the best team we've played so far."

Texas, 2-1 in SWC play and 8-4 overall, took advantage of a Houston team still deflated over its one-point loss to Arkansas during the weekend.

"I'd say we were still thinking about Saturday," said Houston Coach Guy Lewis, still lamenting about Arkansas' comeback from a 21-point deficit. "Those one, two and three-point losses are the worst kind to forget. If you get blown out you just forget about it and go on."

Southern Methodist came close to pulling off a similar miracle finish against Rice Monday night after falling 22 points behind. In fact, SMU managed to even the score at 76-76 before it was all over.

But with seven seconds left, Rice's Glen Rieke dropped in two free throws that became the two-point margin of victory for the Owls, 1-1 in the conference and 4-8 for the season. It was the conference opener for SMU, 5-6.

"We had a great comeback, but Rice just outthrew us," said Mustangs Coach Sonny Allen.

Arkansas, 1-0 and 9-0, did not play Monday but hosts Rice Wednesday. In other games this week, Texas A&M is at Houston Wednesday, Baylor plays at Texas Tech Thursday, Texas travels to Arkansas Friday, and on Saturday TCU is at Houston have on college athletics.

And any sports fan who's having trouble figuring out what all the complicated legal mumbo-jumbo means would have found himself in good company. The university presidents, athletic directors, professors and lawyers weren't sure themselves.

But they were unanimous on one key point - Title IX, federal legislation prohibiting discrimination against women in college athletics, will be a disaster if football and basketball, the sports that make most programs self-reliant, are not exempt from strict per capita expenditure enforcement.

Many delegates also questioned the legality of the legislation, as well as its wisdom.

"Title IX is for real," said Bud Davis, president of the University of New Mexico, who spent several weeks in Washington studying the guidelines with officials of the department of Health, Education and Welfare who wrote them. "It will involve massive sums of money at a time of fiscal exigencies in higher education, and the financial base of a major collegiate activity may be in jeopardy."

Davis and Philip B. Brown, an NCAA attorney, addressed more than 1,000 worried convention delegates on Title IX compliance requirements, which HEW has said must be observed by Sept. 1, 1979.

"The crux to Title IX is football and basketball," said Davis. "Where, in the past, considerable reliance has been placed on funding athletics as an auxiliary enterprise with resources coming from revenues from games football and basketball ticket sales, gifts alumni and booster donations and student fees, Title IX will necessitate either substantive increases in resources or reallocation of often limited funds."

A number of delegates suggested the NCAA pursue Title IX through the courts and argued that athletic budgets which receive no federal assistance should not be subject to federal control.

"What we have here is a quantum jump in federal control over higher education," said Dallin Oaks, president of Brigham Young University, "an illegal power grab by the federal government."

Ranger GM Resigns

DALLAS (AP) - Danny O'Brien won't say why he quit as the general manager of the American League Texas Rangers, but admits his role with the team diminished in recent years.

O'Brien, who announced his resignation Monday after serving as general manager of the baseball team for five years, ruled out taking a better job as one possible reason for his leaving.

"There's nothing on the immediate horizon in sports. I hope my phone will start ringing," he said.

O'Brien made the announcement after a morning conference with majority owner Brad Corbett and executive vice president Eddie Robinson.

"I have had several business opportunities in the area but my game is baseball," said O'Brien.

He refused to criticize the Ranger management although he had at times been critical of the wild wheeling and dealing by Corbett.

"Mr. Corbett tried to dissuade me," said O'Brien.

O'Brien's role on the team diminished when Robinson was hired by Corbett two years ago.

"It's true my duties diminished," said O'Brien. "My sphere of influence was not as great. But that was not a major factor."

However, O'Brien said in his opening remarks: "I guess I should congratulate the Dallas Cowboys. I hope to be in an organization like that someday."

Title IX Topic Of NCAA Convention

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - "An illegal power grab by the federal government... a calculated ambiguity... a quantum leap in federal control over higher education... stupid..."

University president, lawyers, a professors and athletic directors gathered Monday at the NCAA convention to discuss Title IX and what affect it will have on college athletics.

And any sports fan who's having trouble figuring out what all the complicated legal mumbo-jumbo means would have found himself in good company. The university presidents, athletic directors, professors and lawyers weren't sure themselves.

Many delegates also questioned the legality of the legislation, as well as its wisdom.

"Title IX is for real," said Bud Davis, president of the University of New Mexico, who spent several weeks in Washington studying the guidelines with officials of the department of Health, Education and Welfare who wrote them. "It will involve massive sums of money at a time of fiscal exigencies in higher education, and the financial base of a major collegiate activity may be in jeopardy."

Davis and Philip B. Brown, an NCAA attorney, addressed more than 1,000 worried convention delegates on Title IX compliance requirements, which HEW has said must be observed by Sept. 1, 1979.

"The crux to Title IX is football and basketball," said Davis. "Where, in the past, considerable reliance has been placed on funding athletics as an auxiliary enterprise with resources coming from revenues from games football and basketball ticket sales, gifts alumni and booster donations and student fees, Title IX will necessitate either substantive increases in resources or reallocation of often limited funds."

A number of delegates suggested the NCAA pursue Title IX through the courts and argued that athletic budgets which receive no federal assistance should not be subject to federal control.

"What we have here is a quantum jump in federal control over higher education," said Dallin Oaks, president of Brigham Young University, "an illegal power grab by the federal government."

White Breaks Thumb In Ram Game

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) - The "Master" got a few battle wounds himself in the Dallas Cowboys' National Football Conference title victory over the Los Angeles Rams.

All-Pro defensive tackle Randy White, who teammates claim is half-man and half-monster because of his incredible strength, suffered a broken left thumb in the bruising 28-0 victory Sunday, but Cowboys doctors didn't find out about it until Monday.

White was an intimidating force in the contest, knocking Rams quarterback Pat Haden out of the game with a broken right thumb and inflicting a separated shoulder on running back John Cappelletti. Both were clean tackles.

"Cappelletti was cutting back and didn't see me coming," said White. "It was a freak play."

Cappelletti, who caught a screen pass, was buried under White in the crushing first-quarter tackle.

Haden broke his thumb when White tackled him in the third quarter.

"A television commentator told me that Haden's hand hit my helmet," said White. "I guess that's what broke it. It was nothing intentional."

White wasn't sure when he broke his thumb.

"I notice Randy coming off the field in the fourth quarter holding his hand," said Cowboys assistant public relations director George Heddleston. "Of course with Randy, he could have hurt it in the first quarter. He just never says anything about being hurt."

White will wear a heavy cast for the two-week practice period leading up to Super Bowl XIII against the Pittsburgh Steelers in Miami.

For the game, doctors will fit White with a splint for the factored digit.

White wasn't the only Cowboy who was nursing wounds from the joust with Los Angeles.

Running back Tony Dorsett reported a sprained foot, leading up to Super Bowl XIII against the Pittsburgh Steelers in Miami.

Steelers, Cowboys Dominate All-Pro Team

NEW YORK (AP) - The Pittsburgh Steelers and Dallas Cowboys, who meet to decide the National Football League championship on Jan. 21, placed a total of six players on The Associated Press All-Pro team for 1978.

The American Football Conference champion Steelers led all teams by placing four players - wide receiver Lynn Swann, center Mike Webster, quarterback Terry Bradshaw and outside linebacker Jack Ham - on the 25-player first team.

Free safety Cliff Harris and tackle Randy White represent the National Conference champion Cowboys on the team selected through voting by a national panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Pittsburgh's placing represented the trend in the first-team selections, as 18 AFC players and seven from the NFC were chosen.

Bradshaw quarterbacked the Steelers to 16 victories in the 18 regular season and postseason games played on the way to their Super Bowl XIII meeting with the Cowboys at Miami. He finished the regular season as the leading passer in the AFC and had 28 touchdown passes - many of them to Swann, whose 61 receptions placed him third among AFC pass catchers.

The other wide receiver was Wesley Walker of the New York Jets, who led NFL pass catchers with 1,169 yards and a 24.4-yard average, while Dave Casper of the Oakland Raiders won the tight end voting.

Casper was second among AFC receivers with 62 catches while Seattle's Steve Largent - AFC leader with 71 receptions - made the second team.

Running back Earl Campbell of the Houston Oilers and defensive end Al Baker of the Detroit Lions - two players who enjoyed sensational rookie campaigns in 1968 - also were named to the first team.

Campbell, who gained 1,450 yards in his first season, is joined in the All-Pro backfield by Delvin Williams of the Miami Dolphins, who gained 1,258 yards and finished second to his running mate.

Blocking for the high-powered backfield on the AP's first team are tackles Leon Gray of the New England Patriots and Dan Dierdorf of the St. Louis Cardinals along with guards John Hannah of the Patriots and Bob Kucchenberg of Miami.

Dierdorf is the only NFC starter on offense.

Three Denver Broncos were voted to the team; middle linebacker Randy Gradishar, cornerback Louis Wright and kick returner Rick Upchurch. Upchurch led NFL punt returners with a 13.7-yard average.

The rest of the starting defense: defense end Jack Youngblood of the Los Angeles Rams, tackle Louis Kelcher of the San Diego Chargers, outside linebacker Robert Brazile of Houston, cornerback Willie Buchanon of the Green Bay Packers and strong safety Ken Houston of the Washington Redskins.

The two other specialists were placekicker Pat Leahy of the Jets and punter Ray Guy of the Oakland Raiders.

Bradshaw Voted Player Of Year

NEW YORK (AP) - Terry Bradshaw, who quarterbacked the Pittsburgh Steelers to the National Football League's best record during the regular season and into the Super Bowl, was named The Associated Press' Most Valuable Player today.

Bradshaw, who led the American Conference in passing and the league in touchdowns with a career-high 28, edged rookie running back Earl Campbell of the Houston Oilers 36 votes to 33 in nationwide balloting by 84 sports writers and broadcasters, three from each NFL city.

Jim Zorn, the left-handed quarterback of the Seattle Seahawks, was a distant third in the balloting with six votes, followed by Dallas Cowboys' quarterback Roger Staubach with four. No other player received more than one vote.

"Terry's play and statistics speak for themselves. Both were outstanding," said Steelers Coach Chuck Noll. "He is deserving of any award. The players voted him MVP for two successive seasons and now this honor proves what a great player he is."

And Dick Hoak, Pittsburgh's backfield coach, added: "Terry has always been an underrated football player. He's big, he's strong, he throws as well as anyone, he can run with anyone and he has matured to become an outstanding quarterback."

Bradshaw, an AP College Division All-American as a senior at Louisiana Tech and the Steelers' No. 1 draft choice in 1970, completed 207 of 368 passes for 2,915 yards, a league-high 7.92 yards per pass as the Steelers compiled a regular-season 14-2 record en route to the AFC's Central Division title.

Most notable, perhaps, was the absence of injuries which has plagued Bradshaw in past seasons, and the presence of a consistency which had been missing much of that time.

Despite being blessed with a corps of receivers including Lynn Swann, John Stallworth and Randy Grossman, Bradshaw was relatively sparing in his passing. When he threw, he was rarely off target.

Against Buffalo he completed 14 of 19 passes, then did the same against Cincinnati. He hit on 13 of 18 against Atlanta, 16 of 23 against New Orleans and 10 of 14 against Denver in other regular-season games that turned what was supposed to be a close division race into a runaway.

Campbell, the Heisman Trophy winner from the University of Texas, took the NFL by storm, winning the rushing title with 1,450 yards and scoring a league-high 13 touchdowns on the ground to lead the Oilers into the playoffs.

Zorn, often called a young Fran Tarkenton because of his scrambling techniques, led the AFC in passes, completions and yardage and sparked the Seahawks to a 9-7 record, just shy of the playoffs in only their third year in the league.

Staubach was the league's passing leader as he directed Dallas, No. 1 in National Conference offense, to the East Division title.

Michigan State Stays Atop Poll

Michigan State, which survived a scare from Big Ten Conference rival Minnesota last weekend, retained the top position in The Associated Press' college basketball poll.

The Spartans, 9-1, who trailed Minnesota by 13 points early in the second half before going on a 27-8 spurt en route to a 69-62 victory, collected 38 of 59 first-place votes and 1,140 points in the balloting by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Notre Dame, North Carolina and Illinois remained in the next three positions, respectively.

Louisiana State, 10-0, moved from seventh place to fifth

Today In History

By The Associated Press
 Today is Tuesday, Jan. 9, the ninth day of 1979. There are 356 days left in the year.
 Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1945, American forces invaded the major Philippine island of Luzon in World War II.
 On this date: In 1719, France declared war on Spain.
 In 1788, Connecticut became the fifth state to ratify the U.S. Constitution.
 In 1861, Mississippi seceded from the Union.
 In 1919, Grand Duchess Charlotte acceded to the throne in Luxembourg.
 In 1942, Japanese reinforcements were pouring into the Philippines at the beginning of the war in the Pacific during World War II.
 In 1964, anti-American riots broke out in Panama.

Ten years ago: The three Apollo 8 astronauts, the first men to circle the moon, were honored in Washington, receiving Distinguished Service Medals from President Lyndon Johnson.
 Five years ago: President Richard Nixon invited eight countries to a conference in Washington to try to work out a program to deal with the energy crisis.
 One year ago: It was disclosed that France was trying to change the terms of a nuclear plant contract with Pakistan to ensure that plutonium for possible weapons would not be produced.
 Today's birthdays: Former President Richard Nixon is 66 years old. Singer Joan Baez is 38.
 Thought for today: Ask the young. They know everything—A Chinese proverb.

Skiers Rescued After Taking Dangerous Trail

RUIDOSO, N.M. (AP)—Rescue teams have found a man and a woman who became lost and separated Sunday when they tried to ski down the undeveloped west side of Sierra Blanca rather than take trails on the east slope.

Wayland Hill of the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department said rescuers tracked down the woman about 3 a.m. The man, identified as Ken Hays of Wicket, Texas, was found about seven hours later.
 Hill said the woman, whose name was not released, had several injuries and was unable to walk out. He said members of the Ruidoso Search and Rescue Unit were trying to help her ski to the snow line where another team was waiting to carry her to the Three Rivers Campground north of Tularosa.

The woman had not been dressed for spending the night in the open and was "in pretty bad shape," Hill said.
 The mountain was shrouded in heavy fog with visibility listed at zero, hampering the rescue effort.
 The woman said Hays realized they were lost and left her about 3 p.m. to go for help, Hill said.
