Veteran Land Commissioner Bascom Giles Resigns Post

GI Farm Program Object Of Probe

By DAVE CHEAVENS
AUSTIN, Jan. 1 (AP) — Bascom Giles, who originated, then headed up, Texas' 100-million-dollar Veteran land program, quit today in the midst of an investigation of the program.

In office so that his successor "may have the fullest opportunity to work with the legislature in its effort to strengthen the entire program."

"While there is nothing seriously wrong with the veteran's land program, yet it can not be denied that the investigation made by the Senate committee revealed the need for additional safeguards and perhaps a complete revision of the basic law," Giles said.

He was to have taken the oath today for a new two-year term as land commissioner—a post he has held since his first election in 1938. The land commissioner is also automatically chairman of the Veterans Land Board.

"A successor will be named at the earliest possible date," Shivers announced late today. There was no further comment from the governor.

The board administers the GI farm buying program which started in 1948. Under it, Texas veterans of World War II and Korea could buy farms up to $7,000 in value on 3 per cent loans maturing in 40 years.

Giles today said that 15,000 veterans have been enabled to buy land under it with state help "but without any burden on the tax payers."

Practices of some promoters who bought big blocks of land with state money for apparent resale to veterans have been under investigation by the attorney general.

FEW DISTURBANCES

New Year's Eve, Day Quiet In City

Apparently a number of Big Springers celebrated New Year's Day in the privacy of their homes, as there was little activity on city streets Saturday.

The downtown sector was practically deserted during the morning and early afternoon, with automobile traffic picking up around 3 p. m. By nightfall quite a few vehicles were parked in the areas around movie houses.

Officers reported no violence during the day, and so far as was known there had not been any accidents through the late afternoon.

New Year's Eve night was uneventful officers reported, though there were quite a few people about. One fight was reported at the Stampede dance hall, but police were informed of only a few other disturbances.

Three celebrants were arrested during the night. One man was charged with drunkenness, another accused of driving while intoxicated, and the third booked for discharging fire arms in city limits.

Francisco Jara, 1001 NW 1st, said his automobile was stolen about 9:45 p. m., but police found it about an hour later where it had been abandoned under the west viaduct.

Shortly after midnight a 1949 Plymouth hit a telephone pole at the Wagon Wheel Restaurant, but onlookers said the driver "wobbled" the car away before officers arrived.

John King, 407 Pennsylvania, reported that his parked car was struck by a "hit-and-run" driver about 2 a. m. The accident occurred near the intersection of Third and Gregg.

Sheriff's officials said that dances in establishments on the edge of the city were well attended. Police reported that a large number of people were also partying at the Settles Hotel.

Church watch-night parties were popular, and officers stated that the number of people attending such functions was tremendous.

By far the largest number of residents stayed at home on New Year's Eve, and there were quite a few house parties. Officers said that most of these parties were conducted in an orderly manner without complaints.

The man accused of driving while intoxicated was arrested by police at Third and Benton Streets. He was released on $500 bond by sheriff's officials Saturday pending charges and trial. The man accused of firing the gun was released after posting $300 bond pending trial.

Ike Cuts Off Korean GI Bill For Recruits

AUGUSTA, Ga., Jan. 1 (AP) — President Eisenhower issued an executive order today cutting off for new recruits a substantial amount of veterans' benefits granted after the outbreak of hostilities in Korea.

The benefits withdrawn affect hospitalization and non-service connected pensions, educational allowances, GI loan assistance for the purchase of homes, farms and businesses, and housing assistance.

Men and women now in uniform will not be affected by the order, said James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary. It will apply only to those who enter the armed forces after Jan. 31, 1955.

"The action today does not terminate the state of national emergency proclaimed by the President (Truman) in 1950 in connection with the Korean conflict," the White House stated.

Hagerty estimated that the government had a maximum liability of about 45 million dollars a month under the veteran's benefit program before it was curtailed by today's proclamation. He said he was unable to estimate what the savings would be under the new order.

In addition to cutting off certain benefits for new recruits, the order also terminates as of Jan. 31 the tax exemption on pay of military personnel in the Korean combat zone.

"The proclamation and the executive order terminate accrual of further wartime benefits rights by reason of military service after that date (Jan. 31)," the White House statement said.

"Persons who acquired eligibility for these benefits on the basis of service before Feb. 1, 1955, will be able to use it subject to liberal time limitations specified in the laws."

"The White House explained the action 'is in keeping with the long established practice whereby the Congress has limited entitlement to wartime veterans' benefits to periods of military service associated with hostilities.' The statement added:

"It . . . does not impair the so-called peacetime veterans' benefits . . . persons serving in the armed forces will continue to receive entitlement to substantial peacetime veterans' benefits provided by the Veterans Administration, the Department of Defense and other agencies."

These include hospital and medical care, disability and death compensation, the $10,000 indemnity, insurance, disability, or other retirement pay, and the six months' death gratuity.

Pasadena Holds Parade In Rain

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 1 (AP) — In light rain and chill breeze Long Beach won its seventh Tournament of Roses victory today with a float displaying 200,000 blossoms and Miss Universe of 1954 — Miriam Stevenson of Winnboro, S. C.

The crowd cheering and applauding the nearly 2-hour spectacle along the 3 1/2-mile route was estimated by Chief of Police Clarence Morris at 1 1/2 million. He said it was the biggest in the Tournament's 66-year history and caused the worst bumper-to-bumper traffic jam ever.

NBC estimated more than 35 million viewers saw its nationwide telecast of the world-famed pageant of floral and feminine beauty.

"Familiar Sayings in Flowers" was the theme of the procession, in which Chief Justice Earl Warren was Grand Marshal. The former governor of California, who was loudly cheered, rode with his wife in a convertible decorated with 5,000 roses.

Beauty Wears Long Underwear At Rose Tournament Parade

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 1 (AP) — Miss Universe wore long underwear in the chilly and rain-dampened Tournament of Roses parade today but couldn't find the right size.

Miriam Stevenson, 21, Winnboro, S. C., who won the international beauty pageant at Long Beach last summer, rode that city's sweepstakes prize-winning float in today's 66th annual tournament. Like other float-borne beauties she wore longies but the nearest size available for her 24-inch waist was a pair with a 28-inch middle. She took a tuck with a safety pin.

Her gown was a white formal.

HUSKY BOY IS FIRST BABY OF NEW YEAR

There's a Mr. 1955 in Howard County.

He's William Lee Pounds, a husky six-pound, eight-ounce fellow who rates as the country's "First Baby" of the New Year.

William Lee was born at 12:26 a. m., Jan. 1, at the Cooper Hospital, and was "doing fine," as was the mother, Father, W. E. Pounds of 117 Madison Street, also was holding up well despite an acute case of parental pride.

William Lee and his parents will receive a fine shower of gifts from various merchants and business institutions of the city, who annually join in a special salute to the year's first arrival.

A "bear mist" for the prizes was Brenda Kay Thomas, born at 11:58 p. m. Friday. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Thomas, 805 Rosemont, and weighed 6 pounds, 11 ounces.

Born in the last moments of 1954, she can be counted as an "exemption" for income tax purposes for the entire year—a considerable prize for her parents.

Reviewing The Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

Winter and Spring in one week! After balmy weather on Monday, we had snow and biting cold on Tuesday and Wednesday, though not nearly so heavy as to the immediate north and east. Saturday was strictly shirtheese weather. Now that 1955 is here, we'd like to see it settle down to getting damp.

First baby of the new year in the county is young William Lee Pounds, the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Pounds, 117 Madison. He was born only 26 minutes past midnight. Much closer but missing the prizes was Brenda Kay Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Thomas, 805 Rosemont. She was born just two minutes before midnight Friday. Mr. Thomas can console himself with a nice tax exemption in the nick of time.

Seems like we've been having a wave of heart attacks lately. Last week heaped two stunning cases on the others—a fatal attack which

Midland Permits Up

MIDLAND, Tex., Jan. 1 (AP) — Midland building permits issued during 1954 totaled $12,225,058, an increase of $61,248 over the previous year's figure.

TV Concern Gets Charter; Stock Offering Is Planned

Further steps toward establishment of a television station in Big Spring are being taken, with granting of a state corporate charter to a new operating firm, it was announced Saturday by Jack Wallace.

A charter has been granted to Big Spring Television, Inc., with capitalization of $200,000, and plans are to offer shares of this stock in the immediate future, Wallace said.

The Federal Communications Commission has granted a TV permit to Big Spring Broadcasting Company, operators of radio station KBST, for the construction and operation of a telecasting station on Channel 4. Application will be made to the Commission for authority to assign the permit to the new television corporation, Wallace said. Officers and directors in the two companies are the same, Wallace being president, Louis Seibert of San Angelo, sec-

AGREES TO RETURN

Hunted Phenix City Witness Caught In Downtown Odessa

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 1 (AP) — One of the most widely hunted witnesses in the A. L. Patterson murder, ex-policeman W. M. (Buddy) Jowers of Phenix City, was arrested in Odessa, Tex., today and readily agreed to return to Alabama for questioning.

Jowers, a powerfully built 6 feet 4.20-pounder, was assistant police chief at Phenix City when the anti-vice crusading Patterson was slain last June 13. He disappeared shortly afterward.

Patterson had won the Democratic nomination for attorney general on a pledge to drive racketeers out of Phenix City but was shot to death in an alley outside his law office before he could be sworn in as the state's chief legal officer.

MacDonald Gallion, young Montgomery attorney deputized by Gov. Gordon Persons as a special counsel and assistant attorney general during the Patterson murder investigation, caught Jowers on an Odessa street this morning and arrested him without resistance.

Gallion said the former police officer agreed to waive extradition and that they would return to Phenix City immediately.

Police in Odessa said Gallion called them at 9:30 a. m. today to say he had arrested Jowers and that Jowers had waived extradition. The two left for Alabama this morning, later when asked why Texas police did not make the arrest an Odessa police official said "That's one thing we're checking on ourselves."

Odessa Detective Lt. Bill Silvey said he had worked with Gallion on the case about a month ago. He said they traced Jowers to Jai, N.M., then back to Lubbock.

Jowers was arrested on four indictments returned against him by the recent vice housecleaning grand jury which brought charges against more than 150 gamblers and other racketeers during a 41-month cleanup drive that started with Patterson's death.

One indictment against the ex-policeman charged him with offering a bribe to former Chief Deputy Sheriff Albert Fuller of Phenix City, one of three men indicted for Patterson's killing. The remaining three indictments were made-measures.

Federal Official Sees Ike Candidate In 1956

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1 (AP) — Walter Williams, undersecretary of commerce, said today that in his opinion President Eisenhower will unquestionably be the Republican nominee for President again in 1956.

He made his prediction in response to questions on the "Capitol Cloakroom" radio program over CBS.

U.N. Chief Sees British, French

PARIS, Jan. 1 (AP) — U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld left Europe today for Red China, briefed on the British and French think can be done to keep peace in Asia.

His main job is to seek the freedom of 11 U. S. airmen, held as spies in China, and other imprisoned U. N. personnel. He took a New Year's wish for success from Premier Pierre Mendes-France, with whom he conferred for an hour at Orly Airfield.

Then he set off for Beirut, Karachi and New Delhi, where he is to have a talk with India's Prime Minister Nehru before meeting with Premier Chou En-lai in Peking.

Nehru, returning to India today from a conference of Asian premiers in Indonesia, described as "unfortunate" the decision of the United Nations to send Hammarskjöld to Peking to seek release of the American airmen.

Nehru told reporters in Calcutta he could not express an opinion on the merits of the case but said the U. N. decision was reached in a one-sided manner without going into the question fully.

The first meeting between Hammarskjöld and Chou is due about Wednesday.

In view of his top level talks along the way, it is believed the two men will have a general talk about problems in Asia.

Red China Radio Hints Rebuff For U. N. Head

TOKYO, Sunday, Jan. 2 (AP) — Peking threw out fresh hints yesterday that U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld, now on his way by plane for talks in Red China, will be rebuffed in his mission to free 13 captured Americans sent to jail as "spies."

The broadcast said that depictions of two seized Chinese Nationalist "agents" proved that John Thomas Downey, 24, of New Britain, Conn., not only trained them but flew over Manchuria and personally air-dropped them such supplies as Tommy guns and a radio.

It is the U. S. contention that Downey, cousin of singer Morton Downey, was an Army civilian employee, who hopped a plane ride for Tokyo but was captured when the plane was shot down over North Korea, Nov. 29, 1952. The Reds claim the plane was shot down over Manchuria.

Fire Extinguished

A small fire at Willard Neel's Transfer, 1100 W. 3rd, was extinguished by the fire department Friday. The fire started from a leaky hose on some welding equipment owned by the firm. No damage was reported.

Students To Head Back To Schools

It's "back to the grind" for upward of 6,000 scholastics in Howard County on Monday morning. School doors will be open here, and at virtually all schools in the county, at 8:30 a. m.

Howard County Junior College will begin classes at 9 a. m. In both college and in the high schools, pressure will be on to wind up the first semester before the month is out.

THE WEATHER

BIG SPRING AND VICINITY: Partly cloudy and mild today and tonight. Monday: Partly cloudy and occasional showers and snow. Temperature considerably cooler Monday night. High today 72, low tonight 44. High tomorrow 70, low tonight 44. High 5 a. m. tomorrow 59 in 1955. Lowest low date 1 in 1955, 1947 maximum rainfall this date 0.23 in 1955.

Four Die In Headon Mishap Near Cisco

By The Associated Press
A headon car crash that killed four persons near Cisco, in West Texas Saturday pushed Texas' holiday violent death toll to 145.

Eighty-six persons have been killed in traffic crashes since the count began Dec. 23. It will end Sunday midnight.

Based on the number of deaths in the first 10 days of the long Christmas-New Year's holiday, the count will fall below the pre-holiday forecast of 203 violent deaths.

But heavy Sunday traffic still is to come. Killed at Cisco were Harold Mancke, 26, Eastland; Dale Cook, 20, Lota Barbara Caffey McFarland, 22, and Larry Neal McLanlan, 16, all of Cisco.

Other latest deaths reported include: James Wallace Hamby, 41, Kerrville, killed Saturday when his car missed a curve near Kerrville.

Kenneth Grantham, 15, Amarillo, accidentally shot at Amarillo Friday.

Maggie Merchant, 70, Silsbee, died when her home burned Friday.

Charles B. Scrivner, 35, Sherman, shot to death near Sherman Friday.

Homer Phillips, 27, Dayton, shot near Dayton Friday.

Billy Lee Walker, 28, killed when struck by a car near Maude Friday.

Rosemary Taylor, 3, burned to death in a home fire at Dallas Saturday.

Simon Garza, 25, stabbed to death in San Antonio Friday.

Dean Chapman, 45, of Rusk, chief deputy sheriff of Cherokee County, killed Friday when crushed between his parked truck car and a skidding tractor about seven miles east of Jacksonville.

Francisco Cruz, 76, killed by a car as he walked across U. S. 61 at Von Army, south of San Antonio, Friday night.

Holiday Traffic Toll May Pass Prediction

Traffic deaths piled up Saturday at a rate which threatened to pass the 240 toll predicted for the New Year's holiday period.

Since 6 p. m. Friday 164 persons were killed in automobile accidents, fires and other accidental mishaps. Traffic crashes accounted for 134 lives and 12 died in fires. Another 18 died from miscellaneous causes.

The National Safety Council estimated traffic accidents would cause 240 deaths during the weekend observance, 152 less than the 392 killed during the Christmas holiday.

When one-third of the 54-hour New Year holiday period had passed, Ned H. Dearborn, president of the Council, termed the mounting toll of traffic dead "a national tragedy."

Dollar Day That's Worthy Of New Year Set Monday

A Dollar Day worthy of the new year is in store for shoppers of the Big Spring area on Monday, as merchants of the city coordinate special offerings for the customary first-Monday bargain carnival.

Big Spring's Dollar Days, from long standing, represent sharp values for thrifty shoppers throughout this area. The first Dollar Day of 1955 is no exception. Most major retailers, representing merchandise of all descriptions, have special bargains for the day, and their featured offerings are to be found in ads in today's Herald.

French Milk Drive Slips

PARIS, Jan. 1 (AP)—Milk didn't do so good in France today.

A pretty American high school girl tried to present Premier Pierre Mendes-France with 48 quarts of the stuff. He wasn't at his office.

The National Institute of Statistics came up with a report that Frenchmen—despite the Premier's anti-alcohol campaign—are drinking more and better wine than ever.

And friends of the Premier said that while he is still fond of milk he's getting weary of having it put in front of him so often on public occasions.

Perhaps that's why Mendes-France picked someone else to represent him when attractive Eleanor Maley of Grand Meadow, Minn., called at his office to leave 48 quarts of milk—one from each of the United States.

Eleanor, who represents the American Dairy Assn., had to turn the 48 quarts over to Roland de Moustier, secretary of state for foreign affairs.

Mendes-France was out distributing New Year's greetings to the Council of the Republic, the chamber of Parliament which must yet act on the controversial Paris accords.

Burglary Suspects Released Friday

The two Stamford youths brought here Thursday from Breckenridge on burglary charges have been released.

Leon Walton, 16, was released to custody of his parents, Terry Bohannon, 18, was freed after posting $1,500 bond Friday.

They and two others from Stamford, Don Griffin, 17, and Ralph Skiles, 21, were charged with burglarizing Brown's Trading Post No. 2 here on Oct. 26. A large quantity of liquor was stolen.

Griffin and Skiles are being held in Haskell and will be investigated by the Haskell County Grand Jury, according to District Attorney Guilford Jones of Big Spring.

All four will go before the Howard County Grand Jury when it meets late this month, Jones said.

Crash Of Tanker Blocks Suez Canal

CAIRO, Jan. 1 (AP)—More than 100 ships were anchored at both ends of the Suez Canal tonight while engineers tried to unscramble the wreckage of the heavy steel bridge and big oil tanker which blocked the strategic waterway.

The 10,892-ton tanker, World Peace, under Liberian registry, early yesterday veered into El Ferdan Bridge, nine miles north of Ismailia.

A Suez Canal Co. spokesman said engineers hoped to clear the canal in two or three days if it is possible to lift the 650-ton steel span now resting on the superstructure of the tanker.

The spokesman added that if the span cannot be raised the canal will be blocked for at least 10 more days.

Former Resident Dies At Funeral Of Wife's Father

T. A. Ayers of Odessa, formerly a resident of Big Spring, died of a heart attack at 2:30 p.m. Friday at Miami, Okla., while attending the funeral of his father-in-law, C. D. Seabolt of Seattle, Wash.

Mr. Ayers, 47, was born at Hugo, Okla., on Nov. 29, 1907. He moved to Big Spring with his parents in 1922 and worked here for the T&P Railway Company and Cosden Petroleum Corporation. He moved to Odessa in 1946.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

Survivors include his wife, two sons, Charles Ray and Billy Gene Ayers, a daughter, Virginia Lee Ayers, all of Odessa; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Ayers of Big Spring; a brother, Roy Ayers of Andrews; a sister, Mrs. M. D. Cross of Big Spring; and two grandchildren.

Story In Error

An account carried in Friday's Herald relating to a driving charge against E. D. Campbell, Big Spring, at Abilene on Thursday was in error. It listed a plea of guilty on a double count of driving while intoxicated, and reckless driving. Actually, the court threw out the DWI count. The only offense involved was reckless driving. The Herald deeply regrets this error in transcribing the account.

Lyndon Johnson Denies Having Ambitions Of Being President

By ROGER D. GREENE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1 (AP)—Over the fireplace in the office of Sen. Lyndon Johnson, Democratic floor leader, is a framed legend in bold letters:

"You ain't learnin' nothin' when you're talkin'."

Johnson hates to waste time. So he's a good listener most of the time. But when rhetorical flourishes are called for, he can hold his own with the best of them.

He's a man in a hurry, and there are those on Capitol Hill who say the goal he's hurrying to is the White House.

Already he's come a long way where he toiled under the hot Texas sun not so many years ago.

As Senate majority leader in the Democratic-controlled 84th Congress, he will quarterback his party's upper house strategy in a session that could heavily influence the outcome of the 1956 presidential election.

Interviewed in his Senate office, Johnson frowned at the mention of White House ambitions.

"Talk about my being a potential candidate is a lot of foolishness," he said. "I have no interest, no ambitions in that direction. I'm conscious of my limitations. I think it's fair to say nobody but my mama ever thought I'd get as far as I am."

Johnson's star blazed out of virtual obscurity when he was 28. Almost immediately it took on reflected brightness from the greatest political star of the day.

It happened that President Franklin D. Roosevelt was fishing off the coast of Texas in April 1937 when word came that a young Texan had just been elected to Congress in a special election on a pledge of down-the-line support for the New Deal.

Delighted, FDR summoned the victor and was so impressed that he invited Johnson to ride back to Washington with him aboard the presidential train.

Later, as a lowly freshman in Congress, Johnson was accorded the rare privilege of frequent Sunday breakfasts at the White House.

Additional impetus to his career came from the fact that House Leader Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) had served with Johnson's father in the Texas Legislature in the early 1900s. When young Lyndon came to Washington Rayburn helped him over the hurdles.

Today, at 46, Johnson is the youngest Senate Democratic leader in history. He's also chairman of the Democratic Policy and Steering committees. His salary is the same as any other senator—$12,500 a year, plus $2,500 in expense money.

"Lyndon Johnson hasn't got the best mind in the Senate," says his close friend, Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.). "He isn't the best orator. He isn't the best parliamentarian. But he's the best combination of all those qualities."

A strapping man—6 feet 3 inches and 200 pounds—Johnson is regarded as one of Washington's best-dressed men. He has a flair for $100 tailored suits, monogrammed silk shirts, $25 neckties and diamond-set gold cufflinks shaped like the map of Texas.

His speech usually is meticulous and polished, although he occasionally lapses into homey talk about "what my old daddy used to tell me."

Enemies call him an opportunist, a slick trader, a "grind" whose only interest is politics. But even his harshest critics concede he's one of the hardest workers on Capitol Hill, with an intense, driving devotion to his job.

Asked about his hobbies, Johnson says:

"I sometimes watch television, but don't like it too well. I like to go out to the ball park with (Sen.) Dick Russell, the best friend I've got, not because I like baseball, but for the company. I played baseball at college through my first base."

His impatience at arguing lost causes has led some critics to suggest acidly that Lyndon Johnson should be pronounced "lying down" Johnson—particularly when he only spoke for a brief 50 minutes during a Senate filibuster over civil rights.

But others say the high-strung Texan is simply a realist who saves his ammunition until he has the target squarely between his gun sights.

With his wife and two daughters, Lynda Bird, 10, and Lucy Baines, 7, Johnson lives in a three-story white brick house in fashionable northwest Washington, across the street from FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover.

When the Senate is in session, Johnson roves tirelessly about the chamber floor and cloakrooms, persuading his colleagues with a potent mixture of charm, badgering, flattery and reminders of past favors and future advantages. He seldom rises to make a formal speech but drives himself at a punishing pace to line up votes the way he wants them.

Mrs. Johnson was born Claudia Alta Taylor but was dubbed "Lady Bird" by her Negro nanny as a child. She is a petite, vivacious brunette with laughing brown eyes and soft Texas drawl.

"She's a wonderful woman," says Johnson of his wife. "She manages her radio business, the houses in Washington and Austin, the kids and me—and I guess I'm not the easiest person in the world to live with."

Mrs. Johnson, who inherited 3,000 acres in Tennessee from her mother's family, bought radio station KTBC in Austin in 1943 when it was deep in red ink.

"Now it's on a national TV network and doing very well," she tells you.

Asked about talk of White House aspirations for her husband, Lady Bird's eyes flashed:

"Emphatically and certainly fascinating, impossible to be bored here—but we still love Texas. That is the place where we have our roots."

Lyndon Baines Johnson was born Oct. 27, 1908, on his parents' small farm near Stonewall, Tex. His father, Sam Ealy Johnson, served 24 years in the Texas Legislature.

At 28 he ran for Congress and rode roughshod over nine opponents. He was re-elected five times before he made the Senate in 1948. Johnson interrupted his lawmaking immediately after Pearl Harbor to serve an eight-month hitch as a lieutenant commander in the Navy before President Roosevelt banned Congress members from serving in the armed forces.

General Antagonism Noted In Hungary To Commie Regime

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1 (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today released a study which concludes that "there exists widespread popular antagonism to the Communist regime in Hungary, and this regime has reached a low ebb both economically and politically."

"There is evidence of spontaneous sabotage and underground activities which, because of the thoroughness of the machinery of terror and because of the presence of the Red Army, are carried out by individuals or small isolated groups."

"Farmers leave vast areas of land uncultivated; workers do not cooperate in the fulfillment of planned production targets; and members of churches insist on worshiping according to their choosing."

Chairman Wiley (R-Wis.) said in a foreword that "nowhere in Eastern Europe do the Communists appear in imminent danger of losing control of the situation, but behind the monolithic facade of the Iron Curtain there are accumulating bitter hatreds and tensions."

Eisenhower Calls Parley On Speech

AUGUSTA, Ga., Jan. 1 (AP)—President Eisenhower has called a meeting of his Cabinet and Republican leaders in Congress for 2 p.m. Monday at the White House to discuss his State of the Union message.

The message will be delivered by the President personally to a joint session of Congress next Thursday.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends for their kindnesses shown during the illness and death of our brother, Jack Tyler, and for the beautiful floral offerings.

Demo Drive To Scrap Flexible Farm Support Program Is Set

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1 (AP)—A Democratic drive to scrap the Eisenhower administration's flexible farm price support program will get under way at the new session of Congress opening Wednesday.

With legislators preparing to head here from all parts of the country, Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) outlined today an effort to junk the price support act pushed through Congress last session. It permits lower supports in times of big surpluses to encourage consumption, and higher supports when stocks are smaller.

Humphrey, a member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said Democratic victories that gave the party control of Senate and the House are a mandate "for improvements in our farm program."

Previously, Rep. Rayburn (D-Tex), who will regain his post as House speaker, had publicly listed revision of farm price supports as a must item for Democrats in the House.

Both Rayburn and Humphrey called for a return to the mandatory 90 per cent of parity government supports which have operated since World War II.

Democrats will face an uphill battle in their farm drive. It is a safe assumption that President Eisenhower would veto any drastic revision of the administration program. Thus a two-thirds majority vote in both the House and Senate would be required to overturn the flexible support act. Democrats will have slim majorities at both ends of Congress and so must attract a lot of Republican support for any successful legislation.

There is some Republican dissatisfaction with the flexible act. One critic is Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), who has advocated supports at 100 per cent of parity.

Petroleum Engineer Names New Chief

BALLAS — Joe B. Woods, vice president and director of advertising, has been elected president of The Petroleum Engineer, internationally distributed petroleum industry publication.

W. T. Bryan, general manager and treasurer, was elected chairman of the board. Abbott Sparks, vice president, was named director of advertising; and Frank H. Love, editor-in-chief, was also named vice president. L. J. Johnston was named secretary. All appointments are effective immediately.

The Petroleum Engineer has a circulation of more than 25,000 to petroleum engineering—operating personnel in all 48 states and 56 foreign countries, and is the world's largest paid monthly oil and gas publication.

THE WORLD WE LIVE IN PROJECTED ON A 30-FOOT SCREEN!

The Lions Club of Big Spring has the rare opportunity to present the superlative series, "The World We Live In," just completed in Life Magazine.

Big Spring is one of only 150 cities in the entire United States which will have highlights of the series projected on a 30-foot screen while David Hardy, noted lecturer, carries the narration.

Except for actual expenses, all proceeds go to the Lions Charity fund. Not one penny goes to the Lions Club or to Life Magazine.

Hobby Of Model Trains Attracts Several Big Spring 'Builders'

By GLENN COOTES
A nationwide hobby which has attracted several enthusiasts in Big Spring is model trains.

Charles Hodges, owner of a hobby store, said he is getting more and more calls for the trains and their accessories. Several of his customers began the hobby with a small outlay in equipment and have built it up to quite an expensive layout.

H. T. Bratcher, Cosden Petroleum Corporation, is a model train enthusiast. He has charge of a complete layout which Cosden uses for show purposes. He also owns a complete set-up of his own which he moved from his former home in Arlington.

He states that his model train has cost him about $1,000 not counting his own time expended. The layout occupies a space about 16 x 30 feet.

Another model hobbyist is Maj. Harry Long at Webb AFB. Maj. Long is planning a whole room of his house for a layout. He expects to complete it in January.

Hodges is trying to get a model train club started in Big Spring. He believes that if he can get enough persons interested that they can establish a clubhouse.

He hopes to get a real freight car for that purpose.

Model trains as a hobby can be as expensive or economical as a person wants them to be, Hodges explained. A model train layout can be started for $5, he said, and from then on it's up to the individual.

Hodges recalled seeing one model train layout which cost $9,000 for only the scenery and track system. But, he added, this is an exceptional case. Most hobbyists confine their equipment to about $500 and only a few exceed $1,000.

Although layouts, scenery, and cars can be bought ready to use, most enthusiasts prefer to build their own, Hodges said. He sells materials to construct cars and roadways. At the present, he only handles the "do-it-yourself" type of equipment. But after the first of the year, ready built cars and equipment will be in stock.

The cars which can be built from the equipment available are exact duplicates of the cars they represent. They are perfect facsimiles in every detail to real railroad cars. The wheels have authentic springs in them which allow the cars to ride in the same manner as their counterparts.

Air Accidents At New Low In '55

OMAHA, Jan. 1 (AP)—Aircraft accidents in the Strategic Air Command, including everything from scraped wing tips to major accidents, hit a new low of 13 per 100,000 flying hours in 1954, SAC headquarters announced today.

This was accomplished despite a 27 per cent increase in flying hours and large-scale conversion to jet aircraft.

This safety record was chalked up as a major accomplishment in a year during which SAC aircraft flew almost a million hours, completed 142,000 air refueling hook-ups and announced three new aircraft — Convair's B58 supersonic medium bomber, the McDonnell F101A Voodoo supersonic strategic fighter and the CIMB Boeing-built jet transport-tanker.

In a review of the year's achievements, SAC reported that the all-jet B52 heavy bomber started to roll off the production lines, the last B36 with its six piston engines and four jets was produced, and SAC received its 1,000th B47 all-jet medium bomber.

Mendes-France Has Praise For Accords

PARIS, Jan. 1 (AP)—Premier Pierre Mendes-France today praised the German renunciation accords approved by the French National Assembly as the only way of working effectively for peace and maintaining the French alliance with the West.

"The solution adopted," he said, "is the only one that, while preserving our alliances, permits effective and rapid action for peace. The choice was between this solution and an adventure in which far from being able to contribute to easing international tension, we would have risked isolating ourselves and endangering our security."

AT HCJC

Credit Institute Set Here Jan. 10

A one-day course in retail credit procedures will be held at Howard County Junior College on Monday, Jan. 10.

The course is being sponsored by HCJC and the local Retail Merchants Association. Heinz Ulrich Jr., retail credit specialist of the University of Texas, will conduct the course.

Subjects to be discussed in the course include opening accounts profitably, reducing credit risks, increasing credit volume, controlling accounts safely, and decreasing collection problems.

The Texas Retail Credit Institute is the formal name for the course, and it will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the HCJC auditorium. The institute is being made available by the University of Texas Division of Extension.

Cost to those attending is $3 per person. Mrs. Ruth Apple of the Retail Merchants Association urges that all people engaged in retail business attend if possible.

Among those who are expected to attend are store owners or managers, credit managers, credit office employees, sales people, and individuals connected with professional services.

There will be no examinations given following the institute. Purpose of the session is to present practical ideas concerning retail credit and collection procedures.

Ulrich, according to a release from the University of Texas, is thoroughly familiar with credit procedures and has trained credit personnel in the past. The institute is approved by the major state credit organizations.

Advanced registrations in the course are urged, and enrollment forms may be mailed either to HCJC or the Retail Credit Association. If it is impossible to register in advance, there will still be plenty of time prior to the session.

Each enrollee will receive credit material including a sample form, sample credit letters, and sample collection letters.

Site Of Crash Gives Up Gems

PRESTWICK, Scotland, Jan. 1 (AP)—The muddy site of a wrecked airliner gave up more diamonds today in the treasure hunt for missing gems valued at more than 2½ million dollars. Thus far 23 have been reported found. Their value has not been given.

They were part of a consignment of uncut stones being shipped to American dealers. Some—if not all—went down with the BOAC airliner that crashed Christmas Eve at Prestwick Airport with the loss of 28 lives.

Whether any of the diamonds—mailed in several parcels—went on other planes has not yet been determined.

Some of the diamonds were blackened by heat when the plane burst into flames after crashing. Others were buried under the mud—trampled under by salvage workers.

Nehru Limits India's Disputes To Three Free World Lands

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 1 (AP)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru says there is "absolutely no chance" of India coming into conflict with any other country on a war basis with the exceptions of Pakistan, Portugal and South Africa.

"With all other countries we are completely friendly whether they like our policies or not, whether it is the East bloc or West bloc," Nehru said in a speech before a closed meeting of the Congress Parliamentary party on Dec. 22. The speech was published today in the official party periodical.

Nehru said India and Pakistan still must resolve "basic problems" between them but that their relations are "not under any great strain at the present."

He indicated the point on contention with Portugal was Goa, Lisbon's settlement on the Indian sub-continent. He did not elaborate on his reference to South Africa.

Reds Make Offer To Release Three

MOSCOW, Jan. 1 (AP)—American sources said today the Soviet Union has proposed in notes delivered to the U. S. embassy the release of two Americans long held prisoner in the Soviet Union.

Security Bureau Notes Progress

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1 (AP)—The Justice Department's Internal Security Division reported after six months' operation today that substantial progress has been made in its announced objective: "To destroy utterly the Communist conspiracy against this country."

The new division's chief, Asst. Atty. Gen. William F. Tompkins, restated the anti-Communist pledge in a yearend report to Atty. Gen. Brownell and said he would "carry on this program at an accelerated pace" in 1955.

The Tompkins report noted that in 1954, 20 additional leaders of the Communist party were convicted and 29 others were indicted under the Smith Act for conspiring to teach and advocate forcible overthrow of the government.

In addition, it said the government broadened the use of the Smith Act by invoking a clause which penalizes membership in organizations advocating government overthrow. Under this clause it brought a number of individual prosecutions against Communist functionaries, on which trials will be held early this year.

March of Dimes Campaign Begins

The annual March of Dimes campaign to raise money for victims of infantile paralysis begins today under the leadership of Mrs. Clyde Thomas Jr.

Unlike other years, the campaign will have no set quota to meet this year, Mrs. Thomas explained. All the workers are planning to collect all the money they can to turn over to the local chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Posters will begin appearing all over the city in a few days, the chairman said, and the committee will send out "coin cards" through the first week of January. These cards will reach Howard County homes through the mails and through the schools, she added.

Mrs. Howard Stephens will have charge of all the "special events" which the committee has planned. Coffee parties are being planned for the second week of the campaign, Mrs. Thomas said, and arrangements are now being made with the chairmen of the various local women's organizations.

Registration will begin in the third week of January for the talent show which will be held Tuesday, Jan. 25. Prizes will be given to participants in the show and all the gate receipts will be turned over to the local polo chapter.

Many other campaign programs are still in the formative stage, explained the chairman. For instance, booths are being sold in the local schools, blue crutches with silver dimes, will be sold at the high school, and a "coffee day" is being arranged with local restaurants.

Solicitations will be made downtown each Saturday throughout the campaign, she said. Members of the committee and other volunteers will make the solicitations. Also, several booths are being planned. The campaign will wind up with the traditional Mother's March on Jan. 31. Big Spring mothers will solicit contributions door-to-door.

The campaign for contributions is just in the nick of time, according to the chairman of the local chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Edith Gay, secretary of the Howard-Glascock county chapter, said already the chapter has bills which will exhaust the amount of cash on hand. About $12,500 was received last year by the chapter, she said, and less than $1,000 is left. Of the total amount collected, about $4,600 was spent aiding local patients.

Of the remaining funds, one-third was contributed to the National Foundation and one-third was used for gamma globulin. This year, the local chapter will keep 50 per cent of the contributions for local use, Miss Gay said.

There were 19 new cases of polio in this area during 1954, the secretary explained, and seven of them were helped from the chapter. Twelve of them had their own insurance and were able to take care of their hospital bills.

Eighteen cases in all received aid from the chapter during the year, and one death occurred. One patient, who will need more medical attention in the future, has hospital bills totaling $1,800 already, Miss Gay said. And expense for this type of medical attention are very high.

Braces, for example, are very expensive and they have to be changed quite frequently. Once they have been used, they are less for anyone else, because they are built to individual specifications.

Other hospitalization is also expensive, the secretary said, and the chapter needs all the money it can obtain to adequately assist victims in this area.

Best Ever' Are Consigned For Hereford Sale

The best group of individuals yet to be consigned to the sale... that's what officials of the Howard County South Plains Hereford Association are saying about their 11th annual offering here Thursday.

Observers who have looked over herds which will figure in the show and sale concur in this statement which Loy Acuff, secretary, made in reminders to breeders and ranchers throughout the area.

The cattle not only appear to be of better quality in conformation and breeding, but most of them are in exceptionally good flesh.

Upwards of 50 animals will figure in the show and sale, scheduled to start at the Howard County Fair Buildings south of the rodeo grounds at 9 a. m. Thursday.

The sale proper starts at 1 p. m. with Walter Britten, who has handled the sale since its inception, calling the bids. Judging will be by Fred Johnson of Mason, and Pete Peterson will manage the sale.

Breeders from as far away as Sonora and Plains are sending bulls and females to the event. This was made possible by converting the show into an open one.

Members of the association will have their annual get-together Wednesday at 7 p. m. at the Settles, and a large turnout is in prospect.

Judging at the show will include five classes for bulls: Those calving before Feb. 1, 1953; between Feb. 1 and May 31, 1953; between June 1 and Sept. 30, 1953; between Oct. 1, 1953 and Jan. 1, 1954; calved after Jan. 1, 1954.

Classes for heifers include those calving before May 31, 1953; between June 1 and Sept. 30, 1953; between Oct. 1 and Dec. 31, 1953; and after Jan. 1, 1954.

A trophy will be presented by the First National Bank to the exhibitor of the champion bull; by the State National Bank to the exhibitor of the reserve champion bull; by the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce to exhibitor of the champion female; by Dr. H. F. Schwarzenbach to the exhibitor of the reserve champion female.

Navy Cuts Red Tape To Aid Tar After Wife's Tragedy

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1 (AP)—This tells how the Navy high command reached out its long arm to divert a warship from course and give a hand to an enlisted man to hurry back to his tragedy-stricken family.

The account came to light today in a file of dispatches, telling in cryptic, abbreviated phrasing, what happened after an automobile accident killed the wife of Engineer L. C. George W. Thomas and injured his three children.

Mrs. Zella Thomas, with her children—Paul, 8, Mabel, 3, and Georgia Lynn, 2—was driving from an East Coast port to San Diego, Calif., to make a new home there, where her husband's ship would base. Thomas was aboard the destroyer Cogswell, headed for the Pacific Fleet from a former Atlantic station. Near Mineral Spring, Tex., on Dec. 9, the car swerved from the road and crashed. Red Cross authorities notified the nearest Navy office. The word was hurried to Washington naval headquarters.

In the Bureau of Personnel's Casualty Section clerks picked Thomas' card from a file, found the name of his ship. Naval operations reported the Cogswell then at a position west of the Panama Canal, headed north.

Even before the message had cleared Washington, the admiral sent another communication to Pacific Fleet commands asking if a seaplane could rendezvous with the Cogswell and pick up Thomas.

The answer went out: "From Comcrudespac to Bupers" (Commander, cruisers and destroyers, Pacific, to Bureau of Personnel). It said the Cogswell had been ordered to change course and head for the nearest port to land Thomas. The nearest port was Acapulco, Mexico.

By then the administrative machinery of the Navy was in full operation, directed at getting Thomas to the side of his children. When Thomas left his ship he had orders transferring him to temporary duty in Texas, advance pay to help him travel and take care of emergency expenses. The captain of the Cogswell had arranged for airline tickets and a passport into Mexico. At Mexico City, the embassy sent a Navy man and his wife to meet Thomas and see him aboard a Dallas-bound plane.

But Thomas and the Navy were faced with still other problems. The sea was no place for a motherless child. Thomas, with 12 years of service, wanted to stay in but felt he should leave the Navy to be near the children who would be living with their grandmother at Ravens, Ky. The Navy solved this one. New orders transferred him to shore duty at the Navy's Bureau of Aeronautics office at Wright-Patterson Air Base, Ohio—a few hours drive from the new home for his children.

He has written two letters to Navy headquarters. The first one said he was proud to know the Navy would do so much for one man of its many, but added that circumstances probably would compel him to leave service when his current enlistment was up. The second, written after his new assignment, said he intended to stay in and become a 20-year man.

THE WEEK

Instantly took James H. Friday on Tuesday and one which claimed Deputy Sheriff Dick Stevens on Thursday.

If another airport is to be secured as a requisite releasing claims on Webb AFB in event it were made a permanent base, the requirements are now known here. Last week officials were told a private one not accommodating commercial airlines could get by on 4,000-foot runways no further than five miles from Webb. If airliners were to be served—and there would be little point of building one that would not—runways would have to be 4,900 feet and no near than 10 miles to Webb.

How about that Angus cow of Woody Robison's in the Midway community? Since his return from military service Woody has been raising purebred Angus, and last Wednesday a cow had twin bull calves. It's like they say out that way—if it had been a good year with plenty of grass, she probably wouldn't have calved at all.

Coahoma has two new aldermen, Fred Adams and Leon Messer. They were named in a special election to pick successors to Earl Reid and R. D. Cramer, who go on the board of the water district which is seeking to bring a new source of supply to Coahoma and area.

Few people attain that happy goal in married life—the Golden Wedding anniversary. Yet two couples have achieved here within the week. Mr. and Mrs. Thad Hale of Coahoma on Tuesday and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Bugg today.

Mark off Thursday on your calendar. That is the day for the 11th annual Howard County South Plains Hereford Breeders Sale and Show. Advance reports indicate that the quality of the two score head being offered is just about the best yet. Take time out Thursday to go out and see how our breeders are readily helping to improve our beef trade through better stock.

There will be plenty of people to salute word that the city commission has authorized a traffic light at Sixth & Main and one at 10th and Goliad. The CTC has been asked to look into advisability of one at 10th and State—and while looking, why not one on N. Gregg? There's not a single light on all the North Side.

Gen. Dean's Son Becomes AF Cadet

Mrs. Gen. William F. Dean, Medal of Honor winner and hero of the Korean conflict, left looks on as his son, William Jr., 24, center, is sworn in as an Air Force aviation cadet by Maj. T. S. Scates in San Francisco, Calif., Gen. Dean, now deputy commander of the 8th U.S. Army at the Presidio in San Francisco, said joining the Air Force was his son's idea x x x "but I'm glad he's going to be in the service." Young Dean will report on Jan. 3 to the Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio. (AP Wirephoto.)

Humor Encyclopedia Good Fun; Readable Paperbacks

"AN ENCYCLOPEDIA OF MODERN AMERICAN HUMOR" edited by Bennett Cerf, Haverford House, New York, $3.95.

Humor anthologies can be disappointing when editors become "big name" conscious and forget to include any real humor in the book; or when they merely reprint what has already been reprinted many times before.

This anthology is a refreshing change. Over 125 choice bits of laughter by real humorists—make up the volume. Besides short stories, there are excerpts from novels, scenes from plays, radio scripts, and some excellent verse.

Mark Twain is, of course, here, but not with the "Jumping Frog" story. H. Allen Smith, Ring Lardner, S. J. Perelman, James Thurber, Will Rogers, Al Capp, and about 75 others also are represented. The Jack Benny-Fred Allen feud is included verbatim.

This is a book which will hold a permanent place on many bookshelves for future rereading enjoyment, because such a complete volume is not likely to be duplicated in the near future.

The "paper-back" books which flood almost every drugstore in this area are continuing their bid for a stable spot in book sales. Although paper-back sales are down from their high sales mark of several months back, better material and wider distribution may have a stabilizing effect on 1955 sales in the Howard County area.

Two recent publications appear worthy of mention: "ALL THESE CONDEMNED" by John D. MacDonald, Gold Medal, 25 cents.

An original novel, this is the third for MacDonald to be published by Gold Medal, and probably the best. The book rates with most any hard back novel of recent vintage for holding interest, writing ability, and style.

Splendid characterization is probably the greatest asset of the book. The author cloaks his characters in a realistic shroud of human shortcomings and virtues, which encourages a feeling of believability on the part of the reader.

Although a murder is committed, the author has not written a detective story in the present.

Sen. Morse Might Ask Re-Election As Democrat In 1956

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1 (AP)—Sen. Morse of Oregon said today he would "not hesitate" to run for re-election as a Democrat in 1956 "if I decide that I can best support and advance the cause of a sound liberal program" that way.

He added, "provided that is the desire of the Democratic party" in Oregon.

Morse, who renounced the Republican party and became an independent during the 1952 presidential campaign, declared in an interview:

"I would say there is always the possibility that I might join the Democratic party, and I think he said he does not intend to enroll as a Democrat when Congress convenes Wednesday, although he has announced he will vote with the Democrats on organizational matters. The lineup in the new Senate is 48 Democrats and 47 Republicans.

"There were 19 new cases of polio in this area during 1954, the secretary explained, and seven of them were helped from the chapter. Twelve of them had their own insurance and were able to take care of their hospital bills.

Eighteen cases in all received aid from the chapter during the year, and one death occurred. One patient, who will need more medical attention in the future, has hospital bills totaling $1,800 already, Miss Gay said. And expense for this type of medical attention are very high.

Braces, for example, are very expensive and they have to be changed quite frequently. Once they have been used, they are less for anyone else, because they are built to individual specifications.

Other hospitalization is also expensive, the secretary said, and the chapter needs all the money it can obtain to adequately assist victims in this area.

Firefighter Saves Baby After Mother Had Given Up Hope

CHICAGO, Jan. 1 (AP)—A fireman crawled through a blazing, smoke-filled apartment today and rescued a baby boy whose mother had given up hope the child could be saved.

"The baby's in there, but you can't make it!" sobbed Mrs. DeLores Waldo, 23, as firemen arrived.

Her husband, John, 23, already had been burned seriously rescuing their other sons, Gary, 4, and David, 16 months.

Fireman Michael McWalters, 43, was told 3-month-old Larry Waldo was in a crib in the dining room of the Waldos' second-floor apartment on the South Side.

He groped his way into the billowing smoke and in five minutes reappeared, holding the baby in his arms.

1954 Unemployment Pay Broke Record

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1 (AP)—Unemployment insurance payments to jobless workers totaled about two billion dollars in 1954, the U.S. Labor Department reported today.

This was a new record, topping the previous high set in 1949 by about 284 million dollars.

The record was set, the department said, despite the fact that unemployment among covered workers was lower in 1954 than in 1949.

"This was due primarily," it said, "to the increases that have been made over the last five years in the weekly benefit amount paid jobless workers, and in the numbers of workers covered by state unemployment insurance laws."

Alabama Millionaire Die In Plane Crash

RAMER, Ala., Jan. 1 (AP)—A Georgia-born contractor and sportsman who rose from obscurity to become one of Alabama's richest men died along with three friends when his private plane crashed near here New Year's Eve.

Hoke L. Vandigriff, 61, multi-millionaire president and owner of the Montgomery baseball team in the South Atlantic League, was one of two men and two women killed while flying home from the Gator Bowl football game at Jacksonville, Fla.

Vandigriff's body and two of the others were mangled beyond recognition when the plane, fighting its way through a heavy rainstorm, plunged into a field at the edge of a wooded area.

Killed with Vandigriff were Charles Womack, his pilot and president of the Montgomery Aviation Corp.; Dorothy Scott, 39, associated with Vandigriff in business, and Mrs. W. M. Hurst, 37, wife of a Montgomery fire department captain. Hurst and Vandigriff were close friends.

Cause of the crash was undetermined, but witnesses said they heard the engine cough and sputter shortly before the plane went down.

Army officers say that neither the infantry nor the armored forces was always too happy about the reconnoitering (scouting) work done by earth-bound tanks in World War II. But it was not until the rugged terrain of Korea halted the scouting tanks in their tracks and then demonstrated the versatility of the helicopter that the Army undertook a serious re-study of old cavalry manuals.

Each infantry division now has one tank company for scouting purposes. The new concept calls for its replacement by a flying cavalry squadron, with enough men and machines to cover the whole front of the division and watch for possible infiltration of the rear areas. For under the tactics of reconnaissance of atomic warfare a division and its units would be spread out to avoid destruction by a single nuclear weapon.

The Army wants to use the historical cavalry designations wherever possible to build unit spirit. Thus, the company will be a squadron, its component units will be troops, and their members will be troopers.

The first troop will fly the little helicopters. Their job will be to keep up a 24-hour watch beyond the division perimeter. Their ability to skim over the tree tops will give them some protection against ground fire, and the "copter's" jack-in-the-box capability of bobbing straight up and flopping straight down to hover or landing, any clearing will provide protection from enemy aircraft.

Whatever the snoopers' troopers in the little helicopters see they will report by radio to squadron headquarters. If the reported danger is posed by a small enemy raiding party, the squadron commander will send in his second troop, some 50 men riding larger helicopters and armed with recoilless rifles, mortars and machine guns.

If the trouble seems more serious, the third troop will move up to serve as a blocking force until heavier reinforcements are sent by division headquarters.

The third troop, at the outset, will move into the breach by land, traveling in light tanks or in armored troop carriers with self-propelled artillery. If all goes well during the training period at Ft. Bragg this spring, and in next fall's Army maneuvers when the flying cavalry will get its first big test, part of the third troop may also take to the air.

Army men are already busy at Ft. Sill, Okla., training in the techniques of "air mailing" artillery by helicopter, and in the organization of helicopter command units.

By March, the Army Aviation School will complete its move to Camp Rucker, Ala., to give basic flying training to helicopter and fixed wing aircraft pilots.

These two schools will provide most of the officers and men for the flying cavalry. The Army expects no difficulty in getting enlisted men and warrant officers to volunteer for the cavalry. As one officer put it: "We don't want and don't need fancy pilots, but they will have to be rugged, quick thinking and quick action, like the real cavalrymen they will be."

Trio Hunted After $39,000 Robbery

SANTA ROSA, Calif., Jan. 1 (AP)—A red-haired woman and two ex-convicts suspected of pulling the $39,000 Exchange Bank robbery at Cotati yesterday were still on the loose today.

They got about an hour start on pursuers by locking bank employes in the vault, getting away in a car driven by the woman. The two men, armed with pistols, came into the bank when it opened and forced employes to turn over money in the vault.

The bank is a branch institution in the rural community eight miles south of Santa Rosa.

Man Walks With Ice Pick In Head

ATLANTA, Jan. 1 (AP)—A 45-year-old man walked a mile with an ice pick protruding from his forehead in search of medical aid today.

Homicide Detective W. D. Browning said John Evans staggered into the Atlanta police station with a protruding ice pick from the center of his forehead.

Hospital doctors removed the section of metal with a pair of pliers and told him he was lucky to be alive. They said the ice pick had pierced the skull and ranged down into the sinus area.

Browning quoted Evans as saying his wife attacked him with the ice pick. He said he flinched and the ice pick broke. She was arrested on suspicion of stabbing.

Two Car Mishaps Listed On Friday

No injuries or major damage was reported in two accidents here Friday. Automobiles driven by Arlie Ernest Johnston, Webb AFB, and Monroe Clyde in Route 1, Big Spring, were in collision at Second and Main. The mishap occurred about 12:30 p. m., according to police.

The other accident happened about 5 p. m. on the east viaduct. The cars of Doyle Jay Pitt, 807 W. 4th, and Jesus Martinez Gutierrez, Coahoma, were in collision.

First Baby Of '55 In Georgia County One Of Big Family

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Jan. 1 (AP)—Glynn County's first baby of the new year Lillie Mae Clay, came into the world possessing 29 brothers and sisters, ages one through 30.

Her father, L. B. Clay of Everett City is 69 years old. By his first three wives, he numbers 18 children, all grown and living in Georgia, Texas and California.

Her mother, the present Mrs. Clay, 30, is a native of Brunswick. Lillie Mae is the 15th child the couple has had in their 15 years of married life. Counting the newest, 12 of them survive.

Lillie Mae born in a hospital here at 7:10 a. m. weighed a husky 9 pounds and ounces and like her beaming mother, is in excellent condition.

The family lives in a six room rural home on the father's approximately $75 a month old-age pension.

Ex-Felon Terrifies Couple In Detroit

DETROIT, Jan. 1 (AP)—19-year-old Detroit couple's New Year's Eve date had some terrifying hours today when they were held at gunpoint for two hours by an ex-convict who forced his way into their car.

The episode began at 5 a. m. when James Camarata and Marilyn Karczewski, parked momentarily at a street intersection in suburban Hamtramck.

They told police that Richard L. Stephens, 29, Hamtramck, climbed into the back of their car, brandishing a gun.

The trio drove around for an hour before Stephens asked for money. The couple had only $1.50 but Camarata agreed to get more if permitted to stop at an uncle's house.

Instead, the uncle and Camarata telephoned police. Meanwhile, Stephens drove away with the girl.

He got only two miles before a police car spotted him and forced his vehicle to the side of the road. Stephens tossed a toy pistol onto the back seat of the car when police closed in.

Theater-In-The-Round Held Growing Force Around U.S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1 (AP)—Zelda Fichandler, a young lady who ought to know, said today the Broadway theater may be shriveling on the vine but that, in the rest of the country, theater is starting to grow like Jack's beanstalk.

Mrs. Fichandler, an attractive, dark-haired 29, is the driving force behind one of the most successful theatrical experiments in recent years, the Arena Stage of Washington. She has produced 52 plays in its four-year career, ranging from Shakespearean tragedy to slapstick comedy.

A company in Dallas, under the leadership of Margo Jones, ranks with the Washington Arena as a ground breaker for the new movement, which uses the "theater-in-the-round" principle with spectators seated all around the stage, as opposed to the traditional "proscenium" stage.

"I think the future of the theater in this country lies in the arena principle," Mrs. Fichandler said. "The audience sits in close to the stage and feels like active participants in the play. We keep the costs down, too. Our top price is $2 for weekdays and $2.50 for weekends."

The tiny theater seats only 247

Spanish Amnesty Offered For Exiles

MADRID, Spain, Jan. 1 (AP)—All Spaniards in exile, except those responsible for crimes punishable by more than 20 years in jail, may return home freely, Foreign Minister Alberto Martin Artajo said today.

He made clear that if they realize, after returning to Spain, that they are responsible for serious crimes, they may choose between serving the applicable sentence or returning to their exile.

Artajo added that Spaniards who make their own living abroad, if not responsible for serious crimes, may visit their homeland as often as they wish.

Apparently Poor Man Dies; Search Reveals $15,000

BIVALVE, N. J., Jan. 1 (AP)—An aged, poorly dressed man died yesterday in front of the dirt flower hotel in which he lived alone. A search of his clothing and room revealed a hoard of more than $15,000 in cash.

And state police at Port Norris, two miles north of this small oyster and fishing village near the southern tip of New Jersey, said even more money may be found among the possessions of Vincent Borenski, 78.

Dr. Charles E. Sharp, on whose oyster boats Borenski had worked for many years as a deckhand, said he died of a cerebral hemorrhage a half hour after he was seized with an attack.

State police said they knew of no immediate survivors so the money was turned over to Cumberland County Judge Harry Adler, pending more thorough search of the room and efforts to locate possible relatives.

New Trial Ordered For Mickey Jelke

NEW YORK, Jan. 1 (AP)—A new trial for Minot (Mickey) Jelke, oleomargarine heir, on compulsory prostitution charges moved closer today.

The State Court of Appeals in Albany yesterday upheld a lower court ruling reversing Jelke's 1953 conviction and ordered that he be retried.

The Appeals Court said in its opinion Jelke did not have a fair trial because the press and public were barred from part of the proceedings.

"I know you and your appointee will see to it that the veteran's land program is not crippled by those who seek its destruction by the indirect means of irresponsible criticism," Giles said.

"The new commissioner will take over the office without the law-mosities that gradually build up against one who has been in office for years.

"Since it is obvious that an attempt will be made to discredit the idea of a veteran's land program, it is quite probable that a new man may be more instrumental in repelling the attack than I could be."

Giles has been in state offices for 35 years. He was a land office employe for 17 years and was elected commissioner in 1938 and for nine more terms.

DO IT YOURSELF Sectional Table Can Be Made In 'Groups'

By BILL BAKER
A fellow once said "There is nothing new under the sun." Well, I have news for him. There is something new under the sun. The new item that is changing the old saying is a sensational sectional table that is adding a whole new way of life for many people.

Sectional tables are about the most versatile item of furniture you can imagine. They can serve a dozen purposes—use them as end tables, coffee tables, bedside stands, hall tables, room dividers. And they are so strikingly modern that they become a beautiful part of the room's decoration motif.

One of the most useful places to use the sectional table is in front of your sofa. Here, perhaps, you'll want to arrange three or four to make a large and impressive grouping.

Variety Of Uses

Something new under the sun is Bill Baker's modern sectional table. The easy-to-build item has many uses.

For informal buffet dinners, for example, the table becomes an important part of the party. Best feature of all about this new sectional table is that it's an easy-to-build item. And the full story is now available in Bill Baker's Extra - Simple Pattern Number 110. Because of the simplicity of the design and the construction details, this furniture item is an ideal one for the novice woodworker.

Polio Poster Girl To Get Film Stars' Backing At Kickoff

SUN VALLEY, Idaho, Jan. 1 (AP)—Five-year-old Mary Koslaski of Collierville, Tenn., will get some help from movie stars tomorrow when she kicks off the national campaign to raise 640 million dollars for the fight against infantile paralysis.

Mary is the March of Dimes poster girl for 1955. She'll put in a personal appearance here after Basil O'Connor, chairman of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, makes a nationwide radio address.

The film stars include Van Johnson and Gary Cooper, television comedian Arnold Stang and vocalists Gary Crosby, Peggy King and Champ Butler. They'll take part in a pageant intended to publicize the national polio drive.

Sun Valley was chosen for the kickoff because it is located in Blaine County, where not a single case of polio was recorded in 1954.

Exact-size pattern pieces, made of heavy-weight paper, are included in pattern package 110. With these you'll trace the exact size of each section of the table right on the wood. Cutting, then, is made easy. And the assembling of the pieces is even easier because there is no chance for mistake.

Also in the pattern package is a complete material list which will be your guide when you visit the lumberyard.

And you'll also receive suggestions on wood selection and final finishes.

Production Declines

BERLIN, Jan. 1 (AP)—Walter Ulbricht, deputy prime minister and Communist party boss in East Germany, conceded today that economic production in the Soviet zone fell behind last year.

Most Income Taxpayers Due To Receive Refunds On 1954 Taxes

About 1,200,000 North Texas taxpayers are expected to file returns before April 15, according to Ellis Campbell Jr., district director of the Internal Revenue Service. And although 650,000 taxpayers received tax refunds last year, the director believes that even more refunds will be made this year due to additional deductions provided by Congress.

Refunds last year totaled about $72,000,000, Campbell said. The tax filing season begins Jan. 1. The filing deadline has been Mar. 15 in the past but when Congress revised the tax code, the deadline was extended.

Ben Hawkins, administrative officer in charge of the local IRS office, said taxpayers should not wait until April 1 to begin preparing their returns, however. It takes time for employees to process the returns, he said, and the sooner the taxpayers allow them to start, the sooner they can make the refunds.

Over 35 per cent of the North Texas taxpayers will receive refunds this year, Hawkins added. IRS employees will not fill out the tax forms for taxpayers this year, Hawkins said. He believes that individuals will be able to file their own returns after reading the instruction book now in the process of being mailed.

There are many important changes in the tax laws, Hawkins explained, and persons should study the booklet carefully so that they can take advantage of the new benefits.

If the instruction book does not answer all the questions a taxpayer may have, he should write the U.S. Government Printing office for a tax book entitled "Your Income Tax for 1954." The book costs 25 cents.

Persons with particular problems, concerning their returns, may call 4-3512, Hawkins explained, and their questions will be answered. The IRS prefers that taxpayers call the local office rather than visit it in person.

The reason employees will not actually complete forms for taxpayers is because of time and personal considerations, Hawkins said. First, the IRS cannot help everyone, and second, for every taxpayer that receives aid, it costs the government $25.

As a result, the IRS will not be able to give detailed assistance in preparing returns involving business income schedules, depreciation schedules listing more than property, returns reflecting substantial income, and returns having complex problems.

However, several days before April 15 have been set aside for taxpayers to visit the office, Hawkins pointed out. These days have been designated Taxpayer Assistance Days.

Taxpayers who have studied their instruction book carefully, who have their "W-2" form, and are fully prepared to file a return can get assistance during the Taxpayer Assistance hours. The first TAD is Monday Jan. 3, Hawkins said. Jan. 10, 17, 24, and 31 are also TAD's and the office will be open from 8:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m.

The IRS office will also hold Tax Assistance Days all day on March 14, 21, 28, and April 4 and 11. These days will be the only days that IRS employees will be in the office and available to give assistance to taxpayers, Hawkins said. Persons going to IRS offices this year will be placed in a short school, Hawkins explained, and trained to prepare their own return.

It is in the interest of the taxpayer to prepare his return early and mail it to the District Director, Internal Revenue Service, 201 Pacific Avenue, Dallas, Texas, Hawkins said. It saves the government money and refunds can be made sooner.

He said that the average person will not need extra aid, other than the instruction book which is furnished, but the local IRS office will be glad to assist persons with unusual problems on the designated days.

Red Poses Threat

TOKYO, Jan. 1 (AP)—Kim Il Sung, commander of the North Korean Red army, told his men in a New Year message today that "should the American imperialists and the Syngman Rhee gang renew their adventures, they will surely suffer decisive blows" from the North Korean and Chinese Communists.

Then when you want additional table space all you'll have to do is to press the sectionals into service.

Special Probers Blast Missouri's Prison System

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 1 (AP)—A special penal survey committee condemned Missouri's riot-scarred prison system today and laid on the line a drastic, long-range program as a cure.

The committee, headed by retired Maj. Gen. Ralph E. Truman, of Springfield, cousin of the former President, made an exhaustive study of the state penitentiary where a disastrous riot flared Sept. 22. Four convicts were killed, millions of dollars worth of the prison plant destroyed by fire and 40 prisoners injured.

More disturbances erupted a month later both at the main penitentiary and the nearby women's prison.

The committee said that doesn't have to happen if Missouri will spend the millions necessary to get away from the old "lock 'em up and forget 'em" philosophy. It suggested, in a 25,000-word, 92-page report to Gov. Phil M. Donnelly, how the state could modernize its whole penal system. It did not estimate the cost.

The governor had no immediate comment. He said he would make his comments to the 1955 Legislature when he laid the prison reform problem in its lap next week.

The committee blistered prison administrators in places. It did not mention the governor by name but it criticized his appointment of former highway patrol officers to top positions in the State Department of Corrections and the Board of Probation and Parole.

Committeemen, who talked to many of the 2,600 convicts at the prison, said they heard with impressive repetition complaints that prisoners were beaten by guards; food was dirty and badly prepared; homosexual activity was "wide open"; plenty of money was smuggled in by various means, including the connivance of guards; and prisoners without means were at the mercy of others in "too many instances."

Rev. Arbuckle Lamesa Pastor

LAMESA—The Rev. Milo B. Arbuckle, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Frederick, Okla., has accepted the pastorate of the First Baptist Church in Lamesa.

The Rev. Arbuckle will be filling the post vacated by Dr. L. D. Ball who resigned in September to become secretary of Evangelism for the Baptist Convention of New Mexico.

A native of southeastern Oklahoma, the Rev. Arbuckle is a graduate of Fulson Academy in Smithville and East Central College at Ada. He also attended Oklahoma Baptist University at Shawnee, did special study at Princeton University in New Jersey, and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth.

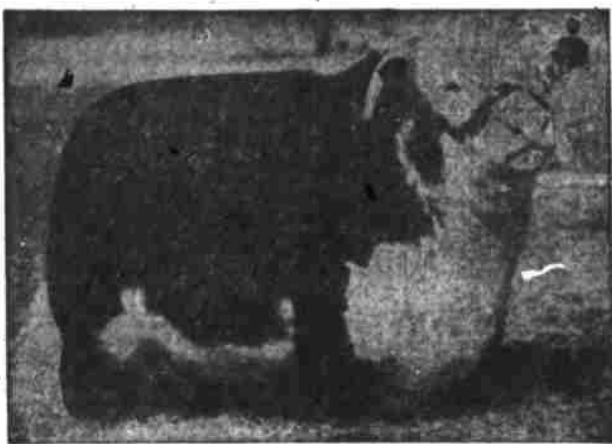

Having held only two pastorates, Rev. Arbuckle served 11 years as pastor of the First Baptist Church in Ada, Okla., and a little more than 10 years at Frederick.

He is a member of the Oklahoma Baptist Board of trustees, has served on Southern Baptist committees, and served the Oklahoma Baptist Convention in various capacities. In 1931 he was among the Southern Baptist pastors invited to the Bahama Islands for a preaching mission. The Rev. Arbuckle is expected in Lamesa in early January and will deliver his first sermon here Jan. 16. He is married and he and Mrs. Arbuckle live in Ada, Andy.

All-Tournament Team

Lon Morris Junior College, the runner-up in the third annual Howard College Invitational Basketball Tournament, dominated the all-tourney team, placing four players on the squad. HCJC, the champion for the second time in three years, placed two men on the team, including Jim Knotts, the meet's "most valuable player."

Jayhawks Win Third Annual HC Tourney

Down 12 points at one stage of the game, the Howard County Junior College Jayhawks came roaring back to dethrone the Lon Morris Bearcats in the finals of the third annual Howard College Basketball Tournament, 91-88, before more than 1,000 fans in the High School Gym here Saturday night.

The Hawks, champions of the meet two years ago, balanced the Bearcats' sensational ability to hit from outside by ball-hawking and team play, the likes of which have rarely been seen here.

The theoretical finish had the customers glass-eyed. The Hawks were down three points with less than three minutes left to play but Ray Crooks hit a two-pointer that put them ahead, 87-86, with less than a minute showing on the clock.

Free tosses by Ronald Anderson and Jim Knotts helped to neutralize a two-pointer from the field by Bobby Moore in the remaining seconds.

Anderson, a sophomore from Orangefield, and Knotts — each playing his best game of the campaign — paced the Hawks to their triumph.

Knotts — the tournament's outstanding player — was never quite stopped on his set shots from far out. He connected for 26 points.

Anderson didn't take many shots but he was the steady influence on defense.

Little Jimmy Robinson, Crooks, Wiley Brown, Arlen White and Paschall Wickard all had major roles in the Hawks' success.

Billy Tubbs, Rooster Emerson, Ken Roach and Dean Evans turned in outstanding work for Lon Morris. Emerson was the top point-getter for the Bearcats with 26.

Wharton JC grabbed third place in the three-day carnival by topping Decatur Baptist, 75-56. The Pioneers were in the lead all the way.

Joel Ashmore set a torrid pace with 22 points while Charley Uselton and Quan Elliott each had 16 for the losers.

Lon Morris and HCJC moved up by defeating Decatur Baptist and Wharton, respectively, Friday night.

Lon Morris rapped Decatur, 77-64, as Billy Tubbs hit for 22 points and Dean Evans tossed in 19. Quan Elliott and Ansel Fortenberry kept Decatur in contention

Knotts 'MVP'

Jim Knotts of the HCJC Jayhawks was named Most Valuable Player of the third annual Howard College Basketball Tournament Saturday night. Knotts scored 55 points in the three games the Jayhawks won to win the tourney. He was high point man of the championship game, netting 26 points as the Hawks defeated Lon Morris JC, 91-88.

Arkansas Cagers Top Tulsa, 68-60

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Jan. 1 (AP)—The University of Arkansas basketball team built up a 10-point lead and then controlled the ball in the final minutes of the game to beat the University of Tulsa 68-60 tonight.

Tulsa forward Bob Patterson was high scorer with 27 points, but Arkansas, beaten once by the Oklahoma team, led from start to finish. The halftime score was 37-30.

Forward Norm Smith scored 17 points for Arkansas, 14 of them in the first eight minutes of play.

Villanova Shocks N. Carolina State

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 1 (AP)—Villanova handed second-ranked North Carolina State its first defeat of the season tonight 91-87 before a crowd of 4,899 in the nightcap of a college basketball doubleheader in the University of Pennsylvania Palestra.

Pitt handed Penn its first loss of the season in the opener, 81-75, in overtime.

Ohio State Slips And Slides Past So. Cal

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 1 (AP)—Statistics of the Ohio State-Southern California Rose Bowl football game:

Table with columns for OSU and USC statistics: First downs, Rushing yards, Passing yards, Passes attempted, Passes completed, Passes intercepted, Fumbles, Fumbles lost, Fumbles penalized.

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 1 (AP)—Ohio State University's champion football team from the Big Ten hammered and punched Southern California into surrender, 20-7, in the Rose Bowl today in the wettest and muddiest game here in 21 years.

Wringing out the eighth Big Ten triumph in nine games with the Pacific Coast Conference since their pact began in 1947, Ohio State's tremendous set of running backs blasted out two touchdowns in the second period, both stemming from Trojan fumbles, and scored again in the final quarter.

Rain began early in the day and continued throughout the engagement, but 69,191 fans turned out for the first game in this, the oldest of post-season games.

An estimated 12,000 fans proved too timid to brave the elements despite their paid-for tickets. Like many other, they watched the game on a national television hookup.

The biggest thrill of the game came on a record return of a punt for a touchdown by Southern Cal's halfback star, Aramis Dandoy.

Dandoy twisted and pivoted 86 yards for the six points, and little Sam Tsagglakis added the extra point.

The Buckeyes delivered the final punch in the fourth quarter, marching 77 yards in 12 plays for the touchdown that dethroned the Trojans.

Thus ended a perfect season of 10 straight victories for the Pride of Columbus, the mythical national champion college team of 1954 as voted in The Associated Press poll.

The Buckeyes starting quarterback, a furious foursome of quarterback Dave Leggett, halfbacks Howard (Hopping) Cassady and Bobby Watkins and fullback Hubert Bobo, proved too much for USC.

The four should be added a fifth, Jerry Harkrader.

Scoring hero was Leggett, the rangy senior from New Philadelphia, Ohio, who smashed over on 3 yards out for the first touchdown, and passed to Watkins for 21 yards for the second that put the Bucks out in front, 14-0, midway in the second quarter. Harkrader took a pitchout from Leggett and ran 9 yards for the final touchdown.

USC, picked to lose by two touchdowns, played the game to the hilt. The Trojans held the only PCC victory over the Big Ten in this series, and after Dandoy's electrifying run that pulled them up to 14-7, they threatened.

In the fourth they threw back an Ohio State thrust on the 2, and then sophomore halfback John Arnett tore loose on a 70-yard run that brought new hope to long-suffering Coast fans.

But here the Bucks held on and the Trojan threat died on downs on the Ohio 23.

Ohio State traveled 295 yards on the ground, a slippery but safer route this horrible afternoon. It approached the record 350 ground out by Illinois in whipping UCLA in 1947.

yard to go, making both good. Bailey, who was named the game's outstanding player, plunged for the touchdown from one foot out. Garry's first try for the extra point was good but the East was penalized five yards and his second attempt missed.

With four and a half minutes to go in the third quarter, the West again capitalized on a big break. Raymond Berry of Southern Methodist blocked Iowa Binky Broeder's punt and the West took over on the East 8.

On the next play, Duke Washington of Washington State raced wide to the right, sliced through a horde of tacklers and fell into the end zone. John Allen of Purdue blocked the conversion attempt of Idaho's Burdette Hess. The West led 12-6.

The timing touchdown was scored on a beautiful 12-yard pass play from Guglielmi to Purdue's John Kerr who caught it on the five and went over almost untouched. Garry converted and the East was ahead for keeps.

East ... 0 6 0 7-13 West ... 6 0 6 0-12 East scoring: Touchdowns, Don Bailey, Penn State, John Kerr, Purdue, Conversion, James Garry, Penn State.

West scoring: Touchdowns, Matt Hazeltine, California, Duke Washington, Washington State.

Host Canisius Wins Tourney At Buffalo

BUFFALO, N.Y., Jan. 1 (AP)—Canisius won its own Queen City invitation basketball tournament tonight, beating St. Bonaventure 39-36 in a hectic finale before 1,545 persons in Memorial Auditorium.

Georgetown's Hoyas won third place by overcoming a stubborn Georgia Tech team 68-62.

Earlier Fordham, with Ed Conlin scoring 36 points, rallied in the final five minutes to beat Idaho State 72-66 for fifth place. Columbia beat Yale 70-63 for seventh place in an afternoon affair.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tom Hart

The Sioux Travelers, a professional basketball team made up of Indians, are trying to book games in this area... They're available for dates between Jan. 27 and Feb. 10... Anyone interested can write to William Donovan Jr., Crookston, Nebraska... They'll work for 60 per cent of the gross, less taxes... Roswell's baseball club gave up the idea of selling a 1955 season ticket for $20 after only 857 of a 2,500 objective had been disposed of... Obie Bristow, the state legislator from here, who used to be a football coach, employed a whacky play in the '30's against Amarillo in which a back got over the ball, snapped, it but held onto it while the other backs were going through the motions of a play, sat on the pignide a while and then proceeded to carry it downfield... One of the backs, meanwhile, was "accidentally" brushing the referee to obscure his vision... the officials couldn't figure out the procedure but finally penalized Big Spring because "the ball carrier was in motion"... Bristow went onto the field to question the decision but could say nothing in protest for fear of tipping his mitt... Obie told this writer recently where he first got the play... The stratagem was brought here from the Texas A&M campus by one of Bristow's aides, George Zarafonitis... Zarafonitis had worked on it at Texas A&M under Dana Bible, but Bible had removed it from his dossier because it wasn't exactly legal... The Baylor football team was flown to Jacksonville, Fla., for its Gator Bowl date by Mack Austin, who grew up in Big Spring and who is now employed by Pioneer Airlines... Frosty Kennedy, a WT-NM League slugger, is thinking of giving up baseball to become a policeman in Los Angeles... Plainview is making plans for another invitational basketball tournament next winter, although this season's met did little better than break even at the gate... Killen, which lost to Phillips in the AA football playoffs recently, was picked to finish no better than fourth in its own conference back in September.

Many Fighters Suspended By NBA

Boxing commissions across the land may not be alert, as some observers insist, but 925 fisticuffs cannot fight in this state because of suspensions invoked by the National Boxing Association, of which Texas is a member... Included on the blacklist are such names as George Arango, Freddie Beshore, Johnny Bratton, Gene Burton, Fabella Chavez, Del Cockayne, Eddie Compo, Chuck Davey, Glen Flanagan, Bob Foxworth, Joey Giardello, Norman Hayes, Danny Kaplow, Jake LaMotta, Rex Layne, Willie Pep, Yolande Pompey, Genaro Rojo, Lee Savold, Paddy Young, Humberto Zavala and Lulu Perez... Glen Selbo, Midland's Old Reliable in years past, will rejoin the Indian baseballers for the baseball wars after school is out at Perryton in May... He is now the coach there... Jack Williams, a star H&JC basketball and baseball player last year, took unto himself a bride in Clovis recently... Antelope

SWC Coaches Didn't Overlook Burrow

The 1956 bowl games will be played exactly one year from today but they're already talking about a rematch between Maryland and Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl at Miami... Jim Tatum is expecting his best team at Maryland... In the past seven years, visiting Western League teams have taken $900,000 in receipts out of sports-mad Denver, which is the reason the city was drafted in such a hurry by the American Association... You'd have thought Carl Coleman was in the ticket scalping business recently... He obtained 32 Cotton Bowl tickets through his brother, Tonto, a coaching aide at Georgia Tech but distributed them all to local friends at cost... Sports observers can believe that Southwest Conference basketball coaches overlooked Lon Morris' Bob Burrow if they want to, but the truth is that all seven mentors expressed much interest in him and would have taken him in a minute, if they had had the chance... Bob masticulated at the

Marine Fisheries, With Cy Reid As Head, Vital Dept.

Information for the following article was taken, in part, from the December issue of the Texas Game and Fish Commission, published in Austin every month... Cecil W. (Cy) Reid, one of the best basketball players in the history of Big Spring High School, has served as director of the Marine Fisheries Division of the Texas Game and Fish Commission since December, 1952.

CECIL W. REID

As such, Reid now guides the work of eight marine biologists and 12 other employees of the division, including two secretaries, a librarian, a marine maintenance engineer and eight deck hands... Prior to January, 1946, all Game and Fish Commission marine research work was done by one marine biologist... In January, 1946, the Game and Fish Commission was allotted $25,000 for the establishment of a marine research laboratory at Rockport in May, 1946, H. D. Dodgen, executive secretary of the Commission, appointed J. L. Baughman as head of the new division... A year later, in April, 1947, a contract was let for the construction of a building at Rockport to house the newly created Marine Laboratory. The building was constructed at a final cost of $77,800 and was first occupied in February, 1948... Reid succeeded Baughman as director in December, 1952... The main building of the Marine Fisheries facility at Rockport houses the lobby of exhibits that is open to the public; a library of over 3,000 reference volumes; a collection of over 2,500 marine specimens; a photographic library of microscopic marine, fish and invertebrates, warehouses, and etc... The lobby of exhibits is visited by an estimated 30,000 people annually... Purpose of the Marine Fisheries Division is to manage and conserve the marine resources of the coastal waters of Texas. The management of these resources entails the management and/or increase of the annual yield of the present fisheries; and the development and encouragement of new ones in order to assure a continued peak production... Reid attended Big Spring High School in the late '20's and early '30's. In addition to starring as a basketball player here, he also represented the district as a mile runner in the state meet and ran on the track team at Texas A&M.

Shoemaker Easily Gains Laurels

ARCADIA, Calif., Jan. 1 (U)—Jockey Willie Shoemaker coasted to the national riding crown with a total of 380 winners during 1954, far ahead of all other American jockeys... Silent Shoe's 1954 accomplishment was far off his 1953 record of 485 wins but in the year just ended he took long vacations both in the spring and fall... He wins for 1954 totaled 380 after he bagged a double at Santa Anita yesterday, winning with Miss Meggy and Mr. Sullivan.

Auburn Shows Great Offense In Gator Bowl

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 1 (U)—It will take a whole of a football game to produce any more offense than did Auburn's 33-13 victory over Baylor in the 10th annual Gator Bowl game here Friday... The taste of victory was sweet to Coach Ralph Jordan and his 27 Tigers who came primed to wipe out the memory of a 35-13 loss to Texas Tech a year ago... "I think they did," Jordan grinned on his way to the dressing room in a mob of Auburn fans predominant among the 34,408 who saw the game... The Auburn backfield of Joe Childress, Bob James, Dave Middleton and Bobby Freeman ran up a record 423 rushing yards... Childress, voted the outstanding player, boomed through the Baylor line for two touchdowns, kicked three conversions and was the busiest and most effective runner with 134 yards on 20 carries... Baylor's Bears weren't capable of stopping the Auburn attack... The Tigers didn't have to punt until the fourth quarter when the outcome of the game no longer was in doubt and reserves were playing out the time... There was nothing wrong with the Baylor attack except that the Bears fumbled away the football four times—once on the opening play which led to Auburn's first touchdown—and Auburn had possession most of the time... There was nothing wrong with the Baylor attack except that the Bears fumbled away the football four times—once on the opening play which led to Auburn's first touchdown—and Auburn had possession most of the time...

Border Stars Vanquished

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 1 (U)—Quarterback Rusty Fairly of Denver University and an alert-charging line today led the Skyline Conference All-Stars to an unexpected 20-13 victory over the Border seniors in the eighth annual Salad Bowl football game... Fairly scored twice and kept the Border team off balance all afternoon with a brilliant assortment of plays... The Skyline crew scored once in each of the first three periods and held their opponents to tallies in the second and final quarters... Fairly scored from the 8 in the first period, capping a 74-yard drive and from the 2 in the second period and from the 15 after taking a pass from Jerry Johnson in the fourth. Arizona's Tommy Grimes converted after the second touchdown... Wyoming's George Galuska bucked over from the 3 for the third touchdown early in the third period... Walt Bryan of Texas Tech scored both Border touchdowns, going over from one foot out in the second period and from the 15 after taking a pass from Jerry Johnson in the fourth. Arizona's Tommy Grimes converted after the second touchdown... Fairly was an almost unanimous choice of sports writers covering the game as the most valuable player... Skyline: 7 7 6 0—20 Border: 0 6 0 7—13 Skyline scoring: Touchdowns, Fairly 2, Galuska. Conversions, Guerette 2. Border scoring: Touchdowns, Bryan 2, Conversion, Grimes.

Wes Santee Aims For New Record

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 1 (U)—Wes Santee of Kansas, after a two-day delay, takes dead aim tomorrow at the four minute mile, running against a field of six in the Sugar Bowl track meet... The track meet originally was scheduled Friday, but a day long rain forced postponement until Sunday... Santee, who holds the American record of 4:06, probably will be hampered by a soggy track... Cloudy weather after several days of rain has prevented much drying... He will compete against Art Dalzell of Kansas; Tey Strycker, former Fort Hays (Kan.) State star now stationed at the Lake Charles (La.) Air Force Base; Sture Landquist of Sweden and Fred Eckhoff and Bjorn Bogerud of Norway, all of Oklahoma A&M; and Bill Tidwell, Kansas State Teachers College star who has beaten Santee twice in 11 meetings... Last year Santee raced to a 4:04.2 mile in the Sugar Bowl meet.

Parker Is Named Muskogee Pilot

TYLER, Jan. 1 (U)—Francis Parker, manager of Tyler in the Big State League last season, will pilot Muskogee, Okla., in the KOM League this year... J. C. Stroud, Tyler owner said he would name a new manager shortly. He had several applications.

Air Force Winner Over Marine Club

TOKYO Jan. 1 (U)—The U. S. Air Force used two offensive teams today and double-timed to a 21-14 victory over the Marines in the eighth annual Rice Bowl football game before a colorful military crowd of some 40,000.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 1 (AP)—Two alert, hard-smashing halfbacks, Bob Pascal and Nick McKeithan, led Duke's Blue Devils to a 34-7 victory over the Nebraska Cornhuskers today in the Orange Bowl's second football mismatch in three years.

runner-up is no match for the Atlantic Coast Conference champion. Nebraska got the Orange Bowl bid because of a Big Seven rule barring champion Oklahoma from playing two post-season games in a row. Despite low public interest in the game, 68,750 fans turned out to set a new Orange Bowl attendance record. The game, televised and broadcast nationally by CBS, was played in bright weather with a temperature in the middle 70s. Favored by two touchdowns, Duke didn't open until the start of the second quarter. Then the Blue Devils rammed 65 yards in nine plays to score with Pascal sweeping wide to his right for the last 7 yards. A 16-yard run by Pascal and an 18-yard pass from Jerry Barger to Sonny Sorrell were the key plays of the drive.

Pascal, Duke's 1954 scoring and ground-gaining champion, was the hero of a 6-yard Blue Devil touchdown drive that broke the game open in the third period when a hard-trying but badly outgunned Nebraska team was trailing by only seven points, 14-7. Then McKeithan, who had been sidelined with injuries most of the regular season, picked off a pass by Nebraska's Don Comstock at the Cornhusker 36 and raced back with it to the 11. Three plays later, McKeithan butted a yard for the touchdown that gave Duke an insurmountable lead. The game proved nothing except that the Big Seven Conference

Ole Miss Shocked By Middies In New Orleans Skirmish

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 1 (AP)—George Welsh, a young man with the daring of a bank robber, alkickered his Navy mates to a 21-0 victory over Mississippi today in the 21st annual Sugar Bowl football game.

call four and one and Navy on its 38. Gattuso made three but the Rebels were offside and the gamble paid off with Navy going the rest of the distance in 11 more plays for their first touchdown. Gattuso and John Weaver bore the brunt of the Navy attack and the middle of the Navy line, especially the guards, bottled up the Mississippi attack. The Rebels manufactured only three first downs in the first half and didn't get a fourth until the opening of the final period. It was a sweet victory for the Middies, who went into the game an underdog and played without Jim Royer, their 211-pound tackle and Bob Craig at regular right half. Royer was out with a hip injury and Craig in the hospital with tonsillitis. The turf at Tulane Stadium showed little effects of the rain that didn't subside until midmorning. The gridiron was rimmed with Navy Secretary Charles Thomas, numerous admirals and other high Navy brass.

Longhorns Host Ponies Tuesday

Johnny Johnson's Big Spring High School Steers play their final warm-up basketball game here Tuesday night before launching 1-AAA conference activity with Snyder here Friday. The Steers' guests Tuesday will be the Andrews Mustangs, who have been dealing AAA teams throughout the area misery since Big Spring has won only three games while losing six but is much improved since the season began. In their last assignment, the Steers fought power-laden Odessa all the way down to the wire before losing by two points. Big Spring wins have come at the expense of Midland, Brownwood and Levelland. Plainview is the solid favorite to win the 1-AAA championship but Snyder and Levelland are rated close to the Bulldogs. Three games are on tap for the Steers this week, all of them at home. The locals wind up by tangle with Sweetwater Saturday, another 1-AAA power.

Tech Defeats Hogs, 14-6

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
DALLAS, Jan. 1 (AP)—Georgia Tech polished the rust off its ground attack and rolled with battering Georgia Humpheys and the passing and running of jack-in-the-box Wade Mitchell to a 14-6 victory over Arkansas in the Cotton Bowl today. It kept intact the bowl record of Coach Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech, who has yet to lose one in six appearances in 10 years. For a half, the fabulous "23 Little Pigs" of Arkansas halted the Georgia Tech machine when it roared into Razorback territory. Meanwhile, the brilliant George Walker was piloting the Porkers to a 6-0 lead. But the second half saw the Techs picking up steam with each down and they battered and smashed the Razorbacks back on their haunches the rest of the way. A crowd of 75,504 saw the game played in sunshine and 65 degrees. Georgia Tech moved into Arkansas territory four times during the first half, once getting to the Razorback 5 and another time reaching the Porker 8. But Arkansas was toughest when the territory narrowed. The first deep penetration by Tech was stymied by the middle of the Arkansas line and from 12 yards out fullback Johnny Hunsinger tried a field goal but it was wide to the left. On the next surge that lasted to the Arkansas 8 just before the half ended, the Razorbacks threw up a steel-tough defense and on fourth down, Olan Burns, lanky wingman, rushed through to down Tech quarterback Bill Brigrman for a 10-yard loss as Brigrman looked for a pass receiver. Arkansas was in Tech territory twice during the first half, the first time getting the touchdown. It was an 80-yard drive engineered by Walker, the versatile Porter fullback, smashing Henry Moore carved 18 yards out of the Tech line to start the surge rolling. Walker pitched in with 18 yards in rushing gains and a 23-yard pass to wingback Jim Thomason that set up the score on the Tech 2. Moore lost one but Walker cracked right guard to within a foot of the goal line. On the third play of the second period, Walker slammed across for the touchdown. He missed the extra point, however. The other Arkansas push reached only to the Tech 40. Georgia Tech rolled 58 yards in its first touchdown late in the third period. Fullback Humpheys was the big man in the surge, picking up 27 of the yards with sledge-hammer smashes into the line. Halfback Paul Rotenberg hot-footed it around right end to the touchdown. Mitchell kicked the extra point to put Georgia Tech ahead 7-6. Then a Walker punt traveled only to the Arkansas 44. Hunsinger, Jimmy Thompson and Dick Mattison rammed over to the 4. Mattison in 2 plunges, carried to

Rassle-Royal Is Carded Here Tuesday Evening

It's one man against four, or two against three, or everybody "against" each other when the wrestling matches start at the Howard County Fair Building Tuesday night. It's a five-man "wrestle-royal," with every man fighting for survival and a chance for main event money. Promoter George Dunn has announced that five hardy characters will enter the ring at the same time. Each will be "on his own" in the tempestuous activity to follow. First man pinned or otherwise eliminated will be out for the evening. The remaining quartet will continue to swat it out. Third man eliminated from the "royal" will return to meet the second man. That leaves two in the ring, and they will return to fight each other in the main event. It's an interesting prospective for wrestling fans. Everybody is mad at each other all the way through and anxious to have a go at the top pay-off. The men involved in the first 1955 wrestling card at Big Spring are Eric Pederson, Bob Cummings, Bob Clay, Frank Murdock and Mr. X. Pederson, strutting, muscle-flexing Swede from Eugene, Oregon, is no stranger here. Neither is Mr. X, the purple-hooded unknown whose mask defies his identity. Frankie Hill Murdock, the murderous "sleep hold" specialist from Waxahachie, is no stranger in Big Spring. Bob Cummings, one of the veterans, has just returned from a successful invasion of the Pacific Northwest (where Pederson claims to be "king") and is anxious to take on Eric the Greek. Bob Clay is a newcomer. Tall, powerful, young and ambitious, Clay is a "clean type" wrestler, as a rule, but having been trained by Leroy McGuirk and other famous champs, he has learned the raw rule, too.

Texas Western Trips Florida In Rough Tilt

By ROBERT GREEN
EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 1 (AP)—Jesse Whittenton, a tough, smart, quarterback, ran, passed and piloted Texas Western to its second straight Sun Bowl championship today, a 47-20 rout of Florida State. Whittenton ran for two touchdowns, passed for three more, engineered the other two Texas Western scoring drives and kicked five of seven attempted conversions. He was voted the game's outstanding player. The teams traded first-quarter scores but the Miners of Texas Western erupted for 27 points in the second quarter to wrap up the 20th annual game before an estimated 14,000 fans. The Miners, performing well under Whittenton's sterling guidance, widened the gap in the third quarter. From that point on the game got progressively rougher and duller until the two coaches, Mike Brumbelow of Texas Western and Tom Nugent of Florida State, came on the field to tell their teams to ease up on the rough stuff. Three times plays were nullified by personal fouls on each team. The rugged play and 60-degree Texas heat took its toll. Seven Texas Western players were helped from the field, while Florida State was hurt about as bad. The Seminoles lost the service of halfback Lee Corso in the second quarter. Florida State ..... 7 0 6 7—20 Texas Western ..... 7 27 13 0—47 Florida State scoring: Touchdowns, Massey, Seamster, Odum. Conversions, Graham, Massey. Texas Western scoring: Touchdowns, Rutledge 2, Whittenton 2, Bob Forrest 2, Dick Forrest. Conversions, Whittenton 5.

Picking Winner In Senior Bowl Game To Be Difficult

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 1 (AP)—Statistics can be manipulated to prove or disprove just about anything. But odds makers using them to forecast the outcome of next Saturday's Senior Bowl game will have a tough time arriving at any prediction other than a tossup. On a rushing basis, the edge would go to the 24-man North squad, whose 19 backs ran 998 times for 5,207 yards during the season and a 22 average per try, slightly higher than the South's. The top three runners were Chattanooga's Little All-American fullback Dick Young, with 856 yards; fleet halfback Bob McNamara of Minnesota with 708; and All-American Alan (The Horse) Ameche of Wisconsin with 641. The best rushers for the 25-man South squad, which picked up 3,722 yards on 763 ground plays, are halfback Frank Eldom of SMU with 677 yards and Corky Tharp of Auburn, with 641. In passing, however, the South's 11-yard average is a shade better than the Yankee's. The South team members gained 2,907 yards on 296 plays while the Northerners gained 3,407 on 326 plays. Quarterback Bobby Freeman of Auburn's Gator Bowl team has the highest total offense of any of the game's backs—1,152 yards, including 865 passing and 287 rushing. He will perform for the South. The North, however, claims the back with the best overall average. Corky Taylor of Kansas State averaged a phenomenal 9 1/2 yards try in picking up 953 yards—821 rushing and 132 on pass receptions.

Mississippi's Allen Muirhead gives the South the next best rushing average, 8 yards, in gaining 480 running and 138 pass receiving. Top pass receiver on both squads is North end Andy Nacrelli of Fordham with 25 receptions for 493 yards. The South's best is Georgia Tech end Bill Bennett with 17 catches for 296 yards. Members of the winning squad will receive $500 and expenses each, and losing team members get $400. About 30,000 are expected in the 36,000 capacity Ladd Stadium for the game. Kickoff is at 1:45 p.m. (CST).

'Southwesterner Of The Year' Is Arkansas' Wyatt

DALLAS, Jan. 1 (AP)—Bowden Wyatt, who coached Arkansas to a Southwest Conference football championship and into the Cotton Bowl, was picked today as Southwesterner of the Year—the person who contributed most to sports in the Southwest for 1954. Selection was made by the Texas Sports Writers Assn. holding its winter meeting in Dallas. Among other business transacted was adoption of an aggressive policy aimed at getting better cooperation from coaches in reporting the news and of obtaining better press box facilities in the stadia of the state.

Cotton Bowl Teams Will Get $160,000

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 1 (AP)—Arkansas and Georgia Tech will get between $125,000 and $160,000 each for their appearance today in the annual Cotton Bowl game. Tech won 14-6. However, each team must share their part of the proceeds with other teams of their conference. Arkansas will end up with about $64,000 with the remainder distributed among the other seven members of the Southwest Conference. Georgia Tech will get to keep about $55,000 with the rest going to other Southeastern Conference members.

Dean Sand Has Shows In Borden

Tennessee No. 1 Fambrough, wildcat about 2 1/2 miles east of Ackery, indicated as a possible discovery this weekend with recovery of oil in the Dean sand. News has also been received that Ray A. Albaugh's No. 1 R. B. Adams, wildcat about a mile northwest of the Fambrough prospector, is slated for completion during the weekend. The double discovery has led many observers to speculate on the possibility of a sizable oil pool on the Borden-Dawson County area around Ackery. Recovery of 600 feet of oil and gas-cut mud and 90 feet of oil-cut mud was made on a two-hour test of the Dean at Tennessee No. 1 Fambrough. The test was taken below 8,000 feet in an unreported interval. These figures are unofficial. Gas did not surface on the Fambrough test, but there was a good blow throughout. Drillsite of the prospector is 660 from north and 2,380 from east lines, 19-33-3n, T&P survey. It is in the extreme southwest part of Borden County on a 100-acre lease. Potential test on Albaugh's No. 1 Adams began Saturday, and at last report the pressures were still strong. The Adams wildcat has been shut in for several weeks for construction of tank battery. A test of the Dean on December 13 showed oil sufficient for commercial production. Originally Albaugh drilled the Adams prospector to 9,300 feet and tested the Pennsylvania between 9,290 and 9,300 feet. Recovery, however, included 900 feet of salt water with the 2,700 feet of free oil. The venture was plugged back to the Dean, where completion is now under way. Location of the Albaugh wildcat is 660 from north and west lines, northeast quarter, 1-34-3n, T&P survey. It is in Dawson County, though practically on the Borden County line on a 320-acre lease.

Drilling Shows Increase In Howard County And Basin Area

The Permian Basin of West Texas and Southeast New Mexico closed out 1954 with 491 rotary rigs in operation, according to a survey conducted by Reed Roller Bit Company. The count was made on December 25, and it showed an increase of only three rigs over the previous survey of December 10. It also showed a rise of six rigs over the 485 recorded at the close of 1953. Howard County closed out the year with 21 rotary turning, according to the survey. This was the largest count in the immediate nine-county area. In fact, Howard was the only area county to show an increase in activity. The jump was from 16 to 21 between the two surveys. Glasscock held its own with four on each count, and Scurry had 16 rigs on each tally. Sterling recorded one rig each time. Counties losing ground were Borden, from 10 to 8; Dawson, 9 to 6; Midland, 23 to 20; and Mitchell, 5 to 4. Martin County remained on both surveys without a rig in operation. Andrews County was still the Basin's leader at year's end, with 82 rigs turning. Second place was Lea County, New Mexico, which had 49. Coke County maintained third place with 33. The Spraberry Trend Area a field of Midland, Glasscock, Upton and Reagan counties showed increased activity with 30 operations going in the field. Most of the projects—20—were in Northwest Reagan County. Counties included in the survey, with the previous count in parentheses, were as follows: Andrews 82 (91); Borden, 8 (10); Cochran, 3 (2); Coke, 33 (23); Chavez, 7 (4); Crane, 21 (23); Crockett, 4 (5); Dawson, 6 (9); Ector, 30 (32); Eddy, 3 (3); Floyd, 2 (1); Gaines, 23 (17); Garza, 9 (6); Glasscock, 4 (4); Hockley, 3 (4). Howard, 21 (16); Irion, 1 (1); Kent, 7 (7); Lamb, 2 (1); Lea, 49 (59); Loving, 2 (0); Lynn, 1 (1); Martin 0 (0); Midland, 20 (22); Menard, 1 (1); Nolan west, 6 (5); Pecos, 13 (14); Reagan, 20 (12); Reeves, 2 (1). Runnels southwest, 2 (1); Scurry, 16 (16); Schleicher, 9 (7); Sterling, 1 (1); Sutton, 2 (3); Tom Green, 11 (10); Terry, 9 (6); Upton, 13 (11); Val Verde, 2 (2); Ward, 7 (8); Winkler, 13 (6); Yoakum, 16 (17); Spraberry, 30 (27).

Outpost Test Acts Up

Oil is splattered all over the area as W. R. Newsom and E. L. Newsom pause before resuming efforts to run tubing in their Newsom No. 1 W. E. Simmons. The southwest outpost in the north extension area of the Moore pool flowed for a day after treatment with 15,000 gallons of sandfrac. When operator went in Thursday morning to run tubing the well kicked off and headed oil over the area. Saturday rods were run and testing started. Bill Newsom, kneeling and with dark shirt, is at right of E. L. Newsom.

Refiners Begin New Year With Gasoline Stock Fairly Static

By MAX SKELTON HOUSTON, Jan. 1 (AP)—Oil refiners began the new year with just about the same inventories as a year ago. Their problem is to prevent gasoline inventories from running away from demand, as in 1954. L. F. McCollum, president of Continental Oil Co., recommended extreme caution this week. "The only way gasoline inventories can be brought into balance with demand will be for each refiner to appraise his stocks in relation to realistic sales forecasts and govern his refinery operations accordingly," McCollum said. During the first three months of 1954, gasoline in storage zoomed to record levels. Summer demand was disappointing and it took the industry the rest of the year to outback to reasonable levels. Frank Porter, American Petroleum Institute (API) president, said the industry begins the new year with a statistical position considerably stronger than in early 1954 and stronger than in late summer. Porter blamed disappointing demand for 1954's excessive inventories. He said 1954 demand probably would show a gain of only 1 1/2 to 2 per cent over 1953, a minor hike for a postwar year. More wells were drilled last year than ever before but the United States produced about 48 million barrels less crude than in 1953. Refineries processed 24 million barrels less crude. API placed 1954 imports at an average of 1,060,000 barrels a day, an increase of 10,000. Russell Brown, general counsel for the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America, said imports are expected to go even higher this year.

Brown said imports will average 1,225,000 barrels daily through April. This, he said, would mean an increase of 145,000 barrels per day, or 13 per cent over 1954. While imports increased, Porter said exports declined to a daily average of 353,000 barrels, 48,000 below 1953. Excessive inventories cut domestic production. An estimate placed 1954's crude production at 2,312,000,000 compared to 2,359,998,000 for 1953. This was the first decline since 1949, another year in which independent operators were clamoring for restrictions on imports. A number of bright spots were in Porter's report on 1954. New wells completed were estimated at 52,815, compared to 1953's record 49,325. Refinery capacity was a record 8,475,000 barrels daily, compared to 8,006,897 last year and 5,569,482 in 1946. Porter said 1954 capital expenditures were of record-breaking proportions, pushing such investments since the end of the war well above 28 billion dollars.

1949, another year in which independent operators were clamoring for restrictions on imports. A number of bright spots were in Porter's report on 1954. New wells completed were estimated at 52,815, compared to 1953's record 49,325. Refinery capacity was a record 8,475,000 barrels daily, compared to 8,006,897 last year and 5,569,482 in 1946. Porter said 1954 capital expenditures were of record-breaking proportions, pushing such investments since the end of the war well above 28 billion dollars.

Moore Outpost Ready To Test

Rods were being run Saturday, preparatory to a pumping test, in the Newsom No. 1 W. E. Simmons, southwest outpost of the Vaughn northwest extension of the Moore pool. The venture created excitement Thursday and Friday when it blew out as initial attempts were made to run tubing. After it had been sandfraced with 15,000 gallons through perforations from 3,188-96, the test flowed strongly. However, when tubing was started, it headed high into the air and sprayed the surrounding area. Operator experienced some difficulty in running rods when it threatened to head again. Top of pay tentatively was pegged at 3,160 and bottom of hole is 3,210. Location is 330 from the south and 2,310 from the west lines of section 12-34-1n, T&P. Saturday evening Newsom No. 2 Simmons, 1,650 from the south and 2,310 from the west lines of section 12-34-1n, T&P, was nearing 3,100 feet. Operator planned to core during the weekend. The No. 1 Simmons is half a mile southwest of production of the Vaughn lease and two miles north of production on the Wilkinson ranch.

Tests Start In Sterling

Wilbanks and Rutter No. 1-B Bade, project in the Parochial Bade field of Sterling County, has been plugged back to the San Andres, where shows were uncovered during drilling operations. This venture was acidized in the Clear Fork but returned only water. Operator is preparing to acidize the San Andres for tests. Location is 330 from south and east lines, northeast quarter, 21-22-H&TC survey, about 12 miles west of Sterling city. Tests were also under way this weekend at Boykin Brothers - Roche et al No. 1-A Bade, another Parochial Bade project. Attempts are being made to complete it in the Clear Fork. Location is 1,263 from south and 330 from west lines, 22-22-H&TC survey, 10 miles west of Sterling City. Pumping continued on the Walker No. 2 Humble, which rated 15 barrels of oil and no water per day. It is bottomed at 1,739 in the Clear Fork. Location of the Walker, Trustee No. 1 Humble is 550 from the north and 330 from the east lines of the southwest quarter of section 30-11, SPRR.

Surface String Set In South Howard Shallow Exploration

Surface casing was set Saturday at Duncan Drilling Company-Cosden Petroleum Corporation No. 1 L. S. McDowell, wildcat in Southwest Howard County. Operator is now waiting on cement before drilling out at 165 feet. Location of the prospector is some 10 miles southwest of Big Spring and about three miles northwest of the Howard-Glasscock field. Drillsite is 990 from south and 330 from west lines, 44-53-1s, T&P survey. In the Howard-Glasscock field, Duncan No. 2-B Longshore was reportedly making hole at 2,100 feet. Location is 330 from south and 990 from east lines, northwest quarter, 15-33-2s, T&P survey, some 15 miles south of Big Spring. It is slated for depth of 2,400. Duncan No. 4-A Currie is a new location in section 12, block 33, tap, 1-south, T&P survey. Operator is moving in materials and rigging up. Sunray No. 1 W. N. Reed, wildcat stepout to the Howard-Glasscock field located just inside Sterling County, is making hole at 2,195 feet. Location is 372 from north and 1,011 from east lines, 152-29-W&NW survey.

Local Concern Has Busy Year

The year 1954 was an extremely busy one for Duncan Drilling Company of Big Spring. In all, the concern sank 172 holes with 161 of them completing for production. Total footage was 501,496. Most of the wells were in Howard County, said Dave Duncan, head of the concern. A couple of dozen were in shallow Garza ventures and a few were drilled in Gaines. Duncan brought in 36 wells on his own account and had half a dozen dry holes besides. Record of producers for the year by companies with dry holes shown in parentheses follows: Sun 18 (1), W. W. Holmes of Amarillo 12 (2), Sunray 18, Continental 42, Cosden 5 (1), Long Star Production 2, Southland Royalty 4, Royal Oil & Gas 3, Aurora Gasoline 1, Landa Oil 2, Moore Bros. 8, Shell 2, Seaboard S. J. B. Tubb 1, Williamson & Harrell (1), Warren & Bradshaw 1, Duncan 36 (6).

Pipe Being Run In Sterling Venture

Pipe was being run Saturday in the A. E. Walker, Trustee No. 1 T. H. Humble, edge in the Cranwell-1400 field of southeastern Sterling County. Exact depth was not known but the eight-inch string was being run somewhere below 1,000. Operator is expected to drill into the pay zone sometime during the week. Pumping continued on the Walker No. 2 Humble, which rated 15 barrels of oil and no water per day. It is bottomed at 1,739 in the Clear Fork. Location of the Walker, Trustee No. 1 Humble is 550 from the north and 330 from the east lines of the southwest quarter of section 30-11, SPRR.

WELL COUNT COMING Industry To Help In Federal Census

By CHARLES HASLET WASHINGTON, Dec. 31 (AP)—The oil industry plans to help the Census Bureau in a count of mineral industries for 1954 early next year. "We have indicated that we will cooperate," said Russell Brown, counsel of the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America (IPAA). "I think it should be done as it will be of benefit to have the government figures." Brown said the census is expected to cover the number of wells, employees, refiners and filling stations and other information from well to consumer. The National Coal Assn. has joined with the census Bureau in an appeal to the coal industry for cooperation in the census. The census will cover 35,000 mines, quarries and oil and gas establishments. It will collect data for the first time since 1939 on the number, size, location and character of operations in the mineral industries. The National Coal Assn. said its objectives are: The industry favors a quantitative restriction on such imports of residual oil and an equalization of tariffs on residual oil with other petroleum products. It opposes dumping of natural gas at a price less than the average cost at the point of consumption plus a reasonable profit. It favors control of important of natural gas to prevent that fuel from "supplanting domestic fuels." A modified order by the Federal Power Commission (FPC) of rules for independent gas producers fails to define the scope of the commission's jurisdiction over independent producers of oil and gas, Brown of IPAA says. He wrote members of the association: "This means that the commission continues to assert broadside jurisdiction. It even refuses to disclaim jurisdiction over wellhead sales." The order, he said, prohibits two types of escalation clauses—price increases by reason of changes in the prices or rates received by the purchaser and price increases based upon payment of higher prices by other purchasers usually referred to as "third party" favored escalation clauses. "In its order, the FPC recognized the desirability of clarifying the scope of its jurisdiction over independent producers and gatherers," Brown said, "but apparently is leaving this to be determined on a case by case basis." The original and modified orders followed a Supreme Court decision in June in the Phillips case, holding the FPC has authority to regulate price of all gas flowing into interstate commerce. Students think Polynesian navigators obtained sailing data from waves which can show differences in contour for hundreds of miles after they pass islands.

Butane Association To Open New Home

The Texas Butane Dealers Association, largest of its kind in the world, will chalk up another "first" this month. The association, which was the first in the liquefied petroleum gas industry to set up a training program, is to become the first to have its own permanent home building. The structure will be dedicated in January in Austin, said S. M. Smith, local dealer. This is the 11th year for the unit, he pointed out. Its accident prevention program has brought about a sharp decrease in industry accidents and won recognition by the Texas Insurance Department.

Local Operators Final Reagan Well

Wilbanks and Rutter of Big Spring announced the completion of their No. 2-C Proctor in Reagan County as a good producer, but the potential is not yet filed. The same firm's No. 4 Proctor, which is on the same lease as the No. 2-C, is now drilling below 3,540 feet.

Cosden Director Rites Monday

James L. Carey, senior director of Cosden Petroleum Corporation, died in New York late Thursday. Funeral will be held at 11 a. m. Monday at the St. Thomas Moore Church at Madison Ave. at 89th Street in New York. The body is in state at Campbell Funeral home on Madison Ave. at 81st. Mr. Carey had resided at 1115 Fifth Ave. and is survived by his wife and four children. His tenure as a Cosden director was exceeded only by that of Benjamin Roth, who retired recently from the board. Mr. Roth had become a director in 1938 and Mr. Carey a year later. Mr. Carey, who was retired, had been a heavy construction contractor. He was a director in a number of firms, including American Surety Company, Rockwood & Company, Thomason - Starrett Corp., East Brooklyn Savings Bank (where also was vice president). He was vice president and director of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, was a member of the advisory committee of the Manufacturers Advisory Trust Company. Mr. Carey had served as president of the General Contractors Association and was a former director of the New York State Construction Code Authority. On several occasions, notably at the annual meetings, he had visited in Big Spring.

Free World Oil Reserve Now Approaches 33-Year Supply

TULSA — Total world oil reserves are over 157 billion barrels, the Oil and Gas Journal reported today in its annual International Issue. In a special worldwide report, the Journal estimates free world reserves at over 147 billion barrels — a 33-year supply in terms of present production. Russia and its controlled areas may have about 10 billion barrels proven. Based on the Journal's estimated reserves, Saudi Arabia is the world's No. 1 oil country with 36 billion barrels. Kuwait holds second place with 20 billion barrels. Dahl Duff, international editor for the Journal, says, "Some oil men talk of the center of gravity of the world industry shifting to the Middle East because of the tremendous accumulations and great productivity of fields in this region. Such statements take on weight if considered on the basis of reserves alone." The Middle East also scored in sharper increase in oil production in 1954, with a 9 1/2 per cent rise over 1953 daily output. Drill points out that the large reserves and rising production of this region are maintained with minimum drilling effort. The Journal estimates 1954 total world production at 13 1/2 million barrels per day. Free world total production is estimated at 12 million barrels per day, with over 500,000 producing wells. Russia and its area produce about 1.3 million barrels daily. Number of total world operating refineries is up from 662 in 1953 to 687 in 1954, with a free world increase of 22, according to the report. Total world refining capacity is estimated at over 16 1/2 million barrels daily, a rise of 7 1/2 per cent. The Journal estimates free world refining capacity at 15 million barrels — a 6 1/2 per cent increase. "The oil business in most branches of its activity is growing at a faster rate abroad than it is in the United States," Duff says. "Foreign crude-oil reserve estimates are considerably above those of a year ago. Exploration activity is widespread and intensive, with old prospects being re-examined. 1954 production increases are around 8 to 10 per cent; refining capacity is estimated to be up 6 per cent, with total now above 7 million barrels daily."

GIFTS FOR THE PROUD "POPPA" OF HOWARD COUNTY'S 1st BABY FOR 1955

WILLIAM E. POUNDS

Yes sir, there is a mighty proud poppa around here Mr. W. E. Pounds, 117 Madison, has a new-born son named William Lee, weight 6 lbs., 8 oz., Howard County's first baby of 1955. And although we might have to wait a few years to accommodate the baby, we're mighty glad to do something for the Dad right now. All of us on this page will be ready to greet the proud poppa of 1955's first baby, and to have a little remembrance of the grand occasion for him.

POPPA'S WELCOME HERE

Riding THE GRUB LINE With Franklin Reynolds

One of the very nicest and most appreciated things that has come the Grub Line's way this season has been a book of poems, "Sunlight Through the Trees" published by Highlands University Press at Las Vegas, New Mexico.

And it was personalized by the author, S. Omar Barker, who inscribed it to me, and in this inscription called me "the literary longhorn of West Texas."

Now I don't know what a "literary longhorn" is, but Omar, who has kofolks and many friends in Big Spring, evidently thinks he does, and apparently he thinks I'm one of 'em. Anyway, I do think it's something nice to be said about a person; and I take it that way, because I know that's the way he intended it.

Most folks who read anything at all, have read Omar Barker's poems in such magazines as The Saturday Evening Post, The Country Gentleman, The Progressive Farmer, Adventure Magazine, The New Mexico Magazine, The Western Story Magazine, True West, The American Legion Magazine, The Empire Magazine, Short Stories, The Reader's Digest, Farm and Ranch, The Wall Street Journal, The New York Times, Argosy, Ranch Romances, Western Live-stock Journal, Holland's Magazine, The Chicago Tribune, Redbook, The Cosmopolitan, Liberty, The Christian Science Monitor, The New York Sun, Triple X Magazine, and many others.

"Sunlight Through the Trees" is his fifth collection of poems between the covers of a book. The others have been "Vientos de las Sierras," "Buckaroo Ballads," "Born to Battle" and "Songs of The Saddleman."

Omar, and his wife, Elsie, live near Sapelle, New Mexico, within a mile of the log cabin in which he was born on the old family mountain ranch far up in the hills. He is a graduate of Highlands University and all his life has spent in this enjoyable and inspiring environment. The wilderness and its wildlife are strongly reflected in his poetry, as when he writes:

"Leave to the puzzled sky Beneath the tramp of years, Mountain trails have I. And sunlight through the trees!"

And as to how well he knows, and understands, the people of the cow country, he asserts: "He wasn't a sure 'nough cowboy."

In the oldtime cowboy tag, "A bobbin' on his vest, That proved he had the makin' in 'em For a smoke to warm his flue,

An' as for what all makes a man— He had them makin' too!" And isn't this quite typical of cowboy philosophy:

"Now here's a range saying— Not many can match it: There ain't no use itchin' Unless you can scratch it!" There are 150 poems in "Sunlight Through the Trees" some of them as modern as "Air Base in New Mexico" in which he has written:

"There are no burros any more— At least not many. Now the roar Of jets and bombers is the thunder. This one-time burro land lives under."

"Forgotten is the sandy bray Of one small citizen whose gray Contentment seemed so filly planned To match this sun-enchanted land."

And then there are poems of reminiscence such as Longhorn Memories:

"These cattle trails he hidden Beneath the tramp of years. Old cowboys who have ridden In the dust of Longhorn steers Can see a ghost herd trailing, Mirage-like in the sun, And hear lean coyotes wailing Where modern highways run."

"That filling station yonder... Camped there in 'twenty-two. We had no time to squander— The herd was overdue. We bedded up that little draw— They call it Main Street now... The worst stampede you ever saw— We never lost a cow!"

"Old eyes keep seeing Longhorns Through traffic on the street, The flashing rumps of prong-horns Across a field of wheat. Old ears, above the humming Of motors as they pass, Can hear the vanished drumming Of hoofs on prairie grass."

"From cowhorse tracks long hidden Beneath the tread of years, Old memories unbidden Rise up like phantom steers!" Be it a sentiment of the Old West or the New West, there's a poem to match it in "Sunlight Through the Trees" and in it there are poems for the women and the children, as well as for the men.

For instance, many a wife would like to be able to quote unto her husband, a little jingle: "Though some women may make a fool of a man,

Judge Davidson Is 'New' Member Of State Family

AUSTIN, Jan. 1 (AP)—Lloyd Davidson took the oath today as a judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Davidson, 64, became the only "new" member of the state's official family. Other re-elected officers also were inducted less ceremoniously. Gov. Ben Hays and Lt. Gov. Ben Hays took office formally at the inauguration Jan. 18.

Davidson has been a member of the court's appointive commission of appeals since 1941. In November he was elected to a full judgeship.

A jurist with more than half a century of legal practice and state service stepped down.

He was presiding Judge Harry Graves, 76, who retired after 17 years on the bench of the state's highest court in criminal matters. Graves administered the oath to Davidson.

High state officials, members of the Supreme Court, family and friends were in the appeals court room for the ceremony in which these other new court officials were inducted:

Wesley Dice, former state attorney, advanced to the commission of appeals to succeed Davidson.

Leon Douglas, named state attorney to succeed Dice.

Judge W. A. Morrison began his first term as presiding judge of the court.

Fragrant Fire Hits Chicago Spice Plant

CHICAGO, Jan. 1 (AP)—Fire raced through a six-story spice company plant near Chicago's Loop today, causing damage estimated at $200,000.

The blaze in the Kearns and Smith Spice Co. at 711 S. Wells St., filled the downtown area with the odor of burning spices.

No one was in the building when the blaze broke out. The only person injured was L. Charles Somerville, 47, of Engine 1, who was cut by flying glass as the building's third and fourth floors collapsed.

Chief Fire Marshal John J. Haberhorn, who estimated the damage, said he would ask an investigation into the origin of the fire.

U.S. Formosa Chief Sees Interesting Year

TAIPEH, Formosa, Sunday, Jan. 2 (AP)—Maj. Gen. William C. Chase told officers and men of his U. S. Military Assistance Advisory Group in a recorded New Year's message that 1955 "promises to be an interesting year."

He did not elaborate. MAAG supports the Chinese Nationalists, now in a vest pocket war with Red China over island outposts guarding Formosa.

New Pakistan Stamp

KARACHI, Pakistan, Jan. 1 (AP)—Pakistan has issued a two-anna stamp to commemorate the conquest of K2, world's second highest mountain, by an Italian expedition last year. The stamp depicts a panoramic view of the 28,250-foot Himalayan peak, also known as Mt. Godwin Austen.

After he was sworn in, Sheppard said that during his first term, "We have tried to be just without being harsh, lenient without being soft and impartial without being indifferent."

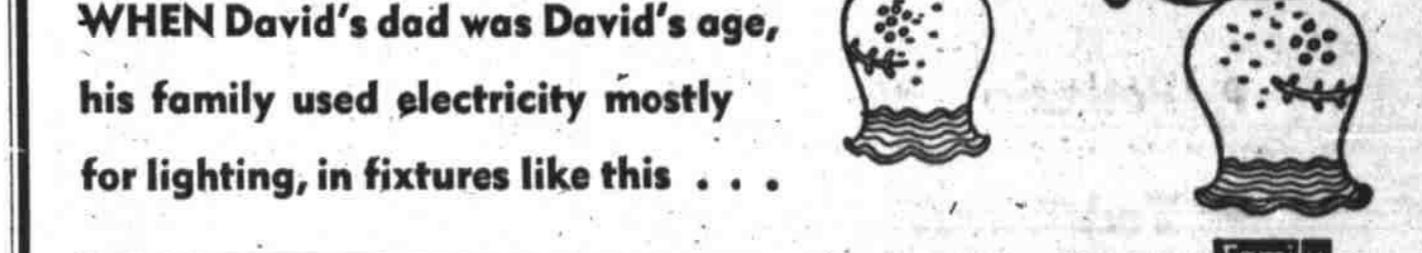

He pledged a continued campaign against "those who work for destruction of our free institutions of government, break our laws or attempt to corrupt the morals of our young people."

"You may expect a continued fight by me for the rights of Texas against the steady encroachment of federal power," he said.

Lecture To Cover Origin Of World

David Hardy, world traveler and news analyst, will present an illustrated journey behind the scenes of Life Magazine's science series, "The World We Live In" here Jan. 12.

The appearance of the production here is one of few in Texas and is under the sponsorship of the Lions Club. Tickets have been popularly priced ($1) in order to have the widest possible audience. All proceeds above the actual expense of staging the show will go to the club's charity fund. Neither the club nor Life receives anything.

"The World We Live In" is a 90-minute show illustrated by paintings and color photographs on a panoramic 30-foot, 3-panel screen. Motion pictures in color also are projected.

Life's series was begun in Dec. 1952 and concluded in December of 1954, dealing with the origin of the world, the sea, land atmosphere, development of animal and vegetable life, and the universe. Hardy will tell the story of humor and adventure encountered all over the world by Life reporters, artists and photographers in their search for accurate facts and pictures for the series.

He takes the audience 3,600 feet down into the ocean in a Benthoscope, across desolate tundra of Canada's northwest, deep into the rain forests of Dutch Guiana, to a coral reef under the clear waters off Bermuda.

Hardy is well-equipped to tell the "round-the-world" story. Irish-born, he volunteered for the Royal Marines in 1942 and was sent to the Middle East and Burma where, as a commando, he penetrated far behind Japanese lines. After 1945 he traveled extensively through Japan, China, Southeast Asia. For the past three years he has been a news analyst, foreign correspondent for England's BBC and the London Times, a producer of radio programs beamed at the Far East for the United Nations.

Dawson Sheriff Names Deputies

LAMESA—Henry Mayfield, new Dawson County Sheriff and his two new deputies, Joseph Hancock and Morris Zimmerman, have taken over duties in the new post.

Mayfield is a native of Dawson County and has for many years been in the dairy cattle business. Joseph Anson (Shorty) Hancock, age 39, is a native of Dawson County, having been born in the Woody Community. He now resides at 1106 N. Fourth Street.

Hancock comes from a family of law enforcement officers. His father, Mac W. Hancock, was sheriff of Cochran County before his death 4 years ago, and a brother, Hargl Hancock, is sheriff of Cochran County.

Hancock has recently completed a course at the Sheriff and Deputy School at Austin, held by the State Department of Public Safety.

Morris Zimmerman, 37, is former sheriff of Martin County. He also served as deputy sheriff in Martin County for 8 years and Ward County for 4 1/2 years in addition to holding the post of chief of police at Monahans for 1 year.

Six To End U. S. Senate Careers; Session Closes

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1 (AP)—Six senators, including four veterans who have held major posts, close out their Senate careers tomorrow, at least for the present.

They are Sen. Cooper (Ky), Cordon (Ore), Ferguson (Mich) and Hendrickson (N.J.), Republicans, and Gillette (Iowa) and Edwin C. Johnson (Colo.), Democrats. They will go off the Senate payroll tomorrow at midnight, although the 84th Congress does not actually convene until Wednesday noon.

The Constitution provides that a Congress begins on Jan. 3 and that is when the terms of the new senators will start. Congress last year passed a special law to make the 1955 session begin Jan. 5, in order to give the members New Year's weekend at home.

Johnson, who is 71 today, is the dean of the departing group with 18 years of service, three full terms. He will be sworn in as governor of Colorado Jan. 11, a post he held for two terms before coming to the Senate.

The big Coloradoan was chairman of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee for four years in his Senate career. He was vice chairman of the special committee which recommended censure of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis).

Ferguson, 65, has been a senator 14 years. He was chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee in 1954 and served two years as head of the Appropriations subcommittee which handles all military funds.

Cordon, 64, has served 11 years. He was made head of the Interior and Insular Affairs Committee last year and also was chairman of the Appropriations subcommittee which allotted money for reclamation projects and other operations of the Interior Department.

Gillette, 75, was a senator for 14 years in two separate periods, demonstrating unusual vote-getting ability in a normally Republican state.

Hendrickson, 56, is retiring after one term of six years. He has been serving as chairman of a Judiciary subcommittee which conducted a nationwide investigation of juvenile delinquency.

He was the Republican on the Rules subcommittee who signed the report raising many questions about McCarthy's finances. For this he was denounced by the Wisconsin senator as "a living miracle without brains or guts."

Cooper, 53, has served four years in two different terms, running far better than Republicans normally do in Kentucky. He has had considerable experience as a diplomat, and former President Truman several times named him to attend United Nations and NATO meetings.

Cooper, Cordon and Ferguson lost to Democrats last November. Respectively, their opponents were former Vice President Alben W. Barkley, Richard L. Neuberger and Patrick McNamara.

Gillette and Johnson will be succeeded by Republicans, Rep. Thomas E. Martin of Iowa and Lt. Gov. Gordon Allott of Colorado.

Fence Repairs Due After Maneuvers

FORT HOOD, Jan. 1 (AP)—The Army said today it had obtained trespass rights for 40 per cent of the Central Texas land needed for maneuvers early in 1955.

The Army is seeking rights in 13 counties. The Army said it has a new plan for making repairs to damaged fences and for the prompt settlement of claims.

More than 1,000 men are having instructions in fence repairs. Claims offices are being set up in all counties.

Appointed Again

AUSTIN, Jan. 1 (AP)—L. C. Harris was reappointed today to a new term as member of the Pardons Board. Other members of the board are Thomas White and Jack Ross.

Financial Statements To Be Asked By Reporting Concern

More than 600 Howard County firms will be, among those receiving requests from Dun & Bradstreet for their annual financial statements.

The reporting concern contacts more than three million business operators over the nation.

The Howard County section of the current issue of the Dun & Bradstreet Reference Book contains listings of 614 local names comprising manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers. It does not include some of the service and "professional" businesses, such as barber and beauty shops, real estate and stock brokers. Thus the figure for businesses in Howard County would actually be higher than the 614 quoted above. In 1951 the number of listed names totaled only 532.

During 1955, Dun & Bradstreet estimates they will be required to make about 300 changes in the listings of business enterprises in Howard County. These changes will result from adding the names of new businesses, and deleting the names of those who have discontinued, as well as accounting for changes in ownership, trade names and credit ratings. The number of Howard County business enterprises listed in the current issue of Dun & Bradstreet's Reference Book, compared to 1951, clearly outlines the substantial business development.

When the owner of a business or his accountant returns his financial statement to Dun & Bradstreet, the statement becomes a part of the credit report on his business along with a financial analysis, a description of what the business does and a record of how it pays its bills.

On the basis of the information in the report, a rating is assigned and the businessman is listed in the Dun & Bradstreet Reference Book.

Man Slain At New Year's Celebration

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 1 (AP)—A fishing camp operator who also drove racing cars was shot and killed early today as he left a New Year's celebration with the former wife of another man.

Benny Alvarez, 42, was struck by three bullets fired from a distance of two feet into his chest. He died while being taken to a hospital.

The sheriff's office issued an alarm for the arrest of Henry Mendez, 42, a Tampa taxicab driver whose former wife, Beatrice, was Alvarez' companion at the Ybor City celebration.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to thank all neighbors and friends for their kindness during the illness and death of our beloved husband and father. May God bless you for your sympathy and kindness.

Mrs. George W. Bryson and Family

WHAT BIRDIE?—seems to be the question being asked by Donna Lynn McDaniel, who was only four days old at the time this picture was taken. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. McDaniel and she was born at Big Spring Hospital on Dec. 26. Donna Lynn weighed 6 pounds 6 ounces at birth.

LITTLE WINNIE—She may resemble the famous gentleman, but her name is really Linda Ruth Padgett, who was born to Mr. and Mrs. N. D. Padgett, 1604 Johnson, Tuesday at Malone & Hogan Clinic-Hospital. Linda Ruth arrived at 10:25 a.m., weighing 6 pounds 6½ ounces.

New Year - - - New Citizens

As old 1954 faded away, and a lusty new 1955 rolled in, there were on hand some new citizens to greet their first new year, and to hold forth as much promise for growth and future happiness as does the turn of the calendar. In these pictures are some newborn babes who have come along just in time to personify the spirit of the new year. Some of them were Christmas-Day babies, others were arrivals during the holiday week. And all are bundles of happiness for proud parents to have new goals of living with a new year.

GETTING SOME EXPERT HANDLING from nurse Mrs. Doyle Whetsel is the new son of Mr. and Mrs. Faustino Rios of Knott. He was born Tuesday at 5:40 a.m. at Cowper Clinic & Hospital, weighing five pounds.

A LITTLE DEDUCTION FOR BADDY at income tax time will be Larry Raul Gonzales, who arrived Tuesday at 11:48 p.m. at Medical Arts Clinic Hospital. He weighed in at 6 pounds 2¼ ounces. Parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gonzales.

New Year Welcomed By Dancing Groups

A New York night club created the atmosphere for the New Year's party at Webb AFB Officers' Club. Party-goers entered through a large draped curtain and looked through a window effect to view Central Park and the New York skyline. A revolving color spotlight played up the focal point.

The club was decorated with silver paper and draped with streamers hung with serpentine. An outline map of each state, bordered with silver paper, was hung on the walls and showed names of officers in Pilot Training Group from that state.

Pilot Training Group was in charge of arrangements, with Maj. Max Wilmon directing. Capt. James Murgover was in charge of decorations.

Maj. Robert G. Woda was master of ceremonies for the floor show. Maj. Wilmon sang "Your Cheating Heart" and "El Rancho Grande." Mrs. Robert O. Isham Jr., Mrs. Vance T. Leuthold and Lt. Grace Foster did a Charleston act and tap routine. Maj. Gerald Rooney also took part.

Sammy Daulong and the Melloneers provided the music. Breakfast was served at 12:30 a.m.

Under a ceiling of balloons and Christmas decorations, members of the Howard County Athletic Club and their guests danced as the New Year was ushered in. A canopy was erected, under which Jack Free and his orchestra furnished the music. Just before midnight, caps, hats, confetti, serpentine, horns and other noisemakers were distributed. About 65 couples attended this dance.

The Country Club tea dance Saturday afternoon was expected to draw several out-of-town visitors. This is an annual affair always given on the afternoon and evening of New Year's Day at the club house. Jack Free and his orchestra played for the dancing.

The hall room was decorated in the holiday motif, with Christmas bells placed at intervals in a false ceiling of tinsel. Wall plaques of Santa Claus were in cedar wreaths and there were flanked by plaques of Christmas sprays. Doors were festooned with swags of cedar, and the mantel was banked with greenery, holding a nest of Christmas balls. Tables were arranged around the dance floor and on the sun porch.

Ray Neal Hendersons To Live In Wichita Falls

LAMESA (SC)—Mr. and Mrs. Ray Neal Henderson will make their home in Wichita Falls following their wedding trip. They were married Tuesday in the First Baptist Church parlor.

The bride is the former Katie Lou Hewitt, daughter of Mrs. J. P.

Middleton, Route C. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Earl F. Henderson.

The Rev. Aubrey White, uncle of the bridegroom, read the ceremony before an altar of palms flanked by baskets of white gladioli. Susan Logan was organist and Dennis Phillips sang "I Walk Beside You" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Graves From Time Of Christ Found

JERUSALEM, Jan. 1 (AP)—Workmen digging foundations for a house in the Israel sector of Jerusalem have found a number of Jewish burial caves believed to be 2,000 years old.

Bones, pottery and glass vessels dating from the time of Herod were uncovered. One burial urn carried the inscription, in Greek, "Rufus who is Daniel."

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Billy Joe Lambright. She wore a gown of white antique taffeta styled with an empire waist, elbow-length sleeves and a bouffant skirt. Her winter white satin hat had a tiny veil, and she carried a pink rose bouquet on a white Bible.

Juanelle Patterson, maid of honor, wore a pink antique taffeta dress styled with princess lines. Her accessories were white and she wore a white rose corsage. Don Ham of Plains was best man.

For traveling the bride wore a charcoal suit with pink accessories. She is a senior student at Lamesa High School. The bridegroom is a graduate of Lamesa High School. He entered the Air Force in August and is now stationed at Sheppard Air Force Base.

Mend That Book

A new book mending kit offers all the equipment needed to bind magazines, notebooks, pocket-size paper books or fine leather books in a jiffy.

Buttons Hint

It's easier to make buttonholes in this material if you first rub a little library paste on the wrong side.

Baby Spoons Grow Up

The old-fashioned bent-handle feeding spoon is being replaced gradually by the longer handled spoon. One reason is that these permit mother to fish out baby foods from jars more easily. Tiny spoons are good for cereal dishes.

DRESS PARADE

When she attended the tea-dance at the Country Club Saturday afternoon, Mrs. R. P. Kountz wore a rustling taffeta in a thistle shade with matching pumps. Buttoned from the V-neck to the hem with tiny covered buttons, the dress boasted a rhinestone ornament at the end of a hand across the front of the fitted waist. Her smoked rhinestone earrings matched a bracelet, which was worn over 16-button kid gloves. A tiny hat, designed in beaded points gave added sparkle as did an evening bag with sequin trim. Her stole was of saffire mink.

Big Springer Is On Jamaica For Preaching Mission

Tom Adams of Big Spring is one of 58 Baptist pastors and laymen who left Thursday for a week's preaching mission on the island of Jamaica.

The Big Spring attorney will join in the mission which begins Sunday and continues through Sunday, Jan. 9. It is being sponsored by the evangelism department of the Baptist General Convention of Texas. Dr. Frank Weedon, member of the convention's staff, is directing the mission. Expenses of the group are being paid, in many instances, by home churches of pastors and laymen making the trip.

Invitation to conduct the mission came from the Jamaica Baptist Union through C. W. McCullough, a native of Brownwood and who is a Southern Baptist foreign missionary. Last year, said McCullough, there were 2,000 professions in 80 Baptist churches in Jamaica during a similar campaign.

Son Of Conan Doyle Sets Author's Resort

LISBON, Portugal, Jan. 1 (AP)—Weary British and Portuguese writers will be able to rest from their scribbling in the luxurious resort area of Cintra near Lisbon, thanks to the son of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, creator of Sherlock Holmes.

Adrian Conan Doyle announced he has purchased an 18th Century mansion to serve as a museum for his father's writings and a holiday home for authors.

Red Refugee Reports Shanghai 'Madhouse'

HONG KONG, Jan. 1 (AP)—Victor Chulkov, a stateless Russian recently arrived from Shanghai, says each person there is rationed to six ounces of sugar and a pound of oil a month.

"It's a madhouse," he said. "I suffered a sprained wrist when I fell after being shoved by crowds who were afraid the sugar and oil would run out before their turn came."

Place Mats

Instead of throwing away Christmas cards, paste them over shirt cardboard and shellac, making attractive placemats. Then coat the surface with one or more coats of thinned shellac. Allow shellac to dry between coats.

Red Death Sentences

BERLIN, Jan. 1 (AP)—Communist courts in East Germany, handling 230 cases of political offenses against the state in 1954, came up with 4 death sentences, 15 life imprisonment terms, a total of 2,566 years at hard labor and 153 in ordinary jails. The West Berlin Free Jurists' League, an anti-Red organization, supplied the tally.

Colorful Lampshades

New lamp shades have land and seascapes laminated between vinyl. Finger marks, dust and moisture may be removed quickly.

Tile Tip

Wipe glazed wall tiles with a sponge dipped in ammonia and water to give them the sparkle of newness.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown and Eddie have returned from Arkansas and Memphis, Tenn., where they visited friends and relatives.

Howells On Trip After Lamesa Rites

LAMESA (SC)—Mr. and Mrs. George Cook Howell Jr. are on a wedding trip to New Orleans, La., following their wedding Tuesday at the First Methodist Church in Lamesa.

The bride is the former Billie Grace Webb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Webb, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Cook Howell Sr. of Richmond, Va. Dr. Jordan Grooms of Big Spring read the ceremony and was assisted by the Rev. John Howard Crawford of Lamesa.

Mrs. Noble H. Price sang "I Love Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Carl Rountree, organist, played "Ave Maria," "O Promise Me," "Because" and "Walk Beside Thee."

Seven silver rose trees were decorated with American Beauty roses, and blue tapers in candleholders created the candlelight setting for the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original gown of imported French lace and nylon tulle over ice blue net and satin. Her tulle skirt was styled with handkerchief puffs of scalloped lace and swept into a cathedral train.

Her veil of silk illusion fell from a pill box hat of lace embroidered with sequins and seed pearls. Her flowers were a bouquet of white orchids, gardenias and lily of the valley.

Mrs. George Weiss of Brownfield, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Lois Jean Weekes of Odessa, Jane Weiss of Brownfield, Lee Howell of Lubbock, Mrs. Charles S. Smure of Midland, Mrs. Don F. Pierce of Wichita Falls and Sarah McDonald of Midland.

Mrs. Roy Butler of Ardmore, Okla., and Mrs. Ray Butler of Alice lighted the candles.

The bridal attendants and deighters were dressed identically in waltz-length gowns of nylon tulle and satin in shades of blue thistle. They wore tiny nose veils attached to satin bandeaux edged with seed pearls. The attendants carried arm bouquets of American Beauty roses.

Edgar M. Howell of Falls Church, Va., attended his brother as best man. Ushers were George W. Weiss of Brownfield, Donald Helm of Lubbock, Leon Keens of Lorenzo, J. David Lynch, John M. Richards Jr. and French S. Pruitt, all of Lubbock.

A reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. The table was laid with an imported Madras cloth and decorated with an arrangement of white gardenias. Silver appointments were used.

The couple will be at home in Lubbock following their wedding trip. The bride's traveling costume was an original model suit of soft blue imported wool. She wore navy accessories and a white orchid.

The bride is a graduate of Lamesa High School and Texas Tech in Lubbock where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma. She is former head of the Commercial Department of Lamesa High School and is now attending Tech on a teaching fellowship. She will receive her masters degree in business education in August.

The bridegroom attended St. Christopher's School in Richmond and is a graduate of Princeton University where he was a member of the Princeton Tower Club. He served as Lieutenant Commander in the United States Navy during World War II. He is a member of the Lubbock Country Club and the Country Club of Richmond, Virginia. He is executive vice president of Nunn-Electric Supply Corporation in Lubbock.

Wed Recently

Mrs. Paul H. Capen, the former Colleen Vaughan, was married in Midland Dec. 20 at St. Marks Methodist Church, with the Rev. James B. Sharp reading the double ring ceremony. Attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Don Fiora. Mrs. Capen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Vaughan, 220 Mobile. The parents of A-2C Capen are the Rev. and Mrs. Harry Capen Jr., missionaries in Africa. The bridegroom is stationed at Webb Air Base, and the couple will be at home at 1906 Pennsylvania.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ulrey of College Station have been the guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Ulrey. Mrs. Ulrey accompanied them to Albuquerque for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Dekker, and they returned home Wednesday.

Betrothed

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Wilkerson of Garden City have announced the engagement of their daughter, Wanda, to Pfc. Bennett Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Moore, Oil Mill Rd. The bride-elect attended Garden City and Texas Technological College and is employed in Midland by the Union Producing Co. The prospective bridegroom attended Big Spring schools and is stationed at Camp Hood. The wedding date has not been set.

Mary Margaret McBRIDE SAYS

The novelist Ellen Glasgow records as the earliest incident she remembers a frightened black dog, pursued by shouting men carrying sticks and stones. The little Ellen thought the animal shrew her a tortured, appealing glance as it raced by but she could not help. It was the child's first contact with cruelty, her first intimation that human beings could be brutal.

For the rest of her life she was firmly convinced that the only great sin is the deliberate infliction on another of pain, physical or mental.

In her remarkable autobiography, "The Woman Within," the author predicts that war will never be banished, and gives as a reason that some people like it. They are the ones, she believes, who enjoy being cruel. At first "enjoy" seems the wrong word here, but perhaps it is the only one that fits.

I, for one, would never be able to tie a tin can to the tail of a cat, and I am miserable when occasionally I read stories of sub-human men and women who starve, beat and maim their children for reasons ranging from simple dislike to strange ideas of discipline. In spite of all the rationalized explanations, I am revolted by bull fights and hunting undertaken only for sport. I can't for the life of me understand how a landlord can bring himself to evict a penniless woman and young children.

Yet there is a streak of cruelty in me — as I imagine there is in most. All it takes to bring mine to the surface is anger. Let somebody sting me in a sensitive spot, and instantly my irresistible inclination is to return blow for blow. Maybe I enjoy the outburst but it is useless as therapy, for it does not assuage but, rather, intensifies my hurt, since shame inevitably follows it.

If the blow is being struck for another, though, perhaps the case is different. Once I saw a mild-mannered woman do an extraordinary thing. She was passing through the vestibule of a department store as another shopper, annoyed by the crying of her

MR. AND MRS. A. H. BUGG

A. H. Buggs Celebrate Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Bugg celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at an open house Saturday afternoon from 2-6 p.m. at their home, 1111 N. San Antonio. Joining in the festivities were the couple's six daughters and two sons: Mrs. H. D. McKinney, Mrs. W. B. Morton, Henry Bugg and Mrs. D. H. Thomas, all of Tucumcari, N. M.; Mrs. H. L. Williams, Amarillo, Mrs. F. C. McDougal, Big Spring; Mrs. O. L. Green, Corpus Christi, and F. W. Bugg, Big Spring.

They have 12 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. The couple was married at China Valley near Sterling City in 1905. Mr. Bugg was born in 1881 in Corder, Mo., and Mrs. Bugg, the former Myrtle Humble, was born in Coleman County in 1886. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bugg, were both pioneer settlers of Sterling City, where they moved in 1886. Her parents were Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Humble, and they moved to Sterling County in 1889. A year after their marriage the couple moved to Reeves County and ranched near Toyah for 14 years. In 1919 they came to Big Spring and bought a farm north of town. He and his brother, L. L. Bugg, put in a grocery store in 1925 on N. 2nd, where the Alexander Grocery is now. Later he went into the wholesale meat business in 1930 and started farming and ranching in Tucumcari, N. M., in 1928. The Buggs still have their New Mexico property although their home is in Big Spring.

Information, Please

Coat Of Arms Dates From 16th Century

A focal point of Lt. and Mrs. David M. Cole's living room is a pair of family coat of arms Mrs. Cole has copied and had framed. One of them dates all the way from 1548 and she's planning to do them as copper plaques.

Lt. Cole is a student officer at Webb. When one is in pilot training and takes a correspondence course too, you know he must be pretty industrious, but that's just what he's doing.

He's taking a math course by correspondence to help him with the geology he hopes to use in civilian life. Since he's a member of the Air National Guard, he'll be released from active duty after he completes his pilot training.

He and his wife came to Big Spring from Columbus, Miss., where he took his primary training, but their home is really in Bloomsburg, Pa. They attended Bloomsburg State Teachers College there. Mrs. Cole's interests definitely run to the creative. She's made a magazine basket and two lamps for their home and designed and made their splatter paint Christmas cards. Right now she's busiest trying out her new sewing machine, a Christmas present.

Lt. Cole also tries his hand at the artistic, but he does it with a camera. He likes to take 35 millimeter slides. He's taken lots of pictures of the flat landscape around here because, as Mrs. Cole says, "They'd never believe it back home."

Good Luck Breakfast

Corn puffs and blackeyed peas were served Saturday morning to a group of her friends by Mrs. J. W. Wooten in her home at 500 Gold. Preceding the Good Luck Breakfast, Mrs. Betty Runyan read the first chapter of Ecclesiastes, and Mrs. Wooten gave the "kitchen prayer." Each person made a wish for the coming year. Other guests were Mrs. Dora Pike and Jewell Tiptoe.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Hall and son, Sam, have returned from a trip to Fort Worth and Texarkana. In Texarkana, where Sam Hall had been visiting, they were joined by Barbara Jones, student in Cotley College at Nevada, Mo., for the return trip to Big Spring. Miss Jones left to return to Nevada Saturday evening and Sam was to leave this morning to resume his studies at Texas A&M College.

DOGS FIND HOME— A nurse is surrounded by some of 170 dogs at Isle of Capri estate of Countess Maria de Lazzara who converted it into a retreat for homeless canines.

New Year's Resolutions

Ring in the New Year with some interesting resolutions are Rosalind Russell, Esther Williams (top) and Marilyn Monroe and Donald O'Connor. These and other stars are featured today in Lydia Lane's exclusive interview.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Film Stars Give Their Outlook On New Year

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD—This past year has been good to Hollywood and thanks to the wide-screen, the threatening cloud of TV has vanished. With this "new lift" feeling in the air as we face the New Year, I wondered what our top stars were wishing for in 1955 and what words of wisdom had helped mould their successful careers.

With this in mind, I visited 20th Century-Fox and on the "Seven Year Itch" set, I asked Marilyn Monroe what she hoped the New Year would bring.

"I wish to grow as an actress and a person," she said with intent, "and that means this must be a year of hard work and study for me. And I hope it will also be a year in which I shall be able to keep my resolution to be always on time. This," Marilyn added with a smile, "is going to be hard, very hard, for me."

I told Marilyn I thought she had done a lot of growing up since I'd first met her and asked what advice she'd found outstandingly helpful. Marilyn said:

"A good friend once told me, 'take everything in by observing everything and listening to everyone. But more important listen to your own inner voice.'"

At Paramount I watched Rosalind Russell play a scene in the musical comedy, "The Girl Rush."

"My father has given me the most valuable advice I've ever received," Roz told me in her dressing room. "In my early teens I entered a diving contest at a bay-side regatta near our home in Waterbury, Connecticut and was good enough to reach the finals. I was a scrawny girl and my opponent, who was a few years older, had a lovely curvaceous figure. I was more than a little miffed that my Venus-type adversary was getting most of the attention from the spectators as well as the judges. As I stood on the board about to execute a final jack-knife, the key button on my bathing suit strap popped off. I was mortified and figuring my opponent would win anyway, I stepped into the water, feet first, automatically disqualifying myself. I swam to the boat where my father was watching and he helped pull me aboard, and as he did so he said 'You're going to have to learn, dear, that a winner never quits and a quitter never wins.'"

Forsan Residents Have Guests

FORSAN—Mrs. Minnie Worthy from Chicago, Ill. is visiting her brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gressett.

The Rev. and Mrs. R. C. Nixon and family have returned from a visit with their parents in Portales, N. M.

Jeff Jones and family have moved here from Archer City.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Barton and sons have been his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Barton from Georgetown. His brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Barton, also visited with them.

Set and Mrs. Virgil Bennett are going to Selfridge Field in Michigan, where he will be stationed. Seaman 2nd Class and Mrs. Jackie Patton from Long Beach, California are visiting relatives here. After his furlough Seaman Patton will leave for Japan.

Guests in the home of the O. W. Scuddays are her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Holt from Monahans.

Rating The Home Jobs

A recent survey of city and suburban homemakers by the Michigan Experiment Station showed that cooking rates as the most popular household job. Unpopular were cleaning house, mending and making over. Lower income homemakers like washing clothes better than medium-income homemakers.

More than a third of the women reported that ironing was the most fatiguing or disliked job. Women with good income liked housework less than women in lower-income families.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Stephens, James and Susan are spending the weekend in Dallas and Fort Worth visiting with his sister, Mrs. I. S. McIntosh, and Mr. McIntosh. They attended the Cotton Bowl game on Saturday.

Teachers To Hear National President

Lucille Carroll, president of the Department of Classroom Teachers of the National Education Association, will speak to the Big Spring Classroom Teachers Association Tuesday.

A dinner meeting will be held at the Settles Hotel at 7:30 p.m. Guests will be members of the board of trustees; Superintendent of Schools, W. C. Blankenship, and principals of all schools. Officers of the Future Teachers of America will also be guests.

This Was The Year Mom Could Quit The Kitchen

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
This may be remembered as the year Mom finished her long hard apprenticeship in the kitchen. It's true that for some time now she has been using quick-and-easy ways of providing her family with delectable meals, but never before has she been able to practice so much of her culinary art right at the dinner table.

Thanks to the ingenuity of American manufacturers, Mom now has her own Aladdin's lamp. She plugs in her small electric cooking appliances and her genial appear. Picture her sitting at the dining table with the rest of the family. A chicken is spit-roasting in a luscious golden-brown in an electric rotisserie on a serving cart with wheels and a special outlet. At her right vegetables steam perfectly in an electric saucepan. On her left there is an electric baker—a small oblong chrome box in which biscuits are browning. At dessert time she lifts the cover from an electric skillet and serves her family a pudding—hot, spicy, fragrant. A meal fit for a king—and the queen never moves from her chair.

Then there is breakfast: 1954 is the year Dad stopped complaining about the coffee. The electric coffee-maker on the dining table produces a uniform brew in a few minutes and then the heating device automatically changes to a temperature that keeps the coffee hot. Ready-prepared frozen waffles are popped into a toaster for a few seconds heating. New orange juice does away with home-squeezing and is not a concentrate; it comes in a milk-type waxed container and an irradiation process allows it to retain its original fresh form, flavor and vitamin C.

R. L. Tolett left Saturday for Tucson, Ariz., to spend a week with his daughter, Kaye, and her husband, Robert F. Lusk Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Lusk are the parents of a son, Michael David, born on Dec. 22. This is their second child, the eldest being Carolyn Lee, born Aug. 7, 1953.

Sterling Silver
The best care for sterling silver according to one specialist is daily use which helps prevent tarnish and develops a soft patina. Wash your sterling after each meal in hot, soapy water. Follow with a rinse in hot and clear water. Dry with a soft towel. Rotate the usage of various pieces of silver to keep the patina.

When To Paint
A new undercoater primes immediately, sealing surfaces, allowing for a second finish coat of paint to be applied about 30 minutes later, according to manufacturers.

Tomato Juice Powder
Tomato juice can now be made by mixing powder with water according to scientists of the Agricultural Research Service at Albany, Calif. The powder may be used, also in recipes calling for tomato paste, puree, sauce or soup.

Like powdered orange and grapefruit juice, tomato powder is "puff dried" by vacuum. Then it is pulverized into a flaky powder and sealed into cans.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Vick have returned after a visit with their daughter, Mrs. Dan English, Mr. English and Elizabeth Kay in Lake Charles, La.

CAMPUS CHATTER

By FRANCES WALKER

Tomorrow morning the doors will open at HCJC; the SUB will again ring with laughter and the halls will come to life. Yes, the holidays are ended, and the Jayhawkers, one and all, are ready to get back to school. Different students spent their vacations in various ways. Those who live a great distance away, such as Phil Gore, Norma Blount, Paschall Wickard, Jim Robinson, Myrna Sprout, and Don Anderson, stayed at home with their folks. Silas Flourney spent his holidays at home, but they were far from being pleasant—he was sick in bed. Of course, some students love school so much that they keep on studying even during holidays. Perhaps that is why Peggy Knight, Connie Cox, Barbara White and a number of others spent their time writing research themes. Jim Knotts delivered his Christmas cards in person this year. You see, he worked for the post office for a week before taking a short trip home to Louisiana.

On a last minute shopping trip, I saw Bob Patterson working at Mellinger's and James Underwood working at Elmo Wasson's.

One of our teachers, Sarah Connelly, had a very pleasant vacation. She was married in Dallas on Dec. 21.

Everyone loved the brief snow we had last week, but I don't think Floyd Martin cared too much for the icy roads that went with it. His car hit a slick spot and turned over several times. Floyd was fortunate, however, and escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

Reba Taylor looked in her Christmas stocking and found a lovely diamond ring. She will become Mrs. Arashi Eaton in the very near future.

Coach Harold Davis has his eye on a new basketball player. I'm afraid he'll have to wait a few years to secure him for the Jayhawks as Alan Kent Davis is only four days old.

Speaking of the Jayhawks, I might say that everyone is very proud of the performance of the squad in the HCJC tournament this weekend.

A number of our exes were at the games, among them, Bobby Road, Glenn Bunn, Cecil Niblett, Glenn Barnes, Carl Peterson, Calvert Shortes, Charlie Howie, Richard Gilmore, Billy Wayne King, Bill and Dene Sheppard, Weldon McElreath, Jimmie Bennett, Betty Hulse, Jo Nell West, Delmar Turner, Delmar Hartin, Charles and Shirley Warren, Jack and Frances Lee, Jerald Parmer, Barbara Blair, Bob and Billie Baker, Floyd Martin, Jann Bailey and Don Stevens.

Best wishes go to the last couple named, as they are engaged. They are attending the University of Corpus Christi.

Another of our exes received a ring for Christmas, too. Rhama Latson and Doyle Maxwell have not set the date, yet, though.

Paschall Wickard's parents and Glenda Williams of Clovis, N. M., were here to see him play in the journey recently.

Jack Williams, former Jayhawk, was married in Clovis on Dec. 21. Jack is stationed in San Diego with the Marine Corps.

The Jayhawk sweatshirts have arrived and will be distributed tomorrow.

The Hawks will play San Angelo in the HCJC gym Tuesday evening. See you in school in the morning.

Jiffy Knitting Done Easily By Machine

A new home hand-knitting machine, capable of duplicating fine hand stitches at the rate of 201 stitches at a time is now available. The makers say a full sized stole may be knit in about 2 hours, a pair of gloves in 90 minutes. Argyle socks or a sweater may be done in less than three hours.

The needles are curved like a crochet hook, each moving up and down in a slot. A sliding lock is moved across the length of the machine resulting in one row of knitting each time.

VERSATILE STYLE

Princess Frock May Be Used As Coat Or Coat-Dress

In any fashion and fashionable conversation, the name Monte Sano is synonymous with high style and fine quality. Today's pattern for a dress coat-and-or coat-dress is a particularly magnificent reflection of this master tailor-designer's reputation in the field.

Out on princess lines in center front and back, it has cleverly manipulated side gores with a hip line break and bodice darts that deliver beautifully the new long torso and high bosom look. The neckline and collar are meant to be away from the neck, for you to fill in with jewelry or a frothy bit of orpandy.

Make it in faille, shantung, alpaca or wool and if you wear it as a coat dress, buy an especially pretty embroidered petticoat to show off as you walk.

This pattern is cut in DESIGNER MEASUREMENTS, not Standard Pattern. Measurements: Size 10 bust 34, waist 24, hips 35 in.; size 12 bust 35, waist 25, hips 36 in.; size 14 bust 36½, waist 26½, hips 37½ in.; size 16 bust 38, waist 28, hips 39 in.; size 18 bust 40, waist 30, hips 41 in. Size 12 requires 5½ yards of 39-inch material for coat, 4¼ yards of 39-inch material for lining and 1 yard of 27-inch material for interfacing.

To order Pattern No. 1205, address SPADEA SYNDICATE, INC., Box 535, Dept. B-5, G. P. O., New York 1, N. Y. Size. Send $1.00. Airmail handling 25 cents extra. Pattern Booklet No. 11 available for 25 cents. Make check or money order payable to SPADEA SYNDICATE, INC. and add 4 cents for bank clearance.

Sam Joiner Family Gathers

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Joiner of Coahoma were hosts at a reunion on their 52nd anniversary.

Six of their seven children attended. They and their husbands and wives were Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Joiner and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Lenderman of Coahoma; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dodson of Westbrook; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Riggsfield, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Joiner and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Joiner of Cuthbert. Another daughter, Mrs. Claude Caloway of Artesia, N. M., was unable to be there.

Grandchildren and great grandchildren attending included Mr. and Mrs. Roy Holler and Linda Jane, Margaret Ann, Charles Ray and Paula Kay of Post; Mr. and Mrs. Junior Dodson and Edgar Don of Big Spring; Mrs. Weldon McMillen and Robert of Cuthbert; Wayne, Jackie and Debbert Lee Joiner of Cuthbert; Peggy Ann, Raymond Lenderman of Coahoma, and Allen Kent, Barbara Ann and Diana Kay Joiner of Cuthbert.

NCO Wives' Club

About 55 members and husbands attended the dinner dance given by the NCO Wives' Club recently at Smith Tearoom. Holiday decorations were used, and following the dinner, the group went to the NCO Club for dancing.

McMahans Return From Family Reunion

Mr. and Mrs. Garland McMahan, Bernard, Garland Jr. and Pat have returned from Lamesa, where they visited in the home of his mother Mrs. J. A. McMahan. A family reunion dinner was held in the home of his sister, Mrs. Bob VanWie, Maj. Twain McMahan, his brother, and Maj. McMahan's wife were visiting from Washington, D. C. Maj. McMahan will leave soon for a four-year tour of duty in Germany with the Air Force.

Legislature Plans Look At Laws On Insurance

By BO BYERS

AUSTIN, Jan. 1 (AP)—Texas will take a searching look at its insurance laws, branded "the worst in the United States."

Eighty companies have been tossed into receivership or conservatorship in a decade, 17 in the past two years. Thousands of policy holders in at least 10 states have unpaid claims of more than 10 million dollars.

Charges of fraud, mismanagement, and political chicanery have thundered from the campaign stump and the quiet halls of Texas' 3rd Court of Civil Appeals.

Five men, including a former wrestler who injected insurance into last summer's bitter political campaign in Texas, face 12 criminal charges in three failures.

When a 5 million dollar company, General American Casualty Co. of San Antonio, folded last June, the criticism of the state insurance setup snowballed into a cry for a full inquiry.

The Legislature, meeting Jan. 11, will take a long, hard look at the insurance laws.

Defenders of the State Insurance Commission, scored by some for lax enforcement of the insurance laws, blame the Legislature for ignoring recommendations to tighten them.

These defenders, too, have hit back at a statement by Robert Gilmore Jr. of Bridgeport, Conn., who said Texas had the "worst insurance laws in the United States." He was president then of the National Assn. of Life Underwriters.

Defenders point to Texas' 1,202 insurance firms, one third the total in the nation, and argue the number of failures is not so significant as it might seem.

Insurance is the second biggest business in Texas, surpassed only by oil. It grew like Topsy in the lush years following World War II, when some companies were started with as little as $500. Gov. Shivers said it was this fast growth that "caused some weak links" to appear.

Other officials said the insurance Commission Shivers appointed had shown a "get tough policy" with shaky companies; that, with one exception, it was not to blame for issuing permits that allowed firms that have folded to operate.

Texas insurance really hit the headlines last May 12.

Associate Justice Robert Hughes of the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals issued a scathing opinion about the failure of the Texas Mutual Insurance Co.

Hughes said the failure was "replete with evidence of fraudulent and corrupt abuse of our insurance laws and gross if not criminal laxness in their enforcement."

District Judge Charles Betts of Austin earlier denounced Texas insurance laws covering the operation of what he called "special privilege companies."

Since then, a committee of Congress has checked a magazine writer's assertion that an insurance association dominated by Texas companies controls the sale of insurance to GI's in Europe.

A three-man commission appointed by the governor supervises insurance in Texas.

The chairman is Garland Smith, a former small town newspaper publisher and a former administrative assistant to Shivers.

Smith has joined critics sniping at some insurance laws, but he has hotly denied charges of "influence peddling" and laxness.

He has criticized speculation in insurance, with stockholders instead of organizers taking the risk. He said this speculation had been encouraged by the willingness of some banks to make loans to promoters.

The Texas Legislative Council made a study of insurance solvencies for 15 years and its report indicated Texas had the highest rate of insurance failures of any of 38 reporting states.

Idaho, South Dakota, Kansas, New Jersey, Michigan, and Pennsylvania appeared to have among the next highest percentages of failure. All of those states have fewer companies than Texas.

Idaho and South Dakota reported that have suffered only one domestic failure each since 1945; Kansas and New Jersey, two each; Michigan, five, and Pennsylvania, eight.

By another yardstick, that of total liability at time of failure, Texas has a better record than New York and Rhode Island, Smith declared.

Each of those states has had only one failure since 1945, but Smith said those two companies had assets of 34 million dollars when they failed. He said this indicated they had more than four times as many liabilities as the total of all Texas failures for the same period.

The New York failure, the Preferred Accident Insurance Co., had 250,000 or so policy holders. Claims filed with the liquidator exceeded 68 million dollars, but these included some duplication by policy holders and their agents.

New York is considered to have as tough insurance laws as any state.

With one exception, all of the insurance failures in Texas have been in the fire and/or casualty field.

Records show a number of persons have been connected with more than one failure.

One of these is Ralph Hammonds, the one-time wrestler who organized the now defunct Lloyds of North America.

Defending himself in a receivership suit, Hammonds injected politics into the insurance situation. He said he had hired John VanCronkhite, former executive assistant to Shivers, to get better relations with the insurance Commission and that it was a "strange coincidence" that his refusal to pay VanCronkhite more money was the "beginning of the troubles of Lloyds of North America."

VanCronkhite, who handled publicity for the Democrats for Eisenhower campaign in 1952 in Texas, denied Hammonds' assertions.

He said he got $1,000 a month from Lloyds for about nine months, except for one month when he got $2,000 for "some extra work."

VanCronkhite said he had never tried to influence the commission and that there was never any disagreement with Hammonds over his fee for publicity.

When General American Casualty Co. went down, it had 120,000 policy holders in Texas, Alabama, Alaska, Arkansas, Colorado, Kentucky, Mississippi, New Mexico, Tennessee and Utah.

Ralph Yarborough, defeated for governor by Shivers last summer, charged in his campaign that a big insurance company was broke and the State Insurance Commission wasn't doing anything about it.

General American Casualty Co. officials—and Smith—said Yarborough's statement killed efforts to raise 1 to 1½ million dollars needed to save the company.

Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd said Yarborough's statement had no bearing on the company's chance of survival.

"That company was permeated with bloated stock and bad risks written on military people (auto insurance). They were given ample opportunity to raise the money. You couldn't have sold that company anywhere," Shepperd said.

Two things have come in for especial criticism.

One is that sale of insurance stocks in Texas is not regulated (and some investigators have called Texas a promoters' paradise for the sale of over-inflated insurance and trust company stock).

The other is the illegal practice of using inflated real estate values to bolster company assets. This practice incensed Judge Hughes.

Testimony in a suit showed that Texas Mutual Insurance Co. of Beaumont bought a building for $100,000 Aug. 5, 1949, and three days later submitted an appraisal to the insurance Commission valuing it at $436,000.

The law requires only that two freeholders make the appraisal. In this instance, one freeholder was the building maintenance man.

Not all companies were insolvent when put out of business. Some were ordered to quit operating because the state found them to be either fraudulently organized, organized, fraudulently operating, or in a hazardous condition.

The total number of policy holders involved in all failures of insurance companies has not yet been determined. But 38 put in receivership since 1945 had roughly 300,000 policy holders. Claims are estimated at more than 10 million.

Thousands of suits have been filed to collect claims or damages.

Thousands more are ready for filing, by state-appointed liquidators and by individuals.

Records of broke companies show allegations of fraud, conspiracy in organization, misappropriation of company funds, false reporting of financial conditions, and false affidavits on the part of bank officers making loans to the companies.

Defendants in some suits already

'Sancho And Pancho'

Sancho, a baby Mexican burro, first prize in a national letter writing contest sponsored by Life Magazine, arrived at the home of its winner, 8-year-old David "Pancho" Campbell of Austin, Texas, just in time to go under the Christmas tree. And then, by edict of David's mother, Mrs. Dick Campbell, Sancho went into the back yard. (AP Photo).

filed include William Green of Sioux Falls, S.D., who for 24 days early this year managed General American Casualty Co.; Stewart Hopps, a former director in an organization known as the Rhode Island Insurance Group; Texas State Sen. William Moore of Bryan, chairman of the Senate Insurance Committee; L. W. Blanchard, chief examiner for the Insurance Commission, and James E. Dunne and Charles D. Dunne, identified as doing business as Dunne's Insurance Reports and residents of Kentucky.

A court petition alleges that Dunne's Insurance Reports issued "false and misleading reports" about the financial condition of General American Casualty Co. and that these reports were used to promote stock sales of the company.

Moore said he was retained by General American Casualty "for about two years" to handle claims and was also employed by Texas Mutual. There is no law in Texas barring legislators from having such relations with companies.

While the failure of some companies has spotlighted a bleak side of the Texas insurance business, these failures represent a very small percentage of the total companies.

Insurance officials point to the American National Insurance Co. of Galveston, biggest west of the Mississippi River with more than 3 billion insurance in force, as an example of the soundness of most of the state's companies.

But Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey sounded a popular note when he said last summer that one failure is just one failure too many.

MORE PRECIOUS THAN GOLD

Many years ago all research was concerned with an effort known as "alchemy" which had as its aim the conversion of all materials into gold. However, today we are grateful that present-day medical and pharmaceutical research has turned its efforts toward the development of items "more precious than gold."

Ten years ago no amount of gold could buy some of the modern pharmaceutical products available today—the few antibiotic capsules that today can treat a case of pneumonia without worry and danger—the hormones that have allowed arthritics who were permanently disabled to again live useful lives—the insulin which now allows the diabetic to live a healthy normal life—and many, many others. Who can place a value on these? Are they not more precious than gold?

We in pharmacy are proud of our part in these advances which today are being taken for granted by even the poorest, but 10 years ago were not available to even the wealthiest.

Texas Engineers Suggest State Control Of Water

ORANGE (AP)—Views of the Texas Society of Professional Engineers on the state's critical water problem will be handed to Gov. Shivers Monday.

John Simmons, president of the Texas Sabine River Authority and a member of the society's water education committee, told of the plan.

Simmons was a co-author of the 67-page booklet. Another co-author is J. S. Hudnall of Tyler.

The booklet warns that the Texas drought is not over. It explains the state is suffering from effects which in severity rank with the eight major droughts of 600 years.

Citing conflict among leaders about the best approach, the booklet says:

"Water supply development and control is an engineering undertaking and the engineering profession should attempt to be helpful in clarifying the problems and in defining the basic requirements for correction."

Because a lapse of 5 to 10 years is required from the date of the first survey for dam and reservoir sites until the water is available, the booklet urges that a legislative program be started at once.

A program of recommended legislation included recommendations:

That the Texas Water Resources Committee be continued and financed adequately.

That the State Board of Water Engineers be adequately staffed and strengthened with funds and authority.

Enactment of laws clarifying allocation and use of waters and providing for a definition of riparian water rights.

The authority for enforcing all pollution laws should be vested in one agency. Pollution laws should be made clear and enough funds should be voted for enforcement.

Enactment of legislation, including an amendment if necessary, so the state can assist in interim financing of water projects where local agencies are unable to finance them fully.

Legislation authorizing the Board of Water Engineers to develop a statewide master plan for water resources utilization. Full recognition should be given to river authorities and local interests.

"It is estimated that during the past summer 75 per cent or more of the people of Texas were either restricted in their use of water or denied the amount needed in their daily life," the society said.

Hearing Could Lead To Attempt To Circumvent Intent Of Law

There has been scheduled for Monday in Austin a hearing on an application by one segment of optometrists in the state for adoption of regulations restricting advertising by all others in the profession. The attempt may represent something in the "third time's charm" thesis, for it is virtually the same as two other similar attempts. So far as we know, there is nothing which requires a member of the profession to do any sort of advertising. We certainly would be the first to oppose such compulsion. By the same token, we cannot see where the interests of any but a segment of the profession will be served by tight controls and prohibitions. The Texas Legislature was quite pointed in its refusal to grant these regulatory powers to the State Board of Optometry Examiners. Twice before the board has issued similar rulings but nullified them down when court action was forthcoming. There was good reason, for the courts have held in no uncertain terms against them. Moreover, opinions by the attorney general's office clearly state that the proposed restrictions are without foundation in law and would be in conflict with the law.

Confident Living—Norman Vincent Peale

Try To Live By God's Guidance And Face New Year Confidently

As we face the New Year, I find inspiration in reading about a fine American family who learned the secret of successfully facing difficulties in past years. This family has become quite well known of late, for one of their sons is President of the United States. Elizabeth Logan Davis tells their story in her book, "Mothers of America." She says that David and Ida Eisenhower were not prosperous people. David was a fine man, but his earnings were always small. One hundred and fifty dollars a month was the most he ever made. He worked in a creamery; then he opened up a small business and failed. Discouraged, he moved to Texas for a short while. Ida followed him a little later with one baby and three, in Denton, she gave birth to the present President of the United States. Finally they moved back to Kansas and the six Eisenhower boys grew up in Abilene. The Eisenhowers belonged to a religious group called River Brethren, a very spiritual people who had moved west from Pennsylvania because they thought it had become too worldly. The entire Eisenhower family, including all the boys, went to church every Sunday. They came home after church and the boys cooked Sunday dinner, giving their mother her only rest of the week. There was a Bible in the Eisenhower home, of course, and every boy had to read it through once every year and commit some favorite passages to memory. If they weren't rich in worldly goods, they were rich in spirit, which is more important. They raised their own vegetables; the boys sold the surplus so that the family might have the extra cash. They didn't think of themselves as underprivileged; that word hasn't even been coined! They were good, clean, honest American people. Indeed they felt they had wonderful privileges, for think of the happy family life they had; the pleasant town in which they lived; the church and schools they attended; they had the blessing of a free country and the guidance and love of God. Underprivileged? These boys? Not at all. And when the day came for one of them to be made President of the United States, he must have thought of this Christian and American background, because as he looked out over the great throng, he said, "Before I take the oath of office, I ask you to join me in prayer." He delivered a simple, but sincere prayer that moved the nation to its depths as it had seldom been moved before. And, more recently, in a statement made for the Committee on Religion in American Life, which is conducting a campaign to deepen the spiritual life of the nation, he said, "I should like to feel that, in every American family, some place is set aside for an expression of our gratitude to Almighty God, and for a frank acknowledgment of our faith that He can supply that additional strength which, for these trying times, is so sorely needed." There is much trouble in the world as the New Year dawns. Yet we can face this New Year with strength and with confidence if we turn to these same great sources of inspiration which nourished the Eisenhower family and many other Americans since our country began.

These Days—George Sokolsky

Mortal Man Cannot Prophesy; Can Ask The Lord For Good Year

At the end of the year, we balance our accounts, if for no other reason than that the income tax requires it. Those accounts have to do with money, not with personality. The latter, some of us avoid balancing until it is too late and we go, like quarry-slaves, to await the judgment day. Others are introspective and constantly weigh their conduct in the balance, humbly seeking forgiveness for errors of moral judgment, errors of commission and omission. Still others live for fun and find it wherever it may be; they make the search for fun the focus of their lives and when they are old and tired have nothing better in life to look back upon than the fun they have had and can no longer have. Still others devote themselves to charity and civic virtue; they often live bohemian lives, fighting for principles and conclusions which others deny. The future then remains a closed book. What the planners can plan for is today but never for tomorrow. For instance, in 1939, when the great nations went to war to save Poland from the Germans and the Russians, no one could foretell that in 1955, that war would still be upon us in one form or another; that Poland would be forgotten but that Thailand would emerge as a possible theater of war between the United States and China. Similarly in 1941, when the war between the United States and Japan, long in the making, finally broke into fury at Pearl Harbor, no one could foretell that Japan would in 1955 be a dependent of the United States, or that Indochina would become, in part, a satellite within the Soviet Universal State, or that India would become the cross of American policy. Nor could anyone then have foretold the vast political and social changes which have taken place in all the world because of the spread of the Marxist Church and its penetration into every land. Nor could anyone have suspected the emergence of Islam from Casablanca to Karachi into a third power that must be reckoned with in every conference of nations. In a short period of 16 years, changes have occurred which no wise prophet, no reader of signs and portents, could have known or said anything about. The signs we survive speak in generalities; the particularities of our world are always fluid and changeable. At the start of a new year, it is customary for those who live by appearing to be wise to speak their prophecies about the forthcoming year. Maybe, it is an interesting, even a stimulating guessing contest. But what, for instance, would we be talking about today if Stalin had not died. The answer is that Stalin did die. In the way of the flesh, that does happen to every body sooner or later and when a master of men goes, we bump hard against the strong wall of reality that even masters of men temporary in their power and are soon forgotten because new stars shine brightest. Therefore, I shall avoid prophecy in this column, humbly praying for all of us as good a year as the Lord will permit in an era of unbelievable confusion in the habits and ideas of men. May we have peace and health and may our children not disappoint us.

Reserve Board's 'Dampener' Just Serves To Make Wall Street Trading More Active

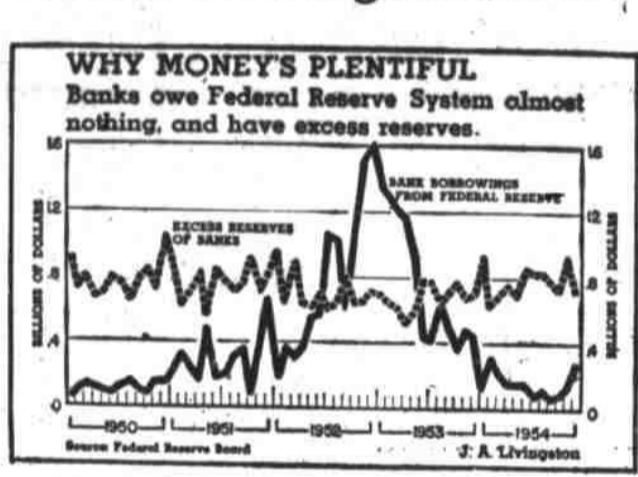

Perverse. That sometimes is the only word for Wall Street—as, for instance, on Thursday afternoon, December 16.

Chairman William McChesney Martin Jr. of the Federal Reserve Board, had just finished telling the Bond Club of New York at lunch that the Reserve System was no longer going to throw money at banks and financial institutions. Money would still be easy, but it wouldn't be "actively easy." The Reserve Board was going to be neutral in the money market for the time being. From an active participant, it would become inactive.

You'd expect this to be a cold towel, a chill on speculative sentiment. Here was the nation's head money man telling the nation's most powerful bankers, investment men, and financiers that if he were worried about anything, it was inflation, not deflation. This came after word had got around Wall Street that the Federal Reserve and the President's Council of Economic Advisers were keeping watchful eyes on the stock market. Therefore, any suggestion of a change in the Reserve's credit policy would presumably have an effect on stocks.

It sure did. All morning on Thursday, December 16, stocks were drab, continuing a four-day downtrend. Then, in the final hour, after word of Martin's speech got around, stocks shot up. Wall Street, far from depressed, was delighted. And the delight has been spread all over the ticker tape ever since.

How perverse! Martin suggests that brakes may have to be applied to credit, and Wall Street, which usually thrives when money is easy, celebrates like a man who has just torn himself loose from a New Year's resolution. This was news. Martin and the Federal Reserve Board are no longer concerned about recession. The governors see good business ahead. They're preparing—just in case, the recovery in business, now under way, bursts into boom. They're optimistic, not peasimistic. They don't have to nurse business along. Martin's pronouncement seemed to vindicate Wall Street's barometric reading that business is going to get better, that corporation profits will be good in 1955, and that dividends should increase.

Martin merely stated formally what has been going on for some time. This year, the Reserve made no special effort to loosen credit for Christmas business. Currency in circulation shoots up about a billion dollars between mid-September and Christmas. Commercial loans also rise as retailers boost inventories. But the Reserve Board didn't choose to buy government securities. That would have replaced the reserves banks lost when they paid out currency to businessmen for payrolls and depositors for shopping money. So, the price—the cost—of money rose. In October, government three-month bills bore an interest rate of less than 1 per cent. Today the rate is about 1.5 per cent. Quite a boost. Yet, banks weren't squeezed—as the chart shows. They're hardly borrowing any money at all from the Reserve—less than $300,000,000 throughout most of December. At the same time, excess reserves—which indicate whether banks are able to make loans to customers are near a billion dollars. That left plenty of freedom. For every dollar of reserve funds, banks can extend about six dollars of credit. That's why reserves at the Federal Reserve Bank are called "high-powered" money. When banks have this high-powered money, they try to use it. That was evident during the early months of 1954. Business men were reducing inventories and paying off loans. This would ordinarily reduce deposits. It would tend to cut down the nation's money supply. Banks didn't let that happen. Supplied with this high-powered money, banks made real estate and other loans freely. That helped business. Banks also bought securities from insurance companies, investment firms, and individuals. Such loans and purchases create bank deposits. And the holders of these deposits want to use them. Effect: a subtle, steady urge to invest—a slow stimulus to business. As a consequence, the money supply—deposits plus currency—climbed to more than $205 billion this month, as against $201 billion in December 1953, and $195 billion in December 1952. That was the Reserve Bank's design. "It is money makes the mare to trot." And now the Board has decided to let the banks keep their customers trotting on their own. There's sufficient money to go around. Apparently, Wall Street feels the same way.

Bible Words for Today

JOHN 14:9—"He who has seen me has seen the Father; how can you say, 'Show us the Father?'"

Men in all generations since time began have voiced, in one way or another, the plea of Philip, "Show us the Father!" We are so constituted that we want to know God. Augustine was very right when he cried out, "Thou hast made us for Thyself, and our heart is restless until it repose in Thee." One is sometimes amazed at the devout ways that are taken toward a knowledge of God. Not long ago I picked up a book titled, "How Can a Man Know God." It struggled laboriously with such questions as, "Can I find God in science?" "Can I find God in nature?" "Can I find God in humanitarian service?" etc. Except for some judicious thumbing about I might never have come to the consideration of the central fact that we find God in Jesus Christ! Ah, that we might come directly to that point! That is why the Son came into the world—to make known to men the Father—His tender mercy, His forgiving love, His redemptive purpose, His eternal promise. Find Him in the Jesus of the New Testament. Find Him in a daily walk with Jesus as Friend, Lord and Saviour!

To Those Who Contributed To A Better Town In '54, Thanks

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald.—Editor's Note.

You can look back on 1954 and, in the main, call it a "good year" for Big Spring. Personally, our fortunes and affairs varied with the individual, just as we should expect. But community-wise, a lot of worthwhile things were accomplished. These were mostly done by a group who serve unselfishly, who are willing to put personal affairs aside long enough to exert effort in behalf of community progress. In not-always complimentary fashion, I guess that's what they are. But it seems to me the town would be crippled—or at least far behind its ordinary pace—if it weren't for the do-gooders. I have used this particular date in the Sunday Herald for several years to extend to them my thanks on behalf of the community as a whole, and I am happy to do so again. There is no naming the individuals who get out and work for the civic projects (another name that is badly overworked, but still seems to fit). It wouldn't necessarily be endless, because there ought to be more of them, but it is a long list. You have to consider such people who serve on our school and college boards, and on our city commission. These are cited because they accept public service without pay, and put in a lot more time and worry and work than they get out of it. A great many times their conscientious actions bring only criticism, and praise frequently is conspicuous by its absence. But all these public officials have had responsible duties to perform, and they have done them well. You have to consider the nameless ones who work so devotedly in the cause of youth building. It goes for the volunteers in the YMCA, the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts, the DeMolay and the Rainbow Girls, the Salvation Army, and others. All these are building something that is important, the future solidity of our town and state and nation. You have to consider the small army of sterling citizens who pitched in to make a United Fund campaign click faster and more successfully than it ever has before. Here's a solid example of what community enterprise and cooperation can do, and Big Spring's record with the United Fund is one that has attracted attention throughout the state. There is the group that handle the leadership of the chamber of commerce—a group of businessmen who must initiate action for the good of the city, and then labor to bring the action into fruit. This is never easy work, never simple, and the men who labor in this vineyard are due credit for much of the town's growth. It seems to me, from the sidelines, that Big Spring's churches and Sunday Schools have broadened their influence immeasurably during 1954; that the work for Christianity is striding onward and upward. This is a bright chapter in the year's record, and is due in part to the consecration of time and labor given by those prompted by high motives. Ah, yes, much has been done in unselfish contribution, the whole result of which is a more honorable community. The people who have made the contribution are due an expression of gratitude from all of us; without them we wouldn't have much of a town; without their work you wouldn't want to live here. Here's hoping for an extra star in the crown of the do-gooders. —BOB WHIPKEY

Washington Calling—Marquis Childs

France Aply Represented In Washington By Henri Bonnet

WASHINGTON — While France has been going through another of the political crises that have repeatedly shaken the Western alliance in recent years, Washington has been paying tribute in a series of farewell parties to the retiring French Ambassador, Henri Bonnet. Both at private and public functions praise has been lavished on the Ambassador and his wife for their efforts during 10 years in this capital to further Franco-American understanding and good will. It will occur to many to wonder why, if Mr. Bonnet has worked so hard to promote understanding between the two countries, there should be these recurring strains that test relations to the breaking point. But there are limits on what an ambassador can do, and they are clearly shown in this instance. He cannot, for example, make the policy of his country. He can only explain and clarify it. If the policy seems to threaten disaster or something close to it, then he can let his own government know just what the repercussions will be. In the decade the Bonnets have been in Washington, the French have gone through one upheaval after another and the Ambassador has explained to a succession of Secretaries of State just what these crises have meant in relation to the deeper currents of French hopes and fears. Immediately after the war General Charles DeGaulle, with his almost-mystic conviction of France's destiny, went to Moscow and formed a close alliance with the Soviet Union. He also took the Communists into his government in that period in the wake of the wartime alliance when collaboration and coexistence seemed assured. A little later came the wave of Communist-directed strikes and mass demonstrations that threatened the entire French economy. France appeared to be defenseless before the menace of Communism both at home and abroad. But the Marshall Plan was projected and the Communists were expelled from the government. Massive American aid began to reinvigorate French industry. There was renewed hope and the lines of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization were laid for an effective defense of Western Europe with American support. There remained, however, a hard core of Communist support and a basic disaffection with high prices that made Communist votes. In the French Assembly today the 95 votes of the Communist bloc—second largest in the chamber—constitute a Trojan horse with the reins held in Moscow. This has been the major obstacle over which one premier after another has fallen in the effort to get a majority vote for German rearmament. It was France that first put forward the plan of European unity embodied in the European Defense Community treaty. When that treaty was threatened with rejection in the crisis in the Assembly last August, Ambassador Bonnet was called to the State Department and told how serious would be the consequences of a vote of disapproval. The then Under Secretary of State, Walter Bedell Smith, went so far as to say that he wondered if even Bonnet, himself, despite his years in Washington, realized what the American reaction would mean for France. As a consequence, the Ambassador wrote a strong dispatch to the government of Premier Pierre Mendes-France expressing his own deep concern over the possibility that the Assembly might not ratify the EDC treaty. This frank dispatch is said to have caused no little annoyance in Paris among those around the Premier who were trying to steer a course that would avoid an open commitment to EDC and the thereby enable Mendes-France to stay in power. Bonnet will be succeeded by a career diplomat, Couve de Murville, who will come to Washington in mid-January. It will not be easy for him to follow a man who has won such a wide popular following and who has come to stand as a symbol of his country.

Political Playback

Adlai Stevenson kept on saying, right up to his nomination for President by the Democrats that he "wasn't a candidate." His backers, even at the Chicago convention, said they hadn't raised a cent for campaign money. All that can be technically correct, if you want to get technical enough, but somewhere along the line there was a decision, and there was a lot of very keen strategy in advance of the victory. I think the Stevenson campaign—that is, taking the effort to other people than the little Arvey coterie—was started here in Texas. There had been planning ahead of that. Stevenson attended the national Governors' Conference in Houston. During that week, a book came out in print, and somehow was sent without charge to the newspapers, and who knows how many other recipients, about Stevenson the statesman. It would seem logical that boss Arvey and the rest of his people knew where they were going, from the Houston meeting on, even though the formal recital of a precise "acceptance" had not been made. Stevenson was "running" as the term is generally understood, and was staying within skillfully designed campaign strategy, from the time he checked in at Houston. Long before that, though no public subscriptions had been taken, somebody had provided enough money to have the Stevenson biography written, printed and given away by the thousand copies. After the Houston meeting, a few months ahead of the July convention in Chicago, there was no doubt that Governor Stevenson was a principal prospect for nomination, nor that a most skillful behind-the-scenes campaign strategy was being run in his behalf. Then go in the next room—and run the vacuum cleaner. An Oklahoma couple brings home nine German children and a bus. Orders from Treasury Secretary Humphrey: "Seal the borders! Now they're smuggling in exemptions by the bus load." Democrats vow to fight for more public housing. Democrats claim this is really an economy measure—when you figure that there are a lot more expensive ways to make votes. A press survey reveals that "bar girls" are fading from the national scene. Married men don't get lonely any more. Most every home has a TV set. An Air Force officer goes 632 miles an hour on a land rocket sled. Modern war is confusing. The Navy holds most of the air records, the Air Force goes fastest on the ground and the Army has a missile that will go 150 miles up in the air.

Our Religious Faiths

What Is A Christian Scientist? (Part II of Article III)

This is another in a series of informative articles on the role of religion in today's world, written for the Herald by leading authorities of the various faiths and denominations. Later articles will discuss Baptists, Episcopalians, Methodists and The Church of Christ.

By GEORGE CHANNING
Lecturer and former manager of the Committee on Relations of the Christian Science Church.

Do Christian Scientists refuse medical attention when their own children are sick?

Christian Scientists love their children as deeply as other parents. When their children are ill, they want them to have the most effective and reliable help. They employ the method of Christian Science—prayer, or spiritual understanding—fearlessly and with complete confidence, because they have reason to know that Christian Science is efficacious. (No one is forced to rely on Christian Science against what he may regard as his own good judgment.)

Christian Scientists in many schools and colleges ask for and receive exemption from regulations requiring medical means—yet their health is as good as that of the rest of the student body, and is often better.

The Christian Scientist knows that he takes good care of his children in one particular way; he prays earnestly for himself and his children every day. He prays not only for their health, but for their spiritual progress.

Do Christian Scientists call in a doctor at childbirth?

Yes. The Christian Scientist makes sure that someone who possesses the necessary skills is present at childbirth. The Christian Scientist does not presume to do what he is neither trained nor licensed to do.

Have not Christian Scientists died because they refused medical attention, or relied entirely on faith and prayer, or called in a doctor too late?

One might as readily ask, without intending to give offense, "Have not many persons died because they refused the spiritual method of Christian Science, and relied entirely on material aid?"

No statistics prove that the healing methods of material medicine are superior to those of Christian Science.

We do know that thousands of men and women who were pronounced "incurable," and who spent years in invalidism and suffering, turned to Christian Science and were healed. Such persons are numerous among the members of the Christian Science church.

Efforts to understand and apply any rule may appear more successful in some instances than in others. The failure to bring certain facts to light does not alter the verity of the facts themselves. The laws of mathematics, for instance, may fail to reveal a correct answer when improperly applied; indeed, many sciences fail to reveal certain answers even when properly applied.

Pioneer Of Radio Ministry To Mark 30th Anniversary

Dr. Charles E. Fuller, pioneer radio preacher, will in January enter his 30th year of continuous broadcasting.

The "Old Fashioned Revival Hour," which Fuller directs, is the oldest network religious program on the air. From a modest beginning over a single California station, this program is now heard on hundreds of stations around the world. It is broadcast by Radio Station KTXC each Sunday at 9 p.m.

One of the first to enter the field of religious radio, Dr. Fuller started in 1905, while the minister of a small church in southern California, that there were millions who never attend church. Through the medium of radio he saw the tremendous possibilities of reaching these same people with a religious service where they are—at home, in their automobile, in hospitals, in prisons.

The broadcast originates each Sunday afternoon from the 5,000 seat Long Beach Municipal Auditorium, where there is represented in the audience each week visitors from most every state in the nation.

Dr. Fuller occasionally speaks in person at great religious gatherings in other parts of the country, and it is estimated that he has traveled close to 400,000 miles to fulfill these engagements. On one occasion he addressed a crowd of 75,000 persons at Soldiers Field in Chicago.

An anniversary rally will be held following the broadcast at the Long Beach Auditorium on Sunday January 9.

Elderly Resident Is In Need Of Bed

Do you have a single bed and mattress lying around the place unused?

The Salvation Army has a case where it is sorely needed. An elderly Latin-American, who was badly burned not long ago, has no bed. A neighboring family has agreed to keep him, but the family already is short on beds. Neither does it have a gas heater.

A call to the Salvation Army will be sufficient to have someone come and get the bed, mattress or heaters (for which there are numerous calls).

profession by the cases it loses, nor by the over-crowded hospitals and graveyards. May not Christian Science ask that it be judged by its potentialities for good and its achievement in canceling the sense of disease (or sin) from the experience of innumerable persons?

Do Christian Scientists refuse medical attention in the case of fractures or accidents?

There are innumerable instances of bone fractures which have been set and healed perfectly under Christian Science treatment—without medical or surgical aid. Results depend upon honest effort, correct understanding and constancy in Christian Science practice.

A Christian Scientist does not surrender his status as a free man or woman under God. He works out his own salvation by following the course which wisdom dictates to him.

If the Christian Scientist has not reached the degree of spiritual understanding which is needed for healing by spiritual means and resorts to some other means, he obviously cannot be said to be employing "faith." The method of Christian Science.

He does not undergo condemnation for this; nor does he assume any burden or guilt. He is always free to improve his spiritual understanding and employ it exclusively, thus restoring his status as a Christian Scientist.

If God is infinite and good, how does evil exist?

Evil is hypnotic. It has no more reality than a dream—yet to the dreamer it appears real. The nothingness of evil—and of that which sees, feels or believes in evil—is proved through spiritual awakening.

Does Christian Science believe in sin?

Man is really sinless and free. Sin is the belief in the real existence of a mind or minds other than the divine Mind, God. Mortal mind, which believes in decaying and dying, is the sinner. St. Paul called it the "carnal" mind. If a person accepts the carnal mind, its sins will appear to be his sins, and its suffering his suffering.

Christian Scientists rid themselves of sin by breaking the false notion that the carnal mind is real, or one's own. Penalty for sin lasts only as long as such false belief lasts. The Christian Scientist tries to live so that the divine Mind is revealed as his mind.

Christian Scientists hold that sin is unreal. But this does not mean that one can sin with impunity. The sinner does not know that sin is unreal; if he did, this would destroy his capacity for sinning.

Do Christian Scientists believe in heaven or hell?

Yes—but not in a geographical sense. As Mrs. Eddy said: "The sinner makes his own hell by doing evil and the saint his own heaven by doing right."

Why don't Christian Scientists use the word "death" or the word "died?"

They do use both words. The words appear in Christian Science periodicals where the context requires them.

But the term "passed on" is considered more exact by Christian Scientists, who accept literally the fact that individual life is indestructible. We believe that what is called "death" is not termination, but only an incident in the dream of mortality, an experience of mortal mind, not the divine Mind.

Does Christian Science maintain that death itself can be eliminated?

Yes. The Christian Scientist believes that material decay and destruction can be stopped by the full realization of divine Truth. Through progressive improvement of one's spiritual understanding which alleviates the circumstances of death, the ultimate elimination of death itself can be achieved. In this way, true immortality can be realized.

Do Christian Scientists hold funeral services?

It is perfectly proper for the family to engage a Christian Scientist to read passages from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook. These passages are intended to remind the hearers that Life, God and man (who is the individual expression of Life) are eternal. It is also proper to have no reading at all.

What is the attitude of Christian Science toward birth control?

There is a whole chapter on marriage in Mrs. Eddy's book, in which this statement occurs ("Science and Health," p. 56:7-8): "Marriage is the legal and moral provision for generation among human kind."

Mrs. Eddy explains that marriage will continue subject to moral regulations needed to secure increasing virtue until mankind attains the spiritual understanding which discerns the perfect spiritual creation, unaltered by matter.

In accordance with this teaching, married couples are free to follow their own judgment as to having children, and as to the number they will have.

Do Christian Scientists oppose vaccination?

Christian Scientists do not oppose vaccination for those who want it and believe in it. They do oppose compulsory vaccination for Christian Scientists—as a trespass upon their religious convictions.

Mrs. Eddy specifically instructed Christian Scientists to obey the law, but to seek legal exemption from those laws which violate their religious rights or the rights of conscience. To exempt Christian Scientists from vaccination does no harm to others—especially if vaccination is as effective as it is claimed to be for those who believe in it.

Incidentally, Christian Scientists and their children obey all quarantine regulations because they don't want their neighbors to become fearful of their safety because Christian Scientists refrain from material methods.

Why do Christian Science students request exemptions from certain examinations—in bacteriology, for instance?

The only instruction to which Christian Scientists object is that which tends to set up the method of material medicine as the only healing method or system. Christian Scientists object to picturing the processes of disease in ways which visualize the terror which begets disease. They also object to compulsory medical regulations because, in effect, such regulations constitute indoctrination which may undermine the religious teaching of the home.

Would Christian Scientists abolish sanitation and public-health measures?

No. Christian Scientists advocate sanitation because they love cleanliness—inner and outer. They respect the right of the community to take such measures as the community considers essential—so long as these measures do not impose compulsory medication on those who practice their own spiritual method of healing.

Incidentally, Christian Scientists feel that reliance on spiritual means alone, to safeguard public health, is wise only in proportion to the spiritual understanding of health among the people in the area involved.

What is the attitude of Christian Science toward psychiatry and psychoanalysis?

There is no similarity between medical psychiatry and Christian Science. Christian Science is re-

Ex-Convict Choose Jail

SYDNEY MINES, N. S. W.—A 36-year-old ex-convict has embarked on a two-year jail stretch after breaking into two banks in order to get himself sent up.

Don Roberts told Magistrate John F. MacDonald that eight fruitless months of job hunting had convinced him jail was the place to be. The job quest began when he returned here after serving 43 months in prison at Montreal for armed robbery.

Roberts said he reached his decision Wednesday and then set about achieving his ambition.

That night, he heaved a beer bottle through the window of a Bank of Nova Scotia branch and clambered through, cutting his hand in the process.

He wandered around aimlessly in the blackness for a time then climbed back out through the broken window, taking a stroll with him.

Roberts said he then walked over to a neighboring branch of the Royal Bank of Canada and hurled the Bank of Nova Scotia's stool through the Royal's window.

Again he clambered through a broken window, this time cutting his other hand. Inside, he meandered morosely about and finally knocked the phone off its hook.

Roberts said the phone started making clicking noises so he picked it up and launched into a conversation with the operator who had been trying to get him to hang up his receiver.

He explained about the dismal job prospects and suggested it was probably time she called the cops so he could get on with his plan. She did.

Farm Price-Cost Ratio At Poorest Point In 13 Years

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farm prices were lower in proportion to farmers' costs during the last month than at any time in the past 13 years.

However, Undersecretary of Agriculture Truse B. Morse has predicted "some improvement" in average farm parity levels early in 1935.

The Agriculture Department this week reported that average farm prices dropped 2 per cent from mid-November to mid-December and stood at 86 per cent of parity Dec. 13. This was the lowest level since March 1941. Farm prices reached a peak of 123 per cent of parity in October 1946.

Lower prices for hogs, lettuce, cotton, milk and eggs were offset in part by higher prices they received for feed grain, hay, sweet potatoes, butterfat and calves.

The smog which covered London in December, 1953 was blamed for 4,000 deaths.

Gesture Of Defiance

Jeff Chandler, playing a Roman soldier, defies the mighty Attila the Hun (played by Jack Palance) in a scene from "Sign of the Pagan," CinemaScope film showing today through Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre. Others in the cast include Ludmilla Tcherina as a Roman princess and Rita Gam as Attila's daughter. The film, a Universal-International production, is in Technicolor.

Sad Sack

Audie Murphy In 'Destry' Role

Audie Murphy plays the title role in "Destry," Universal-International film in color showing Thursday through Saturday at the Ritz Theatre.

Based on the famed novel "Destry Rides Again" by Max Brand, the film shows Destry as the son of a famed law enforcement officer, seemingly reluctant to follow in his father's footsteps. Though in his father's footsteps, he is ridiculed by the townspeople of the tough village he is seeking to enforce the law in.

Mari Blanchard plays a dance hall entertainer who has a soft spot in her heart for the earnest, fumbling Destry. Lori Nelson plays Destry's sweetheart, none too pleased by this obvious soft spot in the dance hall entertainer's heart. Lyle Bettger plays the dance hall owner and gambling kingpin behind the town's lawlessness. He, of course, is pleased by Destry's seeming incompetence. Edgar Buchanan plays the town's mayor, Bettger's sidekick.

Thomas Mitchell plays the town drunk, chosen to be sheriff by Buchanan and Bettger so the town can be wide open. Mitchell, who had once been an assistant to Destry's father, sends for Destry to be his deputy and help in the job.

Veteran director George Marshall all put the actors through their paces. The film, besides its comedy and straight drama, also has several musical numbers by Mari Blanchard.

Danny Kaye In 'Knock On Wood' Showing At State

Danny plays a ventriloquist who gets mixed up with two spy rings, all very innocently on his side but none the less dangerous.

When his dummies start talking back to him, all on their own, Danny heads for Zurich and a psychiatrist. The psychiatrist Danny winds up with naturally turns out to be lovely Mal Zetterling.

As if this didn't give Danny enough to have on his mind, one spy ring stuffs some secret plans in one of the dummies and puts Danny in the role of their unwitting courier. But another spy ring learns of the plans being in the dummy and sets out to get its hands on them first.

In the course of the scramble of the spies for the secret plans they, as is their wont, start killing one another off. Danny gets the blame and police are given orders to shoot him on sight. This forces Danny to assume a number of disguises and crack a few more jokes while doing so.

Norman Panama and Melvin Fran, widely know for previous

Country Ways

Percy Kilbride doesn't seem to mind the plumage on his hat in this scene from "Ma and Pa Kettle at Home," film showing today and Monday at the Lyric Theatre. Marjorie Main, of course, plays the role of Mrs. Kettle in the film.

Chandler, Palance In 'Sign Of The Pagan'

Jeff Chandler and Jack Palance star in "Sign of the Pagan," a tale of when the dreaded Attila the Hun menaced the Roman Empire and Christendom, featuring CinemaScope and Technicolor. The film, a Universal-International production, shows for four days at the Ritz Theatre starting today.

Palance, in the role of the cruel Attila, unites the barbaric tribes from the steppes of Asia and plunges and raids the civilized world. This is made easier by the splitting of the Roman Empire between Constantinople and Rome.

Chandler plays a Roman centurion captured by Attila. Impressed by the barbarian leader's strength and convinced that it represents a threat to Rome, he escapes and makes his way to Dolenz. Dolenz brushes off the warnings for his own reasons, but his sister, played by Ludmilla Tcherina, is convinced and appoints him head of her guard. From that point intrigue builds toward the climactic battle at the gates of Rome with Chandler facing Palance as the two armies clash.

Rita Gam plays the daughter of Attila, killed by her own father when the learns of her leanings for the Christian side.

Van Heflin Stars In 'The Raid' Picture

Van Heflin stars in "The Raid," film based on little-known Civil War incident. Heflin plays a Confederate officer who enters Vermont from Canada to set up a raid by henchmen who are to sweep down into the United States. Ann Bancroft plays the young widow with whom he boards and who is attracted to him although a strong Yankee partisan.

To Show At Drive-In

Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis star in "Money From Home," Paramount Technicolor comedy showing tonight and Monday at the Terrace Drive-In. The film has to do with race track escapades and high-jinks.

'Beau Brummel' Due For The Jet

Stewart Granger and Elizabeth Taylor star in "Beau Brummel," color movie showing Tuesday and Wednesday nights at the Jet Drive-In. Granger has the role of the 18th century fashion plate whose name became a word in the dictionary.

Miss Taylor plays the lovely blue blood with whom he falls in love but whom he loses to another. Peter Ustinov plays the Prince of Wales, under whose patronage Brummel flourishes and whose ban he declines.

Twins Are Born In Different Years

STATESVILLE, N. C. (AP)—Twins were born—in different years—here last night to Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lee Eller of Salisbury. A 6-pound, 12-ounce daughter arrived at 11:57 p.m. at Davis Hospital. The new year was nine minutes old when her 7-pound, 10-ounce brother arrived 12 minutes later. Mother and babies were reported doing well.

The Ellers have five other children, four of them girls. They range in age from 4 to 18 years.

'Bowery To Bagdad' Has Gorcey, Hall In Harem Comedy Film

The Bowery Boys, captained by Leo Gorcey and Huntz Hall, make the journey from Manhattan's lower east side to Bagdad and a harem full of beauties in "Bowery to Bagdad," Friday-Saturday film feature at the State Theatre.

This all comes about when Sach (played, of course, by Hall) comes into possession of Aladdin's famed lamp, lost for centuries. Naturally there are others who would like to have the lamp, too, and Sach has no easy time with it.

Eric Blore plays the role of the genie of the lamp, glad to be back in circulation after being idle for so long. This joy doesn't last very long, however, when Silp (played, naturally, by Gorcey) starts giving orders, too.

Jan Shawlee plays a modern Matti Haki dispatched by New York crooks who wish to get their hands on the lamp. The film is an Allied Artists release.

Big Springers Take To Air Travel In Last Part Of '54

More Big Spring citizens are traveling by air than ever before, according to Bill Watson, manager of the local Pioneer Air Lines terminal. Ticket sales for the latter part of 1954 were far above the same period in 1953. And they should get even better in 1955, Watson stated. Pioneer is planning better service for Big Spring during the coming year. Sales for the early part of 1954 were not quite as high as in 1953, Watson added, but the number of flights had been cut down from three to two and he attributes this to the lower number of ticket sales.

Food Chain To Honor Manager For Citizenship

The "Citizen-Managers of the Year" will be named by Furr's Super Markets in 16 towns and cities of West Texas and New Mexico, communities in which Furr's operates super markets. It was announced this week by Roy Furr, president. The selections will be made by Jan. 15 and announced later, Furr said. Preliminaries for the choosing of the store managers are under way now, with questionnaires in the hands of the 32 managers. A committee of judges will make the final decisions, eight managers to be chosen. The plan whereby managers will become eligible for good citizenship awards was initiated by the National Association of Food Chains, of which Furr's is a member, this fall. The awards will be granted on the basis of a manager's degree of participation in community and civic activities, including voting and urging others to vote, church activity, membership in local groups, public service, familiarity with issues and similar standards.

94 Cases Of Virus Pneumonia Listed

There were 94 cases of virus pneumonia reported to the Big Spring-Howard County Health Unit this week by local physicians. This week's unaccountably large number was boosted by three cases of regular pneumonia. In all there were 276 communicable disease cases reported in the Big Spring area. Despite the cold weather, influenza cases totaled only eight. There were 30 cases of diarrhea treated by local doctors. Other diseases with a large number of cases included chicken pox, 21; tonsillitis, 20; upper respiratory, 30; mumps, 14; and gastroenteritis, 12. Physicians also reported four cases of measles, one of whooping cough, eight of virus, three of tuberculosis, two of syphilis, and three each of trench mouth and ring worm.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

As the New Year starts, I send my annual greetings to readers of this column. May your days be happy, and may you feel enriched of mind and spirit. A friend of mine used to quote a poem about Opportunity, opening in this way: "They do me wrong who say I knock but once." The verse goes on to say that Opportunity knocks time and again, at the door of each human being. New Year's Day is an expression of how people feel about the question. On this date it is a widespread custom to push the old aside, and to look toward the new. Good resolutions are made for the New Year by millions of persons. Some good resolutions are kept, but too many are given up. It would seem better to make one or two good resolutions and keep them than to try a dozen and forget them. In regard to pushing the old aside, let me remark that this can be good or it can be bad. Some of the old things should be changed, but others have been tried and found worth while. During the "teen-age" stage of life, it is common for boys and girls to feel that they know better than their parents. Older persons have the valuable guide of experience. Either they, or people they know, have suffered from various mistakes. When they try to save their children from the same mistakes, they offer important help. The question is whether the sons and daughters will be smart enough to accept the help. As I wish you a Happy New Year today, I should like to sum up my thoughts in this manner: Many things which are new are good and can help to make the world a better place in which to live. Many old things, on the other hand, are better than the new things which are offered in their place.

Our Story: AND SO IT CAME TO PASS THAT QUEEN ALETA TIDIED UP HER SMALL KINGDOM, PUT ASIDE HER JEWELLED CROWN TO BECOME ONCE AGAIN THE DUTIFUL WIFE OF PRINCE VALIANT AND MOTHER TO HER CHILDREN. THIS SACRIFICE CAUSED MANY A SLY SMILE, FOR IT WAS WELL KNOWN THAT THERE WAS MORE POWER IN THE FLUTTER OF ALETA'S LONG LASHES THAN IN VAL'S 'SINGING SWORD'.

FIRST THEY LEARN THAT THEY CANNOT RETURN TO THE NORTHLANDS ACROSS EUROPE, FOR SAVAGE TRIBES FROM BEYOND THE RHINE AND THE DANUBE OVERRUN THE LAND.

AND A SEA CAPTAIN TELLS THEM, "YOU CANNOT GO BY SEA, FOR CORSAIRS FROM AFRICA DOMINATE THE STRAIT OF GIBRALTAR AND ONLY A GREAT NAVY COULD WIN THROUGH."

THEN SPEAKS KATWIN, ALETA'S HANDMAIDEN, "MY FATHER WAS A GREAT SEA KING AND HE VOYAGED FROM SCANDIA TO CONSTANTINOPLE OVER AN EASTERN ROUTE BY GREAT RIVERS AND THE 'LONG PORTAGE'. I REMEMBER IT WELL."

TWO GREAT SHIPS ARE MANNED AND FILLED WITH TRADE GOODS. SAILS ARE SET AND ALL LOOK FORWARD TO THE GREAT NEW ADVENTURE, SAVE ONLY ONE. THROUGH A MIST OF TEARS ALETA WATCHES HER BELOVED ISLANDS FADE INTO THE DISTANCE.

SUNNY DAYS AND FAIR WINDS CARRY THEM THE LENGTH OF THE AEGEAN SEA.

NEXT WEEK—The Longship.

I was just thinking...

... AS I DROVE up Washington Street how strange it looked.

The houses were all there, or most of them, but they seemed smaller than I remembered. The honeysuckle was missing from the tangled flower bed and the old hollow tree where Julie and I exchanged our secret messages had disappeared.

The cracked slab sidewalk where every summer I fell from my wagon had been replaced by smooth cement. And Miss Harper's house, gray gingerbread once, looked startled somehow in its new green coat with a flat place where its little porch had sat like a stomach.

The vacant lot was gone, its wild unrented look succeeded by a house. And the Kyhls have moved away and Mrs. Ostrander, who climbed the long steps to her house on the hill, has climbed a higher stairway.

My old house has lost its cupola and someone down the block has painted his front door a glowing pink. The street looks prosperous and neat. The relics of a dead architecture are gathered to their dead architects. It's a friendly street, a hometown street.

But not for me.

There are so many shrunken shadows, so many dwindled dreams.

I thought it would be fun to see it again, but there was something wrong the whole way up the hill. I drove away as quickly as I could.

I had remembered how to find my street. I had forgotten something else.

You can't go back again.

Patty Johnson

As You Were Saying...

Why Are Husbands So Unobservant?

I've a complaint that seems to fall into dead air when I mention it at home. No matter how much trouble or time I take to make myself look extra-nice, my husband fails to comment, unless asked specifically if he likes my dress or my new hairdo. But the minute my stocking seam goes awry or my slip shows ever so slightly, he's as reliable as an alarm clock with his criticism. When I tell him he seems to be just looking for something to criticize, he brushes this off by saying he wants to see me look my best, and that I should accept his criticism gracefully. But all criticism and no compliments is hard to take.

Is my husband uncommon in this respect, or do other wives have the same trouble?—A Curious Wife, Roseville, Calif.

As she left, she handed me a booklet explaining hospital rules and procedures, and asked if there was anything else she could do—convey a message to my family, help me into the hospital gown, or bring me something to read.

The only pay these "hostesses" receive is a heartfelt "thank you."

Why don't more hospitals bolster the morale of patients in this way?—E. J. K., Saunders, N. D.

Is It My Fault the Chair Broke?

My husband and I have been arguing about the right thing to do. I maintain that he should send our hostess at a recent dinner party a check to replace the chair which broke when he sat down in it. He insists the chair must have been weak or cracked, and at first even suggested our hostess owed him an apology for his embarrassment. But he finally compromised by writing a note offering to pay for repairs.

I wonder whether any of your readers ever had a similar experience, and what they did about it.—Elizabeth R., Mercerville, N. J.

This Hospital Made Me Feel at Home

I was hospitalized recently for minor surgery. After registering, I was met outside the admitting office by a charming young woman who picked up my suitcase and asked if she might take me to my room! Seeing my surprise, she explained that she was a volunteer "hostess," one of several who help make a new patient feel at home by conducting her to her room, introducing her to whoever may be sharing it, and pointing out her bed, closet, and drawer space.

Holmes Is Where the Heart Is

In a unique Texas drugstore, customers wait on themselves, make change, and keep their own charge accounts

Getting ready for the morning rush in his "help yourself" drugstore, Bill Holmes puts change on counter.

A SALESMAN VISITING Holmes Drugstore in Tyler, Texas, was amazed. Customers were serving themselves, making change out of the cash register, and keeping their own charge accounts in a notebook. Finally he turned to owner Holmes and burst out: "Never before have I seen a man who paid absolutely no attention to his business!"

Although the statement wasn't exactly true, the scene the salesman was watching was contrary to all rules of normal business. Yet W. E. Holmes is perfectly satisfied with the profits from his unorthodox "honor system" method of doing business.

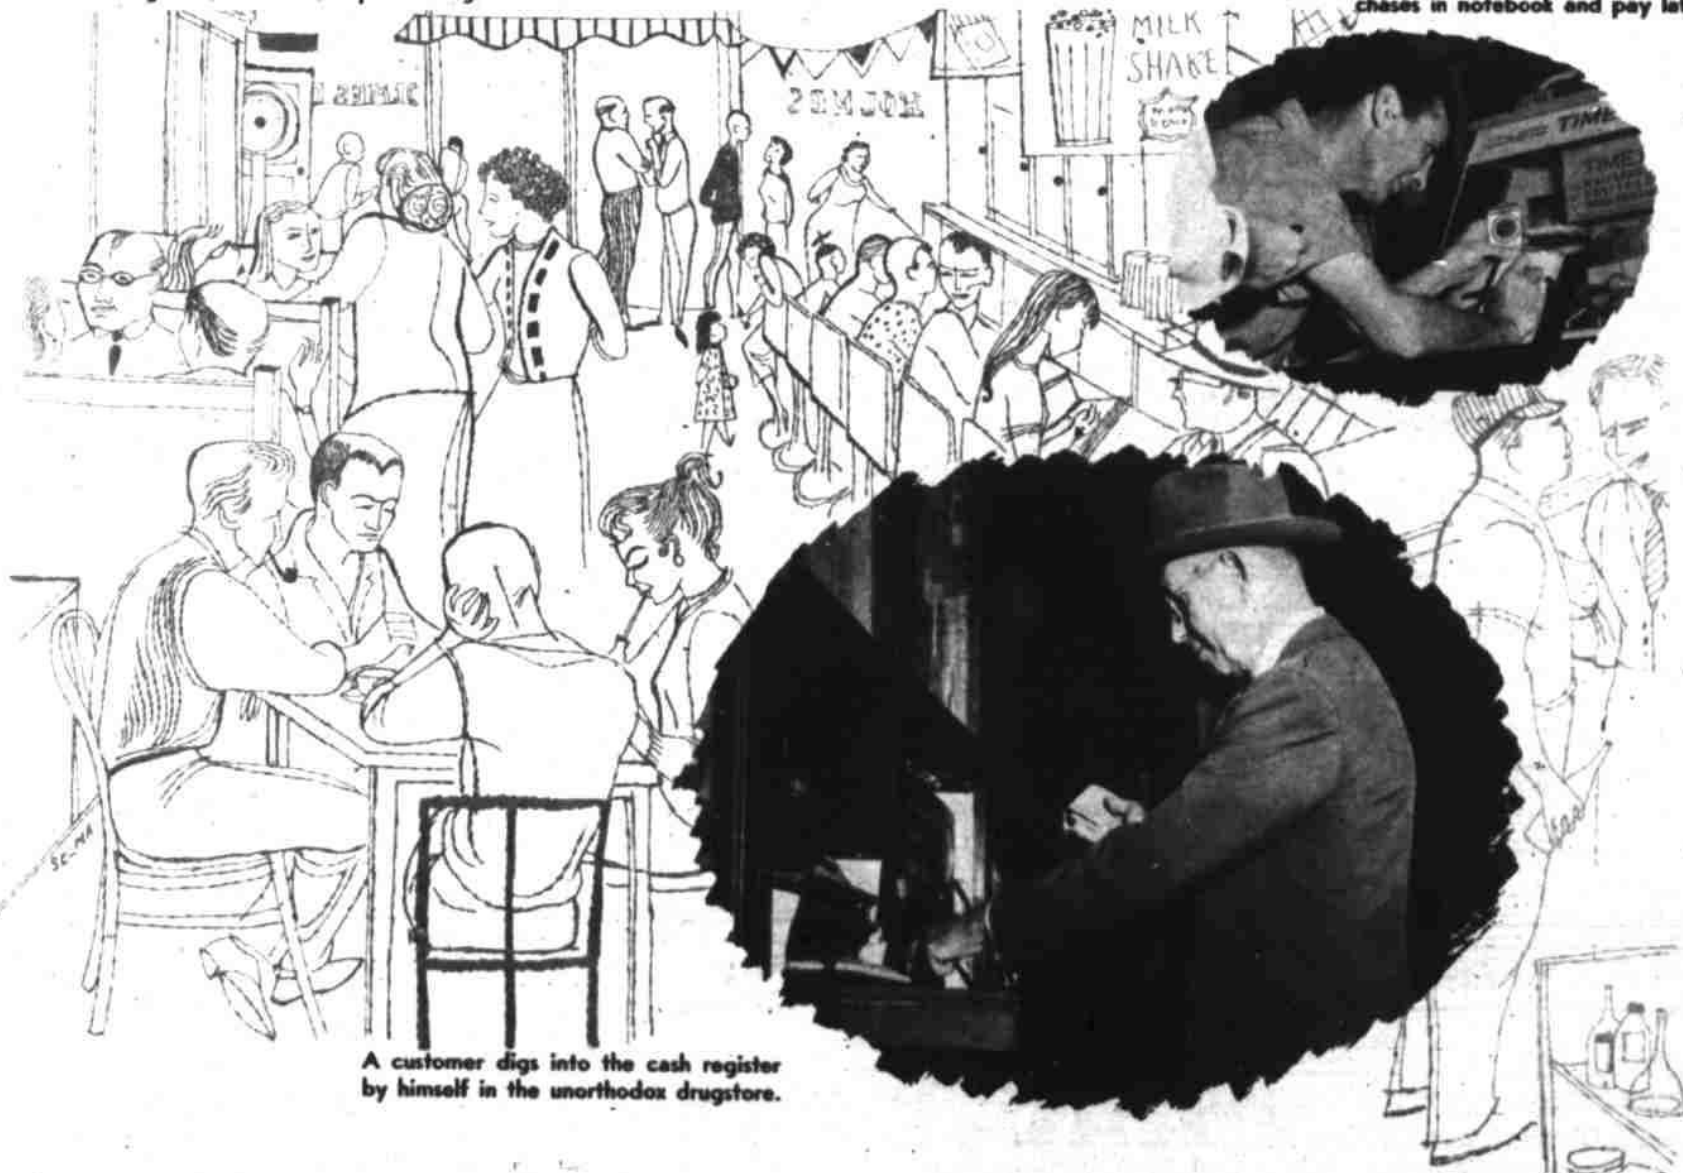

He has a refreshing philosophy—"People are good; give them a chance to be honest and they'll lean over backwards." The system developed during the war, when help was scarce. He got in the habit of telling customers to wait on themselves and make their own change. It worked so well he has continued the procedure ever since.

Today 70-year-old Mr. Holmes has only a girl clerk and a porter to help him run the store. Yet hundreds of customers get their sodas, prescriptions, and hot-water bottles at Holmes' place every day. His bookkeeping methods are simple: A credit customer marks down the amount of his purchase on a page in a looseleaf notebook; then one day he adds up what he owes and pays the total to Mr. Holmes, who rings it up as a cash sale. The time saved frees the pharmacist for his two favorite occupations: filling prescriptions and making friends with people.

For Bill Holmes, who vows that his only loss was through a 25-cent mistake, the honor system is good business. For customers, it's a "kick" to wait on themselves and others. (Note to other businessmen: Mr. Holmes has never had a stomach ulcer!)

Credit customers record their purchases in notebook and pay later.

A customer digs into the cash register by himself in the unorthodox drugstore.

Don't Try to Remake Your Husband!

The wife who's constantly striving to improve the man she took "for better or for worse" is playing a dangerous game.

IF YOU WANT your marriage to succeed, take your husband as he is. Don't try to do a "remodeling job" or even put a few finishing touches on him. Most husbands and wives influence each other's tastes, standards, interests, and viewpoints in many subtle ways, and each partner tends to smooth the rough edges off the other's personality. In the process, some of the agreeable, useful traits of each are likely to "rub off" onto the other. But this usually happens without either partner's being aware of it or actually planning it that way.

The wife who deliberately sets out to reform her husband frequently defeats her own ends, and may end up wrecking the marriage. That is exactly what was happening in the Oliver household.

Here is Ted Oliver's story, told in his own words:

"Some people might think I'm crazy to complain about Florence; she's devoted to me and the children. She's always well-groomed, she's a wonderful housekeeper—if you like plastic covers over slipcovers—and she's a fine cook—if you like only what's good for you and full of vitamins. She never overlooks an opportunity of telling me that everything she does, morning to night, is only for my own good.

"The trouble is, Florence can't leave anything or anybody the way it is. Whenever she walks into a room, she moves a chair a few inches, turns a lamp this way or that, straightens a picture just a tiny bit. She's forever straightening my tie or picking a speck of dust off my coat. And she's the same with everyone else. I guess that's the trouble—she can always find a speck to pick at in everyone and everything.

"Before we were married, I thought she was just about perfect. Now I see that's her trouble—anything short of perfection doesn't suit her. It's, 'Nobody really likes your corny jokes, Ted, dear,' or 'If you'd only take up golf and forget about bowling, you'd meet a nicer crowd of people.'

"Or she'll try to tell me how to do my job with digs like 'If you had any backbone at all, you'd simply refuse when they ask you to work overtime.'

"Whether it's the way I shave or how I drive a car, she tells me how I can do it better. Okay, maybe I'm a dope. But I can't be wrong about everything! I've done all right on my job and people seem to like me—which is more than you can say for my wife!

"The first year we were married, I thought she'd get over trying to remake me. I figured that when the baby came, she'd be too busy taking care of her to worry about improving me. But it didn't work out that way. Eileen is seven and Teddy is five, and now she keeps after all three of us.

"If Eileen brings a friend home to play, she gets a lecture afterward about every false move her playmate made. If Teddy makes a boat with scraps of wood and a few nails, instead of praising him his mother points out everything he's done wrong.

"Eileen seems to be pretty subdued, but Teddy's made up his mind that he can't win anyway, so he simply pays no attention to what his mother or anyone else tells him.

"It really isn't any one thing Florence does, it's the accumulation of criticism all the time until you wonder whether you can hold out. I keep my troubles to myself, but her constant carping wears you down like the old water torture.

"I like my home and I love my children. I don't want to leave them, but I don't know how much longer I can put up with things as they are."

"Instead of praising our son's creative efforts, she points out errors."

The other side of the coin

Contrary to Ted's opinion of her, Florence Oliver thinks of herself as a long-suffering wife. She sees things like this:

"Sometimes I wonder why I work so hard doing things for everybody, when no one, least of all my husband, appreciates it. I think it's a person's duty to do her best all the time and to help improve the people around her. Ted had lots of faults when I first met him. I guess he never had much bringing up. Even though I haven't been able to do as much for him as I had hoped to when we were married, I keep trying.

"I'd feel that I was being lazy and negligent if I didn't give my children the very best training or didn't keep my home spotless the way my mother taught me. Mother was just about the most wonderful person in the world. She was strict, and my sisters and I were afraid of her, but what she did was for our own good. She had four little girls to raise and practically no money, for my father deserted her when I was a baby.

"I can still hear Mother telling us, 'What's worth doing is worth doing well,' and 'There's a right way and a wrong way to do everything, and you might as well learn the right way from the start. She understood men, too! If a man's careless in small things, he's bound to be careless in big ones, she used to say.

"My wife is forever straightening my tie or complaining about the clothes I wear. She can always find something wrong."

"She made us understand it's the little things that count and I've tried to make Ted and Eileen and Teddy realize how careful and particular you have to be in order to do things right. I want Ted to set a good example for the children, but no matter how often I tell him, he still takes the easy way. Sometimes I get discouraged about ever making him into the man he should be, but I won't give up!"

What's behind Florence's "perfection"?

When, in the mistaken belief that she's being kind and devoted, a woman makes those around her miserable, it's not easy to convince her that she would accomplish more by building up her family instead of tearing them down. Nor will she be convinced that you can go too far when you set out to "improve" others. The defense against this type of person is to insist, patiently but firmly, that you have a right to be yourself, regardless of your wife's ambitions for you.

Sometimes compromise can ease the situation. By going along on one or two points, you can bargain for immunity on others. The worst thing about a perfectionist is that she can be right some of the time! Although a sense of humor is not generally a part of her character, you can try laughing off her criticisms and gently teasing her out of her efforts to make you over.

Usually the causes for behavior like Florence's go deep, and "first-aid" measures are only partially and temporarily effective. But Ted might find life more bearable if he understood why Florence treats him as she does.

Florence Oliver was brought up by a stern mother whose inflexible standards she adopted, without questioning them, for her own. From her earliest days, Florence knew that only perfect behavior could please her mother. The overly-strict conscience she developed as a child stayed with her as she grew up and got in her way. She was still trying to be as perfect as her mother always expected her to be.

If her mother's severity had been tempered by a kindly, good-natured father, Florence might have turned out differently. But her father got out, and it's not hard to understand why. She grew up feeling her father was worthless and had failed his family. It was a short step from that idea to an unconscious conviction that "other men are no good, either." A girl who grows up angry at the father who deserted her may believe, without being aware of it, that all men need to be scolded and "made over." These deep, unconscious feelings may combine to make a woman harsh and critical, especially toward her husband. Of course, Florence is an extreme example, but there are many women who, to a lesser degree, try making over their husbands to fit their own particular patterns.

When the difficulties reach the acute stage, as they have for Ted, it's time to consult a skilled counselor. He can listen sympathetically without taking sides, and can be helpful because he understands family problems.

The suggestion that Ted go to a counselor may seem like giving medicine to the healthy partner instead of the sick one, but counseling is not medicine in the sense of a cure; it simply suggests ways of living with an intolerable situation.

Florence needs help, too, so she can accept her husband as he is, instead of trying to change him. The member of a family who most needs help is often least able to understand what is wrong, but if Ted takes the first step in seeking help from a counselor, it may be possible to persuade Florence to see a counselor, too.

Even if Florence cannot be made to see that she needs to change her ways, a good counselor can give Ted confidence in himself and the inner strength to withstand his wife's goading so the family will not be broken and the unfortunate pattern handed down from Florence's family repeated.

IS YOUR HOUSE WIRED FOR TODAY?

by Jerry Klein

In this era of work-saving appliances, make sure you are not overloading your electrical circuits and creating a fire hazard.

Did your television screen look gray and faded last night, as though you were looking at it through a veil? And this morning did you miss your train waiting for the electric coffee-maker to get going?

Well, you probably don't need a new coffee-maker or television set. The trouble may lie in a household electrical system which simply isn't strong enough to handle all your appliances properly. The result: the appliances don't function as they should, cost more to operate, and are a real safety hazard.

During the last five years, American families bought about 338 million assorted electrical appliances! The types of appliances on the market rose from about 40 up to 50. And we're bringing home more appliances every day. The trouble is, we're bringing them home to draw on already outmoded wiring systems. Electrically speaking, we're calling on a boy to do the work of not just a man but a Goliath.

The electrical industry says there are more than 40 million electrified homes in the United States, of which some 24 million have wiring that's at least 30 years old and therefore inadequate. In fact, only one house in 50 has the kind of wiring necessary for safe, proper use of today's many electrical aids.

Even two out of every three new houses are being built with wiring that's already old by modern standards. Yet an adequate electrical system would add only about two percent to the total cost of building the house.

Too many homes have a two-wire 30-ampere electrical system, which means the wire can safely supply about 3,300 watts of electrical power—but a toaster alone accounts for 1,100 watts, and a broiler takes 1,600!

What happens when your appliances try to consume more power than your wiring system can safely supply? First the voltage—or electrical pressure—drops below normal. The television screen darkens, the coffee-maker cools. Nevertheless, the appliance struggles to do its job. But because the appliance is being starved for electrical power, it takes more time and consumes more energy to perform properly.

With a ten percent voltage drop, for example, an electric broiler takes almost a third more time to warm up and adds 19 percent to your electricity bill. Besides, appliances operated under such conditions wear out much faster.

An even worse result, however, is that the household wiring gets overheated trying to carry the overload. When a fuse finally blows, the homeowner recognizes the signal as a warning that he'd better reinforce his wiring system or stop taxing its strength.

But the temptation is to install a bigger fuse and go on trying to drain the inadequate electrical system. All too often, the result is a wire that gets so hot it bursts into flames and sets the house ablaze, resulting in costly repairs.

Fires which start in overburdened wiring cost property holders some $100 million every year. And with more and more American homes adding such heavy power consumers as air conditioners and clothes driers, the fire hazard is growing more dangerous every day.

To get full and safe use of your electrical appliances, make sure your home is wired adequately. Usually this means at least a three-wire, 60-ampere system with strong branch circuits and enough wall outlets so none is overloaded. Heavy appliances may need their own individual circuits to forestall blowing fuses.

An electrical contractor requires just a few minutes to determine whether your present wiring system is adequate. Those few minutes can mean years of better, safer living for you and your family.

A booklet titled "Getting the Most from Your Home's Electric System" is available for 15 cents from the National Adequate Wiring Bureau, 155 East 44th Street, New York 17, N. Y., a nonprofit organization sponsored by many members of the electrical industry.

If you must change fuses often, it may be that the household wiring system isn't adequate for the appliances in use.

A progressive electrical contractor explains the requirements of an adequate wiring system, one of the most important considerations for owners of any home, whether new or old.

PIES

Prune 'n' Banana Pie

Set out an 8-in. pie pan and a medium-size saucepan having a tight-fitting cover.

Wash thoroughly and put into the saucepan

Cover prunes with

Cover pan and allow prunes to soak 1 hr.

Simmer prunes, in water in which they have been soaking, 45 to 60 min., or until fruit is plump and tender.

Meanwhile, prepare, bake, and set aside to cool

Pastry for One-Crust Pie

Place a small bowl and beater in refrigerator to chill.

When prunes are tender, remove from heat; drain liquid and reserve. Pit the prunes; set 6 aside for garnish and chop remaining prunes. Set aside.

Sift together into a medium-size saucepan

½ cup sugar

3 tablespoons cornstarch

Add and blend in well

1 cup reserved prune liquid

(remaining liquid may be reserved for use in other food preparation)

Bring mixture rapidly to boiling over direct heat, stirring gently and constantly. Cook about 3 min., or until mixture thickens. Immediately remove mixture from heat and blend in the chopped prunes. Set aside to cool slightly.

Set out

Reserve one banana for garnish.

Spread one half of the prune mixture over bottom of pastry shell; peel the two bananas and cut into crosswise slices over the prune mixture. Cover sliced bananas with the remaining prune mixture. Set pie in refrigerator to chill.

A few minutes before serving, using the chilled bowl and beater, beat until cream stands in peaks when beater is lifted slowly upright

Using a spatula, spread whipped cream over pie and swirl for decorative effect.

Peel the reserved banana and cut into crosswise slices. Garnish pie (as in photo) with the banana slices, the reserved prunes, and

Walnut halves

Serve immediately.

One 8-in. pie

Through the Holidays with Pastry Cutouts

Use cookie cutters or improvised patterns that will furnish appropriate holiday motifs for open-faced pies. It's an amusing way of bowing to a special day, and such fun to do that you'll be scanning the calendar for eventful days. Make hatchets for Washington's Birthday, shamrocks for St. Patrick's Day, bunnies or chicks for Easter, flags or firecrackers for the Fourth of July, turkeys for Thanksgiving, and trees or holly leaves for Christmas. To prepare, simply roll out pastry to  $\frac{1}{4}$ -in. thickness and cut out desired shapes.

Place on a baking sheet and bake at 450° F about 10 min., or until light golden brown. Cool thoroughly on a cooling rack and stand the cutouts on end in an open-faced pie. If the fancy tempts you, decorate the shapes with colored icings. Don't forget to decorate a pie with hearts for Valentine's Day. And for a birthday pie, write greetings with icing on favorite cutouts. Children will adore the idea—and so will their elders. So hunt up your cookie cutters or think up a pattern. There's always another birthday around the corner!

"Too pretty to cut!" is the popular verdict on this luscious apricot pie with rosy glaze. A delicate creation, inspired by the fine pastry tradition of France, it is dessert par excellence.

Little Princess Fried Apple Pies

Base Recipe

Prepare and shape into 2 balls (do not roll)

Cheese Pastry for Two-Crust Pie (no pie pan will be needed)

Set pastry balls aside.

Set out a heavy 10-in. skillet and a 2-qt. saucepan having a tight-fitting cover.

Wash, quarter, core, pare, and coarsely dice

cooking apples (about 3 cups, diced)

Put apples into the saucepan with $\frac{1}{2}$  cup hot water

Cover and simmer, stirring occasionally, 5 to 10 min., or until apples are just tender when pierced with a fork. Drain, reserving cooking liquid for use in other food preparation.

While the apples are cooking, grate
4 oz. Cheddar cheese (about 1 cup, grated)

Mix with grated cheese and set aside $\frac{1}{4}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup sugar (depending upon firmness of apples)

1 teaspoon cinnamon
 $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon nutmeg

Add to drained, cooked apples
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
4 teaspoons lemon juice

Gently stir to mix. Blend in the grated cheese. Stir only enough to mix ingredients evenly. Set apple mixture aside.

Flatten one ball of the pastry on a lightly floured surface. Follow directions in Pastry for One-Crust Pie for rolling pastry.

Cut pastry into 6-in. rounds, using a saucer or a pattern as a guide. Spoon about 2 tablespoons of the apple filling onto one half of each round. Moisten the edge of one half of the round with water to help form a tight seal. Fold the other half of the round over the filling. Press edges together with a fork, or flute (see Pastry for One-Crust Pie). Be certain that the seal is tight to avoid leakage of filling. Repeat this process with the remaining ball of pastry. Set pies aside.

Melt in the skillet over medium heat
3 to 4 tablespoons lard, hydro-genated vegetable shortening, or all-purpose shortening

Carefully place the pies, as many as will fit uncrowded, in the skillet. Fry pies on one side 8 to 10 min., or until golden brown. Turn and fry until second side is golden brown. Add more shortening to skillet if necessary to keep pies from sticking.

Serve pies warm with slices of sharp cheese, a dip of ice cream, or a mound of whipped cream; or sift confectioners' sugar over the top.

Fried Pies à la Reberta

Follow Base Recipe. Substitute Pastry for Two-Crust Pie for cheese pastry. Omit cheese in filling.

Glazed Apricot Pie

Set out a 9-in. pie pan.

Prepare, bake, and cool
Pastry for One-Crust Pie

Set aside to drain, reserving sirup, contents of

apricots (about 15 to 18
apricots)

Carefully remove pits.

Combine in a small saucepan

1 tablespoon reserved apricot sirup (remaining sirup may be reserved for use in other food preparation)

$\frac{1}{4}$  cup strawberry jelly

2 drops red food coloring

Heat slowly, stirring occasionally, until jelly is melted and ingredients are well blended. Set aside to cool slightly.

Spread evenly over bottom of cooled pastry shell

1 cup apricot preserves

Place the whole apricots on preserves in the pastry shell. Spoon apricot-strawberry glaze over apricots; set aside to cool and allow red glaze to thicken slightly before serving.

One 9-in. pie

Black Bottom Pie

Here's regal fare—elegant, glamorous, and rich.

Set out a 10-in. pie pan.

Prepare, bake, and cool

Pastry for 10-in. One-Crust Pie

For Custard Filling—Set out a double boiler and a medium-size saucepan.

Beat slightly and set aside

4 egg yolks

Scald (just until a thin film appears) in the double boiler top over simmering water

1 1/2 cups milk

Meanwhile, pour into a small cup or custard cup

1/4 cup cold water

Sprinkle evenly over cold water

1 tablespoon (1 ev.) unflavored gelatin

Let stand about 5 min. to soften.

Meanwhile, sift together into the saucepan

1/2 cup sugar

4 teaspoons cornstarch

Add and blend in well

1/2 cup cold milk

Stir hot milk into cornstarch mixture.

Bring cornstarch mixture rapidly to boiling over direct heat, stirring gently and constantly. Cook 3 min. Wash double boiler top to remove scum.

Pour cornstarch mixture into double boiler top. Vigorously stir about 3 tablespoons of hot mixture into egg yolks. Immediately blend into cooked mixture, stirring constantly. Cook, stirring constantly, over simmering water 3 to 5 min., or until mixture thickens and coats a silver spoon. Immediately remove from heat. Remove 1 cup cooked filling mixture from double boiler and set aside for use in Chocolate Filling.

Add softened gelatin to mixture in double boiler and stir until gelatin is completely dissolved. Set aside and cool until the mixture sets slightly. If it becomes too stiff upon standing, soften mixture over simmering water and cool again.

For Chocolate Filling—Melt over simmering water and set aside to cool

1 1/2 sq. (1 1/2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate

Stir cooled, melted chocolate into the cup of reserved filling with

2 teaspoons vanilla extract

Cool completely. Pour into pastry shell and spread evenly over bottom. Chill in refrigerator until set.

To Complete Pie—Beat until frothy

4 egg whites

1/4 teaspoon salt

Beat in

1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar

Add gradually, beating well after each addition

1/2 cup sugar

Continue beating until rounded peaks are formed. Spread beaten egg whites over cooled Custard Filling. Gently fold together. Blend in

1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla extract

Pour over set Chocolate Filling in pastry shell.

Put a small bowl and beater in refrigerator to chill.

About 30 min. before serving, using chilled bowl and beater, beat until cream stands in peaks when beater is lifted slowly upright

Using a spatula, spread whipped cream over pie and swirl for decorative effect. Top with chocolate curls made by pulling across a shredder

1/2 sq. (1/2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate

Chill in refrigerator until ready to serve.

One 10-in. pie

To be frank about it, there's a bit of making goes into this stunning black bottom pie. But the minutes are well-spent, and you'll find your reward in blissful faces and calls for more.

Cranberry Lattice Pie

Luscious fresh cranberries peep through the lattice topping like lovely rosebuds on a trellis.

Set out a 9-in. pie pan.

For Filling—Rinse (discarding imperfect berries) and drain

1 qt. (4 cups) cranberries

Set aside.

Mix together in a medium-size saucepan

2 1/4 cups sugar

1/4 cup orange juice

2 tablespoons water

1 teaspoon salt

Put over medium heat and stir until sugar dissolves. Increase heat and bring mixture to boiling; add cranberries. Cook slowly 3 to 4 min., or just until skins of cranberries begin to pop.

Mix

2 tablespoons water

1 tablespoon cornstarch

Blend thoroughly to a smooth paste. Gradually add cornstarch mixture to hot cranberries while stirring constantly. Bring rapidly to boiling, stirring constantly; cook 3 min. longer.

Remove from heat. Stir in

2 1/2 tablespoons butter

1 teaspoon grated lemon peel

(grated through colored part only; white is bitter)

1 teaspoon grated orange peel

Set cranberry filling aside to cool while preparing pastry.

For Pastry—Prepare

Pastry for Lattice-Top Pie

Brush pastry shell with

Melted butter or margarine

Pour cooled filling into pastry shell; proceed as in recipe for Pastry for Lattice-Top Pie.

Bake at 450°F 10 min. Reduce heat to 350°F and bake about 20 min., or until pie crust is lightly browned.

Serve warm or cold.

One 9-in. pie

Orange Chiffon Pie

Climax your family dinners or company card parties with this so-light, so-flavorful pie.

Set out a 9-in. pie pan and a double boiler.

Prepare, bake, and set aside to cool

Graham Cracker Crust (reserve

mixture to sprinkle over filling)

Pour into a small cup or custard cup

2 tablespoons cold water

2 tablespoons lemon juice

Sprinkle evenly over cold water and lemon juice

gelatin

Let stand about 5 min. to soften.

Beat slightly

4 egg yolks

Combine slightly beaten egg yolks in top of the double boiler with

1/2 cup sugar

1/2 cup orange juice

1/4 teaspoon salt

Cook over simmering water, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Remove from heat. Immediately stir in softened gelatin and.

2 teaspoons grated orange peel (grated through colored part only; white is bitter)

Stir until gelatin is dissolved. Chill in refrigerator or in pan of ice and water until mixture begins to gel (gets slightly thicker). If mixture is placed over ice and water, stir frequently; if placed in refrigerator, stir occasionally.

When gelatin is of desired consistency, beat until frothy

4 egg whites

Add gradually, beating well after each addition

1/2 cup sugar

Beat until rounded peaks are formed. Spread lightly over gelatin mixture and fold gently together. Turn mixture into pie shell. Sprinkle over filling the reserved crumbs from graham cracker mixture.

Chill in refrigerator until firm.

Base Recipe

Set out an 8- or 9-in. pie pan.

Sift together

1 cup sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt

Cut in with pastry blender or two knives until pieces are size of small peas

½ cup lard, hydrogenated vegetable shortening, or all-purpose shortening

Sprinkle gradually over mixture, a teaspoon at a time, about

2½ tablespoons cold water

Mix lightly with fork after each addition. Add only enough water to hold pastry together. Work quickly; do not over-handle. Shape into a ball and flatten on a lightly floured surface. Roll from center to edge into a round about ⅛ in. thick and about 1 in. larger than over-all size of pan. With knife or spatula, loosen pastry from surface wherever sticking occurs; lift pastry slightly and sprinkle flour underneath. Loosen one half from board with spatula and fold over other half. Loosen remaining part and fold in quarters. Gently lay pastry in pan and unfold it, fitting it to the pan so that it is not stretched. Trim edge with scissors or sharp knife so pastry extends about ½ in. beyond edge of pie pan. Fold extra pastry under at edge. Flute edge by pressing index finger on edge of pastry, then pinch pastry with thumb and index finger of other hand. Lift fingers and repeat procedure to flute around entire edge. Thoroughly prick bottom and sides of pastry shell with a fork.

Bake at 450°F 10 to 15 min., or until crust is light golden brown.

Cool on cooling rack.

One 8- or 9-in. pastry shell

Pastry for Two-Crust Pie

Double Base Recipe. Divide pastry into halves and shape into two balls. Roll each ball as in Base Recipe. For top crust, roll out one ball of pastry and cut 1 in. larger than pie pan. Slit pastry with knife in several places to allow steam to escape during baking. Gently fold in half and set aside while rolling bottom crust.

Roll second ball of pastry and gently fit pastry into pie pan; avoid stretching. Trim pastry with scissors or sharp knife around edge of pan. Do not prick. Fill as desired.

Moisten edge with water for a tight seal. Carefully arrange top crust over filling. Gently press edges to seal. Fold extra top pastry under bottom pastry. Press edges together with a fork, or flute. Bake as directed for type of filling used.

Pastry for 10-in. One-Crust Pie

Follow Base Recipe. Increase flour to 1⅓ cups, shortening to ½ cup, salt to ¾ teaspoon, and water to about 3 tablespoons.

Pastry for Lattice-Top Pie

Prepare pastry as in Pastry for Two-Crust Pie. Divide pastry and shape into two balls. Follow directions in Base Recipe for rolling pastry. Roll one pastry ball for bottom crust; fit gently into pie pan.

Roll the second pastry ball into a rectangle about ⅛ in. thick and at least 10 in. long. Cut pastry with a sharp knife or pastry wheel into strips that are about ½ in. wide.

Fill pastry shell as desired.

To make lattice top, cross two strips over the pie at the center. Working out from center to edge of pie, add the remaining strips one at a time, weaving the strips under and over each other in crisscross fashion; leave about 1 in. between the strips. Trim the strips even with the edge of the pastry. Moisten the edge of pastry shell with water for a tight seal. Fold the bottom crust up over ends of strips. Flute edge (see Pastry for One-Crust Pie). Bake as directed for type of filling used in recipe.

Cheese Pastry for Two-Crust Pie

Set out 1 cup grated (about 4 oz.) Cheddar cheese. Follow recipe for Pastry for Two-Crust Pie, cutting in the grated cheese with the shortening.

Graham Cracker Crust

Using a fork or pastry blender, evenly blend with crumbs

¼ cup butter or margarine, softened

Using back of spoon, press crumb mixture very firmly into an even layer on bottom and sides of the pie pan. Level edges of pie shell.

Bake at 375°F 8 min. Cool thoroughly before filling.

One 9-in. pie shell

Note: For a 10-in. pie shell, use 1⅔ cups crumbs, 5 tablespoons sugar, and 5 tablespoons butter or margarine.

Cookie Crumb Pie Shell

Follow Base Recipe, substituting 1⅓ cups cookie crumbs (about twenty-four 2¼-in. cookies, such as vanilla or chocolate wafers, or a mixture of leftover cookie crumbs such as coconut cookies) for cracker crumbs. Omit sugar. Bake at 325°F 10 min.

Coffee-Flavored Crumb Pie Shell

Follow Cookie Crumb Pie Shell recipe, using vanilla or chocolate wafers. Add 2 teaspoons concentrated soluble coffee to crumbs with the butter. Bake at 325°F 10 min.

Zwieback Crumb Pie Shell

Follow Base Recipe, substituting 1⅓ cups zwieback crumbs (about eighteen 3½ x 1⅛-in. zwieback) for graham crackers.

Base Recipe

Set out a 9-in. pie pan.

Place on a long length of heavy waxed paper

16 to 18 graham crackers

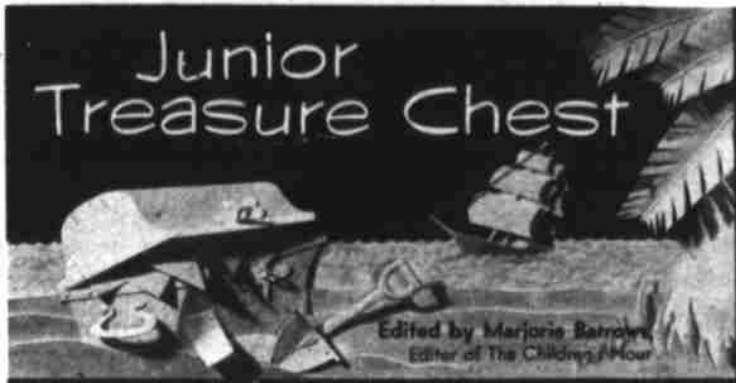

Loosely fold paper around crackers, tucking under open ends. With a rolling pin, gently crush crackers to make fine crumbs (about 1½ cups crumbs). Or place crackers in a plastic bag and gently crush. Turn crumbs into a medium-size bowl. Stir in

Apple Pie with Cheese

For the apple-pie-and-cheese fanciers—three ways to combine two favorites: apple pie with thin slices of cheese; alternate layers of spicy apple slices and grated Cheddar cheese; or a flaky golden cheese pastry. For a double-treat of flavor, try cheese pastry with cheese-apple filling.

Swat That Fly

Walter Eckart

This game is played with a group of five or more players formed in a circle. The more players the better. If only a small number are playing, the circle should be formed as large as possible, with more space between players. Each player faces toward the center of the circle with his hands in back of him. The one who is the "Swatter" walks around the outside of the circle and places a fly swatter in someone's hand and then takes that person's place in the circle. That person takes the swatter and immediately swats the person to his right, who then runs around the circle, to get away from the swats, in a counter-clockwise direction until he comes back to his own place where he is safe. Then the Swatter continues around the circle and places the fly swatter in someone else's hand, and this person begins swatting.

THE GARDENER

The gardener does not love to talk,
He makes me clean the gravel walk;
And when he puts his tools away,
He locks the door and goes astray:

Away behind the currant row
Where no one else but the cook may go,
Far in the gardens, I see him dig,
Old, serious, tan, and big.

He digs the flowers and cuts the hay,
And never seems to want to play.
He waters the flowers, red and blue,
Nor wishes to be spoken to.

Silly gardener! Summer goes,
And winter comes with pinching toes,
When in the garden bare and brown
He has to cut the flowers down.

Well, now, and while the summer stays,
To profit by these garden days,
Oh, how much wiser you would be
To play cowboys and dolls with me!

Dear Miss Barrows:

Here's a lunch box, or even a camping hint, many children will enjoy. Get a thermos bottle and fill it with hot soup. Then take a wiener or two or more of them. Tie a string around the wiener and let it hang down into the hot soup with part of the string hanging out of the thermos bottle so that the wiener won't fall in. Put the cap on the thermos bottle. When you are ready for the hot dog, pull the string out, and presto! you've got a hot dog and a bowl of hot soup! Try it. It works.

Yours truly,

In the Dark

Here is a game you can play indoors at night or around a campfire that is dying down. If you play around a campfire, you will have to make your list of articles after you get in a lighted room. Here is how you play: Have ten or more articles that are rather hard to guess by feeling them. Pass these articles around the circle of players and let each one have plenty of time to feel the article thoroughly. Now hide all the articles and turn on the light. Each player then gets a pencil and paper and writes the names of the articles that he thinks were passed. The one that gets the most correct names wins the game.

Dutch Tag John Dukes McKee

Two or four children may play. If four play, partners are chosen. Each player has four small buttons which he will call the boats. You will also need three pennies. The head of each penny will count 1 and the tail will count 2.

The object of the game is to get all four of your boats from your starting base, through the canals and into your rival's starting base, before he can get all of his boats into yours. Each player, in turn, jingles the coins together and drops them on the table. If he throws 5, he may move one boat five spaces, or he may move one boat one space and another four spaces, or any other combination he wishes. Boats may be moved forward or backward, as you may wish. If one of your boats stops at a bridge, you will miss the next turn. If one of your boats can tag a rival's boat, the one that is tagged must go back to his starting base and begin again. There are several spots marked Safe where your boat may rest without fear of your rival tagging you. No more than one boat may be on a space at a time. When one of your boats has reached your rival's home base, it may not be tagged.

Jewelry: Monet Gloves: Barra of Naples
Photographed exclusively for Family Weekly by Henri Janson.

Interesting tapestry-printed taffeta gets additional fashion importance from an extravagantly full and pleated skirt and a squared neckline. Henry Rosenfeld, under $15

The New Year introduces a new look for the tailored dress. Navy silk crepe, punctuated with free-wheeling disks, has full drape and satin dickey. Slashed cuffs finish off elbow-length sleeves. McKettrick, under $18

A LOOK at the fashion calendar shows it's the season for silks—for those gay, lilting prints that bring with them a welcome touch of Spring. And happily, the bright silks making their midwinter bows are smart examples of high style at a price. Designed to beam a lot of sunshine into gray days still ahead, their warm colors and light hearted lines are the perfect "pick-me-up" every winter wardrobe needs. What better way to start the New Year than in the smile of a gay silk print that goes on with its flattery all the way through Spring!

Are You Capable of Mature Love?

by Charles and Jean Komaiko

EVER SINCE Adam met Eve, the poets have been talking about love. They've called it "blind," claimed it "conquers all," compared it to a "red, red rose." A gentleman named Josh Billings even said: "Love is like the measles; we can't have it bad but on, and the later in life we have it the tuffer it goes with us."

For HER to answer

Yes No

1. Do you teach your children to respect their father?
2. Do you trust your husband when he's away from home?
3. Do you tell the truth about how you spend your money?
4. Do you understand your husband's fondness for his mother?
5. Can you maintain a tight budget without losing respect for your mate?
6. Do you make every effort to like your husband's friends?
7. Do you make your husband feel he's important?
8. Do you accept his criticism without raising a storm?
9. Do you try to understand his office problems?
10. Do you remember to let him know that for you he's the only man?

This powerful emotion can be tender as well as passionate, but in mature form it is the cornerstone of family life.

If you score less than 50 on this quiz (allowing ten points for each "yes"-answer) the experts would say your love is on a juvenile level; 50-80, you're hitting the average; but beyond 80 qualifies you as an ideal partner in marriage.

For HIM to answer

Yes No

1. Do you avoid teasing your wife about her foibles?
2. Do you put your "best foot forward" for your in-laws?
3. Can you share everything with your wife—from your table to your thoughts?
4. If she likes to dance, do you rumba with her?
5. Do you seek your wife's advice on serious problems?
6. Do you trust her ability to cope with money matters?
7. Do you enjoy giving her a gift on important occasions?
8. Can you talk to your wife about your marital relations?
9. Do you expect her to give more attention to the children than to you?
10. Every now and then, do you tell her what a wonderful woman she is?

frame your face for beauty

In the same way that a tasteful frame enhances a painting, your hair can outline your face with flattery. The proper hairdo works such wonders that it's well worth a little time and effort to discover the one that's best for you. The first step is to analyze the shape of your face; then you can decide on the hair style that does the most for it.

Here's how easy it is: Pull your hair back and cover it with a towel. Close one eye and with a piece of soap outline your face on a mirror. You'll find it's one of six shapes—oval, round, square, diamond, heart, or pear. If your face is oval-shaped, any hair style is becoming. If it's one of the other five, the suggestions in the chart below can help you to frame your face with beauty.

If your face is shaped like this	To be prettier you should—	Style your hair in this fashion.	Work these features into your hairdo.	And here is how to set your hair style.
 PEAR-SHAPED	Add width at temples to balance chin.		Soft curls away from the face or a knot of curls tied low on neck minimize chin. Wide bangs or curls at the temples broaden forehead.

How to Patch That Plaster

by Charles Ballenger

EVEN THE BEST plaster walls develop cracks with age, and the careful homeowner makes immediate repairs. Only a few things are needed—an old chisel, a wide-blade putty knife, some screening or wire lath, and patching plaster. Don't mix more plaster than you can use in about 30 minutes, unless it's a slow-setting compound. If the lath behind the plaster is in bad condition, replace it. Wood can be used, but wire lath is better. Cut a piece larger than the hole and slip it behind the old lath, holding it in place with clips or with a piece of string which you cut off before applying the finish coat.

1. Scrape out all loose material. Using putty-knife edge, undercut hole to make it slightly larger in back than in front. This allows patch to "lock" itself in place. Wet edges and lathing before applying first coat of plaster.

2. Trowel in a fairly thick mixture of plaster for deep hole. This is the first or "scratch" coat. Work it in as much as possible and continue filling until the hole is covered to 1/8" below surface. Allow to harden 24 hours.

3. Wet edges and scratch coat before applying a thinner plaster mixture for the finish coat. Feather it out over the old plaster to hide joint, then smooth with a water-soaked sponge. Sand, if necessary, after plaster dries.

4. Small cracks can be filled in one application. Use a fairly thin plaster mixture and force it into crack with putty knife. Plaster can be fitted to match walls if you like. Glue strip will seal your new plaster for painting.
