A few days ago the Dallas Morning News reprinted an editorial from the Detroit Free Press which assured its readers that all this talk about the munificence of Texans is pure hokum. While there are a few millionaires—mostly of the oil variety—wrote the Free Press, the average Texan is about as well fixed as the proverbial Job's turkey and in no wise entitled to the solicitous worship and secret envy of the average Detroit.

To prove it, the Free Press cites some statistics vis-avis Dallas and Detroit which reveal that the average Detroit is around $1,500 or $2,000 a year better off than his Dallas cousin. About the only thing in which a Texan excels, the Free Press moralist assures his readers, is the quality of his boasting.

I am indeed glad the Detroit Free Press has made this factual discovery. It has been a common and continuing embarrassment to Texans traveling up north to be accused of wealth they do not possess and solicited in the expectation of its favors. Now that the Free Press has revealed that the average Texan does not have two or three oil wells and a ranch of Hereford cattle, but in reality just another Joe trying to get along and find the money to pay his bills at the end of the month, perhaps our Damn Yankee cousins will stop prating about their rich relatives and treat Texans as other decent members of the family, which they are, and as they wish to be treated. The Free Press is entirely too modest when it comes to handing out credit for making the Texan image what it is up north. No Texas brag gart could fool a slick Yankee that badly.

Now it is also comforting to have Dallas taken down a notch or two. Out here we have always felt in awe of Dallas. We have always seemed more than a little out of place in those Corinthian lounges where the inhabitants wear culture like an enamel. It is reassuring to find that the average Dallasite makes only about $4,500 a year, to trust the Free Press statistics.

Heck, we make that much out here!

But speaking of statistics, I seem to remember that the Readers Digest quoted some professor-and-wife author team to the effect that statistics are like a bikini—what they reveal is interesting, but what they conceal is vital.

The Free Press makes much of an assurance that the average Detroit is a couple of thousand, more or less, better off than the average Dallasite.

It may be true. Not having been to heaven—and, in view of my status as a Southerner, not likely to attain that blissful retreat—I am in no position to say what it is like to live up north. Two thousand dollars—or even a thousand—is attractive—statistically.

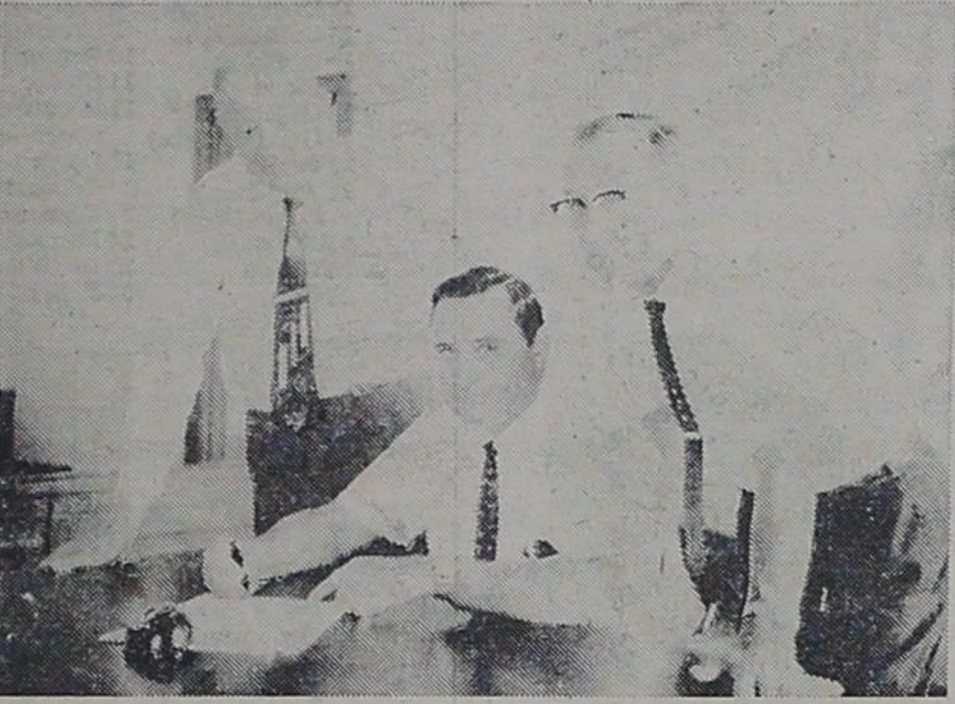

But I doubt it's enough!

ATTEND FUNERAL

Out of town relatives who attended the funeral of R. H. Wallace here were Will Patrick, Mrs. Irene Stator, Mrs. Alene Wilhite, Fred Wallace, Fred Sloan and Mrs. Rose Wallace.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. McDonald visited her sister who is ill in the home of Kenneth Bernard in Brownwood.

Farm Safety Week Is Proclaimed

County Judge Scott Bailey signs proclamation designating July 21-27 Farm Safety week in Eastland County. With Judge Bailey, seated, are Jack Cozart, county Farm Bureau president, and Herman Schaefer, director, Rt. 2, Cisco.

July 21-27 Designated Farm Safety Week In County Judge's Proclamation

County Judge Scott Bailey has officially proclaimed July 21-27, 1963, as Farm Safety week in Eastland County, according to Jack Cozart, president of the County Farm Bureau.

President Kennedy and Gov. Connally have already designated that week on national and State levels as a period to call

Cisco Baptist Ass'n To Meet At Cisco July 23

The Cisco Associational Brotherhood will meet Tuesday July 23, 1963 in the Bethany Baptist Church Breckenridge. This will be the fourth and final meeting of the associational year. A dinner will be served from 7:00 p. m. - 7:30 p. m. This meeting will start promptly at 8:30 p. m.

The speaker for this meeting will be Lewis Timberlake of Austin, Texas. Mr. Timberlake is vice-president and agency director of Western Republic Life Insurance Company. He is past president of Texas Jaycees and is presently vice-president of that organization. He grew up in Stamford where he has a long record of service to his community and church. He served as Sunday School Superintendent, Brotherhood president, and in many other ways in the First Baptist Church Stamford before moving to Austin last year. He and his wife, Georgia Ann, are the parents of three children.

Special music will be furnished by Stanley Webb of Cisco. Mr. Webb is Tax Collector for Cisco Independent School district and Cisco Jr. College. Mr. Webb is a member of the First Baptist Church, Cisco, and is one of the most popular vocalists in this area.

Brotherhood president, Carlton Holder, of the association, urges all men of this area to attend this meeting and hear this fine speaker. He is recognized as one of the most outstanding speakers in the state.

44 Claims for SS Benefits Filed Here

H. L. Weatherby, Social Security representative who visits Rising Star once a month, reports that local residents continued to check up on their social security rights and responsibilities during the first six months of 1963.

In that period of time, 44 claims were made, and a total of 152 interviews were held at the City Hall here.

Weatherby's next visit to Rising Star will be on Monday, Aug. 12 at 10:30 a. m.

ATTEND FLOREST MEET

Mrs. C. N. Huddleston was in Fort Worth four days last week attending the meeting of the Florists. On Wednesday the florists were guests of Casa Manana at the showing of "Wildcat" which Mrs. Huddleston says is very entertaining. Jimmy Woods, Mrs. Huddleston's nephew, of Mansfield came home with her to spend part of his summer vacation. Other guests of Mr. and Mrs. Huddleston are her niece, Mrs. C. A. Keenan, Jr., and son, Charles, of Fort Worth.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Stevens of Lubbock have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harry Frye. They were neighbors and friends in Lubbock for eight years.

Research to Be Theme For Peanut Ass'n Meeting

The annual meeting of the Southwestern Peanut Growers' Association will be held August 16 at Stephenville. As has been the custom for several years, the meeting will be conducted in the Agriculture auditorium on the campus of Tarleton State College.

This year's program will follow the theme of research which proved so popular last year with the capacity crowd which was present. Staff members from Texas A and M College and Oklahoma State University will present the very latest findings in important production phases such as disease control, weed control, insect control, varieties and fertilization and harvesting and curing. In addition, the peanut outlook will be reviewed covering the whole realm of kiting.

Following the lunch hour, a panel will be formed to answer growers' questions regarding production problems. It is felt that this type program gives the grower the rare opportunity to direct his questions to those in the best position to answer them. Better education of growers and handlers is one of the best ways of building a better peanut industry. Many express the belief that last year's meeting which stressed improved curing techniques made a major contribution to improved quality of our peanuts.

Last year SWPGA worked closely with the SWPSA and research and extension branches of Oklahoma State University and A and M College in the effort to make known the latest practices in harvesting and curing peanuts. A committee on harvesting and curing practices was selected from the staff members of the two colleges. This committee, through a series of meetings, prepared its recommendations which were presented as a part of the 1962 Annual Meeting. In addition, the report was distributed to all peanut buyers and handlers in the Southwest.

The meeting this year is a continuation of the effort to bring about better yields and quality of peanuts produced in the Southwest.

Lunch will be served at noon, compliments of SWPGA. Association officials are assured the same courteous and efficient hospitality this year as was characterized the college in the past.

Sharon Donham Attends National FHA Convention

Sharon Donham, 16 daughter of Mrs. Helen Donham, Rising Star, attended the 1963 national meeting of the Future Homemakers of America held July 8-11 in Kansas City, Missouri.

Sharon, along with 1,100 other teenage delegates of this national organization of high school students, participated in activities related to the meeting's theme—"Your Home: A key to the Future."

Mrs. Stewart Udall, wife of the Secretary of the Interior, Washington, D. C., made the keynote address on this theme and scored the "growing tendency to downgrade homemaking as a career," advising her youthful audience to "create a new, dynamic role for tomorrow's woman, based on the requirements of her husband, children, and society." Former President Harry S. Truman greeted the group and encouraged each girl to continue homemaking activities and accomplishments.

Experts in home and family life addressed the delegates on individual growth, leadership qualities, decision making, and responsibilities of citizenship.

Youth representatives of the half a million members of the FHA reported on activities undertaken in local chapters throughout the United States. Among these are stay-in-school, family friendship, and prepare-for-marriage projects.

Delegates are responsible for bringing ideas gained from the national meeting to the members of their local chapters and state associations.

During the meeting, Sharon served as a hostess at the banquet.

Sharon reported that she had a wonderful time while in Kansas City. The group attended the Broadway show, "Carnival" at the Starlight Theater. It took 32 large busses and a police escort to get the group to the theater. President Truman received a standing ovation and invited the girls to visit the Truman Library. After touring the library, they were taken by Mr. Truman's home. To end the activities of the week, a large banquet was held where officers were installed for the coming year. Mrs. McQueen, the home-making teacher at Santa Anna, served as Sharon's sponsor for the trip.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Sprayberry this week are three daughters and members of their families, namely, Mrs. Lucille Pinkston and daughter, Barbara, Corpus Christi; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Leonard, and their son, Jerry, and his wife of Warren, Ariz., and Mr. and Mrs. Arlene Presley of Richardson.

Mr. and Mrs. James Smith visited relatives here during the week-end. They live in Dallas.

Mrs. Olive Jones and her granddaughter, Sherr Jones, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Billy Phillips, in St. Jo.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Roberts and children of Philadelphia, attended funeral services here for R. H. Wallace, Mrs. Roberts and the children remained for a longer stay.

Tot Dies Of Burns; Rites Held Tues.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at Cross Plains for Sandra Kay Webb, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Webb who died in Brooke Army Medical Center, San Antonio, Sunday of burns received when a gasoline-soaked rag ignited her clothing last week.

The child was playing with a nine-year-old brother at the home of her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ingram near Cross Plains, when she suffered burns over more than 60 per cent of her body. She was brought to Rising Star Hospital for first aid treatment, taken to Hendricks Memorial Hospital, Abilene, and then flown to the burns treatment center at Brookes General Hospital.

Junior College Heads Talk To Rising Star Lions

President Grady Hogue and Dean E. W. Mince of the Cisco Junior College were the guest speakers for the Rising Star Lions noon luncheon Tuesday at the Elite Cafe.

They were presented by B. A. Butler, program chairman.

President Hogue spoke on the role of the Junior College in its relation to the community it serves, and with particular emphasis on the dual type of training it offers—terminal courses to prepare students for skilled jobs in their communities and courses looking to the completion of four years of work for a college degree.

Dean Mince emphasized three advantages of junior college training—(1) nearness to the student's home; (2) closer contact with instructors and (3) more economical cost.

Father of Mrs. H. McDonald Buried

Minister and Mrs. H. McDonald attended funeral services at Silsbee, Tex., Monday at 2 p. m. for F. B. Selman, 77, father of Mrs. McDonald.

Mr. Selman died Friday after a long illness.

The Rising Star minister and his wife had only recently visited at Silsbee and were at Cloudcroft, N. M., serving as counselors in youth camps of the Church of Christ when they were summoned.

Mr. Selman is survived by three daughters and a son, a physician at Hamilton.

Indications of the Prayer Ruling?

In the old days when Franklin Delano Roosevelt was wheeling and dealing in a multiplication of schemes and devices to combat the depression, there were anguished cries against a "government of men."

"This is a government of laws," wailed the critics, "not one of administrative fiat."

Since the Supreme Court has ruled against the use of prayer in the public schools, the argument turns on another pivot.

In this culture of ours, so predominantly Christian, where a rodeo or political harangue are about the only legal and public goings-on not undertaken with prayer, the denial of the right to ask Divine guidance in the conduct of the school room goes against the grain with the force of a buzz saw.

The argument is made with great emotional emphasis that a court which rules against prayer in a government-supported institution is, per se, against prayer and religion in any place.

We are not informed about the personal religious beliefs and practices of the Supreme Court justices, but it must be admitted that in a country where religious ideals and forms are so widely and jealously maintained, the judges were looking upon the issue with the disinterested eye of those concerned with the intent of the law and not with their personal popularity.

Whether or not personal prejudice—or, to be more exact, predilection—had anything to do with shaping the opinions they wrote is an impossible argument. It would be more profitable to consider whether or not such prejudices on our part tend to obscure a rational evaluation of the progressive influences and effects of this and other possible rulings.

In particular, we might ask what would have become the consequences in the event the Court had ruled that prayer in the schools is Constitutionally permissible?

Such a ruling would have to spring from fundamental concepts of Constitutional intent, concepts which would be the basis of future and even more vital opinions having to do with the involvement of the State in matters of religious investment and practice.

Here is one emotionally neglected aspect of the question which is worth some sober thought by those who feel very strongly that religion, for all its universal need and practice, is a matter of private concern and voluntary support, and that no one should be compelled to contribute to religious institutions to which he does not adhere and in the conduct of which he has no voice.

The accusing truth is that religious values are not being loyally or effectively taught where they should be. If they were there would need be little concern over rulings such as this.

In the view of the State and our Constitution—as difficult as it may be to accept the idea—Christianity is not the only religion. The State is not set up to inculcate religious values, if it were it would say what those values are, and those who control the State would dictate our religious ideals.

Conceivably, atheism is a religion of sorts, and although the Supreme Court may be accused of advancing the cause of that Godless faith, it is true that in its prayer ruling the Court re-enforced the principle of the separation of Church and State, a principle which Jesus Himself enunciated in His counsel to render unto Caesar that which is Caesar's and unto God that which is God's.

Lo, the Poor Indian!

A great crusading zeal and a guilty conscience are driving most Americans forward in a civil rights crusade for the American Negro. The Negro meanwhile feels a martyr, increasingly discontent with his lot in the United States.

Meanwhile, the American Indians are forgotten, discriminated against people from whom we stole this country! Thousands of them are living on reservations where the children are not adequately educated.

The United States continues to move in on their lands and the Indians continue to send representatives and petitions to Washington in quest of a better deal. The story is an old one and the script changes little.

Why isn't more heard about the Indians and their plight? Why don't we move Heaven and earth to integrate all of them with the political power of sixteen million white people in the West?

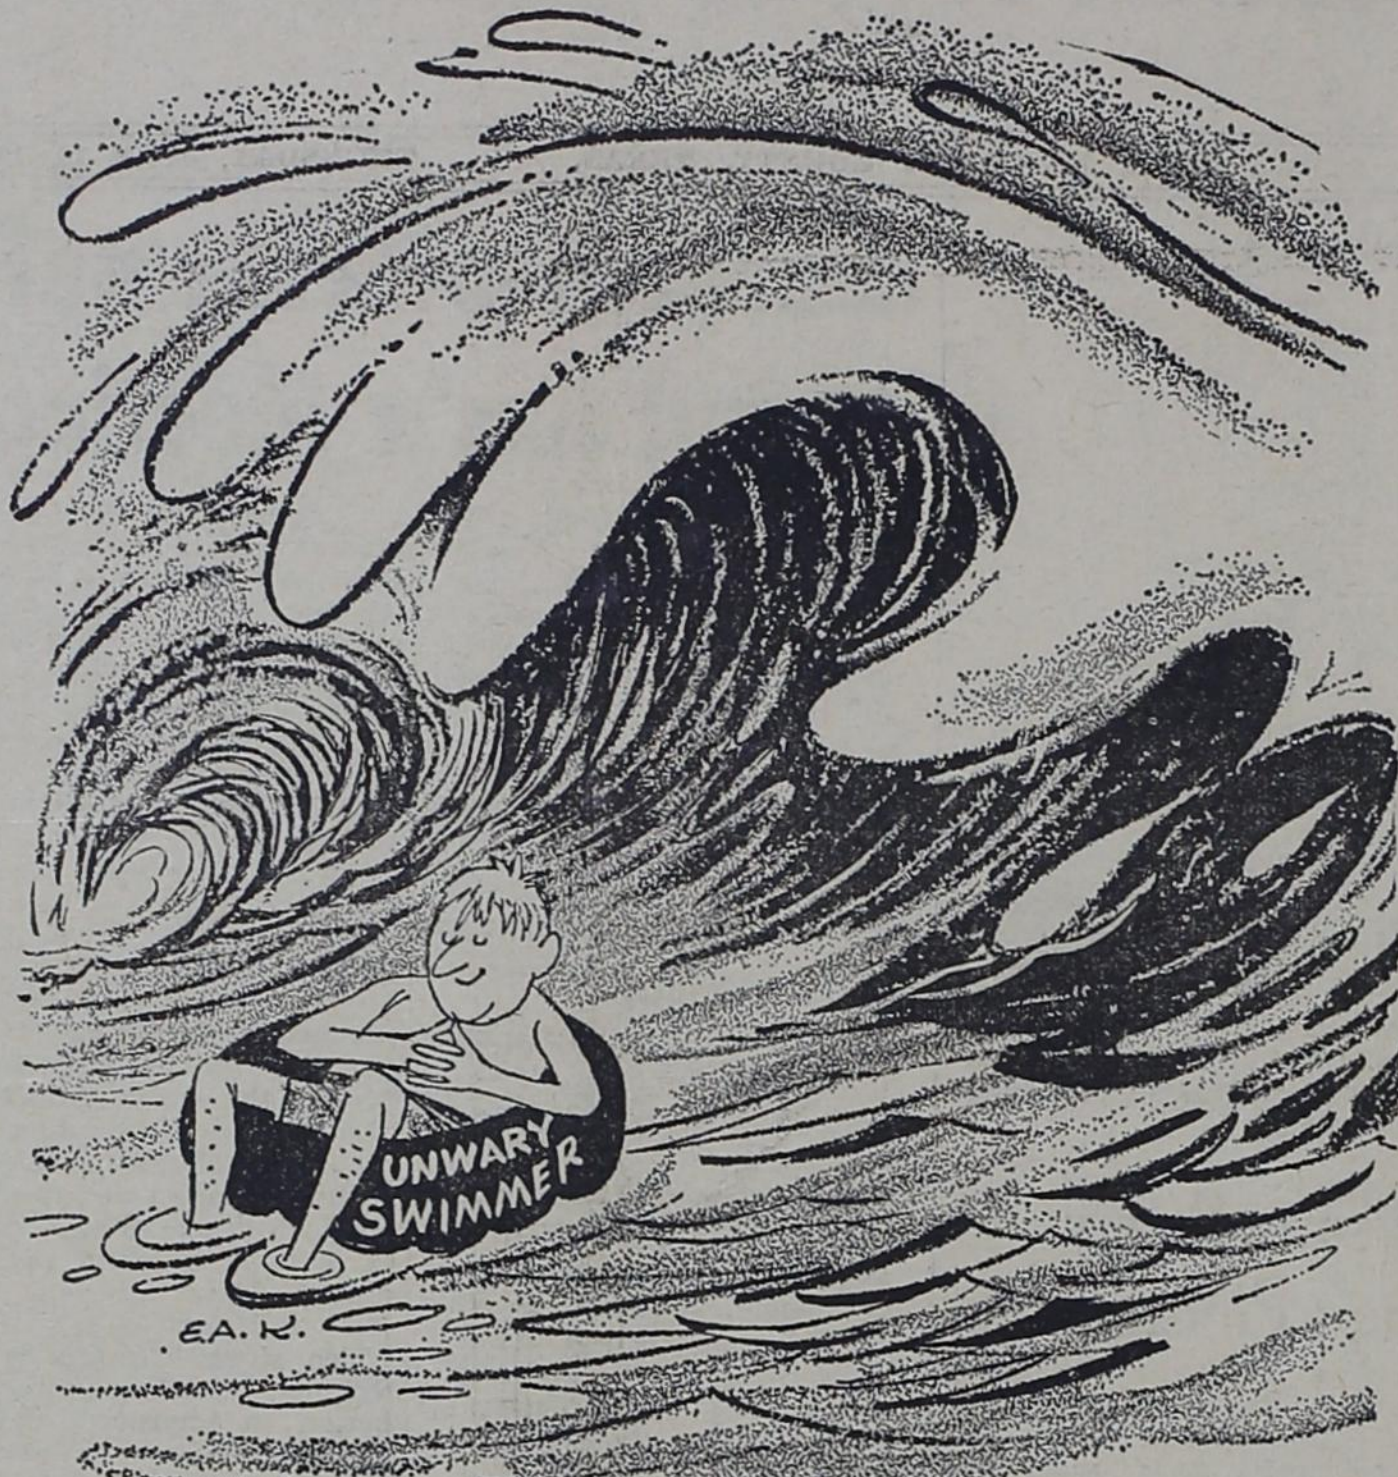

The plain truth is there aren't enough Indians to make it politically profitable. —Editor's Copy.

Play It Safe—Learn Rules

As It Looks From Here

By Omar Burleson, M. C. 17th Texas District

WASHINGTON, D. C.—TO PEOPLE IN THE SMALL CARIBBEAN ISLAND he is familiarly known as old, blind Blake. The title of his favorite Calypso song is "Never Mind the Noise in the Market Place But Beware of the Price of Fish."

IT IS A STORY IN SONG OF THE PLIGHT OF A poor people, but it also carries sound advice. In the open markets, peddlers try to outshout one another in extolling the virtue of their produce. The loudest voice is supposed to attract the most customers, but the fish belonging to the loudest voice may be higher in price.

WHILE ATTENTION IS DEMANDED by the score of issues facing our Congress and our Government, the so-called balance of payments continues to be a most serious problem. It is complicated and not easily understood, although the facts are fairly clear.

THE UNITED STATES SELLS MORE to foreign countries than it buys. In years past this figure has run from $4½ billion to $6 billion. There continues to be a comfortable margin of income, rather than an outgo, insofar as trade itself is concerned but foreign aid military spending and private investment abroad reverse the situation.

THE U. S. COMMERCE DEPARTMENT reports that the outflow of United States capital during the first three months of this year was at the annual rate of $3,800,000,000. In other words, at this rate it would be near to deficit in 1960 and 1961, which averaged out about $4 billion each year. The 1962 deficit was held to a little more than $2 billion, or almost half of preceding years.

WHAT DOES THIS MEAN? It simply means that with gold reserves being reduced to near the required amount to support our currency, should all foreign nations holding obligations against our reserve demand payment in gold it would be a serious threat to the stability of the dollar. Most foreign nations demand that a part of their request for payment be made in gold. Where as, at the present time our gold reserves are something over $15 billion, in theory we could be called upon to produce more than $25 billion in gold. It would be something like a "run" on a bank when every depositor wanted his money at the same time.

THERE IS LITTLE DANGER or such a thing occurring in the immediate future, but the seriousness of the situation is in the long run. Should governments and dealers in goods and commodities lose confidence in the value of the dollar, serious consequences could result. The dollar remains the strongest currency in the world, simply because of the confidence in it.

STRANGE AS IT MAY SOUND, some nations which we have helped most in the postwar period, having credits in this country, are those who threaten the greatest demand. While these nations actually owe us money, and are meeting their obligations, at the same time show disposition to demand a considerable portion of payments in gold.

SINCE WORLD WAR II, we have helped the economy of some of these nations who now compete with us and, in addition have furnished military assistance for their protection and that of the free world. These expenditures overseas, coupled with incentives given to private businesses in the United States to invest abroad, continue to aggravate the problem in the balance of payments.

FOR THIS REASON THERE SHOULD be a retrenchment of expenditures overseas and a demand on other nations that they assume greater responsibility. While noises are loud on so many issues now demanding attention of the Congress and the Nation, we certainly need to heed "the voice of the fish."

THE PIRACY PRINCIPLE

The colorful pirate of old captured your imagination but not that of the shipowners or the governments that lost their cargoes and treasures.

Pirates were "enemies of mankind." Their acts become crimes against that government as well as against the "law of nations." A government would try to catch and to punish them no matter how and where the piracy took place.

From these early days, a rule of international law called "the piracy principle" came into being, as to crimes against mankind. Any nation might seize and punish such a person. He did not need to be one of its citizens. The crimes could be committed inside or outside its territory. Jurisdiction is worldwide.

Nations often punish their own people for crimes beyond their borders. Nations can punish aliens for crimes within their borders. They can punish aliens for crimes committed against that country when they later come into that country. A nation can also punish an alien for piracy under international law.

What about war crimes done on orders of supervisor? The World War II allies have declared that certain Nazi leaders committed punishable crimes against nations.

Now and then some nations may allow a court to try a person "in absentia." Such trials without the accused present were once very popular, but little comes from AUSTIN—If you suffer from "midmorning hunger," better revise your breakfast habits, State Health Department nutritionists advise.

More and more people are falling into the habit of skimpy breakfasting. Surveys show that two out of every nine children leave to school without breakfast and four out of ten workers leave for work with nothing to eat.

"Midmorning hunger" is the expression nutritionists use to describe the feeling which comes after an inadequate breakfast. Victims usually feel weak and giddy by midmorning. They may be hungry yet have no taste for lunch. Or, if they are able to eat a big lunch, they may feel sleepy by early afternoon.

Midmorning hunger therapy nutritionists say, calls for the "patient" to eat a solid breakfast. The extent of breakfast consumption varies from person to person. Individuals with special problems of modified diets can be guided by a physician.

Many teachers and school nurses place special emphasis on breakfast. One school nurse had a breakfast contest in the elementary grades. Near the end of school year a mother telephoned to report on the improved breakfast habits and general welfare of the whole family. Before the contest, the mother said none of the family ate breakfast. Her child, involved in the school contest, insisted on having a good breakfast. Eventually it caught on and the whole family began eating breakfast and feeling better.

It is a false idea that skipping breakfast is a good way to reduce. If anything, this highly injurious practice adds pounds. It works like this:

Skip breakfast and by noon you have lost your appetite or else are afraid to eat for fear of being groggy all afternoon. Then for supper you eat the food your body has been demanding all day. Now you go to bed and your supper is converted into fat rather than energy as would have been the case had you eaten plenty during hours of greatest activity.

An adequate breakfast pattern can be adapted to any age, budget or cultural pattern: fruit or fruit juice, protein-rich food—such as eggs, cheese, meat or beans—bread or cereal and milk. If time is a prohibitive factor, some preparations can be made the night before—setting the table, fixing the coffee pot, etc....

Breakfast eating is a part of a pattern of daily life that will pay dividends in a higher level of health and well being.

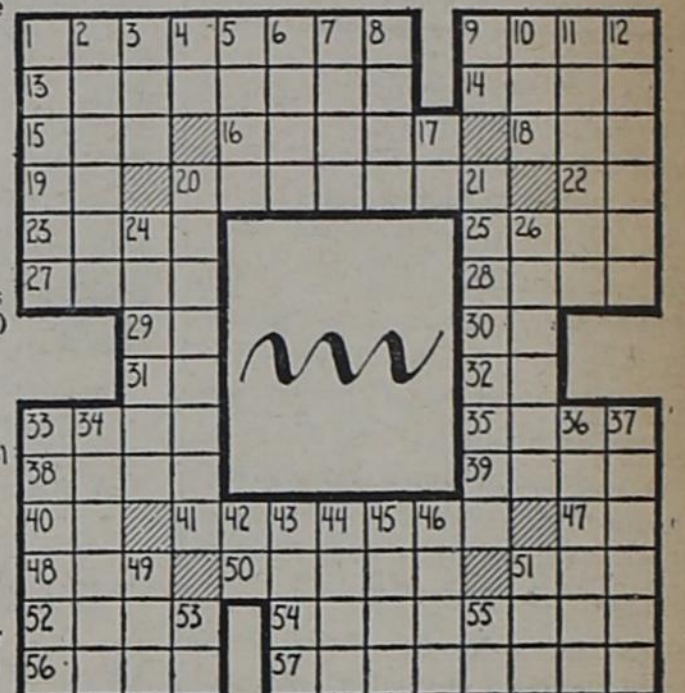

such trials, and they are not as highly regarded as trials in which a person has a fair chance to defend himself.

Looking Directly at Eclipse of Sun Could Damage Eyes, Doctors Warn

There will be an eclipse of the sun visible all over the United States on Saturday, July 20.

DON'T LOOK AT THE ECLIPSE unless you have first obtained expert guidance on how to do it without injuring your eyes.

Ophthalmologists (medical eye specialists) know that with each recurring eclipse of the sun they can anticipate cases of serious eye damage, even blindness.

Dark sun glasses are no protection. There are NO FILTERS generally available that make safe viewing of an eclipse possible. This includes the sooted glass that many people once believed safe. Even heavy welder's glasses do not protect.

Telescopes and binoculars trained on an eclipse are particularly dangerous. They magnify and intensify the burn.

DON'T PHOTOGRAPH THE ECLIPSE unless you are an experienced professional. Looking into the viewfinder of a camera pointed at the sun is highly dangerous. Even special filters don't help, unless they are chosen with great care.

Most people, ESPECIALLY CHILDREN, don't realize that less than one second's exposure to the direct rays of the sun can, under some circumstances, cause permanent blindness. There isn't even necessarily any immediate sensation or pain before the damage is done.

The only safe method of watching an eclipse is by the "projection method." That is, the viewer looks at an image of the eclipse, rather than at the eclipse itself. The image is projected onto a white surface and the observer, WITH HIS BACK TO THE SUN, watches the image.

Most of us have set fire to a piece of paper by focusing the rays of the sun through a magnifying glass. It is this same burning power that damages the retina of the eye in eclipse blindness. The sun's rays are brought to focus on the interior of the eye by the optical system within the eye.

In fact, the safest way to view the eclipse is on television or through photos in magazines and newspapers. Unless you obtain professional advice from an expert—an ophthalmologist, astronomer or optical scientist—don't look at the eclipse.

Abilene Girl Becomes Bride of Jodie Wallace In Ritual at ACC July 8th

ABILENE—Goldye Lee Lewis became the bride of Jodie Earl Wallace Monday evening, July 8, in the College Church of Christ.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. John P. Lewis of 310 College Drive, and Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Wallace of Las Vegas, Nev.

Mr. Lewis, father of the bride and a Church of Christ minister, officiated, and Mrs. Dan Watkins, soloist, and a capella chorus presented wedding music.

Maid of honor was Carol Caldwell of Tulsa, Okla. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Kyle Bagny of Rock-springs, Mrs. Bill McCaughn and Gay Morrison of Lubbock. Jennifer Lewis of Fort Worth was flower girl.

Burk Inman of Hereford was best man. Groomsmen, who also served as ushers, were Elvis Istre, Gwen Boyd of Idalou and Lou Booth.

The bride designed and made her gown of white delustrated satin fashioned with a chantilly lace bolero and matching appliques on the skirt front. The skirt had a chapel train.

A coronet of seed pearls and sequins held her tiered veil of illusion. She carried an arrangement of carnations and stephanotis centered with gardenias on a white Bible which belongs to her social club.

Bridal attendants wore pink shantung dresses with A skirts. They carried nosegays of pink and white sweetheart roses. Hats were matching shantung with brief veils.

Following a reception in the Garden Parlor at Abilene Christian College, the couple left for a wedding trip to New Mexico.

The bride is a 1962 graduate of ACC where she was a member of Delta Theta social club and Ellen H. Richards Home Economics club. She taught home-making at Lubbock High School last year.

The groom is a 1961 graduate of Lubbock Christian College and a 1963 graduate of ACC where he was a member of the Physical Education Majors, Minors Club and the Student Education Ass'n.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Doyle returned Saturday from Bend where they attended a reunion. They reported a good time with 600 people in attendance.

Harvest 24 hrs. per Day Right behind the Shaker!

LONG Peanut Combines Out-Perform them all!

Day after day, you will be ahead with a LONG peanut combine. This machine is made to harvest peanuts faster, pick the vines cleaner and put cleaner peanuts in the bag or bin. It harvests under conditions that stop other machines. You can actually harvest right behind the plow day and night. It gives you what you need to do a better, quicker harvesting job.

Compare this machine with any. Compare production . . . capacity . . . quality of harvest . . . first cost . . . up-keep costs. See for yourself why LONG peanut combine out-value and out-perform others. This year, LONG peanut combines are better than ever. Improvements have been made which reduce up-keep costs even more and add to the over all performance.

Walk behind it. You'd better keep up a pretty good pace for the Lilliston travels fast. The important thing is what's missing. Peanuts. They're all in the tank or the bag. Oh, there may be a few here and there in the hay, but the Lilliston strips the field practically bare. We've seen a lot of implements in our time, but there have been mighty few that have done their jobs as perfectly as the Lilliston. Certainly none in peanuts. One farmer came right out and said, "It's the finest piece of equipment I've ever had on my farm."

One thing's for sure. The Lilliston Peanut Combine is a tried and true money-maker that pays off handsomely in faster, better, cleaner harvests year after year. There is nothing like it in the field — not even close. Just give us the chance to prove it.

We Like to Talk About Abstracts . . .

. . . because making abstracts has been our job for many years. And it is an interesting subject. Most every day people come to us with their title problems. Some cases are tragic. Take the example of the couples who have spent their all for a home to find out later they have no title. But most title problems are simple and the abstract helps to make the simple. So before buying real estate better talk to us about the title.

"Black Mold" Blamed for the Poor Germination of Peanuts This Spring

A fungus called "Black Mold" has caused the major portion of the problem of unsatisfactory peanut seedling stands through the peanut belt this spring, according to information from the Eastland county agent's office.

J. M. Cooper, county agent, received a letter recently from B. C. Langley, superintendent of the Stephenville Experiment Station and Ben Spears, A. and M. Extension Service agronomist, advising of the cause of the wide spread damage.

The fungus may infest and kill seedlings before they emerge from the soil. Most often infected seedlings emerged and then wilted and died. Some die within a two or three weeks period from this fungus but a few die as late as six weeks after emergence.

The fungus causes more trouble where a part or all of the skin is damaged or rubbed off, or the seed is split in the planter box.

No difference in variety susceptibility to damage from Black Mold has been observed in statewide variety tests.

Black Mold is a common fungus and therefore occurs in most soils. Rapid growth and spread occurs when proper conditions are favorable for the spore development.

Several local peanut growers have complained of poor stands due to the seedling dying upon emergence, the county agent said.

Range of symptoms caused by Black Mold disease in peanuts. Three seedlings on left show infected crowns and the two on the right show infection of the underground part of the stem. (Tops and part of the roots were removed from the plants for for photographing.)

Are you spending needless money on postage? Here are some mailing tips that can help you save money at the post office. Rising costs of living make it imperative that many persons trim their costs when and where feasible.

These tips may help you:

Don't send letters airmail to cities less than 250 miles away. It wastes money and saves no time.

Don't send special deliveries to a post office box. Regular mail will do as good a job in this case.

Don't waste airmail, special delivery postage on Friday business mailings unless your addressee works on Saturday.

Compare rates of air express and air parcel post. Sometimes one is cheaper—and they both arrive at the same time.

Drop mail off between noon and 4 p.m. It's the slack period in the post office and will get your letters off to a head start. Good timing can make a five-cent stamp, all that is necessary.

Sewing machine needles won't rust if you keep them covered with a petroleum jelly. Run the needle through a piece of cloth before using it on material.

How long should you keep cancelled checks? Depends on the purpose. Hold on to all checks at least two years, counsels the American Bankers Association. Checks for items claimed as tax deductions should be kept for as long as you occupy the premises.

Livestock Institute Set at A&M College

College Station, July—Representatives from every segment of Texas and the Southwestern multi-billion livestock and meat industry are expected to attend the August 1st and 2nd Livestock and Meat Marketing Institute at Texas A and M College.

Ed Uvacek, extension livestock marketing specialist and chairman of the program committee says this will be the first such meeting held at A and M. It will involve livestock producers, packers, wholesalers, retailers, marketing agents, and other industry personnel, he said, opportunity to examine problems of common interest and, through open discussions, develop solutions to them. Since the program will feature panel discussions, everyone, including the audience, will have many opportunities to participate, the specialist adds.

It's the Wood that Counts

Rich redwood fibres are combined with white aspens to make the "No-Clog, Sta Fresh" filters the finest in the world. The weather resistant redwood eliminates that dank, "fishy" odor and insures long filter life. "Sta Fresh" filters are constructed with strong coarse mesh outside to keep filter from clogging and provide minimum air resistance while the fine mesh inside eliminates insects and keeps wood fibres from protruding into cooler. "Sta Fresh" filters are exclusive with Paramount Coolers.
