By HANK HART

The job of capturing the "foreign" forces in the second annual Hall and Bennett trophy matches, a feature of the country club's annual invitational golf tournament next month, will fall to Morgan Neill, Odessa veteran who has entered practically every tournament ever staged at the local course.

Local skipper will be Sammy Sain, the reformed baseballer who has been a part of the golfing scene here for the past four years.

Neill and Sain, appointed Monday afternoon at a meeting of the club's directors, succeed Joe Dick Slaughter and Shirley Robbins, respectively, as the leaders. Slaughter's hand picked crew won last year's initial encounter, 5 1/2 to 4 1/2.

Constituting a trophy match will be a series of scotch foursomes along with individual matches.

The Big Spring Golf association, which figured prominently in the Munny's invitational meeting's successes last month, will help in publicizing the Sept. 1-4 show.

Shirley Robbins, country club manager, again was named tournament chairman and today was appointing his committees.

Ohie Eristov, the big old man, may have to miss the meeting this time. He writes from Arkansas that his mother is still seriously ill.

Doug Jones captured championship laurels in the meeting in 1938 by thumping Eddie Morgan, Odessa, in the finals, 3 and 1.

Cotton Clover, Monument, N. M., has been here ivory hunting for Joe Cheyney, San Marcos Teachers college grid coach. Clover, who lived here for several years before moving as part of the oil business to New Mexico, has been hearing the drums in the ears of Chock Smith and Woodrow Harris, both of whom have expressed interest. Smith graduated from the local high school last term where he starred for three years as an end. Harris after leaving school here three years ago, went to junior college in Jacksonville for a term, playing tackle.

Interested in taking a softball team to Sweetwater and the district TAAF tournament is W. D. Berry, regular third sacker for the Lone Star Chevrolet team. Dates for the meeting are expected to be definitely established within a few days.

Hornets Trim West Siders

The Giants slammmed out a 23-10 decision over the Junior Barons in Kiwanis Knot Hole league competition at Baron park Monday, scoring 15 runs in the second inning in turning the trick.

The Giants won with five base hits, using 21 bases on balls to good advantage.

In an exhibition played by teams composed of older boys, a team known as the Hornets defeated the West Siders, 10-1, as Bobby Savage limited the losers to a single blow. Jones collected the only West Side hit in the second round.

First game: Giants - 5 (15) 03-23 5-10; Barons - 3 70 00-10 6-10; Hull and Holland; Newton and Teague.

Second game: Hornets - 123 13-10 5-1; West Side - 010 00-1 1-2; Savage and Patton; Daylong and Morrow.

YANKEE RUNNERS AGAIN SUPREME; RIDEOUT LOSES

Finn Stands Out As Top Long Distance Trackster

LONDON, Aug. 8 (UP)—The greatest runner in the world today is Talo Maki, keg-chested, wry-legged Finn who grew up worshipping the fabulous Nurmi and now finds "I can beat his marks but I feel bad when I do it."

A lot went on at White City stadium in the international track meet yesterday. The American team won the event hands down and made the European team look like bush league baseball players batting against Red Ruffing. Three British records were cracked and two tied. The United States athletes looked like the class of the world, with one exception—Maki. He ran as Cunningham used to—easily, wisely and strongly. No one without a motorcycle is going to look him in the "big meet" at Helsinki next summer.

The only American who can even approach this lean hard lid, who holds records at two miles, three miles, 5,000 and 10,000 meters is Don Leah. Otherwise he stands alone. We asked him what makes him such a great runner?

Pro Football Lineups Are About Set

Most Of Stars, Including Goldberg, Are On Line

CHICAGO, Aug. 8 (UP)—A bumper crop of football's glamor boys of 1938 are ready to swap their college scrapbooks for a little of the professional game's folding money.

Dozens of star players of last season are in training camps of the pro eleven now, conditioning themselves for their debut on the money circuit.

Most of "big name" players of the 1938 season have signed, several after weeks of negotiations with anxious owners of pro teams. Only yesterday the Pittsburgh juggernaut, Marshall Goldberg, ace back of Jock Sutherland's last three Panther teams, got on the dotted line for the Chicago Cardinals of the National League.

The general belief was that Owner Charles Bidwill will pay the 188-pound runner and blocker between $10,000 and $12,000 for the 1939 season. If anyone was signed for more than that this year it undoubtedly was little Davey O'Brien, who piloted the Texas Christian team to an undefeated season with unerring aerials.

O'Brien, one of those who said the pro game was not for him, will play for the Philadelphia Eagles.

George Halas, owner-coach of the Chicago Bears, said the pros this year "have signed the largest number of names" players from the colleges in the history of the league.

Halas himself has signed two passers whose efficiency was only a little behind that of T. C. U. O'Brien—Sid Luckman of Columbia and Billy Patterson of Baylor. Waddy Young, Oklahoma's fine end, is slated to play for Brooklyn and Ki Aldrich, T. C. U. center, will be one of Goldberg's teammates with the Cards.

Washington's Redskins have I. E. Hale of Texas Christian and Terrance Russell of Auburn, both tackles. Herr will use his regular team and expects to start Red Denham as his hurler.

The game will begin at 8:15 o'clock.

The Chicago Cards, respectively.

Two of 1938's best ends—Sam Boyd of Baylor and Louis Daddio of Pitt will play for Pittsburgh and the Chicago Cards, respectively.

Vito Tamulis Tames Boston Behind Brook

27,950 Look On As Walker Breaks Up Game In Tenth

By BILL WHITE, Associated Press Sports Writer

It's no longer a question of baseball, it's a matter of history.

About the Yankees and the Reds winning their respective league titles, that is.

An unnamed hero has pored through history's pages—going clear back to the days of mustache cups and horsehair furniture—to find out no team that has once during the season held a 10-game lead is ever beaten for the title.

So all the tears shed for what was the worst home stand of the year for the Yankees, for the ropes of Bill McKeehan, are crocodiles of the deepest dye.

However general that knowledge may be, it certainly hasn't slowed any of the other teams up—indicating maybe the boys are not well versed in history, or just don't give a darn. One of the teams in that category is Brooklyn, still giving the old college try for a first division berth.

With Larry MacPhail masterminding them into a new attendance—if not a new altitude—record, he may have results yet this year but certainly will in years to come. MacPhail builds for the future. You'll recall it was this same MacPhail who put the Reds on the trail; they are now trodding.

Last night, in the National league's only game, the Dodgers snipped the Boston Bees 7-6 as 27,950 flatshiners watched Dixie Walker make his Brooklyn debut. Singled in the 10th with two out to give the Merry Macs another in their series of extra-long night battles.

The win proved it was true what they said about Dixie, put the Dodgers in fifth place, and gave Vito Tamulis his fifth victory against four setbacks.

In the only other game played in the majors, another newcomer, Lou Boudreau, up from Buffalo, sparked the Cleveland Indians to a 6-5 win over the St. Louis Browns.

Fence-Buster

Alvan Lindsey (Dusty) Cooke is showing the International League fans some fancy hitting.

The Rochester outfielder is pacing the loop with an average of over .300. Dusty hopes that his clouting will earn him another chance in the big leagues. He's played with the Yankees, Red Sox and Reds.

Savage Stars To Play City Champions

Dago Herr's McGeehee's Super Service softball team, Munny league champions who dropped a 4-3 encounter with the Maurice Shoppe team of San Angelo last weekend, will tangle with Bobby Savage's All-Stars in an exhibition fracas at the city park Wednesday evening.

Savage will employ the services of such performers as Howard Reed, Leonard Morgan, Charles Reed, Johnny Miller, Hal Battle, Van Ed, Wilson, Wabor Rowe, Chock Smith and W. D. Berry to line up against the champs. Herr will use his regular team and expects to start Red Denham as his hurler.

The game will begin at 8:15 o'clock.

NETTERS IN LAST SCRAP FOR DAVIS CUP TEAM SLOTS

Parker, Riggs Appear Capable Of Holding Own

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 8 (UP)—The way of playing tennis in this country appears to be in the act of undergoing a great change—from the slambang style that originated here and has been the hallmark of American tennis, to a softer, more subtle variety.

The proof lies in the fact that Bobby Riggs and Frankie Parker are the twin stars and gallery attractions of the eastern grass court championships. This is due partly to the knowledge that Bobby and Frankie will represent the U. S. in singles against Australia in the Davis Cup challenge round next month and so are surrounded with a certain glamor at the moment.

But the folks like to watch them play, too, and then again more and more of the youngsters have quit trying to knock the cover off the ball and are becoming practical as the mischief. It is interesting tennis.

Riggs and Parker, the best players Uncle Sam can summon to defend the Davis cup, are a different breed of cats entirely from Johnston, Tilden, Vines and Budge. Neither has a "cannon ball" service or blasting ground strokes like those of their great predecessors. Both depend upon finesse and dogged perseverance.

Will Do They are not as great tennis players as Budge and Vines and the others were. But there might not be any more extra-specials like that for a while, and in the meantime Riggs and Parker are an example to the average player of what can be done with limited equipment. If they should lick the Australians at Merion, there will be many a youngster modeling his game after theirs.

Riggs is his same lazy, careless self, yet Alice Marble, here to play in the women's department, predicted yesterday he would win two singles matches against Australia and Parker would win one. Bobby dropped a sloppy first set yesterday to Leonard Hartman, a fair-to-middling local player, then sailed in to win the next two with little difficulty.

This is the last big singles tournament upon which Captain Walter Pate can base his selection of the American side, and it would take a great upset to deprive Riggs and Parker of their places. The doubles team is Pate's big problem.

DRIVING CONTEST SLATED TONIGHT

Weather permitting, the Big Spring driving range, located on the San Angelo highway near the city park, will stage its weekly men's driving contest this evening beginning at 8:30 o'clock.

The contests have increased in popularity steadily since inaugurated by the co-owners, Bill Aikway and Frank Morgan, last month.

John laughed when she said: LETS GO BACK AND TURN OFF THE BED ROOM LIGHT!

• John and Mary had just backed out of the driveway and had reached the corner when she exclaimed, "Let's go back. I see the light burning in the bedroom."

John just laughed and kept going. "But lights cost money," Mary protested. "We'll be gone three hours."

"That's true," said John, "but let's do a little figuring."

And as they drove on down the street to the theater he did a simple problem in arithmetic. They had driven just 300 yards from the house when Mary wanted to turn back. John figured they would have used about 1/2 penny's worth of gasoline to turn around and go back to the house, a total distance of 600 yards. This same amount of money would keep the light burning for four hours. They saved money by not turning back.

"I didn't have any idea that light cost so little," Mary said. "I guess that's why the Electric Company says electricity is cheap."

Are You Superstitious? Most People Have Some Habit That Is Believed To Ward Off Evil

Walk around the block to get away from a black cat, never light three cigarettes on one match, pick up pins and never throw a hat on the bed—all are habits and beliefs that can be found among people you know. It is pretty hard to get anyone to admit their pet superstition and even harder to find out why they believe as they do but once you get started you will find that most folks have some belief and which they never ignore. The question asked was "Do you have any pet superstitions you follow?" Mrs. George Garrette, housewife: "If I forget something after leaving the house, when I rush back inside to get it I always sit down before rushing out again. That is the only superstition I pay any attention to." Mrs. J. V. Birdwell, housewife: says that "all sorts of bad luck signs spell good luck" for her. Camille Koberg, student: picks up stray pins to save herself from something that she is sure will happen if she ignores the pin. Mrs. John Clarke: "If I start to go some place and have to go back I always think, now that's bad luck, but then I usually go back." Carl Blomsheld, Texas Electric manager: "My Jonah is Tuesday the 13th not Friday the 13th. Something always happens to me on that day." L. L. Gulley, cafe owner: "I don't have any superstitions that I know of. I'm not even afraid of a black cat."

Taft Of Ohio

The candidacy of Senator Taft of Ohio is emerging from the tentative and informal stage to the definite and formal one, with his hat tossed into the ring by his home town backers.

His name was first mentioned for the 1940 nomination when he won his race for the senate last year. Any Ohioan who develops even a moderate amount of strength becomes, for geographical reasons, a contender.

Twice in the past this country has elevated inept descendants of presidents to the highest office. John Quincy Adams was the son of the second president, Benjamin Harrison was the grandson of William Henry Harrison.

HOLLYWOOD—If you saw Vincent Price in "Service De Luxe" with Constance Bennett last year, you know he is a brunette. You think he is. That's because he is so tall—6 feet 4 inches.

How he came to "Victoria Regina" is an interesting tale. Hailing from St. Louis, Price went to Yale and finished there in 1933. He taught school briefly until he decided his pupils knew more than he did, then went abroad for further study—the history or art and politics.

Life's Darkest Moment

Meet Mr. Lochinvar

By Marie Blizard

Chapter 14 PREPARATIONS Cecily didn't want to think of the problem of Philip. She wanted to think of Locke.

"Yes," Olivia answered for him, "he's got to go to New York. Poor darling, and it's so dreadfully hot there. Gloria writes that she is simply languishing at Southampton."

"No, thank you," she said quickly. "I've some... some things to do today. Is Aunt Olivia going with you?"

"Of course, I am," Olivia broke in. "I've got to keep up my exercise. I'm not going to be one of those heavy-waisted contrabands."

"Don't talk nonsense, Philip. We want you to stay with us as long as you can. You're an ideal guest. I'd miss you if you were to leave us. And so would Cecily. Wouldn't you, dear?"

joyed handing him his hat and saying goodbye forever. "Then I shall surely return," Philip was saying.

"I'm afraid I'll have to leave on the morning train, my love. I've got to see my publishers Saturday. There's some question come up about my new book."

"No, thank you," she said quickly. "I've some... some things to do today. Is Aunt Olivia going with you?"

"Of course, I am," Olivia broke in. "I've got to keep up my exercise. I'm not going to be one of those heavy-waisted contrabands."

"Meet me at three at the fork of the road," Locke had said. "What do you do for five long hours on Sunday?"

Then suddenly you discover it is two o'clock and you've only got an hour in which to put on your tweed skirt, your bright blue sweater. You tie a kerchief over your lacy hair and see, for the first time, that your face seems pretty to you.

"I used to eat six quarts of ice cream a day," the grinning, ebony-hued Robinson explained just before he headed for Hollywood. "Now I eat only four. It isn't doctor's orders. I'm in fine health, but I just figured I should be moderate about everything."

Bill says that was an exciting moment. Another he recalls with particular vividness was the night he was doing a dance on a Broadway stage and a rat, as big as a cat, crawled out onto the stage.

He is also a man who believes in dreams and he should. He frequently dreams about a new dance step, awakens in the middle of the night and gets up then and there and perfects the step he has been dreaming about.

Washington Daybook

WASHINGTON—Just as Washington is preparing for the international conference here early in September on the German exile question, there comes a report of what happened to a band of American exiles driven abroad by one of our own tragedies—the Civil war.

Of the hundreds of southerners who went to South America after the Civil war, most were absorbed into the Latin American communities to which they emigrated. But a sordid tale is told of one community of confederate exiles who attempted to found a settlement on the Amazon in Brazil.

The story comes from Willis C. Burdett, U. S. consul general in Rio de Janeiro. Villa Americana was founded in the rich Sao Paulo district of southern Brazil.

"Most of them prospered and lived happily," says Burdett. "The families and descendants of this old confederate breed (mostly from Texas and Alabama) have scattered through Brazil, many to take distinguished roles in the life of the nation. Most of them are Brazilian citizens but a few retain American citizenship. Several dentists and an outstanding surgeon in Rio de Janeiro, Dr. Franklin Pyles, are proud to claim Villa Americana origin."

"To the Villa Americana colonists is ascribed the introduction into Brazil of dentists and watermelons, but the colony can be credited with many less tangible contributions to Brazilian progress."

Yet sad was the fate of another colony, Santarem, 600 miles up the Amazon. It was in one of the unhealthiest, fever-ridden parts of the world. Many of the exiles, without adequate tools and unprepared for jungle life, moved 1,500 miles southward to Villa Americana.

"Santarem colony dropped into obscurity," says Burdett. "The odds were too great. Too determined to give up, the settlers were decimated by tropical disease. The survivors married into Brazilian families, and finally all trace of the colony, as a colony, vanished."

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—The heat waves dropped across Harlem and he had to cut down on his daily quota of six quarts of ice cream, so Bill Robinson boarded a tram car the other day for the cooling sands of California. Incidentally, a secondary reason for deserting the Harlem of which he is unofficial mayor was to flutter his flying feet in his next movie.

Robinson's breakfast is ice cream and hot biscuits. His lunch is ice cream. His dinner is ice cream and steak. It must be good for him because on his 60th birthday recently he ran backwards, for 60 blocks down Broadway and wasn't even winded, while a lot of us younger fellows who ran forwards the same distance with him were puffing like exhausted whales.

Bill danced over to the wings, whispered to a stage hand to hand him a club used backstage to lighten ropes that pulled up the curtains. With club in hand, Bill danced back to the center of the stage and whanged the rat over the head, killing him instantly.

Garner Up Early To Take A Look Around His Home Place At Uvalde

UVALDE, Aug. 8 (AP)—Cactus Jack Garner, the nation's No. 3 man, was up early today to find out how his spacious grounds and poultry had fared during his extended sojourn in Washington.

He was interested, too, in where the fish were biting but declined to give political angles even a tempting nibble about his views on governmental problems and his presidential possibilities.

"I'm mighty glad to get out of governmental affairs for awhile," the vice president told a small group of neighbors after he slipped into Uvalde. He left a train at San Antonio and motored here with his fishing partner-crony, Ross Brumfield, a garage operator.

Several neighbors were waiting at the large two-story home and others dropped by before the vice president's 9 o'clock bedtime.

But most of the townfolk, knowing his dislike for fanfare, were content to wait until they saw him in the regular course of things.

During the 37 years Garner has commuted between Washington and Uvalde, this little southwestern city has accustomed itself to his homecoming—becoming excited only once, after his nomination for the vice presidency in 1932.

To come and go without any sort of show is what taciturn Cactus Jack wants and his townsmen have respected his wishes.

It didn't take Garner long after he and Mrs. Garner arrived to forsake the customs of official Washington. He shed his coat and collar and gave the premises a hasty inspection before nightfall.

Spotting a healthy young peach tree he remarked to Mrs. Garner, "We ought to get some peaches off that one next year."

Recent rains broke a serious drought. "Things are looking fine," he remarked to R. C. Jordan, member of the staff of the Uvalde weekly newspaper. "I'm beginning to wonder whether we ever had that drought you talked so much about in the paper."

It was a good bet Cactus Jack would be doing some of his famous camp cooking before long on a fishing expedition but he declined to say when that would be.

"Wait until I get a chance to see what home looks like and how many things need attending to around here," he parried.

CALLED TO WRECK, TREATS OWN WIFE

DALLAS, Aug. 8 (AP)—Dr. E. Randolph, emergency hospital superintendent, told the ambulance driver to "step on it" when they made a wreck call last night. "Somebody may be badly hurt."

Mrs. Randolph, the physician's wife, was one of two women injured in the collision. She was treated for shock.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 8 (AP)—William Helms, 35, held in the slaying of Mrs. Jenn Wallace, 26, was given little chance by County General hospital attendants today to recover from three self-inflicted bullet wounds.

JOKE WAS COSTLY

LONDON, Aug. 8 (AP)—John Hillery, a wedding guest, thought it would be funny to hide the motorcycle the bride and bridegroom planned to use for a honeymoon trip—but the joke backfired.

1. Driving a vehicle while under the influence of drink.
 2. Taking the machine without the consent of the owner.
 3. Using it without insurance policy, and
 4. Having no driver's license.
- Since the bride was Hillery's sister, he got off with a $9 fine.
