Local Business Held Barbecue Dinner

Pictured above are some of the crowd of over one hundred persons who attended the open house and appreciation barbecue at All Star Pump and Supply November 11.

All Star Pump and Supply Co. on S. Main Street in Rising Star held open house and gave a barbecue lun-Friday, cheon November 11. More than 100 persons stopped by to enjoy the barbecue.

The oil field supply house has been in business four months in Rising Star and the owner Lowell Martin and manager C.E. Morris wanted to let everyone know how much they appreciate the reception they've had from the Rising Star area people. Both Martin and Morris are pleased with the steady increase in business during the past months.

Employees in the store are Darrin White and Carolyn Moore.

C. E. Morris, manager of All Star Pump and Supply, checked the meat on the barbecue grill during the open house last Friday.

City Tax Rebate

Rising Star received its city sales tax rabate check for October a full week early, because many taxpayers paid by the 20th of last month instead of at the end of the month.

According to State Comptroller Bob Bullock, all taxpayers will be required to pay by the 20th of each month starting in November.

The earlier deadline set by the Legislature will bring in $500 million more for the current state budget without a tax increase.

Rising Star received $3,989.77, up by $322.31 from last year's October payment. Payments for the year to date are down by 1.92 percent from last

Lifting Up Jesus

Gregg Knight

A wife described an argument with her husband by observing, "There are three sides to this issue - my side, his side and the truth." Her comment could easily be applied to most disputes, expecially religious disputes.

Some people think truth is so evasive that human minds can't grasp it. They have not read John 8:32 which affirms, "...you will know the truth and the truth shall make you free." Common sense will bring one to realize "I can understand it."

Because we possess error-prone minds, we can't conclude that we have correctly apprehended truth in all its details. There will always be something to learn as we read the Bible. To say "Our side is always right" would make us guilty of blatant arrogance.

This is not to suggest that we adopt a spirit of compromise or that we cop out of every controversy by refusing to take a stand. 'Good ole wishy washy Charlie Brown" is certainly not the Christian's role model. It's still valid to cite book, chapter and verse provided you play fair with the context.

We need to continue to make bold affirma-tions of our faith and to support those affirmations with the Word, but we must also remember that the true Christian never stops studying the Word. He is always open to new things he's never seen before in the Bible. Otherwise, he will be deluded into thinking, "My side and the truth are always one and the same" when he may be sinking! Listen to Paul's warning in I Corin-10:12, thians "Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall." Where do you stand?

Commentary

by Myrtle Owen

The Tears of All Mankind: John's tears represent the tears of all God's people throughout the centuries. They're the tears of Adam and Eve as they view the still form of their dead son, Abel, and sense the awful consequence of their disobedience. They are the tears of the children of Israel in bondage as they cried to God for deliverance from their affliction and slavery. They're the sobs and tears wrung from the heart and soul of God's people as they have stood beside the graves of loved ones and experienced the indescribable heartaches and disappointments of life.

Such is the curse that sin has laid upon God's beautiful creation. No wonder John wept so fervently. If no redeemer could be found to remove the curse, it meant that God's creation was forever consigned to remain in the hands of Satan.

In Revelation 5:5,6

we're introduced to the ONE who is the fulfillment of these predictions: Jesus of Nazareth, from the tribe of Judah and the family of David. Curiously, he's described here by two terms that seem to be contradictory: He's called both a "lion" and a "lamb." The first time Christ came a Savior, offering pardon and cleansing from sin and its consequences; when He comes the second time. He will wield a rod of iron as the Judge of all men. When the world sees Jesus as John saw Him in Revelation 1:10-20, then the ones that mocked Him will be struck dumb.

Continued comments on Christ's Sermon on the Mount: The Beatitudes. Christ began His sermon with blessings. He came into the world to bless. Acts 3:26. In each of the Beatitudes Christ states who is blessed and the reward for deserving the blessing. several His statements of blessings and rewards, Christ is teaching:

First, it is not necessarily the rich, the pleasure seekers, the powerful, who are blessed. He sets forth a new hypothesis, which, to some, may be a paradox, but a rule by which all will be judged.

Second, to remove discouragement from the weak and the poor who receive the gospel. Third, the Beatitudes are designed to invite souls to Christ; preparing His listeners for what is to follow in the sermon.

Fourth, designed to sum up the articles of agreement between God and Mankind. To let us know what God expects of us and in turn what we may expect of Him.

The way to happiness is here opened. It is intimated how we can receive both the grace required and the glory promised. Now who is happy (blessed)?

Blessed are the poor in spirit... To be contentedly poor, if for any reason we are poor in worldly goods; to be humble; to value and consider others; to trust not in our own strength and righteousness... for theirs is the kingdom of Heaven.

The lesson we get: Blessings of the abundant life assured for the contentedly poor as well as for those who have much to do with. Now the news for season.

The cold front that swept into Eastland County last week reminded us that winter is not far away. It's a time when fruit tree care is forgotten or neglected, but it's a critical time for controlling many peach and plum tree diseases to insure a good crop next year.

With the arrival of fall and winter, there's often a tendency to forget our peach and plum trees that served us so well last summer.

Applying a copper fungicide now can stop or reduce three of the six diseases that attack peach and plum trees in Texas. These are peach leaf curl, bacterial leaf spot and bacterial canker.

Puckered and distorted peach tree leaves that were either bright red or light green in diseased areas last spring were due to peach leaf curl fungus. The only time to effectively control this disease is now with a copper containing fungicide such as Kocide 101. Timing of the fall spray is critical for effective control and for avoiding tree damage. Copper is a metal and may cause defoliation. but leaves are falling anyway at this time.

Spray when about 70 percent of the leaves have fallen from the tree. Spraying too early will cause leaf shed or cause the spray to be ineffective later.

Bacterial leaf spot and bacterial canker can be partially controlled by fall spraying with a copper fungicide. But again it's important to spray at the right time to prevent foliage burn.

Bacterial leaf spot affects both fruit and foliage. The infection causes fruit to crack and leaves develop angular spots which drop out. Bacterial canker will kill trees slowly. Infected trees will have gum or wax forming on the trunk and main limbs.

The fall spray in Eastland County is most often applied from November 12 to December 1. Application time will vary with the season so you should check your fruit trees closely. Fall

While it's best to get firewood from areas not having oak wilt, it's not always possible to know the source. So we recommend stacking firewood away from oak trees and covering the stack with clear plastic, sealed around the edges. This will prevent the emergence of wood-boring insects which can spread the disease.

It is also best to use firewood during the current winter season. Holding firewood over through a warm season allows the emergence of insects that carry diseasecausing spores.

John Deere discounts these new tillage tools by 5 to 10 percent and waives finance > charge to March 1, 1984

John Deere announces a big dollar-saving offer on major tillage tools. Depending on the tillage tool you buy (see the chart), your dealer will deduct 5 or 10 percent from the latest base machine price. For example, the discount on an 181/2-foot 235 Disk would save you more than $1,100.

On any of these you can save even more by financing with John Deere. Finance charge will be waived to March 1, 1984, for qualified buyers.*
