Last week in the mails I received a pamphlet bearing a picture of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Mamie attending a big horse racing event. The suggestion was that since Ike likes the "sport of kings," why not you?

I wonder how the famous Ike teaper will respond to this clumsy and deceptive effort to use his popularity in behalf of legalized gambling in his native state?

Such an attempt at subtlety emphasizes the poverty of argument which sponsors of a proposed constitutional amendment try to bring to bear upon the intelligence of the voters at the polls next Saturday. The truth is there is no law against horse racing in the state of Texas.

No sport offers a more thrilling spectacle than the sight of finely conditioned thoroughbreds giving their gallant all in a neck and neck finish to the wire. It is a sight to inspire all that is honest and competitive in human nature, a sight which puts to shame a human will too feeble and cowardly to meet the challenge of competitive living with supreme determination and courage.

But if such a sport can be supported only by legalizing a social cancer we can well let it languish in a public disregard of the spectacle for its own sake.

The argument is made that people will gamble anyway, that we gamble when we invest money and effort in property, in securities or a business, and even when we drive a car on a fast highway. The suggestion is that gambling is an inherent and driving force in human nature.

Such half-truths tempt the unwary. The truth is that risk-taking, which is not to be confused with wagering, is an economically sound and productive process resulting in useful and tangible goods and services which stand as a basis for money values. Even the person who loses in a business venture makes a palpable contribution to resources which enrich our economy and improve our standards of living.

The wagering of money — pari-mutuel gambling, betting of any sort — produces absolutely nothing useful, nothing tangible but chronic addiction and economic misery.

They tell you that the $2.00 bet at the pari-mutuel window is insignificant. "What's two bucks? Just the price for an afternoon's entertainment!" But the tragic fact is — as the business men of Dallas and Fort Worth learned 30 years ago — that the legalized two-buck bet opens the pocket books of the scoundrel and the wage earner to the tentacles of the syndicates who have nothing to offer but the prospect of getting something for nothing and the reality of getting nothing for something.

The argument that people gamble anyway, so make it legal, is just as valid as the argument that because adultery is practiced we should make it respectable. The tragedy underlying the current argument is in the fact that we would make the people who can least afford it the victims of a virulent respectability!

It would be refreshing if some of these political bleeding hearts, so exercised over what the poll tax allegedly denies the Negro,

City Trucks Start Trash Round-up

City trucks were to begin their rounds of the City Wednesday morning in the concluding phase of the City's annual clean-up campaign this week.

City crews were being assisted by the county precinct crew and equipment which Comm'n J. L. Collins placed at the city's disposal during the week.

All over the city there was an evident cooperation in the annual campaign to improve community appearance and remove health and fire hazards.

"We are grateful for the fine cooperation of the citizens," said Mayor Walter Smith, "and we want them to know our thanks."

Residents were directed to place refuse to be hauled away free of charge by the city and county trucks in positions where it will be readily accessible.

pear in this issue of the Record.

There are only two contested county races — the contest for County Judge in which John S. Hart is seeking re-election, opposed by O. H. (Onus) Dick and Ralph Lockwood, and the race for District Clerk, in which Roy L. Lane is opposed for re-election by B. M. Bennett and Ann Justice.

In the contest for nomination to the State Legislature from the County Health Nurse Finds Splendid Cooperation in Working With Schools

Mrs. Jean Arther, county school nurse, was in Rising Star Tuesday of this week on one of her bi-monthly visits, making tests of students to discover possible health defects and an inspection of health conditions at the school.

Mrs. Arther, whose responsibility covers all schools in the county with the exception of Cisco, praised the cooperation she is receiving from teachers and school administrators in the county and particularly at Rising Star.

"It is wonderful," she said. "We work closely with the teachers and the medical profession in our work to locate health and physical defects among students for early correction, if possible, and with the parents of the affected children to whom a complete report is made in cases where visual, hearing or other corrections may be indicated."

Polio shots and DPT shots to guard against infectious diseases are given to the children as a part of the county health program and last fall the final injections of the program begun last spring were given in the local schools.

Most of the defects found among children are visual with hearing difficulties falling next in line. Some eight or nine cases in which visual corrections were indicated were uncovered in a sweep test of 110 students in the Rising Star elementary school this term and there were two cases in which hearing defects were found. Other tests and examinations are made of weight and measurements, and crippling conditions and infections.

"We make no diagnosis," Mrs. Arther emphasized. "We leave that to the doctors. We make what we know as 'Sweep' tests to uncover symptoms indicating a need for correction and we make a report of this to the family and give the parents or guardians our fullest cooperation in their efforts to correct the conditions early."

MECHANICAL MARVELS

A person living in the year 1900 could not have begun to imagine that in only a few years people would be speeding from coast to coast in a matter of hours, cooking on electric stoves, talking to a person across the sea, and living in mortal fear of nuclear bombs. Mechanical marvels have brought many benefits to mankind, but they have also resulted in a possible means of destruction.

These marvels have made life easier for people in almost every walk of life. The housewife has more leisure time because of her electric deep-freeze, electric stove, dishwasher, washing machine, and clothes dryer. The secretary runs a large machine which does her former job of dictation and typing letters; she has book-keeping machines to do her book work for her. Both the doctor and patient have been aided by machines to help cure diseases. The scientist has these mechanical marvels to aid him in his research.

These marvels alone have determined the high standard of living found in the United States; however, this blessing is overshadowed by the fear that at any moment a nuclear war will break out, and all that we have will be destroyed. The great discoveries in the scientific field have caused this; and unless we learn how to control these forces, all the mechanical marvels — indeed — all the world will be destroyed.

CREAM OF THE CROP

This is Shirley bringing you the news for this week because our reporter, outside of needing a little rest, is busy writing

UPWARD AND ONWARD

April showers are gone now, and we should be seeing some May flowers before too long; in fact, a few already burst into full bloom at R.S.H.S.

We are still waiting to know the outcome of the State Track Meet; all this tension is about to affect our grades!! Sharon and I would like to thank every F.H.A. member who gave us a vote to represent you as state delegates in Dallas. The experience was wonderful, and we certainly had a profitable and enjoyable time.

Mr. Henry is already planning for an outstanding girls' basketball team next year; spring training is in "the swing".

The Ag. boys are enjoying their unit of study. R. L. J. R. and R. G. become so engrossed that they arrived late to study hall.

The Home Ec. II girls are completing their home experiences for this semester. In English we are studying letter writing.

By the way, we have one Sophomore girl who is very interested in kitchens! Or should I say a KITCHEN? L. H. Can't you have a good time unless you hear everything that is going on?

JUNIOR NEWS

Hi there, First, congratulations to our two Junior boys, who made it to the State Track Meet. I know it's a little late, but we're rooting for you, Kenneth N. and Mack — who are now en route to Austin. Good luck boys!

By the time this paper is printed, I hope our rings will be here; they're due anytime this week and we can hardly wait.

Right about now everyone is planning his class trip. Remember, Juniors, you have to have those class dues paid to go. The homemaking girls are taking time out from reports to see films and do some decorating for the Junior-Senior Banquet. We've just completed another unit in American History; and after an interesting chapter on F. D. R., we will continue the study of politics. We have taken a test over complex sentences and expect to start on compound sentences now.

I'm expecting to see all you Juniors out tonight bucking the Seniors at their Senior Play. That's it for this time.

—Bye for now,

you are. We're going to miss you next year; we wish you the best of everything.

The Homemaking girls have started a very interesting study about people and their personalities. The Ag. boys are judging land and studying welding. Terry Geyer, John Gerhardt, Danny Wooley, and Jay Ware attended the State Land Judging Contest at Stephenville on Friday. You Freshmen are making good records; keep up the good work.

In English we have begun the study of verbals — gerunds, participles, and infinitives.

The girls have started basketball training; we have some good possibilities for a strong team next year. The boys are trying their luck at baseball and tennis.

We have one last inquiry; L. D. and A. E., why did you want to give those pretty orange beads away?

That seems to be it for another week.

We are in receipt of a card received April 26 from the Wilson Peanut Seed Company in La Vernia, Texas. These people are in the Peanut Seed business only. We quote:

"GOOD QUALITY PEANUT SEED will probably be in short supply due to more planting of allotments and adverse harvesting weather last fall in some areas. Urge June Peanut Seed requirements be booked NOW! All sizes Wilco Certified Spantex Seed available. Hi Bred Brand Certified Starr completely booked up several weeks ago. — Wilson Peanut Co., La Vernia, Tex."

While this is the only notice we have received, all of us know the conditions of harvesting around Rising Star last season. Good, reputable seed companies still have ample stock NOW. But will they or we have them when you need them?

We are in receipt of a phone call from Mr. T. C. Wylie (time 7 p.m. April 30) president of the Ranger Peanut Co., Ranger, Texas. We quote him, "Peanut seed will definitely be short this year due to weather conditions while harvesting last year."

We will have seed peanuts from the following companies now available:

- DURHAM PEANUT CO., Topper Brand, all sizes;
- RANGER PEANUT CO., Ranger, Texas, all sizes. Some of these seed were grown around Seagraves, Tex.;
- DE LEON PEANUT CO., Comanche Chief, De Leon, Texas, all sizes. We will have the Spantex variety in the No. Ones, grown in Oklahoma. Also Argentine and Dixie Spanish;

QUALITY PEANUT CO., Fredericksburg, Texas. Mediums, Arizona grown. Limited amount $1.00 over regular price. Dixie Spanish, south Texas grown;

WILCO PEANUT CO., Wilco Brand Certified Spantex; all sizes available NOW, 5c per pound over regular price.

Last year ALL of the local area peanut seed companies were COMPLETELY SOLD OUT of seed by June 10. We had to rely on peanut seed from Arizona. While they were good and we did have ample stock, this year WILL BE ANOTHER STORY. We have been notified by our source of supply that these seed this year have been allotted to other outlets and that we will receive ONLY 15,000 pounds. These seed will be $1.00 per hundred higher than the regular seed because of freight.

YOU MAY TAKE THIS MESSAGE WITH A GRAIN OF SALT OR COME BY AND BOOK YOUR PEANUT SEED NEEDS NOW and be ASSURED of your seed when you need it!

We have ample storage in the Butler Chevrolet building to have your seed available when you are ready for them.

DO NOT DELAY! SEE ABOUT YOUR PEANUT SEED NEEDS TODAY! We do not recommend planting any seed that has BEEN MECHANICALLY DRIED. All of the seed we will handle will be from reputable companies and we will not "Handle any peanut seed that has been mechanically dried."

We will appreciate handling your seed needs.

AS IT LOOKS FROM HERE

By Omar Burleson, M. C., 17th District, Texas

Washington, D.C. — With the permission of our neighbor and colleague, Congressman Rutherford, I quote what he recently had to say in a news release:

"Rumors are evasive little creatures that circulate on wings of feet, and rarely can the hard-running truth catch up to them. It's difficult to say why the facts seem to never catch up fully with untruths or misrepresentations, but often huff and puff along a hop, skip and jump behind. Some recent examples of rumors or stories that have been proved outlandish, however, came to mind.

"Rumor: The Government was paying Negroes $300 a month for one year duration if they moved to Washington State or Oregon and established residence. It further states that a number of Negroes had accepted and had been there in excess of two years and were still drawing $300 per month compensation. If husband and wife had separate residence addresses, they were each drawing $300 per month."

Congressman Rutherford checked on this, and he said, "It is simply not true. In fact it's as phony as the myth of free public elections in Soviet Russia."

Another rumor was submitted to him by letter: "That the Chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, with President's approval, threatens refusal of renewing radio and television station license unless they produce programs in accordance with the taste or judgment of the Administration."

"Fact: The Federal Communications Commission is a regulatory body and does not have authority in the field of licenses for operation on the public airways — but it may act only as permitted by regulations established by Congress and there is a law prohibiting censorship of programs by the Federal Government."

"One of the 'Patriots-for-Profit' publishing houses, which specializes in selling pamphlets that are models of walking rumors, published a folder listing the names of many Hollywood motion picture stars, TV stars, authors and so forth, strongly inferring that all were suspect as to U. S. loyalty and brought Communist preachments into American homes and theatres. One of the statements in the booklet was that all of the well-known individuals had appeared before, or were known to, the House Un-American Activities Committee."

"Several concerned people sent me copies of the booklet, and I checked it out with the House Un-American Activities Committee. Fact: Many of these people had appeared before the Committee as friendly witnesses, telling all they knew of Communist influence in Hollywood many years ago, some had not appeared at all, and the Committee had no reason to doubt the loyalty or Americanism of many of the stars listed. "These are but a few of the stories, rumors and reports that circulate in many ways. It would behoove all of us to withhold judgment on such matters until the facts can be properly ascertained. It takes little time and no research to start a rumor or spread an untruth, while it may take considerable time to unmask them."

IT'S THE LAW IN TEXAS

Independent Contractors

Now and then you may hire someone to do special work for you. In case someone is hurt are you legally responsible? It depends on how you "hire" him. Was he an "independent contractor"? An "employee" or an "agent"?

As a rule an independent contractor has an independent calling like that of a plumber, electrician, house painter and the like.

Your agreement with him calls for certain results. You do not tell him how to work. As a rule, you are not legally to blame for any harm he may do. He is an "independent" contractor and not an employee or agent.

But what about an employee or agent? You, the employer or principal, controls and directs how the worker does his job. You are therefore responsible for it, and largely for any harm that may grow out of his work. But how can you tell the difference between an independent contractor and an agent or employee?

You look for facts that show or do not show control, direction, or independence. Suppose you "hire" an independent contractor to paint your house white. Accidentally his workers splatters some paint on your neighbor's green shutter. He is to blame through lack of due care, not you. But you would be responsible if you employed and directed these painters yourself.

Why this difference? You have no control over the way the independent contractor does the work. Since he owns and manages his enterprise, he is legally responsible for what he does.

But you still may have some legal responsibility for an independent contractor's work as, for example, if you hire someone to hold judgment on such matters until the facts can be properly ascertained. It takes little time and no research to start a rumor or spread an untruth, while it may take considerable time to unmask them.

"Lord knows there is enough the matter with this old world — and much of it in government — without our trying to invent stories of additional woes."

"Thought of the week: There is nothing more expensive than ignorance in action." one whose work may cause an injury. Thus in one such case the contractor dug in the street. A pedestrian fell into the hole and was hurt! He could sue both the owner and the contractor.

One cannot always pass on all the responsibility to the contractor if in itself your project is dangerous — like blasting in a populous place.

In such cases you have an extra duty to make sure to get skilful and responsible independent contractors to do the work.

A man got an independent trucker to haul lumber. The trucker crashed into a car on the highway. The injured party sued both him and the lumber company and won. As a rule only the independent trucking contractor would have had to pay, but here the lumber company should have known that this trucker was reckless.

When you call in a plumber, repairman, or other independent contractor you must make your place safe for him to work in. You must tell him of any traps and hidden dangers (not obvious ones). Otherwise you may be liable to the contractor for any injuries to him or his workers.

It's Time for a Change

O. H. Dick, like many people in Eastland County has been voting for an incumbent county judge for one office or another for several decades.

O. H. Dick entered the county judge's race in the belief that the time had come for a change — not because he had any argument with the incumbent.

O. H. Dick has spent practically all of his life in Eastland County. He has been and is a successful business man and a substantial taxpayer. He feels that the management of his properties has qualified him to manage the county's properties.

O. H. Dick, like all citizens of Eastland County, believes that a fine tribute is due to the men who have served as County Commissioners because of the county's fine financial condition. As chairman of the commissioner's court, the judge votes only when there is a tie.

O. H. Dick is a resident of Olden, a church member, a taxpayer, and long has been active in community work.

O. H. Dick pledges an administration as county judge based on good business principles.

PETROLEUM MULCH AIDS PLANT GROWTH—Three years of research and testing have demonstrated that a new petroleum mulch technique can, under responsible climatic conditions, vastly increase agricultural output and crop values. Above, a researcher examines at the right soybean plants grown with the inexpensively and easily applied petroleum mulch. Their development is greater than that of the soybeans at left, planted at the same time without mulch. The petroleum mulch was developed by Esso Research and Engineering Company, research affiliate of Humble Oil & Refining Company, and has been tested successfully on a wide variety of crops in the United States and abroad. The mulch, which is harmless to the soil, is sprayed with simple tractor equipment over seed beds or growth areas to form a thin, dark, continuous film on the planted crop rows. This promotes quick seed germination and healthy crops by warming the soil, reducing moisture evaporation, and protecting against erosion and chemical or mineral leaching. Humble will market the product, into which pesticides can be incorporated, upon completion of further tests and receipt of government approval.

Registered Nurses Are Honored During May 7-13

Governor Daniel has set the week of May 7 through May 13 as Texas Nurse Week during which special recognition is given to the registered nurses in the state.

Rising Star has three registered nurses — an unusual number for a community of this size. They are Mrs. Mary S. Robinson Lee, superintendent of nurses at the Eastland Memorial Hospital; Mrs. Hazel McCollum, superintendent of nurses at Graham Sanitarium, C.Sco. and Mrs. Francis I. Wilkerson.

Most of us are inclined to take for granted the good nursing care received when it is needed. When we need a nurse, we need the very best. Therefore, we need to pause in our busy whirl of everyday activities and think of our nurses.

Today we are acutely aware that the practice of nursing has should discover a regard for the poor white man who can't raise $1.75 a year to qualify as a voter. The concern of such a Senator Javits for the welfare of millions of Negroes in the grip of a "Southern political conspiracy" is touching until you are reminded of the numerous colored ballot-casters in New York state. The senator, it would seem, needs the faults of the South to cure the ills of his own bailiwick.

If he has toured the South sufficiently to discover that a poll tax is levied as a requisite for voting, he should also have discovered that there are some millions of white men and women in the South who find it not altogether easy to rake up $1.75 a year after the Federal tax bite and other assorted levies. Some published concern for these misfortunates would at least offset a taint of hypocrisy.

What a complusive type of moral suasion seems to vegetate in the fossilized bones of a Northern puritanism. There are not enough Harlems and ghettos hidden behind the plate-glass suavity of a Fifth Avenue, not enough Puerto Rican mobs and Bowerly slums and Murders Inc., in Northern districts but what these evangelists of civil rights must come among us, cloaked in infallibility and cowled in virtue, to set aright the heretics of a continuing rebellion. The invasion of the South seems never done.

As a matter of fact their arguments on behalf of the Negro are an insult to our brethren of the burnished complexion. They imply that the Southern Negro is in such a state of social and economic depravity that he can't stand on his own feet and meet the same voter tests that his white compatriot is required to meet. It implies that he is a ward of the State.

The other day the Satevepost, that moribund journal of a frightened conservatism, declared that the "truth is the poll tax is an iniquitous device" used to deprive Southern Negroes of the right to vote. Cannot a similar purpose be charged against the fees which voters in other states are required to pay when registering, or against any device or test whatsoever to establish the right and the qualifications of a voter?

A hundred years ago there was some truth in the Post's assertion. But the average Southern Negro today is quite as able as the average white men to pay a poll tax, establish his right to vote and at the same time help support the schools and the educational program for which the magazine, in the same editorial breath, pleaded so heroically. The truth is the Post is afflicted with an emotional hangover.

I am not concerned for the poll tax of itself, although its abolition would cost the schools of Texas some millions of dollars in support which would have to be raised somewhere else. And there certainly must be some method of establishing voter qualification. A dollar seventy-five seems little enough in these days of inflation to make a vot-

I have lived in Texas all of my life and I have yet to see a Negro denied the right to vote when he came on the same basis as his white compatriot. Is he any better? On the contrary I have seen his vote wooed as ardently as that of any other color.

I have seen good Negroes and bad Negroes, good whites and bad whites; I have known intelligent Negroes and stupid ones, smart whites and whites whose brains were no more than centers of sensory perception, and I say to you that the real problem we face as we try to preserve in practice this elusive gift of freedom and democracy is not so much a problem of opening the polls to any particular race, color or creed, as it is a problem of bringing good conscience, dedication and intelligence to the exercise of the ballot, whether those virtues exist in a skin that is white, black, yellow or red.

If our politicians, and particularly those pseudo-statesmen of the happy phrase, were to give more consideration to making American citizenship and the right to vote something to be earned and treasured, instead of trying to demote it to the lowest level of human sensuality and emotionalism, there would be some hope of arresting a civil decay — and the progressive loss of those civil rights they profess so energetically to serve — which is taking this nation step by step down the path of ancient Rome.

To be an American citizen should mean something, a right to be treasured, a distinction maintained at cost and sacrifice. The value of anything is proportionate to its cost.

Before a person can secure employment with a private corporation or a government bureau, he is required to have certain qualifications, not the least of which is a diploma from an accredited school. Is the right to help choose the future of this nation any less demanding of qualifications that at least insure the voter has an elementary knowledge of the conditions of the choice he is making?

That's my sentiments.

Scott Bailey is a man of Mature Proven Ability; He will continue to be a Representative of All the People.

As a member of the House Agriculture Committee He is in a better position to render service to this area. Most of the work in the Legislature is done in Committees.

Voted AGAINST the present confusing Sales Tax Bill; He said that in its present form it places too much burden on the small Business Man and the consumer. This is recorded in the House Journal on page 994, Aug. 8, 1961.

You can taste the difference; Scott Bailey is the only Candidate in this race who voted to control the Pollution of our fresh water supplies. Co-Author of HB 24. Bailey stood up and was counted on the side of the People.

Voted to call for removal of the unfair provisions of the So-Called Merit-Rating Auto Insurance Scheme. Voted on the side of the People.

Lets elect a man who has served us on the front lines of Korea, where he defended the American way of life against the threat of Communism. He has earned a second term in the legislature. He is courteous and willing to help people both at home and in Austin.
