Pull the Trigger on Lazy Bowels

With herb laxative, combined with syrup pepin to make it agreeable and easy to take. When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying" because your bowels don't pull.

It calls for Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, combined with good old Syrup Pepin to make your laxative more agreeable and easier to take. For years many Doctors have used pepin compounds, as agreeable carriers to make other medicines more palatable when your "taster" feels easily upset. So be sure your laxative contains Syrup Pepin. Insist on Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna, combined with Syrup Pepin. See how wonderfully its herb Laxative Senna wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your intestines, to bring welcome relief from constipation. And see how its Syrup Pepin makes Dr. Caldwell's medicine so smooth and agreeable to a touchy gullet. Even finicky children love the taste of this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna at your druggist's today. Try one laxative that won't bring on violent distaste, even when you take it after a full meal.

Don't Be a "HUDDLER"

"Huddling" is perfectly proper on the football field, but it isn't so nice when all the family has to huddle around one small lamp, just because someone forgot to get a fresh supply of lamp bulbs.

Light is one of the smallest items of household expense. Really, there is no reason to crowd around one lamp when you can have all the light you need for only a few cents a night.

SOMETHING TO REMEMBER Nearly every store sells lamp bulbs. Phone for a supply or buy them the next time you go to the store.

REDDY KNOWATT SAYS: Electricity is cheap. A 150-watt lamp costs less than one penny an hour.

Odds Are Better To Win Prize In Regional Contest

Officials of the Admiration Coffee contest are pointing out that a housewife in the Southwest has a 16 to 1 better chance in the company's contest than in a national contest.

A housewife who competes in a national contest is up against a possible 132 million persons, while the population of the Southwest territory is only 8,000,000 persons.

The contest was sponsored in such a way as to make the chance of winning greater in the $3,000 contest.

Thus, the officials pointed out, a housewife competing in this contest would be on the same ratio as if competing in a $48,000 national contest.

Advertising in The Herald recently announced the opening of the first of 10 weekly contests with a first prize of $100 cash, a second prize of $50, third prize of $20 and 20 prizes of $2 each.

The contest is simple: you merely write in 25 words or less "why you prefer Admiration Coffee."

"You may also submit as many entries as you wish in each week's contest," officials said.

Advertisements in The Herald throughout the fall and early winter will carry to the housewife the selling story of the deliciousness of Admiration Coffee.

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

Plans Are Advanced For Santa's Visit

Plans for staging a gala celebration on Dec. 6 to herald the advent of the Christmas shopping season in Big Spring are shaping up under the direction of C. O. Nalley as general chairman.

In a memorandum to sub-committee chairmen, Nalley urged co-workers to make every effort to attend to duties well in advance of the time in order to insure success of the venture.

He outlined specific duties for each committee so that each would know what is expected of its unit.

Cliff Wiley, head of the entertainment committee, will be charged with responsibility of organizing five sub-units to enlist schools in the Big Spring area to participate in the parade, and to advise them of prize awards.

Jack Douglas, as parade chairman, is to secure permission for the parade, notify each entry of its place in the procession, select a route and direct the event.

T. J. A. Robinson will be in charge of purchasing candy and Burke Summers will head up a group to distribute it to children.

R. W. Whippley, who is in charge of handling details for Santa Claus' appearance, will work with Joe Hayden on publicity.

Under Malcolm Bridges, city WPA recreational supervisor, will arrange for an amateur program to be staged on the east side of the courthouse lawn immediately following the parade.

B. Sherrod is to enlist merchants in a campaign to arrange displays of Christmas goods in their windows and for joining in the treasure hunt program for a window unveiling the same evening. At about 10 p. m. a street dance will be staged under direction of Chester Cluck. Other arrangements, such as seeking to have Christmas street lights and other decorations in place, will be undertaken by the general chairman.

joined a searching party to hunt for themselves.

The youths went for a sail on Rehoboth Bay, and failed to return for 12 hours when they were driven off course by a change of wind. Returning after midnight, they found excitement in town and a searching party being organized. They joined the group and found later that it was to look for them.

Z. L. Multhead, Dallas inventor and brother of Thomas L. Multhead of Big Spring, has submitted plans to the war department for a method whereby enemy objectives can be effectively bombed without the use of planes or pilots.

According to detailed drawings shown to Senator Morris Sheppard, chairman of the committee on military affairs, by the Big Spring man's brother, explosives would be placed on small balloons and like carriers equipped with auto-mata releases. Upon getting into position over the objective, location determined by simple calculations of the speed of the wind and the distance to be traveled, the bombs would be dropped on the point of fire. Bombs would be released at periodic intervals as needed, according to the inventor.

Multhead, with the assistance of Dr. J. L. Cline, Dallas weather observer, has completed what seems to be an efficient working model of the device. Possible use of the machine is under consideration by air attaches of the British embassy in Washington, D. C.

State Revenue 21 Million Over Year's Costs

AUSTIN, Oct. 31 (UP)—The state's revenue exceeded government costs by approximately $21,000,000 in the last year, Comptroller George H. Sheppard announced today.

Receipts amounted to $187,400,854, and expenditures to $166,417,612 for the fiscal year which ended Aug. 31, 1940.

Sheppard said overall cash balances in the treasury more than offset the deficit in the general revenue fund.

Treasury balances increased from $53,797,080 in the previous year to $69,094,507, due chiefly to deposit of state money in the federal treasury under the unemployment compensation law.

Ad valorem tax revenue jumped from $14,983,516 to $22,275,576, due to a boost in the rate.

Gasoline, gross receipts and other tax incomes also moved up.

Expenditures for public welfare pensions declined from $35,515,550 to $29,460,943, while those for education increased from $45,640,984 to $58,579,342.

Total tax income was $121,524,457, compared with $108,650,566, an increase of $12,873,891.

Government cost expenditures increased $1,394,113.

Progress Made In Paralysis Fight

COLUMBUS, O. (UP)—Significant headway has been made during the past year to combat dread poliomyelitis, or infantile paralysis, according to the Ohio State University bacteriology department.

Two outstanding developments were: the discovery that the "colton" rat is susceptible to at least one form of the disease, and that water and sewage may be media for the transmission of his disease.

In the past, paralysis research has been limited because only the monkey—always difficult to obtain and more so since the war—was known to be susceptible to the "polio" virus. Use of the rat in the study of the disease, said authorities, would result in increased research on the problem.

Ohio State's department of bacteriology, like other research agencies in the field, received grants from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis to carry on its work. Funds were made available from proceeds of the President's "Birthday balls."

FIRST CONSERVATION CHECKS RECEIVED IN MITCHELL COUNTY

COLORADO CITY, Oct. 29—The first batch of 1940 soil conservation checks for Mitchell county under the AAA program was being distributed this week from the county AAA office in Colorado City.

Three hundred and fifty-two checks were received, covering 234 contracts and amounting to $34,938.37, according to Barney Wiles, county AAA executive. This is approximately one-fifth of the total due the county.

Cotton parity checks received in the county have reached a total of approximately $135,000.

STATE WINS FINAL VICTORY IN TAX LITIGATION

AUSTIN, Oct. 31 (UP)—Final victory came to the state today in its legal battle to levy chain store taxes against 20 filling stations operated by the Standard Oil company of Texas.

The supreme court overruled a motion for rehearing filed by the company which recently was held liable for the tax on grounds the corporation controlled the stations despite dealer agreements.

NEWS: SOBER DRIVER RUNS INTO DRUNK

WINSTON SALEM, N. C., Oct. 31 (UP)—A patrolman's report on an automobile accident upset precedent.

He said evidence at the scene indicated that a drunken driver was proceeding correctly on the right side of the road when a sober driver came along and crashed into him, head-on.

He Got His Deer

COLFAX, Cal. (UP)—Nathan W. Clinkinbeard got his buck — by drowning. His bullet hit the deer's antlers as it was drinking from a deep, swift canal. The deer was pitched into the canal, where it was caught by the current and carried away. Clinkinbeard followed it for three miles, and finally dragged it out—drowned.

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

President Roosevelt's announcement that he is supporting a British request for 12,000 more warplanes—bringing to 26,000 the total contracted for—is likely to boost England's stock among wavering European non-belligerents.

The obvious fact that this huge fleet may make the difference between victory and defeat is bound to have an effect on Russia, Turkey, Spain, Portugal, and even defeated France.

All those countries Hitler is trying by every means to bring into his camp, at least so far as moral support is concerned. His purpose, of course, is to consolidate his gains and create a unified Europe to support his "new order."

The Russian attitude naturally is a matter of paramount concern to England at this crucial moment. To my mind one of the gravest threats hanging over the British is the possibility (I don't say probability) that Hitler may be able to force the bolsheviks to throw their full support to the axis powers.

That would be a disaster of the first magnitude for England, and might spell her ultimate defeat.

Previously I have expressed the view here that Russia's whole inclination must be to rise up and smite Hitler, whose recent operations are a direct challenge to soviet interests. And I ventured the further belief that communist chief Stalin is sitting tight because he hesitates to tangle with Hitler's mighty military machine until a more favorable moment arrives.

We have Hitler poised and apparently ready to strike at the Dardanelles—one of Russia's lifelines and an essential bulwark to her safety. It's Stalin's move to counter this threat and you'd expect him to strike quickly if he could.

I think we have our answer for that. The risk is so great that he is waiting for a better opportunity—probably hoping that Britain will be able to break, or at least weaken, Hitler.

Until such time as Stalin is convinced that Britain has a good chance to win the war, he isn't likely to challenge Hitler. Meanwhile there's the danger that the nazi leader may be able to display enough force to pull Russia unwillingly to his side. The prospect of England obtaining that great fleet of airplanes may influence Russia greatly.

If Moscow sits tight, and Turkey joins Britain in defense of the Dardanelles, things will look rather good for England. Then if the Anglo-Turkish allies make sufficient progress, the Russians may find by spring or even sooner that the time is ripe for them to join the fray.

STATEMENTS ISSUED ON KEY ISSUES OF THE CAMPAIGN

By the Associated Press Campaign statements vied with speeches for attention yesterday on the political firing line.

Irving Fisher, Yale professor emeritus of economics, said in a statement issued by the republican national committee that "our negative program of not producing has retarded us. A positive program of producing is needed. This is a job for a business man and a man who sees this need clearly. Roosevelt is not such a man. Willkie is."

Attorney General Jackson, in a statement at Washington, termed "political humbug" a comment by Rep. Barton (R-NY) on the handling of a critical letter sent to President Roosevelt by Mrs. William H. Fain of Greenwich, Conn. Barton had said in a radio speech that when Mrs. Fain requested a copy of her letter to refresh her memory she received a photographed copy from the justice department bearing a stamp which said "criminal division."

Barton, a candidate for the senate, said handling of the letter was "something to make our ancestors turn over in their graves."

Jackson said the letter was "perfectly proper" and was turned over to the justice department's criminal division for acknowledgment "simply because that division has a correspondence section" and the White House clerical force was overburdened.

In Baltimore, Governor Herbert R. O'Connor read to a democratic labor rally a letter from Mr. Roosevelt saying that "forward steps" taken by the administration in the last eight years would be continued. "The gains we have made we shall hold, I pledge you," the president's message said. In New York, both democratic and republican leaders denounce a circular attacking the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation, an institution for infantile paralysis sufferers whose growth Mr. Roosevelt has furthered, as a "private business operated for profit."

Included among last night's speeches: New York—Senator Wagner (D-NY) assailed Willkie's record as president of Commonwealth and Southern corporation, saying that he did not help the investor, the consumer, or labor, and adding that the republican nominee's record as a business man "marks him as the last man to be entrusted with the lives and welfare of 130 million people."

East Liverpool, O.—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said President Roosevelt "called those of us liars who have said the rearming of America was slow and that it is hamstrung and impeded by the character and policies of the present administration."

New York—Dorothy Thompson, columnist, said the republican campaign has been "carefully designed to rob the American people of their wits." She said the "technique" of the republican "sales boys and public relations counsels" was "first to create fear and then to offer a branded antidote."

Los Angeles—Senator Norris (Ind-Neb) charged that Willkie was, by "wild and untrue statements about our national defense, giving encouragement to those who would destroy us."

Glens Falls, N. Y.—Senator Russell (D-Ga) termed Willkie a "miracle man" who "has been on both sides of every question."

St. Louis—Joe Louis, heavy-weight boxing champion, blamed Mr. Roosevelt for the lack of a federal anti-lynching law and urged negroes to vote for Willkie "because he will do what the president has failed to accomplish."

WILLING HANDS BUILD A CHURCH—As long as energy as they were short on cash, the congregation of the Missionhill Baptist church in Johnson county, Kansas, pitched in to build a 62x100 foot church topped by above belfry, on which the Rev. L. C. Pennington (right), pastor, and B. Cross labor. About 30 men, working week nights, built tiny $2,000 structure.

NON-INTERVENTION CAUSE ADVANCED BY LINDBERGH

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 31 (AP)—A nationwide student organization espousing the cause of non-intervention in the war was launched today by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, who said that this daughter, 1604 Settles, were disintegration's involvement "would be a disaster for our own country and for Europe."

The noted flier was brought here by a group of Yale undergraduates first student chapter of the America First committee.

Household Hints

By Mrs. Arreva D. French Who Conducted The Herald Cooking School

To remove the water mark which forms on the bathroom tumbler, fill it with sour milk or buttermilk and let it stand overnight.

If ink is spilled on a carpet, cover immediately with salt. Scoop it up as it soaks up the ink and repeat until it comes off clean. Put on more and leave overnight.

Grease the lip of the cream or milk pitcher with butter to prevent the drip. When dripping water causes yellow stains in your porcelain basins, moisten pulverized chalk with ammonia and apply with a stiff brush.

To remove iodine stains from linens rub the stained area with a slice of lemon.

The whites of eggs will whip more readily if a pinch of salt is added to them. If the eggs are placed in cold water for a time before being broken, they will whip easily.

NEW CORNHUSKING CHAMPION NAMED

DAVENPORT, Ia., Oct. 31 (AP)—The corn belt acclaimed a new national husking champion today in Irvin Bauman, youthful Illinois farmer who became the nation's top "farm athlete" on his third try.

Bauman, a slender 27-year-old tenant farmer, set a record of 46.71 for the event.

BETTER HOUSING FOR CHINATOWN IS APPROVED

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31 (AP)—A government-approved plan to use federal funds to build in Chinatown here a strange oriental paradise, complete with a Golden Gate, two ivory towers, and coin-in-the-slot washing machines on the rooftop, was detailed today.

The project, when completed, will permit part of Chinatown's thousands to live in privacy away from their present stuffy barracks and the pungent smells of Asiatic cooking.

It was assured of realization yesterday when President Roosevelt approved a $1,350,000 housing authority appropriation for the task. To replace ill-lit, dingy sections where as many as eight persons live in one room—sometimes without a window—the authority will build airy, roomy apartments.

Black Cat Hitches Ride On Halloween

GOLDSBORO, N. C., Oct. 31 (AP)—This being Halloween and all, Herman Edens said he guessed it was just appropriate that a black cat hopped a 100-mile ride on his truck.

But Edens wasn't in any mood to pass off so lightly the cat's part in almost setting his truck on fire. Edens, enroute south from Baltimore, Md., pulled his truck to the side of the road for a little catnap. He left the hood up. One hundred miles later Edens smelled smoke. Finally he raised the hood. Curled for comfort atop the horn and the wires connecting the instrument with the battery was a huge black cat. The animal had caused a short.

Edens said he left the cat unharmed on the highway to face the problem of hitching a ride back.

WOMEN RALLY TO NATION'S DEFENSE IN RED CROSS VOLUNTEER SERVICES

Training Courses Fit Them for Duties Vital in Present Emergency

With the call to the colors of more than a million of the nation's young men, American women everywhere ask how they can volunteer their services to aid in the emergency. What part can women and girls play in national defense?

Top, left, millions of garments and surgical dressings made for war victims by uniformed women; right, Nurse's Aides trained to serve in military clinics; Gray Ladies trained to give morale building services in military and civilian hospitals.

Steadily the absentee vote total rises, with the figure going to 174 at noon Thursday. The deadline for this type of voting is Saturday evening, so those who are not sure they will be here next Tuesday will do well to cast their ballots before the end of the week.

The latest dope on the requested liquor referendum is that an order may be passed Monday calling for the vote. Just when it will be a matter of conjecture, but it must be not less than 10 nor more than 20 days after the date of calling.

Two California women were detained here Wednesday night by Roscoe authorities on a charge of "hit and run" driving, but police said it turned out the women had stopped after a mishap in Roscoe, had given their address, car number, etc. The other party got to thinking it over and decided that they practically ran off anyhow. They were, of course, detained here only a short time.

Members of three adult evening school classes combined Wednesday evening at the high school to hear E. C. Masters, Big Spring electrician, give a talk and demonstration on magnetos.

QUINTUPLETS BORN TO FRENCH WOMAN

VICHY, France, Oct. 31 (UP)—French newspapers reported today that a miner's wife at Lens, near Lille, had given birth to quintuplets—four boys and one girl.

The girl was said to have died but the boys were reported doing well. The parents have three older children.

Laval

the English has not loosened, I cannot say that he said so definitely, but I can cite a word used by one high French source in describing what he hoped would happen to the English.

That word was "grabouiller," which in French slang means to crush completely. Americans would say: "To leave only a greasy spot."

What happened when Hitler and Laval met near Paris or perhaps in the capital itself remains a secret, but all authorized sources agree it had more to do with the continuation of the present war than in trying to stop the conflict.

(Later Chief of State Petain met Hitler and it was stated they agreed on the principal of collaboration "for reconstructing the peace of Europe.")

One explanation which bears out Laval's views in the recent handling over of all French Atlantic ports not actually in the combat zone to the French. Thus the defense of the French coast against possible British attack would be left to the Vichy government's army and navy and the Germans could occupy themselves elsewhere.

Masonic Picture To Be Shown Here Friday Evening

Guest of the Staked Plains lodge, A. F. and A. M., on Friday evening will be Claude Austin of Dallas, a director of Masonic education for the Grand Lodge of Texas. Mr. Austin will show a moving picture of various Masonic activities, both historical and modern. Among the historical subjects are views of Holland lodge No. 1, first organized under the Grand Lodge of Louisiana. More modern are the views of the Masonic Home in Fort Worth, including part of a Masonic boys football game and Christmas at the home. The Christmas views are in color. Mr. Austin has spent about two years in gathering scenes for this hour-and-a-half show to bring to the Masons of Texas who have not had opportunity to see all lodge activities. The program here will start at 7.30. All Masons and their families are invited to attend.

Modern Huskers Must Be A Bunch Of Sissies

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—The original University of Nebraska footballers knew what the term "iron men" meant. Ebenezer E. Mockett, captain of the university's first team in 1890, recalled that the squad had only one substitute "and he didn't get to play very often." The next year there was NO substitute, and "if a man got hurt we played with 10 men, or nine men." Now a resident of Lincoln Mockett sees the Huskers play every fall.

The Be-Furred Look Is The Style Note Of Importance For Winter

Here's the be-furred look in a polo wolf jacket you could wear with pride over a tweed suit in the daytime or over a flame-colored evening dress at night. It's one of the growing group of good fur styles offered at less than $100.

By AMY PORTER AP Fashion Writer

How will you have your fur this year? In big or little doses? At a pace or a prance? Would you care for an albatross mink coat at $9,000 (very rare)? Or will you spend $1.95 for a furpon? In any case, the be-furred look is yours if you want it. And you will want it if you aren't deaf to style notes. At the New York fashion openings, fur in its many new guises just about stole the show. It isn't surprising to find that fur coats in all price ranges are both better looking and less expensive than ever before. The trend has been in that direction for some time, what with improved breeding and manufacturing processes. Wide Range Of Use What is surprising is the great originality displayed in the styling of furs. Whoever heard of a sedate little cloth suit having cuffs of flamboyant red fox?

Whoever heard of big clumpy sports shoes in leopard skin? And how would you like a silver fox head for a handbag? Or a black Persian bomb coat with box pleats, of all things, in the skirt? Or ermine tails for earrings? Most all-fur coats have a little more collar and a little less shoulder than they had last year. Most of them have interesting sleeves. One sleeve is made to be pushed up, just like a sweater sleeve. Detached fur is the best new idea as trimming for cloth coats. Use It In Two Places If your coat comes with a separate Spanish shawl of beaver, it's obvious the shawl will be endlessly useful on its own account. For a quaint look, adopt one of those tiny little fur shoulder caps and repeat the fur in a muff or a bag. The one rule for smartness is to use fur in at least two places on your costume? It's a great fur season, an invitation to experiment in new ways to gain the be-furred look.

The chain letter was finally burned to break the hoodoo.

Return To Spiritual Life Urged As Remedy For World's Ills

In one of the oldest landmarks of Glascock county, an old-fashioned remedy was suggested Wednesday evening as a cure for national ills. Shine Phillips, addressing a banquet gathering sponsored by the Methodist women of Lee's community, urged a return to simple and spiritual living. More than 100 persons were on hand for the affair, held in the original Lee's store, once used as a U. S. postoffice and a monument to early day Glascock county activities. It was loaned to the women, the Empire Southern Service connected gas and Texas Electric Service furnished current while Big Spring merchants and members of all denominations at Lee's contributed food. As early as Monday tickets for the event had been sold out, and people were present from Elbow, Big Spring, Lees and Garden City. Fall flowers were used to decorate the hall and proceeds were used by the women in meeting the quota for closing the conference year. On the program were the Rev. John English, Big Spring; Mrs. Duke Lipscomb, hostess for the dinner; John Nichol, welcome address; Mrs. Walter Teel, response; Mrs. Homer Shreets and

Mrs. Jim Bruton; Lees string band, reading by Mrs. M. M. Fairchild. Mrs. E. E. Winger directed the affair while Mrs. R. H. Poard, Mrs. Tommy Thompson supervised serving of a chicken dinner, assisted by Marjorie Overton, Wyatt Lipscomb and Edward Winger. Declaring that "greed and speed" have become the impelling motives of the nation, Phillips said we have "forgotten the virtues that built this republic x x x we have become worshipers of luxury and ease." The cure for the disease with which we are afflicted does not consist of regulations, taxes and codes, but of a rigorous spiritual diet. Other generations have suffered hardships (but) x x x there can be no depression in a nation whose soul refuses to be depressed.

Highways as safe as modern automobiles... roads that can take the speeds of which today's cars are capable...

In other words, the highway engineer seems to have caught up with automotive research laboratories. Obviously, as more highways like the Pennsylvania Pike are built...

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

WASHINGTON—Capital folk. The National Police academy, sponsored by the federal bureau of investigation, gives a 12-week course of intensive instruction in modern police methods to a group of 40 men...

He was a heavy-set, dumpy deputy sheriff from the sagebrush country. He was terribly over-weight and while it was expected that the NPA's daily hour of physical training would reduce his weight...

His actions were called strange. Although he never missed a class, he never went to lunch with his classmates and immediately the afternoon sessions were out he would hurry off by himself...

Finally, the course was over and, on graduation day, the Lone Wolf came into the office of the assistant director. He said "There's something been worrying me. I know the fellows don't like me. They think I'm a queer guy, I guess. That's all right. I don't blame them. But I did feel kinda like some explanation was due you."

"The truth is I had to mortgage my home to get enough money to pay my expenses here. I had to leave my family and some other relatives I'm kinda taking care of back home. It's been a little tough."

"When I got my budget all figured out I found I just had 35 cents a day to buy meals while I was here. I didn't mind that for myself. Shucks, I had coffee and doughnuts for breakfast, soup for lunch, and I managed to get along for supper. But I couldn't stand for those other fellows to see me eating like that and I couldn't the growth of modern express roads before producing the real "teardrop" car which will provide gasoline economies and split air currents at 60 to 100 miles an hour.

Traveling over this four-lane, divided highway in Pennsylvania, the motorist stimulates the poise and relaxation of the engineer sitting at the controls of his locomotive, riding on an exclusive right-of-way that leaves him free to concentrate solely upon warning signs. Copying railroad tactics, the turnpike signs warn of reduced speed zones and announce exits and entrances at least ten miles in advance of motorists who will click off those distances within ten minutes or less.

Such highway standards serve, by comparison, to accentuate the hazards of conventional driving. Speeding 160 miles without seeing a pedestrian, stray domestic animal, billboard, roadside hot-dog stand, or traffic light evolves new concepts of speed with safety that must inevitably create a stronger demand for more non-stop highways.

Well, where I was going for my meals. I guess it's what you call false pride. But that's the way it was, anyway. And I just figured I ought to tell you that I'm not really a strange guy and if I had it to do over again, I'd do it the same way because that's about the only way I could have got what the academy has to offer."

"There isn't a sorority girl in the country who doesn't know the ceremony of 'putting the pin outside.' It comes generally at the close of the year, most often the senior year, when a girl who has been secretly wearing a fraternity pin UNDER her blouse, puts it outside over her heart and lets the world know she is engaged to so-and-so. Here's the Washington version."

A young woman government worker we know is an ardent Wilkieite. At a friend's house she was given a very pretty Wilkie blouse. She remembered that the Hatch act forbade her wearing it during working hours, so she pinned it under her lapel. That evening, as she started to leave the building, she pulled her collar up around her throat. It wasn't until she got home that her attention was called to the fact that she had been brazening it out for an hour with this tell-tale headlight most prominently displayed.

The next morning, she pinned the button inside her coat and then forgot, throwing the garment over the back of her chair in the department cafeteria at lunch time. The button stood out like a lantern on a starless night. Co-workers sneered. Junior executives sneezed. Finally her best friend said her.

The young lady hasn't given up. She now wears the button pinned under her dress, the old college fashion. "But," she says, "I just know that some day I'm going to forget and wear a peek-a-boo shirtwaist and then I WILL be out of a job."

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—About two years ago I dropped into one of the Broadway clubs and saw a lanky, red-headed comedian by the name of Danny Kaye put on his act. To me, he seemed funny. Not all comedians do. A few minutes later Billy Wilder walked up to him and told him he thought he was one of the cleverest comedians he had ever seen. That was high praise.

Looking back on that night I recall a little song that Kaye sang. It was "Sweet Molly Malone." "I picked it up in Dublin," he explained. "I heard somebody sing it on some crowded Dublin street, and I liked it."

Today, this song has become a great hit in the East. I suppose you can find it recorded by many people, but the one I like best of all is Maxine Sullivan. Her rendition of it is the record of the month.

Our coming-up-in-the-world note for the week concerns Charlie Chaplin. . . . In the old days Charlie signed himself simply as "Charlie." But since he has made "The Dictator" he has billed himself as "Charlie" Chaplin. . . . Seems mighty august to me.

They are calling Lanny Ross' farm house, which has only four rooms, "Singer's Midget." Jimmy Van Heusen, the composer and band leader, is also a pilot. He has named his plane "All This and Heaven Too," after one of his song hits. Van Heusen's real name is Edward Chester Babcock.

There's a fellow in this town who came out of the box cars and hobo camps of America to become an operator of nightclubs and a producer of plays. Late the other night, through heavy-lidded eyes, he peered at me for a long time, then said: "When you're broke you've got lots of friends. But when you win a little success they seem to fall away from you." Well, I should have said to him some of the things on my mind. . . . I should have said: "Since you made a little money you've become a first class heel. On one or two occasions you've pulled some raw deals. . . . What did you expect?" But I didn't. I took the easy way out, pretending not to hear him. . . . I wish now I had let him have it.

This new Cafe Society club on 48th strikes a responsive chord. It was the first time I'd been by there in years. Back in 1934, a week or so after repeal, Belle Livingston opened a night club there, and I, as usual, made every effort to attract it.

But here in 1946, in this club, the club became known as "The Zoo." Ed Roy, Mother Kelly, and the Salt Club, all come up the ghost. Cafe Society is making the exterior by painting murals on the outside walls. One little difficulty was encountered when the artist found a small window in the way of his mural. He solved his problem by painting a frame around the pane, causing it to resemble a framed picture.

One of my Japanese friends, a Tokyo correspondent, sums up his idea of Utopia thusly: "Marry a Japanese girl, eat Chinese food, and live in America in an apartment house."

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Lou Payne, widower of Mrs. Leslie Carter, was sitting in the back of a theatre as a new movie scene rolled back the years for him.

There on the screen was Miriam Hopkins, playing "The Lady With Red Hair," and there was Claude Rains, white-haired Belasco in re-incarnation. And there also was Lou Payne, tall, considerably younger, in the person of Richard Ainley, new English actor.

It was one of the picture's final scenes. Mrs. Carter, after quarreling with Belasco, was rehearsing a new show without his guidance. Having seen her faltering efforts, Payne had gone to Belasco, asking that he return, and this was the impressionist's arrival at the theatre—a joyous reunion, spoiled immediately by Mrs. Carter's discovery that her husband had sent for Belasco.

Sitting with Payne, I couldn't help wondering aloud how a man felt seeing portions of his life reenacted for the camera before his very eyes. Lou, when he is not serving as technical adviser as now, is an actor in his own right. Once, he was a Broadway star.

"It's strange," he agreed. "Sometimes it seems as if the years literally are rolling back. But this scene—this is fiction. Much of the picture is as it happened, but not all. Actually, Belasco and Mrs. Carter never did another play together although their friendship was restored." I asked how he liked Ainley's performance.

of Lou Payne. "Fine," he said, then cracked, remembering a story. "Reminds me of the time I saw Alf Hampton, the comedian, in a Paris show burlesque some of our contemporary hits. Alf did a skit on Nat Goodwin, and one day Nat saw the matinee. Afterward Alf asked Nat what he thought and Nat said: 'Well, all I can say is that one of us must be terrible!'"

Between "takes," Claude Rains is sitting alone on a camera case at the rear of the theatre, wondering, he says, if they'll be through with him in time for his radio date with Shirley Temple. He is a Belasco who still looks like Rains for they have not altered the shape of his face or hidden him behind putty. Yet the effect is more of Belasco than of Rains. The famed clerical collar worn by the great producer was, as he pints out, not really such.

"No, I never saw Mrs. Carter," he says, "although my wife did once. She was a remarkable lady, from all I hear, and extremely theatrical. Everything she did was theatrical."

After chatting awhile Claude Rains suddenly is no longer with us. He is pacing up and down a few feet away and he is muttering, half aloud: "No! No! Not that way! Caroline, have you forgotten all I taught you? . . . No! No! Not that way, Caroline. . . ." etc. All by himself, oblivious to his surroundings, to us, to all but his lines.

The Road To Shani Lun

By Rita Mohler Hanson

Chapter 19 TEMU AGAIN

"Lynn seems to be that kind of person if she's the heroine I've been hearing about all afternoon," Sam interposed.

"What became of your brother?" Peggy asked.

"I suppose he's lost, too," said Lynn ambiguously.

Others interrupted Lynn's story had spread and enlarged and became a sensation among the foreigners in Lanfou. Added to this sensation had come rumors of international import.

A strange airplane was maneuvering about the territory illegally. One of the new low-wing monoplane that was reported capable of piercing the stratosphere had dived down occasionally for observation. The first run made it a Japanese plane, another, a Russian, a third, a British, and a fourth had it that Chinese bandits had taken to the air.

The Chinese government had rushed in a couple of scouting ships to investigate. Agents of other nations were reported to have chartered private Chinese planes to do the same. Word came that British India had made arrangements to land aircraft on the eastern border of Tibet if necessary. There was talk of a Mohammedan uprising that had already begun in the north.

"It's like dancing while Nero fiddles," cried little Mrs. Wallace, shivering with happy excitement.

The clever man who was conducting the tourist party led Lynn to the floor. "Here's hoping something will happen," he said gloomily. "Does my party thank me for keeping them safe?" They do not, the old maid.

Lynn laughed. "You mean least of all the old maids?" "I've been tempted to hire river pirates to board this vessel tonight."

"I dreadsay a little suffering and hardship would do your tourists good," Lynn agreed.

"And ruin me." "A tap on the gentleman's shoulder turned Lynn over to one of the Chinese aviators, the best dancer on the boat, she soon discovered. He was a very good-looking young man with large, intelligent eyes, perfect teeth, and a serious smile. Lynn surmised that the American college girl had done well in marrying him. She thought of Temu Darin and his master and asked abruptly: "Have you ever seen the Prince of Shani Lun?"

The young man shook his head. "No, I haven't. My government considers him a hard person to deal with. I've met his official representative, Temu Darin."

Lynn lost a step and recovered herself in a moment. "What do you think of Temu Darin?" "He's an ace flying man, has the best luck in the air of anybody I ever heard of. The fellow say it's due to that horseshoe scar on his cheek. Aviators are a superstitious lot. "Superstition's like magic. There's both white and black." They danced a while in silence.

The Chinese tailed had made Lynn a gorgeous and striking dress of blue pearly brocade on a rose-leaf pink. She was the belle of the party and on the arm of the best dancer on the boat. The orchestra played a new and enticing tang. And, yet, she felt strangely lonely and restless in a feminine way. Lonely enough to cry for no reason at all.

Sudden Panic Had there been too much time for thinking since she arrived in Lanfou? She could not dismiss Temu Darin from the recesses of her mind. He, seemingly, had shown her the way to the region of the higher dimensions of space, and regardless of where she went or where she stayed, she still felt his disturbing presence at her side. Then, too, not once since she had been in Asia had the dream of the lilac tree recurred to her. She felt the need of its emotional power which kept her true to some inner guidance.

They had stopped near the railing as the music ceased. Suddenly, Lynn turned pale and caught the railing for support. Then the color flooded her face and her chin went up. Mr. Wallace had stepped through the door from the boat saloon. He was not alone. "Temu Darin!" breathed Lynn. Tall and straight in a dinner jacket and black tie, he did not look about the assemblage, but with his eyes straight ahead, followed Mr. Wallace across the deck to meet the plant specialist's wife. The Chinese aviator hastily excused himself to Lynn and went over to him.

The twenty-odd people on deck had grown quiet and turned to stare discreetly. Lynn could hear Mr. Wallace explaining in suppressed excitement. Temu Darin was an evener from the Prince of Shani Lun; he had come downriver in a private junk on his way to Nanking. The host and one or two persons standing near were introduced.

The orchestra struck up again and gave Temu a moment's freedom. He turned and looked across at Lynn as if he had known all the time just where she stood. Their eyes held for a moment, straight and steady. Then Mrs. Wallace required his attention and after a moment he asked her to dance.

Sam came to Lynn for the dance, but she had sunk into a chair. She couldn't talk; she couldn't rise. He sat down beside her.

"Who's the battle-scarred hero?" he asked. Lynn shrugged her shoulders. Lynn soon became slightly sentimental about meeting her in this unexpected way, and he tried to pry an admission from her that she was sorry she had thrown him over. In a light unthinking manner she countered his suggestions and by the time the music ceased, she had regained her self-possession.

Mrs. Wallace brought Temu over and introduced him to Lynn. "I've told him your story," Mrs. Wallace added, her eyes shining with excitement.

"I think you are a very lucky girl to escape those bandits as you did," he said promptly.

"Luck seems to follow some people," she reminded him blandly.

His eyes flashed their amusement. "Yes indeed, Miss Britton. Your horoscope was read by our greatest astrologers when the Prince first learned that you were to be his."

Lynn trembled for a moment, he looked reckless enough to say anything. "Guest" he finished. "May I have this dance?"

"She hesitated for a moment, then slipped into his embrace. Lightly, expertly, they circled the floor in silence. Lynn knew for the first time what it meant to dance with a partner whose mind and spirit as well as his body complemented hers.

She became rhythm, losing all sense of identity and the passing of time. He smiled into her eyes and quietly thanked her, then acknowledged a presentation to Peggy.

As he danced with her, Lynn accepted Sam's second invitation. "You're dancing like in angel tonight," he told her.

"You mean a goddess?" He glanced at her shining eyes, her glowing cheeks. "I guess I do," he said huskily.

Quiet Conflict Temu had the next dance with Lynn. Afterwards, he drew her to the prow of the boat where various couples had sought seclusion. Every eye followed them, these two tall, handsome, exciting creatures.

"Won't we make ourselves conspicuous by our absence?" she protested faintly.

"We have to talk and we can't seem to dance and talk."

Seated in a secluded corner, Lynn became objective-minded again. "You have courage," she said, "with a word I could have you put in chains or whatever it is they do with kidnappers in China."

"You'd have given the word when you first told your story if you'd wished me put in chains."

She withdrew her shoulder from its contact with his arm. "I've been a little awry."

"I'm of your people, Tara Lynn. You couldn't cause me harm any more than I could you." Something in the cadence of his low voice shook her nerves.

"Why did you come here?" she demanded.

"To ask you to finish our journey. The Prince is becoming impatient."

She clenched her hands. "I hate your Prince. My answer to him is no, no, and always no!" She paused, struck by a thought and looked into his face. "Does he threaten to kill you, Temu, if you do not succeed in bringing me?"

"He would cut out my heart." Yet he smiled as he said it.

"What did he say when I escaped being added to his harem?" Temu grinned. "You are his harem, Tara Lynn. According to tradition you incarnated previously as two manifestations of the Tara, the green and the white;

How To Torture Your Husband

NEW YORK—About two years ago I dropped into one of the Broadway clubs and saw a lanky, red-headed comedian by the name of Danny Kaye put on his act. To me, he seemed funny. Not all comedians do. A few minutes later Billy Wilder walked up to him and told him he thought he was one of the cleverest comedians he had ever seen. That was high praise.

of plays. Late the other night, through heavy-lidded eyes, he peered at me for a long time, then said: "When you're broke you've got lots of friends. But when you win a little success they seem to fall away from you." Well, I should have said to him some of the things on my mind. . . . I should have said: "Since you made a little money you've become a first class heel. On one or two occasions you've pulled some raw deals. . . . What did you expect?" But I didn't. I took the easy way out, pretending not to hear him. . . . I wish now I had let him have it.

Alf did a skit on Nat Goodwin, and one day Nat saw the matinee. Afterward Alf asked Nat what he thought and Nat said: 'Well, all I can say is that one of us must be terrible!'"

"IN OLD MISSOURI"

An Unpleasant Reunion
COLUMBUS, O. (UP) — The Smith brothers of Logan, O.—Dr. A. K. and Warren Smith—held a family reunion in Grant hospital here. They were injured in separate accidents in widely separated sections of the state.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (UP) — It's 55 days until Christmas, but if you're playing Santa Claus to people in foreign lands, you'd better start doing something about it now.

Packages, particularly those designed to hang on European Christmas trees, are going to be the worst problem.

The post office department has suspended holiday parcel service to 49 countries, a list which reads like a trip through the atlas.

Among those countries, however, which the old U. S. mail will try to help Santa reach are: England, France, Scotland, Ireland, Spain and Portugal.

On the other hand, the following nations definitely are not on the postal yuletide delivery lists: Germany, Poland, Italy, Belgium, Bulgaria, Greece, Czechoslovakia, Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, Turkey, Sweden, the Netherlands.

Ironically, Christmas parcels may not be sent to the Vatican city state and Palestine, the holy land.

There are many little and faraway places to which the kris kringel parcel service has been suspended, such as:

Albania, Aden, Luxemburg, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, British Somaliland, the channel islands, Cyprus, Danzig, Egypt, Denmark, Estonia, Ethiopia, Finland, French Somaliland, Hungary, Iran, Iraq, Latvia, Lithuania, Malta, Norway, Saudi Arabia, Syria and Republic of Lebanon, Trans-Jordan and Yugoslavia.

Packages for the other places should be mailed immediately, and Christmas cards and letters should be posted as early in November as possible.

In years past the postoffice department has had a rule against allowing Christmas stamps or stickers on the address side of articles mailed to foreign countries.

Saddened by the whole Christmas situation, the department has lifted this regulation for the period Nov. 15 to Jan 15, 1941.

So go ahead, if you want to brighten up your foreign mail with bright little stickers proclaiming "Merry Christmas" or "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men." The department knows it'll mean more work, but conceivably it may do a little good—at the other end of the line.
