

Personally Speaking

By E. M.

Have you noticed the cover on the new Saturday Evening Post? If not, you really should for it's one of the very cleverest shown recently by any magazine.

A slender anemic-looking Pa is reluctantly serving as a model while Ma, rather fat, her mouth full of pins is kneeling on the floor placidly pinning in the hem on a new pink taffeta evening dress. From Pa's pipe protruding from one corner of his mouth, the way he is clutching a newspaper in one hand, and most of all, the woe-begone expression of his face, we are positive, once and for all, that Pa would much rather be sitting in an arm-chair, puffing away at his pipe, and reading the evening news than serving as a dress model.

Are children and young people of the modern times really so very different from those of the past generations? From hearing the opinions of certain elderly people one is inclined to think that the "younger generation" is much more inclined to be disrespectful toward adults, etc., than "in our day and time." Be as it may, it is rather interesting to note a letter written by a young boy on papyrus in the second or third century. A. D. Altho it was written to his father, "papyru" refers to the pulpy writing material of that day, rather than to the old gentleman himself. Here it goes:

"Theon to his father Theon, greeting. It was a fine thing of you not to take me with you to town. If you won't take me with you to Alexandria, I won't write you a letter, or speak to you. Mother said to Archelaus, 'He upsets me. Take him away.' So send for me, I implore you. If you won't send, I won't eat, I won't drink; there now. Farewell. (endorsed) Deliver to Theon, from his son Theonias; (dated) Tubi 18."

So perhaps after all it is safest to say that human nature is pretty much the same—whenever or wherever you find it.

State Poet Writes Poem On Appointment

Judd Mortimer Lewis, first poet laureate of Texas, in acknowledgement of the honor accorded him by his appointment, Mr. Lewis wrote the poem, reprinted here from the Amarillo Daily News:

Acknowledgement

First laureate of the state I love!
Today it seems to me,
With my heart such a mixture of
Pride and humility,
There is no medium—no way—
In which I may express,
In word or deed, my conscious need
Of her great kindness.

Speakers Picked To Represent School In League Contest

Declaimers and extemporaneous speakers to represent the Darrouzett school in the Interscholastic League meet to be held March 31 and April 1 and 2 at Follett were selected at tryouts held on Thursday evening, February 25, at the school auditorium.

Second Essay In League Last Year Is Printed Here

Coeta Terrel, essay writer for the Darrouzett High School in the Interscholastic League contest last spring and winner of second place in the county, will again represent the school in essay writing.

Her essay, entitled "Will the Airplane Supercede the Automobile," which won second place last year is reprinted here.

WILL THE AIRPLANE SUPERSEDE THE AUTOMOBILE? by Coeta Terrel

Automobiles are now the most common method of travel. Although the airplane is very rare now, it is coming in use more and more. "Old Fogies" as people are called when they are old fashioned, say, "I want to keep at least one foot on the ground. Airplanes are not safe in which to ride."

When automobiles first came into use, the same thing was said. When automobiles first came into use, I heard a man say, "Well, I won't feel safe if I drive over twenty miles per hour." Now the same man drives about fifty miles per hour, but he does not think that airplanes are safe.

The people who were once afraid to ride in automobiles soon became accustomed to them; likewise, the people who are afraid to ride in airplanes will soon become accustomed to them. Many people say that so many lives are lost in airplane crashes, but statistics show more people are killed in automobile wrecks than in airplane crashes.

Airplanes are becoming more and more frequently used. Many inventions are being made toward improvement of airplanes, but very few inventions are being made toward the improvement of automobiles. The rubber-winged plane is one invention, and people are studying assiduously to invent more improvements.

Aviation is a great sport for the younger generation. To become an aviator is the highest ambition of some girls of today. Boys are also eager to become pilots.

Since Lindbergh's flight from New York to Paris and Coste's and Belonte's flight from Paris to New York proved successful, many people have abandoned automobiles and have taken the study of aviation.

England's R-100 and Germany's Graf Zeppelin are evidence of the progress of aviation. The United States is also building a large dirigible. It is to be the largest airship in the world.

Scientists are prophesying that in a few more years there will be more airplanes than cars. Automobiles, in a few more years will be regarded as wagons or clogs are regarded today. The scientists are prophesying that, with the incessant progress of aviation, there will soon be a canopy of airplanes above instead of a multitude of automobiles on the ground.

During the World War airplanes were not used so much, but now, only twelve years later, the Mexicans and other people are using airplanes to a great extent in their wars.

Now, with the evidence that has been shown as to the progress of aviation, I should say that the airplane will supersede the automobile.

Parent - Teachers Plan Program For Next Time

Numbers on the program to be given at the Parent-Teacher's Association meeting on Wednesday afternoon March 9, have been announced by Mrs. J. E. Speer, chairman of the program committee.

The meeting will begin promptly at 4 o'clock. The opening number will consist of the official P. T. A. song by the group. The choral singing group directed by Mrs. Lela Hennigh will sing two selections.

"The Story of Life," will be discussed by Mrs. A. Blair Grubb, followed by a group discussion. "Hearsay," a reading, will be given by Mrs. R. E. James.

Winning declaimers are: Margarite Hennigh, senior girl; Glenn Balch, senior boy; Ramah Reger, junior girl; and G. A. Jenkins, junior boy.

Mary Louise Draper will represent the school as girl extemporaneous speaker, while O. C. Eifers will speak in the contest for boys.

Others who entered the local try-outs were: Alberta Reger, senior girls contest; Orval Chapvell and Leo Meier, senior boys; Erma Hennigh, Naomi Daily, Wilma Lash, and Marjory Rush, junior girls; Lowell Hennigh, Roy Phillips and Oscar Taylor, junior boys.

Markley Woods was also a contestant in the extemporaneous speaking try-outs.

Many Are Absent From High School Because of Flu

A decided increase in the number of absences caused by illness was noted this week at the Darrouzett High School, teachers reported. In grade rooms there were fewer absences than during the preceding two weeks.

Five of the seven teachers in the school, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Speer, Miss Ruth Friend, Mrs. Lela Hennigh and Fred Mullings were also absent one day or longer during the past week and a half because of illness.

Six weeks examinations which were scheduled to be given on Thursday and Friday of this week have been postponed until Monday and Tuesday of next week because so many pupils were absent.

Strauss Rites Held Monday At Seiling

Funeral services for Fred C. Strauss old time resident of this part of the country, were held on Monday at Seiling, Okla.

Mr. Strauss who was about 70 years old had been ill for a long time.

Mr. Strauss had lived at Seiling since leaving this section of the country, approximately twenty five years ago. He was connected with banking in Seiling.

Mrs. J. R. Barnes and Mrs. Anna Neal, sisters of Mr. Strauss, were called to his bedside.

Committee Appointed To Make Crop Loans

The main committee to pass final approval in Lipscomb county of all applications for seed loans is composed of Mr. A. W. Kincaid, cashier of Follett National Bank; Mr. A. C. Cotney, Follett and F. H. Russell, Follett, according to word reaching this office as we go to press.

There will be sub-committees at Darrouzett with A. H. Montgomery as chairman; at Booker with H. H. Mitchell as chairman; at Lipscomb with J. W. Douglas as chairman; and at Higgins with T. H. Black as chairman, according to the report. All farmers who wish to make applications for crop production loans should see the chairman of the loan committee in their own town.

The sub-committees will approve or disapprove all applications in their respective localities. The applications will have to be approved by the main committee before it is forwarded to the Secretary of Agriculture.

Moonshiners, Society Women Mountaineers Meet In Play

Moonshiners, society women, and mountaineers of Kentucky all mingle in a stirring three-act play, "Judith of the Mountains," to be presented on Friday night, March 18, at the school auditorium under the auspices of the Methodist Ladies Aid Society.

The cast of characters has been announced by Mrs. A. Blair Grubb, director of the play.

The part of Judith, a mountain girl, is played by Mrs. Carson Altmiller. Mr. and Mrs. Simpson, Judith's parents, are represented by Joe Dupont and Mrs. D. R. Rush, while John Simpson, her brother, is played by Delmar Clark. "Grandma," is portrayed by Mrs. G. A. Jenkins.

Pearl Lourwood plays the part of James Lykins, a young mining engineer, who is in love with Judith. Miss Henderson, a community nurse, is portrayed by Mrs. Myrtle Phebus. D. R. Rush and C. H. Powell take the part of revenue officers.

Sallie Richie, a young society girl in love with James Lykins, is played by Rubye Messner. Mrs. Richie and Mrs. Mason, society women collecting antiques in the mountains, are portrayed by Mrs. C. H. Powell and Mrs. J. T. Mosley, respectively. The part of George Hargis, who is in love with Sally, is played by J. T. Mosley.

The action centers around Judith who goes to a Kentucky school on moonshine money. Her father is finally put in prison for selling moonshine. "Grandma," who is a firm believer in predestination, adds much to the humor of the drama. The influence of religion and education in the lives of the mountain people of Kentucky is musical numbers will be given by the band. Oklahoma Tingley and Faynell Walton will sing duets. Mrs. R. D. Hennigh will give a reading.

Judd Lewis—First Poet Laureate

Few living writers of verse are as well known to Texas readers as Judd Mortimer Lewis, recently appointed first poet laureate of Texas.

It is interesting to note that Mr. Lewis is not a native Texan, but that he was born in far-away Fulton, New York. In 1893 Mr. Lewis came from New York to Houston where he has lived ever since.

Mr. Lewis has served for years as verse writer for the Houston Post. Two of his published collections of verse are entitled "Lilts o' Love," and "Sing the South!" The title poem of the second volume is a patriotic one that reveals a deep love for Lewis' adopted South Land.

Our first state poet delights in child life, and juvenile verses comprise a large part of his writing. Critics say that he has the rare ability of looking at a situation from the child's standpoint and making that the basis of his description.

All in all, it seems that Texas is very fortunate in her choice of Mr. Lewis as her first poet laureate. Surely she has set a high standard for the other state poets that are to follow.

THE ARTIST

By MILDRED CRABTREE SPEER

Oh heavenly pleasure; Walking among the crowds Common as a day laborer: Suddenly God reaches down and Touches a sensitive cord; It vibrates, causes every Part to quiver to alertness; The echo swells until it seems That any small frame will all but burst With wonderful startling glory. With eyes cast humbly downward; Ears deaf to all of earthly sounds; The feet glide silently apart, And in a place made holy By satisfying pain, Beauty is born, A child of Inspiration, and then Once more the bearer walks among the crowd Common as a day laborer.

What If: The life of sin which many live should sometime come to light but too late to be remedied? God should say to you, "Give me thy heart." Would you do it? The tomorrow that you expected would bring you salvation would never come? You failed to prepare for eternity? You gained the whole world but lost your soul, would it profit you? The society in which you travel and which you think to be the standard of life should prove to be the means of your destruction? The sun never rose again to cheer you on in your delusion of sin? You knew you would face God tonight? Christ should break through the sky and clouds to catch up his bride would you be one who had oil in his lamp? The sin that you now conceal within your breast would suddenly be broadcast to all the world? You had to face God and you could not get away from him like you now try to do? The good moral life which you now live should deceive you into thinking that you were saved and all right? You depended on someone or something for salvation other than Christ? You are depending on your church membership or baptism by water to save you? You depend on yourself for salvation rather than Christ Holiness which you fear and have nothing to do with should be God's standard of entrance into heaven? The Bible which you have no use for could show you the way of salvation but you don't want to know? Except a man be born again (or from above) he cannot see the kingdom of God. John 3:3?
