Fire Drives Dallas Families Into Cold

DALLAS UM-Fire swept through the attic of a brick apartment house here early today and drove seven families out into 18 degree weather.

Firemen set a $20,000 damage estimate in the surban blaze that firemen battled 40 minutes. Bitter cold and hose spray that froze as soon as it hit the ground ampered them.

The fire started in an upstairs apartment of the sprawling structure in northwest Dallas. It was confined to the attic but apart-ments on both floors suffered water and smoke damage.
Mrs. Katherine Matthews, who discovered the fire, ran down the halls punching buzzers to awaken the occupants.

LOOKING 'EM

Looking back over the 1953 football season, here are the high spots and low spots of an exciting campaign, as I saw them and felt them:

BIGGEST THRILL—Watching Big Spring defeat Brownwood for the second time, yes, even greater than when the Steers beat Breckention is the United States will win ridge. I fully expected the resident eleven to defeat the Bucs and was back the Davis Cup next week disappointed when some observers said the game settled nothing because it was played in the rain. I felt that the margin would have been at least three touchdowns had it been played under normal conditions. Bombardier Tony Trabert should The second Brownwood game was something else again. To say the take both his singles assignments least, I wasn't so sure. I might have been of the opinion the Steers and we expect the third point to were 'over the hill' as a grid power. They were to prove otherwise in

BIGGEST LETDOWN—The night our boys played Snyder. True, the locals won by two touchdowns and with the win earned the right to represent the district in bi-district play. Still, the determined Snyder line saw to it the Steers' vaunted ground game wasn't going anywhere. GREATEST SINGLE PERFORMANCE—That would have to be tie between Carlisle Robison's show against Snyder and J. C. Armistead's efforts in the second Brownwood game. Robison was slowed by Snyder but he still scored all four of Big Spring's touchdowns. Armistead bruised for 238 yards rushing against the Lions to over-shadow the great Brownwood star, Ray Masters. It must have been one of the greatest ground gaining performances in the history of the playoffs.

LONGEST RUN-Armistead's 95-yard scamper in that same Bro-

GREATEST COMEBACK-That of the Port Neches team, which asn't conceded a chance in AAA circles, yet wound up as the champion. UPSET OF THE YEAR-Snyder's win over Sweetwater.

SURPRISE OF THE YEAR-Plainview's win over Sweetwater. LINEMAN OF THE YEAR-Would it be Tiny Ellison, Norman Dud-, Wayne Medlin, Jimmy Porter, Paschall Odom, Roger Brown, Louis pp. Dickle Milam or Bill Earley? Take your pick. I can't decide.

LINEBACKER OF YEAR-Unquestionably, Buddy Cosby. BACK OF YEAR-Robison or Armistead. Flip a coin. COMEBACK OF THE YEAR-That of Brick Johnson. Written off as a player without desire earlier in the season, he came back to dazzle Brownwood and Gainesville in the playoffs. BEST BLOCKING BACK-Armistead.

BEST BLOCKING LINEMAN-Louis Stipp. MOST EXCITING MOMENT-The time Vernon moved inside Big Spring's five-yard line, trying for a touchdown that would tie the score, only to be thrown back in four successive plays, the last time by a driving tackle by Johnson

MOST UNDERRATED PLAYER-Wayne Medlin. A close second ould be Frank Long.

GRITTIEST PLAYER-Tommy McAdams, who gave it all he had every minute he was on the field and of whom great things are expected

BEST DEFENSIVE BACK-Buddy Cosby, who is to the Big Spring team what Ki Aldrich used to be for TCU.

MOST BRILLIANT MANEUVER OF THE YEAR-Robison's touch lown pass to Jimmy Porter in the Gainesville game, which caught the Leopards completely by surprise.

MOST BAFFLING PLAY—The Steers' 'belly' play, which worked to perfection but only after the officials had been alerted to the fact that hey were going to use it.

SECOND MOST BAFFLING PLAY-The Steers' double reverse, where enemy ends and backs always seem to catch the ball carrier all by his lonesome eight to ten yards back of the line. BEST DEFENSIVE MANEUVER-The time Big Spring linemen threw Plainview backs for losses totaling 54 yards on two successive BIGGEST TIME-CONSUMING RUN—When Billy Martin intercepted a pass against Ysleta and seemed to stop half a dozen times while waiting for his blockers to form. It was a beautiful bit of deception.

BEST PUNTER—Unquestionably Ed Dudley of Pampa.

MOST GRATIFYING PLAY—The time Tiny Ellison scooped up a punt he had blocked against Ysleta and roared for a touchdown, with a very determined look on his face. He'd have run over a tank to get where he was going. A close second would be Ronnie Wooten's long run against Brownwood.

COACH OF THE YEAR-Who else but Carl Coleman, the fellow

Sourdough Says Cowboys Getting

"Cowboys is getting to be a crowd of sissles," in the opinion of 67-year-old Joseph Bailey (Cap) Warren, range cook for the 510,000acre Waggoner Ranch in North Texas.

"In the old days," he told Frank X. Tolbert, who was gathering material for an article in the current issue of The Saturday Evening Post, "we could make a cow camp with nothing but a wagon and four mules and a Dutch oven and our frying pans and stewers in a cowhide sling under the rear axle and the hands' bedrolls stacked in the wagon bed.

"They et what I give them and got a little wet when it rained."
Warren continued. "Now look at this danged camp with tons of machinery and this here big tent for them mollycoddles to sleep under And look at them big babies lying on their Army cots. This don't look like no cow camp. It looks like we're holding a gospel camp meeting."

Warren's observations were made after he arose at 4 a.m. to prepare breakfast for the crew. Pretty soon he'd slice two-inch steaks from a freshly-killed beef.

"For real cow hands I'd have breakfast complete with these steaks and biscuits and coffee," he explained to Tolbert. "Not with these cowboys we got now, though. They got to have their fruit juice when they get up. And they got the gall to tell the cook just how they want their eggs did."

Cook Warren isn't exactly an admirer of the ranch's herding helicopter, but admits it is useful. "If this keeps up," he observed, "every one of these young sockwads will want to cowboy in the air and I'll be cooking for a bunch of mechanics.

But there was tension in the land and the morals of the ancient Romans had disappeared. An orientalism flowed into the Roman society, a rich, softening search for amusement and fun. Into this world moved numerous races and creeds. While many were economically secure or even surfeited, few were at peace; few knew peace of soul, peace within the household. The very greatness of Rome, the mastery of the Roman world by Roman might, the overwhelming power of the Roman Emperor and the Roman Legions did not bring peace to the home of man. He was troubled by the vast display of wealth and power, the waste of things and lives, the endless wars which never ended in peace.

Into this world came simple souls out of Palestine and Syria and later out of Greece. None of these little people were great men in their day. At first, nearly all of them were Jews, short, sallow complexioned, bearded, speaking the gutteral Aramaic. They attracted to themselves the sore at heart, the mother whose son failed to return from the wars, the young who could foresee no future, the conservatives who hated the luxury and sexuality of the fashionable, the honest who had seen the ancient gods forsaken.

These little people called themselves Christians. Most of them had been Jows. These little people had accepted Jesus as the Messiah. They bore no weapons. They were not rich nor were they powerful. They talked much and often impolitely. They were ridiculed and even hated and

The Big Spring Herald

2 Big Spring Herald, Wed., Dec. 23, 1953

And the times were as sorely troubled learned men were dispersed, some to gathlearning. But Paul, whose name had been Saul, was abroad among the Gentiles carrying with him the old law and the new, the natural law of God, the Ten Commandments and the Beatitudes, to the weary and heavy-laden.

Paul had been a Pharisee and his knowledge was principally Rabbinical. He took what had been an esoteric sect among the Jews and preached it to the nations of the Roman Empire.

The people in their uncertainty wanted a God of warmth, a loving God, a Father. What the whole world sought in those troubled times was a religion of the heart, a religion of sympathy and compassion.

Luxury begets sin and sin begets disgust and soul weariness. In the luxury of the downward days of the Roman Empire, there was much luxury, much sin and a great wave of disgust and sadness among those who could not believe that the flesh was the whole of life and that the joys and thrills of the moment were all that was life. Perhaps the case for the followers of Paul is best stated in the episode of the martyrdom of Polycarp, a follower of Paul:

"You threaten the fire that burns for an hour and in a little while is quenched; for you do not know the fire of the future judgment and of eternal punishment, the fire reserved for the wicked. But why do you delay? Come, do as you wish."

And so they burned him alive. But it did not matter to those who believed in God and in the life everlasting because they could not believe that the flesh, that half-naked women, that dancing girls, that sexual life, normal and abnormal, that the appetites and passions of man were all that they lived for. They believed as the Rabbis said:

"There is no malady in the world for which there is not a cure. What is the cure for evil impulse? Repentance. The need for repentance stirred the Roman Empire. And so such little men, as Paul and Peter and others like them, conquered the hearts of the people.

For they brought hope for peace - not only peace from war, but peace of the heart, peace of the household. It is even this that we crave today.

It's Still Too Early To Judge 'More Bang For A Buck' Plans

from these plans, the Administration expects to perform a miracle.

The present level of defense spending is to be cut back close to $5,000,000,000 in fiscal 1955. And further cuts are to reduce defense spending several more billions by fiscal 1957. At the same time, air striking power and air defense are to be steadily built up, while combat power in other respects is to be maintained. How question remains: Is the "bigger bang for is this miracle-if it is a miracle-to be performed?

Part of the answer hes in a basic national strategic decision which deserves to be thoroughly understood. As previously reported in this space, the original "new look" by the Joint Chiefs of Staff called for force levels involving an actual increase, rather than decrease, in defense spending in the next fiscal year. In mid-October, when Admiral Arthur Radford, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs, presented this "new look" to a dismayed National Security Council, he made a brief but cogent statement to the council. He said, in effect, that one major reason why defense costs were so high was that the military planners had never been war to plan for. They told what sort o had to assume that we might be called on to fight a "conventional" war-like the Korean War-in which no atomic weapons were used. If they could assume, instead, that atomic weapons will be used in any future war, this might make a big difference in their plans.

After some discussion, Radford and the other Chiefs were told to have another look, in a new light. The National Security Council did not go so far as to instruct the military leaders to assume that any future war will be an atomic war-we must still be able to deal with "brush fire wars." But, they were told to assume that in anything bigger than "brush fire wars," atomic weapons will be used.

The Joint Chiefs accordingly went back and re-estimated their requirements, on the theory that atomic firepower can be substituted for manpower and conventional firepower. This "bigger bang for a buck" theory was not, to be sure, the only factor in the proposed cutbacks. Capital investment in equipment for the Army and Navy is virtually complete in many categories. The fighting in Korea has ended, and it is also assumed in administration defense plans that this fighting will not begin again, and that several divisions can eventually be withdrawn from the Far

There have also been quite geauine manpower and money savings, for which the new civilian team at the Pentagon can take a deserved bow. For example, no less than 153,000 positions have been elim-

The Eisenhower administration's de- insted from the hitherto sacred tables fense plans have by now been unofficially of organization of the services, without in but rather completely revealed. Judging any way affecting combat power, Similarly, the Air Force, which in the past has been even more disgracefully overstaffed than the Army, now promises to man close to thirty new wings without any large increase in elistments.

This is all to the good. It is also all to the good that the discredited and essentially political "balanced force concept" has been thrown in the ashcan. Yet the a buck" theory-the theory that nuclear firepower can achieve big money and manpower savings-really sound?

The Army which stands to lose more than a third of its current manpower has of course been hardest hit by the revised plans. And the Army contends flercely that the theory is not sound. The Army view is that nuclear ground warfare demands mobility, and dispersion, which in turn require heavy mechanization and communications as nearly perfect as humanly possible. This means, the Army contends, not fewer men per combat unit, but more men. Even the Air Force, ostensibly the chief beneficiary of the new planning is not too happy below the top levels. Some thoughtful officers and civilians in the Air Force believe that the basic assumption in the new planning-that any future war which is more than a "brush fire" will be an atomic war-has not been followed to its logical conclusions. It is true that air striking power and continental defense are both to be strengthened-continental defense is to be assigned well over $4,000,000,000 in the next fiscal year. But the doubters claim that these plans are really only inadequate compromises, in view of the needs imposed by growing Soviet air-atomic capabilities.

Indeed, there are plenty of informed officials and officers who privately believe that the requirements of the budget came before the requirements of national security when the original "new look" was revised downward. They believe that the "more bang for a buck" theory is an excuse for the cubacks, rather than a real reason, and that the "buck" came first by an easy margin, with the "bang" a poor second. It is no doubt still too early to judge, before the new defense plans have been thoroughly explained and defended. But as these plans are further unveiled, it may be wise to bear in mind the chicken-or-egg question: which came first, the buck or the bang?

Card Custom Started Recently

Christmas cards are the most popular of all holiday cards. Even valentines (which loom large in the lives of young people) fall far short of Christmas cards in number carried through the mails.

With such a huge following for Christmas cards it may seem strange that they have been known for only a little more than one century.

Children in England used to write letters to uncles, aunts, grandparents and others about two weeks before Christmas Day. These differed in length, but all bore something like these: Dear Uncle John:

I wish you a Merry Christmas. I have been a good boy, and hope I will get lots of presents.

Your loving nephew,

Often those letters were bordered with drawings of birds and other objects. The letters may have suggested the idea for Christmas cards. A London artist named Joseph Cundali laid claim to being first to "publish" such cards. He said that Sir Henry Cole had originated the idea, and that "Mr. Jobbins of Holborn" did the lithographing. The drawings were colored by hand.

"Many copies were sold," he added,

Besides bearing a Merry Christmas wish, the early cards carried pictures of English robin redbreasts, of snow scenes and so on. One showed a Hermit in His Cell and another pictured Little Red Rid-People of the United States, Canada

Costello Shows Yule Spirit Tops

Christmas. Last Oct. 29, Lou suffered a serious collapse. This was the ro-tund comic's sixth critical illness in 10 years and it understandably started mumblings that the little guy had taken his last pratfall. Even his studio decided to reno place. Since 1943, Lou has had three rheumatic fever attacks, one gangrenous gall bladder operation and one near internal drowning from fluid that invaded his tissues. His doctor was worried. He told the comic a month ago that he must close his Sherman Oaks nome and move to Palm Springs for a rest. But Costello refused because of Christmas. People who have known Lou for a long time will tell you that no one gets more fun out of Christmas than he.

The doc'or knew that and was afraid this year would be too much for a man as sick as Lou.

'Forgotten Man' Due His Freedom

OKLAHOMA CITY UN - Public Defender Homer Thompson moved today to free "the forgotten man" from county jail before Christmas

Thompson, going from cell to cell yesterday to see whether any prisoner needed legal aid, came across Douglas Martin, 44, who said he had been there for 68 days. Committed for failure to pay $50 court costs in a dismissed child support case, he apparently had been forgotten. Thompson said Martin already had served more than enough time to write off the costs

The defender petitioned for his freedom on a writ of habeas DALLAS, Tex. (M-Atty. John P. Green, on his way to work, stopped at a wreck and noticed the license number on one of the cars was one issued to a state official.

At his office, checking up, he asked his law partner, Barefoot Sanders, "How would you go about finding out who has license plate No. SO-128?"

"That's easy," answered Sanders, a state representative. "It's mine."

And that's how Sanders learned his wife and baby were in a bad wreck, although not seriously in-

White's Stores Pay Bonus To 950 Employes

Directors of White's Auto Stores have declared a Christmas bonus payable to all regularly employed personnel on December 21.

The payment of this Christmas bonus marks the 23rd consecutive year that White's has awarded onuses to its employes. It has been the practice of the company since its inception in 1930.

In announcing this year's Christ-mas bonus, W. Erle White, of Wichita Falls, president, said "This business, now 23 years old, is young, as large organizations go. The entire personnel has an average age of only 28. We are proud of every employe. We are proud to know that, throughout the company, there are succeeding echelons of younger men and women who, with training and seasoning. will be ready and eager to tal-higher positions in the organiz

White explained that this year's Christmas bonus is equivalent to two week's pay for store managers and general office department heads and one week's pay for all other employes who have been with the company six months or longer. All employes who have been with the company less than six months will receive $15. All commission salesmen will receive a check for $25. The total amount of this Christmas bonus, to be distributed to 950 employes, is over
