Local Stadium Sports New Bleachers

The bleachers for home fans on the west side of the Wildcat stadium are undergoing a major change. The old bleachers have been cut apart and a section will be used for seating the Big Blue Band. New aluminum seating will replace that part of the bleachers.

Football fans coming to Wildcat Stadium will have roomy new bleachers to accommodate them as they root their team to victory.

Through generous donations of foundation materials and hard work by local boosters, the stadium's new seating is rising above the playing field for the new season.

"The visitors' bleachers on the east side are almost completed," Frank Gray, high school principal, explained. "About four more hours of work will finish them, and the substructure materials for the home team's seats on the west side were delivered Monday."

The fill to go under the seating structure was donated by the estate of the late Skeet Clark, and Buddy Cook, a local plumber, is laying the forms for the concrete slab to support the seats.

"The school district bought the bleachers, and all the labor for the project was volunteered. I couldn't begin to name all the workers; there have been so many, I'd hate to miss someone," Mr. Gray said.

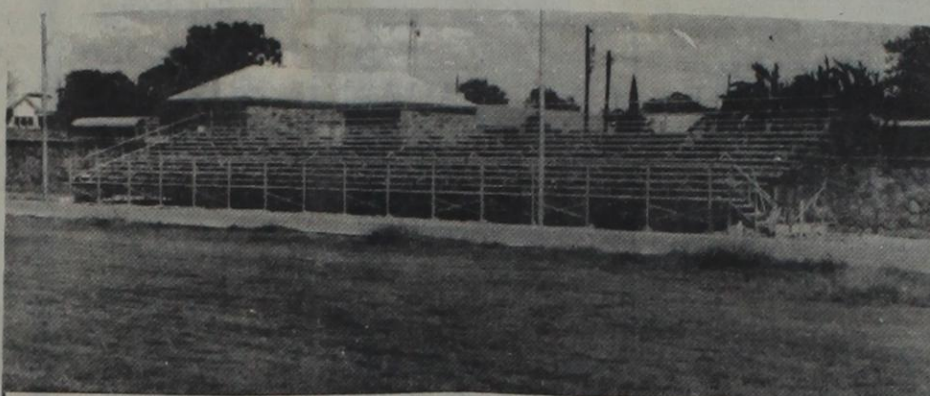

The bleacher

substructure is made of steel angle-iron with anodized aluminum seating. The visitors' side has been expanded to a capacity of 650, and the home side will seat 750.

"Part of the old seating has been moved to the north side of the playing field for the band, and we have a new press box, so altogether we will have seating for 850 on the home side," Mr. Gray stated.

The old seating was installed in 1947, "when I was a freshman here," he chuckled.

Worknights to install

The new visitors bleachers on the east side of Rising Star Wildcat stadium are ready for the first home game of the 1983 season.

the home side bleachers have been scheduled for Monday, Tuesday and Thursday, August 29 and 30 and September 1, at 7 p.m.

Ice Cream Supper

The Rising Star High School cheerleaders are sponsoring an ice cream supper for the Booster Club and football team.

The supper will be Thursday, September 1, at 7 p.m. at the football field. We hope that you will join the Booster Club in supporting the fighting Wildcats of 1983.

will probably be enough to complete the bleachers," Mr. Gray stated.

"I want to thank all the volunteers on this project. Rising Star is fortunate."

Half Lundstrom Jury Seated

Two jurors were picked and five released Monday during individual questioning in the Loyal Lundstrom murder trial in 91st District Court.

Jury selection continued Tuesday morning with three jurors reported being selected Tuesday morning. Selection is expected to take several days.

Stewart Mack Farguhar, a retired Cisco man, was the first juror picked. Also picked Monday was Jack Lindsey of Eastland.

Presiding Judge Jim Wright Monday reversed an earlier ruling on individual questioning after Defense Attorney Bill B. Hart entered a motion asking to quash the present jury panel and grant a continuance until a new panel could be called.

This motion was denied but Judge Wright did grant individual questioning (the same procedure used in the last murder trial held in the court).

Judge Wright had ruled last Friday that prospective jurors would be questioned in groups - not individually as requested by Defense Counsel Bill Hart. Mr. Hart filed a motion Monday morning and offered copies of Sunday's editions of Cisco, Eastland and Ranger newspapers for the court's consideration.

Hart entered as evidence local newspapers which carried the complete list of prospective jurors (a matter of public record) in the Sunday editions, which also carried a front page article about the trial.

The newspapers had printed the list of some 350 persons summoned for jury duty and gave their home towns. This fact plus a front page story in the papers would acquaint the prospective jurors with information about the case, Mr. Hart said. He asked that the panel of 350 persons be dismissed and the case continued until a new panel could be drawn or, if this wasn't granted, that the prospective jurors be questioned individually. Judge Wright approved the motion for individual questioning.

H.V. O'Brien, publisher of the three newspapers displayed in court by Attorney Hart, said that the lists were released to them by court authorities and that such lists were always matters of public information.

"All a prospective juror had to do is see his name and read all about the case on the front page," Hart argued. (All prospective jurors are advised of their possible service by individual summons).

At a pre-trial hearing Friday, Judge Wright denied a defense motion to "lock up" the jurors after a jury is seated.

Lundstrom, 59, is being tried for the murder of his wife, Doris Lundstrom, 27, who was last seen alive March 3. Lundstrom surrendered to authorities at DFW Airport on March 16 after disappearing from Cisco for 13 days.

his wife had operated a motel and bus station.

ed by Fort Worth Oilman Coke Gage. Lundstrom and Twenty men and women from the list were asked to return at 1 p.m. Monday and another 20 at 8 a.m. Tuesday as jury selection work continued. District Attorney Emory Walton, opposing individual questioning at a final pre-trial hearing last Friday afternoon, said this plan might require a week or more for jury selection.

Only about 200 of the 300 persons named as prospective jurors were in the court room Monday, and Judge Wright asked Sheriff Johnny Morren and his deputies to check on absentees.

New Minister Church of Christ

Gregg Knight is the new Church of Christ minister here. He moved his family, Karen and Landon, here last week.

The new minister for the Rising Star Church of Christ is Gregg Knight, who will begin preaching here August 21. The Knight family, Gregg, Karen and five-year-old Landon, moved into Rising Star Thursday, August 18. The family expects to have a new addition in November.

Knight was born in Big Spring and grew up there. He attended the Brown Trail School of Preaching in Hurst and has served congregations in Mineral Wells, Santo and Lipan.

While in Lipan Knight received education in the emergency care field and work with the ambulance service. Those serving with the local ambulance service have been alerted to this ability and have already approached him, Knight said.

The Knight family is presently living in Earl Wright's rent house until the preacher's home is vacant and remodeled.

"We feel very fortunate to be here in Rising Star and hope everyone will come and visit us in worship," Mr. Knight said. "Everyone has treated us so well since our arrival. We are excited about the work here and have the greatest expectations for the future. May God's richest blessings be yours as you seek His guidance."

The motion was made by Terry Gey, seconded by Joe McCollum.

The Board voted to approve the hiring of three new employees. Jerry Lewis MDA Telethon Rising Star's mayor, Doris R. Griffin, has consented to give some of her time and effort to the annual Muscular Dystrophy Association campaign. The Jerry Lewis Extra Special 1983 Labor Day Telethon will be televised September 4 and 5 from the Mall of Abilene and the mayor was asked to take a part in the program.

"They suggested a skit or something similar," Mrs. Griffin replied when queried about what exactly she would be doing before the tv cameras. She has asked for help in planning her part in the telethon from local residents. The rest of us can watch the telethon at 2:15 p.m. September 5 to see what the mayor and her creative-minded friends can produce.

Last year the public officials were a key to raising more than $91,000 here in the Big Country. Mrs. Griffin had been told by Steve Beard, the Forth Worth program coordinator for the telethon.

Muscular Dystrophy packets are being distributed to those who will collect donations in their own hometowns. Jerry Lewis MDA buttons will be given to donors. Those making donations have the option of giving locally or calling in to the televised numbers. Mrs. Griffin cautions area residents to be sure the person doing the collecting can give them and official MDA receipt and urges everyone to take part in this national campaign by making a donation, however small.

Dried floral arrangements are very attractive in the home. It's also a way to preserve your lovely summer flowers and enjoy them through the winter months.

In selecting and preserving materials for dried arrangements, probably the only limiting factor in collecting materials suitable for making winter bouquets is the imagination of the collector. Proper preparation of the materials will determine the success one has in using the stems collected. The following plants produce excellent flowers for use in winter bouquets if properly prepared: Cockscumb, globe amaranth, baby's breath, strawflower, and statice.

Choose only the best flowers for drying, selecting those with the longest stems. If possible prepare twice the number of flowers needed so you can discard any that are damaged in the drying process. An airy attic with little or no light is an ideal place for drying the specimens. Tie the material in small bundles and hang upside down from a line or rafters in a comparatively dust-free, dimly lit attic or storeroom. After the material is thoroughly dry, store loosely in large dust free boxes until ready to use.

The ornamental grasses, as well as many of the native grasses, produce attractive plumes which can be used in winter bouquets. Cut the flowering grass heads just as they mature, but before they expand or shed. Tie them in small bundles and dry them in the same manner as the flowers discussed above. Pampas grass and Fountain grass are excellent for this purpose. Many of the native grasses produce smaller heads, but when gathered and used in arrangements look very attractive.

Many flowers are too delicate to be dried by hanging but can often be successfully cured by using a drying agent such as one-half cornmeal and one-half borax mixed together thoroughly. Since we are interested only in the flower, the foliage should be stripped from the stem before drying. Place a layer of the drying agent in the bottom of a box, then lay the flowers in the box and gently fill in around the individual flower heads with additional material. The drying agent should be carefully packed between the petals to hold them apart while they dry. Large, double flowers are difficult to dry successfully. After drying in this way, the flowers must be handled very gently or they will not survive long enough to use.

Considerable practice is required to learn the technique of packing the drying agent around the more delicate specimens. Flowers often dried in this manner include anemone, single chrysanthemum, clematis, cosmos, daffodil, dianthus, marigold, pansy, sunflower and zinnia. Many of the more attractive flowers and leaves which cannot be preserved by drying can be cured with glycerine. Using the glycerine treatment, many of the fall leaves will retain their bright colors and last a long time. There may be some color change when using this method; however, the dark, silky appearance of the leaves makes them even more attractive in many instances. When properly cured, the material will last indefinitely and is usually less brittle, making it easier to arrange. Plant materials which can be preserved with the glycerine method include: bamboo, chestnut, magnolia, English ivy, elaeagnus, iris leaves, oak leaves, sea grape and sansserveria.

When using the glycerine method, the bottom four to five inches of the stem should be placed in jars containing a solution of one part glycerine to two parts of water. The absorption of the glycerine can be facilitated by crushing the more woody stems before placing them in the solution. The effect of the solution is noticeable on the leaves as it rises through the foliage. The material should be allowed to remain in the jar until the entire leaf is cured. After the glycerine solution has penetrated the entire surface, remove the specimens from the container and hang them upside down until they are thoroughly dry. Leaves preserved in this way can be used with either fresh flowers or in dry arrangements.

In using dried materials for winter bouquets, the individual is restricted only by his imagination and good taste. Since dried arrangements need not be placed in water as fresh materials do, their use is unlimited. With a little imagination and experience, it is amazing the number of things that can be used in making dried bouquets. Each area of the state has many different plant varieties that can be used for dried arrangements.

RECIPE FOR THE WEEK:

This summer, I have received several requests for information on cooking and serving spaghetti squash. The recipe I'm featuring this week sounds very good.

SPAGHETTI SQUASH WITH TOMATO SAUCE

- 1 spaghetti squash (3 lb.)
- 1 med. onion, minced
- 1 clove garlic, crushed
- 1 lb. ground beef
- 2 tsp. olive oil
- 4 c. cut tomatoes
- ½ tsp. basil
- 1 tsp. oregano
- 2 tsp. parsley
- bay leaf
- salt and pepper to taste
- grated Parmesan cheese

Cut up tomato; add salt and set aside to make its own juice. Split squash, using heavy knife. Scoop out seeds. Microwave for 8 to 15 minutes, cut side up, in a dish with a few tablespoons of water.

In a 3 quart casserole, brown the ground beef with onion and garlic by microwaving for 5 minutes on high; stir once. Add olive oil, tomatoes and other seasonings.

Microwave on high, covered, for 20 minutes, stirring several times. Let rest, uncovered for 5 minutes. Pull cooked squash out with strands of a fork onto a platter. Top with sauce and cheese. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Microwave Cooking:

'Classic' Spicy Peach Cobbler

There's almost nothing as wonderful as the aroma of a freshly made fruit cobbler that's right out of the oven. If the thought of this spicy dessert makes your mouth water, you'll be pleased to know that this classic treat needn't take an hour or more to bake.

Here's a simple and quite easy version to make in the microwave oven. And much of its good taste and ease of preparation is owed to a can of condensed Cheddar cheese soup.

So when the urge for something sweet and fruity strikes, you can have a delicious cobbler in about 15 minutes. Remember that microwaves are attracted to sugar so foods high in sugar microwave more quickly than foods low in this ingredient. For example, the filling of a jelly doughnut will be bubbling hot before the surrounding dough area is completely heated.

Spicy Peach Cobbler

- 1 can (11 oz.) Campbell's Cheddar cheese soup
- 2 cans (about 16 oz. each) sliced peaches, drained
- 1/4 c. sour cream
- 5 tbsp. packed brown sugar
- 1/4 c. chopped pecans or walnuts
- 1 tsp. cornstarch
- 1/4 tsp. ground cinnamon
- 1/4 tsp. almond extract
- 1 c. biscuit mix
- 1/3 c. milk

In 2-qt. round glass casserole, combine soup, peaches, sour cream, 4 tbsp. brown sugar, nuts, cornstarch, cinnamon and extract. Cover with glass lid. Microwave on HIGH 7-9 minutes, stirring once. Combine remaining brown sugar, biscuit mix and milk; drop 6 to 7 spoonfuls on soup mixture. Re-cover.

Microwave on HIGH 4-5 minutes, turning dish once. Let stand, covered, 2 min. Makes 6 servings.

Cactus Plant Grows Well Here

THURSDAY, AUGUST 25, 1983

Charlie Chamberlain has a backyard with angel wings, devil's backbone, fleas and ticks, jade, and a snake that stands more than eight feet tall.

Charlie raises an impressive array of potted plants under a huge chinaberry tree at his home. He has jade trees so big they are potted in washtubs, angel wing begonias and a devil's backbone plant. One plant produces seeds at the edges of the leaves that look like fleas.

"I've got a tick plant in here somewhere," he said as he peered into the jungle.

Towering over the collection is a tall skinny cactus which he calls "the snake". "I don't know what kind it is," he shrugged. "I bought it about seven years ago at the Safeway supermarket in Abilene. It was about four inches tall then."

Charlie Chamberlain stands beside a cactus plant which has grown from 4" to more than 8 feet tall during the past seven years.

The cactus can't support itself, so Charlie ties it to a post with an old nylon stocking. "Hail bruised my plants some, especially the jade plants. I've got so many plants now I'm either going to have to get rid of some, or build a bigger hothouse for the winters!"

A visitor asked Charlie for advice on a plant problem, and Charlie inquired, "Well, do you talk to your plants?"

Like the Facets of a Fine Jewel

Commentary

by Myrtle Owen

Infidels no influence: (continued from last week). All their lectures and writings put together do not lead to one tenth of the scepticism which results from the low type of Christian living which is so prevalent. In bitter humiliation and tears we have to admit that nothing makes the outsider remain outside like the unseeking, the selfseeking, the petty delinquencies, and many other horrible faults too often found common in lives of those who profess to be Christians. It is when the so-called "pillars of the church" become CATERPILLARS that they kill the fruit and bloom and beauty of the church in the eyes of the world. It is a sad pity that the unsaved judge the Christian religion not by Christ but by the failures among His professed followers. It is heartbreaking but painfully true that there is little or no difference in the lives of thousands of professing Christians and those who make no pretense of salvation. They bear His sacred name and claim to be His followers and yet the major difference between them and the unsaved is that they occasionally attend church. Devout and reverent they may be while the service lasts, but the echoes of the benediction have scarcely passed away until they are as worldly as those who never attend the services.

Before they are even outside the church doors, the message, the songs, and Jesus Himself are forgotten. While these things are so, much of our appeal to the world will be in vain. No words are needed to show that something is terribly wrong in the work of the Church today. A single glance at the difference between the magnificent success of the early Church and our meager triumphs today, make it plain that some great essential is missing in our midst. In most of our churches, growth is at a standstill while the population is increasing by leaps and bounds. Year by year, as we get a glimpse at returns, we rejoice in the number who have been won for Christ, yet weep that they are so few. We win one here, a few there, and thank God for them. But our hearts are made sad as we realize that the vast masses around us live, walk through life by our side, and then die without Christ. What is the matter? Where is the weak place in the church today? Why is it that it is becoming more and more difficult in nearly every place to get men and women to turn to God? Then what is the matter? What is this need of all needs in the church of God today?

The church today is not, as she was in the beginning, "Filled with the Holy Ghost." This is our need and

Lifting Up Jesus

Greetings to Rising Star; I'm the new preacher for the Church of Christ. It is good to be here in your community. Each week we will meet in this column for the purpose of learning something that will lift us in our lives. In doing this we will lift up and focus in on Jesus Christ. I take it that with all the negative surrounding us from all sides these days, it will be a refreshing note to witness the positive. Those things which build, edify and encourage (1 Thess. 5:11) will be found here. In Luke 1:43, we find Mary saying, "My soul doth magnify the Lord." Let's always lift Christ up first. This should be our main interest in life, (Matt. 6:33). Feel free to come by the office so we can meet. Help for any problem can be found also - that is why I am here. Love life, and your fellow man. God bless!

City Receives Tax Rebate

State Comptroller Bob Bullock recently sent checks totaling $103 million in local sales tax payments to 974 cities that levy the one-percent sales tax. "So far this year, we are just a little ahead of 1982 payments," Bullock said. "This is about where we expected to be by this time when we put out our revenue estimate for the state."

The August checks were for taxes collected on sales made in June and reported to the Comptroller by the end of July.

Rising Star received a payment of $4,253.38 for this period. The city received $3,022.74 during the same period last year, but payments for 1983 to date were $14,796.51, an increase of only .99 percent over the payments made for 1982 to this date.

Cross Plains received $8,733.96, which was $1996.96 less than the city received for the same period last year. Cross Plains has received $37,270.13 this year, down 35.42 percent from payments received last year to date.

Bullock said seven of the 20 Texas cities that collect the most local sales tax - Houston, El Paso, Beaumont, Odessa, Abilene, Midland and Tyler - continue to lag behind last year's receipt. But the August payment to all seven showed they had gained ground since last month.

Last Respects To Edith Pearl Donaway

EDITH PEARL DONAWAY

Daniel Luther (five) and Joe (one). They lived in Cisco one year, then lived in Callahan County four years, before locating in the Dothan community. L.D. Donaway was one of the founders of Dothan, where he farmed, ran a blacksmith shop, and was a leader in church and civic affairs. Ida was pregnant with Myrtle when they moved to Texas—she was born in Cisco on April 29, 1890.

Pearl was born to L.D. and Ida Donaway on October 2, 1900, after the couple were in their forties. It was only natural that they treat her as something special, for she was the joy of their later years. Nothing was too good for Miss Pearl, and as the relatives struggled to make a living by farming in the dry West Texas area, she was provide with the best of opportunities.

Pearl Donaway finished high school at Abilene Christian Academy and then attended Abilene Christian College, where she graduated about 1924. She attended the school while it was located near the old Coca-Cola Bottling Plant in Abilene. Her friends and classmates included some of the later leaders of the college—Don Morris, Paul Witt, etc. Many of her acquaintances and friends would come to the Dothan Community and preach on Sundays, they would then eat and visit with her parents. Paul Witt came often to preach, as did W.R. Smith, later vice-president of Abilene Christian.

Although Pearl had many boy friends in those days, she never married. One of the young preachers whom she especially liked was Ben Holland. He went to A.C.C. just one year and then transferred to the University of Texas. Perhaps this was why Pearl interrupted her studies before finishing at A.C.C. to take a year at the University in Austin.

Something kept her close to home, however, and she returned to her home area to spend most of her life teaching. She lived at the Dothan homestead for most of the period after her graduation from college until the late 1950's, when she moved to Bay City, Texas. When she retired in 1964, she moved back to her home in Dothan.

Her parents had died earlier—the first in 1946 and the other in 1952. And, too, her brother and sister who had remained in the home all their lives were deceased; Myrtle died in 1929 at the age of 39 years, and Joe died in 1959. Although most of her reason for returning to Dothan to retire was seemingly to recapture memories, regardless this again emphasized her love for home.

Myrtle, who was about 10 years older than Pearl, had always petted Pearl, as did her parents. Then there had been a very close relationship between Pearl and her brother Joe; he was 11 years older than Pearl.

The elder brother, Daniel Luther, was 15 years older than Pearl, and had married in 1904, when Pearl was only four years old, which would seem to explain why he and Pearl were not as close as her other brother and sister. However, Levi Doris was too old to farm by the 1930's, as well as having become almost completely blind. Myrtle had been sickly for several years before her death in 1929. Joe as a young boy had reached down from the table for a dropped spoon, complained of his arm, and later learned that some type of paralysis would give him a withered limb for the rest of his life. Consequently, Daniel Luther always lived close by to help his family.

Before Myrtle died, sometime about 1926, Daniel Luther's oldest child, Edith, went to stay with Doris and Ida. Edith took up where Myrtle had left off on chores—she took care of the milking, as well as all the other necessary tasks. Edith had struggled to finish high school since Dothan didn't have any school past the 9th grade. She rode to Cisco for two years with Edna Bint, then stayed with an elderly couple in Ranger, Texas, doing housework, so that she could finish her senior year. Edith stayed in the Dothan home for 15 years, from the time she was 20 until she was 35 years old.

Meanwhile Pearl had taught in the Dothan school so that she could stay close to home. She taught in other small country schools in the area after the Dothan school closed down, Bluff Branch, Moran, Union, etc. Finally, she began her teaching career at Cisco, where she taught the second grade for many years.

Because Pearl was educated, her parents wanted the best for her; most of the chores at home would have to be done by someone else. When Edith married in 1941 and was leaving, it was necessary to find a hired maid to replace her. This was when Joe's future wife, Era, came upon the scene, first as the hired help and then as a member of the family.

To Joe and Era were later born two boys, Gerald and Boyce. Pearl always treated them like they were her own children, an affection which she had transferred from her brother Joe to them. This seemed to be a repetition of how her parents had treated her, she was much younger than her brothers and sister, and she received special attention. Gerald and Boyce were much younger than Pearl's other nephews and nieces and likewise received special attention. Nothing was too good for the boys as she called them.

Some resentment was later built up between Luther's children and Joe's boys. This developed not so much because they disliked each other, but because of the unequal treatment which they were receiving. Luther's then grown children could well remember having to work their own crops when growing up, then having to work the crops on the Levi Doris place as well; all this was done for no pay. It seemed that all this had gone unappreciated, especially when it was learned in 1952, at the death of Ida Donaway, that Levi and Ida had deeded all their land to Joe and Pearl years earlier. Luther and his children had been completely left out of the estate. Although there was no will and the personal part of the estate was never divided, Luther would not contest the situation. He always said that he didn't want outsiders to know what had happened. It all was kept quiet until after Luther's death in 1966, after which time his children began to ask questions.

When Pearl moved back to Dothan in 1964 after retirement, she tried to patch up some of the hard feelings. Daniel Luther's wife had just died, and he lived two more years. All that was left of her family after 1966 were the nephews and nieces, some were descendants of Luther and some of Joe.

Her time was split between visiting with Joe's boys and Luther's then grown children. It was Gerald and Boyce Donaway who continued to receive special attention from Pearl, however. While some of Luther's children saw her only on occasion, others tried to forgive and forget.

Pearl came for Sunday dinner to the old Luther Donaway homestead many times during her later years, where she ate with Milton Donaway, Oleta Hale, and Bonnie McClesky.

Although two nephews and one niece (Daniel Donaway, 1944, Lorraine Donaway Perrine, 1967, and Vernon Donaway, 1977) had preceded her in death, of the eleven surviving nephews and nieces, eight of them attended her funeral and burial at the Dothan Cemetery. Many of the pall-bearers at Pearl's funeral were great-nephews: Sherrell Hazelwood of Dothan, John Ivie of Putnam, L.C. Donaway of Albany, and Duane Hale, of Norman, Oklahoma. In addition, Gerald Bint and Bill Cozart, both of Cisco, served in that same capacity.

Some of them had not seen Pearl much in the last few years, but all came to pay their last respects. In the midst of this sorrow, it was heard said, that Pearl had had a good life. She had been given the best of everything, a good education, and supposed happiness. Jim Hatcher, the Church of Christ preacher, commented that Miss Pearl had touched the lives of many school children. It seems sad that she never knew what it was like to have children of her own.

Pearl had sort of held the older nephews and nieces at arms length in those early years, showing affection if it seemed to suit her. She left the impression that she was a cut above them; this was how she had been brought up to think of herself. Whether they realized it or not she had had a strong influence on all of their lives.

Pearl had been the first of the family to get a college education. Of the fourteen nephews and nieces, only one later finished college, Gordon Donaway of El Paso. However, in most cases it was money and not the lack of ability which prevented them from going to college, and they in turn determined that their children would receive college training. Of the great-nephews and great-nieces, ten went to college and became teachers. Several others received college degrees in other fields of study. Six finished at Abilene Christian.

Edith, for example, who had stayed at Pearl's old home place for 15 years, could have gone to business college, but she didn't have the $200 to go. It seems ironic, however, that she had three children graduate from Abilene Christian and become teachers, following much in the footsteps of Pearl.

Pearl was this writer's second grade teacher, as well as being his great-aunt. Although she was not the primary cause for my decision to attend Abilene Christian College, I too finished there and became a teacher. I am thankful that Pearl invited me to attend a gospel meeting at the Church of Christ in Cisco when I was about 12 years old; I later became a member of that church and has attended ever since. It has had a profound influence on my life.

Pearl and I visited often about the family's history, trying to trace the family tree. She had an intense interest in this, and always hoped that we could trace it back to the American Revolution. Most of our visits and discussions in later years centered around this topic.

Our visit the middle of May centered around a different topic, her health. She had had respiratory problems the last two years, and had been in and out of the hospital since March; I was trying to talk her into going into a rest home for a few weeks until she got better. I asked her if she had a will, and she said yes, and that she was leaving everything to Gerald and Boyce, Joe's sons. She said, "I hope the rest will not be resentful." The problem being that since the household items were never divided at her mother's death in 1952, much of the L.D. Donaway estate remained in tact. Pearl could not will what was not hers.

Therefore as an act of good faith Joe's boys invited Luther's children to come to the home on July 9, 1983, to divide the personal family things which had been kept together as the family removed from Pennsylvania in 1820, then from Ohio by covered wagon to Alabama in 1878, and finally to Cisco by train in 1890.

I think Pearl would have liked for me to end this by talking a little about the family history, as we often did. When Levi and Ida Donaway came to Cisco by train in 1890, he already had an older brother who had located there, Uncle Jim Donaway, who donated the land for the present Dothan

Reflections In Perspective

I.W. Ussery

Since the advent of running water in just about every village, hamlet and towns across the country, we have to an increasingly nonchalant attitude taken water for granted. When many farmhouses, and not a few homes in small towns depend upon rainwater collected in cisterns for their water supply, a prolonged drought amounted to a minor disaster. Notwithstanding the warnings which are constantly sounded by conservationists, we just keep using about half again as much water as the amount we could get along with quite comfortably.

When setting up a project which is to require the operation of a labour camp, about the first consideration is water. Where is the nearest reliable supply? What mode of transport and storage will be used? In accordance with engineering estimates, how much water will be required, daily, to keep the camp going? The answers to those questions have a distinct bearing and effect on the bid price of the project, and adherence to the estimates is strictly enforced, wherever possible Jobs have lost money because of the injudicious, wasteful attitude toward simple water.

Jebel Dhanna, on the coast of the Arab state of Abu Dhabi near the Qatar border was a case in point. Although a distillation unit was provided for emergency backup only; the estimate of the cost of the project included the cost of water. And the nearest reliable source of supply of potable water Dubai, 300 miles away...as the raven flies. The sea lane to Dubai from Jebel Dhanna was much longer than the flight of a raven.

For reserve and working storage, a 200-foot barge with its compartments "cement-washed" for water storage was beached below the sand dune on which the staff camp was located. Two 100-ton barges were fitted for hauling water from Dubai, and arrangements were made with the Port Authority of Dubai for the purchase and the loading of the water on the barges. A tugboat, flying the Dubai flag and skippered by about the most ferocious Arab captain you can imagine was contracted to tow the water barges. He, the captain, was at least ferocious-looking. No one ever challenged his fierce countenance which was adorned with the bushiest beard you can imagine. And the beard was so black it was almost blue in the sunlight. And the sun always shone. He was far above average in size, for an Arab. And he screamed his orders to his deck hands in stentorian tones that I firmly believe could have been heard a quarter mile. With the wind or across the wind.

He'd tow a bargeload of water to Jebel Dhanna, pump it into the storage barge and immediately return to Dubai for the other. He was constantly on the move, hauling water, for more than a year. Quite a lucrative contract it was, by local standards. But we never knew when he sailed over the horizon with an empty barge when we could expect to see him coming with his life-sustaining cargo. And life-sustaining it was. With 37 "staff" and more than 300 labourers of all classifications; Jebel Dhanna required as much if not more water than the average crossroads towns. Not infrequently we'd be on the verge of drawing on our reserve when he would make his appearance. He always had the same explanation... "Shamal". That meant that he'd run into "shamal", the strong, stormy northwesterly wind which was common to the area. No one could dispute him, whether he was lying or not.

We were about three months into the first nine-month phase of the project when the inevitable happened; the water barge did not show. We went into our reserve. And when, by our calculations, there was water enough in the reserve tanks to supply the staff camp for a week, under strict rationing, we closed the job down, loaded all the labourers into the dump trucks which were used to haul the stone from the quarry to the causeway which was under construction, and sent them to Abu Dhabi, 180 miles down the Persian Gulf Coast. Only those coolies who were employed in the staff mess were required to stay in camp. The departure of the others was quite a festive occasion.

We'd committed a grave practical blunder. We had failed to check with Abu Dhabi! When we notified the Abu Dhabi State Police by radio of our action, long after the last of the trucks were loaded and away, we were informed that we were tossing the labourers out of the frying pan into the fire. Abu Dhabi's seawater distillation plant, upon which the thriving little city depended for all its potable water, had given way under the strain of the summer's heat. Abu Dhabi, under the strictest of rationing measures, was shipping water from the large distillation plant operated by the oil company on Das Island, 80 miles offshore!

Well; what's done is done. No one took the trouble to try to decide which was to be desired; whether to have kept the men in Jebel Dhanna to die of dehydration to send them to Abu Dhabi where they could at least starve to death with their loved ones.

We were in the process of preparing to break camp and to fly all members of the staff (leaving only the police and a couple of mess hands) to Bahrain when on the northeastern horizon appeared the unmistakable smudge of black which heralded the approach of the water-towing tug.

To say that the black-bearded captain arrived in the nick of time is to indulge in a masterpiece of understatement. We immediately called Abu Dhabi Police and instructed them to round up our coolies and to get them on their way...with enough water for them to make it, please...to Jebel Dhanna.

And the explanation of the tug captain? One word...Shamal!

AUSTIN — Investigative journalism's spotlight again shined on embattled Texas Atty. Gen. Jim Mattox last week, this time focusing on his beneficial intervention in a Galveston multi-millionaire's bankruptcy lawsuit. Mattox stepped into the private lawsuit during his first month in office, and reversed a 12-year history of state litigation against Galveston financier Shearn Moody, Jr. Ten days after his action, reports show Moody paid $20,000 in legal fees to Mattox's former law partner and current business associate Don Crowder. Moody was accused of fraud in connection with the 1971 bankruptcy of his Alabama-based insurance firm, and in 1979 a Dallas federal jury returned a $5.3 million judgment against him. Moody was appealing the decision to the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals when Mattox stepped in, filing a "friend of the court" brief arguing that certain legal decisions rendered in the Moody case would impair the decision-making power of Texas state agencies. The Circuit Court affirmed the Dallas decision, but Mattox apparently is considering filing a similar brief on Moody's behalf before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Both Mattox and Crowder have acknowledged they discussed the Moody case by telephone, but denied any conflict of interest. Mattox also said he never benefited in any way from Moody's payment to Crowder. Mattox also said he turned back a campaign contribution from Moody prior to his election because of possible conflict of interest. The court incident is the latest of a series of Mattox miscues and eye-lifters. Last week a grand jury continued its investigation of alleged misdemeanor violations in Mattox campaign funds report.

cans while Democrats Ted Kennedy and Charles Manatt sought to capitalize on Texas' growing Hispanic bloc. The trio spoke to more than 200 Hispanic activists in San Antonio last week during the Southwest Voter Registration Project. The project aims to add 1 million Hispanic votes to the rolls in 23 states, including 200,000 in Texas. Bush criticized the Carter-Mondale contributions to a poor economy that he said offered no opportunity for minorities, and Democrats countered by pointing out the high unemployment rate along the Rio Grande Valley.

Commissioner Jim Hightower continued to blast the Reagan Administration for failing to provide federal drought relief to a group of 27 West Texas counties. In the past half-year, the counties have received only a little over an inch of rain. Both White and Hightower, Democrats, want U.S. Agriculture Sec. John Block to implement the federal Emergency Feed Program for livestock in the area. White said stockpiles of corn in the Panhandle, left over from the 1980 grain embargo, could be used to provide relief. Cattle, sheep and goat ranchers are already liquidating their herds.

The State, Exxon Corp. and south Texas multimillionaire Clinton Manges apparently are about to settle the controversial oil and gas royalties suit on Duval County land. Land Commissioner Garry Mauro expects Exxon to pay the State some $4 million, but part of that sum, perhaps as much as a million, will go to Manges, owner of the land. Mauro's attorneys are advising him to let the Attorney General decide Manges share. Both Mauro and Mattox received over $50,000 each in campaign contributions from Manges, and Mauro's handlers are advising him to avoid potential conflict of interest.

Summer revelations by the Capitol press corps have caused state officials to think harder before entering into situations which might put profit into their hands or those of their friends. Last week Gov. Mark White dropped his opposition to the state purchase of land across the street from the Governor's Mansion, even though his campaign treasurer was representing a group of developers bidding against the state. The developers wanted to build a luxury hotel on the site, which had driven up the asking price of $2.5 million for the choice half-acre. White's predecessor had agreed for the state to pay the price which White thought was too high, but the state Purchasing and General Services Commission voted Thursday to purchase the property.

Be careful. All the time.

Cemetery. A half-brother, Henry Donoho, also came to Texas and lived at Roesser, his son, John lived at Moran for many years, the father of Johnny Donoho Adams of Cisco (Mrs. Gary Adams).

Levi Doris Donaway and brother and half brothers were the children of Synthia Christina (Hunter) Dunaway of Faulkville, Alabama. Her first husband was Israel Dunaway, who died about 1860; then she married John Donoho, a red-headed Irish immigrant.

Other decendants, according to a deed of 1917, were Dan Dunahoo and Tim Dunahoo of Jasper, Alabama, as well as a sister Betty King. At that time J.E. (Jim) and L.D. (Doris) resided near present Dothan, Texas, and John Dunahoo lived in Arkansas, and Henry Dunahoo lived in Scurry County, Texas. No one knows who the father of Israel Dunaway was, but certainly the Dunaways were related to the William, John, and Samuel who fought for Virginia in the American Revolution. Note the spelling of Donaway has been and still is used by the relatives in different ways, as is Donaho.

Israel dunaway was born in Alabama between 1814-19, died there about 1860, and is buried in Providence Cemetery—two miles northwest of Faulkville, Alabama. He married Synthia Christina Hunter, March 9, 1846. She was born in Alabama between 1831-33, and she later married John Donoho on May 31, 1862. Her second husband followed her in death, dying there October 8, 1895.

More is known about the ancestry of Pearl Donaway's mother, Ida Ann Hoke Donaway. Her parents were David E. and Elizabeth Prill Hoke, who married near Miami, Ohio, February 8, 1857. David E. Hoke was born in Ohio on March 8, 1821, and died near Faulkville, Alabama, July 29, 1887. His first wife was Catherine Abernathy whom he married in 1847, she was born in 1827 and died July 24, 1854. David E. Hoke's father was also named David Hoke. David Hoke, Sr., was born in Lancaster, Pa., in 1783, and he married Barbara Sease, who was born February 12, 1785, and died April 29, 1878. She is buried at the Sugar Grove Cemetery in Miami County, Ohio. David Hoke, Sr.'s father was George Hoke, born in Lancaster county, Pennsylvania. Elizabeth Prill Hoke was born June 3, 1824, and died January 6, 1876. She is buried at the Pleasant Hill Cemetery in Ohio. Her father was Michael Prill, born May 5, 1777, and died in Ohio on March 20, 1851. Michael Prill married Elizabeth Wagner Abernathy on March 16, 1806; she was born November 18, 1782, in Greenbriar County, West Virginia, and died August 29, 1871, in Ohio. Michael Prill was from Morgan County, Virginia.

David E. Hoke's parents, as well as his second wife, Elizabeth Prill, had all died by 1878, so he took his two daughters, and a son named John (John died shortly thereafter) and traveled by wagon train to Alabama. The daughters were, Ida Ann and Aunt Sarah Shaneyfelt.

Ida Ann Hoke married Levi Doris Donaway near Faulkville, Alabama, on November 8, 1883. She was born October 16, 1859, in Ohio, and died at Dothan, Texas, November 11, 1946. Their eldest son, Daniel Luther Donaway, was born in Faulkville, Alabama, August 29, 1885, and died at Dothan, Texas, September 16, 1966. Joe Donaway was also born in Faulkville, on May 18, 1889, and died at Dothan, January 8, 1959. Myrtle Donaway was born at Cisco, April 29, 1890, and died at Dothan, January 22, 1929. Pearl Donaway was the last of that generation of the Donaway family.

When I heard about the dividing of the old family things where Pearl had been living, and that after these were disposed of the house would be torn down, it seemed sad. I can still remember the dining area, which you entered by way of a porch on the southside of the house. To your left as you entered the door was a big round table covered with many papers and books, to the right was a small window by which food could be passed from the ditchen to the dining area. It hadn't been used for this for many years, for a big ceramic statue of a hereford bull was perched on the ledge. Around the room were numerous paintings, many done by Pearl Donaway. The one which I will always remember was a cowboy watering his horse in a big concrete watering trough; he was bent over getting himself a drink and nearly falling inside. Across the room on the north wall was a framed penmanship, recording the birth of Elizabeth Prill; Ida

This has been a very dry summer for most areas of Eastland County. I have heard of some producers who have had to sell their livestock, some have been hauling water to livestock and others have sold their calves early because of a shortage of grass. Hay is already in short supply and it would be disastrous to start feeding hay now. As one stockman told me this week "It's a long time until May." Hopefully by the time you read this column we will have had some rain from the gulf storm.

Most of the time we associate feeding cows with cold and maybe wet weather, not exactly the conditions found in Eastland County this summer. Or, we know that extreme drought may require feeding. However, there are other times when certain types of supplements are useful.

Late summer typically finds pasture and range grasses dropping in quality, particularly protein and phosphorous. In fact, phosphorous is deficient in warm season grasses a large part of the year, except late spring and early summer, the usual period of lush growth.

For this reason, many successful operators supplement minerals year-round, but this practice is especially important once we reach mid-summer. Since phosphorous is deficient, mineral mixes should be priced and fed according to their Donaway's mother. Behind the dining table was a raised door, leading up into the attic area. In the attic were several trunks filled with ancient materials, one was filled with the clothes of Pearl's sister, Myrtle, who died in 1929.

The next room to the west was the fireplace room, which had been combined with the parlor on its south in recent years. The fireplace was made of natural rocks, interspaced with big chunks of green obsidian, or glass. On the mantel was a clock, but also curios from many many different places, which Joe, Pearl, and later Era and the boys visited. On the wall adjoining the closet behind the stairwell, were pictures of David and Elizabeth Hoke, as well as some of Levi and Ida Donaway. One was a photograph of Luther, Joe, and Myrtle Donaway.

In the parlor area was an old piano, a stool with claw feet, and on top of the piano was a wooden replica of the Battleship Maine, obtained at the Chicago World's Fair in 1898, it spanned the length of the piano. The old wooden-sectioned book case, contained a multi-volume set of Texas Under Many Flags. Volume three of which contained an article on Levi Doris Donaway. Another book which Pearl prized was one entitled Shanghi Pierce. A musical picture album was also in the case. Nearby was an old glassed secretary desk; underneath was an old violin which David Hoke had obtained about 1850. One of the paintings on the wall was a girl getting a drink at a running fountain.

Pearl's bedroom adjoined on the west, and near the door on the right as you entered was a trunk which contained Pearl's most prized possessions. There were many things which recorded her teaching career, many photographs of former students. The thing I remember most was the old wooden carved chain, which had been carved from a broom handle.

On the back porch, was an old pie-safe; in it was a cup, plate, and saucer with which David Hoke and Elizabeth Prill had started housekeeping in Ohio in the 1850's. Every closet, and every corner were filled with things of the past, many old books, many old photographs, all collected since the house was built in 1895.

Although it is sad to see change and it seems almost sacriligious to destroy what others have worked so hard to obtain, a scripture in II Corinthians, chapter five, verse one, seems to explain it all here: "For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." Pearl's resting place is 880 yards WNW of her old home, the house in which she was born.

Every closet, and every corner were filled with things of the past, many old books, many old photographs, all collected since the house was built in 1895.

Although it is sad to see change and it seems almost sacriligious to destroy what others have worked so hard to obtain, a scripture in II Corinthians, chapter five, verse one, seems to explain it all here: "For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." Pearl's resting place is 880 yards WNW of her old home, the house in which she was born.

Appropriate minerals for range or pasture should contain 8 percent to 15 percent phosphorous. Salt should also be provided.

While it may be just as phosphoric, protein supplementation is much less likely to be attended to by most cattlemen in late summer. But small amounts of protein can be very beneficial in making maximum use of low quality grass.

Choice may be made from various feeds containing 25 percent to 50 percent protein such as oilseed and pellets (including salt-limited mixes), protein blocks, liquids, and molasses blocks. Lower protein feeds (15 to 25 percent) could also be used, especially good quality alfalfa hay, whole cottonseed, or breeder cubes. However, larger amounts of these lower protein sources should be provided, resulting in extra expense.

Providing small amounts of supplemental protein will be helpful only if adequate low quality grass is available. But, if pastures are very short, either from drought or overgrazing, supplemental energy (usually as hay or grain) will be needed.

Small expenditures for phosphorous and protein can be more than returned by eliminating typical late-summer drops in animal performance.

We have a hay show scheduled for October 4 in Eastland County, but now I am wondering about participation

If you've ever taken photographs out on the ski slopes, the chances are good you were disappointed. I know working pros who have considered themselves lucky to find half a dozen salvageable frames out of several hundred they shot.

Why the big problem? After all, taking photos is taking photos. Why should shooting on the slopes be about the trickiest type of photography imaginable?

School Enrollment In County Has Few Changes

The School Systems of Eastland County show only a few changes in enrollment from that of fall, 1982. Some schools have lost a small number of students, while others have gained.

Carbon Independent School District has gained in enrollment from last year. The 1983 total is 49 in High School, 23 in Junior High, and 69 in elementary - a total of 141. The total enrollment in 1982 was 125.

Eastland Independent School District has a 1983 enrollment of 543 Elementary students, 160 in Junior High, and 224 in High School. The total is 927. The 1982 total was 935.

The Rising Star School district has 89 enrolled in High School for 1983, and 205 in Elementary, a total of 294. The 1982 enrollment was 312.

In the Gorman schools the 1983 total enrollment is 345. This is one student more than the 1982 enrollment of 344.

The Ranger Independent School District reports that 367 have enrolled in the Elementary School for 1983, and 316 in the High School, a total of 683. The 1982 enrollment was 686.

There is no total for the Cisco Independent School District available at press time.

Elam Reunion Set August 27

The annual reunion of ex-students and residents of the Elam school and community is scheduled for Saturday, August 27 at the Community Center in Moran.

The Elam School, established about 1908 on the west side of Stephens County, existed until 1929 when it was consolidated with the Moran Independent School District.

The annual reunions were begun about 10 years ago. All ex-students, residents and friends of the Elam school and community are invited to attend the 1983 reunion.

County Commissioners Hold Regular Meeting

In a short regular scheduled meeting the Eastland County commissioners met in their regular session and took action on budget needs after hearing a report.

The report stated that revenues would be approximately $125,000 below the estimated budget needs. The commissioners then agreed to send a letter to each county office asking them to submit a revised budget and deleting approximately 10 percent of the office's spending from their budget.

An Austin firm, hired last month by the commissioners, has already started collecting on some delinquent taxes which will help drop the projected $125,000 loss.

In other action the commission:

- Approved a request by Enserch Exploration, near Morton Valley, to Cross County Road 337 in Precinct 1 with a pipeline.

- Approved the hiring of Jessie Brown of Ranger as the constable for Precinct 2.

- Approved the witness expense for felony trials.

- Approved the minutes and payment of the bills as presented.

WORD of GOD

Verily I say unto you, Whatsoever ye shall bind on earth shall be bound in heaven; and whatsoever ye shall loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.

Again I say unto you, That if two of you shall agree on earth as touching any thing that they shall ask, it shall be done for them of my Father which is in heaven.

For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them.

FASTER WAYS WITH MICROWAVES

Economical, versatile hamburger has become an American staple. It has as many variations as there are cooks. One of the most popular ways to use hamburger is in meat loaf; recipes have traveled through generations to become family favorites. Here's a delicious recipe from a Whirlpool microwave oven cookbook for Rolled Stuffed Meat Loaf that gives a new twist to an old favorite. Top it with Cheddar Cheese Sauce and you are guaranteed to have your family asking for more. A perfect accompaniment for this savory and satisfying dish is Twice-Baked Potatoes, which can be prepared ahead so that your meal has that "company" touch with minimum work.

TWICE-BAKED POTATOES (shown)

Total cooking time: 25 minutes
6 potatoes
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
¼ cup milk
Paprika

Prick potatoes with tines of fork. Cook at HIGH for 16 minutes. Wrap with foil; let stand 5 minutes. Slice off and discard the top of each potato. Scoop out inside of each potato to make 6 shells. In large bowl combine the scooped-out potato, butter, salt, and pepper. Mash, adding enough milk to make fluffy consistency. Spoon mashed potatoes into the potato shells. Place stuffed potatoes on serving plate; sprinkle with paprika. Cook at HIGH for 2 minutes. Give dish a half turn and cook at HIGH for 2 minutes till potatoes are heated through. Garnish with snipped parsley or chives, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Note: If desired, stuff potatoes ahead and refrigerate. Cook at HIGH for 8 minutes, giving dish a half turn after 4 minutes.

TIPS & TECHNIQUES

There is a secret to success in making a tender, juicy meat loaf. First, mix the egg, liquid, crumbs, and seasoning ingredients together in a bowl. Then crumble in the meat and mix lightly till it is well combined. Overmixing will result in a compact loaf. When shaping the loaf, handle the meat mixture only as much as necessary.

To make individual meat loaves, divide the meat mixture into equal portions. Mold into even-shaped loaves. Arrange in a 12 x 7 1/2 x 2-inch glass baking dish. Cover loosely with waxed paper and cook as recipe directs.

ROLLED STUFFED MEAT LOAF (shown)

Total cooking time: 19 minutes
2 eggs, slightly beaten
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
¼ cup milk
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon onion powder
½ teaspoon dry mustard
1½ pounds ground beef
¼ cup chopped carrot
½ cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup herb-seasoned stuffing croutons, crushed
1 2-ounce can mushroom stems and pieces, drained
¼ cup hot water
Cheddar Cheese Sauce

In bowl combine eggs, crumbs, milk, salt, onion powder, and mustard. Add beef; mix well. On waxed paper, pat into a 12 x 8-inch rectangle. In small bowl combine carrot, celery, and butter or margarine. Cook at HIGH for 4 minutes till vegetables are tender. Stir in croutons, mushrooms, and water. Spoon down center of meat rectangle. Fold sides of meat over to center; seal seam and ends. Place meat roll, seam side down, in 12 x 7 1/2 x 2-inch baking dish. Cook at HIGH for 5 minutes. Cook, uncovered, at MEDIUM HIGH (7) for 10 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes. Remove to platter. Pour some of the Cheddar Cheese Sauce over; pass remaining sauce. Makes 6 servings.

CHEDDAR CHEESE SAUCE

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese (4 oz.)

In 2-cup glass measure heat butter at HIGH for 30 seconds till melted. Stir in flour and salt. Add milk all at once. Cook at HIGH for 2 1/2 minutes till thickened and bubbly, stirring once after 1 minute then every 30 seconds. Add cheese; stir till cheese melts.

Bike-A-Thon Is Set for September

The Southwest Regional Office of St. Jude Children's Research Hospital has announced today that Mrs. Kaye B. Pollock has agreed to the chairmanship of the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Bike-A-Thon in Rising Star.

entertainer Danny Thomas, is the world's leading institute for the study of childhood cancer and severe maladies striking the young. It is the first research center dedicated exclusively to the conquest of catastrophic diseases of children, such as cancer and other life-destroying diseases.

When SJCRH accepted its first patient in 1962, the survival rate of children with acute Lymphocytic Leukemia and Hodgkins disease was less than five percent. Today the disease free survival figure for these diseases are now fifty percent and eighty percent respectively. Treatment procedures developed at SJCRH have been adopted worldwide, giving hope to suffering children and worried families everywhere.

Thanks to research at SJCRH, children now have a much better chance to be cured and live a normal life. Thomas clearly stated the purpose of SJCRH: To wipe catastrophic diseases of children from the face of the earth.

WORD OF GOD

Thou shalt not lie with mankind, as with womankind: It is abomination.

Neither shalt thou lie with any beast to defile thyself therewith: neither shall any woman stand before a beast to lie down thereto: It is confusion.

Defile not ye yourselves in any of these things: for in all these the nations are defiled which I cast out before you:

Social Security News

People in the Big Country area who plan to apply for Social Security retirement or survivor benefits before they reach 65 should remember to apply no later than the month they want benefits to begin, Glyn Hammons, Social Security district manager in Abilene, said recently.

This is because, with few exceptions, a person who wants to receive reduced benefits before 65 cannot receive them for months before the month he or she applies. Retired workers and their wives or husbands can start getting benefits as early as 62 and widows and widowers as early as 60.

A worker and spouse can receive benefits only for months in which they are eligible throughout the entire month. This means that unless a person reaches 62 on the first or second day of the month, he or she cannot receive a benefit for that month.

A person who applies after reaching 65 can receive benefits for up to 6 months before the month of application, but not before the month he or she became 65.

It is a good idea to apply two or three months before a person wants benefits to begin. This gives Social Security enough time to process the claim so benefit checks will begin shortly after income from work stops or is reduced.

Before applying, a person should get certain documents and information. This includes the person's Social Security card or a record of the number; Forms W-2 for the past 2 years; or if self-employed, self-employment tax returns for the past two years and evidence of filing (a cancelled check); evidence of date of birth, preferable a birth certificate or baptismal record recorded before age 5.

More information about Social Security applications and benefits can be obtained at the Abilene Social Security office, located at 142 S. Pioneer. The telephone number is 915-698-1360.

HOME EC HINTS

Researchers at the United States Department of Agriculture's consumer nutrition laboratory compared a variety of foods prepared in preheated and non-preheated ovens and found few significant differences in the quality or size of the items, reports home economist Bonnie Piernot. The non-preheated oven required only five minutes or less extra baking time than the preheated ovens, says Piernot, who is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. The energy savings from not preheating averaged about 10 percent. "Overall," Piernot says, "the findings confirm that preheating the oven is not essential for good quality baking, so it's an unnecessary use of energy."

Americans spend millions each year for "health foods" and "natural products," yet often overlook the healthful qualities in ordinary foods like eggs, says Dr. Dymple Cooksey, a foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. Eggs are a "natural" food in part because there's so little interference in the production process. If a hen receives enough proper nutrients, she will form an egg, and all hens of the same species produce eggs of about the same composition.

"It's most important for consumers to realize that when it comes to nutrition, an egg is an egg," states Cooksey. All of the fat soluble vitamins A, D, E and K in the diet of the hen transfer well to the egg. This makes eggs a good source of vitamins as well as an efficient and inexpensive source of protein. Even though special eggs, like "organic fertile" and "araucana" eggs, may be sold as health food, there is no evidence to support the idea that they are any more nutritious than ordinary commercial eggs from the grocery store, adds the specialist.

Home Ec Brief

While parents should not be alarmed if their pre-schooler stutters, they should be concerned if that speech disfluency persists as the child gets ready to start school. "Parents should be assured that 80 percent of all children between two and seven frequently stutter, but will outgrow it by adolescence," says Dr. Delores Stegelin, a family life education specialist with Texas A&M's Agricultural Extension Service. But for children whose stuttering becomes more pronounced with age, early detection and treatment is best, says Stegelin. Newer methods of intervention for stuttering actively involve the parents and include family counseling as well as speech therapy for the child. Parents who are concerned about their child's stuttering may obtain information and assistance through their local school district (which may employ a speech pathologist), health department and the country Extension office, says the specialist.
