Move Appears To Clinch Post For Senator

However, Door Is Not Closed By President

CONVENTION HALLA Philadelphia, July 13. (AP)-President Truman put out the word today that he "will be most happy" to have Sen. Al-ben W. Barkley as his vicepresidential running mate. That appeared to clinch a Truman-Barkley ticket for the Democrats. Democratic Chairman J. Howard McGrath, announcing the President's sentiment, said Mr. True man had not closed the door to others, however, and was leaving it to the Democratic convention to say who should run with him. But the delegates filing into this hall were obviously in a mood to turn to Barkley. They gave the 70-year-old Kentucky senator a 28minute rousing demonstration last night after he made a fighting

Dr. Wiggins is no stranger to the area. Although a native of Louisiana, he has linked his life with West Texas for the past 30 years. from the time he became a student at Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene and later returned (in 1926) to become its dean. Since 1935 Dr. Wiggins has served as president of the School of Mines at El Paso.

So well has he performed his latter office that he is one of the most popular figures in El Paso. The growth of the school-physically, scholastically and culturally - has been marked. Many will recall that he was mentioned quite prominently in speculation over the selection of a president at the University of Texas. This gives some idea as to the callbre of the man.

"Dean" Wiggins, as most people in this section know him, will bring to his new post a capacity of understanding of area problems plus a proven ability in the field of education and administration. We believe that his means a new and great opportunity for both Dr. Wiggins and Tech.

No Crisis, But Problem Remains

Now that the rains have come, we can afford to speak more boldly about it, but we cannot resist the temptation to point out that for the second consecutive summer Big Spring is sliding through without a water crisis.

The ironical thing about it is that so many communities in this area, which have not been wont to spare the rod in previous years when talking about the water picture for this city, have been up against it for reasons of supply and distribution.

Certainly none of us get any particular satisfaction out of an element of poetic justice in the picture. We know that the situation is not local, nor it is not temporary. As for supply, the governor's conference here in January pointed up a recognition that this is an area problem and a critical one. Population and consumption curves should convince anyone that domestic and commercial demands in the next score of years crowd or exceed the immediately available supply. As for distribution, almost every community-ours included-faces some serious and costly revisions if systems are to be brought abreast of current and potential demands.

Although we may be pardoned a bit of provincial pride in our good fortune and good planning which resulted in ample reserves here in recent years, we ought to remind ourselves again that we progress as an area and therefore need to meet major problems on an area basis.

NEWTON TELLS OF HIS LIFE INSIDE PRISON

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD MUNTSVILLE, U. Dr. W. R. Newton of Cameron, Texas left the state prison here Monday after paying society "a debt that I never

Dr. Newton, a tall, thin, intense man, said in an interview at the prison last night that: "In view of my absolute innocence, this has been awfully hard to take, but I have taken it, asked no favors and have received none.

"I am going back now to my loyal friends at Cameron and resume my life where if left off when this nightmare began. Any man leaving prison feels a degree of humiliation, but I know I can find my place again as a physician and surgeon. I have received hundreds of letters of encouragement. I will work to maintain the 50-bed hospital that I built and dedicated to the community before I was sent here."

Dr. Newton, convicted of assault to murder Dr. Roy Hunt of Littlefield, Tex., entered the state prison last July 30 for a two-year term. Blodd transfusions he gave other inmates lightened his sentence.

The assault on Dr. Hunt occurred near Littlefield May 21, 1942. Almost a year and a half later, Dr. Hunt and his wife were bound and slain in a bed in their Littlefield

Jim Thomas, a paroled convict. was three times convicted of the crime, but each time the conviction was set aside by the State Board of Criminal Appeals.

"I had no party in the crime for which I was charged," Dr. Newton said, "Dr. Hunt was a good man and a gentleman. I had no motive, no reason for shooting him. I had not even seen the man in nine years. I don't know who could have done it but I am going to devote my efforts toward clearing my name. I bear no malice toward anyone. There is no place in my life for revenge."

Dr. Newton weighed 190 pounds when he was indicted and 170 when he entered the prison eleven and one-half months ago. Today he weighs 140.

He smiled and declined to answer several specific questions regarding prison conditions, saying, "You will find all the answers in my book. I have kept a diary and notes, and I intend to publish the result.

After entering the prison, Dr. Newton served at Ramsey Prison Farm No. 1, Otey, Tex., and at Central Prison Farm, Sugar Land, before he was transferred back to main, high-walled prison here fast December.

At the two farms he was a bookkeeper "but took my turn cutting and loading cord wood.

"I have been very busy at this main prison," the physician stated. "I have been going to bed around 2 a. m. and getting up at 5. During the day I have worked in the prison print shop, just doing odd jobs, and at night I have worked in the prison hospital. I have helped the doctors there by doing electro-cardiograph readings in heart cases and have been allowed to assist in some operations.

Dr. Newton, a brown-eyed man with black hair and thin, tapering fingers, said he had found that folks here on the inside are pretty much like those on the outside."

Dewey, Douglas, Old School Rivals, May Be Opposing Each Other Again

BY DREW PEARSON

PHILADELPHIA. - Should the warring Democrats happen to compromise their differences by picking Justice William Orville Douglas as their presidential or vice-presidential candidate, an old, old rivalry with Tom Dewey would be revived.

For Dewey and Douglas were members of the same class at Columbia Law School, Douglas at the top of the class, Dewey not so near the top, with both rivals in law-school debates. FDR, who had to run against Dewey in 1944, always said that one reason he liked to have Bill Douglas around was because he knew how to get the best of Dewey.

Should the Democratic lightning strike Douglas at Philadelphia, it would bring helated fulfillment of Roosevelt's original wishes - four years late. For at the 1944 convention which finally nominated Harry Truman as vice president, Douglas's name was mentioned first in the letter which FDR wrote Bob Hannegan expressing his choice of running mate.

But Hannegan, determined to put across his old Missouri friend, withheld publication of the letter until after the Truman bandwagon had gathered momentum. DOUGLAS' HANDICAP

Justice Douglas has suffered politically from one of Franklin Roosevelt's pet policies-his desire to keep the Supreme Court as a protective bulwark against reaction. Fearful that his social program would be hacked down by the judiciary-as it was by the Supreme Court prior to 1936-and worried lest reactionary successors sabotage the New Deal, FDR appointed some of his ablest young executives to the bench. Douglas was one of them. There his hands have been tied politically, and he has dropped partially out of sight.

When you first meet Douglas, he looks as innocuous as a male ribbon clerk and talks as pleasantly as Robert Taylor. But when the New York financial writers staged their annual dinner back in 1938, they handed the then chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission-Mr. Douglas-a blacksnake whip in token of what he had been doing to Wall Street.

Douglas came to Washington shortly after the financial debacle of 1932, joined the newly created Securities and Exchange Commission, and undertook the job of cleaning up a system of financial brigandage which had skimmed the savings from millions of in-

Today the Street is an example of virtue compared with what it was then, and one reason was Douglas' whipcracking. Before he finished he had sent Richard Whitney, onetime pillar of Wall Street respectability, to the penitentiary.
UP BY THE BOOTSTRAPS

Justice Douglas got his early training under the late Chief Justice Harlan Stone when the latter was dean of the Columbia Law School. Douglas, a rawboned, gangling youngster from Yakima, Wash., had arrived in New York via the empty freight-car route with exactly 36 cents in his pocket, applied for a small loan from Columbia, and sold papers on the streets of Manhattan to make the loan go

Once when his finances were desperately low, and it looked as if he would have to drop out, Dean-Stone took two hours out of a busy day to help Douglas get a new job. The youngest justice of the Supreme Court looks Scotch and is Scotch. Perhaps it is this inheri-Court looks Scotch and is tance plus the fact that he raised himself by his own bootstraps, which has given Bill certain Calvin Coolidge characteristics. Even with the salary of a justice of the Supreme Court, Bill used to walk from the District of Columbia line to his home a few blocks away in Maryland, in order to save 20 cents extra taxi fare. The border between the District and Maryland marks the taxi zone limit.

And when the Douglases later rented a suite in the Anchorage time asked her attorney to bring an eviction suit against the justice of the Supreme Court because the Douglas family kept food in a coldair locker outside the window and hung the washing up in too conspicuous a place. The attorney, Fontaine Bradley, nearly had a fit at the idea of suing a justice of the Supreme Court, finally persuaded the apartment-house owner that the Douglases were going to move enyway-which they did.

Milly Douglas, the justice's daughter, seems to inherit her father's Scotch independence, and last year amazed social Washington by getting a job as a soda-jerker in an Alexandria, Va., drugstore. WEARING THE BLACK ROBE

On the Supreme Court Douglas has been a restless, prodigious worker. Leaving social engagements early, he goes home every night to work on opinions. Along with Justice Hugo Black, he has usually led the court in the number of decisions handed down.

For some time it has been known that Douglas was fidgety on the court and had his eye on more exciting pastures. In fact, when Harold Ickes resigned as secretary of the interior, Truman offered him the Ickes vacancy and Douglas was briefly tempted. But a couple of visits at the White House and the sight of the Missouri gang. specializing on bourbon and branch water rather than affairs of state, convinced Douglas that he could serve his country more effectively on the bench-though more prosai-

Douglas was a close friend and intimate adviser of Roosevelt's to the very end. His work was not publicized, because a Supreme Court justice isn't supposed to get mixed up in the administrative branch of the government, But Douglas helped out on various national-defense matters especially the development of adequate electric power. It was his quiet backstage work on this, long before Pearl Harbor, that was responsible for the nation having enough power to take care of its tremendous war needs, including the manufacture of the atomic bomb. Douglas has said he wasn't seeking any political office-which is true. Right now he is out in the Columbia River Basin country where he grew up and where he always spends the summer, fishing, riding a cow pony, and enjoying his neighbors. There he would prefer to stay.

But if the Philadelphia convention should nominate him, Douglas wil serve. For Bill Douglas has never shirked a call of duty from his country.

Movie Production Hits Bad Mid-Summer Slump

HOLLYWOOD (A) - Just when people thought the film production outlook couldn't get worse, it does. For a year or more, we've been hearing how Hollywood has been beset with a variety of knotty problems-anti-trust suits, British quotas and taxes, a faltering U. S. box-office, etc. These stresses and strains are now 'showing themselves in a generally decreased slate of film production during the summer months. Here's the outlook at the various studios:

RKO-Three films shooting, but several big ones called off by new boss Howard Hughes. All departments being slashed to the bone. Rumors that RKO will become merely a releasing company for outside producers.

Universal-International - Planning six-week production lull starting Aug. 1. After vacations, personnel will be "realigned" and policy determined on how many films to shoot.

MGM-Two films shooting, only two planned in next two months. Economy rumors flying. Paramount-A lone picture shooting for several weeks. Two to start on location within month. Columbia - Only three filming, but planning to resume normal schedule next month.

Republic-Now dark, will start production on two films this month. Warners-Planning to maintain normal five or six pictures shoot-

Twentieth Century-Fox - About normal.

A couple of bright notes can be noted in the otherwise grim situation: 1. There is some activity among the independents that have survived the film upheavel; 2. Major studios talk hopefully amout resuming full production in the fall.

We'll wait and see.

DEMOCRATS ARE MISSING GOLDEN VOICE

BY HAL BOYLE PHILADELPHIA, July 12. (A-The golden voice is gone.

That was the paramount fact as the Democratic Convention opened hede Monday like a football team starting a game with four men trying to play quarterback.

The great signal caller is dead. There is no one here to say "my friends" and melt the divergent animosities of the Democratic Party in the brotherhood of political

You have to have a hero-or several heroes. And none has come here yet.

In the opening hour of its fifth straight quadrennial bid for power the historic Democratic Party is as split apart as the quarreling would-be heirs to a rich man's leg-

What is missing here is the vast personality, the unifying magic of the last leader-the purple Demoerat, Franklin D. Roosevelt. There is no doubt among most delegates here that the inheritor of his mantle, Harry Truman, will be nominated to lead the party. But they are preparing to nominate him in an unhappy atmosphere of revolt over an internal problem affecting one-tenth of the American population-the Negro This subject outweighs in the attention of the delegates at this stage the high cost of living, the world crisis, or any other problem facing the nation. It outweighs even the prospects of victory in November. In two days here I have heard no delegate even bring up the topic in an optimistic vein. There is a great contrast between this convention and the Republican Convention here last

The GOP gathering was featured by an exciting clash of personalities. Dewey, Taft and Stassen were present and contending vigorously for the nomination. So were a number of dark horses. That convention was built around the competition of men. This convention so far has been an angry conflict of principles-and principles are never as colorful as peo-

Republican Convention The opened in an atmosphere of hope and horse-trading. The Democratic Convention has started in a fog of sectional recriminations and bitterness. There is no hero or potential hero yet on the scene. There is little parading or open enthusiasm for the leader they know they will pick-Truman. There are more arguments than there are cheers. This is the surface picture today as the Democrats meet to o ganize, after nearly sixteen years in power, against a resurgent Republican Party. And many delegates say:

"If Roosevelt were alive-They miss the golden voice that welded them in unity and loyalty, the shining skill in smoothing over differences.

As of now the Democratic Party is neither a party nor a team. The Democrats aren't fighting the Republicans. They are fighting themselves.

As an elevator operator in the headquarters hotel said: "This isn't a convention-it's more like a wake." But this is July. The donkey may be a different animal in November. He'll have to be to make it" five in a row, something he's never done since the elephant was

Demo Meet Is Dreary

By JAMES MARLOW PHILADELPHIA, July 12. (# ... The Democratic Convention to pick a presidential candidate is a dreary

Nobody here seriously doubts that President Truman is a cinch to get the nomination. With that apparently so cut and dried, half the steam is out of the convention. True, Senator Claude Pepper, Florida Democrat, threw his hat into the ring Sunday night. True, too, that a flock of Southern delegates were getting ready to put up Gov. Ben T. Laney Arkansas as their own candidate to oppose Mr. Truman.

But Pepper's sudden announcement that he was seeking the presidential nomination left the delegates prety cold. And the other Southerners - burned up by Mr. Truman's civil rights program — had been talking for quite a while of doing what they did. Already, it seems to me, politicians in Mr. Truman's own party have done him terrific damage. In the past week some of the top Democrats talked of nominating Gen. Ike Eisenhower-until Eisenhower said "No, thinaks."

Bosses of some of the biggest political machines in the United States were behind the Draft Eisenhower boom. This now becomes an interesting

How are those political leaders, who were all for Eisenhower, going to do an about-face with the voters in their areas and starting bleeding for Truman? The Republicans know this is their best chance to win the presidency since Franklin D. Roosevelt whipped them down in 1932.

Roosevelt is dead and gone. There is no sure and persuasive hand running this convention and pulding as it gots under way.

Letter Writing Is A Lost Art

The written latter is a medium of commun leation that most of us use to keep in touch with friends and relatives and is known tacknically as the "friendly letter".

Just how friendly these letters are depends on the writer, the circumstances under which it was written and the topics discussed in the

To some people, the writing of letters in a joy. These persons write such long interest ing letters that it is a delight to receive them; but to most of us, writing letters is done because we enjoy receiving them and keeping in touch with friends that we used to know on with other members of the family.

The good old fashioned beginning for a letter was "How Are you, fine I hope-" a phrase or two on how the writer is. Most us think we are far beyond that, but in nine letters out of 10 our physical state of well being enters into the topics discussed. Usually the more that we think about how we feel, the more morbid we become,

Too often, we forget the personality of the person to whom we have addressed the letter. May be we are writing to someone who destests fishing; so we go into long descriptions of our latest excursion of the sport.

To some, writing letters is a chore and an unpleasant one at that This type of person spends more time dreading the correspondence than in doing it and the letter comes out sounding like a chore.

Letters of the modern times have become much shorter and to the point than the ones that, we read about that they royal families

Letters should be answered within a reasonable length of time, so I am told; but I fear that I do not heed this advice in a number of cases, even though my intentions are good. Months have passed when I discover a letter that I thought had been answered to a onetime good friend; so I answer it only to have it returned for lack of proper address. Disgusting experience, I must say. No wonder old friends often become old acquaintances.

Somehow or other, seems as if the correspondence between friends has become a lost art, due to, among other things, the lack of time that we spend in writing letters.—BILLIE BURRELL

Bartholomew Follows Howard

NEW YORK - I shook hands with this tall, handsome, esthetic young man and mentally thanked the headlines for telling me about Shirley Temple becoming a mother.

Only by such a disillusionment as finding out that Shirley had become a mom could I lighten the discovery that Freddie Bartholomew, the young man vigorously shaking my paw, had indeed become such a grown-up. In one of those quick flashes I remembered Freddie in "Captains Courageous", "David Copperfield," "Lloyds of London", "Anna Karenina". Here was the kid who was as hig a star as Garbo, although more briefly; a box office draw as big as Spencer Tracy, Clark Gable, Tyrone Power,

"I'm taking a show into the summer the aters," Freddie said. What was it, I asked?

"Well, I've been admiring all the pictures and plays ever done by Leslis Howard." Freddie explained. "I've been told time and again that physically I'm reminiscent of Leslie when he was my age. After going through all the Howard successes I decided 'Berkeley Square' would be best for my purposes, and I'm going to tour the strawhats in it. If I'm a fraction as good in it as Leslie was, I'll be a success."

It also gave me a bit of a turn to realize Freddie is a war veteran. It seems more appropriate to think of him as a permanent youngster in a Fauntleroy collar and shing shoes. Certainly I can't quite get ready to accept Freddie as a married man, which he is.

Freddie went on to tell about his warm weather plans. "We've spent twice the rehearsal time than the usual summer theater production," he said. "Why, the budget for wigs alone is more than the budget for an entire normal strawhat production. We're using more than the usual skimpy number of summer players, too, about fifteen. We're praying it goes as well as we think and if it does-Broadway, here we come."

So saying, this handsome young lad dashed off to a barber shop to have his bluejowled chin hedge clipped. It gave me one final turn to realize that here was another memory of my youth permanently punctuated. If Foddie is shaving, and is a married man, playing in Leslie Howard's old plays, then indeed I must be getting along.

The Lexington Hotel has resumed one of its treasured promotional "gimmicks" which had to be foregone during the war: the sending to some 25,000 of its regular customers congratulatory birthday cards.

Now I realize this is a great hig corporate good wish sent all over the world by a tall. handsome pile of brick and steel, but I was one of the eager recipients of this little impersonal gesture before I moved to New York. and I loved it. In the years before I moved here from Buffalo there was a band playing at the Silver Grill of the Lexington, now the Hawaiian Room, the baton of which was waved by a gent named Al Kavelin. It was a smooth, silky orchestra whose plano was tinkled delightfully by a young fellow billed with the single name of "Carmen". This lad now is more celebrated as Carmen Cavallaro, Mr.

Big among the plano pounding bandleaders. The first time I attended the Silver Grill, I signed some sort of alip on the table, prof-ferred by a waiter.

DEMO BADGES PLEASE WOMEN

PHILADELPHIA, July 12. W -Anything for the ladies note: Official badges of women delegates to this year's Democratic National Convention are fashioned of light-weight aluminum. "Women have been complaining about the old, heavy badges for years," said Neals Roach, managing director of the convention. "They said they tore holes in their filmy clothes and dragged them down. So this year we managed to fix that up."

As for the men, the convention arrangers stuck to the "Heavy as lead," said Roach, "but the men seem to like them."

Whereas home runs and top-heavy scores predominated in the Class D organization a year ago, pitching - helped no little by the 'dead' ball - has now taken over.

Low scoring games are the rule rather than the exception. Compare the circuit's hitting with that of the WT-NM league. The eight clubs of the WT-NM loop had collected a total of 5990 hits in and would have had a shutout had it not been for a couple of bobbles of the WT-NM loop had collected a total of 5990 hits in and would have had a shutout had it not been for a couple of bobbles of the WT-NM loop had collected a total of 5990 hits in and would have had a shutout had it not been for a couple of bobbles of the WT-NM loop had collected a total of 5990 hits in and would have had a shutout had it not been for a couple of bobbles of the WT-NM loop had collected a total of 5990 hits in and would have had a shutout had it not been for a couple of bobbles of the WT-NM loop had collected a total of 5990 hits in and would have had a shutout had it not been for a couple of bobbles of the WT-NM loop had collected a total of 5990 hits in and would have had a shutout had it not been for a couple of bobbles of the WT-NM loop had collected a total of 5990 hits in and would have had a shutout had it not been for a couple of bobbles of the WT-NM loop had collected a total of 5990 hits in and would have had a shutout had it not been for a couple of bobbles of the WT-NM loop had collected a total of 5990 hits in and would have had a shutout had it not been for a couple of bobbles of the WT-NM loop had collected a total of 5990 hits in and would have had a shutout had well as total of 5990 hits in and would have had a shutout had well as total of 5990 hits in and would have had a shutout had well as total of 5990 hits in and would have had a shutout had well as total of 5990 hits in and would have had a shutout had well as total of 5990 hits in and would have had a shutout had well as total of 5990 hits in and would have had a shutout had well as total of 5990 hits in and would have had a shutout had well as total of 5990 hits in and would have had a shutout had well as total of 5990 hits in and would have had a shutout had well as total of 5990 hits in and 5990 hits

"DEALT A MESS OF

After Suffering Years From Gas Pains, Muscular Aches and Sleeplessness, Mississippian Finally Discovers Famous Herbal Medicine.

"For years I was dealt a mess of misery by nervous indigestion, but that was before I discovered Retonga," declares Mr. John L. Jones, respected resident of 909 Grand Avenue, Meridian, Miss.

"Food in my stomach was torture," continues Mr. Jones. "It didn't seem to digest properly and felt hard and heavy in my stomach. After-meal gas pains were so sharp that they nearly doubled me up. I was made constantly miserable by muscular aches and pains and I had to take purgatives several times a week. I hardly knew what a good night's sleep was, and I felt so jittery and fagged out most of the time that it was a real effort I'm concerned, there's nothing like to keep going. "What grand and glorious relief

Retonga."

Retonga is intended to relieve Retonga gave me! Mealtime is a distress due to insufficient flow of pleasure again and I eat heartily digestive juices in the stomach, with no worries about excess gas loss of appetite, borderline Vitaand pains. I sleep like a log and min B-1 deficiency, and constipahave lots of pep and vigor once tion. The active ingredients of more. My constipation has been Retonga are purely herbal, comrelieved, too, and thank goodness, bined with Vitamin B-1. You can those miserable aches in my mus-cles have quit nagging me. WASHES

MORE CLOTHES,

WASHINGTON, July 13. (P)-The South, as many songs and books suggest, seems to value leisure more highly than other sections.

A Census Bureau report showed today that since the war relatively fewer southerners have gone into the job market—as holders or hunt ers of jobs-than people elsewhere in the U.S.

It wasn't that way in pre-war 1940. Then, the South was second only to the Northeastern states in its share of job-minded people. The West was third, and the North Central states last.

The main reason, according to the report, is that Southern women came out of the war period less interested in jobs than women in other sections.

Back in 1940, out of each 1,000 persons over 14 years old in the South, 547 had jobs or wanted them exactly the national average. In 1947, it was 544 out of 1,000 for the South and 559 for the nation as a number of job-minded among each 1,000 adult men has been pretty much the same in every section of the country.
