Frustrate the young'un now and then and there's a better chance he'll grow up to be a well balanced and sensible person. So says a professor of the University of Southern California, and you can bet your bottom dollar he'll have a lot of "old-fashioned" agreement.

The time to stop juvenile delinquency is when you have control of the child, not after he grows up, the professor declares. Spank him now and then, deny him occasionally, teach him that not everything is free but some things must be worked for, even drudged for, and that failure is often the price we pay for success — and there's less chance he will grow up reaching for everything in sight and expecting to pay nothing. Such is the gist of the professor's advice.

It is both refreshing and reassuring. In these days of doctrinaire enthusiasms, particularly in the fields of economic and social relationship, it is heartening to discover that there are some within the ivied towers who have had contact with the realities of rearing kids and keeping bread on the table. For the past generation or so the idea has been widely accepted that a child should grow up naturally. Let the little savage find his own way and he will develop into what he best can be or do. In fairness to the devotees of that philosophy, he most often did. The penitentiaries, the schools of correction and the rising crime rate attest it. The cost of law enforcement has risen like the public debt, and, in fact, a large part of the reason for the public debt in its present astronomical proportions can be traced to the "gimme-gimme-get" idea which such a philosophy of pamper and pet has helped to generate.

Yes, it is reassuring. Our halls of learning are yet sources of some sound and traditional advice.

But the trouble is, Grandpa won't take it.

From the Post Card column of the Houston Post:

- 1) A dealer in antique coins claims he has a rare Roman coin dated 129 BC. Is he telling the truth?
- 2) Can the widow of a man who lived in Florida legally marry the man's brother?
- 3) An amoeba is put in a one-quart beaker. An amoeba doubles in size every minute. It goes into the beaker at 3 p. m. At 4 the beaker is full. At what time was it half full?

Let's wait on the answers, shall we?

Capacity Crowd In Prospect For CofC Dinner Tuesday

FIRST LINE—Looking closely at X-radiograph, London's Maureen Sloan studies Han Holbin's first lines used as guides in composing his painting of King Henry VIII.

The dinner will be held at the dining room of the First Methodist Church Tuesday evening, Feb. 26, and the womeo of the church who are to prepare the meal.

Ticket sales—they are priced at $1.50 each—are expected to be concluded Saturday and a report on the number of diners expected furnished the women who are to prepare the meal.

The dinner will recognize the 40th anniversary of the CofC and charter members of the organization will be given special recognition. Also honored will be the farm family chosen as the most outstanding in the Rising Star area during the past year and civic leaders who have been prominent in community activities during the year.

President James Rutherford, who will be installed for a second term at the dinner, will preside. Other officers also to be installed are Bill Dennard, vice-president; A. D. Jenkins, secretary; and Elgie Crisp, Robert Butler, George Steel, John Pruet and Cecil Shults, directors.

Oil and Gas Pooling Bill Offered By Gibbens

Representative Wayne Gibbens, second-term member of the House from Breckenridge has introduced one of the major oil and gas bills of the present legislative session — an oil and gas "pooling bill".

The Gibbens bill follows closely the pattern recommended by the Committee for Equitable Development of Texas Oil and Gas Resources (CEDOT), which has been in preparation for several months.

"This bill provides a fair and legal way to combine separate property interests into a proration unit, or drilling block, of the proper size in a given field," Gibbens said.

"It is needed to carry forward the principles stated in the Normanna and Port Acres decisions of the Texas Supreme Court. These may be summarized in a single sentence: Every Texas landowner is entitled to a chance to get his fair share of any oil or gas under his land — no more and no less.

"This pooling bill will eliminate, to a large extent, the many problems created by small and irregular-shaped tracts. These could be combined with other acreage to form a drilling block."

Gibbens said the bill will not change the present practices of voluntary pooling, if the separate owners can come to terms. If they cannot, the Railroad Commission would be authorized to set up a drilling block on fair and workable terms.

"This is not a 'unitization' bill," Gibbens stressed. "It has nothing whatever to do with fieldwide unitization, but applies only to the pooling of interests in a single drilling unit.

"The bill specifically says that its terms won't apply to any well completed before the effective date of the act.

"It also specifically states that there is no legislative intent to change in any way the anti-trust, common purchaser or marginal well laws now in force."

Gibbens, a 26-year-old Texas Tech graduate, said he had followed with great interest CEDOT's efforts to draft a fair pooling bill. He has worked with the staff and members of the Steering Committee in bringing the bill to its present form.

He noted that the directors of the West Central Texas Oil & Gas Association, meeting last Thursday, endorsed the pooling bill by an overwhelming vote. "This is my home area, where most of the oil and gas operations are carried on by independents," Gibbens said. "Traditionally, independents have been against a state pooling law. But we are fully aware now that a fair pooling bill would be helpful — and we think this bill will do the job."

Gibbens' district includes the once-great "boom-town" fields of Ranger, Desdemona, Pioneer, and Breckenridge. "Not enough was known about oil production practices in those days to avoid mistakes and great economic loss," Gibbens said. "Now we know better, and we must act accordingly."

650 Animals Are Entered In Stock Show At Eastland

A total of 650 animals have been entered in the annual Eastland County Livestock Show March 15 and 16, according to Ben McKinnis, general superintendent.

This will make it the largest livestock show ever held in the county, McKinnis said.

Visitors to the show will see 245 fat lambs, 162 fat pigs, and 46 fat steers in the Fat Animal Division. In the Breeding Animal Classes a total of 56 sheep, 47 goats, 53 hogs, 20 dairy cattle, and 14 beef cattle have been entered. Additional entries are expected in the Open Beef Cattle Division of the show.

A change in the rules and regulations of the show calls for all animals to be on the show grounds, properly entered and in place by 10:00 p. m. on March 14.

The show is sponsored by the Eastland County Livestock Raisers' Association. Ross Wilson of Gorman is president of the group, Waverly Massengale is vice-president, Glyn Gilliam, Eastland banker is Secretary, and C. M. McCain, Eastland rancher is the Treasurer.

Sifting of animals will begin at 8:00 a. m. on March 15. Judging of dairy cattle will begin at the same time.

Fat animals including pigs, lambs, and steers will be sold at the Eastland Auction Barn on Saturday night, March 16.

Stock Show facilities at the show grounds, one mile northwest of Eastland, continue to be improved, officials said. The large judging arena is being covered to allow judging of animals in any weather.

Adult breeders are encouraged to show their animals this year. Arrangements are being made to take care of all animals, it was explained. All adults compete for ribbons only. The 4H and FFA Club boys and girls receive cash premiums.

Eastland Chosen As Site for County Historical Museum

By MRS. LEE WHITE
The Eastland County Historical Survey committee met at 2 p. m. Friday afternoon in the Commissioner's court room at the Courthouse, in Eastland for the second organizational meeting. Mrs. Bernie McCrea of Cisco, presided and heard roll call from five members, Mrs. McCrea, Robert Bell, from Nimrod, Charles Freyschlag, of Eastland, Mrs. George Blackwell, of Gorman and Mrs. Lee White, of Rising Star. Several other visitors were present.

The minutes of the previous meeting was read and approved. The chairman opened the discussion on the most likely site for a museum. After some deliberation, the group was unanimous in placing the site at Eastland, the county seat, which already has "Old Rip" as a tourist's attraction. Upon general agreement of the committee, Mrs. McCrea consented to contact the county commissioners and ask for permission and space to set up cases in the foyer of the court house for exhibits until a permanent building is secured to house historical items. A letter from Governor John Connally was read, commending the committee's organizing.

Other items under discussion were arranging time and place for future meetings of the committee, the number of committee members for better coordination and carrying out a program of work, and a charter and by-laws for the organization. Charles Freyschlag, vice-chairman, moved that the secretary write John Ben Shephard for a sample copy of a charter and by-laws to be used in aiding the Eastland County committee in its organizational structure. A copy of agreement to mark Civil War Veterans graves was in the hands of the chairman for consideration and the committee members present were unanimous to go on record as favoring the marking of these graves, if any are in Eastland county. Robert Bell put this in form of a motion and it carried.

Further discussion by the group concerned publicizing the proposed museum and historical sites in the county by the aid of maps, brochures and other informational material that could be made available for tourists and sight-seers.

Plans for funds for the committees functioning as a group in setting up and carrying on the survey work was also a discussion item on the afternoon agenda. But it takes time to work out details on so important projects. Each member is urged to be present at the next Friday March 8, at 2 p. m. in the Commissioner's Court Room in Eastland.

Four candidates had filed at the City Secretary's office Monday.

Mayor Walter Smith is a candidate for re-election, and Elgie Crisp, Floyd Joyce and Durwood Fussell have filed for the council. Mr. Crisp is one of three present members whose terms are expiring and is a candidate for a second term. Charlie Carroll and Glenn Henry are the other two members who will complete two-year terms on the council this spring.

Candidates have until March 2 to file at the City office. Judge of the election will be G. E. McDonald.

Construction of Home for Elderly Here Being Pushed

After a delay due to bad weather, construction on the Golden Heritage home for elderly citizens was well under way this week.

Workmen are laying the tile walls at a rapid rate. The new home is being located on a lot out of the northeast corner of the city park which the City of Rising Star made available for the site. The walls will be faced with brick and the construction will conform to rigid State requirements for such institutions.

Being built by a Dallas corporation which is rapidly expanding its investments in such homes in this section, the Rising Star institution will accommodate 30 tenants and employ a staff of 25, according to the builders. Insofar as possible local labor is being used and material obtained from local suppliers.

It's the Law in Texas

BUILDING YOUR HOME

When you are ready to build, you will find that the law helps in many ways to make your home enjoyable and secure.

Have you decided on the type house you want and the amount you want to spend? If so, then let's go into details!

1. Your lot: Junior's school or your church may be nearby, but find out —

(a) Whether they are planning to run a highway through the area or nearby, or make any improvement for which you can be assessed.

(b) What "Covenants" or restrictions run with the land? To protect residents, the plats or basic deeds of some neighborhoods call on you to build a certain size or type of house. Do you want to and can you afford to?

(c) Easements. Either you or your neighbors may need to run pipes, or string wires over each other's land or to share a driveway. Have the abstract checked carefully to disclose any easements.

2. Zoning Ordinances For your protection the local government frequently zones some areas, for example, for single houses only, for multiple dwellings; for retail stores, for manufacturing, etc.

Unless the local governing body changes its zoning ordinance, no filling station, for instance, can go up next to you in a residential area. Neither could you turn your home into a store. In any case, you should find out what your neighborhood zoning rules are.

3. Building Codes: Be certain the plans and construction will meet the requirements of the local building code as to size, location and structure. Municipal ordinances usually impose strict standards for the building, the plumbing and the electrical wiring. In many cases only licensed building tradesmen are permitted to make the installations.

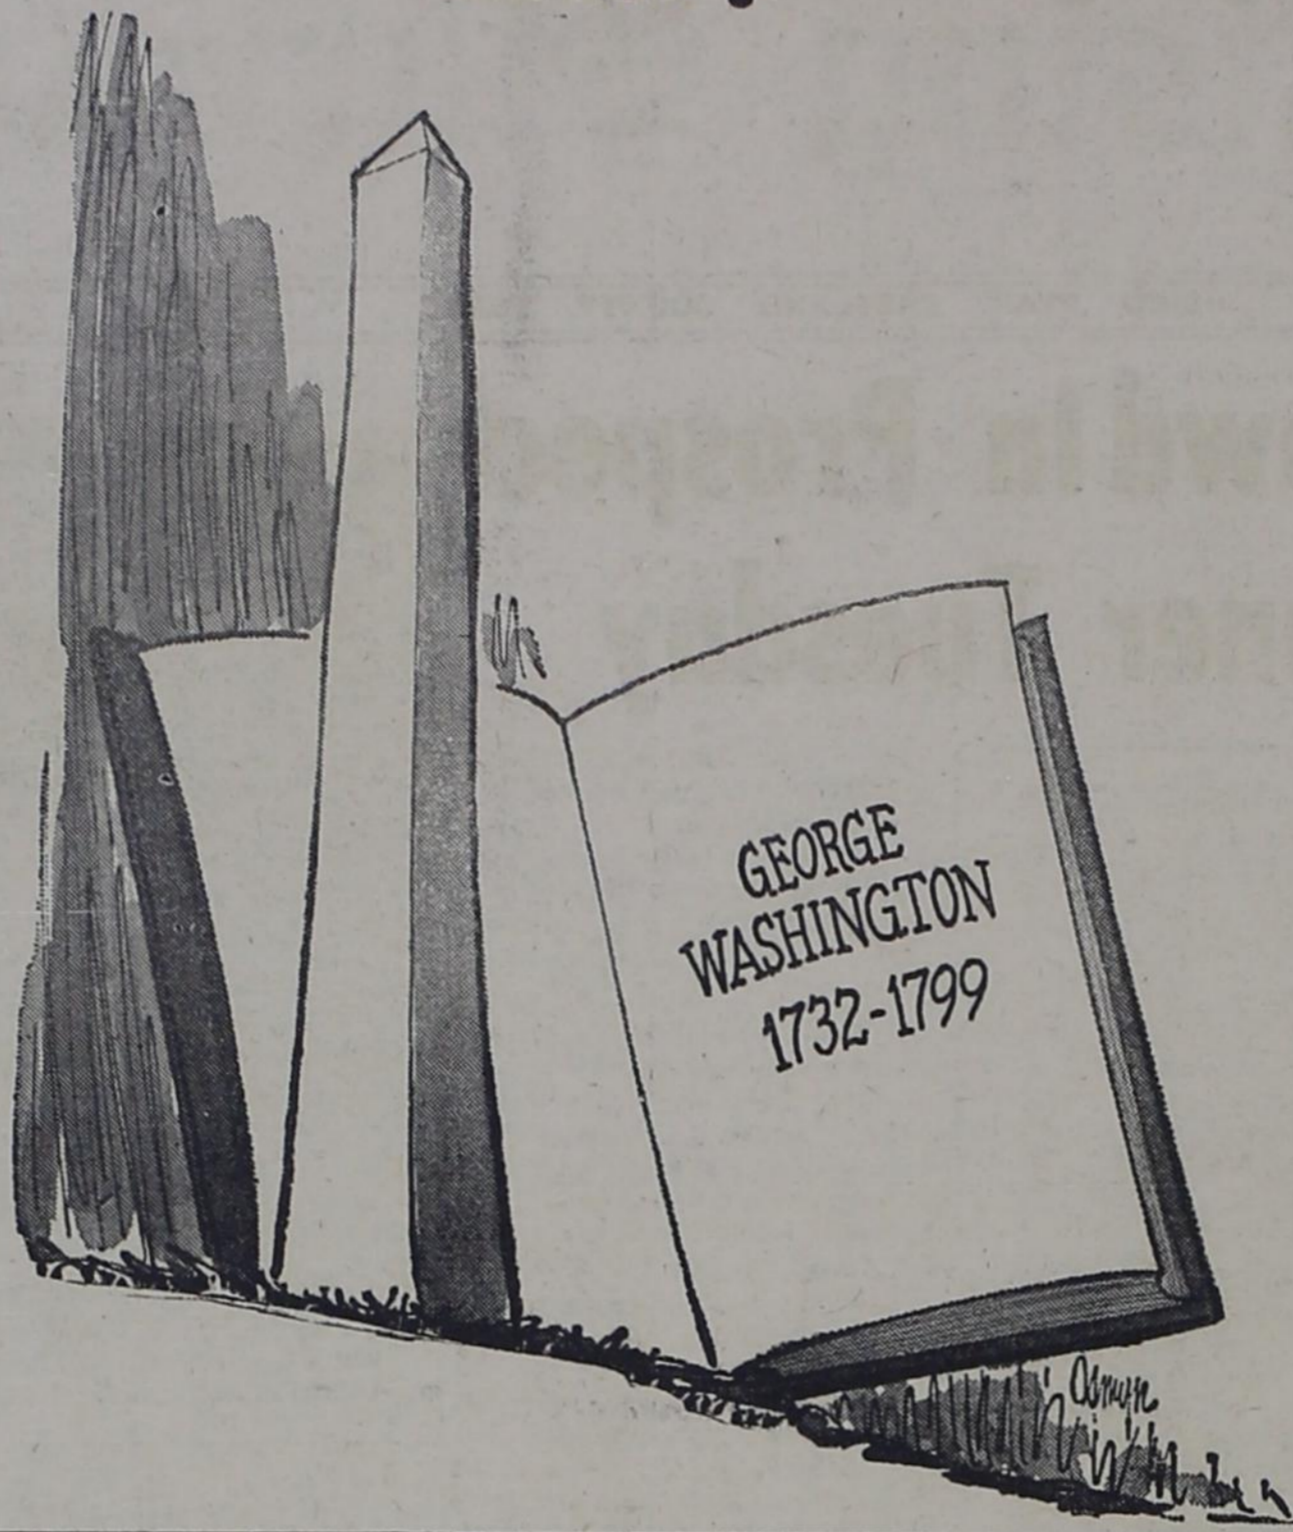

4. Financing; Financing contracts protect both you and the lender. Unless you pay cash, you will use credit to pay for your house, most likely a deed of trust or a land contract. Your installments often include principal, interest, insurance and taxes. Under a land contract the lender holds title to your house until you pay for it. If you fall behind, the holder can take the house back. With a deed of trust. The lender has a lien which he can foreclose if you default. You may get some of your money back on the principal; but you may also have to make up any loss the lender makes in re-sealing the house. Well worked-out contracts can help make your dream house come true. A construction contract or a so-called "earnest-money" agreement or receipt is no job for an amateur. Too many legal details are involved. Your lawyer is trained by education and experience to protect your best interests in contracting and closing real estate deals.

You know what you want. You should be careful to get what you want through careful planning and a properly prepared and executed contract.

Mention the word "sale" and shoppers react in various ways. Efficient shoppers often buy at sales. Retail stores, especially department stores, feature a number of sales annually in an effort to increase sales volume. These sales are of various types. They may be special purchase sales, clearance, annual, anniversary, seasonal and stimulative.

When and why are the various sales held?

Clearance sales are held to move fashion merchandise, goods that are being discontinued, or merchandise that has been left over from the previous season. These sales offer savings ranging from 25 to 50 percent.

Special purchase sales may be either pre-season or post-season, sales of goods which a store has bought at special or reduced prices in the wholesale market. They normally offer savings of 15 to 20 percent.

Annual sale may also be called manager's sales. They offer goods from regular stock at reduced prices for a short period of time. While this type sale offers the smallest reductions—usually 10 or 5 percent — they are considered by store people to be the most reliable sales.

Anniversary sales commemorate the founding of the store, and may occur at any point during the selling season. Their aim is to increase sales by offering a large variety of goods at special prices.

Seasonal sales are regularly repeated each year. August and January coat sales are examples of this type sale which offer savings to the consumer.

Stimulative sales are intended to boost selling during dull periods, and are found under various names including back-to-school sales, Mother's Day sales, etc.

Sales terms often differ from those used to describe regularly stocked merchandise. "Irregulars" and "seconds" are terms used to identify merchandise that falls below standard specifications. If you shop carefully, these may be good buys. Examine items before buying, however.

Consider these factors when you shop at a clothing sale: Do you need the item? Does it meet your needs? Is the color suitable and becoming? Does it fit to your satisfaction? What alterations, if any, will be needed? If soiled, can it be cleaned? If damaged, can it be repaired successfully? Does it fit into your wardrobe? Will you have to purchase new accessories to complete the outfit?

You will want to consider fiber content when you purchase goods on sale. Check information about performance. What special finishes have been applied, is the shrinkage control adequate what about colorfastness and what about the type and amount of care required? You also will need to check adequacy of size width of seams and hems stitching fastenings and trims.

such as the heart, blood vessels, lungs, mouth, nose, ears, eyes, throat, abdomen, rectum, sex organs and breasts.

The blood urine, uterine cells, or other body fluids may also be examined or tested. X-rays of the chest and other parts of the body and a proctoscopic examination (visual inspection of the lining of the rectum and lower bowel with a lighted tube) may also be performed by the physician.

A proctoscopic examination has increased in importance because frequently cancer of the colon and rectum can be discovered in this way.

If a physician suspects cancer, a biopsy may be performed and if possible a sample of the suspect tissue sent for microscopic examination by a pathologist.

Cellular tissue examination frequently establishes the diagnosis of cancer.

The individual is the key to the prompt diagnosis of cancer. For only if a person presents suspicion of cancer be made.

With regular physical check-ups the "silent" disease can be detected. (A weekly feature from Public Health Education, Texas State Department of Health.)

FRAGILE CASTLE—There isn't a single nail in this dwelling. Using some 5,000 pieces of scrap lumber from a nearby mill, these four Watsonville, Calif., boys erected a fragile wooden castle. It has three rooms so far, but there will be more.

About Your Health

Cancer is often spoken of as one of the "silent" diseases. This is because in many cases cancer develops without producing any symptom. Pain, which is most often thought of as accompanying diseases is not generally present until cancer is far advanced.

Most cancers can be treated satisfactorily if detected in the early stages. The difficulty in cancer control, then, lies in early detection of the disease.

Only a physician can tell if cancer is present. Any suspicious symptom should be examined by the family physician.

But often, by the time symptoms of cancer show up, it is too late for cure. Treatment of advanced cancer is difficult.

Good insurance against this silent growth is a regular, at least yearly, physician examination.

All physician's offices should be a cancer protection center. The family doctor is the front line against cancer. For a physical check-up, whether cancer is suspected or not, the personal physician is the logical person to see.

If cancer is suspected, the family doctor may refer his patient to a specialist, if necessary.

A top-to-toe physical examination will include inspection of the body surfaces, followed by examination of various organs

WHAT IS FREEDOM?

Every day many people attempt to escape from Communist countries all over the world in search for freedom. In their desperate search for liberty, they place their lives in the utmost danger, but to them it does not matter, for without this force besides just being free from restraint, freedom is power — power to do, think, and say as one chooses. Freedom is independence — independence of others and the ability to make it on our own. Freedom is openness — openness of action, of thought, of mind.

The United States was founded on the principles of freedom. One of the principles is that we are to have certain rights; among these are the rights of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. As you can see, one of these is the right of liberty, which means the same as freedom. Liberty is an essential element in our government; the Statue of Liberty is a symbol of our freedom. The Liberty Bell in Independence Hall, Philadelphia is another emblem of freedom in America; it represents the struggle we went through before gaining our independence, our liberty, our freedom.

Although our government was founded on the principle of freedom, it is an ordered government and these freedoms are reasonably restricted. For example, our freedom of press does not give us the right to use the press to endanger the lives of others; our freedom of speech does not put a stamp of approval on gossiping and lying; and the right to keep arms does not grant the right to kill. In a democracy freedom is more than just lack of restraint; it is controlled liberty — liberty with regard for others.

Now for the question, what is freedom? For Americans it is very hard to define fully because it is our whole life; without it, we would be lost and confused. Freedom, however, is the price of the lives of many; to many others it is a thing longed for and hoped for. To us, freedom is a possession — one we must treasure, fight for, and keep.

NOT FINISHED, JUST BEGUN

Hi there,

Here we are almost in the second six weeks of this semester — this week being six weeks' test week. It will surely be a relief to relax a while and not study for tests all the time. Relax? What am I talking about? We Civics' students can no longer gloat over the American History students because we, too, have to write a term theme; otherwise, studies are about the same.

Basketball season is over, and at this time, we would like to recognize the Seniors that played for the Cats' Girls' team — Cynthia Brown; Boys' team: Charles Wade, Kenneth Nunnally, Tommy Alford, and Mike Fisher. The Senior Class is certainly proud of the job they did.

Tennis, volleyball, and track are now the foremost sports in everyone's mind. Several Seniors are trying for participation in these different fields.

St. Valentine may have forgotten a box of candy for Mary, but he brought her something better, right Mary?!

Welcome back to the Senior Class, Darwin.

That's it for this time.

—Bye for now,
Katy

UPWARD AND ONWARD

With the Senior Play over, we Juniors are beginning to think about ours, which will be very soon. We have the cast complete and will start our practices about the time you are reading this.

John Pruet won the box of Valentine candy; congratulations to him and thanks to those who were not so lucky.

Since we have been having six weeks' tests, everyone has really had a week of study. Everytime we turn around, we are finishing another six weeks' period; that always means typing units "in" or else — since Mr. Hill is not being so lenient. Randy goes around choking girls with a rayon scarf instead of a silk one; when he isn't doing that, he's tying them up in knots! (the scarf!)

Roger, do you or don't you capitalize the days of the week? L. P., C. M., and H. S. what's this "Dear Ole' Dad" business; I don't know about the rest of you, but I'd die if the person concerned here found out.

By the way, Cherry has a new way of wringing a chicken's neck, grabs it by the feet and wrings. No one can say this girl isn't "Right-Bright!"

Here's something to think about that I read in a paper: "If George Washington was so honest, why close the banks?" Harriet

LIVE AND EARN

The freshmen are sitting and waiting rather impatiently for the results of our six weeks' tests.

The Algebra students are continuing the study of factoring before taking up another chapter. In Biology I, we are studying in the "Life Cycle of Man"; in General Math, we are studying more advanced Algebra problems. The Ag. I boys are studying land judging and livestock. The Home Ec. girls are making progress in their sewing; but it will be a while before they are through. The Drivers' Ed. students will be starting on their driving — if they pass their tests.

Two very famous dates happened last week, right, Grandma? The 13th and 15th. Sandy, was sickness the cause of your being absent last Monday?

Sharrie, I hear rumors about

March of Dimes Makes Gains in Birth Defects, Arthritis

People say everyone talks about the weather but no one does anything about it.

Until just recently, a similar observation could have been made about birth defects. Not only had no one done anything much about the problem but, in truth, people have always been reluctant or afraid even to talk about the subject.

The tragedy of this affliction has beset mankind since the dawn of recorded history. Yet no organized attack on birth defects was launched until 1958 when The National Foundation-March of Dimes entered this medical area.

The reason for this historic decision was that birth defects constitute the world's greatest unmet childhood medical problem today. Meeting the problem, moreover, entailed fund raising on the same multimillion scale as was required by the long, costly but successful fight of the same health organization against polio.

Marks 25th Year

The March of Dimes, now marking its 25th anniversary, last year appropriated more than $4,000,000 for research in birth defects, arthritis — another baffling disease which is the nation's No. 1 crippling and on certain aspects of polio and other virus diseases. On birth defects research alone, the March of Dimes approved grants totalling $1,200,000, with about another $800,000 earmarked for regional treatment centers. Directly financed by March of Dimes chapters, these "grass roots" centers today number 31 and are located across the nation.

The need of funds for these March of Dimes-financed treatment centers, particularly in the area of birth defects, is urgent. In the 50 states, the full extent of the problem was not appreciated until March of Dimes medical advisers reported that about 250,000 infants were born yearly in this country with significant birth defects — almost 700 a day, or one every other minute.

Birth defects cause at least 21,000 deaths each year. The chief requirements in the battle to save these lives in the future, and to lessen the damages that birth defects as well as arthritis inflict, are trained manpower, equipment and time — and of course, the substantial funds that these demand.

Research into the physical calamities that birth defects represent costs stupendous sums. The cause of a type of disaster that has bewildered mankind for uncounted centuries is unlikely to be explained overnight at bargain-sale prices, or its prevention quickly found.

In the areas of birth defects, arthritis and virus diseases, scientists supported by the March of Dimes were responsible for important research advances during 1962. For example, in birth defects:

- Certain white blood cells in the mother were found to enter the infant's blood stream before birth. The possibility exists that such cells may harm the baby later in life. This was reported by Drs. William F. Creger and Rejendra C. Desai of Stanford University.

Nucleic Acid and Protein

- Belief that the hereditary material called nucleic acid carries the blueprint for the production of protein was considerably strengthened. (Protein is the basic stuff of living material.) This was reported by Dr. Norton Zinder of the Rockefeller Institute.
- Experiments with pregnant guinea pigs established that certain hormones (such as hydrocortisone) can provoke birth defects in offspring. This was demonstrated by Dr. Richard M. Hoar of the University of Cincinnati.
- Further evidence on hormones, obtained by dipping unhatched eggs in a hormone solution, led Dr. Gregory Pincus of the Worcester Foundation for Experimental Biology to conclude that the problem of what causes some infants to be born with mixed-up sex characteristics may be a matter of hormones rather than heredity alone.
- In arthritis:
- Key evidence was uncovered by Dr. Robert A. Good at the University of Minnesota that the mysterious thymus gland, situated behind the breastbone, is responsible for the functioning of the body's immunity defense mechanism. Abnormal working of the immunity mechanism is believed involved in rheumatoid arthritis.
- The discovery that there is a similar ground plan of chemicals in the connective tissue of many animals ranging from the horseshoe crab to man was reported during the year by Dr. Albert Dorfman and his associates at the University of Chicago. This means that research in the connective tissue of animals can be related close to connective tissue diseases in man, such as arthritis.

In virus diseases:

- Studies of a tumor-causing virus disclosed how it changes normal cells, in tissue culture, to cancer cells. This significant finding was reported by Dr. Renato Dulbecco of California Institute of Technology.

The ultimate significance of these and numerous other March of Dimes-financed research studies may not be fully apparent now. But these findings are valuable clues to future progress. If no one does anything about the weather, at least something important is being done today about diseases that cripple children.

your peach lipstick; it has been making red-hot news among several "fish" this week; I keep hearing, "Does he like second-hand peach lipstick?"

Gene, I hear that you are also glad that the snow has disappeared.

Jessie has been calling Linda Bond some names.

Brenda — why did you ask Jerry to the Sweetheart Banquet?

Until next week — Marcia

P.S. What about that party last Friday afternoon at a certain home — with certain Fish — and certain refreshments? I did not even rate an invitation??

KNOWLEDGE COMES, BUT WISDOM LINGERS

This week finds us in the midst of six weeks' exams. They always seem to create a bit of alarm; some even consider them to be burdens.

Our boys have ended basketball season and are on their way to what we hope is a very successful track season. The girls are beginning volleyball and are hoping for a district title.

The biology and science students are making plans and working on term research papers. We are trying for the first time to use footnotes correctly.

We all certainly enjoyed the snow last week; it was really pretty, but a little cold and wet. James, it is perfectly all right to play in the snow, but do you think snowballs and English grammar mix? (Also, you're a bad shot!)

Our stage band is going to Brownwood this week-end to participate in the festival being held there. Of course, we plan to wear our new band jackets, which everyone is proud of.

Some of our Sophomore boys are doing surprising things these days — L. W. has acquired two new friends — Sam and Betty. M. W. is becoming an old man fast and is trying to spend all of his retirement money.

R. R. is reaching manhood fast! J. W. believes in scaring the girls.

J. G. — It's my time to grin now — I know, "Shoot a mile!" Of course we can't forget the girls:

J. G. — It's too bad when some people get on your nerves!

S. S. — Was it an argument or a misunderstanding?

S. R. — Why are you so anxiously awaiting you-know-what?

One last thought that I would like to pass on is between D.F. and me. We have a secret today, don't we?

Charlene

TOWARD NEW HORIZONS

Now that our six-weeks' tests are over, we are back to the rounds again.

The Juniors are working on an FHA program for the members, to be held in the near future. A play, "Susan Grows U," will be presented.

The Sophomores will be learning to make cakes by the conventional method. Two groups made German chocolate cakes and the other made a pound cake.

The "Fish" are sewing up a storm; at least, we're doing something, we think. After four weeks of sewing, we have Mrs.

Nowlin completely mixed up. We have learned to operate the sewing machine too, except for Lee Anna, who needs more patience with one of them! !

Until next week, Becky visited with the chapter members and gave a short talk. We enjoyed seeing Jerry and are very glad that he came by. In Ag class we are studying electrical engineering. It is complicated work and sometimes the results are shocking!

How to speak out for freedom today

Free men have never gone in much for silence. Even before the first thirteen States became United States, men were speaking for freedom loud and clear.

Today Americans speak out for freedom many ways—in Congress, in local government, in neighborhood activities. Some speak out for freedom in other languages, in other lands. And millions of Americans speak out for freedom every time they buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

Every Savings Bond you buy is an investment in freedom. While you're saving money for your own family's future, you're helping Uncle Sam tend to the business of keeping men free today.

Perhaps you don't speak out for freedom in the same tone of voice when you buy a Bond as Patrick Henry did in his famous speech. But you speak every bit as surely. And every bit as proudly.

Why not speak out for freedom now? Buy Bonds at the bank or on the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

Keep freedom in your future with U.S. SAVINGS BONDS

Cards of Thanks

CARD OF THANKS

Words are inadequate to express our gratitude to all who helped in any way to lighten our sorrow in the loss of our loved one, Em. We are grateful for the visits during his illness, for the cards, letters, food, flowers and words of sympathy after his death. We thank the good people at Andrews, those who offered blood, the men who sat with him, the nurses, and our local Dr. Schmitt for his good care here. God bless all of you.
Mrs. Ernest Glover and Family.

CARD OF THANKS

The following is submitted in memory of Mrs. Louisa Jane White Ware, who passed away Feb. 12, 1963. Composed by Mrs. Lee White, Rising Star, Texas.
GONE — A LOVELY ROSE

You are gone, our precious loved one,
To a home so far away;
But your memory still lingers
Every night and every day.
How we miss your sweet caresses
Placed there by your gentle hands;
That we know we'll meet you
In that bright, sweet Gloryland.
We've shared many earthly pleasures
With you on this earth below;
And it made our sad hearts tremble
When the Lord called you to go.
As a rose, he took you from us,
Placed you in His garden of love,
There to bloom until we meet you
In that Heavenly home above.

With gratitude to all our friends and neighbors for their sympathy and kindness.
Mr. and Mrs. Lee White.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to express our thanks to the many people of this vicinity for their help with our crops last fall, the many gifts, cards and letters sent us, and most especially their prayers during our stay in the Hendricks Memorial Hospital, Abilene. Word cannot express how much we appreciate the people and every kindness shown us. May God richly bless each of you.
Mr. and Mrs. Donald Stover and Family.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my appreciation to Dr. and Mrs. Schmitt, Dr. and Mrs. Whiteside and all the nurses for being so kind to me during my stay in the hospital. Many thanks to all who visited me and sent those beautiful flowers, gifts and cards. It is truly appreciated. May God bless each and everyone.

DO RA MI

The stage band is still in the spotlight and we are preparing for our trip to Brownwood. We will play in their "Festival" and will receive ratings along with the other class A, AA, and B schools.
The band students are strutting around wearing their new band jackets. Everyone is very proud of them.

GIRLS' SPORTS

This is my first week to be writing the girls' sports news because Jan Shultz (our previous sports writer) has moved to Abilene. I hope that I can fulfill the job as successfully as she has.

Last week our girls had two ball games, one on Tuesday night with Brooksmith and another one on Friday night with May. I think we should all recognize Sharon Lewis, a new member of the team, who played a good game last Tuesday night; we are sure that she is going to be a good ball player.

It seems as if some girls are anxious to order their basketball jackets! The girls have worked very hard and, truly, deserve these jackets. To receive a jacket, a girl has to play between 36 and 40 quarters; good luck girls!

Volleyball will be beginning this week. The team will be chosen by the coach, Supt. Sam Jones. We should have a good season and we will be backing the girls all the way.

Until next week...
Linda B.

THE IDEAL LEADER

An ideal leader is necessary in any type of relation if it is to be carried on in a successful way. The leader is an essential part; just as essential as are good followers, for a leader is lost with no one to carry out his plans and ideas.

Dependability is a necessary asset to becoming a good leader. A good leader must learn to accept responsibilities, to cooperate when working with others, and to develop foresight. He must plan ahead for solutions to problems that may arise. The success of his group largely depends on the greatness of his leadership qualities.

A leader can set the pattern for work; other individuals must help in carrying out his plans. Good followers are just as important as good leaders; although most of the credit is given to the leaders.

A responsible leader has the ability to consider facts and make wise decisions. He learns to evade unpleasant and unreasonable situations; he makes choices that benefit all.

An ideal leader is one that works to bring out the strong points in each of his followers. He thinks, not of the fame he is earning for himself, but how he can help his associates.

Many people tend to criticize various leaders; they do not realize the importance of good leaders; instead, why not try to decide what you can do to help make an "ideal leader"?

This is my property . . .
... and I can prove it" was the announcement displayed on a signboard placed in front of a farm home which all motorists could see as they passed that way. As we read the words we wondered why it was necessary to have such a notice anyway. If this man really owned the place and could prove it, he had a good title, maybe a title policy, both based on an abstract. No other proof or notice would be necessary.

ELECTRIC HEATER

CLEAN
... no ashes, no soot, no smoke, no odor... furniture, drapes, walls stay clean longer. Saves redecorating costs.

SAFE - HEALTHFUL
... flameless and fumeless... as safe as the light you read by. Takes no oxygen from the air... best for sufferers of hay fever, asthma, allergies. Eliminates "hot spots" and cold drafts.

INDIVIDUAL ROOM TEMPERATURE
With a portable electric heater in each room you can heat the rooms where heat is needed and not waste heat in the rooms not being used.

CAREFREE
... long life... few or no moving parts... nothing to break down or wear out.

SILENT
As silent as a kitten — reflector type heaters have no moving parts.

CONVENIENT - FAST
INSTANT HEAT at the flip of a switch or the turn of a dial. No delay "while the stove heats up."
