Labor Leaders Call Off Strike In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Argentine's five-day-old government, apparently victorious in the first major challenge to its authority, announced last night Peronist labor leaders had called off their faltering general strike.

The announcement came after old-line Peronist leaders of the General Confederation of Labor (CGT), deposed by the government when they issued their strike call, had met with Labor Minister Raul Migone. The communiqué said the CGT leaders had "resolved unanimously to cease immediately" the three-day walkout.

Opposition Raised To AEC Man's Proposal For 'Show Of Force'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Four atomic energy commissioners were lined up solidly today against a colleague's plan for a dramatic H-bomb "show of force" to impress on world leaders the urgent need for peace.

The proposal, made by AEC Commissioner Thomas E. Murray in a New York speech last night, also met some outright opposition in the Senate. But some senators said the idea was worth considering.

Murray's idea—outlined at the Golden Jubilee Dinner of the Fordham University Law School—was to call representatives of all the nations to what he termed a "meeting at the atomic summit."

Six Hunters Believed Dead After Blizzard

DETROIT (AP)—Michigan listed four deer hunters and two duck hunters as "presumed dead" today in the wake of a blizzard which raked the state Wednesday night and yesterday, taking a known toll of four lives.

The four "presumed dead" deer hunters were feared drowned in Gratiot Lake high in the Keweenaw Peninsula that juts into Lake Superior. The duck hunters were missing in Lake Erie off extreme southeastern Michigan.

The deer season, which opened Tuesday, has claimed two deaths by gunfire. The deer hunters lost include three Michigan professional golfers and the host of an Illinois golf club.

Violent Storms Abating Over Most Of Nation

By The Associated Press
Snow and rain fell in Western states today but violent storms which lashed broad areas of the nation this week appeared diminishing.

The windy, snowy, cold weather was blamed for at least 13 deaths. Nine persons were missing and presumed dead. Four other persons were reported snowbound in the mountains near Boulder, Colo., which was hit by an 18-inch snowfall Monday.

The arctic air which has gripped the northern Rockies and Northern Plains states for several days appeared nearly broken this morning. The Weather Bureau reported only a few areas reporting below-zero temperatures.

Temperatures in the icy belt climbed as much as 20 degrees compared to yesterday morning. However, readings through the area as far south as southern Colorado were in the 20s or lower.

But it was colder in the South, with temperatures in the 30s as far as the central Gulf states. Readings were 20 to 30 degrees lower in the Southeast.

The coldest November weather in Montana's history dropped temperatures more than 30 degrees below zero in some areas. The cold also hit Wyoming and Colorado.

Heavy snow fell on the western slopes of the Rockies yesterday. A storm from Alaska struck the Pacific Coast, bringing rain along the coast southward into northern California and snow as far east as Idaho.

Snowfalls ranged from 2 to 6 inches in the Pacific Northwest. Traffic was snarled in many cities.

The snow in the western mountainous regions ranged up to 15 to 20 inches.

Snow flurries continued over the Great Lakes region and eastward into New England. Heaviest snow depths were 8 to 12 inches near Lake Superior and up to 17 inches at International Falls, Minn., on the Canadian border.

Shivers Still Has Kind Word For Ike

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Shivers has once again refused to say he will support just any Democratic nominee in 1956, and he has spoken new kind words about President Eisenhower.

Shivers said yesterday he expected to be challenged at the 1956 national convention by a "bunch of wild-eyed pinks." He was asked whether he would give a pledge if challenged, and replied:

"I will not do it. I will give no pledge to support any nominee until I know who he is."

The governor was among the Southern Democratic leaders who broke with Adlai Stevenson in 1952 and supported Eisenhower.

"If Eisenhower runs again, will you support him?" he was asked.

"I've said it before that he has given this country an outstanding administration," Shivers replied.

"He restored the confidence and respect of the average citizen in the national government. Does that answer your question?"

Shivers also said that if the Democrats name an "Eisenhower type" of candidate in 1956, he could support such candidate.

The governor said rules adopted by the national committee for next year's convention were actually the same as those of 1952.

He recalled all he promised in 1952 was to see to it that the party nominees names went on the Texas ballot in the Democratic column, and that he delivered on that promise. That same rule was adopted for 1956.

The national committee also said it would presume all delegates would be "bona fide Democrats who have the interest, welfare and success of the party at heart."

"That fits me exactly," Shivers said. "I have always had the welfare and success of the party at heart."

Shivers said if the test of party loyalty in 1956 would hinge on the question of support of Eisenhower in 1952, he wanted the test applied to all Democrats who voted against Al Smith in 1928.

Shivers said he was glad the national committee seated Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey as the committeeman from Texas. He commented that Texas had not had a real committeeman since 1948. He said Wright Morrow, replaced by Ramsey, had never been consulted by the party leadership.

The governor was asked if he planned to attend a rally honoring Sen. Lyndon Johnson at Whitney Monday. He replied that he had not been invited by the Democratic Advisory Council (DAC), and didn't expect to be.

Shivers commented tartly on a statement by Byron Skelton of Temple, newly-elected head of the DAC, that his election in effect made him party chairman in Texas.

"He's always wanted some title or position. By his own definition, now he has one," Shivers said.

Green Light On For Vaccine Production

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Polio experts say the green light is on for full-scale production of safe, potent vaccine through removal of a troublesome bottleneck.

Simultaneously, they answered some doubts and questions raised by some health officers concerning the vaccine at a meeting of the American Public Health Assn.

In essence, experts said there is no reason to doubt the efficiency or safety of the Salk polio vaccine.

One spiked a rumor that Canadians stopped making vaccine because they kept finding live virus in the vaccine. Dr. R. D. DeFries of Toronto said the reason was they're building a bigger plant to carry on a much bigger vaccination program next year.

Others, including Dr. Jonas E. Salk, who developed the vaccine, cited evidence that the vaccine could protect very young infants, that vaccination had nothing to do with the outbreak of this year's epidemic in Massachusetts, that use of even a single shot had drastically reduced paralytic polio in the United States this year.

But a couple of health officers held to their reservations that some inoculations of vaccine might have been the cause of spread of polio to other members of the family. Virus experts disagreed, or said the assumption was by no means proved.

A committee of experts appointed by the U. S. Public Health Service reported the cause of a troublesome bottleneck in vaccine production had been found and corrected. It lay in differences in ways manufacturers earlier this year strained or filtered "soups" of live virus.

This filtering is done before the viruses are exposed to a lethal bath of formaldehyde, to kill all the viruses used in the vaccine. The purpose of filtering is to ensure that all viruses are separate, equally exposed to the chemical.

But the committee found evidence that sometimes the filtering was perhaps too coarse, or else done too far in advance. Sediments or clumps of viruses inside the clumps could not be exposed to the chemical and could survive the bath.

A change in filtering methods and timing, already put into effect, prevents this, the report said. It means manufacturers should consistently get batches of vaccine free of live virus, and not have to discard or rework batches when live particles are detected by safety tests. This is the key to increased production.

All vaccine released since May 26 has already passed the consistent safety tests, the Public Health Service said.

Mrs. Worden Hearing Slated

KINGSVILLE (AP)—A grand jury will consider Monday the case of Mrs. Sunny Canales Worden, whose story of shooting her husband on lonely Padre Island was verified by a lie detector test yesterday.

Judge Paul Martinau ordered the grand jury called at the request of Dist. Atty. Sam Jones, shortly after Mrs. Worden passed the lie detector test.

She said she shot her husband and buried him in a grave he made her dig after he told her he was going to make her shoot herself and her daughter. She has been charged with murder in the case.

The body of Don Worden, 43, a San Antonio real estate man, was found off the coast Oct. 29.

Sheriff Jim Scarborough said "the test on Mrs. Worden showed she had told the truth to officers in her original written statement."

Mrs. Worden, 42, said that when Worden threatened to make her shoot herself and Maria Teresa, she grabbed a diamond studded pistol from his belt and shot him.

She said she buried the body in the shallow, sandy grave he had forced her to scoop in the sand.

Mrs. Worden also told officers her husband of a few months had beat, burned, and shot at her. She also accused Worden of mesmerizing her into giving him large sums of money.

Mrs. Worden is free under $5,000 bond.

"By the goodness of God we are so farre from want..."

More than 200 years ago one of the first Pilgrims, Edward Winslow, wrote his people back in England telling them of the first Thanksgiving and thanking God for his blessings. Unfortunately, for many of us Winslow's true spirit of thankfulness has long since been lost somewhere between the dressing and the cranberry sauce. How can we rediscover the real meaning of the holiday? Read what happened when our family invited in a lonely stranger who taught them that "Thanksgiving Day is Every Day"

Evidence of Jesus' Power

HE HEALED THE AFFLICTED AND RAISED THE DEAD

Scripture—Luke 7: 1:22-35.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL.

OUR LESSON TODAY contains so many incidents showing the power of Jesus Christ, that we are compelled to be brief in recording each one.

After preaching to the multitudes on how to live righteous lives as He would have them, He entered the city of Capernaum.

Now a Roman centurion (captain) had a servant of whom he was fond, and this man was desperately ill, almost at death's door. The Roman officer had heard of Jesus and he sent elders of the Jews to find the Lord. They assured Christ that this man was worthy of His aid because he had built them a synagogue.

So Jesus went with the messengers, and as He neared the centurion's house, the Roman came to meet Him, saying he was not worthy to have the Lord enter his house, but if Jesus would say the word, he knew his servant would be healed.

So impressed was the Master with the man's faith, He said to those with Him, "I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel." Returning to the Roman's house, the centurion found the servant healed.

Next day with others Jesus went to the city of Nain, and when they came near to the city gate they saw a dead man carried on a bier. He was the only child of a widow. She was weeping bitterly and her friends were trying to comfort her.

Touched by the widow's anguish, Jesus said to her, "Weep not." Then He touched the bier and the bearers stood still. "And He said, Young man, I say unto thee, arise." And the man sat up and began to speak.

Many of the children who have seen the grief of those who have lost dear ones. Some may have had such an experience in their own homes. They will understand and appreciate the joy Christ gave this poor woman who feared she had lost her only child and companion.

Those who witnessed this miracle were afraid at first, then they glorified God, but thought that Jesus was a prophet like the ones that were with their people in olden times.

Now John the Baptist was confined in a prison located in one of the hottest and most desolate places in the country. He heard of Jesus' works, and he may have wondered why He did not get his (John's) release from prison. He sent two of his disciples to Jesus to ask Him if He really was the Messiah for whom they all looked.

MEMORY VERSE

"Go your way and tell John heard; Now that the blind see, the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, to the poor the gospel is preached."—Luke 7:22.

ple there received Him gladly; they were, indeed, waiting for Him.

A ruler of the synagogue, named Jarius, came to Christ, falling at His feet, and begging Him to come to his house. His only daughter, 12 years old, was dying. As Jarius pleaded with the Master, a woman who had been ill of a hateful disease, touched the border of His garment, and was healed. Jesus knew someone had touched Him and the woman confessed it was she. Christ said to her, "Daughter, be of good comfort; thy faith hath made thee whole; go in peace."

The Master then accompanied Jarius to his home, but before they reached it one came to them saying to Jarius, "Thy daughter is dead; trouble not the Master." Jesus answered, "Fear not; believe only, and she shall be made whole." To the people in the house who were weeping and wailing, He said, "Weep not; she is not dead, but asleep," and the mourners laughed at Him.

Taking only Peter, James, John and the parents with Him, Jesus went into the child's room. He "took her by the hand, and called, saying, Maid, arise," and her spirit came again and she arose, and Jesus told them to give her something to eat.

Explanation of More Difficult Clues

CLUES ACROSS:

- Injured, yes, since "from time to time" means not too often. Famous ballet dancers practically always have their legs injured.
- Birds are regularly seen resting in the trees. They are not seen nesting "regularly", but only at certain times of the year.
- A large stove, yes, but not necessarily a large stone. "Large" is a comparative term and the stone could be a precious stone—a diamond, for example. No large precious stones would be difficult to move.
- Ice best fits the clue: Note the word "properly". A practiced hand will easily cut an ice properly. Properly means correctly or honestly. A practiced hand cannot cut an Ace honestly any more easily than can any other person since doing so honestly becomes purely a question of mathematical odds and thus is as hard for one as for the other. Ice is an indisputable answer.
- Odd is best. All the stories in European folk-lore are very Old. "Many" of them are very Odd.
- It's natural for a man to believe his own ideal to be good. As for his ideas, no man believes that all his ideas are good ideas. We admit we all have ideas that are not good ones.
- How much money a storekeeper takes usually depends on salesmanship. What he makes, that is, ultimate profit, depends more on his efficiency in the general running of the business.

CLUES DOWN:

- incite is best since to incite him to fight conveys the idea that he is breaking the peace, an illegal act. As for invite, it might be a prizefight, or some such feature, in which you invite him to fight and this need cause no trouble.
- He must look elsewhere for his site. If he can't get his site, he may simply order it. He is not necessarily forced to look elsewhere, as the clue says. Site is too weak.
- Idioms is best. They may be hard or they may not be hard to teach, depending on what idiom they are. Idiots are hard to teach—there is no "may be" about it.
- A Pen name is one a person is sure to not mind being called because a Pen name is one a person usually selects himself and would hardly select a disagreeable one. A Pet name is one given by some one else and you may eventually get heartily sick of being called it.
- True of Coal. A high quality of Coal may quite easily cost less, if, for example, its style happens to be outmoded, or some similar reason.
- Dime is best. Dime can be recognized by their shape even if you can't see the markings. A Dime is identified by the markings on it rather than by its shape.
- Cafe is the more positive answer. The clue emphasizes the purpose of the candles is to illuminate the object in question. A Cafe might be illuminated ("lit up") with candles, giving a charming effect. Strictly speaking, people use candles on the cake to decorate it charmingly and not for the sake of illuminating it. Cafe is thus the surer answer.

Priest Talks To Would-Be Jumper

A young man identified by police as Amando Escalante, about 30, wearing light topcoat, turns to listen to a Catholic priest as he sits on the 11th floor parapet of the Veterans Administration building in San Francisco. Escalante, who police said had threatened to jump from his lofty perch, was pulled to safety by firemen when he was offered a bottle of whisky. No reason was given for his action.

FARM PROBLEM

'Soil Bank' Idea Meets Approval

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP)—A ground swell is developing in farming areas for a federal program that would reduce the size of the nation's farm plant until markets are better able to use what agriculture is capable of producing.

Farmers now recognize that agriculture over-expanded to meet war and postwar needs and that big surpluses accumulated as a consequence.

Few farmers see hope of any substantial improvement in the farm economy until production can be brought closer into balance with markets.

At recent hearings held by the Senate Agriculture Committee in major farming areas and in interviews elsewhere, farmers disagreed on price support levels and methods of carrying out price guarantees. But there was an almost unanimous endorsement of a land retirement program.

It appears to be a pretty good wager that the Senate committee will include such a program in new farm legislation it plans to write. Both Democratic and Republican members greeted the idea as a "new look" in farm programs.

The plan is being advanced as a "soil bank." Farmers would take a portion of their tillable land out of all production and put it to soil-building uses. That would store fertility for a future emergency or to meet needs of an expanding population.

For taking land out of production, farmers would get a payment from the government. Most farmers agreed that this payment should be enough to pay the taxes on the idled land, pay the cost of seeding it to a soil building crop, and give the farmer a rental fee equal to from 5 to 7 per cent of its annual productive value.

Prime advocates of such a plan are President Howard Hill of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation and President James Patton of the National Farmers Union.

Some farmers would have the program require every farmer to idle a uniform percentage of his tillable land. Others would make it voluntary.

To protect dairymen and cattlemen from added competition, the plan would not allow grazing or the harvesting of forage crops from the idled land.

Naturally, a program of this kind would cost a lot of money. Estimates vary from 350 million to one billion dollars a year. If the plan works successfully to reduce production, farm prices could be expected to improve. It then would be possible to make gradual reductions in the rental fees.

The Iowa Farm Bureau leader said it certainly would not be more expensive than the present program under which the government lent about 800 million dollars in price support operations alone.

BSHS Groups Plan To Attend Tech Meetings

Two groups of Big Spring High School students will be in Lubbock Saturday for Texas Tech's annual high school Activities Conference and Journalism Day. And three members of one group will appear on the day's program.

Fifteen students and their sponsor, Dell McComb, will be attending speech sessions with three of the group, Tom Guin, Rodney Shepard, and Don Shore participating. Meanwhile 19 from here will be sitting in on lectures Journalism Day.

In the speech portion, Guin and Shepard will be in a demonstration debate, while Shore will give demonstrations in poetry reading.

Members of the speech party will be Leon Clark, Nita Jones, Dennis Jones, Priscilla Pond, T. I. Kennedy, Julie Rainwater, J. D. Adams, J. T. Baird, Gerry Girdner, Gary Tidwell, Merle Dean Harter, and Patsy Walker, in addition to the three demonstrators and McComb.

The speech department program is under the direction of Dr. Paul M. Larson, head of Tech's speech department.

While the program is being presented to speech students, elsewhere 12 newsmen and women from Texas will be lecturing on their particular phases of journalistic work.

Included in this group are Jim Lindsey, Midland Reporter-Telegraph managing editor; Keith Fuller, KCBT-TV Lubbock, news director; and Miss Louise Evans, Amarillo Globe-News reporter.

Attending the Journalism sessions will be staffers of the Big Spring school paper, Eunice Freeman, Marlene Mann, Richard Pachall, Gerald Lackey, Billy Johnson, Alton McCarty, Ricky Terry, Frances Reagan, Carolyn Miller, Donald Lovelady, Preston Bridges, Charlotte Jensen, Freddie Simpson, Ann Richbourg, and Carol Rogers.

Members of the yearbook staff to attend are Sally Cowper, Marilyn Morris, China Carroll, and Margaret Fryar. Mrs. Erma W. Steward, sponsor, will be accompanying the group.

Following the morning sessions, both groups will be guests of Texas Tech at the football game between Tech and College of the Pacific.

U. S. Industry, Alliances Termed Cold War Weapons

DALLAS (AP)—The United States' tremendous industrial power must be coupled with an alliance system with other nations to win a protracted cold war against Russia, Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, supreme commander of Allied powers in Europe, said here last night.

In a speech before the Dallas Council of World Affairs, billed as his only major public appearance in the United States, Gruenther said the only thing that gives this country and its allies a balance of power in the cold war is the tremendous industrial power of the United States.

But he said production alone was not sufficient to assure security.

"Just because America has more steel, more bathtubs and more automobiles than all the Soviet countries put together," he said, "does not necessarily mean we have the necessary wisdom to lead in a protracted cold war."

"We are in the major leagues now. Russia firmly believes that time is on its side," he said. "Our superiority depends on an alliance system."

He said the West is not strong enough at the present time to turn back an all-out aggression.

"Three or four years from now we can be reasonably assured of defense against an all-out aggression provided, first, if we use atomic weapons, and second, that the new forces of Western Germany grow into effectiveness," he said.

"The United States has assumed the mantle of leadership," he said, speaking of NATO countries. "To carry this mantle, the American people must be understanding. We must have public support and participation."

He said that the American public should not be discouraged over the failure of the Geneva conference this week.

Christmas Tree Industry In Crisis

EUREKA, Mont. (AP)—Montana's million-dollar Christmas tree industry is approaching a crisis due to the state's worse November cold wave in history.

Thousands of trees have been cut but they cannot be baled for shipment out of state due to the cold. They become so brittle that any pressure breaks the twigs off.

Officials said this could mean a shortage of trees for Americans this year.

Don't Be Superior

"People who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones." If you really paid attention to that old adage you'd have your key to popularity.

You see, we all live in glass houses, and widespread popularity is gained only after we conquer our human desire to toss stones of superiority or cattiness at our neighbors. If we shatter their houses, they'll shatter ours by acting unfriendly.

Carol prides herself on being frank and candid. False flattery is not in her; she says what she thinks. Nevertheless, people shun her.

Some call her "blunt," "outspoken," "tactless," and even rude. Ginger isn't half so comely as Carol but she has twice as many friends. Long ago she learned that everyone lives in a glass house, so she stopped throwing stones. Knowing that others would rate her according to how they felt when they were with her, and knowing, too, that people long to feel important, significant, and worthwhile, Ginger set out to develop a personality that would feed this need in others.

Ginger is as sincere and honest as Carol, but she dishes up "the truth" in a pretty dish.

Whatever is praise-worthy, she praises; what is not, she ignores, or, if pressed for an opinion, she might reply: "You ordinarily have such good taste in clothes, Jane."

This dress is the sort many people might choose, but it's not up to your standard." James loves Ginger.

Johnny, aged three, rushes up to visitors and in rapid succession shows them he can turn a summer-sault and spin a yo-yo. Everyone laughs.

You can't get away with showing off your accomplishments so proudly. This is throwing stones of superiority. It didn't do Johnny any harm because he couldn't threaten any adult's feeling of contentment. His achievements could not rival theirs.

You may brag to prove your desirability as a friend. Actually you are blackballing yourself.

In effect you are saying: "Look, I'm important." This makes others feel unimportant by comparison. They shy away.

Make them feel important. They find out about your successes via the grapevine. When they do they'll admire you for your modesty and be especially thrilled that someone worthwhile, like you appreciate them.

"Prescription for Popularity" is a free booklet you may have by writing Miss Brandow in care of The Herald and enclosing a 3-cent stamp.)

Prematurity Brings Risk Of Nerve Disorders

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE AP Science Reporter

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Premature babies apparently face a higher risk of mental or nerve abnormalities than full-term babies, a new study reported today.

The more premature or tinier the infant is at birth, the greater the risk, said the report to the American Public Health Assn.

This indicates the importance of preventing prematurity, and of closely observing premature babies to detect any abnormalities and trying to counteract them, the study finds.

The report is based upon a study of nearly 500 premature infants and 500 full-term babies born in Baltimore, and given careful physical and behavioral examinations at about 9 months.

It was made by Hilda Knobloch, M. D., Rowland Rider, Sc. D., Paul Harper, M.D., and Benjamin Pasamanick, M.D., the Johns Hopkins University School of Hygiene and Public Health, Baltimore.

The occurrence of abnormality increases as the birth weight group of the baby decreases, the report said.

At 40 weeks of age, the over-all incidence of serious nerve abnormality, including possible cerebral palsy and obvious nerve defect, in the premature babies was more than 9 per cent, or about six times higher than in nonpremature babies.

The premature babies as a group indicated 3.8 per cent mental deficiency, both borderline and other defects, compared with 1.8 per cent for full-term babies.

Half the babies weighing less than 3-3 pounds at birth showed mental or nerve defects, and some had a major vision defect.

Mastoid Called Still Serious

HOUSTON (AP)—A doctor cautioned physicians today against any idea that mastoid infection is "a disease of the past," relegated to history by the "wonder drugs."

Dr. M. P. Spearman of El Paso said "mastoiditis"—an infection of the mastoid bone behind the ear—is a continuing problem, yet is often being overlooked.

He told the closing session of the Southern Medical Assn:

"There is an uncritical acceptance by many statements that mastoiditis has been eradicated by the antibiotics and the sulfonamides."

"There is a need for a revival of interest and knowledge of mastoiditis, because assuredly the disease does exist, and is more common than is generally supposed."

WIVES MEET

Labor Groups Plan 'Educational' Unit

Meeting today at the Settles Hotel were wives of members of four Big Spring labor unions to organize local units of the state Labor League for Political Education (women's division). Speaking to the group on the league is Mrs. Doris Cates, director of women's activities for the State Federation of Labor. Mrs. Cates is in charge of organizing the groups in cities of the state. Groups have been set up by Mrs. Cates in practically all of the big cities of Texas.

Mrs. Cates said the objective of the Labor's League for Political Education was basically stated in the latter two words of the title. "We—the State Federation of Labor—want to acquaint all voting members of labor families with politics. We want to get 100 per cent of our families having paid their poll tax.

"We wish to conduct a complete educational program for these voters as to the political parties' platforms, candidates, their records, their positions on specified problems, and ultimately get out the largest vote in history of the country." The meeting today was for leaders among the various union wives. But another meeting will be held Saturday night at 7:30 for all wives, sisters, daughters and other female members of labor families. At that meeting, the Big Spring group of

Coahoma Delays Water Program

COAHOMA (SC) — This municipality's celebration of soft and plentiful water, set for this afternoon, has been delayed until next week.

Reports on tests from the 6-inch cast iron line connecting Coahoma and Sand Springs with Big Spring indicated some additional work would be required.

Officials indicated that perhaps the celebration could be staged early next week.

Coahoma and Sand Springs residents, as well as some in between, had voted $155,000 in revenue bonds a year ago as the Howard County Water Improvement and Control District No. 1.

The district then contracted to lake treated water from the City of Big Spring and contributed toward the construction of a 20-inch main from the filtration plant to the eastern edge of Big Spring. From that point, the water to Coahoma will be supplied through the six-inch main.

Besides being limited, the well water in use here is rated among the hardest in West Texas.

Two Break-Ins, Nothing Missing

Two burglaries were investigated by police this morning. The Phillips 66 service station in the 200 block of East Second reported nothing missing, although yeggs broke a lock off a drawer. Entry to the station was made through a door in the wash rack.

The Howard County Farm Bureau was also burglarized, however the burglars apparently left empty handed. A window was broken to gain entry.

Cubs Of Pack 10 Work On Projects

Nine Cubs were present at the home of Mrs. C. A. Stevenson, den mother, for their weekly meeting Thursday. They are members of Den 2, Pack 10, sponsored by the First Baptist Church.

The Cubs worked on various projects, including scrapbooks, Thanksgiving party favors, and Christmas gifts. Glen Eiland took pictures of the project work for his own personal book. He is working toward the Lion rank and the book is part of his work.

Next meeting of the den will be held next Tuesday. Plans are under way to repair toys for Christmas.

Austin Farmer Convicted In Airman Shooting

AUSTIN (AP)—Otto Ludwig Sr., 65, was convicted today to assault with intent to murder without malice in the mutilation shooting of Negro Airman Henry Roach March 31. The all-male, all-white jury recommended three years imprisonment.

Raymond Ludwig, 29, a son, was convicted of aggravated assault, a misdemeanor. A nine-month jail sentence was suggested.

The jury foreman said when court convened that a decision had been reached during the night. Judge Jack Roberts had recessed the court at 11 p.m. after the jury failed to reach agreement after 95 minutes.

Dist. Atty. Les Procter had asked maximum punishment for assault to murder in Texas, 15 years.

Roach, 21, Bergstrom Air Force Base airman, was hit in the face with a shotgun blast and one eye was blown away as he parked with a date at a dead end on a "lover's lane" near the farm home of the Ludwigs.

He and the girl testified the shot was fired as Roach started to obey an order from the white men to get off the road and stay off.

Dallas Couple, Pilot Die In Plane Crash

QUINLAN, Tex. (AP)—A wealthy Dallas real estate man, his wife and their pilot were killed today in the explosion and crash of a light plane.

Killed were T. H. Parham, 51; Mrs. Parham, 37, and J. M. Craig, a director of Dal-Tex Aviation Inc., owner of the plane.

Parham's Dallas office said it did not know the purpose of the trip. Parham returned only yesterday from a hunting trip to Uvalde and may have been on another hunting trip.

The plane left Dallas enroute for Shreveport, La., at 9:30 a.m. At about 9:55 a.m. the single-engine Cessna exploded and fell in flames over this Northeast Texas town.

The small plane, silver with red identifying numbers, fell near the campus of the Boles Orphans Home and part of the burning debris was scattered onto the campus.

Weather was not believed a factor although skies were heavily clouded at 8:55 a.m. when the plane fell. Rain had fallen earlier.

The serial number on one wing, N106G, was still visible.

Four boys starting to enter the home's gymnasium for gym class, David Thornton, Lonnie Brown, Paul Owens and James Lackey, saw the crash.

Bitter Campaign Draws To Close

HOUSTON (AP)—One of the bitterest and most expensive campaigns in local history will be climaxed tomorrow when voters elect a Houston mayor.

The candidates are incumbent Roy Hofheinz, who has caustically criticized what he calls the city's "fat cats" in his campaign for a third term; Oscar Holcombe, who came out of political retirement to seek an 11th term and "restore dignity" to the office; and Attorney George Eddy.

Pocahontas Married 'Honest Gentleman'

By RAMON COFFMAN
Two years after he settled at Jamestown, Capt. John Rolfe fell victim to an accident. He was hurt in a gunpowder explosion.

That event led him to board a vessel which was on the point of sailing for England: He told his friends that he could obtain a good doctor in England to treat his wounds.

Pocahontas knew the reason for Smith's return to his native land. She felt anxious about him, and asked for news. She was told, at length, that he had died, and mourned his passing. Whether the statement was an honest error or an intentional falsehood, it is impossible to say at this distance.

Pocahontas ceased her visits for a time, but at length she was lured to a place where she could be made prisoner. Then a message was sent to Chief Powhatan, telling him that she would be kept until he set free several white men who had been captured, and until he returned firearms which the Indians had taken.

The young Indian woman was treated well while she remained a captive. One of those who talked with her was John Rolfe, a settler who was described as "an honest gentleman."

By that time Pocahontas was about 19 years of age. She was pleased by Rolfe's good nature. When he asked her to marry him, she agreed. With the approval of the Powhatan, the wedding was celebrated at Jamestown.

A child, Thomas was born to the couple and they took the little one with them when they traveled to England three years after their marriage. In England the Indian woman was treated like a princess since she was the daughter of "King" Powhatan. An event of special importance was a meeting with Captain Smith. She was as-tomished to find him still alive, and asked him to think of her as his daughter.

There was a sad ending to the visit in England. Shortly before she was to embark on the return voyage to Jamestown, Pocahontas fell ill and died. Her son was left in England under the care of relatives. After Thomas grew to manhood, he moved to Virginia.

Hope 'Astonished' At Reaction To Jokes On Princess

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bob Hope says he's astonished that some Canadians were so upset over jokes he made on television about the Princess Margaret-Peter Townsend romance.

"I admire Pete's nerve," Hope told his television audience Tuesday night. "Imagine trying to sell royalty the Townsend plan."

The British-born comedian referred to an old age plan authored by Dr. Francis Townsend which became popular nationally in the 30s.

The Canadian Broadcasting Corp., said it received complaints about the jokes referring to the princess and the group captain.

Hope said the princess was a good friend and added, "I'd be the last one to say anything derogatory about Princess Margaret."

Other quips during the show included: "This is the biggest crisis England has had since Anthony Eden sat down on a wet tea bag. Now that it's over the Democrats are saying, 'Why don't they give our Margaret a crack at him?'"

"Yes, sir, Princess Margaret gave up the man she loved and I don't see how she could do anything else. She knew I was tied up."

"But I do sympathize with Capt. Townsend. I know what he was up against. For years I tried to play the Falaise."

Hope was also defended by NBC. A spokesman said the comedian pokes fun at himself, NBC, the sponsor, and President Eisenhower.
