

Clayton To Leave House after 4th Term

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Speaker Bill Clayton made it official Thursday - he will quit the House after serving a fourth term as speaker in 1981-82 and run for statewide office or return to the farm.

"I will have other plans after that session. ... It will be my last term in the Legislature," Clayton told reporters.

It has been widely believed Clayton might attempt a statewide race in 1982. Possibilities include lieutenant governor, a post that would be open if Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby takes on Gov. Bill Clements.

"I still haven't ruled out the farm," he said, referring to his 2,000 irrigated acres near Springlake, west of Lubbock.

Until Thursday, Clayton had not declared for the record he would leave the House after the 1981 session.

If Clayton wins a fourth term, he would preside over an emotional legislative session. The Legislature must reapportion itself after each census, and the 1980 count will force rural areas to surrender

House and Senate seats to the cities.

Clayton said he hoped the House Committee on Regions, Compacts and Districts - headed by close ally Tim Von Dohlen, D-Goliad - could assemble enough data to draft redistricting bills before the 1981 Legislature meets.

Clayton said he hoped computers could help draw legislative district lines that would pass muster with the U.S. Justice Department, which must approve them under the Voting Rights Act.

He said he believes the 1980 census will show enough growth to give Texas two new congressmen.

San Antonio has now become the state's second largest city, he said, and that should be considered in congressional reapportionment.

"We've got some crazy-looking congressional districts. ... I feel like some of them, if they had been attacked in court, would not make it," Clayton said.

On other matters, he said:

He might assign at least one task to the House General Investigating Committee next week. "If we get some information we expect over the weekend," asked the subject, he would say only, "a pretty big subject."

If current projections of the cost of implementing the "Tax Relief Amendment" are correct, the general appropriation bill written by the Legislative Budget Board will leave an additional $72 million for tax cuts.

A subcommittee of the House Ways and Means Committee "is going to be looking closely at the comptroller's budget," Clayton, however, criticized an Austin grand jury report that asserted Comptroller Bob Bullock had impeded its investigation of his department.

"If they are going to come out with a report chastising somebody, they should have said, 'They did this or they did that.' They didn't say, 'We've got proof that X-so-and-so did X-so-and-so and you should pass a law to make them quit,'" Clayton said.

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says a parent is a person who has to give lectures on nutritional values to a kid who has reached six-foot-six by eating hamburgers and potato chips.

One of the nicest things about growing old is that you find your children crossing the generation gap to your side.

THE HIGHLIGHT of the annual Hereford Young Farmers Junior Livestock Show is set Saturday when the auction is conducted for the four-county area's 4-H and FFA youngsters. The Young Farmers put a lot of work into the annual show and auction, and they hope to draw much support for the auction.

The Deaf Smith County Booster Club will be accepting donations at a table in the Bull Barn so that youngsters will realize an equitable price for their livestock.

WE'VE ALWAYS considered ourselves to be optimists, but we have to admit our optimism wears a little thin waiting for a little common sense to strike the federal government.

Enough examples keep popping up in the news about the lack of judgment and common sense among our federal agencies to thoroughly test any belief that ultimately things will straighten out. We get the feeling that the examples, far from being the exception, are only the tip of a gigantic bureaucratic iceberg of confusion, frustration, and unbelievable wasteful spending.

The way to the future is knowledge of the past...and history reveals that only two federal programs in the history of the nation have ever been completely abolished. Uncle Sam no longer makes rum in the Virgin Islands, and no longer breeds horses for the U.S. Cavalry.

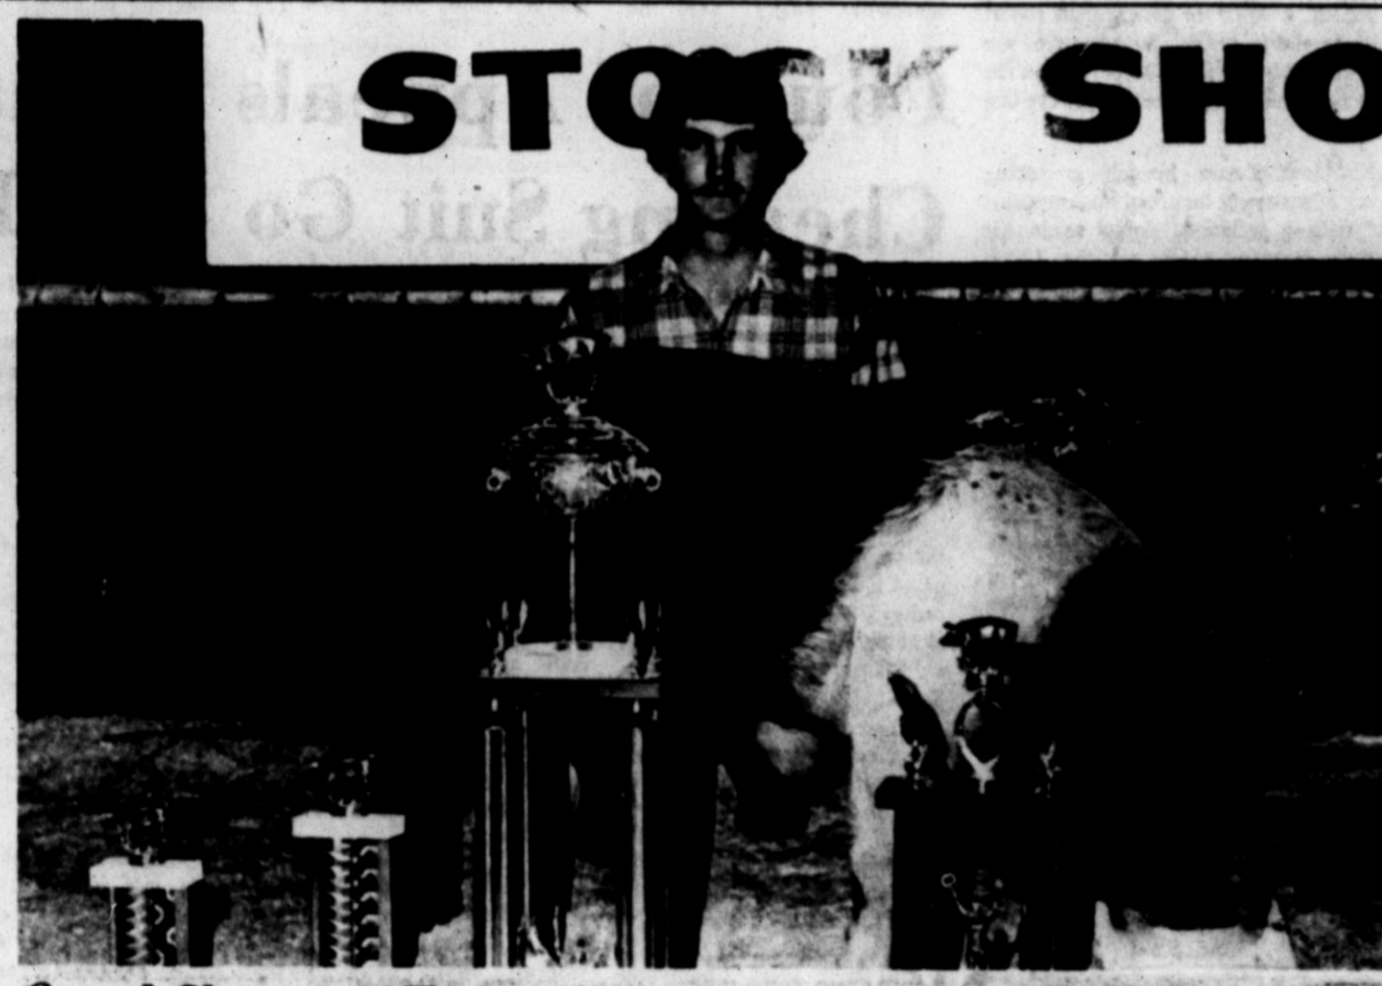

Most of you probably read recently where the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency denied a permit for the construction of a $700 million oil refinery on the Maine coast...because it might disturb the nesting grounds for a class of bald eagles.

The backers of the refinery had been fighting to obtain the necessary permits for 10 years, and one of the officers said they were giving up on the project. This occurred in a state that uses 324 trillion BTU's in energy each year and produces only 79 trillion BTU's.

Then there is the recent example from Seattle where the regional office of the Civil Rights ordered that an all-girl drill team change its name from "The Golden Girls" to "The Golden Girls and Guys."

This despite the fact that there's not a single male in the organization.

Thankfully, the office backed off on that one because Sen. Frank Church heard all the complaints and blew his stack. The senator called HEW chief

Grand Champion Hog

Tony Reinart of the Hereford FFA took his mediumweight Hampshire to Grand Champion honors in the first day of competition in the Hereford Young Farmers Junior Livestock Show Thursday. Reinart's pig was selected from a strong field of entries which gave swine judge Jim McManigal ample opportunity for comparison and contrast during the marathon show that stretched into the night, despite a noon starting time. Judging of lambs and cattle continues at the show today, to be topped off by a big livestock auction, beginning at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Bull Barn. Complete rundowns on placings in all classes and photos of top winners will be featured in a special section in Sunday's Brand. [Brand photo by Jim Stelert]

Hereford Exhibitors Net Honors At Young Farmers' Stock Show

Hereford exhibitors got off to a strong start in the annual Hereford Young Farmers Junior Livestock Show Thursday as local FFA member Tony Reinart paraded his middleweight Hampshire through the showing, caught swine judge Jim McManigal's eye with the animal and wound up with the Grand Champion market hog trophy for his efforts.

Reinart's moment of triumph Thursday evening marked the peak moment of an intense period of showing competition which stretched over seven hours.

McManigal took the hand of the Hereford exhibitor to congratulate him in an indication of his selection of the Hampshire barrow, and the action brought thunderous approval from the partisan crowd that gathered at the Bull Barn for the final tense seconds of the market swine show.

Moments later, McManigal selected a jumbo cross owned by Danny Underwood of the Dimmitt FFA as the show's Reserve Grand Champion, eliciting cheers from the Dimmitt contingent on hand for the competition.

Hereford exhibitors fared well in a number of other swine classes as well, with perhaps their strongest showing in the Hampshire class, where local FFA'ers made a clean sweep of the top positions in all three weight classes.

DeLynn Mason had the top light Hamp, Reinart's pig took the medium class and Corey Christie captured the top spot in the heavy Hamp category.

The county shows Reserve Grand Champion hog was shown by John Meyer of the Hereford FFA. Meyer took his heavy Duroc to breed championship honors in county and four county competition prior to winning the second high finish in county. Robbie Phillips of the Hereford FFA had the four county and county reserve Duroc.

Christie's Hampshire was selected reserve Breed Champion.

In other swine classes, Monté Johnson of the Dimmitt FFA had the champion of other pure breeds for four county, while Randy Vogel, Hereford FFA, showed the county champ.

Reserve OPB winners were shown by Mark Bruegel, Castro County 4-H for four county and Phylcia Rowland, Hereford FFA, for county.

Monte Roberts of Dimmitt had the champion Poland in four county, while Eric Walterscheid of the Hereford FFA had the four county reserve champ, which Record-setting rains and icy floodwaters soaked parts of New England, New York and New Jersey today, driving more than 1,200 residents from their homes. Midwesterners took a fresh grip on their snow shovels to combat record-setting snowfalls.

Forecasters predicted snow today in New England, the Rocky Mountains, the Great Lakes, and from North Dakota to Texas.

Two men and three children were rescued from the rubble of a department store in the Chicago suburb of Round Lake Beach when snow caused part of the roof to collapse Thursday night. No injuries were reported.

Record rains, gale winds and high tides built floods that sent hundreds packing in the coastal communities of Revere, Nahant and Scituate near Boston. About 400 people were evacuated from Quincy, and others left Marshfield, Hull and Salem as Massachusetts suffered its

Dimmitt Couple Testifies

DIMMITT-Mr. and Mrs. Ildro Aguinagas, testifying through a Hereford interpreter, Thursday repeated the story of the Dec. 8 death of their 11-month-old son after he was refused admission to Memorial Hospital here.

The Dimmitt couple testified in justice of the peace court where Memorial Hospital administrator Jack D. Newsom is on trial for allegedly denying emergency care to a dying child—a misdemeanor.

Paul Hernandez, a Hereford probation officer, served as interpreter during testimony by the Aguinagas couple.

The only other witness to testify in the trial was 15-year-old Joe Beliz, who served as the couple's interpreter both at the hospital and at the office of a Dimmitt doctor who had ordered hospital treatment for the infant.

The parents of the infant testified that the hospital would not admit the infant unless a $400 deposit was made.

Newsom contends that he told the parents that the hospital bill would be at least $400 but did not try to imply that admission was contingent on the payment of the bill.

Coplen To Seek Another Term as Commissioner

Ed Coplen, commissioner of Place 1, has become the second City of Hereford official to file for re-election.

Coplen, 38, who was elected to the city commission two years ago, announced for re-election "because there are some things we need to finish, like the new city hall and work on our parks, and I also think I've done a good job. If I hadn't, I probably wouldn't run."

Trustees Discuss Options

By PAUL SIMS

The Hereford Independent School District board didn't have enough members present Thursday night to take action on agenda items pertaining to the April 7 school board election, but there were enough trustees on hand to take several shots at the U.S. Department of Justice.

The Voting Rights section of the Justice Department sent a letter to school district attorney Earnest Langley which stated that HISD's request to continue with a place system of voting was denied because the procedure might be discriminatory to Mexican-Americans.

Langley, Superintendent Dr. Harrell Holder and board members Mack Tubbs, Clark Andrews and Jim Arney discussed the letter and the school district's options pertaining to the April 7 election Thursday night during a special meeting. Trustees James Gentry, Sallie Strain and David Hutchins were out of town, as the board did not have enough members to constitute a quorum.

The letter stated that the submitting authority—Hereford Independent School District—has the burden of proving "that a proposed change will not have a racially discriminatory purpose or effect."

HISD did not prove that its place system was not discriminatory, the letter, written by David Hunter of the Voting Rights section in Washington D.C., stated.

Trustees voted last November to eliminate majority runoff from the place system in hopes of obtaining Justice Department approval.

The federal Voting Rights Act of 1965, was amended to include Texas in 1975

Ramirez Announces As HISD Candidate

Hereford Police Lieutenant Paul Ramirez, who resigned from the Hereford Independent School District board of trustees last September after serving six months, has filed for another position on the board.

Ramirez resigned because his wife worked as a teacher's aide in the school system.

"She lacked a month and a half," Ramirez said in announcing his intentions to run for the school board. "State law says that a board member's spouse must have worked in the school system for at least two years."

"I had to resign to avoid a possible conflict of interest. I had to do it, although

I hated it. I enjoyed working on the school board. I enjoyed the fellowship of the people I worked with, and I'm anxious to get back on there.

"I still feel I can help both the schools and the community."

Ramirez has served with the Hereford Police Department for 12 years. He presently is third in command, serving in both a supervisory and patrol capacity.

Prior to moving to Hereford, Ramirez worked with a security detachment at the Huntsville state penitentiary.

Ramirez, who was raised in Amarillo, attended Texas A&M and was graduated from West Texas State University in 1968.

Winter Storm Chills Panhandle

By The Associated Press

A winter storm moved out of the southern Rockies today, threatening much of Northwest and North Texas with freezing rain, sleet and snow.

Travelers advisories were issued to cover the Panhandle and a large portion of North Texas. Snow accumulations could reach about two inches in the Panhandle by the time the storm tapers off Saturday, according to the National Weather Service.

The storm was expected to bring precipitation in some form to most of Texas today, tonight and Saturday. Rain was expected south and southeast of the areas expecting the freezing precipitation.

Early today, fog and low clouds moved in from the gulf northward to the Red River. Dense fog in the Austin area caused traffic problems early today. Some light rain and drizzle fell across much of the state during the pre-dawn hours.

Some light snow fell in northern sections of the Panhandle early today.

Early morning temperatures ranged from the middle 20s in the Panhandle to the lower 60s in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Extremes ranged from 25 at Dalhart to 65 at Brownsville.

Some early morning temperatures included 26 at Amarillo, 36 at Wichita Falls, 33 at Texarkana, 36 at Dallas-Fort Worth, 50 at Austin, 41 at Lufkin, 49 at Houston, 62 at Corpus Christi, 49 at Del Rio, 42 at San Angelo, 44 at El Paso and 32 at Lubbock.

Price Sponsors 'Get Well, John'

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Legislators sent a get-well wish Thursday to actor John Wayne, recently hospitalized because of stomach cancer.

The Senate passed a resolution offering Wayne "sincere wishes for a speedy recuperation and an early return to film work."

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Bob Price, R-Pampa, also expressed appreciation to the actor "for the tremendous pleasure he has provided through his screen portrayals, many as the classic Texas cowboy."

Lettuce Pickers Reject Mediation

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Pickers walked out at two more lettuce farms as the United Farm Workers rejected federal mediation as a way to end a dispute that threatens the nation's winter lettuce crop.

Growers spokesman Richard Thornton said employers would comply with a government request and meet with the mediator today in Los Angeles.

But UFW spokesman Marc Grossman said: "The federal mediators are not needed. We can reach an agreement if the growers will just negotiate in good faith."

About 2,700 lettuce pickers have struck six of 28 major growers in the Salinas and Imperial valleys of southeastern California. Strike votes have been taken at other farms, Grossman said.

About 95 percent of the U.S. winter iceberg lettuce crop is grown in the Imperial Valley, and a prolonged strike could lead to severe lettuce shortages.

About 16,000 members of the union led by Cesar Chavez are seeking a 40 percent raise in a one-year contract. The growers have offered 7 percent per year in wage and benefit increases over three years.

The current minimum wage for the workers is $3.70.

The latest farms struck were Joe Maggio Inc., where 450 workers left, and Lu'Este Farms, where 120 walked off.

Mexico Getting Ready For Pope's Visit

MEXICO CITY (AP) - Public enthusiasm is substituting for official protocol as Mexico welcomes Pope John Paul II, the first Roman Catholic pontiff to set foot in this nation where tradition and law draw sharp anti-clerical lines.

The pontiff arrives here this afternoon from the Dominican Republic, first actions with the Vatican, he will not get the state welcome and the 21-gun salute customarily afforded a visiting chief of state.

President Jose Lopez Portillo will lead a select group of 5,000 government officials, churchmen and diplomats greeting the pontiff unofficially as "a distinguished guest."

Sheer numbers will make up for formality as the pope rides in an open car through a valley of humanity, some 5 million people, to downtown Mexico City.

Buildings along his 3 1/2-mile route to the Metropolitan Cathedral have been decked out in the Vatican colors of yellow and white and thousands of portraits of the new pope adorn the walls.

The ancient, spired cathedral tilts slightly from years of sinking in the soft subsoil of the capital. It crowns a huge square built by the Spaniards after they conquered the Aztecs. More than 300,000 onlookers are expected to pack the plaza outside the cathedral while the pope celebrates his first Mass in Mexico.

Proposal Would Pay Elderly's Utility Bills

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - A proposal to help the elderly pay high utility bills sounds good, state welfare officials agree, but it could jeopardize other medical and social funds supplements.

Sen. Bill Patman, D-Ganado, explained his legislative plan Thursday to divert $69 million annually from natural gas severance taxes to the utility bill relief program.

The Texas Department of Human Resources would administer the program. Patman told the three-member human resources commission.

"I think we can assure you that you have whole-hearted support from all of us," said Hilmar G. Moore of Richmond, board chairman.

"We need some flexibility because rates change and then you can get locked in and the whole program goes out," Moore added.

Patman agreed, saying, "It could reduce Supplemental Security Income checks or food stamps if certain disbursement methods are used."

Under the senator's plan, Texas voters would be asked to approve a constitutional amendment dedicating one cent of the 7 1/2-cent severance tax to a utility relief fund.

If the amendment passed in November

1979, it would reappear on ballots in 1984 for a second look, the senator explained.

Inflation Battle May Take Years

WASHINGTON (AP) - Americans are being warned on all sides that it may take years of patient sacrifice before significant progress is made in the battle against inflation.

"1979 will be a year of austerity," Federal Reserve Chairman G. William Miller told the House Budget Committee Thursday.

"This is a time for patience," he added.

Barry Bosworth, executive director of the President's Council on Wage and Price Stability had a similar message in a speech to the American Association of Retired Persons.

"This is not going to be a year in which Americans can look forward to increases in real income," said Bosworth.

He predicted sharp rises in food costs over the next few months and said it may take years before the problem of inflation is solved. A separate government report said vegetable prices, for example, are expected to be up about 10 percent in the next few weeks over what they were last winter.

President Carter himself is taking every opportunity to stress his emphasis on fighting inflation; doing so in his budget message, State of the Union address and annual economic report, all delivered to Congress this week.

another roar of approval from the local crowd as McManigal took the hand of Robbie Phillips of the Hereford FFA, a youngster short in stature but a giant of enthusiasm.

Stock show competition continues today with steer judging proceeding through this evening.

Lamb classes were judged this morning.

Closing out the stock show will be a special FFA and 4-H judging team contest at 8 a.m. Saturday, to be followed by the livestock show auction at 1 p.m. at the Bull Barn.

Floor prices will be established on all animals prior to the sale, and buyers will pay only the difference between their winning bids and the floor price.

and made retroactive to include changes in voting procedures since Nov. 1, 1972. HISD changed from an at-large place system with a majority runoff requirement in 1974, reported the change in 1976, and promptly received word from the Justice Department that the new procedure could have a discriminatory effect and would not be allowed.

Langley told the three trustees that Voting Rights section attorneys "gave me their word" that they would allow the school district to return to the at-large system.

Langley said it may be the school district's best option, even though the latest ruling of the Justice Department could be challenged in federal district court in Washington D.C.

"Someday, somewhere, there will come a time when somebody stands up for what they're doing. But it comes at a price-it's expensive and you can't have an election," Langley said.

"We sure don't want to go up there to Washington and fight this thing," Tubb said. "That's what they want you to do-go play in their back yard."

Langley agreed that the Washington D.C. court likely would not rule against the Justice Department.

"This whole thing is stupid," Andrews said. Tubb and Arney said they agreed.

"What would happen if we just told them to shove it, and went ahead with our place-system election?" Tubb asked.

Langley said that each board member then would be subject to five years imprisonment and a $5,000 fine.

"Let's don't do that," Tubb said.

Tubb, an attorney, called the Voting Rights Act "an ex post facto" law and therefore unconstitutional.

That was one of the arguments used by the school district last year as it tried to persuade a federal three-judge panel in Dallas that the place system should be allowed.

The board will meet again at 7:30 a.m. next Wednesday to discuss its options. It also will discuss the possibility of appointing someone to fill an unexpired term on the board.

Storm

wettest January in 161 years. Boston recorded 2.33 inches of rain in 24 hours, bringing the January total to a record 10.33 inches. In Granon, Mass., a 15-foot section of a dam on the Quinsigamond River gave way Thursday, forcing the evacuation of 300 families.

The main business and residential areas of Denville Township, N.J., were under 4 to 5 feet of water, and about 200 persons were evacuated as 3 1/2 feet of water swamped part of Parsippany-Troy Hills Township.

New York state residents were hit by heavy rain and wet snow that sent rivers and streams over their banks. High water forced evacuations in the western part of the state, and the storm left thousands without power for up to 12 hours.

In upstate New York, road crews mixed sand and crushed stone with salt stockpiles as several cities reported critical shortages. In New York City, more than 2 inches of rain had been recorded since Wednesday night.

High tides and winds in Atlantic City,

N.J., caused an estimated $1 million damage to beaches in the casino section.

In Connecticut, floodwaters were 6 feet deep in parts of Southington and Wallingford. About 100 homes were evacuated and schools were closed in at least a dozen communities.

Gov. J. Joseph Garrahy said he would seek federal assistance for Rhode Island after floodwaters sent hundreds from their homes. Damage to businesses was expected to total hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Jury Said Misinformed

HOUSTON (AP) - The state district judge who presided over the 13-week Cullen Davis murder-conspiracy trial believes the jury was "completely misinformed on at least one point that was vital to the case."

Wallace "Pete" Moore, in an interview this week said the jury also may have been led astray on another point. He refused to elaborate but said, "If you give wrong information, then, just like a computer, you'll get out wrong information in the future."

Moore said the trial was "the biggest strain on me since I've been a judge. It was the worst experience I have ever had."

Asked if he was sensitive to comments from the public as to his handling of the case, Moore said, "Yes. I live in a glass house and I don't throw rocks."

Moore, tired and still somewhat angry, said he wanted to get away from it all now.

"It was an abuse of the system and I am not over it yet. I don't think the attorneys are over it and I am sure the jurors aren't over it. You just can't throw a switch and say it is off," he said.

Moore, 55, had sat on the bench for 13 weeks for one of the most expensive and sensational trials in Texas history.

It ended in a hung jury - eight for conviction and four-for acquittal.

Davis, a millionaire industrialist from Fort Worth, was accused of plotting the murder of Judge Joe Eidson who had presided over the defendant's bitter divorce trial with his estranged wife, Priscilla.

In an interview in the Houston lawyer's club, Moore said 12 jurors were "kept from their work, and from their homes and from everything else for 13 weeks. When I talk about abuse of the system, I am talking about flesh and blood."

"Those 12 people got $5 a day and that wouldn't even pay their parking or noon meal. It should not have taken that length of time."

Moore, dressed in open-neck red sport shirt and a gray jacket, sipped a bourbon and water, with his ever-present cigarette in hand, and said defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes did "a fantastic job, taking a set of facts like this, when his man was in the hole all the way...an uphill fight and he pulled it out."

"This was a victory for him, but he could have done this one faster."

Moore, an easy-going man who likes to sail and shoot the bull with his lawyer friends and his World War II buddies, said, "This trial was the biggest physical strain I have ever had. There was the mental strain of it, too, with that group of defense attorneys, possibly the best in the United States."

"They tried to keep this judge on his toes and they kept me almost off my feet. I was reaching for the ground every minute of every trial day."

"But, I didn't give them any ground for a trial error."

Asked if he thinks a judge ever believes a jury may have made a mistake, Moore replied, "Sure. A judge can't sit up there and listen to all that testimony and not form an opinion, but that is all it is - an opinion. You'd have to be an idiot not to form an opinion."

Court of Appeals Demands Cheating Suit Go To Trial

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Two Houston oilmen who claimed their lawyer and a rich friend cheated them out of a share of the Webb County gas boom should have their day in court, the Texas Supreme Court ruled Wednesday.

Without writing an opinion, the court upheld a Waco Court of Civil Appeals decision ordering a trial of a suit filed by Wilbur L. Ginther and Howard C. Martin against Henry J.N. Taub.

A Laredo trial judge threw out the case without a full trial, ruling for Taub and lawyer William A. McNaughton.

Ginther and Martin had been partners since the 1930s and were successful drillers in the 1950s and 1960s. They acquired a 2,617-acre Webb County oil and gas lease, called the Alexander Lease, but fell on hard times and couldn't make their $1 an acre rental payment in 1972.

Taub, after seeing confidential geological information on the lease, agreed to make the payment and received a one-third interest.

Later, Ginther and Martin accepted Chapter XI bankruptcy upon the advice of McNaughton, handled their dealings with the bankruptcy court.

When the 1973 lease payment came due, Taub again paid it and acquired a half interest. The appeals court said McNaughton's application for bankruptcy court approval of the assignment said the oilmen didn't have any cash to make the lease payment. But, it said, bankruptcy court records showed Ginther and Martin actually had $13,680.

"If Ginther and Martin's part of the February delay rental had been paid from these funds, the lawsuit could never have arisen," the court said.

Subsequent transactions, culminating with a paper signed Dec. 4, 1973, left Taub with full ownership of the lease, the court noted. Ginther and Martin, it said, apparently believed they could regain control by repaying Taub's "loans" and continued their efforts to develop the lease.

Good Hope Refineries, holder of the working interest, ultimately brought in gas.

The Lighter Side

GREENVILLE, Pa. (AP) - Floyd Rissell made no bones about it. When his borough tax notice arrived in the mail, he growled, but paid up.

He trotted down to tax collector William Fagley's office and turned over a Gainesburger.

Floyd, a 10-year-old spaniel-setter mix, is listed as assistant manager of his owner's bicycle shop. His tax receipt showed his taxable income last year was 100 Gainesburgers. His employer, Mike Rissell, withheld no taxes, so at 1 percent, the tax comes to a Gainesburger, and that's what Fagley got.

Now Fagley has to be sure the Gainesburger is divided equally

"There is additional evidence that the Alexander Lease has become very valuable and that by the time of judgment in this case, Taub had received more than $300,000 in income from it," the appeals court said.

between the borough and the school district.

BRANSON, Mo. (AP) - Taney County Assessor Darrell Gross says he has paid the county $1,170 from his pocket for money his office overspent last year.

Gross said his office exceeded its budget through errors, and he felt responsible for repayment. With government costing what it does today, he said, elected officials should be held accountable for cost reductions where possible. His annual salary is $16,100.

He said he does not plan to run for re-election in 1980.

Innocent Pleas Heard in Lubbock

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) - Twenty-two out of 23 persons accused of selling false income tax returns to money lenders against cash advances have pleaded innocent to various charges of conspiracy and perjury, and one man pleaded guilty.

Sentencing for Robert Sims of Wichita Falls was postponed pending a presentencing investigation.

The others, mostly Big Spring residents, will be tried in federal court here March 26. Sims formerly was a Big Spring resident.

They are accused of obtaining blank W-2 forms, filling them out using false names and false earned incomes - but showing a refund due - and then "hocking" the forms to pawn shops or finance companies that routinely lend money to taxpayers against their returns, for a fee.

The 23 persons arrested were charged in sealed indictments handed down last week. Assistant U.S. Attorney Roger McRoberts said four other persons accused in the indictments have not yet been arrested.

MILLIE ELIZABETH WARNER Services for Mrs. Millie Elizabeth Warner, 82, of Fresno, Calif., will be held tomorrow at 2 p.m. in First Presbyterian Church here with the Rev. George Belford, pastor, officiating. Burial will follow in West Park Cemetery under direction of Smith & Co. Funeral Home.

Mrs. Warner died Tuesday after a short illness. She is the mother of a local resident, George C. Warner.

She was born March 14, 1896 in Washington County, Ark. She was preceded in death by her husband, Austin in 1947. She was a housewife, and a member of the Polytechnic Church in Fresno. She had lived in Hereford prior to moving to Fresno five months ago.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Rex Hardaway of Las Vegas, N.M.; three sons, George C. Warner of Hereford, Austin M. Warner of Acampo, Calif. and Howard C. Warner of Fresno; a brother, Von Carter of Muskogee, Okla.; and 13 grandchildren.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Because I have observed your paper's policy as paralleling that of the Democrat Party, I thought you might be interested in my reaction to the State of the Union address. I believe this was the best speech I have ever heard Mr. Carter deliver; just full of goodies (1/4 truths).

Almost from the beginning, I felt encouragement upon learning how well other farmers are doing - 25 percent better. I suppose my little farm must be a Republican one for it certainly isn't doing that well. Because the President gave such emphasis to this improvement, the credit for which he attributes to his administration and the Democrats in "the Congress, I just know he is going to welcome the tractors to Washington with open arms (Machine guns). I am confident it must have been an oversight for I never heard him say one word in support of the need for parity prices for farm commodities.

And I am so happy for the people in the medical field, particularly those engaged in providing hospital care. Isn't it great there is to be no more increases in patient care rates - even though expenses may rise as they are controlled by organized labor - why that will be almost like farming.

I had to muster one little grin when the sage of Plains checkedmate the sage of Chappaquiddick, in the call for national health insurance. I wonder where the doctors who moved to the U.S. from England and Canada to escape socialized medicine will migrate to?

And I feel so secure and comfortable upon learning how indomitable our military establishment is. I just knew my friends still on active duty in the Navy and Marine Corps were wrong in their evaluation of our country's state of readiness. Why one little submarine can obliterate all of Russia! (the man said so). I suppose if I were a West German I, too, would be wanting to come to terms with Moscow - and fast.

What a wonderful time we live in (maybe fool's paradise). Not one American soldier killed by enemy activity the past two years. Sorry we can't say that about other Americans carrying the flag abroad. How many CIA agents has Senator Frank Church's investigations killed by disclosing their identity? And of course our foreign policy will continue to be anchored in human rights, except, of course for the Cambodians, the Taiwanese, and the Rhodesians.

And you know he didn't ask us to trust him one single time.

We all know what a fine church man he is, doesn't drink beer or almost anything, doesn't lie (but a little false promise may be alright), or doesn't engage in questionable banking practice with close friends. Why, he is just a good ol' red neck peanut farmer.

I'm so happy.

Garth B. Thomas

P.S. When the people cried "We have no bread," President Carter responded, "Let them eat imported hamburger."

Couple To Cite 50th Anniversary

A reception in honor of Mr. and Mrs. W.W. (Bill) Wilcox, who are celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary, will be held Sunday at the First Baptist Church in Bovina from 2-4 p.m. The couple were married Jan. 27, 1929 in Moorewood, Okla. They moved to the Hereford area in 1943 living on the outskirts of the city, and then moved to Bovina where they now reside at 702 4th St. Hosting the reception will be the couple's children: Mr. and Mrs. Ike Wilcox of Muleshoe; Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Wilcox of Hereford; Mrs. June Sisco of Modesto, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Welters of Santa Barbara; Mr. and Mrs. Everett McCormick of Clovis; Mr. and Mrs. Allen Ray Wilcox of Hereford; and Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Wilcox of Muleshoe. Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox have 21 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren. All relatives and friends of the couple are invited to attend.

Baptist Youth Choir To Present Musical

A contemporary musical by Sonny Salisbury, "Backpacker's Suite" will be presented tomorrow at 8 p.m. by the Youth Choir of Temple Baptist Church. "Backpacker's Suite" is a musical in which the choir has a chance to share with the listener some of the adventure, beauty and meaning found in the wilderness," stated Larry Howie, Minister of Music at Temple Baptist. The musical is presented with a multi-media slide show. Thirty-two local youth will be singing in the musical. Soloists are Deanna Pool, Willa Lawson, Kenny Shore, Becky Thames, Bruce Wright, Mark Inmon, Cindy Cox and Kaye Inmon. J.L. Bozeman is pastor of Temple Baptist Church. The public is invited to attend the program free of charge.

IT'S THE INSIDE!

"Happiness comes from the inside of a person." My mother has been emitting this truism repeatedly for eons. Now is the time to work on my inside. Here's my plan. 1. Make an inventory of my joys. With pencil and paper, I'll make the heading: My Joys and Blessings. I'll start with:

- a) I am strong and healthy enough to sit down and make this list.
- b) I live in a country where freedom endures.
- c) I have a water-tight roof over my head, enough to eat, and enough to wear.
- d) I have a beautiful family.
2. Continue my list, including daily experiences that seem commonplace.
3. When my list is complete, repeat it over to myself every day.
4. After reading my list, step out on my front porch and take 5 deep breaths. Listen to the birds, and the snow crunching under my boots. Be in touch with the world outside.
5. Overcome something: a fear, jealousy, or temptation. (My greatest temptation is food!) This process will help me realize that life does not consist of "giving in" but in "getting over".
6. Sing a song each day. My family and friends may not benefit from this exercise, but I know it will be a tonic for me.
7. Clear my mind and heart every night when I go to bed. Try this plan with me and we'll take note of the happiness that surfaces. Probably your mother and mine, too, will notice!

Those who speak of the fine art of politics must have the work of a mad surrealist as a yardstick.

Headline in our favorite paper read, "Burglary Victim Is Critical." A very modest reaction, we'd say.

It's all right to point with pride, so long as you don't use your mirror-image as the target.

Now that we've recognized mainland China, why not export a few hundred-thousand Farrah Fawcett-Majors posters to brighten Peking's walls?

Ann Landers

Accepted Ex-Wife

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband, Ronnie, and I have been married four years. We are very happy that we found each other because both of us have two bad marriages behind us. Due to the state laws, Ronnie has to pay support for two children when in fact he fathered only one. His wife admitted this in court. Ronnie has never accepted the second child as his own and this is why we are having the problem. Ronnie's mother considers both grandchildren as legitimate and she keeps in touch with his ex-wife, who is the mother of these children. Recently, the ex-wife came to town to visit and guess where she stayed? With Ronnie's mother -- and she brought both little girls to the family picnic.

Now Ronnie will not speak to any of his family because he feels their acceptance of his ex after all the stink she caused is a direct insult to him. What do you think of a mother who would treat her son this way? -- Iowa Reader

DEAR IOWA: I think Ronnie's mother must be a very compassionate, forgiving person. I admire her. As for Ronnie's refusal to have anything more to do with his family -- that's HIS problem. And if he doesn't grow up and get over his petulance, he's going to have a tough time in this world -- not only with his relatives, but everyone else.

DEAR ANN: Should I be expected to pick up after my mother-in-law? I'm asking because the woman is an incredibly lousy housekeeper and I am accustomed to living in orderly surroundings. My mother-in-law never cleans house, she merely rearranges the dirt. To put it mildly, her messiness gets on my nerves.

Perhaps I should tell you that my husband and I moved in with my mother-in-law seven months ago on a temporary basis. (We are trying to save money for a down payment on a house.) She is a widow and we go 50-50 on all the bills. I do my husband's laundry (and my own) and our bedroom is immaculate.

Please print this because other young couples must have this same problem, although I doubt that anyone's mother-in-law is as sloppy as mine. -- Green Bay Gripe

DEAR GRIPE: You moved into your mother-in-law's house, she didn't move into yours. Her housekeeping habits were established long before you came along and she's not about to change. Learn to tolerate her sloppiness unless you are willing to clean up after her and keep quiet about it. (P.S. I trust you are looking hard for a place of your own.)

DEAR ANN: Several months ago I divorced a man after three years of trying in vain to get him to give up drinking. He joined AA, went to two meetings, decided it wasn't for him. He also tried hypnosis and that didn't work either. I won't go into detail because the man is no longer a problem to me. I'm writing about my bedsheets and pillowcases. They keep coming back from the laundry with my old initials stamped in indelible ink. Even though the initials are in the corners, I know they're there and it bothers me. Do you know of anything that will remove them? -- Reminders Of The Past

DEAR PAST: A scissors.

Public Invited To MYF Dinner

The public is invited to attend a fried chicken dinner at noon Sunday in the Fellowship Hall of First United Methodist Church. The meal will be a fund-raising project of the Methodist Youth Fellowship (MYF).

Cost of the meal will be $3.25 for adults and $2 for children aged 6-11. Proceeds of the dinner will be used to fund an MYF service project and ski trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Richburg are youth coordinators and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Burford serve as sponsors of the youth organization.

Individuals attending the MYF dinner are welcome to attend Sunday morning worship services, which will begin at a new time of 10:55 a.m. A special service is planning Sunday for the dedication of new choir robes, which are bought with contributions from local residents. The Rev. William McReynolds is minister of the church.

The church's Council on Ministries will convene immediately following Sunday's dinner to begin plans for the new fiscal year under the leadership of chairman Lou Davis.

Chapter Planning Wine Tasting Party

Kappa Iota Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority met in the home of Judy Wall Wednesday night.

Mrs. Wall, president, brought the meeting to order and read the City Council minutes. It was announced that the Valentine Ball which is annually held by Beta Sigma Phi Sorority will be Feb. 17 in the Knights of Columbus Hall. The next meeting with the City Council will be Feb. 5.

A tea for the Valentine Sweethearts will be held Sunday in the parlor of the First Methodist Church from 2-4 p.m. A wine tasting party will be held in the home of Kathy Paetzold, Saturday.

A decision was made to donate five card tables to the Community Center and $400 to the Hereford Satellite Center. All members are reminded to bring items for Girlstown to the next meeting which will be held Feb. 6.

Those members present were Karen Abney, Nanette Ashby, Cheryl Betzen, Betty Ann Boyd, Marcia Boyer, Cindy Burns, Lynn Carter, Kathy Johnson, Dolores Jones, Donna Jones, Martha Jones, Kathy Paetzold, Melody Seiver, Judy Stoy, Connie Sublett, Susan Sublett, Judy Wall, Donna Warrick, Mary West and Marsha Winget.

Junior Highs Win Three In Basketball

Eighth And Ninth Stanton Boys Win

Stanton's boys basketball teams hosted the Boys Ranch team last night with victories for the Dogies coming in the eighth and ninth grades.

Seventh grade action was a tight contest but the Dogies could not pull out a victory in a 19-18 loss. Leading the Stanton team in scoring was Jeffery Streun with nine.

The eighth grade game was all offense for the Dogies as they whipped the visitors 41-13 with every team member scoring. High point man was Jay Hodge with eight.

The ninth grade affair was another tight contest but Stanton was victorious in the end with a 32-30 win. Scoring for the freshmen was high point man Mike Hill with seven.

Next action for the Dogies will be when the freshmen play in the Canyon Invitational Tournament and then all the teams play Canyon Purple Jan. 29.

Girls Capture Ninth Grade Win

Playing host to the Levelland Junior High girls, the La Plata ninth grade used the 11 points of Deborah Rogers to overcome the late surge of the Lobo team and win 33-28.

In the two games prior to the ninth grade contest, Levelland defeated the Maverick teams, a 32-23 victory in the seventh grade and a 48-21 win in the eighth grade.

For the seventh grade Jill Brorman scored eight and Angela Richburg seven. Leading the eighth grade team in scoring were Sheri Ellis with seven and six points by Stephanie Foster.

The ninth grade game was close most of the game with the Mavericks taking a five point lead at halftime and then holding onto that margin to collect La Plata's only win for the night.

The three boys teams, playing at Levelland, were not as fortunate as they lost all three of their games.

The seventh grade team was led by the 11 points of Steve George in a 46-25 defeat for the Mavericks. Eighth grade action had the powerful Lobo team score 66 points in a 66-31 win. Leading the Mavs in scoring was Ricky McCracken with nine.

The ninth graders had a lot of points scored in a 96-77 loss. Leading the La Plata team in scoring were Alan Wartes with 24, Bruce Clark with 13, and Mike Mason and Joe Soliz with 12 each. Maverick starter Don Delozier had a cut that required 13 stitches while playing in the game.

Next action for La Plata is today when the girls seventh and boys ninth participate in the Canyon Invitational Tournament. The other teams will play Jan. 29 in contests against Pampa Red.

Foster Ties RBI Record

When George Foster of the Cincinnati Reds led the National League in RBI's in 1978, he became the second man in the history of that circuit to do it three years in a row. Joe Medwick of St. Louis did it in 1936, '37 and '38.

Sonics Slip By Hawks

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Who says you can't get a call from the officials when you're on the road?

The Seattle SuperSonics got a big call from referee Jess Kersey at Atlanta Thursday night, preserving their 100-98 National Basketball Association victory over the Hawks.

Guard Gus Williams, who scored 28 points for Seattle, hit a 15-footer with 28 seconds remaining to give the Sonics a 99-98 lead, and sank a free throw with seven seconds left to play for a two-point advantage.

Then came the crucial call. Atlanta guard Armond Hill took a jumper at the buzzer that would have sent the game into overtime, but Kersey waved off the basket, ruling that time had run out before the shot left Hill's hands.

"I thought I got it off in time," argued Hill. "I shot the ball and the horn went off - in that order."

Not so, said Seattle Coach Lenny Wilkens.

"Your own replay showed that time had run out," he told Atlanta newsmen. "The ball was still in his hands when the zero-zero was on the clock."

In other NBA games Thursday night, the Detroit Pistons clobbered the Los Angeles Lakers 135-100 and the Portland Trail Blazers beat the Golden State Warriors 108-103.

Hawks forward John Drew had 39 points to lead all scorers, while Fred Brown contributed 17 points to the Seattle attack.

The victory was Seattle's fourth straight and sixth in a row on the road. Atlanta now has lost three straight since having a six-game winning streak broken Sunday in New Orleans.

Atlanta led 88-78 early in the fourth period before Seattle ran off 10 straight points to draw even and set up the hectic finish.

"It was our sixth loss by one or two points and our 13th by four or less," said Atlanta Coach Hubie Brown. "Down the stretch they made every key shot."

Pistons 135, Lakers 100

Bob Lanier fired in 28 points and Kevin Porter handed out 18 assists as the Pistons posted third straight victory for the first time this season.

The score was tied 35-35 until Detroit scored 10 in a row in the second period. The Pistons led the rest of the way, breaking the game open by outscoring Los Angeles 38-20 in the third quarter, during which the Lakers made just 8 of 24 field goal attempts.

Blazers 108, Warriors 103

Lionel Hollins scored 10 of his 22 points in the final period as Portland won for only the third time in its last 13 starts. Golden State has now lost eight of 10.

Abbott Wins

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. - Defending champion Bryan Abbott defeated Rocky Nelson of Galena, Ohio, 4 and 3 in second-round play of the PGA National Match Play Championship.

In another match, former PGA champion Lionel Hebert was eliminated 4 and 3 by Steve Benson of Glen Ellyn, Ill.

Pro Bowl Is Reunion Time

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The Pro Bowl had become the National Football League schedule's unwanted child, with players looking for excuses to skip the anticlimactic contest that was left like an unfinished chore after the Super Bowl.

The players now, though, seem to view next Monday night's all-star game in a new perspective.

"The attitude has changed," said Pittsburgh's Mel Blount. "Most of the guys look forward to this game now. It's like a big reunion."

"I know a few years ago, people seemed to want to get out of playing in the Pro Bowl," said Dallas' Roger Staubach. "but it's not that way now. I think everybody looks at it as an enjoyable experience."

"I think this game is fun. It's a chance to see a lot of people, time to talk with other players."

Many of the players, stars in their own right, seemed more like fans, furiously snapping photographs of their NFL peers.

"I take the camera to all the special things, try to get candid shots to put in a folder I'm keeping for my old age," said the Steelers' "Mean" Joe Greene, framing Staubach in his view-finder. "And what better place than this to take pictures, with all the great players here."

Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw will be playing in his first Pro Bowl. He was previously named to the AFC squad, but missed the game with an injury.

"This is great, being here," he said. "It is an anticlimax of sorts, but I love the atmosphere for this game. It's really laidback. There are a lot of guys here I've always wanted to meet, but never really had the chance to. I'm looking forward to making some new friends."

"There isn't the electricity of the Super Bowl or a playoff game in the air here," said Chuck Fairbanks, coach of the AFC team. "But I think it's going to be a great game. I'm a fan of a lot of these players, and I'm going to enjoy watching them play."

Friday morning with their proposal."

Meanwhile, Carew, who thought he had negotiated a contract with the Angels, set a Feb. 10 deadline for escaping Minnesota and added that if no deal is made by then he would resign himself to playing another season for Griffith.

The perennial AL batting leader is not a free agent, but he has insisted he wants out of Minnesota because of contract and other disputes with Griffith. He could become a free agent after the 1979 season.

Carew was interviewed at halftime of the Minnesota-Purdue basketball game Thursday night, at which time he set his Feb. 10 deadline.

He also was asked if he preferred the Angels to the Yankees.

"Well, I do," he said. "I think it'd be hard to go to New York to play because there are so many distractions. Baseball is the way I make my living, and I don't want to take anything away from that."

"I've been at Minnesota for 12 years and I don't really care for the city of New York," he added. "I've got three kids and it's a tough place to bring up kids. I'm looking for someplace that the environment's pretty good."

The Boston dinner attracted a crowd of more than 1,000 fans and a head table of stars that included newly elected Hall of Famer Willie Mays. It was no table for private discussions between Steinbrenner and Rosen, who met in the Yankee owner's hotel suite to discuss their offer to Griffith.

Despite complaints by baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn that he fears imbalance if the Yankees persist in acquiring high-priced stars, Rosen said the Yankees would not be deterred.

Steinbrenner and Rosen were honored at the dinner as baseball Executives of the Year during a program that included appearances by AL MVP Jim Rice of the Boston Red Sox and AL Cy Young award winner Rod Guidry of the Yankees.

Mays was given the Judge Emil Fuchs memorial award for meritorious baseball service.

Gregory Fights Conteh

NEW YORK (AP) - Eddie Gregory, fighting to stay in the light heavyweight championship picture, fights David Conteh tonight at Madison Square Garden's Felt Forum.

In a 10-round welterweight bout, Johnny Turner of New York will fight Cemal "Turk" Kamaci of Turkey.

Gregory, who was outpointed by Victor Galindez in a bid for the World Boxing Association light heavyweight title in 1977, suffered a damaging loss recently when he was outpointed in 12 rounds by James Scott. Gregory has a 29-4-1 record, with 24 knockouts. Conteh is 15-3-1, with six knockouts.

The 25-year-old Turner is looking for a contender's ranking to go with his impressive record - 27-2-0, with 20 knockouts. The 35-year-old Kamaci, a former European junior welterweight champion, has a 39-6-6 record, with 15 knockouts.

YMCA Activities

A new program for the child 3-5 years old will be offered by the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA called Child Development. The course is offered for both boys and girls on Tuesday and Thursday 4-4:45 p.m.

Directing the program will be Terry Parker, a Physical Education major with a degree from Arizona State University. Emphasis will be on instruction in body contact, basic gymnastics, exercise and overall physical development.

Cost of the class will be six dollars for YMCA members and 11 dollars for non-members. To enroll call the YMCA office at 364-6990.

BOYS HIGH SCHOOL BASKETBALL
Bad Company, behind the 18 points of Paul Bell, took sole possession of first place in the high school basketball league by defeating the Sharp Shooters 52-50.

In other games played this week, Cheap Trick whipped the Super Sophs 41-28, and the Jolly Jackers ripped the Panthers 61-23.

Standings in the league after three games are:

Team	W	L
Bad Company	3	0
Sharp Shooters	2	1
Jolly Jackers	2	1
Cheap Trick	2	1
Panthers	0	3
Super Sophs	0	3

COACHES NEEDED
The YMCA is in charge of the youth basketball leagues this year and there is a need for coaches.

The leagues will be divided into the categories of 3-4 graders and 5-6 graders. If there is enough interest by girls there will be separate teams for them this year according to Program Director Weldon Knabe. If you are interested in coaching a team contact the YMCA office at Sugarland Mall or call 364-6990.

Winds Plague First Round Golf In San Diego

SAN DIEGO (AP) - The players fought for balance and leaned into the howling winds that whipped off the Pacific and lashed the tees and greens jutting on headlands over the white-capped surf.

They talked not of birdies and pars but of survival.

"It was actually frightening," said 47-year-old Billy Casper, his portly bulk bundled under two sweaters and a windbreaker.

"It was a survival test," said Grier Jones.

"The toughest conditions I've played in," said Jerry McGee.

"I've played in higher winds and colder weather, but for the combination, it's probably as bad as I've ever seen," said Jim Simons, clutching the hand warmers he kept in his pockets.

And Tommy Aaron said nothing at all. He just smiled shyly.

Aaron, a former Masters champion who had to qualify to get in this event, fought the winds - estimated by one

U.S. Faces USSR In Boxing

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - This country's top amateur boxers face their Russian counterparts in a series of bouts described as the best experience possible for another strong U.S. showing in the 1980 Olympics.

The three-round fights, with bouts in each of the 11 Olympic weight divisions, will be held Saturday at the Las Vegas Hilton Hotel. ABC will tape the fights for telecast the following day.

"This event will kick off the 1979 'United States versus the World' boxing series," said Robert Surkein, national boxing chairman of the Amateur Athletic Union. "The series will give us the best experience in preparing for another strong showing at the 1980 Olympic Games in Moscow."

The Russians have a perfect 10-0 score in the home-and-home series, but Surkein said previous fights helped in the smashing U.S. Olympic success in 1976, when U.S. boxers won six out of six fights and went home with five gold medals.

Cleveland Signs More Players

CLEVELAND (AP) - The Cleveland Indians have signed five more players, including shortstop Tom Verzyer.

Verzyer, 25, signed a two-year contract. He is coming off his best major league season, hitting .271 with one homer and 32 runs batted in. His batting average ranked fourth among major league shortstops.

Verzyer, who came to the Indians in a 1977 trade that sent outfielder Charlie Spikes to tournament official at 50 mph in gusts - and the biting cold for a 3-under-par 69 that made him a 2-shot leader after Thursday's first round of the $250,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open golf tournament.

"I was just trying to get in," said the 41-year-old Aaron, who hasn't won since the 1973 Masters at Augusta, Ga. "I've never thought of myself as a

Iskersky Wins First Round Match

HOUSTON (AP) - Defending champion Eric Iskersky led the list of top-seeded players who won first round matches in the opening round of the national collegiate indoor singles championship here.

The Trinity University student, seeded No. 1, in the tourney, downed Chuck Hodgins of South Carolina 6-3, 6-3 Thursday.

In other action, Peter Rennert of California beat John Stipel of Yale 6-1, 7-5; Ed Edwards of Pepperdine edged Craig Wittus from Miami of Ohio 6-7, 6-4, 7-5; Wesley Cash of Georgia beat Nduka Odizor of Houston 6-4, 7-6; Robert Van't Hof of

Pirates Talk With Parker

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Progress is reported in contract talks between the Pittsburgh Pirates and two-time National League batting champion Dave Parker.

"We're on the right track now. I'm quite optimistic," Parker's agent, Tom Reich, said after a bargaining session Thursday.

Reich was to meet again today with Pete Peterson, the Pirates' executive vice president. It was to be their third meeting this week.

Parker, who has one year left on a three-year contract, has set a Feb. 1 deadline for agreement on a new pact. He's said that if no agreement is reached by then, he'll play the 1979 season with Pittsburgh and then enter the free-agent market.

Detroit, also set career highs with 114 hits, 18 doubles, 48 runs scored and four triples.

His signing leaves unsigned among the players expected to be starters for Manager Jeff Torborg in the 1979 season.

The other players signed by the Indians Thursday - all to one-year contracts - were catcher Tim Glass, outfielder Dave Rivera and pitchers Gary Melson and Bobby Cuellar, all of whom spent last season in the minor leagues.

good cold weather player, but," and he smiled again. "I guess you don't think about that when you're shooting 69."

Tied for second at 71 were Casper, Jones, McGee and Victor Regalado. Those five, the only men able to break par in the extremely difficult conditions, all played at the 6,667-yard, par 72 North course at Torrey Pines. Simons' round of par 72 was the best score on the tougher 7,047-yard South course.

The players shift courses for the second round, then play the last two over the South.

"It was probably a big advantage, as much as 3 or 4 shots, to be playing on the North today," said the 47-year-old Casper. "A realistic par today probably would have been 73-4 on the North, 77-8 on the South."

The wind was fierce. It actually plucked the flagsticks from the cups on three holes. Several portable toilets were blown over.

As an example of the strength of the gusts, Tom Watson played the 522-yard, par 5 first hole on the North Course, the first hole he's played this season, with a driver, another driver and a five-iron, and was short of the green.

He finished with a 74. Lee Trevino fought his way to a 75, but some of the game's other leading lights had far greater difficulties. Johnny Miller took a 79. Defending champion Jay Haas, a runnerup in the Phoenix Open earlier this week, shot a fat 84. Dave Stockton had an 81. Canadian Open champ Bruce Lietzke took an 82.

The tournament is sponsored by the Tennis Coaches Association and Prince tennis products.

Smith Sees Change In Cage Talent Over The Years

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) - Occasionally, North Carolina's Dean Smith, the most successful of active college basketball coaches, hauls out some old films just to see how they played the game 10 and 20 years ago.

He can hardly believe his eyes. It's almost as if he is spinning the reel in slow motion.

"It doesn't resemble the game we are playing today," says the youngish, dark-haired hardwood genius. "There are so many more good players - bigger, stronger, faster. The intensity is so much greater."

"Take Clyde Lovellette, for instance. He was my teammate at Kansas back in the early 1950s, rated the best in the country. But he comes off slow and a bit awkward measured by today's top players.

"To make it in basketball today - college or pro - the big men, the 6-9 and 6-11 guys have to be as fast and quick as the smaller guys. They must have

Penn State University was originally known as Farmers High School.

The Chicago Cubs, who play all their home games in daylight, were the slowest National League club in 1978, averaging two hours and 34 minutes per contest.

the touch also or they don't make it."

Smith not only is the winningest of active coaches with at least 12 years experience, but he also is regarded as the sport's premier tactician and innovator, teacher and producer of star players as well as coaches.

Three of his proteges - Billy Cunningham of the Philadelphia 76ers, Larry Brown of the Denver Nuggets and Doug Moe of San Antonio - are established in the pro coaching ranks.

How does Dean Smith himself manage to escape the pros?

"I like the campus atmosphere. I am happy with what I am doing," he insists. He refuses to elaborate on his many offers to coach in the pros, including heavy pressure at one time from the New York Knicks.

In 17 seasons at North Carolina leading up to the current one, Smith has seen his team score 363 victories against 121 losses for a .750 percentage. They have reached the NCAA final playoffs five times - only John Wooden and UCLA having more than 12. He coached the U.S. Olympic team to a gold medal at Montreal in 1976.

Smith has established himself as a legend in the Atlantic Coast Conference, the hottest of college basketball hotbeds.

He is to North Carolina what Bear Bryant is to Alabama and Joe Paterno to Penn State in football.

Duke and North Carolina State, with veteran starting lineups returning, were favored in the ACC this year, but soon dropped behind the Tarheels, now No. 2 behind Notre Dame in The Associated Press poll.

Smith put Dave Colescott, a ball-handling Houdini from Marion, Ind., in Ford's old spot and teamed him with players such as 6-7 Mike O'Koren of Jersey City, 6-6 Al Woods of Grey, Ga., and Dudley Bradley of Edgewood, Md., and turned them into a formidable smoother-working machine. Some say this could be Carolina's first national championship team since the memorable 32-0 combine in 1957 that beat Wilt Chamberlain and the Kansas Jayhawks in a triple overtime for the title.

"I was cheering for Kansas then," said Smith, a pupil and admirer of Phog Allen. "But I'm on the other side now."

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW (AP) - The Soviet Olympic Organizing Committee has signed a contract with a West German company for a discotheque to be set up at the Olympic village during the 1980 Moscow Games, the news agency Tass reported.

According to Tass, the contract also includes a record library and "acoustical equipment" to be used in conjunction with the discotheque.

"Representatives of the firm undertook to deliver all the equipment two weeks before the opening of the Games," Tass said.

GRAND PRAIRIE, Texas - Joe Berardi held a slim lead after the fourth round of the $100,000 Professional Bowlers Association open tournament.

Berardi, looking for his first title on the PBA tour, held a 5-pin lead over 15-time titlist Dave Soutar after the first eight games of match play.

Berardi won four of his eight matches while spilling 1,669 pins - a 208 average - to bring his total pins for the tournament to 5,690. Soutar moved from 16th place to second in the fourth round by posting a 6-2 match play record while knocking down 1,784 pins for the session.

PHILADELPHIA - Tenth-seeded Arthur Ashe upset No. 2 seed Guillermo Vilas of Argentina, 6-3, 7-5, to gain the quarter-final round in the $250,000 U.S. Pro Indoor Tennis Championship.

In other matches, top-seeded Jimmy Connors, the defending champion, defeated Wojtek Fibak of Poland 6-4, 7-6; John McEnroe topped Hank Pfister, 6-2, 7-6; Vitas Gerulaitis defeated Johann Kriek of South Africa, 4-6, 6-2, 7-5; Harold Solomon beat Gene Mayer 6-4, 2-6, 6-1, and Roscoe Tanner defeated Eddie Dibbs.

Shell Executive Seeks Lower Solar Energy Costs

HOUSTON (AP) - Julius D. Heldman describes himself as an unabashed enthusiast of solar energy.

But the Shell Development Co. vice president says the difference between theoretical solar energy and practical solar energy is the difference between dream and reality.

Solar energy is here to stay, he says, but the costs have to be brought down to the level of other energy forms.

And, he adds, a crash program similar to the one that put men on the Moon will not get the job done.

Such a space program-type approach, Heldman said, can work when the task is assembling several fairly mature technologies into a whole.

"Unfortunately, development of practical solar energy will be step-by-step," he said.

"We're going to have to develop one process, and then use that technology as a base for developing the next. In a situation like that, you can effectively substitute money for time only to a very limited degree."

Heldman's responsibilities with Shell Development include patents and licensing and sponsorship of new ventures in emerging technologies.

Over the past six years, a good part of his professional life has been devoted to developing solar power. His view on future prospects appear in the winter edition of Ecolibrium, the Shell Oil Co. quarterly publication devoted to scientific thought and achievement on energy and environment.

Heldman says he is as optimistic as ever about solar energy but is increasingly concerned by overly optimistic expectations of what solar can mean for this country and the world.

"Energy from the sun holds tremendous promise to a world painfully aware its traditional energy sources are both increasingly expensive and ultimately finite," he said.

"But we cannot allow enthusiasm for solar energy to blind us to the realities of what it will take to convert potential into reality. Overly optimistic expectations for solar will inevitably mean disappointment."

They may even prove dangerous if they cause source of electric power on the Skylab space mission."

Heldman said virtually every basic solar energy technology is in place in a theoretical sense.

"We can do all these things in experiments," he said.

"The work that remains to be done might be called the second stage of the technology. To have practical solar energy, we must do two things. We must package these technologies for widespread application. And we must bring down the production costs so solar makes sense, on a dollar basis, to consumers."

Photovoltaic production of electricity, he said, is about 30 times more expensive than it would have to be to compete with electricity generation now available.

Heldman said, despite the work still to be done, it is reasonable to assume the nation may be deriving from solar devices perhaps as much as one-half of one percent of all its energy by 1990 and from 3 to 5 percent by the year 2000.

"And, as we move forward, I think solar may account for greater and greater shares of total energy used," he said.

"These figures are not as optimistic as some being tossed about. But they are by no means pessimistic. We're talking about energy equivalent to the electricity used in several millions of American homes. To reach these levels, quite a bit of development will have to be done."

Confederate Navy Becomes Dream Of Museum-Seeking Air Force Colonels

RIO HONDO, Tex. (AP) - A pair of Confederate Air Force colonels, with their sights set firmly on the bottom of the Gulf, have visions of a Confederate Navy - featuring a long-submerged vessel as its flagship.

Now Jeff Burke and Charles Rose of Rio Hondo must figure out how to overcome a tangle of obstacles including the U.S. government, $2 million, 60 feet of water and 20 feet of mud.

Burke and Rose, both 57, want to raise the USS Hatteras. The 210-foot iron ship - a Union vessel during the Civil War - was sunk by a Confederate ship in a no-contest battle on Jan. 11, 1863. Using sophisticated equipment, Burke, Rose and friends ended a long search by finding the Hatteras near Galveston in January 1976.

"We intend to raise her and make her a floating museum. We could float it up the Mississippi. It's a great project. Can you imagine that damn ship...?" Burke said, his voice trailing off as his mind's eye savored the vision.

The Hatteras, a converted side-wheeler ferry, went down in 13 minutes after the Confederate ship Alabama opened fire, Burke said. The Hatteras is a storehouse of artifacts.

"We're absolutely convinced it won't break up," Burke said, explaining that a system of powerful air bags could raise the old ship. "They built that ship to such specifications the son of a gun can go on forever."

The project will be costly - at least $2 million to raise and restore the Hatteras. The private corporation Burke and friends set up is now about $100,000 below sea level.

The staggering cost is what prompted the idea of a non-profit Confederate States Navy. The CSN would be structured like the CAF - a Harlingen-based group that has collected an impressive fleet of vintage aircraft.

Burke hopes to inspire a lot of people to make small or medium donations to get the CSN afloat. Just as all CAF members are colonels, all CSN contributors would be commodores.

"We have the technology. We have the people ready to go. We lack the air bags and the money for the rest of the project. The salvage ship costs $5,000 per day," Burke said.

The ship is nestled in 20 feet of mud about 60 feet below the Gulf surface some 28 miles south of Galveston.

While Burke and friends are doing all they can to raise the Hatteras, Charles McKinney favors leaving the ship where it is.

"The general federal policy on historical properties is to leave it intact," said McKinney, manager of the federal antiquities program for the U.S. Department of the Interior in Washington. "It's the property of the U.S. Government."

The matter is in the courts now.

Burke is convinced maritime law says the ship belongs to anyone who can salvage her.

Many of the artifacts salvaged so far are in a bank vault pending the legal action. Burke does have in Rio Hondo, however, some pieces of packing crates found aboard. One wooden piece indicates the crate carried beef for the 126 men on board.

Rose also believes there are up to 400 tons of coal on board and perhaps a bonanza in well-preserved rifles.

Both men are convinced the legal and financial problems can be tackled.

"The country owes it to itself to get a look at its heritage," Burke said. "This is a time capsule of history."

He pointed to a glass cup taken from the ship during a recent dive.

"There were 1863 air bubbles coming out of that," he said.

Pope To Eat Well

MEXICO CITY (AP) - The pope's cook for his historic Mexico trip already has begun "cooking with passion, with Polish passion" a hunter's stew of sweet and sour cabbage that has been a favorite dish in Poland for 700 years.

"It is called bigos and it takes three days to prepare," said Tadeusz "Ted" Podbereski, dishing out a succulent sample.

"Normally I cook it with love, but for the pope, I'm cooking with passion, with Polish passion. I would go broke if I cooked it with passion for everyone. There are eight kinds of fresh and smoked meats and sausages in the recipe."

Podbereski, a retired textile engineer, is the proprietor of Mazurka, Mexico's "one and only" Polish restaurant, at least I think so.

When he heard Pope John Paul II, the first Polish pope in history, was coming to open the conference of Latin American bishops, Podbereski contacted the apostolic delegate offering "to prepare traditional Polish dishes for the enjoyment of the Holy Father." He was asked to prepare dinner for the first night of the pope's visit, but the order has since been expanded to include other meals.

Podbereski is doing the cooking himself, with a little help from Maria de la Luz Gonzalez Podbereski, his beautiful dark-haired Mexican wife.

"She keeps telling me I look like the pope," said the chef, who does have the same finely chiseled features and warm steel-blue eyes. "but that is her own peculiar sense of humor."

He is sweating for three days over a stew pot "not for religious reasons but as a proud member of Mexico's tiny Polish community."

Well, they thought it was small until they gathered last Sunday at Our Lady of Czestochowa, the Polish parish with a Mexican pastor, "to make a census of who is eligible to attend the pope's private audience for Polish people." There are normally only 80 people in the Polish community, with some expansion from marriage to Mexicans, but 850 turned up on the list.

"The cardinal at the legation called up and asked if we were crazy," Podbereski said. "He said the gardens at the residence, where the audience will be held, wouldn't hold near that many so would we please cut down to 400."

For the pope's first meal in Mexico Podbereski will serve a four-course dinner on Polish linen tablecloths hand-embroidered by his mother.

Church Protestors Dismayed

PASADENA (AP) - The last of thousands of religious protesters had drifted away from the Pasadena headquarters of the troubled Worldwide Church of God by Thursday, many of them dismayed at a compromise settlement that allowed a court-appointed receiver to seize the church's financial records.

"I am really bewildered," said Deacon Wayne Pyle, who was among more than 3,000 persons who turned out at the church's Ambassador College campus Wednesday to try to keep receiver Steven Weisman from getting at the records.

"The whole point of being here was to keep the receiver out, and they let him in. It's silly."

While demonstrators sang "Onward Christian Soldiers" and listened to a speech by church patriarch Herbert W. Armstrong over a telephone hookup from his Tucson, Ariz., home, Weisman was quietly led into the headquarters by church official Stanley Rader.

More than 200 sheriff's deputies were stationed nearby with orders to arrest any demonstrators who interfered with Weisman.

Weisman was appointed receiver for the religious organization after six church members, backed by the state attorney general's office, claimed Armstrong and Rader had siphoned off millions of dollars in revenue from the church, which has about $80 million in assets.

But Armstrong claimed God's law was higher than man's law and urged his followers to keep Weisman out.

On Monday, some 2,500 of Armstrong's followers barred Weisman from entering the offices.

Under the compromise worked out between Rader and Weisman after eight hours of negotiations Wednesday, the receiver will have access to the church's financial records, but he will have to do his work at another office on church property.

Shifting Weisman's work-place overcame the objection of some protesters that Weisman was desecrating the headquarters by smoking and working on the Sabbath - both habits forbidden by the church.

Rise of Religious Cults Seen in Anxious Times

NEW YORK (AP) - A panel of scholars says the rise of new religious cults has been common in past anxious periods of American history, and that the present-day rash of such groups seems to indicate a spiritual void in modern culture.

After a two-day conference on the subject this week, the group of about 25 university professors - sociologists, psychologists, theologians and others - declined to draw definite conclusions about the phenomenon.

But it suggested "there is a deep hunger for some sort of spiritual meaning that is not being satisfied by contemporary society," said Marvin Bressler, a Princeton University sociologist who was chairman of the meeting.

He added, however, that the trend's "singular nature is outside the immediate framework of most of our respective disciplines. The general feeling was a kind of sense of dismay at our own absence of knowledge of the entire issue."

He and other participants said at a news conference that there were several general impressions, including the view that cults indicate an "abandonment of the doctrine of secular salvation."

Apparently modern society with its affluence, various "liberation" movements and technical conveniences has not produced spiritual fulfillment, the panel said, and people seek new means for it.

The meeting was sponsored by the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith in the face of widespread questions about implications of the mass suicide of Peoples Temple cultists in Guyana.

Several scholars cautioned against drawing any generalized image of modern cults from the Guyana group, which some characterized as more political than religious.

"The movements ought not to be seen as all cut from the same cloth and lumped together," said Charles Y. Glock, a sociologist at the University of California at Berkeley.

He noted that most new cults are youth-oriented and draw recruits mostly from the white middle class, but that the Peoples Temple was heavily black and drew recruits from the working class.

Theologian Harvey Cox of the Harvard University Divinity School said the "hunger, needs, fears and heartaches of people" are serious problems in society today, and that many

"so desperately need friendship, intimacy and community support" that they turn to the new groups.

"They call each other 'brother' and 'sister' and share things," he said. "It also gives them a vision of ultimate meaning in the scheme of things." He added that the historic religious institutions do not seem to be filling that need.

"When the churches accommodate themselves to the consumerist, competitive society, people look for an alternative," he said. "I see the new movements as a challenge to the churches to provide clearer alternatives to the standardized way of life."

"HANG UPS"

BY BOB WEAR

MUCH IS BEING SAID ABOUT "HANG UPS", referring to special interests of people. The reference is usually critical, but if the critics were knowledgeable they would know that they are talking about the essential concerns of the people they criticize.

MANY OF THE YOUNG are saying that older people are "hung up" on work and money. Even though some people may be too absorbed with materialistic concern, most of the people have a very proper viewpoint. The majority of people are still very helpful in supporting every good work.

THE MAJORITY OF CRITICS have some strange "hang ups" of their own. It is true that they are not "hung up" on work and money, but they are "hung up" on drugs, or sex, or loafing, or some form of destructiveness, or some type of self-indulgence.

IT IS NO GREAT THING to be able to find fault with others, and assume an inflated kind of superiority. The usual fault-finding does not require intelligence, or honesty, or fairness, or kindness, or anything else that is commendable. The Truth is that the persons responsible for such "hang ups" criticize others as an effort to hide their own failures.

WE HAVE A CHOICE, and it is very clear cut. We can choose to stop the socially self-destructing warfare of unnecessary and often unjustified criticism; or we can continue finding fault and make life worse for everybody. Of course, we have different interests ("hang ups"), some undesirable and some desirable. Perhaps improvements can be made, but not by constantly tearing each other down.

WE ARE ON A DESTRUCTIVE COURSE, and the sooner we change directions, the better it is going to be for every body. Individuals do not help themselves by constantly talking against other individuals, or groups of people. There are differences, many differences, but our social structure is surely flexible enough to accommodate these differences; in our honest efforts to do right by each other.

WE NEED ONE ANOTHER; we need the good will of each other, we need the help of each other, and we need mutual concern for the general welfare.

WE MUST BUILD UP, and stop tearing down. We must create a social climate of hope, and faith, and love to crowd out the present despair, and doubt, and hate.

LET US LOOK AND WORK for what is right, and good, and productive, and profitable. Let these be our "hang ups".

GOD IS AN INEXHAUSTIBLE SOURCE OF POWER

We have been constantly hearing about the "energy crisis", which has resulted in the desperate search for new sources of power, both natural and artificial. Whatever the source, the goal is the continuation of our good life and the further achievements of progress in every aspect of it. Human beings also need a continuing supply of power in order to accomplish their own personal goals, whatever they may be. God is a never-ending source of the power you need, so go to your Church and learn about this unlimited resource that is always available to you.

"...upholding all things by the word of his power"
— Hebrews 1:3

A mighty fortress is our God,
A bulwark never falling...
— Traditional Hymn
