Bill Approved On Federal Farm Payments

Congressman Omar Burleson announced that on March 1 the Committee on Ways and Means of the U.S. House of Representatives, approved a bill, H.R. 11055, concerning the tax treatment of certain Federal farm payments.

The tremendous backlog of administrative paperwork caused by the drought of 1976-1977 has delayed the mailing of many 1977 disaster and deficiency payments until 1978. Payments which ordinarily would be received as income in 1977 and are being included for tax purposes with the income of that year. This bill is designed to prevent the unavoidable bunching of income for tax purposes.

Although no date has been set for consideration by the House of Representatives, Congressman Burleson is hopeful that action can be taken prior to the April 15 income tax filing deadline.

Great Plains Conservation Program

The Great Plains Conservation Program was designed by Congress in 1956 as an additional tool for conservation districts in stabilizing the agriculture and economy of the vast Great Plains area. The program contains the recommendations of the Great Plains Agricultural Council, and reflects long study of and experience with Great Plains conditions by scientists and landowners. It has proved effective in helping conservation district leaders meet their conservation district objectives.

The program places priority on areas subject to wind and water erosion and on areas where a change in land use is needed. It provides assistance to farmers and ranchers that would otherwise be unable to solve unusual conservation problems on their operating units due to the high cost that would be involved. Its special help is in addition to other ongoing conservation programs in the Great Plains.

Most importantly, this program encourages the conservation management of range cover and crop residues. The net result of sound conservation applied to the land is the reduction of wind and water erosion, improvement of the soil, and financial stabilization of the farm or ranch operation unit.

In the great Plains Conservation Program, the land owner or operator enters into contract with the Secretary of Agriculture. Working through local conservation districts, such as the Upper Soil and Water Conservation District, the land users receives technical assistance from the Soil Conservation Service.

Through joint efforts, the landowner and Soil Conservation Service personnel develop a conservation plan best suited for the land and the kind of operation the landowner desires. The length of a Great Plains contract varies from 3-10 years, depending on the number of practices that will be required to complete the conservation work. Upon completion of each conservation practice, the landowner will receive federal cost share. Included in the conservation plan is a schedule of application for all the conservation practices that will be involved.

Several conservation practices that are cost shared through the Great Plains Conservation Program include brush management, establishment of grassland, livestock water facilities, livestock water pipeline and crossfences.

If you own or operate land and you are interested in knowing more about the Great Plains Conservation Program you may contact the Soil Conservation Service office here in Eastland. We will be happy to discuss this program in more detail with you at your convenience.

Fike Godfrey Makes Statement

statement by Fike Godfrey, candidate for Congress in 17th Congressional District:

"First, let me thank you for being here. I called this press conference on rather short notice to deal with what I consider a serious problem in this campaign---because I think the media should be aware of some of the things which are taking place.

"Earlier this week I was contacted by a newspaperman who told me he had heard a rumor that I was withdrawing from this race for Congress.

"That rumor is false, and I want to put it to rest once and for all here today. Fike Godfrey is very much in the race, and I intend to win.

"The newspaperman could not tell me where he had heard the rumor, and I appreciate his position in keeping his source confidential. Unfortunately, this was not the first rumor to rear its head about me in this campaign.

"Some of my supporters earlier had heard other rumors, almost as vicious and equally false. If one of my opponents or any of his supporters---and I call no names---is conducting a whisper campaign like this, I am not only disappointed but also just plain mad.

"My campaign has been pitched on the high road and will continue to be. I have gone to the voters and discussed the issues---not talked about any of the people in this race behind their backs.

"But I will say publicly right now that I have noticed an apparent reluctance on the part of other candidates to discuss the issues and to take a stand on controversial matters. In our speeches and in our news releases we have stated where we stand and not talked around the issues.

"I think the voters of the 17th District are fed up with whispered rumors and innuendo-type campaigning. And I think they are too smart to have their votes influenced by such cowardly tactics.

"These stories are calculated to put me in a bad light by depicting me as a quitter, and also make it difficult to raise funds for our campaign.

"I am not a rich man, and my campaign is being waged with contributions from the people. I don't believe the office of Congressman is for sale to the highest bidder.

"Political campaigns in this day and time cost money, wantonly throwing cash around does not fool the voters. What the voters are seeking, and we believe what we are providing, is a candidate who listens to their problems, reflects their feelings and votes accordingly with a common-sense approach and good judgment.

"One of the main problems now is that we have too many people in Washington who will not listen to the people. Fike Godfrey will work for the 17th District.

"My record is proven, and it has not changed from year to year or month to month, nor has it been created for this political race. "I have worked consistently to bring more industry to this area, creating new jobs we need and promoting additional profit opportunities.

"I have been consistent in supporting the petroleum industry and the farmers and ranchers---and I have consistently opposed big government, wasteful spending of taxpayers' money, unnecessary red tape and harrassment of the individual.

"This latest rumor appears to be part of a well-orchestrated campaign we believe may be originating in Austin, and I believe the whole thing will backfire upon those who are spreading these vicious, malicious falsehoods.

I resigned as executive vice president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to make this race. I am going to campaign fulltime right up until the polls close on May 6th. And, I am going to win.

Letters TO THE EDITOR

To the editor:

I am writing this letter because I believe the citizen of this school district should be made aware of the actions of their school board and school administration. It is questionable when a school system goes as far as to say they can accept federal funds to help them set up their programs; then refuse to abide by the rules and regulations required by the federal government in order to obtain those funds. The Rising Star school district applied for federal funds, received such funds by signing an assurance form stating that in order to obtain these funds they would abide by all, Title IX regulations set forth by the Health, Education, and Welfare Department. This assurance form was signed by Mr. Newberry on Sept. 12, 1976. When the school board was asked to abide by these regulations; they outright refused stating that even though they do receive federal funds they were not under obligation to follow federal regulations. Now I ask you, is this a correct way to operate a school system or even a private business? Would you as an individual obtain a federal loan then tell the government you didn't feel you should be required to follow the same set of rules and regulations everyone else is required to follow?

According to the Title IX, Nondiscrimination on the Basis of Sex, the policy rules and regulations states: A recipient shall not, on the basis of sex discrimination against any person in the application of any rules of appearance. The HEW interpretation of this statement is the following. Any policy that requires different hair length for male and female students and prohibits beards or moustaches are violations of Section 86.31 (b)(s). The Acting Director of the Office for Civil Rights, Martin H. Gerry, has authorized regional OCR Education Branches to implement enforcement of that Section. To further clarify his rationale, the Acting Director adds: "Although different standards concerning the lengths of hair for male and female students is a violation of Title IX, reasonable difference in clothing standards for males and females will be permitted so long as the goals of such standards are the same, such as the maintenance of order, modesty or cleanliness. We believe that such a differentiation between hair and clothing standards is rational, since hair, unlike clothing, may not be changed every day after class and the imposition of discriminatory hair standards, therefore, results in a substantially greater impairment of an individual's personal preference."

The main issue of this situation is an individual's rights. Does a school system have the right to take away the rights of an individual just because the person is a male? There are no rules concerning the rights of the female students; so why should there be specific rules applying only to the male students? Are males not entitled to the same right as females? Also, are the parents of boys not entitled to the same rights as those of girls? I feel that as a parent it is my responsibility and God given right to decide upon and guide my child in his personal appearance. It is a right I automatically assumed the day I became a parent and just because I happen to be the parent of all boys doesn't mean I should have that right taken away by a school system. I think each member of the school board should have the right to decide how their children, whether male or female how their children should dress and wear their hair. In return, every other parent of a child in the Rising Star School system should have the same right; and the personal preferences of the school board and administration should not force their personal preferences upon those whose preferences are different. I feel that a child's moral values, religious beliefs, and ideas of personal appearance are values that should be taught at home by the parents; and should not be intruded upon by any school system or other person.

Not only is the school system attempting to take the parents rights; they are refusing to fulfill the regulations they agreed upon when they received federal funds. I think the citizens of this school district should stop and re-evaluate the school board and its decisions. Are they setting the type of example we want our children to follow? Can a school system expect its students to agreeably abide, by its rules and regulations when it has set an example of not abiding by an agreement it knowingly entered into? Is a system that tells our children, "Do as I say, not as I do" one that we can uphold?

I know our federal government has many faults and needs some improvements buy, it has also been one of the most production and successful forms of government in the world. Our children should be taught to respect it and to abide by its rules and regulations in spite of its faults. We can fight for changes and improvements without teaching disrespect for the government. The main issue of this whole situation is whether or not we as citizen should follow the rules of our federal government or completely ignore them and allow the school system to take the rights of the individual. One final question to be pondered; Is a child's appearance more important than his going to school to receive an education? An education which will enable him to take care of himself throughout his entire life.

Killion States Reason For Seeking Election

LaJuan Killion

I, LaJuan Killion in efforts to obtain a seat on the school board in the April 1st election, wish to tell you a few things about myself and my reasons for seeking election and what I would hope to accomplish if elected. I feel that since I have raised three children and have dealt with a variety of schools and children all over the world, that I have the basic qualifications to take part in governing a school system. I believe in listening, being heard and studying an issue to its fullest before making an opinion. I believe in working with both teachers and children to solve the problems. I have always believed a child will accept adult leadership better if it is applied with due respect of them and their opinions. Also, I think a child will react better to leadership and learn better if they feel that the people making the decisions that affect them, are their friends and do respect them.

Basically I hope to help promote an overall better understanding between children, teachers, and the parents in order to achieve a better atmosphere for social and mental improvement of our children. A busy mind is a happy mind.

Bicycle Safety: A Must For Everyone

A bicycle is a two-wheeled people-helper. It helps people of all ages to have fun, get to work and school, and earn money. Yet, statistics show that in 1974 over 460,000 persons suffered bicycle-related injuries serious enough to require hospital emergency room treatment; and in 1975, bicycles were number one on the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission Hazard Index listing 100 consumer products associated with the most numerous and severe injuries.

FAMILY CYCLING FUN begins with safety sense.

A paradox? Yes. Avoidable? Definitely, according to Royal-Globe Insurance Companies. Taking just a little extra time in selecting, using and maintaining a bicycle can make all the difference. It's smart to be a safe rider!

When buying a bicycle for a child, choose one to fit the child's size today, not one to "grow into" later. A bicycle should also suit the rider's ability. Don't buy a bicycle with sharp, protruding edges, and always check hand and foot brakes for fast, easy stops.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission has issued safety standards which all bicycles manufactured after May 11, 1976, are required to meet before being sold. Take advantage of what the Federal government is doing. Be a wise consumer and look for the inspection tag. You'll be a safe consumer.

When using a bicycle, observe all traffic laws and signals. Always ride in the same direction as traffic. Don't ride double or attempt stunts and avoid riding in wet weather. At night, wear reflective tape or light-colored clothing. Make certain not to wear loose garments that can catch in chain, pedals or wheels.

Regular maintenance is essential for safe riding. Align wobbly wheels for better control. Replace all missing, damaged or worn parts. Inflate tires to recommended pressure and keep bicycles indoors when not in use to avoid rusting and corrosion of metal parts.

Everyone can be an expert rider and have fun—safely. Be alert and stay in control. Take common sense and courtesy with you every time you ride. Royal-Globe is offering free, as a public service, its folder, "Safe Riders Make Safe Drivers," which contains helpful information on rules of the road, cautions for cyclists and the latest Federal Government safety regulations. For your copy, write to Royal-Globe Insurance Companies, Dept. CCD, 150 William Street, New York, N.Y. 10038.

Inflation-Fighting ENERGY IDEAS

HELPFUL TIPS

HEATING

You'll be better able to keep your cool about your heating bills if you follow these 10 suggestions from experts at the Edison Electric Institute.

- The most important single step in home energy conservation is the installation of thermal insulation, which should be specified in terms of thermal resistance (R-values). Minimum value of R-18 (4 1/2 inches) is recommended for exterior walls; R-30 (10 inches) for ceilings under roofs or unheated spaces; R-11 (3 inches) for floors over unheated areas. These are minimum values. In cooler areas of the country, additional insulation above these values should be considered.

down glass, worn weather stripping and improperly fitting doors.

- Weather-strip and caulk around all entrance doors and windows to limit cold air infiltration which could account for 15 to 30 percent of space-conditioning energy requirements.

- Double glazing (two panes of glass separated by a sealed air space) cuts heat transfer by 40 to 50 percent. In extremely cold regions, triple glazing could be economically justified.

- Single-glazed windows (even those of high quality and in good repair) should have storm windows. A wood or metal frame storm window provides a second thickness of glass and a layer of still air that reduce heat loss.

- Install storm doors at all entrances to the house. A storm door helps save energy because it reduces the mass of cold air infiltration that occurs when the door is opened and, also, reduces the amount of heat loss through the door when it is closed.

- Increasing glass area increases heat losses and gains. In choosing window sizes for a new home, therefore, carefully balance the needs of the occupants for light and view with the need for energy conservation.

- In the wintertime the air is normally dry inside the house. This is a disadvantage because, to be comfortable in dry air, people require a higher temperature than they would in a humid environment. Therefore, humidifiers—whether freestanding or built into the main duct of a warm air system—are a good investment for energy conservation. Humidification also helps preserve home furnishings which may be adversely affected by a dry environment.

- Keep the overhead door of an attached garage closed to block cold winds from coming in through the connecting door between house and garage.

- When entertaining a large group during the heating season, lower the thermostat a degree or two before the guests arrive. Otherwise, since people generate heat, the space may become wastefully overheated.

DO YOU HAVE A QUESTION ON ENERGY? Write to: Edison Electric Institute Information Service, NP, 90 Park Ave., N.Y., N.Y. 10016.

TRAVEL TIPS

How To Prepare For A Trip

When packing for your trip, do it in solitude—it will require all your concentration. Your weight limit for economy class is 44 pounds, so here are some guides: wool suit 2-3 pounds, dress 1-1/2 pounds, sweater 1 pound, skirt 3/4 pound, shoes 1-1/2 pounds, bathing suit 1/2 pound.

Don't wait until the last minute to buy your travelers cheques. Plan a trip to the bank several days before your departure to be sure you start your vacation with "protected" travel funds. If you use American Express Travelers Cheques, for example, you can usually get a full refund the same day if they are lost or stolen. And if you discover your American Express Travelers Cheques missing on weekends or holidays, you can obtain an emergency refund through Holiday Inns in the U.S. and Canada, and Avis offices outside of North America.

If you want nothing more from your flight than a few hours of sleep, choose a seat that's far forward or one that's near the wing. Because wings act as stabilizers as the aircraft moves up and down, the steadiest seats are those beside them.

Tips To Help You

THE VALUE OF YOUR HOME

Right now, how much would it cost to replace your home? It's important that you know: if your estimate is too high, you are paying for more insurance than you need; undervalue it and you face an out-of-pocket loss in case of fire or other major disaster. If you don't insure your home for at least 80 percent of its current replacement cost, you lose!

computerized appraisal service, this cost can be greatly reduced.

Let's say your home was constructed in 1965 for $30,000 and you insured it for 80 percent of its replacement cost—$24,000—in 1977 that same home would cost upward of $55,000 to replace. To protect that investment by insuring it for at least 80 percent of its replacement cost you should have at least $44,000 of insurance. It's easy to slip into a condition where you are greatly under-insured through lack of knowledge of present replacement costs.

It works like this: The homeowner completes a form describing his home. This description is fed into a computer and for $9.95, the homeowner receives a certificate stating the replacement cost based on local cost factors. This appraisal, all done by mail, is called Value Rater. Forms are available by writing to GAB Business Services, Inc., Dept. A, 1101 State Road, Princeton, New Jersey 08540, or by calling toll-free (800) 621-2306.

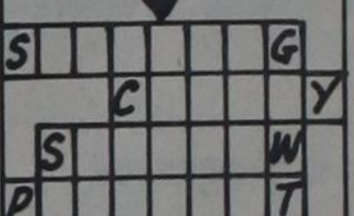

Knowing this, some homeowners still hesitate to get their homes appraised because such an appraisal generally costs $150 to $200 or more. But thanks to a new

The adage "know thyself" can also be applied to your home—for what you don't know about your home could mean a substantial financial loss.

Fashion 'n Fabrics

By FANNIE GLEESON

STRAIGHT FACTS ABOUT SEWING ON BIAS

It's the year for skirts and shawls and soft, drapy things. The skirts get their shape from bias-cut fabric, such as the one illustrated, or from gathers at the waist, a la dirndl.

The shawl is dramatic as well as comfortable. The scoop neck T-shirt completes the outfit, but it's a "T" with a difference -- the sleeves are cuffed.

Use cotton knit for the top, woven or knit fabric for the skirt and shawl.

The secret of sewing woven bias fabric is a light touch: as little handling as possible in order to avoid stretching the diagonal yarns. Also, when laying the pattern on the fabric, be sure each section faces in the same direction so that the grainlines will slant alike. Otherwise, each section will take on different shading.

After basting, pin waistband on a padded hanger and allow skirt to hang overnight. Next day check for puckers. If any appear, snip basting stitches in the puckered area. Smooth out seam and re-baste.

When machine stitching, use a shorter stitch than ordinarily used for woven fabric. Make a practice run on two layers of bias-cut fabric with 12 to 14 stitches per inch.

During permanent stitching, gently hold fabric in front and back of needle so that stitches will respond with fabric yarns when seam is under tension during wear. Stitch from bottom to top: from widest part to narrowest.

Now the zipper. First, preshrink the closed zipper by dunking it in hot water and allowing it to air dry. Meanwhile, to keep the bias seam from stretching, stabilize it by centering and stitching seam binding on the seamline of each side of the zipper opening.

Machine-baste the opening. Clip basting every two inches. Press seam open. Pin and baste zipper in place, being sure to ease zipper to the opening.

Turn to the outside and use a hand-picked stitch for the final step. Use a single strand of thread and a #8 or #9 hand-sewing needle. Bring needle through to surface from underneath. Take a stitch back one yarn of fabric and bring needle forward about 1/16th of an inch to 1/8 inch. Continue for both sides and end of zipper opening

1977 Crop Wheat, Oats, And Barley May Be Put In Reserve

COLLEGE STATION - As of Mar. 1, farmers may place their 1977- crop wheat, oats and barley directly into the grain reserve being developed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Previously, farmers who wished to enter grain in the reserve needed to wait until a government loan on the crop matured, points out Roland Smith, grain marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Early entry of 1977- crop corn and sorghum into the reserve program is expected to be announced later by the Secretary of Agriculture.

There is also a change in the farm storage facility loan program. Under the change a farmer will be able to obtain a loan for storage structures to store two years- crop production. However, in determining eligibility, existing capacity used to store grain in the reserve program will be excluded.

USDA offers farmers an opportunity to place their grain in the reserve program for a three- year period and receive storage payments annually in advance, notes Smith. Storage payments are 25 cents per bushel for wheat, corn, barley and sorghum and 19 cents per bushel for oats. In return, farmers must agree to hold their grain off the market at least until the price reaches the minimum release level (140 percent of the current loan rate for wheat and 125 percent for feed grains) or the contract expires. Under current procedures, farmers must pay 6 percent interest on the loans.

The goal of the grain reserve program is to accumulate about 17 million metric tons (670 million bushels, corn equivalent) of feed grains and around 9 million metric tons (330 million bushels) of wheat. Participation will be on a first come, first served basis until the goal is reached.

A farmer without an existing loan can obtain a loan and immediately place grain into the reserve by contacting his county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) office, adds Smith.

From the Editor of Wildcat Tales

Life seems to be getting more and more interesting every day. Last Tuesday morning we come to school and found that someone had broken into the Ag barn and stolen three welders which were valued at about $125 each. None of our detectives around here have anymore clues than these: 1 Someone cut off the lock of the Ag barn with a "Bolt Cutter," 2. They backed their vehicle up to the door leaving tire tracks. Somehow or other they lifted the welders, which Mr. Geye said weighed somewhere between 100 and 150 pounds and drove off.

That same night someone broke into Bramlett Implement and stole a lot of equipment also. There have been a lot of this kind of robberies, lately. It makes one wonder, doesn't it?

Play tryouts were this Tuesday at sixth period but I'm afraid I won't be able to tell you who won until next week.

I hope you all have a marvelous week.

Beth

"As It Looks From Here" OMAR BURLERSON Congressman 17th District

WASHINGTON, D.C. - IN OUR RELEASE OF NOVEMBER 17, 1977, we said at the end of that release that there would be further comment on the Equal Rights Amendment, up for ratification in the various States.

AS WAS POINTED OUT, THE AMENDMENT LACKS THREE STATES OF THE required three-fourths for approval. The seven-year time limit expires March 22, 1979 when most State Legislatures will be in Session. This, of course, is a crucial time and the outcome is in doubt.

SINCE THE BILL OF RIGHTS WAS ADOPTED IN 1791, 26 other amendments to the Constitution have been passed. It took from 4 months to 3 years and 11 1/2 months for the adoption of these various amendments, spanning the time from 1791 to 1971.

THE CONSTITUTIONS SETS NO TIME LIMIT but only provides for a "reasonable time" to be approved by three-fourths of the States to make it part of the Constitution. Seven years has been considered by both the Congress and the Supreme Court to be reasonable and time enough for approval or disapproval.

SINCE THE ADDITION OF THE FIRST AMENDMENT, there have been introduced nearly 6,000 amendments in the U.S. Congress but only 22 of those proposed have been passed by two-thirds of both the Senate and the House of Representatives for submission to the States. Only 16 have been ratified. James Madison in his Federalist Papers explains that the ratification procedure decided upon for amending the Constitution, "guards equally against that extreme difficulty which might perpetuate its discovered faults." In other words, the Founding Fathers made it possible for change but also made it difficult in order to guard against extremes or unnecessary amendments.

IN THE CASE OF THE ERA, since its approval by the States is in doubt, supporters now want the Congress to extend the time another seven years in the hope that pressure can be brought to bear on Three more State Legislatures to approve it. A Resolution to that effect is now pending before the Judiciary Committee in the House of Representatives. It is backed by 21 Members of Congress and some hearings have been held but, at this time, it appears not to have great and enthusiastic support.

THIS EFFORT IS SOMETHING LIKE A FOOTBALL GAME between two arch rivals, the University of Mississippi and Louisiana State University. Two or three years ago in a game between the two universities, Louisiana State scored at the very end of the game. Mississippi fans charged that four seconds had been added to the game to enable Louisiana to win.

A FEW DAYS AFTER THAT BALL GAME, a large sign was erected at a heavily travelled highway at the border of the two States. It said, "You are now entering the State of Louisiana. Turn your clock back four seconds."

DURING THE LAST SEASON, a similar situation occurred in a pro ball game between the Washington Redskins and the Philadelphia Eagles. Washington was leading by one point until the last two seconds. Philadelphia got close enough for a field goal but Washington claims that the time expired before the kick could be made. The timekeepers said otherwise. Afterwards, the saying went around that the clocks ran two minutes slower in Philadelphia than in the Nation's Capital.

PROPOSERS OF THE EQUAL RIGHTS AMENDMENT figure they are losing the game and want to change the rules before March 22 of next year by extending the time another seven years. If the supporters of the ERA were successful, it would put opponents in a position where winning settled nothing, but lose once, and they have lost forever.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Foster spend the day with their son and wife the Nathan Fosters of Atwell. Mary Hammet went to Abilene to see her doctor for eye surgery one day and returned that evening. We would like to express our gratitude to W.L. Joyce of Albany, Texas for his gift of the Outdoor Wind Chime. Our residents are really enjoying them.

Senior Citizens To Present Song At Town Meeting

The Rising Star Retired Persons met at 11:30 a.m. for their regular monthly meeting. There were 32 members present along with 4 guests.

This was the luncheon meeting and late lunch was taken by the members to Mrs. Mary Harper who is recuperating from surgery.

Speaker for the day was Brother Vernon McGinn, who opened with a prayer. Songs were sung by Brother McGinn and his wife. Everyone enjoyed this and we welcome them back.

Afterward, there followed group singing with Mrs. Nell Maynard and sister at the piano.

Dominoes were played.

The group had a special called meeting to discuss the Town Meeting which is to be held at the Community Room of the First State Bank on Thursday night, March 9th. The Retired Persons Association will provide refreshments.

Mrs. Nell Maynard will also present a song she composed about the town of Rising Star.

"It's A Rising Star" Rising Star That's our town, we have been here and there and all around, there is none in the world that can compete, with Rising Star, it can't be beat.

CHORUS

Our Senior citizens all look stout, all ways up and going about, Wha's their secret, can't you guess? It's Rising Star and its happiness.

Our forefathers made it's pillars high and its foundation strong,

Brave men work while others sleep to make our city strong,

Drifting through the city park, there on its grassy land,

You can read of our forefathers on the memorial stand.

Each moment we live is borrowed time, so let us seek the good,

With love and peace and harmony hometown folks and brotherhood,

Lord give us vision that we can see, into the years that are to be,

I know that through it all, rules God, who notes the sparrows fall.

By Nell Maynard

She will be accompanied by Mrs. Luella McKinnerney. All are welcome to attend this meeting.

The schedule for March is as follows:

Tuesday, March 7th - Musical with Nell Maynard;

Tuesday, March 14th - Guest speaker to be announced later

Tuesday March 21st - Business and Tuesday, March 28 - Luncheon.

The Senior Citizens and Public Health Region 4 Nursing Staff will hold a blood pressure screening clinic at the Seniors Citizens Building in Rising Star, Wednesday March 15th. Clinic hours are from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

About one in ten of all adults in the world have high blood pressure or hypertension as it is known medically. In the United States alone, it is a major contributing factor in an estimated 250,000 deaths many more than 1,500,000 heart attacks and strokes that occur each year. Yet, once detected, this disease can usually be effectively controlled.

You can have it and not know it...Millions of people who have high blood pressure do not know they do. You can feel healthy, look terrific, and have it, because it hits relaxed people and tense people, and often there are no symptoms.

Treatment reduces the danger-in most people high blood pressure can be lowered and kept under control with continuing treatment. This greatly reduces the risk of serious complications.

If further follow up screening is needed, the individual will be referred to his private physician.

The public is invited to attend and there will be no charge for these services.

FROM OUR CHURCHES

Church of Christ

In Matthew 5:13-16, Jesus described his disciples as "salt" and "light". Both of these are well known for their ability to influence and transform the area around them. Salt exerts a seasoning, as well as saving, power; light drives away the shadows and brings into focus the world around us. We could not live without both of these.

In the case of the disciples who heard Jesus, and those who have followed the Savior since, both the seasoning nature and the illuminating quality were derived: both have their origin with God. The qualities that go to produce such a transforming character are given by Jesus in the context. If one would be salt and light, he must be "poor in spirit" (humble), sympathetic, meek (knowing how and when to submit), "hungry and thirsty for righteousness" (eager for the good things of God), merciful, "pure in heart" (a mind filled only with good thoughts), a peacemaker (rather than stirring up or perpetuating strife), a patient person, one who seeks only the good of (loves), not despises, his fellow human beings, one who, in this same spirit, would never use another for selfish purposes (which is the nature of the sexual relations condemned by the Bible), is always truthful, never seeks vengeance in essence, the more one reflects the qualities of God, our Heavenly Father, the more one is "salt" and "light" (Matthew 5:48).

This is the emphasis throughout the New Testament (Colossians 3:1-4:6; Galatians 5:13-6:10; etc.). How much better life would be upon the earth if only we had more "salt" and more "light"! But such can never be completely, or is ever known in any measure, unless and until those of us who know the true light: Jesus (John 1:4-9) let his radiance shine more completely through us. This comes through "yielding ourselves as instruments of righteousness" (Romans 6:1-23).

"Come, let us reason together" (Isaiah 1:18) about this, and other important subjects, in Bible Study: on Sunday at 9:30, on Wednesday at 7 p.m. and in the Assemblies on Sunday at 10:30 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Our Christian sympathy goes out to the family of Mrs. Ora Jane White, who passed away about 1 p.m. last Sunday. Her funeral was held at Higginbotham Chapel here last Tuesday.

Among those who are still seriously ill are J.W. Lee (son of the Weldon Lees), Walter Fraser, and O.O. Harvey. Opal Hill continues to improve, but is not yet able to be out. Snova Walker is still under treatment in Abilene, although not in the hospital. Leonard Harris and Georgia Crossnoe are slightly better. It was good to have Adrian Jenkins and Minnie Bilby with us again last Sunday, despite their health handicaps. The mother of Bessie Sharp is quite ill. Kate Cooper is still not able to be out, due to a throat condition.

God bless you and give you a good week. Call if we can serve you in any way.

Owen Ailkin

Commentary

by Myrtle Owen

Such a fearful apostasy is on such a horrible "falling away" is apparent among Christian people that many despair of ever again seeing a real Holy Ghost Revival, but Peter, moved by the Holy Ghost, shows us that the prophecy of Joel is indeed for the Church age, which began on the day of Pentecost, and the prophecy of Joel has not yet been completely fulfilled. The great and notable day of the Lord has not been turned into darkness nor the moon into blood. (Acts 2:14-20). (Heb. 10:23, 25). Let us hold fast the profession of our faith without wavering; (for He is faithful that promised). And let us consider one another to provoke unto love and to good works: not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another; and so the much more, as ye see that day approaching. It is absolutely essential that men and women and their families go to church, for there is more faith in the house of God than there is in any other place in the world, all week we wrestle with the problems and battles of life. And we sometimes grow discouraged and become beaten down. But when the preacher is anointed, he seems to say just the right thing to help us believe and release our faith. When you leave God's house, you carry a new strength, and inner light, a deeper knowledge, a stronger determination and a greater faith. This is one reason why the Lord exhorts us not to forsake "the assembling of ourselves together" for worship.

First United Methodist Church

We are now into a time of the year when our thoughts are centered on a man who died some two thousand years ago. According to Luke that dying man said, "Father forgive them, for they know not what they do." With those words, that man transformed the mob around the cross into the human race.

There are few words in the Bible which speak more painfully about the tragic fact of sin. Someone has suggested that sin is really moral stupidity. Regardless of how we as individuals think about sin, there are some things we can do about sin. We can say we are sorry when we sin. We can go around with our heads down, telling everyone we are sorry. We can cry our eyes out. We can offer to make restitution when our sin hurts others. There is however, one thing we cannot do about our sin. We cannot forgive our sin. Only that man, Jesus who died on a cross long ago can help us with that. Why did he die? Because people were too blind to see. People were so dense that they would not hear the truth, did not care about truth and goodness, and so a dying man said, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." There is something haunting about that man, Jesus who died on that cross. During this season of the year there is an uneasy feeling that he knew something that time and the experiences of life have taken away. Yet there are those who continue to find strength, hope and goodness as they follow in his footsteps. We encourage you to follow in his footsteps. You have every thing to gain, and nothing to lose. Be in the church of your choice with your family this Sunday and every Sunday.

Scripture Thought OF THE WEEK

Thou shalt not take up a false report: put not thy hand with the wicked to be an unrighteous witness. Thou shalt not follow a multitude to do evil; neither shalt thou speak in a cause to turn aside after a multitude to wrest justice. (Exodus 23:1,2)
