

Personally Speaking

By E. M.

This column is being spoken by a substitute personally speaker this week. Therefore, its voice will not be very loud, because substitutes or 'subs' as they are most generally called, are always very timid persons at first, but, of course, after they get used to the work they are not timid anymore.

Often we have heard of 'a king for a day,' or 'a president for a day,' but I am 'an editor for a week' in the vacation absence of the real editor, who has been at the grind for a solid year without even a brief rest.

Naturally I thought that 'ed' should have waited for a week or two before taking her much-needed vacation, because the responsibility of getting such an infant newspaper well started on its second year seems greater than just getting out an ordinary issue. But all I can do is my darnedest on being a sub editor, and then maybe I can go on a big vacation and forget all about the necessity of editing a country weekly!

What are your reactions when two radio stations, which are right close together, offer different programs which are so crazily different that you think you are listening to a conversation in a crazy house? Don't you feel like pitching the thing out the window when you hear something similar to what I heard the other night? Which was—a woman is telling how to make perfect Butter-scotch rolls, and a man is telling you what exercises to do to make you healthy:

Follows recipe for Raisin Rolls, take a spring pressing palms in a deep greased pan with one cup of a regular hand stand. Cream the head on the floor with one tablespoon of fingers pointed out. Lay the rolls on this mixture and slowly lift legs and bake in a hot oven keeping knees straight bend and touch the floor with fingertips 20 or 25 minutes. Turn biscuits out on a plate if you can serve hot in an upright position. (Yes, I feel that way, too!!!)

W. T. C. C. Sponsors Budget Institute On Public Expenditures

Plans for a Budget-Making Institute, to be held in Lubbock during the last week of this month, were announced here yesterday by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce through its president, Wilbur C. Hawk.

The institute will be conducted for the benefit of public expenditure committees in all towns affiliated with the organization.

"We have the organization machinery set up to accomplish great results in public expenditure reductions and the object of this institute is to put the machinery in motion effectively," Mr. Hawk said.

As president of the organization, Mr. Hawk outlined recently the year's policy, stressing the necessity for cuts in public expenditures and other objectives.

Public expenditure committees already have been formed in 82 of the 170 towns affiliated with the organization.

"The Institute will give these committees definite information on making city, school and county budgets," Mr. Hawk said. "Every detail connected with budget-making will be explained thoroughly and after the institute each committee will be able to actually do a budget-making job."

4-H Leaders to Broadcast News Concerning Camp

The story of the National 4-H Club Camp to be held at Washington, D. C., from June 15 to 21, will be told by 4-H club members and federal and state extension leaders during three radio programs to be broadcast next week, according to W. K. Cottingham, county agricultural agent.

The programs will be given on Friday, June 17, Monday, June 20, and Tuesday, June 21.

Two 4-H girls and two 4-H boys, chosen from each state and territory because of their excellent records as club members, are eligible to attend the camp, according to Mr. Cottingham.

The camp itself is held annually to help 4-H Club members to become better acquainted with the work and facilities of the Department of Agriculture, to study their government, and to confer with representative members from other parts of the country.

Director To Talk

The first program to be broadcast on June 17 from 12:30 to 1:30 p. m., easter standard time, will feature talks and music. The history of the national 4-H Club camp will be discussed by C. W. Warburton, national director of extension work. Several representative club members will tell of their impressions of the camp and their experiences.

During the music appreciation period, held in connection with the program, a series of compositions will be played by the United States Marine band. Explanations will be given by Fay Turner of the extension service staff on the Department of Agriculture. Introductions will be made by Miss Madge Reese, field agent for the Western states, office of cooperative extension work, department of Agriculture.

The second program is scheduled from one o'clock to 1:20 p. m., Eastern standard time, June 20. During this program, Morse Salisbury, chief of the radio service for the Department of Agriculture, will interview state 4-H club leaders from each of the four regions of the country concerning the progress made in 1932.

Campers To Speak

The important things that have been accomplished during the camp will be discussed at the final program on June 21, Mr. Cottingham stated. At this program, which will also be held from one o'clock to 1:20 p. m., C. B. Smith, assistant director of the extension service for the department of Agriculture will be the chief speaker.

The 4-H Club activities and accomplishments of club members from each of the four corners of the country will be told by a member from one of the corner states. High lights of the conference, activities carried on during the camp, and visits to historic shrines of Washington will also be discussed.

These three programs, which have been arranged by the U. S. Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the extension services of state agricultural colleges, will go out over a network of 47 radio stations associated with the National Broadcasting Company, according to Mr. Cottingham.

Ladies Aid To Elect New Officers Soon

New officers of the Ladies Aid will be elected at the next meeting, which will be held at the home of Mrs. P. J. Gheen on Thursday, June 16, at 2:30.

The first chapter in the book of Revelations will be studied at the meeting.

All members are asked to bring their rain bag dues and their birthday offerings which they have up to the present time.

The Busiest Person in Town

Broadway's Lights Are Not Very Bright, Student Finds

That "New York is not what it is cracked up to be" is the opinion expressed in a letter to his parents here by Laurence Montgomery, graduate student at the University of Michigan, who recently visited the city to attend a meeting of the American Acoustical Society.

Even the bright lights of Broadway are not very bright during depression times, Montgomery found.

He gives the following description of the streets of New York as he observed them while walking ten blocks to the Bell Telephone laboratories where one of his friends works:

"I walked through dirty and smelly streets with tall buildings on each side. The doorways of the buildings were dirty and shabby and often unkept men, women, or even children were seen. I saw children at play in some of these streets, scurrying to avoid the noisy lumbering awkward trucks, and then falling in behind these trucks to play again.

"I noticed many horse-drawn wagons—they must have millions of horses in the city of New York for delivering milk, ice, wood brick, everything. I saw numerous push carts which, for some strange reason, are allowed on almost all of the streets—you know the kind of wagons they push around with hot tamales.

"The word 'scurry' doesn't really describe the way people get out of the way of vehicles in the streets of New York, where pedestrians seem to have the most utter disregard for automobiles. They are going somewhere (they don't seem to know where), and the autos can wait. However, the autos are in a hurry too, so they rush up to the pedestrians, slow up, then push them out of the way and go on.

"Quite naturally I formed a dislike for such street scenes as these. One of my professors stated that to him New York was the worst conglomeration of cripples, paupers, morons, and non-descripts he had ever seen. He also remarked that everyone he had seen seemed to have something wrong with him, and wondered how all the New Yorkers got that way.

"My friend at the Bell Telephone labs also said that he couldn't stand to look out the window, that he hated to have to go out to lunch, and that he was tired of having to use the subways, ferries, and railroads which are full of New Yorkers. I too certainly got the idea that the streets of New York are dirty, smelly, and noisy, and that the people on those streets are not style models but paupers, cripples, street cleaners, bell hops, truck drivers, sandwich peddlers, etc."

While on his trip, Montgomery saw the big airport at Akron, Ohio, went through the Eastman Kodak Manufacturing company at Rochester, N. Y., and saw Niagara Falls.

"Niagara Falls is very beautiful," he says. "Right along the highway as one is about to leave Canada for the American side of the Niagara River, one can get a very good view of the great stream of water pouring over and splashing on the rocks below. The air seems full of mist near the descending columns of water.

"The roar of the splashing tons of water carries for quite a distance. One begins to hear it above the purr of his car motor and the noise of ordinary city traffic even when he is half a mile or more away."

4-H Club Encampment To Be Held June 20-21

All 4-H club members are urged to attend. This is the first encampment which has been held for the Lipscomb County clubs.

On interesting as well as instructive program is being planned, and plans for entertaining fun are being made.

Highway 33-60

MONDAY

by Paul W. Horn

Today the work starts anew, And, be it small or be it great, And known to many or to few, I know that this week's work shall wait, With all the other work I do, For me at last at Heaven's gate.

And when to me the King shall call, And ask me for this week He gave, It will not matter then at all, There, in that land beyond the grave, If this week's work be great or small, So be it honest work and brave.

Good Rain Falls On Friday, Saturday and Sunday

A heavy downpour of rain was received in this community on Friday and Saturday nights and all day Sunday, during which time precipitation reached approximately two inches here. In other parts of the Panhandle it ranged from one-half to four inches.

The skies cleared on Monday morning and roads that were impassable on Sunday were quickly drying up.

The rain came as a relief to everyone as the soil in this community was very much in need of moisture.

James Jacobs Dies Suddenly On May 29

Jim Jacobs dropped dead while talking to a group of friends just following the church services at the Hibbs school house northeast of Booker last Sunday, May 29.

Mr. Jacobs has been bothered by leakage of the heart for a number of years, but his sudden death came as a great shock to the entire community.

As he was standing in the school yard just after services had been dismissed he was talking to a group of friends. He suddenly fell over and although he was in the middle of the group he fell to the ground before anyone could reach him. Death was instantaneous.

Mr. Jacobs is well known to many long time residents of this part of the territory, and he came to Beaver county in 1916.

In passing away Mr. Jacobs leaves to mourn his death his wife, one son Leon, his parents, three brothers, and three sisters, and a number of other relatives besides a host of friends.

Junior and Epworth Leaguers Organize Builders' Club Sun.

Nearly thirty members of the Epworth and Junior Leaguers were in favor of organizing a Builder's Club, according to Reverend A. Blair Grubb, when a meeting was held on Sunday morning after the regular church services.

The purpose of the club is to start a fund for the building of a Methodist Church in Darrouzett. Each of the members are given a nickel by Reverend Grubb, which they will use and double in profit. The first four who have made their five cents earn twenty-five cents will be given another quarter with which to work, and the first ones who makes his nickel earn a dollar will be given another dollar, with which to work, by Reverend Grubb.

Pins for the members of the club have been ordered. A chart showing what the group as an average has done will be on display at the school house.

Suggestions made by Reverend Grubb by which the club members may make their nickel earn more money are listed below:

Seeds, such as peas, beans, may be bought and planted. When the plants have produced, the crop may be sold or the seeds may be kept and planted another season.

Popcorn may be bought and popped and sold at a profit.

Ingredients for cakes, candy, and pies may be bought, and the product sold.

Eggs may be bought and set, and the chickens sold.

Eggs may be bought x.a.m.-r.o. Dra Other ideas which Reverend Grubb has, will be suggested to the individuals.

Million Dollar Hail

Trainmen on the Hi-Line, it is said, have reported that the hailstorm of Monday laid low the wheat over an east to west strip of the Texas Panhandle, extending 75 miles by 10 miles wide. They have estimated that 4,800,000 bushels have been cut off the new crop, at 10 bushels per acre. Figuring it at 25 cents per bushel, the loss is almost one million dollars. Hailstones were drifted four feet in places, they reported.—The Northwest Oklahoman.

Walter Messner called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Gheen Monday.

Some Thoughts On Friendliness

How beautiful is the spirit of friendliness. How wonderful to realize the possession of friends, to feel their interest and their love!

A friend is one who desires the welfare of others, wishes them well, and serves them. A desire to be friendly leads to service. Service, in its turn, brings love, and "Love is the fulfilling of the law."

As a result of service, based upon friendship or good wishes for others, the individual comes into the fulfillment of the spiritual purpose of life, the true joy of living.

"Upon the recurring of the golden thread of Love depends the beauty and splendor of life's fabric. That life shows best whose thread of love shines off and even through each day's weave."

—Sarah G. Roberts in "The Masonic World."

BICENTENNIAL CONTEST WINNERS TO BE SELECTED

The George Washington Bicentennial essay contest is drawing to a close. The national winner will soon be announced and will receive the official United States George Washington Bicentennial Commemorative Gold Medal as an award.

Thirty-four states and the Territory of Hawaii have competed in this contest, each state having a special contest committee to cooperate with the Federal Bicentennial Commission. These committees conducted contests in their respective states and each submitted the winning essay to the United States Commission in Washington. From these essays a group of judges, composed of well known American educators, will select the national winner.

The essay contest, which was open only to high school students, is but one part of the entire educational contest program being carried out by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission. Declamatory contests for college students are also going on throughout the country. The latter will terminate sometime in June when the ten regional winners will meet in Washington, D. C., for the finals. State winners in this oratorical contest will receive silver George Washington medals; regional winners will receive Bicentennial plaques; and the national winner will be awarded the official Commemorative gold medal.

The declamatory contest which is limited to state participation, will continue in many states until next November, the finals to be held then as a feature of American Education Week. The George Washington Commemorative Medal in silver and bronze, will be awarded first and second place state winners of the declamatory contest.

The essays received by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission have come from all parts of the country, with the far western states making perhaps the best showing in point of participation, for only four states west of the Mississippi River failed to take part.

Speaking of the Bicentennial essay contest, Congressman Bloom, Associate Director of the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission, said: "I have read some of the essays submitted for prize awards, and I can assure any doubting American, if there is one, that the knowledge, the understanding, the affection for Washington displayed in these youthful attempts is nothing short of inspiring."

The reaction throughout the country has been highly favorable to the contest. Educators all over the nation have expressed appreciation for the benefits which the participating students have received from it. Figures from all the states are not yet available, but from California alone it is reported that 564,500 high school students prepared papers on some phase of George Washington's life. The study necessitated to prepare these essays has made the students better acquainted with the Father of his Country than they have ever been before.

Eight subjects were named by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission from which the students might choose the one they wished to discuss. Every topic is represented in the prize-winning essays from which the national winner is to be selected. Significantly enough, however, the subject upon which most papers were written is "The Many-Sidedness of George Washington."

The jury of awards, which will name the national winner of the essay contest, will consist of five persons. The judges are now being appointed by the United States Bicentennial Commission and their names will shortly be announced.

The man who still thinks that the people in the rural section of the nation are not up-to-date on national questions is behind the times.

THE UNDERLINED PASSAGES
 By Arthur B. Rhinow

In the home of a friend I casually took a book from the shelf and began to browse through it aimlessly, when my attention was arrested by when my attention was arrested I turned page upon page, reading every underlined word, and by the time I had come to the end of the book, I knew my friend better than ever before.

Those particular phrases and sentences had appealed to the owner of the book, and he had drawn the pencil line underneath them to make them his own. That was paying for the book in the coin of the heart, and thereby it became his property in a more than merely commercial sense.

In compiling material for a biography the author goes to many sources: the childhood home of his hero, his college, his correspondence, and the places where he achieved his triumphs. But if I were to write the life story of a man I would not want to forget the underlined passages of his favorite book. They would reveal much of his soul life.

We all have a few books which we cherish enough to read them more than once. The second reading may be years after the first reading.

Have you joined the Builders Club? Here is your opportunity to help do something constructive for Darrouzett. We may not be large in number, nor have much ability but we can use what we have so that it will be a blessing to others. If you want to join, all you have to do is to come to the parsonage and ask about the plan and get your nickel. Each one is given five cents and he or she is to invest it so that it will grow as fast as possible. We are not to spend any of the money except to invest it in something that will bring in some more money. There are plenty of ways in which this can be done. Don't wait, get an early start. The Juniors and Epworth Leagues are going in for it strong, so if you have not yet joined begin today.

May not the older folks join in this plan too? Will it not help the younger ones for us to do that? Five cents is a small beginning, but small beginnings are not to be despised. Better it is to begin and fail than never to begin. It is still better to begin and succeed, and we can do it. Let's get the Builders spirit and build.

O for a faith that will not shrink,
 Though pressed by every foe,
 That will not tremble on the brink
 Of any earthly woe.

That will not murmur nor complain
 Beneath the chastening rod,
 But, in the hour of grief or pain,
 Will lean upon its God;

A faith that shines more bright and clear
 When tempests rage without;
 That when in danger knows no fear,
 In darkness feels no doubt;

That bears unmoved the world's dread frown
 Nor needs its scornful smile;
 That seas of trouble cannot drown,
 Nor Satan's arts beguile;

A faith that keeps the narrow way
 Till life's last hour is fled,
 And with a pure and heavenly ray
 Lights up a dying bed.

Lord give me such a faith as this,
 And then, whatever may come,
 I'll taste e'en now the hallowed bliss
 Of an eternal home.

—William H. Bathurst.

How interested we then are in the sentences we underlined when we first read the book. Perhaps we smile at them and ourselves, for we have grown, and what we would now underline is different from what we underlined twenty years ago. But we keep on drawing our lines. That helps to make the Bible our own. Indeed, if I could study the underlined verses of your Bible and knew the date when you underlined them I could pretty well tell you what you are and how you grew.

With eggs selling below 10 cents a dozen it's hard to find optimism among poultry producers unless those working with county and home demonstration agents are interviewed. The demonstrators are thinking more seriously about the cost of producing a dozen than of the price received, which they figure will get better sooner or later.

O. Knox in Bexar county buys all his feed, yet his flock produces eggs for 7.7 cents per dozen; John Lockwood has gotten his feed cost down to 5.4 cents per dozen; and Arno Serold, 4-H club member has it down to 2.2 cents per dozen, producing all his feed except the meat scrap.

In Erath county E. F. Corbell's flock of 500 leghorns produced eggs for 3 1/2 cents per dozen in March and he sold them for 9 cents per dozen in case lots under a guarantee. His daily profit was $1.37.

Through thick and thin the women and girls are hanging on with grim determination in their fight for more beautiful homes. Gladys Hopkins in Harrison county sells buttermilk to buy materials for making over her bedroom. Mrs. W. E. Howieler in Harris county tears down the picket fence and gives the neighbors the pickets for screening the bare underpinning of their homes. Harris county home demonstration club women have filled their yards with shrubs from 11,600 cuttings taken from cutting beds. . . . and so it goes.

THAT one of the most unusual private collections of relics of the late Col. Wm. F. (Buffalo Bill) Cody is housed at the Albany Hotel, Denver, Colorado, and Frank R. Dutton, one of the proprietors of the hotel, takes great pleasure in showing these to his friends and guests of the hotel.

Mr. Dutton's collection is in a glass case in the lobby of the Albany and among the mementos may be found some medals, a bust of the Wild West hero which is made of old Treasury Certificates and the sombrero hat in which Col. Cody performed during the many years in the sawdust arena. It is a broad Stetson of sweeping design, and one can almost envision the flowing locks of the old scout's coiffure and the rolled brim of the sombrero was waved in a mighty sweep of a gloved hand in acknowledgment of the pleudits of the ringside. There is also the gold fountain pen with which the famous Frontier Scout signed the Albany register on the occasion of his last visit to Denver, a gift to Mr. Dutton from the Colonel's brother-in-law. Mr. Dutton has been invited to place his mementos with other collections, but this he has not done, preferring to retain his own private Museum of Buffalo Bill Mementos at the Albany Hotel.

A huge oil painting of Buffalo Bill is to be seen on a wall in the Albany's Foyer near the case, and the walls of Mr. Dutton's private office also contain excellent photographs of the scout hero.

Buffalo Bill's grave is located at the top of magnificent Lookout Mountain—truly a fitting resting place for the remains of the famous scout. Near the grave is "Pahaska Tepee," wherein one may view a large collection of Buffalo Bill's relics, including various guns, saddles, wearing apparel, trophies, etc.

FOR YEARS BUFFALO BILL HAS BEEN AN IDOL OF THE AMERICAN CHILDREN, AND TO SEE THESE MEMENTOS ONLY EMPHASIZES WHAT PRESENT DAY CIVILIZATION OWES TO THE EARLY WESTERN PIONEERS AND SCOUTS, OF WHOM BUFFALO BILL WAS A PICTURESQUE AND FOREMOST REPRESENTATIVE.

LOCAL WOMAN STOPS PEDDLER

HOUSEWIFE TELLS MAN SHE TRADES WITH BUSINESS MEN HERE

"No, I do not care for anything today," said the lady of the house in one of the homes here several days ago when the representative of a grocery concern taking orders by catalogue called.

"Perhaps not today, and in fact I would not be able to deliver any of these goods today, but next week; perhaps you will want something then?" persisted the salesman.

"No, I am not interested," was the reply.

"You will let me explain our plan to you?"

"No, I know of the plan, and I am not at all interested. In fact, you would just be wasting your time and mine too, to tell me about it. The fact is, I do not care to purchase this class of goods from out-of-town concerns. My husband is in business here, and expects to get the patronage of home people, and I could hardly expect him to do so, if I placed orders for goods I can buy here with out-of-town concerns.

"Yes," said the salesman, but we can offer things that the local concerns cannot supply, and then we have a lot of attractive premiums which will be given to our customers, which are not offered by the local concerns. In fact you get more for your money when you buy from us, and we make deliveries right at the door."

The housewife was not a victim to this persuasive line of character and after a time the salesman realized this fact and withdrew.

It is just another means of attempting to break down the business of the resident concerns here who pay licenses for transacting business here, who pay property taxes and who employ clerks and others in the conduct of their business. The money from these sources is what makes the town grow. It furnishes the funds through which the citizens who live here are provided police protection, fire protection, with which electric current water service, paved streets and a host of other things are made possible.

These door to door salesmen are representatives of concerns which maintain distributing warehouses at convenient points and the goods are shipped in once a week. No store room is maintained here. No clerks are employed here. In fact, no expense is undergone by the concern except the travelling salesmen and deliverymen who come here once every two or three weeks then for only a day or two at a time. They pay no license for conducting the business in the towns where their warehouses are not located. They do not contribute anything to the expense of the city government, but on the other hand are attempting to sap the strength of the community away, by their plan.

Some of the housewives will fall for this kind of business, especially when a few attractive looking premiums are offered which of course are taken care of in the prices of the goods sold. They buy, and never give a minute's thought to the consequences as did the housewife whose conversation was recorded at the beginning of this story.

Burgett Jacob Messner was born June 4, 1880 near Albany, Missouri. He lived with his parents at that place until 1900, when they moved to Tedumseh, Okla. He resided with them there until 1902, when he was united in marriage to Miss Pearl Rush of Tecumseh. While living at Guthrie two children were born. In 1907, Mr. and Mrs. Messner took up a homestead in the Panhandle of Oklahoma at the place where they have resided every since. To this union several children in all were born: Mrs. Joe Robbins of Logan, Okla.; Wilbur who resided near his home; Mrs. Ray Altmiller of near Darrouzett, Texas; and three children at home, Ruby, Wyatt, and Wayne.

Mr. Messner has followed the occupation of a farmer practically all of his life. He has always been a kind and loving father. In a recital service conducted by a Methodist minister at the Community House in 1925, Mr. Messner was converted. He was most highly esteemed and respected in the community and by all who knew him. The associations of the home have been happy and congenial. Each found fellowship and joy in the companionship of the other members of the family.

Mr. Messner has always had trouble with his eyes, but it was not until 1913 that they gave him more serious trouble. Since that time he has been bothered, while of late years his sight gradually grew worse. It is this difficulty, doubtless, that caused him to worry and become troubled. But no shadow marred the beauty of the fellowship of the family until this dark cloud enshrouded it.

At the age of 51 years, 11 months, and 27 days, Mr. Messner departed this life leaving behind to mourn him, his wife, seven children all living and nine grandchildren, there remains three brothers and three sisters; Mrs. Lavina Smith of Oklahoma City, Mrs. Clara Cooper, of Tonkawa, Oklahoma, Mrs. W. S. Messner of Los Angeles, California, Mrs. Lulu Balenger Fargo, North Dakota, Mr. Oscar Messner of Muskogee, Okla., and Mr. V. E. Messner of Thomas Okla. His sister, Mrs. Etta Alford preceded him in death.

Interment at Sophia, Okla., with Brother A. Blair Grubb, officiating.

Misses Olive Chappell, Lois Roper, Dessie Fisher and Orval Chappell visited Miss Gwen Pugh on Tuesday.

Miss Bernice Russell is spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Faussett at Canadian.

Publish Broomcorn Experiments

GOODWELL, OKLA., JUNE—The publication Wednesday of broomcorn results at the Panhandle Agriculture Experiment Station showed some excellent yields had been obtained during the past eight years on wheat land. According to H. H. Finnell, in charge of the experiment station, broomcorn has usually been confined to sandy land not adapted to wheat growing but that should not mean that the heavier types of soil are not adapted to broomcorn growing. As compared to grain sorghum the seasonal and culture requirements of broomcorn were very similar excepting it appeared to be more sensitive to drought periods during early summer than did grain sorghum on heavy soils. Comparatively yields on the common varieties are also shown in this report which may be obtained by asking the Experiment Station for Bulletin No. 39.

Farm relief, as far as we know, is still in the promised land.
