Rural Cities: Work Together For Better Economy

The Texas ecomony has changed in the last couple of years and so has the method of inviting new industry into an area, is what David Scott said at an economical development meeting held last Thursday at the Hilton Community Center in Cisco. Scott is with the West Texas Utilities Ecomonic Development Department, out of Abilene.

Scott and Linda Thompson, with the Department of Financing, out of Austin, spoke to a group of community leaders from six area towns on ways to bring industry to this area.

Scott said the real enemy now is poverty and not each other, as it has been in the past. He said small towns need to have harmony and better working relationships for everyone. He said the small towns in Texas do not need to be competitive against each other anymore. They need to be competitive against other states that want the same new industries.

Scott said towns that the WTU Economic Development Committee is willing to help are centered around Interstate 20, east of Abilene and west of Ft. Worth. Representatives from Cisco, Eastland, Clyde, Rising Star, Baird and Albany, who are part of this group, were at the meeting.

Scott said that recently another group of cities in the northwestern part of the state purged their resources together and three manufacturing companies have come into their area. Scott said the communities in the "Green Belt District" region worked together and had results.

Scott told the group, "It is Abilene, Oval Shults from almost imperative to RSNC to Abilene, Oval organize and work together for economic growth. The resources and individual values of each city have to come from all towns."

Linda Thompson told the group the Business Development of Texas government is there to help Texas grow and to create jobs for ecomonic growth. She said they help with financing for companies that are already in the state of Texas and for those who want to come into the state. They not only try to bring in new industry, she said, but they try to expand present industries. Thompson said projects do go through her department that will create jobs.

Thomspson said her department use to only work in the areas of Texas where the unemployment rate was high. But right now, all of Texas is a place of high unemployment.

She said the back bone of a state is the small communities, and they have to work together to help each other out. She said in big cities, bankers will go together to finance a new business. She added that small town banks need to go together and bring in businesses.

Thompson said all of the programs and deals in the last year she has worked with, except one, were in rural communities. She said it is just knowing who to call and who to contact.

Cisco Chamber of Commerce manager, Don Shepard, told the group about Cisco and Eastland working together last year to try to get the Aldersgate Home. Don said they had offered Aldersgate a $200,000 deal, but Brownwood offered a one million dollar deal and Aldersgate took it.

Scott said he wonders what would have happened if all Continued on back page...

equal to about one-third of any given depth. Consider the case of a fisherman looking for his favorite submerged stump in ten feet of water. Even with a one-inch transducer, he's looking at an area under his boat that is only slightly more than three feet wide. He has to make multiple passes just to cover an area as wide as his boat! The 3D-100 not only searches at three times the normal cone angle width, but is capable of separately examining the left, center and right thirds of the width as well. To accomplish this, a one-piece, triple transducer is used in conjunction with three separate transmitters and receivers. The revolutionary transducer even permits operation at high

This electronic wizardry allows an angler to continually scan left, center and right, lock in on any direction, or look at a compilation of all three pictures on the screen. It's as simple as pressing the button labeled for the appropriate task.

This capability helps fishermen find schools of fish that were previously out of range, and even tells them which direction to turn the boat to reach them!

There's no telling where ongoing research will lead. For the time being, however, anglers are enjoying a new dimension in the sport fishing sonar undreamed of just a year ago.

Entering The Year Of The Dragon

February 17 is the Chinese New Year - this year. The ancient Chinese calendar, called the yin-yang li, does not match our Gregorian calendar, so the holiday can fall anywhere between January 20 and February 20.

The Gregorian calendar, which is used today in most countries, is based on the solar year - 365 days, the time it takes the earth to circle the sun. The old Chinese calendar, still used in most of the Orient to set the dates of holidays and festivals, is based upon lunar time. Each month begins at a new moon, every 291/2 days. The New Year falls at the second moon after the onset of

The Oriental calendar also groups years into cycles of 60, naming each year within the cycle with a rotating twoword combination. One of the words always is the name of an animal, one of twelve: rat, ox, tiger, hare, dragon, snake, horse, sheep, monkey, fowl, dog and pig.

Further, the Chinese zodiac corresponds to these animals. We are about to enter the year of the dragon a passage to celebrate, for the dragon is considered a particularly strong and auspicious symbol.

Customer Relations Key To Retail Business

COLLEGE STATION -- "Word mouth" often can "make" or "break" a retail business. "Research indicates that a dissatisfied customer typically tells about 10 other people, and most retailers, especially in smaller towns, can not afford to lose that much business.

"The key to a successful retail business is customer satisfaction," sayd Dr. Don Stebbins.

"Recent survey show that it's not unusual for consumers in small towns to spend more than half of their income in larger cities," notes Stebbins, a community development specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. "To a large extent, higher prices are not the problem. If necessary, most consumers are willing to pay slightly higher prices and support local merchants if they are satisfied in other ways." That means excellent customer relations--a low cost, effective way for merchants to keep present customers and gain new

"Good 'word of mouth' advertising is the cheapest and best advertising that a merchant can get," emphasizes the specialist. "More merchants need to do a better job and make sure that satisfied customers are spreading the word."

Good customer relations include asking questions to understand customer needs. "Many times customers need assistance in selecting the correct model, size or quality of some product," points out Stebbins. "It's important to know enough about the product to help the customer make the best choice."

groomed salesperson who is giving a customer full attention can make a favorable impression. On the other hand, an indifferent attitude by the sales person can easily send a customer to a competitor.

Even the best managed store will occasionally have a dissatisfied customer, notes the specialist.

"Experts in customer relations tell us that there are effective ways to deal with the irate person," says Stebbins. "The important thing is to allow the unhappy customer to express his feelings and then agreeable find an solution."

Stebbins advises community business leaders to take the initiative in encouraing and assisting merchants to adopt improved customer relations pro-

"Everyone in the community benefits if the retail trade and service sector is pleasing customers," says the specialist. "Businesses are more likely to be profitable, customers happier and jobs in retailing more secure. And more dollars stay in town to possibly create more job opportunities."

Community development specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service offer training in customer relations. Interested merchants can contact their local county Extension agent to arrange a training program.

1987 was a good year for the production of many agricultural commodities in Texas and Eastland County despite some extremes in the weather.

The year started on a good note as winter conditions were generally mild. However, a late spring freeze devastated fruit and also damaged the pecan and wheat crops. Wheat losses averaged 30 to 40 percent in some locations.

Dry weather blanketed much of the state in April and early May and then the rains came, heavy rains that brought on flooding in some locations and delayed peanut planting here in our area. neighbor, Mrs. Ethel Brown. Nor is this pillow the only memento I have received and have to remember this friend of many years. There were birthday gifts, anniversary gifts, but most of all, a smile, a hug and a welcome each time I visited her.

She was my neighbor for 30 years. It will be difficult to pass her comfortable rock house, (built by my Uncle Winslow Weathermon) without thinking of her sitting by a quilting frame plying her quilting needle, even yet.

Since he is no longer here, To past memories, I shed a tear For all the love and care shown To a child until she was grown.

A great debt to my dad I owe. I'll try to repay it as I go By helping others find the way To right living, day by day.

I'll never forget the smile he wore To see his first grandchild, I bore. There were only four, all full of fun.

April 15, 1982

I cannot estimate the number of quilts to her credit. There were the many traditional patterns; also her own original designs. Many were made for children, friends and grandchildren. Some quilting was for the public and her price was always minimal, never enough to pay for the long hours, even into the nights, she spent quilting for other people. Mrs. Brown was a living example of Prov.

31-10,31. In his last years, Mr. Brown was blind and in a wheel chair. Never did Mrs. Brown entertain the idea of his going to a rest home. She was ready with the reply to anyone suggesting it, "I can care for him." And she did.

Ex-students remember her as one of the best teachers and friend. She was a poet of no mean ability. The following poem attests to her family tradition of car-

My Dad

A wonderful guy was my dad, The best friend I ever had. He taught me right from wrong And filled each day with happy song.

With open arms, he welcomed each one.

Some day in a heavenly place, I shall again see his dear face. This earth we will no more trod, For we hall be at home with God.

Saturday Club

The Saturday Club met on Wednesday, February 3, at the meeting room in the Public Library with 24 members and one guest present. Hostesses for the day were Linda George and Elizabeth Hardy.

President Bea Kruger presided over the meeting. The program, American Fantasy," was presented by Linda George. Linda reviewed an original book entitled "Forget Me Not," a story about the cattle drives in the early west from Texas to Abilene, Kan. Linda was able to portray the early days in America in an original manner and her audience was enthralled by the story Linda spun. We are fortunate to have a person so ship. Though it is titled a fantasy, it sounded plausible to the audience, who lived these adventureous times with the author and reviewer. A short business meeting gifted in the club member-

was then held and the meeting was adjourned to partake of refreshments which carried out the Valentine theme. Punch and coffee, finger sandwiches, strawberry cake and assorted nuts were served.

The fine art exhibit showed paintings done by Ruby Murdoch. The Saturday Club members are proud of the artistic ability of members. The club adjourned to meet again on February 17 at the usual time.

Church of Christ

The Bible teaches us to worship God. No responsible person can be pleasing unto God who fails to worship him. Yet is is true that not all worship is acceptable unto God. There is such a thing as vain worship. We need to examine our worship in the light of God's word to see whether or not it is acceptable unto our heavenly Father.

Jesus tells us how to worship in John 4:23-24. "But the hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth: for the Father seeketh such to worship him. God is a spirit: and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth." Here Jesus uses the word "must". They that worship God must worship him in spirit and in truth! To worship in spirit simply means that we must have the right attitude when we worship. Our disposition or frame of mind must be such as will be pleasing unto God. In other words, the heart must be in it. Formality in our worship will cause it to be vain. On the other hand, to worship God in truth means to be sincere and earnest in our worship. It must not be pretended, but rather it must be real and genuine. Not only this, but our worship must be according to the truth. The word of God is the truth, hence for our worship to be acceptable we must conduct our worship according to the conditions and regulations stated in the word of God. The Holy Scriptures set forth five items of worship.

We are taught to sing psalms, hymns, and spiritual songs, (Eph. 5:19; Col. 3:16), to pray, (Acts 2:42; 1 Thess. 5:17) to read and study God's word, (John 5:39; Il Tim. 2:15), to partake of the Lord's Supper, (Acts 20:7; 1 Cor. 11:20-29), and to contribute of our means, (1 Cor. 16:1-2, 11 Cor. 9:6-7). If we were to leave off any one of these items our worship would not be complete. If we were to add unto these things our worship would not be acceptable. Why? Because it would not be according to the truth. Let us study the Bible to see what God has commanded concerning worship and then worship him as it is written.

Area Counties Primary Routes For Hauling Low-Level Radioactive Waste

Eastland County and other counties on I-20 and INO in Texas are on primary routes for hauling low-level radioactive waste to far West Texas, according to information brought by Judge Scott Bailey to the County Commissioners Court Monday.

Judge Bailey explained that a site in Hudspeth County, just east of El Paso County, had been chosen as a place for disposing of this waste. Bailey read from a letter he had received from County Judge Luther Jones of El Paso County, saying that the Interstate routes would become a corridor for the radio-active waste, and he felt that each County and town should organize to protect citizens.

Judge Bailey reported that "low level" radiation is not actually harmless. During a recent accident in Brazil one capsule of the same material to be hauled through here caused four people to die, four to suffer from burns, and a number of other people exposed to possible cancers and genetic defects.

This accident, though generally overlooked, was actually the second worst peacetime radiation accident in the world's history second only to Cherynoble, the Judge said.

NRC Approves Plan To Correct Problems

Comanche Peak Takes A Key Step

From Dallas Morning News By David Real

Staff Writer
Comanche Peak took a major step toward licensing Monday when the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission formally approved the corrective action program for the North Texas nuclear power plant.

If properly completed, the program would assure federal regulators that the plant's owner, TU Electric, had corrected design and construction deficiencies and should receive its operating license, according to the document, issued by the NRC's Office of Special Projects.

TU Electric spokesman Dick Ramsey said the notice was good news.

"I think it's a significant milestone," Ramsey said. "I think it should certainly bolster public confidence in the fact that we are doing what's necessary to assure a plant that's built safely and can be operated safely."

The NRC approval follows three years of reinspection work that was sparked by a major NRC inspection in 1984 that found evidence of safety problems at the plant.

The reinspection confirmed that quality assurance and quality control programs during the initial design and construction of Comanche Peak were deficient, the report The report's strict insistence on the proper resolution of design and construction issues at the plant was welcome news, said Comanche Peak opponent Juanita Ellis, president of the Dallas-based Citizens Association for Sound Energy.

Comanche Peak is being built about 75 miles southwest of Dallas near Glen Rose, in Somervell County. New cost and schedule estimates for the $7.5 billion plant, last estimated to open "sometime" after the summer of 1989, are expected in February, Ramsey said.

Don believes that during the last three years by working closely with other agencies that he and his department have reduced the number of unsolved crimes committed in Eastland County. During the last three years there has been a large increase in the number of drug arrests made by the combined effort of all Law Enforcement agencies of Eastland County.

This is a result of advanced training in all aspects of criminal investigation and civil process procedures. Training in both areas is a must in Law Enforcement today because of the liabilities which the Sheriff and his department are responsible. During the past twenty one years, Don has accumulated over 1200 certified hours of specialized training in all aspects of Law Enforcement. These accredited courses qualify Don to better serve the people of Eastland County. The following courses are all approved by Texas Commission of Law Enforcement Officers Standards and Education and include:

Jail Administration, Criminal Investigation, Civil Process, Choosing Qualified Personnel, Search and Seizure, Courtroom Testimony, Case Preparation, Riot Control, Crime Scene Protection and Gathering Evidence, Sexual Abuse of Children, Recognition and Detecting Clandestine Laboratories, Traffic Law,

Accident Investigation and Recognizing and Detecting DWI's (Driving While Intoxicated). Sheriff Underwood holds an advanced certificate in Law Enforcement. He also holds an Instructors Certificate which qualifies him to teach Firearms Training, Criminal Law Enforcement, Civil Process Procedures, and Jail Certification.

Sheriff Underwood began his Law Enforcement career with the Texas Department of Public Safety in 1967. In 1975 he was appointed Juvenile Probation Officer for Nolan County. In 1977, Don took office as Sheriff of Nolan

Before Don was elected as Eastland County Sheriff, he was employed as the Criminal Investigator for the Eastland Police Department. Don Underwood was elected and took office as Sheriff of Eastland County January 1, 1985.

Don has a total of three deputies who have 29 years of combined experience, two of the deputies have college degrees.

Don and his deputies are very active in presenting drug programs to all school children and citizens of all ages. The Sheriff's Department also has a certified crime prevention officer with programs to educate organizations and citizens to make homes and businesses safer from the criminal element.

Sheriff Underwood does not wish to see any type of tax increase to expand the present jail but he will work closely with the county commissioners to stay in compliance with the State Commission of Jail Stan-
