The political community of our county who are now trying to assess the effect of the more than 25 per cent increase in voter registration upon the political complexion of Eastland county are certainly justified in suggesting that it does indicate a change of hue. In what direction the weathervane will turn, however, is a conundrum to be answered only when the votes are counted.

Speculation takes a variety of directions, but principally it asks this question:

"Will the traditionally conservative coloration of the county become more liberal as a result of the impact of 2,000 or more registered voters than were counted in the last presidential election?"

Actually, the question, in my thought, is moot. The entire country, conservatives and all has been turning more and more liberal in mind for the past fifty years, and while here and there a few valiant banners have been raised against the trend, the winds of change have simply swept them aside.

The late and revered W. B. Starr, whom I loved and admired for his courageous individualism and the sincerity of his views, told me in the late thirties, at the fermenting height of the New Deal's welfare philosophy, that the Socialist party could then take in its banners—it had accomplished its purpose.

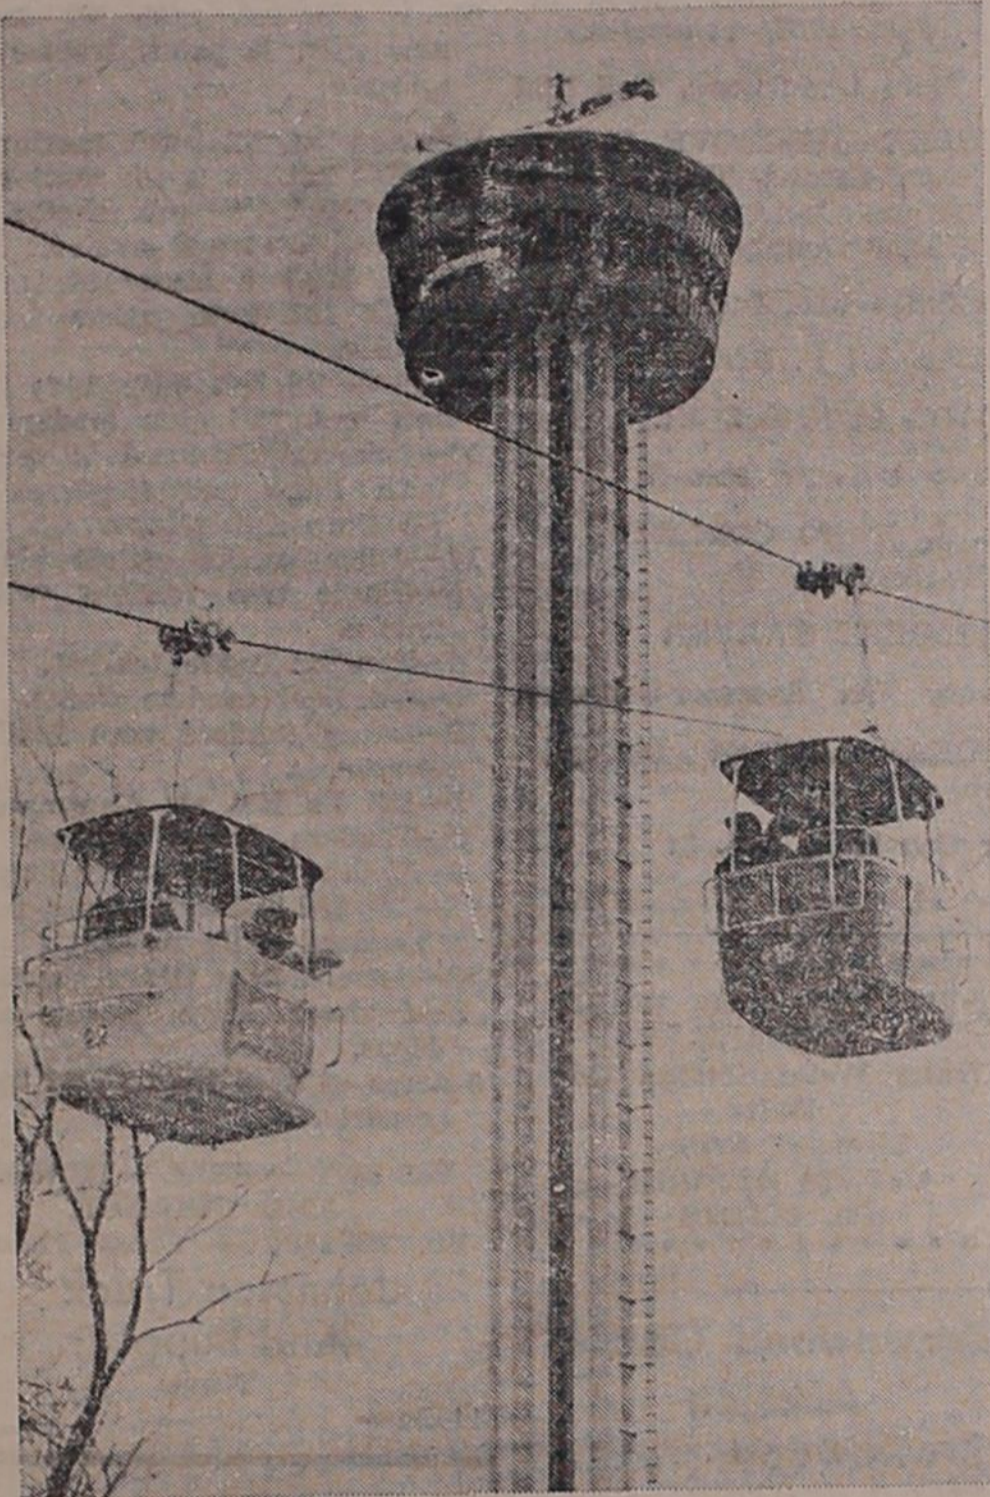

While there has been no effective analysis of the marginal registration—with respect to economic status, racial characteristics and social factors—it can be said that most of it would not have approached the ballot if the poll tax payment requirement was still in effect. And this to an honest and critical view, says several things, some of which are not altogether complimentary.

By way of qualifying what I have to say in this regard, it should be pointed out that the excess of registrants cannot be explained by a comparable increase in population. To some degree it may mean a more aroused public mind in view of the issues, both national and local, which have grown so critical and provocative over the past four years. Issues such as increasing taxes and living costs and our involvement in Viet Nam with its threat of a new World War brought on by communist aggression. I do not mean to suggest that this mind is necessarily adverse to the national policies being pursued in respect of these issues. On the contrary there has been ample evidence that the public will is in resolution with that of our leadership.

The large registration—a matter of surprise even to those who foresaw a considerable increase—may have been due in part to the very effective campaign to enlist all potential voters. You have to take off your hat to Tax Assessor-Collector Edgar Altom and his corps of deputies for the exceptionally fine job they did. The results confirm it.

But the influences stated do not explain why there has been an increase of more than 2,000 voter registrations in this county this year over the total vote cast therein in the 1964 presidential election. Two thousand is a sizeable percentage in relation to the population of our county, and I don't think it suggests that there are so many eligible voters among it so impoverished.

SWISS SKYRIDE—Sidewalk superintendents are viewing progress on HemisFair '68 from the air with the help of the Swiss Skyrider over the World's Fair grounds. These early bird visitors are part of more than 20,000 persons who have taken the skyride since it was opened to the public on Christmas weekend. The 622-foot Tower of the Americas with its six-story tophouse in place draws the attention of many sightseers.

3 Trustees, 2 City Councilmen Due For April Election

Among the state and national primaries and the general elections coming up this year are at least two local elections of a significance not altogether obscured by the wider voting.

They are school and city elections which will occur in early April—the city election to be held on the first Tuesday in that month, April 2, and the school election on Saturday, April 6.

Three of the seven places on the school board will be filled in the April 6 voting. Terms now being served by C. M. Carroll, Joe Fraley and A. W. Griffin will expire this year and three trustees will be chosen for three-year terms in their places.

None of the retiring trustee had indicated prior to publication of this issue of The Rising Star that he would be a candidate and there had been no other filings.

The deadline for filing an application for a place on the ticket is 30 days prior to the election date, which would be no later than March 6, said Supt. Edward Watkins. Applications and affidavits may be left with Mrs. Agnes White, secretary of the school board.

Two places on the Rising Star City Council are due to be filled in an election required by law to be held on the first Tuesday in April. One place, vacated by the death of E. N. Marsh, has not been filled, and the other vacancy will occur with the expiration of the term of Bryan Milner.

The holdover councilmen are Charles Chamberlain, John G. Lee and L. W. Morrison. The current 2-year term of Mayor W. G. Reed does not expire until next year also.

Chas. Hubbard On Antarctic Mission

ANTARTICA (PHTNC) Jan. 10—Utilitiesman Construction Apprentice Charles B. Hubbard, USN, son of Mrs. Ruby Hubbard of Rising Star, Texas, is deployed to the Continent of Antarctica with the U. S. Naval Construction Battalion Unit 201.

His unit is a special construction force formed to provide direct construction support to the U. S. Antarctic Research Program. Their task will be putting in place three million dollars worth of construction materials during the brief Austral Summer.

The unit will be working at all U. S. Stations this year including McMurdo, Pole, Byrd, and Palmer Stations.

Local Cagers Win Close Games With May Teams

In close games filled to the last second with tension and highlighted with flares of temper, two longtime backyard rivals, May and Rising Star, fought out two non-conference basketball decisions here Tuesday night. In each case and by paper thin margins, the Wildcats gained a measure of revenge for defeats handed them in earlier meetings between the teams.

In the boys game, the Wildcats, led by Dalton Hughes' 20 points, triumphed by a single point with a score of 48-47. The fourth quarter was an exciting climax with neither team ahead by more than two points at any time.

Danny Fisher led the scoring for the Tigers with 13 points. Tony Geyer rang up 12 points for the Cats.

The Rising Star girls led all the way in their contest with the May girls, but they had to fight a strong holding action in the tension-filled fourth quarter to keep the May team from overtaking them. Shirley White of May was game high with 17 points. Colleen White and Bess Lee of the Rising Star girls scored 16 and 1 points, respectively.

The final score was 46 to 40. In 9-A district competition at

County Voter Registration Approaches Figure of 9,000

An educated estimate of the number of eligible voters registering in Eastland county for the 1968 elections, is an astonishing 8,760. County Tax Assessor-Collector Edgar Altom, the county's registration officer, His office had not completed an said the figure would be close, audit of the registration results and will not be prepared to state a definite figure until the lists are checked.

The high registration figure amazed even knowledgeable county officials who had predicted an ultimate 7,500, and had been hesitant even in that forecast.

The figure is 2,000 more than the number of Eastland counties who voted in the 1964 presidential election and far greater than the number who paid poll taxes in the last year of that method of registration.

It was accomplished by good organization, particularly in the appointment of temporary deputies for registration all major county communities outside of Eastland, and a campaign of persistent and general publicity through the newspapers and otherwise, to urge upon all citizens that they register.

Of great significance in the big increase, according to observers, however, is the fact that it did not cost anything.

Only 2 County-wide Races Are Contested

The deadline for filing in the 1968 democratic primary passed Monday with only two of the county at large political offices to be filled this year in contest so far as could be learned Tuesday. One of the offices to be filled—the county and district attorney's posts, which are combined—drew no candidate at all.

There was the possibility of course that there were filings with the county democratic committee unreported or still in the mails, but this was not likely.

The only races of a county-wide nature in contest are those for judge of the 91st Judicial District, an intra-county office, and for the county tax assessor-collector. The two candidates seeking the judgeship are Truman P. Kirk of Cisco and Earl Conner, Jr., of Eastland. Judge Frank Sparks who now occupies the bench, did not choose to seek another term.

In the contest for county tax assessor-collector, Edgar Altom, who is serving his first term, is opposed by Eddie Pietraszek of Eastland.

Sheriff L. E. (Lefty) Sublett is unopposed for a second term. In Precinct 3, which includes Rising Star, Incumbent L. J. Collins is opposed by Delbert Tarver in the race for county

SLOWLY IMPROVES

M. G. Joyce, Rising Star business man and owner of the Joyce Dry Goods store, was reported slowly improving in Shackelford County Hospital at Albany. Mr. Joyce has been under treatment for two weeks, and it was not yet known when he would be dismissed.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Breeden of Colorado City visited friends and relatives in Rising Star and the Amity community over the week-end.

BYRON RICHARDSON

Cross Plains Man Seeks Election To Legislature

Byron Richardson of Cross Plains this week authorized The Rising Star to announce that he will be a candidate for the Texas Legislature from the 53rd Representative District comprising Eastland, Callahan, Shackelford, Stephens and Palo Pinto counties, subject to the May 4 democratic primary.

"I feel that the office in the Texas House needs more mature representation," he said. Richardson spent 42 months with the first Cavalry during World War II, and saw some service in the South Pacific with the rank of sergeant.

He has attended a special school of law and government at Texas A&M University and Cisco Junior College for one year.

Richardson is past director of the West Texas County Judges and Commissioners Association, a 32nd degree Mason, and a member of the First Baptist Church of Cross Plains. He and his wife and three of their four children live at Cross Plains.

He is a native of Stephens County, served four years as deputy sheriff in Callahan County and four years as Callahan county judge.

Creighton Will Be CC Dinner Speaker

State Senator Tom Creighton and Lt. Gov. Smith from the state.

During the dinner program, special awards will be made to the outstanding man and woman civic workers and to the farm family selected as most outstanding in the Rising Star area during 1967.

New officers for the CofC will also be installed. They are Gene Rhodes, president; Bill Medley, vice-president and A. D. Jenkins, secretary-manager.

Details of the program will be announced by President H. McDonald within a few days.

Musgrove To Ask Second Term In State Legislature

State Rep. Burke Musgrove of Breckenridge this week told The Rising Star that he will be a candidate for a second term as State Representative from the 53rd District comprised of Eastland, Callahan, Stephens, Shackelford and Palo Pinto Counties.

Mr. Musgrove, who is now serving his first term, said he would have a statement to make later in the campaign.

Brother of Mrs. Floyd Joyce Dies

Funeral services for Clarence L. Bigby, 65, were held at 3 p. m. Sunday in the Arrington-Hammer Funeral Chapel at Eastland, with the Rev. Eugene Williams, pastor of the First Christian Church, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Jay Beavers, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Rising Star. Burial was in Eastland cemetery.

Mr. Bigby died unexpectedly in the Eastland Memorial Hospital at 7 a. m. Saturday.

He was born May 22, 1902, at Denison. He was a retired Texas Electric Service Company employee and had lived at Eastland 41 years. A former Rising Star resident, he was married to Miss Novella McCracken February 15, 1926, in Cisco.

Survivors include his wife, two sons, James L. of Fort Worth and John of the home; one sister, Mrs. F. B. Joyce of Rising Star, three grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

IMPROVES AFTER ATTACK

Mrs. Russell Dill, who suffered an apparent heart attack during the morning services Sunday at the Church of Christ, was reported recovering at a Brownwood hospital to which she was taken by Higginbotham ambulance.

E. L. Gaines of Iraan visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Joyce during the week-end.

W. B. Starr, Long Time Farm Leader, Dies at 89

Funeral services for W. B. Starr, 89, longtime agricultural leader in the Southwest, were held at Cisco Saturday at 3 p. m. Burial was in Seranton cemetery near the home and farm where he occupied so many years of his long life in demonstrating the agricultural practices and advances he advocated.

Mr. Starr died in Hendricks Memorial Hospital in Abilene at 10 a. m. Wednesday, January 31.

The services Saturday were held at the First Baptist Church and the Rev. Jesse Cassle, pastor of the church, officiated.

Mr. Starr was born April 17, 1878, at Richmond, Indiana. After finishing the 9th grade in the public schools, he went to New York and finished his formal education. He was married on August 6, 1903, in Nebraska to the former Elizabeth Jeffreys, and they arrived in Cisco on December 20, 1903, and at their farm home, seven miles southwest of Cisco, on January 1, 1904.

The Starrs bought 320 acres of land — Highland Springs Farm — and they lived there since coming to Cisco. Over the years, Mr. Starr added to his land holdings, and his cultivated acres grew from one to more than 200 with the balance in pastures.

During a two-year period, 1912-14, Mr. Starr was employed by

May Water Board Elects Officers

The May Water Supply board and water members met in the May club house to have their annual meeting and elect new directors this week.

O. A. Burnett was chosen as president; W. C. Wilson vice-president; Mrs. Grace Glenn secretary-treasurer, and George Michael, Victor McCallie and W. L. Young were named directors. Harold Kennedy, Brown county FHA supervisor, and Elmer L. Foster, district supervisor, each gave suggestions on getting new water members.

At this date there are 49 water members and the system is ready to tie three new members into service from its lines, the meeting was told.

Several new houses were also reported being built on the strength of the new water system.

Widow of Pioneer Okra Doctor Dies; Services Saturday

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Lela (House) Bell, 94, a resident of Okra for 58 years, who died Friday of last week in Twilight Acre Nursing Home, were held in Higginbotham Funeral Chapel at Rising Star at 2 p. m. Saturday, February 3. The Rev. Jay Beavers, pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiated and burial was in the Sipe Springs cemetery under Higginbotham direction.

Mrs. Bell, widow of a pioneer Okra community physician, Dr. C. W. Bell, was a native of Washburn, Ark., where she was born on April 13, 1873. She was married to Dr. Bell there on Jan. 8, 1899. Her husband died in 1930.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Ira L. Edwards of Midland and Miss Madge Bell of Rising Star, and one sister, Mrs. Grady Adams of Rising Star.

She was a member of the Methodist Church. Pallbearers for the services were J. C. Claborn, C. A. Claborn, Paul Maxwell, Alton B. Clark, E. H. Hill and Everette Parker.

Need a summer job? If so, now is the time to start planning for one. Knowing where to look for jobs is one of the biggest steps in finding summer employment. One could put himself into business by mowing lawns or washing windows, cars, or whitewash basements. One can baby-sit, tutor, or aid an elderly or handicapped person. The large chain stores, as well as restaurants, filling stations, garages, laundries, or cleaners, will often give summer work to students. Construction crews offer summer opportunity for those who are able to do such work as building houses, highways, bridges, dams, etc.

Many large companies—magazines, housewares, home appliances, cosmetics—hire students for the summer to do house-to-house selling. The work may be difficult, but the pay is good. When one has obtained an interview, there are three important things to remember; dress, punctuality, and attitude. One should always wear clothes which are becoming to himself, but more important than the style is cleanliness. Of course, no one would arrive late for an interview. Remember, also to be courteous, sincere, enthusiastic, and friendly.

NOT FINISHED, JUST BEGUN

Well, first of all we would like to congratulate the people who are in the Senior play. They are Brenda Bailey, Peggy Burns, Beverly White, Belinda Hickman, Shirley Smith, Debbie Medley, Jackie Bibby, Weldon Starks, and Ronnie Cotton.

The Seniors are proud to say we had the most Who's Who students. Our five include Beverly White in Civics, English IV, and Physics; Sandra Lemay in Typing I; Belinda Hickman in Homemaking III; Brenda Bailey in American History; and James Gerhardt in Plane Geometry.

J. G., if you would check your clothes before you put them on, of them so fast!

R. C., Mrs. Claborn cannot see like that.

Until next week - -

TO MAKE THE BEST BETTER

Hi! The Juniors are all very excited. Why? We ordered our class rings. They should be here either the last of April or the first of May. Fourteen of us got aquamarine stones, which is a pale blue, seven got blue, and three got gold. Until our rings come, every day that passes we shall get more and more excited.

B. L., did you really forget your shoes? C. W., your dream must have been a dilly if it caused you to fall off the bed. R. H., what did that P. M. put on your neck stand for? D. H., are you sure that game was a domino game? R. W., you should have eaten before you drank! Yep! Yep! Yahooie! We beat C. P. 17 points.

Got to go!

Linda

THERE'S ROOM AT THE TOP

The Freshmen are hard at work. We are trying to raise our grades.

We are glad to have a new boy. We hope you like it here, Travis Miles.

Some of the Freshmen are thinking about entering politics. We might even nominate a couple of them for president.

We say a film last week in General Science that stressed the idea that insects are eating up all the plants gradually. It was interesting.

In Related Math we are studying about triangles and trigonometry.

Capitalization and punctuation are the main topic in English I. We are still trying to figure out the different kinds of verbs - transitive passive and active, and intransitive linking and complete.

The girls in Home Economics are getting ready to sew. The work will be mostly individual, and some of the girls are glad.

The Ag. I boys are studying about soil conservation.

We are ready for the upcoming talent show. We do not have anything to enter as a class yet, though.

This is all for this week.
Carol

TOWARD NEW HORIZONS

This six weeks is about half over now. Just imagine, about 15 weeks to go before the end of school!

The Homemaking I girls are preparing to sew by discussing all types of material. B. K., how do you look in orange or pea green?

The Homemaking II girls are cooking. We prepared some very good biscuits the other day. We are getting ready to prepare our first meal of the year.

Until next week.

They were accompanied by H. L. Geyer, chapter advisor.

ished that they could not each have raised the small sum of $1.75 to have qualified as voters under the old poll tax regime.

The suggestion inevitably occurs that they simply were not enough concerned; that the right to vote was not important enough to cost them anything. It is not very comforting in the estimate of the influence it may have upon the future course of our country to reflect that many of those who registered in the excess did so because the registration was free; because all that it cost was a few moments with a pencil, a postage stamp or a trip to the nearest registration center. In that respect I am speaking of Eastland county as a microcosm of the nation as a whole.

Let's hope that an increased participation may cultivate a wider and sounder respect for the values of our citizenship and the political obligations of the individual. If so, we have gained much more than we have discovered.

W. B. Starr---

Credit Association. He was active in various Cisco and Eastland County farm programs and organizations.

Mr. and Mrs. Starr raised nine boys and one girl at their farm. One son, Lee Starr, had been associated with his father in operating their farm and livestock interests for the past decade. The Starr peanut allotment of 160 acres has long been one of the region's largest.

Mr. Starr was an early advocate of good farming practices, including crop rotation, winter legumes, etc. The first carload of commercial fertilizer ever used in Eastland county arrived in Cisco addressed to W. B. Starr. He formed a pool some 45 years ago to buy Irish potato seed for area farmers by the carload and this plan has been used annually since that time.

Four years ago, the Texas Agriculture Experiment Station at Stephenville developed a special type of Spanish peanut for this region and named the new variety in honor of W. B. Starr, who had been a pioneer in peanut growing. Starr peanut seed are still in considerable demand.

Mr. Starr's father, the late Joseph West Starr, was an officer in the Union Army during the Civil War, and he died during a visit to Cisco.

Soon after his 80th birthday in 1958, Mr. Starr wrote a statement to be attached to the abstract of title covering the land he owned. It read: "The true wisdom we acquire during our lives comes from our Almighty Father . . . His voice, if we seek it, will guide our steps as we journey through life . . . Many good farmers soon come to realize that the proper care of their soil constitutes a part of God's wisdom . . . The true title to all land rests in the hands of God."

Surviving Mr. Starr are his wife of the home; one daughter, Mrs. Ethel Starr Black, Cisco; and eight sons, E. W. Starr of Albuquerque, W. J. Starr of Texarkana, James Starr of San Antonio, Rupert Starr of Dannebrog, Nebraska, Robert and Lee Starr of Cisco, Bruce Starr of Baltimore, and Charles W. Starr of Concord, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Dorsett of Odessa and Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Atwood of Hobbs, New Mex., visited Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kornegay over the week-end and attended funeral services for the 4-day-old infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Atwood of Brownwood. Graveside rites were held in the Pioneer cemetery.

Anderson has just completed three and one-half years of service at Aerospace command Headquarters ENT at Colorado Springs to which post he was transferred after two years at Goose Bay Air Base, Labrador—the base, incidentally, to which the Air Force bomber that crashed recently in the Arctic with H-bombs aboard, was attached.

Both Col. Anderson and his wife are former students in Rising Star High School. They have two sons, Ronnie, who is president of the Community Savings and Loan Association M., a sophomore student at Fredericksburg, and Thomas Southwestern University at Georgetown. The younger boy, a History and French major, plans to take his third year of college work at a French University and to complete his final year at Southwestern.

It Has Been

By Vada Arnold

If you have never attended a church service under a tabernacle you have missed half of your life.

Located on each church lot in town was a tabernacle. A plot of ground approximately 50 x 75 feet was cleared of all weeds and rubbish and a roof, supported by posts along the sides and through the middle was raised. At one end a platform large enough to accommodate a public stand, choir and piano or reed organ, was built.

After the tabernacle was built, farmers who were members of the particular church hauled clean, new oat straw by wagon loads and spread it thickly on the ground under the tabernacle.

The next step was the placing of benches with high, straight backs, made of wooden slats. There was always benches arranged along the ends of the platform for the "amen corner," where the prominent brethren of the congregation sat. From this corner arose a hearty chorus of amens, as the preacher brought the message for the day.

A water barrel was a must. It stood on a rudely built stand under a nearby tree. Two tin cups swung by cotton strings attached to the barrel, afforded refreshment to the weary churchgoers. And strange as it seems, a terrific thirst always afflicted the young of the congregation. Frequently during a long sermon, children and young people traipied through the oat straw and out to the water barrel.

Families sat together, sometimes one family filled two of the rough benches with younger children while the older brothers and sisters sang in the choir.

Some parents allowed their children to sit on front seats with their friends and Sunday school classmates, provided a Sunday School teacher sat near to see that there was no whispering, fidgeting or bad conduct of any kind. Often a little boy's ear was pinched and he was admonished to sit up straight and be a "little man"; then at times a mischievous boy reached through the slats of a bench to pull a little girl's long braid of hair, or tie the braid to the slat of the bench with the gay ribbon tied on the braid. For this he was dutifully reprimanded. The little girls were not all sugar and spice. They chewed the corners of song books, whispered and giggled occasionally, but as a rule, all were well behaved. For there was the constant reminder floating through their minds of the woodshed and razor strap.

Merchants in town furnished fans made of cardboard, bearing an advertisement of the business establishment on one side and a colored print of a beautiful young lady or a peaceful meadow with cows lying in the shade. These fans circulated the hot summer air, relieved the sun's glare from tired eyes when held near the side of one's face. The greatest benefit derived from the fans was shooting the hundreds of flies away. Wasps became very religious during the "Big Meetin'" season and buzzed joyously above the bald heads of the male worshippers or sat on the wide brim of a "Merry Widow" hat worn by some more sophisticated female. Not always were these pests peaceful, for they often applied their stingers forcefully into the flesh of an avid listener to the gospel and made that listener jump from his seat and run to the water barrel for a cooling dab of water on the bite.

Mothers always brought one or two quilts to the evening services, and some brought pillows. The quilts were spread on straw, at the outer edge of the tabernacle for the sleepy "young uns." Many times the children slept undisturbed throughout the service; at other times at the close of the meeting at night, one or two or three sisters became so filled with the joy of salvation that they shouted loudly, clapped their hands and ran wildly over the congregation. When this happened the smaller children screamed with fright and the older ones took refuge by rolling under the nearest bench.

It was the custom to have dinner on the ground on the last Sunday of the meeting. Everybody had an opportunity to eat, visit and renew acquaintances. Every tabernacle meeting had a humorous side, but far-reaching good was accomplished by fervent preaching, prayer and gospel singing. Many lives were rededicated and the entire community was greatly benefitted by these tabernacle big meetings.

North Star Club Meets All Day On Tuesday

The North Star Club met in regular session Tuesday for an all day meeting. A quilt for Mrs. Clara Burkhead was almost finished.

A noonday covered dish lunch was served. At 2 p. m. a business meeting was held. Mrs. Hattie Goss read the 1st Psalm and led in prayer.

Twenty-three shirts were finished and delivered to the Twi lite Acre Nursing Home.

Mrs. Jess O. Perry and Mrs. Goss served as hostesses for the day. Hot chocolate and coffee with brownies and lemon cake were served to thirteen members and one visitor, Mrs. Susie Coursey. — Mrs. Mabel Ralston, Reporter.
