Mrs. W. W. Faulkenberry suggests that people be on the alert for copperheads. She killed a big fat one in her yard, its coloring almost indistinguishable from the ground.

The reptiles are crawling about in this extremely hot weather, looking for cool spots under old boards, in dense weeds, and other places where they may be stumbled upon by the unwary with serious, perhaps tragic results.

As you know, a copperhead belongs to that breed of living things that strikes first, and asks no questions afterward. Almost everyone with common sense has more respect for a rattlesnake, mean as a rattler is, than for a dastardly, yellow-bellied copperhead. At least the rattler gives you a chance. If you don't use it, some of the fault is yours.

A tip of the hat to the Kizes Telephone boys for cutting the bois d'arc bush which partially blocked the small bridge on South Miller back of the Church of Christ and the Kizer Telephone exchange. A clear view of the street, and particularly of the intersection of South Miller and Miller improves the safety factor by a wide percentage.

Mrs. Dorothy Shook and Mrs. Hazel Brown have returned from a trip to Lubbock, Amarillo, Fort Worth and other points in the Texas Panhandle last week. They attended commencement exercises at Texas Tech where Posey Brown son of Mrs. Hazel Brown, received his degree, and also visited Boys Ranch at Old Tascosa near Amarillo, where Cal Farley, Amarillo civic leader, her developed a remarkable western institution for the rehabilitation of wayward boys.

The ranch was founded in 1927 with the old Tascosa courthouse as its dormitory.

From the modest beginning the ranch has grown into a 1400-acre institution with 34 buildings of all types, its own bank and post office, and a 12-grade, fully affiliated public school.

Nearly 1,300 boys from all parts of the nation can look back upon the ranch as "home." It is designed to provide for a total of 500 boys.

A 14-trade vocational program is provided for training which the boys can use when they leave the ranch. A non-denominational religious program is provided. There is a modern chapel and religious education building, a dining room, dormitories, and all utilities.

All boys are responsible for certain chores. Horses are available for the boys to ride and they care for their own herds of milk cows.

Among the projects carried out by the boys was the restoration of "Boot Hill" cemetery for 27 men killed in gunfights flower. The boys also did most when the town of Tascosa was in of the construction work on the new buildings.

Several swimming pools, including an indoor pool for use in winter, are very popular with the youngsters.

The boys live family style, taking their meals together in the dining hall that seats 750 people, and they live in modern "homes" with staff couples and their children.

The ranch is supported solely by contributions and is not affiliated in any way with fraternal, religious, governmental or civic organizations. It is under direction of a board of directors of 24 business and professional men who serve without pay.

Donneita Croan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Croan, has just returned from Camp Wood Lake. It is the resident Camp for the Heart of Texas Girl Scout Council and is located in the 36th Division State Park of Brown County. The girls enjoyed tent living, hikes, craft groups, and swimming in the new Wood Lake pool.

Far-Fetched?

Those who insist upon so-called "property rights" in the current civil rights agitation have been accused of advancing a false issue.

But the truth is that very few human rights are not actually property rights—very few indeed are not expressed or realized in the ways we hold and manage property. There are several kinds of property — real, personal and intangible.

The very center of the Communist faith is fixed upon the issue of private property. About that issue—the question of how property, capital, shall be held and administered—revolves the whole religion of the Communist world. And you can very well discover how the individual fares with respect to human rights in such an atmosphere of hostility to private ownership.

To say, then, that those who would raise a warning voice against the violation of personal property rights—the right to own and manage a business; the right to make choices about its operation, even to the point of serving personal prejudices—to say that these are raising a false issue is simply untrue. It disregards what is fundamental to the very liberties and rights which those now seeking to abridge personal ownership and private responsibility in the name of civil and social rights, have set as a goal.

The very genius of the free enterprise system as it has been developed and insured within the framework of our society, is its capacity to respond creatively to economic and social needs and inequities. A service one individual or unit may refuse to provide will, if demanded and needed, be amply and profitably provided by another. It will so respond if it is allowed to function freely, restrained only by those controls necessary to prevent the stifling effects of monopoly. (What the socialistic management of the economy actually means is the creation of a vast and cumbersome monopoly with all the deadening effects of that uncreative condition.)

In the arguments for the public accommodations section of the civil rights legislation now under consideration by Congress there is a suggestion that should make even the poorest beneficiary wary of its doctrine. It is proposed that Congress set an arbitrary "Mason and Dixon" line of annual gross business dividing those firms which would come under its mandates from those which would not.

But if Congress can set a line it can also draw no line at all. It can make all such firms subject to a legislative enforcement of economic righteousness.

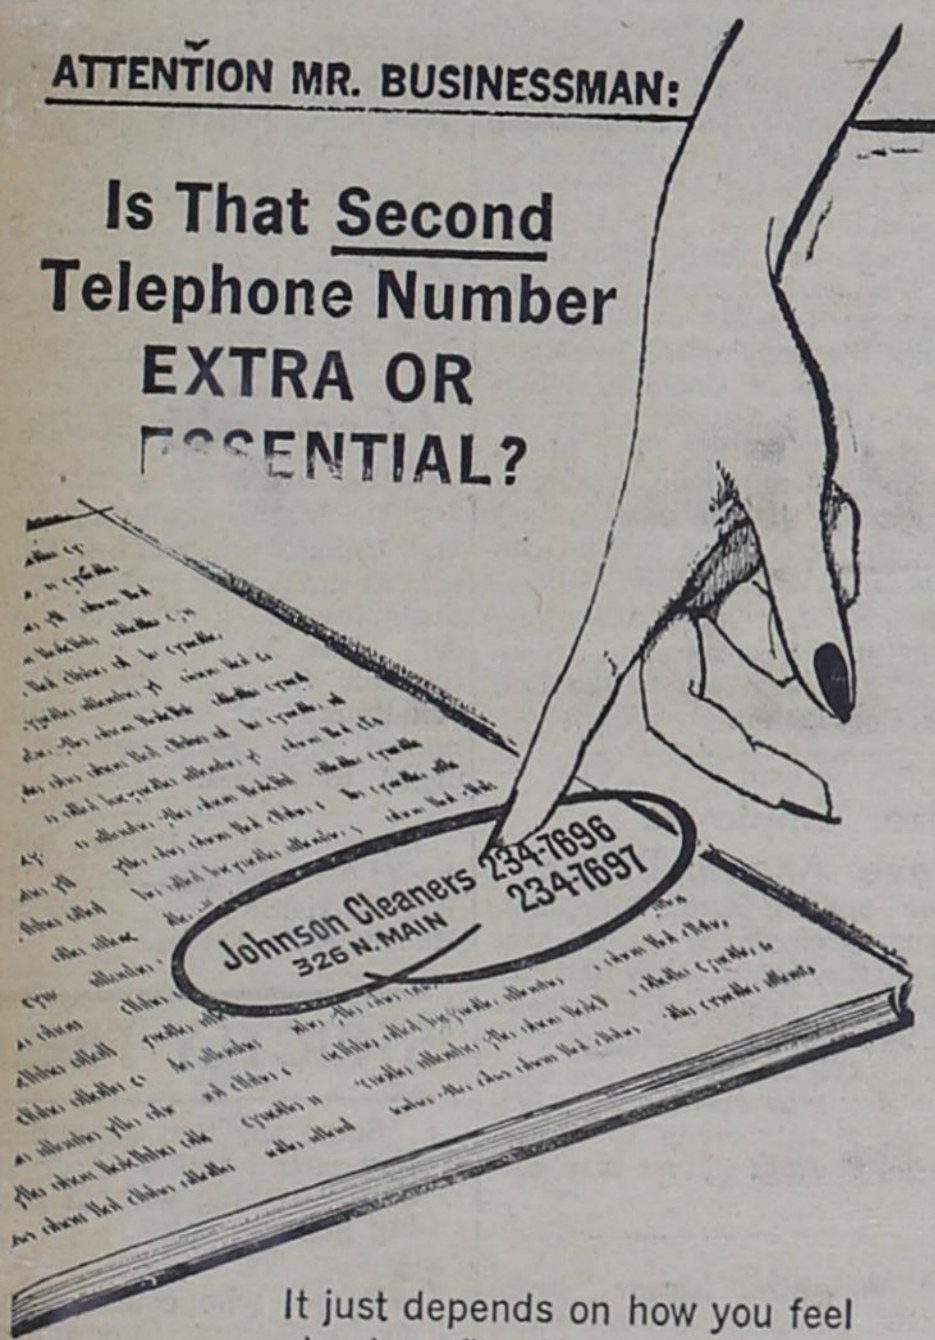

And if a business firm why not an individual? An individual who offers a service of keeping lawns or repairing the plumbing or fixing the television set — could he not be forced by the same doctrine to provide a service to anyone who demands it on the basis of his civil "rights"?

Far-fetched? William Borah argued that the nation would never set income tax rates which would take more than a modest percentage of a citizen's income.

Once a principle is established it is easy to extend its application. And once a liberty is surrendered it is never regained.

Don't Look Now

As It Looks From Here

By Omar Burleson, M. C. 17th Texas District

WASHINGTON, D. C.— WRITING IN THE AMERICAN BAR JOURNAL, Edward P. Deutsch of New Orleans says that the International Court of Justice should be authorized to adjudicate international disputes without reservations on the part of nations belonging to it. In addition to the United States most members of the United Nations and members of the World Court reserve certain powers to themselves. The Connally Amendment protects the sovereignty of the United States by providing that we, ourselves, shall decide whether an issue is purely international or whether it is a domestic matter.

LAST WEEK THE WORLD PEACE THROUGH LAW CONFERENCE. MEETING IN ATHENS, GREECE, heard Justice Earl Warren advocate that the International Court be empowered to resolve international issues and to enforce them. In the article referred to, Mr. Deutsch advocates that the Charter of the United Nations be revised to give the 15-member Court such authority, presumably with enforcement by United Nations. Neither suggests just how an edict of the International Court should and could be enforced. Seemingly, Mr. Deutsch suggests that the United States should enter into such an arrangement under articles of the United Nations and that it not be a forthright treaty which requires ratification of the Senate of the United States.

The International Court of Justice located at The Hague Holland, has a long and varied history. The first conferences on how to adjudicate disputes peacefully were held in an effort to lay foundations for a concept for international tribunals to achieve the ideal of permanent peace. THE SAME IDEAS were brought to the United Nations in its inception in San Francisco in 1945. This was when the United States decided it should subscribe, under the limitations of the Connally Amendment, to the permanent International Court of Justice, adopted in 1922 by the Assembly of the League of Nations.

AT THE PRESENT TIME, OF THE 110 member states of the United Nations, less than 40 have definite adherence to the Court and only about 3 of these have submitted to compulsory jurisdiction of the court.

IT IS ONE THING TO SEEK THE PEACEFUL SOLUTION of disputes. It is another to surrender the sovereignty of a nation to the judgment and decisions of the Judges of such a court and to have their findings confirmed by the United Nations. At least, Mr. Deutsch seemingly advocates that the veto in the Security Council shall be applicable to the ratification of decisions. He does not, however, provide that the United States, as elected rep-representatives, stand between the decisions of the Court and the people of the sovereign nation.

Mr. DEUTSCH SUGGESTS THAT THE 15 judges be appointed for life and that they become citizens of the United Nations, thereby surrendering their nationality. This supposedly gives them complete objectivity and no partiality toward any nation. The fact remains that in many decisions rendered by the Court, the dissenting opinion came from the Judge of the Nation against which the decision was rendered. The mere fact that the member of the Country had citizenship in no particular nation supposedly cloaks him in immunity to favoritism towards the nation of which he was a former citizen.

AS EVERY LAWYER KNOWS, every statute placed on the books must provide a penalty for its violation, or it is without effect. If a penalty is provided then it must be enforced by police powers. There is no such power in the United Nations, and such a suggestion would imply that some sort of a police force must be provided to enforce the judgement of the International Court of Justice.

INSOFAR AS THE UNITED STATES IS CONCERNED, seemingly it would ignore the Connally Reservation. The Laws of the United States can not be repealed by the United Nations, and although there are advocates of such action, there is no indication that the Congress is willing to repeal the Connally Reservation.

It's the Law in Texas

THE LAWYER'S ROLE

There was a time when the method of trying lawsuits was so technical and strange to the average layman that the lawyer was considered a behind-the-scene manipulator.

Now, since the public has come to know more about trial procedure, this erroneous conception largely has been corrected. The attorney is pictured for what he really is—a hard working fellow who presents a case in a manner designed to fully and legitimately protect his client's interests.

The lawyer's duty starts with his first contact with his client. When advised of the controversy, he usually questions his client thoroughly to determine all of the facts involved. His first duty is to objectively evaluate the facts involved. He immediately advises his client to tell everything. Facts and circumstances which may seem trivial to the client can be of great value to the lawyer in the trial of the cause.

The attorney then fits the law to the facts involved, and determines the theory under which lawsuit or controversy must be approached. It is surprising to the layman to learn that no two cases are alike; and, that nearly always it is necessary for a lawyer to "hit the books" to find a case or decision which governs the particular principle involved. This is sometimes a long and arduous task depending, of course, upon the intricacies of the factual and legal situation.

Quite frequently the lawyer will find it necessary to take statements of opposing parties or of witnesses to determine what facts they know that will confront him later in the trial. He also immediately starts planning his strategy and determining the main points, factual and legal upon which he will rely.

The next step in nearly every instance is negotiations between the parties which may or may not lead to a settlement. This usually takes considerable time, ingenuity, and diplomacy. As a result many cases are settled out of court.

If the case is not settled, the attorney then prepares for trial. The case may be won or lost in trial preparation.

One of the most important aspects of a trial is the jury. The fate of the lawsuit is determined by 12 persons drawn from different walks of life, different interests and frequently of different race and sex, and nationality. The lawyer presents his client's case to the jury through examination of witnesses and the introduction of other evidence. Based on this evidence the jury decides what are the facts of the case and renders its verdict in accordance, with their findings.

The Yardener

Old to New
 What to do with an old-fashioned oil lantern?

It can be made into an attractive addition to the patio or garden area for one thing.

First, remove the oil wick and well. Then repaint it and put contrasting colored flowers where the wick was placed.

Painting it black and putting in white flowers is only one attractive way to design it.

Rice Tip
 Never wash rice either before or after cooking. If you do, you'll lose valuable vitamins and minerals. Modern processing makes rice clean and ready to cook. By using correct amounts of water and rice, you will not have to drain it. It will absorb the water.

Here are some ways to make the job of looking them up easier. First, post those often-used numbers on a card and clip it to the back of the telephone book. Second, when you look up a number, underline it and the name and address in pencil. Next time, it will catch your eye at a glance.

Don't throw away chocolate just because it's turned white. This is simply a sign that some of the cocoa butter has separated out.

This happens at temperatures of about 85 F. The coco butter in the chocolate melts and comes to the surface. When the cocoa butter hardens again, the chocolate turns white. Only the appearance of the chocolate is affected by this separation. Usually, there is no loss of flavor.

If the chocolate is melted for cooking purposes, it will turn brown again.

To prevent chocolate from turning white, store it in a reasonably cool place.

perishable and susceptible to injury.

A good pineapple is heavy for its size and a ripe one will be fragrant. Plan on 6 one-half cup servings from a medium-sized pineapple weighing from 2 1/2 to 3 pounds. Fresh pineapple contributes liberal amounts of Vitamin C.

Cubes or wedges for salad or fruit cups are quickly and simply made by cutting the unpeeled pineapples into thick, cross-wise slices with a sharp knife—cut off the peel around each slice. Then remove the deep set eye portion. The core should be removed from the center of each slice. It is then ready to be cut into cubes or wedges.

Ground Control Is Important In Fight on Worms

Ground control (immediate treatment of all wounds regardless of cause) is of major importance in the screwworm program being carried on here at this time. County Chairman Oscar Schaefer said that it's that time of year when screwworms normally begin a rapid increase and cautioned all livestock producers to be even more alert in their checking for possible worm cases.

The screwworm will be eradicated by your constant vigilance, Schaefer said. He advised livestock owners to treat every wound regardless of cause, including those from castration, sheep and goat shearing, docking, dehorning, wire cuts, or others, with approved materials. Those include 403335 or 5 per cent Korlan as smears or 5 percent Co-Ral as a dust. These are recommended for use on all surgical cases, Schaefer said.

He listed the use of .25 percent Co-Ral or 5 percent Korlan as sprays for control of livestock pests.

Schaefer further suggested that all livestock be checked at least once each week and more often, if practical, for screwworm signs.

He emphasized the need for even better reporting of all worm cases and the importance of taking worm samples from every infested wound. Be extra observant of all new livestock brought onto the farm or ranch, Schaefer said.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Harris have had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Harris and family of Lineville, Ala. The two Harris men are brothers.

Farm Sale Taxable IRS Warns Sellers

The sale of a farm is now taxable, says Arthur E. Fogle, Jr., Administrative Officer at the Abilene office of Internal Revenue. Mr. Fogle points out that farmers must pay taxes on any gain on the sale of their farm or other capital items, even though they may turn around and use the money to buy another farm or similar item.

In a letter to the County Agents, the District Director of Internal Revenue in Dallas asked the County Agents to help IRS correct the erroneous thinking. The tax man advised farmers to check the tax consequences before they sell, trade, or swap.

Mr. J. M. Cooper, the local County Agent, has pointed out that farmers can get a good general idea of taxes owed by reading the farmers tax guide furnished free by the Internal Revenue Service.

Rising Star Girl Featured In 1963 Edition Of "Who's Who In Baton Twirling"

The National Baton Twirling Association, Janesville, Wisconsin, in conjunction with the editors of Drum Major Magazine, today announced the release of their thirteenth annual library edition of the book "Who's Who in Baton Twirling."

Featured in the book is a picture and biography of Mary A. Walt Butler.

In the five hundred and fifty pages of reading, pictures and reference material is the history of twirling from ancient ceremonial dances of Siam, Arabia and the Samoan Islands through the evolution of the early American jugglers down to the colorful, wholesome art of today.

Of the more than 600,000 baton twirlers now active in nearly every city and town in the United States and Canada, only 1453 have been selected to appear in this year's edition.

The aim of the officials in screening these outstanding young men and women in the twirling field, all leaders with reputable achievements beyond their own local area, is to provide a useful and practical biographical reference list of America's greatest twirling stars.

All America can be proud of its majorettes and baton twirlers, and those selected for this honor. They have established a symbol for today's youth to look up to. This was very accurately exemplified by J. Edgar Hoover when he said, "The knowledge that you young people are directing your energies and talents along such wholesome lines is very reassuring..."

Guests of Mrs. Willie Hughes Saturday and Sunday were Mr. Mrs. Boyd Hughes and sons of Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Boyd of Crane; Mr. and Mrs. Weaver Boyd; and Mr. and Mrs. J. Taylor Boyd, Mrs. Pearl Lee and Mrs. Pruda Rhoads of Dallas.

Mrs. Sophia Busbee and daughter are visiting friends in Houston.

FHA Makes 50 Million In Loans In 51 Counties

"The Operation BIG Program has the full support of the Farm Home Administration," was the statement made by L. J. Cappelman, state director of the FHA, at a recent meeting. He said, "The FHA has out over $50,000,000 in loans to farmers in the 51 counties that make up the Operation BIG area. During the fiscal year 1963 the FHA has made over 3,000 loans to farmers in this area for a total of over $15,000,000."

"For instance, about 950 farmers who use FHA credit are growing about 100,000 acres of cotton. About 82,000 acres will be fertilized and 99,500 acres will be protected by the insect control program advocated by FHA. They have borrowed $487,000 for ers are growing 32,000 acres of fertilizer and $610,000 for insecticides. About 630 of these farm-grain sorghum, needing $161,000 for fertilizer. In order for 440 farmers to grow 14,000 acres wheat, FHA loaned them $67,000 for fertilizer. Over 900 farmers wanted to improve 26,000 acres of wheat, 89,439 on native old pasture and plant 10,000 acres in coastal bermuda grass so FHA loaned them $205,000 for fertilizer.

"Beef cattle is growing in the Operation BIG area and 1,254 farmers with herds of 10 or over have 35,000 head. FHA has loaned some 540 farmers $1,502,000 to buy 9,500 head of cows and 326 improved beef bulls."

FHA is helping 371 dairymen with an average herd of 50 cows. The 1962 average production of these herds was 8,086 pounds per cow." The 1962 Texas State average milk production was 5,610 pounds per cow and this was the highest annual Texas state average of record.

The FHA makes several different kinds of loans where the payments are distributed over a period of years. The FHA has loaned in 1963 $1,740,000 to 107 farmers to either buy a family farm or enlarge their present small farm. Also 290 persons borrowed $2,182,000 to build rural homes under the Rural Housing program.

Tuna Divan Makes a Substantial Dish

Here's a good meatless main course for dinner.

Tuna Divan

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

- |  |                                |
|--|--------------------------------|
| 1 package (10 ounces) frozen broccoli      | 1 teaspoon salt                |
| 1 can (9 1/4 ounces) tuna in vegetable oil | 2 cups milk                    |
| 1/4 cup flour                              | 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese |
|  | 1 tablespoon lemon juice       |

Cook broccoli according to package directions, just until tender; drain. Place broccoli in a shallow baking dish. Drain oil from tuna into saucepan. Add flour and salt, stir to a smooth paste. Gradually add milk and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Remove from heat; add cheese and lemon juice, stir until cheese is melted. Arrange tuna over broccoli, cover with cheese sauce. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) 20 minutes, or until heated through.

About Your Health

AUSTIN—The old man had been high on a ladder, pruning a pecan tree. Suddenly, he was lying helpless on the ground, vulnerable to the ladder as it crashed down on his head.

He's still hospitalized. The price he paid for his backyard tree-pruning venture both heels crushed, a broken vertebra, and a deep gash in his head. What prompted him to undertake so difficult a task when he was so obviously ill-equipped to handle it?

There is no firm answer to the question. The incident is just one of thousands which kill and maim and cripple people throughout Texas and the rest of the nation each year. Accidents, as of this moment, stand as the fourth leading cause of death among all age groups in Texas and the United States as a whole.

Even more grim is the fact that of the 5655 accidental deaths of all types registered in Texas last year, one-fourth occurred in the most cherished of all places—the victim's home.

Thru studies into the nature of accidents show that very few happen by pure chance. They occur because a stairway was improperly lighted—because an electrical circuit was overloaded—because a threshold strip wasn't tacked down tight—because the rung of a ladder was loose—because an insecticide was carelessly stored—because someone was smoking in bed—because of an endless variety of human failings.

The National Safety Council defines accident statistics as a "single human tragedy multiplied to the point of indifference." The definition is an apt one, since accidents have become commonplace in the pattern of modern life.

Children and older people are most susceptible. Current national statistics show that 15,000 children are killed and 16,500,000 are injured each year. Persons 65 years old and over compose nine percent of the population; yet this age group experiences 74 percent of all fatal falls and 28 percent of all deaths from fire and explosion.

There is no reason to believe the pattern of fatal home accidents this year will vary greatly from the 1962 pattern when 1384 Texans met untimely deaths thusly:

Fires and explosions killed 423; falls from different levels killed 310; 180 died of falls from the same level, 83 died from accidental shooting; 79 suffocated; 54 were poisoned by solids or liquids; 43 were poisoned by gases or vapors; 18 were burned to death by hot substances and 194 died from accidents of an unspecified nature.

These figures can only be altered by massive demonstrations of public caution and stimulated by carefully organized home safety in which the whole community is involved.

We Like to Talk About Abstracts . . .

. . . because making abstracts has been our job for many years. And it is an interesting subject. Most every day people come to us with their title problems. Some cases are tragic. Take the example of the couples who have spent their all for a home to find out later they have no title. But most title problems are simple and the abstract helps to make the simple. So before buying real estate better talk to us about the title.
