

Nurse May Give Motive For Slaying

Woman Decides To Talk After Barricading Against Officers

JERSEY CITY, Sept. 26 (AP)—Leonora Adveria Muttart, nurse, reported to have known two men having a motive for killing Benjamin Collings, agreed today to submit to questioning, after barricading herself in her apartment against police for hours while a crowd gathered in the street.

Finally the woman agreed to talk if she could be kept from contact with the public and the press. She left the apartment house swathed in blankets to prevent being photographed.

Collings was killed recently, then bound and thrown from his yacht. His widow said two men boarded the yacht, threw her husband overboard and kidnaped her. Officials have been unable to solve the case despite considerable investigation.

A legionnaire came forward today, voicing the deduction from comments in this column Friday, that the writer is 'against' the American Legion.

He is mistaken. The original purpose of the Legion, as we understand them, are fine. The fact that there is a definite place in America today for an organization of veterans of the World war is indisputable.

But, the deeper the Legion becomes entangled in various political or quasi-political issues, especially matters with a social or moral phase, such as prohibition, the more often it is due to be criticized.

The Big Spring post is a good one. Its activities have been consistently useful. Unknown to the public its officers and members do much for disabled ex-service men and their families. It is one of the finest things being done in the community.

The Legion has ample avenues of service to the nation without bothering with the multitude of political and purely economic matters before the public.

Briefly, it is our humble opinion that in matters pertaining to welfare of veterans and dissemination of its Americanization plans, the ex-service men should employ the strength that can be found only in organization. In matters purely political ex-service men can more wisely act as individual citizens without organized connection between their duties as citizens and their war service.

More and more the American people are taking notice of the most widely-discussed man in the world today, Mahatma Gandhi of India.

Will Rogers observes in today's Herald that Gandhi lives more like the Savior than any man of modern times.

Gradually the world is changing its idea of Gandhi. Once considered outside his own country as an eccentric old man with some pretty good ideas but more or less a 'fad' figure, he is coming to be considered one of the greatest leaders known to the modern world.

Victory for Gandhi would be of tremendous value to the world. We do not say this with the economic phases of his fight for India's autonomy in mind; nor in connection with its effect upon the British Empire.

Importance to the world at large, if and when Gandhi wins, lies in the fact that his victory would show to the world that passive resistance is better than the age-old theory that

Finds His Buried Gold, Loses It, Accuses Wife, She Sues, And Asks Cash Alimony

PATOKA, Ind., Sept. 26 (UP)—Harry Wheeler, section foreman, did not believe in banks. And so: He hid $1,000 in gold in one old sock and $275 in gold in another. He put a note telling where he had hidden the socks in his pocketbook.

He lost the pocketbook. Wheeler jogged his memory and went gold hunting. He found the sock containing $1,000 and placed it in his automobile. He couldn't find the other sock.

"Might be worse," he said, returning to the automobile. The sock with the $1,000 was gone. Wheeler ordered his son William arrested on suspicion.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (AP)—A four-billion-dollar chorus of workmen sweating over steel and masonry with a five-billion-dollar effect is in the vision of building men for a twelve-month period beginning October 1.

The five-billion-dollar effect grows out of the increased purchasing power of the 1931-32 dollar as compared with the 1929 dollar.

Gangster's Widow Victim Of Accident

Search For Scrivener And McCabe Shifts To St. Louis

DALLAS, Sept. 26 (AP)—Evading possible death at the hands of gangsters who killed her husband, Mrs. John Cherris, Dallas, met it in another form in an automobile accident near St. Louis September 6, if identification of body held there last night is correct.

John Cherris was slain the night of August 30. The body was dumped into the Brazos river. The next day Chester A. Jones and his wife were slain in an apartment in Houston.

DALLAS, Sept. 26 (AP)—Chief of Police Percy Howard and Detective Chief T. J. Irwin of Houston, conferred with Dallas officers today in connection with the Houston slayings, in which Dallas gangsters are believed to have been involved. It was expected they would go to St. Louis to view suspects.

Barney McOnegal and Jack Jones have been indicted for murder in connection with death of John Cherris. They are being held in Houston. McGonagal, said Cherris was killed after a quarrel with Chester Jones over money from the $27,000 robbery of a Memphis, Tennessee, bank last May.

The Jones couple was killed in retaliation by other members of the gang, he declared. He said he saw Del McCabe, Shilo Scrivener and Mrs. Cherris run from the Jones apartment the morning of the killing.

HOUSTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—Search for W. S. (Shilo) Scrivener and Del McCabe, sought for the slaying of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Jones in their apartment here August 23 centered today in St. Louis.

The body of a woman, killed in an accident at Boone Terrell, near St. Louis, September 6, has been identified tentatively as that of Mrs. Lola Nelson Cherris, wife of John Cherris, for whose death police believe Jones was killed. The body of the woman was sent to a sister here.

The trio, forced down when their gasoline supply became exhausted during an attempted flight from Portugal to New York, clung desperately to the wreckage of their plane for seven days.

Situation In Manchuria Is More Chaotic

Proposition Of Breaking Province Into Two States Opposed

TOKYO, Sept. 26 (AP)—The tangled Manchurian situation was complicated yesterday by Japanese occupation of the South Manchurian railway zones and the transfer of the capitol for the three eastern provinces from Mukden to Chinchow. The further twist today was due to divisionist agitators.

The Japanese government stated to officials that it found no favor in proposals breaking Manchuria up into two more independent states, and that Chinese and Mongolian interests made little proposals.

Will Rogers' Latest Picture Opening At Ritz Theatre

Fifi Dorsay Shines With Leading Man
Cowboy Humorist Becomes Real Beau Brummel Upon Screen

Will Rogers and Fifi Dorsay are together again!

Remember them in the Fox comedy production, "They Had To See Paris?"

This time their hilarious antics are performed right here in America and form an important part of the example Will Rogers sets for his two pleasure seeking business neglecting sons in "Young As You Feel," his latest Fox starring triumph directed by Frank Borzage, which will begin its local run today at the Ritz theatre.

The reunion of Will and Fifi when the picture was first begun was a happy day for Fifi, as the vivacious comedienne has never forgotten the joy she got out of working with the famous wit and humorist in their first picture. She also remembers that "They Had To See Paris" was not only her first appearance in a Fox picture, but the film which started her up the ladder leading to screen fame. Another cause for Fifi's jubilation was the thought that once more she would be working under the direction of Frank Borzage who directed "They Had To See Paris" as well as such outstanding screen hits as "Th Heaven," "Song O' My Heart," "Lilium" and "Doctors Wives."

"Young As You Feel" is the screen version of George Ade's popular stage success, "Father and The Boys."

The screen story, which was adapted in continuity and dialog by Edwin Burke, presents Rogers as a woe-begone and dyspeptic widower confronted with the problem of getting his two spirited sons settled down to matrimony and business. His rigid economies and good conduct falling, he takes the advice of Fifi, who essays the role of Fleurette, a vivacious French dancer, and begins to lead a gay life, in search of a good time for himself. This plan he believes will bring the sons to their senses and his idea works, thanks to Fifi, and after six weeks of hilarity, during which time he regains the natural humor and buoyancy of his youth, he has the satisfaction of seeing both sons marry the girls of his choice and begin to look upon business seriously.

Rogers' role in this new Fox production is vastly different than anyone he has portrayed on the screen to date and critics who have already seen the photoplay say it is by far the popular comedian's best characterization, exceeding in droll humor his "Sir Boss" in "The Connecticut Yankee," and his "Bill Jones" in "Lightnin'". And here is something for Rogers' fans to think about. In the picture, their favorite goes ultra modern in dress, making several changes of costume, which includes evening clothes, topper,

Donald Dillaway, Lucile Browne, Terrance Ray and Rosalie Roy portray the quartette of young lovers seen in the picture. Another well known player in the well balanced supporting cast is Lucien Littlefield, eminent character actor, who has a featured role, that of Mr. Marley, Rogers' old fogey office manager, who believes his employer's remuneration is a new form of insanity.
Other plays who have important parts are C. Henry Gordon and John T. Murray.

Queen Picture Has A Double Appeal

One thing which critics have pointed out as unique about "Kiss Me Again" is to be shown at the Queen Wednesday and Thursday, its appeal to both men and women. Usually a film is rated either as a "man's picture" or a "woman's picture," but so gaily and tenderly worked out is the love story, and so varied are the scenes between a modiste's shop and the lives of French soldiers in their cafes and their camps in Algeria, that "Kiss Me Again" has throughout the country drawn audiences composed almost equally of men and women.

"Africa Speaks" To Be At Queen For Two Days

Demands for a return engagement of "Africa Speaks" which was shown at a midnight preview at the Ritz several months ago has led the management of local Hughes-Franklin theatres to book the picture for Friday and Saturday at the Queen.
In Africa women are considered as property, and are sold and traded as such. Girls are usually placed on the market when at the marriageable age, which is from twelve to sixteen years. So says Paul L. Hoefler, noted explorer, who recently made a remarkable trek across the dark continent armed with a motion picture camera and sound equipment. The results of Hoefler's efforts are shown in "Africa Speaks."

All Teams Except Cardinals Quit Trying To Win After They Learned They'd Have To Play Athletics In World Series

Well all I know is just what I read in the papers. With Almee marrying out here a couple of weeks ago, there just didn't leave much else to be said. They hadn't any more than finished saying "I Do" till the breach of promise suits commenced pouring in. Poor Ma Kennedy she hadn't got the bridal veil off till old Wives commenced showing up all over the country. It looked like she had married a professional marrier.

Well her and old "Whatman" was just kinder getting their license straightened out when Almee grabs a Baritone, one of those old Choir loves. Well then everybody that has ever slept through Church started in saying he had deceived em in some part of the country or other. One was a Nurse and she claimed that she was an old flame of his when she wasnt nursing. Why dont they let the woman alone? She does a lot of good with her church. She is what every Preacher in America wants to and is trying to be, and that a good showman. She has got some kind of a musical show on at her church now, based on the Bible, and this old Boy she married is Pharaoh and they got the stage or pulpit all littered up with Bull rushes, and Girls. But its good clean wholesome entertainment, if you dont get any religion out of it is keeps you out of some other devilmint.

Next to Almee the biggest headliner lately has been this little fellow Gandhi. He just blew into London with nothing on but a Diaper and he has had the whole British Empire bringing sticks out of the water for him. They look on him over in India as almost a second God and I guess he does come near living and acting like our Savior than any one else ever did. He is different from Almee, she believes in the Lord but she believes in some luxuries along with it. She dont deny herself anything. While this Gandhi he actually lives like our Savior. He couldn't figure out England being so hard up, and yet spending so much money.

Relatives Return From Funeral For Rodeo Performer

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Sinclair and daughter, Mrs. Winford White, have returned home from the funeral in Fort Worth of Harvey Cash, well-known rodeo performer who was killed while riding a horse in an Ardmore, Okla., arena. Mrs. Cash is a niece of Mrs. Sinclair.

The rodeo arena, which gave Josephine Hudson her cowboy sweetheart three years ago, robbed her of him and left fatherless a 5-week-old baby girl. The fatal accident occurred almost directly in front of where Mrs. Cash and baby and her sister, Miss Christine Hudson, were sitting.

Three years ago, when Josephine Hudson was 15, she was peering through the arena bars at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show in Fort Worth when her head became caught between the rods. Cash, inside the arena saw her predicament and freed her.

This was the beginning of a romance that culminated in the couple's marriage a year ago.

They made their home on a ranch just south of Tulsa, Okla.

English Naval "Unrest"

If the ghosts of Nelson's sailors could come rolling back to such English naval bases as Portsmouth and Rosyth they would probably conclude sadly that modern seamen are a bunch of softies.

In this verdict they would be a great deal less than fair. But the recent stories of "unrest" in the British fleet due to pay reduction contrast oddly with the trouble that the navy of Nelson's day put up with.

For minor infractions of the rules he could be, and was, flogged within an inch of his life. Many sailors died under the lash; the famous sentence, to be flogged "through the fleet," was equivalent to a sentence to death by prolonged torture.

So, at Spithead, more than 130 years ago, the English navy mutinied. The mutiny was suppressed, the ringleaders were hanged, the worst abuses were corrected—and less than a decade later the navy proved its mettle by the victory of Trafalgar.

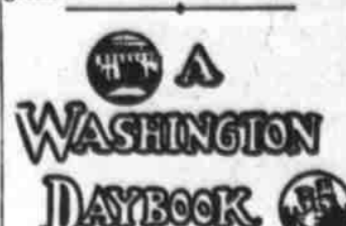

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

Nepotism In Congress

Houston Post-Dispatch: GEORGE FREDERIC NEIBERG, writing in the current issue of the Atlantic, is willing to admit that in a single instance, when a congressman and his clerical help have identical names, it may not prove anything. But the record shows that 115 congressmen have clerks bearing names the same as their own.

Editorial hire for the members of the two houses, and those in position to know assert that the greater part of that amount is collected by relatives of senators and representatives.

Perhaps that is one reason why it is next to impossible to get an anti-nepotism bill through congress.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—Taking everything into consideration, the senate of the seventy-second congress has every indication of holding on to its reputation of being a body of well dressed men.

Of course, the famous claret colored vest that Cole Vestal of South Carolina often wore with a gray business suit and which reminded one of the much of the old "purparchy" of the south will be missing.

But J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois will be back in all his sartorial splendor to supply what color departed from the senate with "Coley."

And Tom Hefflin of Alabama with his winter ensemble of voluminous dark cutaway set off with cream colored vest and dark gray trousers also will be gone.

But word comes from South Dakota that "Bill" Burlew will come down for his first term with a white ten-gallon hat the like of which the capital has not seen since Calvin Coolidge added one of similar proportions to his wardrobe while vacationing in the Black Hills.

THERE'LL BE COLOR

"Doc" Copeland of New York can always be counted on to add a dash of color with his bright red carnation that he habitually wears in his buttonhole.

"Young Bob" LaFollette of Wisconsin never fails to approach the senatorial summits. His matched blue shirt and collar effect are certain to delight the observant ones in the gallery.

"Cam" Morrison of North Carolina, since he first entered the senate, has carried on the tradition begun by his predecessor, the late Senator Overman, as looking the part of a senator.

Yet with it all, senators of today fail to dress the part that once they did. Most of them follow the way of personal taste in clothes.

One has never been known to appear wearing plus fours. That is one touch yet lacking.

FEW ARE FORMAL

Probably most of them own cut-away suits, but few show any marked fondness for the more formal attire. Jim Watson of Indiana wears his often, as do Shortridge of California, Robinson of Arkansas and Ashurst of Arizona.

But none is perhaps quite as consistent in this respect as were Bruce of Maryland, Burton of Ohio and Sherman of North Carolina.

Women of Wyoming, father-in-law of General Pershing, was picturesque on the senate floor. Almost invariably he was clad in a long black coat of almost frock coat appearance.

Occasionally he would wear a bright red tie which, with his blue starred Congressional Medal of Honor, relieved the combers of his outfit.

BY FREEMAN LINCOLN

SYNOPSIS: Two men love Sam Sherrill—Peak Abbott, owner of the Express, and Freddy Munson, reporter on the same newspaper. She wants to marry Abbott because she needs money, but she loves Freddy. Peak asks her to marry him, on a business basis.

"You're silent for a time. Then Eugene said, almost shyly: 'Life is a funny thing, isn't it?'"

"I suppose it is." "It's really awfully funny when you stop to think of it. Take us, for instance. You have a nice family and lots of nice friends, but you're unhappy because you haven't enough money. With me it's the other way round."

"What do you mean?" "I mean that I have plenty of money, and I'm terribly unhappy. 'Unhappy?' Fourth stared at her incredulously.

"Yes," she nodded. "I'm that way because I haven't any family, and I haven't any friends—not the kind of friends you have, Mr. Aldersa. That's what I mean by its being so funny about you and me. Each of us has something the other wants and hasn't got."

"My flowers? Oh, I took them off." Sam glanced at her shoulder where the spray of orchids had been, and then up at Peak, her eyes wide and dark. "They got crushed—somehow."

On New Year's afternoon Fourth Aldersa gloomily took himself off to pay his respects to Eugenia Frye. Fourth was not happy in his pilgrimage, for he felt that his self-respect suffered with every visit to this most profitable customer.

It was not that the rich widow was herself, to blame. Eugenia Frye bought books in greater quantity than all the rest of Fourth's customers put together.

He realized, however, that salesmanship played no part in the matter. It was obvious that the interest lay not at all in books, but rather in the man who sold them. On New Year's afternoon Fourth was particularly perturbed. He told Eugenia frankly of his fall from wealth to poverty, and he dealt convincingly with the many humiliations and poverty entailed.

Eugenia, a stout, middle-aged lady in an expensive, unbecoming dress, clucked in sympathy. "It's a shame. An outright shame!" Fourth drew a long breath. "It is all of that. Consider, for instance, my present position. The mortgage interest in my house falls due on the fifteenth of this month. I can't meet it, and I see no way to meet it, my daughter, my son, and myself will be without a place to live."

Our "End Depression" Prices

$4.98 for a Genuine Goodrich Tire ($4.80 in pairs)

"End Depression" is no joke, either. There's no depression around here since we priced genuine Goodrich Tires, made by the oldest and most experienced tire manufacturer, down as low as $4.98!

Just think of it—less than a five-dollar bill for the size that would have cost you eighteen or twenty dollars ten years back. And this is twice the tire you would have got then, too. No wonder people are loosening up—we predict that they won't match this value if they wait ten years more.

The name Goodrich is right on the sidewall of the Cavalier. By actual test it's a 26% better tire. More mileage, more traction. The handsomest tire you ever put on your car. Come in now.

Woman's Make-up Aids In Jungle Says Mrs. Johnson

CHICAGO, (INS)—A rifle may fill an important need along the elephant trails of the African jungle, but the powder pull, lip stick and rouge pot are equally essential to the woman explorer.

This was the assertion of Mrs. Martin Johnson, famous explorer who just returned to the city from her tenth trip into the heart of the African jungle and the haunts of the gorillas and pygmies.

"Why, I'd just as soon leave my rifle at home as my compact," she declared. "A woman is always a woman whether she is on Michigan boulevard or in the African jungle. To know that she's made up right gives her confidence and courage which every explorer needs."

"Beauty aids also have a practical value in the jungle. Natives like to watch a woman 'make up,' and cosmetics of the civilized world arouse their curiosity. This interest, speaks them friendly, and they have their own 'kar paint,' you know."

"Even in the realm of music we are not so much different from the jungle savages. Often Mr. Johnson and I have listened to their queer music, and we must admit that the strains are not much different from American jazz."

In describing her contacts with herds of gorillas, Mrs. Johnson's tone changed. These meetings are not so pleasant. On discovering a herd of these great apes, the bouncer or fighter of the group at ways would make a center rush for the explorers. Generally he was the "granddaddy" of the herd standing seven feet tall and weighing 700 pounds. His hands are as large as a telephone directory, and his fingers are two inches thick.

Rushing to within ten feet of the explorers, he would stand still, scream "like a hundred women in the grip of hysterics" and then pound his chest with a thud that could be heard for a block. With this challenge he would rush back to his herd and lead them off into the jungle.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson recently arrived in America after a two-year journey in Africa where they made sound pictures of gorillas, pygmies and jungle animals. For several months they will be occupied with writing and lecturing. Later they expect to return to Africa for further exploration.

Several matters of business were decided upon. Chief among these was the matter of the scouts going to camp next summer. The troop decided to start a permanent camp fund with each boy bringing at least five cents to each meeting and as much more as he wishes to. He will be given credit for each deposit until the full fee has been placed in the troop fund.

It was voted to join with troop 3 for an overnight hike the first Friday in October.

A rating plan, classifying the scouts as "dead heads," "lame ducks," and "live wires" will be put into effect immediately. Each scout must pass at least one test each month to stay in the "live wire" class. If he misses one month he is demoted to the "lame ducks" and when he fails twice he goes to the "dead head" group.

A basketball team will be organized within a short time and the troop served notice to the other troops of the town that the city championship "belongs" to No. 1.

The troop is being perated on the patrol system with each patrol having charge of a meeting each month. George Thomas' patrol will have the meeting next Friday.

Walter Smith, leader for this week kept things moving in a live manner after the business session with such games and "Stealing the bacon" and "whip the kaiser."

The troop was dismissed with the Scout Oath.

Present at the meeting were: Clifton Ferguson, Sam Petty, Jimmie Ford, Steve Ford, George Thomas, Richard Thomas, Good Graves, Herbert Smith, Walter Smith, Pau Warren, Robert Halley, Jake Pickle, Fred Coleman, Chas. Herring, Worth Vanatta, Wilson Henninger, Morris Bass, Prentiss Bass and V. O. Hennen, scoutmaster.

TROOP 3 Troop 3 spent the night at the Scout Hut in City park Friday. Games and scout contests were held in the council ring after which the scouts made their beds among the cedars near the hut. All went well until about 4 a. m. Saturday when members of the Panther patrol got up to cook their breakfast. The odor of chicken frying soon made itself known, and in short order the camp was up and doing.

Boys spending the night were: Beaver Patrol; Halbert Woodward, patrol leader, Jimmy Myers, James Underwood, Aaron McGee, Jack Ruchlin, J. B. Bronstein.

Flying Eagle; Tommy Reeves, Harold Talbot, Marion Fardue.

Faithful; Lawrence Liberty, patrol leader, Brady Piper, George Edwards, Richard Reagan.

Bob Whites; Benny Murray, patrol leader, James Stiff, W. T. Bolt.

Ray Wilson was a guest of the troop and will come up for membership in the troop at its next meeting.

TROOP 7 Troop 7 met in regular session at the Mexican school building Friday night with 12 scouts and scoutmaster Hutto and Juan Garcia, assistant scoutmaster, present.

This was Mr. Hutto's first meeting with the troop since school closed in June and the scouts gave him a rousing welcome.

The evening was spent in reorganization and playing games. Those present were: Eudencio Alcantara, Joe Hernandez, Frank Martinez, Y. Yanes, Jr., Victoria Yanes, George Vidaz, Aureliano Centenero, Pilar Yanes, Antonio Garcia, Rudolph Rodriguez, Gus Rodriguez, Jesus Hernandez, and Mr. Hutto and Juan Garcia.

Senate Denies An 'About Face' On Salary Bill

AUSTIN, Sept. 26 (UP).—The Texas senate, which by resolution declared Governor Huey Long of Louisiana a liar, had a fight on yesterday with its own governor.

Senators were indignantly denying Governor Ross Sterling's charge that they had "about faced" on cutting state salaries.

Governor Sterling charged the senators with adopting unanimously a resolution asking him to submit salary cuts. "In deference to this demand," said the governor's prepared statement, "and to avoid new tax burdens, I consented to submit the budget bills to the legislature. The house, of representatives kept its word about passing them, but the senate has about-faced from its repeated commitment."

The "about-face" took the form of killing bills making a straight ten per cent slice in salaries in state appropriation bills.

COOKING SCHOOL

Third Annual HERALD Free Cooking School

SETTLES HOTEL
Tuesday to Friday
2:30 P. M.

The Herald is very glad to present its third annual Free Cooking School this week from Tuesday to Friday, inclusive.

Realizing, as The Herald does, the importance of the home in the general scheme of everyday life any feature that may tend to make the home a better one is welcomed. The Cooking School each year, the Beauty and Charm School held earlier this year and the Friday market pages with their recipes, household hints and food news are the result of the Herald's unceasing effort to give to its readers the very best that any newspaper in a city the size of Big Spring can offer its town and country readers.

Daily Talks By Myra Oliver Dougan

We are pleased that Mrs. Dougan who pleased Big Spring and Howard County women with her Cooking School in Big Spring in 1929 will again conduct the 1931 school. Her lectures and methods are very practical and interesting. Women who heard her before will attest to this fact.

We hope that Big Spring and Howard County women will take advantage of this opportunity to hear this home economist who has really helpful information to give to homemakers. Each lecture (Tuesday through Friday are the "school days") will start promptly at 2:30 P. M. Many interesting features—some new, some old but interesting—have been planned and will be announced from day to day.

This Week - Tuesday to Friday

HAPPY KITCHENS are indices to happy households. If the meals served to a family are carefully planned and prepared it is quite likely that a spirit of helpfulness and happiness will prevail among members of that family. Good food is conducive to healthy, happy people.

Through the instruction of such women as Mrs. Dougan knowledge is coming to the housewife . . . and to the housewife of tomorrow . . . that will enable her to make a better home for her family. She will learn of the most practical ways of cooking and, most important of all, of cooking in a way that will allow her to keep within her household "budget."

Mrs. Dougan will also demonstrate and tell of the merits of the modern kitchen equipment of various types that she uses. A number of Big Spring business firms will have a part in the holding of the school. Among this group are: Texas Electric Service Co., Dairyland Products, Co. & Parks Lumber Co., Handy-Andy Grocery, Harris', Home Bakery and Big Spring Laundry Co. Among the nationally known products which will be represented in the School are: Folger's Coffee, Amayllis Flour and K. C. Baking Powder.

The Herald urges all of its women readers and their friends to attend each of Mrs. Dougan's lectures. Every woman who attends should have a notebook in which she may make notes of the very helpful suggestions that Mrs. Dougan will make.

HAROLD B. ROBB

Hollywood has her movie magnates—so does Big Spring. The history of the rise of the cinema from its magic lantern days to elaborate spectacles in color and sound, parallels the rise of a certain Big Spring boy, Harold B. Robb, from an electrical engineer taking odd jobs in wiring, to one of the Texas millionaires.

Picks Mack's Nine To Take World Series By HARRY McEMORE, United Press Staff Correspondent. NEW YORK, Sept. 26. (UP).—Believe one of those babies who believe that pitching is 60 per cent (or is it 99 per cent) of winning baseball, we fall to see how anybody save close relatives of the players can name the St. Louis Cardinals to whip the Philadelphia Athletics in the World Series.

A nice bunch of boys, then Cardinals. A sweet bunch of hitters, too. And probably the scrappiest cut in baseball. But how they can be expected to whip Lefty Grove and George Earnshaw four times in six starts, or four times in seven starts, is beyond us. And if Connie Mack sees fit (and he probably will) that's what the Redbirds are going to have to do to win.

The playing schedule of the series could not better suit the A's than Mack. He is allowed to draw it up himself. It's right down the A's alley. Grove and Earnshaw, unless Mack up and pulls an Ehmke, will pitch the first two games in St. Louis on Thursday and Friday.

When play is resumed in Philadelphia on Monday, the two big "uns" will be refreshed by better than a week-end of rest and ready to fire away.

If Grove and Earnshaw do not make it four in a row, Mahaffey, Walberg or Hoyt can step out there in the fifth game on Wednesday. Then, if the issue still is undecided the boys will travel back to St. Louis and reopen the festivities on Friday. Whereupon Grove, left since Monday, and Earnshaw, idle since Tuesday, will be all set to take another shot at the enemy.

Of course, they may up and turn the trick. There are the breaks to consider. We agree with Connie Mack about breaks. It is Mack's contention that a team makes its own breaks, and that a club will get the breaks if it hustles from the bell and gives the opposition no openings.

However, there are breaks that cannot be prevented, no matter how well a manager plans his attack, no matter how hard a team bears down. Such a break came in the 1924 World Series when McNesley's ay roller struck a pebble, bounded over Lindstrom's head, and carried the Giants' championship hopes along with it.

Steer Goal Still Uncrossed

Brownfield's Well-Trained Club Beaten 33 To 0; Hopper Stamps Self As An Outstanding Tackle

Under the blazing rays of a West Texas sun an improved Steer machine, featuring Cat. Bill Flowers and David Hopper ran and passed its way to a 33-0 victory over the fighting Red and White clad warriors from Brownfield.

The class B eleven, while turned back by a nice score, was a constant scoring threat throughout with Neill giving some beautiful exhibitions of broken field running.

Anderson in the line for Brownfield also played a nice game in breaking through several times to throw the Steer backs for a loss. For the first time the Big Spring team really ran interference for the man with the ball. Not once but several times the interference cut men down to give Flowers the chance to get going, and go he did.

Dennis continued his sterling brand of play and continually dealt misery to the visitors and much delight to the fans with his well placed punts. He was always cutting at the red flag in the corner and placed several kicks out of bounds inside the ten yard mark.

In the line for the Steers when he was not in the Red and White backfield, there was the real star of the game. David Hopper was all over the field, making tackles, blocking punts, recovering them, catching passes and in general substantiating the claim that he is the best tackle in district 4.

First Quarter Things started with a rush when Hopper, Neill and Schwabenbach, blocking punts, recovering them, catching passes and in general substantiating the claim that he is the best tackle in district 4.

Flowers kicked 40 yards to Neill, who brought the hide back 48 yards. A pass was good for 8 yards. Brownfield drew a 5-yard penalty for delaying the game. Neill went around right end for nine yards. Two incomplete passes gave the visitors a 5 yard penalty. Another pass, Hucky to Neill, was good for 11 yards. Neill hit right tackle for 3 yards. The ball went over.

We note with pleasure the improvement shown by the Steers yesterday. The interference was better than ever. The plays were clicking better than in the previous Steers performances. The backs were getting off in a more business like manner. All in all we feel better in regard to the locals' chances of going places.

Forced Attention

The agitation, especially for beer, has forced itself on the administration's notice. Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde is seeking data to ascertain how much agriculture would be helped by resumption of brewing. The president's secretary, Walter H. Newton, obtained for an undisclosed person a few days ago statistics as to how much labor beer-making would provide jobs for. In at least two other cabinet offices various phases have been looked into. President Hoover received much data.

There is a general feeling that the question cannot be evaded forever and that reopening is coming. But President Hoover has not prepared any announcements about it yet, as countless private reports coming into Washington have said. He is looking into the beer and other modification arguments are being laid before him by both sides almost daily. Several of his cabinet are known to favor a change.

Observations

Neither President Hoover nor some of these anti-prohibition cabinet members place much faith in arguments that resumption of beer would put a million men to work. They believe there would be an offset in losses to ginger ale, ice cream and other industries. They recall that at the peak the brewery industry employed only 75,000 men.

Some of them see merit in the possibility that restoration of beer might give a psychological impetus to the country which might help generally. Some of them also believe it would relieve the present condition of lawlessness of which the Wickersham commission spoke at length. But President Hoover's political advisors mostly feel his best course is to go along at present, avoiding offense to the anti-prohibitionists but taking no action which his dry supporters of 1928 could label a betrayal.

WHITE BETTER THAN TALK

NEW YORK (INS)—Oral English has been proved to be far inferior to written English among school children by a survey in which boys were contrasted by Dr. Paul Bushnell of Columbia University. After recording the oral remarks on subjects of 100 pupils of the tenth grade, Dr. Bushnell had the same pupils discuss the subjects in writing. The majority of the number consumed 20 minutes to write on the topics.

STATE TO PROTECT EYES

CHICAGO (INS)—Illinois will protect the eyes of all factory employees in the state. An industrial eye clinic, the first in the state and said to be in advance of any similar enterprise in the nation, has been established here at the Illinois Eye and Ear Infirmary. Dr. LeRoy Thompson is in charge. The clinics are held weekly. It is estimated that 500,000 factory employees in the state will come under the charge of the infirmary.

COULDN'T TAKE WIFE'S MARRIAGE AS A LARK

NEW YORK (INS)—Because her first husband did not agree with the story of her second marriage, "Just for a lark," Mrs. George Lencha, 24, of Jersey City must face a grand jury on a charge of bigamy.

For two years she and George were a happy married couple. Then, while at a party in Brooklyn recently, someone dared her to marry George Kelly.

"Just for fun" the two agreed and secured a marriage license in Lindenhurst. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Barton Dove, pastor of the Grace Episcopal Church.

Shortly after the "bride" hurried home and told Lencha. Not entirely satisfied with the event he complained to police and his wife was arrested.

SANTA CLAUS' BUFFALO

DENVER (INS)—Uncle Sam will play Santa Claus this year to zoological gardens and individuals interested in preserving the bison.

Interior department officials here recently announced that 100 buffalo from the famous Yellowstone Park herd will be given away. Handling, crating and shipping charges are to be paid by the recipients. Those who accept the gift buffalo must agree to use them for exhibition or propagation purposes. Applications should be made immediately to the superintendent of the Yellowstone National Park Wyo.

TEMPLE CITY, Calif. (INS)—Mrs. E. W. Sikes couldn't figure out where her goldfish were disappearing. Fifty had vanished into thin air. The pool was surrounded by a tight fence. Mrs. Sikes called police who kept a vigil. After a while a kingfisher bird flew down over the pool, thrust his beak into the water and flew away with a goldfish.

Young Inventor Credited With Television Feat

BUZZARDS BAY, Mass. (INS)—A remarkable achievement in Radio Engineering, one which it is predicted will bring television from its present status to a great enterprise is in prospect here with Harry Selfredge, 28-year old Littleton scientist, holder and inventor of the famous-to-be feat.

So remarkable was Selfredge's invention that following a private demonstration at which several nationally known radio engineers were present a $100,000 offer was made the young scientist for his plant. He refused the offer pending further improvement of his invention.

Spurred on by his present success, Selfredge will carry on further experiments with his apparatus on Cape Cod which he calls an ideal proving ground for any sort of Radio transmitting because of the static conditions found there. He wants to prove that his set can overcome most unfavorable conditions.

Explaining his apparatus, the young inventor pointed out that it is revolutionary in character and used without Neon tubes, scanning discs, and other numerous parts which are one of the chief drawbacks of present television broadcast sets. It is capable, he says, of transmitting scenes half a mile away.

The pictures released a half mile distant came in during the experiment on the receiving apparatus as if projected from a movie projection machine. The present defects in the Neer-Glew from tubes used in broadcasting pictures and in the shadows and deformities of pictures received by means of a scanning disc. In the latter case, dirt clogs the disc holes and distort images.

Selfredge's experiments are carried on at much lower wave lengths than now used for picture transmission. He plans to experiment with ultra-short waves of less than one meter to broaden the scope and to avoid conflict of images being broadcast simultaneously on neighboring waves.

DOG ACTOR WINS CASE FOR DEFENDANT OWNERS

DENVER (INS)—Jerry, a trained Eskimo dog, was chief witness for the defense in the case of George Royer and George and Lillian St. Leon, recently brought before Police Judge Alva H. Pickens on charges of cruelty to animals.

Someone told State Humane Officer R. O. Beck that Royer, the trainer, and the St. Leons, owners of the animal, were beating him in whereabouts. So would Police where the dog was appearing. Jerry was called to the stand.

"How do they treat you?" his honor asked.

Jerry wagged his tail, licked his mistress' hand and looked on the defendants with adoring eyes.

Judge Pickens dismissed the charges.

Scientist Will Come To 'Divine' For Buried Gold

The closing of the Oklahoma oil wells will not deter M. Henri Debauge, French scientist, from coming to the United States to "divine" for the precious liquid.

Monsieur Debauge claims to have an infallible "divining rod" for the locating of oil, gold, silver and other mineral deposits. He claims that his machine represents twenty years of research and that no outside influence can effect it.

Since its perfecting M. Debauge states that he has had numerous invitations to visit America to "hunt for treasure."

Several families in the South have asked him to come and help them find the gold and plate buried by their ancestors in the Civil War. His first stamping ground so to speak, will be near Jennings, La.

M. Debauge calls his apparatus an "ondostat" and it functions electrically. It is composed of a dial and an antenna.

The antenna is supposed to locate the minerals under the surface of the earth and convey waves to the dial.

Filters, according to the inventor, prevent any outside influence disturbing the normal functioning of the machine. He states that only the type of detecting waves desired will be received by the machine.

Such as: gold waves, silver waves or oil waves.

The inventor claims that he has used his twentieth century divining rod with success in Alsace for finding potash and also on Roumania for locating oil.

A distinct advantage in his manner of locating minerals, claims M. Debauge, is that the oscillating needle will tell at just what point in a given area is the principal deposit.

might make right and the belief of many that every nation should stand at all times ready, even arms, to go into armed conflict.

His tactics are almost identical with those employed on earth by the Son of Bethlehem. If he wins his fight the world may be brought to believe more in such tactics.

Eats Hardware To Aid Science in Digestion Test

CHICAGO (INS)—Chicago has a new martyr to science.

He is Frederick Hoelzel who has a particular appetite for hardware and he is helping physiologist of the University of Chicago to determine how the world's indigestion can be cured.

For more than a year Hoelzel's daily ration has been ten to twenty-five pellets of metal, about five grams a day, and 100 little strands of knotted thread or twine. Sometimes he varies his diet and eats glass beads, sand, gold and solid rubber, with a little salt on them.

And Hoelzel says he likes it.

This research work with Hoelzel as a volunteer subject is being conducted by Prof. Anton Julius Carlson, head of the physiology department of the university, who is seeking to determine the length of time and the difficulties involved in the progress of foods of various weights through the alimentary canal.

A year's study of Hoelzel's experiments shows that glass makes the fastest time through the digestive system, and gold, which is heavier and more "inert," sometimes takes as much as twenty-two days for the same journey. The normal length of time for the "alimentary tour" is two days, however.

As this diet has little food value to Hoelzel, he eats a healthy man's fare every day.
