Whenever a state or a community is taken over by a revolutionary administration, or element, it is rarely, if ever, the result of a general popular movement. It is most often the result of public apathy.

Most such political phenomena are the products of a small, tightly organized, hard core junta centered in an area of particular self-interest which can be counted upon to supply a ready and loyal vote. They win because the rest of the public is not concerned enough to go to the polls in numbers to defeat them.

That may very likely be the case next Saturday when Texas Democrats vote in a runoff primary to choose a candidate for governor. To be named the democratic nominee is tantamount in this state to election. Preston Smith, a candidate who represents what is traditionally Texas, and whom the great majority of Texas voters would favor if they all vote, is opposed by a Houston candidate of leftist, ultra-liberal sympathies and support. You can be sure that the supporters of Don Yarbrough - and that includes about every element in this state who would like to turn the Texas capitol and the government it represents, inside out - will go to the polls loyally and in numbers.

But what of the people who want Preston Smith? Will they stay away from the voting boxes in the careless confidence that what is, will be, and that he will be elected simply because he represents what the majority of Texans have always, in the main, stood for? If so, they can count upon new and radical policies in the administration of the governmental affairs of Texas during the next four years. They can count upon permanent changes, too, because some determined revolutionary elements will move into the places of administrative power and fix their influences in points of control.

There are no vacuums in politics. There are forces ready to move instantly into any area deserted or unguarded.

One prime fault in our democratic thinking is the conviction that because a condition or policy has existed it will continue to do so. But it can well be pointed out that the security of what we call our rights and freedoms is not guaranteed because they are documented. The real guarantee of these rights is by no manner or means the great historical documents we revere as the foundation stones of our political system.

Security is not a historical thing, but a present fact, and it is guaranteed by one thing only - the willingness of the individual citizen to assume some definite, if small, responsibility for it. Without that willingness, the Constitution

G. A. Dunn, precinct chairman, will be election judge and will be assisted by Fred Price, as deputy judge.

On October 10, 1904 the X-Ray was late and Mr. Tyson gave the explanation of the lateness in this manner.

"The X-Ray was late last week and because of that fact we answered the wherefore of the whereness of it's conduct there of 17,134 times more or less, but from the fear that we have failed to elucidate the matter of our aforesaid relatedness to the satisfaction of 9432 (round numbers) subscribers who have feelingly and lovingly made inquiry of us relative thereto and in order that we may not have our fair name for truth and veracity for sobriety sullied and otherwise damaged, we want to say that our belatedness was not caused by the Horse Editor's having got drunk and run into the percussion end of a mule nor Fighting Editor have been entangled with a delinquent subscriber and having his Medulla Oblongata punched through his Dura-Matra thereby rendering him Hors De-Combat for thirty days. October 21, 1904 an officer and several citizens from San Saba were in Rising Star searching for a fourteen year old girl who was kidnapped in San Saba County "last Saturday was a week." Parties suiting the description, passed through here Saturday. The outfit consisted of a man, a woman, a boy and the kidnapped girl. They were driving a little pair of mules and the boy was riding a small pony.

A horse race was announced to be held on Sunday afternoon, July 12 in Mr. Jones' pasture east of town at 12:30 p. m. All men and boys are invited to bring your horses and enter the race. If you have horses that need

Sen. Yarborough Puts Okay on Don

By JAMES McCORRY

U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough, making public a declaration of his preference for Don Yarborough for governor by paying a personal visit to Yarborough's campaign headquarters Sunday morning, predicted D. Yarborough will win the runoff "going away."

The senior senator came down the stairs of D. Yarborough's Austin headquarters carrying a Yarborough campaign sign, with a V for Victory signal, to declare: "We're on the verge of electing the first loyal Democratic governor since Jimmy Allred was governor 30 years ago. The people of Texas are entitled to elect a governor at least once every 30 years."

As the D. Yarborough staffers and supporters cheered, the senior senator continued:

"Folks, you don't know how wonderful it's going to be. You're going to think flowers are blooming in January this year. I wouldn't be surprised to see strawberries ripening in January."

The senator said he had never led into a runoff in a gubernatorial race, and said in 1956 when he ran for governor he was 150,000 votes behind going in the runoff.

"In the runoff I was so close it took 'em two weeks to count me out of it," he recalled.

People Saturday night, Sen. Yarborough said, have been telling Don Yarborough that although they worked as county managers for Hill and Briscoe "we're putting our shoulders to the wheel Monday morning for Don Yarborough for governor."

The senator reasoned "all the shrewd campaigners are out of it now."

It appeared obvious the senator feels Yarborough will attract, among others, supporters of Hill and Briscoe.

The Gordon Spot

By DeWitt Gordon Eastland Co. Agri. Agent

If you have not sprayed your pecan trees to control the pecan nut casebearer this should be done right away. The best time to spray was between May 24 and May 28. Most of the trees I have looked at have a good crop of pecans. We also expect a large number of insects so this should be the year when a good spray program will really pay off.

It also looks like insects are going to be a real problem in the vegetable garden this summer. Sometimes a small cloud of insecticide decides who will enjoy the delicious vegetables in your garden — you or those garden pests. Insecticides, applied at the right time and the right place, are your guarantee that you and your family will be able to enjoy the vegetables from your garden.

Garden chemicals are carefully screened by USDA and the Food and Drug Administration before manufacturers are allowed to make them available to producers. The label clearly states the insects for which the insecticide is effective, its rate of application and the necessary waiting interval between application and eating or processing the vegetables.

The most commonly used insecticides for home gardens are carbaryl (Sevin), chlordane, DDT, diazinon, malathion, methoxychlor, rotenone and sulfur.

For specific information on home garden insect control come by the county agents office and pick up a copy of "Insect Control in the Home Garden."

HIGGINBOTHAM'S

Retired Air Daredevil Now Now in Cleaning Business

Old stunt fliers never die - they just turn into cleaners and fishermen when their stunt flying days are over.

But most of them, including Art Bannister of Rising Star, would like to take just one more fling at the dangerous, if thrilling business, if the Civil Aeronautics Administration would let them.

Bannister, nationally famous in air show days as a bat wing jumper, is in the cleaning business at Rising Star. He hasn't jumped from a plane since 1951 when the CAA sounded the death knell of aerial stunting as a form of public entertainment by its ban on delayed jumps and other forms of aviation devilry.

But the walls of his cleaning plant are covered with mementoes of the days when his name on a billboard was enough to bring crowds flocking to an air show site to see him leap from a plane at 12,000 feet or more altitude, extend his bat wings and soar to within a few hundred feet of the ground before opening his parachute. Fortunately for him, it always opened. For some it didn't. He recalls a show in Visau, France, when one of his helpers attempted to bail out at 1,000 feet and his parachute shrouds fouled in his bat wings.

Bannister has had his share of narrow escapes. One of them happened at Albany, where he was practicing for an air show at Breckenridge. The stunt involved killing his plane motor in midair and restarting it before it reached the ground. This time the motor refused to start and the plane landed deadstick and crashed through a fence at the end of the runway. During World War II, while test flying for the Air Corps at Dayton, Ohio, he cracked up with the loss of two men. Bannister received a broken rib and lost his right eye in this accident.

Bannister started his flying career in Clinton, Oklahoma, where he took instruction from Sam Coffman, famous air show entrepreneur of the 'twenties. He started barnstorming with the Coffman shows in 1927 and during his career built up more than 27,000 flying hours. He made his first parachute jump in that year, jumping from a Travelaire. Since then, as near as he can reckon, he had leaped from a plane no less than 1,643 times. In 1930 he broke away from the Coffman shows and formed his own, known as the American Air Shows.

By early 1932 he had gathered his own crew and had flown with some of the world's most famous daredevil flyers, including Rosco Turner, who held the Cleveland Air Races in Cleveland, Ohio, for three years running and now owns an airport in Minneapolis, Minn., and Wally Post, who died with Will Rogers in an Alaskan air crash.

The repertory of his air show included acrobatics on a plane in midair, wing walking, changing from plane to plane without a parachute, then from plane to car with no chute. At different times Frank Frazier, who flew his plane through a specially built house on the runway, appeared with Bannister's show. The list of places in which his air show performed would read almost like a world atlas.

Long before the sport of skydiving became known, Bannister was doing it as part of his show. He started it in 1928. This later developed into his famous bat wing jump, in which he leaped from a plane wearing contraptions very much like bat wings and soared to within a short distance of the ground before pulling his 'chute cord. It proved one of the most popular stunts in the book.

Other stunts in his list of thrills included ground show acts, such as car rolling, riding a motorcycle or car hood through a burning wall, leaping from a car travelling 70 miles per hour and above.

During the height of his career he has made as many as ten bat wing jumps a week. At one time he belonged to the National Caterpillar Club. He had bailed out in a storm in Tennessee, and in one near Waco.

In 1941, with the outbreak of World War II, he was drafted by the Army to do instruction and test aerial equipment, including parachutes. He had the only contract in history to make bat wings for the government. He also sold war bonds by making aerial appearances over the eastern part of the United States. He and his crew sold over a million dollars in these bonds.

Since his retirement from daredevil flying and ground stunts, Bannister devotes himself to his cleaning business in Rising Star, which he purchased from C. B. Nichols about a year ago, and to fishing. He is one of the most persistent and prolific fishermen ever to fish the lakes and streams of this area.

What kind of investment is Freedom Shares?

Shrewd? Safe? Patriotic? Exclusive?

You're right if you checked all four boxes. Freedom Shares are a shrewd investment because they pay 4.74% when held to maturity. They mature in just four-and-a-half years, and are redeemable after one year. There is no safer investment because Freedom Shares are backed by The United States of America. Exclusive? Absolutely. Not everyone can buy new Freedom Shares. You have to belong to the Bond-a-Month or Payroll Savings Plan. Freedom Shares are a bonus opportunity for these regular Bond buyers. Bride in Saturday Wedding Here

MRS. KENNETH BUTLER

Judy Rutherford and Kenny Butler Wed

Miss Judith Fran Rutherford and Roy Kenneth Butler exchanged marriage vows in the First Methodist Church of Rising Star at 7 p. m., Saturday, May 25. Rev. Jay Beavers performed the rites, using the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Rutherford of West Pioneer Street and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Butler, Sr., of South Miller Street, also of Rising Star.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride approached an archway entwined with greenery and caught with white satin pom-pom bows. Two white wedding bells hung from the arch flanked by candelabra holding lighted tapers. She wore a floor length gown of silk organza styled with fitted bodice and elbow length sleeves accented with lace and seed pearls. Her court train was attached to the neckline. The shoulder length veil of silk illusion was centered with bows fashioned of matching lace and silk organza accented with pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses centered with a single camellia.

The wedding marches and pre-nuptial organ music, including "Traumerel," "O Thou Sublime Sweet Evening Star," "Because," "Always," "Melody of Love," and "Melody in F," were played by Mrs. B. A. Butler. Mrs. Joe Weise of San Marcos, sang "Twelfth of Never" and "Bless This House", accompanied at the piano by Miss Kay Nunnally.

Mrs. Tommy Konsak of Stephenville, matron of honor, wore a floor length gown of pink brocaded cotton trimmed with rose medallion flowers. Her headdress was fashioned of pink petals with veil attached. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Larry Weise and Miss Sara Lyn Butler, sister of the groom. Their gowns and headdresses were identical to those of the matron of honor. They each carried pink May baskets.

Kayce Rutherford, sister of the bride, was flowergirl. Her dress followed the design of the bridesmaids and she carried a pink petal laden basket.

Robert Butler, Jr., of Brownwood, served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Robert Burns, James Cox and James Rutherford, brother of the bride, all of Rising Star. Robert Butler, Jr., and Mike Montgomery of Midland served as ushers and candlelighters.

Mrs. Rutherford, mother of the bride, wore a silk sheath of printed silk overscored with a dress length coat of green silk, and matching accessories. Mrs. Butler, mother of the groom, was attired in a rose bonded crepe skimmer with matching lace coat and white accessories.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the bride's table was an epergne with candelabra holding four lighted tapers, and pink and white carnations.

Mrs. Butler is a graduate of the Rising Star High School, and will be a 1968 fall graduate of Tarleton State College at Stephenville. Mr. Butler is a graduate of the Rising Star High School and will enter Tarleton State as a Junior this fall.

Following a short wedding trip the couple will make their home in Stephenville.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Butler, Sr. hosted the rehearsal dinner in the Odom Cafe dining room at Cross Plains, Friday evening, May 24.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Tyler, grandparents of the bride, hosted a buffet dinner for the wedding party, in their home on North Anderson Street following the reception.

PARENTS DO COUNT!

As we graduate, we need to thank two people who have always been there to help us - our parents. In this time the parents are taking a lot of blame for the problems, but the truth is that things would be in a bigger mess and we would not even be here if it were not for them.

Without our parents' help it is doubtful that we would get much done. They listen to our triumphs and failures and love us for our assets and faults. Sometimes they give us a little persuasion to correct our faults.

When over the years parents have established a deep friendship with a child, their firm veto of unwise things he wants to do will be respected by the child. Listening to a teenager and knowing his pursuits and problems and his triumphs and discouragements give a parent opportunities to counsel a child with wisdom and sympathy.

If sometimes they seem a little bit old-fashioned, nosy, or grou-

WHAT DO YOU SAY TO 1968 GRADUATES in a commencement address? Since time immemorial, graduates have been addressed pretty much along the same lines. Some speakers will tell them the world is wonderful; that all is good; that opportunities abound all about them. Others have said that everything is bad; that there is great upheaval with all sorts of trials and tribulations ahead. Some exhort; others admonish. Some will wrap up the universe in a ball and hurl it at students and tell them to go out and clean up the mess.

IT WAS SAID THAT PERICLES ON ANNUAL OCCASIONS took the youth of Athens up on the hills overlooking that great city and recited to them the glories of Greece.

SOCRATES WAS PROBABLY THE EARLIEST COMMENCEMENT speaker over 2000 years ago. He seemed to be the Dean of advisers to the youth of that age. In these times it seems justified to stray from the conventional type of address to graduating students. We, as Americans, having seemingly always believed that we could swiftly solve all problems and set about to accomplish the task. It now appears that one thing we must learn is to have the maturity to live with problems which cannot be readily solved but rather contained and lived with.

IT MAY BE A LITTLE PAINFUL FOR US AS INDIVIDUALS to come to this conclusion but, living in a more complicated and a more complex society than any other age in which man has ever lived, this attitude, although hesitantly arrived at, seems to be a real fact.

IT WAS THE CLASSIC SUM-

MARY BY CHARLES DICKENS at the beginning of "Two Cities," who wrote, "It was the best of times; it was the age of wisdom; it was the age of foolishness..." and then he continued, "It was the epoch of belief and doubt; the strength of hope; the weakness of despair;" and we may all of our own time, it is an era of brotherhood and hate, of courage and of fear.

THE 1968 GRADUTE IS PRESENTED A WORLD of opportunity and of advantages never experienced by any generation. He is given a goodly land whose frontiers were pushed back by others, who dared to move out ahead of their day, to make this Nation the wonderful place it is in which to live.

VISIONS OF MEN AND WOMEN OF GENERATIONS BEFORE, were those who believed in improving conditions around them by work and industry and with a devotion to leave a legacy for those to follow. They did not have a Federal Treasury to fall back upon and depended on no Government paternalism to destroy initiative and individualism.

ON THE OTHER SIDE OF THE COIN, we hand to those graduates a huge public debt, all of which is not invested in capital improvements. True enough part of this debt has been—and is presently, for the defense of our Country. A part of it is for the building of institutions, for the advantages of future generations, for the preservation of our natural resources, and for scientific developments coming out of Government research, which makes life easier.

THE FACT MEANS, HOWEVER, THAT A PART of this debt has bought nothing which we can pass on to those who will soon have the responsibility of building a stronger society. At this very moment the internal security of our Nation is being threatened by the greatest wave of lawlessness and criminal activity in the 192 years of our existence as an independent Nation. Our very form of government that is a free-enterprise structure is threatened by the insistence of conformity in the individual which fosters sterility of thought and behavior; a loss of a sense of personal responsibility, which has been the hallmark of the people who made this the greatest Nation in the world.

IN SIR WALTER SCOTT'S MARMION ARE THESE LINES:
 "When Prussia hurried to the field, and snatched the spear, but left the shield."

IS IT POSSIBLE THAT WE ARE HURRYING ON THE FIELD with spear but leaving behind the shield of our national strength?

THE TRUE SHIELD OF AMERICA IS NOT ALONE in its armaments and far-flung forces nor is it made up entirely of the ingenuity, inventiveness and economic potential of our people.

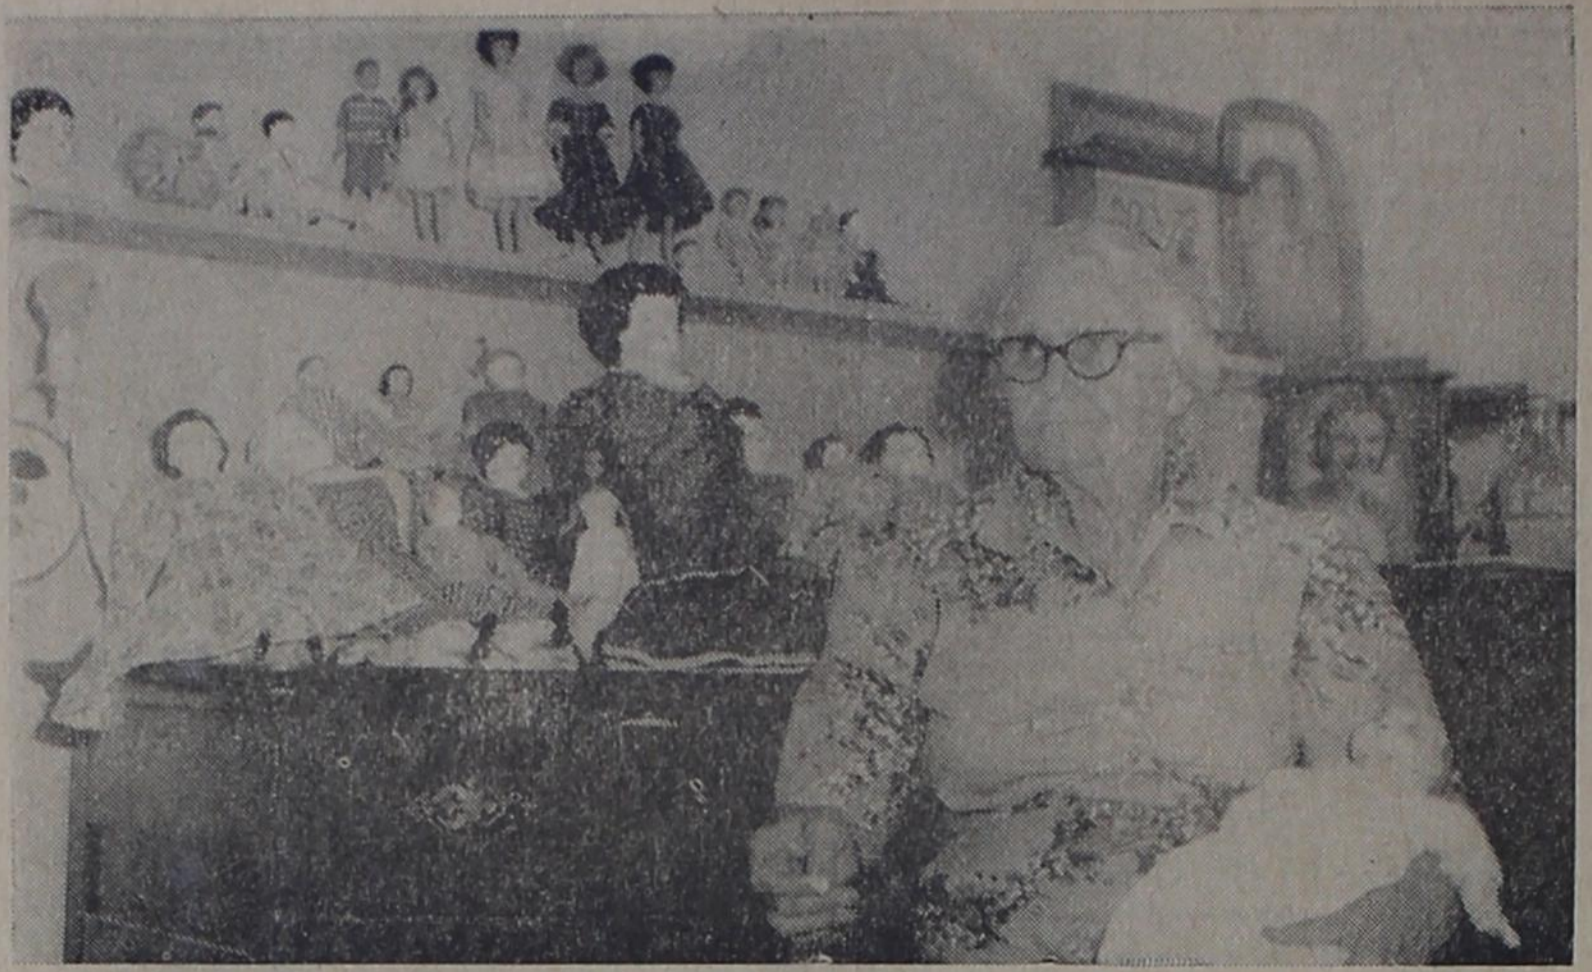

RATHER THE TRUE SHIELD OF AMERICA CONSISTS OF THE rights and freedoms, and the duties which go with them, of its citizens. Rights, duties and responsibility are but two faces of the same shield.

IN THE FACE OF THE GRADUATE, who may point his finger at those of us of another generation and say, "What have you been doing about it?" the question becomes difficult to answer.

WE CAN, HOWEVER, SAY TO HIM THAT I WILL JOIN in pledging: "I will not trade freedom for beneficence nor my dignity for a handout. I will never cower before any master nor bend to any threat. It is my heritage to stand erect and proud; to think and act for myself; to enjoy the benefit of my creations and to face the world boldly and say, this I have done and this is what it means for the privilege of being an American."

Mrs. D. E. Stewart and Vickie have gone to Hobbs, New Mexico to join Mr. Stewart for the summer. Mr. Stewart is employed at Hobbs.

Dolls Give Retired Lady Opportunity for Self-Expression New District Scout Executive Is Named

MRS. FLOSSIE KEEGAN AND PART OF HER COLLECTION

Alford J. Havens, Jr. has been employed by the Comanche Trail Council, Boy Scouts of America, to serve as the district Scout executive for the council's Northeast District, John H. Pound, Scout Executive for the council announced this week. The Northeast District is composed of Eastland, Erath and Stephens counties, plus De Leon in Comanche County.

Mr. Havens is an Eagle Scout, a 1968 graduate of Tarleton State College, Stephenville. He is married and a member of the Methodist Church. He will reside in Dublin until completion of his executive training with the Boy Scouts of America.

During the month of June, Mr. Havens will be a member of the Camp Billy Gibbons staff. July 15 he will report to the National Executive Institute of the Boy Scouts of America at Schiff Scout Reservation, Mendham, New Jersey, for his professional training. He will return to the Comanche Trail Council area in mid-August.

Doll Dressing Rewarding Hobby of May Woman

Making and dressing dolls is a hobby which Mrs. Flossie Keegan of May finds rewarding in her senior years. Not financially, for she makes no effort to sell them, and the Keegans seem comfortable enough on their small farm south of May, most of which has been turned to grass. Ed Keegan, her husband, has reserved a small plot—less than half an acre—on which he satisfies his own hobby of organic farming using no implement but a hoe, no fertilizer but the organic material grown on the land, and his ingenuity in utilizing space. The amount and variety of vegetation that he grows on this pocket handkerchief plot is amazing—but that is another story.

Most of the dolls which Mrs. Keegan makes and dresses are stored in a closet in her bedroom. Those which she does not keep she gives to her two granddaughters.

The only parts of the dolls she does not make are the china parts—the head, hands and feet. She orders these parts from a supplier who also furnishes instructions and suggested styles that she modifies to her own ideas and the material at hand.

Her dolls range in size from that of a normal baby to one no larger than a thumbnail. In fashion the range is almost as comprehensive, but she shows little interest in the modern miniskirt. The nearest she comes to that extremity is a costume of Civil War memory in which, quite modestly, the absurdity of her model's knees is concealed in pantaloons.

This particular doll she has named Little Red Riding Hood.

for what reason she is at loss to explain. But she has a special attachment to it because it exhibits the type of material she likes best to make—crochet. Many of her dolls are dressed in this work, despite the fact that it is more time consuming.

"I do a good deal of experimenting with it," she explained. "If an idea doesn't work out, I can unravel it without too much loss, because the dresses are mostly small."

Mrs. Keegan, who came to May with her husband eight years ago from Sherwood, near San Angelo, took up her doll hobby two years ago when she failed to interest a granddaughter in the idea. Since then she has made so many and different specimens of her work that an exhibit of them was an attractive feature of the displays the May Improvement Club developed for the judging tour which found May entitled to first regional place in the state-wide community improvement contest. Ahead is a bid for first in the

PRESTON SMITH for GOVERNOR

VOTE SATURDAY JUNE 1

TO: The Citizens and Voters of Texas FROM: Preston Smith, Candidate for Governor

The purpose of this message is to ask for your support and vote in the Second Democratic Primary Saturday, June 1.

As your Lieutenant Governor for the last six years, I believe I have qualified myself to seek the high office of Governor. You know I finished second among 10 candidates in the First Primary, about 29,000 votes behind the leader with 1,750,000 votes cast.

With your help we can win this runoff against an opponent who has no public record of any kind... one who is aligned with groups that want to reject the progressive, constructive programs built by John Connally and his predecessors and replace them with so-called "liberal" ideas of their own.

I want to continue and improve on the start we have made in education, pollution control, law enforcement, highways, water conservation, promotion of industry and tourism, and many other vital areas.

I am proud to have been a part of Texas government for 18 years. Opponents may harp about what is wrong in Texas; I happen to think there are a lot of things RIGHT in Texas. I am proud of my state and its people.

Things can be even better, and I want to work with you in that direction.

It's more or less in the political tradition to lambast your opponent and say a lot of ugly and cutting things about him. I don't want to engage in personalities; my opponent has no public record to criticize. Therefore I am running for Governor on my own merits.

It may be pretty ambitious for a farm-born, farm-raised Texas boy, who worked his way through Texas Tech and spent his adult years in business activities in Lubbock, to aspire to be Governor. You will be the judges as to whether my experience and proven qualifications entitle me to be elected. I will accept your judgment with real gratitude for your past support and friendship.

Please remember that if I am elected, my door will always be open to any Texan who has any problem whatever that the Governor can help with. I will always be interested in good government. I will always be interested in you.

Preston Smith

King Crab Key To Quick Casserole

If you value convenience in the kitchen, then take note of this quick crab casserole. Featuring Alaska King crab, it is elegant enough to be served for a special luncheon or supper.

The secret of fast preparation is found in the ingredients. Alaska King crab is combined with uncooked noodles and French-fried onions in a sauce made with shrimp soup and mayonnaise. Garnished with additional onions, the casserole is baked until thick and bubbly.

Both canned and frozen Alaska King crab are pre-cooked and ready for immediate use. Free of cartilage and tendons, it needs no additional preparation.

Quick King Crab Casserole

- 1 (7½ oz.) can Alaska King crab or ½ pound frozen Alaska King crab, thawed
- 1 (10-oz.) can frozen shrimp soup, thawed
- ¾ cup milk
- ¼ cup grated Cheddar cheese
- ¼ cup mayonnaise
- Dash salt, pepper and Tabasco
- 2 cups uncooked narrow noodles
- 1 (3½ oz.) can French-fried onions

Drain crab and slice. Heat soup and milk. Add to crab along with remaining ingredients, reserving some onion for garnish. Pour into buttered casserole. Garnish with reserved onion. Cover and bake at 350-degrees for 20 minutes. Remove cover. Bake 10 minutes longer. Makes 4 servings.

Archer, Baylor, Callahan, Eastland, Foard, Hardeman, Haskell, Jones, Knox, Shackelford, Stephens, Taylor, Trockmorton, Wichita, Wilbarger and Young.

To qualify, applicants must pass a written test based on their ability to follow oral directions and gross dexterity, the understanding of word meaning, and the ability to remember names and locations as needed for simple sorting.

Before appointment, applicants must take a strength test which consists of shouldering and carrying sacks containing up to 80 pounds.

Full information may be obtained from Mrs. Cliffogene Witt, postmaster, at the local post office.

County Gains $2.3 Millions From Oil, Gas Production

Oil and gas wells provide approximately $2.3 million a year of Eastland County's economic output, according to statistics released this week by Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association. Based on most recent U. S. Bureau of Mines production figures, the Association compilation showed that Eastland County produced crude oil valued at 11.5 million in 1966 and natural gas worth 833,000.

Texas oil production in 1967, responding to demands for more domestic crude as a result of the Israeli-Arab conflict, totaled 1,050,000,000 barrels, a statewide increase over 1966 of about 5 percent. Production last year varied widely among state Railroad Commission districts, however, ranging from 3.5 percent below 1966 to 15 percent above.

"Production from Eastland County last summer helped prevent any oil scarcity for U. S. consumers at a time when one-third of the world's supply was cut off," said Corbin J. Robertson, Houston, Association president. "We must keep in mind, however, that it may be difficult for Texas fields to sustain production in future emergencies if the discovery of new reserves continues to lag, due to lack of exploratory drilling."

The annual study showed that Eastland County ranked 145th among Texas counties in total value of its production of some 487,000 barrels of oil and 6.4 billion cubic feet of natural gas.

Texas oil men, according to Rinehart's yearbook, drilled 19 wells in the county risking some $396,000. Thirty-two percent of them were dry holes, costing about $97,000.

County landowners and others with mineral interests cashed royalty checks totaling about $285,000 during the year. Likewise, the county's flow of oil and gas generates $125,000 a year in production taxes paid by producers and royalty owners to the state treasury.

Reports from the Texas Employment Commission show some 223 persons directly employed by the oil and gas industry in the county, with an annual payroll of $1.2 million.

Plants which convert crude oil and natural gas into useful products also add to the value of a county's output. The Oil and Gas Journal lists 5 gas processing plants, with a total capacity of 76 million cubic feet a day for the county.

of the United States is a mere scrap of paper.

This has been proven sufficiently enough in recent decisions of the Supreme Court which has twisted the phraseology of that great document to suit an "enlightened" modern philosophy.

If you believe in the kind of government that Preston Smith represents then it is your duty to go to the polls Saturday and express your faith in the form of a vote.

If you refuse to do this you will be letting somebody else—someone whose ideals are radically different from your own—decide what sort of government you will live under.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hull and son, Robbie, were here over the week-end visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Hull.
