RISING STAR, EASTLAND COUNTY, TEXAS 76472

Housing Project Adds Attractiveness and Utility to City . . .

Housing Units Increase Civic Values and Local Population

Located two blocks north of the Rising Star business district on North Main Street is a project which is doubly an asset of the City of Rising Star, aside from its economic value to the community.

Title to the property is vested in The Housing Authority of the City of Rising Star, Texas — a long enough name for a corporation formed as an adjunct of the City of Rising Star. The Authority is governed by a board of commissioners named by the City Council, and it is managed by an executive director employed by the board.

The members of the present board are B. A. Butler, chairman; Ralph Kizer, vice-chairman; C. R. Tyler; Robert Butler and B. H. Dennard.

None of the commissioners receive any pay for their service. Executive director is Mrs. Lucy Boase, who has been manager of the projects since 1961. Incidentally, the Rising Star authority is recognized as one of the best managed in the state.

The first housing units were built in 1960 at a cost of $126,043.12. Six brick duplex houses were erected on lots purchased from the McDonald estate.

The housing was built under a contract entered into between the local authority and the Public Housing Administration of the federal government, under the terms of which the PHA agreed to pay the difference between the annual net earnings of the project applicable to bond service and the actual bond payments, provided the authority agreed to operate and maintain the projects as low rent rental units for eligible families on a non-discriminatory basis.

Eligibility is determined, in the main, by income status. Occupants must not make more than an annual amount established as the ceiling for admissibility.

The project is operated under a carefully supervised budget and commissioners and employees who have any responsibility for the handling of funds are under bonds. The executive director and chairman each is under $25,000 bond.

In 1965 the project was expanded to 20 units with the construction of Project TEX-170-2, consisting of eight units especially designed for senior citizens. This project cost $102,582.68, making a total capital investment of $228,625.80.

The cost was financed by the same of notes and bonds which are being paid off in annual installments. Since the units are rented at minimum rates, the projects do not earn enough to pay the full bond and note payments and the PHA, as agreed in its contract with the Authority, makes up the difference.

As an evidence of its good faith in helping to improve local housing conditions in return for the housing gift, the City was asked to adopt and enforce standard construction codes relating to electric wiring, plumbing and so forth. This the City Council did some years ago.

The codes apply only to new construction and are similar to those in force in other towns and cities.

Since the construction of the projects the local authority has paid $15,142.96 on its notes and bonds, and has paid to the City and to the Rising Star school district, the following:

Morrison Challenges Statement of Minutes

In a statement released to The Rising Star Tuesday, L. H. Morrison, a member of the Rising Star City Council, said the account of the actions of the Council carried in last week's paper contained an error.

Said Mr. Morrison: "The report of the Rising Star City Council regular meeting furnished The Rising Star for last week's issue contains an error.

"Motion by L. H. Morrison, seconded by John G. Lee that mayor appoint three men to serve on tax equalization is a mistake. The motion actually was that the mayor hire three of four men named by the council. This is a gross error.

Through The Editor's Specs

By BAB

Wednesday of this week Dr. Billy T. Carpenter observed the first anniversary of his practice in Rising Star.

The personable red-headed doctor brought his family to Rising Star from Fort Worth in mid-July, 1967 and set up for practice in offices in the Rising Star Hospital.

Rising Star people welcomed him gladly indeed. Many business firms ran welcome ads in this newspaper. It was quite an achievement getting a doctor; for some curious reason they are awfully hard to get. We felt then and still hope that locating a doctor here was the first real step toward reopening a hospital.

Since his coming Dr. Billy has been a mighty busy man and he seems to be getting busier every month.

And now, at the beginning of his second year in Rising Star it's a good time to say, "Welcome, Dr. Billy, and your fine family. We are mighty glad you are here."

Among the papers that clutter the little desk in my bedroom I found a mimeographed sheet with a sermonette of sorts by someone named Earl Nightingale. The title? Let's call it "The Jugged Pumpkin."

It seems a farmer walked in his pumpkin patch where he found a glass jug. On an impulse of prankish experimentation he poked a baby pumpkin into the jug, careful not to break the vine.

When it came harvest time he broke the glass and had a pumpkin of the shape of the jug where it had stopped growing.

"The experts point out that many people are like that pumpkin," wrote Mr. Nightingale. "They poke themselves into jugs beyond which they can't grow. The difference that someone else doesn't poke them into the jug — they do it themselves. Each of us decides how much he is going to grow and what kind of a world he is going to live in.

"This is what keeps so many people living in worlds that are really too small for them. They try to play it safe . . . underestimate themselves . . . and as a result find themselves pinched into lives they don't really care for.

"I think people should learn to discard their shells like a crab or lobster does. . . . When a person finds himself living in the old shell too long it means he's quit growing as a person.

"A good way to tell whether or not you're still growing is to determine what you are looking forward to. Or if you are looking forward to anything. As soon as you start looking back, living more in the past than in the future, you can pretty well figure you've had it. In fact, in this case, you'll actually begin to shrink and before long you'll be too small for your shell and start rattling around in it.

"Remember the story of the farmer and the pumpkin. We can only grow as large as the jug we're in — and we are the ones who decide its size. Nobody else can do it for us. All the experts point out that each one of us has deep reservoirs of ability, even genius, that he habitually fails to use or even tries to tap. Great areas of undeveloped potential that could open (Continued on Page Six)

It Has Been

By Vada Arnold

Grumbling murmuring and criticism are poured out daily on the government for issuing pensions and "hand outs" to thousands of United States citizens.

Often we hear the remark "history repeats itself," and I am convinced, since carefully browsing through issues of the Rising Star News of 1900, that the saying is TRUE. In those publications of 68 years ago the following items appeared. The editor and publisher, Albert Tyson, must have been deeply concerned over the conditions of that day.

In March, 1900: "This country is going mad over fire things. There are more pensioners today than there were 20 years ago, and the appalling part of the matter is this; they are increasing daily.

We get free schools. Pretty soon they will want free books. That will not be enough; they will want free board and free clothing. And the man with eight children will want the government to take care of them. When we can't take care of our kids, we'll go out of the kid business."

Today our dread disease is cancer. In 1900 it was consumption (tuberculosis) and the editor gave grave warnings on the smoking of cigarettes. He said, "The accursed, blood sucking, lung-eating cigarette is the prime cause of consumption today. One can readily see that there is a slimy monster in this harmless looking little roll of tobacco, sucking the life blood from many a manly boy. When reliable statistics show that 90 out of every 100 of the cigarette smokers who volunteered during the Spanish American War were rejected because of some defect caused by smoking the damnable cigarette, it is high time for something to be done about this matter.

"Parents look well to the training of your boys against this deadly enemy of health and life or you will wake up one of these days under the condemnation of the Divine Judge for your Criminal Negligence."

Mr. Tyson evidently was irked at having so many hard menial tasks to perform in his small print shop, for he came up with this: "Among the things a country editor has to do is to hunt news, clean the rollers, set type, sweep the floor, bring in water, pen local items, fold papers, make up the forms, distribute the type, work at the press, saw wood, read proof, correct errors, hunt the shears, write editorials, dodge bills, dun delinquent subscribers, take cussins, tell subscribers we can't run a paper without money, go home work in the garden and nurse the baby while his wife prepares his hotwater tea and gopher tail soup flavored with imagination."

During this period gossiping citizens were mentioned on various occasions. In one issue of the News, the subject of hiring a manager for the forthcoming school term took the headlines. Some untrue tales had been circulated and Mr. Editor took issue by saying, "Now old lady, you despicable, miserable old scoundrel and curse to the human fam-

SAFETY HIGHLIGHTS

AMERICAN WORKERS ARE 10 TIMES SAFER AT WORK THAN OFF THE JOB. DURING THE PAST FOUR DECADES THE FREQUENCY OF ON-THE-JOB INJURIES DROPPED SHARPLY WHILE EMPLOYMENT, HOURS WORKED AND OUTPUT SHOWED TREMENDOUS GAINS.

PETROLEUM REFINERIES, FOR EXAMPLE, NOW PROCESS ABOUT FOUR TIMES MORE OIL THAN THEY DID IN THE LATE 1920S. BUT ACCIDENT FREQUENCY RATES AMONG REFINERY WORKERS HAVE DROPPED NEARLY 75 PERCENT.

Biggest bargain you can pick up

Costs continue to rise in just about everything except telephone service. Local rates are the same. And long distance rates have recently been reduced again. And with most everything going up—including the number of people you can call, your telephone is indeed the biggest bargain you can pick up.

WASHINGTON

"As it looks from here"

OMAR BURLESON

Congressman
17th District

WASHINGTON, D. C. — IN 1951, THE CHAIRMAN OF THE FOREIGN AFFAIRS COMMITTEE of the Congress, with two other members of his Committee, made an exchange visit with the House of Deputies of Uruguay. One primary purpose of our return contact was to make known our awareness and concern that beef imports from their country were out of line with their ability to produce and that the origin of their exports was mainly from the Argentine.

THIS IS BESIDE THE POINT EXCEPT TO EXPLAIN that three U. S. Congressmen (2 Democrats and 1 Republican) in trying to make a good impression committed a "faux pas", which was almost fatal to our mission. On the morning of our official visit to the Chamber of Deputies—their members called Deputados—we were given a white carnation for our lapel. We thought it nice and pinned it on. Advised by our Ambassador that white identified one political party and a red flower represented the other, we quickly accepted a red carnation and wore both, looking something like a pot plant.

MOST COUNTRIES WHICH HAVE ONLY TWO OR THREE political parties have some representative insignia. It may be an animal, a fowl or other objects of identification. OURS, OF COURSE, ARE THE DEMOCRATIC DONKEY AND THE REPUBLICAN ELEPHANT. IT WAS IN 1870 THAT THOMAS NAST, a political cartoonist, first used the donkey as a Democratic Party symbol.

ON JANUARY 15, 1870, HARPER'S WEEKLY PUBLISHED a Nast cartoon depicting the donkey in the "Copperhead Press," (anti-war faction) kicking a dead lion which represented Secretary of War, Edward M. Stanton. Writers at the time interpreted Nast's cartoon representing the Democratic Party as one of "noise and obstruction" which he believed it to be.

THE DONKEY WAS USED IN CONNECTION with Andrew Jackson's campaign for the Presidency. Jackson's proposals to help the people were viewed with alarm by the opposing Party, which labeled him a "Jackass."

JACKSON SEIZED UPON THE OPPORTUNITY to capitalize on name calling and won a sweeping victory.

THE SYMBOL CAUGHT ON, ALTHOUGH SOME RESEARCHERS have since said that Nast did not actually portray the donkey as the symbol of the Democratic Party but the anti-war faction within it.

ON NOVEMBER 7, 1874, HARPER'S WEEKLY published a Nast cartoon using the elephant as representing the Republican Party. The cartoon was titled "The Third Term Panic" and used animals representing various issues and newspapers running away from a donkey wearing a lion skin labeled "Caesarism." The elephant is labeled the "Republican Vote" and is running towards a pitfall under which are planks bearing the words "inflation," "reform," etc.

THE DONKEY WAS WELL ESTABLISHED as the Democrats' mascot by the time the Garfield-Hancock campaign came along. The New York Daily Graphic published a cartoon showing the Democratic candidate mounted on a donkey and leading a procession of crusaders.

GRADUALLY AS THE DONKEY AND ELEPHANT became the accepted symbols of the Democrats and Republicans, each party gave the other symbol certain traits. THE DEMOCRATS USUALLY REGARD THE ELEPHANT as bungling, stupid, pompous and conservative. The Republicans think of him as dignified, strong and intelligent.

THE REPUBLICANS REGARD THE DONKEY as stubborn, silly and ridiculous. The Democrats think of him as being humble, homely smart, courageous and loveable.

IN THE MONTHS JUST AHEAD WE WILL BE SEEING A LOT OF BOTH.

new and exciting worlds for us if we only knew they existed and went to the trouble to explore and develop them.

"The person who finds his world closing in around him, who finds it dull, routine and uninteresting, has outgrown his world and should start looking for a new and larger one. That such a world exists goes without saying. The natural state of man is to be happy, full of life and interest and curiosity. Life's too short to put up with a dull routine, with boredom and fatiguing sameness. In my opinion, there is something finds his world in such a wrong with the person who state. He hasn't learned how to live or remain young!"

Now that is a pretty good sermon.

But the "experts" should have added another fact:

Most pumpkins caught in glass jugs simply bust their shells and keep growing. The power of really growing is tremendous. Grass as fine as a frog hair can break concrete in its demand for growing room. It is only humans who keep themselves locked in their prejudices and fears, who refuse to break out of confinement.

What kind of a jug are you living in? Ever wonder?

Faith doesn't just stand there.

It does something.

If you think all's right with the world, read no further.

But if you're like most people, today's headlines are profoundly disturbing.

Narcotics. Alcoholism. Murder. Racial strife. Poverty. Cruelty. War. The "inhuman-ness" our society seems to be breeding.

Your Faith has something to say about every one of the moral and ethical problems facing us. More important, if you listen to what your Faith has to say, you're in a better position to help solve those problems.

But you find out for yourself. Worship this week in your church or synagogue.

Then take your Faith out in the world and put it to work.

"God's work must truly be our own."

Mrs. Eva Stroebel

New Brown Co. Farmers Union Chapter Formed

Aubrey Goss, president of the recently organized Brown County Farmers Union, accepted the county charter from the Texas Farmers Union District IV director, Bob Cathew, July 15, at the May Community Center.

Other officers elected at the charter meeting were Hershaw Wheeler, first vice-president; John Ralph Hardy, second vice-president; and Mrs. J. C. Nance, secretary-treasurer.

The Brown County Farmers Union is the most recently organized of the new county organizations in the Texas Farmers Union. Texas Farmers Union is an affiliate of the nationwide 300,000 member National Farmers Union headquartered in Denver, Colo.

In his address to the meeting preceding the charter presentation, Director Cathew discussed the importance of effective representation for farmers, ranchers and rural people at the national policy making level of state and national government. He emphasized the important role which an organization made up entirely of farmers and ranchers can play in accomplishing the important objectives of improved net farm income, increased bargaining power, and the revitalization of rural areas.

Cathew discussed the status of legislation currently being considered by Congress which has a direct effect on farm and ranch income.
