

Judges Say Martial Law Plea 'Subterfuge'

Home Town Talk
by Betty

We are grateful for the following letter, received today:
Please state in the paper our thanks to city officials and others including yourself for their whole-hearted support in relieving the unemployment situation here. We realize the city has given work to the needy really when they didn't have ample funds for it. To these big-hearted men and other that have helped we hope that the New Year will be filled with many good things of life for them and their families and when the old world of hardships is over that the Great Creator of all things will look upon their deeds and be pleased.
C. M. Phillips,
R. T. Campbell,
Committee

Remember when you used to get up about 4 a. m. and drive until long after nightfall to get to Fort Worth by automobile? In those days you followed the T. & P. all the way. When you got to Strawn you continued right on down the bottom through Mingus, Brazos, Millspaw to Weatherford. You didn't loop northward via Palo Pinto and Mineral Wells.

You didn't go via the Desert City, unless you wanted to resort a little and take a rest and a lot of that good water for your health—simply because it was out of the way. You went the shortest route.

Now, with paving all the way along that old route except between Strawn and Millspaw do you go about 20 miles further in order to have a paved road all the way to Fort Worth.

When we advocate the paving of that stretch from near Strawn to Millspaw, thus cutting 20 miles off the distance from Dallas and Fort Worth to all points westward along the Broadway of America, we do so simply and solely because we believe it would be beneficial and convenient for Big Spring.

No, sir! Not because we dislike Mineral Wells or Palo Pinto, or Strawn, Breckenridge, Albany, Cadde or that famous highway junction—Metcalf Gap.

But to our way of thinking the paving of that strip from Strawn to Millspaw would be of more benefit to more people in Texas, as well as throughout the nation, than any other stretch of paving that could be built in Texas.

Another thing; when motorists reach Mineral Wells and continue their westward journey they often keep on a route north of the main artery of Highway No. 1, turning off at Metcalf Gap and continuing along Highway 1-A to Albany. And when they get that far, if they're trans-state travelers or bound to points on the lower South Plains, they often keep right on along the Dal Paso or No. 83 route via Anson, Roby, Snyder, Lamesa and into New Mexico.

It would be beneficial to us if that strip were built, thus shortening the distance about 20 miles. We ought to advocate it in any way possible, without, however, any spirit of animosity toward any town that might be damaged by construction of the road.

In a case like this it is every man for himself.

Just stroll around: there's a young preacher who in his 25 years has served a term in the legislature and worked considerably at the printer's trade; an oil operator who is still wildcating hereabouts; and although he has made a good deal of money, once just barely missed several millions because a large concern beat him to the owner of a certain lease; a waitress who wears her clothes as gracefully as any woman in town; L. A. Eubanks, who has been a college burser, a breeder of nationally famous bulldogs, a coffee salesman, is one of the best hunters and fishermen in this country, and who now is one of the best Retail Credit men in the nation; Jesse Maxwell, basketball star at Alabama U. in his home town of Tuscaloosa, who took to the air in Texas and has gotten to be a great booster for Big Spring as manager of her airport; a new citizen who served as major of intelligence in the world war, publishing a large newspaper for soldiers—Hal Atsworth; does Ray Wilcox ever worry about anything? a doctor who as a kid shipped from Galveston on a freighter and took a look at a lot of European ports—Jim Dillard.

CITIZEN OF BIG SPRING

JAMES ROBT. DILLARD, M. D.

While A. C. Williamson, scout executive for Buffalo Trails Area, was in New York City studying boy scout training, he met a young Texan who was doing his intern year in a New York hospital.

About five years later the two met again in Big Spring. Williamson had become an area executive and the young Texan was practicing medicine with the firm of Hall, Bennett and Dillard.

The friendship began in New York was continued and Dr. Dillard was enlisted in the Boy Scout work in West Texas. Today he is vice-president of the Buffalo Trails Council and president of the local council.

Dr. Dillard found life interesting even in college, when he attended the University of Texas, first at Austin and later the Medical School at Galveston. He played tackle on the Shortborn football team his first year in college.

One summer he shipped on a freighter to Europe and toured England, France, Belgium, having just the kind of vacation—everybody dreams of. Later when he was in New York and wanted to come to Texas and the funds were lacking, he worked his way down on a sulphur boat.

For a doctor, he is unusually civic-minded. He was first president of the Kiwanis Club, in which he is very active. He was one of the organizers of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and is on the board of directors.

His hobbies range from antique furniture to guns. He has even been known to make a gun stock himself and according to the best authorities the gun has been the destruction of several Howard county rabbits, and West Texas quail, although it is really a deer gun.

Governor Sterling, General Wolters and Adjutant General Bill Sterling are defending an injunction suit brought by E. Constantine and J. D. Wraether, who have been contending that restriction was only incidental to preventing riots.

Improper service on two defendants is expected to delay the trial of all cases until the March term of court.

The members who attended the meeting of the City Federation Tuesday declared that it was one of the most instructive and interesting sessions of the season, due to Mrs. Woodward's elucidation of state laws affecting women and Miss Helen Swift's presentation of the local problem affecting the county home demonstration agent.

After Miss Swift's talk, the meeting was turned into an open forum with the members asking questions regarding the situation.

The business session was given over to the reports of committees. Miss Verbena Barnes turned in her resignation as librarian. The president appointed the following committee to commence a membership drive: Meses. C. W. Cunningham, E. O. Ellington, C. K. Bivings and L. L. Freeman.

It was asked that any City Federation member who can attend the cornerstone ceremonies in Austin on Jan. 11 notify Mrs. Fisher, who will see that she gets the proper credentials, entitling her to these courtesies.

Violinist To Play Here Friday Reveals A Romantic Career

CHRISTIAN THAULOW

As romantic as any fiction, is the story of Chris Thaulow the young Norwegian violinist who is to appear here Friday afternoon at 3 at the high school auditorium in a concert program under the sponsorship of the high school P. T. A. How he came to America with money in the bank, lost every penny, worked as a butler, and yet turned his misfortunes into a stroke of good luck, is a story to rival the adventures of a Horatio Alger hero.

Thaulow owns an exquisite violin, one of the ten Strads in the world. It was in the family before he was born and it hasn't left sight since. At the lowest ebb of his fortunes, when he slept in Central Park, it was the pillow under his head. When he was penniless and could have sold it for a small fortune, he kept it with him, hoping for better luck but never once considering parting with the beloved instrument. When he was—but that's ahead of the story.

Thaulow's home is in Norway. His father was a famous artist. Young Chris began studying music at an early age and at the age of fourteen he began conducting orchestras in Christiania and Paris. A few years later he went to Russia to study with the great Leopold Auer, teacher of Elman, Zimbalist, Heifetz, and other noted violinists and later became Auer's assistant instructor.

Six years ago, he came to America. With a letter of credit from a bank in Norway in his pocket and a violin under his arm he landed in New York.

He caught a taxi and drove to a bank to present his letter of credit only to learn that the Norwegian bank had failed and his fortune was gone. He was penniless—not even enough money to pay the taxi waiting outside.

He had no prospects for a job for he didn't have enough money to join the musicians union. Then is when he slept in Central Park with the violin under his head.

"I finally got a job by Shubert Show and went with it as far as Philadelphia, but was kicked out because I could not sing and tap dance," Thaulow recalls, laughing. And there he was stranded again.

Standing before the Philadelphia Athletic club one day, he saw a beautiful Minerva limousine, exactly like the one he had owned in Norway. Walking up to the chauffeur, he asked, "Where could I get a job like the one you have here?"

"You can have the one I have here if you like it," the chauffeur replied. "I'm quitting."

And he got the job. He was combination butler and chauffeur for the millionaire owner of the limousine. He speaks perfect without the least trace of an accent, and called himself James Burke, rather than work in that capacity under his own name. Although his duties did not include dusting, each day he would slip into the library and ostensibly dust the mantelpiece while gazing at the painting above—his father's canvases.

While not on duty he practised and one day his employer, passing down the hall heard him playing and entered.

"James," he said, "I didn't know that you were a violinist. I'm having a 'stag' party tonight here. Will you play for my guests?"

"James" consented and that night still in his butler's dress, he stepped before the guests to play. One of the company offered to accompany him. The violinist placed the music on the piano before him and pointed out a difficult turn in the selection.

The pianist turned on him: "Since when do butlers instruct me in the playing of a composition?" the pianist asked indignantly.

"I'm sorry," Burke apologized.

Finishing his solo the butler returned to the pantry to mix cocktails when someone stepped from behind and addressed him in Norwegian, calling him by his correct name, Thaulow.

"I don't understand you," Burke replied. "I am English and my name is James Burke."

"Oh, no, it isn't," smiled the man. "Your name is Chris Thaulow. I heard you play before the king and queen of Norway. Whatever are you doing here working as a butler?"

And then the story came out. His inquirer was the secretary to the piano accompanist, who in turn was one of the outstanding conductors of New York and Philadelphia. The conductor became interested in Thaulow and gave him a job in his orchestra. Shortly thereafter Chris became interested in radio and began arranging programs for NBC and Columbia chain broadcasts, and later scored several Vitaphone pictures.

Thaulow is an exceedingly handsome young man and exceedingly modest. He is reticent about speaking about himself and his adventures. Mrs. Thaulow is also of Norwegian descent and they have been married for five years, although knowing each other for fifteen. Thaulow speaks eleven languages and Mrs. Thaulow or "Penny" as she is called, speaks seven.

"I love Texas and enjoy playing before Texas audiences. I had rather live in this state than in any other part of America," Thaulow said.

Rev. Smith Is Club Speaker

Interesting Address Given By Missionary To Brazil

Regular weekly luncheon of the Big Spring Rotary Club was held Tuesday noon in the Settles ballroom with a good attendance. The program, in charge of the Community Service committee, J. B. Pickle, chairman, was featured by an intensely interesting lecture on Brazil by Rev. Harley Smith, Baptist missionary to that country, residing at Porto Alegre, Brazil. Rev. and Mrs. Smith are visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Morrison of this city. Rev. Smith is preaching at the East Fourth Baptist church in a series of meetings.

In the course of his lecture, Rev. Smith told of the many scenic beauties of that country, its possibilities, citing the many advantages that the United States had if their trading channels were directed more to Brazil.

"There are twenty states in all representing the United States of Brazil," said Rev. Smith, several of them being much larger than the state of Texas. At the present time, he said, a critical political situation is facing these states. There are two or three states now threatening secession because of political upheaval.

As To Tariff

Mr. Smith said that he believed the present tariff wall thrown up by the United States of America is having much to do with the present depression in this country. The Brazilian country affords many opportunities for business, in agriculture and cattle especially. The coffee industry is one of the chief products raised there, along with much cotton.

The other countries of South America, Argentina, Uruguay, Paraguay and others also afford many possibilities. The speaker told of the breaking of diplomatic relations between Uruguay and Argentina over a football rivalry existing between teams of the two countries. Uruguay has one of the best teams which won the international championship, and when they beat Argentina, the latter country promptly "cut off" their diplomatic relations, according to Mr. Smith's story.

In closing his lecture the speaker asked if any one present desired to ask any questions he would gladly answer them. A general round table discussion was had, and many questions dwelling on that country were answered by the speaker. The lecture was thoroughly enjoyed by the club.

Mrs. Bruce Frazier, in charge of music for the club, assisted by E. E. Fahrenkamp, led two songs, "Spirit of Rotary," and "Rotary Marching Song."

Steers Enter Colorado Meet

Locals Meet Nolan in First Round; Defeat Colorado

Big Spring, Abilene, Sweetwater, and Anson resigned as joint favorites to come through to the championship of the Colorado Invitational Basketball tournament, to be held in Colorado High School gym, as plans for the tourney were completed and 29 teams composed the entry list. The Steers are cast in the toughest bracket, the upper, but should have clear sailing in the first round with Nolan. The game will be played at 7:00 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Cast in the upper bracket along with the Steers are the Abilene Eagles and the Anson Tigers, with Abilene meeting Sterling City in the first round and Anson facing Jatan. The winner of the latter contest will be the opponent of the winner of the Big Spring-Nolan fracas in the second round while Abilene or Sterling City will meet the triumphant club of the Bronte-Dowd pairing. In the lower bracket Colorado clashes with Trent and will meet the winner of the Sweetwater-Lorraine contest.

Two other Howard county schools, Coahoma and Lomax, are also among the entries. The Bulls meet busy at 10:15 Thursday evening while Miss Phillips' blue-clad Hornets play Westbrook at 7:30 Friday morning. The winners of the two brackets will meet in the second round.

George Brown's charges put their ninth consecutive win behind them as the Steers romped to a 31 to 12 decision over the Colorado Wolves Tuesday night and sent local basketball stock soaring up above par as their best defensive play of the season held the visitors to five field goals. Floyd Forrest, was especially a standout on the defense, breaking up several plays, and sinking two long goals to score four points.

David Hopper tightened the scoring race between himself and J. C. Morgan, his running mate, by tallying thirteen points to the latter's ten during the evening to take undisputed possession of scoring honors. Stagner, lanky Colorado center, scored four goals from the floor to compile three-fourths of his team's points while Church, burly guard, was the outstanding floorman for Hardy Pierce's team.

The Bovines outplayed the Wolves throughout the game, leading 10 to 2 at the end of the first quarter, 18 to 7 at the half, 24 to 11 at the beginning of the fourth period, and increasing their margin in the last quarter as the visitors were held to a single point, a free toss by Barnett, a substitute forward.

South America's Sky Pilot

The Rev. Harley Smith, of Brazil, Used Airplanes To Cover His Vast Territory

Missionary work has entered a new phase in South America; the sky pilot has become a reality.

Harley Smith, evangelist, teacher to the Brazilians under the auspices of the Southern Baptist Missionary board and husband to one of the Bagby girls, members of the famous Bagby family of Brazil, gave an interview to The Daily Herald Tuesday, telling of a trip he had made by hydroplane to a church 300 miles distant.

He went to the largest airport in South America, which was situated in his own city, Porto Alegre, Brazil, whose airline has direct connections with the United States. He traveled by weight. When he weighed at the station, he tipped the scales, he said, at the average tonnage and paid his fare. Somehow by the time he had reached the hydroplane on the field, he seemed to have gained a few pounds; at any rate when they weighed him just before allowing him to enter the ship, he weighed more than in the station and so had to pay excess baggage on those extra pounds.

His work takes him all over Brazil according to all the accepted modes of travel, horseback, fording, and railways. One of his most difficult problems is, he said, matching politeness for politeness in return for the hospitality of the native in Brazil.

SPORTS ON PARADE

By CURTIS BISHOP

From Friona, somewhere up among the vastness of the Panhandle, comes a letter from Bill Stevens, coach of the local athletes last year, to the effect that his eagars are going to be hard to stop this year, and that for verification unbelievers can inquire of the Amarillo Sandies, the Canyon Eagles, or the Clovis, New Mexico quintet, teams his proteges have defeated earlier in the practice season. Stevens says that his club will be very much in the Lubbock tournament Jan. 21 and 22, and that if the locals intend to get anywhere at all they had better arrange to be cast in an opposite bracket.

Stevens, you will remember, is the former A.C.C. star that instructed the Big Spring clubs in the delayed off-season, and did such a good job of it that even now the locals cannot resist an occasional desire to drop back and take things easy when the score is a little top-heavy in their favor. Such tactics enabled the Bovines to romp to a pair of championships last summer, but close observers declare that it also enabled a group of lads from a place called Yancy to eliminate the locals from the state cage race, which is after all the best race of 'em all. This year George Brown is bringing the boys down the court in a flashy style, and the top-heavy scores of the present season indicate the success of his teachings. Obie Bristow is to blame for most of it. He got into thinking lots of big scores during the football season.

From San Angelo comes an offer to wager the writer that the Bobcats will capture the championship of District 18 and will furthermore administer a thrashing to the cagers sometime during the course of the present season. As to the possibilities of the Angelo team winning the title of their own district we have nothing to say. After all that isn't such a hot district down there and to tell the truth Harry Taylor's team aren't so bad. In fact they're good on a waxed floor, and if the district tournament is played in the Angelo gym the Kittens should be able to romp to a title without experiencing more than casual difficulty, that is provided they don't forget to wax the floor on the eve of the final game. Great advantage, these slick floors.

Since the Sand Belt Basketball Association is no more as far as the Bovines are concerned it is doubtful if their and the Bobcats' paths will cross again during the season, but if the San Angelo team and the locals ever meet in the course of the many tournaments that George Brown's charges propose to enter this season we will be glad to enter into communication concerning the probability of a triumph for the Concho clan. In fact if we would be sure of such a wager every day or so we'd buy a Pierce-Arrow on the installment plan and go in for making nightly rounds of the cabarets in a big way. We might even buy the San Angelo paper and give Blondy Cross a raise. Put his salary way high where we couldn't afford to keep him.

J. C. Morgan is far ahead of the Bovine scores through the first 9 games of the season. Morgan through last night's game had

Embarrassing Politeness

Now the American or the German, he maintained, leaves a guest to his devices; but the Brazilian is over at his elbow, ready to serve.

At times this becomes embarrassing in the incident he related. He and two other men had traveled until 10 o'clock one night to reach their destination which was a poor man's home. When they reached it, the family awoke from their sleep; the wife cooked them a meal and the father ushered them into a very small room to sleep. Mr. Smith was given the bed but he ever saw another a bench and the third, the floor. Mr. Smith closed his tired eyelids had hardly said before he felt himself attacked on all sides by the largest and most ferocious bedbugs he had ever experienced in his travels. He had to abandon the situation, but how to do it gracefully was his problem.

At last he determined to leave the room as quietly as possible and sleep in the Ford. He had made himself comfortable there when he felt his foot being pulled emphatically by his host, who had heard him in the incident he related. "Trying to be polite, the Texan insisted that he wanted fresh air. But he could not fool his host. "Ah," murmured the Brazilian, "I am afraid those bedbugs were too much for you. But I know what to do."

They returned to the house and the host walked up the man on the bench who was part Indian and therefore accustomed to the friendly insects of the poorer classes, and put him to bed, giving Mr. Smith the bench; so they both slept soundly the remainder of the night.

On Furlough
 Mr. and Mrs. Smith and their two children, Helen Frances and Paul Eddy, on a year's furlough, arrived in the city Monday for week's stay. They will speak every evening this week at the East Fourth Street Baptist church, including the Sunday services.

Mrs. Smith, formerly Alice Bagby, was born in Brazil. Her parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Bagby, were the first missionaries to enter the state. They are both now over 70 but are making their home with Mr. and Mrs. Smith and are still in active work. Their two youngest children, Helen and Albert are also working in the Baptist American school, of which Mr. Smith is the director and head.

All five of Dr. Bagby's children are doing mission work in South America.

Texas of Brazil
 The city in which the Smiths are located is in the state of Rio Grande do Sul. It is said Mr. Smith, the Texas of Brazil, a large state in which all kinds of products are raised from watermelons and peaches to apples and bananas. It is becoming rapidly Americanized. Americans are taking over its street cars, its public utilities and the Ford plant, the GMAC installment plan and Case threshing ma-

Freshman History
Miss Clara Pool, Instructor

The first period class of History 13 did not bring little short of the impossible by having perfect attendance New Year's Day with all lessons prepared, and the attendance had to be brought up on paper. Wonder what power Miss Pool has over those poor freshmen? Anyway, someone certainly ought to get promoted for a thing like that. Hand all bouquets to Miss Pool, please!

Physics Laboratory
Mr. J. A. Coffey, Instructor

The physics class has been making blue prints of the magnetic fields of force. In case anyone is interested and this first sentence fails to register with you, this is accomplished by the use of magnets, glass plates, iron filings, blue paper, and sunlight in the proper mixture. The glass plate is placed on the magnet and the iron filings are sprinkled lightly over the surface of the glass. These filings are drawn to certain lines by the magnetic force. Next the glass plate is removed from the magnet without disturbing the iron filings and placed on a piece of blue print paper. This is then set in the sunlight and rays from the sun develop the blue print. The result shows the position of the magnetic lines of force, because where the iron filings covered the paper it is light and where it was exposed to the sunlight it has become dark.

Health Surveys of Tourist Camps

The location of this city on the Bankhead Highway has brought about the erection of a large number of tourist camps here than is usually the case in a town of this size. Few citizens are aware that the city still has 25 camps in operation, many of them containing permanent residents.

One of the most valuable achievements of the Public Health department, in the opinion of many of the town's citizens, is the work done in these camps. As Mrs. Showalter, public health nurse, says: "The mothers living in tourist camps are only reached through this channel. They do not attend P. T. A. meetings or other educational gatherings not because they are not interested in their families, but because their advantages have been few and they hesitate to appear in public. Many of these mothers, after being interviewed, have called the office for health material and sundry reasons."

During these interviews, she talked with 72 families, in which there were 19 infants, 41 children of preschool age and 40 school children.

Other meetings, reported by Mrs. Showalter in her annual report to the State Health department, included 27 vaccination conferences, since May, 1929, in which 621 have been vaccinated with 95 per cent "taking."

In addition to her diphtheria, smallpox and typhoid conferences she has given health talks to the following schools and clubs: Elbow, South, R-Bar, Veilmoor, Vincent, Fairview Overtons-East Ward, Fortson Senior High, Chalk, North Ward, Center Point, Junior High, Ackerly, Girls' Demonstration

Classes in Senior High; Negro School, Mexican, Rural May Day Rally, West Side girls, Coahoma county trustees meeting, Lion's Club and Midway P. T. A.

We have been noticing Mr. Matthews crowding the sidewalks downtown, but at the same time we noticed one less Ford in the traffic jam. Everybody must learn someday that telephone posts don't move even tho' a Big Spring Ford is headed that way. Now, don't be surprised if you notice a faculty member wearing "holy socks" or "patched trousers" because a Ft. Worth Wrecking House seems to be drawing all the "pay check."

We are sure that everyone missed Georgianna Touchstone from school January 1, because she had to go see her grandmother who was now ill in Sweetwater; Elizabeth Vick, who had company; Howard Schwarzenbach, who had to work; Viama Sanders, Bill Flowers and Janita Briggs, who were seriously ill; Lloyd Forrester, who was completely taken down by New Year's eve frolic; and Lillian Crawford and Florine Rankin, who had to work.

Use Of Study Helps Urged

Suggestions Repeated For Benefit of All Students

In the last issue of the "Wheel," there appeared an article on "Study Helps," prepared by our own teachers especially for the students. This was done for the students' benefit and was composed for the purpose of submitting a uniform plan of studying. Each teacher handed in his own particular idea of studying and all suggestions were united into one article. Students should take advantage of these hints and try to follow them out to some extent. They were made for your help by the work of the faculty and are now at your disposal. Certainly this article was not written for the teacher's health! They were for you!

There are twelve items included in the "Study Helps"; namely: Be certain that you prepare the correct assignment in scope, form and content; have study program; have proper study conditions and needed materials; make careful preparation of advanced assignment; do studying with vigor and determination; learn to do two kinds of reading; reading rapidly when seeking to find major points or to make a survey of the lesson and reading cautiously and critically such things as problems, rules or laws; avoid acquiring the habit of half mastery; hunt for key words, phrases, or sentences and master the full meaning of these; work independently; frame questions to test your preparation of a lesson; attempt to answer to yourself every question that is asked in class; and last, strive to excel.

All of these items are merely suggestions for your help. Adopt some of these and try to make them aid you in the coming year. One of the most important suggestions is to have a study program. If this is done, the others will take care of themselves to some extent. Lost time can never be made up!

Notes From Class Rooms

By STEVE D. FORD, JR.
Home Economics
Miss McElroy and Mrs. Brown, Instructors

From the foods laboratory comes the news that the first year girls are getting where they will eat their own cooking. In fact, they celebrate the finished dishes by serving them to the form of buffet lunches. Monday noon one section of the class served a buffet luncheon with Dorothy Frost acting as hostess. Tuesday noon the other section had a luncheon with Margaret Smith as hostess.

As most Seniors know we had some very good refreshments Thursday night at the watch party. These were prepared by the second year foods students, under the supervision of Miss McElroy.

Mrs. Brown's home room composed of clothing students has found a very worthy object for their help, a five year old girl, and are making her several dresses and furnishing her with food.

The first-year clothing girls have just completed their first dresses, which are for school wear, and some time during the coming week they are going to have their mothers in for class criticism.

Some full-year courses will be finished at Mid-Term and a few new semester courses will have to be offered after that time. Mr. Gentry, who is compiling a list of these courses now, would appreciate any suggestions of subjects by students and teachers.

What's your VERDICT?

Light up... Convince Yourself that Chesterfields Satisfy

FLIP OPEN a pack of Chesterfields! Help yourself to a cigarette... Light up... and let's get the facts.

Mister... you're dead right. They're milder! And when the cool, fresh Chesterfield smoke hits the taste-spot... there's no question about it... they do taste better!

It's no secret in tobacco circles that Chesterfield buys the finest tobaccos that grow... Turkish and Domestic... sun-ripened, mellow, pure!

Chesterfields are blended first... then cross-blended... to make them milder... and milder still! There's no mistaking that rare balance of flavor built up by

Cross-Blending. You enjoy it in every fragrant puff! Even the cigarette paper is different. Cleaner, whiter, tasteless... the purest that money can buy.

Listen, smokers... this is straight. You can't put taste in a cigarette... unless quality goes in, too.

You can taste the goodness in Chesterfields... actually tell the difference. But light up... and convince yourself.

Pass your verdict on Chesterfield's Radio Program, too! Nat Shilkret's 35-piece Orchestra with Alex Gray, soloist, are on the Columbia Network every night except Sunday, at 10:30 E. S. T.
