

CZECHOSLOVAKIA IN A 'STATE OF EMERGENCY'

Gov. Allred's Brother Indicted For Alleged Violation Of U. S. Oil Laws

Others Named By Federal Grand Jury

Accused Of Running Hot Oil Out Of East Texas

HOUSTON, Sept. 17 (AP)—Renne Allred, Jr., Dallas attorney and a brother of the governor of Texas, and two other men were indicted today for alleged conspiracy to violate the Connally oil act.

Former Official The other two men, Neal Powers, of Tyler, an assistant attorney general under Gov. James V. Allred when he was Texas attorney general and H. E. Hines, a fugitive on another federal indictment, were ordered arrested along with Renne Allred, Jr.

The joint indictment against the three was handed down at noon in the federal court district to which President Franklin D. Roosevelt nominated Governor Allred as a lifetime judge. Governor Allred is expected to assume the judgeship after he completes his term as governor in January. At Austin the governor appeared shocked by the report of the indictment and said he had no comment to make.

Renne Allred, Jr., and Powers were Tyler law partners during the time the indictment alleges that they participated in running illegally produced oil from Conroe oil field to Marcus Hook, Pa.

Hines was indicted, Special Assistant Attorney General William W. Barron said, in September 1937 on a conspiracy charge but was never apprehended. Federal authorities said he was believed to be somewhere in Kentucky.

After the federal indictment here was made public, District Attorney W. C. McClain at Conroe revealed that Powers was indicted in state court three months ago. The state court indictment alleges Powers conspired to use 12 forged oil tenders involving 75,000 barrels of oil, McClain said.

Forty-five overt acts and nine specific counts of transporting an average of 107,250 barrels of illegally produced oil each time were alleged in the federal indictment. The indictment alleged further that Renne Allred, Jr., Powers and Hines conspired with 22 other persons and oil firms, all of whom were indicted last year with Hines. All except Hines named in last year's indictment, pleaded guilty and paid fines, Douglas McGregor, federal prosecutor, said before leaving for Washington to confer with Homer Cummings, United States attorney general, about the indictment returned today.

The illegally produced oil, the indictment said, was shipped through pipelines constructed without the knowledge of the Texas Railroad Commission, state oil regulatory body.

REVIEWING THE BIG SPRING WEEK

BY JOE PICKLE

Much is happening here these days, so much that the public hardly can give proper consideration to each situation. For instance: During the past week every power has been exerted to promote the Sales Crusade. Then came the county judges and commissioners meet. All the time the momentous city water supply program was being shunted into the background. A water and soil utilization program has been all but shelved, and a sectional cotton pickers terminal here has been delayed and delayed.

It is encouraging, though, to note that the Sales Crusade apparently is succeeding in the biggest way. Merchants putting their efforts into special days report gratifying results. Not only has the special item business increased, but many were noting a general increase in trade at the end of the week. Perhaps another week of that will leave the town sales and business conscious.

But back to a matter that is infinitely more important to Big Spring than a temporary campaign. A vote on a $275,000 municipal bond issue for water supply development is less than 10 days away, and although there is lots of street corner talk, there seems to be a general lack of clear conception of the problem. Efforts to dispel the fog are made difficult be-

HAMBURGERS ON MENU MONDAY—

Special Item Days To Add New Pep This Week To The Sales Crusade

With or without—get your hamburger Monday, for Monday is Hamburger Day. Thus will the Sales Crusade swing into its second week of activity here. Business men Saturday agreed that the first week of special effort had produced results beyond expectations and many believed that the drive had made the public buying conscious to the extent that there was a general increase in trade volume.

While every quick lunch establishment in town will stress the sale of hamburgers Monday, the day is but one of many for the week. Grocers, pleased with results of Coffee Day on Thursday and Friday, will try again with Fork and Bean Day on Tuesday. Drug stores, too, will specialize for the second time because nearly 4,000 bars of soap were sold last week on Soap Day. Tuesday they will observe Tooth Brush and Paste Day.

Wednesday jewelers will have much to offer on Watchband Day. Photographers are proclaiming Wednesday as Kodak Enlargement Day. Clothiers, cheered by results of Hat Day when around 100 hats were sold by cooperating dealers Thursday, will declare next Thursday Hosiery Day and attempt to set a record. Friday is open but Saturday is to be Pie Day.

Lubbock Selected For Next Convention Of County Officials

Shackelford Man New President; Group Opposed To Putting Pension Administration On Commissioners Courts

County judges and commissioners took a stand on various state issues, elected new officers and selected a city for their Spring convention as they wound up their three-day associational conclave in Big Spring Saturday.

To Lubbock went the next convention, to be held in March of next year, that city's bid being accepted over one from Breckenridge. Chosen as the new president was Shackelford county's Judge Homer T. Bouldin of Albany, to succeed Judge Omar T. Burleson of Jones county. Bouldin was advanced from the secretary-treasurership, and named for that office was Marshall Formby, Spur, Dickens county judge. John Winters, of Amarillo was elected vice president.

The county officials served notice, in a resolution adopted at the closing session, that they do not want the responsibility of investigating and certifying applications for state oil title assignments. "We are irrevocably opposed," the resolution said, "to having this duty placed upon the commissioners courts of our respective counties." It was recited that the obligation would entail expenditure of more money and time than counties could afford.

The officials reaffirmed a resolution adopted in last spring's Brownwood convention, which called for a state law providing for payment of court reporters' salaries by the state; for submission of a constitutional amendment providing for four-year terms for all state, county and precinct offices; and for sterilization of habitual criminals, the feeble-minded, moral perverts and the incurable insane.

The convention turned down one resolution which called for a change in state law to provide for registration of automobiles in November of each year rather than in March. Proponents explained that in agricultural regions more money was available in the fall of the year; but others said there may be a fight in the future over abolition or reduction of automobile licenses and that county officials should concentrate on that issue.

Adopted, with cheers, was a county resolution expressing appreciation to the city of Big Spring, the host commissioners court and other interests in the city contributing to convention entertainment. Visitors were free with the opinion that the Big Spring conclave was one of the best in the history of the association. Registration approximately 250.

High point of convention festivities was reached Friday night, when more than 250 crowded the Settles ballroom for a banquet. Rep. George Mahon was the chief guest.

INSURANCE EXECUTIVE IS TAKEN BY DEATH

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., Sept. 17 (AP)—Edward Dickinson Duffield, 67, president of the Prudential Insurance Co. of America, died tonight at his home. He suffered a stroke at his office yesterday.

When he was removed to his home shortly after noon yesterday, after being stricken at his desk, his business associates thought he had suffered an attack of acute indigestion.

WALLACE TO TALK IN FT. WORTH SEPT. 20

WACO, Sept. 17 (AP)—C. H. Day, president of the Texas Agricultural Association, said today he expected 10,000 persons would hear Secretary Wallace explain the AAA program in a Fort Worth meeting Sept. 20.

Wallace will address Agricultural Adjustment Administration committees from the southern region. In accepting the invitation, the secretary said he was "glad" to have the opportunity to talk over present farm problems, particularly of cotton, and discuss the questions that have been raised in Texas and other Southern states.

Henlein Puts An 'Army' On The Rorder

'Free Corps' Maintained To Meet Any Emergency

BERLIN, Sept. 17 (AP)—The German - Czechoslovak crisis was pushed one more dramatic step forward today as Konrad Henlein, outlawed Sudeten German party leader, announced formation along both sides of the German-Czechoslovak border of an armed "free corps" of army-trained Sudetens.

Established with the obvious approval of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, the "free corps" will be composed chiefly of men trained in the Czechoslovak army who have fled into Germany. They will be drilled, armed, and organized against the day when they may be commanded to rush against the Czechoslovak army or police.

For the present, according to a spokesman at the German foreign office, their function will simply be that of letting the Sudeten German minority in Czechoslovakia know "they haven't been forgotten."

Henlein announced formation of the armed force in a proclamation setting forth grievances against the Czechoslovak government and concluding: "We therefore assure for ourselves emergency rights which nations have taken at all times by taking to arms and organizing a 'Sudeten free corps'."

The proclamation was addressed to "tens of thousands of fellow countrymen" who were "forced to flee" to Germany. Proposed size of the corps was not immediately learned.

Henlein, sought by the Czechoslovak government as a traitor since his proclamation Thursday urging union of Germany and the Sudeten German regions, was understood to be in Germany, although the proclamation was dated at Aseh, Czechoslovakia.

Formation of the "free corps" followed by one day the Prague government's dissolution of the Sudeten German party and came two days after Prague issued orders for Henlein's arrest at a traitor.

In his proclamation today Henlein mentioned efforts to reach an "equitable compromise with the Czech people" and then said: "For five years Sudeten Germanism gave proof of this intention. Today it is necessary to state that all efforts to find this compromise in peaceful labor have failed on account of the Czech tyrants' unconciliatory will to destruction."

Many fugitives have reported troop activity on the Czechoslovak side of the frontier.

MAN IS ARRESTED IN ABDUCTION CASE

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Sept. 17 (AP)—Facing a federal kidnaping charge, Marvin Smith, 27, Mexico, Texas, was taken to Little Rock today by government officials after his arrest here last night in connection with the abduction of a Louisiana taxi driver.

FBI Agent N. H. McCabe, Little Rock, filed the kidnaping complaint against Smith after having taken a statement from Lawrence Wesley Philyaw, 25, Bossier City, La., who charged Smith forced him at the point of a pistol to drive from Shreveport to Hot Springs late yesterday.

Names of Senators Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina, Millard E. Tydings of Maryland and Walter F. George of Georgia, the three incumbent senators against whose renomination President Roosevelt personally intervened without success, were on the list of democratic nominees attached to the Brown statement.

"It is the duty of our committee to support all regular democratic nominees and we will perform that duty," the statement said. It added that the character of party nominations for the senate was "uniformly high," and predicted that "the large democratic majority in the senate will be maintained."

AMARILLO NURSE IS OBJECT OF SEARCH

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 17 (AP)—The aid of Oklahoma City police and FBI agents was enlisted today in the search for Mrs. Euna Bennett, 36-year-old Amarillo nurse, missing since last Monday.

Mrs. Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Grant of Oklahoma City, was last seen in Wichita, Kas., Monday when she left a hotel here to motor to Amarillo. Her sister, Mrs. Jewell Henderson, said she was wearing two diamond rings but carried only a limited amount of money.

GOTT. TAKES OVER SWEEPING POWER BY NEW DECREE

Constitutional Rights Of Citizens Abridged To Give Cabinet Another Weapon Against Sudetens' Demands

PRAGUE, Sept. 17 (AP)—The Czechoslovak cabinet tonight decreed a nation-wide state of emergency, a form of martial law, driving home to every citizen the grave central European situation.

Exercising extraordinary powers reserved for times of great national danger, the cabinet abridged constitutional rights of Czechoslovak citizens in the interest of national safety.

Security of person was abolished, meaning that persons are subject to arrest without warrants and can be held without charge. New restraints were placed on the press. Letters may be opened by government representatives. Homes may be searched and the right of free assembly was suspended.

The state of emergency, effective at once, was decreed for a three-month period. Martial law already is in effect in 16 Sudeten German districts where grave disorders involving the pro-Nazi German minority broke out after Adolf Hitler's Nuremberg speech Monday night.

The new decree suspended constitutional rights throughout the republic giving the government another weapon to back its firm stand for preserving Czechoslovakia's internal peace in the face of Sudeten demands for annexation by the Nazis.

Germany's charge d'affaires tonight threatened Czechoslovakia with retaliation on Czechs living in Germany to offset moves against members of the Sudeten German minority in Czechoslovakia.

The charge, Andor Hencke, told Premier Milan Hodza that just as many Czech subjects would be arrested in Germany as Sudeten Germans were taken into custody in Czechoslovakia where their party has been dissolved officially.

The diplomatic warning came while formation of a Sudeten German "free corps" spurred Czechoslovak determination to resist dismemberment and suppress possible disorders.

In addition Hencke was reported unconditionally to have told the premier that if any executions of Sudeten Germans were carried out under court martial, the same number of Czechs would be executed in Germany.

Almost at the same time the Czech legation in Berlin was lodging a protest against what was termed the kidnaping of 40 Czech gendarmes on Thursday night while they were enroute to reinforce gendarmerie at Schwaderbach.

Schwaderbach was the scene of a fierce engagement between gendarmerie and an attack force of 2,000 Sudeten Germans. The men were said to have been traveling by truck when Sudetens seized them and carried them across the border into the German province of Saxony.

The Berlin legation demanded prompt delivery of the 40 men to gether with their arms to Czechoslovak soil and also protested against the arrest of Czechs in various German cities.

Approximately 800,000 Czechoslovak soldiers and police were reported to be under arms, prepared for all eventualities, and advised from the frontier said military construction work was being pushed.

Organization on the Czechoslovak border of a "free corps" of armed men hostile to the Czechoslovak government was proclaimed in Germany by Konrad Henlein, fugitive leader of the outlawed Sudeten German party.

The party was ordered dissolved yesterday and shortly before Henlein's proclamation a Sudeten German answer came in an appeal for patience issued by Ernest Kundt, Sudeten deputy.

Kundt, as floor leader of the Czechoslovak parliament, said: "We are not in a position to take any action in the event they become engaged in war."

The same experts who last week said Hitler was "talking through his steel helmet," when he said a blockade of Germany would prove an extremely ineffective weapon, summed up the economic situation of these World war allies as follows: GREAT BRITAIN: Insufficiency of foods in the mother country offset by abundant production in the dominions which can be imported if, as is widely presumed, Britain retains command of the seas. Sufficiency of coal and iron. No petroleum or cotton but these, too, can be imported through convoys.

FRANCE: Full sufficiency of foods, coal and iron. Lacks petroleum and cotton. France is in an even better position than Britain.

Chamberlain And Daladier Will Confer

All England Waiting For Final Decision Of Two Powers

LONDON, Sept. 17 (AP)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain today called the "strong man" premier of France to London to help him shape the forces of democracy and dictatorship into a pact for peace at an honorable price.

Decision Awaited In the midst of day-long conferences with his ministers, the 69-year-old prime minister acted to fortify himself with every means for his second meeting with French Premier Adolf Hitler within a few days.

England, from the king to the grizzled pipe smoker in the corner pub, waited stolidly for the decision of the major European democracies.

Edouard Daladier and his foreign minister, Georges Bonnet, will fly from Paris to London early tomorrow. Their schedules called for a meeting with Chamberlain and his high ministers at 11 a. m. (4 a. m. E. S. T.) to decide what they can offer Hitler in his dispute with Czechoslovakia and what they can or will do for this effort for peace collapses.

Sober consideration curbed British conjecture as to what Hitler asked Thursday when he received Chamberlain at his mountain chalet near Berchtesgaden and what Chamberlain might recommend to meet Hitler's demands.

Conservative commentators, however, agreed the French set as the flat price of peace the detachment of preponderantly Germanic regions from Czechoslovakia and strict autonomy for other Sudeten areas.

Whether or not Hitler set a time limit, it was agreed here that the French must have told Chamberlain there were few days to decide.

It was expected Chamberlain and Hitler would meet, perhaps sometime next week, at Godesberg, near Cologne.

If Czechoslovakia were to lose territory, unofficial observers generally thought Britain and France must work out a broad and iron-clad guarantee of new frontiers which both Hitler and his partner in the Rome-Berlin axis, Premier Mussolini, would pledge themselves to respect.

In line with this, the British Press association, a news-gathering organization which has close official connections, said: "There are many who argue that the greatest calamity of all would be European war and that in a decision between two evils, one of which is so immeasurably greater than the other, it would be better to settle the problem by 'rough' justice and by methods involving some sacrifice, x x x"

IN DEATH PLUNGE

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 17 (AP)—Police tonight were investigating circumstances of the death of a man who fell or jumped from his room on the ninth floor of a downtown hotel this afternoon. His body landed in a patio.

The plunge was witnessed by a maid, Mary Ann Kramer who was at work in a room four stories under the room in which the dead man was registered as H. H. Tilden.

Lack Of Resources Would Beat Hitler

By ANDREW BERDING WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 (AP)—Adolf Hitler has guns, tanks and airplanes, but Britain, France and Russia have butter, oil, cotton, grain, iron and coal—and the latter will win out in the long run, some American experts said today.

Analyzing the economic resources of the Franco - British combination as opposed to the German-Italian group, the experts concluded the first combination would far outlast the second in event they become engaged in war.

The same experts who last week said Hitler was "talking through his steel helmet," when he said a blockade of Germany would prove an extremely ineffective weapon, summed up the economic situation of these World war allies as follows: GREAT BRITAIN: Insufficiency of foods in the mother country offset by abundant production in the dominions which can be imported if, as is widely presumed, Britain retains command of the seas. Sufficiency of coal and iron. No petroleum or cotton but these, too, can be imported through convoys.

FRANCE: Full sufficiency of foods, coal and iron. Lacks petroleum and cotton. France is in an even better position than Britain.

SOVIET RUSSIA: More self-contained than even the United States. Her troubles would come through inadequate internal transportation and distribution.

Great Britain and France have large credits abroad and large gold holdings which could be used for foreign purchases, whereas Germany and Italy have relatively very small foreign holdings.

The experts said Britain could pay for foreign purchases of nearly two years through her credits abroad.

War's Effect On U. S. Topic Of Debate

By HENRY FAYNTER AP Business Writer NEW YORK, Sept. 17 (AP)—With the world intent upon war clouds over Europe, the big question facing American business is: "How would we be affected if major foreign powers fight?"

A canvass of several Wall Street banking and business authorities and experts shows opinion confused, but leaning toward the conclusion that a vast European conflict, while it lasted, might stimulate American business, and the shock at the onset would be markedly less severe than that experienced in 1914.

But it was generally thought war would bring no business boom to the United States of 1914 proportions and its conclusion, if it lasted long, might leave a major portion of the world in such impoverished and chaotic condition as to have depressing, perhaps grave, repercussions here.

All analysts crossed their fingers, figuratively, for several reasons: 1. Whether the U. S. government neutrality laws (forbidding war shipments) and the Johnson act (prohibiting loans to defaulting countries, including England and France) to the letter of the laws (which have admitted gaping loopholes) or to the strict spirit of their intent, they felt, would depend upon public opinion.

2. If American public opinion favored support of the democracies in event of war, the administration might ignore the long-ignored fact that the long-ignored fact that the long-ignored fact that the long-

Gaynor, Montgomery And Tone Starred At Post-War Play On Program At Ritz In Gay Romance Of Modern Life

'Three Loves Has Nancy' Here Today And Monday

One of the most unusual and infrequent pages from modern life is highlighted in "Three Loves Has Nancy" which stars Janet Gaynor and Robert Montgomery and Franchot Tone. It is dedicated to the comedy resulting from a "quadrangle" instead of the perennial triangle. The picture plays at the Ritz theatre Saturday midnight, Sunday and Monday, and is one of the $250,000 Movie Quiz contest films.

The picture, hilarious relation of the adventures encountered by a small-town girl who finds three men seeking her hand in marriage, is based on a succession of comedy situations knit together by a well-paced story.

Janet Gaynor, whose recent re-ascension to fame has hinged on a succession of glamorous roles, is again cast as an unsophisticated young lady who wears gurgles and gowns in an atmosphere of ultra-modern sophistication.

Montgomery, whose dramatic work in "Night Must Fall" and "Yellow Jack," proved his versatility, returns to the playboy roles which won him stardom as a flip-pant novelist whose romantic affairs are Broadway tattle.

Tone portrays a wealthy publisher who is the closest friend of Montgomery until the girl comes from a small town to cause a rift between them.

Supporting players were chosen for their ability to interpret the difficult comedy characters demanded by the story. The supporting cast is headed by Guy Kibbee, Claire Dodd and Reginald Owen.

Richard Thorpe, whose latest picture was "The Crowd Roars," and who has directed both Montgomery and Tone twice previously, directed "Three Loves Has Nancy."

Montgomery, as a novelist, becomes involved with an actress. Through the aid of Tone, his publisher, he is sent on a lecture tour of the South. There he meets Miss Gaynor, small-town girl, on her wedding day. When the bridegroom fails to arrive from New York she goes to find him and is on the same train as Montgomery.

He usually tells her that if she gets in trouble in the big city to look him up. To his surprise and consternation she is waiting at his penthouse apartment when he arrives. Not knowing what to do with her, he lets her cook for both himself and Tone who shares the apartment. Tone falls in love with her and Montgomery, not realizing that he also loves her, tries to break off this match. The ensuing complications provide the basis for what is said to be one of the funniest comedies of the season.

Sales of American-produced condensed milk to Czechoslovakia jumped 300 per cent the first half of 1935 compared with 1937.

STARRED IN GAY LOVE STORY

Piquant Janet Gaynor returns in a new romance with comedy touches, "Three Loves Has Nancy," and one of the loves is Robert Montgomery. A second is Franchot Tone, but the third remains somewhat of a film secret. The picture, booked at the Ritz today and Monday, is one of the $250,000 Movie Quiz contest films.

Pension Advocate Asserts O'Daniel Might Do Well To String Along With Plans Other Than His Own

AUSTIN, Sept. 17 (AP)—Rep. Albert L. Darden of Marlin asserted today that long-time campaigners for liberal old age pensions favored the pension plank which he unavailingly proposed at the state democratic convention in preference to that sponsored by close friends of Governor-nominee W. Lee O'Daniel.

"If Mr. O'Daniel will check the records," Darden said in a prepared statement, "he will find that those of us who tried to save his platform by amending it so it would properly express his campaign speeches are the ones who have been fighting the battles of the old people for a long time."

"His greatest problem is that he is unable to classify his true friends from his make-believe ones. He is unable to brand the sheep from the goats, after the million fell on his band wagon. He therefore should check the records, do a bit of inquiring and judge his so-called friends by their past actions. It is mighty difficult for a man to change his color overnight, regardless of whose flag he salutes."

"I believe Governor-nominee O'Daniel wants to pay the pension just as he said he did when he was campaigning back in July, and I am with him all the way in making these payments, but it would have been much easier if our platform had been written to say what we expect to do. Regardless of what he may intend to do, the platform as it is now written approves the present method of administration. x x x A few more mistakes like this and he will lose his power and influence, and thereby lose the principle and purpose for which he is elected."

Darden claimed that "on the side of the platform as it was written and adopted we saw the big interests working through their lobbyist, together with members of the legislature who had consistently fought for a low pension and no taxes on natural resources."

Subsidy Payments May Be Here In Next Two Weeks

Possibility that first of the cotton subsidy checks due Howard county would be received here within the next two weeks was seen Saturday.

A few other counties in this area have received a portion of their subsidy payments and it was theorized that this county, with something better than 900 eligibles, would soon be in line for an shipment of checks.

Meanwhile, producers were slowly calling for their marketing cards. By Saturday night there remained around 100 of 975 cards to be delivered. Those who have not obtained their cards may get them any day at the county agent's office.

TO AUSTIN
H. C. Stipp, division engineer for the state railroad commission, will leave Sunday for Austin where he will attend a state-wide protraction hearing.

The word Friday comes from Friga, the Scandinavian Venus who was goddess of peace, fertility and riches.

'Three Comrades' Based On Remarkable Popular Novel

Compared to the memorable "Farewell To Arms" is another poignant love story laid against a background of the aftermath of the World War, "Three Comrades," the film version of the Erich Maria Remarque novel which plays Sunday and Monday at the Queen theatre.

There is a satisfying combination of story, players and director in this film drama of four people, dazed by the experiences in a war-torn generation and attempting to find rehabilitation in a new world full of illusions.

Robert Taylor, Margaret Sullavan, Franchot Tone and Robert Young head the cast, which also includes Guy Kibbee, Lionel Atwill, Henry Hull, Charley Grapewin and Monty Woolley.

Taylor appears as the young World War veteran faced with the necessity of beginning life anew in an alien world. Miss Sullavan is the girl who brings fresh hope to his life, and Tone and Young in simple, expressive portrayals finish off a quartet of brilliant acting jobs.

The Remarque story describes the experiences of the three comrades as they return from the front to face an uncertain future together in a country gripped by post-war disturbances. Taylor, the youngest, falls in love with Miss Sullavan, and the love affair gives all three comrades a new interest in life.

Taylor and Miss Sullavan are married and she suffers a serious illness while on their honeymoon. Later, Young is slain in a political riot. When Miss Sullavan faces an operation in a distant sanitarium Tone sells his precious possession, a racing car, to raise the funds but Miss Sullavan dies, leaving Taylor and Tone to face the future alone.

Frank Borzage, director of such memorable love stories as "Humoresque" and "Seventh Heaven," has achieved another stirring narrative in his direction of "Three Comrades."

Program Notes From KBST

The Church of Christ radio service will resume broadcast at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon. The program will be conducted by Melvin J. Wise.

The first in a series of programs may be heard at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon when the Knott and Bethel Baptist church service returns to the air. This radio service will be conducted by Rev. R. R. Cumble.

Dick Jurgen's famous dance band will be aired over KBST at 5 o'clock this afternoon for 30 minutes of sweetness and swingness as a presentation of the Mutual Broadcasting System. The 5:30 period following the above program offers another favorite orchestra in the Bernie Cummings organization. These two dance programs will originate in the studios of WGN, Chicago.

From WOR, Newark, this evening the Mutual Broadcasting System presents the Bach Cantata series at 6 o'clock. Soloists, chorus and the orchestra with Alfred Wallenstein will be heard.

Two Couples Wed In De Rodder, La., In Double Ceremony

Announcement of the double wedding of Miss Edelweis Runyan of Coahoma to Ross Marriott of Big Spring and R. E. Bean and Miss Fay Wetzel was made here last night.

The double ceremony was read on September 12 in De Rodder, La., by the Rev. Mr. Stuart.

The couples returned here early in the week.

Miss Runyan is a niece of Mrs. A. M. Runyan of Big Spring.

RAGGED SHIRT SAVES HIS LIFE

PALESTINE, Sept. 17 (AP)—A ragged shirt was credited with saving the life of W. A. Vaughan, oil mill worker, here today.

Vaughan was at work in a mill when his shirt was caught in the machinery. His clothing was ripped from his body, but he escaped injury.

Vaughan said the ragged shirt tore easily and prevented him from being jerked into the machinery.

JUVENILES JOIN MISS FRANCIS

Kay Francis' newest picture—"My Bill," which is offered at the Lyric Sunday and Monday, casts her in a new type role, that of a widow whose big problem in life is to rear four children. The young players in the cast are Bonita Granville, Anita Louise, Bobby Jordan and Dickie Moore.

THREE COMRADES — OR FOUR

It's a four-way star deal at the Queen theatre today and Monday, as Robert Taylor, Margaret Sullavan, Robert Young and Franchot Tone appear in "Three Comrades." It's a moving story of post-war days, with young people seeking to establish themselves in a disordered world.

Proposal Made For Inclusion Of All Rural Roads For Improvement To Be Financed By Federal-State Funds

Proposal for a broad change in administration of highway affairs in Texas may come before various official groups of the state during the next few months. It was indicated during the convention here of the West Texas Association of County Judges and Commissioners.

It is for the creation of a division of "post roads" within the highway commission setup, and for the designation and improvement of rural roads on program of financing similar to that for present state and federal highways.

The plan was presented by E. E. Smith of Colorado before the resolutions committee of the judges' convention here, but that group decided to defer submission. It was indicated that the proposal will be put before future conventions, probably before the state session of judges and commissioners at New Braunfels next month.

Placed before the committee for consideration was an act proposed in the Georgia legislature, which calls for the creation of a post roads division within the scope of the highway department, the setting up of a special post roads fund account and the appointment of a director for the division and a special engineer.

To be included in the new program would be all roads and highways over which U. S. mail is carried and which are not included in the present highway system. Designation of post roads to be improved would be made by the highway department, and cost of improvements would be borne by the state, with federal aid and possibly county participation, just as present highway development is financed.

Counties would be responsible for maintenance of the post roads in their counties. The program, as outlined by Smith, would work for the development of farm-to-market roads on a systematic basis, rather than in piecemeal as has been done under various WPA and other federal-aid programs.

Kay Francis Starred In Lyric Film

New Type Role For Her In Domestic Drama, 'My Bill'

Heralded as giving Kay Francis one of the most human appealing roles in her career, the Warner Bros. picture "My Bill," based on Tom Barry's stage play, "Courage," is offered Sunday and Monday at the Lyric theatre with a cast that also includes Bonita Granville, Anita Louise, Bobby Jordan, John Lital and Dickie Moore.

The role played by the star marks a radical departure for her since it is designed to enlist the audience's sympathetic appreciation rather than to impress with the glamour of personality.

It is that of a woman nearing middle age but still young and beautiful in appearance who has been left a widow with four children in a small New England town and has proceeded, carefully to dissipate the small fortune left her by her husband.

With the coming of hard times, the mother sees her family split by the thoughtless selfishness of three of her children but is able to bear this blow with fine bravery because of the inspiring loyalty and love of her smallest son. And this little fellow, played by Dickie Moore, eventually is able to bring the family together in happiness and prosperity as a Mother's Day gift to the mother he was the only one to appreciate.

This simple and moving tale was turned into a beautiful screen play, full of tenderness and spiritual bravery, by Vincent Sherman and Robertson White, and the production was directed with a fine understanding of its human values by John Farrow.

Padres Oppose Ships Today

BEAUMONT, Sept. 17 (AP)—Two clubs dominated by husling kids—San Antonio and Beaumont—start the championship playoff of the Texas League tomorrow with the hometowners rightfully rating an almost negligible edge.

Full season winners and getting stronger, Beaumont went into the best four-out-of-seven series with its eccentric mound ace, Dixie Trout, readied for the opener.

On San Antonio's side, Manager Zach Taylor decided to entrust first game mound chores to South-paw Chili Wagner, the Seguin youngster who gained momentum at the season's end.

Two games, both daylight affairs, are scheduled for Beaumont Sunday and Monday. The club will move to San Antonio for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday night battles and then back to Beaumont on Friday and Saturday, if necessary. If the argument is still unsettled, San Antonio gets the closing date on Sunday.

Both clamoring for a spot in the Dixie series, the Exporters and Missions swept Shaughnessy first-round playoff games in brief, three-game series. The Beaumonters did away with Tulsa while San Antonio was dusting-off Oklahoma City in three straight.

Malone Leaves For State Confab, New Playground Opens

H. F. Malone, Big Spring recreational director, leaves this morning for Kerrville where a statewide meeting of Texas recreation supervisors is to be staged through the week. Malone was to be joined here by Director Cure, Midland, and Director Anding, Amarillo.

Malone started Saturday the opening of a new playground. Located at Donley and Young between 16th and 17th streets, the field is being cleared of bushes.

New playground equipment, consisting of footballs and soccer balls, was expected to arrive by Monday.

Greenberg Is Nearer Mark

Hits Two Homers To Help Beat Yankees; Conners Stars

DETROIT, Sept. 17 (AP)—With Hank Greenberg hitting his 52nd and 53rd homers of the season, to go in front of Babe Ruth's record 1927 pace, the Tigers came from behind to trample the New York Yankees 7 to 3 today, behind Alton Benton's five-hit pitching. Greenberg also hit two singles.

Bosox' Hopes Fade
CLEVELAND, Sept. 17 (AP)—Jeff Heath hit his 15th home run and three singles today as Cleveland defeated Boston in the last game of their series, 5-4. Jimmy Foxx hit his 45th homer in the first inning. The result evened the series and left the Indians one game behind second place.

Texas Leaguer Stars
CHICAGO, Sept. 17 (AP)—Three consecutive homers in the second game by Mervyn Conners, rookie Chicago first baseman, featured the White Sox' doubleheader sweep over the Philadelphia Athletics today by scores of 8 to 4 and 7 to 4. Conners, recalled from Shreveport, fell one short of Lou Gehrig's mark of four in a row when his fourth try produced a double.

Sens Win Fair
ST. LOUIS, Sept. 17 (AP)—The Washington Senators trounced the St. Louis Browns, 11 to 1, in the second game of today's doubleheader, called at the end of the sixth inning because of darkness. The Senators won the first game, 10 to 9.

DERRICK COLLAPSES, WORKER IS KILLED

LAREDO, Sept. 17 (AP)—The collapse of an oil well derrick today in the Haynes field of Zapata county killed one oil worker and injured another. Eldoro Bernal, 24, was crushed to death when the derrick, overbalanced by pipe stacked on one side, toppled on him. Fred Shearer, who was aloft in the derrick, suffered cuts and bruises. Other members of the crew of about 20 men escaped injury.

TO OUTLINE AIMS OF COTTON COUNCIL

GREENVILLE, Miss., Sept. 17 (AP)—Rhea Blake, temporary secretary of the National Cotton Council, said today he would outline its program Monday to Alabama representatives of five primary cotton groups at Montgomery.

The council, organized last June, adopted a program drafted by Oscar Johnston of Scott, Miss., former head of the government cotton pool, to increase consumption of the staple in domestic and foreign markets.

Methods were announced as reciprocal trade agreements, promotion of new uses of cotton, advertising of known uses, and favorable legislation.

Blake said he would present the council's "selling program" to Alabama representatives of cotton growers, ginners, warehousemen, shippers and oil millers Monday.

He said successive meetings have been arranged in Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia, Tennessee, Missouri, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California. State committees of the national cotton council will be formed in each.

Hooliganism is a term derived from the Hooly gang in London's east end around 1900, and implies ruffianism and rowdiness.

Texas Man Is Head Of Underwriters

O. SAM CUMMINGS

O. Sam Cummings, prominent Texas life insurance man of Dallas and president of the National Association of Life Underwriters, will lead that body into what will probably be one of the greatest congresses of life underwriters in the history of the profession when over 2,000 meet in Houston Monday for the forty-ninth annual convention of the national association.

Several "firsts" will be established by Cummings and the state of Texas in playing hosts to the convention of the agents' national organization; this is the first time that the body has ever met in Texas, or even in the Southwest; it is the first time that the president of the organization comes from the state in which the convention is held; and the meeting itself, with 1,400 Texas underwriters cooperating in its presentation, will probably break all records for attendance.

Dallas Baseball Club Is Sold

DALLAS, Sept. 17 (AP)—The Dallas baseball club of the Texas League was sold today to George Schepps, Dallas beer magnate, for an undivulged sum estimated at $150,000.

The deal will become effective Oct. 10.

The 39-year-old new owner promised a thorough renovation of the team before the next campaign.

Schepps, who was a stockholder in the club for several years, will become president and business manager.

The new owner will leave next Thursday for the east, where he expects to bring about a close affiliation with a major league club to acquire playing talent. The convention Dallas had with the Chicago White Sox has been several. Robert S. Tarleton, who was business manager of the Stars for the last ten years, has resigned effective Nov. 30, when his contract with St. Dreyfus, the present owner, expires.

TECH DEFEATS MONTANA TEAM

LUBBOCK, Sept. 17—Texas Tech's Red Raiders ran over the Montana State gridders in the opening football game of the season here Saturday night, 25-0.

The Raiders led at half time, 21-0.

Test In Cochran Shows Small Production; Several Wildcats Staked

SAN ANGELO, Sept. 17—Indicated small production by The Texas Co. No. 1 Wright, semi-wildcat in eastern Cochran county, and lengthening of the west side of the Walker area in southwestern Yoakum county by Shell No. 4 Dora Roberts shared interest in West Texas oil developments this week with the staking of a location for a wildcat in Andrews county, spudding of one wildcat each in Andrews and Gaines counties, announced plans for one wildcat each in Gaines and Reagan counties and the restoring to the active list of one wildcat each in Sutton and Val Verde counties under changed operators.

Both first and final reports showed a gain over the preceding week. Locations were listed for 39 field tests and one wildcat in nine counties, compared with 33 and three, respectively, in 10 counties the week before. Thirty-one oil producers and a gasser were completed and seven failures abandoned in 12 counties compared with 25 oil producers, a gasser and two dusters in 10 counties during the preceding week.

30 Barrels Daily
The Texas Co. No. 1 Wright in Cochran county bailed oil at the rate of 30 barrels daily on a four-hour test without lowering the column below 300 feet from the bottom. It had been shot with 120 quarts of nitroglycerin from 4,380 to 3,910 feet after plugging back from 4,939 feet to shut off salt water. The test is in labor 23, league 115, Potter county school land, 1-2 miles northwest of Geo. P. Livermore No. 1 Wright, a small discovery well.

Magnolia No. 1 Wright, 2 1/2 miles northeast of The Texas Co. test, topped the brown lime at 3,850 feet, 184 feet above sea level, reportedly higher than in the Livermore well. It had drilled past Honolulu No. 1 Kendrick, 1 1/2 mile east outpost to the Denver field, topped the anhydrite favorably at 2,770 feet, 1,297 feet above sea level, had gas in the Yates sand at 5,140 and had drilled past 8,094 feet. Sam Yingling No. 1 Barrier, 8 1/2 miles northeast of the Bennett pool, topped the brown lime at 4,390 feet, 521 feet below sea level and 316 feet lower than in Gulf No. 1 Gordon, a failure five miles to the northwest.

Anhydrite Topped
Atlantic No. 1 Parker, Gaines county wildcat, 2-1/2 miles northwest of the Seminole field in section 264-G-WTRR, topped the anhydrite at 2,140 feet, 1,208 feet above sea level and 125 feet lower than Frick-Osage No. 1 Riley, a producer, 2 1/2 miles to the northeast. Devonian No. 1 King, on the trend between the Seminole and Wasson pools and in the northeast corner of block 6, league 305, Dawson county school land, had spudded 107 feet. York & Harper, Inc., farmed out to Harry Brown the south half of the northwest quarter of section 51-AX-pal in the Wasson field for a test expected to be started soon.

Fuhrman No. 1 Ashton, which last week appeared to be a one-mile west extension to the Fuhrman pool in southern Andrews county, after acidizing at 4,465 feet, made only gas heads and basic sediment after deepening to 4,492 feet and re-acidizing. It is in the southeast corner of section 12-A42-pal.

Humble started No. 1-G University in the northwest quarter of section 18-14-U, one mile southeast of its No. 49 Means, record well for the North Permian basin, which was completed last week at 4,510 feet for a 24-hour flow of 6,208.38 barrels of oil. Rogers & Rogers staked a test on University land, 1,320 feet from the north, 440 feet from the east line of the southwest quarter of section 40-9-U, three miles east of the Emma pool. The Texas Co. No. 1-H State, wildcat south of Shafter Lake in the southeast quarter of section 4-14-H, had drilled to 315 feet.

At least 64 chemical elements are present in soil and 68 of these have been found in plants, says U. S. Chemist W. O. Robinson.

2 New Wells Finished In Chalk Area

Southeastern Sector's Potential Hiked 2,047 Bbls.

Two completions, one in the original Chalk pool and the other in the Chalk extension area, brought an additional 2,047 barrels production to the southeastern Howard county potential during the week.

Pure Oil No. 17-A Chalk, a 3,000-foot test in a normally shallow area, tested 22.81 barrels the first hour and 21.55 the second for a daily potential of 517.29 barrels. It topped pay at 2,824 feet and hit bottom at 3,125 feet. Location is 830 feet from the west and 2,360 feet from the north line of section 125-29, W&NW.

Shot with 550 quarts and treated with 4,000 gallons of acid, the Lloyd Noble No. 2-A Chalk, 330 feet from the north and west lines of section 94-29, W&NW, made 63.75 barrels the second hour for a potential of 1,531 barrels. Pay was topped at 2,631 feet and the hole bottomed at 3,081 feet.

Lockhart No. 3 Huesinger, section 67-29, W&NW, drilled to 2,429 feet and had a fishing job. A mile and a half to the southwest, the Ajax-Anderson & Prichard No. 1 Scott estate, in section 85-29, W&NW, was below 2,300 feet.

In the Snyder area Condon No. 2 O'Daniel, in section 24-30-1a, T&P, was past the 1,415 feet mark.

West of Big Spring, the T. G. Shaw No. 1 H. H. Wilkinson, in section 35-A, E. & C. Martin county, finished underreaming 10-inch string and drilled to 675 feet in red shale. The W. B. Powell No. 1 Guitard estate, in section 17-A, E. & C. Howard county, was reported below 3,050 feet.

PRORATION HEARING IS SLATED MONDAY

AUSTIN, Sept. 17 (AP)—Arguments on continuation of statewide production shutdowns through October likely will be presented at the oil proration hearing here Monday.

Members of the railroad commission said today they did not know whether Saturday holidays would be extended. Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of the interstate oil compact commission, pointed out, however, that gasoline stocks still were higher than one year ago and gasoline consumption was declining.

Everyone seemed agreed that Sunday shut-ins, effective more than eight months, would be continued.

Housewives Urged To Enter $900 Kitchen Contest

A renewed invitation for all housewives in the Big Spring area to enter the company's Model Kitchen contest was issued Saturday by J. P. Kenney, local manager of the Empire Southern Service company.

"It costs absolutely nothing to enter and the contest is very simple," Kenney said. "All women have to do is to obtain an official entry form from the gas company and write the completion of a statement in 50 words or less. We would be pleased to have all women call at the gas company office and inspect this $900 model kitchen which is on display." The kitchen includes the following:

- 72-inch Monel sink with faucet and strainer.
- 72-inch steel under-sink cabinet and base.
- Two 24x30 inch steel wall cabinets.

NO DECLARATION OF WAR BY U. S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 (AP)—The nation's capital has not yet declared war.

Newspaper editors had earlier telephoned calls this week inquiring whether the United States had declared war.

If you don't know what the answer was: Congress, under the constitution, is given the sole right to declare war and Congress has in session.

Wildcat Test Is Spudded Near Abilene

Another Near That City Has Light Showing Of Oil

ABILENE, Sept. 17 — Development interest moved nearer Abilene this week as a new Taylor county wildcat was spudded four miles north of here and one six miles northeast was showing for about 200 feet of oil hourly from a shallow lime section.

Lawson, Petroleum company moved a spudder and started its No. 1 B. E. Bell, approximately four miles north of Abilene near the Taylor-Jones county line, on a 2,350-foot contract. The test is located 330 feet from the north and 2,775 feet from the east line of the W. W. Sills survey No. 23.

On the Abilene-Albany highway northeast of here, the S. L. Davis of Abilene and T. N. Knowles of Flagstaff, Ariz., No. 1 Bowles estate struck two ballers of oil hourly in a saturated upper Hope lime drilled at 1,891-93 1-2 feet, and shut down to run six-inch casing to shut off 250 feet of open hole.

Shallow Production
The test is in an area where several shallow tests have found small production, although little activity has developed, but is the first to find saturation in a horizon of that depth. Location is 330 feet out of the southwest corner of the southeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 21-B&L survey.

Other new tests to start this week included the important northwestern Shackelford wildcat, Fortex Oil corporation No. 1 J. S. McKeever, north of the Palo Pinto producing Ivy pool, which is being supported by Forest Development Corporation, Humble, Ungren & Frazier and Ambassador Oil Corp. It is a 3,300-foot contract.

Location is little more than a mile northwest of the Ungren & Frazier et al No. 1 McKeever, which drilled three showings of lime saturation in the basal Canyon section—none commercial—before striking salt water. It is 330 feet from the south and 300 feet from the east lines of the northeast quarter of section 15-H&TC survey.

Fourth Pay Horizon
Fourth pay horizon for the east extension area of the southwestern James county Noodles Creek field was indicated after the Humble Oil & Refining company No. 1 Mrs. J. L. Millsap et al, 20 feet from the south and 600 feet from the east lines of the northeast quarter of section 37-15-T&P survey. A south outpost to the Stephens pool, Ungren & Frazier No. 1 Len W. Stephens, was spudded 230 feet out of the northwest corner of the southwest of the southeast quarter of section 22-15-T&P survey.

Outpost Spudded
In the Jones county shinnery area, Fain-McGaha Oil corporation spudded a north outpost to the Lewis pool as the No. 1 Mrs. J. L. Millsap et al, 20 feet from the south and 600 feet from the east lines of the northeast quarter of section 37-15-T&P survey. A south outpost to the Stephens pool, Ungren & Frazier No. 1 Len W. Stephens, was spudded 230 feet out of the northwest corner of the southwest of the southeast quarter of section 22-15-T&P survey.

Humble planned to move in rotary materials for immediate spudding of the first offset to the Chittenden pool discovery well eight miles northwest of Anson in western Jones county. The firm's No. 1 W. L. Chittenden estate is to be a direct south offset to the Montour-Hays No. 1 Chittenden, and is 330 feet out of the northwest corner of Amerada subdivision 28, L. Kreis survey No. 28.

Martin Road Bond Vote Is Set Oct. 15

Andrews County Connection Would Be Improved

STANTON, Sept. 17 (Sp)—Martin county commissioners court, acting on a petition signed by a large number of qualified voters, have set October 15 as the date for a vote on a $50,000 road bond issue.

The issue would provide roadway, grading and fencing on a road from Stanton to Lenora, 14 miles north, and from that point 32 miles west to the Andrews county line. Also covered in the program is a strip of road running northeasterly from Lenora to West Knot, just inside the Howard county line.

A similar bond issue, involving right-of-way through Martin county east and west, and from Stanton northward to the Dawson county line on a Lamesa road, lacked less than 10 votes having the necessary two-thirds majority this year.

Now Martin county has state designation on a road from Stanton north to Lenora and westward to the Andrews county line where it will be met by Andrews and carried on to the New Mexico line. It is assumed that if the county secures the roadway along a route already staked by the state, and improves it, that the state subsequently will surface the entire project and maintain it as a regular highway.

Proponents of the issue, determined to make a concerted drive for its approval, point out that the road would open up new trade areas to the north and route oil field traffic to Andrews and New Mexico through Stanton.

Board Of Control Members To Inspect State Hospital

The Big Spring State Hospital, nearing completion just north of here at a cost of $517,000, will be included on the list of state institutions to be inspected by the board of control on a tour of Texas next month.

Dr. George T. McMahan, superintendent of the new hospital, has been advised by Claude Teer, chairman of the board of control, that board members and technical staff members would be here Oct. 3.

The group is scheduled to arrive here at 1 p. m. and following a study of the hospital, the chamber of commerce will entertain with a dinner. Chamber officials said that the inspection was in no wise to be confused with the dedication, which will be held within the next few months.

LICENSES ISSUED

Los Angeles Overrun By Legion Men

City Unable To Accommodate Record Convention Throng

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 17 (AP)—The City of the Angels, not unused to super-colossal spectacles, today gave itself over completely to the American Legion, assembled to conduct its 20th annual convention.

Registrations topped all previous marks and housing became a vexing problem. Hotels in the city proper were filled, apartment houses took down "vacancy" signs and Legion officials began commandeering facilities from Long Beach to Hollywood.

The city which facetiously has been said to have "city limit" signs from Alaska to the southern end of Mexico, admitted defeat. And still Legionnaires continued to pour in by train, plane, auto and bus.

Housing was not the only problem faced by Legion officials. Various committees reported themselves swamped with work. The resolutions committee, meeting Friday, is faced with the task of reducing from the unprecedented 652 to not more than ten, the number of resolutions to be heard on the convention floor.

The committee, headed by R. O. Garber of Des Moines, judge advocate of the Iowa department, includes Carl Nesbitt, Austin.

Unlike previous conventions, the first session Monday promises to be packed, with Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, the principal speaker.

The first session will adjourn about noon Monday until Wednesday because the second day of the convention always is given over to the Legion parade.

GETS TWO YEARS ON FORGERY CHARGE

NEWTON, Sept. 17 (AP)—B. E. Weatherford, Newton county commissioner, pleaded guilty to a forgery charge today and was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary.

Seven bills of indictment, charging forgery in connection with county warrants issued against the county road and bridge fund, were returned against Weatherford.

He pleaded guilty on one count involving a warrant issued in the amount of $4. The other six indictments are pending.

W. H. Murry, Sr., former road overseer in Weatherford's precinct, also was given a two-year sentence in connection with the alleged forgery of a county warrant endorsement. Five other indictments are pending against him.

"Do not let yourselves be confused by this party liquidation. Remain inwardly what you always were and wait until Adolf Hitler and Chamberlain have ended their fateful conversations."

The difference between the aggressive policy of Henlein, who demands union of Sudeten German regions with Germany, and the moderate stand taken by Kundt was seen as marking dissension in the minority ranks.

speaker, and regaled the crowd with a humorous talk freely sprinkled with anecdotes and witticisms. Burleson served as toastmaster, and entertainment numbers included songs by Miss Edith Gay and Mrs. L. A. Eubanks, other vocal numbers by the West Texans, and saxophone solos by Walter Deats.

R. L. Bobbitt, chairman of the state highway commission who spoke to the convention Friday afternoon, was introduced, as was Wendell Mayes of Brownwood, chairman of the state parks board. A brief talk was made by Dr. George T. McMahan, superintendent of the Big Spring state hospital.

Addresses on the Saturday morning program included one on the value of home demonstration work by Miss Peggy Martin, associate editor of Farm and Ranch; and one by District Judge Charles L. Klapproth of Midland. Judge Klapproth warned of the growing influences tending to break down democratic principles in the nation, and lauded the county governmental agencies as one of the bulwarks against subversive influences.

The jurist also had a word against the spread of governmental spending, warning lest it carry the nation, the states and their subdivisions beyond their ability to pay.

Judge Charles W. Lewis of Nolan county conducted a discussion of county health unit activities, describing the work of the unit in Nolan county, which has pioneered preventive medicine in West Texas. A health unit has been in operation there for nine years.

Jean Kuykendall, in a song and dance, was the entertainer of the morning. Friday afternoon, Paul McCrary was heard in vocal selections.

The Week

cause information on many vital points is lacking.

Some indicate a lack of confidence in the bond since it is not specifically and irrevocably stated for what purpose the money will be spent. The reason that no unalterable plan has been made is that city officials are unwilling to reach a final decision without more facts and expert opinion. Thus they will not now say that a dam will be built at this spot, when subsequent developments might prove the move unwise. There have been too many sad war ventures in West Texas to warrant needless haste.

Why then must we vote on bonds until we know for what the money will be spent? Simply this: PWA has said that "we will give you $225,000 if you vote $275,000 to go with it; but you must let us know your answer by Oct. 1."

Here is an important fact: The money, both PWA and city, might never be used, or only part of it might be required. While PWA demands an answer by Oct. 1, it leaves the disposition of the funds to the discretion of the city. If a certain project appears wise, the money can be spent for it. If nothing seems feasible, the money can be turned back.

Congratulations to KRST on its new network affiliations. The arrangement doubtless will result in better quality of programs, hence increased following of the station in the area. Later that might be a good argument for making this a still better and more powerful unit.

Word came from Austin last week that college entrance examinations have been halted. Because this will work a great injustice on many worthy students in unaffiliated schools, it is a good example of the inequality of the general scholastic set-up. In this county and all over the state there is no such thing as equal opportunity for all scholastics.

Perhaps you read of new changes in the federal court rules, one of which was to preclude appeal on technical error unless it could be shown the error would affect the outcome of the trial. Another was a "pre-trial" session in which the court and attorney's agreed on the real issue and weeded out extraneous matter in advance of trial. State courts could benefit no end from adoption of some similar procedure. It would save money and speed court machinery.

Hearing men like Robert Lee Bobbitt, chairman of the state highway commission, Julian Montgomery, highway engineer, and Capt. Homer Garrison of the department of public safety, all of whom addressed the West Texas County Judges and Commissioners association, sort of restores one's faith in the state government. It is both a credit and a blessing to the state that in many key positions it does have capable, sincere, honest and straightforward servants.

INJURIES FATAL TO TRAIN CONDUCTOR

CANADIAN, Sept. 17 (AP)—Albert B. Stewart of Amarillo, freight conductor on the Santa Fe railroad, died today of injuries suffered when he stepped off his train into the path of another.

Stewart descended from the caboose of the freight train and was struck by a passenger train following it. He was survived by his widow; a daughter, Mrs. Jack Melton, and a son, Tom Stewart, all of Amarillo. The body will be sent to Amarillo for burial.

SCHOOL CHILDREN JOIN PICKET LINES

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17 (AP)—Children of primary school age took to the picket lines in the department store, strike today and sang of union solidarity in nursery rhyme paraphrase while workers and employer representatives again sought a solution of the deadlocked dispute.

Two truckloads of youngsters carried the downtown area.

"Union Solidarity!" they chanted. Like their adult relatives, they carried banners. A tiny blonde bore a placard reading: "Hickory, dickory, dock. My school books are in lock. And no I cannot concentrate. Because the boss won't arbitrate."

HIGH SCHOOL GRID CAPTAIN KILLED IN ROAD MISHAP

TYLER, Sept. 17 (AP)—Donald Hutchens, 17, captain of the Lindale, Tex., high school football team, was killed today when a light pickup truck he was driving overturned on a loose-dirt road.

Hutchens was dead when passersby found the wreckage near his home, two miles east of Lindale. He was a senior and played end on the football team.

Medical Association Votes Radical Changes In Public Health Policies

CHICAGO, Sept. 17 (AP)—The American Medical Association today upset tradition by adopting revisions in its policy on health and welfare which some members of its house of delegates termed "progressive and almost revolutionary."

The delegates, meeting in a special session here for the past two days, approved with few dissenting votes or objections five recommendations which agreed in most major principles with the national health program outlined two months ago by President Roosevelt's inter-departmental committee on health and welfare.

That committee declared the health of the people was a direct concern of the federal government. The medical association agreed today the health of impoverished persons should be protected with the use of state and federal funds when necessary.

The president's committee urged establishment of a federal department of health, the secretary of the cabinet. The association agreed, with the provision that "he must be a physician."

On the expansion of public health and maternal and child welfare services the association agreed with the committee completely.

The delegates backed the committee in its endorsement of better use of existing hospital facilities but opposed the building of additional hospitals where they are not needed. They also endorsed plans for hospital service insurance and cash indemnity insurance policies which remunerate a person during prolonged illness.

They opposed vigorously, however, any plan of compulsory health insurance.

O'DANIEL CHALLENGED TO DEBATE TOUR BY GOP CANDIDATE

FORT WORTH, Sept. 17 (AP)—Alexander Boynton, San Antonio lawyer and Republican nominee for governor, opened his campaign here tonight, fired 20 questions at W. Lee O'Daniel, the Democratic nominee, and challenged the Fort Worth man to a joint debate tour of the state.

Boynton, in prefacing his interrogation which took the form of an "open letter," explained he had always voted the Republican ticket on national issues except that he voted for Woodrow Wilson the first time he ran for president. On state questions, the Republican candidate continued, he has "frequently voted the Democratic ticket from constable to governor."

SPANISH CONFLICT IN A DEADLOCK

HENDAYE, France (AP)—The Spanish Frontier, Sept. 17 (AP)—Complete deadlock on all fronts in the Spanish civil war was reported today in government and insurgent circles.

A conditional offer to cooperate with a neutral commission to avoid bombardment of civil populations was made by the insurgents through the head of their air forces, General Alfredo Kindelan.

St. Thomas Catholic Women Prepare To Entertain District Council Wednesday

Between 75 and 80 women are expected in Big Spring Wednesday for a semi-annual district meeting of the National Council of Catholic Women, representing churches in Sweetwater, Hermleigh, Colorado, Stanton, Midland and Odessa, officials of the host church advised this weekend.

The program entitled "Christian Education in the Home," is to start promptly at 10:30 o'clock at the St. Thomas Catholic church with Mrs. J. J. Lane, diocesan president, Amarillo, making the principle morning address.

However, main address of the meeting is to be brought by Most

Rev. Robert M. Lucey, bishop of Amarillo. Other speakers will be Mrs. Walter Barlow, diocesan secretary, and Rev. J. T. Drurey, editor of the Diocesan Register.

Mrs. Thomas J. Donohue of Sweetwater is scheduled for a paper on "Religious Education" and Mrs. A. H. Riley of Midland is to discuss "Parent Education."

The entire session will be presided over by Mrs. Ned Swain of Sweetwater in the absence of the district president, Mrs. Glenn Golden of Big Spring.

Lunch is to be served at the Settles hotel at 1 o'clock with all arrangements being made by Mrs.

N. R. Smith, Mrs. W. D. Willbanks and Mrs. W. E. McAllen.

After the meeting has been called to order, Rev. Joseph Dwan of the host church is to give the opening prayer. After a message by Mrs. Lane, Mrs. L. L. Freeman of Big Spring, secretary of the district, will read the minutes.

Rev. Drurey is to talk on "Study Clubs" and Mrs. Allen Talbot, Midland, will give the district reports. Parish reports and district reports will be given by Mrs. W. E. McAllen and a report from the president of each parish will also be heard.

A nominating committee of which Mrs. L. N. Millon is chairman will report and invitations for the spring district meeting are to be presented at the luncheon.

An open forum is to be conducted in the afternoon and informal meeting of groups held.

Mrs. Martin Dehlinger is general chairman of arrangements and Mrs. L. D. Jenkins, Mrs. Kathleen Williams and Mrs. Willis Taylor have charge of registration.

Pages are in charge of Mary Margaret Williams who will be assisted by Mary Freeman, Mary and Sarah Reidy, Pauline Tucker and others of the younger set.

Mrs. Jenkins is handling all of the publicity in connection with the meeting.

Couple In Wedding Of Couple Solemnized Saturday Evening At 8 O'clock

Martha Pryor Becomes Bride Of Wichita Man

Guests invited to a pre-nuptial shower Friday evening were surprised when at the conclusion of the garden affair, the honoree, Martha Lorene Pryor of Big Spring became the bride of Jack Lester of Wichita Falls in the garden of Mrs. Garner McAdams, 208 Dixie, Dr. C. E. Lancaster, pastor of the First Baptist church, performed the ceremony.

Guests were received on the front lawn by the hostesses, Mrs. Ralph Towler, Mrs. C. M. Weaver, and Mrs. McAdams, the honoree, and her mother, Mrs. F. E. Pryor of San Antonio, and sister, Mrs. A. M. McLeod.

Opal Lacy Is Bride Of Jack Jackson

The wedding of Opal Lacy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Lacy of Weatherford, and Jack Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Jackson of Ladonia, was solemnized Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. W. C. House with the Rev. House, pastor of the First Methodist church, reading the simple ring ceremony.

The couple was attended by Forrest McDuffie and Beatrice Harris.

The bride, who has been employed as a typewriter at the Western Union in Big Spring for the past year, was attractive in a teal blue travel suit with wine accessories and she wore a corsage of deep wine gladioluses and babybreath.

Miss Harris wore a black and white suit and carried black accessories.

After the ceremony, the couple left for a two weeks' trip to points in New Mexico and Colorado and upon their return home will reside at 1208 1-2 Austin.

Mrs. Jackson was graduated from the Grayford high school and attended the Western Union school in Fort Worth.

Jackson, who is manager of the local Western Union, worked for the same telegraph company in Mineral Wells for seven years before coming here over a year ago.

Colorful Circus Party Given For Boy On Birthday

Clever Affair At Hotel Honors David McConnell

David Holton McConnell, son of Dr. and Mrs. D. F. McConnell, was cleverly entertained with a birthday party Friday evening on his 12th anniversary in the ballroom of the Crawford hotel by his parents.

The circus theme was carried out in the entertainment by serving pink lemonade, colorful ice cream, and a three-tiered birthday cake that was iced in pink and topped with an improvised "big top" supported with striped peppermint sticks. Modernistic animals surrounded the centerpiece and at each place was a colorful napkin bearing the silhouette of a circus animal. Placed on colorful strips of paper, pennant shape, were the guests' names.

Quite a number of jolly games added to the merriment of the evening.

Mrs. Willard Read, Mrs. R. E. Blount and Ruby Bell entertained with two vocal selections.

Guests present were Barbara Jane McEwen, Doris Nell Tompkins, Janet Robb, Robbie Nell Gully, Sue Beth Hargrove, Joanna Winn, Marjio Thurman, Gloria Strom, Robbie Piner, Carol Ann Conley, Lila Beth Duff, Evelyn Tucker, Mary Ann Dudley, Kathleen Little, Hazel Carmack, Nancy Miller Thompson, Ann Talbot, Betty Jean Tucker, Jerry Hodges, Johnnie Lones, Peggy Ann Hargrove, Helen Blount, Rosalie Ferguson, Joane Rice and Lila Mae Nell.

EMMA JEANNE SLAUGHTER

Birthday Party Is Given At The Slaughter Home

Balloons, Japanese Lanterns Used For Gay Decorations

Amid colorful balloons and Japanese lanterns, Emma Jeanne Slaughter celebrated her eighth birthday anniversary with an annual party given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Slaughter, at their home, 1205 Gregg, Friday evening on the back lawn.

The yard and trees were cleverly decorated with balloons and lights of various shades and hues illuminated the gay setting. The reception room in the house was also adorned with various festive decorations. An archway and garden house were attractively lighted with various colored balloons floating in the air.

The honoree cut the pink and white three-tiered birthday cake while the guests sang "Happy Birthday." Eight candles decorated the cake and two small dolls adorned the center.

Games played

Various games were played on the lawn and musical numbers were given by Barbara Bodine and Billy Neal. Individual sacks of popcorn were passed to the guests early in the evening and balloons on sticks were given as favors.

The honoree received many lovely gifts and displayed them to the guests. Refreshments of cake and cream were served with the pink and white motif being carried out.

Mrs. Slaughter was assisted in entertaining by Marguerite Wood, who supervised the games, and Mrs. L. Gilmer, Mrs. E. E. Fahrkamp, Mrs. Raymond Winn and Mrs. Leslie Jenkins.

Guest List

Guests registering were Virginia Ferguson, Billie Crunk, Berkeley Wood, Bettie Lou McGinnis, Beth McGinnis, Tommie Reece Gilmer, James Leslie Jenkins, Joann Cornwell, Vivian Middleton, Paul Jenkins, Margie Frances Coffee, Lee Ann Ware, Ruth Cornelson, Jo Nell Sikes, Mary Louise Davis, Spencer Wolfe, Mary Edith Neal, Ceila Westerman, Billie Brown, Lees, Jerry Tucker, Edmund Fahrkamp, Barbara Bodine, Charlene Tucker and Janice Dunagan.

Dorothy Ann Meador, Lina Jane Wolfe, LaRue Tucker, Diana Underwood, Billie Neal, Billie Rhea Gilmer, Jack Merrick, Harry Weeg, Jr., Joe Dick Merrick and Marybeth Jenkins.

Guests unable to attend but sending gifts were Joan Pickle, W. R. Newsom, Jr., Donnie Newsom, Sue Beth and Peggy Ann Hargrove, Janice and Jess Slaughter, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Jess Slaughter and Fayline Schubert.

Presides At Book

Mrs. Towler presided over the bride's book. Guests were escorted to a garden beautifully lighted, with shrubbery, fern and late summer flowers forming an appropriate background.

The gifts were displayed on a large table and punch and cake were served from a table placed under an illuminated tree. The table was laid with a lace cloth over pink linen and the punch bowl was banked with fern and silverlace vine and golden and pink dahlias.

Suggestions to the bride-elect were made by the guests after the gifts were displayed and the honoree disappeared from the group, returning shortly with Dr. Lancaster and Lester.

Mr. and Mrs. Towler, Mr. and Mrs. Garner McAdams and Mrs. Weaver came through and improvised arch and formed the bridal party for the ring ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. A. M. McLeod were the attendants.

Sub-Debs Announce Pledges For The Year At Meeting Recently

Pledges to the Sub-Deb club this year were announced at a meeting of the high school social group Saturday afternoon at the home of Mary Nell Edwards.

Those to be initiated into the club soon are Champe Phillips, Mary Freeman, Marie Dunham, Janice Slaughter, Joyce Craft, Mary Jo Russell, Sara Lamun and Jacqueline Faw.

The pledges were present for the meet and were requested to sit on the floor because they have not yet been initiated.

The constitution was read to the prospective members and the importance of sportsmanship was especially stressed. Initiation plans were discussed by Joan James, DeAlva McAlister, Mary Nell Edwards, members, and Lillian Shick, the sponsor.

Joan James is to be the hostess next Saturday afternoon.

GAS, ELECTRICITY AND WATER

The public utility situation is on a more pleasant basis in Big Spring than ever before, because of last week's announcement by the Empire Southern Service company of a progressive reduction in natural gas rates. This company's action follows that of some weeks ago when the Texas Electric Service company in trimming electric costs to the consumer.

Both firms acted voluntarily, a demonstration that they are prepared to cooperate in the economic affairs of this community. And users of gas and electricity are, naturally, glad to get any reduction in their bills that they can.

Big Spring still has extremely high for water. This is because of the uncertainty of supply, and it has been the policy of city administrations to maintain an expensive rate as a sort of brake on consumption.

Although nothing definite could be expected at this time, it seems reasonable to assume that were this city to provide itself with a bountiful water supply—such as is proposed through the joint FWA-city bond financing program on which the people vote on September 27—it could bring about an adjustment of rates whereby citizens of Big Spring could enjoy the use of more water without additional cost. Everybody wants that. It would mean much toward developing a more beautiful city, one better designed for living.

The water rate adjustment may be a long way off, even if the project now pending is developed. But it is a factor to be considered in studying the September 27 bond issue, and one to be carried through to completion before all the city's utilities costs are in line.

HE HAS ASKED FOR TROUBLE

If the voters of New York on Tuesday view things the same way as have the voters of Southern states, President Roosevelt will have achieved a standing of exactly zero in his efforts to "purge" the Democratic party of what he calls its out-of-step members. Maryland, South Carolina and Georgia, the three states where he spent the most effort against "conservative" Democrats, handed Mr. Roosevelt a sharp rebuke.

The results indicate that the president is in for a difficult time of it for the next two years. Every second term president faces a certain degree of revolt in his Congress, but no president has ever invited disunion in the ranks as has Mr. Roosevelt with his attempt to put everything on a New Deal basis.

It would appear that the chief executive, handed the overwhelming majority in the 1936 elections that he was handed, accepted that expression as a complete order to do as he liked. Now he finds that such is not the case. As he went ahead with his pet proposals, especially the scheme to pack the supreme court, the people realized that regardless of an executive's apparent ability and leadership he deserved no such power as he sought to take unto himself.

Democrats do not operate on that basis.

Headstrong with his ideas, Mr. Roosevelt made the mistake of not trying to readjust affairs in his party after the court and government reorganization, such as John Shrewder politicians, such as John Garner and Pat Harrison of Mississippi, could have told him he was inviting disaster. He has invited it, and probably will get it, insofar as interference of his policies is concerned from now until 1941.

It cannot be known definitely whether the voters of Maryland, South Carolina and Georgia were merely expressing resentment at an act of intrusion and of overstepping the authority of party leadership. But the fact remains that the voters who won over his policies, voted by many who in the past have been bastions of support of the president.

It is not known whether the voters will also vote independently of the party. In the third phase, which has just opened, the voters, having persuaded Hitler to start war, must now per-

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

(Mr. Lippmann's column is published as an informational and news feature. His views are personal and are not to be construed as necessarily reflecting the editorial opinion of The Herald.—Editor's Note.)

THE EUROPEAN SITUATION NOW

PARIS, Sept. 17.—In the fortnight preceding Chancellor Hitler's address at Nuremberg the people of the world worked themselves up into an almost hysterical expectation that the chancellor would pronounce the fatal verdict for peace or for war. He did not pronounce the verdict because, in fact, he has no such supreme power as world opinion then attributed to him.

Mr. Chamberlain has now gone to Berchtesgaden. And again the world will be tempted to believe that the consequences of the interview will necessarily be decisive for peace or for war. This, too, is almost certainly a much too simple and therefore a misleading view of the real situation.

The controlling consideration immediately is still what it has been for months, namely, that Czechoslovakia will not be invaded if it is clear to the German government beyond all possibility of doubt that an invasion would provoke a general European war. And the controlling consideration ultimately is also what it has been for months, namely, that Czechoslovakia will have the support of France and Britain against invasion provided that the Czech government continues to prove both that it is willing to redress the grievances of the Sudetens and that it is able and ready to defend its authority within and without the frontiers of the Czechoslovak state.

In other words, if the Czechs disintegrate as the Austrians disintegrated no power on earth can save them from destruction; if, on the other hand, they are able to combine, as they have thus far, a policy of conciliation toward the German minority with a demonstration that they can maintain law and order within their frontiers, they will survive. Only by proving their own authority for taking this view is France and Britain stand by them the chances are that they will not be attacked.

Although the ways of dictators are not wholly predictable, the justification for taking this view is as follows: Among the Nazis an invasion of Czechoslovakia can be contemplated only if it is reasonably clear that France and Britain would stand aside. In the days preceding the Nuremberg speech the problem, therefore, was to convince Hitler that Britain and France would not stand aside. His speech showed that for the time being he was convinced. But the question then was whether the democracies could and would remain as firm as they are at the moment.

The answer to that question depends on what happens inside of Czechoslovakia. If there is an insurrection of the Sudeten Germans which the Czechs are unable to control, public opinion in Britain and France will turn against them and will consider the maintenance of Czechoslovakia a lost cause. If that happened, if there were civil war in Czechoslovakia, Hitler could intervene without the risk of a European war.

But if, on the other hand, the Czechs are able to demonstrate that they know how to govern, that they have a genuine state which is able to maintain internal peace, they will deprive the Nazis of the opportunity, the occasion and the reason for intervention. As long as there is peace and order within the Czech frontiers, and at the same time a willingness to negotiate for the redress of grievances, Britain and France could not disinterest themselves even if they wished. For them to stand by and let a disintegrating state be conquered is conceivable; it happened in the case of Austria. But for them to stand by and let a living state be beaten to death, to become before their very eyes the victim of a naked aggression, is not now conceivable. Their vital interest and their national honor would both be totally involved.

War can be avoided, we may then assume, as long as the Czech government can maintain its authority against a potential insurrection provoked in part by the grievances of the Sudetens and in large measure by agitation from Germany. In the first instance, the Czechs must save themselves or no one can save them. But there can be no relaxation of the tension, no amelioration of the crisis, unless and until the British can induce Hitler to withdraw his support of the insurrection and let the negotiations in Prague begin.

Unless Mr. Chamberlain can persuade Hitler of that there may be no war immediately but there will certainly be no peace for a long time to come. Europe will remain in a state of mobilization until some one's nerves crack up, and there is an irreparable incident with consequences that no one can control.

British diplomacy has thus entered a third phase. In the first, Lord Runciman was sent to Prague to mediate. In the second, which culminated over the weekend, the British made it clear to Hitler that they would not be intimidated. In the third phase, which has just opened, the British, having persuaded Hitler to start war, must now per-

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

by ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—If you are a movie-struck parent and want to get your own bright little tottie into the flickers, you ought to come to Hollywood first—alone—and take a look around.

You ought to be on hand around a casting office some day when there's a call for children, and see for yourself the swarms of movie mamas and their offsprings who and fight for even a look at the role of the 19th orphan in the orphanage scene.

You ought to see for yourself how the mamas, as they wait, glare sweetly at each other and wring their pretty necks—and how phoney so many of the kids themselves, who ought to be making backyard sand-castles or taking their naps, look with their transparently rehearsed "cutenesses," and their alleged talents for dancing and singing or reciting pieces.

And then, if you still think Hollywood's a good idea for your child, insist on bringing it out, look before you leap into any of the numerous child talent schools in town. They are so easily investigated that there's little excuse for anyone's being taken in.

Dennis O'Keefe, the erstwhile Bud Flanagan of the extra ranks, made more money at golf his first year in pictures than he did at acting.

O'Keefe, son of a famous vaudeville, was salesman for a local plumbing concern when he called on a pal who happened to be an assistant casting director. He'd had some experience in vaudeville and didn't care for plumbing, so he grabbed at the chance of five days' work with Olive Borden in a 1930 flicker. For nearly a year afterward he didn't act again, but he was a crack golfer, much sought for betting fourousms.

He was discovered last year through a bit in "Rhythm on the Range" and soon he had an M-G-M contract and a lead spot in "Bad Man of Brimstone." In the intervening years he had done everything one can do about a studio—played extra, bit, sweat-out stages, propped, and played golf.

Since "Brimstone" he's been so busy in pictures he hasn't had time for the links. But the other day he took on two pal. At the first tee it sounded, he says, like an alibi contest.

"I've got a bad back—don't think I can do much," said the first.

"A bee stung my right arm—I can't play," said the second.

"Haven't played in a year," said O'Keefe. "This is going to be murder."

The scores: No. 1, 80; No. 2, 70; O'Keefe, 75!

It pains me to report that Freddie Bartholomew's soap box racer, now in course of construction, has met a serious obstacle.

For weeks Freddie's entire allowance of $1 has gone on the vehicle. With time off from "Listen Darling," he had great hopes of finishing the contraption and giving it a trial run. All it needs is wheels, but Freddie is without funds—and will take at least a month to accumulate the required amount.

Just Claude, meanwhile, standing upon his rights and heels, agrees to a surprising degree.

NEW YORK—Here is an amusing little contest that has been going on the other day, and as it is something that might very well happen to you at one time or another I think you ought to know about it. It may save you some grief, especially if you ride taxicabs in New York.

This friend of mine, this Mr. A., got into a cab with his valise, and instructed the driver to take him to the Shelton Hotel. A few minutes later he changed his mind. He said, "Hey, driver, let me get off at the McAlpin. I have to see Ernest, Ernest in my favorite barber, and I need a hair trim. I'll tell you what. You let me off at the McAlpin—and then you take my bag on over to the Shelton and check it for me. Leave the check in my name at the desk."

This was absolutely okay with the driver, and after Mr. A. wrote down his name and gave him sufficient money to cover the fare and the baggage check, the caddy drove away. Meanwhile something prompted Mr. A. to make a note of the cab's license number.

Time passed. It became dark. Soon the night wore away, and about 9 o'clock next morning your agile correspondent entered the Shelton and went up to Mr. A.'s room to have a cup of coffee with him. Mr. A. and I belong to a very exclusive coffee club. We are the only members there. But he wasn't joyously slipping his brow when I arrived. He was sitting on the side of the bed, chin in hand, gazing morosely into space. Furthermore, the usually impeccable Mr. A. was badly in need of a shave. That he had slept in his shorts was obvious, there being no pajamas in sight.

"What in the world has happened to you?" I cried.

He sighed, shrugged and announced solemnly: "The detectives will be here any minute now."

Noting my stupefaction, he explained. He told how the taxi man had gone off with his bag. In that bag were his razor, his change of linen, everything he needed. Only there was no bag. There was no trace of a bag.

Of course, in this extremity, he had telephoned the police. And now they were coming up.

It was at this juncture that Detectives Frank Rahl and Hugh Fox of the "G" police station walked into the room. They came jauntily in with huge smiles on their faces. And the bag. They had the bag, all right. With the taxi license number as a guide, they had hauled the frightened driver before the bar at 4 o'clock that morning.

But this caddy. He told a very good story, and proved it. He was French, and spoke English only brokenly. He had misunderstood Mr. A. and had checked the bag into another Hotel. He had even left a note for Mr. A. with the bag. And so the poor caddy wasn't to blame at all.

Nevertheless, it is a good thing that Mr. A. had jotted down the caddy's number. There are $1,000 taxicabs in New York. Without the number the hunt might have been a difficult one. Detectives Rahl and Fox believe they could have located the bag anyway. They probably could have.

Moral: Never ask a taxi driver to check your bag unless you check to trim your hair.

If you do you may wake up to find your belongings trimmed in more ways than one. At all events, keep your chin up and put in a hurry call for the police—preferably Detectives Rahl and Fox. If results are possible, they'll get them for you.

Chapter 35 NIGHT OF HORROR

There was one chance only and that a thin one. I gripped Otille's wrist and drew her after me round the angle of the stairs to the studio door. As I did so, finding it mercifully ajar, I heard Geiss's step on the marble flags.

I thrust her inside, slipped after her myself. The footsteps passed our door and proceeded down the passage to the secret room; I heard the sound of a key turning and next minute the click of a closing lock.

Escape by the front door was impossible. And I looked round desperately for some corner where we could hide ourselves until the inmates of the house had gone their dark, and devious ways. Even as I hesitated, I heard a shuffling tread in the hall. There was a second door on my left, which must lead to the secret room, and now I realized that it, also, stood ajar, for a murmur of voices came faintly through the crack. I drew her towards it, and as I did so, turned my head and saw the door had entered slowly move inward.

There was only one thing for it. I caught her by the shoulders and gently thrust her into the second room, so that she stood flat against the wall behind the heavy curtain, and as I followed her and softly closed the door behind us, it seemed to me that the situation had reached its pinnacle of fantastic horror.

I moved stealthily a fraction to one side, where the division of the curtains showed a thin line of light, and found that, by putting my eye to the crack, I could get a very fair view of the upper end of the room. The housekeeper stood, watchful and defiant looking up to the dais, where, behind the monstrous statue of the goat Geiss was doing something that I could not see.

"Come then, Henrietta!" he called mockingly. "Do you not wish to see where I have my secret hiding-place, now that it is too late to be of use to you?"

The woman walked slowly forward, rounding the long, black table that stood before the dais, and stood between it and the statue, and it seemed to me that now her watchfulness was relaxed, for her angular figure was poised and tense.

"I'm not coming any nearer," she said. "And I think I'd better tell you, Rene Geiss, that there's a revolver under this coat of mine. If you try anything, I know how to use it."

"A gun!" he exclaimed. "You are a resourceful woman, Henrietta, but I promise you that you will have no occasion to use it. Rene Geiss, promise you that!"

And as he spoke, he stooped swiftly, disappearing behind the statue. There was a moment's silence and then, to my horror, I saw the white, monstrous shape suddenly tilt forward. The woman beneath screamed, once, hoarsely, and tried to spring backward, but the long, black-draped, stone table was close behind her, shutting her in. She swung round, trying madly to scramble over it, and as she did so, the thing toppled forward and fell straight down on her, with a thunderous crash that almost drowned the second dreadful scream that rang out.

Locked in

I clapped my hand over Otille's mouth, and amid my other arms round her waist, feeling her shaking as if with a palsy.

"You see, Henrietta," said Geiss's voice gently, "you did not need the gun. The woman was dead. He stood there for a moment, while I held my breath, and then moved swiftly, his pebble-grey, turning, animal-like, to right and left, over the curtain that shrouded the farther wall. A moment he fumbled behind it, then turned back, thrusting what appeared to be a wad of notes into his pocket, and crossed to the table.

He picked up something that looked like a pack of cards, flicked them over with practiced fingers, and dropped five cards, one by one, on the velvet cushion, on which he stood staring at them, with a face suddenly drawn and contorted by fear. Suddenly he clapped his hand over his eyes. "I do not believe it," he shrieked, in a voice so hoarse that I hardly knew it, and turning back, I heard him, dashed from the room. The next minute I heard a confused uproar in the studio at my back.

"You!" came Geiss's voice in a frenzied scream. "You would dare to spy on me, you drug-sodden half-wit! If I did not need you tomorrow, I would kill you now! change my mind!"

There was a scuffle, a half-strangled groan close to the other side of the door, and then, as I was soaked only by a small sound that seemed to drain the blood from my veins, leaving me cold and shivering, for it was the sound of a key turning in a lock.

The door behind us was locked, and it was odd that the other door, through which I had fled, was also fastened. Only too well did I know how impossible it was to break down either of those two doors, and yet the alternative, the long hours that must be spent in that dreadful room, shut in with that gruesome, broken body, waiting until Hugo or Dunning or the police should come to free us, was a prospect almost too awful to contemplate.

I stood there listening for another five minutes, for the madman who roamed the house in the land of our presence, I dared not imagine what would happen.

At last I moved. "I think we can shift ourselves now," I whispered. "Our host wouldn't wait longer than he could help, after that last effort."

"But, Archie," Otille said, very low, "what happened? What was that awful cry, and the crash?"

"That," I answered slowly, "was when Otille killed Henrietta

Task Of Turning Farm Income Into Family Living Is The Share Of The Rural Woman

The farm and home together represent the single agricultural unit; whatever affects one affects the other; and getting an income is only half the farm story, the other half is a matter of turning income—whether large or small—into family living. That is the half for which women are most responsible.

An idea expressed by Peggy Morris, associate editor of Farm and Ranch magazine, Dallas, in addressing the West Texas Judges and Commissioners association here Saturday on "The Value of Home Demonstration Work to Farm Women."

She further states that all over this country, farm women have been constantly raising the standards of living for the farm family during the darkest hours. They have introduced a fundamental principle in sound agricultural economy, making their families the first beneficiaries of farm production, actually turning crops and labor into good family living.

"The farm woman is showing the way for people to live with each other instead of off each other," the speaker said in recent interview.

Miss Morris, a farm girl and woman, is frequently drafted by the Extension Home Demonstration Service organizations of Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas, as one who has a thorough understanding and sympathetic appreciation of rural conditions. She is also in frequent demand to speak to the students of the Texas State College of Women, devoted to the industrial arts and home economics.

She was reared on a Texas farm and has experienced all the hazards and hardships that come to the average farm family in the average rural community. But she also shared in the social, educational and spiritual compensations of a wholesome rural society and her undiminished faith in the land and the people upon it as the sources of the best characteristics of the American people, gives the touch of sincerity to her writings and speaking which win both applause and emulation.

When asked for some interesting highlights of her career, Miss Morris said "Of course, my job has had its highlights, I suppose; but I've been so busy with the routine of it that the highlights seem not to stand out so that I may recall them as being very vividly interesting or different from those occurring in the average person's job."

Her job has had compensations for which she is grateful and one of them most appreciated has been the opportunity to establish a wide and interesting acquaintance with the people and agricultural resources of the great Southwest. She has found inspiration in every day that has led her to eagerly look forward to the next day's work and she says, "What more compensation could one ask of his chosen work?"

In speaking of the farm woman's place in the home, Miss Morris expresses the belief that woman is in her natural sphere when she is tending the cultural gardens of life and that she never saw a real happy woman who was making a hand in the field.

"On the other hand, I have contacted many women who are happy, contented and resourceful as they busied themselves putting the fragrance and flowers into human lives. By that I mean besides performing their domestic duties skillfully and according to the best proved methods, farm mothers are creating leisure time in which to keep up their intellectual culture that their children may not advance beyond their understanding and sympathy."

As to what she thinks is the farm family's greatest need, she believes it is for an honest-to-goodness desire on the family's part for a more abundant life.

Since her connection with Farm and Ranch in 1924, Miss Morris has extended her personal contacts into hundreds of farm homes and communities in the Southwest. She has cultivated every opportunity to learn the aspirations and attitudes of women and girls in the farm homes, and has won the friendship of thousands by her ready understanding of their problems and her creative suggestions for their solution.

She disclaims any burning ambition to revolutionize the life of the farm family, but she admits that her many contacts in rural homes have strengthened her "faith in the possibilities of profitable agricultural occupation through the broader educational, social and economic participation of farm women in meeting the demands of a new agriculture."

Stanton Students Perfect Group Organizations

STANTON, Sept. 17 (Sp)—Class organizations and election of officers took the spotlight in the Stanton schools this week, as work began in earnest. Sponsors were chosen by each class in the high school and plans for future events were discussed. Mrs. W. C. Glazner was chosen by seniors as their sponsor. John F. Priddy was elected senior president, Mary Ruth Renfro, secretary-treasurer. Junior sponsor will be Mrs. Harold Haley, president, Howard Pinkston; vice president, Thomas Newman, and secretary-treasurer, Maurice Bond. Miss Lucille Lucas will serve as sponsor of the sophomore class, with Monette Cox president, Vera Blackford, vice president, and Albert Straub, secretary-treasurer. Freshman officers are Silman Haynie, president, Jack Thornton, vice president, and Reba Hull, secretary-treasurer. W. A. Phillips will be sponsor.

The high school pep squad was organized during the week and held practice sessions for the football season. Cheer leaders are Mary Alene Cox and John F. Priddy.

In the elementary school a choral club was organized with 93 members reporting. Sponsor will be L. E. Gammon, who will also direct the club. Programs will be presented later in the year by the organization.
