If there is such a thing as being drowned in peanuts then this county is almost in that condition. The year 1955 in local history, will be looked back upon as the year of the big crop. For big it is, land, so far as can be determined; Never in the history of this county, have the acres yielded such a crop. Storage houses are just "bustle" out all over" and our buyers are beginning to wonder where they are going to store the remainder of the crop. Jones Brothers only last week purchased the big iron building just east of Higginbothams from Ganey Peanut Co. at Abilene, and are readying the building to store the rest of their purchases. It hasn't been used for years.

Estimates out of Eastland agricultural offices place the probable value of the county peanut yield at $5 millions.

That is talking in oil boom figures. And it does not include the production in Brown and Comanche counties, a considerable portion of which comes to market in Rising Star.

As remarkable as the yield perhaps more so, is the way in which Mother Nature has cooperated to make the crop possible. From the general rains of August and September through the ideal harvest season, dry and cool, there has never been time like it. The weather has been almost perfect.

Banks in the peanut country are swollen with deposits. Those in the Rising Star First State Bank will go well over the $4,000,000 figure. Much of course, will go to pay off notes for money with which to make the crop, and the final figure will settle down somewhat. But there will be a nice profit in the pocket of the growers, a profit that should give quite a boost to the economy of this section.

Not all of the acreage allotted to peanuts was planted. You can look for a bigger acreage next year after this season's bumper production. It's human nature to fish for another whopper in the hole where one is caught.

But not all whoppers come in pairs.

The Supreme Court of the United States has at last decided that the States, for all their non-sovereign status, do possess some rights after all. They are entitled, says the Court, to protect the property they have acquired so that it may be used for the purposes for which it was acquired.

There is some disagreement among members of the court as to whether or not this decision represents a change of philosophy on the part of the court. Justice Hugo Black says it does not.

But it is rather encouraging to those of us who believe the concentrations of political power are stripping away too much of local authority and responsibility, that the court can admit the right of States and their subdivisions, including, I would say, little municipalities such as ours, to own a purpose. Mostly, we have been led to believe, under the benign influence of latter day Potomac doctrines, that States were just convenient satrapies for (Continued on Page Six)

Cats Rack Buffs For 26-0 Season Finale

The Rising Star Wildcats closed out their 1966 football season with a 26-0 win over the Cross Plains Buffaloes here Friday night of last week.

The victory gave the Cats a 5-4 win-loss record with victories over Wylie, Blanket, May Early and Cross Plains and losses to Gorman, Goldwithe, Bangs and Santa Anna.

It also earned them third place in District 9-A standings behind Santa Anna and Goldwithe which finished in that order.

Danny White, quarterback, and Danny Hughes were the big scoring guns in the game Friday. Each scored a pair of touchdowns.

White scored first, on runs of one yard and four yards in the first and third quarters. Hughes counted on a three yard touchdown run and a four yard run, followed by another run for two additional points.

It was a much more closely fought game than the score indicates. Cross Plains was hampered by two goal line fumbles, two interceptions by Wildcats cut short two other drives that might have evened out in touchdowns.

Each team made 8 first downs. Rising Star had the edge in the rushing yardage with 160 to 133 for the visitors. The Buffs gained 95 yards in completing four of ten passes, while the Cats picked up 87 yards on two of four attempts. Each side in-

Sponsors Asked to Send In Pecan Queen Entries

Various clubs, FFA chapters, Jaycees, chambers of commerce and other organizations are invited to sponsor entrants in the annual Eastland County Pecan Queen contests to be held at Rising Star Dec. 8.

The Saturday Club of Rising Star is sponsoring the contest, which will be held in the local high school gym at 8 p. m. on the above date. Only unmarried girls of the county are eligible.

Clubs and organizations that wish to sponsor candidates were asked to send in the names of these girls as soon as possible. The names may be sent either to Mrs. George Steel, president of the Saturday Club, or A. D. Jenkins manager of the chamber of commerce here.

The contestants are asked to be at the gym on the above date at 6:30 p. m. so that at least one practice prior to the contest may be held.

Out-of-county judges will select the winner. The Queen and the runner-up as well as last year's Queen will be honored at a luncheon at the American Legion Hall at noon on December 10 at which the North Star HD Club will be the hostesses. She will also be entered in the State Pecan Queen contest during the annual convention of the Texas Pecan Growers Ass'n at Fort Worth next July.

Miss Ann Little, former Rising Star girl, was the first county Pecan Queen in 1957. She went to Austin the next year where she was selected as the first state Pecan Queen. Many counties now have a pecan queen contest.

The Pecan Queen contest will kick off activities of the annual County Pecan Show to be held in the Youth Center Building, S. Main St., Rising Star, Dec. 9 and 10.

The show will be the 14th annual exhibit of pecans grown in Eastland and adjoining counties to be sponsored by the Eastland County Pecan Growers Ass'n of which A. D. Ellington of Cisco is the current chairman.

Hutchinson will attend the weekly meetings of the reserve unit until he is ordered to active duty sometime next year. As a reservist, he will receive a day's pay for each drill attended and will be able to advance in rate and pay grade at regular intervals.

The Brownwood unit which is composed of officers and men from throughout this region, is part of the national ready reserve program. The unit has an occasional opening for young men or recent military veterans. Complete information is available any week day or Wednesday night at the Navy Building on Howard Payne College Campus.

Sgt. Maj. Westerman Writes of Viet Nam

In a recent letter to Mrs. Flara Westerman from her son, Sgt. Maj. J. M. Westerman, he said, "Our Battalion is in its second day of participating in Operation Prairie. I am near 'Hill 400, The Rock Hill and Razor Back'. This is VC country all around us, but we haven't seen anyone yet and they need no incoming fire. We will begin sweeps of the area and probably move from here in about one week.

"We have been blessed with two days of sunshine, before that I was soaked every day. I have a tent with the colonel. The tent is dug into the ground and sandbags protecting around, not bad. I am well and fit.

"Expect to be busy until about the 15th. After that date we will be reorganizing and am positive we will make contact with NVA (North Vietnamese Army). They are well equipped, well organized and well disciplined, but we are well supported with artillery, air, tanks, etc.

Westerman has seen almost 30 years service with the United States Marine Corps.

$5 Million Income to County From Peanut Crop Estimated

A gross income of $5 million to the county from the 1966 peanut crop was estimated by the County ASCS office at Eastland this week with the crop about 80 percent harvested.

But it is not all profit, the office hastened to say.

Harvest has been good because of exceptionally favorable weather and is believed to be some three weeks ahead of schedule.

"In the peanut patch" has been the location given for most county farmers and the workers for weeks as raisers take advantage of the fine maturing weather.

County peanut production could top 55 million pounds estimates indicate.

Yield this year is topping even the most conservative estimates; going as high as 48 bushels per acre. The estimated yield for 1966 is 1,740 pounds per acre, with some 32,000 acres planted.

The average yield for the five year period between 1961 and 1965 was 608 pounds per acre or 20.3 bushels per acre.

Last years yield was 757 pounds and 24.2 bushels per acre.

And though irrigation is certainly getting its credit in the county, the artificial watering hasn't been a major factor this year because natural watering in good rains has benefited the dry land farmer just as much.

There are an estimated 135 irrigated farms in the county this year, and this figure is expected to double in 1967 Meredith says.

The present estimates are based on already returned marketing cards, the Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Manager reports.

The 1966 peanut acreage allotment data reported recently by the Southwestern Peanut Growers Associations lists Eastland County thusly: 970 farm with 38,295.1 acres allotment.

Neighboring Comanche County is credited with 1,333 farms and 59,354.0 acres allotment. Production in Eastland County 1960 has been like this.

1960	— 15,000,000 pounds.
1961	— 16,000,000 pounds.
1962	— 16,485,000 pounds.
1963	— 15,474,000 pounds.
1964	— 14,080,000 pounds.
1965	— 14,090,000 pounds.
1966	— 23,994,000 pounds. (estimated)
1966	— 55,680,000 pounds. (estimated)

Obviously, no one complains about a bumper crop, but other data should be considered, least the idea be taken that the farmer, in this country or anywhere, is "rolling in money."

The U. S. Department of Agriculture recently released information which indicates that it costs a lot to produce a lot.

"Out of every dollar of gross farm income in 1965, about 70 cents went for production expenses. Agriculture is a vast employer and purchaser of goods, service and equipment; many jobs in urban areas depend on farming," the USDA statement points out.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lee Sr. have returned from a visit with their daughter, Mrs. Frances Bernado, at Albuquerque, New Mexico. Their son, Morris Lee of Siloam Springs, Ark., accompanied them.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Williams of Leuders, visited his mother, Mrs. Clay Williams at Twilight Nursing Home over the weekend.

Missionary Doctor Braves Death To Save Life of Aged Woman

BROWNWOOD — "If the old lady dies, her son is going to kill you."

That was the warning Dr. E. Lamar Cole, who will be honored by Howard Payne College as its "Man-of-the-Year," receive just before he was to amputate the leg of an aged Mexican woman.

Her physical condition was not such that a general anaesthetic could be used. But the lower extremities were gangrenous, and the leg had to come off.

Using a technique employing local anaesthetics, the leg was amputated and the following day Dr. Cole started his hospital visits with a twinge of apprehension. He arrived at the lady's room to see her sitting up in bed and doing fine.

Her recovery was a normal one. The sequel came a little later, when the son sent word that he wanted to see Dr. Cole. His thanks were profuse. Then just a little later, during an evangelistic effort in the city, four members of the lady's family made professions of faith.

All of this happened in Guadalajara, Mexico, where Dr. and Mrs. Cole, are Southern Baptist missionaries, and where Dr. Cole heads a 90 bed hospital supported by Southern Baptists.

Dr. Cole came to HPC as a graduate of Lamesa High School in 1935 and after doing his pre-medical work here went on to graduate from Baylor Medical school. He did a hitch in the Army, mainly in the Philippines. On his release from the service, he was appointed a missionary to Mexico.

His aim was to build a hospital in Mexico, and it was not a simple task.

First in order to validate his license so that he could practice medicine there, he had to attend classes at medical school in Guadalajara, and satisfy a five-year residence requirement. During this time he practiced medicine in his home with a Mexican national doctor responsible for his work.

Later the clinic he had maintained in his home was moved to a building in the heart of Guadalajara and equipped with beds, an X-ray machine and sur-

THE NEW SPLIT SKIRT THAT BECAME POPULAR BETWEEN 1880 AND 1900 ALLOWED THE HORSEWOMAN TO SWITCH FROM THE INCONVENIENT SIDE SADDLE POSITION WHICH HAD BEEN A MUST FOR THE FORMER VOLUMINOUS RIPING SKIRT.

Through the years Rising Star has been plagued by occasional floods.

On April 13, 1905, a heavy downpour of rain put Copperas Creek on a rise, flooding streets in the downtown area and running into store buildings.

Early in April, 1908, R. A. Brigham, city editor, ran these headlines in the Rising Star X-Ray Record:

"Great Floods of rain—Copperas Creek on Rampage and Makes Clean Sweep of Stores."

Rain began falling on Thursday, April 9, and continued through Saturday. No damage was done until the heaviest rain of the season fell during Saturday night. Mr. Brigham described it as "the greatest flood since the days of Noah."

All streams were out of their banks and spread over large areas, inundating hundreds of farms, truck patches and gardens. Chickens and turkeys were swept away in the current.

Copperas Creek was on a wild rampage Saturday night, spreading over the entire business district, doing much damage to streets and business houses. Water ran through the T. L. Pefrey & Co. implement store, Mrs. L. D. Bowlin's Art Gallery and Livingston Bros. Drug Store. Anderson and Jacob's Department Store was heavily damaged from water running into the front of their building. Places that had never been under water before were completely covered.

This was the first time in years that Rising Star had been shut out from all communication. Telephone lines were all down and there was no mail from Friday until Monday.

It was estimated by those who kept tabs on the rain that about 20 inches of water fell.

Farms were heavily damaged and all cotton crops planted prior to the rain had to be repanted. Corn crops suffered great damage and gardens were wiped out.

On account of heavy rains, the machinery at an oil well then being drilled at Rising Star fell into the hole and could not be recovered for about two weeks.

In 1923 a torrential rain fell on April 11, and the town was once again flooded.

Water was knee-deep on Main Street; stores, garages and all business houses and merchandise suffered damage despite efforts to keep the water out with sand and salt bags.

When the MK&T train pulled into the station late in the evening the track was completely under water and two brakemen sat on the cowcatcher with long poles feeling for the tracks as the train crept slowly and carefully west out of the flood waters.

A. P. Smith recalls that "water stood from six to eight inches in my barbershop on East College Street."

The latest flood accounted for in Rising Star was on May 23, 1957, when a flash flood sent rolling waters pouring through part of the business district of the city to a depth of two feet or more, the highest water since the flood of 1923. This flood was caused by 3½ inches of rain falling on the headwaters of Copperas Creek, which rises in the northwest part of town.

Stores from the Elite Cafe to Higginbotham Motor Co. on Main Street were flooded and those on the opposite of the street as far north as the Palace Drug Store, were also damaged.

Among the hardest hit was the Rutherford and Steel building supplies where damage was estimated at $1,500. Avelon Beauty Shop, Star Electric, Joyce Insurance Agency, Roach Motor Co., the Post Office and the West Texas Utilities Co. also suffered water damage.

Dikes constructed of planks and earth were piled against doors and other openings, and the moving of merchandise to higher levels prevented heavier damage.

Up to the time of the 1957 flood almost a year's normal supply of moisture had fallen within six weeks.

Rising Star people had much to be thankful for despite the flood. For one thing a reported tornado, identified by radar to be hanging over the immediate vicinity of the community, failed to drop and add its misery to the horrors of the flood troubles.

LOOKING AHEAD

As we approach the close of the first three months of school we near a time for reviewing our past experiences; it is a time for reminiscence of failures, a time for correcting the bad habits which are responsible for unsuccessful attempts.

Each student should feel compelled to ask himself if his grades have been up to par, if he has studied effectually, and if he has maintained a proper attitude toward his friends and teachers.

When questions of this nature are given adequate consideration most students will find themselves lacking. These results should not be taken as criticism of the individual and degradation of his character; on the contrary, they should be used to his advantage.

Experience is a good teacher, and we should realize that dwelling on mistakes we have made is of no consequence, but we do have to look back on them from time to time to insure the paving of a straight road ahead.

BUILDERS OF TOMORROW

What is knowledge? It can not be purchased by the pound or dozen. It is not a thing you find.

The seniors during the past week have become aware of knowledge. We are taking six week's tests; we have taken achievement tests to find out what we have acquired in twelve years of school. Through all this, we have learned that knowledge is a thing that takes hard studying and will power to keep on studying; we never become too intelligent to learn or increase our knowledge.

But all work and no play would make RHS a very dull place! Special attention is due our Wildcat Cheerleaders. They have kept the walls and halls of RSHS full of Spirit and Cheers. Spirit Week turned out to be a big success, and we all had fun participating in it.

All good things come to an end — we had our last football game Friday night. For us, it was really the last and is now a treasured memory of our senior year. Wildcats, you played a great game! Cross Plains, we are sure will remember the Mighty Wildcats and their fighting spirit!

Until next week—Kathy.

NOT FINISHED JUST BEGUN

Last week was rather special for the student body. The cheerleaders declared "Spirit Week" and junior students really joined in to help make it a success. Everyone was making signs, yelling, and stacking wood for the bon fire.

Achievement tests were finished without too much fuss and classes back to normal.

We seem to find a lag in the conservation since football season is over.

Our class has started selling candy for Senior trip money. We really appreciate your help! Thank you.

We are all looking forward to the Football Banquet, which will be Saturday, November 19. Have fun everyone!

OFFICE SUPPLIES AT THE STAR

American Business Donates, Money, Space And Time To RIAL Campaign

Every year American business donates millions of dollars in free advertising space and time to the cause of all religious Faiths through the Religion In American Life Program.

How does it work? Thirty-three national religious groups representing America's different Faiths work together to formulate the message of Religion In American Life. The world's largest and oldest advertising agency, J. Walter Thompson Company, volunteers its time and talent to prepare this message for the public. The Advertising Council, representing major advertising media, advertisers, and agencies, secures free space and time for the campaign in all the major communications media.

Local Faith-In-Action Programs back this up by contacting the local media to encourage their cooperation. Interested local businessmen often sponsor RIAL ads in their communities.

The total value of time and space given by the businessmen who manage mass media is staggering.

For instance, a single page in Reader's Digest would cost $50,800. This coming year, Reader's Digest will run four RIAL ads free of charge.

Free television time counting for nearly 400 million total home impressions on networks alone was donated this past year. The story is repeated in newspapers, on radio, on car cards, and on large outdoor posters such as this one showing this year's campaign theme to appear in November which features a quotation from the inaugural address of the late President John F. Kennedy.

WITH THE SOPHS

Last week was Spirit Week and we all had a great deal of Spirit.

The Sophomores are waiting the result of the Achievement tests which we took last week.

We are taking our six weeks' tests; it doesn't seem possible, but it won't be long until Christmas and midterm.

We will be starting "Silas Marner" next six weeks. Some of us are planning to do our term themes on this novel.

In Algebra I we are working with the negative and positive numbers in equations. Algebra II students are factoring quadratic trinomials.

The Biology class is studying more about heredity and its connection with our lives.

The World History Students are delving into the history of the Greeks and what they contributed to the culture and history of the world.

WILLING TO LEARN

Now that football season is over, everyone is showing a new interest in basketball. Our first scheduled game was with Gorman, 39-22 Rising Star.

We had our achievement tests last Wednesday and hope we all did well on them.

In English I we wrote a theme about characters in Greek Mythology. Some of them were Zeus, king of gods, Pluto, ruler of the underworld, Hermes, messenger of the gods, and Aphrodite, goddess of love and beauty.

We are working on organic compounds in General Science. We were told that the basic unit in such a compound is carbon.

In Vocational Agriculture I we elected Greenhaid officers, who will make up the Chapter Conducting team.

The Freshman class is for hire for any group activity.

WITH THE FARMHANDS

We are pounding away at parliamentary procedure in both agriculture classes in readiness for the District Leadership Contest to be held on the last day of November. These contests are a version of an average chapter meeting. Judges take note of thoroughness, and crispness with which we handle a certain problem.

Several boys are working on their Angus heifers or feeder steers in preparation for the Fort Worth Stock Show. This will be the third major show for some them; we wish them luck.

Football season for the Cats ended last week with a little extra work for some of the Ag boys. They can look back with pride in handling that two hour workout and then going home and working for another hour and a half on their show project. It is not all blue ribbons, prize money, and cotton candy that goes with a show animal; it takes hard and diligent labor to make an animal express its best qualities.

TOWARD NEW HORIZONS

At our recent FHA meeting we elected a Homemaker of the month. This is a girl that achieves the most points in her achievements. Mary Benson was the Homemaker with 30 points.

The freshman girls are making pies - cream, pecan, and fruit pies.

The Homemaker II girls are studying children and their actions.

The Homemaker II girls are still sewing.

Until next week and more news!

Tips For Fall Cattle Profits

Fall brings the shipment of large numbers of cattle into feedlots. With the stress of shipment plus frequent, rapid weather changes, disease outbreaks are a threat to profitable cattle production.

Footrot, pneumonia, scours and shipping fever are all serious problems during the important feedlot period for cattle. To help solve these problems, animal scientists have developed a health protection plan.

Vaccination against red nose and shipping fever are sound steps to protect cattle before shipment. On arrival cattle should be given adequate roughage and water and rested.

Visibly sick animals should be isolated immediately. Treatment with Sulmet sulfamethazine and a broad-range antibiotic like Aureomycin can help animals get back on feed fast.

Feed manufacturers base their feeding recommendations on the newest advances in antibiotic research and nutrition. In this way, they provide an important health protection service to their customers.

During the first 28 days of feeding, use of a feed supplement containing 350 milligrams of Aureomycin can protect cattle against the most common problems of the feeding period, scours, footrot, pneumonia and liver abscesses.

Following the initial stress level of antibiotic feeding, a level of 70 milligrams of Aureomycin in feeds will help keep out disease. Healthier cattle can thereby make better use of feed to put on the faster gains that are most profitable.

In modern cattle feeding operations, an ounce of prevention pays off in bigger profits at marketing time.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

SKELTON IN THE COURTROOM

Vincent, crippled in an auto accident, sued the other motorist for damages. In court, Vincent's doctor prepared to describe the injury by use of a skelton. But the defense attorney raised an objection: "A skelton is too gruesome and too melodramatic to be allowed in the courtroom. It is bound to inflame the emotions of the jury." Nevertheless, the court allowed the doctor to proceed since this happened to be an effective way of enlightening the jurors. The judge commented: "People learn better with the eyes than with the ears."

In recent years there has been a sharp increase in the use of "demonstrative evidence"—that is, evidence used not to prove something (like a bloodstained knife) but to explain something (like the skeleton). Diagrams, scale models and samples are common tools in today's courtroom.

And, for the most part, the law has approved this trend. For whatever helps to clarify facts also helps to do justice.

On the other hand, the very power of demonstrative evidence is a reason for caution. Too freely used, it might turn a trial into a show and have a lopsided influence on the jury.

In another personal injury case, the doctor not only used a skeleton but also demonstrated—by wielding a scalpel—the surgery he had performed on the victim.

An appellate court decided this was going too far, needlessly emphasizing the plaintiff's ordeal.

Nor is demonstrative evidence allowed if it is misleading. In an assault case, a woman accused her neighbor of striking her with a stick two feet long. But a "replica" of the stick offered as evidence, was a full three feet long.

The court rejected this evidence, since it would mislead more than it would enlighten.

In proper circumstances, almost anything may serve as demonstrative evidence. Once a horseback rider sued a zoo, charging that his horse had been panicked by the "unsightly and unusual appearance" of the zoo's elephant.

At the trial the defense brought in its demonstrative evidence; the elephant in person. A mere baby, he proceeded to charm everyone in the courtroom with his impeccable manners and friendly demeanor.

With no further ado, the plaintiff dropped the case.

County Home Demonstration Agent

The 1966 Eastland County Pecan Show will be held in Rising Star on December 9 and 10. There will also be a pecan bake show and a centerpiece division. Entries in the bake show will consist of pies, cakes, candy, nut bread and cookies, all of which must have pecans among the ingredients.

The pecan arrangement division will consist of centerpieces and arrangements made from pecans or parts of the pecan plant, such as leaves.

The Eastland County Home Demonstration Club women are sponsoring these two divisions. They urge everyone who is interested to participate. Ribbons and cash awards will be given to top entries in each division.

For additional information on the bake show and centerpiece division, call the Home Demonstration office, at Eastland, MA 9-1729.

Fall is certainly the sportsman's delight. While the family hunters pursue their sport, mostly for the thrill of outdoor recreation, game foods properly dressed and prepared can add pleasant variety to the family meals. The Extension Service has an excellent publication available, entitled, "Wild Game—Care and Cooking." This publication describes the time-tested methods of handling game in the field until it is tastefully served on your table. Directions for cooking venison, wild duck, turkey, etc., are included. You might especially like the directions on freezing wild game for the home freezer.

Fall is also bulb planting time. Some stores in the county have them available at this time. In general, remember that bulbs need a well-drained soil. Peat moss can be added to supply organic matter if the soil is extra heavy or sandy. Bulbs do not tolerate heavy concentrations of fertilizer near them. For this reason bonemeal is one of the most commonly recommended fertilizers for bulbs. Plant bulbs where they will receive plenty of sun and be protected from north winds. New plantings should be mulched during the first winter to prevent drying out. Dry grass clippings or leaves will work well.

Bulbs should be planted together in large masses. Some of the small bulbs, crocus and hyacinth, for instance, need to be planted in groups of 25 or 30 in order to make a good display.

Daffodils should be placed about six inches deep and from six to eight inches apart. Set hyacinths about three inches deep and six to eight inches apart. The small jonquil types are planted three to four inches deep and spaced four inches apart. Crocus are planted four inches deep and two to four inches apart. The planting depths just mentioned are to the top of the bulb.

To Wed December 19 Chamberlains Back From Carolina Trip

DARLA JEAN COOPER

Granddaughter To Be Wed At Gainesville

Mr. and Mrs. Ober D. Cooper of Olden have announced the betrothal of their daughter, Darla Jean, to Pvt. Charles Brent Hollandsworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hollandsworth of Callisburg, Tex. The wedding will take place in the Temple Baptist Church at Gainesville Dec. 19 at 7 p. m.

Miss Cooper is a graduate of Gainesville High School and is presently attending North Texas State University at Denton.

The prospective bridegroom is a graduate of Callisburg High School and attended Cooke County Junior College and North private in the United States Army and is stationed at Fort Polk, La.

Miss Cooper is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ober A. Cooper of Rising Star.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chamberlain recently returned from a trip to Charleston, South Carolina, where they visited their son Edward, and family. The son is serving in the United States Navy.

Their journey took them through the eastern part of Texas, and through the states of Louisiana, Alabama, Georgia and South Carolina.

The old colonial homes were very impressive. Very few machines are in use on the plantations; cotton is picked by Negroes, pulling long sacks. The sacks are filled and emptied onto large squares of cloth, and tied into bundles.

The trees, oak, and magnolia, "were simply beautiful, beyond description in autumn shades of gold, red and orange" said Mrs. Chamberlain.

The Chamberlains visited many places in Charleston, South Carolina, including old buildings dating back to Civil War days. "The old Slave Market is still standing. There are cobblestone streets, the Charleston Battery with many old cannon complete with stacks of cannon balls. Beautiful parks with magnolia, crepe myrtle, stately palmettos and flowers in profusion.

The Charleston Museum was of much interest, with relics of Civil War days, and rooms filled with furnishings from early day homes they said. These are only a few of the interesting sights Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlain enjoyed on their trip.

State Hospitals Ask Hides of Deer Killed

DENTON—Deer hunters again are asked to remember patients in Texas State Hospitals and Special Schools when they skin out this year's kill.

The Volunteer Councils which buckskin tanned and distilled for year round use in leathercraft. Handling and curing of the hides is onated by an Austin taxidermist, L. M. Rathbone, and the tannery accepts a portion of the hides in payment.

Ben C. Ivey of Denton, chairman of the state vounteer group says most freight lines will haul the hides without charge if they are marked "Charity" and addressed to the Austin Taxidermist Studio, 2708 South Lamar, Austin. Many locker plants also will preserve and ship the hides if requested by the hunter.

Ivey said shipping tags, already addressed and with shipping instructions are available at many deer processing stations in hunting country and at Chambers of Commerce in county seats.
