

Friona man relates how family survived tornado Mendoza and extended family took refuge in nearby shelter

By Martha Toles Frost

Joe Mendoza, of Friona, and his wife, Esther, reached a steel-reinforced concrete shelter in their back yard just before at least three tornados struck above them, smashing their children's mobile homes nearby.

Their daughter Yolanda Martinez, with her husband, Mauricio, waited for the storm to pass and emerged to see their trailer abolished.

The Mendoza's son, Eddie Mendoza, and his three children, along with his wife, Roxanne, also survived the storm but lost their mobile home.

Joe Mendoza's mother, Molly Mendoza, her grandson, Daniel, and his girlfriend left her brick home and went to the shelter as well.

She said that all the windows and doors were blown out of her house and that the whole family probably would have died if they hadn't made it to the shelter.

Seventeen people in all, including David and Elizabeth

Romero and their three children, reached safety just before the storm struck.

Esther Mendoza, who has difficulty walking, was transported to the shelter in one of the family cars. She said that the wind blew an insect into her eye and some glass into her leg. She is recovering from minor injuries.

She said that everyone was standing in the middle of the shelter and the kids were holding on to each other as the tornados that "sounded like a train" passed by above them.

Joe Mendoza said he had seen a tornado before when he was 18 and that four years ago, 35 people packed into his shelter during a tornado watch.

Mendoza has a muffler business, which he will have to rebuild. As of Tuesday, the families' gas, electricity, water, sewage systems and telephones had not been restored.

"But we are glad to be alive. That's the important thing," Mendoza said.

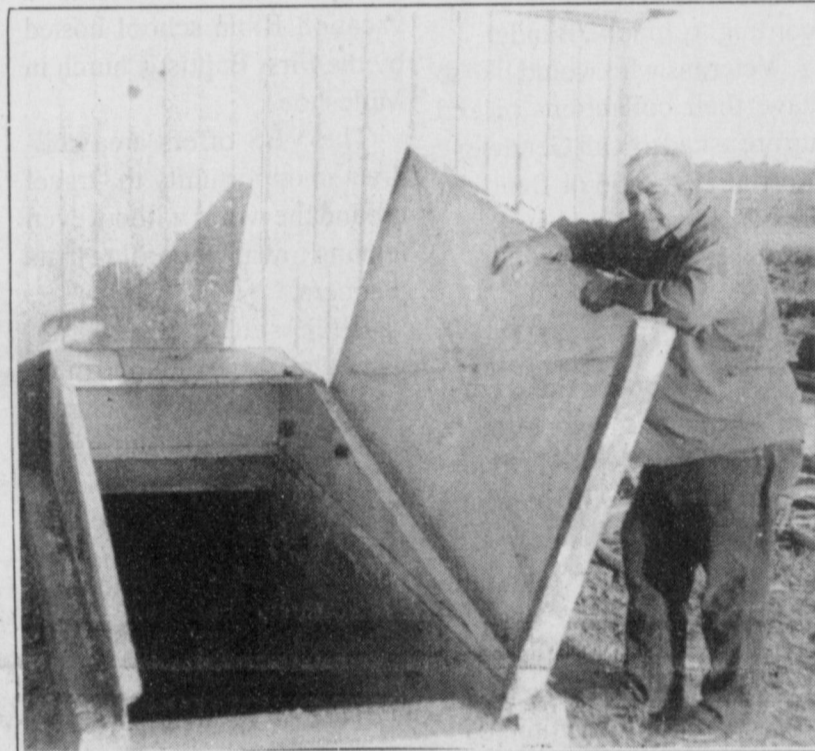

Esther Mendoza said that

Survivors of Friona tornado's devastation

When Joe Mendoza and his family stepped out of the steel-reinforced concrete shelter he had built in case of a disaster, this stairway and ramp were all that was left of a trailer house near his home. Just before he and 16 family members made it to safety, Mendoza saw one tornado with another right behind it coming toward them from .4 miles away at the overpass of Texas 141 South. His son saw a third.

Muleshoe man provides information on pesticide exposure

SIOUX CITY, Iowa — Terra International, Inc. offers growers all the materials, services and training they need to comply with the Environmental Protection Agency's new Worker Protection Standards (WPS).

The new standards are designed to protect agricultural workers from pesticide exposure, and they apply to farmers and seasonal workers, as well as to people who work in greenhouses, nurseries, farm input dealerships and forests.

"From the grower's standpoint, the standards are really a pretty simple set of good safety regulations," according to Terra's location manager, Mike Byrum of Muleshoe.

"Compliance is another matter. Before applying a pesticide, the grower must consult the 'Agricultural Use Requirements' section of the label on the product being used.

"This will inform the grower about restricted entry interval, personal protection equipment, and oral or posted warnings," Byrum said.

A variety of WPS materials are available from Terra, including the EPA's "How To Comply" manual, the official EPA worker training and handler training handbooks and a portable decontamination kit.

The official EPA pesticide safety poster is available, along with plastic-coated field posting signs, towels, mount brackets, tyvek coveralls, waterless hand cleanser, and an emergency phone listing sign.

The company provides a video training tape in both English and Spanish, as well as a hip water flask. WPS materials can be ordered from any Terra farm service location.

Customers can ask for Terra's easy-reference WPS pocket guide, which provides basic information about regulations for crop protection products from many manufacturers.

The guide lists the addresses and phone numbers of regional EPA offices, provides definitions of terms used to describe personal protection equipment and includes alphabetized product-by-product charts listing general information and personal protective equipment requirements.

Many Terra representatives are certified applicators and WPS trainers who can help local growers understand or comply with the worker protection standards.

In addition to materials, WPS training programs also

Catholic men prepare for "Jamaica" in July

Hector Flores (left), Arturo Perez, Arturo Perez, Mario Flores, Noe Anzeldua and Noe Torres (in foreground) have planted trees in the courtyard of Immaculate Conception Catholic Church in Muleshoe in preparation for "Jamaica." Some of the church members have donated $40 per tree for the landscaping. Church members also have built 25 permanent booths for food and games. Although the facility and a new concrete slab will not be finished by July 16 for this year's bazaar, the improvements should be completed in plenty of time for next year's Cinco de Mayo celebration, according to Noe Anzeldua.

Southwestern Public Service Co. upgrades area electric lines

An electric line upgrade should mean better reliability for the Muleshoe area, as well as a boost to the local economy.

Southwestern Public Service Company is upgrading a 69,000 volt transmission line from Littlefield to Farwell. The construction began in February and will continue until mid-August.

As part of the upgrade, SPS will be using concrete poles to support the lines. The new poles weigh 10,000 to 15,000 pounds each and rise 65 to 75 feet above the ground. That compares with the older poles which reached heights of up to 45 feet above the ground. This is the first time that SPS has used concrete poles within its system.

Mike McDearmon, SPS Muleshoe manager, said the new poles will work particularly well with the 69,000 volt line. "These concrete poles are expected to last longer and, because of rising timber prices, are more economical than wood poles," he said.

The upgraded line will also include a "static" line, which helps protect against lightning strikes. McDearmon said that should reduce the number of outages in the area during storms.

Another difference with the upgraded line is that it will not use any crossarms. The lines will be held with strong polymer insulators.

More than 50 people are working on the new line, 40 of whom are staying in local motels, eating at local restaurants and buying gas in Muleshoe. The workers could collectively spend $10,000 a week while they stay in Muleshoe.

"In addition," McDearmon said, "SPS will spend anywhere from $2,000 to $10,000 each week on gas, parts, lumber, tools and more. It could be quite a boost for local business."

Train blown off track at Friona

A 25-car train was blown off the track near Friona when a tornado struck the area on June 9. According to Bill Ellis, publisher of the Friona Star, the engine was the only part of the train that stayed on the track. Ellis said that the engineer and another railroad employee walked away from the wreckage unharmed.

Tiffany Angeley and Brian Boehning

Angeley, Boehning honored at shower

Friends and family gathered Sunday afternoon, June 4, in the home of Cindy Purdy to shower gifts and glad tidings on the coming marriage of Tiffany Angeley and Brian Boehning.

Spring colors were dominant on the refreshment table which was set with a pastel pink linen table cloth, paisley napkins of deeper spring colors, crystal cups, sterling silver coffee service and punch bowl. A sterling silver platter held assorted cookies. Mixed nuts, hot coffee and iced citrus tea were also served. Jill Noble of Canyon and Sherri George of Greely, Colorado, greeted and served guests the refreshments.

The serving table was decorated with a stunning centerpiece designed by Hellen

Adrian. A large white flower basket lined with white dotted swiss was graced with pastel roses, baby's breath, and caladium leaves which were complimented by bountiful helpings of fresh pineapple, strawberries, green and red grapes and carved melon halves filled with melon balls. The basket's handle was accented with a cascade of variegated English ivy and white tulle gathered into a bow which held a small white lace parasol.

Along with many hometown well-wishers, special guests included Sue Boehning of Amarillo, mother of the groom; Valerie Boehning of Canyon, sister-in-law of the groom; Katie McDonald of Pampa, friend of the bride; Pat Angeley, mother of the bride; Krystal Angeley of Lubbock and Misty Angeley, sisters of the bride. Later arriving participants included the father of the bride, Tub Angeley; Bryan Bennett of Lubbock; and Brian Boehning, the groom.

The hostesses' gifts were a KitchenAid Classic Mixmaster and a set of Farberware stainless steel cookware. The hostesses were Hellen Adrian, Jean Allison, Nancy Barnhill, Lynne

Box, Judy Cox, Criss Cleavinger, Venida Collins, Louvenia Garlington, Jo

Harmon, Debbie Jo Kemp, Alice Lies, Barbara Milburn, Ann Mount, Deborah Noble, Cindy Purdy, Lanelle Skaggs, Sandy Turner, Rickie Warren, Pat Watson, Judy Wilbanks, Wanda Wiley and Johanna Wrinkle.

The wedding will be held at the First Baptist Church of Muleshoe on July 15.

Tornado

she had prayed aloud during the brief minutes they spent in the shelter and that her family had laid hands on her in support.

When Joe Mendoza ran around the west side of the house for shelter as his wife was being taken around the east side of the house, he said he saw one tornado at the overpass of Texas 141 South, which is .4 of a mile from where he lives on the south side of Friona.

Then he saw another tornado behind it. When his son, Eddie, closed the door of the storm shelter, he told his father he had seen a third tornado.

The steel porch of the Mendoza's home blew away. Mendoza said he was glad it didn't slam into his mother's brick home next door.

A tree branch came through the wall of their house, a ceiling beam was broken and some of their windows were smashed.

The whole thing lasted less than three to five minutes, Mendoza said. And the separate tornados passed over them only seconds apart.

Speaking of the shelter he had built, Mendoza said, "I knew a tornado would come by eventually, and I wanted to be ready for it."

First United Methodist Church of Muleshoe attends conference in Amarillo

The Eighty-Sixth Session of Annual Conference of the Northwest Texas Conference of the United Methodist Church met at the Amarillo Civic Center, June 1-4. Under the direction of Bishop Alfred L. Norris, 734 people worshipped and sought God's guidance. During the four-day event, Bishop Norris led 291 clergy members and 351 lay members in the business of the conference.

Each day brought new challenges with discussions centered on evangelism, missionary outreach, vision 2000/long range planning, general conference petitions, church extension revitalization and the 1996 budget.

Focused on the theme "Share The Gift," the conference worshipped each day with Dr. Zan Holmes, of Dallas, inspiring his audience. On Friday evening, he touched those assembled when he said, "To those who received the message, they were to come forth to serve." That was just one example of the insights he imparted to those in attendance.

Highlights of the Thursday night business session included reports by the treasurer, statistician, resolutions, council on finance/administration, board of ordained ministry and balloting for general conference. Friday and Saturday, the conference dealt with business items which included reports from board of higher education/campus ministry, board of trusties, United Methodist Women, youth report and nominations report.

Special dinners and meetings were held during the week. The special "Teacher Appreciation Dinner" was held Saturday night, and the keynote address was given by Dr. Leonard Sweet of United Theological Seminary, Dayton, Ohio. He challenged the participants to "Cast your nets on the other side, with no fear!"

The Sunday afternoon ordination service saw four persons ordained elders, and three ordained deacons. Four persons were consecrated as Diaconal Ministers. Bishop Norris challenged the honorees to "Go forth and serve God because you believe that life and work of the ministry."

The closing worship included the giving and receiving of appointments. First United Methodist Church of Muleshoe is please to welcome Dr. James Bell to lead the congregation in the coming year.

The overall atmosphere of the meeting was very positive with great messages delivered by the conference preacher, Dr. Zan W. Holmes, Jr., of Dallas.

The most impressive action included petitions to the Methodist General Conference, serving the Mission programs, and expanding the Methodist ministry with new churches.

Minding Your Own Business

By Don Taylor

During the last few years I've stayed in enough hotels and motels, driven enough rental cars and traversed enough airports to qualify as an experienced judge. Perhaps, with a few more frequent flyer miles I might even qualify as an expert.

One of the most interesting differences I've observed is in the area of hotel/motel accommodations. There are significant differences in price, with precious little difference in the actual value of the product. I've slept soundly in Super 8's at under $40 per night. I've been kept awake by the snoring of a "next-room neighbor" at the Ritz-Carlton at more than $200 per night.

I can find little correlation between price and the quality of an overnight stay. Remember, that value is the received balance of price compared to quality. Therefore, it is pretty hard to equate a $200 sleepless night to real value.

All the rooms I've stayed in have had beds, tables, chairs, desks, lamps, a television and a bathroom. Nearly all mattresses are mediocre. Usually, the bathrooms are adequate. The furniture varies from poor to fair. There is certainly room for improvement.

• Let's make changes.

If I were in charge, I'd make some changes in the way motels do business. First, I'd make the rooms quiet. I don't want to hear my neighbor snore, and I doubt they want to hear me practice my keynote speech.

Next, I'd put an iron and ironing board in the closet of every room for travelers with wrinkled clothes. I'd even throw in a can of spray starch to help remove wrinkles from a starched shirt.

I'd spend a little ore money on quality mattresses. I'd wash the covers occasionally, too.

In the bathroom, I'd add one of those clever little mount-on-the-wall hair dryers and install good lighting. One 40-watt bulb in a thrice-painted-over fixture doesn't get it. Of course, if you light up the bathroom, you have to clean it, too. That's not a bad idea either.

I'd also provide a real desk with a good reading light. The desk should have comfortable chair and extra sheets of writing paper.

I'd put a diagram on the door with directions to the fire exits and ice machines. I'd make the ice buckets large enough to hold more than nine ice cubes.

I'd take the ashtrays out of the non-smoking rooms and make certain the pillows didn't smell like smoke. I'd remove all of those 39 cent plug-in deodorizers.

• Let's cut costs.

I'd reduce the cost of mandatory valet parking to no more than $5 per day. I'd put a ceiling on phone charges of 50 cents per call at the motel end.

We could eliminate the chocolates on the pillow, and no one needs the bed turned down for them. We can apply the savings toward lowering the room rates. Speaking of room rates, I'd be honest about the "lowest" rates I quote.

Recently, while on business, I stayed at one of the premium hotels in Atlanta. When I checked in I questioned the $185 room rate. "That is our special convention rate," the check-in person assured me. I checked in, grateful that someone else was paying the bill. Then, I overheard the clerk at the next counter say to her customer, "This is our special weekend rate of 119 and please remember our free breakfast buffet."

I made a mental note to cross another chain off my list of places to stay when I'm making the decision. I don't believe in charging high prices just because you can. Why, the next thing you know, we'd have more hotel operators in Congress than attorneys.

Host families sought for 1995-96 school year

International Education Forum, IEF, is seeking host families for the 1995-96 academic year. Host families are asked to provide room, board, transportation and guidance to a high school student from European, Scandinavian, Asian or from Eastern Bloc countries.

The students come on three, five- and ten-month programs. Previous and current host families state that hosting an international student is a rewarding experience!

If you are interested in hosting an international student, please contact our regional office at (800)825-8339. We have a coordinator in your area who will be happy to meet with your family to explain how rewarding this inter-cultural experience can be and to answer any questions you may have.

As our world becomes smaller, it is more important than ever that we bridge cultures. Hosting an international teenage student will give you and your family the opportunity to share in the realization of this goal.

If you have ever thought of hosting, call now! A world at peace begins with understanding, and understanding begins with you.

Enochs News

By Mrs. J.D. Bayless

Meagan Stroud of Morton spent Sunday night and Monday with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pollard.

Maribel and Rodney Vasquez and children of Ft. Worth, who are moving to Delaware, visited Friday night with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Snitker. Maribels' brother Robert and his wife, Angie Zamora of Austin, are moving to Dallas.

A guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Blackstone for the weekend was their daughter, Katie McDonald, from Pampa.

Oleta Stanley is home again after surgery at St. Mary's Hospital in Lubbock, where she spent six days.

I was proud to hear that Donnye Baker was able to come home from the hospital in Lubbock. Get well real soon, Donnye.

I was proud of the 3 of rain received Friday evening. Some received a lot of golf-sized hail, while others received more rain that ruined their cotton. The farmers are very busy trying to get their cotton planted.

Ellen visited in the home of a friend, Vera Hodges; a nephew, Jim Swanner; and a sister-in-law, Pruda Coffman at the Hospitality House in Littlefield Thursday.

Rose Nichols attended the 25th wedding anniversary of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Sanderfer, at the Highland Baptist Church in Clovis, NM. The Sanderfers, who live at Garden City, KA, were visiting a daughter at Clovis.

Correction: Kristin Abney was the one who graduated from high school at Lockney instead of Stephaine.

Mr. and Mrs. Royce Feaff met at the home of a brother, Bud, and Sylvia Hargroves at Goree, and her sisters visited with them. They were Alice Harris and Pearl Strickland from Haskell, and Christine Phillips and her daughter Elanie Ruteledge from Odessa. They spent Friday until Tuesday visiting.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Key were in Friona Sunday to see the damage the tornado did there.

Tops News

Tops Chapter No. 34 met at the Muleshoe Church of Christ on Thursday, June 1, 1995, at 6 p.m. Leader Laverne James called the meeting to order. The Tops pledge was recited and the fellowship song was sung. Mrs. James led the group in a prayer.

Billy Jo Davis weight recorder, called the roll with 18 members answering with the amount they had lost or gained. Minutes of the previous meeting were approved as read by Aurora Mata. Ruth Clements gave the treasurer's report. Alma Robertson was named best loser for the week. Runner-up was Lucille Harp.

Monthly best losers are Loretta Lloyd, best loser; Josie Flowers, first runner-up; and Evelene Harris, second runner-up.

The meeting was adjourned with the singing of the good night song.

A Life Is a Terrible Thing To Waste

One advantage to the evening service time change our church adopted a year or two ago is that I now occasionally get to hear CBS commentator Andy Rooney as he closes out "60 Minutes" on Sunday evenings.

I agree with Rooney often, but never more than on the decided that life was meaningless, he chose to waste his own wiped out on drugs and writing repugnant lyrics to songs that would be meaningless if they weren't worse. Assisted by greedy handlers who stayed sober enough to count profits, he marketed his mental filth by selling truckloads of tapes and CDs filled with "songs" that are profane, rude, hateful, and offensive by any standard.

When will our society learn that ideas have consequences? Our thinking about life, about God, about meaning, about who we are and why we are here, matters. Our answers to those questions become the basis on which we chart the direction of our lives—and our society.

The Kurt Cobains of our world are more than willing to market their own blindness. Why we make millionaires out of them and cry when they're gone is beyond me. (It makes me wonder what we've been smoking ourselves!) A society that stomachs this stuff deserves the bitter harvest it reaps.

But we have a choice. We can buy their product and their philosophy and wallow with them in blind despair, or we can focus on the Author of Life and allow Him to fill our lives with beauty and meaning. It's our choice.

Curtis Shelburne is minister of the 16th & Avenue D Church of Christ in Muleshoe.

evening he talked about the life and death of Kurt Cobain, who, until he ended his own pathetic life, was the lead singer for the hard rock (and mostly stoned) group, Nirvana.

Rooney noted that on the same day Cobain took the final step, the logical end of his morally bankrupt life, a prize-winning scientist and university professor (whose name I can't recall) died. The man had devoted his long life and career to the pursuit of knowledge and the betterment of humanity. Rooney figured he'd save his tears for the professor whose death was a genuine loss. Me, too.

I don't know when Kurt Cobain started flunking tests, but I know he bombed out on life's most important ones. Having

Is something wrong with your life - an inner restless dissatisfaction? The answer to every human problem comes only from God our Maker. He alone can forgive and reassure. Through the church God has committed the provisions and proclamation of His forgiveness and redeeming love. Without a church relation no one is securely related to God. Everyone should be in the Church and the Church in everyone!

'95 Sudan Seniors enjoy lock-in after graduation

SUDAN — Sudan High School graduates and their parents and guests enjoyed a substance-free night following graduation Friday, May 26.

Following a graduation dance, the dads competed for the title of "Miss Hustlin' Hornet." The winners, Kyle Martin and Dennis Whitley, will return next year to crown their successor.

The group then viewed a slide show featuring the class members and their accomplishments, which had been prepared by their parents. Included in their accomplishments were six state championships—one in band, one in boys' track, one in football, one in boys' basketball, and two in girls' basketball.

The group played volleyball and basketball, then participated in an entertaining hour of casino games prepared by parents and class sponsors. Parents provided food throughout the evening, including breakfast burritos.

Enticements for the seniors spending the evening with their classmates in a safe environment were prizes donated by local businesses. Muleshoe's businesses contributing to this effort were Family Hair Salon, Higginbotham-Bartlett Lumber Company, J&L Fashions, Joe's Boot Shop, Leal's Restaurant, Pizza Hut, Sheree's Attic, Something Special, Sonic, the Art Loft and Western Drug.

The support of the Muleshoe Community in helping provide a safe, substance-free graduation night for the senior class of '95 of Sudan High School is greatly appreciated by the students, parents and administration.
