Two Aides Follow Townsend's Example, Refuse To Testify

Court Action Not Decided By Committee

Rep. McGroarty Called In Pension Inquiry In Surprise Move

WASHINGTON, May 26. (AP)—Dr. F. E. Townsend's defiant attitude toward the house investigating committee was emulated today by two of his old age pension leaders who failed to appear for questioning.

Chairman Bell of the committee said John Ketter of Chicago and Rev. Clinton Wunder of New York failed to answer the committee's call. Both are under subpoena. Townsend had instructed them not to testify.

Bell said the committee in a closed session failed to change the situation regarding Townsend's defiant attitude.

McGroarty Called In a surprise move, the chairman called Rep. McGroarty, once leader in the house for the Townsend plan. Testimony developed that McGroarty introduced bills embodying principles of the Townsend plan for transaction tax to raise pension funds sufficient to pay every person over 60 years of age $200 per month.

One house investigator meanwhile accused Dr. Townsend of attempting to use congress as a sounding board to further his "profitable dreams."

The attack on the founder of the $200-a-month old age pension organization was made by youthful James R. Sullivan, counsel for the house pensions investigating committee, whose inquiry Townsend and his followers have bolted.

Sullivan challenged Townsend to appear before the committee and be confronted by "such documentary proof, which he cannot deny, that his fantastic stories in the past will not stand."

The attorney's charges were the first break in official silence of the committee since Townsend walked out of its sessions and refused to testify further. Townsend repeatedly has denounced the investigation as "unfair" and challenged the committee to arrest him and bring him to trial before the full house on a contempt citation.

Railroads To Be Let Alone

Eastman Told To Drop All Plans For Consolidation Of Lines

(Copyright, 1936, by United Press) WASHINGTON, May 26.—Best available information indicated today that the new deal has decided definitely to keep hands off the railroads, allow the office of federal co-ordinator of transportation to expire, and give the carriers their sought-for chance of working out their own salvation.

The United Press was informed that President Roosevelt has delivered a note to his transportation co-ordinator, Joseph E. Eastman, telling him to drop all plans for rail consolidations until after the political campaign.

"And by then there will be no transportation co-ordinator," said the informant. "Eastman's office expires automatically upon June 16 and it will not be extended."

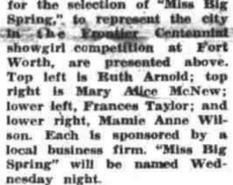

The signature by rail, labor and capital at the White House last week of an agreement providing for dismissal compensation for any railroad men losing their jobs because of consolidations thus became, for the time being at least, nothing more than a generous gesture in the opinion of some persons familiar with the situation.

There will be no consolidations for the present and hence no workers will be displaced, thereby making the agreement unnecessary for the next several years, it was learned.

The men who own the railroads and the men who operate them agree such consolidations are inevitable, but they want none of Eastman's proposals for putting them into effect at once. He has listed 5,000 cities where terminals, roundhouses, repair shops and the like could be merged, with multi-million dollar savings annually to the carriers.

He believes further that there is much useless competition between whole railroads and that numerous carriers could well be scrapped in entirety.

Black Legion Men Charged In Flog Case

25 Warrants Issued As Probe Of Secret Society Continues

DETROIT, May 26. (AP)—Twenty-five warrants charging kidnaping and felonious assault were returned in Jackson today against members of the Black Legion accused of stripping and flogging a relief worker who refused to join the society.

Prosecutor Owen Dudley issued warrants against three guards in the Southern Michigan prison, a resident of Norville and 21 "John Does." The group was accused of beating Harley Smith last November.

Officers continued investigations on many fronts into activities of the secret organization, as victims of mob terrorism came forward under promise of protection with new accounts of slayings, floggings, and arson by masked night riders wearing the death's head insignia of the secret order.

Charges that the outlawed brotherhood, which one investigator declared has an armed membership of 135,000 in Michigan alone, sought political dominance through scourge and pistol brought official inquiries in two large Michigan cities.

Requests Assistance In another grand jury sifted evidence in a reported death by flogging, and in Detroit Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea asked the department of justice for aid in a fight "to uproot and destroy" the hooded organization whose members, he said, "once initiated, can never resign."

Twelve members of the terrorist society stood mute yesterday at their arraignment on kidnaping and murder charges in the death of Charles A. Poole. Pleas of innocent were entered for them and their examination set for Wednesday. Common Pleas Judge Ralph W. Liddy denied motions to admit the twelve to bail.

Dayton Dean, city employe who has confessed he emptied two revolvers into Poole's kneeling body May 13, made a new statement Monday. John I. Navarre, head of the Detroit homicide squad, announced in which he said the slayers had planned to hang the young WPA worker rather than shoot him to death.

"It was a one way ride; we all knew that," Dean was quoted by Navarre and Assistant Prosecutor John A. Ricca, as saying. "We wanted it to be a necktie party with the robes and regalia, but when some of the cars got lost—the ones with the ropes and robes in them—we got tired waiting, so I shot him. We wanted it to be a necktie party to be more impressive."

They were: Jacqueline Faw, Sneed Christian, Ellen Seden, Nellie Jane Gray, Billy Bob Phillips, Lipouse Cundiff, Mary Jean Lees and Ralph Sheets. All eight made above 90 in the order named. Principal George Gentry announced the honors.

Supt. W. C. Blankenship was master of ceremonies. The opening prayer was said by Forrest R. Waldrop of the Church of Christ and the closing prayer by Father Taylor of St. Thomas' Catholic church.

W. T. Strange, Jr., awarded the W. F. Cushing medals for citizenship to Dorothy Carmack and Taber Rowe.

Erma Lee Wilson gave a talk on the Texas Centennial and what the year offered. A quartet, composed of Jacqueline Faw, Mary Jean Lees, Mary Jo Russell and Billie Ragan, sang a Centennial song.

Champe-Phillips played a piano solo. Mrs. Anne Gibson Houser was the pianist for the procession.

"The House of the Future" was the theme of the evening's address to the graduates, delivered by the Rev. P. Walter Henckell, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal church. He divided his topic into four parts, right, truth, beauty and character.

"We have not yet made our contributions to the state of Texas," he said. "We are observing this year the work others have done before us. Our work is in the future. We have received a rich heritage from the past; it is our privilege to build on that past a future structure characterized by right, truth, beauty and character."

"Christ is the peerless architect of character," he continued, ending his talk with the quotation from St. Paul: "Other foundation can no man lay than that which is laid, which is Christ Jesus."

The seventh graders—103 strong—were attired for the occasion in evening dresses and dark suits. The certificates, which admit the pupils into high school next fall, were presented by R. L. Cook, member of the board of education.

Citizens Asked To Get Workers In Cemetery Clean-Up Thursday

Steps to insure the success of cemetery clean-up day Thursday were being taken by Ed Merrill, leader of a movement for improvement of the burial grounds, and co-workers today.

Authorization slips were being circulated throughout the business district this afternoon for those who cannot give a day's work but wish to pay for an unemployed worker in their place.

Those slips will be turned over to the national re-employment service office and C. E. Tucker, director, will supply men. Those who are not given an opportunity to sign one of the slips may obtain a man in their stead by calling the re-employment office.

Merrill asked that as many citizens as possible donate a day's work and to bring a hoe, rake, shovel, spade or any other work implement along. Arrangements have been made for coffee and women of the town have been asked to furnish sandwiches for workers. A truck will be furnished by the county to aid in the clean-up campaign.

New Deal Is Praised For US Recovery

Rayburn Delivers Keynote Address; Harmony Prevails At Parley

SAN ANTONIO, May 26. (AP)—Congressman Sam Rayburn of Bonham, in the keynote address before the Texas democratic convention today, hailed Roosevelt and Garner as the nation's "greatest team." Quoting "examples of recovery" accruing from their administration, Rayburn stoutly defended administration projects.

He lashed out sharply at critics of the new deal, asserting, "Roosevelt has piloted the nation to recovery after its most serious, far-reaching and dangerous crisis during the preceding republican administration."

Garner Unopposed An atmosphere of harmony prevailed, although a number of candidates were actively campaigning to unseat Mrs. Clara Driscoll Sevier of Corpus Christi as national committeewoman.

Garner was slated for reelection as national committeeman without opposition.

Elliott Roosevelt, son of the president, and Governor Allred were given rousing cheers when they appeared before the convention this morning.

The state democratic executive committee met yesterday to lay the groundwork for the convention session, which will elect delegates to cast the 46 votes Texas will have in the national convention.

No gubernatorial scrap Party leaders indicated that four delegates would be selected for each congressional district, instead of two delegates and two alternates. In addition, there will be 16 delegates-at-large.

A potential source of contention was eliminated when friends of Allred said they would not seek a state convention endorsement of his administration, in deference to his view that the May convention is concerned entirely with national party affairs and should not become involved in state issues.

Tom Hunter of Wichita Falls, candidate for governor, already had served notice that he would contest any attempt to endorse what he termed the "hot-oiled" state administration.

"I came here," he said, "solely in the interest of applauding the national administration for its incomparable record."

'Double Deal' Is GOP Keynote's Description

FORT WORTH, May 26. (AP)—George Hopkins of Dallas, keynote speaker of the Texas republican convention, declared today that "the federal courts are the only branch of our government which has not gone haywire."

He described the new deal as a "double deal," charging the administration with "duplicitous." Loud yells greeted his assertion that "Roosevelt is trampling underfoot and repudiating the constitution."

Hopkins charged the Roosevelt administration had failed to live up to any of its 1932 promises. He praised the supreme court as a "retainer and restrictor."

Lefty Grove Has Found Something To Replace His Blinding Speed

THIRTY-SIX YEAR-OLD STILL HOT

By TOM PAPROCKI Associated Press Sports Writer BOSTON, May 26. (AP)—Lefty Grove at 36 may not be the pitcher he was in 1931 when he trifled in 31 victories while dropping only four decisions. And then again, if his present pace is a fair yardstick, he may be better. Surely his present record of seven triumphs, four shutouts included, against a lone defeat, would tend to indicate that he has found something to take the place of the blinding speed with which he used to handcut American league sluggers.

I doubt if you could convince the present crop of sluggers who have faced Lefty that he is not the pitcher he was.

As the years pile on, especially after an athlete passes the 30-year mark, there is bound to be some loss of speed. Whether the additional experience gained is enough to compensate for the loss of strength and speed is an open question. In Lefty's case apparently it is.

Still Cuts Loose When the old fireball was burning a path down the middle, Grove didn't give much thought to trying to outsmart his opponents. He didn't have to. And, too, for a strong-armed young fellow there is an extra thrill to throwing them past a batter. A wise old veteran

PET GOLF WEAPON OF EMERY IS AN OLD ALUMINUM PUTTER

NORMAN, Okla., May 26. (AP)—A dilapidated aluminum putter bought for 25 cents at a miniature golf course several years ago is the pet weapon of Walter Emery, University of Oklahoma live student who won a Walker cup team berth with his magic putting touch. It means more to the former intercollegiate champion than all the 70 other clubs he owns. Before discarding his blade putter, Emery lost many matches on the greens. With the two-bit putter, Emery had a relapse and lost in the quarter-finals of a state tourney by three-putting six times. Fraternity Brother Maurice Hankinson, his golfing pal, was so enraged that he pitched the putter into a lake; but Emery, willing to give it another chance, had a caddy retrieve it. The ancient putter enabled him to breeze through the intercollegiate to the title at Buffalo, N. Y. in 1933. That same summer Emery was four up on Jack Westland through the morning 18th of the Western amateur semi-finals at Memphis—then he three-putted seven greens and lost the match. Hankinson, who is Emery's Boswell, lost his temper again and smashed the capricious pet putter against a tree. Emery patched it up and has refused ever since to use another. The cracked and crooked shaft must be taped before every match to prevent the head from rattling to much. Emery has another pet, a nondescript niblick, and he can't remember where or when he acquired it. His two pets stick out like sore thumbs among the 19 matched, steel-shafted irons and woods that comprise the Emery artillery. Emery was runner-up to Lawson Little in the 1935 national amateur.

Old-Timer Says Foot Work Is Joe Louis' Big Boxing Asset

Gives Negro Punching Power, Lenny Declares

NEW YORK, May 26.—"Foot!" That's the secret of Joe Louis' punching power, according to Harry Lenny. Lenny is an old time boxer, and one of the best of the present day instructors and managers. He was contemporaneous with Jack Blackburn as a fighter, and once fought Louis' mentor. He pursues many of the methods of Blackburn in the instruction of young fighters. When Lenny takes a green kid into a gymnasium for boxing education, he spends hours on the boy's feet alone, teaching him how to place them, how to move them, how to balance on them. Sometimes Lenny will draw on the floor of the gym a diagram, like a checkerboard, and every movement of his pupil's feet becomes a sort of game. A step this way, a step that way—backward, forward, sideways—over and over again Lenny keeps the boy stepping.

Starts From The Feet "If you can teach them how to handle their feet properly, the rest is comparatively easy," Lenny says. "Punching power is only partly natural. You can teach a non-puncher how to punch. If you can get him to place his feet right. Balance, and precision, and all the rest, begin with the feet. "Blackburn had perfect foot action when he was fighting. He rarely made a wrong movement with his feet, and he has taught Louis his own style, probably increasing Joe's natural punching power 70 per cent. Jack was lucky in finding a pupil who could grasp his lessons so nicely. A lot of them never learn, though you school them for years. Joe gave me a tight more about placing his feet than any man I ever saw in the ring.

once remarked that no hurler really learns the art of pitching until the old salary whip turns up sore. And there seems to be a lot of truth in that. Don't get the idea that Grove is a decrepit old man with hardly enough speed to reach his catcher. He is anything but that. There have been occasions this spring when, finding himself in a tight spot, Lefty reared back and let fly with one of his old-time smoke balls. According to some of the batters who watched the pellet speed by he still can pour them in just about as fast as any other pitcher in the circuit. He wouldn't dare try throwing many of them in a game. Lefty knows that only too well—but it buoys up his confidence to know that there are still a few fast ones left in the old arm. Grove will be a real miracle man if he reaches the 30-victory mark this season, or even approaches it. He's making his hay before the summer sun gets too hot and letting the other fellow do the worrying.

HUNTERS READY FOR COYOTES

Coyote Hunting Is Popular Sport Among West Texans This Year

You turn up your coat collar and shiver. It's getting late and its getting pretty damp. Suddenly from the distant yelping and barking down the draw and over the rise, you hear her unmistakable voice. "She's got it! She's got it!" You're not cold any more and you don't notice the heavy dew soaking your feet and clothes. You listen with a thrill that is keener every time you hear the music of your favorite dog on the trail of a coyote.

Always a popular sport in this section, coyote hunting is coming into its own now. In a few days every available pack of dogs in the heads will be out at night running down until old Sal suddenly starts for unforgettable baying. And for two or three months the coyote hunting will be good, because rains have soaked this section.

What difference does a rain make in coyote hunting? Well, plenty. Just why it's hard to explain, but when the air is damp and when the grass is green and when the dew is heavy, a coyote just naturally leaves a stronger scent.

The dogs can pick up a trail mighty easy and if its pretty late and lots of moisture in the air they can run with their heads up never losing the trail. R. L. Warren, who has a good pack of dogs on his place near Vincent, explains that in dry weather it is easy to lose the trail, especially when the coyote tops a hill. The dog will blow the scent away before the dogs come along.

"But when the grass gets green and the dew is heavy," he tells, "every time the coyote puts his foot down or touches a branch, the hounds will pick it up."

It takes a pretty good pack of dogs to get a coyote, for the animal is almost without his peer in executing an escape. Bob Curry and Lee Rogers, who do some hunting in Borden county, have seen how "foxy" the coyote can be. If the dogs jump a bitch, the odds are they will never get her. More than likely as she hears her den the dog coyote will take up the race and allow her to slip unnoticed into the den. It's not uncommon for several coyotes to deliberately bark at the pack, scattering them badly, allowing their lady to escape.

That's what makes it such a thrilling sport. Talk about your fox hunting, but a genuine West Texan will take his coyote chase every time. And now that a rain is here, there will be more of it for several weeks.

Rookie Crop Is Cut To Handful

Not More Than Half A Dozen Are Stand-Outs

NEW YORK, May 26. (AP)—The 1936 rookie crop has been fairly well weeded out after a month of play and a mere handful of novices remains. Not more than half a dozen or so stand out. The prize "freshman" of the year appears to be Joe Di Maggio, the Pacific coast youngster, now playing left field for the New York Yankees. Di Maggio has not been subjected to the same test as the other newcomers, as he was delayed in getting started by a training camp accident. In the two or three weeks he has been in the lineup his every move at the plate and in the field has been closely watched by rival players and managers as well as by his own managers and team-mates.

If Di Maggio is lacking in any department or has any particular weakness at the plate it has not shown itself to date. He has been pacing his teammates in batting, his fielding has been of definite big league flavor, and his throws from the outfield have been sensational.

The Washington Senators turned up a likely looking youngster in 19-year-old Buddy Lewis. Lewis won the third base assignment in camp, and clinched it in the first few weeks. Any youth who can field as Buddy has been doing and can boast a .366 average at the plate for his first month's work against big time pitching, has little to worry about. There is no doubt that his fat average will shrink some when the pitching begins to tighten up, but it won't shrink much. Buddy has a smooth, natural stroke at the plate. An orthodox batter, he swings from the left side of the plate and takes a healthy, well-controlled cut at the ball. Lewis' rise to the regular ranks is amazing when one considers that the youngster reported to the Senators at Orlando, Fla., this spring with one year of experience in professional baseball as a backstop.

All around the National league one hears nice reports on the Dodgers' rookie first baseman, Buddy Hassett. He has developed into a most dependable batter in the Brooklyn lineup. No one is more delighted with the fine showing of Hassett than Manager Casey Stengel. Stengel found himself very much on the spot after the Hassett deal was made, for he had little more than second-hand knowledge of the players ability yet he urged the Brooklyn owners to part with $50,000 to get him. It proved to be a worth-while gamble for Buddy looks the part of a big leaguer first baseman . . . a good fielder, a dependable hitter, and, what is very important, he appears to be durable enough to go through a 154-game schedule.

Traynor Strikes Gold The Cardinals were fortunate when Johnny Mize reported for training in good condition. The operation last winter remedied the injury that caused him to walk with a decided limp last season and kept him out of the big show. Mize showed up well enough to push the slugging Ripper Collins right off first base and keep the veteran in the dugout. Johnny hits the ball hard and looks like one of the rookie finds of the year.

Pie Traynor's trouble when he picked up young Wilbur Brubaker, Traynor was rapidly approaching the time when he would no longer be able to cover third base regularly for the Pirates. Playing regularly and trying to manage the team at the same time was a big job. But until this spring Traynor had found no one ready to take his place at the hot corner. Then along came Wilbur Brubaker. In 14 games he pounded the ball for an average of .453. He won't keep that pace up—no one expects him to—but he looks as though he will do, and that's a mighty big load off Manager Pie Traynor's worried mind.

REFINERS TRAIL BY ONE POINT

After two weeks of play the West Texas Motor golf team leads the six-team Muny league with a total of twenty-three points—a single point in front of Cosden golfers.

Collins Drug golfers are in third place with seventeen points, Big Spring Laundry in fourth with fourteen points, and Carter Chevrolet and Texaco trail with thirteen and eleven points respectively. Collins defeated the Laundry team Sunday, 10 to 5, Cosden walked over Texaco, 14 to 5, and West Texas Motors pushed aside Carter, 14 to 4.

Scores have been running high because of wet greens and soggy fairways, but despite inclement weather Sunday, approximately one hundred golfers played the Muny course.

YANKS 'MURDER' ATHLETICS, 25-2

By The Associated Press
American and National League stars—

The New York Yankees revived their "murderers' row" of a few years back Sunday and slaughtered the Athletics, 25 to 1 with Tony Lassetri driving in 11 of the runs for a new American League record. Five A's hurlers were helpless before the 19-hit assault by the Yankees. Lassetri, who had three homers in Saturday's double-header, smashed out three more Sunday, two with the bases loaded, and added a triple before the bombardment ended. Frank Crosetti helped himself to two circuit blows and young Joe DiMaggio had one. Meanwhile, Monte Pearson was limiting the Mackmen to seven hits, pitching airtight ball after the A's scored both their runs in the opening inning.

CARDS REMAIN IN LEAGUE LEAD

By The Associated Press
National and American League round-up:

The St. Louis Cardinals won the rubber game in their series with the Chicago Cubs yesterday, 3 to 1, to retain their National League lead of a half game. Jim Collins, pinch hitting for Charley Gelbert, knocked a single with the bases loaded in the ninth to score Pepper Martin with the winning run.

Sam Leslie's third home run of the series gave the New York Giants a 3-0 victory over the Phillies and broke up a pitching battle between Lefty Al Smith of the Giants, who allowed five hits, and Joe Bowman, who gave up four. Johnny Lanning, rookie right-hander, pitched the Boston Bees to an 8-0 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers and hit a home run.

DOGERS AND HIT A HOME RUN

Red Evers held his former teammates to four hits and Pittsburgh defeated Cincinnati 9 to 2. The Reds had taken the first two games of the three-game series.

After scoring five runs in the first inning, the New York Yankees lost a 10-7 ball game to the Philadelphia Athletics. Fritz Ostermuller held Washington to four hits as the Sox shut out the Senators, 6-0. Catcher Rick Ferrell sprained his ankle in tripping over the second bag after a double and was forced to leave the game. Washington took the series, two to one.

PYTHON IN ZOO IS FED BY FORCE

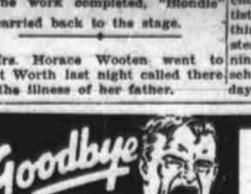

ST. LOUIS, May 26 (UP)—Although "Blondie," 19-foot python, has spent nine years in the St. Louis zoo, she continues indignantly to spurn food, and consequently has been removed from her glass-enclosed "jungle scene" home once each month and forcibly fed.

Removal is accomplished by eight men well versed in python body slams and trick holds. Keeper M. J. Lantz cautiously enters the cage, and flips a towel around the snake's head. He seizes the python behind the jaws and drags it through the cage door. Attendants seize sections of the powerful body and trail after Lantz.

unearned tally and had them swinging helplessly all the way. Paced by Sam Leslie, who pounded out five hits for a perfect day at bat, the New York Giants made good use of their 21 hits to defeat the Phillies, 12 to 5. Leslie, enjoying his best day of the season at the plate, drove out a homer, a triple, a double and two singles. Hal Schumacher received credit for the victory but was knocked out in the seventh.

Van Lingle Mungo pitched the Dodgers to an 11-2 victory over the Boston Bees Sunday, making the current series at two apiece. Mungo allowed seven hits and struck out seven as he recorded his fifth triumph of the campaign. Tiny Jim Chaplin, Al Blanche and Johnny Rabich tolled on the mound for the Bees. The Dodgers collected a total of 15 safe blows, including a homer in the fourth by Danny Taylor, who also doubled in the seventh with the bases filled. The Cincy Reds rampaged over the Pittsburgh Pirates Sunday, touching three pitchers for a 12-1 victory. Pirate errors, including

The Tulsa Oilers swept the three-game series with Oklahoma City by taking the last one yesterday, 6-4. The Oilers came from behind three times and finally won out in the eighth with a cluster of base

Hitler Hailed As Ruling By 'Divine Right'

Clarification Of Fuehrer Reaches Climax On 47th Birthday

BERLIN, May 26. (UP)—"What the Fuehrer does is always right!" This is the slogan which leads a nationwide campaign to deify Adolf Hitler.

Waged by Dr. Goebbels' propaganda machine, this drive hit a high point on Hitler's 47th birthday. As one foreign observer remarked, every element in German life was inspired to hail its "savior."

Such widespread adoration of Hitler is the latest manifestation of a phenomenon existing among members of the party for years.

Today the Nazis seek to imbue every German with the same sentiment.

March 7 with the reoccupation of the Rhineland gave the Nazis the chance to extend their Hitler glorification. Holding the election on a national issue, they raised the Fuehrer with it above party or politics. He was the "liberator."

Alfred Denneswiltz, an antique dealer on Berlin's Schill Strasse, showed what he thought of the Fuehrer. He burned a light all night every night in front of a Hitler photograph set in his store window. Italian madonnas are similarly honored.

Fritz Hermann, an ardent storm trooper, owner of a flower stall on the Wittenberg Platz, expressed the sentiment which the Nazis sow. He said:

"I believe firmly that my Fuehrer, Adolf Hitler, is a son of God. I trust him to the death. He went to Garmisch-Partenkirchen for the Olympics and it snowed. He left the day the Olympics were over and a long thaw set in."

Not quite so radically, Dr. Werner Sombart, the eminent German economist, voiced this same belief in his book, "German Socialism." In effect, he wrote that the leadership principle (held by the Nazis) cannot exist without the belief that the leader is divinely inspired.

The election propaganda phrase and rephrased this same conception. Hitler himself said more than once in his speeches, "With the certainty of a man walking in his sleep I follow the way which Providence has ordained for me."

The election issue of the Berliner Illustrierte carried on page 2 a photograph of the Fuehrer leaving one of the meeting halls. The only light showing against a dark background formed an aureole around Hitler's body.

By the time the birthday arrived, newspapers were quoting Dietrich Eckhart, the Nazi poet, as a subtitle to Hitler photographs, "Here is the light before which darkness flees." In a nationwide birthday broadcast Dr. Goebbels characterized the Cologne speech as "religion in its deepest and most mystic sense."

The same occasion found Germany plastered with Hitler photographs enshrined in flowers. Every store, every business, even the Deutsche Bank had a display behind the tellers' cage. The German kaisers ruling by "divine right" were paid similar tribute on their birthdays.

Hitler's decisions are "always right." When he first saw the Reichssportfeld (where the Olympics will be held) he suggested certain are tied for fifth place. Immediately German newspapers commented favorably on the improvement. Foreign observers, however, were somewhat critical.

Even Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, the non-Nazi acting minister of economics and president of the Reichsbank is quoted by reliable sources to have said that it was astounding how Hitler always picked the best of alternate plans submitted to him.

Senator Small's Father Succumbs

WELLINGTON, May 26.—Edward H. Small, 76, retired merchant, banker and stock breeder and probably one of the best known men in the Panhandle, died at his home here yesterday.

He was the father of State Sen. Clint C. Small of Amarillo and came to this section 45 years ago. He was the second county judge elected in Collingsworth county and held the office 10 years. He was credited with much civic development here and in Shamrock. Although a Presbyterian, he helped to organize churches of other denominations in both cities, where he was a charter member of Masonic lodges, and he assisted in developing the early schools in Collingsworth and Wheeler counties. Funeral services were to be held at 5 p. m. today in Shamrock at the First Methodist church.

Leslie Howard And Bette Davis Star In Ritz Picture

The screen version of Robert Emmet Sherwood's stage hit "The Petrified Forest," which ran all last season on Broadway to crowded houses, comes to the Ritz theater Tuesday and Wednesday. Leslie Howard and Bette Davis, who gave such sterling performances in "Of Human Bondage," are again playing the stellar roles of this picture. They are supported by such players as Genevieve Tobin, Dick Foran, Humphrey Bogart and Joseph Sawyer.

The story is set in the picturesque and colorful background of the Arizona desert. The scenes taking place in and about a wayside gas station and eating house a few miles from the real Petrified Forest.

In this strange locale are gathered a group of the world's misfits, held there by a band of killers who are hiding from a posse searching for them, awaiting their chance to escape over the border into Mexico.

At this strange gathering, Howard, in the role of an unsuccessful author, disillusioned with life, awakens to the fact that he can become of some use in the world by dying to give the girl he has suddenly fallen in love with, a chance to realize her own desires. Howard had this same role in the stage production.

Miss Davis is the erotic, discontented girl who longs for a fling at life, which her misfit father and her crabbed, miserly grandfather deny her.

Borah Threat Of 'Walk Out' Still Potent

His Following Means GOP May Have 'Split' To Worry About

WASHINGTON, May 26. (AP)—Senator Borah's hopes—if he actually had any—of the republican nomination may have vanished in the Ohio republican primary outcome. But the potential menace of a Borah party bolt to republican hopes in November did not. He got only a handful of Ohio delegates, to be sure; but he piled up about a third of the total party vote cast.

Political-statistical experts have "protest" recorded was 16 per cent or so.

Is the Borah vote in Ohio or elsewhere also a "protest" that implies any large degree of party line jumping in November? If so the republican management has about a 33 per cent split to consider in Ohio alone, in addition to the fact that the Roosevelt popular primary endorsement there, again as in California, seems to have equalled or bettered the aggregate vote for all opponents, including Eckenridge.

From the side liner, the Ohio results, small as was the Borah delegate crop reaped from the major campaign for delegates he has made, do not seem to warrant regarding what he might do at or after the Cleveland convention. They suggest that ways and means of placating Borah and averting an actual Borah "walk out" must be increasingly occupying such groups as, say, the Landon supporters.

Their confidence of victory at Cleveland was greatly increased by the Ohio outcome. Their November expectations are another matter. At the moment, Borah's unbroken record for staying put with his party in presidential years—even if sometimes silent—must loom as a hopeful if negative factor in the eyes of the Landonites. The surer they become of Landon's nomination, however, the more pressing becomes the need for finding a formula that could transmute a silently hostile Borah into an active Landon supporter. Could it be done?

The astonishing thing about the vote in the house that sent the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage refinancing bill and the "inflation" bogey to the session scrap heap was the way so many signers of the petition which forced the issue voted on the show down. About 60, exclusive of pairs, voted "no" on the bill.

It took something more than cloakroom persuasion by administration leaders to get that result.

EDWARD INSPECTS NEW BRITISH LINER

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., May 26 (UP)—King Edward VIII flew to and from Southampton to inspect the superliner Queen Mary yesterday.

"She is a ship the empire may be proud of," His Majesty told officers after inspecting all parts of the vessel with Queen Mary and other members of the royal family down to 10-year-old Princess Elizabeth.

"She is a wonderful ship. All good luck."

To the dismay of Britons, the king insisted on flying to Southampton from his country home, Fort Belvedere, near London, where he spent the week-end.

His personal pilot, Flight Lieut. B. S. Fielden of the Royal Air Force, was at the controls.

Queen Mary, the Duke and Duchess of York, Princess Elizabeth, the Duchess of Gloucester and the Duke and Duchess of Kent arrived by railway.

ADVANCE—NOT RETREAT

NO MIDDLE GROUND By Kate C. Ebel

Henry Ford, the foremost leader in the working world today, talking on the liquor question in most emphatic way.

"After deep consideration of this problem I have found that so far as drinking is concerned there is no Middle Ground!

"If we cling to booze, 'twill lead us down to depths of poverty, We must drop it overboard for good, to keep prosperity."

These words expressed by Mr. Ford must certainly bear weight, and that they ring with truthfulness no thinker will debate. From the very earliest records in the history of our nation, the liquor traffic dealt in crime and fostered degradation;

Our minds recall the vile saloon where men spent cash for booze, Depriving wife and children of clothing, food and shoes! In all our modern scheme of things there's not a single place where liquor proves a benefit or blessing to our race; The bulk of all the accidents upon highways seen, Is mostly caused by mixing alcohol and gasoline!

If only to save money, total abstinence would pay; But Oh, there is so much to gain in every other way— The honor and respect of all who stand for right and truth, And the good example that it sets before our growing youth.

The morals of the question occupy the public mind, And arguments in plenty both pro and con we find; But the economic aspects of the PROHIBITION PLAN O'ershadow all the other schemes that e'er were tried by man!

Water Samples Of 340 Wells Sent To State for Analysis

Samples of water have been taken from 340 wells in Howard county, Howard Samuel, attaché of the U. S. Geological Survey and in charge of a WPA underground water survey in this county, said Tuesday.

All of these samples have been forwarded to Austin for analysis and results will be made available soon.

Having made a complete check on all wells in the southern half of the county, Samuel is working in the northeastern sector now. He estimated that it would require two more months to complete the project.

Level tests are being run weekly on all city wells in an attempt to ascertain whether the city is making any serious drain on its water reserve.

In the original water area of the city where the city park is now located, water levels have risen 35 feet since the city stopped its pumps. It may also still further if the T. A. D. season, pumping its wells and takes to its lake supply to the east.

Shadows Tremble Japanese

GILROY, Calif. (UP)—Japanese, with artistic instincts, love twilight shadows, according to Tom Aways, Japanese motorist. However, four which he struck during an evening's driving proved to be black and white cows. He said there was no way to distinguish them from shadows.

Chicago election officials announced a record of 1,644,138 voters in the city, exceeding by 209 names the next highest registration of 1932.

Chow-Chow

We learned something about chow-chow the other day—not only how good it could be made—but how cheap. We remember paying the bill for the past ingredients the last time the good wife attempted to make us some. This man Elmo Coon, at Millers, grows his own ingredients and has sold us his chow-chow in pints cheap enough that we can sell them to you at 21c per pint, in Mason jars. The jars cost 7c, you know, so that is 14c for the chow-chow—cheaper than it could possibly be made at home, and much better.

Gulf Spray

Guess the flies have been "sticking" around you, too, for the past few days especially. And, perhaps, if you have looked in your clothes' closet lately you found the moths had been, and still were at work on those woolen clothes. We found a spray that not only kills moths and flies—for good—but has the added advantage of not soiling or in any way injuring clothes or anything else sprayed with it. We have the half pints for you at 25c, the pints at 49c, but try a quart at 85c and get a moth-proof bag that is really nice, thrown in with each quart. Whether you buy any spray or not, though, look at your clothes for moths. They are unusually bad right now. The flies are plentiful and sticky too.

Maple Syrup

Mr. Towle, who made maple syrup famous, is now making the Buck-et Brand an improvement over those he made famous, because he puts more maple in it, and makes it slightly thicker. It sure is good over waffles, hot cakes, and biscuits, not to mention hot rolls. We have plenty for you in pint-bottles at 25c; and quart bottles at 49c. Quite a saving, and the best you ever tasted.

Court Raps Tugwell Act

Hearing On Kansas City Stockyard Rates Is Held Improper

WASHINGTON, May 26 (UP)—Action of Rexford Guy Tugwell, new deal "brain trust," in conducting rate hearings for the Kansas City stock yards while assistant secretary of agriculture, was condemned by the supreme court. The fact that Tugwell took testimony dealing with the Kansas City case instead of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace caused the high tribunal to send an attack by livestock commissionmen on orders issued after the hearing back to the lower federal court. The lower court will take testimony on the role Tugwell played in fixing the rates.

In a suit against enforcement of the orders, the commissionmen asserted that Wallace had neither heard the testimony nor arrived at the findings which resulted in the new rate orders. They said Wallace had delegated the responsibility to Tugwell. They contended that this was not a proper hearing as required by law.

The federal district court refused to entertain this paragraph of their bill of complaint and the supreme court held that this was an error.

The decision was written by Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes and concurred in by the entire court. Mr. and Mrs. Owen Winn announce the arrival of 9-pound son Monday morning, whom they have named Ronald Phil. Both mother and son are doing well.

REMEMBERING Aunt Clemmie

GREAT-AUNT CLEMMIE was brought up to the Spartan life. She enjoyed (she always said) getting up at five on a Saturday morning, hanging her market basket over her arm, and going downtown to do the marketing for the week-end. She said "If you get there first—you'll get the best!"

Aunt Clemmie is a fine reminder of her time. Nowadays one needn't rise with the birds to be sure of a full market basket. It's so much simpler and more efficient to spend a few minutes with the advertisements. Marshalled before you, in your newspaper, is all the news that is necessary for your good living. There, in the advertisements, are facts — sound, solid facts — about prices and quality. Advertised, trade-marked merchandise must be honest merchandise. Or it wouldn't be advertised.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Some of the bright inner circle boys have figured out how Harry Hopkins, the president's fair-haired favorite, can be made a cabinet member.

They would create a new department, made up of independent bureaus and agencies from other departments, to be known as the department of social welfare.

The idea is not a new one; it has been advocated by government organizers in the past.

There is a lot to be said for the idea. Scattered throughout the government structure are numerous agencies dealing with various phases of social welfare, which could advantageously be brought under a single administrative head.

For example: The public health service is in the treasury, the financial branch of the government.

The children's and women's bureaus are in the labor department, while the office of education and the board of vocational education are under the jurisdiction of the interior department. The social security board and the relief administration are independent.

Eleventh Department
 The inner circle proposal is to create a new (eleventh) department out of all these units with allied interests.

Proponents of the plan claim that the president looks on it with favor—particularly the idea of putting Hopkins at its head. It is certain that the program will be seriously urged if Roosevelt is re-elected. However, it will be strenuously resisted by some of his cabinet prima donnas.

Stripping the labor department of the children's and women's bureaus would leave Madame Secretary Perkins with a skeleton department. Extremely sensitive about any diminution of her authority, she can be depended upon to fight the removal of the two bureaus from her control.

Secretary Tolson also has shown no disposition to give up any administrative jurisdiction.

On the other hand, Chairman John Winant of the social security board is friendly to the idea of a social welfare department, and would offer no objection to making his agency a part of such a set-up.

If created, the new department would be one of the largest and most powerful divisions of the government, ranking with the treasury and state departments in importance.

Cagey Townsend
 Until charges of mail fraud sent Dr. Francis E. Townsend stalking defiantly out of the house committee room, the Iowa country doctor who started the old age pension movement proved one of the assistant and most successful witnesses to appear before a congressional committee in recent years. He had the committee gasping by the frankness of his answers.

Here are some sample cross-fires directed by and at Congressman Hoffman Mich., Bell (Mo.), Gavanan (N. Y.), and Lucas (Ill.).

Bell: You still own more than 50 per cent of the Prosperity Publishing company. And you say it is worth millions. But you solely control the corporation, do you not?

Townsend: I propose to continue to do so.

Bell: You have expressed a desire to get your counsel a seat in congress.

Townsend: Certainly. I would be delighted to see him here.

Gavanan: You presume that under the California law you could take the assets of OARP?

Townsend: We could not take them.

Gavanan: When did you come to that presumption?

Townsend: May I ask my attorney to enlighten you on the California statutes?

Gavanan: I do not need any enlightenment!

Hoffman: Did you ever say you were the embodiment of Jesus Christ?

Townsend: No.

Hoffman: But you consented to thousands of booklets going out with Washington, Lincoln, and yourself pictured on the front page.

Townsend: They're a long way from being Jesus Christ.

Hoffman: Why did you refer to the apparent unfriendliness of this committee?

Townsend: If I may be permitted to elucidate: It has appeared to me from the beginning that this committee is more interested in besmirching the character of people than in ascertaining anything of truth concerning the virtues of the movement.

Social Diseases
 The new surgeon general of the United States public health service is a brilliant, intense young man who believes in calling a spade a spade, in giving "social diseases" their proper names.

Other countries are not afraid of the words says Surgeon General Thomas Parran. The American public, he continues, must discard its parlor manners and speak of venereal diseases with the same candor as tuberculosis or small-pox.

"When we come across a case of small-pox, we find out right away who's been exposed. Who were you with last night?" is the first question we ask. And when we find a case of syphilis, we've got to ask that same question—and get the answer."

Parran sees a break in public sentiment on the subject in the past few months. Only a year ago a broadcasting agency banned a speech of his because it used the word "syphilis." But last February a similar speech was allowed in uncorrected form.

He finds that a similar change has occurred in newspaper policy. Many editors now admit free discussion of the subject, whereas they used to allow only veiled references under the polite name of "social disease."

Demo Moves Against F D Have Failed

WASHINGTON, May 26 (UP)—The pre-convention campaign to prevent President Roosevelt's nomination has collapsed gradually but completely, an examination of the state-by-state record showed today. The extent to which it demonstrated a slump in Roosevelt popularity is disputed.

The stop-Roosevelt movement tentatively organized by Alfred E. Smith, former Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts, the late Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland and former Sen. James A. Reed of Missouri, ceased to function more than a month ago. The movement may be revived after the nominating conventions.

Most of those leaders met in Smith's skyscraper office in April and decided it was not possible to fight in a national nominating convention packed with office holders and controlled by the new deal administration.

Ely Withdraws
 Ely, having publicly promised to oppose Mr. Roosevelt in the April Massachusetts presidential primary, gave up, explaining he could not successfully buck the new deal in a primary contest.

Col. Henry Breckenridge, a political unknown except for a "little cabinet" service in the Wilson administration, made the most vigorous pre-convention attack on Mr. Roosevelt. Breckenridge entered himself in four preference primaries and in three of them was directly opposed by Mr. Roosevelt.

New York state may have some anti-Roosevelt delegates at the democratic national convention. Smith has been elected a delegate and others on the Tammany slate may be lukewarm. But there is no prospect of a floor fight against Mr. Roosevelt.

Talmadge Subsidies
 There was a hint of trouble in Georgia where Gov. Eugene Talmadge was threatening a few months ago to lead a southern rebellion against the new deal. Talmadge has subsided. He failed to enter the Georgia primary and with Mr. Roosevelt the only candidate, the state's delegation went to the president by default.

Louisiana's national political prominence died with the late Huey P. Long. Rev. Gerald K. Smith, self-styled spiritual heir of the kingfish, said Louisiana's delegation would not cause any trouble at Philadelphia.

The Rev. Smith, the former Governor Smith of New York, Ely, Reed and others have postponed their war on the new deal until after the nominating conventions. Their various strategies will depend partly on the republican nominee and the nature of the republican platform. From the GOP camp recently have come numerous invitations to democrats to join in removing Mr. Roosevelt from the White House.

Whether conservative democrats will bolt is less a question than how far they will go after they leave their party's candidate. They might organize a new party. They might join the republicans, or they might sulk.

Highway 9 Gap May Be Closed Today

A 700-yard unpaved gap preventing traffic from using 7 miles of surfaced road on highway No. 9 south may be closed before the afternoon is over.

S. C. Dougherty, resident highway engineer, said that equipment was being put in order to rush surfacing of the small stretch just where the rerouted highway leaves the old.

Barring more rain, Dougherty said that the road would be opened for traffic late in the afternoon and that travel would be possible over the entire highway in Howard county.

Residents of Forsan and other communities in the southern part of the county have been forced to detour through the muddy Elbow creek flat because rains caught the job just 700 yards short of completion.

Otherwise, rains have put highway projects in ideal shape. The base of highway No. 9 north for 17 miles was said to be settling perfectly.

would disarrange plans for speedy adjournment, want the case to be referred to district supreme court for trial. A court trial probably could not be held until after the November elections.

Many congressmen have been counting on revelations of the investigation to aid them in combating Townsend opposition in their districts during the forthcoming balloting.

Bell, and at least three other members of the non-partisan group favor the court action, however. They want to make certain Townsend and his supporters are not able to claim he was persecuted by being given a one-sided trial in the house.

Memorial Day Talk Is Given

Rotarians Hear Address By Woodward; Willson Is Visitor

Garland A. Woodward, local attorney, was guest speaker at the Rotary club luncheon at Hotel Settles ballroom on a Memorial Day program in charge of William (Bill) Tate.

District Governor Jim Willson of Floydada paid the club an official visit at Tuesday's meeting, thanking the members for their fine cooperation during 1936, and urging them to continue their good work during the coming regime of the newly-elected district governor, Fred Wemple of Midland.

Preceding the speaking, two violin solos by Miss Evelyn Jackson, local violin teacher, accompanied by Miss Roberta Gay, were given. "Humoresque" was the first number, followed by an encore, "Gavotte."

Woodward, in a forceful and interesting way, gave the significance of "Memorial Day," which was designated as such by an act of congress in 1882. He paid tribute to those who had made possible the "greatest government and country in the world," that of the United States.

Visiting Rotarians were Jim Willson, governor of the 51st district; Jim Bateman, Abilene. Other visitors were: Charles Eusewald, Amarillo; Bill Stone, Dallas; Dr. C. K. Bivings, Garland; Woodward, J. C. Allen, Miss Evelyn Jackson, Miss Roberta Gay, Big Spring; and John Strange of Columbia, South America.

More Farmers File Work Sheets For US Soil Program

Additional work sheets continued to be received at the county agent's office Tuesday for participation in the federal soil conservation and building program.

With more than 95 per cent of the cotton acreage and 85 per cent of the farms represented in sheets already on file, it appeared Tuesday that Howard county would not miss 100 per cent cooperation far.

Contrary to predictions, all big farms have filed work sheets and only the smaller ones have lagged behind. Many believe the converse would be true.

In the hope of securing a work sheet from all farms, even if not cooperating in the program, County Agent O. P. Griffin Tuesday mailed out letters to all producers who have not filed.

Producers may participate in the federal benefit program anytime up to July 31 if he has made out his work sheet.

When enrollment at the Model school, near Estherville, Ia., dwindled to four pupils the board of education voted to close it and to arrange their transportation to Estherville school.

President Will Be Asked To Lead Houston Parade

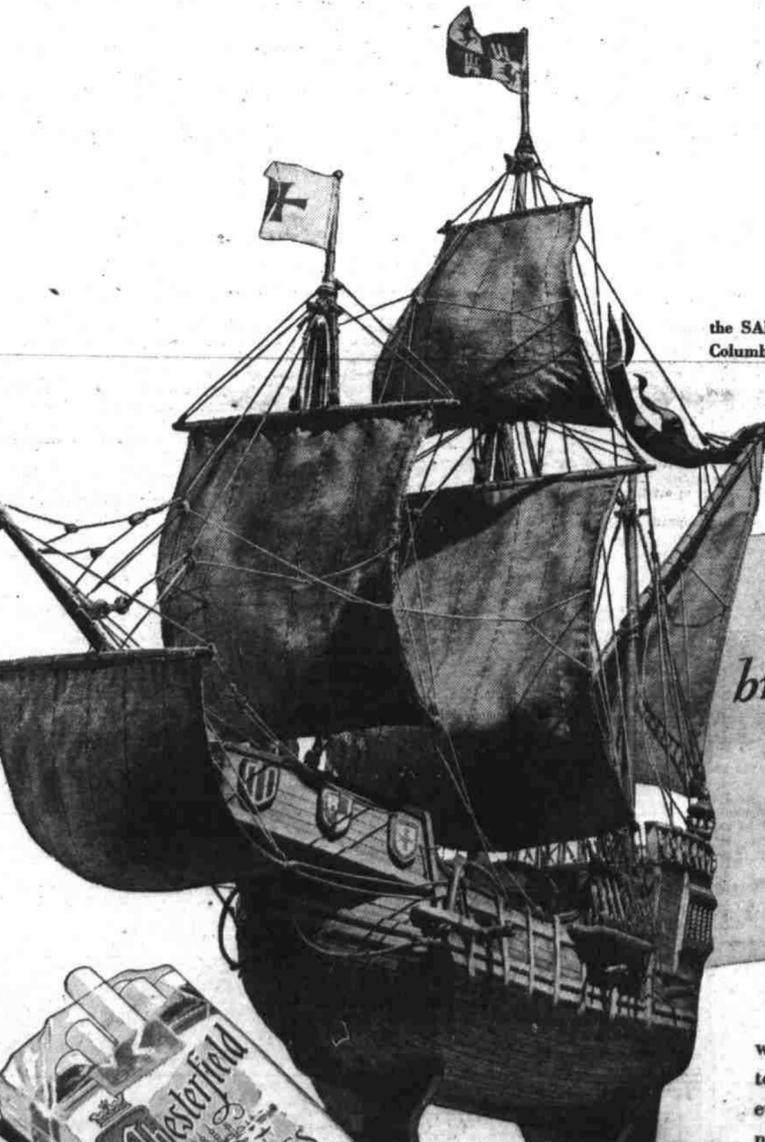

HOUSTON, May 26. (UP)—President Roosevelt will be asked to lead a parade through Houston and speak at San Jacinto battleground if his tentative plans to visit the city June 11 are carried out, Mayor Oscar Holcombe said today.

Should the president decide to come to Houston from Little Rock, Ark., where he will open the Arkansas centennial exposition, plans call for him to make a trip by boat down the Houston ship channel to the battleground.

Holcombe said the president would not return to Houston from the battleground, but that his special train would meet him at Deer Park, east of the city.

The president would be protected during his visit by the entire police department and National Guard units, in addition to secret service men accompanying him, the mayor said.

Holcombe said he would ask Jesse H. Jones, Houston, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, to present the tentative program to the president for his approval.
