

NAZIS REPORT FINAL SURRENDER OF WARSAW

Soviet-German Military Pact Rumored As High Officials Confer In Moscow

French Claim Further Gain In The West

Artillery Said To Have Wiped Out Part Of Siegfried Line

PARIS, Sept. 27 (AP)—French artillery was reported today to have wiped out portions of the German Siegfried Line between Metz and Saarbruecken as the entire western front blazed with heavy cannonading.

Counter Fire Dispatches said the Germans had answered the bombardment with an intense counterfire on French advance positions in the Saar and Palatine areas to protect Nazi troops working feverishly to rebuild shattered blockhouses.

A communique issued this morning by the general staff made no reference to this reported success, and said the night had been "calm."

The communique made mention, however, of "enemy artillery fire on our rear lines in the region of Wissembourg."

The Metz-Saarbruecken sector extends along a 25-mile front at the northern end of the French-German frontier, where, French sources said, there were 30 to 40 German pill boxes to the square mile.

French military men were said long to have held the belief these works constructed to hurriedly stand up under heavy bombardment.

Reports from the front said the French air force was proving a large factor in enabling the artillery to score direct hits on the German fortified line.

French infantry activity, these reports declared, was confined to patrol skirmishes.

Long range German guns were reported to have dropped "several shells" on unidentified villages which previously had gone untouched. The artillery action, the French said, could be characterized as a "duel."

They declared they had been unable to verify reports of the bombing of the German airplane works at Friedrichshafen early in the week, but revised upward their estimates of the number of German planes shot down during an air battle over the western front Monday.

New information, they said, showed "almost certainly" that four German planes were brought down. French losses were still estimated at two planes.

Fate Of Small Countries Is Speculated

Balkan-Near Eastern Bloc May Be Headed Up By Turkey

MOSCOW, Sept. 27 (AP)—Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop of Germany arrived today for talks with the Soviet government amid unconfirmed reports of a Soviet-German military pact was under consideration.

Royal Welcome Three planes bearing the German delegation landed from Berlin to be greeted by a brass band and an honor guard, touches that were missing when Von Ribbentrop arrived Aug. 23 to sign the Soviet-German non-aggression pact.

The coming of Germany's foreign minister, coupled with the presence in Moscow of the Turkish foreign minister, caused diplomatic circles to speculate on possible developments rivaling in importance the German-Soviet Russian non-aggression pact.

These developments, said diplomatic circles, might include: 1—Signing of a German-Soviet military agreement.

2—Formation of a new Balkan-Near Eastern bloc under the guidance of Turkey and Russia.

3—A joint German-Soviet request that Turkey act as intermediary in attempts to negotiate peace in western Europe.

The purpose of the visit of German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, said Tass, official Russian news agency, was to discuss "problems connected with developments in Poland."

Moscow observers thought it significant, however, that Von Ribbentrop should time his journey to coincide with the presence of Turkish Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu.

While the impending visit of the Nazi official occupied the center of the stage, there was speculation on the possibility Russia may have made strong demands for maritime rights upon her little Baltic neighbor, Estonia.

A government communique issued last night accused Estonia of harboring unidentified submarines in her waters, and declared an Estonian explanation of the escape of the interned Polish submarine Orzel from the harbor of Tallinn had proved "unsatisfactory."

It was expected here that Karl Selter, Estonian foreign minister, who arrived suddenly in Moscow Sunday and left hurriedly for Tallinn Monday, would return to

Bergdoll Returned To U. S. Twice To Get Gold, He Testifies

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, World War draft dodger, testified today he returned to the United States twice from his self-imposed exile in Germany and recovered $100,000 in gold he had hidden before his arrest.

Bergdoll went on trial before a general court martial today on charges of desertion and escape from a military prison. The court consists of 13 high ranking army officers.

Bergdoll said his first trip back to the United States was in 1929 when he returned, by way of Montreal, under the name of Joseph A. Mann, a hotel porter.

He entered the United States through the Rouses Point, N. Y. immigration station, stayed overnight in Trenton, N. J. and went to Philadelphia the next day.

He hid himself in the home of his mother, Mrs. Emma Bergdoll, he said, and returned to Germany on the liner Bremen in 1933.

When he left here to go back to Germany, Bergdoll said, he used the name of Bennett Nash—the name he used when he returned voluntarily last May to surrender.

In October, 1933, Bergdoll testified, he sailed from Southampton on the Empress of Britain, again using the name of Bennett Nash and again came into the United States by way of Rouses Point.

He returned to Europe aboard the German liner Europa. Bergdoll upset the widely publicized story of the pot of gold buried in the Maryland hillsides. It was "buried," he said, in a closet in his mother's home.

Steps to insure further traffic safety in the school zone were taken Tuesday evening, as the city commission authorized installation of additional traffic lights.

A stop-and-go signal will be put in at Johnson and Eleventh, at the corner of the high school grounds, to replace the present flicker light. In addition, stop-and-go lights will be installed at Johnson and Tenth and Bennett and Tenth.

Commissioners had before them Tuesday night a request that the two-hour parking limit be suspended on Saturdays. They were in agreement, however, that the suspension should not be authorized, that the parking limit is more necessary on Saturdays than any other days.

The city formally added its support to the southwestern program for equalization of freight rates, commissioners voting to contribute $25 to the Freight Rate Equalization federation, organization which is directing the activity.

Victory Over British Naval Unit Claimed

Sinking Of Another Aircraft Carrier Is Indicated

BERLIN, Sept. 27 (AP)—The German high command announced tonight that 'Warsaw has capitulated unconditionally' and added that the 'handing over of the city probably will occur Sept. 29.'

The announcement came several hours after an earlier communique declaring that Warsaw's defenders, 'under the thrust' of German assaults begun yesterday, had offered this morning to surrender.

BERLIN, Sept. 27 (AP)—Germany's supreme command declared today Warsaw's defenders had offered to surrender and that the Nazi forces had 'successfully attacked' several British warships in the North Sea.

The command's communique said of the airplane-naval encounter, yesterday 'in the middle part of the North sea':

'Besides one airplane carrier which has been destroyed, several severe hits were scored on one battleship. Our airplanes sustained no losses.'

In Berlin this was interpreted to mean that a second British aircraft carrier—the Courageous, sunk September 17, being the first—had been destroyed. But the communique did not name the British vessel.

'Battleships, airplane carrier, cruisers, destroyers' were in the British unit attacked, the communique asserted.

These claims of victory were made as Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop carried forward the Nazi diplomatic campaign by flying to Moscow for negotiations expected to have important bearing on eastern Europe's future.

The Warsaw garrison's offer to field, the supreme command declared, came—in the 20th day of the Polish capital's siege—"under the thrust" of German assaults which yesterday carried "the first line of fortresses in the north and the second line of fortresses in the south."

The Polish commander, the communique said, "this forenoon offered to surrender the city and the military force," and the chief of the German army commissioned General Johannes von Blaskowitz to conduct negotiations for the capitulation.

It was presumed here that these negotiations were still in progress. Warsaw last capitulated to an enemy Aug. 5, 1915, when the Russians left the city without offering stout resistance to German armies. In the previous October, the Russians had successfully defended the city.

Again in August, 1920, Warsaw was besieged, this time by a Red army in the Russian-Polish war.

Terrific Assault Razing Warsaw, But Few Defenders 'Holding Out'

BUDAPEST, Sept. 27 (AP)—The Warsaw radio, describing a terrific German aerial and artillery assault on the beleaguered Polish capital, today told Britain and France "we are holding out."

The station broadcast a special message to the Polish ambassadors in Paris and London that though Warsaw "is rased" after almost three weeks of siege "we expect aid will be forthcoming from our allies."

At 2:45 p. m. (8:45 a. m. EST) the station announcer said the Warsaw sky was "blackened" by 200 German warplanes. He described the capital as a "destroyed inferno."

The announcer declared "more than 3,000 civilians" had been killed in the past 24 hours. Polish troops defending the capital were said to have repulsed all German land attacks.

(A German communique in Berlin declared, however, Warsaw's defenders had offered to surrender.)

'Warsaw has been virtually rased,' said the radio announcer declaring, however, that "the morale of the population is excellent and we will never give in while one of us still is alive."

Speaking at 2:15 p. m. (7:15 a. m. CST) he reported German bombing planes were throwing incendiary bombs into the center of the city.

Communication within the capital was described as impossible "because of the fires and universal wreckage."

'The food situation is tragic,' said the announcer. "Our last hospital was destroyed by German shells today."

Fears of an epidemic because of water shortage added to the horrors of the beleaguered capital. Dead and wounded were said to be lying in the capital's streets because of the breakdown of all transportation and communication.

TURBANS STEP INTO STYLE

Turbans are going to be worn with many a smart afternoon frock this winter. Walter Florell does this pair. The top one, draped to two suave points, is done in Indian silk. The other, of dark blue and "wet grass" green velvet has a deep skull-cap back that extends almost to the nape of the neck and is finished with a great chous on top.

Jean, Bobbie and William Bryant, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Payne, over the weekend. Mrs. C. R. Loudermilk and children, Bobby Nedd, Margaret, and Sue Nell, and Mrs. G. O. Rice, all of Big Spring visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. F. King Tuesday.

Mrs. Cecil Tumbleson and Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Loudermilk and children all of Big Spring were Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Rice. Mrs. Rube Nixon and son, George, Mrs. J. H. Lemmons, and Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Wheeler and daughters, Roberta and Dora Lee, visited Mrs. Della Lay and Mrs. L. A. Wheeler of Coahoma Friday.

WHO'S WHO IN THE NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Parks have as a guest their daughter, Mrs. Claude Sommers of Fort Worth. Mr. and Mrs. Parks and Mrs. Sommers have gone to Lubbock today where they will visit with Wendell Parks, a student at Tech.

Mrs. A. E. Casey of Fort Worth and Jane Clinkcales of Itasca are making an extended visit here with Mr. and Mrs. Clinkcales. Mr. and Mrs. Coy Cook and daughter left today for Midland where they will make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hurt have as guests her mother, Mrs. E. E. Hall, and sister, Mrs. Will D. Miller, and brother, Elbert E. Hall and daughter, Carol, all of Abilene. They will be here several days.

MISS 'LANE' NOTES By Mary Whaley

"Hitler replies to Chamberlain in broadcast." "Congressman raps O'Daniel in morning address." "Russian leader tells if the rest of the world at 9:15 o'clock." The thought just occurred, how would these so-called leaders of the country know what was going on if their radio went dead in the middle of the speech? It must be awful too, to know that you can't listen to the "Funny Man's Hour" because at that time, someone is going to tell the world what he thinks of you. Then maybe the static is bad at it sometimes is and it must be a trial on a dictator to not be sure whether someone called him a genius or a nemesis. "Course, we realize we are just ordinary folks but suppose the phone rang, like ours always does, or the ice man came to collect. We never did listen to any program on the air that we were really interested in that something didn't happen. Times were when statesmen delivered notes in short crisp sentences and all the man on the receiving end had to do was to be there when the mail came in. There could be no doubt as to the name and he was called because there it was in black and white. Times are tough these days. A spade is no longer called a spade, it comes over the ether with double meaning and you got to be good to understand it.

Culbertson Study Club Includes Two Guests

Mrs. Otis Graf and Mrs. H. W. Whitney were included as guests of the Culbertson Study club when members met Tuesday at the Settles hotel with Mrs. C. J. Staples as hostess. Luncheon was served and the bridge games followed. Mrs. Graf won high score for guests and Mrs. Staples for members and Mrs. R. H. Miller big end. Others present were Mrs. M. E. Allen, Mrs. L. L. Freeman, Mrs. W. E. McAllen, Mrs. L. R. Terry, Mrs. W. N. Thurston, Mrs. Des Davis, Mrs. John Whitmore and Mrs. John Griffin.

Vari-Color Dahlias Decorate At Sewing Club Party Here

Bronze, red, and white dahlias decorated the entertaining rooms Tuesday when Mrs. E. M. Conley was hostess to the Needle Painters club in her home. Sewing provided diversion for the afternoon and an ice course was served. Carol Conley assisted her mother with the serving. Attending were Mrs. Faye Harding, Mrs. Irene Wiley, Mrs. H. E. Howie, Mrs. Jake Bishop, Mrs. S. M. Smith, Mrs. Lorin McDowell, Mrs. J. E. Friend, Mrs. H. W. Smith, Mrs. Merle Dempsey, and Mrs. Nell Hilliard. Mrs. Dempsey is to be next hostess.

Women: "Build-Up" To Relieve Pain

A weak, run-down, undernourished condition calls for attention! Such a condition often enables functional dysmenorrhea to get its foothold. That's one thing which leads to much of women's suffering from headaches, nervousness, those cramp-like pains. A good way to relieve such pains, women by thousands have found, is by the proper use of CARDUI. It stimulates a lagging appetite, assists digestion and assimilation; thus helps build physical resistance to periodic pain. Taken just before and during "the time," many women also report that CARDUI lessens the pain and discomfort of the period.—adv.

"Back To School" Theme Is Used At Dinner-Bridge Club

Notebooks and pencils were given as favors to set a "back to school" theme when Mrs. Jim Zack entertained the Tuesday Dinner Bridge club last night at the Settles hotel. A bowl of sinners centered the table and guests were Miss Katie Gilmore and Mrs. B. Housewright. New members of the club who have been named are Mrs. John Gilman, Miss Edith Gay, Miss Stella Flynn, and Mrs. O. C. Goodwin. Miss Gilmore won high score and Mrs. George Crothwaite received second high score. Others present were Miss Emily Bradley, Mrs. W. H. Summ-rin, Mrs. D. M. McKinney, Mrs. Harold Steck and Mrs. Henry Covert. Mrs. R. L. Beale will be next hostess.

Pledge Ritual Given Mrs. LeFevre By Beta Sigma Phi

Mrs. Ben LeFevre led the discussion on the constitution and by-laws and a round-table discussion was held when Beta Sigma Phi Sorority met Tuesday evening at the Settles hotel for dinner and business.

Types of memberships were told and officers read their duties to the sorority. Chairmen of committees also told of their duties. Mrs. LeFevre was given the pledge ritual and pin. The next meeting is to be held on Oct. 3rd in the home of Elizabeth Northington. Others present were Marguerette Alderson, Jimmie Lou Goldman, Mrs. Burns, La Fern Delinger, Mrs. S. R. Auditorium Rate Change Under Study

A new schedule of rates on use of the municipal auditorium, submitted by City Manager E. V. Spence at the request of commissioners, was with members of the city council today for study before final action is taken. The schedule, not official until the council does act, follows a similar system to that now in effect; in other words, varying charges are made conditioned upon whether the auditorium is used by local or out-of-town interests; whether for profit or advertising; whether for community purposes, political, religious use, etc.

In many instances, use of the auditorium is free, and the city manager reported at a commission meeting Tuesday evening that for this year, and that during summer months this sum is $18.93, winter months $26.02. The difference comes in electric power for operating hot-air blowers, and gas for fuel. The costs do not include replacements, repairs, insurance or wear and tear on the building and equipment.

Oklahoma To Ask Injunction On Denison Dam

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—Oklahoma asked the supreme court today to enjoin the federal government from proceeding with construction of a dam and reservoir across the Red river between Denison, Texas, and Durant, Okla. Attorney General Mac Q. Williamson of Oklahoma contended in a petition that the state had not given its consent to the construction and that the federal government to proceed would be a violation of state rights. Secretary of War Woodring, against whom the petition was directed, was said to have completed plans for the dam and reservoir and to be acquiring rights of way. The petition will be presented formally to the justices next Monday.

HOBOS BOYCOTT THE AGGRESSORS

DULUTH, Minn., Sept. 27 (AP)—America's hoboes have gone democratic. They've ousted Jeff Davis as king, and replaced him with Dr. (of hobo-ology) J. Leon Lazarowitz as president. And they've taken a stand against "aggressor nations" and for United States neutrality.

The 72 delegates to the annual convention of the Rambling Hobo Fellowship of America here yesterday, suspected Davis paid train fare for a ride from Dayton, O., to Cincinnati.

World conditions being what they are, the title of king went with him. Henceforth the ruler of the fellowship will be plain president. About international affairs: Dr. Lazarowitz issued a statement, received with cheers, opposing repeal of the arms embargo and calling on all hoboes to boycott five nations he termed aggressors—Japan, Italy, Turkey, Russia and Germany.

Maps, key to all successful military operations, were transmitted by wire to field troops for the first time in history at the recent Plattburgh N. Y., maneuvers of the U. S. army. AN ANALYSIS OF THE WAR DEVELOPMENTS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
We may know a good deal more within a few hours about the trend of the European war, as the result of the projected Russo-German-Turkish parley at Moscow. This meeting is potentially the most important political development since the signing of the Russo-German anti-aggression pact which was drum-major for ushering in the conflict.

We may get a better line on whether oil and water finally have been made to mix, that is, on the depth of the new-born communist-brotherhood (if any). Some observers believe the question of a military alliance between Germany and Russia may even arise—an eventuality which would have a momentous effect on the situation and naturally would be a blow to the Anglo-French allies. Strangely enough, French Premier Daladier chose the eve of this conference to challenge the Muscovites by taking the extreme step of decreeing dissolution of France's big communist party and outlawing communist propaganda. This move is said to represent his reaction to the Russo-German anti-aggression pact and the Soviet occupation of eastern Poland.

Moscow and other capitals figure will be likely to come up for ironing out at the three-cornered conversations. These include:

1. Whether there shall be a small "buffer" state between Nazi Poland and Soviet Poland, this buffer presumably representing all that remains of the Polish nation of a month ago. One cannot pass this point without noting the surrender of Warsaw today—black-out of a splendid old city after one of the most gallant and dramatic defenses in history. Mayhap the Russians and Germans may see fit to restore Warsaw to its position as Polish capital—if there is to be any Poland.
2. Possible signing of a Russo-German military alliance, to bring the Soviet's great army and tremendous resources into the conflict against the Allies. Here it should be noted Moscow has announced its neutrality.
3. Formation of a neutral Balkan bloc under Russian influence and led by Turkey, which has developed into a sort of bell-wether for the uneasy Balkans.
4. Making of a pact between Russia and Turkey under which the latter would forbid passage of the Dardanelles (gateway to the Black sea) to any nation hostile to the Soviet.

Rumania Cut Off
Observers have noted this might cut Britain and France off from carrying aid to Rumania, which lies on this inland sea.

Whatever may come of this conference, the general set-up and problems on hand only serve to emphasize the dominant position which Russia has acquired almost overnight in eastern Europe and the Balkans.

The Russian occupation of eastern Poland raises a pretty problem for the Anglo-French Allies. Under the Anglo-French mutual assistance pact, the Allies are bound to do their utmost to restore Poland to its former state of sovereignty. This means the Allied objective must be to eject not only Germany but, unless the Soviet Union should voluntarily withdraw, to compel it to do so.

The Allies haven't chosen to make an official issue of the Russian occupation as yet, since that would be challenging the Soviet to war, and they have as much war as they need already. However, if and when they have defeated Nazism they are pledged to have a go at Russia, should that country persist in its occupation of Polish territory.

Communism Comes In
Meantime, however, the three-fifths of Poland occupied by Soviet troops reportedly being rapidly Sovietized. The "workers and peasants" are busy disposing of capitalists and landed proprietors, and are dividing up the big estates. (Communism appears to be sweeping this part of Poland.)

So actually the Allies never will be able to restore Poland to its original condition, even if they get the territory back. A Polish house divided against itself—largely communist and partly old regime—must fall. But if the Russian occupation presents a problem to the Allies, it is equally a matter of anxiety for Herr Hitler. Unless the Russo-German negotiations in Moscow result in the establishment of a buffer Polish state, the Nazi chieftain will have right up against his borders the communism which he has damned and fought throughout his career. If Herr Hitler was right in saying communism was a danger to Germany before, it is ten fold so now.

Legion Avoids A Stand On Neutrality

CHICAGO, Sept. 27 (AP)—The policy framers of the American Legion entered the business session of the 21st annual convention today with a "pronouncement" demanding congress continue in session during the European war crisis, but avoided specific recommendation for neutrality legislation. Following a debate last night on a sub-committee's report, the convention foreign relations committee of 82 adopted unanimously an expression of views relating to neutrality and national preparedness, which the personnel chose to designate a "pronouncement" rather than a resolution.

Ray Murphy, of Iowa, past national commander and committee chairman, said the subjects doubtless would be brought into open discussion today. "The American Legion views with the greatest concern the apparently widespread belief that this nation must inevitably become involved in the present European conflict," the pronouncement read. "We not only believe that this nation need not become involved, but insist and demand that the president xxx and the congress pursue a policy that while preserving the sovereignty and dignity of this nation will prevent involvement in this conflict."

"The American Legion has always strenuously advocated that this nation pursue a policy of neutrality and peace. In the present world crisis world conditions may change so rapidly that a pronouncement by the American Legion at this time on specific legislation may be wholly inadequate in the near future." The committee counseled congress to continue in session during the European crisis and demanded that "appropriate action be taken to preserve the peace of this nation and that our armed forces be expanded immediately to maintain our neutrality."

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor and one of several speakers, told the Legionnaires participation of the United States in a foreign war would jeopardize the principles of freedom and democracy. Green urged the nation to remain unyieldingly aloof from armed strife across the seas, holding itself "in readiness to serve in a mediation capacity and to render unselfish service when such service may be badly needed." Green condemned nazism and communism, declaring the "dictators" of Germany and Russia "were brought together in a common cause and for a common purpose."

PEACE—For his efforts in fostering commercial peace between American republics, Secretary of State Cordell Hull was given this medal. Donor was Inter-American Commercial Arbitration commission, created to settle trade disputes.

October 8, 1914: Antwerp falls and is occupied by the Germans on the following day. The surrender of the city releases two German army corps that are hurried south to meet the Belgian and British troops sent to relieve the Antwerp force. The Allies retire before the advancing German right wing toward Neuport and Ypres.

THIRD CONVICTED IN POISON DEATHS
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 27 (AP)—A twice-married 45-year-old woman defendant in the eastern states insurance-murder cases was convicted today with the death sentence mandatory. The woman, Mrs. Grace Giovanetti, fainted yesterday as she denied poisoning her former husband, a grocer, but she received the first degree murder verdict without any outward show of emotion. Mrs. Giovanetti is the third person and the second woman convicted in the murders.

WORLD SERIES
Here's baseball at its best, the final annual contest between the winning teams of the two strongest leagues. The first World Series was won by Providence vs. the Metropolitan in 1884. The National League, organized in 1875, was forerunner to hundreds of other leagues, all conducted on the same rules. The American League, organized in 1900, began as a rival, later reached an agreement and now works in harmony with the former. 200,833 fans paid $851,166, to see the Yanks take four straight from the Cubs in 1938, attesting in no uncertain terms the popularity of this great series with all Americans.

No, you couldn't do what we wanted to do, and do it cheap. You couldn't set out to top the field, focusing on how much you could put in rather than take out—and with accustomed equipment keep costs down. You couldn't micro-balance engines, heavy-up frames and running gear, strengthen bodies, enrich upholstery and fittings, improve performance, better the value per inch, per pound and per dollar—and do it with last year's methods. So we—faced it, re-tooled and renewed our vast modern plant all over again—put eight million new dollars on the line; the Buick line for 1940. What did we get for it? Rather ask, what do you get? Listen. You get a big beautiful brawny car styled to knock your eye out—the fashion pattern for them all next year, just look around and see. You get a car that positively glitters in its brilliance of action, modern as television in the wondrous way it does things.

To The South Of Us

One news item keeps recurring regularly in the press these days. The language varies slightly and the date and point of origin of the story changes, but the import is always the same: "War closes European markets to South American goods."

That item is usually buried beneath some spectacular and sensational story of blood and thunder from Europe's psychopathic zone, but it should be read by Texans with more interest than any other war news.

The South American countries can't sell their goods to Germany any more, for more reasons than one: They can't get them there, and they can't get paid for them anyway.

So Texas, looking straight across the Gulf of Mexico to Central and South America, has a golden opportunity. This is the time when we should be learning Spanish and good manners, when we should be fraternizing with the boys below the border, when we should be sending salesmen south, when we should be encouraging students from the American nations to use Texas schools—in short, when we should be "making time" with our neighbors.

There was a bill in the last legislature to offer the facilities of Texas universities to students from our southern neighbors on a reciprocal basis—one that would send some Texas students to Central and South American schools. Governor O'Daniel opposed that bill, if we remember rightly, because he said we should educate all Texans first. That sounded very patriotic and noble, but Texans who want, and can take a college education can get it. Bringing a few Latin American students here would have been a gesture that would have paid great dividends.

As one whose avowed ambition is to industrialize the state, it might have been supposed that O'Daniel would have seen the inherent possibilities in such a procedure. As one well-versed in flour-selling, it might have been supposed he would have seen the selling angle. Apparently he did not. But it's not too late.

The European observers talk of a "long war." Let's utilize the time and the opportunity to entrench ourselves in Latin America while our commercial competitors are busy with military affairs which are no concern of ours.

George Tucker

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—New York isn't the most fascinating city in the world or even in the United States, but it can come close to satisfying your needs and offering you 20 kinds of enchantment if you care enough to go in search for it.

You can sit at a table in the sidewalk cafes and watch people go past by the hour, stragglers, foreigners, champagne salesmen from France, coffee salesmen from Brazil, organ grinders, soldiers, and that occasional phenomenon, someone you used to go to school with a long, long time ago.

You can stand in West street and see the strangely empty shipping lanes, or stand in South street, and await sailing orders for her shakedown cruise. Destroyers and cruisers and submarines are always in evidence.

But if the waterfront bores you, there is always the parade of the little show biddies—young girls who are dancers and who have jobs in musical comedies or in night clubs, or girls just like them who have their jobs. You can always tell them. They are perhaps the smartest dressed girls in America—not from the standpoint of affluence, but from necessity. Show girls must dress well in New York, and they have learned to dress well on little. They may be a shade too theatrical in make-up... their artificial eyelashes are sometimes a good two inches in length, which is just a wee bit too long according to your taste in eyelashes... but they are bright and trim and cheery. And you never see them without the tall-tale handbag, the identification badge of girls in the line. These bags carry make-up, a pair of dancing shoes, and probably shorts, or something loose and free to rehearse in. They may get an assignment and go into rehearsal on 20 minutes' notice. If they had to go home for clothes some other girl would probably get the job.

I like New York because it is impersonal. You can take it or leave it, and believe me, it can take you or leave you. It has a thousand voices, and yet if you want it, too, it will be as silent as the tomb. New Yorkers all know the trick of shutting out the world. You can pass by half-constructed buildings where riveters and trip-hammers are screaming, and scarcely notice them.

Except in isolated instances, New York is quite ugly to look upon. There never is beauty in too much concrete and steel. A medieval town, perhaps, with turrets and spires, but not a modern city. Think of an oblong rock that is quite barren of vegetation, except for an oblong square in the center. Imagine a million square boxes on that rock, some merely tall, others towering. That is Manhattan. But sometimes the blue mist of enchantment steals over the city. Sometimes at twilight something gets into the air that you can't define, except that it leaves you with a sense of expectancy, an inexplicable knowing that something is about to happen. You look at those boxes on the slab of rock, which is Manhattan, and there, as some one has said, like that—ten thousand windows suddenly flower!

After A Man's Heart by JEAN RANDALL

Chapter 20 RATTLESAKE "Listen, Tim," George said presently, sitting on the bed and holding one shoe in his hand. "If I hear a rattlesnake rattling, I don't inquire into his motive. I don't even pause to find out if he's annoyed with me or with a chipmunk that's crossed its trail. I just tell myself it's a rattler, and I light out for other parts. Unless," he finished deliberately, "I happen to have a stout stick close at hand, in which case—" "That's enough!" Tim's voice and eyes were angry. "Iris didn't behave well toward me—toward us both last summer; but she's not the menace you're trying to make me believe. Talk to her yourself—" "Not me!" George tied a shoestring smartly, put on the other shoe, and stood up. "There's an old proverb my grandfather used to remind me of: if a mule kicks you once, it's his fault; twice, it's your own. It makes no difference to me if the mule in this case has all the beauty and charm in the world. I'm staying outside the range of its heels." "Tim controlled his rising wrath. "Look here, George, you and I are good friends. You stuck to me through a lot. I owe you more than I can say. But not even you can call the girl I love a rattlesnake and a mule—" Anger retreated before the absurdity of it. Both men burst into a shout of laughter, and for the time being the subject was dropped. "Tim took Iris to call upon Buff, a sweet and wifely Iris, charmingly courteous to the younger girl, quick to admire the big living room which as the weeks went by had taken on more and more of a look of home. Buff for her part, though polite, was detached. Tim was uneasily aware that she had retreated, in some feminine and cryptic way, he could not find the Buff he knew so well. For the first time he saw her, not as a headstrong child but as a sophisticated young person who kept a composed hold upon the tea table talk. "Tim tried to tell Iris something of his stay at the ranch. Buff smiled and returned the conversation to Boulder, its delightful views, its educational advantages. Tim seized upon Lance Carroll and attempted to describe him to Iris who evinced a pretty enthusiasm on the subject. Buff suavely countered by a question concerning Iris's own plans for the future. "At last baffled and bewildered by undercurrents he could not in the least perceive, let alone avoid, Tim sat back in his big chair and let the two girls chat as they would. "You're staying at the hotel indefinitely?" Buff inquired. "That," said Iris sweetly, "depends on Tim. I suppose you know our story, Buff—you will let me call you Buff, won't you? I can't be formal with anyone who has been so kind to my Tim—it's romantic and a bit incredible, but I assure you it's all true." "Irrepressible Iris Buff cocked her head, spaniel fashion. Tim knew it for a danger signal and stirred uneasily. "You're Tim? Is the engagement announced then? I hadn't seen it in the papers. And I have cause to know," she said with a soft laugh, "that very little escapes the papers in this town!" Iris threw Tim an imploring look. "It's—it's for Tim to say, don't you think? Under the circumstances—" Tim squared his shoulders. "I was under the impression we had already said all that was necessary just now! We agreed, I think, Iris, to let matters rest as they are—for a time, at least." Buff cheered him silently. She had measured the strength of her adversary with canny eyes and knew it to be great. Iris was the sort of woman whose appeal is well-nigh irresistible. Hearing the cadences of her lovely voice, seeing the whiteness of her skin, the natural crimson of her mouth, the absolute genius in the way she wore her clothes, the younger girl wondered that Tim had not succumbed a second time to her. She compared herself, most unfavorably, with Iris: her trim sport clothes with the expensive frock the older girl wore; her small hands, still bearing the summer's tan, with Iris's delicate white ones; her unruly waves with Iris's sleek black hair, her somewhat abrupt movements with Iris's grace. "Poor old Tim," she mused. "No wonder he fell, and fell hard, for this charmer! But she shan't have him—she's not certain she shall! She's a fake, through and through. She wants to hear Miss DeMuth's equally cordial acceptance. Tim, as Buff fully realized, knew little of girls! Buff was not surprised to receive a visit from George Weekes almost on the heels of this call. George had passed from annoyance to anxiety. He yearned to pour out his troubles. He was glad to hear that the girls had met, that Buff recognized the genuine man-ge Iris was to a man of Tim's type. "Why she's here I don't know," he said, his clasped hands swinging between his knees. "But whatever it is, it's not going to do old Tim any good—having her here in Boulder. I mean, I think—this is just my impression, but I do honestly think, Buff, that he won't be quite the easy mark for her he was last time. At any rate, he's said nothing about being engaged to her, and that's a good sign. But I wish she'd go climb Long's Peak and fall off," he said unchivalrously. "Was it is now, she'll keep him dangling at the end of her string until she's accomplished her purpose—whatever that purpose is." Buff was thoughtful. "What do you think it is, George? I don't know just how much she paid for the land—" "Buying Tim's Favor" "Twenty thousand," was the answer. "Tim and I each put in five of our own money, ten of the firm's—firm of Corlies and Weekes; that made twenty altogether. I should say that it's worth about fifteen hundred—if that much. And lookit, Buff! I didn't have to pay Nesbit twenty thousand. We'd told him to sell it for what he could get out of it. In our wildest dreams we didn't expect to get more'n a couple of thousand. But Iris walks into the office, tells Nesbit she's prepared to pay twenty thousand if he'll let her buy it for a friend of hers—name of Smith! And Nesbit, of course, grabbed it. Now why, I ask you, did she pay the exact sum old Tim and I plunked down for Latahaw's benefit last summer? It's got me guessing." "You don't think it may be really valuable, after all?" He shook his head. "That idea occurred to me, too; but it's out. Definitely out. Tim has personally and thoroughly examined practically every square inch of the tract—that infernal land of ours. You couldn't get enough silver out of it to make a thin dime." "Tungsten? Copper?" "Nothing. I tell you; nothing but some beautiful rose-colored quartz that tourists adore to take home to make doorstops and bookends." "What's become of the gentleman named Latahaw?" "According to Iris via Tim, he's now in California. Becoming conscious of the unworthy part she had played, Miss DeMuth dismissed her—er—her motivating influence as soon as possible, and set herself a job as private secretary to some generous soul who paid her right good wages, I should think, all things considered. Then someone had the consideration to die and leave her some money, so out she took for Denver, bought up our land, and came here, simply pining for forgiveness—and nothing else, says Tim! Nuts, says I and I bet you do, too, Buff." Buff nodded. "I think," she told him, "she's really in love with Tim; that she got that money back from Latahaw some way or other—it may have been a case of polite blackmail—and she is trying to buy her way with it back into Tim's—Tim's favor." "Think she'll succeed?" Weekes inquired with a grin. "Buff's small hands were folded tightly on her lap. "Depends on many things; people, too; you, me, Tim and Iris." "Tim and Iris, yes; but how do you and I figure in it?" "We—ell—you might just keep track of what happens to that land Iris bought. I have a hunch you'll hear sooner or later that it has left her possession. I don't know why she wants it, but I'm sure it's the meat in this cocoon. There's another thing you can do, too; be rather. Tim relies a lot on your judgment. He values your good opinion. I know it worries him right now that you are what he calls cynical regarding Iris. Keep it up. He's promised me," she told him, the color rising a little in her face, "that he won't do anything—anything drastic for a while. That means, of course, he won't renew his engagement with Iris. Playing for time's our best bet. People like Iris and Latahaw have to work fast. She'll—overplay her hand if we let her alone long enough; at least that's the about the way it seems to me." He looked at her curiously. "You're even smarter than I've given you credit for being, my dear, and that's a lot. But you—where do you figure in this?" "I've a role of my own to play," she sighed. "A darned difficult one, too, if you ask me. Comradely, sympathizing friend to Tim, girl pal to lovely Iris. H'm. I thought I was writing plays, not starring in 'em." Continued tomorrow.

Washington Daybook

WASHINGTON—The present evidence that Russia may be toying with the idea of playing power politics could bring on another of those grandly dramatic situations wherein little old England takes on the whole continent of Europe and with the use of her diplomacy and sea power licks it back into shape.

A glance at a single day's headlines discloses that England and France are extremely hard pressed. Russia's plunge into Poland indicates that Stalin is looking for easy gains and might find them in other directions, notably southward of the Caspian where the rich Persian oil fields are situated. He might like to move in with Germany into the Baltic. Rumania probably would go first. She has considerable oil, which Germany and Russia would need desperately in event of a prolonged war with England and France.

It is possible their combined influence might swing all of the Balkan territory over to their side in spite of British efforts to save some support there. It might bring in Turkey. Already Turkish papers in inspired articles have emphasized that Russia is Turkey's very dear friend. That statement comes in spite of Turkey's agreements to side with Britain and France.

Such a situation would leave England and France desperately straitened. To defense against German attack would be added the necessity of protecting Persian oil from Russian lodes, and perhaps even by the need of protecting India from a communist invasion.

REMEMBER THE ARMADA?

But with all this, and perhaps even Italy against them, it would not necessarily mean the end of France and England. The tremendous force of British sea power has three times pulled England out of similar straits.

During Queen Elizabeth's reign, Philip of Spain was the dominant European power. He controlled the low countries, Belgium and Holland, and set out with his fleet to take over England. Everybody knows what happened to the Spanish Armada in 1588. What part of it the wily British sea fighters did not sink, the accompanying storms did.

Louis XIV, a hundred years later, was dominant in Europe, but England with her fleet and strong allied powers in turn beat him back to size.

Little more than a hundred years later Napoleon was master of Europe. England fished around diplomatically for a dozen years desperately seeking allies to help down him. Only very tentative aid came along until Admiral Lord Nelson, at the sea battle of Trafalgar, destroyed Napoleon's fleet. Waterloo followed not too long afterward.

THE DIFFERENCE

England's present desperate situation is different from her previous crises in two ways. Never before has she had to face Europe when Germany was so overwhelmingly powerful. In Napoleon's time there was no Germany of consequence. And then, there is the unknown factor of air power.

In spite of the torpedoing of the British plane-carrier Courageous, military people here believe the submarine has been licked. Many British ships have been sunk, it is true, but all of them have been isolated ships, without convoy. Since the convoy system was established, dozens of ships have been conducted from Gibraltar to England without loss of a boat. That thing works.

But air power is another thing. Will it prevent the choking of Europe which England has been able to impose in times past? If the British fleet survives air attack, Germany is due for a lot of hunger—not for food, which eastern Europe might supply, but for oil, which a triumphant British fleet can keep from her.

Germany needs 15,000,000 tons of oil a year to conduct her mechanized wars. Her present supply is little more than a third of that.

Robbin Coons Hollywood Sights And Sounds

HOLLYWOOD—While studios are looking over their vaults for old war pictures for possible re-release, it appears that "Victrol in the Night" will be the first movie to incorporate angles on the "new world war." This will be possible solely because of the illness and subsequent operation on the star, Carole Lombard, which delayed production on the A. J. Cronin story by five weeks.

Carole and Anne Shirley are playing nurses and sisters in the Sherman county hospital in England, and the set today is one of the dreariest masterpieces of construction imaginable.

The sun shines brightly outside, but within the sound stage a fine drizzle falls—by courtesy of overhead spraying pipes—on the brick hospital exterior past which Carole, in raincoat and galoshes, must walk. Beyond the hospital, a large miniature built in perspective shows a gray industrial skyline, with a couple of smokestacks spouting live gray steam into the dreary sky. The rain is of that soft, seemingly interminable variety, most depressing.

George Stevens, the director, has "mood music" on the sidelines to stir the actors emotionally.

The only really cheerful note apparent is the raucous, unquenchable laughter of one C. Lombard, who looks hale and hearty and twice as beautiful as before her hospital siege. Carole is cheered maybe, by the thought that next time she's going back to comedy.

There's real comedy, strangely, on the set of a movie with the gruesome title (to be changed) of "Send Another Coffin."

The comedy here is provided not so much by the script as by the demeanor of the actors, veterans all, who are pitted against each other in the scenes. There is thievery in progress.

This scene, for example, in which many actors share the camera—a session in a district attorney's office during which the "killer" is in process of being "unveiled." Veterans present include Pat O'Brien, Bernard Nedell, Alan Dinehart, Addison Richards, Edward Arnold, Broderick Crawford.

It is no coincidence, obviously, that Nedell is carrying a pair of white gloves, nice for waving in the air at appropriate moments; that cigars are being lighted, and smoke exhaled—also at appropriate moments; that shoulders are being shoved into position to dominate the camera; that Broderick Crawford, in desperation, finally gets himself a fly swatter, exceptionally nice for swatting imaginary flies in the background during somebody else's camera moment.

Tay Garnett, directing all this, sees the humor in it, fortunately, as indeed do the actors. The situation resolves itself, finally, with the fly swatter's removal from the scene. But the groans that went up from the others when casting announced that Henry Armetta, the scene-stealer to end scene-stealing, would join in the fun!

It's working out nicely for Ruth Terry, the leading lady, here doing her first straight acting role after a term in 20th Century musicals. Ruth thinks "everyone is so wonderful," and the truth is they are; they'll help a newcomer but for rivals the knife is out.

Texas Ports Rank At Top

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP) — Data compiled by U. S. army engineers for their annual report, soon to be published, disclosed today three Texas ports—Houston, Beaumont and Port Arthur—ranked second, third and fourth, respectively, among all American ports for the volume of traffic handled in 1938.

Based on the number of tons (2,000 pound tons) of both incoming and outgoing cargo, both foreign and coastwise, honor of first place went to New York. Total receipts and shipments there last year reached 56,612,670 tons. Houston trailed New York with 22,964,221 tons. Then came Beaumont, 19,727,504 tons; Port Arthur, 18,682,970; Norfolk, Va., 13,971,363; Port of Philadelphia, 13,422,157; Baltimore, Md., 12,803,350.

(The entire Philadelphia project, including not only that city but all other localities between there and the sea, except Wilmington, Del., had a total volume of 26,159,149 tons.) Shipments both incoming and outgoing totaled 8,087,901 tons at Corpus Christi; 3,872,514 tons at Galveston, and 11,497,640 tons at New Orleans.

Houston ranked first among all ports in the volume of outgoing shipments with a total of 21,006,033 tons. Beaumont and Port Arthur ranked second and third, respectively, with shipments of 18,426,996 and 16,642,362 tons. New York was fourth with 13,737,896 tons.

Port Arthur ranked first among Texas ports in volume of incoming shipments during 1938. They totaled 2,040,608 tons. Houston was second with 1,958,188 tons. Beaumont third with 1,300,508. New York led the nation with 42,874,774 tons of incoming cargo.

Prefers Prison To Deportation

HOUSTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—Tears streaming down his cheeks, Giovanni Gregoris, 30-year-old Italian, stood before Federal Judge James V. Allred and begged for a prison sentence. Gregoris was arrested in Galveston a few days ago and charged with illegal entry into the United States after he had been deported previously.

Gregoris told Judge Allred yesterday he had come to this country as a boy of four, and that he signed

ELKS CLUB WILL MEET THURSDAY

Regular meeting of the Elks club has been announced by Grover Dunham, exalted ruler, for 8 o'clock Thursday evening, in the WOW hall on Second street.

Dunham is urging all members to attend. He was clapped into the army upon his arrival in Italy, he said. He told the court his life in Italy was a harrowing experience, and described the long hours of work in the army and the poor food. "Don't let them send me to Italy," he said. "Give me the maximum sentence, Judge, please."

Judge Allred sentenced Gregoris to a two-year term and expressed hope something could be done for the Italian. Court attaches said it would be decided in Washington whether Gregoris should be deported at the end of his sentence.

YANKEES EXPECTED TO WIN SERIES IN SHORT ORDER

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—No matter where you go these days the boys and girls don't ask "can the Yankees win the series?" Instead, they wonder, "can the Reds—if they win the National League flag—take a game?" The big question is: Can Bucky Walters and Paul Derringer, individually or collectively, stop one of the greatest ball clubs of all time for just one afternoon? They know Mr. Joseph McCarty's Bronx boys have it all over the Rhineland rascals in every department, and that the Reds' one and only chance rests on the good right arm of big Bucky and plucky Paul. Against this pitching, the Yanks haven't a thing except Red Ruffing, Monte Pearson, maybe Lefty Gomez, Steve Sundra, Atley Donald, Bump Hadley, Marius Russo, and infatigable "Ad," of course, isn't one of the boys, but just an idea of how Marce Joe's lads are loaded.

Six Southwest Grid Tilts To Be 'Aired' Here

Texas State Network today announced arrangements for bringing radio listeners in the state the most comprehensive coverage of Southwest conference football games in gridiron history. Four of the games, net officials said, will be broadcast to the entire state with eleven others going to sections where, because of the location of conference schools, interest in the games is intensified. Selected for state-wide broadcast are the University of Texas-Wisconsin university game on Oct. 7, University of Texas-Baylor university game on Nov. 11, University of Texas-Texas Christian university game on Nov. 18 and the Southern Methodist university-Baylor university game on Nov. 25. As in previous years, the games will be brought to Texas radio listeners by the Humble Oil and Refining company of Houston. In one instance, three conference games will be put on the air in Texas simultaneously, each going to the section of the state in which interest in that particular game is most intense. Date of this triple broadcast is October 14 when the Baylor university-University of Arkansas game will be broadcast in Central Texas, the Texas A. & M.-Vanderbilt university game to North and South Texas and the University of Texas-University of Oklahoma game to the Austin area. All broadcasts, net officials said, will come direct from the field on which the game is being played. On out-of-state games, especially those which will bring the announcers' reports to TSN studios in Fort Worth, the point from which they will be fed to state stations. Fans here may hear the broadcasts on Station KESB, the local affiliated TSN station. With 24 member stations scattered throughout Texas, the net will be able to make accounts of the game available to the entire state. KESB's schedule will include: Oct. 7—University of Texas-Wisconsin university. Oct. 14—Baylor university-University of Arkansas. Oct. 24—Texas A. & M. college-Baylor university. Nov. 4—Baylor university-Texas Christian university. Nov. 11—Baylor university-University of Texas. Nov. 18—University of Texas-Texas Christian university.

Yearlings To Open Season October 5

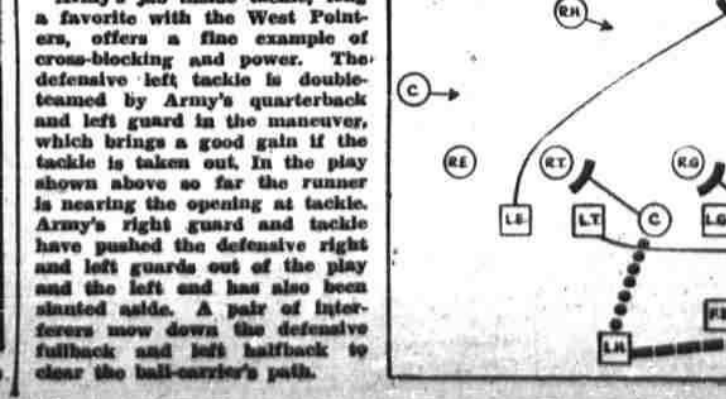

Football practice of the junior high school team got underway at Steer stadium Tuesday afternoon as 27 candidates reported to Coach Howard Schwarzenbach. The Yearlings, who were tutored by John Daniel last year, will face the Colorado Juniors in their opening game here Thursday afternoon, Oct. 5. Other games are being lined up. Players who registered and were issued uniforms were, backs, Earnest Bostick, Lowell Matlock, Jimmy Bowden, P. S. Williams, Woody Baker, Gene Anderson, Herby Johnson, Bobby Lee Wright, Robert E. Coffey and John Holley; linemen, Wylbert Moore, James Byers, Ray White, Thomas Underwood, Melvin Newton, Doyle Stewart, Dean Culee, S. T. Franklin, Commodore Ryan, Alfred Adams, Winifred Cunningham, Bruce Robertson, Billy Bob McDonald, Wayne Dearing, Cameron Warren and Claude and Rauldie Matlock. Statistics compiled by the National Golf Foundation show Byron Nelson is the year's outstanding golfer. Bull Fighter Sidney Franklin, now appearing at the world's fair, had difficulty convincing an audience he is a Brooklyn native until he said something about "hard beried" eggs. Tim Sullivan, Yankee bat boy, will be promoted to the front office next year, which means he'll miss his world series cut. The Mrs. has told Tony Cannonizer this positively must be his last year in the ring. Today's guest star: Victor O. Jones, Boston Evening Globe: "If you're going to Cincy early in October, the only way you'll be able to get a room in any hotel is to have the Cards win the pennant." Cleveland pals got up a party for Oscar Vitt. Unfortunately, they forgot to tell Oscar about it. So, the only guy who didn't show up was—Oscar Vitt.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—Arthur Fletcher, Yankee coach, has made approximately $50,000 out of his ten trips to the world's series. Any player who can be classed as a starter with the Philadelphia Eagles is paid $25 more a game than the others. Saturday's Fordham-Wayneburg game will be televised. Quite a fellow. Stan Payne of Ponca City, Okla., swears that during the fourth round of the Pastor-Louis fight one of the broadcasters shouted, "...Louis landed a hard right, but Pastor is standing with both feet well in the air!" Grissom, who needs a good start to win, might have done better in the nightcap if Brown's curly roller down the third base line had gone foul. Bill Werber pranced alongside the ball for ten feet, having no chance to throw to first anyway. That it went to bed against the bag. That was the cue for the explosion and before Red Barrett, just back from Indianapolis, restored law and order, four runs were in on six hits. The Fort Worth Panthers and Nashville have at each other again tonight. The clubs opened in the Texas League city Sunday, the Cats winning the opener 10-2, while the Southern Association playoff winners took Monday's game 9-8. Nashville's Larry Gilbert is expected to start George Jeffcoat, a right-hander with a fast one. Fred (Rip) Marberry, the ex-major leaguer, probably will get the call from Manager Bob Linton.

Army's Drive Inside Tackle

Army's job inside tackle, long a favorite with the West Pointers, offers a fine example of cross-blocking and power. The defensive left tackle is double-teamed by Army's quarterback and left guard in the maneuver, which brings a good gain if the tackle is taken out. In the play shown above so far the runner is nearing the opening at tackle. Army's right guard and tackle have pushed the defensive right and left guards out of the play and the left end has also been shifted aside. A pair of interceptors now down the defensive fullback and left halfback to clear the ball-carrier's path.

REDS NEED BUT ONE VICTORY FOR CLINCH

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 27 (AP)—With the end of the season swirling up like the crack of doom, the Cincinnati Reds and their shadows, the St. Louis Cardinals, try again today to put the clutch on each other in a game which can bring Cincinnati its first National League pennant since the Olympian days of Pat Moran. It isn't like yesterday, when the twin bill gave each team the chance for unless today's game winds up in a tie the Reds either have the flag spiked to the mast for the first time in 20 years, or the Cards are a game closer to the top. Bucky Walters, the tall fellow whose formative years were spent on third base and who now owns Cincinnati, and Fiddler Bill McGee are the pitchers. Bucky is pitching today as a result of some smart maneuvering by Deacon Hill in yesterday's doubleheader. Hill said to Gene Thompson: "Gene, can you do it?" Gene said yes, and despite six walks and nine hits by the high-compression Cards, the Reds had the opening game by a score of 3 to 1. Thus, McKeechle could take a chance on Lee Grissom, who does and then doesn't, for the nightcap and have a flag another day of rest. Paul Derringer, his other ace, is ready tomorrow. As it developed, Lee didn't and the ball game soon was over. Morton Cooper kept the Reds under a tent all the way and the final score was 6 to 0. Just the same, with but four games left to 1939 after today, the Cards have a steep mountain to climb if they are to take the flag in the face of the Reds' 1-2 game lead. It was Billy Myers' ninth homer of the year that made the difference in the opener. After Ernie Lombardi had doubled to open the second inning, Harry Craft singled and both stood still while Wally Berger popped to Jimmy Brown at short. Then Billy caught the first ball pitched to him on the nose. "Gene got in trouble in the Cards' third when Medwick singled and Johnny Mize doubled. Padgett was passed intentionally to fill the bases. Terry Moore walked and a run was in with only one out. Stu Martin, however, forced Mize at the plate. Johnny Hopp pinch-fanned for Clyde Shoun. Grissom, who needs a good start to win, might have done better in the nightcap if Brown's curly roller down the third base line had gone foul. Bill Werber pranced alongside the ball for ten feet, having no chance to throw to first anyway. That it went to bed against the bag. That was the cue for the explosion and before Red Barrett, just back from Indianapolis, restored law and order, four runs were in on six hits.

Lain Backing Cordill For All-America

HOUSTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—Ernie Lain just sat there. The big boy's copper-cast face was a flaming crimson. He was embarrassed—plenty. Ernie is a genuinely modest lad and an interview positively is agonizing for him. The passer's jet-black hair tumbled about his eyes. Ernie goes in for comfort during the off school hours at Rice Institute. His overalls clung to his roly-poly body through the strength of one thin shoulder strap. His bare feet patted along the floor and then he sat down. He just sat there. His eyes bored into the floor. But questions finally wilted him. Will the Ernie Lain of 1937 be the Ernie Lain of 1937? "I don't know," said Ernie. That was that. Two years ago Lain was the country's hottest sophomore. He paused and ran the Rice Owls to the Southwest conference championship. He was marked as the 1938 back of the year. But in that tragic season Lain was laid up with an injured ankle for weeks and Rice folded. In the season's dying days he swung into his old time form, but it was too late. Now the publicity pressure is off and Lain, with all the ambition of a 21-year-old, is ready. He still threads a needle with his air shafts, and he bulks his 225 pounds through the line with effortless ease. His ankle is like iron. Lain should have a great season. Rice has the finest prospects in years. "That all-America ballyhoo before last season never bothered me because I didn't believe it. I'd rather just let the record stand," he said. "What about this publicity Ole Cordill, his touchdown twin in the backfield, has been getting?" "Oh, I think Ole's an all-American, but not me." Funny, but Cordill says just the opposite.

Louisville Is 7 To 0 Victor

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 27 (AP)—The Rochester Red Wings are hopeful the 7 to 0 drubbing they took at the hands of Louisville in the 1939 Little World Series opener is a case of history repeating itself. Preparing for the second game of the best-four-out-of-seven series, the Wings remembered they started the same way in the International league playoff against Buffalo. Then they took four straight to win. St. Johnson, 23-game winner, will try to silence the American Association bats which boomed out 11 base hits to beat Mike Ryba last night. Louisville will bank on big Jim Weaver, another major league veteran, to give them more of the kind of pitching with which Leroy (Bud) Parmelee blanked the International leaguers.

Panthers' Fred Marberry To Hurl Tonight

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 27 (AP)—The Fort Worth Panthers and Nashville have at each other again tonight. The clubs opened in the Texas League city Sunday, the Cats winning the opener 10-2, while the Southern Association playoff winners took Monday's game 9-8. Nashville's Larry Gilbert is expected to start George Jeffcoat, a right-hander with a fast one. Fred (Rip) Marberry, the ex-major leaguer, probably will get the call from Manager Bob Linton.

BETHELL, NANCE MISSING FROM HERD DRILLS

Lefty Bethell and Winsett Nance, back and tackle, respectively, were missing as Coach Pat Murphy sent the Big Spring high school football crew through a grueling drill Tuesday afternoon in the Highland Park stadium. Bethell was reported confined to his home suffering from an attack of appendicitis. His chances to play against the Lubbock Westerners this weekend remained in doubt. Nance's eye troubles are far from over and the chances that he would be able to suit out for the clash with the District 1-AA team were diminishing. Running in Bethell's place in the Tuesday scrimmage was Horace Bostick. If Bostick starts the ball carrying duties are expected to be shifted entirely to D. R. Gartman and Johnny Miller with Bostick slated to confine his work to blocking. Working Regularly Gartman was carrying the mail regularly in Tuesday's workout. Nance's tackle slide was to be filled either by McWade McDaniel or Clifton Patton. Both showed to advantage against Colorado City last week. Flashiest performer of the day was James Webb, second string guard, who was stopping the varsity's plays with monotonous regularity. Webb's ability to pierce the regulars' blockade showed need of added blocking drills. Murphy dedicated part of the time toward working on plays that will be used against the Westerners. Despite the faults only too evident in the two games played to date, the mentor indicated that the Bovines' aerial gunnery would be brought into play again with Miller doing most of the tossing. Miller exhibits plenty of ability in tossing the pigskin in workouts.

Van Ryn Wins In L'Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 27 (AP)—Top ranking tennis stars called blithely through play in the Pacific Southwest net championships today, with Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Boston slated to meet Mary Arnold of Los Angeles in one of the feature matches. Helen Willis Moody returned to the tournament scene, paired with Adrian Quist of Australia in a mixed double setto against Miss Arnold and Braco Mitic of Yugoslavia. Alice Marble, Bobby Riggs, Quist and his teammate, John Bromwich, emerged safely from second round matches yesterday, as did Franjo Punces of Yugoslavia, Walter Van Horn, Elwood Cooke, Frankie Parker, in men's singles, and Mrs. Fabyan, Dorothy Bundy and Valeria Scott of England in the women's division. The veteran internationalist, John Van Ryn of Austin, Tex., advanced over Dan Hernandez of Mexico's Davis Cuppers, winning 6-3.

Dodgers Gain Edge In Play With Giants

By BILL WHITE Associated Press Sports Writer This may come as a surprise, but there were six other games played in the major leagues yesterday—in addition to the Cincinnati-St. Louis feud. There was cheering in Flatbush for the Brooklyn Dodgers wound up their inter-city rivalry with the New York Giants to hold a 12-10 margin in the year's series. The Giants won yesterday's first game, 9-5, due largely to Carl Hubbell's fine hurling and his base run after spotting the Dodgers five runs. The Dodgers came back in the afterpiece to win, 3-2. Kirby Higbe tamed the Boston Bees by allowing them only 10 hits, thus ending Philadelphia's six-game losing streak. Homers by Marty and Letchas helped him win, 5-3. In the American League, the Philadelphia Athletics clubbed four Washington pitchers for 16 hits to win, 15-4. The Detroit Tigers helped the St. Louis Browns reach an all-time low, handing the St. Louis club its 108th and 109th defeats. The Tigers won the opener, 5-4, and took the 7-inning nightcap, 7-5. The New York Yankees and the Boston Red Sox twined out at Boston, will play a rain bill today. So will the Chicago Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates, who were in danger of frostbite and couldn't play yesterday in Pittsburgh.

Rumania Uneasy Over Russia's Intentions

BUCHAREST, Sept. 27 (AP)—With eyes on Moscow for some sign of sponsorship of a strong neutrality bloc in the Balkans, Europe's southeastern capitals—especially Bucharest—watched feverishly and apprehensively today to ease all possible causes of conflict.

Diplomatic circles in this Rumanian capital reported negotiations were under way at Moscow, upon the initiative of Turkey, for Soviet Russian and Italian guarantees of the Balkan status quo.

Turkish Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu, now in the soviet capital, was said in these quarters to be discussing final terms of the proposed pact with Premier-Forain Composed Vyacheslav Molotov.

Apprehensiveness over Russia's intentions, however, persisted among Rumanians—an uneasiness fed by rumors of soviet troops massed along the Dniester river and prepared to seize Besarabia at the opportune moment.

Neutral foreign sources said there were no authentic reports to indicate any significant change in the past few days along the Rumanian-Russian frontier, now greatly expanded by the Red army's sweep into Poland.

The strength of the soviet border forces was not known, but large numbers of troops were said to have been in position along the Dniester, which forms the Besarabian border, since the outbreak of the German-Polish war. However, to date, they were said to have made no aggressive moves.

CHARGE REPORTED ERRONEOUSLY BY THE HERALD

A charge of disturbing the peace, lodged in the justice court, was erroneously reported against Sidney Boyles Tuesday. There is no such charge against her, the charge being against Billie Boyles, her husband. There has been no action in the case which arose out of an aggravated assault upon Mrs. Boyles by a third party. The Herald is glad to make this correction.

Oil Price Increase Possible If Illinois Controls Output

TULSA, Sept. 27 (AP)—Oil producers dusted off and brought again today a hope—surrounded by many ifs—of higher crude prices.

Most producers assert the big if is some type of regulation of production in Illinois. Oil compacting states appear to have settled definitely on a policy of adhering closely to market demand estimates of the U. S. bureau of mines.

Such action would tend to level production fears in most of the Mid-Continent area. Many operators now hope some regulatory laws may be given Illinois by a special session of the legislature.

So far, the war in Europe apparently had added the outlook of the industry more than demand. Refined stocks are large and some observers believe any war demand would tend to reduce them first rather than crude supplies.

Crude oil prices were hiked seven cents a barrel in Michigan by Tri-Lakes, Inc., a subsidiary of Standard Oil of Ohio.

In the field, 556 completions were reported for the week ended Sept. 23, compared with 578 the previous week and 521 a year ago. The Oil and Gas Journal said.

A production area came in west of the Bebe pool, Pontotoc county, in Oklahoma. Fort Bend county, Texas gulf coast, got a distillate pool. A 1,200-barrel well opened a pool in Stephens county, west Central Texas.

MACHINERY THEFT RING BROKEN WITH ARREST OF SIX

SEGUIN, Sept. 27 (AP)—A state-wide theft ring that specialized in expensive oil well equipment was believed broken here today with the arrests by Sheriff A. W. Saeger, and Texas rangers of five men and a woman, and recovery of a large amount of stolen equipment.

Sheriff Saeger said the arrest followed an investigation that reached from Corpus Christi to the East Texas oil fields. Practically all the equipment recovered, however, had been stolen from oil well supply houses in Guadalupe county. Two charges of theft over $50 have been filed against two of the group and misdemeanor charges have been filed against others in the group, the sheriff said.

Assault

Destruction of the Hospital of the Child Jesus shortly before noon was said to have caused the deaths of 17 nuns and three physicians.

The announcer asserted Polish anti-aircraft guns had brought down eight raiding planes yesterday.

More than 300 heavy German siege guns were said to be pouring shells into the center of the city, a stream uninterrupted since Saturday.

"There are more than 500 fires burning now. About all that is left to burn is now blazing."

Hundreds of horses killed each day were said by the announcer to have been butchered immediately to feed the beleaguered populace.

Troops defending the city were holding their positions "against savage and desperate mad attacks" and in some places had bettered their positions with bayonet charges, said the announcer adding that Polish losses were "exceedingly small."

"Tell the British and French governments we are holding out," said a special message broadcast to the Polish ambassadors in London and Paris. "We expect aid will be forthcoming from our allies. The city is razed but we live on."

"The mad invaders, enraged by our resistance, are systematically burning, shelling and bombing every living human being or animal."

"They are making this an inferno on earth apparently to wipe us out to the last man, woman and child."

The announcer said Warsaw's last 24 hours had been the most tragic of all "and still there seems more to come."

boiler from intense flame, had dropped.

The baggage car plowed into a field and overturned. The sleeper, carrying the band, and the diner went off the rails but did not overturn. The other cars remained on the tracks.

Five members of the train crew, including J. B. Hammer of Dallas, the fireman, were treated at a hospital in Weatherford. None was seriously hurt.

Among the injured were A. E. Pistole, T. & P. superintendent of the Big Spring division, whose right arm was injured; Fred Gilla negro porter; Sam Roberts, negro cook; C. D. Reimers, a passenger from Fort Worth, and his daughter, Mrs. George Taggart, and Master Mechanic J. E. Freund of the T. & P.

Pistole, who was in the baggage car, hailed a farmer in a wagon and rode to Millsap, about five miles away, where he telephoned for ambulances.

PISTOLE RESTING

A. E. Pistole, Rio Grande division superintendent for the Texas and Pacific Railway Co. who was injured in the wreck of a football special train near Millsap Tuesday evening, was reported resting easily in a Weatherford hospital Wednesday.

Louis Pistole, local oil distributor and son of the railroad superintendent, said on his return at noon Wednesday that his father suffered a severe gash from his left elbow to the shoulder, bruises and other minor lacerations. He suffered some loss of blood but was not seriously injured.

J. E. Friend, master mechanic for this division, suffered only scratches about his hand and has been at the scene of the crash since it occurred, said Pistole.

Both Pistole and Friend were riding in the baggage car with other officials and the conductor, M. McNeely, who was killed, at the time of the mishap.

Victory

but in a two-day battle the Poles beat off the Russians.

The fate of Poland—whether she will survive as a state or disappear from the European map—probably will be decided by Von Ribbentrop's conversations in Moscow.

The German policy toward final partition of Poland was decided, observers believed, at a conference last night of Fuehrer Hitler, Von Ribbentrop and Field Marshal Hermann Goering.

No official comment was forthcoming on the conference.

Informed quarters said sharp differences of opinion had prevailed in Germany regarding the Polish situation.

A strong group of Nazis close to Goering, it was said, favored complete elimination of Poland and establishment of a Russian-German frontier.

A more moderate group was reported to favor creation of a Polish buffer state between the Reich and the Soviet.

Those opposing elimination of Poland as an independent state argued millions of foreign nationals would be incorporated into Germany, which would be contrary to Hitler's oft-voiced principles.

Arguments of the group favoring dissolution of the Polish state maintained an independent Poland, with its memories of defeat at the hands of Germany, would be a constant source of unrest and a hotbed of Polish agitation for revival of the republic.

Hitler summoned Von Ribbentrop and Goering into conference immediately upon his return to Berlin last night from the eastern front.

Berliners took his return as a sign the Polish situation virtually was settled and that Hitler intended to concentrate his attention on the west.

across a rising flat to a point east of the scout hut in the city park, will traverse the city park extension and round the brow of a long slope and connect with the new section of the highway a little southeast of where it now merges with the old highway route.

There will be 16 drainage structures, two of them major affairs. The remainder will be culverts. One large structure will be across the gorge below the T. & P. dam and the other across the small tributary which splits the city park extension.

The campaign for the highway job has been going on here since 1932 when the county commissioners court voted to secure right-of-way for Highways No. 1 and No. 2. The major portion of the south highway was installed about four years ago to the point where pavement on the old route ended. Since then routes have been mapped only to have disagreements arise with the result that the job would be passed. This happened twice and the third routing is the current one accepted by the county, state and federal agencies. It shortens the distance on the road appreciably.

JUDGE AND JURY

Buying for a family isn't a parttime job. It's a day-in-and-day-out task, requiring a knowledge of what local stores are offering. Like a court of law, every family has its judge and jury, responsible for making decisions before any purchase is made. Yet, imagine what it would be like if information had to be secured directly from the seller. Facts about size... quality... price. Imagine walking from store to store seeking out those quoting the lowest prices on similar merchandise. Of course, this is not necessary! The ads in the Herald enable you to make wise decisions about all the things you need. You have all the facts before you to arrive at a conclusion without even stepping out of your parlor! You be the judge and jury now, and check the ads in THIS issue.

MEXICO WORKERS CALL A STRIKE

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 27 (AP)—Maritime workers at Veracruz called a strike for October 1, as a protest against the Ward line for failing to adjust a conflict with its employees. The workers' strike committee demands a readjustment of the collective labor contract and the reestablishment of the jobs of several employees dismissed by the Ward line.

1939 Frogs To Get First Test Against UCLA

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT
FORT WORTH, Sept. 27 (AP)—Three days from now the dope on Texas Christian's football team will pass from rumor to fact.

Leo R. Meyer, tutor of the phenomenal Christians of '38, who won the mythical No. 1 national ranking, believes he will know all the answers Friday night at Los Angeles when his mammoth open the season against U. C. L. A.

Can Jack Odle, the handsome, 185-pound junior, squeeze into Wee Davey O'Brien's tiny shoes?

Can his new linemen approach the great defensive play of departed Kl Aldrich, L. B. Hale, Allie White, et al?

"Frankly, I can't say," murmured Coach Meyer as he packed his boys for the Pacific. "But I'm certain of this—U. C. L. A. will give us the answers. I'm short of replacements and I'm not at all certain about my defense."

"The offense? I believe it will be as good as last year. Odle has shown me worlds of stuff in scrimmage. He's a great boy—a fine passer, kicker of the Sam Baugh type, and a good runner. I don't know about the signal calling. That's where O'Brien will be hard to replace."

Clark Top Back

The offense is, according to every measurement of the yardstick, as good as last year. Earle Clark, the symphony violinist who plays right halfback, should be the finest running back of the southwest.

He has legalized murder in his heart when he bounds over the tackles; the soul of an artist off the field.

On left halfback is Logan Ware, a peculiar, slashing type runner who starred in the Carnegie Tech massacre at the Sugar Bowl. Connie Sparks, all-Southwest conference fullback his sophomore year in '38 and the league's leading scorer, is the brute power of the balanced combination.

Seniors Don Looney and Durwood Horner, the receivers for O'Brien's darts the past two years, are just two of the five excellent ends.

Tackle play should be above average with Bob Cook, 215-pound giant who starred last year, playing with his injured shoulder in a weird looking harness, and Ennis Kerles, junior letterman, at the other slot.

Capt. Bud Taylor, a rock of the '38 line, and Bobby Sherrod, junior letterman, fill the guard posts—and well.

Aldrich no more roams the pivot position and the two men present are not lik y to succeed him as all-American, but Clarence (Lefty) Alexander and Fred Shook, one-time Texas schoolboy all-state center, "are plenty good enough for me," quoth Meyer.

Texas Christian again will play its old passing game, with Odle on the mound. But the figures show the Christians gained more by running last year. Clark, Ware and Sparks are back to attend to that.

RESTORATION OF PREVAILING WAGE TO BE SOUGHT

CINCINNATI, Sept. 27 (AP)—A new drive in the next congress by American Federation of Labor building trades to back prevailing wage scale payments for skiller workers employed on federal relief projects was forecast today by informed labor leaders.

Restoration of the prevailing wage clause was listed as one of the major questions up for consideration at the convention of the AFL building trades department opening today.

Leaders said the department would renew its stand for congressional approval of an $800,000,000 supplemental appropriation to carry on the United States Housing Authority program for low cost housing and slum clearance.

The AFL's main convention, which will bring together delegates of more than 100 international unions, state federations and central labor bodies, opens next week.

Effect Of Neutrality 'Truce' On 1940 Campaign Pondered

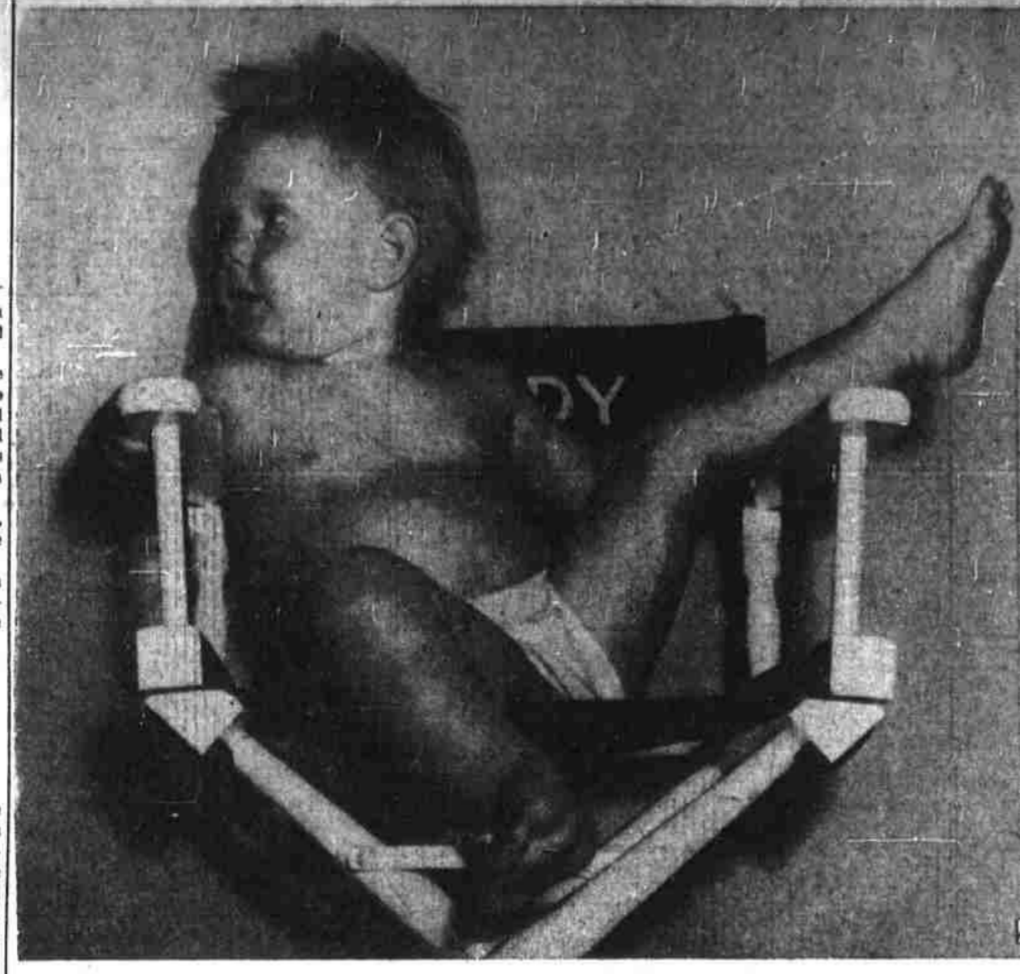

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—The "truce" on the neutrality issue between President Roosevelt and many of his democratic opponents on domestic matters has posed the question:

How long will the armistice last and will it result in the democrats uniting on a common ground in the 1940 campaign?

Because all factions in both parties have agreed to eliminate politics as far as possible from the neutrality debate, and because so many things can happen on the international and home fronts before the presidential nominating conventions next summer, senators are reluctant to talk publicly about 1940 at this juncture.

Some strange friendships are thrown together in the current arms embargo fight.

With the president for repeal are such democrats as Senators George of Georgia, whom Mr. Roosevelt tried to defeat last year; Byrd of Virginia, outspoken opponent of New Deal spending policies, and Burke of Nebraska, who has been critical of many New Deal domestic proposals.

COMMUNISTS TO BE ELIMINATED FROM US POSTS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—Chairman Dies (D-Tex) of the house committee on un-American activities says the justice department has been instructed by the Roosevelt administration to eliminate about 2,850 "known communists" from government service.

Dies said he had been informed also that one of the country's leading labor leaders was going to weed out communists from his organization's "high command."

The committee probably will ask congress to outlaw the German American Bund and the communist party of the United States, Dies said.

CUB SCOUT GROUP IS ORGANIZED

Twenty-seven boys and a number of parents met Tuesday at the College Heights school for an organization meeting of Cub Scouts conducted by Jack Penrose, scout executive.

The group voted to meet at 8 o'clock Friday at the school for a pack meeting of cub scouts. Instructors and leaders will be named at the meeting. The pack is to be divided into neighborhood dens and the cubs will meet every Saturday in their den. Once a month a pack meeting will be held at College Heights.

Federal Post For Maverick?

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL
AUSTIN, Sept. 27 (AP)—There is curiosity in the capital over what Mayor Maury Maverick of San Antonio may be up to politically.

One story is that he will be offered a fat federal job as a result of his friendliness for the new deal. Posts in the war or navy departments are mentioned. In the World war, Maverick was wounded, only a year or so ago getting rid of some shrapnel lodged in his body.

Another report is that Maverick wants to run for governor and will point definitely for this goal in a speech to be delivered in Dallas October 15 on the subject, "How to Raise Money to Provide for Old Age Pensions."

Some think his aim simply is to recover his seat in congress taken from him last year by Paul J. Kilday.

He may throw light on his intentions in a statement to his city council tomorrow, according to reports from San Antonio.

Pity the poor candidate who thinks he has everything lined up for a winning campaign and sees his plan of action upset by a thing so utterly beyond control as a war.

County Judge Roy Hofheinz of Houston, one of the youngest county judges in the country, has been thinking long and hard about running for the railroad commission.

In Austin for a meeting of the state highway commission, Hofheinz moaned:

"Look at my name! Think what I would be up against with a name like that and this war going on! I am nine-tenths Alsatian, but the one-tenth German gave me the name. That one-tenth might cause me a lot of trouble."

A former member of the legislature, Hofheinz would run against Chairman Lon A. Smith of the commission, who will seek another six-year term.

Sadler Announcement
Railroad Commissioner G. A. Jerry Sadler announced for governor of Texas, with provisos, in Tennessee.

Returning from Washington where he conferred with Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes on the oil situation, Sadler was interviewed by a reporter of the Memphis Commercial Appeal.

In the interview, Sadler said he would run for governor against W. Lee O'Daniel if the latter did not change his taxing program.

In Austin press correspondents questioned Sadler, who said he meant the Memphis statement, and elaborated.

FAVOR REPEAL OF ABSENTEE TAX LAW IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 27 (AP)—The coordinating committee of national economy will ask President Lazaro Cardenas to repeal the four per cent absentee tax law in order to stimulate the expansion of capital and help the development of national industries.

The committee is formed by the secretaries of foreign relations, treasury, national economy and agriculture.

President Cardenas enjoys special powers on financial matters. The move urging repeal of the absentee tax law is based on figures revealed by the treasury department showing that the percentage figures from absentee collections in regard to the national income for the year 1938 is only 2.22. The treasury also revealed that the national income for the present fiscal year is above official estimates.

Engineer Puts His Train Through Fire Into Safe Place

LITTLE ROCK, Sept. 27 (AP)—Fellow trainmen today acclaimed a veteran railway engineer as the hero after he raced his train with 200 passengers through a lake of fire, guided it across a river trestle with his cab in flames and brought it safely into the railroad yards here.

The engineer was J. M. Bland of Little Rock. He gave this version of the incident:

Shortly before his Memphis section of the Missouri Pacific's Sunshine Limited pulled into the North Little Rock yards early Tuesday, a gasoline tank car was punctured in a switching accident, spilling gasoline into a vast pool along the right-of-way.

Unaware of the gasoline, Bland put his train into the yards. Sparks from the engine's fire box ignited the gasoline, enveloping the engine and creating a blazing lake hundreds of yards in front of the nine-car train.

Grasping the situation "almost instinctively," Bland shoved up the throttle and increased his speed to 30 miles an hour. With the train clear of the blazing gasoline, the scorched cab caught fire, forcing him to jump. He landed in the yard and ran to the engine, where he found the engine and train in flames.

Bland and his fireman out into the platform in front of the cab. This occurred just as the speeding locomotive approached the big railway bridge spanning the Arkansas river between the Twin Cities.

Bland thrust his gloved hand through the flames of the cab to the throttle and the train roared safely into the yards where where the fire was extinguished.
