Nightmare on Elm Street

Skunks making a big stink

By ANDREA HOOTEN
Staff Writer

Just when Hereford's noses have become semi-numb to the odors of the area, some city residents must withstand a new stink that's more selective in location.

The malodorous skunk has been spotted in the west part of town, and for a few homeowners, the past month has been "A Nightmare on Elm Street."

Butch White, 326 Elm St., has trapped three skunks since last month.

"What's bringing them in are two things," said White. "Number one, the vacant lots have been mowed around here so they're coming into our yards; and number two, (the neighbor man's wife) washed his socks and hung them out to dry, so the smell is bringing 'em in too."

The real reason the skunks are invading Hereford are the grub worms, said White.

"This is the first time we've had grub worms really bad, and those skunks are digging 'em up for food," he said.

White said he trapped the stinkers with a racoon trap he borrowed from cat-'n-coon hunter Tom Draper and bragged that he now wears a black-and-white striped hat crafted from the trappings. A quick check of references failed to confirm this allegation.

Craig Smith, who lives at 304 Elm St., said he never saw the skunk, but the family pet apparently did.

"Yeah, he sprayed our dog and my wife got some tomato juice and washed him in it," said Smith.

Hereford animal control officer Butch Trevino has the unfortunate duty of disposing of the varmints.

"I picked up the three skunks that Butch (White) had in the trap and they didn't spray me until I got to the city dump," Trevino said. "It sprayed all over my left leg and now my pickup smells like it. I don't know how I'm gonna get rid of the smell in the pickup. Does tomato juice come in a spray?"

At last word, no more polecats have been reported, but for those who saw the curious creature, the first impression was a lingering one.

Duke sticks to high ground

By DONNA CASSATA
Associated Press Writer

Michael Dukakis charged that rival George Bush has done the nation wrong by conducting a negative campaign as the Democratic nominee sought to reverse his slide in the polls. A confident Republican nominee contended that Democratic prosperity would mean higher interest rates.

"I don't think politics ought to be an enterprise in which all we do is cut the other guy up," Dukakis told a town meeting Wednesday night in Naperville, Ill. "Obviously Mr. Bush disagrees. I think it's a disservice to the American people."

The Democratic nominee, trailing in the latest poll by eight points, used the nationally broadcast meeting to dispute GOP attacks that he is soft on crime, weak on defense, favors gun control and ignores environmental problems.

In lashing out at a campaign marked by mud-slinging, Dukakis sought to lay claim to the high ground and convince undecided and wavering Bush supporters to back the Democrat's candidacy.

The vice president, campaigning in Detroit, Sioux Falls, S.D., and Billings, Mont., told voters that the Democrats' version of prosperity is higher interest rates, similar to the 21.5 percent rate near the end of the Carter administration.

"We don't need that kind of Democratic prosperity," Bush said. "We need the kind that Ronald Reagan has brought to this country."

The GOP nominee was campaigning today in Tacoma, Wash., where he was expected to pick up an endorsement from a maritime union. Bush was then traveling to California, the biggest electoral prize with 47 votes, for two days of campaigning.

Dukakis was stumping in Illinois and Missouri, where a statewide poll showed that Bush's late August lead of nine points over the Democratic nominee had dropped to one.

The latest national poll by ABC News-Washington Post showed Bush holding an eight-point lead over Dukakis, a somewhat smaller advantage than the double-digit margin the GOP nominee had in two polls earlier this week.

The survey of 1,242 likely voters put the contest at 52-44 percent, closer than the 13-point gap in a CBS News-New York Times poll and the 14 points among likely voters in a Gallup poll released Tuesday.

The ABC-Post poll was conducted during the seven days ending Tuesday, and had a margin of error of plus or minus three percentage points.

In hopes of turning the tide, Dukakis was continuing his series of television appearances with an interview tonight on the "CBS Evening News."

Democratic vice presidential candidate Lloyd Bentsen, who appeared on the program Wednesday night, said the Republicans had run a "miserable campaign" of distortions which Dukakis did not address until after it hurt the ticket.

"They started immediately after that Democratic convention, and frankly I thought they should have been answered then," Bentsen said. "But my friend Mike Dukakis was incredulous, he just didn't believe that sort of charges with the distortions could stick."

"But they have and they have hurt. And that's one of the reasons we're in the kind of a race we're in now."

Republican vice presidential candidate Dan Quayle, campaigning in Florida, dismissed the television appearances by the Democratic ticket.

"Actually I think it's their swan song," he said. "A nice way for Michael Dukakis to say good-bye to America."

Dukakis was counterattacking Wednesday, describing a Bush ad showing Dukakis riding a tank as a misrepresentation of the Democrat's position on several weapons systems.

"Mr. Bush has never met a weapons system he didn't like," Dukakis said.

The vice president, campaigning in Billings, suggested that the Democratic nominee would repeal the income tax cuts enacted under the Reagan administration.

"Well, don't elect him cause he might just take that cut away from the American people and I will not do that," Bush told a cheering crowd of about 2,000 at Rocky Mountain College.

Local Roundup

Police arrest two

The Hereford Police Department arrested a 27-year-old woman on charges of public intoxication and a 42-year-old man was charged with failing to maintain a single-lane and driving while intoxicated. Charges were filed against a man for an injury to a child incident occurring in August; harassing phone calls were reported; a prowler was reported in the 200 block of Avenue J and a license plate was stolen.

Fourteen citations were issued and three minor accidents were reported.

Man charged with forging checks

Demesio Mendoza, 29, was arrested by the Potter County Sheriff's Office Wednesday on a Deaf Smith County warrant charging him with passing a forged instrument and forging by passing and possession.

He is being held in the Deaf Smith County Jail in lieu of a $17,000 bond.

Mendoza also was wanted on two warrants for theft of service in the county, and Hutchinson, Parmer, Carson and Moore counties had warrants on him for theft.

A 21-year-old man was charged with traffic violations and a man, 31, was charged with an assault warrant from Deaf Smith County.

The sheriff's office also reported telephone tampering nine miles south of Hereford and $210 in irrigation pipe joints were taken seven miles north of Hereford Tuesday or Wednesday.

Colder, damp weather

Tonight will see increasing cloudiness and colder temperatures with a less than 20 percent chance of isolated thunderstorms. The low will be 38, with northeast winds 10-20 mph and gusty.

Friday will be cloudy and colder with a 20 percent chance of rain. The high will be 54 with northeast winds 10-20 mph and gusty.

This morning's low at KPAN was 44 after a high Wednesday of 69.

Taco supper is Friday

The junior class at Hereford High School will host a taco supper Friday from 5-7 p.m. at the HHS cafeteria.

Cost for the supper is $3 per person, and tickets are available at the door or from a junior class member.

Absentee voting on Saturday

Persons who wish to cast absentee (early) ballots for the Nov. 8 general election may vote this Saturday from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. at the county clerk's office on the second floor of the Deaf Smith County Courthouse in Hereford.

A new law allows voters to cast their ballots early for any reason, and County Clerk David Ruland said the Saturday voting is designed to allow persons to cast early ballots who do not have time during the week.

Also on Saturday, the Southwest Voter Registration Project will be giving away brisket and soft drinks to voters from 1-5 p.m. at Dameron Park in Hereford.

All voters, regardless of the party they support, are invited, according to SWVRP Chairman Crisela Garza.

Bonfire is tonight

A bonfire and pep rally for the Hereford football team will be held at 9 p.m. today at the Kids Inc. Baseball Complex, just east of the city limits on Fifteenth Street.

All Hereford football fans are invited to attend.

Eastern Europe making big changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department's second-ranking official says Eastern Europe is in the throes of "dramatic change," with a strong desire for closer ties to the West and withdrawal of Soviet troops from the region.

The East European countries "are beginning to return to their historical position where they were independent countries, part of Europe, associated with the West economically, politically," John Whitehead said in an interview Wednesday. "I believe they are beginning to return to historically their more normal position."

Whitehead, who returned recently from an 11-day visit to the six Soviet allies in the region, said the pace of change is uneven, with Poland and Hungary at the forefront, Romania lagging behind and Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia and East Germany "somewhere in between."

"The impression of my trip is that there is dramatic change going on in Eastern Europe, not everywhere," he said. "This is a very favorable change from the point of view of the United States."

Whitehead, whose formal title is deputy secretary of state, has made six trips to Eastern Europe as part of his role as Secretary of State George P. Shultz's principal liaison with countries of the area. Part of his assignment is to encourage the changes now taking place.

The administration has felt that with the ambitious political and economic reform movement in the Soviet Union under President Mikhail S. Gorbachev, change was inevitable in Eastern Europe and officials have been monitoring developments there far more closely than before.

A major exception to the reform movement now under way is Romania where, Whitehead said, an "absolutely outrageous" human rights situation exists as a result of a government plan to demolish up to 7,000 villages under an agricultural modernization project.

He said the people in these villages are being moved to "cement block barracks-like structure" with no running water and no toilets.

"You can imagine living in an apartment house with no toilets. It's pretty atrocious," Whitehead said.

He said the four countries where the Soviets have stationed troops — East Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia — are hopeful of the withdrawal of these forces and are not insisting that it take place in the context of an American troop pullback from Western Europe.

He added, however, that he does not foresee the dissolution of the Warsaw Pact as "imminent or likely."

There are an estimated 380,000 Soviet troops in East Germany, 80,000 in Czechoslovakia, 65,000 in Hungary and 40,000 in Poland.

Whitehead said the changes taking place in the region are the result of popular pressure.

"Governments are not immune from the dissatisfaction of their people," he said, adding that there is widespread recognition in the six countries that they are "slipping farther and farther behind" the West in every way.

Romania aside, he said, all the countries are improving their human rights performance and there are changes in other areas as well.

"They are making progress in changing their political systems, the structures of their political institutions to bring more democracy. They're making progress in converting their economic systems to Western-style free market systems."

Whitehead said he sees an accelerated trend toward closer economic ties between the two Europes and with Western-dominated financial and trade institutions.

As more liberalized policies develop in Eastern Europe, he said, the United States will be in a position to support greater integration of the region into the Western economic system.

33 seats in Senate open

Demos raising more cash

WASHINGTON (AP) — Something strange is going on in this year's 33 election contests for the U.S. Senate: Democrats are raising more campaign money than their Republican rivals.

By the end of last month, according to financial data reported to the Federal Election Commission, the 33 Democrats running for Senate seats had collected $83.6 million toward their campaigns. Their 33 GOP opponents had pulled in $73.3 million.

"It is unusual," said Tom Mason, communications director for the National Republican Senatorial Committee, the party's campaign arm. "But it's incumbency talking," as well as givers' expectations that the Senate will remain under Democratic control, he said.

It is true that incumbents always have an easier time raising campaign money, and that Democrats have more incumbents, 15, up for reelection this year than the Republicans, 12.

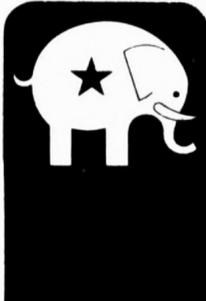

And it also is true that most political analysts are predicting not only that Democrats will hold onto their 54-46 Senate majority, but they may pad it by a seat or two come Nov. 8.

GOP incumbents actually fared slightly better than their Democratic counterparts in fund raising. The dozen Republicans averaged $3.8 million apiece as of Sept. 30, while the 15 Democratic senators averaged $3.4 million.

But in nearly every other category

Money raised by Senatorial candidates

$73.3 million

$83.6 million

— open-seat races, challengers, and political action committee money — the Democrats outdistanced their traditionally well-heeled rivals.

Mason chalks some of the differences up to unusual situations in a handful of states that skew the numbers the Democrats' way, and topping his "unusual list" is Herb Kohl.

"It's like running against a bank," he says of the Milwaukee Democrat who holds a substantial lead in the Wisconsin Senate race against GOP state Senate minority leader Susan Engeleiter. Kohl, owner of the Milwaukee Bucks basketball team and heir to a family grocery store chain, spent $3 million, most of it his own money, to overcome better-known rivals in the primary, and may top $6 million by Election Day.

Engeleiter, who is conceded to be better versed on the issues, was trailing 3-to-1 in fund raising and was down by more than 20 points in the last published statewide poll. Kohl has sought to make his spending a virtue, saying it means he won't be beholden to special interests. "Nobody's senator but yours," is the tagline to his prolific TV spots.

In addition, Republicans say the presidential election has diverted attention from bids by quality GOP candidates and made it harder for them to compete for a limited amount of campaign dollars.

But Democrats have other explanations for their new-found parity with the GOP in fund raising.

"The candidates we recruited are an impressive group of elected officials who have their own political bases and their own fund-raising bases," said Anita Dunn, spokeswoman for the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee. "Democratic challengers are not being outspent 2-to-1 or 3-to-1 like in previous years."

Democrats, after a slow start, have learned to be competitive for special-interest money, as well, she said. FEC figures show Democratic Senate candidates overall have received $21.4 million from political action committees, while Republicans have collected just $17.5 million.

Struggle between Baptist moderates and fundamentalists rages onward

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Baptist General Convention's annual meeting ended much as it began, with moderates and fundamentalists claiming support from state Baptists and promising to continue the fight for control.

By the end of the two-day convention Wednesday, three moderate-backed candidates had been elected to the top offices and a resolution that moderates say is a policy break from the fundamentalist-controlled national Southern Baptist Convention had been approved.

Fundamentalist leaders, however, said the resolution — reaffirming the doctrine that Christians can communicate with God without the need for an intervening authority — did not differ from the national church's stance.

Paige Patterson, president of Criswell Bible College in Dallas and a leader of the fundamentalist group, said moderates prevailed at the convention, but fundamentalists enjoy "grassroots" support of most of the 2.4 million member Baptists in the state.

"They are the butchers, bakers and candlestick makers," Criswell said, who were unable to take off work and attend the convention. The convention drew about 6,000 people and more than 4,000 "messengers" or delegates.

But Winfred Moore, an Amarillo pastor and chairman of the board of trustees at Baylor University, the largest Baptist college in the nation, said of Patterson's comments, "I think he's whistling in the dark, or whistling Dixie, or whatever it is you whistle."

Neither side accepts the label that they apply to each other. Essentially the fundamentalists believe there has been a permissive trend liberalism at Baylor with articles under headlines, such as "Baylor Religion Professor Endorses Abortion Rights," "Darwin: My Hero," and "Baylor Press Honors Humanist."

"All we have asked (of the Baylor leadership) is to listen to responsible voices," Pat said.

But the moderates say they have listened and all they hear is a desire by the fundamentalists for's critics. "You cannot press the attack on every front, criticize each supposed flaw, or scrutinize every detail and keep your credibility."

And to Baylor officials, he said, "I would plead with you as Christian brothers and sisters to hear and act on the oft-repeated concerns of responsible Texas Baptists."

Gregory, a Fort Worth pastor, is considered by some to be a moderate and others a fundamentalist. In a news conference, he refused to be classified.

He said he would not want to dismiss any religion instructors at Baylor, but as vacancies occur, he wants to see them filled by evangelical scholars.

Gregory said there is a "new wave of conservative biblicists," that Baylor needs to tap. Asked how these instructors differ from some of the current staff, he said it was a difference in "style."

Not surprisingly, both sides accepted the parts of Gregory's speech that addressed the behavior of the other side and they said they were prepared to continue the battle.

Liver recipient troubled

PITTSBURGH (AP) — An 11-year-old Texas girl who in 1984 became the world's first recipient of a combined heart-liver transplant has returned to Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh to be evaluated for liver problems, officials said.

Stormie Jones of White Settlement, a Fort Worth suburb, and her mother, Susie Purcell, arrived in Pittsburgh Wednesday evening aboard a commercial flight from Dallas.

"The fact that she's flying commercially is indicative of her overall strength," said Children's Hospital spokeswoman Sue Cardillo. "She's not that seriously ill where she requires a medical ambulance to fly her here. These last few days she's been her spunky self."

Stormie had been undergoing treatment for liver rejection since Sept. 28 at Children's Medical Center of Dallas, Miss Cardillo said.

"During her hospitalization she had experienced jaundice, itchininess, erratic sleeping pattern, and those are all indications of liver complications," she said.

"As far as we know, the heart is not involved yet," said Ann Harrell, a spokeswoman for the University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center.

Stormie received her donated heart and liver at Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh on Feb. 14, 1984.

Metal fatigue in landing gear caused quick landing

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Federal officials say metal fatigue in a landing gear forced American Airlines Flight 135 to make an emergency belly landing last month at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport.

The same kind of metal fatigue has caused trouble on other commercial flights involving Boeing 727s, officials said Wednesday.

Problems with the part of the landing gear door that failed, the pivot trunnion, prompted Boeing to issue a service bulletin in March. The Federal Aviation Administration then issued an airworthiness directive concerning the problems eight days before the mishap, the National Transportation Safety Board reported.

Three people suffered minor injuries in the Sept. 21 incident, which occurred after Flight 135's crew was unable to open the jet's jammed wheel well door.

NTSB investigator Warren Wandel said, "Boeing was aware of the problem, the FAA was aware of the problem and American Airlines was aware of the problem."

Shultz's personal trips cost $1.9 M

Secretary of State paid less than one percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Personal trips taken by Secretary of State George Shultz on his military aircraft over a 30-month period cost the government nearly $1.9 million, with Shultz paying only the price of economy-class airfare, a congressional report says.

The General Accounting Office report says Shultz took 23 personal trips during the 30 months ended last July, most of them visits to family homes at Stanford University in Palo Alto, Calif., and Cunningham, Mass. Most of the time Shultz was accompanied only by his wife, Helen.

The total bill for those trips came to $1,892,214, GAO told the House Government Operations Committee in a report released Wednesday. Most of the money was spent for Shultz' military plane, its sophisticated communications equipment and the secretary's security personnel, the review said.

Shultz reimbursed the government for less than 1 percent of the cost, basing his repayment rate on the economy air fare rate to a destination plus $1, State Department officials told the GAO.

The total amount Shultz reimbursed the government was $18,783, the GAO said.

Shultz' annual Cabinet salary is $99,030. His net worth is unavailable, but his financial disclosure form filed earlier this year shows that a blind trust created from his holdings had income last year in excess of $100,000.

State Department spokesman Charles Redman said Shultz used the military plane because "the secretary of state is the secretary of state 24 hours a day, 365 days a year," no matter where he is.

Redman said Shultz has followed the practice used by other secretaries of state for the past 15 or 20 years. Many other Cabinet members also use military aircraft for reasons of improved security and communications, he said.

Redman added, "The fact of the matter is that the security threat doesn't disappear just because the secretary happens to be on vacation, nor does the need for communications."

The bulk of the $1.89 million cost for the 23 trips went for military aircraft — $797,219, the GAO said. Hotel accommodations for security personnel and other aides cost $336,414; overtime for those personnel cost $256,205; per diem food costs were $163,030; and $141,464 was spent to install telephone lines.

In addition to the 23 personal trips, the study listed a series of other trips by Shultz between 1982 and 1986 that were listed as official travel, but which also included a private component. Those trips weren't among the 23 whose expenses were totaled by the GAO.

Lawmakers discuss linking funding, scores

AUSTIN (AP) — State lawmakers are discussing giving incentive payments to schools with high gains in student performance, and including performance by pupils as a factor in evaluating teachers.

Rep. Bill Hammond, R-Dallas, said at a Wednesday meeting of the Legislative Education Board he finds it "bizarre" that student performance currently is not a factor in appraising teachers.

But Chairman Jon Brumley of the State Board of Education said the Texas Educational Assessment of Minimum Skills should be further improved before that could occur.

"I think we're not ready for it," he said.

Brumley, of Fort Worth, presented to the Legislative Education Board recommendations that were tentatively approved by the State Board of Education. Hammond serves on the Legislative Education Board, along with Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, House Speaker Gib Lewis and other lawmakers.

Among the recommendations Brumley presented was a proposal to give incentive payments to districts with high gains in student performance.

The proposal says scores on the TEAMS test, a basic skills exam, would be used to determine performance along with other indicators. Other performance indicators are not specified.

Rep. Bill Haley, a Center Democrat who serves on the Legislative Education Board, criticized the proposal at a Wednesday meeting of the House Public Education Committee, which he heads.

If he still were a teacher, Haley said, "I would retire before I ever would submit myself or my students or the public in general to such a scam."

Linking test scores with money would be like linking Medicaid reimbursement for doctors with how quickly a patient recovers, Haley said.

"Testing is not what some politicians want to think it is. It is not something that tells you everything there is to be told," Haley said.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been a health professional for years and applaud your advice to seek counseling. It is not a cop-out. It is encouragement to take steps that could change lives.

Please, Ann, impress on your readers the importance of getting the right therapist. Not only should they pay attention to appropriate training, credentials and licensure, it is essential that the therapist have a healthy personality. Those who do not have been known to exploit patients emotionally, financially and sexually. I know whereof I speak.

A few years ago I was faced with a major personal crisis and sought counseling. My therapist was warm, supportive and caring. He encouraged me to see him more frequently when free time opened up. I thought he was wonderful. Then, during a session, he suddenly began to talk a Far Eastern religion that he assured me would provide the answers to all my problems.

He spoke with such passion and intensity that I became alarmed. At the close of the session he shouted, "Are you going to commit yourself to this or not?" I asked what he meant by a "commitment." He replied, "Give me $10,000 a year." I never went back.

My next therapist was cold, aloof and impersonal, but he seemed competent. Then I noticed that he started to be late for my appointments, forgot what I had told him in previous sessions, and the final straw was when he neglected to tell me that he was taking a vacation.

I later learned that he was experiencing a crisis very much like my own and could not be objective about my situation so he was "avoiding" me. If he had been a first-rate therapist he would have referred me to someone else.

By this time I had settled into a chronic depression. I chose a therapist who had a fine reputation but I began to wonder about him when he told me, after my third visit, that I was never to discuss with my husband anything that we talked about during therapy. When I asked why, he said, "Because he might think that some of the things I say are outrageous."

A few weeks later he was furious because I had mailed him an article that had been accepted by a small literary magazine. He told me I was "acting out," that the piece was "trivial," the magazine "unimpressive" and that he should charge me for the time it took to read it. He spent the entire session talking about his anger and insisting that I had abused him. When I left his office I wear in tears.

Please, Ann, tell your readers that therapy is difficult and painful enough without having to work with a nut. If it happened to me it can happen to anyone. To borrow a phrase from the child abuse experts, if it feels "icky" it probably is.

You may use my letter but please don't use my name. As it is, the therapists I wrote about are going to recognize themselves, which is OK, but I don't want anyone else to know.—Crofton, Md.

DEAR CROFTON: Seldom will I devote an entire column to one letter but I felt yours was worth it.

Since the success of therapy depends on selecting the right therapist, how does one make a wise choice? I know of no better criterion than yours: "If it feels 'icky' it probably is."

How much do you know about pot, cocaine, LSD, PCP, crack, speed and downers? Think you can handle them? For up-to-the minute information and rugs, write for Ann Landers' newly revised booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." Send $3 plus a self-addressed, stamped business-size envelope (45 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Betty Crocker's Tips

Q. Can honey be substituted for sugar? C.G., San Diego, CA

A. No, honey adds moisture to the batter or dough and requires reduction of liquid in recipe. There is no rule for substituting honey for sugar.

Q. How can evaporated milk be whipped? E.L.M., Pembroke, GA

A. Chill the milk, bowl and beaters thoroughly. Or, set the bowl in another bowl full of cracked ice to cool before whipping. For a stiffer result, add 2 tablespoons of lemon juice, if lemon flavoring is acceptable, to each cup of evaporated milk before whipping. Topping will hold for 45 minutes to 1 hour if refrigerated.

Q. Can I freeze bread dough that has no yeast added? J.G., Oconomowoc, WI

Freezing unbaked breads result in unsatisfactory rising and baking. For best freezing results, store baked bread in your freezer two to three months in moisture/vaporproof material.

Apple cider can add tang, zest

Nothing conjures up images of autumn better than a mug of steaming hot cider, which has an interesting history and usage.

Apple cider is made from apples that have been stored, or "sweated", for a week to ten days. Then they are washed and ground to pulp to release that tasty, aromatic liquid known as cider. Its brownish color comes from oxidation-when the liquid is exposed to air. In the fridge, cider lasts up to about two weeks. Then bubbles begin to form, signaling the formation of alcohol. This product is called "hard" cider, and has a tangy taste.

Apple cider as a beverage has a history as old as America itself and can be traced back to the first orchards in Massachusetts and Virginia. John Adams, our second president, drank a tankard of apple cider every morning for breakfast until the end of his 91 years. In colonial times, cider was the common breakfast drink at inns and taverns. Through the roaring twenties, apple cider was made and consumed in greater quantities than any other fruit juice in this country.

Apple juice is processed and pasteurized unfermented cider. It is usually filtered or "clarified." Bottled and canned juice has a shelf life of a year or more. It is sold in both concentrated and diluted forms and is available with or without added sweeteners, and with or without ascorbic acid to increase the vitamin C content.

Apple juice is a favorite of young children and adults alike, because of its crisp, refreshing, distinct flavor. Single-serving bottles can easily be packed into a grade schooler's lunchbox or an executive's briefcase. According to the International Apple Institute, the consumption of apple juice is growing at a rate of 12 percent a year in the United States.

Try these suggestions to add tang and zest to your next meal:

-For a twist, fill glasses half full with cider or juice. Fill the rest of the way with club soda or sparkling water and ice. Garnish with a sprig of fresh mint or a sliver of lemon.

-This drink, dubbed iced apple pie, packs the punch at a dinner party or holiday get-together. Fill wine glasses with cider. Add a splash of apple brandy. Then toast the New Year, the promotion, the birthday, whatever strikes your fancy!

-Make ice cubes out of apple juice instead of water for the kids. Add to a glass of apple juice for a double dose of apple flavor.

-Substitute cider for water when steaming veggies for an apple-luscious side dish.

-Freeze apple juice in a ring mold and float in fruit punch.

-Use cider to baste turkey, chicken or pork chops; the heat seals the flavor into the meat.

-Add two cups of cider or juice to stew to enhance the flavor.

-Saute fish or scallops in cider or juice for a decidedly different "nouvelle" flavor.

One tasty recipe idea follows:
CIDER-BRAISED CARROTS AND APPLES

Serve with roast chicken or pork.
1½ cups grated unpeeled apples
4 cups grated carrots
¼ cup light brown sugar

½ tsp. salt
½ cup apple cider
2 tbsp. butter

Combine the apples, carrots, brown sugar, salt, and cider in a small buttered casserole. Dot with the butter.

Cover and bake at 350 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes. Stir once during cooking time. Serves 4.

Phoenix Club dinner set by WTSU

The Ex-Students Association of West Texas State University has scheduled the 25th Annual Phoenix Club dinner for Saturday.

A reception will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the East Dining Hall on the WTSU campus; dinner will follow at 7 p.m. Winners of the Distinguished Alumnus and University Excellence awards will be announced at the event.

The keynote speaker is Dr. Jim Owens, professor of finance and Phoenix Club member.

The Distinguished Alumnus Award is presented annually to an individual no longer associated with WTSU that has distinguished himself/herself both professionally and personally. The University Excellence Award was established to recognize excellence among WT faculty, staff and administrators.

Last year's Distinguished Alumnus Award was shared by Dr. James Caldwell and Dean Kelley. Caldwell, director of physical medicine and rehabilitation at Baylor University Medical Center in Dallas, graduated with a bachelor of science degree in speech, art and English from WT in 1950. Kelley, long-time announcer at many WT athletic events and an independent businessman in Amarillo, graduated from West Texas State in 1957.

Judith Henry, director of the media center, received the 1987 University Excellence Award. She has worked at WT for 20 years and received her undergraduate degree

Season on the line Friday for Hereford

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

It's an all-or-nothing football game this Friday night when the Hereford Whitefaces host the Frenship Tigers at 7:30 p.m. in a District 1-4A battle.

It is a game the Herd must win to remain alive in a district race that is nowhere near settled. A Hereford loss would mean virtual elimination from the playoffs. A tie could also be disastrous, depending on what else happens in the district.

"It's the biggest game these players have ever been in in high school football," said Hereford coach Don Cumpton. "For most of these kids, they have more at stake in this contest than they've had in any other contest. That's what makes it fun. It's an honor to be in a game like this."

Frenship is 5-0 in District 1-4A and is coming off a big 19-14 win over previously-undefeated Estacado.

"This game reminds me a bit of 1982 against Plainview," Cumpton said. "They came in here leading the district, and our backs were against the wall. We had to beat them."

"It was a great football game. We scored 14 points in the last three minutes to win 21-14. This year's situation reminds me of that."

Like that Plainview team of 1982, Frenship has no superstars. "They're like we are, just a bunch of good football players that play with a lot of intensity," Cumpton said.

They may not be superstars, but they're the three Frenship players Hereford must stop: quarterback Kevin McCullough, tailback Jedry Newsome and wide receiver Jeff Mankins.

"Those three players do a lot of their work," Cumpton said. "The tailback does most of their work on the ground, and McCullough throws as many times as he can to Mankins. You have to keep your eye on those three every play."

"Their defense plays a lot like we do. They're in a 4-3 and run to the ball real good."

Frenship vs. Hereford

WHEN, WHERE: 7:30 p.m. Friday, Whiteface Stadium.

WHAT'S AT STAKE: For Hereford, practically everything. A loss would pretty well end Hereford's hopes in 1988. A win doesn't guarantee anything, but it makes the picture much rosier.

CUMPTON'S KEYS: Be aggressive and physical on defense while maintaining discipline; making good things happen when Hereford has the football.

GET FIRED UP, VOL. TWO: Junior Class Taco Supper is from 5-7 p.m. at the HHS cafeteria on Friday.

I SAW THE LIGHT: This is the last game before the time changes (fall back) Sunday morning.

DO I NEED A COAT: Yes, and maybe a blanket. Friday's high probably won't exceed 60, and it could be a mite damp.

I CAN'T FIND FRENSHIP ON THE MAP: Frenship High School is in Wolforth. Wolforth is no metropolis. Frenship gets a big chunk of students from the southwest side of the city of Lubbock, a slightly larger community. Something to do with school district boundaries established long ago.

"Their size is pretty equal to us, their speed is pretty equal to us; it's just two pretty equal ball clubs that will get after each other, or anybody else, on Friday night."

After two months of hard practice, the Herd has slowed down on the hitting and is working more on polish and its game plan.

"You cut back on the hitting this time of the year because you don't want to leave your game laying on the practice field," Cumpton said. "You want to get everyone healthy and keep 'em healthy." Edward Castillo will miss this week's game with a severely-sprained wrist, but defensive tackle Billy Burnam should return after missing last week's Randall game.

"When you get to this point of the season, the eighth game of the year, the mental part of the game becomes more important. You concentrate more on your game plan and doing some things to keep getting better."

"Our offense has improved the past two weeks. We're moving the ball and scoring when we've had the chance. We making progress in our running and passing games.

"Our offensive line just keeps coming on, too. I'm happy with the last two games by our offensive line. They've really done a good job for us."

Part of that mental game is believing you can win. After the win over Dunbar, Hereford quarterback Jason Scott likened Whiteface Stadium to Boston Garden, a place where somehow, the home team is going to win. The home team has won 20 games in a row at Whiteface Stadium.

"It's a definite advantage that the game is here," Cumpton said. "We played well on the road the other night (at Kimbrough Memorial Stadium against Randall), and that showed us we can play well on the road."

"But this team believes that if we go out, play hard, and give a great effort, we can win."

"I know our players are very excited about this game, and I expect us to play a great game. It's going to take a great game to win, and we're looking forward to it."

Driving for yards

Hereford fullback Kyle Andrews (39) tries to escape from Randall defender Chris Roberts (33) during last week's game at Canyon. Andrews and his Hereford teammates will likely have a tougher time Friday when they host district-leading Frenship at 7:30 p.m. at Whiteface Stadium.

Tennis team plays Friday

The Hereford High School tennis team will get a late start in the Region 1-4A regional meet, beginning Friday in Lubbock.

The Herd, 14-0 this season and the defending regional runner-up, won't know who they'll play until a meeting tonight in Lubbock.

Monahans, which edged Hereford last year on sets after the teams tied at 9-9 in matches, will again be the favorites, according to HHS tennis coach Ruben Vargas.

"Really, this is the first time I don't have a clue," Vargas said. "Monahans will be tough, but I don't know how we will do. I'm not worried about our girls, because they have played well all year long. I really think Monahans is the only team that can really challenge them."

"It's really up to our boys. The boys can pull us through if they play well for us. If they don't play well, or if our girls falter, it will be tough, but I think we can get to the finals if we play our best."

The tournament will go through Saturday.

Eighth grade teams win

The Hereford eighth grade football teams won their games on Tuesday as they hosted Valley View and Pampa.

The 8th White team defeated Pampa 34-0. Shawn Fogo scored on two long touchdown runs; Aurelio San Miguel scored a touchdown and converted a pair of two-point PAT runs. Greg Coplen caught a touchdown pass from Chad Sandoval, and Kyle Hansen returned an interception for a touchdown.

The 8th Maroon team defeated Valley View 30-6. Jason Tatarevich caught a 34-yard touchdown pass from Richard Sanderson, and Sanderson scored on a 21-yard run. Petey Colvin scored on touchdown runs of 38 and 39 yards, and returned a kickoff 87 yards for a score.

The Maroon B team lost to Valley View, 14-0.

The seventh grade white team lost to Pampa, 6-0, and the seventh Maroon A squad lost to Valley View, 32-0. The Maroon B squad lost at Valley View, 30-6, as Jeremy Blair scored on a 68-yard run.

Lucero, brothers win lift

Jose, Juan and Richard Samarron, three brothers from Friona, and Jimmy Lucero won first place in their respective divisions in a recent tournament at the Hereford YMCA.

Jose won first in the bench press with 405 lbs., and first place in powerlifting (a combination of bench, squat and dead lift) with a total of 1,565 lbs. for first place in the 275-lb. class.

Juan, in the 242-lb. class, won first in the bench press with 375, and powerlifted a total of 1,560 lbs. for first place.

Richard, in the superheavy class, won first place in the bench press and lifted a total of 1,685 lbs. for first place in powerlifting.

Lucero, in the 165-lb. class, powerlifted a total of 930 lbs.

Lucero began training for power meets just four weeks ago under the coaching of the Samarron brothers. "I couldn't have done it without their coaching," Lucero said.

The Samarrons said they began training at the Hereford YMCA last year because they needed a weight room that had better equipment and more room.

"It is well worth the drive over here every day," Jose said.

The Samarrons said they work out hard, take vitamins, follow no special diet, and "definitely no steroids," Jose said. "We just eat sensibly and train hard. We take it a little easier just before a meet."

Their next meet will be the annual Turkey Lift on Nov. 19 at the YMCA.

Lifting champs

Jose, Juan and Richard Samarron and Jimmy Lucero won first place in their respective division during a recent powerlifting championship at the Hereford YMCA. The Samarrons are brothers. The four are preparing for the YMCA's Turkey Lift on Nov. 19.

Herd is 7-point pick

The Hereford Whitefaces are ranked 20th in the state in Class 4A and are seven point favorites in Friday's football game against Frenship, according to the Harris Rating System.

The Herd moved up three places in this week's poll.

Here are the top teams and some area teams in each class according to the HRS. The team's power rating is in parenthesis:

Lasorda top NL manager

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tommy Lasorda was aboard a jetliner, flying home with his World Series champion Los Angeles Dodgers after a White House visit, when he got the news that he won National League Manager of the Years honors by a landslide.

The rotund skipper, known as much for his love of pasta as his baseball savvy, has won two World Series, four NL pennants and six NL West titles in 12 years at the helm of the Dodgers.

"This completes my day — one of the greatest days of my life," Lasorda said Wednesday. "Right now, you are definitely talking to the happiest man in the world."

A fast-talking Brooklyn native, Lasorda counts celebrities such as Frank Sinatra and Don Rickles among his friends and is well-known outside baseball circles because of his many appearances in TV commercials hawking products ranging from pizza and beer to yogurt and antacid tablets.

He received 19 of 24 possible first-place votes in the Baseball Writers Association of America balloting and appeared on all but one.

He received 101 points in the vote by a committee of two writers from each NL city. Lasorda also was voted Manager of the Year in 1983, its initial year.

"I'm honored, no question about it," he said. "But as I've said many times before, individualism wins trophies, but teamwork wins pennants."

"As a manager, whatever success you achieve, whatever awards you receive, becomes a reality because of the contributions of your players, your coaches, your trainers. I want everyone to share this with me."

Jim Leyland of Pittsburgh finished second with 50 points after leading the Pirates to an 85-75 record and second place in the East behind the New York Mets.

Davey Johnson, who led the Mets to a league-leading 100-60 record and their second East title in three years, was third with 38 points.

San Diego manager Jack McKeon, who took over the Padres from Larry Bowa in late May and led the team to the league's second-best record over the final four months of the season, was fourth with 27 points. The Padres rebounded from a dismal start to post a 67-48 under McKeon.

Despite the personal honor, Lasorda was still feeling the glow of President Reagan's tribute to the Dodgers on the White House lawn.

"To be honored by the president of the United States was a great thrill and an honor," he said. "He honored a team that captured the hearts of all America."

Ryan opts for freedom

HOUSTON (AP) — Pitcher Nolan Ryan's decision to file for free agency left Houston Astros owner John McMullen "a little saddened," the owner of the National League team says.

"I would have to say it was discouraging and disappointing to hear," McMullen told The Houston Post Wednesday. "I guess in this business there's no such thing as loyalty."

McMullen said he was on a golf vacation at the Lake Nona Resort in Orlando, Fla., when he learned of the action, which he believes was partially caused by agent Dick Moss.

"I guess no matter how well you treat a player or what he wants personally, an agent can make him do something different," McMullen said. "I realize it's Nolan's right and privilege to do this, but it's still disappointing to me."

Ryan has been treated fairly and received a fair offer from the team, McMullen said.

"I made Nolan Ryan the highest paid player in baseball when I signed him in 1980," McMullen said.

Crispness, flavor, appeal rate high

As a Texas apple enthusiast, what do you look for when you select an apple?

If you are a "typical consumer," you might follow the trend of a recent consumer research marketing study that rates crispness, flavor and attractiveness as key factors when selecting apples.

Dr. Calvin Lyons, horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said that attractiveness/eye appeal produces the first sale of apples, but crispness and flavor determine repeat sales.

Lyons said that consistency is vital with any product or service, but this sometimes presents a dilemma.

"The buyer doesn't like surprises. He or she wants the same level of quality from purchase to purchase," Lyons said.

"Today's consumers are aware of the variability in quality and price of many fresh fruits and vegetables, according to 'A Profile of Fresh Produce Consumers,' conducted by The Packer's Fresh Trends 1988," Lyons said.

He said the survey sought to gauge the extent to which 21 fresh fruits and 21 fresh vegetables are considered most and least consistent in overall quality and value.

"As expected, the harder and more common items in year-round supply were rated most consistent, while the seasonal, more perishable items were rated least consistent in quality," Lyons said.

He said the survey was conducted in about 1,300 nationally representative U.S. households in late 1987. The consumer study was the magazine's fourth in the past five years.

Consumers surveyed ranked apples, bananas, oranges, seedless grapes, carrots, potatoes, Iceberg lettuce and celery high in consistency.

Lyons said that in the fresh fruit category, apples led the way in the most consistent category, with 81 percent of the respondents including them in the top five. Next came bananas, with 79 percent; followed by oranges, 52 percent; seedless grapes, 46 percent; pink/red grapefruit, 32 percent; and strawberries, 27 percent.

He said that different consumers have different tastes when it comes to apples. These may range from Jersey Macs to Mollie's Delicious, Gala, Red Delicious, Golden Delicious, Crispin (Mutsu) to Granny Smith.

"Knowing when to harvest apples to please consumers is vital to producers. Although the Texas apple harvest has ended for this season, some general harvest guidelines could help growers in the future," Lyons said.

He said apples generally are ready to pick when the seeds begin turning black, background color of the fruit changes from green to yellow and flesh color changes from a green towards yellow.

"When the natural fruit drop begins, the harvest should be well under way," Lyons said.

The days from full bloom to harvest vary with different varieties, but serve as a guide for apple harvesting, Lyons said. Jersey Mac has the shortest time span, with 90 to 100 days, while the Granny Smith variety requires from 170 to 180 days.

ASK DR. LAMB

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am a 39-year-old woman who has developed a milk intolerance. Approximately two years ago, milk and milk products started producing severe gastrointestinal upsets. I am concerned about my need for calcium, vitamin D, etc. My doctor suggested several Tums a day. Is this sufficient to meet my daily needs and what about long-term effects?

DEAR READER: Tums are calcium carbonate with flavor and inactive ingredients added. Keep in mind that only 40 percent of calcium carbonate is calcium. The 500 mg Tums contains 200 mg of calcium and the 750 mg Tums (extra strength) contains 300 mg of calcium. You need at least 1,000 mg of calcium a day. As you reach the menopause you may need more, depending on your hormone status.

Tums, or other calcium carbonate preparations, will not be harmful, but they cannot replace milk. Milk is an important source of complete protein. I would rather see you spend your money on an enzyme preparation to treat milk so you can use it. You might try Lactaid enzyme for this purpose. Your pharmacist should have it, or can get it for you. The Lactaid replaces the enzyme you are deficient in and breaks down the lactose sugar in milk into single sugars that can be absorbed.

Trick-or-treaters should be cautious

Fright Night—All Hallow's Eve—Halloween! No matter what you call it, each year on October 31 millions of costumed kids in thousands of communities trick-or-treat their ways through darkened streets in search of candy treats.

Although the number of trick-or-treaters has been declining each year, 85 percent of American families still allow their kids to make the yearly neighborhood rounds. To ensure a fun and safe Halloween, Texas Safety Association urges parents to take an active part in helping kids create their costumes and observe a few safety rules. The following safety suggestions can help keep the real fright out of Friday Night!

When making or selecting a costume:
—Use fire-resistant materials, with light colors and reflective tape.

—Avoid costumes that restrict movement. Children should not have trouble walking, bending, or moving their arms.

—Use make-up instead of masks; masks can obscure their vision.

—Hats, wigs or beards should be securely fastened.

—Do not allow your children to carry sharp objects. Costume accessories should be made of harmless materials such as soft plastic or cardboard.

—For children under age 12, attach their name, address, and phone number inside a sleeve, in case they get lost. Do not display the information openly on the costume!

—For added visibility, children should carry reflective trick-or-treat bags, flashlights, or light sticks.

When the big night arrives and the excitement has reached unbearable levels, following these steps will ensure safe and happy trick-or-treating:

—Travel in groups with an adult supervising.

—Stay in familiar neighborhoods, and follow a designated route.

—Walk on the sidewalks. If there are none, walk on the left side, facing the traffic, as far from the road as possible.

—WAK from house to house, and don't cut across lawns. There might be things to trip over hidden in the dark.

—At intersections, stop, look left, then right, then left again before crossing.

—Never cross a road from between parked cars.

—Never enter strange houses or apartments.

—Call home if there are any problems. Parents should make sure children have change for a pay phone.

—DO NOT eat treats until you get home and a parent has inspected each one. Motorists driving on Halloween should also observe some safety precautions:

—Slow down in residential areas, and obey the traffic signs.

—Keep a sharp lookout for children walking in the streets.

—Be prepared for children to dart into the street, especially from between parked cars.

—Use extra caution when entering and existing driveways and alleys.

—Be sure that your headlights are clean and in good working order.

—Never wear masks or restrictive costumes while driving.

Your kids know that trick-or-treating is the best part of Halloween. If you and your children follow these safety tips, the kids can enjoy this yearly ritual now and in years to come.

Texas Safety Association is a non-profit, non-governmental organization whose members work in government, private industry, and as individuals to prevent accidents and needless loss of life and property.

Accent on Health

Program Immunizing the Border's Poor

In something akin to a collective house call, the Texas Department of Health (TDH) is taking public health service to the patient—in this case, some communities of South Texas and El Paso County.

The New Measles Border Initiative Program is meant to control the spread of measles and other contagious diseases in the "colonias", Hispanic neighborhoods of selected border counties.

The target areas are rural neighborhoods which usually lack water and sanitation systems, and have little or no access to public health services.

The federally funded program will provide all types of immunizations to the children and vulnerable adults of some 450 colonias which are home to about 80,000 resident. The effort is administered by the TDH Immunization Division in Austin, and coordinated by the TDH regional office and local health departments of South Texas. In the El Paso area, the program is coordinated by the El Paso City-County Health District.

Oscar G. Garza, Immunization Program Director for TDH Region 8 (Harlingen), explained that the colonias have a high rate of unemployment. The average family income annually is less than $6,000, with many families earning from $1,000-$3,000 each year through farm labor.

In operation for nine months, the program conducts temporary clinics in each neighborhood, usually in the evenings, when most of the patients are not at work, at convenient sites such as churches. The types of services available in each clinic are based upon the community's needs as determined by surveys.

The surveys, conducted door-to-door in selected areas, determine the local protection levels against immunizable diseases, including diphtheria, tetanus, pertussis, measles, mumps, rubella (German measles), polio, and Haemophilus influenzae type b.

Robert D. Crider, Director of the TDH Immunization Division said the surveys show, for example, that in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, people 20 and older are seldom found to have their basic immunizations. "In that age group," Crider said, "only nine percent of the people were immunized against tetanus and diphtheria, three percent against polio, five percent against measles, two percent against rubella, and one percent against mumps."

Mary Lou Morales, R.N., Program Manager in El Paso said, "The El Paso area surveys show that only 30 percent of children ages 4 and younger are fully immunized, when the statewide immunization level for that age group is about 80 percent."

In addition to immunizations, the clinics also administer tuberculosis skin tests, since studies show that the Texas colonias contain more TB cases than 19 states combined.

Crider explained that in the 61 clinics conducted in the first seven months of the program, 4,421 immunizations were administered. For at least 70 percent of the patients, these clinics were a first encounter with publicly offered health services. "We think this initiative is a clear-cut example of how preventive medicine can best be made available to the people who need it most," Crider said.

MEET MR. HORNSBY

BROOKLYN, N.Y. (AP) — It happened a long time ago and it starred Rogers Hornsby, generally rated the greatest righthanded hitter ever to play baseball.

Hornsby was in Brooklyn Ebbets Field with the St. Louis Cardinals who were playing the Dodgers. On the mound for Brooklyn was a rookie pitcher, who on a 2-and-2 count, bent a curve on the outside corner for what he thought was strike three. Umpire Bill Klem called it a ball.

The pitcher came down off the mound raging. Klem stepped in front of the plate and told the youngster: "Mr. Hornsby will let you know when you throw a strike."

Hornsby did on the next pitch. It was a fast ball over the plate and Rogers drilled a vicious line drive into center field for a hit. The young pitcher ducked just in time.

CLASSIFIED ADS
Classified advertising rates are based on 14 cents a word for first insertion ($2.00 minimum), and 10 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy change, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN.
1 day per word	14	2.00
2 days per word	24	4.00
3 days per word	34	6.00
4 days per word	44	8.00

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY
Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid word lines—those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing, all capital letters. Rates are $3.95 per column inch; $3.25 an inch for additional insertions.

LEGALIS
Ad rates for legal notices are 14 cents per word first insertion, 10 cents per word for additional insertions.

ERRORS
Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR READERS:
Do you dread traveling with your children? Here are some good travel tips that will help ease the stress and just might come in handy for the coming holiday season.

When making reservations with a hotel or motel, call in advance so they will have cots or cribs available for you. Ask if there is an extra charge.

When packing, take one small bag for each person. Let children bring only one or two toys each. Pack an extra foldable nylon suitcase to be used for souvenirs or even dirty clothes. Don't forget to pack your first-aid kit!

Consider unpacking as soon as you arrive at your destination if you are staying awhile. This helps to make everyone feel more at home. I know it always makes me feel better to see my things. Try to keep children's bedtimes the same and read them their favorite story so they feel comfortable with their new surroundings.

Many times children, just like adults, are afraid of the unknown. So, to make your children feel safe, allow them to help make plans and be part of packing and unpacking. Enroute, always allow time for playing in a city park or other playground. Take time for adults too! Stretch your legs, deep breathe and enjoy the scenery. Remember that children have a limited attention span. So a few different activities throughout the day are better than one long day.

A vacation is supposed to be fun for all so take some time to enjoy! — Heloise

CONSUMER SERVICE
Dear Readers: Before you make airline reservations, have you ever wished you could find out the complaints on mishandled luggage, flight delays or overbooking of an airline?

The U. S. Department of Transportation now requires the 14 largest air carriers to report these figures every month and they are published monthly in the Air Travel Consumer Report.

If you would like to receive a free copy of this report, write to: Office of Consumer Affairs, U.S. Department of Transportation, 400 Seventh St. N.W., Room 10405, Washington, D. C. 20590. — Heloise

STRAWBERRY BASKETS

Dear Heloise: Yesterday I noticed a small spot on my carpet. After scrubbing I was able to remove it. However, I was left with a damp spot on the carpet. Since I didn't want the kids or the dog to walk on this area until it was totally dry, this is what I did.

I got one of the small plastic baskets that strawberries come in and placed it over the spot. This allowed air to penetrate to dry it and yet the kids and even the dog knew to stay away from it. — Deandra Cooper, Houston, Texas

COFFEE FLAVOR

Dear Heloise: I once remember reading in your column a way to flavor coffee. At that time I promptly cut the article out only to misplace it. Would you please reprint it for me. — Mrs. Smith, Topeka, Kan.

I'm not sure exactly which recipe you are speaking of. But here is a sure-fire way to spice up a cup of regular brewed coffee.

Add a drop or two of either peppermint, almond or vanilla extract to the coffee grounds before brewing. Umm! Sounds delicious, doesn't it? — Heloise

LAUNDRY SOLVER

Dear Heloise: I have a teenage daughter, and laundry day around my house was hectic. On numerous occasions I would tell her to put all the clothes she wanted washed in the hamper. Of course this was too easy. I would end up going into her room and gathering all her dirty clothes to be laundered. Well, eventually I tired of this.

I simply started washing only the clothes that she put in the hamper. After a few days of no clean clothes, she learned to put her dirty clothes in the hamper and laundry day was saved. — Mom, Washington, D.C.

DEAR READERS:

If you use a kerosene heater in your home or place of business, you should take precautions against a number of serious hazards.

Some of the dangers that you can encounter are fire or explosion, burns and indoor air pollution.

The Insurance Information Institute has a compiled a helpful pamphlet on kerosene heater safety.

Included also in this pamphlet are tips for picking a heater, dealing with the hazards, using it safely, handling fuel and proper maintenance of the heater.

If you would like to receive a free single copy of this pamphlet, simply dial toll free 1-800-221-4954. When calling, please ask for the kerosene heater safety pamphlet.

Thanks to our friends at the Insurance Information Institute for offering it. — Heloise

KITCHEN GLOVES

Dear Heloise: I have a tip for mothers of small children. If your children enjoy playing in the snow, buy a pair of dish-washing or kitchen gloves, then put them over non-waterproof cloth gloves. Since the gloves are long, they keep snow from going up the children's sleeves.

Kids can now play in the snow with their hands warm and dry. — Susan Williams, Fairfax, Va.

CLEVER SOCK SORTER

Dear Heloise: After a whirlwind romance I found myself married to a wonderful man whose friends' names I couldn't keep straight. (They live far away.)

Also, every day's laundry left me piles of nearly identical white socks to match into pairs. I solved both problems by printing the names of his married friends in permanent ink onto the toe of the socks. This way I can practice matching Jim and Rose and Dale and Lisa.

By the time I've reviewed all the names, the socks are all paired. — Julie Ellis, Beale AFB, Calif.

What a hoot! I hope your husband doesn't take off his boots! — Hugs, Heloise

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Making spur of the moment investments on tips can prove disastrous, says Aetna Life Insurance & Annuity Co.

Although we've all heard stories about friends and acquaintances who've made a killing, we've also heard about hot tips that turned into cold losses, it says.

Halloween fare

Slice 'N' Bake Pumpkin Bites are a fun seasonal twist on traditional slice and bake cookies. Decorated in orange and green frosting, the treats are ready for Halloween.

Traditional cookies take on Halloween twist

Fall is here, Halloween is just around the corner, and one of the season's favorite foods—the pumpkin—is tantalizing tastebuds nationwide.

Bring some Halloween spirit into your home or office with Slice 'N' Bake Pumpkin Bites—light, crispy cookies whose pumpkin shapes provide a fun seasonal twist on traditional slice and bake cookies. Tasty fall flavors featured in these cookies include pumpkin, ground ginger and pumpkin pie spice.

A terrific time-saving attribute of these cookies is that the dough can be made ahead and frozen for up to four months before using. When ready to bake, just pop the frozen cookie rolls out of the freezer and cut into 1/4-inch slices.

For a cute pumpkin stem, just shape a small bit of cookie dough and press it to the top of the round pumpkin shape. After the cookies are baked and cooled, frost with orange and green frosting.

The use of canned pumpkin in these cookies makes them nutritious, too. Pumpkin is naturally rich in vitamin A in the form of beta-carotene, which plays a major role in a variety of healthy body functions.

These colorful pumpkin cookies are perfect to serve at any Halloween party or fall get-together. Serve with a hot beverage or milk.

SLICE 'N' BAKE PUMPKIN BITES
(Makes about 5 dozen)

- 1 cup softened butter
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 egg yolk
- 1 cup solid pack canned pumpkin
- 3 cups flour
- 1 tablespoon pumpkin pie spice
- 2 teaspoons ground ginger
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

Cream butter; gradually add sugar, beating until light and fluffy. Add egg yolk; mix well.

Combine dry ingredients in a small bowl. Add dry ingredients and pumpkin alternately to butter/sugar mixture, mixing well after each addition. Cover; chill dough until firm.

Divide into four parts. Place each part on a 14x10-inch sheet of plastic wrap. Wrap loosely around dough and knead lightly to shape into 8x1 1/2-inch roll; wrap securely.

Freeze at least four hours or until quite firm. Dough may be frozen up to four months.

To bake: Cut rolls into 1/4-inch slices. Place on lightly greased cookie sheet; pat to spread slightly.

Reserve some slices to make stems. Cut reserved slices into fourths. Shape and press into top of cookie slice to form stem. Bake in preheated 350 degrees F oven for 16 to 18 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool on racks. Decorate in pumpkin design with orange and green frosting.

Abundant Life

THE OVERVIEW
By Bob Wear

The overview of life is the true view of life, seeing the whole picture. We see the obstacles, the difficulties, the problems and the unpleasant; but 'the overview' is broad enough and high enough to include the successes, the happy experiences, the attainment of good, and the realization of our hopes.

The overview of life is the balanced view of life, because our living experience is kept in balance by the sensible relationship between the pleasant and the unpleasant, between the desirable and the undesirable, between the gain and the loss. The unpleasant, the undesirable, and the loss will demand our attention, unless we deliberately and thoughtfully keep the pleasant, the desirable, and the gain in our view.

We become unduly over-burdened with life, if we do not maintain the overview. "Behold eighty-three years passed away; What cares! What agitation! What anxieties! What ill-will! What sad complications! And all without other result except great fatigue of body and mind, and disgust with regard to the past, and a profound sentiment of discouragement and despair with regard to the future."—Talleyrand. Who wants this? Of course, it can happen unless we maintain a good wholesome overview of the living experience.

All of us will, sooner or later, experience what we call misfortunes of one kind or another; because this is part of being human. There will also be some good fortune. We don't ignore the misfortune, but we must not permit it to dominate our life. "The longer we dwell on our misfortunes, the greater their power to harm us."—Voltaire. The overview of life will embrace the good fortune, and help maintain the balance needed for effective living.

We can see a black speck in a glass of clear water, or we can see a glass of clear water in which there is a black speck. The first is the limited view, and the second is the overview.

The overview of life enables us to be more dynamic in our life movements, and more effective in personal doings, and will help us to reach better levels of personal success.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The World's first captive-bred California condor was born recently at the San Diego Wild Animal Park. It is one of 28 California condors now in existence.

Zookeepers, who plan to release the hatchling into a protected natural habitat later, feed it a diet of mice and raw egg yolks. In an effort to minimize human influence on the young bird, they use a hand puppet made up to look like an adult condor for the feedings.

The condor is part of the vulture family.

DON'T WORRY

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — There is nothing to worry about if your engine oil looks black right after you change it, according to Phillips 66.

It simply means the additives in your motor oil are continuing to do their job — suspending dirt particles in the oil to help keep the engine clean.
